The Blessed Mother Mary has foreseen a bleak future for our sinful country if abortion is allowed to continue, according to Father Edward O'Connor, University theology professor emeritus, and an expert on Our Lady and the apparitions that have been seen of her. O'Connor, who is heavily involved in the Mary movement and the pro-life movement, explained that many of those who have seen visions of Mary claim that she has said that "because of the sins of the world today, especially abortion, we are threatened with such chastisement the world has ever known."

"You'll find that spiritual and social movements aren't in harmony with one another. Some are concerned with one thing and not the other," said O'Connor.

"The spiritual movements and social movements in the church are running on two different planes. But these two movements seem so different they have a lot in common," said O'Connor.

According to O'Connor, Mary and the fight against abortion have strong ties.

"If we want to stop abortion it will not suffice to have good scientific arguments about the fetus and embryo. People are going to have abortions and no scientific argument is going to stop it," O'Connor stated. "You must touch and convert their hearts and make them feel for the baby that is invested in them."

Mary is the one we can turn to guide this conversion. "She is the one that will turn people away from the practice of abortion."

The pro-life and Mary movement must be linked together for the pro-life movement to be successful, O'Connor said.

"Mary carried around Jesus for nine months like any mother. In Mary's case it was not only her first born child but it was also Jesus Christ. While she was thinking of that child she was filling her with the holy spirit. During the nine months there was a communion between mother and child of which there is no parallel with an average mother.

Mary helps mothers to be aware of the precious value they are carrying.

"When Mary looks down on us she sees herself and Jesus. She sees all of us as members of the body of her son," O'Connor said. O'Connor cited the claims of visionaries in explaining Mary's strong hatred for abortion.

One of the visionaries of Medjugorje, the site where six young people have seen visions of Mary every day for six years, stated that when she asked Mary about abortions, "the Blessed Mother said there is no sin which can't be forgiven, but for abortion you must do penance for the whole of your life."

And when she asked where the aborted babies went after they were killed, Mary said that "the babies are with her."

Other visionaries reported that Mary showed them a multitude of babies that had been killed in one day's abortions and stated that many were meant to be saints and priests.

According to O'Connor, Julia Kim, a Korean woman who was orphaned in the Korean War, converted to Catholicism and her and her husband are extremely devout. One day after their statue of the Blessed Mother began to weep tears and so they went to the church and she began "suffering from the pains of the unborn and the wounds of the Lord appeared on her hands and feet."

In a recording, of a conference in Pittsburgh, Kim stated that the statue cries "for the repentance of those who have been aborted."

White House defends use of U.S. plane by Aiddod

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press

WASHINGTON President Clinton defended Monday the use of a U.S. jet by Mohamed Farrah Aaidid, whose Somali forces were suspected in the slaying of 24 Americans.

Clinton said Robert Oakley, his special envoy to Somalia, wanted to get Aaidid to peace talks in Ethiopia last week and "to have his peace conference going and so he thought it was the right thing to do, and I will stand behind his decision," the president said.

Clinton spoke at a joint news conference with Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez after a two-hour meeting.

Gonzales interrogated that the U.S. presence in Somalia "has its human cost but it has saved tens of thousands of lives, of innocent lives. It has saved them from a death by hunger.

Aaidid had been the target of an intense search after the deaths of Pakistani and American peacekeepers. After the deaths of the Americans, Clinton reversed course, set a March 31 deadline for the withdrawal of Americans from Somalia and agreed to drop the manhunt.

Asked how he would explain to the families of slain servicemen why the United States was now helping Aaidid, Clinton said, "I would tell them that they were over there fighting ultimately for a peace to take place ... That action was fundamental, it was successful; they achieved their objective. They arrested a lot of people." He said that U.S. forces have in custody "the people who we think are the most likely to have been seriously involved in the murder of the Pakistani soldiers and to have caused difficulties for the Americans."

An independent commission is investigating similar to those now running through campus, said David Horan, Student Government Liaison to the Video/Fiber Utilization Task Force.

Student Senate

The task force includes representatives from the Office of Diversity, Computing, Networking Services, WNDU-TV, and DeBartolo Media Resources. "The task force is considering the networking needs of students which may or may not meet," Horan said.

Future options for the task force include making it possible for everyone to have a computer in each room or making it possible for freshmen to have a computer for all four years.

Educational broadcast media might also be an option for students for instruction in the arts and Letters Core and other classes where film study is required, he said. "The university is opposed to entertainment cable for ideological reasons," he said.

Student senators voted on student body election dates. The elections can take place Feb. 7. An information night was held in runnin-

A task force is currently exploring the idea of allocating more computer cable fibers for networking similar to those now running through campus, said David Horan, Student Government Liaison to the Video/Fiber Utilization Task Force.
Astronauts work to correct Hubble telescope's blurred vision

SPACE CENTER, Houston

With guidance and power systems restored on the Hubble's Endeavour's spacewalk, the repair crew focused on fixing the telescope's bad eyesight. 'We've been up to bat twice, and the crew has hit two home runs,' said Joe Rothenberg, NASA's associate director of flight projects for Hubble. 'The first objective has been met.' We can handle on-orbit servicing and we can handle contingencies.

On Monday, the space shuttle Endeavour and its crew were in the sixth day of the 11-day flight setting spacecraft records each time they venture out of the crew cabin. The bus-sized Hubble, 43-feet long, sits upright on a barge-Sunflower near the rear of the cargo bay. The third day of repairs, beginning late Monday, was reserved for installing a new multi-purposed camera — actually three cameras for the detection of distant objects, and a planetary camera to make high-resolution studies of planets, galaxies and stars. Nicknamed 'f?pic' for wide-field planetary camera, the instrument includes lenses to compensate for the flaws created by the telescope's misshapen minor mirror. With it, NASA hopes to regain most of the Hubble's lost promise of getting clear images of the faintest and oldest heavenly bodies. It also will enable astronomers to track the orbits of comets around the sun and search for planets around other stars.

Astrophysicist Susan Stennett Lord, making their second foray into the open cargo bay, also were set to replace the Hubble's two magnetometers that measure the telescope's position by Earth's magnetic field. Neither of the existing instruments is performing at full capability. One of the unscheduled repairs event before the flight's most dramatic moment. A solar panel being removed for replacement. Monday's spacewalk refused to roll up for the return home. Rather than waste time with it, Mission Control told the spacewalkers to toss the panel into space to avoid dangerous debris from space flight. The official reasoning was "funky" for wide-field planetary camera, the instrument includes lenses to compensate for the flaws created by the telescope's misshapen minor mirror. With it, NASA hopes to regain most of the Hubble's lost promise of getting clear images of the faintest and oldest heavenly bodies. It also will enable astronomers to track the orbits of comets around the sun and search for planets around other stars.

As an angel. Some ornaments depict Socks, the family cat, as an angel. "There's even a president with a halo," she said, laughing. "Some are quite elegant and rather magnificent." So much for the Earth. "The first lady said. "They run the whole gamut." Socks' image is not limited to the Christmas trees. The "House of Socks" is a traditional gingerbread house, a yard-high depiction of the White House featuring at least 20 minis-statues of the "first lady's office and the so-called, she says, because she doesn't have a real fruitcake is to store-bought ones what Camembert is to artificially flavored cheese. "It's the holiday gift people love to hate, but each December it arrives, bulky and unwieldy, at homes across the country. The writer Calvin Trillin has a theory that there's only one that and it gets passed along year after year, unopened. Russell Baker says it's the only food durable enough to be a family heirloom. This holiday season, the much-maligned fruitcake has a new champion, in the form of a celebratory cookbook. To some, the title, "Favorite Fruitcakes," might seem like an oxymoron. But author Heidi Hodgson says those who hate fruitcakes haven't just experienced the real thing. "People either love fruitcakes or hate them, the latter I think because they know only the commercial variety — heavy, dried-out cakes made with supermarket candied fruits that are dyed alarming colors and often have a strange, taste," she writes. "But a real fruitcake is to store-bought ones what Camembert is to artificially flavored cheese, spread, or 'Fancy Munchies,' he says it's often thought of as white wine cooler. Hodgson, who is English, says she grew up on delicious fruitcakes served at afternoon tea. Her cookbook includes many exotic varieties — including Caribbean Black Fruitcake, made with fruit soaked for up to a year in rum, and an Irish version, made with raisins soaked overnight in Guinness Stout. There are dark fruitcakes and American fruitcakes, European fruitcakes and American ones. Famous chefs, including Craig Claiborne, Jacques Pepin and Marion Cunningham, contribute their favorite recipes. There's Julia Child's famous White Fruitcake. she said, she's "if started out that way during my first experiment, and the name has remained, as a family joke." And dessert expert Maida Heatter adds Panforte Cioccolato, a chocolate cake from Siena, Italy, that she claims the Crusaders carried with them on their journeys.

INDIANA Weather

NATIONAL Weather

The Accu-Weather® forecast for today, Tuesday, Dec. 7.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>High Temperature</th>
<th>Low Temperature</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Indianapolis</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evansville</td>
<td>53°F</td>
<td>31°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Terre Haute</td>
<td>48°F</td>
<td>34°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bloomington</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kokomo</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valparaiso</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logansport</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne</td>
<td>48°F</td>
<td>34°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne (SW)</td>
<td>49°F</td>
<td>35°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne (NE)</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>South Bend</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Accu-Weather® forecast for today, Tuesday, Dec. 7.

FRONT:*

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Location</th>
<th>High Temperature</th>
<th>Low Temperature</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Indianapolis</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Evansville</td>
<td>53°F</td>
<td>31°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Terre Haute</td>
<td>48°F</td>
<td>34°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bloomington</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kokomo</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valparaiso</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logansport</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne</td>
<td>49°F</td>
<td>35°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne (SW)</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne (NE)</td>
<td>51°F</td>
<td>37°F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>South Bend</td>
<td>50°F</td>
<td>36°F</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Supreme Court challenge appeal of an 11-year-old boy Monday.

The organization is defending itself against lawsuits challenging its policy of barring homosexuals.

The organization also is defending against lawsuits based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.

In the appeal acted on Monday, lawyers for the Boy Scouts of America, unlike restaurants, hotels and places of entertainment, is not a public accommodation covered by Title II of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The law bars discrimination based on race, color, religion or national origin.
Governor, ex-marine crowd Virginia Senate race

By JEAN McNAIR
Associated Press

RICHMOND, Va. — Virginia voters don’t much like their choices in next year’s U.S. Senate race, a senator, a governor and a famous ex-Marine among them. So the candidates’ lists just keeps growing as other hopefuls jump into what could shape up as the country’s hottest Senate race.

Sen. Charles S. Robb, a Democrat, is seeking re-election after a first term marred by a federal grand jury investigation and news reports that he attended drug parties while he was governor and had an affair with a beauty queen.

Outgoing Gov. Douglas Wilder, Robb’s longtime nemesis, is challenging him for the nomination.

On the GOP side, retired Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North of Iran-Contra fame has more name recognition than two other contenders, former U.S. Attorney Jay Stephens and former Reagan budget chief Jim Miller.

Charges against Senator dropped

By MARY SANDOK
Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn. — A judge dismissed felony charges against Sen. Dave Durenberger on Monday, ruling that federal prosecutors improperly used congressional records to accuse him of falsifying expense accounts.

The judge, Warren Urbom of Nebraska dismissed the indictment accusing the Minnesota Republican of billing taxpayers for stays at a condominium.

Prosecutors may appeal or seek another indictment, Justice Department spokesman John Russell said.

Durenberger told a Washington news conference that he hoped the decision "represents the end of this unwarranted prosecution."

"Concluding this case immediately would be an act of justice and fairness," Durenberger said. "Although the order does not address the merits of the case, it is my hope that this development will permit some examination by the Justice Department of the wisdom of this prosecution."

Durenberger, 59, was first elected to the Senate in 1978. He announced this fall he would not seek re-election next year.

He was charged with hiding his ownership in the condominium to collect $3,823 in reimbursement from the Senate for staying there during five months in 1987. He faced two felony charges, each carrying a maximum five-year prison sentence and $250,000 fine.

Urbom said the federal charges against Durenberger could not stand because prosecutors wrongly exposed a grand jury to Senate records that were constitutionally protected.

"Because no one — including government counsel — knows what weight, if any, the grand jury attached to the (protected) records, I cannot find that the constitutional error was harmless," Urbom wrote.

Other Residence Hall Penance Services:

- Pax Hall Saturday: 6th 4:10pm
- Howard Hall Tuesday: 6th 10:30am
- Lewis Hall Thursday: 6th 10:30am
- St. Stephen's Hall Wednesday: 6th 9:15am

Advent Penance Service

Tuesday, December 7th, 1993
10:30pm, Basilica of the Sacred Heart

Opportunity for individual confessions following the service.

The Observer • NATIONAL NEWS
Tuesday, December 7, 1993

Addicts aided by federal funds

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — More than 72,000 people collect an average of $300 a month in federal disability payments because they are addicted to drugs or alcohol. Few get the treatment they need to kick their habit and some end up using the cash to buy more liquor or drugs.

The number of drug addicts and alcoholics on the rolls of Supplemental Security Income has exploded in recent years. In the first nine months of 1993, nearly 19,000 people began collecting benefits.

The federal government will spend an estimated $350 million in payments to addicts and alcoholics on SSI this fiscal year, more than six times as much as the $56 million spent in 1989.

SSI is a welfare program, run by the Social Security Administration, that is supposed to help low-income elderly and disabled people pay for food, shelter and clothing.

To qualify for SSI disability benefits, a person must be unable to work because of a physical or mental impairment that is expected to result in death or last for at least one year. Social Security determines who is eligible for benefits.

Some 5.8 million people receive SSI benefits, and just 1.5 percent of them are addicts and alcoholics, said Social Security spokesman Phil Gambino.

In exchange for their checks, drug addicts and alcoholics must agree to get abuse treatment, if it's available.

The problem, say advocates and Social Security officials, is that there aren't enough treatment opportunities in a country with 23 million addicts, alcoholics and problem drinkers and fewer than 90,000 federally funded treatment slots.

In any given year, only about 2 million to 3 million people are actually being treated in either private or publicly funded facilities, according to the National Association of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Counselors.

As a result, some addicts may be spending their benefits on liquor or drugs.

"Social Security, unknowingly, unwittingly, provides more money to drug dealers and bars than any other organization in the whole world," said Francis J. O'Byrne, an administrative law judge in Chicago who hears appeals from people who have been denied Social Security benefits.

"No drug addict, no alcoholic should ever have their hands on cash," O'Byrne said. "These people should be put in a hospital, in a detox, to make them better, not given money to buy a better class of drugs."

Al Guida, vice president of governmental affairs for the National Mental Health Association, believes most SSI benefits to recipients disabled by addiction go to rent, food and day-to-day survival.

"Let's say for a moment that we bar these payments and then shift the $300 million into direct drug treatment," he said. "What you're going to do is increase the number of people who are homeless."
French critical of farm subsidies

By ELIZABETH WISE
Associated Press

BRUSSELS, Belgium
The United States and European Community appeared close Monday to settling a dispute on farm subsidies that has been the main obstacle to concluding a global trade pact. But France called the progress inadequate.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy hinted the United States and 12-nation trading bloc had settled a bitter dispute over cuts in government payments to farmers.

U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor continued efforts to clinch an overall deal that would save the protracted talks, Espy emerged with "pretty good" reports.

In Washington, President Clinton said he was optimistic after talking to Kantor by phone and said "they're doing quite well" on the key issue of farm subsidies.

Even so, Clinton said, "There are still some sticking points."

Another Espy not Stelchen gave details of their discussions.

But other officials said the United States backed down and agreed to reopen an agreement reached last year to make sharp cuts in the trading bloc's subsidized farm exports.

In return, Washington was promised increased sales for some of its agriculture products in Europe, they said.

The farm dispute has been the main obstacle to concluding by a Dec. 15 deadline the wied negotiation trade talks, sponsored by the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, or GATT.

The deadline is the last day Congress can notify a proposed GATT agreement under "fast-track" legislation, which bars legislators from attaching amendments that could kill an accord.

In the farm dispute, EC officials and diplomats said the United States agreed to soften the blow of last year's Blair House accord calling for the community to pare its subsidized farm exports by 21 percent over six years.

Judge, kidnapper killed by gunmen in Algeria

By RACHID KHIARI
Associated Press

ALGIERS, Algeria
Gunmen killed a judge Monday and wounded two policemen guarding a high school for foreign students, the latest in a wave of attacks blamed on Islamic militants.

Police also said they killed one of the ringleaders in the kidnapping of three French consular employees in October.

Am Ma Lakhdar, chief judge in the western coastal city of Oran, was the sixth judge killed since May. Three others have been wounded.

Court officials said Lakhdar was hit by several bullets fired by three attackers near his home in Oran. There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

The duel outside the Ben Aknoun school in Algiers occurred shortly after new security measures went into effect there. Two armored security vehicles were stationed by the main gate, and officers with automatic rifles patrolled the neighborhood.

Officials said the gunmen were trying to frighten their way into the school, where many of the students are French.

Police said Mohammed Guezmiz, 24, one of the kidnappers of the French consular employees, died in a gun battle near a police station in downtown Algiers.

Guezmiz, riding on a city bus, took a woman hostage and shot and wounded one of the policemen who tried to arrest him, officials said. Police killed him when he broke away and tried to flee.

Guezmiz was identified as one of the leaders of the Armed Islamic Group, which has claimed responsibility for the week-long kidnapping.

The militant Muslim organization has threatened to begin killing foreigners who stayed in Algeria after Nov. 30. It has been blamed for the killings of nine expatriates since September.

The Armed Islamic Group is one of the more violent of the organizations waging an insurrection against the government.

Muslim militants fighting to bring down the military-backed government have killed public officials, intellectuals and journalists since cancellation of January 1992 elections that fundamentalists were expected to win.

The Observer
is now accepting applications for the following position:

Assistant Systems Manager

Must have knowledge of Macintosh computers and their applications. Please turn your resumes in to the Observer office by December 10. Contact Patrick Barth at 631-5303 for more information.

Looks like a Vivarin night.

It's 10 PM. You've crammed for finals all week. Took two today. And now you've got to pack an entire semester's worth of Philosophy into one take-home exam, in one night.

But how do you stay awake when you're totally wiped? Revive with Vivarin. Safe as coffee, Vivarin helps keep you awake and mentally alert for hours.

So when you have pen in hand, but sleep on the brain, make it a Vivarin night!
Clinton, U.N. call Korean nuclear offer inadequate

By ROBERT BURNS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
President Clinton and U.N. inspectors have told North Korea's offer to open nuclear sites to limited scrutiny Monday, declaring the offer inadequate to make sure the communist nation was not making bombs.

Clinton called top advisers to the White House to discuss a next step and said he also wanted to discuss the matter with South Korea and other allies before deciding on any action.

At a news conference about North Korea's latest effort to defuse the situation, Clinton said he was encouraged by indications that they understood that we needed to both start inspections and the dialogue again between the South and the North. "But other comments by the president and an official of the U.N. International Atomic Energy Agency were more negative," he said. " Obviously we are not entirely satisfied with the response of the so-called "Korean offer." At the same time, we do support a full cooperation with the IAEA.

Kyd said the IAEA would not respond officially to the North Korean proposal until after the U.S. government has made its position known. He said State Department officials briefed Hans Blix, the agency's director general, on details of the proposal over the weekend. "It does not respond to our proposal," Kyd said.

He said the IAEA's statement reflected Blix's view, expressing serious doubts about the North Korean proposal that was presented to U.S. officials in New York last Friday.

At IAEA headquarters in Vienna, Austria, spokesman Melissa Whelan incorrectly identified a story in last Friday's New York Times as saying Whelan was the representative for the North Korean proposal that was presented to U.S. officials.

"They have neither confirmed nor denied that the IAEA says is a reproducibility of the offer," Whelan said.

In his remarks Monday, Clinton said he has a somewhat encouraging view that North Korea's commitment to an inspection process understood that the United States was insisting that it not only permit full inspections but also resume a direct dialogue with South Korea.

In his remarks Monday, Clinton said the IAEA interviewed by Kyd said that the IAEA is a reproducibility of the offer that North Korea is adhering to its non-proliferation Treaty obligation not to build nuclear weapons.

But at the other two sites, which the IAEA and the United States consider to be important, the inspectors could only change batteries and film in monitoring cameras. They could not check seals or carry out any other inspection.

Kyd said the IAEA does want to visit the five sites because it has not inspected them since last August, but "they are not at the heart of the program."

A story in last Friday's Observer incorrectly identified Melissa Whelan, Whelan is the NASCCU representative for the Board of Governance. The Observer regrets the error.

Arafat urges U.S. to push Israelis

By DONALD ROTHBERG
Associated Press

JERUSALEM
PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat failed Monday to get the United States to side with the Palestinians in their dispute with Israel over implementation of a ground-breaking peace accord.

"It's quite important that we interpose ourselves in those discussions," said President Bill Clinton after a two-hour meeting with the man the United Nations no longer considered a terrorist leader.

Christopher promised only to pass on to President Richard Minster Yitzhak Rabin "the concerns that chairman Arafat has.

The difficulty of Christopher's mission in the Middle East was tragically highlighted when he returned to Israel to learn that a Jewish father and his son were shot and killed in the West Bank city of Hebron, site of repeated clashes during the past week between Palestinian and Jewish settlers.

The two Americans were not related and the family was wounded in the attack which came from a speeding car.

"It's a tragic incident," said Christopher. "This killing absolutely must stop."

Christopher and Arafat met for two hours in the U.S. Embassy in Amman, Jordan, and discussed the economic as well as political problems confronting the Palestinian leader as he tries to assert PLO control over Gaza and the West Bank town of Jericho.

Their meeting was a dramatic sign of the startling change that has taken place in the Middle East since Christopher's last visit in August. Less than four months ago, U.S. diplomats were forbidden from having any official contact with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Christopher had met Arafat only once before in Washington on Sept. 13, the day the Israel-PLO peace accord was signed. They plan to get together again in Tunis before Christopher returns to Washington, and it is clear that Arafat has joined other Middle East leaders on the must-see list when the secretary arrives.

Arafat has insisted that an agreement for the start of Israeli troop withdrawal from the two areas be completed by Dec. 13, the deadline set in the accord signed by Israel and the PLO. Arafat has said there is nothing sacred in that deadline and suggested it could not be met. Asked if they were willing to be more flexible, Arafat replied, "You have to ask Mr. Rabin to be flexible, not me."

He said he had asked the United States for help in getting Israel to meet the deadline.

In Cairo, chief Palestinian negotiator Nahli Shaashua said Israeli and PLO negotiators working out details of the withdrawal will exchange drafts Wednesday on the overall shape of Palestinian autonomy.

Two drafts are in the making, ours and theirs," Shaashua said. "They don't signal agreement. We're moving from item-by-item negotiation into the exchanging of full drafts because we are coming that close."

Much of the meeting with Arafat, held in the ambassador's residence over coffee, tea and chocolate chip cookies, dealt with the progress being made by the PLO to set up a governmental structure.

Christopher said the United States pledged to provide non-lethal assistance to the PLO police force now being trained.

ATTENTION
ALL FEMALE ACTORS, DANCERS, SINGERS
AUDITIONS
for the SMC musical play
QUILTERS
MONDAY, DEC. 6
TUESDAY, DEC. 7
7:00 P.M.
REGINA HALL, ROOM 16
SAIN'T MARY'S COLLEGE
Please call 284-4640 for an appointment, and for further information.
Bring song (with music for accompanist).
Monologues provided.

FINALS WEEK SPECIALS!
To Better Serve you
the SMC campuses
valid on carry-out only

Pizza Hut
273-9944
18157 SR 23

1 Medium Topping Pizza
$5.99

Get up to 4 more pizzas for half the regular menu price
expires 12/31/93

1 Large Cheese Pizza
for $7.99
OR
1 Medium Cheese Pizza
for $6.99
Any 2nd Cheese Pizza 1/2 price
expires 12/31/93

One FREE Single Order of Breadsticks with a Medium/Large Pizza Purchase
Valid with carry-out delivery
Expires 12/31/93

Valid Carry-out Delivery

Across From Coaches'
Mollen Bank, Dreyfus form largest fund Co.

By ROB WELLS
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Mollen Bank said today it is acquiring The Dreyfus Corp., one of the nation's best-known mutual fund companies, in a stock swap valued at $1.35 billion.

The merger is one of the biggest acquisitions ever in the world of mutual funds, which have become the most popular way for Americans to invest their money in stocks and bonds.

"This establishes a kind of watermark for the industry," said Frank Barkocy, bank industry analyst for Advest Inc., a securities brokerage firm.

The two companies issued a joint statement saying the combination will create a diversified financial services company with revenue of more than $3.5 billion and about $25 billion in funds under management.

The merger was a result of consumer demand to have a variety of financial services available from a single source, the companies said.

Dreyfus shareholders will receive 0.8817 shares of Mellon Bank Corp. common stock for each of the 36.6 million Dreyfus shares outstanding. Based on Mellon's closing stock price of $57.375 a share on Friday, the transaction is valued at $1.35 billion.

In today's early trading on the New York Stock Exchange, Dreyfus was up $1.30 at $46 a share, while Mellon was off sharply, down 3 1/2 at 12 1/2 to 13.

Dreyfus, formed in 1951 and publicly owned since 1965, is the nation's sixth-largest mutual fund company and has offices in 16 major cities. Mellon, with $35 billion in assets, is a major player in the trust and investment management businesses.

One bank analyst, John Hef- fern of Lehman Brothers Inc. in Baltimore, said he doubted the announcement signaled a wave of mergers involving banks and mutual fund companies.

"I would be cautious in applying this to all other bank stocks," Hef- fern said. Because Dreyfus is focused on the mutual fund business, "this is kind of an extreme case," Hef- fern said.

Mollen will remain in its New York headquarters and will establish a free-standing organization within Mellon Bank Corp., the companies said.

The Dreyfus management team is expected to stay in place, and the Dreyfus name will be retained for the mutual funds it manages, the companies said. No layoffs are planned within the 2,000-person Dreyfus staff.

The companies' statement was issued by Michael Cahouet, Mellon's chairman, president, and chief executive, and Howard Stein, Dreyfus' chairman.

Mollen-Dreyfus merger

Mollen Bank Corp., will buy The Dreyfus Corp., one of the nation's best-known mutual fund companies, for $1.35 billion worth of stock. The deal illustrates the growing push by banks into new businesses to attract customers dissatisfied with traditional bank accounts. Mutual fund companies pool money from investors and put it in money markets, stocks, bonds and other investments.

Corporate profiles:

Mollen Bank

Based in Pittsburgh, Mellon is the largest bank holding company in the U.S., formed in 1969, with operations in 16 major cities. Mellon serves commercial and investment banking, including mutual fund administration.

Dreyfus

Based in New York, Dreyfus' six-largest mutual fund company, formed in 1951. Manages or admires 125 mutual fund portfolios with more than $60 billion in assets. Pronger, a mutual fund and tax-free municipal bonds funds.

1992 revenue: $342.45 million; profits $20.7 million

Popularly known for its trademark logo in features television commercials, which emerged from a subway station and strode down Wall Street.

Critiqued in recent years for focusing on sales, but has maintained strong relationships with high-growth stock funds.

Chairman Howard Stein, 67, well-regarded as the former behind Dreyfus chairman. His leadership, including a merger.

US, EC close trade deal

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press

BRUSSELS

The United States and the European Community appeared to be too far apart to settle the contentious issue of farm subsidy cuts, which would pave the way for trade accord by Dec. 15.

After nearly five hours of talks at EC headquarters, U.S. Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy said negotiations on the farm subsidy dispute had been "very productive" and were concluded.

Asked if there was an agreement, Espy, who was with EC farm chief Rene Steichen, "no, but created a smile at the EC members," said, "I'm very proud of what we have done today," he told reporters.

"Neither he nor Steichen gave details of the discussions. Espy and U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor were holding crucial negotiations with the 12-nation bloc in an effort to clinch a deal on agricultural, textile and other trade disputes.

Espy said both sides signaled that after years of failure, the trading partners have made progress toward closing the gap between their plans for reducing subsidies, which now top $100 billion each in 1990.

"This is an industry practice, the EC said, "but the EC is ready to move forward on this issue." The American side indicated its yen for a deal for reducing subsidies in the EC by March 1.

After a cabinet meeting this morning in Paris, Agriculture Minister Jean Pechard indicated some progress was made, saying, "Things are becoming clearer." European Community's Jacques Tousson said Washington "hasn't given in on any larger commitment on over-the-counter farm subsidies for others." farm dispute could allow a major trade test between 116 nations to conclude by the end of the year.

After a cabinet meeting this morning in Paris, Agriculture Minister Jean Pechard indicated some progress was made, saying, "Things are becoming clearer." European Community's Jacques Tousson said Washington "hasn't given in on any larger commitment on over-the-counter farm subsidies for others." farm dispute could allow a major trade test between 116 nations to conclude by the end of the year.

Passenger and cargo planes are allowed to land in the EC, but not in the United States. The United States and the European Community are negotiating to end the dispute over an EC plan to replace the current system with a union-wide agreement.

US airlines have long advocated reciprocity, while the EC has favored a uniform system.

"It is kind of a matter of principle," Espy said today. "The Europeans have a strong position managing and administering stock and bond operations, whereas the companies have extensive experience in managing and administering mutual funds."
It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS

It is not very often that a state legislature creates a law specifically designed to point out the actions of one particular person. One would think that this person, an individual who has been vilified by some, and who think it is their right to decide for the government involvement is contrary to their religious principles.

In response to John Ruskusky's letter regarding the conversion of Cavanaugh Hall, I would like to say that I understand his feelings of bitterness and displacement at his upcoming "expulsion" from his dorm. Were the Administration to decide to turn Pasquerilla West into a men's dorm, I too would be most upset at the loss of the tradition, friends and community that I have experienced with the women of PW. I agree and sympathize with Ruskusky's problem.

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism.

Letters to the Editor

Cavanaugh's conversion should not have resulted in sexism

KURT MILLS
Autistic child makes his "Mark"

By ELIZABETH CLARKE

By ELIZABETH CLARKE

A medical science still does not know what causes autism. It is a case individual and the causes have been linked to genetic, metabolic and organic brain damage.

This is a condition that seems as though it would be far removed from the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community, but, in fact, it has a very special and good natured four year old boy, Mark Fralish, and the volunteers that serve in our community.

Mark is an autistic child who was born with multiple birth defects. His parents began to notice a delay in his development at age one and a half, it was then that his autism was apparent. Doctors said that Mark suffered from a pervasive developmental delay.

Public education is available for Mark, but his parents chose not to take advantage of public education primarily because they knew that Mark would be lost in the shuffle of children who were developing at a faster rate than he was.

Secondly, a clustered classroom constantly bubbling with activity would be very distracting for Mark who has tremendous difficulty communicating and has a short attention span.

Thus, his parents, after intensive research and thought, decided to take a behavioral approach to his slow development. They are currently following techniques used at the O'wens Clinic at UCLA. This particular clinic specializes in the development and the research of autism.

The Fralish family constructed a room in their home away from noisy surroundings and with the toys and effects used at the clinic. Mark's parents and therapist are in the process of teaching Mark sign language. Right now, Mark has developed his own form of communication.

"All of Mark's toys and belongings are placed on shelves above a location that he is capable of retrieving them on his own. Therefore, Mark is forced into having to use some means of communication and interaction with others to get the particular toy that he wants to play with," said Barbara.

Mark's attention span is minimal and therefore it is essential that his playmates make eye contact with him to ensure that he continues to strive for making eye contact on his own.

Mark's parents and therapist are in the process of teaching Mark sign language. Right now, Mark has developed his own form of communication.

He will take a person's hand and lead them to the record player if he wants to listen to music, or take someone's hand and place it on a container that he wants opened, which forces him to have contact with other people.

For the most part, gestures are Mark's means of communication, although he does know a few of the more pertinent words like 'cookie',' said Barbara.

However, even a word that other children of Mark's age say with ease daily, takes a tremendous effort for Mark to clearly articulate.

Since Mark does not attend any nursery school program, he undergoes five to six hours of drill methods a day with his therapist and volunteers from the NOSMC community.

Volunteers like Colleen Cuthill, a junior Liberal Arts Major at Notre Dame, spends an hour to an hour and a half with Mark in his specially designed room each week. Colleen says that she plays games with her new friend thus, continuing to reinforce the behavioral program that his parents have chosen for him. During this time Colleen sits on the floor so she is at eye level and can readily make eye contact.

Colleen's responsibility as a volunteer requires positive interaction with Mark, whereas his therapist is more responsible for teaching him.

In reflection, Colleen described Mark as a "sweet, happy, and energetic boy" who keeps her active during her weekly visits, which she enjoys and finds fulfilling.

It has been Colleen's experience that autistic people reject touch. Mark, on the other hand is a very openly affectionate boy with a happy spirit and a warm soul.

Contact with people is essential to Mark's continual development. Volunteers have become essential to Barbara who has three other children to devote her attention to as well as a hectic household to run.

The Fralish's do receive some aid from the Indiana's Family Support Services. However, the money is minimal therefore, they must rely on volunteers from the Logan Center and others like Colleen from the NOSMC community.

If you have a warm and caring heart and would like to devote time on a weekly basis to getting to know a child with autism, contact Barbara Fralish at 233-2651.

"Dimensions" jazzes up Notre Dame campus

By Ryan J. Grabow

Tuesday, December 7, 1993

"Dimensions" jazzes up Notre Dame campus

By ELIZABETH CLARKE

There will be a concert, "Dimensions in Jazz" in the Band Building on Tuesday, December 7th at 8:00 p.m. There is no admission charge for this concert.

The program will consist of varied styles of jazz ranging across the entire spectrum of the music from main steam current, fusion and avant garde to the New Orleans and hot styles. Conductors to the Swing and Bop era's in between - truly all of the "Dimensions of Jazz".

The program will be shared by the two Notre Dame Big Bands and will highlight the improvisational talents of many of the students.

"Dimensions in Jazz" will be the tenth sax solos of Jim McKiernan, the drum work of Kevin Fleming and the singing of Matt Umhofer and Amanda Briggs.

Pianists Brandon Crouch and Andy Brennan will also be featured along with guitarist Kevin Hoffman and Geoff Locksmith.

Works performed will be from the compositions and arrangements of Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Stan Kenton, Bennie Moten, Billie Holiday, Charlie Parker, Jimmy Heath, McCoy Tyner, Larry Blyden and Billy Strayhorn.

This is a condition that seems as though it would be far removed from the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community, but, in fact, it has a very special and good natured four year old boy, Mark Fralish, and the volunteers that serve in our community.

The Fralish family constructed a room in their home away from noisy surroundings and with the toys and effects used at the clinic. Mark's parents and therapist are in the process of teaching Mark sign language. Right now, Mark has developed his own form of communication.

"All of Mark's toys and belongings are placed on shelves above a location that he is capable of retrieving them on his own. Therefore, Mark is forced into having to use some means of communication and interaction with others to get the particular toy that he wants to play with," said Barbara.

Mark's attention span is minimal and therefore it is essential that his playmates make eye contact with him to ensure that he continues to strive for making eye contact on his own.

Mark's parents and therapist are in the process of teaching Mark sign language. Right now, Mark has developed his own form of communication.

He will take a person's hand and lead them to the record player if he wants to listen to music, or take someone's hand and place it on a container that he wants opened, which forces him to have contact with other people.

For the most part, gestures are Mark's means of communication, although he does know a few of the more pertinent words like 'cookie',' said Barbara.

However, even a word that other children of Mark's age say with ease daily, takes a tremendous effort for Mark to clearly articulate.

Since Mark does not attend any nursery school program, he undergoes five to six hours of drill methods a day with his therapist and volunteers from the NOSMC community.

Volunteers like Colleen Cuthill, a junior Liberal Arts Major at Notre Dame, spends an hour to an hour and a half with Mark in his specially designed room each week. Colleen says that she plays games with her new friend thus, continuing to reinforce the behavioral program that his parents have chosen for him. During this time Colleen sits on the floor so she is at eye level and can readily make eye contact.

Colleen's responsibility as a volunteer requires positive interaction with Mark, whereas his therapist is more responsible for teaching him.

In reflection, Colleen described Mark as a "sweet, happy, and energetic boy" who keeps her active during her weekly visits, which she enjoys and finds fulfilling.

It has been Colleen's experience that autistic people reject touch. Mark, on the other hand is a very openly affectionate boy with a happy spirit and a warm soul.

Contact with people is essential to Mark's continual development. Volunteers have become essential to Barbara who has three other children to devote her attention to as well as a hectic household to run.

The Fralish's do receive some aid from the Indiana's Family Support Services. However, the money is minimal therefore, they must rely on volunteers from the Logan Center and others like Colleen from the NOSMC community.

If you have a warm and caring heart and would like to devote time on a weekly basis to getting to know a child with autism, contact Barbara Fralish at 233-2651.

"Dimensions in Jazz" will be the tenth sax solos of Jim McKiernan, the drum work of Kevin Fleming and the singing of Matt Umhofer and Amanda Briggs.

Pianists Brandon Crouch and Andy Brennan will also be featured along with guitarist Kevin Hoffman and Geoff Locksmith.

Works performed will be from the compositions and arrangements of Count Basie, Duke Ellington, Stan Kenton, Bennie Moten, Billie Holiday, Charlie Parker, Jimmy Heath, McCoy Tyner, Larry Blyden and Billy Strayhorn.
Murphy leaves Cincinnati for Harvard and Ivy varsity

Associated Press

Boston Tim Murphy, taking a pay cut to join the Ivy League, was hired as Harvard's football coach Monday.

Murphy coached Cincinnati the past five years and replaces Joe Resto, who retired after 23 years in the program.

He signed a five-year contract with Harvard for about $75,000 a season, his base salary at Cincinnati was a reported $111,000.

"The reason I coach is the reason most guys play in the Ivy League for the love of the game," Murphy said at a news conference, "I just felt Harvard was a unique opportunity that wasn't going to come along again for another 20 years."

Murphy was named a 1st Team at Cincinnati for a Division 1-A team in his home state.

He had just completed an 8-3 season at Cincinnati, its best record since 1976 and its first winning record since 1982. He had led Cincinnati to previous four winning years, just winning one game in each of his first two seasons. Murphy's overall mark with the Bearcats was 17-37-1.

"It was awfully hard," Murphy said of leaving Cincinnati. "But in some ways, emotionally, I was like one of the graduating seniors. We'd accomplished what exactly we were hired to do."

Bill Cleary, Harvard athletic director, praised Murphy and said Murphy had already been at the school's Dillon Field House across the river from the Cambridge campus.

Cleary and his department had to go through a learning process in hiring a new coach after ficcio's resignation.

"I hope it will be another 23 years before we have to look for a new coach," Cleary said.

Murphy had spent two seasons as coach at Maine, where, at age 36, he became the youngest Division 1-A coach in 1987. The Black Bears were 8-4 and 7-4 under Murphy and held the United States Foreign Commerce title in his first season.

He completed an outstanding career as a linebacker for Springfield College in 1977 then was offensive line coach at Brown from 1978 to 1980. Murphy coached the defensive line at Lafayette the next season, before becoming defensive first coach at Boston University from 1982 to 1984.

He spent the next two seasons as offensive coordinator at Maine before being hired from Buddy Teevens as head coach.

Under Resto, Harvard's winningest football coach, the Crimson were 117-97-6. But they went 3-7 this season and shared last place in the league.

Auburn's Bowden helps brother up coaching ladder

BY PETE IACOVELLI

Associated Press

GREENVILLE, S.C. -

Bowden began his coaching career in 1976 at Furman as defensive back coach under then-head coach Karl Hall.

After leaving for a season at Cincinnati in 1981, Johnson returned to the Paladins.
Miami's Highsmith admits to violating NCAA rules

MIAMI — Alonzo Highsmith admits violating NCAA rules by taking money from an agent in 1986 while still playing for the Miami Hurricanes.

In an interview with the Sun-Sentinel of Fort Lauderdale published Monday, Highsmith said he felt he deserved the money knowing he was violating NCAA rules.

"By my junior year, I'm saying to myself that we play on national TV, do this and we do that, and how we get out the deal is just a chance to play for the national title and college education? I'm appreciative of the fact that I got to go to college and get a degree. But what you leave on the field is five times more than a degree. "You are giving this school your body and risking your life, and you help bring in millions of dollars. Everybody says, 'Well, you are getting a college degree.' Yeah, that's great, but I could have gone to Dade South to get a college degree..." Highsmith, a fullback who went on to play for the Houston Oilers, Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Dallas Cowboys, lives in Houston and is out of football now. He declined to say how much money he took from Levine.

The agent has written a book that says he signed Highsmith and two other Miami players to contracts in violation of NCAA rules before the 1986 season. Highsmith acknowledged lying to Miami athletic director Paul Dee, who was the school's legal counsel at the time, and to other Miami and NCAA officials about his relationship with Levine. He said he believed he had no choice. If he told the truth, his playing career would have been over.

"I don't think they should be hurt," Highsmith said. "This isn't an easy problem at Miami. I'm speaking up to talk about the whole college football system. Everybody uses everybody. There's hypocrisy, and it's all dumped over onto the player." Dee was out of his office Monday and unavailable for comment.

Court injunction blocks Oilers from leaving Edmonton

EDMONTON, Alberta Peter Pocklington's legal team began its attack Monday on a court injunction preventing the Edmonton Oilers' owner from moving the NHL franchise.

First assistant coach Larry "Butch" Northlands — which runs the Coliseum where the Oilers play — has been in a dispute for nearly a year over the lease deal the NHL team has for the facility.

Lawyer Cliff O'Brien said the injunction, granted Nov. 8, should be overturned because Northlands failed to inform the court of a standstill agreement.

"If your lordship had been informed and knew about the standstill agreement, it's inconceivable the order would have been made," O'Brien said.

SOUTH BEND RECORD & CD COLLECTOR'S SHOW
SUNDAY, DECEMBER 12TH
10:00 AM - 5:00 PM
ADMISSION $3.00
AT THE HOLYDAY INN
UNIVERSITY
515 DIXIEWAY N.
US 31 - 33 NORTH
ELKHART ADAMS PHILADELPHIA ST. & M. S. M. & TRADE
MUSIC COLLECTIBLES FROM THE 40's - 50's - 60's - 70's - 80's - 90's
FOR DEALER ORDER CALL • BOX of 1,000 for $27.25
BUDDY UNLIMITED PRODUCTION

IT'S BACK! Beat The Clock Tuesday!
5:00 p.m. - 7:30 p.m. Every Tuesday
Price of Large 1 Topping Pizza is the time you call!

The Observer is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:
Assistant News Editor
News Copy Editor

Please submit a one-page personal statement and résumé to Meredith McCallough by noon, Thursday, December 9, Contact Meredith at 631-7471 for more information.
Colts prove they can compete with any team in the league

Associated Press

Ted Marchibroda can't explain the Indianapolis Colts' mastery of the New York Jets in Giants Stadium.

All he knows is Sunday's 9-6 victory was one his struggling team desperately needed.

"It did pump the team up. If you saw the locker room immediately after the ball game, the guys were extremely happy," Marchibroda said Monday at his weekly news conference.

"We realized also, maybe, that regardless of how this season is, if you focus all your attention on winning a particular ball game and we play the football we're capable of, we can probably stand up and be competitive with any team in the league. I think to a certain extent that's what yesterday proved."

The Colts (4-8) came in with a four-game losing streak and losses in seven of their previous eight games. They extended a streak to 13 quarters without a touchdown but won on three field goals by Dean Biasucci, the fifth time this season he has underwent surgery in the week before had beaten the San Diego last Monday night. They played an excellent game against the Jets."

It was the Colts' fifth straight victory in Giants Stadium.

"I really can't give an explanation for it. I really can't. I just hope it continues," Marchibroda said.

One reason both teams struggled on offense was the weather.

"We had to play close to the vest because of the conditions, because of the swirling wind and because the field was so wet and guys were slipping," Marchibroda said. "That's the kind of game you have to play in those kind of conditions."

The Colts' defense came up with the big plays, including a touchdown-saving tackle by rookie Ray Buchanan and pass interceptions by Buchanan and Eugene Daniel that set up two of Biasucci's field goals.

"The defense played extremely well. It was different guys at different times when we needed big plays on defense," said Marchibroda.

He said the status of offensive tackle Will Wolford probably won't be known until later in the week. Wolford, who underwent surgery in the offseason on a torn left rotator cuff, played the first three series before leaving the game Sunday.

"They're calling it a sprained shoulder, and we'll have to wait for the doctors to evaluate it further," Marchibroda said.

Bengals miss opportunities against San Francisco 49ers

Associated Press

CINCINNATI

The Cincinnati Bengals (1-11) should learn lessons from their valiant effort in defeat Sunday at San Francisco, Bengals coach Dave Shula said.

"We played one of the hottest teams in football right now and, when you look at the ballgame, it comes down to us having a lot of opportunities on both sides of the ball to make plays and make catches ... and we didn't get it done," Shula said.

"What I want the team to take from this experience is the fact that they can play with anybody."

The 49ers were 24-point favorites coming into the nationally televised game. But they stumbled through an un­inspired effort on the way to a 21-8 victory, boosting their NFC home-field advantage for the playoffs.

The Bengals (1-11), who only the week before had beaten the Los Angeles Raiders to finally win their first game, now must prepare for Sunday's game at New England.

The Bengals hurt themselves by botching a fake punt early in the third quarter when they led, 8-7. Bengal­sian punter Lee Johnson failed to recognize that the fake had been called off and had his pass knocked down. The 49ers took pos­sions and took the lead for good seven plays later.

"Same old story, week in and week out. We make crucial mistakes," Bengals cornerback Mike Brim said. "You don't point the finger at anybody. But the fake punt hurt us a little bit. You can't make mistakes against championship teams."

"The other thing is, you certainly can't win football games if you don't score points."

Some people think the Honor Code doesn't work at ND. Some people are no longer at ND. Read the Code. Understand it. Know it.

Please don't drink and drive.
Buffalo-Dallas not only dream game

By DAVE GOLDBERG

Don't groan yet about a Buffalo-Dallas rematch in the Super Bowl.

There's a possibility we could see a lot better -- like Joe Montana and Steve Young bringing the NFC title games they made it to Atlanta.

The 49ers are a decent bet to finish 13-3, the Giants aren't, says Associated Press.

Joe, but at last glance still wouldn't go on record with Montana, at least for the playoffs and the 49ers are tied with the Giants for home-field edge in the NFC.

The Chiefs probably have a slighter better chance than the Dolphins to get home field with Houston also in the picture.

But regardless, you have to root for Chiefs-Niners.

No matter what diplomatic things they say, Montana and Young dislike each other intensely -- Steve Bono's locker was between them in the locker room and he was the middle man when they had to communicate.

Young is candid enough to fight a fire and Montana has enough competitiveness to answer back.

Just think about the motivation each would have to prove he was the one who deserved to stay in San Francisco. And just think of poor Eddie DeBartolo, who sheds crocodile tears for Joe, but at last glance still owned the 49ers, whose quarterback is Young.

Another Super possibility is New York Giants vs. Denver.

Chicago vs. Houston. See Ryan, above. Much more fun if Mike Ditka were still coaching the Bears.

Giants vs. Miami. Bryan Cox doesn't like Giants fans and Bills fans. He can't play Buffalo in the Super Bowl, so he settles for the Giants.

The previous play showed the goods.

"There's no one talking about it, really," Parcells said. "It doesn't make any difference to me. (The officials) made their call and that's it.

Bledsoe saw only the TV shot. He thought that showed. He really didn't care.

"My way of thinking about it would have been: 'I didn't do anything wrong,' he said. "Two inches away, I should have been able to get the ball away from Mike Ditka (Levon Kirkland) could get there... I expected myself to get a little better push and get over the top quicker.'"

The Patriots lost season's seventh straight close game to Steelers

By HOWARD ULMAN

The New England Patriots' latest close loss in a season of incredibly close ones was measured in inches and interceptions.

Old Sam Gash reached the ball into the end zone before his knee went down on the next to last play? Did the ball reach the goal line on Drew Bledsoe's sneak on the final play? And did Bledsoe, the rifle-armed rookie taken with the first draft pick, really throw five interceptions in the second half?

The Patriots didn't like any of the answers they got Sunday.

They lost their seventh straight game, 17-14 to the Pittsburgh Steelers. The total margin in the last six games is 20 points. They are 1-15.

Patriots coach Bill Parcells declined comment Monday on whether the team's tape, taken from a different angle than television pictures, showed Bledsoe had stretched his 6-foot-5 frame far enough on fourth down.

"There's no one talking about it, really," Parcells said. "It doesn't make any difference to me. (The officials) made their call and that's it."

Bledsoe saw only the TV shot. He thought that showed. He really didn't care.

"My way of thinking about it would have been: 'I didn't do anything wrong,' he said. "Two inches away, I should have been able to get the ball away from Mike Ditka (Levon Kirkland) could get there... I expected myself to get a little better push and get over the top quicker.'"

The previous play showed the goods.

"There's no one talking about it, really," Parcells said. "It doesn't make any difference to me. (The officials) made their call and that's it."

Bledsoe saw only the TV shot. He thought that showed. He really didn't care.

"My way of thinking about it would have been: 'I didn't do anything wrong,' he said. "Two inches away, I should have been able to get the ball away from Mike Ditka (Levon Kirkland) could get there... I expected myself to get a little better push and get over the top quicker.'"

The previous play showed the goods.

"There's no one talking about it, really," Parcells said. "It doesn't make any difference to me. (The officials) made their call and that's it."

Bledsoe saw only the TV shot. He thought that showed. He really didn't care.

"My way of thinking about it would have been: 'I didn't do anything wrong,' he said. "Two inches away, I should have been able to get the ball away from Mike Ditka (Levon Kirkland) could get there... I expected myself to get a little better push and get over the top quicker.'"
Barkley talks about life after basketball

By BILL BARNARD
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Charles Barkley can switch back and forth from man to child, from serious to playful, as quickly and efficiently as anyone.

One moment, he’s muscling inside to score against a helpless opponent, then a split second later he’s winking, pointing and smiling at a fan in the first row who was razzing him.

Later, he’s concentrating hard on the basket for a couple of free throws — he hates missing them — then after a timeout, he’s jiving with The Chicken, wrestling with a giant plastic Godzilla and sharing a joke with an opposing coach.

In the locker room, before or after a game, Barkley is no different.

One moment, he’s talking about the problems of the world, giving real answers to serious questions. Then, when a reporter asks him if the pain in his back is really bad enough to make him retire after this season, he replies, “It hurts as much as your face hurts you.”

Not the kind of answer you’d expect from someone whose ambition — after helping the Phoenix Suns win the NBA championship this season — is to be the governor of Alabama someday.

“If you’re going to screw up, it might as well be in a big office,” Barkley said. “But this isn’t something I just came up with. I’ve thought of politics for a long time.”

Barkley certainly doesn’t measure up to the kind of politician Alabama is used to, but it would be a mistake to guess what kind of a governor he would be.

“I don’t label myself liberal or conservative,” he said. “Every subject has to be evaluated differently. I’ve taken my opinions from a lot of people. I’ve learned from Rush Limbaugh and I’ve learned from Jesse Jackson.”

Barkley isn’t rushing into politics, however, just as he’s not rushing into retirement. But he appears to be determined on both counts.

“After I retire from basketball, I’d just relax a few years,” he said. “Politics is still a few years down the road.”

Barkley calls his back problems his No. 1 reason for saying he’s ready to get out.

“Athletes in the spotlight hear so much negativity,” he said. “I’m tired of playing eight months a year. It’s tough being in the spotlight every day. Of course, I’ll still be famous, but I’ll just have some peace and quiet.”

“Doesn’t he like this verbal jostling with the media?”

“Not really, but if I don’t talk to the press, I’m a jerk, so I talk,” he said.

Barkley says it’s unlikely he’ll change his mind about retiring.

Cappelletti, Schembechler

inducted into Hall of Fame

By BILL BARNARD
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti, former Michigan coach Bo Schembechler and 11 others will be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame on Tuesday.

Cappelletti won the Heisman in 1973 after leading Penn State to an undefeated season. He rushed for 1,532 yards and set school records for most carries and 100-yard rushing games in a season.

Schembechler won 234 games during a 27-year coaching career at Miami of Ohio and Michigan, where he won 13 Big Ten titles. Only six other Division I-A coaches have won more games.

Also being inducted into the Hall of Fame are former player and coach Dick Anderson of Colorado; Bob Brown of Nebraska; Steve DeLong of Tennessee; Buddy Dial of Rice; Harry Glimer of Alabama; Pat Harder of Wisconsin; Dick Modzelewski of Maryland; Alan Page of Notre Dame; J.D. Roberts of Oklahoma; and Lynn Swann of Southern California.

Bobby Dodd will enter the Hall as a coach. Joining Amos Alonzo Stagg as the only men to be inducted as a player and coach, Dodd compiled a 165-64-8 record at Georgia Tech from 1945-1966, including eight straight bowl victories from 1947-56. His teams won 31 consecutive games from 1951-53.

The Hall of Fame is sponsored by the National Football Foundation.
CALVIN AND HOBBES
"If it's a special moment, as father and son watched their weekend project attract its first tenant."

BUCHL'S
THURSDAY
LAST ONE THIS YEAR!
PICK UP YOUR FREQUENT LUNCHIN' CARD BEFORE THE NEXT SEMESTER
FRIDAY LUNCH

SENIORS
THE ALUMNI/SENIOR CLUB
WILL BE OPEN THIS WEEK FOR:

Good guys want a mega-useless thing for personal reasons. They totally saved our clothes!

Four Food Groups of the Apocalypse
Dave Kellett

Crossword
ACROSS
1 - Rich Man
2 Sam and Mitte.
3 Decision for Bowes.
4 "Gullis in the 1988 Risks.
5 Misbehaved
6 Debt and bonds.
7 Twins who sailed on the Argo.
8 "... an azure-lidded..." Keats.
9 Salesman.
10 Personal: Comb. form.
11 Rural abodes.
12 Offspring.
13 Classic cars.
14 Forest trembler.
15 A Scull of La Scala.
16 Cousin of a tant.
17 Hot, dusty wind from N. Africa.
18 Old: (superlatives).
19 Kingdom of Denmark.
20 Japanese aborigine.
21 Soviet news agency.
22 Soul.
23 Skelton's Kadiddlehopper.
24 Pedro's day.
25 Short spami.
26 Eucalyptus-leaf eater.
27 Boom.
28 Principle.
29 Least fortunate.
30 Decants.
31 Gets the lead out.
32 Poetry collection.
33 Company V.I.P.
34 Teachers' org.
35 Over.
36 Webber musical.
37 Over.
38 "... were (so to speak).
39 One of two of Henry's six wives.
40 "Han.
41 Elmo, niwi.
42 It was a special moment, as father and son watched their weekend project attract its first tenant.

SPELUNKER
THE SINISTER SPACE SWINE HAS INADVERTENTLY EXPOSED HIS CLOTHES TO A SUPER-STRING RAY.

OF INTEREST
- Institute for International Peace Studies will hold a lecture, "Reflection on 'A Harvest of Justice Sown in Peace': The U.S. Catholic Bishops Pastoral Reflections on Peace" today, at 4:15 p.m., in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium. George A. Lopez, Professor of Government and International Studies, faculty fellow at the Kroc Institute, will be speaking.
- The University of Notre Dame Glee Club will perform its annual Christmas concert on Sunday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the J.A.C.C. The Glee Club will be accompanied by the Notre Dame Brass Ensemble during portions of the program of holiday music. Advance tickets may be purchased for $7 at the LaFortune Information Desk, Morris Cvele Auditorium, and at Gates of the J.A.C.C. on the night of the show. Doors open at 6:30. Proceeds will benefit the South Bend Center for the Homeless.
- Garth Brooks will be performing at the J.A.C.C. on Saturday, Feb. 12.
- Teaching and service opportunities are available in Puerto Rico and Jamaica for interested seniors. Information on teaching placements or social work is available at the Center for Social Concerns. The Notre Dame Alumni clubs of these two areas are interested in helping with these service projects. We would like to recruit 10-12 graduates for this program. Please stop by Check them out...

The Observer
Classifieds, every day.

Seniors

The Alumni/Senior Club will be open this week for:

9:00-11:00
WEDNESDAY

Meanwhile In Hell

9:00-11:00
Tuesday, December 7, 1993
The Observer • TODAY
I into tonight’s battle with Indiana at Assembly Hall. Sports was also named to the all-tour-

derwriter