Saint Mary's freshmen class to elect officers

By NICOLE MCGRATH
Saint Mary's News Editor

Saint Mary's 1997 class will be electing a president, vice-president and class board this Tuesday and six tickets are running for the position, according to Elections Commissioner Elizabeth Broghammer.

The six tickets are:

• Ganna Breland/Alaina Hardin
• Leslie Field/Jennifer Augustine
• Lori Langenderfer/Melissa Sanchez
• Kara Masucci/Marica McCauley
• Beth Ann Miller/Becky Kellogg
• Anna Rafaal/Emily Ruffner

“We want freshmen class unity and representing everyone’s class ideas. We want strong communication,” said vice-president candidate, Elizabeth Broghammer.

According to Langenderfer, “It’s a great opportunity to get together united so they can get to know each other better this year.”

“We’ve decided we want to emphasize service projects such as projects with kids, elderly people, hospitals and schools,” said vice-president candidate, Maria McCauley.

One example of a service project would be peer tutoring. “College kids would tutor elementary kids one hour a week,” said McCauley. Eight women are running for the 13 spots open on the freshman board, according to Broghammer. “One option will be for the freshmen class to have a small board,” she said.

The eight women running are Laura Bossardt, Kelly Cook, Kristin Hovenga, Cate Freelsieben, Courtney Laden, Kenzi McNovo, Anna Loh and Kathleen Zimmer.

Freshman class elections will be held on Tuesday during lunch and dinner at the dining hall.

Brown attended meetings with Vietnam conspirator

By BRUCE SMITH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. Commerce Secretary Ron Brown met three times with a Vietnamese-American businessman who was accused of conspiring to pay Brown $700,000 to pursue a trade policy favorable to Vietnam, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The Miami Herald said it learned that one of the meetings took place in February at Brown’s office in Washington, and quoted sources as saying a government attempt was being made to bring the businessman, Nguyen Van Hao of Coral Springs, and two friends of his to the U.S. for questioning. Brown has denied the conspiracy allegation. He has never publicly stated whether he has met Hao, but he has denied any kind of business relationship, any kind of relationship of any kind on this matter,” the Herald said.

A former business associate of Hao’s, Ly Thanh Binh, told the Herald that Hao told him he met Brown in November and December to talk about business deals in Vietnam once the 18-year-old U.S. trade embargo is lifted.

Hao appeared before a federal grand jury in Miami last month in connection with charging the Department Commerce.

Binh said Brown was to receive $700,000 and business concessions in exchange for his efforts.

Hao has denied Binh’s allegations, and has on several occasions denied in Herald reporters ever meeting Brown, the newspaper reported.

Reid Weingarten, a Washington lawyer hired by Brown, told the Herald that the allegations were “preposterous.”

No same reporter or investigative believes there was any conspiracy between Mr. Brown and any Vietnamese,” Weingarten said. “It’s astonishing that this allegation still has legs. I don’t think what you’ve just told me warrants a response.”

When the Herald first contacted Brown spokesman Jim Deizer in March for comment on Binh’s allegations, Deizer denied that Brown had ever met Hao, knew Hao or discussed business about Vietnam.

But sources told the Herald that Brown and Hao met in November in Palm Beach County, a second time in a rent-towed house in Washington a week before Christmas, and a third time at Brown’s Commerce Department office, the Herald reported.

Weingarten said no evidence exists of wrongdoing by Brown. “He was a lawyer and a lobbyist,” Weingarten said. “Lawyers and lobbyists meet with a lot of people. They schmooze.”

Hypothetically, if a friend of his had a business proposition and he hooked Brown into listening to it, Brown would “just say no,” Weingarten said, referring to the search for warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid, who is blamed for most of the deaths in Somalia.

“I’d say I’m going into government, I can’t get involved in this,” then what do you have?”

The Citadel threatened by female student

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The eight women running for the 13 spots open on the freshman board, according to Broghammer. “One option will be for the freshmen class to have a small board,” she said.

The eight women running are Laura Bossardt, Kelly Cook, Kristin Hovenga, Cate Freelsieben, Courtney Laden, Kenzi McNovo, Anna Loh and Kathleen Zimmer.

Freshman class elections will be held on Tuesday during lunch and dinner at the dining hall.

Brown attended meetings with Vietnam conspirator

By BRUCE SMITH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. Commerce Secretary Ron Brown met three times with a Vietnamese-American businessman who was accused of conspiring to pay Brown $700,000 to pursue a trade policy favorable to Vietnam, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The Miami Herald said it learned that one of the meetings took place in February at Brown’s office in Washington, and quoted sources as saying a government attempt was being made to bring the businessman, Nguyen Van Hao of Coral Springs, and two friends of his to the U.S. for questioning. Brown has denied the conspiracy allegation. He has never publicly stated whether he has met Hao, but he has denied any kind of business relationship, any kind of relationship of any kind on this matter,” the Herald said.

A former business associate of Hao’s, Ly Thanh Binh, told the Herald that Hao told him he met Brown in November and December to talk about business deals in Vietnam once the 18-year-old U.S. trade embargo is lifted.

Hao appeared before a federal grand jury in Miami last month in connection with charging the Department Commerce.

Binh said Brown was to receive $700,000 and business concessions in exchange for his efforts.

Hao has denied Binh’s allegations, and has on several occasions denied in Herald reporters ever meeting Brown, the newspaper reported.

Reid Weingarten, a Washington lawyer hired by Brown, told the Herald that the allegations were “preposterous.”

No same reporter or investigative believes there was any conspiracy between Mr. Brown and any Vietnamese,” Weingarten said. “It’s astonishing that this allegation still has legs. I don’t think what you’ve just told me warrants a response.”

When the Herald first contacted Brown spokesman Jim Deizer in March for comment on Binh’s allegations, Deizer denied that Brown had ever met Hao, knew Hao or discussed business about Vietnam.

But sources told the Herald that Brown and Hao met in November in Palm Beach County, a second time in a rent-towed house in Washington a week before Christmas, and a third time at Brown’s Commerce Department office, the Herald reported.

Weingarten said no evidence exists of wrongdoing by Brown. “He was a lawyer and a lobbyist,” Weingarten said. “Lawyers and lobbyists meet with a lot of people. They schmooze.”

Hypothetically, if a friend of his had a business proposition and he hooked Brown into listening to it, Brown would “just say no,” Weingarten said, referring to the search for warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid, who is blamed for most of the deaths in Somalia.

“I’d say I’m going into government, I can’t get involved in this,” then what do you have?”

The Citadel threatened by female student

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The eight women running for the 13 spots open on the freshman board, according to Broghammer. “One option will be for the freshmen class to have a small board,” she said.

The eight women running are Laura Bossardt, Kelly Cook, Kristin Hovenga, Cate Freelsieben, Courtney Laden, Kenzi McNovo, Anna Loh and Kathleen Zimmer.

Freshman class elections will be held on Tuesday during lunch and dinner at the dining hall.

Brown attended meetings with Vietnam conspirator

By BRUCE SMITH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. Commerce Secretary Ron Brown met three times with a Vietnamese-American businessman who was accused of conspiring to pay Brown $700,000 to pursue a trade policy favorable to Vietnam, a newspaper reported Sunday.

The Miami Herald said it learned that one of the meetings took place in February at Brown’s office in Washington, and quoted sources as saying a government attempt was being made to bring the businessman, Nguyen Van Hao of Coral Springs, and two friends of his to the U.S. for questioning. Brown has denied the conspiracy allegation. He has never publicly stated whether he has met Hao, but he has denied any kind of business relationship, any kind of relationship of any kind on this matter,” the Herald said.

A former business associate of Hao’s, Ly Thanh Binh, told the Herald that Hao told him he met Brown in November and December to talk about business deals in Vietnam once the 18-year-old U.S. trade embargo is lifted.

Hao appeared before a federal grand jury in Miami last month in connection with charging the Department Commerce.

Binh said Brown was to receive $700,000 and business concessions in exchange for his efforts.

Hao has denied Binh’s allegations, and has on several occasions denied in Herald reporters ever meeting Brown, the newspaper reported.

Reid Weingarten, a Washington lawyer hired by Brown, told the Herald that the allegations were “preposterous.”

No same reporter or investigative believes there was any conspiracy between Mr. Brown and any Vietnamese,” Weingarten said. “It’s astonishing that this allegation still has legs. I don’t think what you’ve just told me warrants a response.”

When the Herald first contacted Brown spokesman Jim Deizer in March for comment on Binh’s allegations, Deizer denied that Brown had ever met Hao, knew Hao or discussed business about Vietnam.

But sources told the Herald that Brown and Hao met in November in Palm Beach County, a second time in a rent-towed house in Washington a week before Christmas, and a third time at Brown’s Commerce Department office, the Herald reported.

Weingarten said no evidence exists of wrongdoing by Brown. “He was a lawyer and a lobbyist,” Weingarten said. “Lawyers and lobbyists meet with a lot of people. They schmooze.”

Hypothetically, if a friend of his had a business proposition and he hooked Brown into listening to it, Brown would “just say no,” Weingarten said, referring to the search for warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid, who is blamed for most of the deaths in Somalia.

“I’d say I’m going into government, I can’t get involved in this,” then what do you have?”
Scam took $1 million from elderly

NEW YORK

New York Mayor David Dinkins established a commission Monday to look into yet another scandal to hit his police department.

The Mollen Commission—named for its head, Milton Mollen, commissioner of police—will investigate, among other things, allegations of public hearings. They are expected to provide the first detailed glimpses of the latest generation of corrupt officers, mainly men in scattered precincts who are accused of taking payoffs from drug dealers and, at times, dealing drugs themselves.

Among the first witnesses is Michael Dowd, a former Brooklyn officer whose admission he led a ring of drug-dealing police prompted Mayor David Dinkins to form the commission last year.

What the Mollen Commission is finding, and what the Knappe Commission found before it in the early 1970s, is that corruption remains ingrained in police culture.

Rumors persist after professor's acquittal

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. Students of an Indiana State University professor accused in a highly publicized murder trial two years ago say classmates still discuss the case, but quietly.

Their library science professor, Robert David Little, was found innocent April 13 of helping an accused serial killer commit murder.

Larry Eyler was convicted April 13 of killing 23-year-old Terre Haute resident Stephen Paul Agan in 1982.

Eyler told police that Little had helped him kill and mutilate 23-year-old Terre Haute resident Stephen Paul Agan in 1982.

During the trial, Eyler testified that he and Little had played out a bizarre homosexual scene in an abandoned farm house that ended in Agan's death.

But the Vermillion Circuit Court jury didn't buy Eyler's story and Little was acquitted.

The Somersett case was on the news for a 1986 murder.

Little, 56, has returned to the classroom but memories linger.

Laura Ann Loitz, a senior marketing major from Lowell, said some of her classmates talked about the trial behind Little's back.

"I was aware of the trial, but it didn't bother me," Loitz said.

George Schifano, a recent graduate from Newburgh, said he was apprehensive at the start of a course he took from Little, but "he never bothered me either."
ND advisory councils announced

Special to The Observer

New members of the University of Notre Dame's nine advisory councils have been announced by the University's president, Fr. Edward Malloy, C.S.C.

• College of Arts and Letters: David Boehnen, senior vice president and chief executive officer, Haino, St. Paul, Minn.; and John Voeller, president, St. Peter's University, Jersey City, N.J.

• College of Law: John H. Bunch, president, Bunch, O'Melveny & Myers, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Peter H. Eshelman, president, Eshelman, Chicago, Ill.

• College of Music: Dr. William A. Anderson, president, Anderson, Columbia University, New York City; and Dr. James C. McFarland, president, McFarland, Arizona State University, Tempe, Ariz.

• College of Nursing: Dr. Lois B. Gifford, president, Gifford, Boston University, Boston, Mass.; and Dr. John J. Duddles, president, Duddles, Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, N.C.

• College of Science: Dr. John W. Lewis, president, Lewis, Defence Research & Engineering Council, Ottawa, Canada; and Dr. Myron J. Fournier, president, Fournier, Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.

• College of Social Work: Dr. John W. McQuade, president, McQuade, National Council of Social Work, Washington, D.C.; and Dr. John J. Duddles, president, Duddles, Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, N.C.

• College of Theology: Dr. John W. McQuade, president, McQuade, National Council of Social Work, Washington, D.C.; and Dr. John J. Duddles, president, Duddles, Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, N.C.

ND advisory councils announced
Thousands cheer Yeltsin at Red Square concert

By JULIA RUBIN
Associated Press

MOSCOW

Thousands of Russians cheered Boris Yeltsin at a concert on Red Square Sunday and at least 10,000 more marched in the biggest demonstration of support for the president since he disbanded parliament five days ago. Across town, the hard-liners who have sought to impeach Yeltsin and name their own government dug in their heels.

"If need be, we will stay here for a year," said parliament speaker Ruslan Khasbulatov, leader of the approximately 100 lawmakers who remain holed up in the building, known as the White House.

Late Sunday, in a potentially significant development, a top aide was quoted as saying that he believed Yeltsin would agree to simultaneous elections. But Deputy Prime Minister Sergei Shakhrai stressed he was expressing his personal opinion, an official said.

Shakhrai's comments came at a meeting of regional leaders on the crisis, in which they urged both sides to cancel the decrees they have issued in the president and in the parliament.

Yeltsin has set new parliamentary elections for December and said presidential elections could be held in June. Khasbulatov's parliament, elected in Soviet times, wants simultaneous elections in March.

Yeltsin dissolved parliament last Tuesday after struggling for 18 months with hard-liners who oppose to his reforms. Lawmakers responded by impeaching Yeltsin and naming Vice President Alexander Rutskoi as acting president.

Foreign Minister Andrei Kozyrev, speaking Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," said that if there is a "growing mood" in the country, Yeltsin might compromise on his plan.

But Kozyrev said he believes simultaneous elections are "very, very dangerous," and could destabilize the country. "Someone has to be in office," he said.

Yeltsin, accompanied by Defense Minister Pavel Grachev and Moscow Mayor Yuri Luzhkov, waded into surging crowds on Red Square for a free concert by the Washington-based National Symphony Orchestra and its conductor, former dissident Mstislav Rostropovich.

The president waved and smiled, then took his place at the front of the crowd. He cracked a smile again when harborbeat cannons went off during Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture."

An announcer urged "faith in the president and in Russia's future," and the crowd responded "Hurrah! Hurrah!"

THE MULTICULTURAL EXECUTIVE COUNCIL PRESENTS, AS PART OF THE MULTICULTURAL FALL FESTIVAL
Entertainment on the Quad

SEPTEMBER 27- OCTOBER 1
12:00PM- 1:00 PM

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 27

TROOP ND

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30

THE HAWAIIAN CLUB

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1

EGYPTIAN BELLYDANCING

By ARIEH O'SULLIVAN
Associated Press

JERUSALEM

A Palestinian blew himself up with a car bomb in the occupied Gaza Strip on Sunday in an apparent suicide attack gone awry, the Israeli army said. No one else was hurt.

The man's charred body was found in the burnt out car, the army said. The remnants of two pipe bombs and canisters of bottled gas were also found in the car, which was discovered by a routine army patrol in Gaza City.

Arab reports said the dead man belonged to the Muslim fundamentalist Hamas organization, which has vowed to sabotage the recent peace agreement between the Palestine Liberation Organization and Israel. A leaflet published by Hamas and the smaller Islamic Jihad group after the explosion said there would be more suicide attacks "against the Zionist enemy."

Military planners spoke of their work on condition of anonymity, but the men expected to be in charge have been blunt about what they want to send, should they get the mission.

"If we have to go into Bosnia, I don't want to say 'Mother, may I?' to anyone," Adm. Jeremy Boorda, NATO's southern commander told a conference organized by the U.S. mission to NATO Friday.

Fatah calls for end to deadly attacks

By SUSANNE SCHAFFER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

If President Clinton decides to order U.S. soldiers into Bosnia on a NATO peacekeeping mission, thousands of troops will enter Sarajevo in an airborne show of force that could be mounted within days of his request, military planners say.

But before U.S. troops go in, the Pentagon wants to see a peace accord that holds — with the combatants separated from one another, heavy artillery withdrawn and the free flow of humanitarian supplies assured, the planners said.

The initial deployment could grow to about 25,000 troops over a several-week period — bristling with enough heavy tanks, artillery and armed troop transports to defend themselves and ensure their mission is carried out.

Service Coupon

10% Off

Your next service visit at Jordan's

Free Shuttle Service!

At Jefferson and Cedar Streets, Mishawaka
MULTICULTURAL FALL FESTIVAL

WE BRING YOU THE WORLD FOR FREE

SEPTEMBER 26 — OCTOBER 2

A MARATHON OF ACTIVITIES ALL IN ONE WEEK!

CAMPUS BANDS
Sunday, Sept. 26
12-2 p.m.
Fieldhouse Mall

“WHERE THE WEST WAS ONE”
A Night of Western Dancing
Tuesday, Sept. 28
8-11 p.m.
LaFortune Ballroom

“MULTICULTURAL REFLECTIONS”
A Celebration of Diversity
Sunday, Sept. 26
2-3 p.m.
LaFortune Ballroom

“TALES OF THREE COUNTRIES”
A Night of Storytelling from Mexico, India and Italy
Thursday, Sept. 30
7-9 p.m.
Snite Museum Reception

CULTURE ON THE QUAD
Monday-Friday, Sept. 27-Oct. 1
12-1 p.m.
Fieldhouse Mall

FIRESIDE CHATS
Monday-Friday, Sept. 27-Oct. 1
12:15-1 p.m.
Notre Dame Room
202 LaFortune Student Center
FREE LUNCH INCLUDED

“TASTE OF NATIONS”
Saturday, Oct. 2
8-Midnight
Stepan Center
$1 admission
Ministers urge ending of long stalled trade talks

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER

WASHINGTON

World finance ministers planning to meet at the end of this week, are expected to agree by the year-end on an international Monetary Fund plan that would remove farm subsidies, although the details are clouded.

A parliament of finance ministers speaking at the end of meetings of the International Monetary Fund said that a failure to conclude the Uruguay Round of talks would be devastating to the world economy.

The IMF's policy-setting intergovernmental body issued a joint statement late Sunday declaring that completion of the Uruguay Round by the end of the year was crucial to "restoring confidence in global economic prospects."

The IMF panel said that it expected "leadership and vision from all in order to resolve the remaining issues and conclude the round by the end of the year. Failure to do so could rekindle protectionist pressures, erode business confidence and weaken growth in all countries."

Peter Sutherland, head of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, told the IMF gathering that a successful conclusion of the trade talks would provide a needed shot of confidence for a sluggish world economy.

GATT, the Geneva-based trade organization, is conducting the talks that aim to promote freer trade among 116 nations by lowering tariffs, cut back farm subsidies, expanding GATT rules to cover service industries and beefing up protection of copyrights and patents.

Sutherland blamed leaders of the world's major industrialized countries for failing to make the tough political choices on such issues as removing trade barriers that protect powerful domestic interests, including farmers and textile producers.

The financial stakes in a successful conclusion to the trade talks were underscored Sunday by a new report from the World Bank that contended the world economy would gain an additional $213 billion annually from removal of trade barriers envisioned in the GATT agreement.

World Bank economists estimated the economic gains would climb to this level by 1997, the World Bank said, by $7 billion in annual economic losses, mainly to poor nations that depend heavily on food imports. The United States, for example, would drop in price as tariffs are reduced.

Noting that leaders of the world's seven largest industrial countries have repeatedly urged completion of the Uruguay Round, Sutherland said, "We still find governments failing to do what they know they must do."

President Clinton and leaders of Japan, Germany, Britain, France, Italy and Canada proclaimed a breakthrough in the negotiations in Tokyo with agreement on major cuts in manufacturing tariffs.

While this tariff-cutting package was expected to provide renewed momentum to the talks in Geneva, there have faltered again over a French demand concerning farm subsidies.

The French are insisting on changes to a farm subsidy agreement reached last November between the United States and the 12-member European Community, saying that the subsidies cut in that package are unacceptable to its one million farmers.

But U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor has flatly rejected the French demand that the pact be renegotiated. Kantor and Sir Leon Brittan, chief trade negotiator for the European Community, were scheduled to meet Sunday and Monday to discuss whether there was any way to overcome the impasse.

French Finance Minister Edmond Alphandery rejected suggestions that France was playing the spoiler in demanding renegotiation of the Blair-House agreement. But British Chancellor of the Exchequer Kenneth Clarke said, in an obvious reference to France that despite all the claims of support, "There is one country whose contributions are not touching heavily on the Uruguay Round."

By ARTHUR ROTSTEIN

ORACLE, Ariz.

Biosphere 2's crew emerged Sunday from a two-year experiment in self-sufficiency, filing their lungs with fresh air and waving to 2,500 reporters and cheering well-wishers.

"They said it couldn't be done," said crew member Mark Nelson. "But here we are - healthy, happy."

The event, dubbed "re-entry" by Biosphere operators, blended NASA-style techno-speak with the trappings of a Hollywood media event.

Activities began with an early-morning concert and a speech by chimpanzee researcher Jane Goodall.

Operators say the crew set a record for living inside an essentially closed structure - designed as a mini-earth with rain forest, ocean, savannah and farm.

But the dome has been opened more than two dozen times, first for crew member Jane Poynter to get surgery after injuring her finger and later for import of thousands of small items, including seeds, sleeping pills, mousetraps and makeup. Outside air was pumped in once and pure oxygen added twice to balance the atmosphere.

After testing and upgrading equipment, operators of the $150 million private, for-profit enterprise plan to re-seal the dome with a second crew early next year for a one-year stay.

The four-man, four-woman crew that left Biosphere on Sunday ranged in age from 29 to 69. All are single and agreed to just one restriction on their social life - no pregnancies. They have refused to discuss possible romances or arguments.

In their remarks, they didn't reveal many personal details of life under the glass-domed 3.15-acre world, or speak concretely of plans. But most spoke fondly of the world they were leaving.

"I certainly had a big dump in my throat as I walked around Biosphere 2 this morning," said crew member Sally Silversone of Walthamstow, England. "I milked the goats for the last time, fed the chickens for the last time, I saw the sunrise on the space frame in my apartment for the last time."

Crew members list an average of 13.65 percent of their body weight on a diet heavy on such items as sweet potatoes, rice, peanuts, bananas and wheat. They occasionally had an egg, chicken or goat meat and coffee.

The experiment, once billed as a prototype space colony, has been accused of deception and amateur science and drawn unfavorable comparisons to Disneyland, in part because it attracted more than 400,000 paying visitors in two years.

FREE PEOPLE!

Banned Book Week September 25th - October 4th

Talk

Listen

Publish

Paint

Act

Perform

The Hamnnes

NOTRE DAME BOOKSOTRE

"on the campus"

Open Monday - Friday 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Daily Drawing for

Banned Books On The

2nd Floor Book Dept.
System to blame for killings
By RICHARD COLE
Associated Press

MIAMI — The suspects in Florida’s recent rash of high-profile killings have something else in common. Prison overcrowding, low loba, dropped charges or a paralyzed juvenile justice system put them back on the streets.

That’s hardly surprising. In Dade County, the criminal justice system is so overburdened that stolen car reports are taken only over the telephone and only when the clerk has time.

“A lot of people feel this is a shame game,” said Dade State
Attorney Cathy Fernandez
Rundle, who succeeded Janet Feno when she left to become U.S. attorney general. “And I’m not sure I see the light at the end of the tunnel.”

The group Stop Turning Out
Prisoners, or STOP, held rallies at courthouses around Florida
last week to protest what members call “a revolving door system of injustice.”

A 1988-91 survey found that about 26,000 prisoners were released early because of overcrowding. The state prison system has a capacity of about 32,500 inmates.

The average time served has dropped to 18 percent to 23 percent of a prison term. From 1988 to 1991, 346 homicides—roughly 10 percent of Florida’s total — were committed by felons released early, out on bond or free for other reasons before serving complete sentences.

“And those are only the peo-lies who were caught and arrested,” Rundle said.

Four well-publicized murders in September show there are many ways to slip through the cracks.

• Patsy Jones, accused of killing German tourist Uwe-Wilhelm Bakebrand on a Miami expressway the night of Sept. 8
had been released from a Broward County jail on Sept. 3.

She spent two weeks in jail
after police said she reached for her gun during a shoplifting arrest. But prosecutors dropped that charge and she was freed.

The Broward gun charge has since been refiled, said prosecutor Stephen DeLuca.

The Computer Applications Honor Society
Prepresents
Ford Motor Company

Monday September 27, 1993
7 - 8 pm
Hesburgh Library Lounge
All Are Welcome!!!!
Refreshments will be served.

Gas prices
fall, will rise
next week
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Motorists paid a half-cent per gallon less at the pump during the last two weeks, but costs will soon climb because of new federal taxes and clean-air rules, an industry analyst said
Sunday.

The Lundberg Survey of 10,000 gasoline stations nationwide on Sept. 24 showed the average price at self-serve and full-service pumps, including all grades and taxes, was $1.1321 per gallon.

That’s a 0.54-cent drop from the Sept. 10 average.

Trily Lundberg, publisher of the Lundberg Survey, said
prices should rise next week
because of a double-whammy:
a federal tax hike and the second annual implementation of the oxygenated fuel program mandated in certain cities.

Effective Friday, the federal tax on gasoline will increase 4.3 cents per gallon.

At self-service pumps, the latest nationwide survey shows regular unleaded gasoline selling for an average 106.07 cents per gallon, midgrade at 117.49
cents, premium at 125.46 cents and regular led at 109.74
cents.

The average at full-service pumps was 144.79 cents for regular unleaded, 153.28 cents for mid-grade, 160.44 cents for premium and 138.93 cents for leaded regular.

AUDITIONS for ND Opera Workshop
The Marriage of Figaro
by W.A. Mozart
Performances: Apr. 22 & 23
Crowley Hall Room 115
Auditions: Mon. Oct 11, 7:00 p.m.
Improve health as well as health care

Dear Editor,

The President revealed last week some of the principles that have guided his health care proposal. He did not tell us all of the details, but encouraged us to propose to reform health care in this country. In the hope that not all of these details are fixed, I would like to make some suggestions.

In particular, I would like to suggest that reform efforts have been focused on the health care to Americans (i.e., efficiently, fairly, broadly, etc.) instead of on how to keep Americans from getting sick in the first place. Some consideration has been given to this problem — for instance, it is widely recognized that periodic checkups can catch potentially fatal illnesses before they become critical — but here are more concrete thoughts in this direction.

Let’s begin with a principle: people who don’t engage in health-threatening behavior should pay more. People who have been in many car accidents pay more for their auto insurance, since they cost the insurance companies more money. I think a parallel principle should apply to people who drain health care resources as a result of behavior they could modify.

Here’s one way to apply the principle: tax smokers till it hurts. Did you know that a pack of cigarettes costs $6 in America? The tax revenue is going straight into their health care system. Tens of thousands of the lung cancer deaths each year are the result of smoking. It’s a free country, and you can smoke if you want. But don’t ask me to pay for your oxygen and critical care when emergency medicine gets you.

If you continue to smoke, the revenue generated will help support the health care system. If they quit, the revenue would be used to help others (since the lung cancer rate will drop considerably). We need to provide this kind of incentive for people to be healthier.

Another suggestion: tax fat. Make consumers pay duty on the percentage of calories from fat. The tax is now measured at 10 percent calories from fat, 5 percent tax; 20-30 percent calories from fat, 10 percent tax; etc. Once again, people can do what they want. But if they insist on running the risk of heart disease and obesity, they have to pay for it. Every day, they should bear part of the increased cost of dealing with the consequences.

It may be objected at this point that this idea is too sugest would hurt the poor more than the rich, and hence that such taxation is unjust and should be rejected. Consider, however, that in terms of health care dollars it costs no less to treat a poor cancer patient (not necessarily "victim") than to treat a rich one. High risk behavior should be discouraged. If that means the poor have a stronger disincentive to smoke or eat fat, so be it. If they lead lower risk lives they’d be healthier on average, and live better lives than rich people who smoke and eat fat.

Nothing unfair in that.

More suggestions? How about something a bit more radical? Free Nordic-Track. Put a ski machine in every home. If we can’t afford free, then ban Nintendo and provide an amnesty period during which people can exchange their Nintendo for a NordicTrack. Get those couch potatoes up and exercising.

Better yet, prohibit stand-alone televisions altogether. Sell only TV-Nordic-Track sets, which require the viewer to generate the power for the television with the work done by the Nordic-Track. People can’t play Nintendo while they’re using Nordic-Track. Friends or family might complain about the channel you watch while you’re doing Nordic-Track, but hey, if they want a different channel, let them power up their own TV.

Here’s another idea: breathalyzer-operated car door locks. You’ve had only one beer tonight — you’re well under the legal limit. You turn the key in the car door, blow into the breathalyzer, and it says “0.02 percent.” You slip a ton into the machine and the door opens. Above the legal limit the door won’t open. Anything above 0.05 percent blood alcohol you pay a progressive surcharge for your high risk behavior. This device would help both the auto insurance and health care industries.

The last two options might be a bit excessive, but I think the guiding principle is a good one. Part of the health care problem in America is that Americans don’t pursue health as much as they expect care. We need to stop complimenting about how much money doctors make. Let’s go out and play some hoops or tennis instead. We’ll all be better off.

MICHAEL BRYAN
Department of Philosophy

Reader: ND’s teaching of evolution perpetuates racism

Dear Editor,

The Administration of Notre Dame is insuring that there will be no room at the inns of evolutionary thought on campus. The administration propels evolution out of the classroom and into the halls of the curricula. It is time for us to stand up against this kind of incentive to people who do not wish to learn the truth.

Instead of having the courage to teach biblical creation exclusively, ND has followed the pied Piper of “higher education” and taught the racist theory of evolution. But now the pied Piper is tooting increasingly more for creation. Science is increasingly determining that the biological evidence points to a religious perspective than an evolutionist perspective in the world of science.

Evolution should never be taught in an institution that upholds the Bible. Evolution effectively teaches agnosticism or worse, depicts the Creator as a tortious monger who orchestrates a grotesque plot where death, mutation, retardation, deformity, and that heap of the animal kingdom are God’s very creative mechnisms. Evolution is no revealer of God’s glory (Ps 19:1; Ro 1:20) — creation is.

I can understand the deep-seated fear among African-Americans that they will feel as if their evolutionarily ordained role in society is threatened. The ND administration has no right to force evolution upon the African-American community. They have no right to do so and should be rejected.

Instead of rejecting evolution, they should encourage blacks to live a healthy lifestyle and to pursue instead the athletic arena where blacks can exploit their unique physical abilities.

Peter Herrera, president of Collegians Activated to Liberate Life, cited Fr. Malloy and the ND administration last spring for their hypocrisy toward the abortion issue. Herras was right when he said that an institution who puts up the truth for debate (in this case the biblical truth in regard to abortion) had little to offer its students. ND’s weak stance on the morality of abortion as well as its strong commitment to evolutionism emanates from the same sin of disbelief in God’s word. The secular serpentine Pied Piper is coming to a full circle and ND has shamefully followed him all the way.

PIEDER BEEU
Graduate Student of Physics

DOONESBURY

GARY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"One of the ironies of the Clinton proposal is that people will be insured, but unemployed."

Doug Kmiec
ND Law professor
Hamilton’s soggy day in the sun

Defense carries load as offense sputters

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

"How about that drum?"
That summed up the feeling of Notre Dame fans as they departed a wet and dreary Ross-Ade Stadium Saturday.
The most exciting occurrence during Notre Dame's 17-0 win was the presence of the Purdue band and, of course, the world's largest bass drum, which has sadly gotten more publicity than the Boilermakers football team in past years and has been beaten as often.
But you wouldn't have known it by Saturday's performance. Purdue stayed with the Irish until the overcast end and if it wasn't for defensive end Brian Hamilton's touchdown off a fumble recovery in the third quarter, Notre Dame may have fallen from the rankings as fast as the rain which pelted the field for the majority of the game.
"It is nice to win a football game," said Holtz. "but you would like to play a complete football game."
Notre Dame played far from complete, the Irish defense beat Purdue while the offense beat itself. Four turnovers and an inability to pass the football allowed the Boilermakers to stack players at the line

See SPUTTER on page 2
Jeremy Sample slept easy Friday night. But why wouldn't he. His preparation for Saturday's matchup with Purdue was simple. Go down on the kick off team and hit somebody. But Sample's job description increased considerably, as he was thrust into the heart of the Notre Dame defense after starting linebacker Pete Bereich suffered a shoulder separation late in the first quarter.

"I was a little scared at first. I didn't expect it (his chance to play with the first team) to happen this way," said Sample. "But after a couple of plays things began to flow."

Sample surprised Irish fans who considered him a life-long backup when he stuffed running back Corey Rodgers on the final play of the third quarter. He read the draw perfectly and hammered the running back for a loss. It was a Bereich like play.

"We called a blitz up front and our guy got a good surge," said Sample. "All I had to do was get to the ball carrier and make the tackle."

He did just that, finishing with four tackles (two for a loss) and broke up a pass.

"When I first got on the field, I was thinking too much," said Sample. "I was looking at my wristguard too long and wasn't reacting. It was strange, but I finally got into the flow of things. It started coming natural then."

Bereich's status for Saturday's game against the No. 4 team in the country was in question for the first time this season. The x-rays revealed no breaks but it appears that he will not be available this week and may miss the following game against Pittsburgh.

Jeremy Nau (58) and Bobby Taylor (21) talk about Notre Dame's defensive strategy with Jeremy Sample, who stepped in after Pete Bereich left the game with a shoulder injury.

"I remember thinking that I just joined a club today," said Sample. "I'm a member but I have a long way to go to measure up with the rest of the guys."

All this means for Sample is a permanent member in a group he has longed to be a part of.

"It was a gut feeling, so to speak," said Sample. "It was apparent that the Irish defense would have to do the scoring, as Notre Dame quarterback Kevin McDougal seemed a little more than off with his passes. He finished the day three of nine for 34 yards and threw two interceptions, his first of the year. He was also yanked for a series in favor of Paul Failla.

"I went with Paul with a little bit," said Holtz. "It was a gut feeling, so to speak."

Purdue gave the Irish a late Kevin Pendergast field goal (set up by a fumbled kickoff) and a Marc Edwards touchdown run, thanks to a Matt Pike fumble. But for the most part it was Notre Dame which did the giving.

The Irish failed to take advantage of prime field position, sustaining only three drives with more than one first down. They also converted only 3 of 12 third down tries and 0-5 in the first half.

"I did a poor job preparing the offense this week," said Holtz. "We did not execute well. As a teacher, that is my fault."

Glint Johnson's 53-yard return of the opening kickoff gave Notre Dame the perfect opportunity to shift the momentum their way from the start, but the Irish turned the ball over on downs after a three yard loss by McDougal setting the tone for the day.

"Our defense played a phenomenal game," said Colletta. "We talked long and hard the last two weeks about what Matt Pike football was all about. We talked about what it takes to be a great defensive player."

Purdue never got the chance on offense, starting three drives at their four yard line and gaining only 21 yards rushing and 173 through the air.

"We came out in the third quarter and said, 'it was up to us (the defense),'" said defensive end Jim Flanigan. "The offense carried us for a long time last year, and it was just our turn to produce."

Notre Dame defense gives Sample of its depth

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Sputter

from page 1

and stifle the Irish running game. The result was an offense out of sync and a close football game, which at Purdue usually only comes when Northwestern comes to town.

"Today we played a great game against the No. 4 team in the country," said quarterback Matt Pendergast. "It got a good surge," said Sample. "I had to do was get to the ball carrier and make the tackle."

He did just that, finishing with four tackles (two for a loss) and broke up a pass.

"When I first got on the field, I was thinking too much," said Sample. "I was looking at my wristguard too long and wasn't reacting. It was strange, but I finally got into the flow of things. It started coming natural then."

Bereich's status for Saturday's game against the No. 4 team in the country was in question for the first time this season. The x-rays revealed no breaks but it appears that he will not be available this week and may miss the following game against Pittsburgh.

Watching Purdue's band beat the world's biggest bass drum was often more exciting than watching Notre Dame beat Purdue Saturday.
Take your pick with Irish offensive woes

In a poll taken after the Michigan game, one Heisman voter picked Kevin McDavid as his winner. He must feel like an idiot now. Hitting three of nine pass attempts doesn't warrant a parking spot outside the Downtown Athletic Club. That alone an invitation to come inside and join the best college football players in the land.

"He was the winning quarterback," said Holtz. Maybe it was the rain. "Nice bright side." Holtz blamed himself for the offensive inadequacies, stating that he did a poor job preparing his team. This was not a typical Notre Dame team, they looked fooled, unprepared. Maybe it was the band. Now that's an interesting notion. Who wouldn't be intimidated by the Purdue All-American band?

Sure Hootz wouldn't be intimidated by that? Maybe it was the rain. Holtz blamed himself for the offensive inadequacies, stating that he did a poor job preparing his team. This was not a typical Notre Dame team, they looked fooled, unprepared. Maybe it was the band. Now that's an interesting notion. Who wouldn't be intimidated by the Purdue All-American band?

Holtz loudly expressed his displeasure with Kevin McDavid and the performance of the Irish offense in Saturday's game against Purdue.

Holtz is lost for the Stanford game. Maybe Notre Dame just isn't all that good on offense.

Bingo. "This is probably more indicative (than the offense shown against Michigan) of what our offense is like," said Holtz. It is like no other during the Holtz era. Never before has a team had this much difficulty sustaining a running attack. The cry of hope this season has been: 'Purdue was the Irish. Maybe it was the rain. Nice try. The football was in good condition despite the rain, and not one player seemed to slip due to poor footing.

The Irish offense resembled the unit that showed up against Northwestern on opening day, rather than a group that has bonded together with big performances against Michigan and Michigan State. The reason? Take your pick.

Maybe it was the Purdue defense. Now there's a stab in the dark. Maybe it was the rain. Maybe it was the offensive woes featured back then Holtz wouldn't be intimidated by that? Maybe it was the rain. Holtz blamed himself for the offensive inadequacies, stating that he did a poor job preparing his team. This was not a typical Notre Dame team, they looked fooled, unprepared. Maybe it was the band. Now that's an interesting notion. Who wouldn't be intimidated by the Purdue All-American band? Maybe it was the injuries. Sure the loss of Lee Becton effects the running attack. But if Becton were the featured back then Holtz wouldn't be searching for more backs like he has been all year.

In one sense injuries did apply to the offense. Because they couldn't control the ball the defense spent much too long on the field and linebacker Pete Berrich is lost for the Stanford game.

Maybe Notre Dame just isn't all that good on offense.

Bingo. "This is probably more indicative (than the offense shown against Michigan) of what our offense is like," said Holtz. It is like no other during the Holtz era. Never before has a team had this much difficulty sustaining a running attack. The cry of hope this season has been: 'Purdue was the Irish. Maybe it was the rain. Nice try. The football was in good condition despite the rain, and not one player seemed to slip due to poor footing.

The Irish offense resembled the unit that showed up against Northwestern on opening day, rather than a group that has bonded together with big performances against Michigan and Michigan State. The reason? Take your pick.

Maybe it was the Purdue defense. Now there's a stab in the dark. Maybe it was the rain. Maybe it was the offensive woes featured back then Holtz wouldn't be intimidated by that? Maybe it was the rain. Holtz blamed himself for the offensive inadequacies, stating that he did a poor job preparing his team. This was not a typical Notre Dame team, they looked fooled, unprepared. Maybe it was the band. Now that's an interesting notion. Who wouldn't be intimidated by the Purdue All-American band? Maybe it was the injuries. Sure the loss of Lee Becton effects the running attack. But if Becton were the featured back then Holtz wouldn't be searching for more backs like he has been all year.

In one sense injuries did apply to the offense. Because they couldn't control the ball the defense spent much too long on the field and linebacker Pete Berrich is lost for the Stanford game.

Defense shoulders offensive burden

By JASON KELLY
Associate Sports Editor

Scoring a game-winning touchdown is a dream Brian Hamilton has probably had many times before. When a fumble popped into his hands in the second half of Saturday's game against Purdue, he saw nothing but open field, and the dream became a reality.

The 6-foot-3, 275 pound defensive end trudged across the slippery turf, willing his way to the goal line.

"All I saw was the end zone ahead of me," Hamilton said. "And all I wanted was to get there."

It was a slow and soggy trip, but he made it, scoring the game-winning touchdown, courtesy of the Notre Dame defense.

Locked in a surprising scoreless tie at halftime, the defense put the burden on itself to keep Notre Dame's record unblemished.

"We came out in the third quarter and said 'It's up to us,'" defensive end Jim Flanigan said. "The offense has carried us for a long time. Today was just our turn to produce."

"We had to be the horse today," Hamilton added.

Considering the conditions, they were probably mudders.

Rain soaked the field throughout the game and—coupled with the inconsistency of both offenses—turned it into a defensive struggle.

Notre Dame's defense was little better, forcing five turnovers to keep Purdue off the scoreboard and put Notre Dame on it.

Scoring on defense is something we discuss all the time," senior safety Jeff Burris said. "Our goal always is to score or set up a score."

The Irish proved that on the very first play of the season, when senior linebacker Pete Bereich returned an interception for a touchdown against Northwestern.

He almost had another one Saturday when he stepped in front of a pass intended for Arlee Connors. Like Hamilton's fumble recovery, there was nothing but open field ahead, but the ball fell harmlessly to the turf and Purdue kept possession.

It was virtually a meaningless play, but it provided an indication of the role the defense would play in the game.

If the defense couldn't score, nobody would.

Bobby Taylor made sure of that when blocked a field goal late in the first half, stopping Purdue's only serious offensive threat.

Bad field position and mental errors kept the Boilermakers from mounting much of a threat.

Purdue started three drives on their own four-yard-line, and never got farther than the Irish 35. And several times the Boilermaker offense looked like it didn't know which way to go.

"Offensively, we had guys going the wrong way, there were blitzes where we should have thrown the ball and we didn't," said Purdue coach Jim Colletto. "If you run option footbal somebody goes the wrong way, you've got problems. Somebody sometime has to make a big play."

The only big plays on Saturday came from the Notre Dame defense. Confusing and containing the Boilermakers from start to finish, the defense looked comfortable carrying the offensive burden.

"Our defense played an excellent fundamental football game," Irish coach Lou Holtz said. "We had four turnovers on offense and our defense got four back. The turnovers set the tempo of the game."

Before the season began, defensive coordinator Rick Minter said that the Irish defense accepted the challenge of leading the team.

Saturday, they rose to that challenge.

---

DOMINO'S PIZZA

is always the
BEST VALUE
ON CAMPUS!!!

DOMINATOR

$6.95

EXTRA TOPPINGS...
$1.90 EACH

DOMINATOR DELIVERED TO STUDENTS ONLY

CALL:
NOTRE DAME
271-0300
SAINT MARY'S
289-0033

It doesn't matter what
time you call...
Community-saving efforts at home and abroad

Nobel Prize Winner seeks to heighten awareness of our children's well-being

By JENNIFER GUERIN

United and motivated by rage at the senseless killing of three youths by a terrorist's getaway car in Belfast, Northern Ireland in 1976, Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan began a non-violent campaign to protest the sectarian violence destroying the lives of local children.

With no systematic strategy in mind, they led a grass roots movement resulting in a series of marches through hostile Belfast streets with as many as 10,000 women on one day. For their peacemaking efforts the two women, previously unknown on the international scene, were awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1977.

Seventeen years later, Williams is one of the world's foremost advocates of social justice and children's issues. The local campaign she began with Corrigan in 1976, eventually grew into the Community of Peace People, an organization still active in Northern Ireland today.

Williams continues her efforts by delivering lectures world-wide: "I feel our children have lost the art of playing. And I would love to give it back to them."

—Betty Williams

ND students team up with community to combat homelessness

By JEANIE SHIN

Five families in the northeast neighborhood of St. Joseph County are now living in newly-built homes thanks to the cooperation of a group of ND/SMC students and members of the South Bend community.

During the first week of August, the Notre Dame/ St. Mary's chapter of the Habitat for Humanity built five houses from the ground up for those in need of home.

The Notre Dame/ St. Mary's chapter is a four-year-old organization that carries out the goals of Habitat for Humanity on the local level.

Over two hundred members in the ND/SMC chapter are involved in this "constructive way to combat homelessness," according to Rhode Island chapter president, Meggan Butler, "so that's a cooperative affair with not only the city of South Bend but with the families and ND and SMC students."

Habitat for Humanity is an international organization which concentrates on building homes, creating awareness about the issue, and rehabilitating homes to livable conditions.

Unlike other charity organizations, Habitat for Humanity firmly stresses the involvement of the families. In order to receive aid, the family must submit an application, qualify for aid, and donate sweat hours.

"Sweat hours" entail 350-500 hours of work on either their own home or at another Habitat for Humanity site.

"It's not just a charitable act, because the families are intensely involved. This way, it's not a question of losing pride or about hand-outs but about the cooperation of volunteers who gather as a community to see those who are less fortunate," explained Butler.

"Helping out the families was a really gratifying experience," said junior and chapter member David Joseph. "It was fun to work with the students, and the families were so grateful."

The three major events particular to the ND/SMC chapter are educational functions to promote awareness, fundraisers to keep the credit program alive and "Blitz Week," the actual on-site work week.

Projects in the near future for Habitat for Humanity include the "House Warming," the international headquar- ter's one-time national television program to promote awareness of the organ- ization, and the refurbishing of homes on Rush Street in St. Joseph County.

Habitat for Humanity can be contacted through the Center for Social Concerns at 631-5293.

ND/SMC students."

"The greatest thing about Habitat for Humanity is that it's a cooperative affair with not only the city of South Bend but with the families and ND and SMC students."

—Meggan Butler
FRESHMAN HOOD LEADS IRISH IN VICTORY IN NATIONAL CATHOLICS

By JONATHAN JENSEN
Sports Editor

The Notre Dame women's cross-country team defeated the National Catholic Invitational Friday, as Emily Hood, Sarah Riley, and Kristi Kramer swept the top three spots to take home the victory.

In the big story of the meet was the performance of Hood, who effortlessly ran away from the pack during the home stretch and cruised to the easy win.

"I think she ran a great race," said Riley. "We were trying to run in a pack, but if you feel good and think you should be in the lead, then you should, and Emily did.""That's my race," was just about all Hood could say about her impressive race. "Kristi also broke her PR (Personal record) here," noted Riley. "Hood was also excellent."

Besides the performances of the top three, the Irish also got an excellent race from junior Maureen Kelly, who finished seventh.

In going to the Irish were most concerned with getting some practice in running as a team, in together, in a pack, and Hood's opening race loss to Georgetown two weeks ago hadn't afforded them the opportunity.

"We do need to work on that," mentioned Coach Hanlon, "we hit the second mile we started to get a bit out, and we didn't do it this time. But I think as the season progresses, we will get better and stay together more.

"We have a long way to go to be a real good team," said Irish coach Tim Connolly, "But it's there."

Greeks, clubs, student groups reach new heights

"Take off your hat to the Notre Dame crew!" said Tom Hanlon. "The team gained a lot of confidence this weekend. It was a big day for us, Hood also had a really solid fall," said senior-cocaptain Christie Klein.

The Irish have made gradual improvement over this season after the loss of captain Kathy Phares to graduation.

We lost our captain and number-one player last year to graduation. But we have become an even stronger and more experienced team as the season has worn on.

I am really encouraged by the play of our upperclassmen," said Irish coach Tom Hanlon. "The team finished ninth in its previous two outings at Illinois State and Michigan State. However, at Michigan State last weekend, we defeated the Irish, Michigan and Northern Illinois, something they were not able to do at Illinois State.

"The team is capable of shooting consistently in the 70's, and we are starting to get closer to that. Once we become consistent with that, we will become a contender in more of our tournaments," said Hood.

Also encouraging in the play of the underclassmen is the effort and determination of Molly and junior Kathleen Shannon have both had strong fall seasons. Both played consistently in the top spots and continue to improve.

"They are really solid players, it is hard for them to prove themselves, especially the freshmen, because some players have started so early. But a few have really done the job, and they will be even better in the spring," said Hanlon.

The women's final opportunity of the fall season will be October 16 and 17, along with a field of 21 teams at the Ohio State Buckeye Classic.
Irish finish strong in Tom Fallon

By PHIL LANGER
Sports Writer

At this weekend’s Tom Fallon Invitational, the Notre Dame men’s tennis team proved that come springtime they may again be in the race for a national title as Mike Sprouse, Jason Pun, Ryan Simme and Allan Lopez won the B Singles, D Singles, and B Doubles crowns, respectively.

“Overall, I’m extremely proud of what the team did,” stated Irish head coach Bob Bayliss. “We showed that we’re not going to go away.”

Also included in this weekend’s highlights was Andy Zurcher’s excellent return to competitive play since breaking his wrist last Christmas. Zurcher fought through two gut-wrenching three-set matches, 7-5, 6-1 heart-breaker to Brian Smith of Purdue.

“Andy simply ran out of gas,” said Irish head coach Bob Bayliss, “I’m proud of the way he played. His characteristic poise and character were exemplified in his close matches. Andy’s excellent showing in his first tournament since November was an inspiration to his teammates and a warning to our competition.”

The other story of the weekend was Notre Dame freshman Ryan Simme’s debut as a collegiate player. Simme, the highest ranked freshman in the country at No. 38, fought through tendinitis in his wrist and a bad back but lost a nail-biter in the semi-finals of the A Flight to eventual winner and defending champion Dan Brackus of Michigan. Simme then rebounded with partner Allan Lopez to win the B Flight Doubles title. “Ryan made a good statement this weekend,” noted Bayliss. “He not only showed tremendous quickness, poise, and character, but let it be known he will be a major force to be reckoned with in the future when he becomes polished as a collegiate player.”

The pairing of the newcomer Simme and Lopez, a senior, turned out to be a success. “Lopez plays with a lot of flair. He’s a catalyst, he makes things happen,” said Bayliss, “However, he needed a steady, dependable partner to complement his flashes of brilliance. Simme was the logical choice. Ryan has showed me he’s ready to play doubles.”

The other Irish results deserving of recognition were excellent runs by junior Horst Dziura and senior Todd Wilson to the semi-finals of the B Flight Singles and the semi-finals of the A Flight Singles, respectively. Wilson also teamed with Sprouse to advance to the third round of the A Flight Doubles.
Sparked by a strong defense, the Saint Mary's volleyball team defeated Olivet College 15-1, 15-7, 15-1, and Kalamazoo College 11-15, 16-14, 15-7, 15-5, in Kalamazoo on Thursday night.

The double victory upped the Bellies' record to 9-6 on the season.

Belles' coach Julie Schroeder-Biek was pleased with the team's performance, noting a strong improvement from last weekend's disappointing loss to Illinois Benedictine College.

"We were rested and mentally more ready to play," she said. "We learned a lot from IBC and played together more like a team instead of individuals."

In the Belles' winning opening game against Olivet, everyone saw playing time. Sophomore Angela McNulty felt that this showed the team's depth.

"We all played well together," said McNulty. "We put different combinations on the court and everyone reacted well."

The Belles then moved onto to face Kalamazoo, who proved to be much tougher competition. Play started out slow versus the Hornets, but the Belles were able to pick up the pace after the first game.

"In the first game we played slowly and lost," noted McNulty. "But then we picked up our levels of competition and play and did what we had to do."

Schroeder-Biek pointed out that the Belles remained in control throughout most of the match. The only lapse of this control occurred in the second game when the Belles gave up an 11-2 lead, yet still held on to win 16-14.

"We maintained control of the match. Even in shaky times we stayed level-headed," she explained.

Besides a strong mental game, the Belles also played a much tougher physical game against Kalamazoo.

According to Schroeder-Biek, the Belles' passing game was much better, as was position-choices.

The biggest strength for the team, however, was the defense, which was led by senior tri-captain Kim Branstetter, who provided 25 digs, and senior tri-captain Erica Fristag, who added 21 digs.

Schroeder-Biek also credited McNulty with several key digs.

"Angela came in well off the bench. Although she only had six digs, they were at key times," she said. "She also passed well and served strong when she needed to."

As the Belles head into a tough week of competition, Schroeder-Biek noted that focus at practice will be centered on quickening the offensive game.

The win against Kalamazoo was especially satisfying for the seniors, who have never defeated the Hornets.

"It felt incredible to finally beat Kalamazoo," explained senior tri-captain Michelle Martin. "They were really surprised—I don't think that they were expecting us to beat them."

The Belles' next match will be Tuesday at 7:30 pm against a much tougher conference-opponent, Allegheny College.

\[IF YOU THOUGHT COLLEGE WAS EXPENSIVE, TRY PUTTING YOURSELF THROUGH RETIREMENT.\]

Think about supporting yourself for twenty-five, thirty years or longer in retirement. It might be the greatest financial test you'll ever face. Fortunately, you have one valuable asset in your favor. Time.

Time to take advantage of tax-deferral.

Time for your money to grow.

But starting early is key. Consider this: if you begin saving just $100 a month at age thirty, you can accumulate $72,109 by the time you reach age sixty-five. Wait ten years and you'd need to save aside $219 a month to reach the same goal.

At TIAA-CREF, we not only understand the value of saving, we can help make it possible—with flexible retirement and tax-deferred annuity plans, a diverse portfolio of investment choices, and a record of personal service that spans 75 years.

Over a million people in education and research are already enrolled in America's largest retirement system. Find out how easy it is to join them. Call today and learn how simple it is to put yourself through retirement when you have time and TIAA-CREF on your side.

Start planning your future. Call our Enrollment Helpline 1 800 842-2888.

75 years of ensuring the future for those who shape it.
By DYLAN BARMER
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men’s cross country team scored a convincing victory Friday afternoon, sweeping the first four places on their way to dominating the rest of the field at the National Catholic Invitational. Nate Ruder, Mike McWilliams, Derek Seling, and John Cowan gained the top four spots, and the team finished with a total of 23 points.

LaSalle University finished a distant second with 75 points, and Marquette (98), Canisius (115), and Duquesne (150) rounded out the top five. Sixteen other colleges and universities also competed in the race.

Freshman Matt Althoff finished eleventh for the Irish, and J.R. Meloro finished seventeenth. The Irish team stuck with their plan to run as a group, and nearly pulled off a sweep of the top five spots. The first three Notre Dame finishers all stayed together as a group, which is very important," said first-place finisher Ruder, who ran a 25:01.0. "The team has so much depth this year that we were able to stay together as a group, which is very important."

Head coach Joe Piane seemed satisfied with the results, while remaining focused on the work that the remainder of the season will demand. "The whole purpose of the meet was to train for our stretch run in November," commented Piane. "It was a good meet. The kids competed very well. John Cowan may have run the best race of the bunch, as he bounced back today after struggling in our first meet." Senior captain McWilliams, who finished second overall with a time of 25:01.3, also saw the race as a preparation for the future. "We were basically preparing for the next week," said McWilliams. "We will be up against a great amount of talent at next week’s meet."
Associated Press

was announced as one of the Lineman of the Year.

nounced in Houston, Thursday, just inside the Irish offensive line-Downtown.

sophomore Michelle Ennis was enough intensity to put away SMU versus the Badgers.

Southern Methodist is 7:13 into the second half and offense it would need.

continued from page 16

desire of Lester. After stealing left side line, beat two Lady zone, Lester raced down the

SPORTS BRIEFS

Anyone interested in a big game? Anyone interested in coaching your team for the first annual 3 ON 3 BASKETBALL CLASSIC. The tournament consisting of both male and female teams, with juniors per squad, will begin October 3. The $2 entrance fee will go towards awards and prizes. Sign-ups are in Room 213 LaFortune from 3-5 pm.

Tomorrow is the final day to register your team for the first annual 3 ON 3 BASKETBALL CLASSIC. Contact the HYATT REGENCY HOTEL for more information.

THE NOTRE DAME LONDON PROGRAM

INFORMATION MEETING FOR FA 94 AND SP 95:
Tuesday, September 28, 1993
101 DeBartolo
6:30 p.m.

ALL SOPHOMORES WELCOME!
Monday, September 27, 1993

The Observer • TODAY

SPELUNKER

I'm sorry I interrupted you. I've been trying to help you but the fact that I can only get dates when you tell me the correct answer is really frustrating. I'm sure my self-perception of being a bit of a loser that girl wants.

CALVIN AND HOBBES

Post: Dive! What's the answer to question two?

But this is a math problem.

How come you wrote something different?

I'm going to get this question wrong, aren't I?

Now, thanks. Oh, it's to you.

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

JAY HOSLER

C'mon, Hank. You are a stud. Girls are just intimidated by a slick girl, losing that body, man.

BILL WATTERSON

Tension mounts in the final heat of the paper-rock-scissors event.

DECEASED

Jeffrey Alan Custer 1968-1993

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Cass (take the roll)
2. Hip
10. Prevarications
14. Me. college town
15. Ukrainian city
16. -- uncertain terms
17. Error-free
18. Deject
20. College military gp.
21. With 2 Down, common alternatives
22. Sport
24. Fair
27. Prayers
28. Highway exit
29. Like some roads after blizzards
30. Skin divers' weapons
31. -- stand
32. Myself feeder
33. Count---take the roll
34. Hill
35. Prevarications
36. Me. college town
37. R.b.i. or e.r.a.
38. Arbitrated at Shea Stadium
39. Appraisal
40. LAX letters
41. Facing Jimmy
42. Mineral springs
43. Holmes' assistant
44. Bossy's milieu
45. Bossy's mother
46. Flight part
47. World's highest peak
48. World's highest peak
49. Quit
50. "There's no music in...", Ruskin
51. Plexus
52. Lamb's mother
53. Wandered
54. Barley beard
55. Habit
56. Mission feeder
57. Promote felonious acts
58. Der- (Adenauer)
59. Stern
60. Chess pieces
61. Hair, in Stuttgart
62. Chess pieces
63. She, in Stuttgart
64. NaCl
65. Nurnberg negative
66. -- Kick--
67. Ash or palm
68. Pesky insect
69. lnscribe

DOWN

1. Black to Pierre
2. See 2 Across
3. Kind of touch
4. Passes, as a low
5. Roman counterpart of Helios
6. Steerbeck nomad
7. His bigwig
8. Far Comb.
9. Form
10. "The... Rebel," S. Temple film
11. Voracious
12. Growing out
13. More tender
14. Ben and Sue of movies
15. Galley implement
16. Blue dye
17. Out of sight is one
18. Error-free
terms
19. Despot
20. College military gp.
21. With 2 Down, common alternatives
22. Sport
24. Fair
27. Prayers
28. Highway exit
29. Like some roads after blizzards
30. Skin divers' weapons
31. -- stand
32. Myself feeder
33. Count---take the roll
34. Hill
35. Prevarications
36. Me. college town
37. R.b.i. or e.r.a.
38. Arbitrated at Shea Stadium
39. Appraisal
40. LAX letters
41. Facing Jimmy
42. Mineral springs
43. Holmes' assistant
44. Bossy's milieu
45. Bossy's mother
46. Flight part
47. World's highest peak
48. World's highest peak
49. Quit
50. "There's no music in...", Ruskin
51. Plexus
52. Lamb's mother
53. Wandered
54. Barley beard
55. Habit
56. Mission feeder
57. Promote felonious acts
58. Der- (Adenauer)
59. Stern
60. Chess pieces
61. Hair, in Stuttgart
62. Chess pieces
63. She, in Stuttgart
64. NaCl
65. Nurnberg negative
66. -- Kick--
67. Ash or palm
68. Pesky insect
69. lnscribe

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

[ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE]

[ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE]

[ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE]

[ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE]

[ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE]

OF INTEREST

Ford Motor Company: The Computer Applications Honor Society is sponsoring a presentation by Ford Motor Company. Information about career opportunities with Ford will be available. It will be held tonight at 7 p.m. in the Heuberg Library Lounge.

AnTostal General Meeting: Monday, Sept. 27 at 7 p.m. Heuberg Library Auditorium. All interested people are very strongly invited.

M.E.C.F Fall Festival: Fireside Chat. Learn the "Myths and Realities of AIDS" from an HIV-positive woman. Notre Dame Room: 12:15-1 p.m. Free lunch included.

M.E.C.F Fall Festival: Culture on the Quad. Featuring the Korean Club from 12-1 p.m. at Fieldhouse Mall.

M.E.C.F Fall Festival: Entertaiment on the Quad. Featuring troops Notre Dame from 5-6 p.m. at Fieldhouse Mall.

Notre Dame International Study Programs Information Night for St. Mary's students. Oct. 4, 1993; 6:30 p.m. in 249 Madeleva Hall.

Notre Dame Australia Program Information Meeting. Oct. 5, 1993; 4:30 p.m. 204 O'Shaughnessy Hall.

DINING HALL

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).

Robert Kennedy Jr.

our environmental destiny

Thurs., Oct. 7
Stepan Center
7:30pm, $3.00

STUDENT UNION BOARD

Robert Kennedy Jr.
FOOTBALL 1993

Irish stumble past Boilermakers 17-0

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Sports Writer

For the Notre Dame volleyball team, this weekend's Golden Dome Invitational could be summed up by the on-court celebrations following each match. On Friday night, Santa Clara mobbed the center, cheering their biggest upset of the young season after having knocked off the 14th-ranked Irish 14-16, 8-15, 15-13, 16-14, 15-13. On Saturday night, however, the score was a total reversal, as the Irish exploded following the biggest upset in its history, defeating the No. 3 team in the land, Nebraska, 15-8, 15-7, 3-15, 15-10.

"Beating Nebraska was the biggest win of the season, my career, and probably our history," commented senior co-captain Janelle Karlan. "It really boosted our confidence, and like I said before, showed we can play with anyone in the country."

"After Friday night's match, I told the team that the mark of a great team is one that can suffer a loss and rebound the next day," stated Irish head coach Debbie Brown. "They showed a tremendous amount of character in beating Nebraska."

Playing with a level of intensity that had not been previously exhibited, the Irish rallied from a 3-7 deficit in game 1, relying on the jump serving of junior Nicole Coates, hitting of tournament MVP Christy Peters, and net play of inspired senior Molly Stark to stuns the Huskers.

Nebraska seemed surprised by the aggressiveness of the Irish attack, becoming rattled and committing numerous unforced errors and technical violations which disrupted the team's rhythm.

"Whenever you have something to prove, you have to play with much more intensity," explained Karlan. "We came out with nothing to lose in that match."

In the second game, Peters and Stark took control, answering every Husker rally with definitive kills. Peters, whose dominance from the outside continued for the second weekend in a row, notched 19 kills over the course of the match, hitting both cross-court and down the line for a .208 percentage.

see VOLLEYBALL / page 12