Security hopes for clear field after game

By ROLANDO DE AGUIAR
Voice/News Editor

Jill Burdo couldn't breathe. "People started tripping over me, and my shoulders got pinned to the ground," she says today. "Then the dizziness started. I thought that my head was going to explode. There was no way for me to get oxygen into my system."

Burdo was almost crushed on a football field after the team she was rooting for had scored a big win. But that field was not in Wisconsin, and her team was not the Badgers.

"I had resigned myself," she says. "But then the weight began to lift."

Burdo, who graduated from Saint Mary's last May, suffered numerous injuries, including bruised ribs and broken capillaries in her eyes. Those wounds were temporary. But though she used to have no problem with crowds, she's now terribly claustrophobic.

And she couldn't bear coming back to Notre Dame for this weekend's matchup with Florida State.

"I had considered coming to the game, but after I heard what happened at Wisconsin, I decided to stay put," she says. "When the story comes on the TV news, I just can't watch."

Though the tape is difficult to sift through, what happened in Madison, Wisc., has opened everyone's eyes to the dangers of the big win.

Coverage of the incident, and the accompanying criticism leveled at the stadium security force and Wisconsin students, blanketed U.S. sports coverage for the better part of a week.

Seventy students were taken to the hospital, 13 injured critically, in the rush following Wisconsin's 13-10 victory over Michigan.

Many members of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's communities immediately saw the possibility of a similar situation if Notre Dame beat Florida State this weekend. But Notre Dame Security has been making safety preparations since before the incident in Madison.

"It was ironic," said Director of Security Rex Rakow. "I had a preliminary meeting the Thursday before the Wisconsin game with everyone, from the Athletic Department to South Bend Police, to Student Affairs."

"From that meeting, we tried to coordinate our efforts. We reviewed what problems we'd had at this stadium before."

These problems included similar rushes to the field, as occurred after Notre Dame's 1990 victories over Michigan and Miami, as well as last year's Penn State debacle, during which some Notre Dame students tried to tear down the goalpost in the north end zone.

Rakow's first concern is keeping the Notre Dame student section from rushing the field if the Irish win the game. Announcements will be made throughout the game urging spectators to enjoy the post-game celebration from the bleachers.

CSC continues volunteer services

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Saint Mary's Editor

Plans for a full-time service center on the Saint Mary's campus are stalled until student opinion can be measured and the logistics of funding the project can be determined.

The proposed center would be a collaborative effort between the College and the Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Cross.

With normal space and a staff of both sisters and students, the Saint Mary's Christian Service Center (SMSC) will bring continuance and effectiveness to campus service effort, according to Sister Miriam Cooney, a member of the planning group for the center.

"If you look at Notre Dame's Center for Social Concerns it is very clear what we lack, a place and a staff," Cooney said.

Members of the planning group indicated that a service center at Saint Mary's is important, not just for the sake of having a center, but because it is consistent with the Catholic mission and the College's mission.

The planning group, which Security continues volunteer services

By MYRNA MALONEY
News Writer

The Notre Dame Center for Social Concerns, only in the minds of students and professors in 1979, is now the headquarters for more than 30 national and international student volunteer organizations.

"The Center was originally established to provide a central location for the various Notre Dame service groups which had separate and minimal office space on campus."

"A strong emphasis has always been placed on social service at ND, according to University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh, and Notre Dame has shown throughout its history that service is a central part of higher education."

Hesburgh recalled that only one or two students out of the 3,000 in the student body set aside time for service in 1934.

The Observer/Jake Peters

FRIDAY

3:00 p.m. Pre-game pep rally gathering, Morris Inn patio
4:00 p.m. Congressman Tim Roemer speaks, Center for Social Concerns
4:00 p.m. Swimming, Notre Dame vs. Florida State, Rio's Aquatic Center steps
5:45 p.m. Marching band rehearsal, Administration Building steps
6:45 p.m. Band step-off for pep rally, Band Building
7:00 p.m. Pep rally, Joyce Athletic & Convocation Center, Gate 6A

SATURDAY

7:30 a.m. Band rehearsal, step-off at Loftus Sports Center
9:00 a.m. Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Holy Cross Alumni Hospitality Center, JACC
9:00 a.m. Pre-game tailgate party and grill, Morris Inn patio
9:30 a.m. Alcohols Anonymous meeting, Center for Social Concerns
11:30 a.m. Pre-game tailgate party and grill, Morris Inn patio
11:30 a.m. Glee club concert, JACC North Dome
11:30 a.m. Mass, Sacred Heart Crypt
12:00 p.m. Shenandoah performance, JACC North Dome
12:00 p.m. Band concert, Administration Building steps
12:45 p.m. Band step-off, Administration Building
1:15 p.m. Pre-game performance, Notre Dame Stadium
1:35 p.m. Football kickoff, Notre Dame vs. Florida State, Notre Dame Stadium
1:35 p.m. Law School alumni reception, Law School lounge after game Law School alumni reception, Law School lounge after game Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Holy Cross all-class reunion, JACC
4:30 p.m. Visits Mass, Basilica of the Sacred Heart
7:00 p.m. "Black images" variety show, Washington Hall

SUNDAY

6:00, 7:00, 8:00, 9:30, 11:30 a.m. Mass, Crypt Parish Church
9:30, 10:00, 11:45 a.m. Mass, Basilica of the Sacred Heart
10:00 a.m. Mass, St. Joseph's Chapel, Holy Cross College observe the news...

Lou won't give up the pot of gold

That leprechaun doing goofy things again.

He's just some senior who's grown a beard, because mum and dad always told him not to. For some reason, he always enjoys dressing in Kelly green and jumping around in end zones from Trinity to Pasadena. But he doesn't have a pot of gold.

Look down the sideline, about fifty yards. Now there's a real leprechaun.

He's the little guy down there. No, not Rudy Iliartinger. The other little guy, the one-looking blonde wearing the baseball cap.

His name's Lou. And he's the luckiest leprechaun this side of Larry Pinkston.

Lou's a cynical codger, as leprechauns tend to be. He doesn't smile much, even when his team is 9-0 and second-ranked. He doesn't have much to say about anyone, any game, except the Irish are facing that particular week. Most of his jokes are self-deprecat­ing, and his wry wit leaves everyone convinced that he's not quite from this world.

When he spits out those jokes, he lips. That's because he's trying to hide his County Cork brogue. He learned that country drawl from Bobby Bowden back in Tallahassee. Bobby uses the same kind of accent to hide that he, too, is a supernatural creature. Unfortunately for Florida State, he's not quite as lucky as Lou.

The leprechaun smokes a shillelagh of a pipe, when he's not down at Bobby Bowden Park. It's his second pot of gold. If Lou were sitting in a pub in Dublin, he'd be hoisting a pint of Guinness with two hands.

But he's all right as long as he stays in South Bend. And that's Kentucky. If he steps out of South Bend, he's got to be an Irishman.

Even without "Under the Tarnished Dome," we know that Lou's got a nasty leprechaun's temper. Most little guys do. He'll tell anyone what he thinks about his or her shenanigans.

But he's all right as long as he stays in South Bend. And that's Kentucky. If he steps out of South Bend, he's got to be an Irishman.

When he's coaching, Lou walks down that sideline like someone is trying to catch him.

There's a reason: the bad guys are trying to get his pot of gold.

He gets a new one every season. In the old days, he'd have ordered the to go. Today, he's happy for the pot of gold option when they signed Notre Dame's $35-million television contract.

If his team beats Florida State this weekend, Lou's team moves up a notch in the polls closer to delivering another pot of gold to the Irish faithful.

He did it in 1988, when everyone thought that Notre Dame would win every game. He had the Irish to a conference title in 1980.

Lou has been a head coach for twenty years. He's had his pot of gold.

He's got that lucky streak. Leprachauns need to stay in business. Lou's teams have already won more games than most coaches.

Lucky for them, he's not quite as lucky as Lou.

The leprechaun doing goofy things again.

He's just some senior who's grown a beard, because mum and dad always told him not to. For some reason, he always enjoys dressing in Kelly green and jumping around in end zones from Trinity to Pasadena. But he doesn't have a pot of gold.

Look down the sideline, about fifty yards. Now there's a real leprechaun.

He's the little guy down there. No, not Rudy Iliartinger. The other little guy, the one-looking blonde wearing the baseball cap.

His name's Lou. And he's the luckiest leprechaun this side of Larry Pinkston.

Lou's a cynical codger, as leprechauns tend to be. He doesn't smile much, even when his team is 9-0 and second-ranked. He doesn't have much to say about anyone, any game, except the Irish are facing that particular week. Most of his jokes are self-deprecat­ing, and his wry wit leaves everyone convinced that he's not quite from this world.

When he spits out those jokes, he lips. That's because he's trying to hide his County Cork brogue. He learned that country drawl from Bobby Bowden back in Tallahassee. Bobby uses the same kind of accent to hide that he, too, is a supernatural creature. Unfortunately for Florida State, he's not quite as lucky as Lou.

The leprechaun smokes a shillelagh of a pipe, when he's not down at Bobby Bowden Park. It's his second pot of gold. If Lou were sitting in a pub in Dublin, he'd be hoisting a pint of Guinness with two hands.

But he's all right as long as he stays in South Bend. And that's Kentucky. If he steps out of South Bend, he's got to be an Irishman.

Even without "Under the Tarnished Dome," we know that Lou's got a nasty leprechaun's temper. Most little guys do. He'll tell anyone what he thinks about his or her shenanigans.

But he's all right as long as he stays in South Bend. And that's Kentucky. If he steps out of South Bend, he's got to be an Irishman.

When he's coaching, Lou walks down that sideline like someone is trying to catch him.

There's a reason: the bad guys are trying to get his pot of gold.

He gets a new one every season. In the old days, he'd have ordered the to go. Today, he's happy for the pot of gold option when they signed Notre Dame's $35-million television contract.

If his team beats Florida State this weekend, Lou's team moves up a notch in the polls closer to delivering another pot of gold to the Irish faithful.

He did it in 1988, when everyone thought that Notre Dame would win every game. He had the Irish to a conference title in 1980.

Lou has been a head coach for twenty years. He's had his pot of gold.

He's got that lucky streak. Leprachauns need to stay in business. Lou's teams have already won more games than most coaches.

Lucky for them, he's not quite as lucky as Lou.
ND professor awarded

Arvind Varma, Schmitt professor of chemical engineering at Notre Dame, has been named recipient of the R.H. Wilhelm Award in Chemical Reaction Engineering by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers (AIChE). Varma, a Notre Dame faculty member since 1975, conducts analytic reaction engineering and advanced materials synthesis.

In honor of the heroic departed

Distinguished guests shown here at yesterday’s Veterans’ Day retreat ceremony are, left to right, Gen. Donald Fogleman, Col. and Mrs. Thomas Moe, Father Oliver Williams, and Col. Taylor.

Video outlines NCAA regulations

By JOHN LUCAS

In an effort to better educate Notre Dame student and alumni athletes on National Collegiate Athletic Association regulations, the Alumni Association, with the Athletic Department, has produced an 18-minute video giving an overview of these policies.

"The athletic director and administration decided that there had to be another way to promote the educating of student athletes and alumni about NCAA rules," said Mike Karwoski, the athletic department's NCAA compliance assistant.

The video, which is the first of its kind in the nation, outlines NCAA rules regarding eligibility, drug testing, financial aid, and contact with alumni.

The video will gain a better sense of what it is like to be an athlete at Notre Dame, as well as what they can and cannot do, Karwoski said.

Although the Alumni Association already produces a pamphlet entitled "Contact Is Prohibited," the video was an effort to enhance alumni awareness about what kind of contacts with student-athletes are impermissible, said Alumni Association representative Peter Pranica Pranica, producer of the video.

"Our motto here is 'We’re only one alumni away from a major scandal,'" Pranica said. "The video will gain a better way of educating our alumni education.

We want to do the best job we can educating our boosters," he said. "The status quo is not enough – we always want to take education to the next level."}

Instead of merely reading off the rules, one by one, the video combines the education aspect with music and highlights from Notre Dame sports, as well as statements by Notre Dame coaches.

In representing several different athletic programs, the film features past and present Notre Dame athletes Ed Hartwell, Matthew Osiiecki, Iken Coyo, and Tim Bude each emphasizing aspects of the life of a student-athlete.

In the past, Assistant Athletic Director Missy Conboy spent an hour with each varsity team, outlining and reviewing the procedures and regulations of the NCAA.

The process was "boring" for many student-athletes, Karwoski said. "The video goes quicker, is more interesting, and sinks in better," he added.

Syracuse, Florida State, and the NCAA, as well, have received copies of the video, and are interested in implementing the format to enhance their alumni education.

Meet Author

Murray Sperber

Friday, Nov. 12th
2:00 to 3:30
Saturday, Nov. 13th
10:00 to 12:00
Will autograph New Book

“Shake Down the Thunder”

Hammer Notre Dame Bookstore

Hours: Friday Nov. 12th
9 to 7
Saturday, Nov. 13th
8 to 6

THINKING ABOUT A COURSE FOR SPRING?

WOMEN’S VOICES FROM THE GRECO-ROMAN PAST

Prof. Liz Forbis, Dept. of Classical and Oriental Languages

Tues.-Thurs. 2:45-4:00 p.m.

Classics 359 · English 315

Gender Studies 359 ·
75 years later, World War I armistice commemorated

By PATRICK MCDOWELL
Associated Press

He was chosen from thousands of nameless dead, victims of machine guns, artillery explosions and poison gas who littered the horrific battlefields of the Somme in World War I.

Australia exhumed him from a cemetery in northern France last week and buried him in his homeland on Thursday, the 75th anniversary of the armistice that brought World War I to an end.

The Australian soldier was 18 years old when he died in World War I. The soldier's remains were listed as missing until 1989. By 1993, authorities had recovered 10,000 remains of soldiers from World War I who had been killed in a forest north of Paris, where the cease-fire was signed in a railroad car by the Allied victors and defeated Germany.

"Peace is never fully won," Ballardier said. "It can only be the fruit of unceasing work."

Earlier, President Francois Mitterrand knelt at the tomb of France's unknown soldier at the Arc de Triomphe. France lost 1.3 million men in the war, or one in six of those who fought in World War I. About 10,000 are still alive.

In France, Prime Minister Edouard Balladur laid a wreath at Armitage Cemetery in a forest north of Paris, where the cease-fire was signed in a railroad car by the Allied victors and defeated Germany.

WORLDS A WAT

WASHINGTON President Clinton, a college-age cousin of the Vietnam War veteran who served in World War I, saluted American veterans Thursday and said the United States must never shrink from what's necessary to "keep our nation secure and our people prosperous."

Beginning with a breakfast for leaders of veterans' groups in the East Room and ending with a visit to a veterans' hospital in West Virginia, Clinton de­ voted the day to paying homage to those who served in the mili­tary.

"A grateful nation remem­bers," the president said at Arlington National Cemetery after placing a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns. He called attention to the presence of 17 Army Rangers who took part in the fire fight in Somalia in which 18 Americans were killed Oct. 3.

Praising their "great ability, success and unbelievable valor," Clinton said, "We are proud of them." The audience stood and applauded.

Clinton later visited the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Martinsburg, W. Va., and said America can pay part of its debt to veterans by assuring them compassionate care under his national plan.

"We know we have a moral obligation to protect their secu­rity," Clinton said. "I wanted to come here to this hospital today to drive that point home."

Clinton's relations with the military, strained by his avoid­ance of the draft as a young man, were aggravated by his efforts to lift the ban on homo­sexuals. With the end of the Cold War, he also has had to oversee a shrinking of military forces and cutbacks in military spending.

He also said he had fulfilled his pledge to declassify virtually all documents related to Americans missing in action or held as prisoner in Vietnam.

"We are being asked to de­cide whether we will maintain the high state of readiness that stood behind our victory or fru­ter away the seed corn of our security," he said.

He also said the nation is be­ing "asked whether we will swell the global tide of freedom by promoting democracy and open world markets." A timely reference as the House nears a hard-fought vote on the North American Free Trade Agreement.

"To honor those who served in Europe and Korea and Vietnam and the Persian Gulf, in scores of posts at home and abroad, let us today resolve we will not shrink from the re­sponsibilities necessary to keep our nation secure and our peo­ple prosperous," the president said.

Clinton says keep our nation secure

"Voted Best Bed & Breakfast in Michiana!"

Need the Perfect Gift
Idea or Getaway?
May we suggest,

The Beiger Mansion Inn & Fables Gallery
Get away or get a gift certificate. Stay in one of our luxury rooms, lunch in our tearoom, enjoy a fabulous Saturday night dinner in our State dining room, or select a work of art from Fables Gallery. Gift certificates available in any dollar amount. Plan now for a birthday, an anniversary, a honeymoon, or just to say "I love you."

LINCHEN Tuesday thru Saturday
11:00 A.M. - 2:00 P.M.
(219) 256-0365 • 317 Lincoln Way East • Mishawaka, Indiana 46544

OPEN Sundays
9 A.M. - 5 P.M.

DINNER
Saturday evenings only
6:00 P.M. - 9:00 P.M.

Ribs & Chicken Buffet
ALL YOU CAN EAT!
From 8 a.m. - 3 p.m. on Saturday!
ONLY $10

GO IRISH!
BEAT FSU!
Voices of Faith gospel choir presents annual winter concert

By KENYA JOHNSON
Acorn Editor

This Sunday a different form of praise will occur as Voices of Faith gospel choir presents their annual winter concert, "Why We Sing," at Washington Hall at 7 p.m.

The choir has spent the past semester preparing for the concert. With two-hour practices every Friday and engagements for the life band, including two keyboard players, a drummer, a konga player, a saxophonist and a bassist, will assist them.

"This concert is going to be very different," said co-director Thomas Steele. "We put a lot of energy, devotion and time into it and I believe everything will be successful. Anyone who comes out will truly enjoy themselves — by listening to our music and joining in our praise."

During intermission, the choir will conduct a raffle. The 45-member choir has been selling tickets for $2 each since the beginning of the year. Walker estimates that over 100 have been sold already, the majority of which were sold before home football games. Raffle tickets will also be sold at the door and winners will be announced towards the end of intermission.

Prizes include a VCR, Sega Genesis and movie passes. Winners do not have to be present to retrieve their prize. Also available for the first time are Voices of Faith t-shirts. These will be sold at the door of Washington Hall as well as for $12 ($14 for XXL).

The raffle and t-shirts are just a few of many additions Voices of Faith has made this year. This year marks the first for the choir's Faith and Unity retreat. "I believe the retreat had really made a difference," said Walker. "We stressed cooperation and involvement, had intense prayer and emotional bonding. We really united as a choir and that made us strong in our overall performance."

With 40 participants this year, co-director Sharmen Swinton hopes it will become tradition, attracting even more members. "We were able to see each other in a different light and deal with each other on a different level," Swinton said. "We were able to solely focus on ourselves, as individuals and as a group."

Swinton said she can sense a difference in the choir since the retreat but that it's hard to say if they have been so hectic for the concert, that the success may not be immediately apparent.

"Although we are really busy and anxious right now, I know the efforts of the retreat have made things go smoothly," she said.

The members of the choir will be working harder for their tour in the spring of 1994. With the help of alumni associations in various areas of the south, Voices of Faith will perform at churches and colleges in places such as Baton Rouge and New Orleans, Louisiana, Jackson, Mississippi and Memphis, Tennessee.

"Why We Sing" is an appropriate theme song for this year according to Steele. "This year we are stressing the fact that we are not here solely to entertain, but to deliver God's words through singing. Many people don't understand gospel singing is another form of praise. We invite everyone in the Notre Dame community to enjoy and participate in the concert."

Tickets will be sold at the doors $3 for students and $5 for general admission.

Professors installed in chairs

Two Notre Dame professors were installed in endowed faculty chairs and one chair was inaugurated during ceremonies Monday of this week.

Baino Vayrynen was installed as John M. Regan, Jr., director of the Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies. He has done extensive research on nuclear weapons, military industrialization, international political economy, conflict resolution and the role of regionalism. Vayrynen holds a doctorate in political science from the University of Tampere and he assumed directorship of the Tampere Peace Research Institute in 1972.

Seamus Deane was installed as Donald and Marilyn Kough professor of Irish studies, a chair inaugurated Onday at the ceremony. Widely considered the world's foremost scholars of Irish culture and literature, Deane was educated at Queen's University in Belfast and at Cambridge University.

Marilyn Mulhall Kough is a graduate of Duchesne College and Academy of the Sacred Heart. She has been active in volunteer work all of her life, including Junior League, Forward Arts of Atlanta, and Spelman College.

The Finest of Quality
WHOLESALE JEWELRY

Diamonds large & small, 10.814 K. Italian gold, Custom design

272-4200
BUY • SELL • TRADE • REPAIRS

University Commons, State Road, 23, South Bend, Indiana

COPELAND BOVEE PRODUCTIONS

presents

JOHN DENSMORE
Riding On The Storm:
The Doors, The Sixties, & Now

Wednesday, Nov. 17, 1993 7:00 p.m.
Morrison Civic Auditorium
28 North Michigan Street, South Bend

An eclectic night of private film footage, conversation, and live music with John Densmore, founding member and drummer for THE DOORS

Reserved Seating $12
Tickets available at MORRIS CIVIC BOX OFFICE and usual area outlets or by PHONE at 235-9190 or 1-800-537-6415

DOORS fans!
Stay after for a free booksigning reception & MEET JOHN DENSMORE

The Beverly Hillbillies

2:00, 4:45, 7:00, 9:15

The Nightmare Before Christmas
3:00, 5:00, 7:00, 9:00

Scottsdale 6
Scottrade Mall • 397-4831

Demolition Man
7:30, 10:00

Robocop 3
2:00, 4:30

The Three Musketeers in Association with Camel Pack
2:00, 4:30, 7:15, 9:45

Look Who's Talking Now
1:30, 3:30, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30

J ohn Travolta

Rudy

Rudy

Rudy

Jean Astin

Ned Beatty
Security

continued from page 1

"I'm really concerned about what will happen after the game, especially if people in the higher rows start pushing forward," said Rakow, confident that the Irish will dump the first-ranked Seminoles, but apparently unsure that Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students will act mature enough to keep themselves off the field when that happens. "Unlike Wisconsin, we've got this brick wall around the field to contend with."

Many of the injured people in Madison were crushed against a thick iron railing which eventually collapsed under the weight of the crowd. At Notre Dame stadium, a three-foot high railing separates the crowd from the playing field. "Basically we tried to prevent students from coming over the wall against Penn State," said head usher Art James. "But sometimes it's better that they just got to the field."

Rakow acknowledges that a flood of people to the field is a much better alternative than a sea of bodies crushed against the wall. But he wants to make sure that students stay in their seats in the first place.

"We can't hold back 6,000 people," said Rakow. "But we are going to have a lot of ushers and police convincing people not to leave the stands."

If fans get to the field, though, the north end zone's post might be their next goal. Tearing down the goalposts after a big win is a tradition which has lately become deadly. Goalposts today can easily kill anyone stuck beneath them. According to Rakow, two people have been killed beneath collapsing goalposts, and dozens injured, during the last ten years.

In case fans do climb down to the field, Rakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. Hakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. "I'm really concerned about people having easy access to the field for the first time," said Hakow. "We can't hold back the crowd, but we can prevent them from making a bigger rush, after a bigger game, the outcome might be worse than it was for anyone at Wisconsin, or for Jill Burdo."

"I'm sorry it took Wisconsin to make people realize that people can be hurt," says Burdo. "This isn't a once-in-a-lifetime event. It happens too often."

Sorin

"I'm really concerned about what will happen after the game, especially if people in the higher rows start pushing forward," said Rakow, confident that the Irish will dump the first-ranked Seminoles, but apparently unsure that Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students will act mature enough to keep themselves off the field when that happens. "Unlike Wisconsin, we've got this brick wall around the field to contend with."

Many of the injured people in Madison were crushed against a thick iron railing which eventually collapsed under the weight of the crowd. At Notre Dame stadium, a three-foot high railing separates the crowd from the playing field. "Basically we tried to prevent students from coming over the wall against Penn State," said head usher Art James. "But sometimes it's better that they just got to the field."

Rakow acknowledges that a flood of people to the field is a much better alternative than a sea of bodies crushed against the wall. But he wants to make sure that students stay in their seats in the first place.

"We can't hold back 6,000 people," said Rakow. "But we are going to have a lot of ushers and police convincing people not to leave the stands."

If fans get to the field, though, the north end zone's post might be their next goal. Tearing down the goalposts after a big win is a tradition which has lately become deadly. Goalposts today can easily kill anyone stuck beneath them. According to Rakow, two people have been killed beneath collapsing goalposts, and dozens injured, during the last ten years.

In case fans do climb down to the field, Rakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. Hakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. "I'm really concerned about people having easy access to the field for the first time," said Hakow. "We can't hold back the crowd, but we can prevent them from making a bigger rush, after a bigger game, the outcome might be worse than it was for anyone at Wisconsin, or for Jill Burdo."

"I'm sorry it took Wisconsin to make people realize that people can be hurt," says Burdo. "This isn't a once-in-a-lifetime event. It happens too often."

Security

continued from page 1

"I'm really concerned about what will happen after the game, especially if people in the higher rows start pushing forward," said Rakow, confident that the Irish will dump the first-ranked Seminoles, but apparently unsure that Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students will act mature enough to keep themselves off the field when that happens. "Unlike Wisconsin, we've got this brick wall around the field to contend with."

Many of the injured people in Madison were crushed against a thick iron railing which eventually collapsed under the weight of the crowd. At Notre Dame stadium, a three-foot high railing separates the crowd from the playing field. "Basically we tried to prevent students from coming over the wall against Penn State," said head usher Art James. "But sometimes it's better that they just got to the field."

Rakow acknowledges that a flood of people to the field is a much better alternative than a sea of bodies crushed against the wall. But he wants to make sure that students stay in their seats in the first place.

"We can't hold back 6,000 people," said Rakow. "But we are going to have a lot of ushers and police convincing people not to leave the stands."

If fans get to the field, though, the north end zone's post might be their next goal. Tearing down the goalposts after a big win is a tradition which has lately become deadly. Goalposts today can easily kill anyone stuck beneath them. According to Rakow, two people have been killed beneath collapsing goalposts, and dozens injured, during the last ten years.

In case fans do climb down to the field, Rakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. Hakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. "I'm really concerned about people having easy access to the field for the first time," said Hakow. "We can't hold back the crowd, but we can prevent them from making a bigger rush, after a bigger game, the outcome might be worse than it was for anyone at Wisconsin, or for Jill Burdo."

"I'm sorry it took Wisconsin to make people realize that people can be hurt," says Burdo. "This isn't a once-in-a-lifetime event. It happens too often."

Security

continued from page 1

"I'm really concerned about what will happen after the game, especially if people in the higher rows start pushing forward," said Rakow, confident that the Irish will dump the first-ranked Seminoles, but apparently unsure that Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students will act mature enough to keep themselves off the field when that happens. "Unlike Wisconsin, we've got this brick wall around the field to contend with."

Many of the injured people in Madison were crushed against a thick iron railing which eventually collapsed under the weight of the crowd. At Notre Dame stadium, a three-foot high railing separates the crowd from the playing field. "Basically we tried to prevent students from coming over the wall against Penn State," said head usher Art James. "But sometimes it's better that they just got to the field."

Rakow acknowledges that a flood of people to the field is a much better alternative than a sea of bodies crushed against the wall. But he wants to make sure that students stay in their seats in the first place.

"We can't hold back 6,000 people," said Rakow. "But we are going to have a lot of ushers and police convincing people not to leave the stands."

If fans get to the field, though, the north end zone's post might be their next goal. Tearing down the goalposts after a big win is a tradition which has lately become deadly. Goalposts today can easily kill anyone stuck beneath them. According to Rakow, two people have been killed beneath collapsing goalposts, and dozens injured, during the last ten years.

In case fans do climb down to the field, Rakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. Hakow wants to make sure that no one tries to bring the field. "I'm really concerned about people having easy access to the field for the first time," said Hakow. "We can't hold back the crowd, but we can prevent them from making a bigger rush, after a bigger game, the outcome might be worse than it was for anyone at Wisconsin, or for Jill Burdo."

"I'm sorry it took Wisconsin to make people realize that people can be hurt," says Burdo. "This isn't a once-in-a-lifetime event. It happens too often."
Sperber: Management lifts ND sports

By SARAH DORAN
Assistant News Editor

Notre Dame is an exception in the realm of college sports mainly because of the management of its athletic department, according to Murray Sperber, the realm of college sports management of its athletic department during the Knute Rockne era.

Because of the strong power of Notre Dame's vice president, the position of athletic director does not reflect the degree of autonomy often seen at other colleges. "The Rockne of the legends," Sperber said, "had about 130 degrees from the Rockne we hear of everyday." Sperber explained about numerous pieces of evidence he found in the University's library's keeping that substantiated Rockne's betting habits, which included betting on his own football team.

"Rockne had the propensity to outsmart his opponents not only on the field, but off the field as well," he said. But Sperber said, Rockne's genius was like that of no other coach. "He was obsessed with winning games, promoting his team, and promoting himself," he said. "Rockne was an entrepreneur of youth and sports." Sperber also said that the University was extremely cooperative in helping him locate the information used in his book.

"They were nothing but helpful in pointing me in the right direction, even when they became aware that I was finding information that was overturning legends," he said. "Three commented that many students do not realize the weight given to the TCEs when faculty are untenured. According to those faculty members who were present, the TCEs, although not a major part of the evaluation, were considered, especially when dealing with junior faculty who did not have tenure. TCEs are also important because the faculty member receives the permanent record of the faculty person under evaluation.

According to Peter Seldin, in an article from "The Chronicle of Higher Education," which was distributed at the meeting, 86 per cent of higher education institutions use student ratings when evaluating teachers.

The group dealt with the second condition at hand, that female faculty members were not being rated on their ability to teach but rather on the basis of their sex. It was explained during the meeting that a critical review of the TCEs showed that gender bias was manifested statistically when an evaluation of last year's TCEs revealed that female faculty members scored much lower as a group than did their male counterparts. "The only two conclusions that could be reached by this discussion is that other female faculty at Notre Dame are substandard, which is not the case obviously, or that students are sexually biased when rating teacher performance," said one member of the discussion.

COURSES CANCELLED

ANTH 473 01 #4978 - Add prerequisite: COTH 101, 104, 201 or 204
ARCH 246 01 #1116 - Change time to: TH 11:00-12:15
ARCH 508A 01 #1251 - Change days and time to: W 08:30-10:12, 09:30-12:00
CAP 470 01 #3155 - Add prerequisite: COTH 101, 104, 201 or 204
CHEG 327 01 #5253 - Change days and time to: TH 11:00-12:15
COMM 304 28 #9728 - Remove Requirement and COMM 313
COTH 361 01 #5781 - Add prerequisite: COTH 101, 104, 201 or 204
COTH 468 01 #3800 - Change time to: MW 02:00-04:50 Service
continued from page 1

“...Our intention is to turn as much of this over to the students as possible, but it’s not like we can blow a whistle and assume the students will get their opinion,” said Joe Incandela, a member of the planning group. “We think the idea is a good one and one that should work at Saint Mary’s.”

“This center, we really hope, is for students and by students,” he added.

Proposals were presented to College President William Hickey and Congregation President Sister Catherine O’Brien in late-October. No official response has been received from either president yet.

The planning group also pre-sentated the proposal to the Board of Governance (BOG), asking for the members of student government to sign a petition in support of the center.

While BOG members supported the idea of the center and said there was a need for it, they didn’t sign the petition citing that they felt that the funding portions of the proposal were not researched enough, according to President MaryBeth Wilkinson.

“I think that it (the SMSC) will come about,” Wilkinson said. “But planning about the financial aspects needs to be more precise.”

BOG is concerned that the figures in the budget portion of the proposal are all even rounded numbers and that it seemed that a large financial burden of the center would fall on the College, according to Wilkinson.

While the College is asked to provide space, equipment and personnel from its budget and fundraising resources, Incandela said that it was never the group’s intention to burden the College with financial responsibilities for the project.

“We always had plans to go through the development office for the funding,” Incandela said. “There are also lots of donors out there and lots of foundation grants that we would like to apply for.”

Incandela also said that there was a hope in the group that the center would be eligible for grants given yearly by the Congregation to charities, or-nizations and centers around the world.

Planners of the proposal say that they have made many mistakes in their approach to determining student support and defining the meaning of “serving.” But of financing, the most important thing now is for them to get the word out about the project and their intentions.

In addition to providing service to thousands on a national and an international basis, the SMSC has spent the past decade working closely with the communities of South Bend.

An estimated 2,500 students participate annually in the “Christmas in April” program, which helps South Bend residents through various community projects, said Hesburgh.

“Many people have been impacted by the things done here, and Christmas in April is just the SMSC program that has showed Notre Dame to be a caring community,” Hesburgh said.

“What has happened is a lit-bit of the momentum has been lost, petitions are just laying there,” Incandela said. “There are certain procedures that go-to the SMSC at Monday’s Student Government, Open Forum, according to Incandela.

BOG hopes that discussion of the center will occur at the forum, where they plan to make the petitions of support available for student support as well, according to Wilkinson.

Two sites for the center were also included in the proposal.
The group indicated the space in the lower levels of the Dining Hall and Holy Cross Hall as possible options.

Holy Cross is the preferred location, according to Cooney, because it would require the least amount of renovation, and also it has a historic connection to the convent.

The SMSC hopes to distinguish itself from the CSC in two ways-by bringing in a focus on women and family consistent with the mission of Saint Mary’s and providing an integral role for students to play in the center, according to Cooney.

M.J. Murray Varchon, class of 82 said that a separate center said. “The only thing you have in your hands when you meet God is what you have given away,” said Hesburgh.

The original proposal for the center was heard and eventually approved by University of Fencers and Hesburgh in 1982.

The Center was strongly supported by Hesburgh, a veteran of service, who worked closely with John F. Kennedy and his staff to develop a pilot project which began the Peace Corps in 1960.

Friends
Don’t Let
Friends
Drive Drunk

Szechuan Garden Chinese Restaurant
Open 7 Days A Week
Sun-Thurs 11:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
Fri & Sat-11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m.
Mon-Sat-Lunch Special-11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
Sunday Buffet-11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
Carry Out Service
Largest Dine-In Chinese Restaurant In Town
2 Separate Banquet Rooms

This Year Givng the Gift of Tradition:
• A Notre Dame Memory
Limited Edition Handcolored
Prints by Ken David
ON SALE
Hara Room-LaFortune
November 12 & 13

Friends
Don’t Let
Friends
Drive Drunk

-tracking your car amount to just

$1.00 OFF

16" 2 Item Pizza
16" Grinder

Mancino’s Italian Eatery
35 Andrews Place, 505 W. Mishawaka, Suite 130
Mishawaka, IN (1 Block West of Grape)

255-6658
313 W. McKinley Ave.
Mishawaka

$1.00 OFF

16" 2 Item Pizza
16" Grinder

Mancino’s Italian Eatery
35 Andrews Place, 505 W. Mishawaka, Suite 130
Mishawaka, IN (1 Block West of Grape)

255-6658
313 W. McKinley Ave.
Mishawaka

Get Big Head Todd & the Monsters debut album on Giant “SISTER SWETTY” for $13.99 and TRACKS will give you a FREE copy of their 3 Son sampler “LIVE”. Such a deal... such great music from TRACKS.
“There are nearly 10,000 homeless shelters and facilities in the country, but this is among the best.”

-Fred Karnas, executive director
National Coalition for the Homeless

Lou Holtz,
head football coach
at the University of Notre Dame, requests your presence at the third annual Center for the Homeless Christmas Luncheon

Wednesday, December 1, 1993
11:30 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.
South Bend Century Center

For reservations and information, please call (219)282-8700 or write
Center for the Homeless, Inc.
813 South Michigan Street
South Bend, Indiana 46601

* Yes, I plan to join Coach Holtz December 1 in support of Michiana's homeless. Please reserve:____ tables of eight at $240 per table____ seats at $30 per reservation
* I am am unable to attend the December 1 luncheon, but please accept my holiday gift of $____ to the Center for the Homeless

Please make checks payable to: The Center for the Homeless, Inc. (RSVP by Nov. 24, 1993)

Company Name
City State Zip
Phone ( ) ___ ___ ___ ___

Contributions to the Center for the Homeless are fully tax deductible. ($20 of each $30 reservation is deductible.)
Over 25 million people every day, in 68 countries, walk into a McDonald’s and are greeted with a smile and the question, “How may I help you?” Because McDonald’s restaurants are located all over the world, it is considered a global corporation according to Dick Starmann, the senior vice-president of the McDonald’s corporation.

Last night, at a round table discussion sponsored by the Notre Dame Council for International Business, Starmann spoke about the restaurant’s metamorphosis.

“We’re going through a change...becoming a bigger company...becoming more international,” Starmann said.

Starmann said that last year alone the company generated over eight and a half million dollars in sales, with forty percent of the revenue coming from restaurants outside of the US. Through the duration of the speech, he explained that most of the company’s success comes from their ideology to keep the management of the foreign businesses up to local entrepreneurs.

“We want it to be a local business, so we want local people as partners so we can have their insight,” Starmann said.

Part of the problem about expanding McDonald’s into a global business is overcoming cultural differences. Starmann said that training the employees that work in the Moscow McDonald’s was a cultural hurdle because the local workers had to adapt to the restaurant’s image. He added that the hardest thing to teach the employees was proper etiquette when dealing with customers.

“We even had to have some classes to teach them how to smile,” Starmann said.

With McDonald’s help, Starmann said, the workers learned the social graces expected of employees of the company and now three times as many people visit the McDonald’s that used to visit Lenin’s tomb that is right across the street.

Starmann said another cultural triumph of the company is the plan to open a new restaurant in India within two years. The Indian branch will be the first McDonald’s to “serve beef due to dietary customs.”

Likewise, the restaurant the company plans to open in Buenos Aires will also have unique characteristics. This particular restaurant will have a designated women’s side and men’s side. It will also be closed four times a day.

Starmann summed up his speech by saying that the corporation keeps its four ideals; quality, service, cleanliness and value, wherever over it does business.

“If you’re not happy with your experience today, you’re not going to come back tomorrow” Starmann said. “That’s true everywhere. No matter what it is, where it is, or when it is.”

Disney to unveil new theme park

By BILL VOGLIN
Associated Press

PEORIA, Ill.

A Caterpillar Inc. memo says its largest engine customer is winning a lawsuit, a recent increase in defects and, as a result, Caterpillar could lose its standing as a preferred supplier of engines.

But Caterpillar officials say quality is higher than ever and the problems are not related to an ongoing contract dispute with the United Auto Workers.

The company has a plant in Lafayette, Ind.

Caterpillar vice president Ritch Thompson on Wednesday said problems with its new engines are reducing blueprints or orders from manufacturers, Bielenberg wrote.

The memo seems to contradict the company’s statements over the past 18 months that quality is the same as or higher than it was before a 163-day UAW strike ended in April 1992.

The walkout ended after Caterpillar threatened to fire all strikers. Since then the UAW has been engaged in a “work-to-rule” campaign in which workers mindlessly follow blueprints or orders from foremost, even if the worker knows it will create a problem.

The job action is designed to keep the value of workers and hurt the company by depriving it of each employee’s expertise.

The walkout ended after Caterpillar threatened to fire all strikers. Since then the UAW has been engaged in a “work-to-rule” campaign in which workers mindlessly follow blueprints or orders from foremost, even if the worker knows it will create a problem.

The job action is designed to keep the value of workers and hurt the company by depriving it of each employee’s expertise.

Defects by Caterpillar worry many customers

By BILL VOGLIN
Associated Press

HAYMARKET, Va.

Undaunted by staggering losses from its European venture, the Walt Disney Co. pressed forward Thursday with plans for a “Disney America” theme park near a Civil War battlefield in Virginia.

Disney selected a 3,000-acre site in the rolling, heavily wooded northern Virginia countryside after an exhaustive search, said Peter Rummell, president of Disney Design and Development Company.

The opening date target is 1998.

Rummell said Disney would invest “hundreds of millions of dollars” in the project, a 100-acre park surrounded by a residential and commercial development.

“We’re here because we think we can succeed. We don’t plan on quitting,” he said.

The goal, he said, is to build a theme park that will complement numerous historical attractions in the nation’s capital, some 30 miles to the east, as well as Civil War battlefield sites in Manassas and Fredericksburg.

Rummell said that the site, near a factory on an upside-down river, was chosen because it was familiar to area residents.

“We’re going to feel like a piece of steel going through a factory on an upside-down roller coaster,” Weis said.

Park planners envision heavy reliance on “virtual reality” techniques and a lot of high technology to take visitors beyond normal rides and attractions.

A person could find himself parachuting into enemy territory — by simulation — or taking part in a harvesting theme.

Thursday’s announcement came after a report earlier in the week showing that the Disney Co. posted a quarterly loss of $77.8 million. Euro Disney, outside Paris, where its 18-month-old theme park lost $921 million in its first full fiscal year.

To say Euro Disney is not a success “is not fair,” Rummell said. “It’s having economic problems because of the recession.”

Rummell declined to speculate on the revenue potential of the theme park in Virginia. However, he said he expected attendance to be “more mod­est” than at Disney World in Orlando, Fla., or Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif., which are drawing 30,000 or more a day.

He said it would be “priced competitively” with other attractions in a part of the nation that has been a magnet for tourists.

Neither Disney executives nor state officials would discuss in detail discussions that preceded selection of the site bordering the town of Haymarket.

Rummell said the park would provide jobs for thousands of between the state and the host Prince William County.

MARKET ROUNDTABLE

WASHINGTON

Interest rates on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages rose slightly to 7.12 percent this week, the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. said Thursday. This week’s average was up from 7.11 percent a week ago. It was the third consecutive increase after the average hit a 25-year low of 6.74 percent last month. It marked the second week in a row the story of low interest rates were higher than 7 percent, after 10 weeks below that mark.

INDIANAPOLIS

Trucks on Indiana’s inter­state highways were moving right along Thursday without any strike-related activity, an Indiana State Police official said. But citizens-band radio wave­lengths that truckers use to communicate with each other crack­led with talk of a national protest: over increased fuel prices, and some drivers were unknow­ingly nervous about being on the road.
EDITORIAL

Center for service needed at SMC

Ideas about a proposal for the Saint Mary's Christian Service Center (SMSC) have floated around the campus since the early fall. It is time to mobilize the effort and make the talk a reality.

As a Catholic institution the mission of service is an integral one to the College. Contained within both the mission statement and the tradition, a call to service has always been part of Saint Mary's. A formal center would provide the campus with a place to carry out this mission.

We believe that proposal is a step in the right direction. If the proposal is approved by the Board of Trustees, it will provide the campus with a place to coordinate a means for integrating service into the curriculum.

With a center and a full-time staff, that would provide the continuity and consistency to locate service opportunities. With a center and a full-time staff, that would provide the campus with a place to carry out this mission.

However, the planning group which composed the proposal has included clear goals for the center, including a focus on issues concerning women and family that would provide the campus with a place to coordinate a means for integrating service into the curriculum by providing students a place to turn the concepts learned within the classroom into a reality.

While many may see overlap between this center and Notre Dame's Center for Social Concerns (CSC), the proposal has included clear goals for the center, including a focus on issues concerning women and family that would distinguish it from the CSC and be consistent with the mission of the College.

Classy students stay where fools rush in

Dear Editor:

We all have heard or seen on the media reports of the Oct. 30 games at the University of Wisconsin and Ohio State where numerous fans were injured while trying to get on the playing field after exciting victories. I have been asked many times since then if that scene could happen at the University of Notre Dame. In response to that question, we have had no injuries in the past with that kind of behavior. Although, thankfully our injuries have been minor, there is always uncertainty as to how groups of people react in emotionally charged situations.

Saturday, when we defeat the Florida State Seminoles in Notre Dame Stadium, will be one of those great ND moments where the eyes of the world will be upon us. We have a tradition here that few others have. It is that time when the players come to the student section with raised golden headgear to acknowledge the role and relationship that you have with them.

From a safety and courtesy standpoint, I would urge everyone to refrain from leaving the stands so our tradition can continue, that nobody is injured, and that this great student body be portrayed as one of true class for the world to see. While we understand the tremendous excitement that takes place from our victory celebrations, we must never lose sight of our responsibilities to each other as a community member.

Enjoy, and relish the weekend safely.

REX J. RAKOW
Head Football Coach

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Be safe so we can all enjoy the game

Dear Editor:

Florida State's number-one-ranked football team comes to town tomorrow for a game that all of us have been eagerly anticipating. In fact, the media attention devoted to this event has made it something that seemingly has caught the attention of the entire sports world.

We've spent the last two weeks doing everything we can to prepare for what will transpire tomorrow on the football field in Notre Dame Stadium. We hope you'll do your part as fans to make this a day to remember for everyone in attendance on Saturday.

As the game approaches, we have a couple of simple requests. One, let's all work together to make sure that everything that happens this weekend represents Notre Dame in a first-class manner. Second, we hope you'll show your support in a positive fashion for both these teams, the two best in the country right now, according to the polls. And three, once the game is over, we ask you to please remain in the stands as the teams leave the field.

Classy students stay where fools rush in

Dear Editor:

We have a tradition here that few others have. It is that time when the players come to the student section with raised golden headgear to acknowledge the role and relationship that you have with them.

From a safety and courtesy standpoint, I would urge everyone to refrain from leaving the stands so our tradition can continue, that nobody is injured, and that this great student body be portrayed as one of true class for the world to see. While we understand the tremendous excitement that takes place from our victory celebrations, we must never lose sight of our responsibilities to each other as a community member.

Enjoy, and relish the weekend safely.

JEFF BURRIS
TIM RUDDY
AARON TAYLOR
BRYANT YOUNG

The 1993 Notre Dame captains

LOU HOLTZ
Head Football Coach

DOONESBURY

YOU KNOW WHAT KIND OF PERSON WOULD SET A BABY CAPTAIN OVER THERE?

HOW DO YOU KNOW THE PROPOSAL ISN'T ACTUALLY A GENTLE, WISE-MOMEN'TY, RESPONSIBLE, SYMPATHETIC AND SENSEFUL TOUCH TO THE REBECCA-PALMETY ROBUSTNESS OF THE REBERIDICAL?!

KILLER QUESTION: SADLY, YOU CAN'T EVEN MAKE A GRANDPA LIKE THIS ONE. YOU CAN'T EVEN ASK YOUR GRANDPA TO BE YOUR KILLER QUESTION.

"I'm here to play football for the Irish." Hollywood superstar Sean Astin

as Rudy Reuttiger

in "Rudy"

GARRY TRUDEAU
QUOTE OF THE DAY

"I'm here to play football for the Irish."
RARELY DO I delve into detailed opinions about football in this column. This weekend, however, is the game of the season, as well as my birthday. On this happy birthday, my friend, Aaron Taylor, will celebrate on live TV. This is a rare event in Florida State. If he even thinks of taking his Swedish girlfriend to the game, I'll head to the head of our football with some observations.

Let me be the first to wish the Wolverines a very happy birthday. My friend, Aaron, is that he is a powerful, intelligent, and wonderful man. He will be drafted by the Washington Redskins, and he will be my number one.
Dear Editor:

This article was written in response to Mr. Cannon's editorial from Monday, Nov. 8. I would like to take the opportunity here to clarify several of the misconceptions generated by last Thursday's article regarding the review of the band, XYZ Affairs, in which I am a member.

The quote, "The other bands on campus are whimsical," is truly not a heartfelt belief of mine, nor of any of the other members of XYZ Affairs. This statement was made to the interviewer in a purely ironic or even joking context, and was not intended to establish the falsity of a truth which seems to have been interpreted by you, and perhaps many others.

In fact, that entire article is saturated with, which one might call, passages exhibiting an almost superficial detachment. From the opening lines, "not ten feet from Pearl Jam..." and slightly fewer "sold" (referring to our band's current lack of comparable worldwide popularity and album sales), to Flume's comparison to a "Spinal Tap drummer," the circularity of these statements seems evident in your editorial. This exemplifies how the XYZ Affairs respects all efforts by other campus bands and encourages them in their pursuits (yes, even you, Joe).

Next, I want to elucidate the statement, "We are not necessarily central to feminism, nor of any of the other misconceptions generated by you, and perhaps many others.

In fact, that entire article is saturated with, which one might call, passages exhibiting an almost superficial detachment. From the opening lines, "not ten feet from Pearl Jam..." and slightly fewer "sold" (referring to our band's current lack of comparable worldwide popularity and album sales), to Flume's comparison to a "Spinal Tap drummer," the circularity of these statements seems evident in your editorial. This exemplifies how the XYZ Affairs respects all efforts by other campus bands and encourages them in their pursuits (yes, even you, Joe).

Next, I want to elucidate the statement, "We are not necessarily central to feminism, nor of any of the other misconceptions generated by you, and perhaps many others.

In fact, that entire article is saturated with, which one might call, passages exhibiting an almost superficial detachment. From the opening lines, "not ten feet from Pearl Jam..." and slightly fewer "sold" (referring to our band's current lack of comparable worldwide popularity and album sales), to Flume's comparison to a "Spinal Tap drummer," the circularity of these statements seems evident in your editorial. This exemplifies how the XYZ Affairs respects all efforts by other campus bands and encourages them in their pursuits (yes, even you, Joe).

I am writing to clarify some points made by my good friend, Peter Helland, relative to my book, Behind The Lodge Door: Church State and Freemasonry In America.

First, the book is not "new." It was initially published in 1983 and reprinted at the Hesburgh Library. A revised edition will soon be the fifth printing of this exegesis of the religion clauses of the First Amendment.

Second, the present First Amendment was crafted not alone by Congressmen Fisher Ames of Massachusetts, but also by Senator Oliver Ellsworth of Connecticut, a man who subsequently became the third Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The problem with jurists who are committed to the philosophies of Freemasonry is that they must be considered as members of the "Cabalistic Gnosticism," a pagan naturalism and rationalism.

In America, a document fre­quent­ly is­sued as a mem­ber of the Supreme Court in four (not five) sep­arate de­ci­sions: (1) Church­es of Chi­rus­tr­ism in the re­lig­tion­ clauses has been re­fused but not the re­li­gion­ clauses (all his opin­ions). I am sure that there are a fair num­ber of people who do not un­der­stand, but this would not be to a­gree with this con­cep­tion. Even profes­sional bands, such as The Beatles, U2, Jimi Hendrix, B.B. King, Metallica, Rush, and countless others have played covers, some of which were even re­corded on their respective albums.

Although no­val original­ism is def­ined more im­por­tant and cre­ative, the per­for­mance of cover songs still pro­vides a me­dium through which indi­vid­ual cre­ativity can work on a smaller scale (the original­ist feels crea­tive enough to alter the music as he/she sees fit). "Recycling the trash" seems to be your gen­eral opin­ion on over­ commod­i­ty, so it goes to the song covered. With that thou­sands of works of the music work­ing de­cent bands would really appre­ci­ate your good­will to the music of others? Such a cover tune doesn't em­ploy the in­divid­ual music­ian's cre­ative ap­proach.

For in­stance, the hu­man­ities in­clude songs, the laws and ap­proaches to so­ce­ties, the am­bit­ious, the im­pro­v­a­tion in the ways of fills by the va­rious in­st­ments, and the sod­al­ity of these state­ments seems ev­i­dent in your edi­torial. This ex­emplifies how the XYZ Affairs re­pects all ef­forts by other cam­pus bands and en­courages them in their pur­suit (yes, even you, Joe).

Dear Editor:

I was writing to clarify some points made by my good friend, Peter Helland, relative to my book, Behind The Lodge Door: Church State and Freemasonry In America.

First, the book is not "new." It was initially published in 1983 and reprinted at the Hesburgh Library. A revised edition will soon be the fifth printing of this exegesis of the religion clauses of the First Amendment.

Second, the present First Amendment was crafted not alone by Congressmen Fisher Ames of Massachusetts, but also by Senator Oliver Ellsworth of Connecticut, a man who subsequently became the third Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

The problem with jurists who are committed to the philosophies of Freemasonry is that they must be considered as members of the "Cabalistic Gnosticism," a pagan naturalism and rationalism.
Notre Dame professors remember their FSU ties

By ELISABETH HEARD
Assistant Academic Editor

With all of the hype and combat surrounding the game, the question of who to root for is one which is easy for most Notre Dame students and faculty. Even though there are some Domino’s who feel that the Irish will not be able to pull off a victory, they still cheer for the blue and gold.

There are a few professors, however, who have found themselves in a predicament, for although they now wear the brand of the leprechaun, at one time in their lives they used to be a Seminole.

Lawrence Cunningham, department chair and professor of theology, not only earned a master’s degree in 1963 and a doctorate in 1968 from Florida State University but was also a faculty member for 16 years. Coming to South Bend from Florida was a big change for both Professor Cunningham and his family. “Before we came here, my kids had never seen snow,” he jokes.

Snow is not the only difference between the two schools, however. “Florida State is much larger. It has between 25,000 and 26,000 students,” Cunningham continues. “It is a state-supported school and not religiously affiliated. It doesn’t have a big theology department.”

Even though FSU surpasses Notre Dame in size, it is not lacking in terms of the quality of education and still demands students with relatively high ACT and SAT scores. “Academically it is very good. It is one of the two flagship schools in the South,” says Cunningham. “It is not as selective as Notre Dame.”

Having presently taught at this university for six years, Cunningham was initially attracted by the quality of the theology department. “The students here are very bright,” says Cunningham. “I like it here very much.”

William Nichols, professor of accountancy, received his doctorate of business administration from FSU in 1978. Agreeing with Cunningham, Nichols sees a big difference between the two institutions. “The school (FSU) is bursting at the seams. It is almost into the city,” he says. “They even had to build the new administration offices around the stadium because there is not enough space.”

A lot has changed at Florida State since Professor Nichols was a student there, especially in the capacity of the football department.

“When I was there, it was not a football powerhouse,” he laughs. “We operated on quarter and half-seasons, which meant that school wouldn’t start until the second or third week in September. Sometimes, the first football game was before school even started. Attendance was so low at these games that they let students in for free so that the (lack of) crowd wouldn’t be so embarrassing.”

With such personal ties to Florida State, it would seem though loyalty would be hard to claim. “I’ll have a house full of Seminoles this week,” says Cunningham.

“I have an FSU cup which I take to class with me and a hat which I sometimes wear,” says Nichols.

But when it comes down to it, Cunningham and Nichols both agree. “I’m rooting for Notre Dame,” says Nichols. “My son graduated from here and my daughter goes to St. Mary’s.”

Cunningham adds, “The bottom line - you don’t bite the hand that feeds you or signs your paycheck. I’m 70 percent.”

Because of their background, these two professors are sometimes teased by fellow colleagues, but, as Cunningham says, “it’s all in good fun.”

As Saturday approaches, there is one burning question on everyone’s mind - Who will come out victorious? “It will either be a close game and Notre Dame wins, or Notre Dame will get blown out of the water, but I hope for the former,” predicts Nichols. “I think, Notre Dame will win.”

“I have a lot of faith in Lou Holtz,” adds Cunningham. “I’m hoping that after two weeks of preparation he will be able to pull it off.” He looks at the situation in a theological light. “My theory about the game is the same as eternal salvation. I hope and pray for a victory, but I have no absolute assurance for it.”

Did you know...

- The Florida State/Notre Dame game was scheduled only three years ago. Most are scheduled ten or more years in advance.
- As of midday, only four hotel rooms were available within 100 miles of South Bend.
- In Tallahassee a travel agency hired one person two and a half years ago to schedule reservations for the game. Since then site has booked 250 rooms from here to Chicago for 500 people.
- The airport is packed. One airplane after another is scheduled to land on the runway as soon as they can be cleared.
- All commercial flights into South Bend Friday and Saturday morning and out of South Bend on Sunday are either sold out or overbooked.
- Many car rental agencies are sold out. For example: Hertz Rent A Car National Car rental Affordable Car Rental Avis Rent A Car (has been sold out for a week).
- A few agencies still have cars available, but their numbers are limited. For example: Agency Rent A Car Enterprise Rent A Car Snappy Car Rental Budget Rent A Car will have cars available after noon tomorrow.
- Sears Rent A Car - will have cars available tomorrow morning or afternoon.
Finally. One day left. One night in a drunken stupor. Wake up tomorrow, hold your breath, pray, whatever suits you. Notre Dame vs. Florida State—even the Old Milwaukee advertisements don’t get any better than this.

The world of college football resumes its axis around Notre Dame Stadium Saturday after a four-year hiatus. Not since the Irish’s 31-30 win over Miami in 1988 has all attention been turned to the house that Rockne built.

But that would be the stadium that “Rock Knutne” built if you ask Florida State receiver Kez McCorvey. The Seminole wideout recalled that unknown Irish great when asked about the Notre Dame mystique.

“I appreciate what those guys accomplished, but they

See DUEL/page 8
VERSATILITY, SPEED DIFFICULT TO STOP

BY BRYAN CONNOLLY
Associated Sports Editor

When Florida State wide receiver Tamarick Ver- rawn waits confidently under an oncoming tackler, opposing teams have reason to be very concerned.

The sophisticated stand-out is perhaps the most dangerous kick returner to grace collegiate fields since Raghib "Rocket" Ismail tormented opponents for the Irish in 1990.

The six-foot, 210 pound Vanover combines rare speed with strength to make himself an extremely difficult player to defend. Double teams are not uncommon when he lines up for a pass.

The Tallahassee native was named Atlantic Coast Conference Rookie of the Year last season after accumulating 1,000 yards in total offense through receiving, rushing, and returning kicks.

As a freshman, Vanover earned a spot on the College & Pro Football Writers Association's All-America first team as a kick Tamarick Vanover returner. He averaged an amazing 51.6 yards in eight returns and returned two kicks for touchdowns. The touchdowns came on each of Vanover's first two runs, earning him All-American and All-NCAA honors.

Vanover's returning ability often proved to be one of the Seminoles' most lethal weapons. He scurried for 187 yards returning in last season's regular sea- son finale versus Florida, and he returned Miami's opening kickoff 94 yards for a touchdown.

His long was a 96-yard touchdown sprint against Wake Forest.

This season, however, he has been given very few opportunities to display his talent. Not only have opposing teams been kicking away from him, but they haven't had many chances to kick-off in the first place. He gained 25 yards on his only return in 1993.

Even with a hampered returning game, Vanover has been extremely dangerous this season.

Through nine games he is second on the team with 416 rushing yards on 35 carries, off the pace of the Seminoles last season with 581 yards on 42 recep- tions. His ability to run with the ball after the reception is one his strongest features.

Vanover's season was best a six catch, 129 yard, one-touchdown performance versus Virginia. He has also been used regularly this season on the reverse, having gained 38 yards on nine carries.

"It's just going to be a great game," Vanover said. "If we play hard and they play hard, I believe we'll come out on top."

OTHERS TO WATCH

Kevin McCorvey- The six foot, 185 pound junior wide receiver leads the Seminoles in receiving with 703 yards on 50 catches.

With the exception of Lawrence Dawsey's 65 receptions in 1990, McCorvey has caught more passes than any Florida State receiver in 22 years.

Being quarterback Charlie Ward's favorite receiver, McCorvey has caught at least five passes in six games this season.

"You don't double any of us," he said. "That just opens it up for someone else. We have a dangerous complement.

Sean Jackson- The 6-2, 222 pound senior tailback

Jackson combines the ability to rush over tacklers with agility and opens field opportunities. He leads one of the most talented backfields in the nation with 665 yards on 93 carries for an average of seven yards per carry. He averages 47 yards per game.

He has two 100 yard rushing games and two games with over 90 yards. Jackson has also caught 25 passes for 144 yards.

Bryan Connolly

The Observer • SPORTS EXTRAS

Friday, November 12, 1993

41

Florida State is No. 1 for a reason.
Linebackers key to big play Seminole defense

By MIKE NORRUT

Once thought to be the weak link of the championship-caliber Seminole defense, coach Bobby Bowden's first national championship, the Florida State defense had surpassed the critics, and is now ranked in the top ten in the nation in every defensive category. The Seminoles allowed only 58 points on the season, the fewest in the nation. Florida State's only loss was against lowly Maryland last week.

Notre Dame's offense, on the other hand, ranks in the top ten in points scored, but is only eighth in the nation in yardage gained per game. Without the luster of that was allowed against Bowden his first national championship, the Seminoles' defensive end Derrick Alexander and Todd Mcintosh, the main reason Florida State has held their opponents to less than three yards a carry so far this season.

The linebacking core of Florida State is the hallmark of the defense. Junior Derrick Brooks is always wreaking havoc around the ball. Because of their speed, the Seminole line-backers lead the Irish to adjust their strategy to allow the ball carriers in the backfield.

"The people who have had a lot of success running the ball are the teams that passed a lot," continued Holtz. "It's safe to say that Notre Dame does not pass too much. The Irish have averaged only 15.3 passes per game this year, while compiling more than 50 rushes per game. One that would think that the Seminoles should be able to key on the Irish running attack."

Other teams have tried to stop the run and have failed. In the past four games, Notre Dame has averaged over 300 yards per game, with their best performance coming two weeks ago, where the Irish racked up 426 yards on the ground against Navy. The success of the Irish ground game will rest on the shoulders of the offensive line, but by seniors Aaron Taylor and Tim Fuddy, and their ability to open holes for the Notre Dame backs. All starters of the previous season were completely healthy, and Ryan Leach will be back to give more depth at the tackle.

Notre Dame line back coach Lou Holtz, however, does not see Florida State as merely a speedy team.

"You want to see the Seminoles' lightning quick linemen and linebackers try to counter the explosive strength of the Irish ground game."

NOTRE DAME RUNNING OFFENSE VS. FLORIDA STATE AGAINST THE RUN

University of Southern California head coach John Robinson called tomorrow's game between the Seminoles and No. 2 Notre Dame a classic matchup of "speed vs. power".

Reporters and fans from around the country will expect to see the Seminoles' lightning quick linemen and linebackers try to counter Notre Dame's running attack. The Notre Dame team.

Notre Dame's running back crew is deep, and features Lake Dawson, who can run that offense or work the passing situations, as Florida

The Irish running backs will be busy tomorrow. Junior Lee Bocum and Ray Zellers will start, while freshmen Randy Kinder, Marc Edwards, and Robert Parme have proven their ability to perform.

NOTRE DAME PASSING VS. FLORIDA STATE AGAINST THE PASS

The Irish like to run the ball. It's as simple as that. But is it simple? "I think we've played well on offense, but we're one dimensional," Holtz said.

In big game situations like this, Holtz likes to think he's happy with McDougal of Notre Dame may not be able to exploit any weakness that the Seminoles defensive line from his defensive end spot.

The Irish running backs will be busy tomorrow. No. 2 Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz, however, does not see Florida State as merely a speedy team.

"McDougal reminds me a lot of a Charlie Ward," Brooks said. "He can run that offense really well. I'm impressed by him."

Though his passing yardage is about half that of his counterpart, Ward, McDougal has completed 62.8% of his 113 passes this year and has led the Irish to five wins.

His three favorite targets, Lake Dawson, junior Mike Miller, and sophomore Derrick Mayes average only about two receptions per game, but most for twenty yards or better.

McDougal also finds a surprise target in end Pete Chytrylewicz, though the freshman may have to pick up the blitzing linebackers in passing situations.

The Irish will have to face one of the best defensive backs in the nation, but Notre Dame may not be able to exploit any weakness that the Seminoles defense has. The Irish running backs will be busy tomorrow's running game.

The backers are complemented by the FSU safeties, Devin Bush and Richard Coes, who have 40 and 37 tackles, respectively.

Once again, a lot of pressure will be on the Irish offensive line to give McDougal time to find his receivers. The Seminole defensive backs will most likely be in man coverage during the passing situations, as Florida State will blitz McDougal as much as possible. Brooks and McDougal will supply pressure.

A matchup that Notre Dame may find favorable is the back out of the backfield being covered by Florida State's linebackers. To exploit this matchup, Notre Dame may have to introduce their game plan a play-action pass, a strategy used before but not to a great extent. A quick fake may freeze the Seminole linebackers, allowing Bocum and Zellers to release into an open area.

The Seminoles had trouble with Maryland's run-and-shoot attack last week, as the Terrapins racked up 453 yards of total offense in the game.

"They took it to us and we didn't do anything to fix that weakness," Bowden said.

Notre Dame may not be able to exploit any defensive weakness, but their passes may very well deter- mine the outcome of this ball game. Stranger things have happened.

The talent is there, and the opportunities are waiting.

The talent is there, and the opportunities are waiting.

The talent is there, and the opportunities are waiting.

Notre Dame's running back crew is deep, and features Lake Dawson, who can run that offense or work the passing situations, as Florida State's junior Derrick Brooks is always wreaking havoc around the ball.

The linebacker core of Florida State is the hallmark of the defense. Inside linebacker Corey Sawyer, of the key figures for the Seminoles, often breaks up and three interceptions on the season.

Sawyer's presence is intimidating to the opposition, as merely a speedy back, but he has made a big impact on the team.

His three favorite targets, Lake Dawson, junior Mike Miller, and sophomore Derrick Mayes average only about two receptions per game, but most for twenty yards or better.

McDougal also finds a surprise target in end Pete Chytrylewicz, though the freshman may have to pick up the blitzing linebackers in passing situations.

The Irish will have to face one of the best defensive backs in the nation, but Notre Dame may not be able to exploit any weakness that the Seminoles defense has. The Irish running backs will be busy tomorrow's running game.

The backers are complemented by the FSU safeties, Devin Bush and Richard Coes, who have 40 and 37 tackles, respectively.

Once again, a lot of pressure will be on the Irish offensive line to give McDougal time to find his receivers. The Seminole defensive backs will most likely be in man coverage during the passing situations, as Florida State will blitz McDougal as much as possible. Brooks and McDougal will supply pressure.

A matchup that Notre Dame may find favorable is the back out of the backfield being covered by Florida State's linebackers. To exploit this matchup, Notre Dame may have to introduce their game plan a play-action pass, a strategy used before but not to a great extent. A quick fake may freeze the Seminole linebackers, allowing Bocum and Zellers to release into an open area.

The Seminoles had trouble with Maryland's run-and-shoot attack last week, as the Terrapins racked up 453 yards of total offense in the game.

"They took it to us and we didn't do anything to fix that weakness," Bowden said.

Notre Dame may not be able to exploit any defensive weakness, but their passes may very well deter- mine the outcome of this ball game. Stranger things have happened.
Ward: How do you stop the nation’s most dangerous player?

By Jonathan Jensen

Charlie Ward, despite being a three-time Heisman winner and a quarterback, may be the most electrifying player to visit Notre Dame Stadium this decade. Ward has all the tools of a Heisman winner, and possesses the leadership skills to lead his team to the national championship.

The final hurdle tomorrow’s “Game of the Century” against the Irish.

“I do not remember there being ever a year where the Heisman race was over,” said Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz. “There’s never been anyone else in the race from day one.”

What does Ward bring to the game? Just about everything. Number one, Ward’s most impressive skills may be his intangibles. His ability to improvise cannot be ignored. Many a tackler have thought they had a clear shot at Ward, only to see him slip away for a long gain or a long pass play.

Ward’s unparalleled speed at the quarterback position makes him a constant running threat. Florida State coach Bobby Bowden won’t roll Ward out on pass plays to give him the option of running the ball, and he is not afraid of tackling it in to gain some yards. He also has four rushing touchdowns this year.

Furthermore, Ward’s ability to elude would-be tacklers within the pocket is also that good. March like Irish quarterback Kevin McDougall, Ward is adept at side-stepping defensive lineman and finding his receivers downhill.

“If you can avoid the rush until the receivers can get open,” said Holtz. “And you aren’t gonna sack him very often. He has such good peripheral vision.”

Speaking of finding receivers, Ward has improved by leaps and bounds in his passing ability, he must concentrate on his 241 passes for 2,647 yards and 22 touchdowns.

This season has been much of the same. As Ward has become proficient at running the intricate Seminole offense, he has cut down on turnovers and his decision-making process at the quarterback position has improved immensely.

This year Ward has completed 168 of his 241 passes for 2,647 yards and 22 touchdowns. This season has been much of the same. As Ward has become proficient at running the intricate Seminole offense, he has cut down on turnovers and his decision-making process at the quarterback position has improved immensely.

This year Ward has completed 168 of his 241 passes for 2,647 yards and 22 touchdowns. This season has been much of the same. As Ward has become proficient at running the intricate Seminole offense, he has cut down on turnovers and his decision-making process at the quarterback position has improved immensely.

This year Ward has completed 168 of his 241 passes for 2,647 yards and 22 touchdowns. This season has been much of the same. As Ward has become proficient at running the intricate Seminole offense, he has cut down on turnovers and his decision-making process at the quarterback position has improved immensely.

This year Ward has completed 168 of his 241 passes for 2,647 yards and 22 touchdowns. This season has been much of the same. As Ward has become proficient at running the intricate Seminole offense, he has cut down on turnovers and his decision-making process at the quarterback position has improved immensely.
The Taming of BROOKS

By Mike Norbut

LB Derrick Brooks leads FSU defense

E very great defense is centered on one player, a man of extraordinary talents who can turn the momentum of a game around with a single play. For Florida State, that player is Derrick Brooks.

A shoe-in for All-American honors this year, the junior is a returning starter at outside linebacker, and is in the running for both the Lombardi and Butkus Awards. A defensive player was ever considered for the Heisman Trophy, Brooks would probably give his teammate, Charlie Ward, a run for his money.

But what makes Derrick Brooks such a dominating force?

First, and most importantly, is his uncanny ability to always be around the ball and to make the big play. Whenever a chance to break a game open appears, Brooks is always there to make sure that the Seminoles do not pass it up.

In Florida State's first game, Brooks was a one-man wrecking crew, piling up 13 tackles and blocking a punt as the Seminoles trounced Kansas 42-0. Against Duke, he happened to find a pass dropped by him through the air. Once he caught it, he looked up to find a clear path to the end zone. Sixty-five yards later, he scored.

Brooks twice found a ball pop out of a Clemson running back's arms and fell at his feet. One of these times he picked it up and sprinted 83 yards for the score. He wreaked havoc against North Carolina. Along with picking off an errant pass and returning it for a touchdown, Brooks also caused a fumble, and forced the Tarheel quarterback to hurry his passes.

The only game in which he was not a factor was against Virginia. The junior sat this game out because of an injury, but returned to collect 13 tackles against Miami, where he was named player of the game.

Through the first five weeks of this season, Brooks was outstanding his 18-4. Even with missing the Virginia game and seeing limited action against No. 3 Miami, Brooks still has managed to remain second on the team with 42 solo tackles, six of them for losses.

"Florida State is not a real conventional defense," said Irish head coach Lou Holtz. "Brooks is the main reason for this statement. Because of his versatility, coaches can continuously realign him according to the strength of the opponent's formation."

In addition to his regular liningbacker position, films have shown Brooks playing down on the defensive line, or even out one-on-one on a receiver.

These odd alignments allow the Seminole defense to disguise coverages and blitzes. When a quarterback cannot read these defensive schemes, he cannot call a different play at the line, any many times the offense falls prey to the strength of Seminole defense.

Speed is probably Brooks' best physical asset. He can run the 40-yard dash in 4.5 seconds, a physical attribute practically unheard of among NFL linebackers, much less college athletes.

He can blatantly run around an offensive tackle on a pass rush, which has been the main reason for his two quarterback sacks this year. He also can follow a receiver in man-to-man coverage, even heating them to the wall. Brooks has intercepted two passes and has knocked down four others so far this year.

Bascially, he can, and does, do it all.

Irish won't shy away from speedy Seminoles

With Derrick Brooks on the side of any defense, it may appear unstoppable. But there are a few things the Irish can do to turn this helpless situation into one in their favor.

Since they cannot run away from Brooks, the only alternative would be to run at him. To do this, however, Notre Dame will have to outman him.

One of the only disadvantages of this linebacker is his size. Weighing only 220 pounds, he sometimes can lose the power battle with offensive guards and tackles.

He has held his own so far this year against the linemen of the Athletic Coast Conference. But these teams do not have the strength of the Irish.

"It's very scary," said Brooks. "We're probably outmanned up front. They don't run at angles. They take it to you. They run at or around a position of outside linebackers."

This, though, is easier said than done. To keep Brooks from breaking the tackles of his opponents, coaches must keep Brooks off those tackles.

Tackles: How will Taylor and Norman outman Brooks on running plays will be the key for the Irish. Interior Linemen: Puddy and guards must be aware of any stunts and blitzes that Brooks may run.

QB McDougal will need to make good reads. One errant pass could result in a Brooks touchdown.

The Irish coaching staff may have its doubts in the offense's ability to run the option, but quarterback Kevin McDougal has had flashes of brilliance this year, scoring against Michigan on a 43-yard run, and setting up his tailbacks on several other occasions.

"The thing that I'm most concerned about Notre Dame is that they get the football and don't give it back," continued Holtz.

If Irish hold to their normal ball possession game plan, they should find it easier to run different plays that could take advantage of the tired legs of Brooks and the rest of the Seminole defense as the game progresses.

A third way to try to handle Brooks would be to take advantage of his aggression. A Notre Dame running back like Lee Becton might not have the speed to outrun him, but he might not have to. Because of the linebacker's tenacious pursuit, he sometimes leaves his feet when trying to make a tackle.

"Lee Becton is a deceptive runner," said Holtz. "He's not spectacular, but he's had four straight 100 yard games." Becton could be just what the doctor ordered. His speed has been questioned all year, but his productivity has not lacked.

Becton has proven that he can break tackles all year, just as Brooks has shown that he can be tackled.

Probably the most important thing for Notre Dame will be to make sure that Brooks does not make the big play. This, though, is easier said than done.

To keep Brooks from breaking their back, the Irish will have to execute flawlessly. This execution will stretch from kickoff to punt, taking crisp blocks to even hustling back to the huddle.

Even with perfect execution from the Irish, though, Derrick Brooks could never be tamed, only contained.
Bobby Bowden

Floridians and Seminoles.

1993 Statistics

The Last Time:
Florida State 19, Notre Dame 13

 Florida State quarterback Rick Stockstill threw three touchdowns passes of 17 and five yards to Mike Whittington, and Ricky Williams ran for 135 yards on 15 carries, in what bowdown ranked as the fourth longest win over Florida State. After the Irish tied the game up at 13 in the fourth quarter on a one-yard run by Greg Bell, the Seminoles picked off a Blair Kiel pass at the Irish 31 and drove for the winning score with 4:37 left.

The one bright spot for the Irish was a 120-yard performance by Bell, as the Irish managed just 41 yards passing against the Seminole defense.

The Records:
Florida State leads 1-0
Last ND Win: None
Last FSU Win: 1981
Longest Series Streak: FSU-1981-present
ND-None
At Notre Dame Stadium: First
1993 Statistics

RUSHING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TX</th>
<th>MIB</th>
<th>Avg</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>Lg</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Boston</td>
<td>100.0</td>
<td>8.2</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>31</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Northwestern</td>
<td>91.0</td>
<td>6.0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zellars</td>
<td>91.0</td>
<td>6.0</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>36</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Farmer</td>
<td>30.0</td>
<td>2.4</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>12</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwards</td>
<td>11.0</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McGee</td>
<td>12.6</td>
<td>3.4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>43</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PASSING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TX</th>
<th>Comp</th>
<th>Att</th>
<th>Yds</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>Long</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>McGee</td>
<td>156.4</td>
<td>271</td>
<td>2922</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>110</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tahs</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. Johnson</td>
<td>14.8</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bobb</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwards</td>
<td>11.0</td>
<td>21.0</td>
<td>315</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>14</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Farmer</td>
<td>16.8</td>
<td>18.0</td>
<td>462</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>21</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

RECEIVING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TX</th>
<th>Comp</th>
<th>Rec</th>
<th>Yds</th>
<th>Avg</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>Long</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FIELD GOALS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TX</th>
<th>FG</th>
<th>AA</th>
<th>Punt</th>
<th>Long</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PUNTING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TX</th>
<th>Comp</th>
<th>Rec</th>
<th>Yds</th>
<th>Avg</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>Long</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Davis</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Shirley</td>
<td>14.4</td>
<td>26.0</td>
<td>246</td>
<td>0.9</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

DEFENSE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TEAM</th>
<th>T</th>
<th>FR</th>
<th>PK</th>
<th>TL</th>
<th>SE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Galv</td>
<td>16</td>
<td>21</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Young</td>
<td>37</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>1.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Breese</td>
<td>26</td>
<td>63</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>0.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zellars</td>
<td>27</td>
<td>63</td>
<td>9</td>
<td>0.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Farmer</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>51</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>2.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Edwards</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>62</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>2.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. Johnson</td>
<td>29</td>
<td>62</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>2.0</td>
<td>0.6</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SCORING SUMMARY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Description</th>
<th>TX</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>Fumble</th>
<th>FG</th>
<th>PAT</th>
<th>FG Avg</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Touchdowns</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0.9</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Field Goals</td>
<td>0</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>0.9</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

1993 Notre Dame Schedule and Results

- Sept. 4: Notre Dame 21 - 27 Western
- Sept. 11: Notre Dame 7 - 10 Michigan State
- Sept. 18: Notre Dame 28 - 21 Purdue
- Oct. 2: Notre Dame 35 - 13 Washington State
- Oct. 9: Notre Dame 24 - 14 Syracuse
- Oct. 16: Notre Dame 19 - 7 BYU
- Oct. 23: Notre Dame 27 - 21 Stanford
- Oct. 30: Notre Dame 14 - 3 North Carolina
- Nov. 6: Notre Dame 27 - 27 Boston College

---

Notre Dame Fighting Irish 1993 Roster

- Juniors:
  - 1. Tom Krug
  - 2. Mike Manning
  - 3. Tim McKendrick
  - 4. Brian Frazier
  - 5. Steve Hargarten
  - 6. Dan Johann
  - 7. Steve Jett
  - 8. Jeff Brooks
  - 9. Mike Miller
  - 10. Allen Daniel
  - 11. Tim Jones
  - 12. Tim McManus
  - 13. Kirby Bierk
  - 14. Fred Moody
  - 15. Kevin McGee
  - 16. Bob Perry
  - 17. John Magee
  - 18. Wade Smith
  - 19. Anthony Swinyard
  - 20. Mark Anderson
  - 21. Mike Chapman
  - 22. Tadib Tadjik
  - 23. Scott Leonard
  - 24. Dean Wood
  - 25. Brian Breen
  - 26. Brett Runyan
  - 27. Randy Kyle
  - 28. Drew Marsh
  - 29. Mark Mastrian
  - 30. Taylor Gaylon
  - 31. Joe Ridenhour
  - 32. John Christiansen
  - 33. Mike Echols
  - 34. Ray McNealy
  - 35. Richard Smith
  - 36. Greg Lee
  - 37. Jim Miller
  - 38. Ray Zara
  - 39. Tom Kloska
  - 40. Dickey Rolfe
  - 41. Jeramy Shackle
  - 42. Travis Sands
  - 43. Mike Lerner
  - 44. Ray Rittgers
  - 45. Paul Gondzik
  - 46. Ray Smith
  - 47. Brian Babich
  - 48. Ben Connecticut
  - 49. Tim Hurd

---

Fighting Irish

Lou Holtz

Eighth season at Notre Dame.

Records at Notre Dame: Overall 74-18-1; at Home 36-7-1; on the Road 36-11-0 in Bowl Games 2-0-0.

Career Records: Overall 185-83-4, in Bowl Games 9-6-2, vs. Florida State 0-0.

Previous Head Coaching Experience: William & Mary (3 seasons), North Carolina (4 seasons), Arkansas (7 seasons), Minnesota (2 seasons).

Career Highlights: No. 3 ranking with 1977 Arkansas team; Led Notre Dame to 1988 National Title; Upset No. 1 Colorado in 1990 Orange Bowl; No. 3 Florida in 1992 Sugar Bowl, No. 3 Texas A&M in Cotton Bowl.

---

Notre Dame Stadium

Built in 1930
Capacity: 59,075
Largest Crowd: 61,296 (1962)
Surface: Grass
NB’s record there: 238-67-5

One of the most feared and respected landmarks in football history, Notre Dame Stadium has been home to more national championships than any other stadium in college football.
You're supposed to get a job out of college, but this is ridiculous.

Introducing the Great Apple Campus Deal. Now, when you buy any select Macintosh® or PowerBook® computer, you'll also receive seven software programs. It's all included in one low price. And the software package alone has a combined SRP value of $956. It was designed to give you the kinds of programs you need most. Programs to organize your time and money. And some programs just for fun. So, why buy an Apple computer? It does more. It costs less. It's that simple.

Introducing the Great Apple Campus Deal. Visit your Apple Campus Reseller for more information.

Notre Dame Computer Store
Room 112 CCMB • 631-7477

You're supposed to get a job out of college, but this is ridiculous.

Introducing the Great Apple Campus Deal. Now, when you buy any select Macintosh® or PowerBook® computer, you'll also receive seven software programs. It's all included in one low price. And the software package alone has a combined SRP value of $956. It was designed to give you the kinds of programs you need most. Programs to organize your time and money. And some programs just for fun. So, why buy an Apple computer? It does more. It costs less. It's that simple.

Introducing the Great Apple Campus Deal. Visit your Apple Campus Reseller for more information.
Kevin McDougal has quietly waited for his day to shine.

He could have slipped into mediocrity, or even worse, to play quarterback somewhere without such a long waiting list. During three years as a backup quarterback, few people knew his name, sometimes even not his coach.

Notre Dame had Rick Mirer calling the signals, a durable Danny destined for NFL stardom. Kevin McDougal watched from the sidelines.

"I always thought that one day I'd get my chance," McDougal said. "Playing one year here is better than playing two or three years at any other school."

An accomplished golfer, he waited to play through.

Three freshmen quarterbacks arrived in 1990—Clint Johnson, B.J. Hawkins and McDougal. So faceless were Mirer's understudies that Irish coach Lou Holtz formed a composite, Clint McHawkins.

Johnson moved to wide receiver. Hawkins moved to Georgia Tech. McDougal stayed, but his anonymity did not.

Nine games into his first and last season as the starter, McDougal is on the threshold of a national championship, an accomplishment that eluded some of Notre Dame's most celebrated quarterbacks.

"Signal-callers like Mirer and Joe Theismann and Heisman Trophy winners John Huarte and Paul Hornung all left without a title," McDougal said. "That's the ultimate goal here and it's great that we have a shot at it late in the season."

Composure will be especially important Saturday when he faces the biggest challenge of his career.

Not only is McDougal facing the best defense he has faced all season, he is also surrounded by an unprecedented media circus. A microphone is around every corner, a notebook in everyone's hand.

"I have to treat it like every other game," McDougal said. "I'll meet you at the goal line."

That self-confidence is what kept McDougal at Notre Dame. It's what kept him calm when he struggled early in the season.

"I have been calling my parents a lot, just to talk. That helps me get away from all the hype," McDougal said. "I have been concentrating on (school) work this week and I have been calling my parents a lot. I have been calm this week."

As far as the Seminoles know, McDougal is just the guy that hands off to Lee Becot and Randy Kinder. Notre Dame's running game is Florida State's biggest concern.

The team McDougal doesn't mind. His ultimate goal is still in sight.

"Coach Holtz said during Michigan week that if we follow the game plan we would have a good chance to win the national championship," McDougal said."That was good because I told him that before the season started, so I guess we were on the same page."

Holtz doesn't worry about first downs with McDougal in the lineup anymore. He knows his quarterback is capable of leading the team to the championship. His only concern now is that McDougal doesn't get hurt. He needs to take his game to a professional level.

"Kevin McDougal has just done a beautiful job. I hope he gets a chance to play on the NFL level," Holtz said. "I would never bet against Kevin McDougal."

Ward will be the feared quarterback on the field Saturday. Notre Dame's defense has worked for two weeks to find a way to neutralize His Heisman-ness.

As far as the Seminoles know, McDougal is just the guy that hands off to Lee Becot and Randy Kinder. Notre Dame's running game is Florida State's biggest concern.

McDougal doesn't mind. His ultimate goal is still in sight.

"Coach Holtz said during Michigan week that if we follow the game plan we would have a good chance to win the national championship," McDougal said. "That was good because I told him that before the season started, so I guess we were on the same page."

Holtz doesn't worry about first downs with McDougal in the lineup anymore. He knows his quarterback is capable of leading the team to the championship. His only concern now is that McDougal doesn't get hurt. He needs to take his game to a professional level.

"Kevin McDougal has just done a beautiful job. I hope he gets a chance to play on the NFL level," Holtz said. "I would never bet against Kevin McDougal."

The odds will be against him Saturday. Place your bets.
n the century. This phrase that would intimidate most college football touchdowns from Mark Green, Brooks' backup.

"We were so close to national championship," lamented Trojan quarterback Rodney Peele, whose Heisman hopes were dashed by the loss. "To have someone come in your stadium when you're so close and take it from you, it hurts."

"Thank God for Rocket Ismail," the coach said.

The one blemish in Holtz's big-game record comes with an asterisk, as a controversial call deprived the Irish of an upset in the Orange Bowl. With the Buffaloes forced to punt in the last minute of the game, Ismail caught the ball at his own nine and raced 91 yards down the sidelines for the go-ahead score, but a questionable clipping call on senior Greg

The coaching staff had to be especially happy that its conservative game plan was successful, as the Irish threw just two passes all game. However, the Irish were able to contend with the huge lines of Michigan, controlling the Michigan attack while grinding out a successful running game of their own.

This effort would have been all for naught, of course, if not for the speed of Ismail. Ned Bolcar summed it up best, combining the two factors in Notre Dame's victory, "Thank God for Rocket Ismail."
It is not going to solve Bosnia or Somalia, I don’t know why this is that big of a deal,” Irish coach Lou Holtz said.

“Why is it a big game? Are they going to award a national championship trophy to the winner? If they aren’t, it isn’t that big a game.”

The winners won’t be awarded a national championship trophy Saturday, but the losers won’t be awarded one either.

The team whose name is carved on that trophy will likely be invited to the White House, so maybe this game will help solve Bosnia or Somalia.

It’s a very big game. It has been building since Notre Dame beat Michigan two months ago. Eight weeks of speculation ends Saturday afternoon.

“People are really talking about this game because its No. 1 vs. No. 2 late in games in Notre Dame history ended in a tie,” Holtz said. “But from our point of view it’s business as usual.”

No. 1 vs. No. 2 is business as usual at Notre Dame.

Eight times since the inception of the Associated Press poll in 1936, Notre Dame has been involved in a game between the nation’s top two teams, less and it could cost them the game. I read the sportscast in the fourth quarter kept Notre Dame and Michigan State deadlocked at 10 in 1966. Both seasons Notre Dame eventually won the national title.

“We fought hard to come back and tie it,” Parseghian said. “They get reckless and it could cost them the game. I wasn’t going to do a jackass thing like that at that point.”

Some of the Notre Dame players might have liked a jackass thing like that to have a chance to win.

“It was devastating,” Irish quarterback Coley O’Brien said of the 10-10 tie in 1966. “We felt like we had lost the game and any chance we had at the national championship. But Ara reminded us that we played a great team under tough conditions and we didn’t lose.”

Twice in the last five years, Holtz has taken a top-ranked Irish team on the road to face the No. 2 team. Both times the Irish were victorious.

There was the 1988 win over Southern Cal that propelled Notre Dame to another national title, and a 1989 win over Michigan when “The Rocket” was launched.

Sophomore Raghib Ismail ran back two kickoffs for touchdowns to lead the Irish to a 24-19 win.

Notre Dame is 4-2-2 overall in No. 1 vs. No. 2 games, although it is 0-2-1 when ranked No. 2. Quarterback Angelo Bertelli led top-ranked Notre Dame to a 13-12 win over No. 2 Michigan in Ann Arbor on October 9, 1943.

“The hype for the game was great. It was Michigan against Notre Dame, which is a great rivalry to begin with and the rankings just made it a huge game,” Bertelli said. “Frank Leahy was very formal and a perfectionist to begin with, but he was even more so that week. The coaches left no stone unturned, they scouted Michigan perfectly.

“Both teams were loaded. Fortunately for us, Creighton Miller played the game of a lifetime and we thumped them.”

Notre Dame went on to win the national title and Bertelli captured Notre Dame’s first-ever Heisman Trophy.

The most famous No. 1 vs. No. 2 games in Notre Dame history ended in ties.

Johnny Lujack made a touchdown-saving tackle to preserve a 0-0 tie with Army in 1946 and Ara Parseghian’s conservative play-calling in the fourth quarter kept Notre Dame and Michigan State deadlocked at 10 in 1966.

Both seasons Notre Dame eventually won the national title.

“People are really talking about this game because its No. 1 vs. No. 2 late in games in Notre Dame history ended in a tie.”

Holtz likes to tell his team that they have memories of Saturday’s game will last a lifetime.

“Famous names like Bertelli, Lujack and Ismail are absent from Notre Dame’s roster this season. Names like McDougal, Becton and Burris may one day join those men as the legs of Notre Dame football. But they must first be a part of something special. Saturday is their opportunity. Holtz likes to tell his team that they have 60 minutes to play a game and lifetime to remember it.

Memories of Saturday’s game will last a lifetime.

GO IRISH!
We will stop the chop of the SEMINOLES!

This week-
The Papa vs. Mama Prediction Challenge

Papa Predicts: Mama Predicts:
ND 34 ND 24
FSU 33 FSU 23

Late Night Special
9 p.m. - close
1-14" Large 1 Topping Pizza $6.00 + tax
1 Topping Pizza $5.95 + tax

Party Pack
4-14" Large 1 Topping Pizzas $22.50 + tax
1 Topping Pizza $11.95 + tax

1-14" Large 1 Topping Pizza with 2 cans of Coke and Breadstix $10.00 + tax

HOURS
M-Th: 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 a.m.
Fri-Sat: 11:00 a.m. - 3:00 a.m.
Sun: Noon - 1:00 a.m.

Fast • Hot • Perfect
71-1177
The Most Popular Number on Campus.
Over the past two weeks, I have been asked time and again about tomorrow’s big game. “Do you think Florida State will go the distance?” the most frequently-asked question.

My answer, time and time again, has been a resounding, “Yes.”

Not that I am the world’s foremost authority on college football, but I think I have a handle on a game plan that can lead the Irish over the Seminoles and into a national championship.

In case you haven’t noticed, the strength of this year’s team is its ability to run the football.

The characteristic of every great Notre Dame team has been its penchant for grind-it-out football. A weakness of No. 1 Florida State (There are few) that has been diagnosed is its possible susceptibility to a running team who can control the line of scrimmage and the time of possession with a strong running game. This is an asset that can be utilized against the Seminoles.

As the Seminoles have faced a myriad of opponents over the pass-happy ACC, the Irish defense has come up against one of the nation’s best passing teams in Florida State.

The only possible stumbling block for the Irish is the potential for Dawson to hurt you when he’s on the field. The Seminoles are clearly the better team. The reason is simple. They have the best defense in the game. They also have the best offense.

Defensively, they could be the best ever.

The Irish can run the spread passing game every day in practice but were still not able to stop him to hurt you when he’s on the field. The Seminoles are clearly the better team. The reason is simple. They have the best offense in the game. They also have the best defense.

Offensively, they could be the best ever.

Charlie Ward runs the show, and should show no signs of rust after sitting out a week against lowly Maryland. The only way to stop Ward is to keep him off the field.

The problem is it doesn’t take long for him to hurt you when he’s on the field. A scoring drive of over three minutes is a rarity with Florida State’s "fast break" offense.

What makes Ward even more unstoppable is his supporting cast.

The Seminoles receivers are incredible and very deep. Matt Frier, Kez McCorvey, Kevin Knox, Tamarick Vanover in the four receiver set are almost unstoppable. Notre Dame has not seen a passing attack as spread out as Florida State's. The only way to stop Ward is to keep him off the field.

The problem is it doesn’t take long for him to hurt you when he’s on the field. A scoring drive of over three minutes is a rarity with Florida State’s "fast break" offense.

The characteristic of every great Notre Dame team has been its penchant for grind-it-out football. A weakness of No. 1 Florida State (There are few) that has been diagnosed is its possible susceptibility to a running team who can control the line of scrimmage and the time of possession with a strong running game.

As the Seminoles have faced a myriad of opponents over the pass-happy ACC, the Irish defense has come up against one of the nation’s best passing teams in Florida State.

The only possible stumbling block for the Irish is the potential for Dawson to hurt you when he’s on the field. The Seminoles are clearly the better team. The reason is simple. They have the best defense in the game. They also have the best offense.

Defensively, they could be the best ever.

The Irish can run the spread passing game every day in practice but were still not able to stop him to hurt you when he’s on the field. The Seminoles are clearly the better team. The reason is simple. They have the best offense in the game. They also have the best defense.

Offensively, they could be the best ever.

Charlie Ward runs the show, and should show no signs of rust after sitting out a week against lowly Maryland. The only way to stop Ward is to keep him off the field.

The problem is it doesn’t take long for him to hurt you when he’s on the field. A scoring drive of over three minutes is a rarity with Florida State’s "fast break" offense.

What makes Ward even more unstoppable is his supporting cast.

The Seminoles receivers are incredible and very deep. Matt Frier, Kez McCorvey, Kevin Knox, Tamarick Vanover in the four receiver set are almost unstoppable. Notre Dame has not seen a passing attack as spread out as Florida State's. The only way to stop Ward is to keep him off the field.

The problem is it doesn’t take long for him to hurt you when he’s on the field. A scoring drive of over three minutes is a rarity with Florida State’s "fast break" offense.
In cooperation with the U.S. Postal Service, Notre Dame and Florida State will mark Saturday's game with a special postmark featuring the colors and mascots of both universities.

The project developed out of a conversation at Freshman Orientation between Chuck Lennon, executive director of the Alumni Association and Head Postmaster Mike Walsh.

"We were talking at Freshman Orientation in August about doing a special cancellation for orientation, and it evolved into doing something special for a home football game," Lennon said.

The latest project is just one of several benefiting Notre Dame.

"To our knowledge, no other university has done a stamp cancellation around a football game," Lennon said.

In addition, the Notre Dame Alumni Association produced a commemorative postal card that includes a 22-cent Knute Rockne stamp that can be cancelled with the postmark. Trimmed in blue and gold, the card includes a welcome to Florida State fans on campus for the game.

The cost of the card is $1, with proceeds going to the Alumni Association for the Community Service Programs.

The card is more valuable to stamp collectors because it is hand-cancelled, Lennon said.

The Irish green or Seminole red postmark will be available Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Alumni Association office in room 201 Main Building.

The postmarked envelope will be sold from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Notre Dame post office, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at mobile units on the mail near the Clarke Memorial Fountain and inside Gate 3 of the J.A.C.C.

To celebrate Saturday's game between Notre Dame and FSU, the Alumni Association has produced a postal card that can be cancelled with an Irish green or Seminole red postmark.

The envelope will also be sold from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the mobile units and at a booth near the Varsity Shop in the J.A.C.C., and from 9:30 a.m. to noon at the post office.

The postal service will use the postmark to cancel stamps only, however, Fighting Irish and Seminole fans can create their own souvenirs of the game by putting a stamp on surfaces such as footballs, magazines, programs or T-shirts, according to Lennon.

The latest project is just one of several benefiting Notre Dame.

"To our knowledge, no other university has done a stamp cancellation around a football game," Lennon said.

In addition, the Notre Dame Alumni Association produced a commemorative postal card that includes a 22-cent Knute Rockne stamp that can be cancelled with the postmark. Trimmed in blue and gold, the card includes a welcome to Florida State fans on campus for the game.

The cost of the card is $1, with proceeds going to the Alumni Association for the Community Service Programs.

The card is more valuable to stamp collectors because it is hand-cancelled, Lennon said.

The Irish green or Seminole red postmark will be available Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Alumni Association office in room 201 Main Building.

The postmarked envelope will be sold from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Notre Dame post office, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at mobile units on the mail near the Clarke Memorial Fountain and inside Gate 3 of the J.A.C.C.

To celebrate Saturday's game between Notre Dame and FSU, the Alumni Association has produced a postal card that can be cancelled with an Irish green or Seminole red postmark.

The envelope will also be sold from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the mobile units and at a booth near the Varsity Shop in the J.A.C.C., and from 9:30 a.m. to noon at the post office.

The postal service will use the postmark to cancel stamps only, however, Fighting Irish and Seminole fans can create their own souvenirs of the game by putting a stamp on surfaces such as footballs, magazines, programs or T-shirts, according to Lennon.

The latest project is just one of several benefiting Notre Dame.

"To our knowledge, no other university has done a stamp cancellation around a football game," Lennon said.

In addition, the Notre Dame Alumni Association produced a commemorative postal card that includes a 22-cent Knute Rockne stamp that can be cancelled with the postmark. Trimmed in blue and gold, the card includes a welcome to Florida State fans on campus for the game.

The cost of the card is $1, with proceeds going to the Alumni Association for the Community Service Programs.

The card is more valuable to stamp collectors because it is hand-cancelled, Lennon said.

The Irish green or Seminole red postmark will be available Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Alumni Association office in room 201 Main Building.

The postmarked envelope will be sold from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Notre Dame post office, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at mobile units on the mail near the Clarke Memorial Fountain and inside Gate 3 of the J.A.C.C.

To celebrate Saturday's game between Notre Dame and FSU, the Alumni Association has produced a postal card that can be cancelled with an Irish green or Seminole red postmark.

The envelope will also be sold from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the mobile units and at a booth near the Varsity Shop in the J.A.C.C., and from 9:30 a.m. to noon at the post office.

The postal service will use the postmark to cancel stamps only, however, Fighting Irish and Seminole fans can create their own souvenirs of the game by putting a stamp on surfaces such as footballs, magazines, programs or T-shirts, according to Lennon.

The latest project is just one of several benefiting Notre Dame.

"To our knowledge, no other university has done a stamp cancellation around a football game," Lennon said.

In addition, the Notre Dame Alumni Association produced a commemorative postal card that includes a 22-cent Knute Rockne stamp that can be cancelled with the postmark. Trimmed in blue and gold, the card includes a welcome to Florida State fans on campus for the game.

The cost of the card is $1, with proceeds going to the Alumni Association for the Community Service Programs.

The card is more valuable to stamp collectors because it is hand-cancelled, Lennon said.

The Irish green or Seminole red postmark will be available Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Alumni Association office in room 201 Main Building.

The postmarked envelope will be sold from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Notre Dame post office, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at mobile units on the mail near the Clarke Memorial Fountain and inside Gate 3 of the J.A.C.C.

To celebrate Saturday's game between Notre Dame and FSU, the Alumni Association has produced a postal card that can be cancelled with an Irish green or Seminole red postmark.

The envelope will also be sold from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the mobile units and at a booth near the Varsity Shop in the J.A.C.C., and from 9:30 a.m. to noon at the post office.

The postal service will use the postmark to cancel stamps only, however, Fighting Irish and Seminole fans can create their own souvenirs of the game by putting a stamp on surfaces such as footballs, magazines, programs or T-shirts, according to Lennon.

The latest project is just one of several benefiting Notre Dame.

"To our knowledge, no other university has done a stamp cancellation around a football game," Lennon said.

In addition, the Notre Dame Alumni Association produced a commemorative postal card that includes a 22-cent Knute Rockne stamp that can be cancelled with the postmark. Trimmed in blue and gold, the card includes a welcome to Florida State fans on campus for the game.

The cost of the card is $1, with proceeds going to the Alumni Association for the Community Service Programs.

The card is more valuable to stamp collectors because it is hand-cancelled, Lennon said.

The Irish green or Seminole red postmark will be available Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Alumni Association office in room 201 Main Building.

The postmarked envelope will be sold from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Notre Dame post office, and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at mobile units on the mail near the Clarke Memorial Fountain and inside Gate 3 of the J.A.C.C.

To celebrate Saturday's game between Notre Dame and FSU, the Alumni Association has produced a postal card that can be cancelled with an Irish green or Seminole red postmark.

The envelope will also be sold from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the mobile units and at a booth near the Varsity Shop in the J.A.C.C., and from 9:30 a.m. to noon at the post office.

The postal service will use the postmark to cancel stamps only, however, Fighting Irish and Seminole fans can create their own souvenirs of the game by putting a stamp on surfaces such as footballs, magazines, programs or T-shirts, according to Lennon.
Seize the day, but don’t forget to put trust in tomorrow.

"Carpe diem," I would begin, if I were giving the annual address to the Dead Poets Society. "Quam minimum credula Ponto." "Seize the day, put no trust in tomorrow."

If I were the honored guest this year at the Society’s black-tie dinner, seated at the right hand of the founder, Robin Williams, whom I would remember to address as "Captain My Captain!," I would offer the members a verbal mosaic sparking with words from the dead poets, with Andrew Marvell’s "Carpe diem" piece, solicitng my coy tress’s long-preserved honor.

To say the grave’s a fine and private place is easy. Andy. But the grave was not very fine for Romeo, finding his lovely Juliet as a young bridegroom, not as chariot hurring offer the members a verbal mosaic sparking with words from the dead poets, with Andrew Marvell’s "Carpe diem" piece, solicitng my coy tress’s long-preserved honor.

Romeo, finding his lovely Juliet as a young bridegroom, not as chariot hurring offer the members a verbal mosaic sparking with words from the dead poets, with Andrew Marvell’s "Carpe diem" piece, solicitng my coy tress’s long-preserved honor.

If I were the honored guest this year at the Society’s black-tie dinner, seated at the right hand of the founder, Robin Williams, whom I would remember to address as "Captain My Captain!," I would offer the members a verbal mosaic sparking with words from the dead poets, with Andrew Marvell’s "Carpe diem" piece, solicitng my coy tress’s long-preserved honor.

The Dead Poets Society’s annual meeting tonight at the Darien Playhouse. The place to go for all your Notre Dame sportswear and accessories!
FOR SALE: ONE FSU GA $1235 ASK FOR BRENDAN

1 FSU GA JANICE 313-124-3560
FSU GA FOR SALE CALL ROB 312-924-9549
LEAVE BEST OFFER
1 FSU BC STUDENTS BEST OFFER
GREG 282-223-2133
1 FSU & 1 BC STUDENTS BEST OFFER
1 FSU STU & 1 BC STU FOR SALE LEAVE BEST OFFER CLAUDINE 313-124-3560
I HAVE TWO FLORIDA STATE GAS. BEST OFFER GETS THEM. CALL ROB AT X1801.

FSU - 2 SENIOR STUD TIX GREAT SEATS-45 YD LINE BEST OFFER!! CALL 322-4112 ASK FOR LBI

4 SALE 2 FSU GAS CALL SULLY 313 325 9270
4 SALE 2 BC GAS CALL AY JAY 313 325 9470

I HAVE 4 FSU GAS' AND ONE STUDENT TICKET FOR SALE
CALL 284-5464, BEST OFFER

FSU student ticket for sale, best offer: would list the $150, call me at 304-201 I want to get rid of my FSU 1k ASAP Make offer by Jay X257

ONE(1) FSU GA 4SALE
Mike (219) 634-1187

I NEED 2 FSU TIX FOR FSU
Will pay $150 each
Also Need 3 GAs for FSU
Please Call Mike 1-800 634-2963

I HAVE TO see my FSU STUDENT TIX Today is Fri., tom. is the game. $200 and if U wants, now. Call Karen at (219) 634-2963

FOR SALE
FSU GA $355

PERSONAL

Hey, didn’t you know?
Brie Kottke is a great guy.
Why don’t you give him
Happy Birthday, Brie!
Thanks for the present.

greetings, susanne!! i hope you had a wonderful birthday. have fun this weekend and try not to party too much.

Marie, good luck on both of your tests tonight, you too, Marie.

Carrie and Laura greetings...

American Red Cross

CHOPSTICKS
CHINESE FAST FOOD

We Deliver to your dorm!
Mon - Thurs 11 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Fri & Sat 11 a.m. - 10 p.m.

$6 minimum
$1 service charge for orders under $15

Call your chapter of the American Red Cross today. And know it all.

21st Annual Summer Program
ND — SMC

LONDON
May 18 - June 17
Travel in Ireland, Scotland and France

ROME
June 12 - July 11
Travel in France, Germany, and Switzerland

Call for information call Prof. Black 824-4460 or 272-3726

254-9068

FOR SALE
FSU GA

Stefan Center
ND/SMC/HCC
Students $10
General $15

special guest Sun 60

tickets available at the LaFortune Info Desk
He has been called "the most unappreciated man on the Notre Dame Campus" as he goes about the daily performance of his ministry in quiet dedication. In the summer of his seventieth year, he added two new religious ministries to an already busy schedule. One of these is the National Legion of SERV, an extension of SERV (Students Encouraging Religious Vocations), which he founded at Notre Dame four years ago. The other, the Saint Peregrine Prayer Society, is aimed at those who suffer from cancer and other life-threatening diseases.

Both of these new ministries are being carried out in small apartments in a former convent at Holy Cross Parish where he resides. He has recently published his new book, "NOTRE DAME ODYSSEY: A Journey Through Sports and Spirituality On The Notre Dame Campus," is being marketed by him personally with all proceeds going to support SERV and The National Legion of SERV.

At age 70, he is as busy or busier than at any time in his life. Seeing to it that SERV remains viable at Notre Dame is just the beginning. Although the Saint Peregrine Prayer Society is just getting off the ground, his National Legion of SERV is beginning to attract students from all over the United States and Canada who are trying to discern a vocation to religious life. Father Richard Drabik of the Marianists of the Immaculate Conception, has referred to SERV as "a vital movement in our time."

Other comments have been equally encouraging. Father Brad R. Plawecki, the new vocations director, calls SERV "a creative and original approach to promoting religious vocations" and Father Gregory Stab, Oblates of the Virgin Mary, another vocations director, calls it "fantastic, responding to a genuine need in the Church today."

These accolades notwithstanding, he has been denied permission to publish SERV literature during the World Youth Day activities in Denver last August, which left him bitterly disappointed, "I may be too busy to worry about it, but I am not discouraged. I will continue to try to develop him by whatever means at my disposal."

To date, all of his ministries have been supported almost entirely by himself. About Notre Dame, he says, "I am fortunate, indeed, that life has taken me deep into the realm of spiritual and spiritual Notre Dame life. I could never repay this University of Notre Dame and the people who work, study and minister here for all that they have given me; a reason for living, a meaningful life, a sense of accomplishment, a unique opportunity to contribute to so many in so many ways, help for this life and for the life hereafter."

Who is this man? His name is Herb Juliano and, you would care to meet him, he can be found just about any evening at the year at 6:45 at the Notre Dame grotto, helping to lead the singing and prayers of the Rosary.

On any given home football Saturday, weather permitting, you will find him at his tables behind the Sacred Hearts Basilica, selling football photos from his private collection to visiting fans. He has his "Gallery of Legends" and for seven years all proceeds have gone to help his SERV organization and the Sacred Heart Parish.

And, on any given First Friday of the month, regardless of the weather, he leads a few faithful students along the shore of Saint Joseph's Lake on the Way of the Cross for an increase of holy vocations.

Currently, he is working on producing a rosary booklet and hymnal to be used by visitors to the grotto, including a history of the grotto and a history of the rosary.

If he has a few spare moments, he can be found in the Crypt below the Basilica practicing hymns on the electronic organ, which he often plays (with a minimal number of fingers) for masses there. "What I know about music I didn't learn by just reading music, but I can sing all the time, and I can do it well."

Nevertheless, he has received many compliments for his organ playing and often, while practicing in the solitude of the Crypt, he places on the music rack photos of Notre Dame students who have died in recent years and to whom he addresses his music.

Nor has he neglected the organ and the widows. He has been a frequent "sitter" at a foster home in the area and an ever-improvising visitor to the elderly in a local nursing home, where his rendition of "Maurice Chevalier's 'Thank Heaven For Little Girls' is beyond comparison and support and encourage one another.

He is an active member of two Catholic fratostes, Sacred Heart on the campus and Holy Cross, where he resides as manager of the Smith Center which provides housing for Notre Dame graduate students.

Until recently, an important part of his spiritual life and a way of expressing his faith was the Holy Scripture for masses in the Basilica. Father James McGrath, one of many Holy Cross priests for whose masses he has read, has graciously referred to him as "quite simply, the best reader on campus."

Lately, however, he has found it impossible to sign up for readings in the Basilica anymore, although he is saddened by this privation of a community church, he is learning to live with it.

Prior to his coming to Notre Dame, he had begun to build a life in sports, as baseball coach at a small Catholic high school in New Jersey, as a pioneer developer of the Little League Baseball program and as a rockie enjoying a brief fling with the Philadelphia A's. His only claim to fame, he quips, is that he has a candy bar named after him: BUTTERFINGERS! "Let's just say the A's retired my uniform while I was still wearing it," he adds.

Though he would probably scoff at them, here are some quotes from students appreciative of Herb and his contributions: "You write very well..." (Father Ted Hesburgh)
"He is known to everyone from SPORTS ILLUSTRATED editors to sports trivia buffs." (Notre Dame OBSERVER)
"Notre Dame could not have a finer representative than Herb Juliano. He is my ideal of a true Notre Dame man." (Mike Shields, author, "Greatest Moments In Notre Dame Football History")
"Juliano is sports' leading bookie." (SPORTS ILLUSTRATED, referring to his knowledge of sports books and literature)

"A capable man who has brought attention and commendation to the University." (Chairman, United States Olympic Committee)

"Juliano has a home in annals of sports. He is the Answer Man of Sports." (National Italian-American Sports News)

Like Archie Graham in "Field of Dreams," he never had an official time-at-bat in the major leagues, but his baseball card shows him standing on the turf of Connie Mack Stadium in 1946 and tells you that he has dedicated his life to sports, as a means to proclaim the Gospel and in the cause of world peace. It includes a capsule version of his life in sports, including his proposal for World Brotherhood Games, or "Christian Olympics," patented after the ancient Olympic Games which were the world's first religious festival and part of sporting festival.

He may be the most unappreciated man on the Notre Dame campus, but he has a treasure trove of memories that few can match. Moreover, he is too busy to worry about whether or not he is appreciated.

Charity has been an important part of his life. Several years ago he donated a perfectly new front Pontiac station wagon to the Women's Care Center because of the fight against abortion.

Also, he has been known to help more than one student to meet the challenge of a costly Notre Dame education. "After all," he says, "it is through good stewardship of time, talents and possessions that we all help to carry out Christ's work in the world."

Then he adds: "Perhaps someday Christ will say well done. Not because I gave a lot. Because I gave a little, but it was all I had."

---

Presenting a Notre Dame Book that Comes Straight from the Heart!

NOTRE DAME ODYSSEY
A Journey Through Sports And Spirituality
On The Notre Dame Campus

by Herb Juliano

A man who has spent most of his life involved with sports and religious activities on the Notre Dame campus, Herb Juliano has had rare insight into the heart of a great institution.

232 Pages! Rare Stories! Rare Photos! Each Book Personally Autographed! Featuring the titles included in the celebratory.

The ODYSSEY Team • Bullying and Soccer Drama • The Spirit of Notre Dame Persevered • Notes from the Fire House and Beyond • The Memories • The Subway Alumni Saga • Say It Ain't So, Father: A Voice From the Subway • The Next Forty Years

All proceeds from sale of book to aid students Encouraging Religious vocations at Notre Dame $12.50 plus postage and handling. Please send 2 copies (ies) of Notre Dame Odyssey at $12.50 per copy to:

Name _____________________________
Address __________________________
City __________________________ State ______ Zip _______

Autograph to: ________________________

Make check or money order payable to NOTRE DAME ODYSSEY and mail to: Notre Dame Odyssey, P.O. Box 211, Notre Dame, IN 46556
By DYLAN BARMER
Sports Writer

While most people will be utterly absorbed with this weekend's colossal gridiron clash with Florida State, members of the Notre Dame men's cross country team will worry about more pressing matters. The Irish cross country team will face stiff competition, however. and Sports End's cross country team will worry about the number one team that has been strong, as well as Miami of Ohio and Ohio State at the meet, thus will be running in Bloomington, with Florida State, will not come easily. Cowan about more pressing matters.

Cowan has been superb all season personal record of 25:47.1 at the University. Indiana and Iowa cannot be discounted, and we have one should forget about Loyola. This meet is going to be interesting to see how things turn out. Our team is looking forward to the challenge, and I am looking forward to seeing how they respond. How the Irish respond will depend largely on how McWilliams responds. The quietly confident team leader is feeling up for the race, and realizes what the team must accomplish on Saturday.

"We have to finish in the top three, preferably win the team," said McWilliams. We need to run as a group to be successful. A key component is Cowan, Seiling, and Ruder running together, with Joe Dunlop, Matt Althoff, and J.R. Meloro not far behind. The great amount of depth possessed by the Irish may be what separates them from the rest of the field. Junior runner John Cowan sees this as the Irish's greatest strength, and he is likely not alone in thinking so.

"This is the strongest team, we've ever seen go into the district meet, and we've got the potential to win it," said Cowan. "With a potential All-American in Derek Seiling and Nate Ruder this season, we have more depth than any other team in the district. We are expecting great things out of Derek Seiling and Nate Ruder this Saturday, and we're looking to finish strong." The Irish hope to have a first, second, or third place finish at the meet this Saturday, they will be assured of a spot at the NCAA's on November 22.

The Irish women's cross country team hopes to earn their second consecutive national title. The team finished with a second place finish, which was their program's best ever.

"I think this is the best team has run from our number runner through our number five runner," said Connolly. "This is an example of how well this team can run and I am happy to see it all come together at a meet like the NCAA's."

"The MCC's are a great thing for us to really work together as a group and prepare for districts," said Riley. With the way the team has been running, they might also become a part of Notre Dame history this weekend.

"All of these teams will be difficult to run with but I am optimistic. Our team showed a concerted effort at the MCC's, and if we run like that we should be competitive."

The Irish's greatest strength, and he is likely not alone in thinking so.

Improved teamwork key to women's success

By AMY GRIFFIN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's cross country team hopes to earn their first-ever NCAA berth this weekend in the NCAA District IV meet at Indiana University. The team was ranked 12th in the nation, the team plans to surpass last year's fourth-place finish, which was their program's best ever.

"The Irish captured their second consecutive NCAA championship at Rose Tree Park, Pennsylvania, over fall break. The team finished with a total of 20 points, while Loyola was a distant second with 56, and LaSalle placed third with 87 points. "I think the MCC race is a good reflection of the potential of this team. There are certainly going to be a lot of talented teams at (districts)." said Irish coach Tim Connelly. "Michigan is obviously a great team, and the whole Big Ten conference is tough this year."

The team will be practicing this Saturday at 9:00 a.m. at Loftus. No experience necessary. All interested welcome to come.
McCarthy continued from page 28 individual effort.

"I really wasn't nervous," McCarthy said after the game. "I knew we were going to score." It's that confidence which has characterized McCarthy's career. Even when the Irish faced off against powerhouse North Carolina, a team which had won its last 68 games and 11 of the past 12 national championships, she was as unfazed as she is when she takes the field against some of Notre Dame's weaker conference opponents.

"I don't care who I'm playing," she said. "I don't get intimidated, I play with a lot of composure." "That's Michelle's personality," said Notre Dame head coach Chris Petrucci. "Pressure doesn't affect her. You will never, ever, see Michelle frazzled." However, the same claim cannot be made of her defender's. Michelle has been described by many as one of the best ball handlers in the country. When she has the ball on her feet, it is often impossible to stop her. "I haven't seen anybody who can dribble the ball like Michelle can," Petrucci said. "She's so good with the ball that she can play anywhere." "She can go through anybody," said fellow forward Stacia Masters. "She can swivel and beat the whole defense. Michelle has the best one-touch to settle the ball, and that makes a lot of things happen."

Grace Hall
24 Hour Charity Run

Fieldhouse Mall
Friday 12 noon – Saturday 12 noon
Raise Money for Northwest Neighborhood Center

Test Presented by AAY's Rent-All Co.
256-1110

SUPPORT THE UNITED WAY BY PURCHASING THIS LIMITED EDITION COMMEMORATIVE T-SHIRT.

NOTRE DAME VS. FLORIDA STATE
only $10

THE BATTLE FOR #1
NOVEMBER 13, 1993

See your hall president by Friday
While Supplies Last
Sponsored by Student Government
FSU also swim teams’ focus Irish confident about defeating the Seminoles

By KELLY CORNELIS
Sports Writer

Like most students on the Notre Dame campus, the Irish swimmers are gearing up for the Florida State weekend. But they are concentrating on beating the Seminole swimmers, not the football team.

Starting at 4 p.m. today at Rolfs Aquatic Center, the Notre Dame men's and women's swimming team will host Florida State, in their first-ever meeting. The meet also marks the first Irish match-up against an Atlantic Coast Conference team in several years.

Florida State is coming off a loss against rival University of Florida, so they will be looking to redeem themselves. According to Irish swim coach Tim Welsh, the Seminoles have a strong, fast team, and he is expecting an exciting meet.

"This is not a meet that can be decided on paper," stated Welsh. "We are anticipating an outstanding swimming meet in which all the races will be close."

The women hope to continue their winning ways, and the men would like to rebound with the first win over Florida State.

"I have no idea what I'm going to say," she said. "I've written some things down, but I always end up tearing it up." Scott's presence may mean more than her words Friday.

Scott returned to the pool with a dramatic win in her heat of the 50-yard freestyle. With that struggle behind her, Scott is now struggling with the notion of speaking in front of 12,000 Irish fans.

"I have no idea what I'm going to say," she said. "I've written some things down, but I always end up tearing it up."

Scott's presence may mean more than her words Friday.
Fencers face new format at Chicago

By JOE VILLINSKI
Sports Writer

This weekend the Notre Dame men's and women's fencing teams travel to the University of Chicago for their second and final fall meet before the season kicks into high gear in January.

The Irish will be competing in a new format for the meet. This Chicago Invitational consists of cumulative point scoring that focuses more on the individual.

Rather than awarding a point for an individual win, all points will be carried down to the next bout. The first competitor to score five points wins the bout, but the scoring carries over to the next weapon until a team has reached twenty-five points.

"This format has been used in international competition before and may be adapted to college in the future," said coach Mike DeGio. "It could have some nice spectator interests."

The five types of bouts that will be used at the Invitational include men's and women's foil, men's and women's epee and sabre. In order to compete in these different areas, the Irish will be taking four teams ranging form A-D and consisting of cumulative point scoring. This will result in a new format for the meet.

Fighting on the men's foil team will be Jeremy Siek, Stan Brunner, Conor Power and Paul Capobianco respectively. The women's foil team will be comprised of Corinne Dougherty, Didi Garcia, Kimberly Arndt, and Monica Wagner. Greg Wozniak, Brian Glarard, Jason Arnold, and Bruce Dille comprise the men's epee team.

Taking up its counterpart in international competition will be Maura Gallagher, Marit Kimmer, Pete Bengel, Hans Scheer, Ashley Shannon, and Monica Caruso. Rounding out the women's epee team won 10-6 and dominated both Chicago, 16-0, and Michigan, 15-1.

"The team had a chance to scrimmage this week in order to get ready for the new format," said assistant Ed Bagner. Twenty-one teams will be fighting for the championship Saturday including Detroit, Wayne State, Chicago, Northwestern, and Michigan. The last three already having lost to the Irish once last week in the Notre Dame Fall Fencing Festival.

Northwestern proved to be the men's toughest opponent as the Irish edged the Wildcats 14-13 with the foil and epee teams each winning their respective weapons 6-3. While the men had trouble with Northwestern, the women's foil team won 6-3 and dominated both Chicago, 16-0, and Michigan, 15-1.

Tim Roemer
U.S. Congressman
3rd District, Indiana

Congressman Roemer will discuss the recently signed legislation promoting national service and its implications for Notre Dame students, faculty, and alumni. All are welcome.

Friday, November 12, 1993 4:00 PM
Center for Social Concerns

Sponsored by: The Notre Dame Committee for National and Community Service
The Center for Social Concerns

Classifieds
continued from page 18

Victer Victor Victor
Physica Physica Physica
Rock On

Belen Serrano
You drive me crazy...

TO THE WOMEN'S SOCCER TEAM, it's been a good season and it's not over! Time to: play your best, play with a passion and a purpose.

Time to: GET SOME, IRISH!

FOR SALE: 2 FSU GA's
CALL More x175

SMC-ND SUMMER PROGRAMS: LONDON AND ROME TO W. EUROPE. COURSES IN PHOTO, HIST, U.S., SOC. BIO, MEETING LIBRARY AID. LOUNGE.

ND men vs. Wisconsin (3:00 pm)
CATCH THE PLAY BY PLAY ON 103.1 WHME-PA. GO IRISH!

To the thief who stole my tailgate ticket from my room Tuesday night, I know who you are and I have a witness. Slide the fee under my door today, no questions asked, or I will call the police.

Darnell, Darnell you're such a big stud. If you have the ford you'd make a big thud.

If smoothness could be taught you'd be teaching.

Darnell you're such a big stud. If you have the ford you'd make a big thud.

Happy Birthday to you and have a lot of fun.

Love, 900

Thanks to American Heart Association for helping us raise over $2100 for La Casa de Amistad.

Special congratulations to Mona Seward of B.P. for winning the FSU tickets.

Watch for other upcoming events sponsored by the Sophomore Class.

American Heart Association

Tim Roemer
U.S. Congressman
3rd District, Indiana

The National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993

To learn more about reducing your risk, contact your local American Heart Association. Your Life Is In Your Hands.

Great Gift Idea
the Notre Dame Coloring Book

Available at The Hammes Bookstore, Alumni Hospitality Room, the Varsity Shop, and the Morris Inn

BRUNO'S PIZZA

BRUNO'S DELIVERS!!

Weekend Special:
18 in-2items $14.00
14 in-2items $10.00
For Carry Out/Delivery call
273-3890

GO IRISH BEAT FSU!!

2610 Prairie Ave 288-3320
Volleyball’s east coast trip a warmup for postseason play

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR

Asst Sports Editor

Hoping to increase their chances at a home match in the second round in the NCAA tournament, the Notre Dame volleyball team heads east this weekend to take on rivals LaSalle and Pittsburgh.

Although they dropped to No. 18 in both the Volleyball Monthly and AVCA Top 25, the Irish still hold the No. 1 ranking in the Mideast region, which gives them the inside track to hosting tournament games.

The Irish have yet to lose to a regional team this season.

"This week and next, when we play teams in the region, it's very important that we play well and hold on to that No. 1 spot," stated Irish head coach Debbie Brown, who has led the team to a 21-5 record this season.

The Irish will experience some minor adjustments this weekend, as Brown will be unable to make the trip because she is expecting a baby in the coming weeks. Steve Schlick, who has been with Brown for six years, will take over the head coaching responsibilities.

"The team is very prepared for the changes," stated Brown. "The only negative is that we will have one less body on the bench for stats and other things, but I have tremendous faith and confidence that Steve and Devin (assistant coach Deana Pregi) will do a great job."

The Irish will also be without the services of top middle blocker Molly Stark, who injured her ankle in practice last week and is still day to day.

Freshman Jen Briggs will likely start in her place, while classmate Laura Beckmeyer should also see her minutes increase at the middle blocker position.

"We've had to make some adjustments because of Molly's absence," explained Brown. "Obviously we'd love to have her in the starting lineup, but we expect the freshmen to come in and play well."

The entire Notre Dame squad can expect to see extended action as the Irish open their roadtrip Friday night at LaSalle. The Explorers enter the game with an 8-21 overall record and 0-4 MUC standing, which should allow the Irish to experiment with numerous combinations, gaining experience for players at different positions.

The Explorers have yet to challenge in an MUC contest, losing each match 3-0. However, junior outside hitter is having a solid season for LaSalle, leading the team with 179 kills.

The Irish will then have a day to rest before taking on the best of the Big East, traveling to Pittsburgh to take on the 19-8 Panthers. Pitt has won the Big East regular season title with an unblemished 7-0 conference mark, and look to challenge the Irish as a regional contender.

Senior outside hitter Ann Marie Luciano is the best all-around player for the Panthers, hitting .331 with 437 kills while adding 326 digs.

Notre Dame will use this weekend as a warmup for the following weekend's MUC tournament, where Notre Dame will be the top seed and looking to clinch an automatic NCAA tournament bid.

---

Correction

The Observer incorrectly reported Wednesday that Ruth Diemer was the medal winning cox-swain in a story about the Rowing Club.

The actual winner was Marsha Hyder.

The Observer regrets the error.
underdog, especially when we match up.

The only area that may give the Badgers the edge is that they will be playing at home.

The two teams have squared off eight times in their careers. Wisconsin has won four, Notre Dame one, and they have tied three times. They last faced each other in 1990, where they played to a 0-0 deadlock in Madison. The key player in Sunday's contest for the Badgers will be forward Travis Roy, who has 31 points thus far. The sophomore is supported offensively by mid-fielder Mike Gentile and co-captain Jason Hoke, who have contributed with a combined nine goals on the season.

Wisconsin will have to contend with a stellar Irish defense. Juniors Bert Bader, Chris Dean, Dane Whitley, and freshman Brian Engesser will hope to stop the Badger attack to give Notre Dame its fifth consecutive shutout. Offensively for the Irish, Lanza and fellow forwards will look to the Badgers to score. Since 1991, Wisconsin has posted a 22-3-1 home record, including an 8-2 mark this year.

The two teams have squared off eight times in their careers. Wisconsin has won four, Notre Dame one, and they have tied three times. They last faced each other in 1990, where they played to a 0-0 deadlock in Madison. The key player in Sunday's contest for the Badgers will be forward Travis Roy, who has 31 points thus far. The sophomore is supported offensively by mid-fielder Mike Gentile and co-captain Jason Hoke, who have contributed with a combined nine goals on the season.

Wisconsin will have to contend with a stellar Irish defense. Juniors Bert Bader, Chris Dean, Dane Whitley, and freshman Brian Engesser will hope to stop the Badger attack to give Notre Dame its fifth consecutive shutout. Offensively for the Irish, Lanza and fellow forwards will look to the Badgers to score.

The Stable's Bistro & Marketplace
Fine dining at moderate prices
Gourmet sandwiches • pastries • coffee
Theatre Works Playhouse - upstairs
at the Bistro
Ask about catering 257-0400

The Stable’s Bistro & Marketplace
Fine dining at moderate prices
Gourmet sandwiches • pastries • coffee
Theatre Works Playhouse - upstairs
at the Bistro
Ask about catering 257-0400

One Voice
The Collegiate Choirs of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College

Selection includes:

Denny Roy
Men's Choir

Let the River Run
No Is Worthy

Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel
King of Love

Mary Speaks
The Bells of Saint Mary's Notre Dame, Our Mother

Notre Dame Victory March and more...

Featuring:
Notre Dame Glee Club
Shenanigans
Saint Mary's Women's Choir
Chorale Voices of Faith Gospel Choir
Junk Choir
Liturgical Choir
Notre Dame Women's Choir
SMC/ND Collegiate Choir

Available at:

LaFortune Info Desk
ND Bookstore
SMC Bookstore
Morris Inn
Campus Ministry

• All proceeds directly benefit the South Bend Center for the Homeless.
• PREMIERING ... a collection of the nine collegiate choirs from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.
• 86 of each item is tax deductible.

You are cordially invited to attend a PRESENTATION on FIXED INCOME SALES & TRADING on Wednesday, November 17, 1993 7:00 pm Notre Dame Room, Morris Inn All undergraduates are invited to join Lehman Brothers professionals LEHMAN BROTHERS

It's Official!
The Official University of Notre Dame Bowl Tour

Alumni Association

Sponsored by the Notre Dame Haines Alumni Association and Athletic Department
All alumni, parents and friends of Notre Dame are invited to participate in this tour which includes:
• Game Ticket (priority seating)
• three nights at the alumni headquarters luxury hotel
• exclusive tour welcome reception with University President
• admission and round trip transfers to pep rally
• team parents' reception
• bowl souvenirs
• round trip transfers to game
• daily Masses at the hotel
• Alumni Staff escorts & tour desk

3 days/4 nights rates for single, double, triple and quad occupancy (airfare not included)

RATES WILL BE DICTATED BY LOCATION. PACKAGE PRICES AND HOTEL RATES WILL BE ADVERTISED AS SOON AS NOTRE DAME ACCEPTS A BOWL RIB

Call 1-800-ND GAME1 or (219) 631-6000

Discount airfares from all cities available through ANTHONY TRAVEL, official travel service of Notre Dame. Even if you don't purchase the tour package, you're welcome to join your Notre Dame friends at the Notre Dame alumni headquarters hotel (to be determined.)

1-800-7 DOMERS
Improved defense building confidence for Irish hockey

By TIM SHERMAN
Sports Writer

Confidence. That is one thing that the Notre Dame hockey team has been lacking in recent years.

The Irish play two key conference games this weekend. On Friday night, they travel to Columbus to skate against Ohio State. The next night, the Irish face off against Miami of Ohio.

But there is something different about this weekend's games. Notre Dame is confident it will win.

Senior captain Matt Osiecki, on the overall attitude of the team, "We're real positive right now going into these games. The team is expecting to play well. We definitely expect to win one or two (games) this weekend."

Why the new-found confidence? The main reason is the recent play of the Irish defense. This past weekend the Irish played two games with Michigan State, traditionally one of the nation's top teams. Although the Irish could only manage a tie, the defense was superb. The Spartans could only manage four goals in the two games. Three of the goals came while the Irish were short-handed. Skating five on five, Notre Dame allowed just one goal.

Along with Osiecki, sophomores Matt Bieck, Jeremy Goo, and Garry Gruber have provided solid blue-line play. The goaltending has also been strong. Wade Salzman, and especially, Greg Louder, each played well over the weekend. Louder, who is 2-1-1 in net, stopped all but one of the shots he faced on Saturday. When the Irish defense did break down, Louder came up big, as he stopped a couple of breakaways.

The offense is the area of concern for coach Ric Schafer. Notre Dame has scored only 11 goals in their first five games, only one a power-play goal.

They have created plenty of opportunities and, in time, goals will definitely come. Because of the reliability of the defense, Notre Dame does not have to change their game-plan in order to generate quick goals to be competitive. Still, the team needs to get on track offensively the take some of the pressure off the defense. The Irish are ready to do just that. "We have picked it up offensively. Now, we just need to score with our chances."

Friday night's game with the Buckeyes should provide such a chance. The Irish swept last year's three-game series. Ohio State is tied for fifth with the Irish with a 1-2-1 conference record. Goalie Tom Askey is the key for the Buckeyes. He owns the second best save percentage in the CCHA.

On the other end of the ice, the Irish must be wary of sophomore winger Joe Sellars, who was this past week's CCHA player of the week. He leads the Buckeyes with seven points.

Senior captain Matt Osiecki believes the Irish hockey team is on the road to success.

After tackling Ohio State on Friday night, the team will then face the Miami (Ohio) team, who took all three games from the Irish last season. While both teams will pose a challenge for the Irish, Notre Dame is definitely capable of taking both games. Osiecki feels, "We're ready to step it up now and win some games."
SPELUNKER
Friday, November 12, 1993

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1  Anagram, e.g. [7]
10  The -- 1973 film [5]
15  Handy [5]
16  Kind of expenditure [9]
17  Anagram, e.g. [7]
19  "Tell it--" [8]
21  Bar [7]
22  "Tell it--" [8]
23  Make a computer program [11]
27  Support [8]
28  Dilatory [5]
29  Wanders [5]
30  XXVI [3]
31  Veal [3]
32  Swedish river [8]
33  Actress Young [9]
34  Chains [5]
35  Expenditure [9]
36  Having a thing, e.g. [8]
37  Nonmetallic element [8]
38  Rms. [5]
39  Bud [5]
40  Magnetism [8]
41  Uses a form [8]
42  Ward [5]
43  Poetic quality [8]
44  Carpenter's tool [8]
45  Name, to Nero [6]
46  Construction [8]
47  Position, for notes [4]
48  Position [2]
49  Position [2]
50  Support [8]
51  Elsewhere: Lat. [4]
52  A daughter of Xanthippe [8]
53  Ail [2]
54  Nonmetallic element [8]
55  One [2]
56  Traveling vendor, for short [9]
57  "Tell it--" [8]
58  Launderer's position [9]
59  Launderer's position [9]
60  One [9]
61  "Tell it--" [8]
62  Support [8]
63  Support [8]
64  Support [8]
65  Support [8]
66  Support [8]
67  Support [8]
68  Support [8]
69  Support [8]
70  Support [8]

DOWN
1  Dilatory [9]
2  Chamber for drying [9]
3  Wanders [9]
4  Suffix [3]
5  Animal starch [9]
6  Capital of Morocco [9]
7  Modern geology, once [9]
8  Kind of obsolescence [9]
9  Present [9]
10  Number 3 woods, to Gene Sarazen [9]
11  Bull Comb. form [9]
12  Provide pages for notes [9]
13  Sign of the zodiac [9]
14  Specious quality [9]
15  Renoir subjects [9]
16  Lapham, Howells protagonist [9]
17  Behead [9]
18  Vanished [9]
19  Where enemies meet [9]
20  Accelerator [9]
21  Aegean island [9]
22  Pulls a last one [9]
23  Pims [9]
24  Pims [9]
25  Pims [9]
26  Pims [9]
27  Pims [9]
28  Pims [9]
29  Pims [9]
30  Pims [9]
31  Pims [9]
32  Pims [9]
33  Pims [9]
34  Pims [9]
35  Pims [9]
36  Pims [9]
37  Pims [9]
38  Pims [9]
39  Pims [9]
40  Pims [9]
41  Pims [9]
42  Pims [9]
43  Pims [9]
44  Pims [9]
45  Pims [9]
46  Pims [9]
47  Pims [9]
48  Pims [9]
49  Pims [9]
50  Pims [9]
51  Pims [9]
52  Pims [9]
53  Pims [9]
54  Nonmetallic element [8]
55  One [2]
56  Traveling vendor, for short [9]
57  "Tell it--" [8]
58  Launderer's position [9]
59  Launderer's position [9]
60  One [9]
61  "Tell it--" [8]
62  Support [8]
63  Support [8]
64  Support [8]
65  Support [8]
66  Support [8]
67  Support [8]
68  Support [8]
69  Support [8]
70  Support [8]

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE
30  Fun
31  Journey
32  Rejoin
33  Wrong
34  Reckon
35  Rub
36  May 37  Ask
38  Slide
39  Scour
40  Blot
41  Thaw
42  Hike
43  Epitaph
44  Semicolon
45  Discern
46  Causal
47  Ass
48  Howl
49  Hillside
50  Angle
51  Climb
52  Fright
53  Embark
54  Relay
55  Speak
56  Clear
57  Spin
58  Shall 59  Bar
60  Giving 61  Commotion
62  Egyptian
63  Plan
64  Remains
65  Exclamation
66  Regulate 67  Measure
68  Goggles
69  Draw
70  Cold

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).

OF INTEREST
- Congressman Tim Roemer will discuss the recently signed legislation promoting national service and its implications for Notre Dame students, faculty, and alumni on Friday, Nov. 12, at 4 p.m. at the Center for Social Concerns. All are welcome.
- Thomas Wharton professor of English Literature, Terry Eagleton, of St. Catherine's College of Oxford, will lecture on "Emily Bronte and the Great Hunger" today at 3 p.m. in room 131 of Debutolo.
- Graduate Students Social Hour will be at Wilson Commons every Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. to relax, wind down, meet with friends, play pool, or play darts. Munchies and soft drinks are available.
- Center for the Homeless Spring Internship applications are available at the CSC and the Center for the Homeless for interested undergraduates and graduate students. Program applications. The application deadline is November 30. For more information contact Drew Busscarreno at 282-8300.
- The Student Art Forum is hosting a Foreign Film Night featuring "Camille Claudel" (with English subtitles) which was nominated in 1989 as the best foreign language film. The movie is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight in the Snite museum's conference room. Admission, popcorn, and pop are provided for free.

CROSSWORD

I was an Eye On The Lawn From Carefree For A "How To Deal With The Annoyance," I DONT WANT THE ORIGI...!!

I CROSSWORD

I FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

I Aloe Starch Celery

I PAYS ATTENTION!!

I WHEN YOU CHANGE THE CHANNEL, I DONT THINK THE ORIGINAL PROGRAM SHOULD BE ABLE TO CHANNEL IT BACK...

I STUPID Turn Up So Slow" On Patsy.

I 41 \Ttay I am Hoo... The Next Match."

I DAVE KELLETT

I No, No, Are You Sure You Fly To Am.

I No, No, Are You Sure You Fly To Am.

I CUSHING Auditorium 8 & 10:30PM

I Monday November 15

I Admision $2

I BACKING out of the driveway, Mr. Peabody suddenly brought his car to a stop. He had already heard a peculiar "thump," and now these flattened but familiar-looking glasses further intrigued him.

CONCERT!!!!
Big Head Todd
Monday November 15
8PM Step an
STUDENTS $10 GENERAL $15
AVAILABLE AT THE LAFORTUNE INFO DESK

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 12
SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE
Starring Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks

Admission $2

THANKS FOR THE RATING, "SRP!" TO MAST.

I NO NO. NO PAIN!!

I "NO NO. NO PAIN!!"
Irish, Badgers a perfect match

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Writer

The second season has begun for the Notre Dame men's soccer team. After months of training, a grueling ten week season, and its second Midwest Collegiate Conference Tournament title, the Irish will compete in their second NCAA tournament when they play a first round game Sunday afternoon at the University of Wisconsin.

"The juniors have been waiting three years and the seniors four to get to this game," said Irish head coach Mike Bertiellci, who will be making his first trip to the NCAA tournament since his coaching days at Old Dominion in 1989.

Notre Dame, sporting a 15-5 record and a No. 20 national ranking, received a bid Monday afternoon after capturing the MCC title last weekend. The Irish downed Detroit Mercy in the final 2-0 behind goals by sophomore Bill Lanza and freshman Chris Mathis. The 13th ranked Badgers, a team with a 13-3-4 record this year, received an at-large bid to the tournament after they fell to Penn State 1-0 in the semifinals of the Big Ten Championships.

When mulling over the tournament pairings, the NCAA officials could not have picked two more evenly-matched teams to face each other in the first round.

Against common opponents, the Irish hold a 3-2 record, while Wisconsin is 4-2-1. Both teams defeated Ohio State, Evansville, but neither could handle Indiana or Penn State. The Nittany Lions, who squeaked by the Irish 1-0 earlier this year, tied the Irish in the regular season before beating them in the postseason. Statistically, the two teams appear equal. Wisconsin has scored 44 goals while allowing only 17 on the year. Notre Dame has scored 38 goals and allowed 22 times, and has allowed opponents to score on only 18 occasions.

"I think we're the underdog," said Berticelli. "Always prefer to go into a game like this as the favorite."