$Cruade for cartridges continues on campuses

By EDWARD IMBUS

What do you want to do after college? What do you want to pursue in your life — what are your goals?
Those questions, though highly individualistic, are the questions that Career and Placement Services helps students answer by giving them the knowledge needed to find the career that suits them best.

The three specific goals of the career, according to Kitty Arnold, its director, is to teach students the process of looking for the career that suits them best.

During the junior year, students begin to receive mail from "Career Placement," as it is commonly called, introducing the office and inviting them on workshops. The workshops focus on topics of usual interest to juniors, such as finding internships and interviewing techniques.

Career-Placement then encourages students to buy an IBM Personal Program career planning Resume Expert Plus, a program designed to make a individual and unique resume for its user. Resume Expert is slightly different from Ferraro said, in that it also asks its user to give for national information, which Career Placement uploads for the student to the national data bank for company recruiters to view.

When a student's senior year begins, the opportunities Career Placement Services offers increase immensely. More workshops and seminars geared toward seniors, but open to all students, are offered on subjects from resume writing and interviewing to securing jobs beyond on-campus interviews and looking for employment electronically on computers.

At the beginning of the year, seniors are able to register with Career Placement for on-campus interviews for $20. That money, according to Arnold, in addition to funds provided by the University, is used to pay for photocopying costs and to develop a periodical called "Job Choices," magazine offering information about the job market and ways to take advantage of it, for all registered students.

Vocationally specific majors, such as engineering and accounting, receive the bulk of on-campus interviews since

True compassion requires suffering

By ALYSSA MONDELLI

Compassion requires energy, courage, perseverance, and a ferocious, self-transcendent love and to be compassionate,

"Compassion is the quintessential, defining mark of a leader," Ferraro said. "However, compassion requires suffering.

"Suffering is a means to stand by them in their need," Ferraro said.

"What does it feel like to stand? What have you stood for?" she asked. "Who have you stood with? How does it feel to take a stand?"

Compassion, Ferraro said, requires one to take a stand. To show compassion for someone means to stand by them and share their suffering.

"People are not naturally inclined toward compassion because we don't want to suffer," Ferraro said. "However, since Jesus took on the suffering of others as the quintessential act of redemption, we as Christians must be willing to share others' suffering as well."

Ferraro also discussed the five dimensions of compassion, as defined by author Wendy Farley.

According to Farley, compassion requires sympathetic knowledge, or the ability to identify with what is happening to someone's life; a uncompromising stance in the world; the ability to engage unjust systems and structures; and power, which we can achieve.

Benevolent glancing was another technique Ferraro used in her lecture to involve her audience. A Buddhist way of seeking truth, benevolent glancing means paying attention to the person directly in front of you and looking for good in that person.

On the question of a suffering God, Ferraro's answer was complex. According to the Baltimore Catechism and the recently updated catechism, God cannot suffer because it would diminish his all-powerful role.

Ferraro also pointed out that compassion is generally seen as a female trait, and is considered in some cultures part of women's role in society.

Compassion is also pernicious, Ferraro because there is risk involved in taking a stand. However, it is the role and responsibility of Christians to embody Christ, who embodied compassion.

With their deep respect for the individual at the core of their philosophy, Freedman, who is also the Executive Assistant to the President of the Bricklayer's Association of America, explained that members of Social Democrats, USA, believe that "ordinary people should have a say about their lives, the life of the country and the social issues that surround us."

As the successors to the socialist party Eugene Debs, Norman Thomas, A. Philip Randolph and Bayard Rustin, the members of Social Democrats, USA, recognize the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations (AFL-CIO) as the most integrated mass institution in the United States because it brings together working people of all races, creeds and colors.

The first stage of the group's history began with the work of Randolph and Rustin to end segregation of the South, which eventually led to the historic Civil Rights March in Washington, D.C., in March, 1963.

The ability of "the powerless" to overtake the "powerful" occurred again in 1981 during the second stage when the Social Democrats supported a shipyard electricians in Gdansk, Poland in the crackdown of the Polish government.

Today, Lech Wałensa, the former electrician, is better known as President of Poland, and the idea of solidarity continues to thrive.

As Social Democrats, USA, enters its third stage, it is faced with challenges which contribute to what Freedman calls a "dormant era."

"Ordinary people are passing through a dormant era in the power of Social Democrats, USA," Freedman said.

The passing of NAFTA last year infuriated Social Democrats mainly because they oppose the idea of the United States working with a country (Mexico) which does not practice what Freedman calls "real democracy."

The fundamental problem, however, will not be solved until the Mexican government continues to work at achieving a true democracy.

Although Freedman was enthusiastic and supportive of his group, he understands that not all citizens will fully support Social Democrats, USA. However, he encouraged his audience to find an ideology or principle that they do believe in and live that principle daily.

"People who want to have a say in their lives have the right to speak on their behalf, will get that right," he said.

"But it's up to us, as Social Democrats, to take them on and do what we can."

"Promoting the powerlessness over the powerful" By JESSICA ZIGMOND

Group focuses on individuals

By MAUREEN KOBZA

This event is open to students of all majors at Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students.

SMC student Melissa Hawkins receives information yesterday at Saint Mary's Nursing Career Day held in LeMare Hall. Notre Dame has also offered similar programs to assist students in job placement.

see CAREER page 4

The Observer Tracey Wagner

Promoting the powerlessness over the powerful By JESSICA ZIGMOND

During a time when few Americans are familiar with the concept of "solidarity," Freedman, who spoke at St. Mary's and Notre Dame students.

see CAREER page 4

SMC hosts career showcase

By MAUREEN KOBZA

Over thirty representatives of organizations and alumnae will be providing information about graduate school, volunteering, internships and full time work opportunities in selected careers at the Showcase of Careers today in LeMare Hall lobby from 3-5 pm.
Carpe Diem... They're numbered

While tests, papers, parties, and football games seem to be the most integral part of campus life for Saint Mary's and Notre Dame, there is more to both these places. An important aspect, that tends to be ignored by students just trying to get through the day to day routine, is taking advantage of the numerous non-academic, non-athletic activities offered around town.

Leading scientists, poets, authors, musicians, comedians, and activists in the forefront of their fields make themselves available to students on a regular basis.

Not only is listening to these speakers a significant way to expand your horizons, it is also a great way to learn about living life. These activities can also be a great study break in the midst of a hectic semester.

Of course it never happened quite that often in the past, and although we have not tested on the material, it seems to have added significantly to my "liberal arts education." I learned something from every activity that I participated in, and although I was not tested on the material, it seems to have added significantly to my "liberal arts education." I learned something from every activity that I participated in...

---

Elizabeth Regan
Saint Mary's Editor

Rubber duckies spilled overboard, aid oceanographers

SAN FRANCISCO

In this age of computers, lasers and orbiting satellites, scientists tend to be lost in a sea of data. But if you take a look under the deck of a British-owned freighter carrying the cargo on its deck, you'll find a storm. So far, 400 of the bobbing toys have been found along 500 miles of Alaskan shoreline.

"They can often cost the sponsors a pretty penny, but they are learning a great deal," said Charles S. Robb, president of the American Geophysical Union, by Ebbsmeeyer, a consultant company in Seattle.

"These activities can also be a great way to learn about life," he said. "Don't forget, the Indigo Girls are coming..."

Michael Fay, the teen-ager flung in Singapore for vagrancy, has filed a suit for a breathing disorder because of his rubber duck snuffing habit, his stepmother said Wednesday. Jan Fay said her 19-year-old stepson was admitted to the Hazelden clinic after she and her father, George Fay, learned he had been inhaling the gas. Fay told her he was inhaling rubber duckies to escape butane-based alcohol alternatives. Present evidence that he was the chooser of the rubber duckies is that I was somehow seeking an assignment other than combat duty or that my combat record was somehow unworthy," Robb said. It isn't everyday that such famous speakers are brought to the campuses by students, we saw a comedian, we saw a speaker, and we even saw art exhibits at the Penascosa clinic. Barrett's wife, June, was wounded in the shooting. Vinson said he granted the prosecutors motion to disallow Hill's justifiable homicide defense because Hill had been found guilty of manslaughter in the death of a man in 1973.

Artifact Hill denied justifiable homicide defense

PENASCOSA

A federal judge ruled Wednesday that a man accused of killing an abortion doctor and his escort cannot claim justifiable homicide as a defense. But U.S. District Judge Roger Vinson said he could change his mind if Paul Saint Mary's Editor

"They are learning a lot from rubber duckies. Some 29,000 rubber ducks, turtles and other bath tub toys spilled overboard 10 months ago, the North Pacific where a freighter carrying the cargo on its deck, was hit by a storm. So far, 400 of the bobbing toys have been found along 500 miles of Alaskan shoreline, and that is keeping researchers trace wind and ocean currents. "This is serious science," said Curtis Ebbsmeeyer, an oceanographer at Evans-Hamilton Inc., a consulting company in Seattle.

"They are learning a lot from rubber duckies. Some 29,000 rubber ducks, turtles and other bath tub toys spilled overboard 10 months ago, the North Pacific where a freighter carrying the cargo on its deck, was hit by a storm. So far, 400 of the bobbing toys have been found along 500 miles of Alaskan shoreline, and that is keeping researchers trace wind and ocean currents. "This is serious science," said Curtis Ebbsmeeyer, an oceanographer at Evans-Hamilton Inc., a consulting company in Seattle.

Artifact Hill denied justifiable homicide defense

"We are learning a lot from rubber duckies. Some 29,000 rubber ducks, turtles and other bath tub toys spilled overboard 10 months ago, the North Pacific where a freighter carrying the cargo on its deck, was hit by a storm. So far, 400 of the bobbing toys have been found along 500 miles of Alaskan shoreline, and that is keeping researchers trace wind and ocean currents. "This is serious science," said Curtis Ebbsmeeyer, an oceanographer at Evans-Hamilton Inc., a consulting company in Seattle.
Film has the power to open closed minds

By NICOLE NIELSEN

New Writer

Ron Nyswaner, Oscar-winning screenwriter of the movie Philadelphia, said his movie was meant to "bring people with prejudices into the theater, but not make them feel like fools." "The goal," said Nyswaner, "is to open their minds."

Nyswaner, through this relationship, tried to show that people with prejudices will not be completely converted, but their minds will gradually be opened.

In a discussion of the movie and its impact on society, Philadelphia received much criticism with regards to the realism of the positive treatment of the Tom Hanks character by his family. In response to this criticism, Nyswaner said that families of gay people are too often portrayed in a negative manner. "There are many people in America who love their gay children," Nyswaner said.

Nyswaner said that the movie has played a great role in changing social beliefs of society. "I told the audience about a gay man whose parents had not spoken to him in eight years, and after viewing Philadelphia, his parents called him. The movie has not only strengthened relationships in families with homosexual children, Nyswaner said that it has also improved self-confidence among homosexuals.

Responding to the incredible success of the movie, Nyswaner said, "I was not quite prepared for the place that it seems to have taken in culture."

CIA officers reprimanded

By ROBERT BURNS

WASHINGTON

Eleven senior CIA officers have been reprimanded for failing to push hard enough to uncover Aldrich Ames' spying for Moscow, but no agency officials will be demoted or fired, CIA Director R. James Woolsey said today.

In remarks to reporters at CIA headquarters in nearby Langley, Va., Woolsey named only one of the 11. He is Ted Price, head of the CIA's clandestine service, the elite core of American intelligence. The others' identities must remain secret, he said, because of their involvement in clandestine operations.

Woolsey said Ames' betrayal of U.S. intelligence secrets between 1985 and 1993 led to the deaths of one dozen U.S.-paid agents and the compromising of "approximately three dozen" U.S. clandestine operations, including double agent operations that Ames learned about by tapping into a CIA computer at headquarters.

"The consequences have been hurtful," Woolsey said. At the heart of the failure to unmask Ames, Woolsey said, was a "serious and sustained inattention" to signs — some "like a bright billboard" — of Ames' treachery.

Price and three other senior officers still on the CIA payroll have been issued letters of reprimand. They will not be given promotions or awards for two to five years, but Price will remain in his post, Woolsey said. "I find him a man of great ability," Woolsey said of Price.

Four senior officers were issued what Woolsey called more serious letters of reprimand which he said normally accompany requests for early retirement or outright dismissal. But three already have retired and the fourth is due to begin retirement.

CAMPUS BRIEF

Lu lecture cancelled

Friday's scheduled lecture by Li Lu, one of the central figures of China's 1989 democracy demonstrations in Beijing's Tiananmen Square, has been canceled. The lecture, which was to have taken place at 3 p.m. in the Hesburgh Center is expected to be rescheduled for a later date.

Lu, one of two deputies to the head of the student demonstrations in Tiananmen Square, became a symbol of their cause in his role as official press spokesman for the Democratic Reform Movement. He escaped the massacre that ended the Tiananmen demonstrations — and which, he maintains, resulted in thousands of deaths — and made his way to the U.S., where he is now a law student and MBA candidate at

YOUTH IN ASIA

Tokyo $889*
Taipei $839*
Seoul $819*
Hong Kong $1049*
Bangkok $1499*
Kathmandu $1559*

Asia tours and flights from Chicago O'Hare. For most destinations, flights depart from Chicago on the Thursday before departure date. Additional flights available.

Council Travel

1513 N. Dearborn
Chicago, IL 60610
(312) 951-0585

Call for a FREE Student Travels magazine!
Assistant Sainr Mary’s Editor

services to the changing realiexampl of this occurred three vidual counseling, some drop-in page 4 The Observer

step by step approach with the Career Development Center, offered to all students is the our senior career manual to a students are the two functions of DePauw.

We

“Pathfinder,”

NEWS

4.75 GPA and up=$1,500 Scholarship
3.50 GPA and up=$1,000 Scholarship
Study and work grants based on need available.

Looking for a good exchange rate to study abroad next semester?

Syracuse University sponsors study abroad sites in:
Florence, Italy
London, England
Harare, Zimbabwe
Madrid, Spain
Strasbourg, France

E A B R

ược

2.75
Reg. $25
Reg. $55
Reg. $75
Reg. $50
Reg. $25

Unemployed can more readily plan their opportunities and positions, and can then send re-recruiters to Notre Dame to conduct the interviews.

By no means, however, should disourage students in other fields. According to Arnold, states that sometimes the jobs marketable and give them marketable facts of their major,

The best advice for such students, like those in liberal arts fields, is to make contacts with various companies for jobs that are interested in.

For other students, postgraduate volunteering or other service work is the most attractive.

Continued from page 1

continue with the student who buries her head in the sand like an ostrich freshman year only to bring it out four years later,” she continued.

The Career Resource Room is accessible Monday-Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday-
Wednesday evenings from 5:30 to 8:30. Computer use is on a first come-first serve basis unless students choose to make an appointment. Individual counseling is also available by appointment.

Career

The full text of this document is not available. However, it appears to discuss career services and planning at St. Mary's University, including the Alumnae Resource Network and the Career Development Center. The text mentions the importance of career planning, the services offered by the centers, and the benefits of seeking assistance early in one's academic career.
Fear paralyzing Rwandans

By ANGUS SHAW
Associated Press

KIGALI

The United Nations called off its program to return thousands of refugees to their homes in Rwanda on Wednesday, as U.N. investigators began looking into allegations of revenge killings by the new government's army.

Officials said they would also investigate how much the United Nations' own refugee agency helped create a new climate of fear in Rwanda.

The United Nations suspended convoys that were to have taken up to 4,000 refugees a day, mostly Hutus, from camps in southwest Rwanda back to their homes in other parts of the country. Officials said there were not enough people willing to go in the convoys.

"We had many indications people were waiting for transport and we thought we wouldn't be able to cope," said Maj. Jean-Guy Plante, the U.N. military spokesman in Kigali. "I think it comes from being scared."

The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees last week accused troops of Rwanda's new Tutsi-led government of carrying out reprisal killings against Hutus, the majority ethnic group in Rwanda. The accusation exacerbated fears in Rwanda, where 500,000 people — mostly minority Tutsis — were killed in ethnic massacres earlier this year.

Plante said 20 investigators would go to Rwanda to meet with U.N. human rights monitors about allegations that the Tutsi-led Rwandan Patriotic Force killed hundreds of Hutus after seizing power in July.

The RPF has denied the allegations and said it would cooperate with the investigators.

U.N. military commanders in Rwanda say they are skeptical that vengeance killings have gone beyond isolated incidents embellished by rumor.

"We're getting numerous reports of the same thing, every one different and you can bet the last one has 50 dead," said Maj. Robert Lidstone, a U.N. operations officer.

When Tutsi-led rebels seized power in July, more than a million Hutus fled to neighboring countries, fearing retribution for the massacres of Tutsis.

About 400,000 other Hutus took refuge in southwest Rwanda in a safe zone set up by French troops.

U.N. officials have tried to convince the refugees it is safe to return home. But they said this week that more refugees are once again leaving Rwanda than are going back.

An estimated 3,700 refugees have fled to Burundi, Rwanda's southern neighbor, since Monday, and U.N. officials and Western journalists reported a new exodus of Hutus heading west into Zaire.

With the recent onset of cold weather, many students had already been reminding about summer days when the air was warm and the realm of academics was momentarily left behind for summer jobs such as lifeguards, deli workers or espresso jockeys. Such was not the case for four Notre Dame students involved in an intensive summer medical program.

Brian Dewan, Elise Metzler and James Andert were among not one but two underclassmen college undergraduates to be selected from among the United States to participate in the Summer Medical and Research Training (SMART) Program at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

There were in all some 950 applicants for the program throughout the nation. Faculty of Baylor College served as mentors and supervisors for the program.

Dewan, who has participated in similar programs through the Research University of Texas, found the program to be especially worthwhile, giving him a good introduction to the medical profession. "I learned the most from the seminar lunches given by the Baylor professors."

These seminars covered a wide variety of areas, including molecular genetics and the responsibilities of a physician in patient care.

Metzler, a chemistry major from Columbia, Mo., noticed and advertisement for the program outside the Pre-Professional office. "It looked like a good opportunity. I learned a lot from the program, which involved lab oriented seminars as well as evening programs."

As a participant of the program, Metzler was able to volunteer at the Texas Children's Hospital where she spent her mornings with a pediatric neurologist. She planned to go to medical school after graduating from Notre Dame. "I'd really like to pursue a study area in neurology...I think that it's really something relevant to our future."

Andert was especially enthusiastic about the merits of the SMART program. In addition to meeting people from around the country, Andert appreciated that he was able to learn research techniques that he otherwise wouldn't have learned. I got a chance to see what a career in research involved."

Andert plans on investigating this area further before deciding whether or not it is something he would like to continue with after graduation. "Regardless," said Andert, "I've been exposed to what a research career involves."

Stephanie Carson, a senior English/Pre-Professional major, spent six weeks at Baylor involved in a separate program, the Honors Pre-Medical Academy. This program is designed to increase minority representation in medicine.

Interested in similar programs since she was a freshman, Carson decided to give it a go this summer, working with a pediatric neurologist.

She spent her mornings with Baylor physicians and took alician enrichment courses at Rice University in the afternoon, concentrating in biological sciences and communications.

"I got to see what medicine was really like in camps," said Carson. In addition to making rounds with the physican, Carson was also involved in meetings and many other responsibilities of a physician outside the operating room.

More than 375 African-American, Mexican-American, mainland Puerto Rican and Native American students applied for the 125 positions. Admission was based on academic achievement and interest in a medical career.

According to Dr. Demetris Pearson, program director of the Honors Pre-Medical Academy, participating students will continue to receive guidance through their medical school admissions process.
Hundred passengers die in sinking ferry

By MATTI HUHTANEN
Associated Press

TURKU

Rescuers fought rough seas and howling winds today to search for survivors of an Estonian ferry that capsized and sank with nearly 1,000 people aboard. More than 800 were missing and feared dead.

About 60 to 126 people had been rescued from the 54-degree water hours after the ferry Estonia sank overnight in the Baltic Sea, Swedish and Finnish authorities said. They said rescued workers found bodies, but declined to say how many. Earlier, officials said at least 160 had been rescued, but an official said he was made difficult by the number of rescue workers involved.

The sinking between Tallinn, Estonia, and the ship's destination, Stockholm, was one of the worst sea disasters in recent years.

Estonian authorities said the ferry's final radio message just after midnight was: "We are sinking! The engines have stopped!"

There was no immediate official explanation of what caused the 515-foot vessel to capsize. The Swedish news agency TT said two Swedish inspectors criticized the vessel's seaworthiness shortly before it set out from Tallinn on Tuesday night.

The man survivor, who identified himself as Henrik Sillaste, told The Associated Press he saw the ferry, through an open cargo door that he believed was defective. Sillaste, who said he was a ship's engineer from Estonia, said water quickly built up in the hull and caused the ship to list.

Raimo Tillikainen, a Finnish Coast Guard spokesman, said 946 people were on board - 776 passengers and 188 crew members. The total, based on a preliminary passenger list, was higher than authorities' initial report of 867 people on the ship.

Carl Gustaf Ankerheim, a spokesman for the ferry's owner, Ettlines, said 902 people were on board. He said only 60 survivors had been found.

Despite the conflicting numbers, the total number of deaths seemed certain to be around 800. Hopes for finding anyone else alive were dim because of the difficulty of surviving any longer than minutes in cold water.

"We saw about 40 life rafts. Unfortunately, most of them were empty," said Stefan Carneros, pilot of a Swedish rescue helicopter. He said waves in the area were up to 20 feet high.

The waves and winds topping 56 mph hindered rescue operations about 25 miles from the Finnish island of Uto off the southwestern coast.

More than 500 of the passengers reportedly were Swedes and at least 150 were Estonians. Among them were 52 elderly people from Nordkoping, a town in central Sweden.

Some news reports said the ship sank in five minutes, while others put the time at closer to 30 minutes.

"A vessel of this size should have no problem in these winds," maritime inspector Esa Rahtu said in the Finnish port of Turku, the base for rescue efforts.

Some officials speculated that trucks and cars on board may have broken loose in the storm and that their shifting weight caused the capsize. A spokesman for the ship's owners told Estonian radio that authorities believed both engines stopped simultaneously, leaving the ferry vulnerable to the wind and waves.

Ships and helicopters from Finland and Sweden were at the scene. Estonian authorities were sending rescue crews. At least five other passenger ferries hurried to the scene.

"I woke up as the ship was heavily tilted to the left," one of the survivors, Neeme Kukk, told radio station KUKU in Estonia.

Special needs: 3 poor parishes have requested men; 2 have requested bilingual (Spanish) persons; mature women needed to serve with homeless families.

``The mission of the Church is to evangelize.''
- Pope Paul VI

Cisneros' integrity questioned

By SONYA ROSS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros, who admit­ted that federal reviewers will find "I was forthright at every step" in explaining to the FBI his financial support for a for­mer girlfriend, said today he has no fear that any new information is there that hasn't been borne out.

Medlar's attorneys, Floyd Holder and Bruce Magnes, were in court in a hearing for a comment today.

Cisneros' attorney, Cono Namorato, declined to comment on Medlar's lawsuit but said Cisneros intends to cooperate fully with the Justice investiga­tion. Seagal Wheatley, Cisneros' lawyer in San Antonio, said Tuesday he is certain there is no new information that Cisneros mis­led FBI agents.

Medlar, a former political aide, who lives in Lubbock, Texas, is suing Cisneros for $256,000, claiming he retracted on an agreement to pay her $4,000 a month in compensa­tion for comment today.

By the Observer • NEWS

Thursday, September 29, 1994

Multicultural Fall Festival: October 2-7, 1994 sponsored by
Multicultural Council

Come and see the
BhARATA NATYAM
(INDIAN) DANCE TROUPE perform on Tues., Oct. 4 at 7:00 P.M. in the LaFortune Ballroom

The dance troupe is directed by Krithika Rajagopalan. Krithika has been an ardent student of Natyakabaliyam, a classical dance style of India, since the age of six. She performed by BAP Young Performers at "India Expo" '93 in Canada. She also performed in the Southeast Asian Arts Festival in Kuala Lumpur. She has been a member of cultural delegations to the old U.S.S.R. She has performed all over the world and everywhere she goes she has been a hit.

Press Comments:
Her performance was sheer magic, bringting with complicated foot work and a superb mime ... Morning Star, London
She took the audience by storm ... her lovely recital was marked by a sense of rhythm, clarity and expressiveness at its perfected level ... Chicago Tribune

Krithika danced her way into the hearts of art lovers ... the sculpturique poses some evidence of her depth of understanding of an ancient dance style ... Indian Express, Mumbai

Rhythm is her force and she revels in it. Each dance was fascinating and brought alive the ancient temple sculptures of India ... La Swiss, Geneva, Switzerland
By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Russian President Boris Yeltsin kept up the spirit of good will today, declaring, "We will never fight the United States." He and President Clinton mapped ways to guard Russia's nuclear material and to pump up the country's economy.

Several announcements were due today on improving nuclear storage facilities and training Russians to fend off nuclear smugglers. American investors, meanwhile, will be getting more protection of their capital, with the aim of doubling their stake in Russia's economy from $1 billion to $2 billion.

Russian Foreign Ministry spokesman Georgy Karasin emphasized Tuesday night that Russia and the United States had agreed to put an end to "from the times of Cold War to real practical partnership."

Before capping the two-day summit with a joint East Room news conference, Clinton and Yeltsin today toured a Library of Congress exhibit that highlights the early influence of the Russian church on Alaska.

"As we remember the ties between Russia and America of two centuries ago, let us welcome our new ties and new spirit of cooperation in the century of partnership that lies ahead," Clinton said.

In a booming voice, Yeltsin countered critics in his country who he said believe "an era of confrontation will return" between the United States and Russia. "I would like to tell you that we never fought the United States and I believe I can say as president of Russia that we will never fight the United States in the future."

"Instead, we will focus on building a world of decency and welfare," he said, drawing loud applause.

The war in Bosnia is one example of the growing coordination between the Clinton administration, which is pledged to lifting an arms embargo on the Muslim-led government, and Russia, which has historical ties to the Serbs.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher, summing up Monday more than two hours of talks between Clinton and Yeltsin, and parallel meetings among their senior advisers, said the United States would ask the U.N. Security Council around Nov. 1 to lift the embargo. And he said Russia would try to persuade Serbia to recognize Bosnia.

Christopher said Bosnian Prime Minister Haris Silajdzic came to him last Friday and suggested a six-month delay in the flow of arms.

In the interim, Christopher said, the United States hoped Bosnian Serbs would reverse their rejection of a peace plan to end the 2 1/2-year war in the former Yugoslav republic.

Karasin, briefing reporters separately, said Christopher, Russian Foreign Minister Andrei V. Kozyrev and the foreign ministers of Britain, France and Germany would meet in New York to work on a settlement. "The situation is more favorable for positive approaches," Karasin said.

The summit, the third full-day meeting and fifth overall in 20 months, was scripted to emphasize and accelerate Russia's conversion from communism to capitalism.

The administration pledged $525 million in financing and political risk insurance for investments in Russia, leading Commerce Secretary Ron Brown to say the meeting "can truly be called the trade and investment summit."

Additional agreements this week are expected to boost the investment total to $1 billion.

Clinton tried to persuade Yeltsin to stop sales of submarines, missile technology, arms and other equipment to Iran, which is accused by Washington of sponsoring terrorism.

Yeltsin resisted when Clinton raised the point in the past, but Christopher said "there's a resolution in sight on this very difficult issue." He said Clinton and Yeltsin would continue their discussion, but he declined to say how a compromise might be struck.

Karasin said he was not aware of any pending decision to restrict military sales to Iran, which have netted Moscow an estimated $1 billion.

"Our nations are growing closer together, replacing suspicion and fear with trust and cooperation," Clinton said, welcoming Yeltsin to the White House with a handshake and a hug.

The burly Russian president said they would prove skeptics wrong and make "great progress" in two days of discussions. "It is fair to say that the United States is a strong partner and not an easy one to deal with, just like Russia," he said.

In search of informality, Clinton and Yeltsin moved their talks from the Oval Office to an outdoor garden patio. Accompanied only by note-takers, they sat in wrough-iron chairs and talked for more than two hours across a glass-topped table. Defense and foreign ministers of the two countries met separately in the Cabinet and Roosevelt rooms.

Yeltsin wants cooperation not confrontation

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

PROBLEMS OF THE HEART

Heart disease continues to be a major cause of death, especially in the United States. Yet, progress has been made in our ability to effectively treat it, especially through better ways of performing open-heart surgery. Our ability to open-up the body and to keep the heart going has improved. Because of early diagnosis and proper treatment, those who have heart disease may be able to live, and live more freely.

There is a different kind of heart problem that is probably more prevalent than any other. It has been described as a hardness of heart. Symptoms include self-interested ambition, abuse of others, and ignoring people in need. This hardness of heart can usually recur throughout a person's life. It is often frustrating and, if left untreated, it is deadly. The one tried and true treatment for this problem of the heart is honesty, given often and in large doses. Honesty that is followed by a commitment to love others and self usually lead a person to live more freely.

It is easy for us to say that in order to live happy and generous lives we must be honest. It is difficult to truly be honest. Admitting that we have hurt somebody and actually saying "I'm sorry" is usually not done without some pain. There are various ways to be honest with ourselves and with others. It seems to me that all of them require concrete steps.

One concrete method which is offered by the Catholic Church is the sacrament of Penance and Confession.

The Catholic Church teaches that speaking honestly and actually saying "I'm sorry" to another person (in the Sacrament of Reconciliation this person is a priest) is essential for real healing and reconciliation to take place. The Catholic Church teaches that it is essential for us to hear the words "I forgive you" for real healing and reconciliation to take place.

This sacrament is not supposed to increase our guilt. This sacrament is not supposed to make us feel that we are absolutely no good.

It is the Faith of the Church that this sacrament is God's way of opening our hearts in order to heal them. It is God's way of removing the obstacles that cause our hearts to be so hard. It is God's way of allowing us to live more freely. It's God's way of helping us to be the kind of people we really want to be, the kind of people God is calling us to be. In short, we believe that God calls us to be responsible, happy, and generous.

For various reasons, many people celebrate the sacrament of Reconciliation here at Notre Dame. At the Basilica of the Sacred Heart, opportunities for confession and reconciliation are at 11:15 am and 5:00 pm Monday through Friday, and at 7:00 pm Monday through Thursday.

If you're like me, deep within your heart you realize that sometimes there are problems. If you're like me you realize that there is a difference between the way you are and the way you really want to be. Let us not leave these problems of the heart untreated. Let us accept God's invitation to live with happy and generous lives.

Bob Dowd, C.S.C.

TWOSEVENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Weekend Presiders at Sacred Heart Basilica

Sat. Oct. 1 5:00 p.m. Rev. Patrick Neary, C.S.C.
Sun. Oct. 2 8:00 a.m. Rev. George Wiskerschen, C.S.C.
10:00 a.m. Rev. E. William Beauchamp, C.S.C.
11:45 a.m. Rev. Richard A. Warner, C.S.C.

Scripture Readings for This Coming Sunday

1st Reading
Genesis 21:1-4

2nd Reading
Hebrews 2:9-11

Gospel
Mark 10:11-16
The Observer is the independent weekly student newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame to serve and be a voice for the students. The Observer is published every Thursday during the academic year.

A Course for life: Catholic Character 101

By M.J. Griffin

Another day is most important to each of us. However, it is a day about which we do not know much. That day is the day of our birth. The day of our birth was a gift to us, to our parents, to our family and friends, and a unique world was delivered in a plain looking envelope with a special note and significant enclosure.

As you remember your gifts, did those people who brought them come to mind? How would you describe your relationships with them? Are they family, friend or "just an acquaintance"?

Where do questions lead us? Most importantly, where do our questions lead?

What do words do for this reality, this experience within people? For people here.

Have you decided to take this class? It is self-paced. It is offered 24 hours a day. No PIN number is needed and all DART times work. If you take it on the side it will be as challenging as if you took it full time. The assignment is given as you register. Have you seen it?

Assignment for life: Choose one and live forever. Are you a Catholic character? Do you have a Catholic character? Are you becoming a Catholic character, or having character, or both?

Does your experience that lets you claim Catholic character have any impact on your day, that is your birthday, did it mean something to you?

Another day is most important to each of us. It is a day about which we do not know much. That day is the day of our birth. The day of our birth was a gift to us, to our parents, to our family and friends, and a unique world was delivered in a plain looking envelope with a special note and significant enclosure.

As you remember your gifts, did those people who brought them come to mind? How would you describe your relationships with them? Are they family, friend or "just an acquaintance"?

What does the present represent? Love? Times? Spirit there?

Service? Experience? Is God, is Jesus, is the experience? What is the truth of your experience for you? Who is part of your enclosure?

Where was that? What is the relation? Look around your day, that is your birthday, did it mean something to you?

We don't know the story of that day perfectly, but others have shared its significance with us. Their words have created a day about which we do not know much. That day is the day of our birth. The day of our birth was a gift to us, to our parents, to our family and friends, and a unique world was delivered in a plain looking envelope with a special note and significant enclosure.

As you remember your gifts, did those people who brought them come to mind? How would you describe your relationships with them? Are they family, friend or "just an acquaintance"?

Where do questions lead us? Most importantly, where do our questions lead?

What do words do for this reality, this experience within people? For people here.

Have you decided to take this class? It is self-paced. It is offered 24 hours a day. No PIN number is needed and all DART times work. If you take it on the side it will be as challenging as if you took it full time. The assignment is given as you register. Have you seen it?

Assignment for life: Choose one and live forever. Are you a Catholic character? Do you have a Catholic character? Are you becoming a Catholic character, or having character, or both?

Does your experience that lets you claim Catholic character have any impact on your day, that is your birthday, did it mean something to you?
'Guelwaar' examines conflicts in Senegal

By MARK ROSENBERG

The moving African film, "Guelwaar," which has been described in the New York Times as "beautifully observed human comedy," will be screened tonight at 7 p.m., Thursday, September 29, 1994, at the Student's Association for a donation of $1 or more.

"Guelwaar" was written and directed by Ousmane Sembene, the leading novelist and filmmaker in Senegal. Sembene’s films explore the conflicts between the Europeans and Africans in Senegal, an African nation which was a colony of France until 1960. The French attempted to assimilate the Africans into a French culture. While the country has been independent for years, the French influence has persisted and exists to some extent today. The plot of "Guelwaar" addresses the impact of this influence through a mix of political drama and farcical comedy. The riveting drama involves the death of Guelwaar, a Catholic who was strongly opposed to foreign aid for Senegal.

The comic element occurs when Guelwaar’s body is mistakenly buried in a Muslim cemetery. The ensuing complications and disputes over the body reveal some of the religious conflicts which define politics in Senegal.

While the political and social conflicts of a distant African republic may seem irrelevant to an American audience, African Student’s Association president Guillaume Zounalone feels that the film addresses a "problem that is universal all around the world.

Zounalone compares the situation in Senegal with the situation in Northern Ireland and hopes that the film has an important message for the Notre Dame community.

"By showing how Senegal, Catholics and Muslims cooperate, we hope to give a good example to other people," Zounalone said.

The film was produced in Senegal in 1992 and runs for 115 minutes. The film is in French, but does contain subtitles in English.

"Guelwaar" will be presented by the African Student’s Association for a donation of $1 or more.

Music Review

One Soup Dragons’ trip underwater

By ROB ADAMS

Tilting an album Hydrophonic suggests that for the best possible results, you should try listening to it underwater. Although I haven’t tried that yet, I just might in order to get the full effect; this is one heavy groove collection.

Originally formed in 1985 in Glasgow, Scotland, the Soup Dragons achieved absolute no status in the United States until their classic remake of the Rolling Stones’ “I’m Free,” and the Lovegod album crossed the Atlantic in late 1990.

By the same token, they had received very little acclaim in the UK until their third album. Unfortunately for the Soup Dragons, when that song hit, the Manchester Revolution was at its peak, and the Soup Dragons band was looked down upon by many British artists and critics for adapting the Manchester sound.

For an American comparison of the respect that they received, see the Stone Temple Pilots. Much like that San Diego band who suddenly sounded like they had grown up in the flannel-clad grunge capital, the Soup Dragons were selling more records and had more hits than many of the groups they were emulating, but it wasn’t enough.

In 1992, when they released Hotwired, their fourth album, they had branched out a bit after spending some time developing their own sound. Although it was fairly acclaimed, the only major hit this was the catchy "Divine Thing."

While apart from each other after almost a year of touring, Sean Dickson (lead singer and guitar player) was working on some new tunes for the next album. However, he was never able to leave the rest of the band because the other three members decided to leave.

"Their leaving made me feel hurt, upset, and angry and it considerably delayed the creative process," Dickson said. "With the new album already written, I carried on and recorded it recording with a new sense of freedom that I was fully able to explore."

As a result, although he kept the Soup Dragons name, this is essentially a Sean Dickson solo album. Aside from some fairly familiar songs by guest musicians including Bootsy Collins, Tina Turner and many others, the Soup Dragons name, this is essentially a Sean Dickson solo album.

Dickson continues many of the styles that made the Soup Dragons such a snappy, funky rock-n-roll band, but he has reduced the rest of the band because the other three members decided to leave.

"The noise and psychedelic sounds on this album are an astounding break-away from anything else the Soup Dragons have ever done. The guitar riffs are big and plentiful, the bass broods, and the background vocals are sold. With this Hydrophonic, maybe one Soup Dragon will finally get some respect.

Dickson’s gospel influences are apparent; many songs’ choruses are heightened by powerful female vocal arrangements. Thick guitar riffs are balanced by break drum beats, and DJ’s scratching provide a full range of background music.

A signature Soup Dragons three-chord riff dominates the first seconds of "The Force Be With You." The intensity then evapitates as Dickson delivers a fable in his usual second-person swagger. Coughs performed by Mickey Finn (formerly of T- Rex) complete the mix.

The groove is slightly slacker on "Contact High." Dickson’s vocals are put to the test as he spends time dealing with a strong echo chamber a cappella. Screatching high notes are reached by the guitar which explodes into a synthesizer-induced eruption of sound crystals. In the meantime, doo-wop style background vocals magnifies the song’s drama.

"If Junkie," is the song when everything comes together. Hydrophonic. A cycle of vicious guitar crunches cuts through a primitive tribal rhythm. Through the period of the music takes a trip into the idea of hydrophobia and all songs during actually merging into one harmonious result.

Quick, soulful picking at the guitar begins the laid-back trip which is "Black and Blues." Dickson’s vocals rise and fall according to the song’s melody, "Don’t ever call me name/Can you not tell my real name/"

Junkie," is the song when everything comes together. Hydrophonic. A cycle of vicious guitar crunches cuts through a primitive tribal rhythm. Through the period of the music takes a trip into the idea of hydrophobia and all songs during actually merging into one harmonious result.

Quick, soulful picking at the guitar begins the laid-back trip which is "Black and Blues." Dickson’s vocals rise and fall according to the song’s melody, "Don’t ever call me name/Can you not tell my real name/"

Junkie," is the song when everything comes together. Hydrophonic. A cycle of vicious guitar crunches cuts through a primitive tribal rhythm. Through the period of the music takes a trip into the idea of hydrophobia and all songs during actually merging into one harmonious result.

Quick, soulful picking at the guitar begins the laid-back trip which is "Black and Blues." Dickson’s vocals rise and fall according to the song’s melody, "Don’t ever call me name/Can you not tell my real name/"

Junkie," is the song when everything comes together. Hydrophonic. A cycle of vicious guitar crunches cuts through a primitive tribal rhythm. Through the period of the music takes a trip into the idea of hydrophobia and all songs during actually merging into one harmonious result.

Quick, soulful picking at the guitar begins the laid-back trip which is "Black and Blues." Dickson’s vocals rise and fall according to the song’s melody, "Don’t ever call me name/Can you not tell my real name/"

Junkie," is the song when everything comes together. Hydrophonic. A cycle of vicious guitar crunches cuts through a primitive tribal rhythm. Through the period of the music takes a trip into the idea of hydrophobia and all songs during actually merging into one harmonious result.

Quick, soulful picking at the guitar begins the laid-back trip which is "Black and Blues." Dickson’s vocals rise and fall according to the song’s melody, "Don’t ever call me name/Can you not tell my real name/"

Junkie," is the song when everything comes together. Hydrophonic. A cycle of vicious guitar crunches cuts through a primitive tribal rhythm. Through the period of the music takes a trip into the idea of hydrophobia and all songs during actually merging into one harmonious result.
NOTICE

HISTORIOGRAPHY:
The Notre Dame-South Bend Service Project will be holding a kickoff party on a weekend in late September to prepare for the year's work.

HELP WANTED:
On campus, the Student Career Organizer and Carriers NEEDED. Contact the Student Career Center, 315 LaFortune. 273-8203.

PIZZA MAKER - PART TIME
Easy Cordially, Good Money. CASINO/CASINO'S OF NEW YORK.

CLASSIFIEDS

FEMALE MODELS 16-20 needed for photographer for photoshoot in South Bend. Call Jan at 273-7074 for info.

HELP! Need bass player for our rock band. We're looking for a band that is dedicated and serious about music. Call Julie at 273-0192 if interested.

THE HOMESPUN COUNTRY INN, NAPPANEE, INDIANA. BED & BREAKFAST. 36 Min. to SOUTH BEND. Need 2-3 more to work.

HELP! We need help with painting a small pony wall at the Notre Dame Student Center. Call 273-0192. We're open 9am-5pm Monday through Friday.

THE PROPINQUA PATH BED & BREAKFAST - Historic Home, quiet setting, great breakfast. 4 rooms, 25 minutes to campus.

Parents, please read our new policies. Come home, walk in, relax.

ROOM FOR RENT, 601 STANFORD DRIVE, 291-9500.

Looking for apartment rental info? Call 255-1190.

BEA BROADCASTING, PRIVATE RESIDENCE, NEW YORK TIMES.
219-251-7153

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN A MARATHON? CALL 287-1528.

1 & 2 BEDROOM HOMES FOR RENT AT NOTRE DAME PROPERTIES. 273-6200.

DO YOU NEED A HOME FOR THIS WEEKEND? RELAX IN ONE OF THE CHARMING Roommate's needed! Apply soon! 273-2919.

Are you interested in joining a double room at the signature Inn for this coming Friday and Saturday night? See YOU at 8pm.

FOR SALE

SND CLASS RING PETITE WOJDMOK 10k gold - $101. 674-4161.

HELP WANTED:
On campus, we need help with the parking lot. Contact the Student Career Center, 315 LaFortune. 273-8203.

TO SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION GOOD CONDITION. 3300 sq ft. 29812-29813.

HELP WANTED:
ON CAMPUS OR CARPENTER/ORGANIZER NEEDED. Contact the Student Career Center, 315 LaFortune. 273-8203.

ANNOUNCING A NEW WEEK! "We're OPEN! Early Cordially, Good Money. CASINO/CASINO'S OF NEW YORK.

FOR SALE

I have 2 Navy GAs for 2 GA's. Call Chris at 229-0767.

NEED NAVY GA'S. PLEASE CALL 278-1200 for more information.

NEED NAVY GA'S. PLEASE CALL 278-1200 for more information.

I have 2 Navy GAs for 2 GA's. Call Chris at 229-0767.

I need 3 GA's. Call Ed at 249-3200.

HELP! A 6th grader needs help with my algebra class. Call 249-3200.

I have 2 Navy GAs for 2 GA's. Call Chris at 229-0767.

I need 3 GA's. Call Ed at 249-3200.

SOMEONE IS NOW HIRING!

HISTORIC HOME, quiet setting, easy cordially, good money. CASINO/CASINO'S OF NEW YORK.

HELP WANTED:
ON CAMPUS OR CARPENTER/ORGANIZER NEEDED. Contact the Student Career Center, 315 LaFortune. 273-8203.

TO SELL AT PUBLIC AUCTION GOOD CONDITION. 3300 sq ft. 29812-29813.
BASKETBALL

Legends tainted by gambling

By H.L. BOCK
Associated Press

NEW YORK
They came from the sidewalks of New York, from Brooklyn, Manhattan and Queens, assembles by Nat Holman, one of the early geniuses of the game, recruited to play college basketball at City College.

They were a melting pot, a group of poor kids, some black, some white, united by their passion for basketball. Together, they became champions.

On Wednesday, a generation was an equal opportunity employer, does not discriminate in employment on any basis that is prohibited by federal, state or local law.
Removal of baseball antitrust exemption near

By RONALD BLUM
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
A House subcommittee on Wednesday took the first step to removing baseball's antitrust exemption, approving a limited bill that deals only with labor matters. The bill, scheduled for a vote Thursday by the House Judiciary Committee, would give baseball players the same legal status as athletes in other sports if owners unilaterally impose work rules, such as a salary cap. Baseball owners have been exempt from antitrust laws since a 1922 U.S. Supreme Court decision.

"This is an historic day. For the first time in the history of Congress, a subcommittee - and tomorrow a committee - has voted to remove an exemption that has existed for over 50 years," said Rep. Mike Synar, the Oklahoma Democrat who sponsored the bill.

Rep. Jack Brooks, the Texas Democrat who chairs the House Judiciary Committee, said baseball was "on the verge of being destroyed or worse - written off by the American public."

"The barons of the game appear to have forgotten the fiduciary respect of a public trust," he said.

However, two key provisions the union wanted were deleted before Wednesday's vote by the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on economic and commercial law. The first eliminated what amounted to an automatic injunction against a salary cap until any lawsuits are decided. The second left it up to the courts to determine whether the union would have to decertify before a suit could be heard - a tactic forced on NFL players when they sued after their 1987 strike.

Union head Donald Fehr, testifying before the subcommittee last week, promised that if the original bill by Synar became law, players would end the strike, which began Aug. 12.

This date in baseball

1913 - Walter Johnson of the Washington Senators finished the season with 36 victories with a 1-0 decision over the Philadelphia A's.

1954 - Willie Mays made his famous over-the-shoulder catch of Vic Wertz's long drive to center field and pinch-hitter Dusty Rhodes homered off Bob Lemon in the 10th inning as the New York Giants beat the Cleveland Indians 5-2 in the World Series opener.

1963 - Stan Musial ended his career by going 2-for-3 as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds 3-2.

1963 - John Paciorek of the Houston Colt .45s in his only major-league appearance went 3-for-3 with three RBIs and four runs scored against the New York Mets. A back injury ended his career the next season.

1976 - John Montefusco of the San Francisco Giants pitched a 9-0 no-hitter over the Braves in Atlanta.

1986 - Minnesota's Bert Blyleven broke Robin Roberts' 1956 record of 46 home run pitches in a season when he gave up a two-out, third-inning homer to Cleveland rookie Jay Bell. Despite giving up two more homers, Blyleven was the winner when the Twins rallied in the eighth, 6-5.

1986 - Chicago Cubs rookie Greg Maddux defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in the City of Brotherly Love. The losing pitcher was his brother, Mike, also a rookie. It was the first time brothers faced each other as rookie pitchers.

1987 - Don Mattingly's major league record sixth grand slam of the season has backed the four-hit pitching of Charles Hudson to lead the New York Yankees to a 6-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Eugene B. Clark Lecture Series Presents

DAVID W. JOHNSON
Chairman, President, and C.E.O. of Campbell Soup Company

"COMPETING AND WINNING: GLOBAL PEOPLE POWER"

Mr. Johnson has run companies on four continents.

"A record of beating the competition, when shared, builds communal pride."

David W. Johnson

FRIDAY, SEPT. 30 • 9:45 A.M.
ANNENBERG AUDITORIUM, SNITE MUSEUM OF ART
ADMISSION IS FREE

Coordinated by the College of Business Administration, the Marketing Club, and the Office of Corporate Relations.
Grass Communities ND
The Challenge of Adult Christianity

An opportunity for graduate and professional students and/or their spouses to share their Christian faith and experience in small community groups and to explore together the challenge of living that faith as young adult professional people.

SUNDAY
2 October 1994
Fischer Community Center
6:00 - 8:00 p.m.
Pizza Supper, Information, Beginning

New groups will be formed.
Continuing groups will be on hand to share their experience.

Reservations and Information: return the Application Form received in the mail and/or call John Gerber, C.S.C. at 1-8601 or Sharon Harwell at 1-8607 by September 30.

---

Soccer
continued from page 16

Sick, injured Belles to battle Hope in Holland
By TARA MOONEY
Sports Writer

The (3-5) Saint Mary's soccer team has yet another away game. The Belles will travel to Holland, Michigan to take on rival Hope College this afternoon at 4:00.

“We expect it to be a tough game,” junior Gwyne Davis said.

“We are half way through our season and we are hoping to improve our record,” freshman Eileen Nowell said.

“Coming off this long weekend together the team is a lot closer,” sophomore Jody Jennings said. “The team definitely bonded.”

The Belles were unable to score a point in both of last weekend's matches. Due to rain delays in last Sunday's game, Saint Mary’s had to constantly keep moving in and out of doors, causing many of the players to become ill. Therefore, health will be a factor in today's game.

“We have a lot of injuries and sick players right now,” Jennings said.

Junior starter, Rita Jostler, will be sitting out of this afternoon's game with a sprained ankle. Jostler is a key player and will be greatly missed, according to sophomore Shari Mateleski.

---

ATTENTION PROSPECTIVE LAW STUDENTS:
Texas Tech Law School's Associate Dean, Joe Conboy, will be in the Conference Room of the Career & Service office on Sept. 30, 1994 from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Anyone interested in obtaining information about Texas Tech Law School is invited.
By SHANNON O’DONNELL
Sports Writer

In what could be the biggest match-up of the week, number seven Siegfried is anticipating an upset as the fourth ranked Pasquerilla East plays Pasquerilla West in an even battle on both sides of the ball.

According to P.W.’s captain Bridget Magenis, “We are switching stuff up a bit. Our coaches have been checking Siegfried out, and we know they have a strong quarterback. So we are preparing ourselves for that. We are looking to shut down their offense.”

That quarterback, who also happens to be Siegfried’s captain, Marce McNeill, knows what she needs to do to accomplish victory.

“We need to focus on getting to know our plays and getting those plays to and from the sideline. We plan to go out and play our game and try to do the best we can,” she said.

McNeill predicts a tough game, but her team has been working on some development and fine-tuning of their plays, both offensive and defensive.

“The defense is getting exposure to new plays as we come up with them,” she said.

Judging from their 6-6 tie with Pasquerilla East last Sunday, P.W.’s defense is ready for Siegfried’s offense, according to Magenis.

“Our defense missed a couple of key tackles, but they stepped up and held the rushing and had one interception,” she said. Their offense does, however, need to improve its accuracy.

“We are improving ourselves as a whole,” Magenis said. “I think our team has a lot of potential and we are working on reaching it.”

Key players for Siegfried include cornerback Sam Spencer, running back Jen Lemmon, wide receiver Margaret Zimmerman and Kathleen Clark on the offensive line.

Off-campus vs. Pasquerilla East

Neither team knows what to expect from each other, both have one win and are undefeated and like most other women’s interhall football teams, they both have a lot of responsiveness on defense.

Tonight, the 1-0-1 second ranked off-campus team will challenge the 1-0-1 sixth ranked Pasquerilla East in a definite competitive match-up.

Off-campus captain Kelly Guerin said her team’s one objective is to have fun, regardless of the frequent lack of players who show up for the practices.

“We will have a couple of players gone for this game,” she said. “We just want to have a good time, and we obviously want to win. We have the talent, but we have a hard time getting people to the practices, much less the games. So, if we do get enough players out there, I think we will do well against P.E. They have been tough in the past.”

Pasquerilla East’s captain Sue O’Kain predicted a tough game, but we think we can do well against P.E. They have been one of the top teams in the state in the last two games, but we need to be more consistent on offense. We need to capitalize on our field position and score more points,” O’Kain said.

Look for off-campus’ quarterback Nicole Neidlinger to lead the team to a possible victory. “She did a great job on Sunday,” Guerin said. Also, wide receiver Michelle Drury, who has been out with a fractured clavicle, will return for the game.

Farley vs. Siegfried

A 12-0 loss to Siegfried last Wednesday put Lewis in the twelfth spot in the polls this week; however, according to captain Tracy Cote, they are not giving up on this season just yet as they hope to overcome the ninth ranked Farley team tonight.

“We are looking to rebound, regroup and come off with a win,” Cote said. “It will be a tough game, but we think we can do well against them.”

The team has been focusing on communication and improving the little things” this week.

“We need to improve on our scoring opportunities and become stingier on defense,” Cote said. “We do have a lot of speed on offense and aggressiveness on defense.”

Similarly, Farley’s captain Julie Ehrman said her team has shaped up and is expecting victory.

“We have finally gotten things together,” she said. “I’m not sure what kind of team Lewis has, but we are getting a lot better.”

Pass coverage and their running game have been the main focus of Farley’s practice this week and from Ehrman’s observations, receiver Sheila Wiegert, running back Heather Moran and cornerback Melissa Mapes have been looking pretty good.

Their weakest point is their offensive line, which is always lacking a person. However, according to Ehrman, it is a good thing their wide receivers have been catching everything thrown their way.
THURSDAY NIGHT
LaFortune's Montgomery Theatre
8:30 & 10:30 pm $1 admission
September 29

...this and every Thursday Night in LaFortune

ACOUSTIC CAFE brought to you exclusively by:

ANIMATION FILM FESTIVAL
Friday and Saturday
8:00 & 10:30 pm $2 admission
Cushing Engineering Auditorium
Irish fall to Wake Forest, 1-0
Offense yet to score on the road this year

By THOMAS SCHLIDT
Sports Writer

Last night was the big face off on cable television. Notre Dame men's soccer versus Beverly Hills 90210. Both provided endless entertainment. Now, in the end, only Beverly Hill 90210's players could score.

The Irish lost another big road game to Wake Forest Wednesday night by a score of 1-0, lowering their record to 5-4.

The Irish have yet to score a goal, or win a game, on the road this year. This was not a game the Demon Deacons deserved to win, as the Irish dominated the whole game. Yet, when it counted, the Irish couldn't put the ball in the net, and the Deacons could.

The Deacon goal came in the 20th minute of play as junior forward Ryan Scott drilled a low shot past Irish goalkeeper Berti Bader. This was one of only three shots they had in the match.

The best chances to even up the score came in the final 30 minutes, as the Irish basically pitched camp in the Deacon zone. Forward Ryan Turner started the barrage as he ran over a defender and crossed the ball in front of the net to fellow freshman forward Bill Savarino. With only the goalkeeper, Mike McGinty, between him and the net, Savarino proceeded to beat the ball over the goal.

Next came midfielder Chris Mathis' free kick crossing pass that was headed into the penalty box, but after bouncing around for a couple of seconds, the ball was kicked out by the defense. Freshman forward Scott Wells followed this up by mist-hitting a crossing pass in the penalty box from Savarino.

The final big scoring chance came around the 83th minute, as midfielder Tony Capasso had a one on one with the goalkeeper, but his shot was blocked by McGinty.

These missed opportunities should not overshadow the great game the team did play. They dominated the midfield and the defense stifled any counter attack. Yet, when in the opponents penalty box, they couldn't convert.

"This was obviously a tough loss for us," coach Mike Bertolucci said. "We dominated every facet of the game, but just couldn't capitalize on our opportunities."

see SOCCER / page 13

Women's interhall reign over Ducks

By CHUCK CAMOSY
Sports Writer

After raining all day the weather cleared up just in time for the contest between Howard and Badin. However, Howard still could've used rain jackets as Badin rained big plays on them all game while cruising to a 6-0 victory Wednesday evening.

The Attitudes controlled the ball on offense, content with small gains until they broke the big one. They set the tone early when they drove over 50 yards in 6 plays on their initial possession to score the game's first touchdown. Badin used the option to negotiate the Duck's 20 yard line. From there split-end Jill Sataneck scored on a perfectly executed reverse. Sataneck would score Badin's other two touchdowns, one on a yard bomb and another 20 yards after a few running plays, Kraft found captain Trish Sorensen wide open down the sideline for a 40-yard pass play to the 5-yard line. From there Kraft avoided a defender and flipped it to freshman Kelly Brady for the touchdown to make it 13-6.

Not to be outdone, the Pangborn defense played solid defense, tackling well, while also putting pressure on Byrd. "We made some adjustments at halftime," said Pangborn coach Jim Delaney. "They were overloading to the right side, so we positioned our linebackers better."

"The team just didn’t execute as well as we did against B.P.," said Byrd.

In their drive to tie the game, Lyons went to their bag of tricks and pulled out the old reverse option. After the play failed in the first half, Lyons had confidence in it and it paid off as junior Amanda Gast made a leaping grab for a 35-yard gain. Three plays later Byrd dished it off at the 20 for Layden and the junior did the rest to get Lyons within one.

However, they would get no closer.

Joe VILLINOSI

Walsh 13, Breen-Phillips 6

In a nail biter at Carrier Field last night, the Wild Women of Walsh defeated the Breen-Phillips Blitz 13-6 on a touch-down scored in the last minute. The Blitz came out tough in the first half, intercepting a Walsh pass thrown by quarterback Erin Nicholas. A few plays later, Blitz running back Wendy Morris broke free on the right side of the line, and out sprinted the Walsh defense for a 50-yard touchdown. BF failed to convert on the point after, leaving them with an early 6-0 lead.

Walsh refused to give up. On their next offensive series, they dug to the last page in the playbook and found the hook and lateral, which enabled sophomore halfback Ann Jackoboice to catch a pitch from a receiver and scamper into the endzone to complete the early lead.

Jill Sataneck scored on a yard reverse.

Sarah Norton and Howard were unable to control the Badin offense.