With two trade victories, Clinton looks to Europe

SEATTLE

The Clinton administration is claiming a huge psychological boost as it turns its attention from Asia-Pacific summity to winning completion in Geneva of a long-postponed set of new global trading rules.

Leaders who participated in the three-day conference of Pacific Rim nations said the meeting in Seattle would help bring pressure to bear on re­luctant Europeans to complete a round of trade liberalization moves by a Dec. 15 deadline.

"The president has had a ter­rible week," Secretary of State Warren Christopher said Sunday on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley." "He has completed two parts of this triple play" with the successful Asian summit and the passage this week of the North American Free Trade Agreement.

"I don't think our partners in Geneva have missed the signifi­cance of what's happened here," U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor said in Seattle.

Kantor is expected to press the point Monday in talks in Washington with Leon Brittain, trade commissioner for the 12­ nation European Community.

Participants in the 17­nation Asia­Pacific Economic Cooperation conference — ranging from close U.S. allies to Chinese President and Communist Party leader Jiang Zemin — were quick to pre­nounce the summit a success.

"One must not exaggerate. There are still great differences among the members. But a start has been made," said Hamish Macleod, Hong Kong's financial secretary.

And Jiang, while refusing to yield on President Clinton's demands that China do more on human rights and in other trade areas, was upbeat about the meeting itself.

Irish leader says he and British are committed to peace

By SHAWN POGATCHNIK

LONDON

Britain and Ireland yesterday committed to establishing a peace process in Northern Ireland, but the "window of opportunity" for progress may be closing, Irish Republic minister Albert Reynolds said Sunday.

In an interview on BBC tele­vision, Reynolds underscored his belief that an apparent will­ingness by the Irish Republican Army to compromise must be seized before it fades away.

At a meeting planned for Dec.

3, Reynolds and British Prime Minister John Major are ex­pected to agree on a common approach to promoting peace in the British province.

Reynolds said he and Major "know exactly what we're try­ing to do — and that is to find a formula for the cessation of vio­lence and get the talks process going as soon as possible."

If the matter is left until next year, "the atmosphere and the environment" to exploit the "window of opportunity may well have disappeared," he said.

Those principles have not been made public, but are believed to include an IRA ceasefire partly in exchange for Britain's commitment to promise the union of Ireland and Northern Ireland.

Major last week reiterated his determination to offer Sinn Fein a role in talks only if the IRA permanently ended its violence first.

Talks between Hume's SDLP, Northern Ireland's three pro­British parties and the Irish and British governments collapsed in deadlock last November after 18 months. That process excluded Sinn Fein and did not address paramilitary violence directly.

Efforts to persuade Sinn Fein to abandon its support for vio­lence have received backing from Pope John Paul II and Cardinal Cahal Daly of the Roman Catholic Church in Ireland.

Daly, a harsh IRA critic, said Sunday that Sinn Fein was be­ing offered something it had never received before in the history of Northern Ireland: equal rights at the table talk.

Alternative coping is method to rid stress

By TRACY CRINION
News Writer

The secret to effectively deal­ing with stress lies in finding alternative methods of dealing with it, said Dr. Dominic Vachon of the University Counseling Center, at a stress workshop for students held last night.

Academic life causes anxiety because of its propensity to be overly demanding, especially in graduate school, he said.

"No one ever says, 'That's enough. People are always asking for more,'" said Vachon.

One graduate student likened graduate work at Notre Dame to being on a treadmill, where the more she accomplished, the faster the work came at her.

Other causes of stress are grades and the consistent delay in gratification in the hopes that it will pay off later on, said Vachon.

Anxiety," said Vachon, "is a perceived sense of danger. It is a vague threat to one's identity or sense of self."

However, it has its benefits as well as its costs, he said. Without anxiety, work would never get done, while too much is paralyzing, he said. How much is too much? "When the Notre Dame Power Plant at­tempts to hire you to generate power with your nervous leg shacking," said Vachon, il­lustrating humor's power to over­come stress.

Undergraduate freshmen suf­fer an enormous amount of anxiety, said Vachon. Watch students fall from consistent A's to B's in high school to C's in college is disastrous to the freshman psyche, he said.

"They think, 'I must be a bad student,' without realizing the difference between the two sys­tems," said Vachon.

Dwelling on stress and anx­iety will only worsen it, he said, offering several alternative methods of dealing with high­ pressure situations; working on things that are within your con­trol, eliminating perfectionist ideals, and employing positive imaging and thinking.

While anxiety and stress can­not be eliminated, it can be handled, he said, and coped with in several ways.

"Rehearsal of stressful situa­tions helps," said Vachon. "If you panic in test situations, make up your own test before the actual one."

Health of the individual is es­sential, he added, urging the audience to think of themselves as intellectual athletes.

"Athletes do not deprive themselves of food or sleep," Vachon said, "why should you?"

Having a social life helps to put things in perspective, he added. "A friend, an adviser, even a couch potato can see different ways around your anxieties," said Vachon.

For coping effectively with long­term pressure, Vachon said there are five key points: talk to yourself realistically and posi­tively, maintain effective health­ful buffers, use consistent and ef­fective deep relaxation methods and on­the­spot tension reduc­ers, manage time with intelli­gent pacing, balance and orga­nization, and cope constructively with difficult events and with temporary distress.

Vachon cited Football Coach Lou Holtz as a role model.

After Saturday's loss to Boston College, Holtz did not "beat himself up." Instead, he asked "what he and the team could learn from their experience, it's important to move on," Vachon said.
Who were the real losers this weekend?

Bobby Bowden was right.

The one you lose always seems to be the big one. Everyone has trashed Boston College as another stepping stone to our possible shot at Florida State. Everyone is, seemingly, overrated.

To them, this was like Kelly getting the job for the second time. One could imagine Tom Coughlin sitting at the helm of the Reliant, saying “Do you know, Hal? The King groaned “Revenge is a dish best served cold?” It is very cold in South Bend.

But now that the damage has been done, many people are looking for people to blame. A big target is Pete Herbich, who led a crucial interception slip through his fingers. It doesn’t matter to them that the temperament was hovering around thirty degrees, and he had played four or five quarters of football.

Another target is Bobby Taylor (sorry Bobby), who got burned on a long play, and acted too cautious for the rest of the evening.

It doesn’t matter to them that Dave Mayes’s constant signaling to the defense, constantly running to catch up, the “well orchestrated pass offense of Michigan” that will certainly rip up the slow pass rush of the Mountaineer Defense...

American turns down mediation

By SUSAN HIGHTOWER
Associated Press

FORT WORTH, Texas -- The chairman of American Airlines dug his heels in Sunday, turning down a call from striking flight attendants for a presidential mediation board while announcing up to 2,000 of this week's flights would be canceled.

Sunday, turning down a call for a presidential mediation board while announcing up to 2,000 of this week's flights would be canceled.

American will put passengers on 12 percent of its flights from Chicago, the airline's second-largest hub, executive vice president Bob Baker said.

Earlier Sunday, union President Denise Hudges said she wrote American Chairman Robert Crandall asking him to join her in asking the National Mediation Board to request the strike be called off.

"With no settlement offer from you in sight and the hearing a month down the road, urging you to make the offer is a losing strategy," Hudges said.

Crandall rejected the offer, saying an emergency mediation board would put the airline's future in the hands of people under political pressure who have no long-term interest in the company. He added that the mediation board could be expected to split the difference between the two sides' offers.

The mediation board had been overseeing contract negotiations between American and the flight attendants union, which struck off due to differences in pay, health benefits, staffing and scheduling.

A Transportation Department official said it was unclear whether the airline would qualify for mediation board arbitration.

The panel intervenes in cases where there is a significant disruption to the economy. It is up to the board, an independent government agency, and not the White House, to determine if mediation is appropriate, said the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

PHOENIX, Ariz. -- New Jersey's governor-elect said Sunday a campaign advisor's sworn statement that he fabricated a tale of suppressing black voter turnout made it "absolutely clear" no wrongdoing occurred. She urged democrats to drop their investigations.

"If there is nothing there, this election was fairly won and I will become the governor of the state of New Jersey on the 18th of January," Christine Whitman told reporters in Phoenix, where she is attending a Republican Governors Association meeting. "There is no way they are going to change that.

Whitman also said she would meet with federal prosecutors. She said the last week to as part of a Justice Department review unrelated to the Democratic Party investigation.

To the press, Whitman's campaign consultant, Ed Rollo, gave two days of sworn testimony last week to Democratic Party attorneys investigating his post-election assessments that the Whitman campaign used $500,000 in "walking around money" to discourage black turnout in Democratic areas. Whitman narrowly lost the November 3 contest to incumbent Gov. Jim Florio.

The day after telling the story at a breakfast with reporters, Rollins recanted and said he had made the story up.

In the deposition, Rollins said he advised a campaign worker to tell black ministers to disclose during the election that there were ways the Whitman campaign could help them. And he said he told the worker to tell the ministers they would be helping Whitman simply by not urgent their congregations to vote.

But Rollins said he neither directed nor was aware of any campaign money used to pay ministers or to pay Democratic workers to be idle on Election Day -- as he had said in his initial account.

Whitman, in her first public comments about Rollins' sworn testimony, said: "I think it's become absolutely clear that nothing happened and Ed Rollins lied about that.

She said she had no come forward or take part in any of Rollins' initial account.

Because of that, Whitman said the Democrats should consider, "the damage they are doing to the state as a whole and end their investigation.

But she said she thought deb- posing the witnesses in other campaign sides should go forward because they always would "reiterate the fact that nothing occurred.

In order to improve future editions of The Guide, Student Government is seeking help from the student body. The publication is published for the benefit of the students at ND, and it will only be successful with your help.

In order for his or her course to be listed in The Guide, a professor must give permission for evaluations to be distributed to his or her class. Many professors did not participate in the Spring '94 evaluation process, and students need to encourage them to take part in next semester's Guide.

If students let their professors know that they liked and used The Guide, participation will increase and the next edition will be more complete.

Leaked leads to subpoena of diaries

Sen. Bob Packwood, Oregon Democrat, who is facing a ethics investigation into sexual improprieties, is under pressure to resign. The Republican leader of the Senate, Majority Leader George Mitchell, said Monday that Packwood's continuing to serve is "untenable" and Mitchell said he would move to start the impeachment process if Packwood did not step down. Packwood, a key player in the Senate, has been facing a probe into allegations of sexual harassment, and his continued presence in the Senate could undermine his colleagues' ability to work together on other issues.

Mitchell said he was confident that the Senate would eventually move to start the impeachment process if Packwood did not resign. He added that Packwood's continued presence in the Senate would be a distraction and would undermine the Senate's ability to function effectively.

Meaningful inquiries would be made to determine what had happened and whether Packwood had committed any wrongdoing. Mitchell said he would move to start the impeachment process if Packwood did not resign. Packwood has been a key player in the Senate, and his continued presence in the Senate would be a distraction and would undermine the Senate's ability to function effectively.

The Senate leader is confident Brady Bill will become law

By CAROLYN SKORNECK

WASHINGTON

The Brady bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation to pass through Congress in recent years. The bill, which is designed to prevent the sale of firearms to prohibited individuals, has been passed by both the House and the Senate and is expected to be signed into law by the President.

The bill would require gun dealers to check the background of every person who wants to buy a gun. It would also require background checks for people who buy guns at gun shows or on the Internet.

The bill would also require gun dealers to keep records of all transactions and to report any suspicious activity to law enforcement. It would also require the Attorney General to establish a national database of prohibited firearms.

The Brady bill is supported by a wide range of groups, including the National Rifle Association, the Brady Campaign to Prevent Gun Violence, and law enforcement organizations.

The bill is expected to pass both the House and the Senate, and it is expected to be signed into law by the President.

One of the key provisions of the bill is the requirement for background checks. This provision is designed to keep guns out of the hands of prohibited individuals, such as felons and the mentally ill.

The bill also includes provisions to help prevent the sale of firearms to those who are a danger to themselves or others. It would require the Attorney General to establish a national database of prohibited firearms and to require gun dealers to keep records of all transactions.

The bill is expected to pass both the House and the Senate, and it is expected to be signed into law by the President.

The Connecticut Court of Appeals has ruled in favor of the Connecticut Gun Rights Association, which challenged the constitutionality of the state's gun laws. The court ruled that the state's gun laws did not violate the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The court's decision is expected to be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. If the court upholds the decision, it could have a significant impact on gun laws across the country.
155 are confirmed dead in Macedonia plane crash

Macedonia

Rescue workers struggled Sunday to recover the charred remains of 115 people killed when their plane crashed in the rugged, snow-covered mountains of southern Macedonia.

Only one person aboard the Aviimpex charter flight survived the crash late Saturday night, officials said. A U.N. relief worker from war-torn Bosnia was among those killed.

Villagers, police and airport workers found the fuselage still intact where they reached the crash site. Bodies, luggage and debris from the aircraft were scattered about the hillside.

Policeman Mladen Dimovski described the wreckage as "a virtual torch."

"It was so hard to reach the spot, let alone put out the flames," he said.

The Soviet-made Yak-42 had flown over the Ohrid airport once late Saturday and was making a second attempt to land when it went down about four miles east of the airport.

The plane, leased from the Russian carrier Aeroflot, was on a charter flight from Geneva to the Macedonian capital Skopje, but had to divert to Ohrid, 65 miles to the southwest, because of a blizzard at Skopje airport.

Associated Press

Goran Pavlovski, head of the government commission investigating the crash, said the pilots apparently lost control of the plane, despite good visibility and favorable landing conditions.

Officials said 80 percent of the 108 passengers were Yugoslav citizens, most of them ethnic Albanians.

A French field officer from the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees was among the dead. Pierre Ollier, who was in his mid-20s, had been headed to a new assignment in Skopje after working in Bosnia-Herzegovina. A UNHCR spokeswoman Sylvana Fox said in Geneva.

"The rest were believed to be Macedonian, the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug reported."

The four members of the flight crew were Russian and the four cabin crew members were Macedonian.

The sole survivor, a Serb, underwent surgery to stop bleeding in his left lung. He was listed in critical condition.

A nurse at the scene said four children were among the victims.

The plane's two black boxes were found intact, Pavlovski said. Russian experts were expected to join the investigation Sunday.

"We are one of several airlines that have sprung up in Macedonia since it split from Yugoslavia last year, overtaking the new country's airports."

Libya has paid lawyer for advice on bomb case

NEW YORK

A lawyer representing families of five victims of the Pan Am Flight 103 bombing has been paid by the Libyan government for advice on turning over two suspects in the case, according to a published report.

Lawyer F. Lee Bailey traveled to Libya in August to advise officials on how judicial systems work in various countries. In the event that Libya decided to turn the suspects over, the National Law Journal reported in its Monday edition.

Bailey told the Journal he saw no conflict in representing the victims' families while advising the Libyans on "what the means of surrender should be. The families would be in favor of that. The purpose of my going there was to facilitate their return to somehow." Libya intelligence agents Abdel Basset Ali Al-Megrahi and I mam Khalifa Fhimah have been indicted in the United States and in Scotland, where the plane was flying when it exploded, on charges that they planted and detonated the bomb which killed 270 people in 1988.

Bailey said he did not inform his clients of the visit to Libya because it had not been made public. He also stressed that he was not representing the suspects, but merely advising the government on options for their surrender.

Elizabeth Phillips, former president of Victims of Pan Am 103, said she did not think the families "would want to have him represent Libya."

Bailey said he told the Libyans the United States would "not settle for anything less than a Scottish trial," and that even an acquittal would not stop further prosecutions, he told the Journal. He said he had flown his advice "not helpful, not cheerful."

Phone numbers for three of the five families Bailey represented were unavailable Sunday. The other two, Florence Erwin of Hartford, Conn., and Norma Larkich of Cape May, N.J., declined to comment.

Caution against military strike voiced

WASHINGTON

The size of the North Korean army and its proximity to the South Korean border complicating the "Israel-style" preemptive strike on North Korea's nuclear facilities, Secretary of State Warren Christopher said Sunday.

If we ever caution about not having too easy an analogy to what Israel did with Iraq," he said, "because of the size of the Iraq military forces in 1981 it bombed a facility near Baghdad believed to house Iraq's nuclear weapons program, Christopher said on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley."

About 70 percent of North Korea's force of 1.1 million is massed along the demilitarized zone dividing the two Koreans and only 30 miles from the North Korean capital of Seoul. Newsweek, in its edition to be released Monday, cites a classified Pentagon study completed in 1991 that concludes that a quick, massive North Korean attack would overwhelm the 650,000 Korean and 36,000 American troops defending the South.

Christopher stressed that "we need to exhaust diplomatic means" to defuse the crisis, but that no options had been ruled out. He acknowledged that economic sanctions would have only a limited effect because "North Korea's in a time warp," already cut off from the economic vitality enjoyed by most of the rest of Asia.

KIRSTEN!
When Kate McMahon tells you her family's Notre Dame will be opening a Day Care Center next year, believe her. As a single mother of six, she knows of what she speaks. McMahon is a typical working mother, but as she will tell you, there's nothing "typical" about it. McMahon received a master's degree in Science Administration from Notre Dame this past May, after earn­ing her bachelor's in theology in 1991. She now works at South Bend's St. Joseph's Medical Center (UCDC), as a part-time care intern, a position that explores the possi­bility of entering the medical field. She's up at six every morning, and by 7:00, the kids its time to do my part-time care internship. It's a delicate balancing act that I can't imagine doing as a mom. It's a challenge she has to meet every day, and she does it. It's a learning experience for each child, through experi­enced based, hands-on activi­ties and play.

Kate McMahon and her children enjoy a board game together in their home at University Village. She has learned to handle a delicate balancing act between being a mother, intern, and student.

University of Pittsburgh's Child Development Center adapts to demands of its students and faculty

By KATHY HAUSMANN

University of Pittsburgh's University Child Development Center (UCDC), shows how important child care facilities are to students, and how they can adapt to fit students' needs. UCDC opened in 1984, and its program is searching for a new, larger facility. As we are currently 132 children in the UCDC, with an enrollment of 130 from 9 years old. The center is open 51 weeks of the year, and can accommodate both students and faculty's flexible schedules, and is available to all university students. Currently located at the center of the campus, the 1993-94 budget for the Pittsburgh facility is $700,000. For students, costs not subsidized by the uni­versity are based on the combined income of the parents. For faculty and staff, the child's age determines cost, with infant care more expensive than toddlers or older children. Sherry Cleary, director of the UCDC, says student 'parents need reasonable costs but qual­ity care, and someone needs to subsidize it.'

As fas as staff, Cleary's phi­losophy is to "hire the most skilled staff you can find. You want people you can trust and who will come to the universi­ty."

Steve Parks, a graduate stu­dent at Pitt with two children at the center, finds the quality of the UCDC to be "wonderful. I can't imagine going to a non-university not having a cen­ter."

Before he had his children at the University's center, Parks worked several jobs to cover costs of child care. Lori Shorr, Parks' wife, believes if it was not for the center, she "would not be in school." She believes the biggest bene­fit of the center is that it gives her "guilt-free" time to "pursue her academic goals to make her a better person and moth­er."

Only within the last year has the UCDC become "student-friendly," with 40% of the enrolled children having parents. Before that, many parents were unhappy with the center.

Sherr formed a coalition to discuss the center's charges, and each child's needs. They have a little help.

"Our program has really turned around to be more interested in students' needs."

ND/SMC plans child care expansion for next year

Sorority members: "We have learning activities that range from playing in the sand to taking fish trips to see art and music."

The Early Childhood Development Center, Inc. (ECDC) was established to offer full and part-time child care to the staff, faculty, and students of St. Mary's and Notre Dame. Because of a growing waiting list, the ECDC has found it nec­essary to expand the facility. This year, the ECDC, located in the basement of the Notre Dame dormitory, is located on the second floor of the O'Hara-Grace Graduate Residences.

The goal of the child care program is to foster "social, emotional, physical, cognitive and creative development in each child, through experi­enced based, hands-on activi­ties and play."

"We don't have a curriculum, per se," says Kosik. "We have learning activities that range from playing in the sand to taking fish trips to see art and music."

Teachers, parents, and even Notre Dame and St. Mary's stu­dents are involved in the cen­ter's daily activities. Some stu­dents volunteer their time, while others, "are in school for their degrees. Parents are allowed to walk in at all times and help. Teachers are emi­nently qualified, both profes­sionally and medically."

"We view the program as an extension of the family, in a way that provides support for the parents, not unnecessary stress," said Kosik.

"The main difference between the new center and the old are in the child's age determines cost, with infant care more expensive than toddlers or older children. Sherry Cleary, director of the UCDC, says student 'parents need reasonable costs but qual­ity care, and someone needs to subsidize it.'

Dear Editor:

I couldn’t agree more with David Kinney’s Inside Column (The Observer, Nov. 16). I especially think we should now get behind John Rita and give him support which is indicative of the level of compassion of this Notre Dame community.

But I question whether you or your fellow students has given thought to the problem of drunk driving, and not being able to get a cab, or being on the wrong side of the roadway.

What can the community do to prevent this tragedy from happening again?”

Tragedy reveals that students do drive drunk.

Dear Editor:

The thrill of the victory last weekend over Florida State was indeed deflated by the tragic accident that killed Mara Fox. To the Notre Dame community, especially to her friends and family, memories of the win will forever inspire a terrible feeling of loss. Perhaps along with mourning we can attempt to learn something to prevent such tragedies from occurring again.

Many ND students could have been John Rita. They are just lucky, Rita was unlucky. His behavior Friday night is not uncommon among the Notre Dame population. Drunk driving is unfortunately socially acceptable. I’ve heard many stories of people driving drunk to or from off-campus parties or bars. Many times the seriousness of the situation is downplayed: “I was just being daring” or “I didn’t drive far” or “I drove slowly”. Well, I’m sure Rita had rationalizations for getting into his car as well. Rationalizations allow people to remove themselves from the reality that when someone gets behind the wheel and is drunk, that someone is a potential killer.

It is only when this potential becomes reality that the severity stings. Then it’s too late. How must Rita feel now, realizing that the consequences of his actions can never be undone and that he will forever live with this horrible truth?

Time for campus service organization at SMC

Dear Editor:

I am writing in support of the Saint Mary’s College Service Center (SMSC) which is presently in the hands of the Board of Governance at Saint Mary’s.

I won’t feign knowledge of the bureaucratic system on Saint Mary’s campus. All I know is that an organization like SMSC is needed at SMC and the advocates of the proposal are tired of jumping through bureaucratic loopholes to make it happen.

It seems simple to me that Saint Mary’s needs a vehicle through which its women can actually put their Christianity into action. Many of the faculty, staff and students are willing to put in the work to provide that vehicle.

For some reason, Saint Mary’s Board of Governance (BOG) is stalling in an attempt to hope that it will be forgotten. WHY? It continues to stall the vote, apathy will continue to flourish on Saint Mary’s campus. That is not to say most of the students are apathetic; they simply are not offered adequate opportunity to live out a call to service on this campus. This is paradoxical for a Catholic institution that is 150 years old. Saint Mary’s BOG should take pride in being pioneers in an effort to alleviate the frustrated students called to Christian service. Instead of making service opportunity readily available at the single activity night of the year, we should have these options open to students at all times.

Sper Unica Resource and Volunteer Center (SURV) is a paradigm example of student desire to serve. But, the hours and staff are limited, and the students who run it may feel that it is often a thankless task with a small budget and not much publicity. With SMSC, SURV could still have its home, but its scope would just be expanded.

It is time BOG approves a campus service organization at Saint Mary’s. It is necessary and long overdue. Financial support will definitely come from alumni and Saint Mary’s supporters who see the unfortiﬁnate gap between rhetoric and reality at Saint Mary’s. It is time for the women of Saint Mary’s to speak up and support SMSC.

Destiny Denied

BC field goal erases classic comeback

By GEORGE DOHRMANN

To control your own destiny and then have that power quickly swept away. That is the harsh reality which swept over Notre Dame Stadium Saturday, as the Irish watched Boston College kicker David Gordon connect on a 41-yard field goal as time expired, giving the Eagles a 41-39 win.

Gordon's kick negated an inspiring comeback by the Irish, who scored 22 points in a little over ten minutes. It also knocked Notre Dame from No. 1 to No. 4 in the polls after a mere week-long reign at the top.

"It was a great football game, with lots of excitement," said Boston College coach Tom Coughlin. "All we ask for is great effort and we got it. I'm very happy, but humble."

The win probably cost the Irish a chance at the national championship. A likely matchup with Florida State in the Fiesta Bowl is gone, with hopes of a national title hinging on losses by as many as three teams.

"It would have been an unbelievable victory," said Irish head coach Lou Holtz. "To be down so far and to come back and have it within your grasp with a minute to go, it's heartbreaking."

Final home game rarely sweet for Irish seniors

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR

Notre Dame Stadium. The Gipper and the four horsemen. 50,075 in the stands. A new record every snap. The dome and torches in the setting sun watching as if above.

This is the site of the vaunted Notre Dame mystique, and are the reason opposing coaches consider Notre Dame the most difficult place to play in college football. It's a place coming to live under the dome expect to win at Notre Dame. This year they actually expect to win at home, even taking it for granted. If nothing else, the Irish are just plain winners.

In almost every season winning at home is the rule. Notre Dame is 50-17-1 in the last twelve years at Notre Dame Stadium. However, this year's seniors will witness in a disturbing exception to this rule. In the same twelve year span, the Irish are a dismal 5-7 in their final home game of the season.

It's a shame, the Irish seniors seemed stung by the loss. "I'm numb," stated Pete Bercich, rarely at a loss for words. "It's not a total self-denial right now," said captain Aaron Taylor.

"I'm just numb right now," stated senior captain Jeff Burris, whose all purpose excellence couldn't single handedly stop the Boston College machine. "To have that taken away, it's not too pleasing."

Taylor echoed these sentiments. "That's the last game I'll ever play in that stadium," he said. "It's disappointing that I'll have to walk away on a down note."

None of the seniors wanted to walk away. On the fateful last Eagle drive, Taylor and fellow captain Chad Ross pledged to take it out on the Irish defense.

"They pretty much said, 'We still have a chance. Believe in yourselves,'" stated senior Bryant Young. "Above all, this senior class believed in itself and the Notre Dame tradition. Because of this, losing their final game in the stadium is much more painful."

"I feel for the seniors," stated coach Lou Holtz. "We all hurt."

Still, this year's seniors showed class to the end.

The final score was 38-17.

Tom Nalen (64) upends Notre Dame's Jeff Burris as he attempts to block a field goal in the first half.

"This isn't a guessing game," stated Burris. "It's a game of execution. Rebounding from last season's reversal executed better than we did. We have to deal with it and keep moving."

"We didn't quit," stated senior quarterback Kevin McDougall, who had his best passing game ever. "I'm glad to be on a team like this, where all the guys keep playing hard."

"Maybe we should go out and back." joked Tim Krumrie. "In a true game shot, they were the better team."

As Holtz noted after the game, "It's not my style to camp."

That rings true for the seniors, who suffered through the most heart-wrenching loss of their careers with dignity.

That may be what Notre Dame tradition is really about.

After an embarrassing 54-7 loss at Notre Dame last year, Foley got his revenge, completing 30 of 48 passes for 315 yards to spark the Eagles' 41-39 upset of No. 1 Notre Dame.

Foley led to 38-17. The Irish awoke at that point, scoring on a 29-yard run by tailback Lee Becton and a four-yard run by Zellers after the Irish defense forced Foley and Co. to punt.

Becton finished the day with 123 yards on 14 carries for his Notre Dame record sixth-straight. 100-yard day. He also eclipsed 1000 yards on the year, only the second back to do that in the Holtz era.

But he would trade all the records for a win, the tell tale sign of the Eagles. For Boston College the game was revenge for last season's 54-7 win, in which the Eagles felt Notre Dame ran up the score.

"This win absolutely means so much," said Foley. "Last year we felt they rubbed it in a little."

"This win is big. It's a big win for Boston College."

This year it would be different. That was the quiet goal of the Boston College football team at the beginning of the year.

Last year's 54-7 loss to the Irish had been an embarrassmnt. This year it would be different. The Eagles entered Saturday's game with a different frame of mind. There would be no talk of the supremacy of Catholic schools. It would be a football game between two talented athletes, but important to the Boston College mindset, talented on both sides of the ball.

"They're human beings," said Eagle quarterback Glenn Foley, who single-handedly picked apart the Irish defense. Foley's 41-yard field goal with 1:35 remaining made Charlie Ward couldn't. "Last year we came in here thinking they were larg­er, more physical, more athletic. This year we knew we were a devastating loss."

Boston College never forgot. They heard the "Overrated" cheer in their sleep. They saw the fake punt on film time and again and, most importantly, they believed they could beat the Irish. "We have a totally different team this year," stated Boston College coach Tom Coughlin. "This group is hungrier. They have no room for complacency. They feel they haven't achieved a thing yet. Each week is a new exciting challenge for these guys."

Last year's Eagle squad was un­beaten, ninth ranked, and thought they had the world at its feet. This year the confidence was subdued, but had more substance to back it up. The players realized it. They were playing some of the best football in the coun­try, and the time was right for an upset.

"We knew we were going to win," stated Foley. "There was no doubt. We had the edge. We were just a better team. It doesn't matter what the other team does."

The offensive line was dominant and the difference was substantial. With kicker David Gordon was true with his 41-yard attempt, the result was, as predicted, different. Coughlin, perhaps more than any­one else, had reason to celebrate. The worst defeat in his career came at Notre Dame Stadium last season. To avenge that with his biggest win in the way they prepared," he said. "When it settles in, you're humble in victory. It was a great college football game."

Some of the Eagle players were not so charitable, but after the memories of humiliation they have lived with for a year, their jubilation is understand­able. "I thought they rubbed it in last year, especially with the fake punts (with the score 37-0 in the third quar­ter)," stated Foley, who was wholly ineffective in last season's game, buckling under the constant Irish pressure."

"The only time I've ever had respect for Lou Holtz was when he said last week Boston College was the No. 1 team in the country right now," he continued.

The difference in Foley was symbo­lic of the entire Boston College team. Where last year they were rallied by Notre Dame's pressure, this year their resilience shone throughout the game. The opportunity was there for a col­lapse. Foley fumbled twice to allow the Irish to mount their furious come­back. Last season he wouldn't have rallied the team down the field. The line would not have withstand the pass rush, the receivers would not have found the seams.

While it was evident to Foley that his team was focused, it was evident to the Irish players as well. "At times I sensed that Boston College was just playing harder than we were. They were emotional, you could see it," stated Lee Becton. "The emotion had been there last year but, it was channeled to pur­pose other than playing between the lines. The lesson of the faked punt had been learned well."

This year, it would be different.

A week ago everything seemed so simple.

When Notre Dame was No. 1 and would play for the national championship against whoever the voters deemed the most worthy challenger.

Now the Irish are No. 4 in both the Associated Press and the USA Today/CNN polls, hoping that someone other than Oklahoma or West Virginia would meet in the Sugar Bowl for the national championship.

The most important rankings belong to Foley that year, their resilience shone throughout the game. The opportunity was there for a collapse. Drinking mentality must change at ND/MC

Dear Editor:

I heard about the accident on the news, like everyone else. I had no idea how close I was to you and sadness that everyone had, I suspect. But there is some- thing about it that just feels wrong. It’s as if the feeling comes with it - there has to be more.

That scared me more than anything else, and it’s difficult to be faithful to the Lord’s example, does not regard herself as having the authority to admit women to the priest- hood. If she may not admit certain elements of the sacraments are immutable and which suitable. The Church is convinced that women are not called to the teaching of the Church on this point is quite clear in the past way after the facts that women are indeed an essential part of the Good News of the kingdom (emphasis in original).

On Jan. 30, 1977, Pope Paul VI said, "Why can men alone and women, too, receive the priesthood? ... The reason for the disparity of function is Christ’s decision in giving the Church her fundamental struc- ture and the theological anthropology. Moreover, now that an answer has been given to this question, which some incompatible feminists have ren- dered unnecessarily vexing, we urge women to realize that the Church has no intention of undertaking the previous role they are called to play in the overall plan of God’s king- dom and in the temporal order."

The papal statements affirm that the church does not have authority to change the face of the Church, not like meatless Fridays, com- munion in the hand, or celibacy in the other hands, or, if we consider 'the identity carries', not an okay thing to do. However, it to be that identity carries to the clear position of the Vicar of Christ on the subject. As Pope John Paul II said, "The Apostolic Constitution on the Catholic University's essential relationship to the Church is settled and the issue is here."

The Declaration on the Ordination of Priests (1976), the teaching of the Pope on this and CNDPOW responds to this set- tled position by seeking to base the authority to ordain women, in a general way, "The Church, universal throughout east and west, and every powerful in order quickly to suppress abuses. Such a norm, based on the example of Christ, has been followed in the past and is being followed today because it is regarded as con- formed to God’s plan for his Church.

CNDPOW responds to this settled position by seeking to base the authority to ordain women, in a general way, "The Church, universal throughout east and west, and every powerful in order quickly to suppress abuses. Such a norm, based on the example of Christ, has been followed in the past and is being followed today because it is regarded as con- formed to God’s plan for his Church.

The teaching of the Church here is settled and the issue is clear. The question is: "Are we, as faithful to the American bishops, Pope John Paul II stated, "It is frightening, and it can have conse- quences even worse than those that rocked the campus this weekend. The mentality? Drinking get is an okay thing to do.

Now I’ve never had a drink before, and so this is going to sound weird, but... I haven’t had one in a while and the thought of someone needs to be preachy about this. If there is something more I could be found in the tragic death of Mara Fox, if there is a message. But I won’t worry about this pain. This drinking is not an okay thing to do. Now I’m not saying it’s a buzz, and I’m not talking about "feeling good." I’m talking about what drinking does to you, which keeps you from thinking straight, which prevents you from making decisions, which makes you do things you would never do sober - the kind of intoxication that puts behind the wheel on a rainy night at one in the morning after drinking all night. Things happen when you’re drunk. A random hook-up, an argument with friends, a night out on a rainy night. An God knows some of those things have hap- pened to our Gates, and "taking a night out on a night out. But the chances of something really bad happening are magnified tenfold when you don’t know what may happen next.

"W e need to figure out ways to practice moderation our- selves, and not to depend on other people to do it for us."

Drinking is not just a matter of personal choice or control. It’s about public health, safety, and the impact of alcohol on our lives. As a society, we need to work together to create an environment where drinking responsibly is the norm. This includes supporting policies that promote safe drinking practices and creating safe spaces for people to gather and socialize without the temptation to drink excessively.

We need to support programs and initiatives that help people develop healthy habits and coping strategies. This could include education campaigns, support groups, and treatment options for those struggling with alcohol addiction.

It’s important to remember that alcohol is a powerful drug, and its effects can be unpredictable. Even small amounts can impair judgment, coordination, and reaction times. As we celebrate the holidays and other special occasions, let’s be mindful of our choices and make responsible decisions about alcohol use.

Remember, we’re not just drinking for ourselves - we’re representing our families, communities, and the wider society. Let’s make responsible choices and set an example for others to follow.

Thank you for your attention and for helping to promote a safe and healthy drinking culture. Let’s work together to create a future where alcohol is enjoyed responsibly and safely.

AIDS quilt project needs your support

Dear Editor:

As our nation grapples with the ongoing AIDS epidemic, it is crucial that we come together as a community to raise awareness, support those affected, and advocate for change.

The NAMES Quilt, which will be on display in Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Community, is a powerful symbol of our collective struggle against this pandemic. It serves as a visual representation of the lives lost and the impact of AIDS on our communities. By participating in this project, we can contribute to the fight against AIDS and honor the memory of those we have lost.

There are several ways you can get involved in the NAMES Quilt project. You can volunteer to sew or embroider a section of the quilt, contribute a personal story or photo, or donate funds to support the project. The quilt is made up of individual squares, each of which represents a unique story and a commitment to the cause.

The quilt will be on display in the University of Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Community in late February, and it is scheduled to travel to other communities in the future. By sharing the quilt with your friends and family, you can help raise awareness and encourage others to support the cause.

Let's work together to create a future where AIDS is no longer a threat. Together, we can make a difference in the lives of those affected by AIDS and honor the memory of those we have lost.

Thank you for considering ways to get involved in the NAMES Quilt project. Let's join forces to create a world where AIDS is no longer a priority.

Notre Dame Chorale to perform tonight

By HOLLY BUCHAN
Accent Writer

The a cappella voices of Notre Dame’s best singers will fill the Sacred Heart Basilica tonight as the Notre Dame Chorale performs its first campus performance of the year tonight.

A select group of voices, the Notre Dame Chorale specializes in performing masterpieces from the Renaissance to the present.

"The Notre Dame Chorale has a long and colorful history, extending back to when the University first admitted women students," said Alexander Blachly, director of the Notre Dame Chorale.

"It is the concert choir of the University, and as such it attracts many of the best singers from what is arguably one of the largest pools of talented singers to be found on any campus."

Blachly, the new director of the Chorale, said he thinks highly of the Notre Dame singers.

"The students here are intelligent and highly motivated, which is a good combination for making music," said Blachly. "I have been impressed by their focus, not to mention their good voices."

Blachly, known throughout the world for his performances with the Renaissance vocal ensemble, Pomerium, came to Notre Dame after eight years at the University of Pennsylvania, where he directed an a cappella group of 24 singers called Ancient Voices.

He has also directed various ensembles at several major universities, including Columbia University, Rutgers University and New York University.

The students [at Notre Dame] are intelligent and highly motivated, which is a good combination for making music.

Alexander Blachly

The date of tonight’s concert holds special significance. Because it falls on the same day as the feast day of St. Cecilia, the patron of music.

The concert is appropriately entitled, "Hail, St. Cecilia: German Choral Works from Lassus to Bruckner," in recognition of the holiday; the group’s first piece of the concert is addressed to St. Cecilia.

The chorale has performed many major works for chorus and orchestra over the years including pieces from Bach, Mendelssohn and Handel, said Blachly.

Blachly believes the chorale is a talented a cappella group, and will exhibit these talents on Monday in works by Lassus, Schubert, and Bruckner.

The program will also include Renaissance motets, a Bach cantata, and a brief Mass by Mozart, pieces which are "all very different from one another, yet all part of the German choral tradition," said Blachly.

In this first concert of the academic year, Blachly is placing a strong emphasis on the singers.

"There will be instrumental accompaniment for some of the pieces, and it will be quite attractive," said Blachly, "but much of the program is unaccompanied because the choir deserves to be heard."

Accompanying the chorale are Melissa Jurgensmeyer, a graduate student who will play the Baroque-style positive organ, as well as professor Craig Cramer and his wife Gail Walton, who will perform together on the organ.

Blachly is quite confident that the chorale will give an excellent performance, and believes it will be an enjoyable experience for anyone who loves choral literature.

Blachly also expressed the hope that students would attend the concert.

"If there are any students who have not seen the interior of the Basilica of the Sacred Heart Monday night would be a good opportunity to do so," said Blachly. "Not only is the Basilica beautiful architecturally, it is also an acoustic marvel."

The Notre Dame Chorale’s first concert of the year will take place in the Basilica of Sacred Heart tonight at 8 p.m. Admission is free and open to the public.

Class workshop exposes students to timeless operatic masterpieces

BY TANYA KRYWARUCZENKO

Students looking for a different kind of music in their lives have the opportunity to be exposed to the operatic masterpieces of Johann Strauss, Gilbert and Sullivan and Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart on Tues., Nov. 23.

This is the date when the Notre Dame Opera Workshop will present a musical performance entitled “Operatic Scenes: Scenes from Your Favorite Comic Operas” in Washington Hall.

The Notre Dame Opera Workshop is in its third year of existence, according to Garry Grice, director of the workshop and artistic director for Indiana Opera North.

"The purpose of the workshop is to give students experiences with character roles and musical styles to help in subsequent productions," said Grice.

"It’s a really interesting class; the students have learned a lot of stage terminology," said Grice.

Tuesday night are fun scenes which are relatively short," said Grice.

"Marriage of Figaro," "Cosi fan tutti" and "Magic Flute," all by Mozart.

All seven of the workshop members will be performing in the production, according to Grice. The class is composed of graduate and undergraduate students, many of whom are music majors.

The workshop cast includes Sean Gallagher, Lisa Van Heldorf, Elizabeth Smith, Patricia Gilbert, Paige Pelock, Renee Von Weiss and Eleanor Hugan. Accompanying the performers will be Roberta Hill, on piano.

The students in the class have had different musical experiences, according to Grice. Some have had opera experiences, others have not," said Grice. "Some have never played character roles before and have only been in choirs."

"It’s a really interesting class; the students have learned a lot of stage terminology," said Grice.

This is the first year that the workshop will have performances in both semesters, according to Grice. Next semester, the complete "Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart will be performed.

Past performances have included works by Purcell and Mozart.

The Notre Dame Opera Workshop will give its performance on Tues., Nov. 23 at 8 p.m. in Washington Hall. Admission is free and open to the public.
Once the Dallas Cowboys lost Emmitt Smith, they were lost as well. Smith was sidelined with a bruise to his back for two and a half minutes before halftime and the Cowboys, already missing injured running back Troy Aiken, had their seven-game winning streak Sunday, losing 27-14 in Atlanta.

"I took a look at the quad," Smith said. "I'll take whatever treatment is necessary and see how it goes." Dallas (3-7) had not lost since Smith returned from a two-game salary holdout at the start of the season. The Cowboys have a short week, playing Thanksgiving Day against Miami.

Atlanta's winning defense, which shut out the Los Angeles Rams 24-0 for nearly three quarters, Deion Sanders, one of the Falcons' best defenders, also contributed on offense by catching a 70-yard touchdown pass and high-sticking a Dallas player with 3:51 left.

Even before Smith was hurt, he did little. He was held to 1 yard on one carry and 9 yards on two other passes from Bernie Kosar.

"I was very upset," Smith said. "We were doing things on the field that we usually don't do. We weren't doing anything right.

Atlanta (4-6) won for the fourth time in five games.

"Some people said we wouldn't be here for this ball game, but not only did we show up, we did a great job," Falcons coach Jerry Glanville said.

Giants 7, Eagles 3

At Philadelphia, Phil Simms threw a 26-yard touchdown pass to TNT Tony Dungy, the first play of the fourth quarter was enough to beat the Eagles. The Giants (7-3) won at Veterans Stadium for the first time since 1987. The Eagles lost 6-10 last season.

Philadelphia (4-6) lost its sixth in a row, its longest since a seven-game skid in 1983. The Eagles tried Ken O'Brien and Bunny Brister at quarterback, but managed only Matt Bahr's 35-yard field goal midway in the third quarter.

Broncos 37, Steelers 13

At Denver, John Elway picked apart the NFL's No. 1 defense, completing 18 of 25 passes for 276 yards and one touchdown and outsmarting Pittsburgh's defense (the Broncos - 6-4) to a 20-0 halftime lead. He threw for 230 yards in the first half, the Steelers had been allowing only 226 yards per game.

Elway finished 25 of 34 without injuring Barry Foster. His replacement, Leroy Kingdom, played 67 percent of the game against Pittsburgh on 5 Pittsburgh's first possession.

Dolphins 17, Patriots 13

At Miami, Steve DeAngelo threw two touchdown passes in the fourth quarter and rallied past New England. De- anger, the oldest player in the league, had five completions and applied strong pressure on Los Angeles.

They scored twice each period, 27 passes for 252 yards and no interceptions. He was signed as a free agent after an injury to Tony Dungy replaced injured Dan Marino.

Mark Riggins had 108 yards on 21 carries for Miami, while Don Shula's 326 career victory. The Patriots (1-9) have lost three straight and the last four games by a total of 11 points. They have dropped nine straight to the Dolphins.

Bills 23, Colts 9

At Orchard Park, N.Y., Jim Kelly came back from the last week's concussion and threw two touchdown passes that led the Bills over Indianapolis. Kelly was knocked out of a 2-0 loss in Pittsburgh on Monday night. He has thrown the last three in ran for 116 yards for Buffalo (8-2).

The Colts (3-7) lost for the sixth straight in the Bills, but they made five trips inside the Bills' 10, but did not take advantage.

Packers 26, Lions 17

At Milwaukee, Chris Jackie kicked four field goals, including a go-ahead 34-yarder with 9:03 left, and Green Bay beat Detroit 26-17.

The Lions (6-4) won their fourth in a row, their longest winning streak since 1986. In the closing seconds, they gave the Bengals a safety instead of kicking, then won 4-0.

The Jets (6-4) won their fourth in a row, their longest winning streak since 1986. In the closing seconds, they gave the Bengals a safety instead of kicking, then won 4-0.

Morrissey concludes 7-0 season with championship
Football crown Manor's second title in 1993

By G.R. NELSON

Two outstanding teams squared off at Notre Dame Stadium Sunday for the men's interhall championship, with Morrissey edging Stanford to claim a 9-7 victory and the crown.

Morrissey used a balanced attack, a big play defense, and a little luck in completing its undefeated season. Morrissey, behind its strong offensive line, rushed for over 100 yards and passed for 82 yards. Scott Taylor played his usual near-perfect game, taking only what the Stanford defense would give him and not making any mistakes.

"Stanford had a great scheme and some good cover guys," said Morrissey quarterback and Captain J.R. Meloro. "I couldn't throw deep." Justin Kruer and Paul Lopach each rushed for over 100 yards.

Morrissey opened the game with an impressive 64-yard drive, but Stanford's defense stalled them at the goal line, forcing a field goal.

"That stand set the tone for the whole game," said Taylor. "It was a classic battle."

Early in the second half, Stanford marched 65 yards behind its great backs, Lamar Guillory and Chris Pollina. Guillory capped the drive with a strong 12-yard run.

Morrissey's Reider also could not put the Irish on the board, but was stilled late in Stanford territory. However, on their next play, Stanford fumbled, and Morrissey captain George Reider made the huge recovery. "That was the key play in the game," said Reider.

After plays later, Justin Kruer sprinted around the end for a one-yard touchdown. Stanford refused to quit and promptly marched the length of the field. Morrissey defense stiffened, forcing a Stanford field goal attempt.

The steady Chad Smock trotted onto the field for a game-winning attempt. Smock was the hero in Stanford's first two playoff games, but this time would be different. Smock's 28-yard attempt sailed wide right.

"Morrissey is a class team and played a great game," said Stanford captain Chris Pollina. Stanford will not just throughout this season, but every game.

"We're making any mistakes," said Mike McWilliams, "we hope to make it five of the ten.

"We're running our first team, and will be relied on today," said Meloro.

Irish will run juniors John Bach, Mozart, Haydn, Schubert, Brahms, and seniors Bach, Mozart, Haydn, Schubert, Brahms, and seniors.

Pasquerilla West overcame a slow start to take the women's interhall title with a 13-6 victory over Badin.

The Weasel defense set the tone early when senior Kathleen Gilnes made a diving tackle on a Badin sweep to force the Badin Attitude to punt. After stopping PW, Badin got the ball back and drove deep into Weasel territory.

The Weasel defense then drove to the PW five but were unable to score. The PW defense came up with four straight stops with an aggressive pass rush and a tight secondary coverage.

Gilnes, who forced Badin to throw the ball away on fourth down, was the leader of the Weasel defense. "It was a very aggressive game," said Gilnes. "I was determined to get to the quarterback." After turning the ball over, the Badin defense was able to hold PW and force a punt. On the first play after the punt, Badin quarterback Shari Shepard threw a bomb to teammate Erin Osborne for the score. The extra point was successful and Badin led 7-0.

PW finally got the offense going on their next possession. Quarterback Bethany Riddle threw deep to senior Jenny Tate to set up first and goal. The Badin defense then held tough on three consecutive plays to force a fourth and goal.

On the fourth down play, Riddle took the snap, rolled to her right and threw a strike to senior Bridget Graham for the score. The extra point was missed and Badin took a 7-0 lead into halftime. Gilnes explained her team's slow start. "We had to see what would work," noted Gilnes. "We remained confident in ourselves throughout the game." The Weasals quickly found out what would work in the second half when they came up with the biggest play of the game.

SMC swimming and basketball teams kick off seasons

Swimming strong at Wabash

Observer Staff Report

The Saint Mary's swim team got their season off to a good start this weekend in the Wabash Invitational.

Participating in the meet was the University of Indianapolis, Whetstone College, DePauw University, Transylvania, Wabash College, and Saint Mary's.

Overall, the team placed about the same as last year, but they doubled their point total, according to coach Greg Jansen.

The Belles were strong in endurance, but weak in speed. "The Belles are very strong in endurance," Jansen said. "But we need to improve in speed." The team placed third in both events and also placed fourth in the 200 free-style.

Basketball drops two at Kalamazoo College

Observer Staff Report

The Saint Mary's basketball team was defeated by Indiana Wesleyan and Kalamazoo College this weekend in the Kalamazoo College Invitational.

Friday night the Belles suffered a 92-72 loss to Indiana Wesleyan. "It was a close game. There wasn't a big spread either way," said coach Marvin Wood. At halftime the score was tied at 30-30.

With eight minutes left in the game Katie Lalli fouled out. With five minutes left, Taubbenheim also fouled out. "We were 5'7" and under at the finish," Wood said. "Taubbenheim led the scoring with 16 points. Lalli had 11 rebounds, and Liz Vernasco and Michelle Limb each had three assists.

"We are hurt by size and experience, but overall we played pretty well in both games. I was not disappointed," Wood said.

Buckeyes forced to play waiting game

Associated Press

As Ohio State players and coaches gathered at the Woody Hayes Athletic Center, they were left with many questions after a 26-0 defeat at Michigan.

They returned for a brief team meeting Saturday evening with no answers in sight.

The Buckeyes could have clinched a Rose Bowl berth with a victory over the Wolverines, but now must wait for the outcome of the Wisconsin-Michigan State game on Dec. 4 in Tokyo. A Wisconsin defeat would send Ohio State to Pasadena, Calif.

"I'm rough waiting for the Michigan-Michigan State-Wisconsin game, but right now I'm the biggest Michigan State fan there is," said Buckeyes full-back Jeff Cothran. "I hate to depend on other teams to help us out." If Wisconsin wins a Rose Bowl trip, the Buckeyes become ensnared for the Buckeyes. "We're still in the Rose Bowl picture, but after that, I'm not ready to talk about anything," Ohio State athletic director Jim Jones said Sunday.

Jones said he had discussed the bowl situation with coach John Cooper, but he would not elaborate.

Messages requesting comment from Cooper were not returned Sunday.

"It's going to be hard waiting the next two weeks, but right now, we're dealing with this loss," quarterback Bob Hoying said. "To play all season and go undefeated until now, it's difficult to deal with." The Buckeyes are at a disadvantage because they don't know who they will be playing in a bowl game or where it will be.

"We don't know who we're playing, so we can't really prepare for anybody," Cooper said Saturday.

Hoying said that after a few days off, the team will return to working on fundamentals. Here are Ohio State's bowl options:

- If Wisconsin loses or ties against Michigan State, Ohio State would be in the Rose Bowl.
- If Wisconsin defeats Michigan State, the Buckeyes would represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl.
- Wisconsin and Ohio State would end up tied for the league title with identical conference records of 7-1-1, but the Badgers would go to Pasadena because Ohio State more recently played in the Rose Bowl game.

The AP's top four is Florida State (9-2-1), Nebraska (10-0), Auburn (11-0) and Notre Dame (10-1).

The Buckeyes are third in the CNN-USA Today poll, behind Nebraska and Florida State.

While West Virginia's players and coaching staff celebrated Saturday after becoming the first Big East team to beat Miami since the conference started in 1991, the Mountaineers turned their attention Sunday to No. 11 Boston College (8-2, 5-1), which beat Notre Dame 41-39.

"They've won their last eight games and their offense is hitting on all cylinders," West Virginia safety Mike Collins said. "Glen Foley is hot. He's probably the hottest quarterback in the country right now.""In the first half, we just didn't play well," Hurricane quarterback Ryan Collins said.

After big win West Virginia wants respect

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — West Virginia remains undefeated and unvanquished.

Despite its 17-14 victory over Miami, the Mountaineers (10-0) moved up only four spots to No. 5 in The Associated Press poll released Sunday. And as one of only three undefeated teams left in Division I-A, coach Don Nehlen believes his team deserves better.

"I believe that Nebraska or West Virginia should be No. 1, and if they're No. 1, I think we should be, too," Nehlen said Sunday.

"But Florida State, regardless of what you say ... they have a loss on their record. And the team they lost to last year was not bad, but I don't think it was Florida State," he said.

The AP's top four is Florida State (9-2-1), Nebraska (10-0), Auburn (11-0) and Notre Dame (10-1).

Cross country teams make a run at NCAA titles

McWilliams a leader again

The Notre Dame men's cross country season will come to an end today, as the Irish compete in the NCAA Cross Country Championships at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania.

The fifth-ranked Irish team is coming off a convincing win at the District IV Championships, and will be looking to improve on last year's sixth-place NCAA finish.

The Irish will be led in their quest for the NCAA title by the indomitable Mike McWilliams, who is vying for his fourth straight All-American selection, a feat that has never before been accomplished by an Irish runner.

The senior captain finished 24th overall at last year's NCAA's, with a time of 31:34.1 in the 10,000 meter race. McWilliams was also the Irish's top finisher the previous two years, coming in 34th as a freshman, and 17th in his sophomore season.

McWilliams' success is not lost on Coach Joe Piane, who can not say enough about his team captain. "Meet after meet Mike exemplifies what a captain should be to his teammates," says Piane.

The team had the luck of the Irish in the red-line, two Lakers collided.

The lead lasted into the start of the second period. However, Lake Superior re-took the lead early in the third period and once again the Irish struck quickly to tie the game.十九届

At the beginning of the year, Notre Dame hockey coach Ric Schaefer set a goal for his team. "Our goal this season is to beat every team in the CCHA at least once," said Schaefer.

This past Friday the Irish took a major step in fulfilling that goal as they shocked last year's NCAA finalist Lake Superior State with a 5-4 overtime win.

Despite the Irish's 6-1 loss to a fired-up Laker squad the night before, the importance of Friday's victory was not lost.

Notre Dame put themselves in the picture to win the game by skating evenly with the Lakers for the three periods of regulation. The Irish fought back from 3-1 and 4-3 deficits to force the game into overtime.

The team had the luck of the Irish in the overtime. After a quiet two minutes of play, freshman defender Bryan Welch blasted a pass from his own zone to the other end of the ice. At the red line, two Lakers collided. It became a race for the puck between center Jamie Ling and LSSU goalie Paul Sass.

Sass came out to poke-check the puck away, but as he reached out Ling got his stick on it and the puck slid under Sass and into the net. It was the game-winner.

While the game-winner was a freak goal, it was a break that the Irish deserved, as they came onto the ice ready to play. "We were really fired-up," noted Welch. "We knew we were going to win. It started with coach Schaefer in the locker room."

Breit Bruninkis started the scoring 16:31 minutes into the game. Jeremy Coe assisted on Bruninkis' first goal of the season. The lead lasted into the start of the second period.

However, Lake State came out and took control of the game at the start of the second period. As they scored three unanswered goals on the Irish. Right wing Rob Valicevic tallied the first two scores for the Lakers, the second coming on a power-play.

LSU again capitalized on an Irish penalty at the 13:14 mark, when Mike Morin beat Louder for his third goal of the season.

It took the Irish less than two minutes to tie the game at three, as their hustle turned into two quick goals. Jamie McRea took Ling's pass to draw the Irish to within one. Nineteen seconds later, freshman Tim Harberts tied the game on an unassisted effort.

Lake Superior re-took the lead early in the third period and once again the Irish struck quickly to tie the game. Freshman Brian McCarthy notched the first goal of his college career less than a minute after Clayton Beddoes gave LSSU their final lead of the game.

Notre Dame defense raised their level of play for the final 11 minutes of the period to keep the game tied. The Lakers did have some opportunities to score but senior goalie Greg Lounder continued to sparkle, as he made a couple of key saves.

The overtime period was played evenly, but the Irish got the break they needed.
