Alumni contributions soar despite slumped economy

By KATIE MURPHY
News Writer

The student government office was unusually quiet last night as the student election results were announced. Judging from the looks of some of the faces, one might have thought that somebody had died. But it was not a “soul” who died; instead, it may well have been student government itself.

In yesterday’s runoff election for student body president and vice-president, the David Hun-geling/Matt Orsagh ticket won over 56 percent of the electorate (2,730 votes), while the Brian DuBay/Karen Orsagh team earned over 42 percent (2,058 votes). Nearly 62 percent

Alumni contributions soar despite slumped economy

By BRIAN POSANSKI
News Writer

Despite the sluggish econ-yem of 1991 and 1993, the University of Notre Dame alumni and friends kept giving the gifts that keep on giving — cash.

Cash contributions to the University for the fiscal year 1993 exceeded of the hopes of the University’s Development Department as $60.9 million was collected. The University exceeded the record set in 1990 by more than $7 million.

Daniel G. Reagan, director of development, said the contributions bring the University closer to its financial goals.

“Our number one priority is and will always be raising money for financial aid,” said Reagan. “It’s what we’ve worked on diligently for several years.

The library is another concern of Reagan. Last ses-ter’s Colloquy for the Year 2000 report contained a scathing indictment of the University’s library system for outdated technology and the condition of its books and collections.

Thus the University’s second goal, said Reagan, is “to enhance library holdings from a perspective of books and technology.”

Third, he said, “We are looking for what we refer to as unrealized gifts.” Unrestricted gifts would give the University a sound” jump-start” and un-annually be tapped for the University’s most pressing needs,” such as “research.

The Council for Aid to Education ranked Notre Dame in the top 20 for total support among private, doctoral degree-granting institutions.

Hunegeling and Orsagh win runoff election at ND

More telling, said Reagan, was that the Council ranked Notre Dame number two in alumni participation. In 1993, 51% of Notre Dame alumni donated money. Dartmouth was first with 58%.

“Some might say, ‘My goodness, where is the other 49%'” said Reagan. But he added that the national average is 28%.

“That’s a very positive indicator.”

Perhaps most surprising is the amount of support from non-Notre Dame alumni.

“We do receive great support from what we refer to as ‘Notre Dame friends,’” Reagan said. “About 17% of our donors are non-alumni.

Of course, money does not flow without dialogue. Reagan confirmed that donors have the ear of the University.

“We are not unlike many sales and marketing organizations where the opinions and concerns of donors are important to us,” he said. “Coupled with that, Notre Dame is a very emotional place, and people are concerned about it. We would naturally seek out the opinions on how things are going.”

As the University moves forther away from the Strategic

Moment campaign, which ended in 1990, fewer contributions come from promised gifts. Reagan said this was another indicator of last year’s success.

“As we move further away from the conclusion of the campaign,” he said, “less and less of that annual amount would be money spawned by the Strategic Moment campaign. For why were we happy this year.

The $60.9 million amount tells only part of the Develop-moment’s success. The University received promises of $8.3 million in planned gifts and $14.5 million in giving commitments. Contributions from corporations and endua-tions totaled $18.7 million.

Hunegeling and Orsagh ran on the promise to dissolve student government and funnel its money into a Grateful Dead concert. They also promised to lobby student football tickets and increase the amount of fun on campus. Although many people initially thought their campaign was a joke, the two juniors “changed it into a grass-roots social movement,” according to Hunegeling.

Although Corbett was unable to be at the announcement, DuBay congratulated the Hun-geling and Orsagh on their victory and wished them well.

“We’d like to thank all of our supporters. We’d also like to do the same for Tad and Tyler (Farmer), their campaign manager, the best of luck next year,” said DuBay.

Hunegeling and Orsagh received the majority of the votes in every male dorm as well as

South African problems to “disunity, (and because of this) they have despair.”

To solve this problem of disunity, Turner suggested, “It is important to understand the differences between (races and genders), then forget them.”

In South Africa, “they can’t get over their differences long enough to get anything done,” yet she believed that if you combine one person’s strong points with another person’s strong points, those strengths unite to make something greater, no matter what color or gender the people are.

In America, however, Turner blamed stereotypes for many of the race relation problems our society faces. A humorous example she gave was that “In the movies and on television you always see blacks robbing liquor stores and 7-11’s. Why can’t we rob a bank where the real money is?”

From there, that explained some of the worst stereotypes but there are based purely on what people perceive one’s capabilities are, without giving people the chance to surpass those expectations. As she speaks to young adults around the country, she gives her own solution to this problem: “Refuse to be limited by the stereotypes placed on the group you are in. If you refuse to accept the stereotypes, you have the freedom to excel in this country.”

“What does it take to excel?”

see AMERICA / page 4
Everything I needed know to learn from Buffett

Around the middle of the winter, a strange thing happens to the students of Notre Dame. No one is exactly sure what causes this bizarre phenomena. Maybe it's the realization that even two straight weeks in the library won't get you caught up in your classes. Maybe it's the weariness of constantly braving the sub-Arctic temperatures and ice rinks/sidewalks. Maybe it's accepting the fact that Bridge's reality is closed and Wednesday penny beer nights are now a memory. Maybe it's one sniff of ethanol too many.

Maybe it's the realization exactly sure what causes induced depression. Its the weariness of con-

Maybe it's the realization exactly sure what causes induced depression. Its the weariness of con-

But "Philadelphia," the first big studio film about AIDS, got five nominations, including best actor for Hanks and best original screenplay.

In the best picture category, the nominees were "Schindler's List," "The Fugitive," "In the Name of the Father," "The Piano" and "The Remains of the Day." Joining Neeson, Hanks and Day-Lewis in the race for best actor are Anthony Hopkins for his role as the butler Stevens in "The Remains of the Day" and Laurence Fishburne for playing the abusive Ike Turner in "What's Love Got to Do With It?"

The best actress selections were Basset for singer Tina Turner in "What's Love Got to Do With It?"; Sissy Spacek as wife Ouisa Kittridge from "Six Degrees of Separation"; Holly Hunter as the mute-bridal bride Ada in "The Piano"; Emma Thompson for housekeeper Kenton in "The Remains of the Day," and Debra Winger as dying writer Joy Gresham in "Shadowlands."

Grand jury opens for Jackson investigation

A grand jury convened Wednesday to consider molestation charges against Michael Jackson, and the first witness was actor Marlon Brando's adult son, Miko Brando, a former Jackson bodyguard and aide. A boy, now 14, has accused the 35-year-old pop superstar of seducing him with lavish gifts, then sexually molesting him last year. He accused Jackson in September seeking unspecified monetary damages. Last month, he reached a settlement, but the accuser's $15 million

The guards were worth the pains all the same.

The fact is, despite his silliness and sometimes goofy lyrics, Buffett does have a valid message. Life is much too short to sweat the small stuff. Life is meant to be lived—fully, intensely, emotionally, and never accomplished anything but high blood pressure.

Buffett's message of keeping a sense of humor—and a sense of perspective—is particularly applicable to the students at Notre Dame. Life is a stern reality, and the tendency to take things (and ourselves) much too seriously. The fact is, it's really not necessary to leave the library with the security guards each night. Those late night bull sessions with friends are usually much more educational than a thou-

And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

So go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

Go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

So go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

Go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

So go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

Across the Middle of the winter, a strange thing happens to the students of Notre Dame. No one is exactly sure what causes this bizarre phenomena. Maybe it's the realization that even two straight weeks in the library won't get you caught up in your classes. Maybe it's the weariness of constantly braving the sub-Arctic temperatures and ice rinks/sidewalks. Maybe it's accepting the fact that Bridge's reality is closed and Wednesday penny beer nights are now a memory. Maybe it's one sniff of ethanol too many.

Maybe it's the realization exactly sure what causes induced depression. Its the weariness of con-

The fact is, despite his silliness and sometimes goofy lyrics, Buffett does have a valid message. Life is much too short to sweat the small stuff. Life is meant to be lived—fully, intensely, emotionally, and never accomplished anything but high blood pressure.

Buffett's message of keeping a sense of humor—and a sense of perspective—is particularly applicable to the students at Notre Dame. Life is a stern reality, and the tendency to take things (and ourselves) much too seriously. The fact is, it's really not necessary to leave the library with the security guards each night. Those late night bull sessions with friends are usually much more educational than a thousand lectures. And there's nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

So go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

Go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

So go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.

Go ahead. Take a night off to watch these movies. Throw some snowballs. Forget about the fat content and eat that cheeseburger in paradise. Become a true Parrothead.

Remember, if we couldn't laugh, we really would cut our ties to Notre Dame and leave the security guards for another time. For now, we have another day to go. Tomorrow's another day to go. And the nothing we can do about the Parmacloud, so we might as well just stop complaining about it.
Marks: Stronger UN needed in post cold-war era

By DAVE TYLER
News Writer

The examples of negotiated settlements and intervention by the United Nations in Cambodia and El Salvador illustrate the need for a stronger UN in the post Cold War era, according to Princeton University’s Stephen Marks.

Marks said the United Nations’ unprecedented role in mediating both of these conflicts unlocks new doors in international relations. Under the leadership of Secretary General Boutros Boutros-Ghali, the United Nations has subscribed to a vision of peace that does not end at the bargaining table, but reaches across all facets of a war-torn society.

In a paper entitled “An Agenda for Peace,” Boutros-Ghali outlined a plan calling for “preventive diplomacy, peace making, peace keeping, and post-conflict peace building” in early 1992. The idea is unique because “... where preventive diplomacy seeks to prevent a conflict, peace building seeks to prevent its reoccurrence by stimulating the post war healing process,” Marks noted. For the first time, the United Nations was thinking beyond the limited role of peace building.

The peace building concept calls for seven steps: disarming the warring parties, maintaining custody of and destroying weapons, repatriating refugees, advising and training security personnel, advancing efforts to protect human rights, monitoring elections, reforming or strengthening governmental institutes, and promoting political participation.

Marks asserted that the UN operations in both Cambodia, where he served as a year, and El Salvador were, and continue to be, jumping off points for the implementation of this new view. Sometimes the efforts were met with success and sometimes UN overseers met with failure.

Through the efforts of UN diplomats and the mutual cooperation of both sides, great strides were made along the lines put forth by Boutros-Ghali. The El Salvadoran agreement created “The Commission on Truth” to investigate alleged human rights abuses by both factions in the twelve year civil war. The commission’s report rocked El Salvador’s government and army with its findings of state supported massacres. It recognized the need for the offenders to be punished, regardless of the office they possess. “This is unparalleled in world politics since the Nuremburg and Tokyo trials after World War II,” noted Marks.

Thousands of refugees were repatriated by United Nations observers. El Salvador’s first free elections in over a fifteen year period were scheduled for this March.

Cambodia’s 1992 elections were hailed as a democratic success because with UN support, over 90% of registered voters participated. The elections were Cambodia’s first since the Khmer Rouge liquidated its civil insurrection. The UN Security Council endorsed the voting as free and unobstructed. As in El Salvador, many refugees were repatriated, while the process was minimal.

While the process met with success in its civil goals in both countries, its military aims were a different story. Diplomats encountered numerous problems in both countries. The opposing parties were not easily willing to lay down their arms, and vague rules of engagement prevented UN military personnel from intervening.

Even though both nations established national police forces as a way of reforming existing governmental agencies, their power was limited. El Salvadoran “death squads,” like those who terrified the population in the 1980’s, resurfaced. The Khmer Rouge in Cambodia refused to stand down its forces. The machines of violence were still in place.

No first try is perfect, Marks is quick to admit. “There were positive steps taken in both projects,” he noted. Moreover, Marks said that he sees lessons to be learned from the experiences. Beginning peace talks is the hard part. Marks does not see such processes like those that took place in El Salvador and Cambodia continuing in world hot spots like the former Yugoslavia. “Someone has to make it clear it will now play a role in building the political, economic, military and social structure of the post-Cold War world. A remarkable amount can be accomplished with Boutros-Ghali’s Peace Building.” Extraneous precedents are being established. Now is the time to capitalize on the situation where the legitimacy of the operational presence in post-conflict areas.
Expert panel says antibiotic therapy may cure ulcers

By PAUL RECER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Use of powerful antibiotics to kill a stomach bacterium may offer a final cure for peptic ulcers, a digestive disorder that flares up repeatedly in millions of Americans.

An independent advisory panel of experts convened by the National Institutes of Health said Wednesday that there is now conclusive scientific evidence that a bacterium called Helicobacter pylori plays a role in peptic ulcer disease.

The panel recommended that patients use powerful antibiotics to treat peptic ulcers, a disease that affects about 25 million Americans.

"We now have an opportunity to cure a disease that previously we were able only to suppress and control," said Dr. Ann Williams of the George Washington University Medical Center in Washington.

"People have been waiting to see the emergence of a treatment that would support this therapy," said Dr. David Alpers, a professor of medicine at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis and a member of the expert panel.

The committee heard two days of testimony and evaluated research data about H. pylori before issuing the recommendations.

Members concluded that there now was scientific proof that H. pylori can be a cause of chronic superficial gastritis, a persistent inflammation of the stomach.

They also found that 90 percent to 95 percent of all patients with ulcers in the duodenum, the upper small intestine just below the stomach, are infected with H. pylori. About 80 percent of patients with stomach ulcers are infected with the bacterium.

Despite this, the committee said, only a small percentage of people infected with H. pylori actually end up with peptic ulcers, suggesting that other factors play a role in the disease.

"The strongest evidence for the pathogenic role of H. pylori in peptic ulcer disease is the marked decrease in recurrence rate of ulcers following eradication of infection," the panel said.

Peptic ulcers are a chronic inflammation of the stomach lining or of the duodenum. Treatment traditionally has been with drugs to reduce secretion of digestive acids, which aggravate the condition, or to neutralize the acids. The condition also is aggravated by alcohol, smoking and by some drugs, such as aspirin.

Millions of patients develop ulcers and go through a successful treatment, only to have the disorder recur throughout life. Some ulcers cause bleeding or perforation of the stomach or intestine, conditions that can require emergency surgery.

Discovery aims experiment at small targets

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press

HOUSTON

Discovery's crew fired six metal balls from the shuttle today to give space debris experts better methods of tracking thousands of small items whizzing around the Earth.

The spheres, ranging from 2 to 6 inches in diameter, were sprayed one at a time from a cannon in the rear of the shuttle and tested for target strength of larger space junk, such as dead satellites and spent rocket bodies, which scare space stations so the same thing can be done with small targets.

Hundreds of thousands of such objects - anything from pieces of old spacecraft to tiny meteorites - are always whizzing around the globe at an average speed of 17,500 mph.

NASA tried to release the balls from Discovery in 1992, but had to scrap the test because of a bad battery.

Later, in the morning during a space-to-ground news conference, Russian cosmonaut Sergei Krikalev said his country's Mir space station is "much more comfortable" than the shuttle. But he said that's because Mir was designed for people to live in space, as opposed to NASA's up-and-down shuttles.

Commander Charles Bolden Jr. said he and his American crew have benefited from Krikalev's knowledge of geophysics. Krikalev, the first Russian aboard a U.S. shuttle, spent more than a year on Mir.

"We've all been very anxiously floating by him in the window as he points out sites especially in his native country in Russia," Bolden said.

America

continued from page 1

she asked. Her answer was simple: "Get off our aspirations and do something. If you don't like the old boys' system, get in the middle of it, learn it, live in." The one change she asked, Her answer was

Directly across the street from Adams High

America

continued from page 1

she asked. Her answer was simple: "Get off our aspirations and do something. If you don't like the old boys' system, get in the middle of it, learn it, live in." The one change she asked, Her answer was

"Prepare, participate, and persevere; apply yourself beyond your imagination and make a change," she ended.

"Prepare, participate, and persevere; apply yourself beyond your imagination and make a change," she ended, leaving the students of the University of Notre Dame with a challenge: "I challenge you to use your imagination and creativity to find your niche. You are the future-the (future) land of the free, and the home of the brave."
O'Donnell: SMC students want grad-school guidance

By PATTI CARSON

Many students feel a need to have a mentor overseeing their graduate school admissions processes, according to Saint Mary's Vice President for Academic Affairs Lynn O'Donnell.

"Some students are missing deadlines and others are not aware of grants and scholarships for which they are eligible," said O'Donnell.

While some departments are very good, others are lacking when it comes to graduate school preparation. The Career and Counseling Center is a valuable asset, but it cannot provide all essential information for the many students who are pursuing different studies, she said.

There is definitely an interest on the part of the students in improving graduate school guidance, according to O'Donnell.

Multiple reasons exist for attending graduate or professional schools, such as receiving a deeper understanding of a certain field in order to obtain a better job. Or possibly, those already employed wish to increase their skills to perform more efficiently in their current position, according to O'Donnell.

There are no guidelines about when to attend professional or graduate schools. Many students who attend school directly after receiving the bachelor's degree, however, benefit from the many sources of assistance available in the junior and senior year, according to the Saint Mary's Career and Counseling Department.

For the college student, adequate preparation is absolutely essential in the graduate school search, said Notre Dame graduate student Ann Carson.

"If a student plans to further his or her education, then I would recommend looking into programs by sophomore year or junior year at the latest," Carson said.

The decision to attend graduate or professional school encompasses various responsibilities. It is imperative to do early research about career possibilities that will be consistent with long term goals, according to Carson.

All graduate schools and professional schools have admission requirements.

These might include a non-refundable application fee, a specific GPA, official transcripts, a certain undergrad major, letters of recommendation and admission tests, according to various career counselors.

There are numerous resources through which graduate or professional school research may be conducted. Books, articles, and college bulletins are possible sources of information.

Also, it is recommended to check with the Career Resource Center or with personal advisors. Peterson's Guide to Graduate Schools and other resources may be found in the St. Mary's library.

This may prove to be a helpful source in the early search for the right school.

Williams cites South Africa's problems

By ROBERT CAHILL

The two most pressing problems facing the reborn South Africa are the maintenance of economic stability, and the newly formed Freedom Alliance, in which all people will be eligible to vote. At the request of President Nelson Mandela, is expected to be elected president, said Williams.

Mandela and the newly-elected president are expected to keep the country stable and work toward healing the old divisions in order to attract foreign investors.

Investors are needed to keep the country stable and to reduce the unemployment rate for blacks. Thus, the newly-elected government will have a very hard task, according to Williams.

"There is a need for a new South Africa. We are very good because a great majority of sanctions against South Africa have already been dropped," said Williams.

Referring to the threat of civil war, Williams said, "I think they (the Freedom Alliance) are bluffing to get more concessions in the new election." The plan was drafted after the April 27 election.

Mail groups endorse 32-cent stamp price

By RANDOLPH SCHMID

WASHINGTON

The nation's largest mailers have backed a 10 percent increase in postal rates Wednesday, saying higher rates are inevitable and they cannot accept an increase of that size if the pain is shared equally.

The across-the-board increase of 10.3 percent suggested by a coalition of usually competing groups would translate into a 32-cent first class stamp. That rate was raised from 25 to 29 cents in 1991. The Postal Service "should get some credit for stretching the lid congress' task" Williams said, Williams, who serves on two national councils for South Africa and has visited the country at least once a year since 1985.

The temporary Multi-Party (Transitional Executive Council currently governs the country, but on April 27, South Africa will hold its first free election in which all people will be eligible to vote. At the request of President Nelson Mandela, is expected to be elected president, said Williams.

Mandela and the newly-elected president are expected to keep the country stable and work toward healing the old divisions in order to attract foreign investors.

Investors are needed to keep the country stable and to reduce the unemployment rate for blacks. Thus, the newly-elected government will have a very hard task, according to Williams.

"There is a need for a new South Africa. We are very good because a great majority of sanctions against South Africa have already been dropped," said Williams.

Referring to the threat of civil war, Williams said, "I think they (the Freedom Alliance) are bluffing to get more concessions in the new election." The plan was drafted after the April 27 election.

Mail groups endorse 32-cent stamp price

WASHINGTON The nation's largest mailers have backed a 10 percent increase in postal rates Wednesday, saying higher rates are inevitable and they cannot accept an increase of that size if the pain is shared equally.

The across-the-board increase of 10.3 percent suggested by a coalition of usually competing groups would translate into a 32-cent first class stamp. That rate was raised from 25 to 29 cents in 1991. The Postal Service "should get some credit for stretching the lid congress' task" Williams said, Williams, who serves on two national councils for South Africa and has visited the country at least once a year since 1985.

The temporary Multi-Party (Transitional Executive Council currently governs the country, but on April 27, South Africa will hold its first free election in which all people will be eligible to vote. At the request of President Nelson Mandela, is expected to be elected president, said Williams.

Mandela and the newly-elected president are expected to keep the country stable and work toward healing the old divisions in order to attract foreign investors.

Investors are needed to keep the country stable and to reduce the unemployment rate for blacks. Thus, the newly-elected government will have a very hard task, according to Williams.

"There is a need for a new South Africa. We are very good because a great majority of sanctions against South Africa have already been dropped," said Williams.

Referring to the threat of civil war, Williams said, "I think they (the Freedom Alliance) are bluffing to get more concessions in the new election." The plan was drafted after the April 27 election.

Mail groups endorse 32-cent stamp price

WASHINGTON The nation's largest mailers have backed a 10 percent increase in postal rates Wednesday, saying higher rates are inevitable and they cannot accept an increase of that size if the pain is shared equally.

The across-the-board increase of 10.3 percent suggested by a coalition of usually competing groups would translate into a 32-cent first class stamp. That rate was raised from 25 to 29 cents in 1991. The Postal Service "should get some credit for stretching the lid congress' task" Williams said, Williams, who serves on two national councils for South Africa and has visited the country at least once a year since 1985.

The temporary Multi-Party (Transitional Executive Council currently governs the country, but on April 27, South Africa will hold its first free election in which all people will be eligible to vote. At the request of President Nelson Mandela, is expected to be elected president, said Williams.

Mandela and the newly-elected president are expected to keep the country stable and work toward healing the old divisions in order to attract foreign investors.

Investors are needed to keep the country stable and to reduce the unemployment rate for blacks. Thus, the newly-elected government will have a very hard task, according to Williams.

"There is a need for a new South Africa. We are very good because a great majority of sanctions against South Africa have already been dropped," said Williams.

Referring to the threat of civil war, Williams said, "I think they (the Freedom Alliance) are bluffing to get more concessions in the new election." The plan was drafted after the April 27 election.

Mail groups endorse 32-cent stamp price

WASHINGTON The nation's largest mailers have backed a 10 percent increase in postal rates Wednesday, saying higher rates are inevitable and they cannot accept an increase of that size if the pain is shared equally.

The across-the-board increase of 10.3 percent suggested by a coalition of usually competing groups would translate into a 32-cent first class stamp. That rate was raised from 25 to 29 cents in 1991. The Postal Service "should get some credit for stretching the lid congress' task" Williams said, Williams, who serves on two national councils for South Africa and has visited the country at least once a year since 1985.

The temporary Multi-Party (Transitional Executive Council currently governs the country, but on April 27, South Africa will hold its first free election in which all people will be eligible to vote. At the request of President Nelson Mandela, is expected to be elected president, said Williams.

Mandela and the newly-elected president are expected to keep the country stable and work toward healing the old divisions in order to attract foreign investors.

Investors are needed to keep the country stable and to reduce the unemployment rate for blacks. Thus, the newly-elected government will have a very hard task, according to Williams.

"There is a need for a new South Africa. We are very good because a great majority of sanctions against South Africa have already been dropped," said Williams.

Referring to the threat of civil war, Williams said, "I think they (the Freedom Alliance) are bluffing to get more concessions in the new election." The plan was drafted after the April 27 election.
U.S., Japan plan an AIDS population control project

By RITA BEAMISH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The United States and Japan plan to announce a multi-billion-dollar AIDS and population control effort and joint initiatives on environment and technology this week, in hopes of casting a positive light on two issues that were still far apart on the key matter in dispute — how to measure progress in opening Japan's markets to U.S. goods.

While talks had been progressing among lower level officials earlier in the week, a U.S. official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said that the American side walked away from the table Tuesday night, contending that the discussions were at an impasse.

Although the main focus of Clinton's summit with Hosokawa on Friday is expected to be trade, the two nations also have worked out a package of agreements mostly relating to environmental issues.

The agreement on AIDS and population control is aimed at helping poor countries slow their birth rate and combat AIDS. Japan will commit $3 billion by the end of the decade and the United States will pledge $9 billion, said U.S. and Japanese officials who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The two countries also are completing details on a joint project for environmental protection and cleanup in Eastern Europe, and on efforts to protect tropical forests in Asia.

Japan will commit $1 billion toward environmental work in Eastern Europe. The United States is not making a financial commitment but will provide personnel and technical help, a senior administration official said.

Other agreements expected to be announced Friday involve coordinating research into global warming and development of high-speed rail technology.

The package of accords stems from an agreement by Clinton and then-Japanese Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa to meet with U.S. negotiators before Hosokawa arrives. U.S. officials insisted they would not accept an agreement that only papered over differences between the two nations as a way of giving Clinton and Hosokawa something to announce on Friday.

The officials repeated veiled threats made by Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen in Tokyo last month that the United States would consider other options if the framework negotiations aren't successful — a comment viewed as a threat to use trade sanctions against Japan.

Under a "framework" trade agreement reached between Clinton and Miyazawa last July in Tokyo, Japan agreed to move barriers to the sale of foreign products and sign "objective criteria" to measure progress in expanding foreign sales.

However, U.S. and Japanese negotiators have spent the past six months arguing over what would constitute "objective criteria." The United States has insisted that without numerical benchmarks it would be impossible to measure Japan's compliance with its promises to open markets.

The Japanese have assailed this approach as "managed trade."

Without specific numerical guidelines, U.S. officials say, the current framework talks will go the way of 29 other trade agreements between the two countries reached in the past 14 years in which Japan's promises failed to result in significant increases in American sales.

Judy's Jam

Judy Hutchinson, Breen Phillips Hall, 5:00 p.m.

OLDE, America's Full Service Discount Broker® is looking for motivated people to establish a career in the brokerage business.

OLDE offers:
- 12-18 month paid training program
- Potential six-figure income
- Excellent Benefits

If you possess excellent communication skills, general market knowledge and the desire to excel, sign up for an on-campus interview on February 16, 1994 in the Career Center.

If you are unable to arrange an interview call:
1 800 937-0606

OLDE Discount Stockbrokers
Member NYSE and NASDAQ
751 Geowood Street
Detroit, MI 48226

ANNE GUSICK
of Diocese of Samoa - Pago Pago will be in LaFortune Student Center basement near the Society Bank on February 12 from 12:00 noon to 5:00 p.m.

Sophomore Literary Festival

Campus Interviews
February 16, 1994

The Observer • AIDS UPDATE
Thursday, February 10, 1994
Thursday, February 10, 1994

The Observer • NATIONAL NEWS

Bitter winter freezes Great Lakes

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press

Parts of the five freshwater inland seas commonly freeze over in the dead of winter. But not since the late 1970s has ice been as widespread or thick as it is this winter.

"For the last 10 years or so we've had some pretty wimpy winters," said Petty Officer Bob Morehead, a Coast Guard spokesman in Cleveland. "Looks like we're making up for it."

Temperatures hovered around zero across the region Wednesday. The Lake Superior port of Duluth, Minn., reported a low of 20 below.

Coast Guard icebreaking crews have freed 82 vessels ice-bound on Great Lakes waterways, more than in the past three years combined, spokesman David Sprunt said Wednesday. And there's still half a winter to go. That service is free and the Coast Guard said it didn't have a breakdown on what it cost taxpayers.

Ice covered roughly 95 percent of Lake Superior and more than 90 percent of Lake Huron this week, according to the National Ice Center, which is run by the Navy, the Coast Guard and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

"That's unusual for Huron. But Superior, with its wave-churned vastness and depths reaching 1,335 feet, seldom has more than two-thirds of its surface frozen, said oceanographer Raymond Assel of the NOAA Great Lakes Environmental Research Laboratory in Ann Arbor.

Lake Michigan was ringed by ice forming 60 percent to 70 percent of its surface, while Lake Ontario's cover ranged from 40 percent to 50 percent. The surface of Lake Erie, the shallowest with an average depth of 62 feet, has been almost totally covered since mid-January.

The last time so much of the lakes' surfaces were frozen was in 1978, another miserably cold year.

"That year, we had all the lakes virtually iced over," said Daron Boyce, a National Weather Service forecaster in Cleveland. "That's a very rare case."

"If this continues, we're definitely going to need help from the Coast Guard icebreakers," said Glen Nekvasil, spokesman for the Lake Carriers Association. "But we don't want to be scaring our customers into thinking we won't be able to resume shipping on time. March 25 is a long way off."

Another potential danger is flooding if ice jams block channels connecting the lakes, Assel said. Heavy ice also can cause shore erosion and damage structures such as docks.

Such cases are far from Bob Warner's mind. The sheet-metal apprentice from L'Anse, Mich., spends every spare moment in a tent on Lake Superior's Keweenaw Bay, where he cuts through a foot of ice to fish for trout.

"It's twice as thick as it usually gets," Warner said. "There's a lot more people out this year. I've seen them drive right onto the ice, further out than I've ever seen."

Winter tourism is up on Mackinac Island, a state park in the Straits of Mackinac where lakes Huron and Michigan connect. Snowmobilers cross thick ice between the island and the mainland town of St. Ignace 4 1/2 miles away.

Residents of Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan are beginning to worry about running out of heating oil, which arrives by barge.

"If we were going to have a normal winter, we'd have enough to last, but with all this ice you don't know," said Bill McDonough, owner of a grocery store on the island, home to about 360 year-round residents.

But he's not complaining.

"Separates the men from the boys," McDonough said with a chuckle.

Rose Law Firm denies report it shredded records

WASHINGTON - The Rose law firm where first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton was a partner shredded documents last week relating to the Whitewater Development Corporation, The Washington Times reported today. The firm emphatically denied the report.

The paper cited as its source an unidentified Rose employee. President and Mrs. Clinton, along with James B. McDougal and his then-wife Susan, were partners in Whitewater, an Arkansas real estate venture.

In Little Rock, Ronald M. Clark, managing partner of the Rose firm, said the report of shredding Whitewater documents was "totally false ... I am absolutely sure."

"I am extremely upset that somebody would allege this," Clark said, adding his firm had "no significant documents" concerning the Whitewater development.

The Washington Times said its executives were not immediately available for comment today.

But the Little Rock office of Special Counsel Robert B. Fiske Jr. said the report would become part of its investigation into Whitewater and related matters.

"Mr. Fiske is aware of The Washington Times report on shredding White House documents but it was not immediately available for comment today."

The report would "entertain the possibility that shredded documents were shredded or destroyed prior to the death of President Clinton's personal lawyer in Little Rock last week and the death and turned over to the Clinton's personal lawyer in Washington before they could be examined by officials investigating his death."

"There's absolutely no doubt that the records destroyed last Thursday were those the firm had on Whitewater," the Times quoted the Rose employee as saying.

YOU CAN SEND YOUR "SPECIAL SOMEONE" A VALENTINE MESSAGE ON VALENTINES DAY FOR $20.00

The ad would be this size and must be submitted by 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 10 to the advertising department for The Observer (3rd floor LaFortune)

For further information, call 631-6900

Movie Night

Once upon a time...

Kevin Costner, Julia Roberts, Robin Williams, and Robin Wright

...Brought your favorite Fairy Tales to life in:

8:00 pm Robin Hood
10:15 pm Pretty Woman
12:15 am Aladdin
1:45 am The Princess Bride

Friday, February 11 in the LaFortune Ballroom
FREE REFRESHMENTS

It's a FUN and FREE night with a HAPPY ENDING!
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — NATO ambassadors appeared close to approving a U.S.-French plan today giving Bosnian Serbs an ultimatum: Get rid of your artillery from around Sarajevo or face air strikes.

Senior Serbs, apparently feeling the pressure, agreed today to withdraw their heavy weaponry beginning Thursday at noon from around the Bosnian capital and put it under U.N. monitoring, the said the U.N. commander in Bosnia, Gen. Sir Jeremy Moore. It was unclear whether it was a tactical maneuver by Bosnian Serbs to avoid the threat of air strikes. Dozens of cease-fires have been agreed to and broken in the 22-month-old conflict.

Under the U.S.-French plan, Serbs would be told to remove within a week or 10 days the more than 500 heavy guns that for nearly two years have been pounding Sarajevo. If they didn't comply, NATO would carry out air strikes.

NATO ambassadors were expected to decide today. A senior NATO diplomat told reporters: "I heard nobody speak against the proposal for a fixed deadline."

Almost 6,000 people from five NATO countries have been killed.

Rounding hill by hill Serb gunners, who have already shelled the city for months, Bosnian Serb leaders deny the shell was theirs, alleging the Muslims did it to gain Western sympathy. "All I can say is that this is a morbid, disgusting invention," Bosnian presidency spokesman Kemal Muhic, whose brother-in-law was killed in the marketing area, said of the Serb allegation.

The latest allied discussions are based on how extensive any bombing runs would be as well as on such military positions as artillery positions, command and control communications facilities or communications lines.

The alliance may use some 70 war planes from France, the Netherlands, Turkey, Britain and the United States. Based at southern European air bases, they now enforce a no-fly zone over Bosnia.

The French Defense Ministry said today that the aircraft carrier Core, now in Toulon, has been put on alert to steam to the Adriatic Sea if needed to assist NATO allies.

Rajovon Karadzic, the Bosnian Serb leader, warned against the move: "If we will shoot down every plane we can," he said. "In case of an attack, we cannot guarantee safety to any foreign soldier on our territory."

At a meeting Monday, the 12 European ambassadors were divided over whether the ally in its 44-year-old military presence in the world's largest cocaine cartel is worth the cost, said that its mission in the Former Yugoslavia, with some 6,000 troops.

The latest allied discussions are based on how extensive any bombing runs would be as well as on such military positions as artillery positions, command and control communications facilities or communications lines.

The alliance may use some 70 war planes from France, the Netherlands, Turkey, Britain and the United States. Based at southern European air bases, they now enforce a no-fly zone over Bosnia.

The French Defense Ministry said today that the aircraft carrier Core, now in Toulon, has been put on alert to steam to the Adriatic Sea if needed to assist NATO allies.

Rajovon Karadzic, the Bosnian Serb leader, warned against the move: "If we will shoot down every plane we can," he said. "In case of an attack, we cannot guarantee safety to any foreign soldier on our territory."

At a meeting Monday, the 12 European ambassadors were divided over whether the ally in its 44-year-old military presence in the world's largest cocaine cartel is worth the cost, said that its mission in the Former Yugoslavia, with some 6,000 troops.

The latest allied discussions are based on how extensive any bombing runs would be as well as on such military positions as artillery positions, command and control communications facilities or communications lines.

The alliance may use some 70 war planes from France, the Netherlands, Turkey, Britain and the United States. Based at southern European air bases, they now enforce a no-fly zone over Bosnia.

The French Defense Ministry said today that the aircraft carrier Core, now in Toulon, has been put on alert to steam to the Adriatic Sea if needed to assist NATO allies.

Rajovon Karadzic, the Bosnian Serb leader, warned against the move: "If we will shoot down every plane we can," he said. "In case of an attack, we cannot guarantee safety to any foreign soldier on our territory."

At a meeting Monday, the 12 European ambassadors were divided over whether the ally in its 44-year-old military presence in the world's largest cocaine cartel is worth the cost, said that its mission in the Former Yugoslavia, with some 6,000 troops.

The latest allied discussions are based on how extensive any bombing runs would be as well as on such military positions as artillery positions, command and control communications facilities or communications lines.

The alliance may use some 70 war planes from France, the Netherlands, Turkey, Britain and the United States. Based at southern European air bases, they now enforce a no-fly zone over Bosnia.

The French Defense Ministry said today that the aircraft carrier Core, now in Toulon, has been put on alert to steam to the Adriatic Sea if needed to assist NATO allies.

Rajovon Karadzic, the Bosnian Serb leader, warned against the move: "If we will shoot down every plane we can," he said. "In case of an attack, we cannot guarantee safety to any foreign soldier on our territory."

At a meeting Monday, the 12 European ambassadors were divided over whether the ally in its 44-year-old military presence in the world's largest cocaine cartel is worth the cost, said that its mission in the Former Yugoslavia, with some 6,000 troops.
The Observer • NATIONAL NEWS

Clinton unveils anti-drug plan

By CAROLYN SKORKNECK
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

President Clinton unveiled an anti-drug plan today that puts added emphasis on treatment and prevention, calling it an approach that is "both smart and tough."

"No nation can fight crime and drugs without dealing honestly and forthrightly with the problem of drug addiction," Clinton said.

The president unveiled his anti-drug strategy in an appearance at the Prince George's County Correctional Center in suburban Maryland, speaking to jail inmates and local, state and federal officials.

"I wanted to come here to illustrate that this is an issue that must be dealt with person by person, one at a time," Clinton said. "It's a very human problem." He noted that his own family has had to grapple with alcoholism and drug abuse — his mother married a man who was an alcoholic; his half-brother was imprisoned for drug violations.

"What we are trying to do today is to start our government on a course that offers the promise of real results to the American people," Clinton said. "... We need an approach to both crime and drugs that is both tough and smart. We very often have one without the other and we pay the price for that."

Overall, the $13.2 billion strategy would increase anti-drug funding by $1 billion — the first increase in anti-drug spending in two years. It also represents a departure from the drug-fighting philosophy of the Bush administration.

The plan immediately drew criticism from some in Congress.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said it would serve as "a realistic, balanced approach to dealing with the drug problem," said Lee Brown, the administration's director of the drug control policy. "And despite tough fiscal times, it is backed by the funds required to put it into action. It is the most comprehensive strategy ever."

The plan immediately drew criticism from some in Congress. Sen. Pat Gramm, R-Texas, said it would serve as "welcome, not surprising, it reflects a fundamental view of most Democrats that when things go wrong, society is to blame and more social programs are the answer," Gramm said in a statement.

"Once it occurs, drug addiction has to be overcome one person at a time," Clinton said, noting that second time to the problems in his own family. "We're not going to make a dent in this problem except by having it happen one person at a time."

Money for drug supply reduction, which includes domestic law enforcement and international interdiction, would grow by $217.1 million, a 2.9 percent increase to $7.8 billion. However, interdiction funding would fall 7.3 percent.

Fifty-nine percent of the plan's spending would be for cutting drug supplies and 41 percent on reducing demand. That moves closer to the 50-50 balance sought by critics of the 70-30 ratio that was in place at the start of the Bush administration.

Clinton said his strategy was directed at "the most tenacious and damaging aspect of America's drug use problem — chronic, hard-core drug use and the violence it spawns," while retaining "an aggressive role for law enforcement."

To put the strategy in action, Clinton will ask Congress to set aside money to put 100,000 new police officers on the streets, for safe-schools proposals and for treatment of imprisoned addicts.
A MANDATORY MEETING FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN RUNNING FOR:

- [ ] STUDENT SENATE
- [ ] CLASS OFFICE
- [ ] OFF-CAMPUS CO-PRESIDENT

THURS., FEB. 10th at 7:30 p.m.
FOSTER ROOM, 3rd Floor LaFortune

GRADUATE STUDENT LENTEN RETREAT

Friday, February 18 - Saturday, February 19
8:00 p.m. (24 hours) 8:00 p.m.

A time of silence and reflection, companionship and conversation. The reflections will be offered principally by Graduate Students and will focus on the Sunday Gospels of Lent.

Place: Crowe House, on the shore of Lake Michigan, 30 miles northwest of Notre Dame.

Planning: All graduate students interested in this retreat are invited and urged to attend a 30 minute meeting Tuesday, February 15, at 7:00 p.m., in the Fischer Graduate Community Center.

Deadline: Reservations for the twelve available places will be accepted until Tuesday, February 15.

Contact Fr. John Gerber, C.S.C., Fischer Residences 631-8606 or Sharon Harwell at Fischer Community Center 631-8607.

Cost: $15.00 for the cost of meals and snacks.
Hosokawa beset by political woes

By LAURA KING

TOKYO

The way things have been going lately, Prime Minister Morihiro Hosokawa is probably glad to get out of town. Political infighting, a rotten economy, trade battles, slipping popularity - it's been a bad few months.

But Hosokawa, who heads to Washington Thursday for his first summit with President Clinton, said he hadn't left his troubles behind in Tokyo. They're taking this road trip with him.

In the first months after his government succeeded the long-ruling, corruption-ridden Liberal Democrats, Hosokawa was the most popular prime minister in Japanese history. Telegenic and reform-minded, the descendant of a distinguished samurai clan and a generation younger than his predecessors, the 56-year-old leader captured the public imagination.

But his ability to lead is being questioned even by allies. Whatever personal warmth might come out of the meeting, it's painfully apparent that Hosokawa, a 6-month-old government has done little to improve the worst problem in Tokyo-Washington relations: Japan's $50 billion trade surplus.

The two sides are still hoping to have a major trade accord in hand by the time the leaders sit down to talk, aimed at improving foreign access to specific sectors of the Japanese market. Negotiators continued to work in Washington, but prospects for a breakthrough appeared slim. With classic Japanese unenthusiasm, Foreign Minister Tsutomu Hata told reporters Wednesday the discussions had been "rather difficult."

Mindful of that, the Tokyo government is already arguing that the summit could be a success even if the trade deadlock isn't broken and that the two leaders had plenty to talk about anyway.

But trade is the summit's centerpiece, and the stakes are high. If the U.S. side could employ sanctions - or start talking up the yen again.

The Japanese currency's rapid appreciation last year has raged Japanese companies' export earnings, forcing them to cut their work forces and move production overseas, eroding the country's industrial base.

Japan is urging the United States to avoid harsh measures - but in terms that are really a counterproductive," said a top official. "An all-out trade war would be devastating for both sides.

Hosokawa fought hard this week to bring a peace offering Washington's Raymond V.ого$, 60 billion) economic stimulus package. The United States had called for such measures on the theory that a healthier Japanese economy would spur consumer demand for U.S. goods and help bring down the surplus.

The prime minister sent a message to Clinton saying he hoped the recovery plan would be seen as a sign of good faith on Japan's part.

But despite fanfare over its announcement Wednesday, the package got only a lukewarm reception at home and overseas.

With things looking bad on the trade and economic front, the Japanese side is playing up cooperation on other issues. Chief among them are regional security and diplomacy, especially in light of the nuclear standoff in North Korea.

This is the first summit for the two leaders, although they have met when Hosokawa traveled to New York for the U.N. General Assembly. Casting a pall on the talks is the possibility that Hosokawa's government might not survive long enough for him to meet Clinton again.

In recent battles over Japan's rice market, political reform and tax policy, the prime minister's seven-party coalition either gave him grudging support - or betrayed him outright. That has repeatedly raised the specter of the coalition's collapse.

Aside from the topstop political crises, polls indicate Hosokawa's approval ratings have taken a heavy hit since the start of the year. They now stand at around 50 percent.

The government is trying to cast the political chaos in a favorable light. Yes, top officials say, things have been uncomfortable, but that's because Hosokawa is making historic transformations.

Several events on Hosokawa's Washington schedule appear designed to get maximum symbolic mileage out of his strong points.

---

The Observer • INTERNATIONAL NEWS page 11

THE OBSERVER is now accepting applications for the 1994-95 General Board

Any full-time undergraduate or graduate student at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply.

Please submit a three page statement of intent with a resume to Jake Peters by Thursday, Feb. 10 at 5 p.m.

For questions about the application process or for more information about any position, call The Observer at 631-5323.

NEWS EDITOR

Applicants should have news reporting, writing and editing skills. The News Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story and series ideas and is responsible for the content of the news section each day.

VIEWPOINT EDITOR

Applicants should have editorial writing and editing skills and an ability to deal with the public. The Viewpoint Editor manages a staff of copy and layout editors and columnists and decides what letters will run each day.

SPORTS EDITOR

Applicants should have sports reporting, writing and editing skills. The Sports Editor manages a staff of editors and reporters, generates story ideas and special sections, arranges travel accommodations for reporting trips and is responsible for the content of the sports section each day.

ACCENT EDITOR

Applicants should have features writing and editing experience. The Accent Editor manages editors, reporters and columnists, generates story ideas, oversees the Etc. page and is responsible for the content of the Accent pages each day.

PHOTO EDITOR

Applicants should have photography and developing experience. The Photo Editor manages a staff of photographers and lab technicians and must work closely with department editors in assigning photographs.

SAINT MARY'S EDITOR

Any full-time undergraduate student at Saint Mary's is encouraged to apply. The editor manages Saint Mary's department heads, coordinates coverage with Notre Dame staff, generates story ideas on the Saint Mary's campus and is responsible for the Observer office at Saint Mary's.

ADVERTISING MANAGER

Applicants should be business majors with management and sales skills. The Advertising Manager oversees an assistant and a staff of account executives and is responsible for generating advertising revenue.

AD DESIGN MANAGER

Applicants should have solid Macintosh experience and knowledge of QuarkXPress, Aldus Freehand and Adobe Photoshop. The Ad Design Manager oversees a staff of designers, works closely with advertising and marketing departments and is responsible for the design and layout of advertisements.

PRODUCTION MANAGER

Applicants should have solid Macintosh computer experience, knowledge of QuarkXPress and design, layout and newspaper production experience. The Production Manager oversees a staff of night production designers and works closely with department staff on layout and design.

SYSTEMS MANAGER

Applicants should have solid Macintosh computer experience and knowledge of network computer technology. The Systems Manager supervises the Macintosh network and printers and is responsible for training the entire Observer staff on the use of the system.

OBSERVER MARKETING DIRECTOR

Director will be responsible for generating new ideas and campaigns for advertisers. The marketing director will oversee one assistant and work closely with Ad Design manager and account executives. Applicants should have solid Macintosh experience and strong self-motivation.

CONTROLLER

Applicant must be a junior accounting major at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's. The Controller is responsible for preparing The Observer's operating budget and taxes, accounts payable, cost-tracking and order transaction duties.
THE OBSERVER
NOTRE DAME DAILY: P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 631-7471
SOUTH MICHIGAN DAILY: 160 Harper, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 284-5883

1993-94 General Board
Editor-in-Chief
David Konary
Business Manager
Bruce Kennedy
Managing Editor
Kevin McNaught
Advertising Manager
Ann Hynes
Assistant Editor
Ryan Ford
Sports Editor
George Delmonico
Features Editor
Sandy Johnson
Editorial Staff
Dennis Bifano, Kelly Burck, Andrew Graham, George Kilmurry, Jennifer Jakub counselor

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame. Its sole purpose is to reflect the policies of the administration of either instance. The news is reported accurately and objectively as possible. Unfair editorial representation of the opinions of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Assistant Editor, Features Editor, and Associate Editor. Commentators, interns and Inside Columns present the views of the author, and our necessarily those of the Observer. Observer space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/University community and to all students. The free expression of opinions through interns is encouraged.

Observer Phone Lines
Editor-in-Chief
631-4710
Managing Editor/Viewpoints
631-4941
Business Office
631-4792
Sports
631-4993
Features
631-4935
Office Manager
631-7471

Bill Beach will answer your questions about your job search, resume writing, interviewing, and other related questions you may have if you find yourself "on the beach" now or after graduation.

Preparation key to good interview

"On the Beach" is an expression used in the consulting field referring to an employee that is between consulting assignments. Lately, however, the phrase has become synonymous with "out of work." In his column, Employment and Human Resource Consultant Bill Beach will answer your questions about your job search, resume writing, interview preparation, and other related questions you may have if you find yourself "on the beach" now or after graduation.

I'm a college senior, and I'd like some advice on how to prepare for on-campus interviews. College recruiters tend to conduct on-campus interviews should be taken seriously. Unless you can sufficiently impress the recruiter, your chances of continuing the process with the company is hopeless. This fact that today's job market is still tight makes college recruiters very demanding and selective. As an on-campus recruiter, these individuals meet hundreds of students, and because of this, many will develop an ability to quickly judge.

As terrible as it sounds, I've had college recruiters tell me that their minds are fairly made up within a few minutes after reading the students' resumes and meeting with them. In a nutshell, the on-campus recruiter is looking for the "difference." To be different and to be the one student that makes the cut, you have to do your homework. First get to know the company. I can't stress how important it is to have some prior knowledge of the company and its performance. Whether you obtain your facts from Fortune 500 or Fortune 1000 Directory, Moody's Industrial Manual, or Standard and Poor's Register of Corporations, spend some time learning about the company, its size, sales, net income and productive. Dun's Employment Opportunities Directory/The Career Guide is another excellent source of information.

The other research you need to do is on yourself. The more you know about yourself, the more confident you will be during the interview. Remember in the interview with the recruiter, you are the product. The more you know about yourself, the more effective you'll be in selling yourself. Relive your successes, and rehearse talking about them. Be prepared to deal with reasons you selected the college you attend, your major, honors you may have earned, primary interests in life, school activities you've participated in, books you've recently read, and the old favorite, "How would you describe success?" Obviously, the more comfortable you are with your "product knowledge," the more staying power in your presentation of yourself you will be able to project. Like it or not, 75 to 85 percent of what you say to the recruiter will be forgotten within an hour. What will be remembered is your enthusiasm, confidence, dependability, honesty, and assertiveness.

--Dealing with college recruiters that are not interested in land your first job after graduation is, in itself, a major job. Remain self-confident, even though you may feel frustrated and helpless. Always look and act as though you take yourself seriously. If you don't, why should anyone else? Finally, heed the advice of David, and pray to the Lord for wisdom and guidance.

Bill Beach's column was originally printed in The Elk Truth. If you have a question for Bill Beach send it to "On the Beach," P.O. Box 63, Notre Dame, IN 46556-0063, or to The Observer, "On the Beach," P.O. Box 4, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

Dear Editor:
Perhaps you have heard of or about the Summer Service Project from friends or people in your dorms, and you know the basic facts. In this letter, however, I would like to appeal to you from a different view of a Summer Service Project.

I went into my project last summer in Baltimore with the expectation of solidarity and self-sacrifice. I had done service work before, so I had experienced the joy of helping others. I was looking forward to working at Beans and Bread, the meal and outreach program I was to become a part of. Yet, my heart was attached to the idea of independence and simple living, which were not new ideas in my brain, but demanding ones. I perceived my eight weeks as work, which made even more sense because of the scholarship I was receiving. That, however, was before I went.

I came to Baltimore with the thought that my weekends were to be for myself. I found myself in an environment conducive only to community and human connection. I related to people I never foresaw relating to, like a Native American man from South Dakota (quite a bonding experience in Baltimore, as I am from Nebraska), a Vietnamese veteran and a twenty-eight-year-old woman with four children whose ages ranged from two to eleven. I not only interacted with the people I served at Beans and Bread, but also the alumni who supported me and the others who were giving themselves to service along with me.

My Summer Service Project became defined by the relationships I developed, in which learning, loving, and laughing were fully given and received. Meeting people, sharing experiences, and building relationships are what it is all about. And while some relationships can drain you, most will energize you and make it quite difficult to say goodbye after a mere eight weeks.

--AMY VOSBURG
Junior
Lynn Hall

Unexpected friendships found in Summer Service

Letter to the Editor

"Meeting people, sharing experiences, and building relations..."
Archy Students Get Their Hands Dirty in Housing Service Project

By LARRISA HERCZEG

Accent Writer

How is calculus going to be necessary in my life as a government major? Why are vectors essential to my future as an astrophysicist? These questions, and many other similar ones, often race through students' minds as they struggle to stay awake during a boring lecture.

The Notre Dame School of Architecture, in conjunction with the Engineering program, has discovered a way to teach students to use their skills to help others. The two department have paired closely with the families of certain households, they were expert in energy efficiency, according to Gad-el-Hak.

The architecture students were forced to apply the facts and ideas from the books they had read to real life circumstances. They could save more money while helping to conserve the environment. No longer did these students have to question the necessity of the information they had learned.

After mastering the information of the subject matter, said Gad-el-Hak, the students were very enthusiastic, he continued. "They wanted to appear knowledgeable, so they were forced to learn, read and study."

The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea. The idea for the class stems from workshops offered at the Center for Social Concerns.

The course, offered to fourth-year architecture students, requires students to work together in small groups to improve the heating, cooling and electrical problems arising in many lower-income homes.

The two department have paired closely with the families of certain households, they were expert in energy efficiency, according to Gad-el-Hak.

"The close working relationship between students and families benefitted the students' knowledge of the subject matter," said Gad-el-Hak. "The students were very enthusiastic," he continued. "They wanted to appear knowledgeable, so they were forced to learn, read and study."

The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea. The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea. The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea. The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea.

The Notre Dame School of Architecture, in conjunction with the Engineering program, has discovered a way to teach students to use their skills to help others. The two department have paired closely with the families of certain households, they were expert in energy efficiency, according to Gad-el-Hak.

The architecture students were forced to apply the facts and ideas from the books they had read to real life circumstances. They could save more money while helping to conserve the environment. No longer did these students have to question the necessity of the information they had learned.

After mastering the information of the subject matter, said Gad-el-Hak, the students were very enthusiastic, he continued. "They wanted to appear knowledgeable, so they were forced to learn, read and study."

The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea. The idea for the class stems from workshops offered at the Center for Social Concerns.

The course, offered to fourth-year architecture students, requires students to work together in small groups to improve the heating, cooling and electrical problems arising in many lower-income homes.

The two department have paired closely with the families of certain households, they were expert in energy efficiency, according to Gad-el-Hak.

"The close working relationship between students and families benefitted the students' knowledge of the subject matter," said Gad-el-Hak. "The students were very enthusiastic," he continued. "They wanted to appear knowledgeable, so they were forced to learn, read and study."

The students then worked with South Bend housing authorities to determine which low-incomes homes would be receptive to the idea. The idea for the class stems from workshops offered at the Center for Social Concerns.

The course, offered to fourth-year architecture students, requires students to work together in small groups to improve the heating, cooling and electrical problems arising in many lower-income homes.
LILLEYHAMMER, Norway Tonya Harding filed a $20 million lawsuit Wednesday seeking to block the U.S. Olympic Committee from interfering with her participation in the Winter Games.

The suit, filed in Jackson County Circuit Court in Oregon City, contends that Harding has complied with all rules and regulations of the U.S. Figure Skating Association and therefore is entitled to compete in the Games.

The USOC has scheduled a hearing for Feb. 15 to determine whether Harding's role in the attack on rival skater Nancy Kerrigan violated Olympic ethics.

The suit, which seeks $20 million in damages, says persons close to Harding have become convinced in the Kerrigan assault, but that no charges are filed against her.

Earlier, in a television interview, Harding vowed she would go to the Olympics, win a gold medal and "hang it on my wall forever."

She also said that if given the chance, she would give Kerrigan a hug, "if she'll let me.

Accompanying her as she left TV taping in Portland, Ore., attorney Bob Weaver said he would issue a statement Saturday if she would appear before the USOC's Games Administrative Board.

The USOC was notified Tuesday by Harding's ex-husband, Jeff Gillooly, that he was withdrawing his tell-all testimony before that board provided he received permission from the Multnomah County district attorney to travel as well as expenses and legal fees.

The agreement, made through attorney Peter Alkalay, requested that Gillooly be made available to testify before the board. The request was made in a letter sent Tuesday by Gillooly's attorney, Ron Hoeter.

Gillooly pleaded guilty to a charge of harboring evidence in connection with the Kerrigan attack and implicated Harding as one of the plotters. He has agreed to serve two years in prison and pay a $100,000 fine as part of a plea agreement.

Gillooly also asked that the results of a lie detector test he took be made public and given to the USOC.

A hearing on Gillooly's request was set for Thursday. Multnomah County district attorney Michael Schiller said "I think I imagine" opposing the motion.

In an interview with "Inside Edition" set for Thursday and Friday, Harding said: "I'm going to hang on it my wall forever."

She also said that after the chance, she would apologize to Kerrigan.

"I'll tell her that I really said that and I really wish her the best and, hopefully, she'll forgive me for all this crap that's gone on."

"Maybe (I'll give her a hug). If she'll let me."

Harding said winning a gold medal at the Olympics would give her reasons for other things than money.

"If it all ended tomorrow and I had a gold medal in my hand with the people I'm surrounded with now, my life would be complete."

After avoiding comment for days, Harding also was interviewed for "Eyewitness With Connie Chung," set for broadcast on Monday. The 23-year-old skater came across as less informed and naive than in her previous public appearances, according to sources close to the special. Schiller said Gillooly was one of the plotters and contacted the USOC about his availability to testify in Oslo. He stressed that it was not certain Gillooly would be called.

"The burden of proof is on the USOC, not on Miss Harding," Schiller said.

Early in the day, Harding's attorney had not given the USOC a specific date for her availability to testify in Oslo. Harding will not be on hand for the parade of athletes at Saturday night's opening ceremonies.

"That's not unusual," Schiller said.

At "Previous Olympic Games, figure skaters as well as other athletes, for a variety of reasons, have arrived later than opening ceremonies."

Women's figure skating begins Feb. 23, two days after the deadline for finalizing the line-up. The USOC hearing could determine Harding's availability.

Michelle Kwan, the top alternate, gets to skate on Olympic ice.

---

LARRY SIDDONS
Associated Press

HARDING refuses to back down, files lawsuit against USOC with 3 gold letters: grateful to finder. Please view, Harding vowed she would.

U.S. Harding refuses to back down, files lawsuit against USOC with 3 gold letters: grateful to finder. Please view, Harding vowed she would.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame Office. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces. Deadline for classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.

LOST - Has anyone seen my necklaces anywhere in the snow? Gold chain with 2 lockets and a pet name on each, has great sentimental value.

WANTED - Need ride to Washington.

Classifieds

Can you find my necklaces anywhere in the snow? Gold chain with 2 lockets and a pet name on each, has great sentimental value.

WANTED - Need ride to Washington.

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame Office. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.

LOST - Has anyone seen my necklaces anywhere in the snow? Gold chain with 2 lockets and a pet name on each, has great sentimental value.

WANTED - Need ride to Washington.

Classifieds

Can you find my necklaces anywhere in the snow? Gold chain with 2 lockets and a pet name on each, has great sentimental value.

WANTED - Need ride to Washington.

TheObserver accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame Office. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $2 per character per day, including all spaces.
New York

Terry Mulholland, who went 12-9 last season in helping the Philadelphia Phillies win the National League pennant, was traded Wednesday to the New York Yankees for three players.

Mulholland, who will be 31 next month, was entering the last year of his contract and the Phillies feared losing him to free agency.

The left-hander had a 3.25 ERA in 28 starts and one relief appearance last season, striking out 116 and walking in 51 innings.

In exchange, the Phillies get pitcher Bobby Munoz and a pair of minor leaguers: infielder Kevin Jordan and left-handed pitcher Ryan Karp. The Yankees also will get a player to be named.

"I don't feel sliated," Mulholland said. "I take some satisfaction that I was there when things weren't going well for Philadelphia. I was there when we got to the Series last year. I saw the progression."
Skating scandal stealing Norway's spotlight

By LARRY McSHANE
Associated Press

LILLEHAMMER, Norway

Make way, Alberto. Move over, Kataztina. The big story here is a soap opera on skates that's already headlined in Detroit and Portland, the hit starring Tonya and Nancy. The 17th Winter Games have fallen on Harding times, with Tonya and Nancy Kerrigan threatening to turn the Olympics into a made-for-TV movie. Worse, the flap is threatening to overshadow the work of the Lillehammer organizers and more than 1,900 athletes from a record 66 countries.

With the start of the games just 72 hours away, a resolution of the Harding affair won't come until next week at the opening ceremonies. Since Sam Malone faced Diane Chambers in the grand finale of "Cheers," it's not that these Games lack for excitement or drama. The Katarina, the big story Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.

The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. Wednesday's game had none of the verbal and physical alterations that marked two U.S.-Sweden match-ups before and during the 1992 Olympics. "There were a lot of ghosts in the closet because of what happened in '92," Taylor said. "I think it's over."

Though the coach praised Mike Dunham made 23 saves to make his claim to the starting goaltender job. David Roberts and Jeff Lazaro scored for the United States, which played its opener Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden also opens Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden had little at stake Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.

The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. Wednesday's game had none of the verbal and physical alterations that marked two U.S.-Sweden match-ups before and during the 1992 Olympics. "There were a lot of ghosts in the closet because of what happened in '92," Taylor said. "I think it's over."

Though the coach praised Mike Dunham made 23 saves to make his claim to the starting goaltender job. David Roberts and Jeff Lazaro scored for the United States, which played its opener Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden also opens Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden had little at stake Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.

The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. Wednesday's game had none of the verbal and physical alterations that marked two U.S.-Sweden match-ups before and during the 1992 Olympics. "There were a lot of ghosts in the closet because of what happened in '92," Taylor said. "I think it's over."

Though the coach praised Mike Dunham made 23 saves to make his claim to the starting goaltender job. David Roberts and Jeff Lazaro scored for the United States, which played its opener Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden also opens Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden had little at stake Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.

The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. Wednesday's game had none of the verbal and physical alterations that marked two U.S.-Sweden match-ups before and during the 1992 Olympics. "There were a lot of ghosts in the closet because of what happened in '92," Taylor said. "I think it's over."

Though the coach praised Mike Dunham made 23 saves to make his claim to the starting goaltender job. David Roberts and Jeff Lazaro scored for the United States, which played its opener Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden also opens Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden had little at stake Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.

The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. Wednesday's game had none of the verbal and physical alterations that marked two U.S.-Sweden match-ups before and during the 1992 Olympics. "There were a lot of ghosts in the closet because of what happened in '92," Taylor said. "I think it's over."

Though the coach praised Mike Dunham made 23 saves to make his claim to the starting goaltender job. David Roberts and Jeff Lazaro scored for the United States, which played its opener Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden also opens Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden had little at stake Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.

The United States finished 37-17-7 - 28-13-3 in international competition. Wednesday's game had none of the verbal and physical alterations that marked two U.S.-Sweden match-ups before and during the 1992 Olympics. "There were a lot of ghosts in the closet because of what happened in '92," Taylor said. "I think it's over."

Though the coach praised Mike Dunham made 23 saves to make his claim to the starting goaltender job. David Roberts and Jeff Lazaro scored for the United States, which played its opener Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden also opens Sunday against Slovakia. Sweden had little at stake Wednesday, but the Americans had plenty to prove - mostly to themselves. They played poorly last week-end at a tournament in France, with a 1-1 record against what was considered inferior competition. And they'd gone only 3-4-1 after ending 1993 with an impressive showing in Moscow's Izvestia Cup.

"We struggled in France. We were doubting ourselves, a little tentative," Dunham said. "This game, we went out, held them to 25 shots - a team that's a favorite for the gold medal. We know we can play with Sweden. And if we know we can play with Sweden, we know we can play with anybody." "For the first time, we really played our system to a tee," said Todd Marchant, the top scorer in pre-Olympic play with 67 points.
Olympic telecast chance at redemption for CBS

By HAL ROCK

LILLEHAMMER, Norway

With the reality of football's departure setting in, CBS gets a chance to heal the hurt during 16 days of Winter Games coverage beginning Saturday.

And the people delivering images and sounds of this snow and ice spectacle can't wait.

"There's no sense of urgency because of the NFL," said Dick Gentile, senior vice president of production for CBS Sports. "Maybe there's a strong desire to do great work. The two aren't equated realistically, but, yeah, emotionally, they are.

"For me, it means we're going to do great stuff."

Gentile is the point man on CBS' coverage, the man who decides what hits the air and when it goes there. He's in charge Wednesday of the gadgets and gimmicks television technology has put at his disposal - things like a helmet camera to provide a goalie's eye view of hockey action, and the come-and-go camera that captures the speed of skating and earned CBS an Emmy on the women's course at Albertville, two years ago.

And quick-two-year turn-around from France to Norway was a challenge to CBS, which has constructed its own sprawling bunker broadcast facility that is the nerve center of its operations. "Allison for Dick Speyer, that's the way I talked," Gentile said. "And also how to program a taped three-hour move every night."

The time frame is the same. Like Albertville, Lillehammer is six hours ahead of eastern time, meaning much of the prime time coverage will be taped. "It's hard to try to be live as we can," Gentile said. "On weekends, we'll be live. The opening U.S.-France hockey game Sunday will be on a 15-30 minute delay. That's a ready live. There will be a lot of live hockey coverage. Nothing in prime time is live because that's 2 a.m. here."

That includes the women's figure skating. The final is scheduled for Feb. 25, after the eyes of network executives glaze over at the ratings drubbing the soap opera saga of Tonya Harding and Nancy Kerrigan could produce. There will be 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. taped coverage nightly with Olympic Late Night, a re-cap of the day's events with Pat O'Brien, shown following the women's individual free skate. Lettman is not exacting that ignorance this extravaganza. His show will peak in on the Olympics from time to time, using his mother, Dorothy, as his exclusive correspondent.

The rest of the CBS coverage is more traditional.

"Lillehammer is a village of 25,000," Gentile said. "It's still a national competition."

The disciplines, the cities within the cities - looks like a jigsaw puzzle and it's a lot of work."

So CBS' efforts are to provide a balance as one of the world's most discriminating judges.

"Lightning fast," declared Hitetsa after becoming European champion here three weeks ago.

"A lot of world records will be skated," said Peter Mueller, Jensen's coach. "You can go as fast as you want to go - Dan can anyhow."

Eric Heiden, who won five gold medals in the 1980 Olympics, also tried out the course.

"I never thought I'd see ice better than in Calgary, but this is better," he said.

The quest for new world records has produced an intense rivalry between Lunnstoeng and his counterparts in Calgary and Heerenveen, the Netherlands. A slew of records in the World Cup Games, and Heerenveen is the only other indoor track that holds up to the speed demands.

"I cannot say who's the best now," Lunnstoeng said.

There's a lot the icemasters don't tell one another - like how much water to put on the track and how fast it should go.

"We talk about many things, but not about why," Lunnstoeng said.

The race begins tonight. There's a lot of world records will be skated, "said Peter Mueller, Jensen's coach. "You can go as fast as you want to go - Dan can anyhow."

Heidens, who won five gold medals in the 1980 Olympics, also tried out the course.

"I never thought I'd see ice better than in Calgary, but this is better," he said.

The quest for new world records has produced an intense rivalry between Lunnstoeng and his counterparts in Calgary and Heerenveen, the Netherlands. A slew of records in the World Cup Games, and Heerenveen is the only other indoor track that holds up to the speed demands.

"I cannot say who's the best now," Lunnstoeng said.

There's a lot the icemasters don't tell one another - like how much water to put on the track and how fast it should go.

"We talk about many things, but not about why," Lunnstoeng said.

The race begins tonight.
Piston's ailing Elliott takes leave

By ARTHUR H. ROTSAIN
Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz.

Sean Elliott, the Detroit Pistons forward whose kidney ailment scuttled a trade to the Houston Rockets, said Wednesday he'll take an indefinite leave of absence to clear up the medical problem.

The Pistons said they were not advised Elliott had planned to take a leave.

The status of the 6-foot-8 forward was uncertain, with counselors and the team planned later in the day.

"It has to work with us because he is under contract to the Pistons," Pistons spokesman Matt Dobek said.

"We are willing to listen to what his ideas are, but he has to work with us to do it.

Elliott's agent, Burt Kinerk, said: "We've been in touch with the team. The mutual understanding. I believe, of both parties is that what's best for

Sean's health has to be checked

e out."

He said Houston doctors say his condition should be treated immediately, a move that would prevent him from playing for six to eight weeks. However,

Kinerk said Detroit doctors say Elliott can continue to play while he is treated.

"What we're doing is getting some independent medical advice to make a decision of what's right," Kinerk said. "If playing is detrimental to his health, then at this time I shouldn't be playing."

At a hometown news conference, Elliott said he wasn't planning to play again until the problem was firmly diagnosed and treated.

"We're going to get down to the bottom of it, and I'm not going to go back, I don't think, until I can pass any NBA physical," he said.

"Because if this situation stays the same for another year or two, then which teams are going to take me and which teams are not going to take me

if I decide to go somewhere?"

Asked if he's taking an indefinite leave, Elliott said: "That's exactly it. Because my health is more important than any basketball game.

The Pistons have been real cooperative with me. They want me to get better because it's in their best interest as well."

He added: "We're just going to get all the opinions that we can and make a decision from there."

Elliott has missed only one game because of the condition, which was diagnosed in June when he was still with the San Antonio Spurs.

He missed the past four games with the Pistons because of pneumonia.

Pistons coach Don Chaney said the Pistons knew about

Elliott's kidney condition before trading for him.

"I coached eight years at

Punxsutawney, and I thought I was going to be there forever,"

Daily said Wednesday at a news conference.

He left in 1963, however, and since then has coached

Pennsylvania to four Ivy League championships, the Detroit

Pistons to two NBA titles and the Dream Team to a gold medal at the 1992 Olympics.

Chaney, now coach of the New York Knicks, recalled that he lived with his wife in a $60-a-month apartment with a bay window in Punxsutawney and that on a recent visit to the western Pennsylvania community he looked in the bay window — and there was Phil.

The habitat of Punxsutawney

Pittsburgh and Rhinos is in the bay window, and Dalys old apartment now is part of the town's library.

"I was replaced by a groundhog," Daly said.

He was allotted to the Hall of Fame Tuesday along with Harry

"Buddy" Jeanist, a pre-NBA pro star; Carol Blaze-kowsk; a major force in women's basketball; Denny Crum;

coach of Louisville and Coach

Rubini, a leading figure in italian basketball for almost 50 years.

They will be inducted May 9

at Springfield, Mass.

All but Rubini attended the

news conference.

The 76-year-old Jeanette, who lives in Nashua, N.H., arrived in snow-covered New York on Tuesday evening after standing most of the way on a train from Boston.

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

Very Carefully

The famous and funny professor told his same old joke again. Just how do you have sex with a porcupine? he asked. Very carefully, he replied.

As a joke, it's a great little attention getter - a sweet little joke, with a thousand applications. Depending upon the audience, the verb for "hunting" can slip up or down the naughty scale for extra clout. In this particular case, everyone's old friend was beginning a talk about

"how in the world a Christian can be a lawyer." So speaking to a mixed crowd of official colleagues and eager new law students in the elegant courthouse of the Law School, the pushy teacher's choice of verbs was happily only slightly cruder than what seems polite to you.

before you, the Observer reader. It could have been a lot worse.

The point is the punch line. How do you do it — Very Carefully. For example, how can you be a lawyer and a Christian? How can you give wealth and influence and structures designed to maintain privilege?

yourself over to a system that you don't control, that is dominated by assholes, then if I need courage to redirect my energies, I have a chance.

It made good sense to me. Then if I get sloppy, then if I get overwhelmed, then if I need courage to redirect my energies, I have a chance.

One of the great things about being an intellectual, and reading a million books, and reflecting upon a thousand different issues is that later on, as you get older, you can say shorter, simpler things and get people to listen to you. And when you point to simple truths and offer simple advice, you gently draw people back to an encounter with their own inner lives and hopes and needs very carefully.}

Tom McDermott, C.S.C.

WEAKEND PRESIDENTS

at SACRED HEART BASILICA

Sat. February 12 5:00 p.m. Rev. John Lashey, C.S.C.

Sun. February 13 10:00 a.m. Rev. Peter Rocca, C.S.C.

11:45 a.m. Rev. John Gerber, C.S.C.

SCRIJPURE READINGS FOR THIS COMING SUNDAY

1ST READING Leviticus 13: 1-2, 44-46

2ND READING 1 Corinthians 10: 31-11:1

GOSPEL Mark 1: 40-45
Thursday, February 10, 1994

The Observer • PRO BASKETBALL ROUNDP

Pacers get contributions from Williams, McKey in victory

Associated Press

Reserve forward Ken Williams scored a career-high 25 points and Derrick McKey had a season-high 30, including four free throws in the final 30 seconds, as Indiana won its seventh straight, matching a franchise record.

The Pacers also evened their record at 23-23 in reach .500 for the first time this season.

McKey and Williams shot a combined 19-of-28 from the field. The Heat, meanwhile, were just 2-of-14 from 3-point territory and made only 34 of 48 foul shots.

Magic 104, Hawks 87

Shaquille O'Neal scored 37 points and Dennis Scott led Orlando out of a shooting slump with 24 as the Magic stopped a three-game losing streak.

Atlanta fell behind in the first quarter as Orlando had a 13-1 run. The Magic made 11 of 13 shots in the second period for a team-record 85 percent, and hit 70 percent of their attempts in the opening half to break the game open.

Dominique Wilkins had 20 points to lead Atlanta, which shares the second-best record in the Eastern Conference (33-13) with the Chicago Bulls.

Warriors 126, Hornets 116

Latrell Sprewell scored a season-high 34 points to lead five players in double figures as Golden State sent Charlotte to its eighth straight loss.

With most of Charlotte's big men sidelined by an assortment of ailments, the Warriors controlled the inside. The Hornets, forced to shoot from outside, got a team record-tying 41 points from Hersey Hawkins.

Chris Webber scored 22 points, Avery Johnson had 20, and Owens and Keith Jennings 15 apiece for Golden State. Owens also grabbed 10 rebounds.

Eddie Johnson had 24 points and Muggsy Bogues had 11 points and 10 assists for Charlotte.

Knicks 114, 76ers 79

Patrick Ewing had 18 points and 11 rebounds and Charles Oakley had 13 points and 12 rebounds as New York trounced Philadelphia.

The 35-point win matched New York's biggest margin of victory this season, while Philadelphia had its most lopsided loss of the year.

The Knicks made 12 of 19 shots in the first quarter to take a 37-26 lead, Philadelphia never got closer than 11 after that.

Pistons 102, Celtics 95

Isiah Thomas scored 28 points -- 19 of them in an otherwise cold-shooting first half for Detroit -- as the Pistons broke a three-game losing streak.

Terry Mills and Olden Polynice each scored 16 points for Detroit, Joe Dumars had 15 -- all in the second half -- and rookies Allan Houston and Lindsey Hunter added 10 each.

Robert Parish led Boston with 17 points and 12 rebounds.

The victory kept the Celtics 13 points behind the Detroit Pistons, who are 19-3 and two games ahead of Miami.

Vikings 98, Cavaliers 91

The Vikings didn't score a field goal in the first half, but the Cavaliers struggled without their big reserves.

The Vikings scored 29 points before the half to take a 13-point lead.

The Cavaliers remained close early, but the Vikings scored 13 of their next 16 points in a key stretch.

The Cavaliers were evened at 9-9 for the second time this season.

S.U.B. Applications are available in the Student Government office for all executive positions

Applications due by Feb. 15th

NOTRE DAME APARTMENTS

"Newly Remodeled Apartments at Very Affordable Rates"

• SPACIOUS 2-BEDROOM APARTMENTS
• NEW APPLIANCES, CABINETS, AND CARPETS
• ENTRY SECURITY
• LAUNDRY FACILITY AVAILABLE
• 4 BLOCKS FROM NOTRE DAME CAMPUS
• PROFESSIONAL MANAGEMENT TEAM
• SKILLED MAINTENANCE CREW
• PRIVATE OFF-STREET PARKING FOR TENANTS
• SEVERAL UNITS AVAILABLE FOR IMMEDIATE OCCUPANCY

NOW TAKING APPLICATIONS FOR '94-'95 SCHOOL YEAR

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL

232-8256

Leprechaun and Cheerleader Tryouts

1994-95 Cheerleader Squad Tryouts will be held in March.

Students interested should attend the informational meeting February 21, 1994 at 5:00 p.m. at the JACC in the Pit.

Please bring proof of insurance.
Michigan’s King, Jackson sentenced to community service

By JULIA PRODIN

ANN ARBOR, Mich.

Three University of Michigan basketball players caught on camera stealing beer from a convenience store last month pleaded no contest Wednesday to retail fraud and will perform community service.

A Michigan football player, Damon Jones, 19, accused of trying to steal beer from the same store a week later, stood before Ann Arbor District Judge Timothy Connors. Jones is already on probation for a prior felony charge.

Jimmy King, 20, and Ray Jackson, 20, starters for the Wolverines, and Chris Fields, 19, will have the charges purged from their records in six months if they perform 72 hours of community service and pay $200 in court fees, said their lawyer, Paul Gallagher.

“What you did is a crime, and it is also a very stupid thing to do,” the judge told the basketball players, who fidgeted nervously before the judge and several television cameras. “You will be treated the same as anyone else who comes through this courtroom — no more, no less.” Three other people face shoplifting charges as well. Football player Remy Hamilton, a 19-year-old place-kicker, store clerk Allison Chenault, 20, — who police said encouraged the crimes — and her friend, Jaymar Joseph, will be arraigned at later dates, Ann Arbor Police Detective Sgt. Mick Schubring said Wednesday.

“She allegedly called (the athletes) and said, ‘Stop down sometime and I’ll fix you up with what you need,’” Lt. John Atkinson said of Chenault.

Police say Jones and Hamilton went into a Dairymart store Jan. 20 and began loading 2 1/2 cases of beer into their gym bags, embellished with “Rose Bowl” and “Holiday Bowl” insignias. When the assistant manager dropped in unexpectedly, the duo left quickly, leaving the loaded gym bags near the beer cooler, Schubring said.

Along with beer, police found identification of both athletes and a Rose Bowl ring belonging to Jones.

They were “just not thinking too clearly at that particular time,” Schubring said. Jones and Hamilton have been suspended from the football team by coach Gary Moeller.

Suspicious that the clerk might have given away merchandise to other friends, the Dairymart assistant manager reviewed past surveillance tapes and saw the three basketball players stealing five to seven cases of beer Jan. 12, Schubring said. The clerk and the basketball players “smiled and waved at each other” on camera, Atkinson said.

The trio, accompanied to court by coach Steve Fisher, were suspended from Michigan’s victory over Michigan State on Saturday. Against Indiana on Tuesday, King scored 17 points, Jackson had 13 and the game-high nine rebounds. Fields was scoreless.

The case against Jones, which will be discussed by his lawyer and a prosecutor at a March 1 pretrial conference, exacerbates Jones’ legal troubles.

The 230-pound tight end is on probation after pleading guilty to a felony charge of exploding a firebomb in a university dormitory in December 1992. That charge would have been cleared from his record, but he violated several terms of his probation, including failing to perform any of the 50 hours of community service and leaving the state without court permission, his probation officer, Phil Kingsley, said.

grants,

Michigan’s King, Jackson sentenced to community service

By JULIA PRODIN

ANN ARBOR, Mich.

Three University of Michigan basketball players caught on camera stealing beer from a convenience store last month pleaded no contest Wednesday to retail fraud and will perform community service.

A Michigan football player, Damon Jones, 19, accused of trying to steal beer from the same store a week later, stood before Ann Arbor District Judge Timothy Connors. Jones is already on probation for a prior felony charge.

Jimmy King, 20, and Ray Jackson, 20, starters for the Wolverines, and Chris Fields, 19, will have the charges purged from their records in six months if they perform 72 hours of community service and pay $200 in court fees, said their lawyer, Paul Gallagher.

“What you did is a crime, and it is also a very stupid thing to do,” the judge told the basketball players, who fidgeted nervously before the judge and several television cameras. “You will be treated the same as anyone else who comes through this courtroom — no more, no less.” Three other people face shoplifting charges as well. Football player Remy Hamilton, a 19-year-old place-kicker, store clerk Allison Chenault, 20, — who police said encouraged the crimes — and her friend, Jaymar Joseph, will be arraigned at later dates, Ann Arbor Police Detective Sgt. Mick Schubring said Wednesday.

“She allegedly called (the athletes) and said, ‘Stop down sometime and I’ll fix you up with what you need,’” Lt. John Atkinson said of Chenault.

Police say Jones and Hamilton went into a Dairymart store Jan. 20 and began loading 2 1/2 cases of beer into their gym bags, embellished with “Rose Bowl” and “Holiday Bowl” insignias. When the assistant manager dropped in unexpectedly, the duo left quickly, leaving the loaded gym bags near the beer cooler, Schubring said.

Along with beer, police found identification of both athletes and a Rose Bowl ring belonging to Jones.

They were “just not thinking too clearly at that particular time,” Schubring said. Jones and Hamilton have been suspended from the football team by coach Gary Moeller.

Suspicious that the clerk might have given away merchandise to other friends, the Dairymart assistant manager reviewed past surveillance tapes and saw the three basketball players stealing five to seven cases of beer Jan. 12, Schubring said. The clerk and the basketball players “smiled and waved at each other” on camera, Atkinson said.

The trio, accompanied to court by coach Steve Fisher, were suspended from Michigan’s victory over Michigan State on Saturday. Against Indiana on Tuesday, King scored 17 points, Jackson had 13 and the game-high nine rebounds. Fields was scoreless.

The case against Jones, which will be discussed by his lawyer and a prosecutor at a March 1 pretrial conference, exacerbates Jones’ legal troubles.

The 230-pound tight end is on probation after pleading guilty to a felony charge of exploding a firebomb in a university dormitory in December 1992. That charge would have been cleared from his record, but he violated several terms of his probation, including failing to perform any of the 50 hours of community service and leaving the state without court permission, his probation officer, Phil Kingsley, said.

Put one of these to use on February 17 and see what develops.

If you’re a junior majoring in accounting, February 17 could develop into quite an interesting evening. Because that’s when the Ernst & Young Photo Hunt will take place. It’s a splendid opportunity to show off all that intellectual superiority, resourcefulness, analytical brilliance and quantitative prowess you’ve been accumulating all these years. Plus, it’ll be fun. Clues in one hand, Polaroid in another, you and your team will scurry the inside of LaFortune Student Center in pursuit of answers to some of the most devilishly clever riddles ever conceived about, well, you never know what you might find. After all, it could develop into a Summer Internship at Ernst & Young.

THE ERNST & YOUNG PHOTO HUNT

Thursday, February 17 • 7 pm • LaFortune Student Center
All juniors majoring in accounting are invited

To let us know that you’ll be there, RSVP to the Ernst & Young Recruiting Department at (800) 869-9899 by Monday, February 14.

THE ERNST & YOUNG
Thursday, February 10, 1994

Razorbacks end Kentucky home winning streak, 90-82

No. 3 Arkansas 90, No. 4 Kentucky 82

Third-ranked Arkansas ended No. 4 Kentucky’s 33-game homecourt winning streak as Clint McDaniel and Scotty Thurman led a second-half surge that carried the Razorbacks to a 90-82 victory Wednesday night.

Arkansas (17-2, 7-2 Southwestern Conference) was the last team to beat the Wildcats in Rupp Arena went it took a 105-88 win on Jan. 25, 1992. It wasn’t as easy this time.

Mary B. Green

Rodrick Rhodes led Arkansas with 26 points as the Razorbacks finished 29-for-76 (38.2 percent). Kentucky (19-3, 7-3) never recovered from an 18-0 run that gave Arkansas a 42-24 halftime lead.

Rodrick Rhodes led Kentucky with 20 points, and Tony Delk added 16 as the Wildcats finished 29-for-76 (38.2 percent). Delk, who was making 41.1 percent of his 3-point attempts, hit only two of 13. Kentucky made only 10 of 40.

Rhodes hit two 3s and completed a three-point play during a 12-0 run that gave Kentucky a 56-48 lead. But Rhodes turned to goaltending uncharacteristically. The Wildcats recorded a 62-59 triumph to snap a 60-game road winning streak. The Wildcats, playing their first game since coach Ricky Byrd’s resignation, won.

In Rupp Arena went it took a 105-88 win on Jan. 25, 1992. It wasn’t as easy this time.

Rodrick Rhodes completed a three-point play and made three of four free throws in the next two minutes as Kentucky was firmly in control of the game behind Michigan. Indiana in the Big Ten, one

But Rhodes turned to goat

Thurman's 8-footer with 4:51

It wasn’t as easy this time.

Rodrick Rhodes led Arkansas with 26

The Boilermakers then pulled

The victory moved Arkansas to 23rd straight loss in

Rodrick Rhodes led Kentucky with 20 points, and Tony Delk added 16 as the Wildcats finished 29-for-76 (38.2 percent). Delk, who was making 41.1 percent of his 3-point attempts, hit only two of 13. Kentucky made only 10 of 40.

Rhodes hit two 3s and completed a three-point play during a 12-0 run that gave Kentucky a 56-48 lead. But Rhodes turned to goaltending uncharacteristically. The Wildcats recorded a 62-59 triumph to snap a 60-game road winning streak. The Wildcats, playing their first game since coach Ricky Byrd’s resignation, won.

In Rupp Arena went it took a 105-88 win on Jan. 25, 1992. It wasn’t as easy this time.

Rodrick Rhodes completed a three-point play and made three of four free throws in the next two minutes as Kentucky was firmly in control of the game behind Michigan. Indiana in the Big Ten, one

But Rhodes turned to goat

Thurman's 8-footer with 4:51

It wasn’t as easy this time.

Rodrick Rhodes led Arkansas with 26

The Boilermakers then pulled

The victory moved Arkansas to 23rd straight loss in

Rodrick Rhodes led Kentucky with 20 points, and Tony Delk added 16 as the Wildcats finished 29-for-76 (38.2 percent). Delk, who was making 41.1 percent of his 3-point attempts, hit only two of 13. Kentucky made only 10 of 40.

Rhodes hit two 3s and completed a three-point play during a 12-0 run that gave Kentucky a 56-48 lead. But Rhodes turned to goaltending uncharacteristically. The Wildcats recorded a 62-59 triumph to snap a 60-game road winning streak. The Wildcats, playing their first game since coach Ricky Byrd’s resignation, won.

In Rupp Arena went it took a 105-88 win on Jan. 25, 1992. It wasn’t as easy this time.

Rodrick Rhodes completed a three-point play and made three of four free throws in the next two minutes as Kentucky was firmly in control of the game behind Michigan. Indiana in the Big Ten, one

But Rhodes turned to goat

Thurman's 8-footer with 4:51

It wasn’t as easy this time.
By WILLIAM KATES

SYRACUSE, N.Y. For the 10th straight season, more fans will see Syracuse play basketball at home than any other NCAA team. But for the fourth straight season, average attendance will be down at the Carrier Dome.

School officials say upstate New York’s economic slump in the last several years, including the dimming of local basketball, is the chief reason for the falloff.

The increased availability of college basketball and other sports, on television was cited as a factor by many who did not renew their season tickets, according to surveys by Syracuse officials.

Syracuse attendance slump continued from page 24

Mary Beth Schueth during the 1981-82 season. Morgan is looking to be the first player since Schueth and only the third player ever to lead the Irish in scoring in her first year. She already ranks second in the ACC this year in that category.

Junior forward Letitia Bowen will be looked upon to continue pulling rebounds for the Irish.

Bowen’s team high 7 rebounds in the Loyola game gave her 646 on her career, making her only the third junior in school history to eclipse the 600 mark, and putting her sixth on the all-time list.

The Irish are playing very well as a team, with the bench a contributing factor to the team’s success.

Freshman center Katryna Gaither scored 12 points and grabbed 6 rebounds in only 17 minutes in the Loyola game, and Carey Poor poured in 8 points in 15 minutes.

In the first half of the Loyola game, the bench scored half of the 32 Irish points.

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports

Friday, February 11
Syracuse Men’s Tennis vs. Ohio State
3:15 pm

Eck Pavilion

Notre Dame Women’s Tennis vs. Kansas
7:30 pm

Eck Pavilion

Saturday, February 12
Notre Dame Hockey vs. Western Michigan
7:00 pm

JACC Fieldhouse

SPORTS BRIEFS

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports Let’s Go Irish!

The Observer • SPORTS

Thursday, February 10, 1994

The increased availability of college basketball and other sports, on television was cited as a factor by many who did not renew their season tickets, according to surveys by Syracuse officials.

Syracuse has ranked first nation­ally in home attendance since 1983-84, when it took the honor from Kentucky, which has been the perennial No. 2 at the Dome ever since.

The increased availability of college basketball and other sports, on television was cited as a factor by many who did not renew their season tickets, according to surveys by Syracuse officials.

Syracuse attendance slump continued from page 24

Mary Beth Schueth during the 1981-82 season. Morgan is looking to be the first player since Schueth and only the third player ever to lead the Irish in scoring in her first year. She already ranks second in the ACC this year in that category.

Junior forward Letitia Bowen will be looked upon to continue pulling rebounds for the Irish.

Bowen’s team high 7 rebounds in the Loyola game gave her 646 on her career, making her only the third junior in school history to eclipse the 600 mark, and putting her sixth on the all-time list.

The Irish are playing very well as a team, with the bench a contributing factor to the team’s success.

Freshman center Katryna Gaither scored 12 points and grabbed 6 rebounds in only 17 minutes in the Loyola game, and Carey Poor poured in 8 points in 15 minutes.

In the first half of the Loyola game, the bench scored half of the 32 Irish points.

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports Let’s Go Irish!

Friday, February 11
Syracuse Men’s Tennis vs. Ohio State
3:15 pm

Eck Pavilion

Notre Dame Women’s Tennis vs. Kansas
7:30 pm

Eck Pavilion

Saturday, February 12
Notre Dame Hockey vs. Western Michigan
7:00 pm

JACC Fieldhouse

SPORTS BRIEFS

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports Let’s Go Irish!

Friday, February 11
Syracuse Men’s Tennis vs. Ohio State
3:15 pm

Eck Pavilion

Notre Dame Women’s Tennis vs. Kansas
7:30 pm

Eck Pavilion

Saturday, February 12
Notre Dame Hockey vs. Western Michigan
7:00 pm

JACC Fieldhouse

SPORTS BRIEFS

This Weekend in Notre Dame Sports Let’s Go Irish!

Friday, February 11
Syracuse Men’s Tennis vs. Ohio State
3:15 pm

Eck Pavilion

Notre Dame Women’s Tennis vs. Kansas
7:30 pm

Eck Pavilion

Saturday, February 12
Notre Dame Hockey vs. Western Michigan
7:00 pm

JACC Fieldhouse
Thursday, February 10, 1994

SPELUNKER JAY HOSLER

CALVIN AND HOBBES BILL WATTERSON

TO REACH A'S DIRE, 'M JUST A WIT... A' Bug's Life to TEST, "It's not necessarily any connection between math, soccer and what's popular. I do what's right, not what's hot. Getz, ya know."

THAT'S BECAUSE THERE'S NOT NECESSARILY ANY CONNECTION BETWEEN MATH, SOCCER AND WHAT'S POPULAR. I DO WHAT'S RIGHT, NOT WHAT'S HOT. GETS ARIKAM.

IF SOMEONE ELSE OFFERS TO DO IT, LET ME KNOW.

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

DANCE OF THE PRANCING HAIGHTS

CROSSWORD ACROSS
1 Ace depository
2 Peter Lorre typecast
3 In no hurry to buy
4 Insensitive
5 Table spread
6 Humiliate
7 Peter Lorre
8 In no hurry to buy
9 Expensive
10 Table spread
11 Humiliate
12 Twice-fold
13 Fairy tale kid
14 Typecast
15 In no hurry to buy
16 Mosaic piece
17 Humiliate
18 Twice-fold
19 Fairy tale kid
20 Typecast
21 Fairy tale kid
22 Mosaic piece
23 Fairy tale kid
24 Typecast
25 Fairy tale kid
26 Mosaic piece
27 Fairy tale kid
28 Mosaic piece
29 Fairy tale kid
30 Mosaic piece
31 Fairy tale kid
32 Mosaic piece
33 Fairy tale kid
34 Mosaic piece
35 Fairy tale kid
36 Mosaic piece
37 Blame Mother
38 Heavy bundles
39 Blame Mother
40 Inexpensive
41 Heavy bundles
42 Blame Mother
43 Inexpensive
44 Heavy bundles
45 Blame Mother
46 Heavy bundles
47 Blame Mother
48 Heavy bundles
49 Blame Mother
50 Blame Mother
51 Blame Mother
52 Blame Mother
53 Blame Mother
54 Blame Mother
55 Blame Mother
56 Blame Mother
57 Blame Mother
58 Blame Mother
59 Blame Mother
60 Blame Mother

CROSSWORD DOWN
1 Makes confetti
2 Company trademark
3 Prefix with glottis or gram
4 Pinot Chardonnay
5 Pinot Chardonnay
6 Downstairs: Fr.
7 For beginners
8 Inexpensive
9 Inexpensive
10 Inexpensive
11 For beginners
12 Inexpensive
13 For beginners
14 For beginners
15 For beginners
16 For beginners
17 For beginners
18 For beginners
19 For beginners
20 For beginners
21 For beginners
22 For beginners
23 For beginners
24 For beginners
25 For beginners
26 For beginners
27 For beginners
28 For beginners
29 For beginners
30 For beginners
31 For beginners
32 For beginners
33 For beginners
34 For beginners
35 For beginners
36 For beginners
37 For beginners
38 For beginners
39 For beginners
40 For beginners
41 For beginners
42 For beginners
43 For beginners
44 For beginners
45 For beginners
46 For beginners
47 For beginners
48 For beginners
49 For beginners
50 For beginners
51 For beginners
52 For beginners
53 For beginners
54 For beginners
55 For beginners
56 For beginners
57 For beginners
58 For beginners
59 For beginners
60 For beginners

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

LAMEST THREATS WASHED SAUCERS BADGER RANAWAY DENSE PEARS EAT INSECT SOOTY PEFY MUPPET TOP MUCKLEDA MILT BANAN DICE DODGE TURCOE SENSE NEEDS

Puzzle by A.J. Swales

1. Not discounted
2. Not discounted
3. Not discounted
4. Not discounted
5. Not discounted
6. Not discounted
7. Not discounted
8. Not discounted
9. Not discounted
10. Not discounted
11. Not discounted
12. Not discounted
13. Not discounted
14. Not discounted
15. Not discounted
16. Not discounted
17. Not discounted
18. Not discounted
19. Not discounted
20. Not discounted
21. Not discounted
22. Not discounted
23. Not discounted
24. Not discounted
25. Not discounted
26. Not discounted
27. Not discounted
28. Not discounted
29. Not discounted
30. Not discounted
31. Not discounted
32. Not discounted
33. Not discounted
34. Not discounted
35. Not discounted
36. Not discounted
37. Not discounted
38. Not discounted
39. Not discounted
40. Not discounted
41. Not discounted
42. Not discounted
43. Not discounted
44. Not discounted
45. Not discounted
46. Not discounted
47. Not discounted
48. Not discounted
49. Not discounted
50. Not discounted
51. Not discounted
52. Not discounted
53. Not discounted
54. Not discounted
55. Not discounted
56. Not discounted
57. Not discounted
58. Not discounted
59. Not discounted
60. Not discounted

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 ($75 each minute).

OF INTEREST

-Dave Kelleit

"Well, as usual, there goes Princess Luwana — always the center of attention, ... You know, underneath that outer wrap, she’s held together with duct tape."

DINING HALL

Notre Dame
Southern Fried Chikka
Chicken Arropeus
Broccoli-Cheese Rice Casserole

Saint Mary's for menu information, call 284-4900

Life's too short.
STOP THE HATE.

Leadership Conference Education Fund, Inc. 877-0000

Acoustic Cafe
Featuring:
Bill Racine
And
George and The Freeks
Free Coffee!

Winterfest '94
Thurs. Feb. 10
Interdorm Snow Sculpting Contest
Fri. Feb. 11
All-night Movies Beginning at 9pm
LaFortune Ballroom

Sophomore Literary Festival
February 13-17
Hesburgh Library Auditorium
7:30pm
Reception to follow.
Call SUB for details: 1-6171
Women's basketball looking for revenge at Butler

By Dylan Barmmer
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's basketball team will be in Indianapolis tonight to take on the Butler University Bulldogs in a Midwestern Conference matchup. The Irish, who are riding a three-game winning streak, are coming off an emotional 81-66 comeback defeat of the Loyola Ramblers Saturday night in Chicago.

In that game, five Irish players finished in double figures in scoring, with freshman guard Beth Morgan leading the way with a team high 23 points, 19 of which came in the second half of play.

The Irish, who are 14-5 overall and 5-1 in the MCC, will be opposed by a 11-8 Butler team, which, at 4-2 in the MCC, would move into a tie for first place in the conference with a win over the front-running Irish. The Bulldogs have won five of their last six games, and would like nothing better than to knock off the Irish.

In order to stop the surging Bulldogs, the Irish will have to contain guard Arminne Amstrong, who leads the team with 12.6 points per game. Leslie Schulte is also a tough player for Butler, scoring 11.7 points per game, and leading the team with 6.3 rebounds per game. Point guard Jami Sloan is a third key player, scoring just over 10 points while averaging 5.2 assists. Beating Butler has proven a tough test for the Irish over the past few seasons. Although they lead the series 13-6, the Irish have lost the past three meetings between the two schools, including a 65-62 loss at home on January 22, their last loss and only conference defeat of the season.

In order to post their first win at Butler's Hinkle Fieldhouse in three years, the Irish will have to continue to score points. Notre Dame remains on top the MCC in scoring offense, averaging 75.6 points per game, including back to back 90+ point games.

The Irish defense has also performed well this season, holding opponents to an MCC second-best 64.8 points per game. Individually, the Irish will expect a big game from Beth Morgan. Such expectations have been warranted by continually fine play from the freshman guard, who leads the team in scoring with her 16.7 point per game average. The last Notre Dame freshman to lead the team in scoring was Sarah Lillehammer '94.

Senior point guard Kara Leary will direct the Irish offense as Notre Dame travels to Butler seeking revenge for a loss earlier this season.

Second half rally not enough for SMC win

By ANNE NAPIERKOWSKI
Sports Writer

In an attempt to break their four game losing streak, the Belles fell again last night in a battle against Calvin College, 72-58.

While the Belles showed a strong finish in the game, they could not overcome the first half's disappointing performance.

In the first five minutes of the game, Calvin took control, sinking nine consecutive baskets before the Belles could break into the double digits.

"We were moving the ball poorly and we weren't interpreting their defense well," said freshman guard Sarah Kopperud.

"We needed to change our offense to match their game plan," Saint Mary's weak offense led them to only 14 points in the first half compared to Calvin's 40.

But the 26 point deficit did not preoccupy the Belles.

"We were pretty down at halftime, but we figured we had nothing to lose," said guard Colleen Andrews. "We came back out and played our own game as a team.

"The team is credited with a tough second half battle in an attempt to upset the number one ranked team in their district.

"We knew we had to play more like a team," forward Kasi Lalli said. "We knew that we were a better team than the one we were playing like.

With a re-evaluation of their game plan, the Belles went into the second half intense and focused.

After six minutes of back and forth scoring, the Belles exploded with a 14 point run, holding Calvin at 62.

"We started getting complacent," said Calvin head coach Greg Alsum.

"But I commend the Belles. They adjusted well to our zone and they started making some good shots," said Alsum.

"The good shots, however, were too little too late for the Belles." While they held Calvin at 72 for the last three minutes of the game, they did not have the time to come up with a win.

"When you're a young and inexperienced team it shows, especially when you play against a talented team like Calvin," explained coach Marvin Wood. "But the last half we showed what we were made of." Despite shooting 37 percent, the Belles feel good about their second half rally.

"If you look at the second half score, we beat Calvin," said Kopperud.

It showed us our potential and has inspired us for the upcoming game.

The Belles are hoping to even out their 5-12 record with their remaining games.

Days Away
The anticipation has reached its peak as the Winter Olympics will begin on Saturday.

Lillehammer '94

Lillehammer '94

Little known hero
The veteran Ken Williams has come off the bench to score a career high 25 points for the Pacers.

Razorbacks Shine
Nolan Richardson's Razorbacks have gobbled Kentucky on its home floor to keep its No. 3 rank.

HOOPS page 22

Men's Volleyball hosts Tri-State

By G.R. NELSON
Sports Writer

The men's volleyball team faces Tri-State University tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Thunderpit in the Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center.

The Irish (5-0) hope to rebound from a disappointing showing at a tournament at the University of Michigan.

They also know that it will not be easy. These two teams met on January 19, with the Irish winning the fifth and deciding game 19-17.

"Both teams have improved significantly," said Irish captain Brian Ceponis. "I expect the game to be a battle."

Ceponis cites Tri-State's outstanding defense as the primary area of concern for the Irish attack. "They are very scrappy, which leads to a strong defense," added Ceponis.

Because of Tri-State's scrappy defense, the undefeated Irish will need to take advantage of every opportunity presented to them. To do this, they need a quality performance from junior setter Chris Fry.

"I need to distribute the ball effectively early," said Fry. "And then get the ball to the hot man.

"Last time these teams met, outside hitter Matt Strottman was the hot man. Strottman single-handedly kept the Irish in the match after the team fell behind two games to none. This time, Strottman needs more support.

"We need more of a team contribution," said Strottman. "We need to develop the middle, contain their outside attack, and play strong on defense.

Establishing the middle most likely will be the key. As Tri-State's weakest link is its middle. On the other hand, Notre Dame, especially with a healthy Ceponis, possesses a powerful middle.

If Ceponis and company can take control of the middle, Strottman and fellow outside hitter Tom Kovats should have ample opportunities on the outside. All in all, this should be the team's toughest test at home to date.

This is an important game for several reasons. Notre Dame is finally playing a tough opponent in a much play situation. Moreover, they are playing at home with a healthy team.

They need an impressive win to regain some of their confidence. With a tournament this weekend at the University of Kentucky, the Irish need a strong showing just so they can enjoy their road trip.

With all this on the line, excitement is rampant. "It is going to be a rumble," said enthusiastic freshman Mike Irvine. "But it's in our jungle."

Inside SPORTS

see HOOPS page 22

photo credit: Kyle Kusek

photo credit: Kelly sculptures the Notre Dame Fighting Irish's John Vanderventer in the Thunderpit as the Irish men's volleyball team prepares for Tri-State.