By MARIA CULCASI
News Writer

Following the recent transition from dictatorship to democracy in Chile, the Chilean people feel that coming back to democracy is like regaining something of their own being: their soul, according to Chilean priests Monsignor Christian Precht and Monsignor Sergio Valech in a lecture last night.

“The political transition was very significant because it was done democratically, and the Catholic Church played a prominent role in this transition, said Precht.

The archbishops of Chile not only promoted human rights, but they also brought together representatives of the various political parties to ask what they would be willing to give up to improve Chile. According to Precht, this was the starting point of the transition.

Since the transition Precht said the Church must now “take a step back.” According to Precht, it is no longer the role of the Church to remain politically involved. Instead, he says that their role is now to inform, and to make sure that lay people become involved in the reform.

However, Chile must still face several obstacles ahead, according to the priests. First of all, Precht stated that they must stabilize the democracy. “Right now, we do not have a fluent relationship with the military,” he said.

In addition, Precht said they must “help heal the wounds” and achieve justice concerning the 10,000 people still missing from the seventeen years of the dictatorship.

“Chile is a country of contrast between the rich and the poor and the poor must not be neglected,” said Precht. “It’s so easy to forget the poor.”

He also stated that the Church must play a role in aiding the poor.

Another challenge facing the new government of Chile is multiculturalism, Precht said that they need to face different cultures, and see a different perspective of life.

Finally, Precht said that they must also be aware of ethical problems in their society.

“There cannot be an ethical, or a good, society unless we have a source of inspiration,” he said. “That inspiration should come from the Virgin Mary. The quartz Schola Musicorum practises their original Georgian chants and the music’s construction in addition to how it’s performed. Schola Musicorum is not so much just singers, but people who study the art and theory of music also,” said Coleman.

“Exploring this repertory has proved a surprisingly rewarding experience,” according to Bower.

In addition to the chants, organ music by 17th-century composer Girolamo Frescobaldi will also be performed by Gail Walton, director of music at the Basilica and director of the liturgical choir.

In order to comply with its label of “aleb-mesique,” a term used to describe the night recitals of 17th century composer Dietrich Buxtehude, the

ND quartet to perform chants, organ selections at Sacred Heart

By MARGARET VIDA
News Writer

Schola Musicorum, a quartet consisting of music professors, directors and a graduate student, will hold its first free performance tonight at 10 p.m. in the Basilica of the Sacred Heart.

“The programs are intended to be brief, exciting interludes, open to the public,” according to Associate Professor Alexander Blachly.

This evening’s a cappella concert, the first in the series, will consist of Gregorian chants interspersed with organ selections. The chants are previously unheard renditions. Both Blachly and Professor Calvin Bower transcribed the chants themselves.

“This is something that hasn’t been heard for a couple hundred years,” said first year graduate student in musicology, Lewis Coleman.

The items to be performed tonight by Bower, Blachly, Coleman and Notre Dame chorale director Daniel Stowe, center in subject matter around the Virgin Mary.

Stemming from research for their show tonight, The quartet Schola Musicorum practises their original Georgian chants and musical settings are rich, imaginative, according to Bower.

The series of concerts is designed to offer something other than simply a group of singers performing a previously transcribed chant.

“Going back to the fifth century, there was a distinction between a chanter, who would just sing, and the ‘musicus’ who would study and know the settings.”

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

All Haley Scott worried about was making a fool of herself. She ignored what her teammates, family, and friends were saying. “It was good enough that she just swim,” they kept saying. Good enough for them, but not her.

And last Friday, Haley Scott did what she needed to do. She won.

Twenty-one months after doctors told her that she would be lucky to walk again, the junior from Arizona sprinted 50 yards ahead of the seven other swimmers in her heat.

“Everyone was crying, even coach (Tim) Coleman,” said team captain Kristin Heath, “except Haley. We were all a mess, but not her.”

Scott did not shed one tear. Not later when she hugged her parents, with her mom crying and her father saying over and over how proud they were of her.

She had done enough crying. When the doctors started putting rods in her back, the ones she can feel today, she said, “except swim,” they kept saying. Good enough for them, but not her.

And last Friday, Haley Scott did what she needed to do. She won.

Two years after being told she may never walk, Haley Scott swims again
Rest assured: the 'Noles will roll

And there were six. Six unbeaten and untied teams remain in Division I-A: Florida State, Ohio State, Nebraska, Auburn, West Virginia and Notre Dame. Six teams which have survived two months of football without dropping a game or settling for a tie.

But how many of those deserve an unblemished record? to be included in the title hunt this season? The coaches won't even vote for Auburn, which is on probation. If only because they can't prove themselves in a bowl game, the Tigers already be left out of the running unless no one else stands tw-oh-and-oh on January 2.

West Virginia is the second-best team in a mediocre conference (and is led by a quarterback who once fought Rick Mirer for the starting job at Notre Dame). The Mountaineers will surely lose before the end of November. They'll be out of the hunt soon enough.

But who does deserve serious consideration? Ohio State has been impressive so far, and has yet to face its two biggest challenges of the season: Wisconsin and Michigan. But even if John Cooper heads to the Rose Bowl, rest assured that he'll pull the traditional New Year's trick and get drubbed by UCLA.

Nebraska still plays in the Big Eight, which is behind both Miami (7-1) and Alabama (7-0-1) in the AP poll. Sure, they'll get killed by somebody in the Orange Bowl. But they have to face Colorado and Oklahoma every year. Nebraska football, will play two challenging games in 1993.

Not so for the Irish. Notre Dame has only one challenge this sea- son: The Triple Crown of State. Michigan is ahead of only three teams in the Big Ten. The Irish have beaten two of those: Northwestern and Purdue. Pitt? Brigham Young? When Notre Dame scheduled these teams ten years ago, they were tough, too. Now, they've been thrown about as solid as a fudgeglick left out to thaw.

The '93 schedule is a joke. When the Irish won the national championship in 1988, they did it against the toughest schedule in the nation.

When Florida State wins the title this year, they will accomplish the same feat. It will have beaten Miami, Notre Dame and Florida in its non-conference schedule.

FSU is clearly the best team in the nation. The Seminoles have crushed every team they've shared the field with. Bowden, Ward and Co. are a fearsome bunch, and the only thing that might slow them down when they visit Michigan in two weeks is a solid dose of sleet.

Notre Dame certainly won't stop the 'Noles. No one should really wonder who will be unde- feated when FSU leaves town. The question is whether Florida State will improve its points per game average (which now stands at 43.75).

Count on it.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

The Observer • INSIDE

Tuesday, November 2, 1993

Nation at a Glance

Tragedy at University of Wisconsin following victory over Michigan

When Camp Randall Stadium is full, the 77,745 fans it holds make it - for a few hours on fall Saturday afternoons - the sixth-largest city in the state. Only Milwaukee, with a 1990 population of 608,008. Madison, 191,292, Janesville, 96,466; Racine, 84,298; and Kenosha, 80,352, have more people than Camp Randall on Game Day.

Rush Limbaugh says no to blue jeans

NEW YORK

Don't bother looking for blue jeans in Rush Limbaugh's closet. He doesn't own any. They make a political statement he doesn't agree with. "The generation I grew up with wore T-shirts, tie-dyes and jeans. Peace signs all over them," Limbaugh said. "At my little college, we had our contingent of antiwar protesters on campus, and they were all blue-jean clad!" Playboy magazine, which published a lengthy interview with the pugnacious commentator in its December edition, tried to change his wardrobe. Magazine officials tried to present him with a pair of size 44-longs. Playboy's Cindy Bakowicz, vice president of public relations, got as far as the reception area at Limbaugh's WABC Radio studio.

California museum features toilet art

BERKLEY, Calif.

New York has the MOMA. Paris has the Louvre. Berkeley has the New Sense Museum, where art is strictly in the eyes of the beholder. The New Sense (say it fast) consists of a vacant, weed-stromed lot studded with weird objects, most notably a flotilla of commodes painted fluorescent pink, orange and green. "What can I say? Art is whatever you can get away with, I guess," said Andy Ross of nearby Cody's Books. "I'd much rather have a nice monumental Picasso or an ice skating rink, but we have the museum."

Verdicts too lenient, Times poll says

LOS ANGELES

A majority of residents believe the verdicts in the Reginald Denny beating case were too lenient and jurors feared another riot, according to a newspaper poll. The survey in Tuesday's edition of the Los Angeles Times showed 67 percent of those questioned believed the jury was motivated by fears for their own safety and of another riot. Seventy-five percent of Hispanics held that view, 66 percent of whites and 53 percent of blacks. "Just look at the video and you see they are guilty," said respondent Gerusalem Ortiz, 45, a machine operator from Huntington Park. Sixty-three percent of those polled felt the Denny verdicts were too lenient. Times Poll: Majority of Residents Say Verdicts Too Lenient

Flavor Flav arrested after shooting

NEW YORK

Flavor Flav of Public Enemy was arrested for allegedly shooting at a neighbor Monday in a dispute authorities say may have started over the rapper's girlfriend. The 34-year-old musician, whose real name is William Drayton, was to be arraigned Tuesday on attempted mur­ der and weapons possession charges, police said. He was ordered held without bail. The shooting took place out­ side the high-rise apartment building where Drayton and the other man live and may have been over Drayton's girlfriend, said police Sgt. Michael McGrath. The incident occurred a day after another prominent rapper, Tupac Shakur, was arrested in the shooting of two off-duty police officers in Atlanta. Shakur, who was released on bail Monday, was charged with two counts of aggravated assault. The officers were released from a hospital Monday.

Drugs may have caused Phoenix's death

LOS ANGELES

River Phoenix laying on the sidewalk while his brother pleaded with a fire department dispatcher to send help for the actor, who collapsed outside a night­ club. "You must get here, please, you must get here," his brother said. "I'm thinking he had Valium or something." First, the 23-year-old actor was writhing on the sidewalk. Then he lay motionsless, as if sleeping.

"I'm in shock," his sister. Phoenix was pronounced dead early Sunday at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. An autopsy Monday was inconclusive, said coroner's spokesman Scott Carrier. Results of blood and chemical tests will take weeks, he said.

INDIANA Weather

Tuesday, Nov. 2

Active Weather/Sunet for today: conditions and high temperatures.

FRONT: South wind 15 to 25 mph.

TUESDAY FORECAST:

- Increasing clouds.

- High 52.

- Low 44.

- Partly cloudy.

- High 49.

- Low 40.

- High 46.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.

- Low 39.

- High 48.
Laux, students explore effective leadership skills at forum

By CORRINE DORAN
News Writer

The key to being an effective leader lies in relating leadership styles to situations and people, according to Rob Laux, program coordinator for Student Activities.

Laux said leader qualities, according to Laux, are:

- Let them know the purpose of the group or goal.
- Let them know the facts, including financial responsibility.
- Let them know the tasks by discussing projects for the year.

The most beneficial situation, Laux said, occurs when the personalities of group members complement.

Something important to try to do is to create some type of balance, Laux said.

Recognizing the different strengths of group members and making the rest of the group happy, according to Laux.

Laux said, "It is very important to match a person's style with the environment that they are in," added Laux.

When leading a group, Laux said, a person has five main responsibilities:

- Let them know the purpose of the group or goal.
- Let them know the facts, including financial responsibility.
- Let them know the tasks by discussing projects for the year.

One of the most important roles of a leader is to serve as a link between people in the organization.

Setting priorities is the basis for creating a leader's strength.

"It is important to believe in what you are doing," before making a decision, Laux said it is important to get as much information as possible.

The key to being an effective leader lies in relating leadership styles to situations and people, according to Rob Laux, program coordinator for the Office of Student Activities.

"It is most important to understand your own leadership style and appreciate others' styles in relation to your leadership style," said Laux.

The conventional method includes people who like to deal with data, numbers, realistic people like concrete situations; investigative like to observe, artistic enjoy innovation, social have good people skills; and entertaining enjoy influencing others.

The most beneficial situation, Laux said, occurs when the personalities of group members complement.

Something important to try to do is to create some type of balance, Laux said.

Recognizing the different strengths of group members and making the rest of the group happy, according to Laux.

It is important to believe in what you are doing," before making a decision, Laux said it is important to get as much information as possible.

The most important aspect of leadership is enjoying the project according to Laux.

"The bottom line is that you need to have fun. You need to enjoy what you are doing," said Laux.

Praising members for their week is an integral part of leading, according to Laux.

"You praise people in public, you criticize them in private," said Laux.

To promote the ses, a program on decision making and problem solving will be held on Nov. 8. "Creating a Place Within your Organization" will take place on Nov. 15. Both sessions will be held from 7-8 p.m. in the Notre Dame Room of LaFortune.

First lady fires back at insurance industry

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Assistant Press

WASHINGTON

Hillary Clinton accused insurance companies Monday of waging a deceitful campaign against a Clinton health plan to protect profits and preserve the system. Following a meeting at the Health Care Center, Mrs. Clinton said, "It is time for you and for every American to stand up and say to the insurance industry, 'Enough is enough. We want our health care system back,'" she said.

"You don't get to say that everyone should pay for health care," said Mrs. Clinton.

But the industry said it was the first lady who was guilty of making false claims.

"I think if the first lady was guilty of making false claims, then they should spell out the facts in the meeting," said Laux.

The group's new president, pediatrician Betty Lowe, once treated Chelsea Clinton in Little Rock.

The first lady castigated the "Harry and Louise" television ads run by the Health Insurance Association of America that question key features of the Clinton plan.

"One of the great lies that is currently being spread is that the president's plan will limit choice. To the contrary, the president's plan enhances choice," said Mrs. Clinton.

Rand Paul, a middle-aged, white man with a mustache, spoke of the "homey kitchen" ads that tend to say "It is available for you to choose," said Mrs. Clinton.

"You don't get to say that everyone should pay for health care," said Mrs. Clinton.

They like being able to exclude people from coverage because they are not a risk, she said. "They chose the people they can make," she charged.
Haley Scott would last longer than the tears.

But all that was forgotten on Friday, because in the 26.10 seconds it took Scott to finish her race all the memories and scars were forgotten, and only Haley remained.

"I'm so sick of being someone who is hurt," she said days before the race, "sick of being an excuse. I just want to be a swimmer."

That is what she is today and has always been in her mind.

"If feels so good to be a part of the team. I missed more than I missed the swimming," she said. "Taking trips with my teammates and practice, those were the things I really missed.

"I always knew I would swim again. I think the doctors stopped telling me what I could not do, because I wasn't listening.

Since the first day they said she couldn't, Haley said she would.

Every day since they told her no, she envisioned what her first race back would be like. The start, the stroke, her turn she had to hit the turn, the sprint to the finish, and finally stop telling me what I could not do, because I wasn't listening.

The weekend before the meet, Scott returned home. She spent the time relaxing, a few days alone with her family.

It was the final stop in a long plan Scott had set up for herself leading up to Friday's race. Those few days would be her chance to prepare mentally, and the months before to prepare physically.

The whole summer she trained in Tempe with teammate Lorrei Horenkamp. For two hours, six days a week she woke early to train. Sometimes her back would warn her to stop, but she always made it to the pool.

She also lifted three days a week, slowing regaining the strength that made her a high school All-American and one of Notre Dame's top swimmers before the accident.

She came to school in August looking better than she ever did before," said Heath. "And when we saw her swim, we knew that Haley was back. "Going into the meet we knew she would swim well. We had seen it in practice. We just didn't know how she would react to all the attention and remonations."

That was what the few days at home took care of. "My mom kept on thanking me for coming home," said Scott, "but I wanted to be home. It was good for me to get home before the race."

When she was on the blocks, staring out across the pool Scott didn't feel nervous or scared. She wasn't worried any longer about making a fool of herself. "It was just like any other race," she said. "I just concentrated on what I needed to do."

Her teammates watched through teary stares and cheered loudly, smiling with the tears because of what this race meant. "It is like a final chapter in the whole deal. It is finished."

The media reminded me of how close the meet was. I started to get scared."

Scott touched that wall, that's what the few days at home took care of. "My mom kept on thanking me for coming home," said Scott, "but I wanted to be home. It was good for me to get home before the race."

Everyone was glad when Scott touched that wall, that's why the cameras followed her every move and reporters asked for a comment. She dove into that pool and put a beautiful ending on a tragic story."

"My mom tells me that I should write a book about my experience," said Scott. "I don't want to write a book. I just want to swim."

There will be more races and more meets. All will mean less and less to the story, but more and more to the swimmer.

And in time there will just be a swimmer.
WASHINGTON

A nervous Senate, debating sex, allegations of possible criminal conduct and the right to privacy, wrestled reluctantly Monday with a historic motion to enforce a subpoena for Bob Packwood's "personal" diaries.

He said a deal might be worked out if the committee would describe to him the potential professional conduct it said it recently discovered in the diaries.

All eyes were on Packwood in the crowded yet hushed Senate chamber as he made his case. By turns combative and accommodating, he accused his colleagues on the ethics panel of acting as "prosecutor, jury and judge," but told the rest of the Senate the matter could be settled short of a showdown vote.

The debate focused on the clash between the ethics committee's determined inquiry — which began with allegations of sexual misconduct and intimidation against Packwood — and the Oregon Republican's assertion of his constitutional privacy rights.

By turns combative and accommodating, he accused his colleagues on the ethics panel of acting as "prosecutor, jury and judge," but told the rest of the Senate the matter could be settled short of a showdown vote.

The debate focused on the clash between the ethics committee's determined inquiry — which began with allegations of sexual misconduct and intimidation against Packwood — and the Oregon Republican's assertion of his constitutional privacy rights.

As fires fades in California, thoughts turn to mudslides

"There's virtually nothing left to hold any water on the slope. We get some major storms in there and it's like raining on cement or asphalt," he said.

Browne said he hoped grass would be planted on stripped hills within two weeks.

Homeowners still recovering from the effects of the fires had already begun worrying about the new threat.

"We're going to pack up the china and the heirlooms and put them in storage," Connie Towne of Altadena said at a neighborhood party for fire survivors. "Once the silt builds up in the mountains it's going to be a wall of mud."

Cool, wet weather over the weekend helped firefighters get the upper hand on most of the major wildfires that broke out last week, along a 200-mile arc from Ventura County through Los Angeles to the Mexican border. The fires torched 177,306 acres, damaged or destroyed 813 buildings, including at least 685 homes, and injured 62.

A preliminary estimate from the state Office of Emergency Services put damage at $500 million.

Fire officials predicted complete containment of all blazes by Tuesday. However, the National Weather Service predicted that hot, dry Santa Ana winds would return Tuesday, which could fan any remaining fires.

The progress gained on the fires allowed officials to release some firefighting crews from Northern California and other states, though more than 8,000 firefighters remained on the lines, backed up by 35 helicopters and 28 airplanes dropping water and fire-retardant chemicals.

The natural cycle of fires and floods or mudslides in the Southern California foothills is well known. For those who carve expensive homes into the steep hilltops, it means one-two punch of disaster.
Clinton, Supreme Court examine military-gay ban

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Clinton administration asked the Supreme Court Tuesday to delay a lower court order banning discrimination against homosexuals in the military.

The emergency order, if granted, would enable the Defense Department to implement its new policy on homosexuals, which states that recruits will not be asked their sexual orientation but that openly declared homosexuals will not be permitted to serve.

The Justice Department filed its request to Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, requesting a partial stay of a U.S. District judge's order while the administration appeals it. The aim is to limit the judge's ruling to Navy Petty Officer Keith Meinhold, a gay sailor discharged from the military in August 1992 after he disclosed he was homosexual.

The department contended in its application that U.S. District Judge Terry Hatter Jr. "clearly erred with respect to issues of great importance" when he ruled Sept. 30 that the Pentagon could not deny enlistment or promotion, or change enlistment status or duty assignment because of someone's sexual orientation.

The Pentagon has instructed units to suspend the ban on homosexuals in the military while it pursues the case.

"The entry of a nationwide injunction in this non-class action conflicts with decisions of this court and numerous courts of appeals holding that an injunction may not be broader than necessary to provide relief to the party before the court," the Justice Department said.

The government said that only Meinhold will be permitted to serve.

Chile

continued from page 1

be the Church or the Gospels." Precht also discussed what life was like in Chile before the transition to democracy.

"When one has lived in a democracy, it is difficult to understand a situation where fear is the rule," Precht said. "We were never able to speak freely, and it lead to a great amount of censorship. When the transition took place, we learned how to smile again. Valich gave some advice to the students. "You will be the leaders in the future. This gives you responsibility. You must always try to help the poor and be one who wants to serve and have more understanding. Otherwise, all you are studying here is for nothing."

Concert

continued from page 1

concert will be performed in candle-light. The stunning architecture and acoustics of the Basilica of the Sacred Heart are an added stimulus for us to prepare presentations of this wonderful music from Catholic heritage," according to Blachly.

"It's an exciting event that can be enjoyed by students on many different levels. Of course, History and Medieval Studies students will enjoy it more, as well as others familiar with the language—and anybody who just wants to chill with poetic nature," said Coleman.

Ill passenger freed from jetliner

By DALATOU MAMANE
Associated Press

NIAMEY, Niger

The hijackers of a Nigerian Airways flight freed one sick passenger today but refused to release nearly three dozen other hostages, most of them government officials.

The hijackers were believed to have singled out government employees as bargaining chips in their demand for the resignation of Nigeria's military-backed government.

By late Monday, however, Niger authorities said the hijackers only were demanding enough fuel to get to Frankfurt, Germany.

Four to six men armed with guns and knives took over the Airbus 310 Monday on a domestic flight from Lagos, Nigeria, to the Nigerian capital, Abuja. The plane was diverted to Niamey, capital of neighboring Niger, for refueling.

Various authorities have given different figures for the number of passengers and crew on the plane. The Niger Interior Ministry said there originally were 159 people on board, most of whom were released Monday.

Six crew members and 28 Nigerian government employees remained inside the aircraft parked on a runway of Niamey's international airport, according to the Niger Interior Ministry.

---

Granntute Management studies in France

The Consortium of leading French "Grandes Ecoles" of Management is seeking to recruit June '94 graduates for a 2-year International Management Program in French and/or English.

For further information about the Schools and the programs they offer, please meet our representative:

Mrs. Joan FENET at a presentation at:

The University of Notre Dame
Conference Room
on November 4, 1993 from: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Riverboat gambling vote nears

Associated Press

Supporters and opponents of riverboat gambling made one last appeal before Tuesday's local referenda on the question of whether to play host to the floating casinos.

Along the Ohio River, opponents bought half-hour blocks of Monday evening airtime on three television stations that serve two cities in the surrounding Vanderburgh County area. They are doing battle with six casino companies each of which has donated $45,000 to YES the pro-riverboat committee.

A Goshen, Indiana, church and a Lake Michigan's shores, a Joliet, Ill.-based riverboat casino corporation has put $350,000 to court voters in Hammond, who are studying a licensing a license a license from the Illinois Gaming Commission.

In the Indiana Methodist Church in Indianapolis have geared up to cast votes in both north and south.

Voters in nine Indiana counties and two in cities in a 10th county go to the polls to vote yes or no on a referendum that holds the fate of riverboat casinos in their areas.

The votes are scheduled for Hammond and East Chicago in Lake County, and in Porter and LaPorte counties in northern Indiana. On the Ohio, the votes are being held in laout Switzerland, Ohio, Floyd, Clark and Warrick counties, as well as Vanderburgh County.

Under Indiana's new riverboat gambling law, votes must be cast in 15 counties before the gaming commission considers the license applications of cains and seeking in the riverboats in the water.

The Indiana Gaming Commission has approved five riverboat licenses for northern Indiana communities and five along the Ohio River. The city of Gary, who resides approved land-based casinos in a non-biding referendum four years ago, was not required to hold a referendum to be eligible for the two licenses set aside for the Lake County city.

All the counties that could host riverboat gambling voted overwhelmingly to rape a state constitutional amendment that would allow legal gambling. But indefinite the counties in several communities gave no clear indication of how Tuesday's votes may go.

ICI

Business Briefs

NEW YORK

Lawyers for General Motors Corp. and owners of some 6 million pickups with side-mounted gasoline tanks urged a federal judge today to approve a settlement offering $1 billion toward the purchase of a new truck.

"It is a very, reasonable and adequate settlement in one of the largest class actions ever brought," said Diane Nast, an attorney for truck owners.

GM offered $80 a share for 51 percent of Paramount on Monday, and QVC is planning to sell Starz in a similar offer by Wednesday.

Analysts say Viacom's variety of broadcast and cable assets and its international reach give the company an advantage in the movie market that others are offering the same amount.

Dennis McAlpine, who has been studying the Paramount fight for the investment firm Josephthal Lyn & Ross, said QVC "is clearly under pressure because if everything is equal, they are not going to get away with it.

Viacom owns the MTV, Showtime and Nickelodeon cable networks. QVC's main business is cable shopping but it is led by onetime Paramount Pictures boss Barry Diller.

The video rental company Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. and regional phone company Nynex Corp. have agreed to invest a combined $1.8 billion in Viacom in the six weeks since the original Paramount deal was announced.

Paramount offers what he described as the "Executive Committee" of the communications revolution are looking for, with its moviemaking and television production track record, its rich library of films and programs and its book publishing operations.

The company said today it will move its headquarters to a new location in New York City.

The new network will begin with four hours of original programing over two nights anchored by a new "Star Trek" show, the company said, and it will expand eventually to compete against the four existing networks - ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox.

There have been rumors periodically that Paramount, which owns seven TV stations and TV production facilities, was considering starting a broadband television network in early 1995.

But the timing, in the midst of the takeover battle, was considered a surprise.

QVC's Diller oversaw the development of the Fox TV network several years ago and is said to want to start another network.

I

CPS

Indianapolis

The Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles said the state's total revenue other than income taxes from automobile and real estate taxes that until recently went unspent on at least 39 vehicles have been spent for car dealers. Under a state law that went into effect in 1978, the state can assign vehicles to agencies they choose, providing that the dealers have the arrangement in place with the Department of Motor Vehicles and pay excise taxes on the vehicles.

TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON

President Clinton prodded business owners by satellite on Monday "to be missionaries" and help win the battle the North American Free Trade Agreement.

Clinton acknowledged he was in an uphill fight but predicted he will be in a show-down in the House. "But in order for it to be close, there all have to push between now and then," he said in an electronic "town hall" meeting organized by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The session was beamed by satellite to gatherings — attended mostly by small and medium-size business owners to start-ups — that more than 240 sites nationwide.

The votes are scheduled for Hammond and East Chicago in Lake County, and in Porter and LaPorte counties in northern Indiana. On the Ohio, the votes are being held in at least Switzerland, Ohio, Floyd, Clark and Warrick counties, as well as Vanderburgh County.

The sessions were scheduled for Hammond and East Chicago in Lake County, and in Porter and LaPorte counties in northern Indiana. On the Ohio, the votes are being held in at least Switzerland, Ohio, Floyd, Clark and Warrick counties, as well as Vanderburgh County.

Lawyers for General Motors Corp. and owners of some 6 million pickups with side-mounted gasoline tanks urged a federal judge today to approve a settlement offering $1 billion toward the purchase of a new truck.

"It is a very, reasonable and adequate settlement in one of the largest class actions ever brought," said Diane Nast, an attorney for truck owners.

GM offered $80 a share for 51 percent of Paramount on Monday, and QVC is planning to sell Starz in a similar offer by Wednesday.

Analysts say Viacom's variety of broadcast and cable assets and its international reach give the company an advantage in the movie market that others are offering the same amount.

Dennis McAlpine, who has been studying the Paramount fight for the investment firm Josephthal Lyn & Ross, said QVC "is clearly under pressure because if everything is equal, they are not going to get away with it.

Viacom owns the MTV, Showtime and Nickelodeon cable networks. QVC's main business is cable shopping but it is led by onetime Paramount Pictures boss Barry Diller.

The video rental company Blockbuster Entertainment Corp. and regional phone company Nynex Corp. have agreed to invest a combined $1.8 billion in Viacom in the six weeks since the original Paramount deal was announced.

Paramount offers what he described as the "Executive Committee" of the communications revolution are looking for, with its moviemaking and television production track record, its rich library of films and programs and its book publishing operations.

The company said today it will move its headquarters to a new location in New York City.

The new network will begin with four hours of original programing over two nights anchored by a new "Star Trek" show, the company said, and it will expand eventually to compete against the four existing networks - ABC, CBS, NBC and Fox.

There have been rumors periodically that Paramount, which owns seven TV stations and TV production facilities, was considering starting a broadband television network in early 1995.

But the timing, in the midst of the takeover battle, was considered a surprise.

QVC's Diller oversaw the development of the Fox TV network several years ago and is said to want to start another network.

I

CPS

Indianapolis

The Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles said the state's total revenue other than income taxes from automobile and real estate taxes that until recently went unspent on at least 39 vehicles have been spent for car dealers. Under a state law that went into effect in 1978, the state can assign vehicles to agencies they choose, providing that the dealers have the arrangement in place with the Department of Motor Vehicles and pay excise taxes on the vehicles.
Splendor’ and ‘The Sexual Brain’, with a spin

In a sabbatical mood, I’m giving “A Left Jab” a rest in favor of a metaphor with fewer connotations of violence (a jab) and ideology (left). A hard slider is a breaking pitch thrown with as much velocity as a pitcher can combine with the requisite spin. Modulation (spin in motion) is a central feature of a good slider.

Overheard at a bookstore in the inner city of Chicago, “Do you have any Veritas Splendor by John Paul II?” “No, only a business disc in the annex.” “Look under ‘Popes’.” “All we have for 1993 is a Pope and responsibility. Would there be a second author?” “She’s touchy about the use of her name.”

Deprived of splendor, I thought it might be fun to review two new books: Simon LeVay’s The Sexual Brain, and James Q. Wilson’s The Moral Sense. The juxtaposition appeals to my sabbatical mood. I’m still deep inside me, still aspiring to the manly ideal of starting a fire with no matches. Nevertheless, two reviews require two columns, and one will review Wilson, setting the stage for a fuller discussion of LeVay’s book.

Simon LeVay is the leading American neuroanatomist whose spectacular photomicrographs of the primate visual cortex helped put Hubel and Wiesel on the plane to Stockholm. James Q. Wilson is a social psychologist and moral/political theorist so eminent many will say that his new book (UCLA) can afford his salary. Wilson argues that a huge body of evidence from evolutionary theory, primatology and brain science shows that the facts about the origin and development of moral reasoning support broadly Thomist and Aristotelian conclusions about virtue.

LeVay studies the sexual differentiation of the human nervous system and has published cellular analyses of the brains of hetero- and homosexual men, finding differences in hypothalamic centers regulating sexual behavior which may underlie dispositions to develop a variety of gender roles and sexual orientations in various human environments. The two books together produces a startling conclusion. In 1993, a biological, well informed Thomist or Aristotelian has excellent reason to take seriously the claim that the virtues of authoritative male hierarchies characteristic of nomadic, pastoral cultures antedating the agricultural revolution.

In those societies, Wilson argues, typical, dominant males are necessary for reproduction but useless for nurturing children. Following the neo-sociobiologist and economist Robert Frank (Cornell), he sees good evolutionary reason to think males willing to assist gravely wounded human beings in distress even while traveling among strangers in an alien land would gradually supplant kings and heroes specializing in inter- and intra-tribal competition and aggression.

The Good Samaritan, queer by the standards for male behavior in pastoral societies, would be the most reliable companion, someone who would help you when you were absolutely nothing in it for him. The sort of person you could trust with the kids. This conclusion has not been emphasized in the unstintingly favorable comments accorded Wilson’s book by Irving Kristol, Michael Novak and Alasdair MacIntyre, but it is integral to his argument.

Wilson, unlike those Thomists and Aristotelians unfamiliar with evolutionary theory and human behavioral genetics, places human nature squarely in the context of human genetic and epigenetic variability.

Human beings differ in genetic predispositions to succeed in various activities, and parental, epigenetic nurturance of those predispositions is itself highly variable. Genes do not determine human nature, but they seem to make a significant contribution to the construction of micro-environments not shared by siblings in the same family. It is impossible for parents to create identical environments for all their children. Sibling interaction increases this is why children in the same family are so different from each other.

One consequence, music to Michael Novak’s ears, is that human beings are not equal. Equity seems to require disparate rewards for disparate performances. Another, gratifying to Alisdair MacIntyre, is that Kant, Mill and John Rawls are surely wrong.

Justice can be understood neither in terms of a contract binding equally situated, risk adverse individuals, nor in terms of a calculus of personal or social utilities, nor in terms of a perfectly abstract universal principles beloved by professors of philosophy. Justice, or fairness, is something worked out in natural and historical settings varying with the means of production, cultural organization, and gender. The human conscience, or moral sense, can be motivated not by Oedipal fears nor to schedules of reward and punishment. It is molded in the natural and historical development of varying expressions of the virtues of sympathy, self control and duty, first uniting parent and child, then kinfolk, then, gradually and in part by aspiration, to wider groups of families and finally to all humanity.

Pastoral pomposity concerning the heroic virtue of the “soldier” male at the top is vapidized by this biologically and historically sophisticated resurrection of the Aristotelian-Thomist tradition to be concluded.

Ed Manier is a professor of philosophy at Harvard.
Navy spooks Notre Dame on Halloween

Second half explosion ends Irish nightmare

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA

The Notre Dame football played in the spirit of Halloween on Saturday, scaring its loyal fans with a not-so-Irish-like performance at Veterans Stadium.

After falling behind 24-17 at halftime, Notre Dame exploded in the second half for 41 points and cruised to a 58-27 win.

The first half quickened the Heart rate of hoards of Irish fans as a potential No. 1 vs. No. 2 matchup against Florida State seemed in jeopardy. It was the first time the Irish had trailed at halftime since Penn State in 1991.

But at halftime Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz let his seniors do the talking, and an inspired second half performance was the result.

"Whenever we're in trouble I tell the seniors not to go out to the field until they're ready," said Holtz.

When they did come out the Irish looked more like the second-ranked team in the nation. They knew they could run against Navy and returned to that game plan in the final two periods.

Returner Clint Johnson took the opening kickoff to the Navy 37 yard line, and three plays later quarterback Kevin See WIN on page 2

JOCK STRIP

And now, finally, it's Florida State

PHILADELPHIA

Waterlogged and weary after Notre Dame's win over Navy, Lou Holtz knew it was time to look Florida State in the eye.

But after his team nearly got a black eye from an historic punching bag, you couldn't blame the coach for flinching a little.

"They can do everything from top to bottom, they can run it and they can throw it," he said of the Seminoles.

"I don't know anything about Florida State except they're No. 2 in scoring offense and No. 1 in defense.

He also knows that they are the No. 1 team in the nation and the only obstacle between Notre Dame and the national championship.

By the time these pages clutter the dining hall floor, Holtz and his staff will probably know everything there is to know about the Seminoles and know See KELLY on page 2
Edwards makes his Marc

By JASON KELLY

Associated Sport Editor

PHILADELPHIA

It was just another normal week for Notre Dame freshman fullback Marc Edwards. Until Wednesday.

"They told me, I guess it was Wednesday," Edwards said. "Ray (Holtz) was a little bothered with me, so I just tried to prepare in every way I could."

Edwards is no stranger to the field. He has stepped into some substantial playing time early in his rookie season as a short-yardage back and a substitute for Zellars. But when your name is on top of the depth chart, the responsibilities are a little heavier.

"I was the starter today, so I had to take over and do the same thing (Zellars) would have done," Edwards said.

He did that and more, scoring three touchdowns and rushing for 97 yards on 14 carries.

Edwards displayed some powerful running and some breakaway yards, which is an unusual asset on a 6-foot-2, 220 pound frame. "I didn't try to do anything spectacular, I just wanted to get the job done," he said.

Flashy freshmen Randy Kinder and Robert Handy didn't start, but Edwards' performance was more than adequate for much of his rookie season. But together they form the nucleus of Notre Dame's backfield of the future.

Against Navy, they showed a glimpse of what the future will be like. Kinder led the way with 108 yards on ten carries and Farmer added 77 yards on six carries.

But it was Edwards who stood Saturday. "I couldn't have been more pleased with the play of the three freshmen," Irish coach Lou Holtz said. "Don't get Marc Edwards just played a beautiful game. He played well without the ball and just did a yeoman's job stepping in for Zellars."

Inside the ten yard line, the ball went almost immediately to Edwards, who scored from one, three and ten yards out. He also showed his breakaway ability with a 27 yard run in the third quarter.

He kept another drive alive at the beginning of the fourth quarter with three consecutive runs, one for 18 yards and two for eight yards up the middle.

Edwards and the Irish didn't move the ball quite as well in the first half as they limped to the locker room trailing 24-7. Edwards had just 20 yards with just 20 yards.

"We weren't worried (at halftime)," Holtz said. "We just decided that we had to go out and play the way we're capable of playing." Edwards said. "Things really started clicking in the second half, everything just seemed to come together."

The offense exploded for 42 second half points to sink the Midshipmen. Edwards played a key role in that explosion, not just with the ball, but without it too, opening holes for his teammates in the backfield.

"Marc played a great game today," Kinder said. "When he wasn't running himself he was making some great blocks for us."

"He showed me in his first impression with the coaches. Blocking. It's not glamorous, you just do it."

"You have to take every aspect of the game seriously," Edwards said. "It's just great to be able to have a way I can help the team. I'm happier to do it, whether it's blocking or running the ball."

He got plenty of chances to run the ball on Saturday, and even more chances to block for his teammates.

Whatever his role, he proved that the Irish have more than one capable fullback.

Edwards' success is a vindication of sorts. A controversial Mr. Football selection in Ohio a year ago, his success at Notre Dame has helped silence his detractors.

"They all think about high school, it won't do me any good here to reflect on that," Edwards said. "I think my actions and the team's actions speak for themselves. Everything is going great."

The Observer/T.J. Harris

Freshman fullback Marc Edwards finds a hole in second half action against Navy. Edwards finished with 97 yards on 14 carries.

G-rated P. analysis

SEASON CUMULATIVE VERAGE: 3.2584

QUARTERBACKS

McDougall was steady in poor conditions but he also made a few poor decisions

RUNNING BACKS

McDougall steady, but not outstanding; recovered well from lackluster first half

RECEIVERS

Mayes' injury hurt, but they remained steady as a group

D-LINE

Opened big holes for the backs against an overmatched Middie line

O-LINE

Didn't play up to capabilities, giving Navy's Qb too much time to throw

LINEBACKERS

Steady, but not outstanding; recovered well from lackluster first half

SECONDARY

Missed assignments made Navy look like world beaters in first half

SPECIAL TEAMS

Decidedly adequate in rain, but kicking game left much to be desired

COACHING

Preparation was good enough to win, the real test awaits

FINAL SCORE

3-10 The Irish comes out as that Notre Dame remains undefeated as it prepares for its biggest test of the season against Florida State.

Kelsey from page 1

"Florida State will be on our minds from now on," Holtz said after Saturday's game. It's a game that has been on everybody's mind all season. And Notre Dame's improbable rise to No. 2 has made it bigger than anyone expected in August.

"We haven't been in a game of this magnitude for a long time," Holtz said.

Five years to exact. That's when the top-ranked Irish travelled to Los Angeles and neatly disposed of No. 2 USC on the way to the 1988 national championship.

The road to the title passes through South Bend this season. It's a cold path, but a familiar one.

"I really wish the game was in Tallahassee," Holtz said.

"When we played USC (in 1988) all the media was out in Los Angeles. It was great, we didn't even know we were playing a big game. For this game the media will be in (South Bend) early. It's going to be a circus."

Holtz is going to let his players escape the big top late this week and will not practice Friday-Sunday and many of them will have a chance to go home for the first time since late August.

"We (the coaches) will be working. There will be plenty of work to do the first week of practice."

And there will be plenty for the players to get a chance to relax when they return from their break.

Holtz will make sure they're prepared. When the Irish take the field on November 13, he won't flinch.

from page 1

McDougall hit Lake Dawson on 10 yard scoring strike. After holding Navy, the Irish took only three points and Edwards displayed some powerful running and some breakaway yards, which is an unusual asset on a 6-foot-2, 220 pound frame. "I didn't try to do anything spectacular, I just wanted to get the job done," he said.

Flashy freshmen Randy Kinder and Robert Handy didn't start, but Edwards' performance was more than adequate for much of his rookie season. But together they form the nucleus of Notre Dame's backfield of the future.

Against Navy, they showed a glimpse of what the future will be like. Kinder led the way with 108 yards on ten carries and Farmer added 77 yards on six carries.

But it was Edwards who stood Saturday. "I couldn't have been more pleased with the play of the three freshmen," Irish coach Lou Holtz said. "Don't get Marc Edwards just played a beautiful game. He played well without the ball and just did a yeoman's job stepping in for Zellars."

Navy's Brad Stramanak put the Irish in front with a 10 yard pass from Kubiak to Jimmy Screen. The second score was a 31 yard pass from Kubiak to Jimmy Screen. The second score was a 31 yard pass from Kubiak to Jimmy Screen. But it was Edwards who stood Saturday. "I couldn't have been more pleased with the play of the three freshmen," Irish coach Lou Holtz said. "Don't get Marc Edwards just played a beautiful game. He played well without the ball and just did a yeoman's job stepping in for Zellars."

Navy quarterback Jim Kubiak's pass didn't play like we thought today we might as well be playing in a snowstorm, Edwards said "If you don't think too much about high school, it won't do me any good here to reflect on that," Edwards said. "I think my actions and the team's actions speak for themselves. Everything is going great."

Win

The Observer/T.J. Harris

Irish tailback Lee Becton is sandwiched by two Middie defenders on a 220 yard run by Edwards. Edwards finished with 97 yards on 14 carries.

Marc Edwards plays a sensational game, said the Irish coach. "He turned in a yeoman's effort today."

McDougall returned to the starting role following a less than stellar performance against the University of Akron. Edwards, who scored three touchdowns and rushed for 97 yards on 14 carries.

"Marc Edwards played a sensational game," said the Irish coach. "He turned in a yeoman's effort today."
Notre Dame's Bryant Young chats briefly with USC quarterback Rob Johnson during the second half.
A new decade of dominance begins

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

It isn't a decade any more. Now, it is just a lot.

Notre Dame's 31-13 win over USC made it eleven straight Irish wins over the Trojans and continued to reduce the grandeur of college football's greatest intersectional rivalry.

In recent years, the game has turned into a nice contest between Notre Dame and... the opponent being either Purdue, Northwestern or, now, the Trojans.

"We have to get back to being the type of team Notre Dame is. We did it before and we can do it again," said USC head coach John Robinson. "We have to measure up against Notre Dame. And this is a good Notre Dame team. Seldom do you see a team as efficient as they were today."

On USC fans will babble about O.J. Simpson or Anthony Davis, but that was before current Notre Dame tailback Lee Becton was talking. All Becton knows is beating USC, or more specifically, running all over them.

The Irish were eight of eight on first down conversions in the opening half, scoring on all four of its first half possessions.

"I felt we had an outstanding first half offensively," said Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz. "We dominated the line of scrimmage."

Becton's run started the string of Irish scores. Freshman fullback Marc Edward's had a 2-yard scoring run on Notre Dame's first possession, and Jeff Burris followed with a one-yard touchdown.

After USC scored on a 15 yard catch by fullback Deon Strother from quarterback Rob Johnson, Notre Dame pushed their lead further. Burris hit tight end Johnny McWilliams for 100 yards and had one interception to go with his two scoring tosses.

"They play intelligent defense. They don't give up a lot of big plays, they are strong up front," said Holtz. "They don't give you anything easy or make any errors."

Taylor and Morton each rise to the challenge

By BRYAN CONNOLLY
Assistant Sports Editor

Prior to Notre Dame's match-up with Southern California, the stage was set for the duel between Trojan receiver Johnnie Morton and Irish cornerback Bobby Taylor.

As USC quarterback Rob Johnson's favorite target, Morton had been the Trojans' most dangerous weapon throughout the season. He was averaging eight receptions for 120 yards and one touchdown per game. He had already set five records this season for either Southern Cal or the PAC-10.

Through seven games this season he had caught at least six passes in six games and received for at least 100 yards in five games.

Knowing that USC head coach John Robinson preferred a running attack to the passing game, Morton trained hard in the off season to improve his skills and increase his value in the Trojan offense. As noted in last week's Sports Illustrated, he trained with the USC track squad in the spring and with James Lofton and world-class sprinter Bryan Bridgewater this summer in order to improve his speed.

Taylor, who is clearly Notre Dame's top coverage man, was challenged with the duty of shutting Morton down. The result was perhaps the fiercest one-on-one match-up that either team will witness this season.

Taylor dominated the duel through the first half. He allowed only two receptions for 11 yards in the first quarter and one reception for 16 yards in the second.

After being held without a catch in the third quarter, Morton exploded for 82 yards on three receptions in the fourth.

The match-up climaxed during USC's second drive of the fourth quarter, when Morton caught passes of 16 and 41 yards to march the Trojans to the Irish 14 yard line. The drive was ended, however, when Taylor intercepted a pass intended for Morton and returned it 47 yards to the Southern Cal 48 yard line.

"I thought we had some things in the middle for (Morton)," said USC head coach John Robinson. "He wasn't going to get an easy touchdown.

Although Morton was held slightly under his average with six receptions for 109 yards, praise for both him and Taylor was plentiful.

"I think Morton is an excellent receiver," said Irish head coach Lou Holtz. "But I thought Bobby Taylor did very, very well. I think Bobby Taylor and Jeff Burris played as well as any DB's around."

"They're a very good passing team," said Irish inside linebacker Pete Bereich. "Bobby did a great job. He's one of the best defensive backs in the country and I wouldn't trade him for anyone in the world."

"We knew we couldn't stop him totally," Taylor said. "We just tried to hold him to a minimum."
Professor Galmilow records the ideas of society on the big screen

By LARISA HERCZEG

The American Dream, the notion that with luck, timing, and a little ingenuity, anyone can move from the poor house to a mansion, is a modern day example of the idea of the American Dream. The movie covers with many new and important issues that arose in the 1980's as a result of the Solidarity movement in Poland. Galmilow said this is a "tough film to watch," not just because of the subject matter, but also because of the revolutionary technique she employed.

Departing from the traditional documentaries, "cinema verite," Galmilow created a film that demanded a class of its own. Galmilow was denied an entrance visa to Poland, and was forced to be especially creative to produce the film. The final product was a radical form of documentary, constructed from shots taken in America, long phone calls, and a few shots of actual events in Poland.

This challenge to traditional notions was not easy, Galmilow said. "I felt like I was re-inventing the wheel." The end result was a film which Galmilow contends is her favorite. "Far From Poland," was the most original. It entailed the biggest risk," she said.

Although currently in the middle of a large film, Galmilow's past years have been focused on smaller pieces and her teaching position at Notre Dame. While Notre Dame does not present the hustle-bustle of New York, its nature and students more than make up for many missing elements for Galmilow. The teaching of Intermediate and Advanced Film Making for the Department of Communications and Theater, COTF Chairwoman Jim Collins says she has "definitely enhanced the quality of student work." Among her finer qualities, Collins attributes her remarkable ability to relate to and criticize her students, who have gone on to some of the best film schools in the country.

Currently on leave of absence, Galmilow is excited about returning to Notre Dame. She believes Notre Dame enables her to justapose two of her favorite activities, teaching students and working on films.

Galmilow has done more than symbolize the American Dream. She has shared new and revolutionary ideas with the world through her films. She has made a name for herself by telling the stories of others, an idea that excites her."I like the idea of leaving pieces behind," she said. Galmilow quoted a line from Antonia. "It's a high right then, but when the last note is gone, it's disappeared. Vanished into thin air."

Ironically, Galmilow need never deal with this disappointment. Galmilow will always know that she has contributed to society in ways that will not be forgotten, be it by the issues her films raise, or her revolutionary style. Galmilow's great work will not easily vanish, but will endure to be appreciated for years to come.

Bringing the American dream to life

Cinema at the Snite

- November 2: Antonia/Janie's Janie 7:00, 42nd Street 9:00
- November 5: The Crying Game 7:30, 9:45
- November 8: Looker 7:00
- November 9: Two Laws 7:00, Young Mr. Lincoln 9:30
- November 12: Man on the Human Heart 7:30, 9:45
- November 13: Videodrome 7:00
- November 16: Waiting for Fidel 7:00, Mr. Smith Goes to Washington 9:00
- November 19: The Last Days of Che Guevara 7:30, 9:45
- November 22: Rules of the Game 7:00
- November 23: Far from Poland 7:00
- November 29: The Road Warrior 7:00, Hardware 9:00
- November 30: How to Live in Germany 7:00, New Voyager 9:00
- December 3: Menace II Society 7:30, 9:45
- December 6: Rome, Open City 7:00

For complete, up-to-date information on the film series, call the Film Hotline at 637-3671.

Individual admission to each film is $2.
Tuesday, November 2, 1993

The Observer • Classifiers

Classifieds

NOTICES

Typer

287-4642

Professional Typing

Documents, Form Papers

Reasonable Rates

277-1331

WOMEN ALTERNATIVES.

CALL 293-8644

LOST & FOUND

Very Lost. A small, black leather bag with a shoulder strap, that contains personal papers and instructions. Not sure where it could be. If you have seen it please call Brian at 232-7836.

GAINED

1977 . . . 9:04 PM

1. 2 roundtrip airfare outside N.

America for X-mas break.

Phone Schaefer at 232-4112.

BOB CALVERT

FOR RENT

BED IN BREAKFAST HOMES-NORTH COUNTY

(216) 391-7135

Seeking roommate to share house. $250/month, incl. all utilities.

Lake Home for Rent. Sleeps 6. Lake Home for a week. 232-5388.

FREE TRIPS & CASH

Call us and find out how hundreds of students are already earning free trips &

LOTS OF CASH FOR BOSTON COL-

GAMES NOW--supplies limited. Call Kathleen @ 254-9068.

9111

KIDDO'S

9:00 AM - 5:30 PM

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.

Amer. for X-mas break.
Swedes advance at French Open

By SALVATORE ZANCA

Associated Press

PARIS

Henri Leconte, in yet another comeback attempt, rallied to beat fellow Frenchman Thierry Champion, 6-7 (7-9), 7-5, 6-1 Monday in the first round of the Paris Open. Leconte was two points from losing then won nine of the last 10 games to overcome Champion. "I was making all the errors. I was really tense," Leconte said. "Then I got loose in the third set.'

Wayne Ferreira of South Africa
7-6 (7-1), 6-1

Three Russians also won. Andrei Olshovsky downed Frenchman Rodolphe Gilbert 7-6 (9-7), 6-7 (3-7), 6-0; Andrei Chesnokov topped Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland 7-6 (7-4), 6-3, and Andrei Cherkasov defeated Henrik Holm of Sweden 6-3, 6-3.

Also, Amos Mansdorf of Israel, the 1988 champion, beat Marcos Ondruska of South Africa 4-6, 6-4, 6-1; Malvai Washington downed Brett Steven of New Zealand 7-6 (4-2), 6-5, and Olivier Delaitre of France beat Richey Reneberg 6-4, 6-4. Courirer meets Gustafsson and Becker plays Olshovskiy on Tuesday.

Leconte led France to the Davis Cup over the United States in the 1991 final but has not played up to that form since. He has been plagued by back injuries and had a disc problem in the France loss to India in the quarterfinals in July.

He has gotten past the second round of only two tournaments this year — at a grass court event at Halle, Germany, that he won and to the quarterfinals at Wimbledon.

Leconte, ranked No. 84, needed a wild card to enter the main draw in this tournament. Champion, ranked No. 237, had to make it through the qualifications.

Leconte lost his service in the eighth game on three double faults and an unforced volley error. Then he evened it in the next game with brilliant shot-making.

In the tiebreaker, he had a set point at 7-6 but lost it with a forehand into the net.

Schott tearful after absence from Riverfront Stadium

By JOE KAY

Associated Press

CINCINNATI

Margaret Schott, the Cincinnati Reds' crude and grumpy owner, showed her employees another side Monday on her first day back on the job. She cried.

Schott was treated like a returning hero, not a chastised owner, when she drove up to her office at Riverfront Stadium for the first time in eight months. She hadn't been allowed inside during her suspension for using slurs.

Employees hung banners and balloons in the hallways, played "Hall to the Chief!" when Schott's car pulled up, and cheered as she walked her St. Bernard, Schuetze 02, into the team offices.

Schott wiped away tears during a singing telegram bought by the staff, and compared the reception to a World Series celebration.

"I don't know how they did all this," she said. "This was certainly something special."

Her first step into the office ended one of the inglorious in Reds' History and put Schott back in charge. She was allowed to be consulted on major financial matters during the suspension, but she couldn't make day-to-day decisions.

She said that was the hardest part of the suspension.

"I'm a hands-on owner," she said. "To be suddenly removed from it, it's very difficult."

Although employees treated her like a holiday, Schott was low-key. Asked whether she was better after the banishment, she said, "No, no. It's just something that's over and done, and get back to reality."

First, there was a party that surpassed Schott's expectations.

Schott said she was nervous when she got into her car Monday morning with the dog on the seat and turned onto an interstate that leads to the stadium.

"It's a very emotional time," she said.

She appeared to be taken aback when she pulled into her old parking space — she parked somewhere else during the suspension — and saw a makeshift red carpet lined with signs titled staff and fans.

Joyce Pfarr, her top assistant, gave her a sweater decorated with employers' names. Schott put it on, got a hug, and got past on the back as she walked through crying well-wishers.

Inside, she found banners and balloons everywhere. There was a cake, bouquets of roses and a musical toy that played, "Take Me Out To The Ballgame." Schott examined everything, tears occasionally flowing in her eyes.

"Of course, if I were a man, they couldn't do this, could they?" she said.

During her suspension, a local newspaper columnist completed a book about Schott that depicted her as a lightfooted tycoon despised by her employees. That's not the kind of reception she got.

To order your tickets for the weekly Beat The Clock Tuesday! Visit our Web site at www.papajohn's.com or call 1-800-PAPA-JOHN's.

IT'S BACK! Beat The Clock Tuesday!

5:00 p.m. - 7:30 p.m. Every Tuesday Price of Large 1 Topping Pizza is the time you call!
Volleyball continued from page 16 its west coast swing, losing two of three, both to ranked opponents. The roadtrip started on an ominous note, as the Irish barely ly escaping being ambushed by a determined Northern Arizona team, rallying from an 8-6 deficit in the fifth game to win
10-15, 15-12, 7-13, 15-12.

Stark proved to be the catalyst for the Irish, as the senior from Scottsdale, AZ made the trip a homecoming success, hitting 28 kills for a .330 percentage while adding 14 digs, and 10 blocks for her second triple-double of the season.

However, beating the Lady
Jacks turned out to be the highlight of the trip, as the Irish dropped their first back to back matches of the season at Arizona State and Arizona. Against the Sun Devils, Notre Dame's nine match winning streak came to a halt, as ASU

All-American Christine
Garner proved to be the difference in the contest, as the sophomore outside hitter dominated all areas, hitting for 28 kills with a .345 percentage while compiling 21 digs.

"We don't have a hitter like Christine Garner that can get a good swing off a bad set," stated Brown. "What we do have is a balanced attack and a lot of people that can do great things if they play within the system."

Brown's system starts with fundamentals, and it was there that the breakdown occurred.
Notre Dame had 16 service errors to only two aces, while hitting just .182. The one area that did not flier was defense, as the Irish amassed 112 digs, dep 3 by 3 Peters.

Notre Dame hit a season-low
.444, with 31 errors to only 33
kills. Only Stark reached double figures in kills, while also taking advantage of numerous
Irish errors.

Notre Dame hit a season-low
044, with 31 errors to only 33
kills. Only Stark reached double figures in kills, while also taking advantage of numerous
Irish errors.

Notre Dame hit a season-low
.444, with 31 errors to only 33
kills. Only Stark reached double figures in kills, while also taking advantage of numerous
Irish errors.

Notre Dame hit a season-low
044, with 31 errors to only 33
kills. Only Stark reached double figures in kills, while also taking advantage of numerous Irish errors. "Jay
Schroeder completes 17 of 31 passes, including one touchdown drive of the second half that could have set the tone for the Irish.

The Bengals blew a 12-7 lead at that point. Schroeder also overthrew wide-open receiver Wesley Carroll in the opening drive of the second half on what could have been a 55-yard scoring pass with the Bengals then leading, 9-7.

The Bengals blew a 12-7 lead and the Oilers ran off 21 consecutive points for a 28-12 vic-sory.

The Bengals plan practices on Wednesday and Thursday.
Shula said the team will concentrate mostly on practicing fundamental plays.

If Klingler is not practicing by next Wednesday, Schroeder would probably start against Pittsburgh.

Bengals to decide on Sunday's quarterback

Associated Press

CINCINNATI

The Cincinnati Bengals have a week off to think and mend, so coach Dave Shula won't say until next week whether injured starter David Klingler or backup Jay Schroeder will start Nov. 7 against Pittsburgh.

The Bengals (6-7) have a bye this week, and the resulting light practice schedule, it gives Klingler more time to heal his bruised lower back, which was aggravated when Cleveland
linebacker Clay Matthews sacked him during the
Oct. 17 loss to the Browns.

Schroeder, the former Washington and Los Angeles Raiders quarterback who signed as a free agent with the Bengals during the off-season, started
Sunday at Houston. He revived the Bengals' offense somewhat, but the bottom line was still the same: another loss.

Shula was noncommittal
Tuesday when asked who the starter will be for the Nov. 7 home game against the Steelers. Shula said only that he plans to announce his decision on Monday.

"Klingler, right now, isn't healthy enough to play," Shula said. "If we had a game this week, I don't know if he would be able to play."

"Jay did some good things in the ballgame."

Schroeder completed 17 of 31 passes, including one touchdown. Schroeder said the team will continue to make the necessary improvements.
Perles not counting Spartans out of the Big Ten race

By JUDY DAUBENMIER
Associated Press

EAST LANSING, Mich.
Three strikes and you’re out, not two, is how Michigan State coach George Perles figures this year’s Big Ten race.

Perles on Monday said it was a “loose question” to suggest that the Spartans’ two Big Ten losses mean the team has set to its sights on a bowl other than the Rose Bowl.

“I can’t answer your question because it’s a poor question because it isn’t a fact, what you stated,” he said when asked about the team possibly missing a trip to Pasadena because of Saturday’s 10-0 loss at Indiana.

Perles traditionally refuses to speculate about the conference race, saying he doesn’t “play what-if.” And he refused to say what he has told the team about their chances for postseason play.

“I just continue to work at our game and see what happens,” he said.

But he conceded Michigan State (4-3 overall, 2-2 in the Big Ten) can’t afford many more losses.

“We understand that we used up another strike,” he said. Defensive end Juan Hammonds said the Indiana game was a missed opportunity.

“We feel like we let one get away from us. We feel like that is one we should have won,” he said.

Indiana’s defense lived up to its billing as tops in the Big Ten, Perles said. The Hoosiers limited Michigan to 212 yards on the ground and 161 yards of total offense while shutting out the Spartans.

Perles said the play of the game was the 24-yard run by Indiana punter Jim DiGuilio after a high snap. That kept alive a drive that resulted in the game’s only touchdown — a 17-yard run by tailback Jermaine Chaney in the second quarter.

Michigan State will be looking for its fifth straight bowl win when it hosts Northwestern Saturday. Perles said he also will be looking for some cooperation from the fans in staying off the field.

Spartan fans rushed the field near the end of the Iowa game, resulting in a penalty. Perles said fans were lucky that didn’t result in the same kind of disaster as at Wisconsin Saturday when at least 69 people were injured as fans poured out of the stands and trampled those in front of them.

“Get pretty rough out there. If somebody would lose their footing, it could be a nasty situation,” he said.

Statistically speaking, Michigan State closes out the rest of its schedule with two or fewer conference losses. Michigan State closes with four teams that have a combined record of 15-16 overall and 6-13 in the Big Ten. That’s a league winning percentage of just .315.

Syracuse has the toughest road, playing teams with a combined 16-7 record and a 11-3 conference mark. That amounts to a .769 conference mark, far from its three remaining opponents.

Barker out indefinitely after spraining his left shoulder

By ANNE E. JUDY
Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich.
When the 1993 football season started, Michigan has a lot to play for.

The Wolverines were seeking a record sixth consecutive Big Ten championship, a record third straight trip to the Rose Bowl and a shot at a national championship.

Now after eight games, Michigan (4-4, 2-3 Big Ten) would be satisfied with any bowl bid.

“We’re playing for ourselves right now, not in a selfish manner but for Michigan football,” coach Gary Moeller said Monday at his weekly news conference. “This is an important time to decide who we are and what we are going to do.

If the Wolverines are to play in a postseason bowl game, they must win two of their remaining three games. Moeller said he is unsure Michigan deserves such recognition.

“We have to earn the right to go to a bowl game,” Moeller said two days after Michigan’s 13-10 loss to Wisconsin. “No one gives that to you. There’s no law that says you have to go to a bowl game. You have to earn it.”

The loss dropped then-No. 24 Michigan out of the Top 25 while vaulting Wisconsin (7-1, 4-1) from No. 21 to No. 15. If Michigan is to earn a bowl bid, it will need to get healthy.

The Wolverines have lost several inside linebackers to injuries this year and starters Steve Morrison and Bobby Powers are questionable for Saturday’s game against Purdue.

“Tailback Tyrone Wheatley, who missed the Wisconsin game with a shoulder injury, might return this weekend,” Moeller said.

If Wheatley is healthy, Moeller said he needs improvement from his offensive line.

Michigan’s vaunted running attack has struggled against Big Ten competition thus far and center Marc Milia probably will miss Saturday’s game with a neck injury.

The thing that concerns us and talking to the trainer this week, he doesn’t think (Barker) can take a good lick on that shoulder right now. It’s a little ahead of schedule.

Two other injured players, offensive lineman Jon Stevenson and safety Chris Donnelly, will return to practice this week, Stallings said, adding that the Tide came out of the Southern Miss game without any serious injuries.

The Crimson Tide (7-0-1 overall, 4-0-1 in the Southeastern Conference) already has clinched the Western Division title with three games remaining.

Alabama will meet the Eastern Division winner, either Tennessee or Florida, in the league championship game Dec. 4 at Birmingham.

Career and Volunteer Options With Nonprofit Organizations

The decision, the jobs, the challenges, the rewards.

Wednesday, November 3rd
4:00 -- 5:30 p.m.

The Center For Social Concerns

Mary Ann Roemer, The Center For Social Concerns

Judy Goobel, Career and Placement Services

the not for profit sector

arts humanities civic & public groups community services education environmental health care/health hospitals religion social services etc.

Sports Briefs

SportsTalk welcomes Linebacker Pete Bercich tonight at 8 p.m. on WYFI 640 AM. Call in with your questions and comments at 631-6400.

Irish Ice Club Hockey will be held on Thursday Nov. 4 at 10:40 p.m., Sunday Nov. 7 at 11:30-12:30 p.m., Thursday Nov. 11 at 10:40-11:30 p.m., Sunday Nov. 14 at 9-10:00 p.m. Please bring $5 to first scrimmage. New members welcome: Call Bob at x1950 or Pete at 273-5059 for more information.
Seniors seek success in final match at SMC

By CHERYL GILLILAND
Sports Writer

After travelling to Philadelphia over fall break, the Saint Mary's College volleyball team will be back in action on their home court tonight at 7 p.m. as they take on Goshen College for their home finale.

The Belles were victorious in the four games they played against division III schools in the Philadelphia area over fall break. Head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek was pleased with the team's success over fall break and is optimistic about tonight's game.

"Our spirits are real up after our successful break," Schroeder-Biek said. "Everyone got good playing time in, and we are very excited for this game."

The team is also in good spirit about tonight's game, which is parent's night and the last home game of the season.

"Going undefeated over break really boosted our confidence," said sophomore Ann Lawerence. "I think we're going to come in and be really tough against Goshen."

Schroeder-Biek mentioned that she is concerned about being rested up and ready to go after playing four games and travelling so much over fall break.

"We were a little down in the middle of the season, but we've come together in the end; especially after winning over October break," said Lawerence.

Senior Erica Freitag agreed, saying that the travelling throughout the season really made the team closer.

Last year, the Belles, who are currently 19-9, defeated Goshen College in tight games. Schroeder-Biek noted that Goshen is a very scrappy team that can chase the ball. "They are definitely a team that we can't sit back on," she commented.

Freitag also added that Goshen can pick up a lot of things and that the Belles need to play hard and not give up.

"I'm upset that this is my last home game in my last year, but I'm looking forward to playing," said Freitag. "I think that we have a really good chance of winning."

No. 3 Buckeyes prepare for the Badgers

By RUSTY MILLER
Associated Press

COLUMBUS

Coach John Cooper says he knows his third-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes are better than No. 15 Wisconsin going into their matchup Saturday.

It's just a question of proving it.

Asked at his weekly news conference if he felt his team was better than the Badgers, Cooper said: "I think we are, but I think that's you're still got to play. We can't let somebody be more mentally sure. But that means you've still got to play. We can't let them win."

The Buckeyes lost again to Michigan in the conference middle of the season, but we've gone 13-1-1 since.

"I thought we had a better football team than Penn State. Now that doesn't mean you're going to go out and win the game." Ohio State is 8-0 on the year and 5-0 in the Big Ten. Cooper said Ohio State's ability to concentrate on the opponent at hand has been the difference this season.

"We got to worry this week about Wisconsin only, don't worry about nothing else," he said.

"We haven't been 8-0 in a long time," said offensive lineman Jason Winrow. "Words can't express what that means. It'll be even sweeter next week when we're 9-0." After Wisconsin, the Buckeyes play Indiana and then Michigan in the conference finale. The Badgers beat Michigan 13-10 at home Saturday. After the game, 12,000 spectators swarmed the field and fences at the foot of the stands gave way. Seventy-five people were injured in the crush, 11 people were hospitalized.

Cooper said he didn't think the Wisconsin players, who helped remove some of the injured students, would be traumatized by what happened. Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez said Monday that some players had met with counselors on Sunday. "On other hand, you can turn that right around and say they're going to dedicate this game to those people," he said. Thousands of Ohio State fans also streamed onto the field after the victory over Penn State. Fans tried to tear down the goalposts, but state troopers subdued them with a chemical spray.

Cooper said the excitement of Ohio State fans pleased him. "I'm glad we're good enough to get 'em excited," he said.

The Belles are victorious in the four games they played against division III schools in the Philadelphia area over fall break. Head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek was pleased with the team's success over fall break and is optimistic about tonight's game.

"Our spirits are real up after our successful break," Schroeder-Biek said. "Everyone got good playing time in, and we are very excited for this game."

The team is also in good spirit about tonight's game, which is parent's night and the last home game of the season.

"Going undefeated over break really boosted our confidence," said sophomore Ann Lawerence. "I think we're going to come in and be really tough against Goshen."

Schroeder-Biek mentioned that she is concerned about being rested up and ready to go after playing four games and travelling so much over fall break.

"We were a little down in the middle of the season, but we've come together in the end; especially after winning over October break," said Lawerence.

Senior Erica Freitag agreed, saying that the travelling throughout the season really made the team closer.

Last year, the Belles, who are currently 19-9, defeated Goshen College in tight games. Schroeder-Biek noted that Goshen is a very scrappy team that can chase the ball. "They are definitely a team that we can't sit back on," she commented.

Freitag also added that Goshen can pick up a lot of things and that the Belles need to play hard and not give up.

"I'm upset that this is my last home game in my last year, but I'm looking forward to playing," said Freitag. "I think that we have a really good chance of winning."

No. 3 Buckeyes prepare for the Badgers

By RUSTY MILLER
Associated Press

COLUMBUS

Coach John Cooper says he knows his third-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes are better than No. 15 Wisconsin going into their matchup Saturday.

It's just a question of proving it.

Asked at his weekly news conference if he felt his team was better than the Badgers, Cooper said: "I think we are, but I think that's you're still got to play. We can't let somebody be more mentally sure. But that means you've still got to play. We can't let them win."

The Buckeyes lost again to Michigan in the conference middle of the season, but we've gone 13-1-1 since.

"I thought we had a better football team than Penn State. Now that doesn't mean you're going to go out and win the game." Ohio State is 8-0 on the year and 5-0 in the Big Ten. Cooper said Ohio State's ability to concentrate on the opponent at hand has been the difference this season.

"We got to worry this week about Wisconsin only, don't worry about nothing else," he said.

"We haven't been 8-0 in a long time," said offensive lineman Jason Winrow. "Words can't express what that means. It'll be even sweeter next week when we're 9-0." After Wisconsin, the Buckeyes play Indiana and then Michigan in the conference finale. The Badgers beat Michigan 13-10 at home Saturday. After the game, 12,000 spectators swarmed the field and fences at the foot of the stands gave way. Seventy-five people were injured in the crush, 11 people were hospitalized.

Cooper said he didn't think the Wisconsin players, who helped remove some of the injured students, would be traumatized by what happened. Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez said Monday that some players had met with counselors on Sunday. "On other hand, you can turn that right around and say they're going to dedicate this game to those people," he said. Thousands of Ohio State fans also streamed onto the field after the victory over Penn State. Fans tried to tear down the goalposts, but state troopers subdued them with a chemical spray.

Cooper said the excitement of Ohio State fans pleased him. "I'm glad we're good enough to get 'em excited," he said. No. 3 Buckeyes prepare for the Badgers

By RUSTY MILLER
Associated Press

COLUMBUS

Coach John Cooper says he knows his third-ranked Ohio State Buckeyes are better than No. 15 Wisconsin going into their matchup Saturday.

It's just a question of proving it.

Asked at his weekly news conference if he felt his team was better than the Badgers, Cooper said: "I think we are, but I think that's you're still got to play. We can't let somebody be more mentally sure. But that means you've still got to play. We can't let them win."

The Buckeyes lost again to Michigan in the conference middle of the season, but we've gone 13-1-1 since.

"I thought we had a better football team than Penn State. Now that doesn't mean you're going to go out and win the game." Ohio State is 8-0 on the year and 5-0 in the Big Ten. Cooper said Ohio State's ability to concentrate on the opponent at hand has been the difference this season.

"We got to worry this week about Wisconsin only, don't worry about nothing else," he said.

"We haven't been 8-0 in a long time," said offensive lineman Jason Winrow. "Words can't express what that means. It'll be even sweeter next week when we're 9-0." After Wisconsin, the Buckeyes play Indiana and then Michigan in the conference finale. The Badgers beat Michigan 13-10 at home Saturday. After the game, 12,000 spectators swarmed the field and fences at the foot of the stands gave way. Seventy-five people were injured in the crush, 11 people were hospitalized.

Cooper said he didn't think the Wisconsin players, who helped remove some of the injured students, would be traumatized by what happened. Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez said Monday that some players had met with counselors on Sunday. "On other hand, you can turn that right around and say they're going to dedicate this game to those people," he said. Thousands of Ohio State fans also streamed onto the field after the victory over Penn State. Fans tried to tear down the goalposts, but state troopers subdued them with a chemical spray.

Cooper said the excitement of Ohio State fans pleased him. "I'm glad we're good enough to get 'em excited," he said.

The Belles are victorious in the four games they played against division III schools in the Philadelphia area over fall break. Head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek was pleased with the team's success over fall break and is optimistic about tonight's game.

"Our spirits are real up after our successful break," Schroeder-Biek said. "Everyone got good playing time in, and we are very excited for this game."

The team is also in good spirit about tonight's game, which is parent's night and the last home game of the season.

"Going undefeated over break really boosted our confidence," said sophomore Ann Lawerence. "I think we're going to come in and be really tough against Goshen."

Schroeder-Biek mentioned that she is concerned about being rested up and ready to go after playing four games and travelling so much over fall break.

"We were a little down in the middle of the season, but we've come together in the end; especially after winning over October break," said Lawerence.

Senior Erica Freitag agreed, saying that the travelling throughout the season really made the team closer.

Last year, the Belles, who are currently 19-9, defeated Goshen College in tight games. Schroeder-Biek noted that Goshen is a very scrappy team that can chase the ball. "They are definitely a team that we can't sit back on," she commented.

Freitag also added that Goshen can pick up a lot of things and that the Belles need to play hard and not give up.

"I'm upset that this is my last home game in my last year, but I'm looking forward to playing," said Freitag. "I think that we have a really good chance of winning."

Over the course of the week, the Belles have been able to focus and use their competitive spirit to their advantage.

"It's just a question of proving it," Cooper said. "I've been working with the team to make sure they're ready."
Men capture first MCC soccer title

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Writer

The No. 21 Notre Dame men's soccer team clinched its first regular-season title in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference Sunday with its 4-0 victory over LaSalle. The Irish were able to overcome the elements as they put constant pressure on the Explorer defense, tallying 17 shots on goal and eight corner kicks compared to only five shots and no corners for LaSalle. The scoring opened only 19.32 into the game, when Tim Oates put a shot past Explorer goalie Tom Gallagher off a Chris Dean pass to give Notre Dame a 1-0 lead. Sophomore Bill Lanza increased the lead to 2-0 just over ten minutes later, scoring off assists from Oates and junior Keith Carlson. Oates gave the Irish a 3-0 halftime lead when he scored with just .42 to play in the half off a Lanza pass. Following his five point performance Sunday, Oates, a junior, has climbed into the Notre Dame all-time scoring list, now holding 15th place with 60 career points. "Tim Oates always seems to be at the right spot at the right time," said junior teammate Jason Fox. Fox contributed to the Irish scoring at the 66.04 mark when he assisted on a Keith Carlson goal to give the Fighting Irish a 4-0 victory. Junior goaltender Bert Bader needed to record only one save in his 253rd career shutout, the ninth on the season for the Irish.

Notre Dame finished the season with a 5-1 conference record and will enjoy the first round bye in the conference tournament starting Thursday. The Irish finished the season with a 13-5 mark and a .722 winning percentage. The head coach Mike Berticelli has enjoyed by the November 1 mark since taking the helm after leaving Old Dominion.

Notre Dame squared off against Berticelli's old team on October 26, but the rain and stiff winds helped to slow the Irish attack, as the Monarchs prevailed 4-1. "I thought we played well for the whole match," commented Berticelli after the game. "Anything but a happy epitome and it did, just not in our favor." Though they had only ten shots on goal compared to 17 for Old Dominion, the Irish countered with a 28-10 advantage in shots and no corners for LaSalle.

Though the Irish were resoundingly victorious in their victory, they know that they have to improve if they wish to advance in the tournament. "It was a very good team effort all the way around," commented assistant coach Tim Schlitz. "Everyone on the floor worked very hard all the way through the match, and I was pleased to see that type of effort from all our players.

Notre Dame was never seriously threatened in the match, allowing the Aces to lift the score only once. The Irish also gave a preview of seven more to come, as a combination of the four eligible freshmen (Erin Jenny Birkner, Jen Briggs, and Laura Beckmeyer), Peters, and sophomore setter Shannon Tuttle dominated the final game of the match, hitting a .529 as a group. The Irish success against the MCC came at a necessary time, as the team comes up short in their opening tournament.

Irish boost conference record against Butler and Evansville

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Associate Sports Editor

Coming off two disappointing losses to No. 17 Arizona State and No. 18 Arizona, the Notre Dame volleyball team rebounded quickly against conference opponents Butler and Evansville, jumping out to a 2-0 conference record and taking the inside track to a third consecutive MCC crown.

In improving its record to 19-5, the Irish were able to dominate a Butler team that had been viewed as its toughest test in the conference, defense to dominance by the Bulldogs. "It was a very good team effort all the way around," commented assistant coach Tim Schlitz. "Everyone on the floor worked very hard all the way through the match, and I was pleased to see that type of effort from all our players.

Butler needed to record only one save in its 253rd career but failed. The Irish went on to score all 15 of the team's points. "It was a very good team effort all the way around," commented assistant coach Tim Schlitz. "Everyone on the floor worked very hard all the way through the match, and I was pleased to see that type of effort from all our players.

The Irish were able to utilize many different combinations in getting experience for the upcoming matches, as seven different hitters posted a kill for the Irish, led by 12 from Peters, eight from Stark, and seven from increasingly improved freshman outside hitter Kristina Ervin, who also registered seven digs.

"It was a very good team effort all the way around," commented assistant coach Tim Schlitz. "Everyone on the floor worked very hard all the way through the match, and I was pleased to see that type of effort from all our players.

The Irish success against the MCC came at a necessary time, as the team comes up short in their opening tournament.