Three students assaulted
Security urges caution on Notre Dame Ave.

By LIZ
Assistant News Editor

Three assaults involving Notre women were reported on Thursday and Friday evenings, according to the South Bend Police.

The assaults occurred in the 500 and 600 blocks of Notre Dame Avenue, six blocks south of campus, between Sorin and Cedar streets.

The most recent incident was reported just before 6 p.m. on Friday night, in the 500 block of Notre Dame Avenue. A female student, who was walking to class, was attacked by a group of young men.

According to Charles Hurley, assistant director of Notre Dame Security, the area of the assaults is within the district of the South Bend Police. Notre Dame Security does a "perimeter patrol" of the campus, including the area of the assaults, beginning at 8 p.m. every night. Hurley said that he added the assaults occurred before the evening patrol began.

Sgt. John Williams, of the South Bend Police, says that he has heard of no additional incients in the area after Friday night. "We added one patrol car on Friday night and patrols have been increased in this area," he added.

Notre Dame Security is warning everyone to use extreme caution in this area and to avoid walking or bicycle riding through the area if at all possible.

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press

Iraqi troops were continuing to defend itself against a foreign "plot" to crush it. Iraq's foreign minister said later that Baghdad preferred a diplomatic solution to its "crisis with the United Nations, but would insist on guarantees of a speedy end to the Gulf War sanctions."

Kustov, a spokesman for the U.N.-Iraqi Kuwait Observation Mission, said that Baghdad had observed any new military movements Sunday afternoon. The zone includes six miles into Iraq and three miles into Kuwait.

Baghdad insists the troop movements do not threaten Kuwait. But while within Iraq's rights, the deployment of troops near the Kuwait border has elicited a quick response from countries chanted by Saddam Hussein's surprise invasion of the emirate four years ago.

Perry himself refused to join speculation that Saddam Hussein's intentions are just a bluff intended to win a relaxation of bruising U.N. sanctions punishing Baghdad for occupying its tiny neighbor.

Iraqi troops were continuing to gather near the border, but did not provide numbers.

``In all this, it is a formidable military force,'" Perry said. "Iraqi troops reported that the movement of 20,000 Republican Guards toward the Kuwaiti border had raised the number of Iraqi troops in the area to 64,000. Some 700 tanks were also deployed or heading south.

The closest Iraqi troops were 12 miles from Kuwait. Pentagon officials said Sunday that Iraqi troops were continuing to gather near the border, but did not provide numbers.

Iraqi forces are heading toward Kuwait and directed to stage demonstrations to heat up the pressure on the border, U.N. officials said.

Iraqi troops are said to have been some hundreds of thousands of state-of-the-art SAMs, including SA-80s, to its present site, according to Molly Sanford, co-chairperson of the Student Alumnae Association.

Father Edward Sorin and Mother Angela Gillespie will be recognized at Founder's Week for their work 150 years ago in moving Saint Mary's College from the Irish settlement in Michigan, to its present site, according to Molly Sanford, co-chairperson of the Student Alumnae Association.

Anthonyzened in this sesquicentennial year for us to honor Fr. Sorin, Mother Angela and all of the Sisters of the Holy Cross who have built the College and what it is, today," she continued.

Among the events planned for Founder's Week will be a distribution of student-signed posters on Monday to the convents in which Sisters of the Holy Cross reside as a symbol of appreciation.

On Tuesday, tours will be given through the old Congregation House from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The house was originally built during the 1850s for some economics majors in 1939 and allowed them to live in the heart of the campus while they perfected their cooking and entertaining skills under the direction of one of the nuns. Currently, the house may be reserved by distinguished alumnus or guests during their overnight campus stays, according to Sanford.

The Heritage Room in Brandon Hall will be accessible on Tuesday, from 3 to 7 p.m. in the glass display, as well as a reception in the Leighton Library from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sanely. It is believed that the announcement will be made on Tuesday on the Mass or Ignatius' weapons program.
Cult investigation continues

The investigation into the cult deaths of 53 people in Switzerland and Canada has spread to France and Australia amid unconfirmed reports that the group's leaders were involved in arms trafficking and money laundering.

The bodies of 48 cult followers, some of them shot in the head and hooded with plastic bags, were discovered in the rubble of fires at three chalets and a farm in Switzerland. Five other bodies were found in a charred chalet that the cult leaders owned near Montreal.

Authorities have suggested the fires were set to hide evidence of the deaths. It is not known whether di Mambro, a French-Canadian who lived in Switzerland, and the cult's other leader, Luc Jouret, a Belgian physician who lived in Switzerland and Canada, were among the dead.

The French connection first surfaced Saturday when police uncovered an intricate incendiary device at an empty villa the cult used in southern France. The device, which could have been triggered by a coded telephone call, was like the bombs that set off the fires last week in Switzerland and Canada.

In Canada, investigators said Antonio and Nikki Dutoit and their 3-month-old son, three of the victims in Quebec, had been stabbed to death several days before the fire.

There were unconfirmed news reports from Canada and Australia that the two used the group as a front for arms trafficking through Australia and money laundering in Swiss banks. An official of the Royal Bank of Canada in Ottawa said the bank tipped off Canadian police in July about suspicious activity in an account on a cult member. A bank spokesman said the bank was prohibited by law from releasing the account-holder's name, but he said the movement of hundreds of dollars of without evidence of legitimate sources could trigger such a report.

Contestable Giles Deziel of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police confirmed that Canadian authorities were investigating reports of money laundering involving members of the Order of the Solar Temple, the cult's name in Canada.

In Switzerland, citing widespread reports, the court moved hundreds of millions of dollars through some of the world's largest banks from Switzerland to Ottawa, where it said di Mambro had a bank account and his wife signed papers. The di Mambros are listed as tenants in a suburban apartment.

Radio-Canada said the cult leaders ran their arms-trafficking empire from a farm in Australia, but there was no confirmation of the report from Australia.

Switzerland has issued an international warrant for the arrest of Jouret and di Mambro, his wife and both sons, on charges of arson and premeditated murder, but puller said he wasn't sure they were still alive.

Families members, who didn't want their names used, told reporters in Sion, Switzerland, that they identified di Mambro among the victims recovered from the Swiss chalets.

Bacall working to save movie classics

Lauren Bacall is sounding the alarm for an endangered species. "We've got to do something," she said.

"We've got to do something about the future of film," she said.

"It's not just about the classics," she said. "It's about all the movies that have been made over the years."

Bacall is one of the founders of the American Film Foundation, which is raising money to transfer many of the world's film classics to magnetic media.

"We want to make sure that these films are preserved," she said. "We want to make sure that they're available for future generations."

Baseball, hockey put vendors on ice

BUFFALO, N.Y.

First baseball took a hike. Then hockey.

As a result, the people who sell hot dogs, beer and peanuts are on an all-time high.

Fred Lebow, who founded the New York City Marathon and built it into an international event, died Sunday of brain cancer. He was 62. Lebow, who was diagnosed with cancer in 1990, was once told he had only six months to live but refused to quit running. A year after being operated on, he ran the 1991 marathon in five hours and 51 minutes, completing it with thousands cheering when he crossed the finish line.

The first race, a four-loop circuit around Central Park, attracted only 127 runners, with Lebow placing 45th among the 55 who finished. The race is now run through the streets of the city and attracts more than 25,000 runners from around the world.

Perot attacks Clinton on radio show

To a folksy, up-tempo fiddle tune, Ross Perot begins his new weekly radio show Sunday night with the words: "Good evening, this is Ross. We're gonna shake 'em up tonight." Then he adds: "What's going on in the world?"

"The world is going to hell," he says.

"But we can turn it around," he says.

"And that's what I'm gonna do," he says.

"That's what I'm gonna do," he says.

"That's what I'm gonna do," he says.

But then he adds: "And that's what I'm gonna do."
Son of former Prime Minister makes millions

BY JOHN IAMS

MOSCOW

Boris Yeltsin’s unlikely nap at Ireland’s Shannon airport and his comic attempt at leading a band in Germany have reawakened stories that the Russian president has a drinking problem.

Yeltsin, 63, has been dogged throughout his political career by persistent stories of ill health and alcohol abuse. His staff and doctor insist that he is fine.

But two former advisers and an opposition politician, in rare personal criticism, have now publicly reproached Yeltsin for his erratic behavior during two recent trips abroad.

When Yeltsin returned from his summit with President Clinton on Sept. 30, he failed to get off his airplane for a meeting with Irish Prime Minister Albert Reynolds, who was left standing awkwardly on the tarmac.

Yeltsin said later he overslept. His chief of staff, Sergei Filatov, added: “It’s very hard to fit this president into any protocol. Yeltsin is Yeltsin.”

Last month, after an official champagne lunch in Germany, a red-faced Yeltsin stumbled, blew kisses to the crowd, sang boisterously and led a German band with a wild flourish.

Yegor Yakovlev, editor of the weekly newspaper Obschchaya Gazeta and a former presidential adviser, wrote in the current edition that Yeltsin was often “too drunk to handle state affairs.”

“Your bent for liquor is a secret only to yourself,” Yakovlev said.

Yakovlev described a meeting with the leaders of former Soviet republics. Before lunch, Yeltsin was fine. Afterwards, Yeltsin was in such poor shape that the “heads of state were leading, trying not to look at each other.”

Yakovlev said press secretary Vyacheslav Kosikov had to beg photographers not to take pictures. “God forbid that Yeltsin is seen in such a state,” he wrote.

He dismissed Yeltsin’s excuse that aides failed to wake him at Shannon airport and his subsequent joke that he would “punch them” for the oversight.

“The Russian people are saying, ‘Why should one punch the other when he himself has hit the bottle on his way,’ ” Yakovlev said.

He also wrote that Yeltsin’s behavior was an embarrassment. “We were ashamed to watch the episodes shot in Germany when the president acted as a conductor,” he said.

In an interview with German television last November, Yeltsin admitted that he did occasionally imbibe, but never to excess. “I never drink so much that I get drunk,” he said.

But a Communist lawmaker last week disagreed.

“He is seriously suffering from alcoholism and is incapable of governing the state,” Viktor Byakhtin told parliament. Yeltsin’s behavior abroad, he said, “put shame on Russia.”

Gennady Burbulis, a former first deputy prime minister and aide to Yeltsin, said the incidents at Shannon and in Germany could not be ignored.

---

$35 For 30 Days Unlimited Tanning

SunStudio 271-15SUN

Area’s Newest & Friendliest Salon

CMS College Workshop Series

Finding Your First Job After College

November 2, 1994 8:30 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.
(Lunch Included)

Monogram Room — Notre Dame J.A.C.C.

Topics Covered

• Getting you act together
• Self Assessment
• Preparing your resume
• The four job search methods
• The interview
• Your career plan

Cost: $99* per person
(includes workshop, workbook, resume, & lunch)

Call or write for registration form:
CMS Management Service Co.
401 E. Colfax Street
South Bend, IN 46617
(219)282-3980

Have you ever found yourself telling jokes in the mirror? Are you the laugh of the party? Then try this:

1st Annual SUB COMEDY TALENT SHOW:

SEINFEST ‘94!!

The show is November 3, but the auditions are SOON!!

OCTOBER 20 in the ND Room, 10 PM
Sign-ups to audition are in the dining hall
October 11-13 (Tuesday-Thursday)
BIG MONEY!!
BIG PRIZES!!

(OK, I’m joking about the money, but there are prizes!) Come and audition. Make up. Make us cry. Leave us SPEECHLESS!!

TORI AMOS
UNDER THE PINK TOUR
this evening

Monday October 10, 1994 • 7:30p.m.
Morris Civic Auditorium
South Bend, Indiana

Tickets available at Morris Civic Auditorium Box Office, and Tracks (Campus Shoppes, South Bend)
Charge at 219-235-9190 or 1-800-537-6415
TICKETS ON SALE NOW
Air Force spewed radiation

By PAUL QUEARY
Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY

As the U.S. military mobilizes against the threat of another Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the Air Force prepares for hearings on the "friendly fire" deaths that resulted from the last war with Iraq.

Five Air Force officers are charged in the drowning of two U.S. helicopters over Iraq on April 14. Investigative hearings that are the military equivalent of a grand jury convene Tuesday at Tinker Air Force Base, where four of the officers are based.

Twenty-six people died when American F-15 fighter planes shot down the Blackhawk helicopters, mistaking them for Soviet-made Iraqi Hind.

The officers were members of an airborne Warning and Control System radar plane monitoring a restricted flight zone established to protect Kurds from Iraqi air attack.

An Air Force report alleges the AWACS crew failed to tell fighter pilots that the helicopters were American, failed to ensure the aircraft used the right identification codes and failed to monitor the no-fly zone properly.

Maj. Douglas Martin, Maj. Lawrence Tracey, Capt. Jim Wang, 1st Lt. Joseph Halcli and 2nd Lt. Ricky Wilson are charged with derrliction of duty. All have denied criminal conduct and said their actions were based on training.

"I am deeply disappointed and outraged that I have been accused of criminal offenses," Tracey, the mission crew commander, said in a statement last month. "I feel great sadness for the families of the persons killed in this tragic accident. However, I did nothing wrong."

Martin, who is based at Langley Air Force Base in Virginia, has said the AWACS crew did not know the helicopters were still flying. He said in a statement the crew assumed the pilots had followed standard procedure in the security zone and landed.

The helicopters carried 15 Americans and 11 foreigners who had worked with the Kurdish minority in Iraq since the Persian Gulf War in 1991.

After the hearings, which could take weeks, Lt. Gen. Stephen Croker will decide if the five officers will be court-martialed, disciplined or cleared.

Derrliction of duty carries a maximum punishment of dismissal, forfeiture of two-thirds of all pay for three months and confinement up to three months.

Lt. Col. Randy W. May, one of the fighter pilots, was charged with negligent homicide and derrliction of duty. His case will be heard at a separate hearing.

SALT LAKE CITY

The Air Force simulated nuclear reactor meltdowns in the Utah desert in 1959, spewing radiation clouds into the air, The Desert News reported Sunday.

The eight tests were conducted at Dugway Proving Grounds, the site of dozens of chemical, biological and radiological tests during the Cold War, said the newspaper, which spent months gathering government documents obtained through the Freedom of Information Act.

The documents showed that sensors tracked radiation clouds up to 20 miles downwind and across a 210-square-mile area. The newspaper reported, however, that the clouds spread and at least two small towns in northwestern Utah may have been in their path.

Based on government figures, the newspaper estimated that the total amount of radiation released was 14 times higher than that emitted during the Three Mile Island reactor disaster in 1979 near Harrisburg, Pa.

Experts were divided on the danger to the public.

Daniel Hirsch, former director of a nuclear policy institute at the University of California at Santa Cruz, said the tests may have caused "ten to hundreds" of cases of cancer downwind.

Richard Wilson, a Harvard University physics professor who specializes in nuclear reactor safety, said there was little or no risk to residents downwind.

The tests were conducted as the Air Force and the Atomic Energy Commission were attempting to develop a nuclear-powered aircraft. They decided they should assess the hazards of the craft's reactor melting down.

In other tests from 1949 to 1952, the energy commission, Army Chemical Corps and Air Force conducted six tests of radiation-spraying devices in Utah. Radioactive particles were loaded onto cluster devices, then dropped from about 15,000 feet, the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, reported last year.
Monday, October 10, 1994

The Observer • NEWS

Cedras to relinquish power to Aristide today

By ANITA SNOW
Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras will step down Monday as Haiti’s military leader, clearing the way for exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide’s return home. But violence against Aristide supporters continued Sunday when a bus plowed into a pro-democracy march, killing 14 people.

Cedras will transfer power to the army’s No. 2 commander, Maj. Gen. Jean-Claude Dupe- raval, under a plan approved Saturday in Washington by Haitian officers and representatives of exiled President Jean-Bertrand and Aristide, said Col. Jean-Robert Gabriel, a spokesman for the Haitian high command. Also set to leave is Brig. Gen. Philippe Biamby, the army chief of staff and a leader of the September 1991 coup that ousted Aristide. The resignations would pave the way for Aristide’s expected return on Saturday.

Gabriel, speaking to reporters from the second-floor balcony of army headquarters, said the ceremony would be held Monday morning. He declined to elaborate on the ceremony or the resignation date. A Clinton administration official said Cedras indicated he was going to resign in the next few days. The official, speaking Sunday on condition of anonymity, said “Nothing is clear until he does it.”

Perry and Shelton were fewer than 20 in the Haitian high command. It wasn’t immediately known if there were arrests.

Aristide supporters also were saddened by news Sunday that an outspoken pro-Aristide artist, Stevenson Magloire, was beaten to death in broad daylight. There were no immediate arrests in that incident.

Defense Secretary William Perry and Gen. John Shalikashvili, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had met with Cedras on Saturday in Port-au-Prince, but U.S. officials had no immediate comment on Cedras’ resignation date.

A Clinton administration official said Cedras indicated he was going to resign in the next few days. The official, speaking Sunday on condition of anonymity, said “Nothing is clear until he does it.”

Perry and Shalikashvili did not discuss whether Cedras would leave the country, although U.S. officials have said they expect he eventually will do so. Cedras has vowed to remain in Haiti.

Secretary of State Warren Christopher said the transition would “pick up even more momentum and steam” this week, although he couldn’t confirm when Cedras and Biamby would leave.

“I am confident they’ll be leaving office and I think that is a practical matter that they will be leaving the country,” he said upon arriving in Jerusalem.

Parishioners at St. Gerard Roman Catholic Church cheered when the Rev. Gerard Jean- Juste, an official of the Aristide government that was toppled three years ago, announced Cedras’ imminent departure.

“Tomorrow we should hear that Cedras has left,” Jean-Juste said. “But don’t clap your hands too much. There is still much work to do.”

Under a U.S.-Haitian agreement that started an invasion, Cedras and Biamby have to leave power by Saturday.

Haitian sources said Cedras was working Sunday on final preparations for the power transfer to the military’s No. 2 commander.

A leading business backer of Cedras told The Associated Press that Cedras’ continued presence in Haiti was necessary to assure Aristide’s opponents they would be safe from retribution under the new civilian administration. Other close supporters have told the military leader that he, his wife, Yannick, and three children should leave the country, at least for a brief period.

In a sermon, Jean-Juste accused Haiti’s military leaders of “sucking the blood of the people before going into history” by taking with them wealth obtained through corruption.

What is Graduate Education?
Is It For Me?
6:30-7:30 p.m.
Tuesday
October 11, 1994
Montgomery Theater of LaFortune
Nathan Hatch, Vice President Dean of the Graduate School
Chris Vanden Boesch (English)
Jamee Collins (Com)
Willia BertHelt (Psychology)

The Personal Statement: Crystallizing Your Voice
7:00 - 8:30 p.m.
Tuesday
October 18, 1994
Hesburgh Library Lounge
Sonia Cernea, College Fellow (English)
Thomas Werge (English)
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Large portions of the California desert will be preserved under legislation approved in some of the final acts of the 103rd Congress. The Senate also approved a string of last-minute bills, all sent to President Clinton for his signature, on which unanimous agreement had been reached before adjourning Saturday. Congress plans to return briefly for a special post-election session devoted to ratification of a world trade pact.

The House completed its regular business shortly after midnight Friday. A bill that would have allowed governors to control the amount of interstate garbage coming into their states fell by the wayside. Supporters said one senator had put a hold on the legislation, blocking its passage.

The desert bill will create the largest wilderness area outside of Alaska, putting 6.6 million acres under increased federal protection. Two new national parks would be created as well as a 1.5 million-acre national preserve in the desert area of southeastern California. Most of the land already belongs to the federal government.

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press

The lessons of 1990 are playing out in the Clinton administration’s direct and powerful response to the massing of Iraqi troops near the Kuwaiti border. There is no whiff of compromise, no diplomatic ambiguity, no teasing overtures. Nor is the administration wasting any time trying to read Saddam Hussein’s mind.

“I would counsel looking at the facts and reacting to the facts,” said Secretary of State Warren Christopher in Jerusalem at the start of another burst of shuttle diplomacy that includes a stop in Kuwait.

The facts are that Iraq is making another ominous push toward Kuwait. And the White House believes that is reason enough to respond.

“I am not sure how valuable speculation is,” Christopher said Sunday. But the speculation continued, some of it within the Pentagon.

Maybe Iraq figured rushing parts of two divisions to the border would cause the U.N. Security Council to buckle and lift a painful trade embargo and ban on oil purchases.

Or, like the Romans did with bread and circuses, maybe Saddam is trying to distract his people from shortages and other deprivations.

Where the Bush administration tried diplomatic reconciliation — symbolized by Ambassador April Glaspie’s assurances to the Iraqi leader that the United States would not interfere in inter-Arab affairs — the Clinton administration has spoken directly and forcefully to Saddam.

In clear language, it has told Saddam his thrust toward the border would not intimidate the United States or the U.N. Security Council into easing sanctions imposed on Baghdad during the Persian Gulf War. Aggression will be met head-on. And Israel, which Iraq attacked with Scud missiles, would be protected.

President Clinton said Friday that another invasion of Kuwait, which Iraq considers to be its 19th republic, would be a “grave mistake.” And Christopher told the Iraqis on Sunday they “would pay a tremendous price if they were foolish enough to miscalculate again.

The rush of troops, planes and warships to the gulf under- scored the message.

Critics of the Reagan and Bush administrations have blamed Washington for Saddam’s miscalculation in 1990. The United States had extended hundreds of millions of dollars in agricultural credits to Iraq.

The country was removed from the State Department’s terrorism list. Diplomatic relations were re-established. And the United States soft-pedaled allegations of Saddam’s poison gas attacks on Kurds.

Valparaiso University School of Law

Valparaiso University, ranked #1 in the Midwest Region by U.S. News & World Report (1994), invites you to learn about its School of Law. Located only an hour from Chicago in northwest Indiana, Valparaiso University School of Law offers a quality legal education in a close-knit campus setting. In addition to an excellent faculty, the law school offers students exceptional educational opportunities such as:

• Fall 1993 - 7th Circuit Court of Appeals, live case deliberation, Valparaiso University School of Law Stride Courtroom.
• Spring 1994 - Justice Sandra Day O’Connor, U.S. Supreme Court, Instructor, Supreme Court Lecture Series.

Visit our recruiter to learn more about what Valparaiso University School of Law has to offer - including Single Scholarships for students with outstanding credentials (full tuition + $10,000 stipend) - or call 1-800-202-0656 today!

Visit our campus recruiter - Tuesday, Oct. 11
Call Career Services for time and location.

Michael P. Esposito, Jr.
Executive Vice President of The Chase Manhattan Bank, N.A.
and Alumnus of The University of Notre Dame
will be hosting a reception on October 12, 1994 at the University Club, Main Lounge from 6 - 8 p.m. to discuss career opportunities at Chase.
Women-only class possibly violates Title IX
By Zoe Marin

A women-only self-defense course offered at Stanford University is awaiting a decision from the Education Department's Office of Civil Rights to determine if the class violates a federal gender discrimination restriction.

The controversy originated last spring when a student challenged the Feminist Studies course, arguing that it violated Title IX, a federal regulation which outlawed sex discrimination in federally-funded institutions.

The university initially attempted to thwart the problem by changing the course listing from a Feminist Studies course to either a co-ed class or a single-sex physical education class, thus eliminating any conflict with Title IX. However, the women Defending Ourselves Collective challenged the move, arguing that the options weren't suitable.

The course is one part physical education, the other part is discussions about violence against women and behavioral education in social situations, making a distinction of it as only a physical education course too limiting for the curriculum.

"It's important to let women students study and train... in a single-sex environment," said Estelle Freedman, professor of history at Stanford, to The Stanford Daily.

In order to resolve the problem, the university turned to the Office of Civil Rights last June to make the final decision concerning the course. The university and the Collective had to construct separate reports stating why the class should remain open only to women.

Although the university did not agree completely with all that the Collective argued, they did agree on the overall importance of the course for the community.

The brief stated that women were more likely to be attacked because of their attractiveness. Women are attacked more often than men. The university argued that the course was a way to provide an escape from this discrimination.

The Office of Civil Rights is able to keep the same timeline they originally projected, then deciding if their initial response was as soon as a month from now, said Daehler to The Stanford Daily.

The class continues to be held at an off-campus location until the final decision comes in from the Civil Rights Office.

Sexual discrimination suit settled at Brown University

Professor Dustin Becker will be holding class on the Amazon River over this Christmas vacation as part of a study excursion for his students.

Professor Becker, a professor of Environmental Affairs at Indiana University at Bloomington said her trip focuses on teaching the participants about the world's largest river and rainforests as well as the past and present cultures of the surrounding area.

Becker said much of the trip will be spent actually on the river, moving from place to place. The group will also take a tour from a walkway suspended 1500 feet above ground.

The trip costs anywhere from $1795 to $2095, depending upon where in the country the participants depart for their response as "Pass the Pig." The grand prize winner receives $1000, a free professional cleaning, an on-campus party, and a Million Dollar prize pack.

The second prize winner receives $1000 as well. Winners will also be chosen from each state and will receive T-shirts and other gifts.

Any student may submit a 4x6 inch photograph of their "piggy" to Milton Bradley. Students must also write a brief explanation stating what color are they are trying to "Pass the Pig." However, students need to have a nomination from a resident advisor before they are eligible.

The resident advisor also signs the nomination to ensure that there was no intentional damage done to the room. Any rooms Milton Bradley Feeley were intentionally damaged with dirty hands.

Details for the trip can be found at: Information from the Sagerbrugh, University of Nevada.

Penn State cable options expanded

After receiving much criticism from students as to the lack of entertainment programming available on cable TV offered in its student housing, the Office of Housing and Residential Operations at Penn State University decided to give students more of what they asked for.

Now, students will be able to watch the Sci-Fi Channel, The Entertainment Channel, USA, and TNT in addition to NBC from Pittsburgh, ABC from Scranton, and WPHL from Philadelphia. Also added were two foreign channels—TV5, a French television channel; and the German Velle TV.

Students have agreed that the additions are an improvement, yet some are requesting that premium channels, such as HBO, Showtime and the Disney Channel are added.

Information from the Daily Collegian, Penn State University.

Student restaurant is class at Ball State

Students in downtown food and nutrition at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind. now have the option of working at a student-run restaurant on campus as a class to learn basic restaurant management and food preparation.

The Allegro Restaurant offers lunch and dinner, with menus and meals prepared by students and available by reservation only.

With a price of $2.75 for dinner, the students hope to keep their American regional cuisine meals reasonable for students as an affordable alternative.

Some selections offered include the themes of Cajun bayou, southern hospitality, Midwest harvest, Native American heritage and Mexican astrology.

The hands-on experience allows students to learn about restaur management and operations outside of the classroom, giving them an actual food for the instruction by, actually working in class.

Information from the Ball State University Student Newspapers.
There's more than one poll that counts

In the wake of this past Saturday's catastrophically disappointing "revenge bowl" in Boston, it seems an apt time to examine one of the intriguing aspects of Notre Dame's character. Namely the incredible amount of collective ego invested in our football team. I realize that by even broaching this topic I open myself to all sorts of accusations of hero worship and naivete, so in an attempt to avoid continued physical safety I feel obligated to mention that I am as passionate about football as the next student on this campus. I charged the field after Florida state and suffered bitter disappointment when a certain pair of field goals sailed through the uprights.

Yet despite my enthusiasm for and interest in Notre Dame football I am still puzzled by the widespread phenomenon amongst both the general public and seemingly many students here: the overall welfare of this university and the performance of Lou Holtz's troops are somehow inexorably linked. Such is simply not the case and to maintain that Notre Dame's reputation is in any but the most superficial of ways dependent on the success of its athletic teams is to lessen the institution as a whole.

It goes almost without saying that people at this school tend to lose all sense of perspective when it comes to football related matters. I suppose I fully realize this, at least in the abstract, last year when I heard the stories and saw the pictures of seniors sitting in their seats for literally hours after Gordon's infamous kickoff and staring blankly at the domes filled with, as many shell shocked war veterans. But the underlying problem with this lack of perspective didn't hit me until an experience of just a few weeks ago.

In those sullen days following the Michigan game a few of my section mates and I were sitting around vicariously living our lives through half-inch tall Sega pixel people, until an obviously distraught individual came flying through the door demanding "Is it true?" I heard a rumor that we're number 19". Before anyone aware that this was actually U.S. News and World Report's new number 19 rating before any drastic fall, I asked "say anything, a near riot ensued; "Screwed again by the pollsters!", "Those Catholic hating bigots!", "Who votes on those things anyway?" were just a few of the comments that accompanied the prolonged wailing and gnashing of teeth. Finally, cooler heads prevailed and the assembled throng was convinced of the academic nature of the number 19 rating before any drastic actions, such as collective Waco-esque suicide or, worse, yet the printing of yet another obnoxious anti-polls t-shirt could occur.

Unfortunately, the football-centric view of Notre Dame, if anything, worsened among the general public. I haven't counted the number of times that I've been somewhere back home with friends from other top echelon academic teams and we've been presented with the inevitable question of "Where do you guys go to school?" Responding with the name of most top 25 colleges usually provokes something along the lines of "tough school", while answering Notre Dame, more often than not, garners an expression of admiration for our football team or a dumb question (e.g. "were you at that Florida State game last year?" or "Do you know Ron Powlus?"). The problem with viewing Notre Dame through a football shaped prism is that such perception distresses us from the aspects of this university that are truly special. There are numerous colleges that can field impressive football teams, yet I don't think there are many people outside of Tallahassee who would argue that Florida state is a truly exceptional university. The aspects that set Notre Dame apart really have very little to do with football and a whole lot to do with things like a sense of community, first rate academics and a genuine dedication to the service of the greater good of mankind. I find it somewhat disheartening that almost any given fun of Notre Dame can probably trace Lou Holtz's career from Arkansas to Minnesota to South Bend, yet only a select handful could answer equivalent question about Father Hesburgh's life and work.

As to the students themselves, letting the outcome of a football game dictate the quality of our social lives on any given weekend has a borderline absurd quality to it (I'm sure that we all either heard or made comments along the lines of "Win and I'll party. Lose and I'll study."). The simple reality of the situation is that win, lose or we've all got to get up on Monday and go to class and that the score from Saturday is going to have absolutely no effect on my score on my next test.

I do not mean to imply that Notre Dame football has not played an integral role in shaping the history, development, growth and identity of this university. Rather, I worry that instead of serving as a focal point for pride and spirit, rabid enthusiasm for football has a tendency to cloud our own perceptions—and that of outsiders as well—as to the other and ultimately more significant merits of Our Lady's university. It is worthwhile to reflect on these underlying values and merits possessed by this school when confronted with the field setbacks.

Kratovel is a sophomore government and international relations major. He lives in Flanner Hall.

GARRY TRUDEAU

"Not a shred of evidence exists in favor of the idea that life is serious."

-Brendan Gill
Boston Massacre

Boston College spoils Notre Dame’s season—again

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass.
No David Gordon this time. In fact, Boston College’s kicker didn’t have to lace up a shoe for Saturday’s 30-11 Eagle domination of Notre Dame in front of 44,500 at Alumni Stadium.

No great comebacks, no last second field goals, no newfound heroes. There was a fine Boston College team and a pitiful group from that other Catholic university which looked far from itself.

It was the worst loss by the Irish since Penn State’s 35-12 win in 1991 and ended a school-record 16-game road winning streak.

“We just flat got beat by a better football team,” Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz said. “We got beat in every facet of the game.

“I knew this would be a long, hard year."

It gets even longer for Irish fans. Notre Dame (4-2) will watch the national championship picture from afar and great aspirations give way to the hope for seven wins—the magic number to qualify for the bowl coalition.

Notre Dame dropped to No. 17 in the polls and the Eagles went from unranked to No. 24 see IRISH/page 2

A revolutionary victory for Boston College

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass.
A revered New Englander belied the warning from the belfry of the Old North Church.

The Irish are coming!
The Irish are coming!
Proud patriots dug in to defend their turf against the ambush.

Here came mighty Notre Dame, marching up Heartbreak Hill in rigid formation, battle-tested and craving redemption.

Boston College fielded a ragged bunch, twice beaten in three games and clinging to the memory of last year’s “Shot Heard Round the World.”

Wearing mediocrity as camouflage, the Eagles emerged from the shadows Saturday to stun Notre Dame.

Again.
Mimic the drama.
David Gordon’s last second heroics were not necessary this time. Ironically, his musket misfired twice Saturday.

see KELLY/page 3
Irish offense tries to look forward

By JASON KELLY
Associate Sports Editor

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass.

He wouldn't sit.

Notre Dame quarterback Ron Powlus dropped his dulled image in the news and stood while reporters gathered around him to chat about the worst game of his college career. He drummed his fingers on the table, eager to get the hell out of town.

Saturday.

He stayed home to nurse an injured ankle of his career. The sophomore stumbled to 5-0.

"There weren't going to be big plays in the last second or not in the last second. Sometimes you have to take a step back to take a step forward," Holtz said. "And we will take a couple of steps forward."

The only forward progress made on them. But there were plenty made by them. Defensive end Mike Mamula posted the Irish offense all day, slowing a ground game that had been gaining momentum in recent weeks. Taliback Randy Kinder had his fourth consecutive 100-yard game, rushing for 143 yards on 22 carries. But no other Irish runner managed more than 34 yards on the ground.

"There was a bright spot, this was it. That's not saying much though."

"The tide of the game and handed the Eagles the tide."

Irish offensive line which allowed four sacks and 143 yards rushing by Randy Kinder, helped the Eagles stymie the Notre Dame ground game. It was a slow, methodical club-alone.

"They took away my time. That was the key to that game," Holtz said. "We are going to get back on top sooner than people think."

But it wasn't and Holtz didn't change his blocking, was obvious. Kinder matched: Got away from the bread and butter rushing attack.

Never thought this would be the case, but Lou Holtz and staff appeared over-prepared. As was the case now.

"Our job is not over," defensive lineman Brian Hamilton said.

The season has just begun for the Eagles. Henry that this win as big as 1991 debacle at Happy Valley.

Before the Eagles, the last team to defeat the Irish two years in a row, was you guessed it, Penn St.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>GRADED POSITION ANALYSIS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>QUARTERBACK D</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Defended, Roon Powlus had no protection whatsoever, but 5 for 21 and just 50 yards is entirely unacceptable. Too many passes sailed out of bounds and the interceptions were costly. Have you ever seen a R?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RUNNING BACKS B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>If there was a bright spot, this was it. That's not saying much through. Absence of Becton and Zezat, especially his blocking, was obvious. Kinder did his best and so did Edwards. No excuses.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RECEIVERS D</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Terrible patterns. Not a good sense of sideline, although play selection didn't help. Another brilliant catch by Mayes on conversion play and some passable downfield blocking, but too many feet on the line.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OFFENSIVE LINE C</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Left side of the line was horrendous. Right side was merely average. Gave Powlus no time to set up and throw through. Only saving grace was some decent run-blocking at times.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DEFENSIVE LINE D</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>One sack was about all the pressure they generated. Were blown off the line by the Eagles much the same way Notre Dame dominated Florida St. in 1993. Unit that appeared to gel last week was invisible.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>LINEBACKERS C</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Biggest threat entering the game was tight and Pete Mitchell. He caught just one pass for four yards. Along with linebackers, credit goes to guys like Justin Goheen.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SECONDARY D</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Coverage was bad, tackling was over. Three of B.C.'s touchdowns runs could have been stopped short of the end zone by run-supporting DB's. The only thing they supported, beside coverage of Mitchell, was the emerging tradition of weak Irish backfield.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SPECIAL TEAMS F</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The best thing that could be said was that the Irish didn't fumble any kicks. A missed field goal, a blocked punt, an allowed field goal run, and no threat of breaking a return all combined to make for an embarrassing performance. Once the strength of the Irish, now an obvious weakness.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COACHING D</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Never thought this would be the case, but Lou Holtz and staff appeared over-prepared. As was the case now. Out away from the bread and butter rushing attack. Special teams preparation was weak, as was the intensity level of the team. Playing in front of a hostile crowd against a team that cost you the national championship last season should be motivating enough. But it wasn't and Holtz didn't change that.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OVERALL GRADE 1.26</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Worst performance by an Irish team since Pat Leahy's Penn St. game. No intensity and poor execution makes for such games. Utterly dominated at the line of scrimmage and skill positions were off badly. Continued turnover problem needs to be corrected.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Lack of offense keeps defense on field too long

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Justin Goheen didn't want to talk about a lack of emotion and certainly didn't want to discuss the Boston College offense. He had seen enough of the Eagle attack on Saturday, too much. He wanted to get on the bus, get to the airport and fly home. He would talk about Notre Dame's 30-11 loss, later. Maybe.

Goheen had few words and fewer answers.

"I'm not going to make excuses," the inside linebacker said. "We were. That wasn't our fault. It was that simple."

One run 61 times for 244 yards right at the heart of the Irish defense.

"I was surprised that they ran the ball that well," Lou Holtz said. "That was the one thing that I asked before the ballgame, whether we could stop the running between the tackles.

"I thought they outmanned us, especially in the first half," Brian Hamilton said.

But it was the first half when the Irish defense performed up to par. They held the Eagles in a lone score but weren't helped the rest of the way by an offense which had four turnovers and seven drives of one or no first downs.

"The Eagles ran 61 times for 244 yards right at the heart of the Irish defense."

Justin Goheen (54) and Brian Hamilton watch as Omari Walker scores a first half touchdown.

Boston College dared the Irish to stop the run, mostly going with seven men blocking offense for keeping his unit on the field.

But defensive coordinator Bob Davie wouldn't blame the offense for keeping his unit on the field.

"This whole thing is a team loss, there's no question about that," Davie said.

The question was answered in the worst sort of way. Justice Smith looked like Emmitt Smith, going for 144 yards on 27 carries, 134 coming in the second half.

Boston College had everything they needed to win the game. They scored the first 17 points of the game, they scored the last 24. They even scored the final two.

The Eagles were in control of the game and the future of the Notre Dame football program.

But it was the first half when the Irish defense performed up to par. They held the Eagles in a lone score but weren't helped the rest of the way by an offense which had four turnovers and seven drives of one or no first downs.

"I thought they outmanned us, especially in the first half," Brian Hamilton said.

But it was the first half when the Irish defense performed up to par. They held the Eagles in a lone score but weren't helped the rest of the way by an offense which had four turnovers and seven drives of one or no first downs.

"The Eagles ran 61 times for 244 yards right at the heart of the Irish defense."

Justin Goheen (54) and Brian Hamilton watch as Omari Walker scores a first half touchdown.
Boston College tight end Pete Mitchell celebrates Saturday's upset.

Mike Mamula stuffs Irish tailback Randy Kinder, who finished with 143 yards.

Mike Mamula forces Irish tailback Robert Farmer to fumble in the first quarter.

From the Lens

Boston College 30 Notre Dame 11

Alumni Stadium
October 8, 1994

Derrick Mayes flips after his two-point conversion catch in the fourth quarter.

Travis Davis breaks up a pass in the first half.

Boston College tight end Pete Mitchell celebrates Saturday's upset.
Like a kid again

I was in the middle of reading a book for freshman seminar (I can’t remember if it was The Paradoxical Nature of Spam or Pocket Lost Lit). Augustine’s Views on the Matter when it hit me; the best years of my life are behind me.

Then kid was great. Children’s books are straightforward. The little train always could. He didn’t say, “I think I can.” That is, if I do, in fact, exist. But does the hill exist? And does reality exist? If really, that whole event is so insignificant in the grand scheme of things...” The little engine did what he had to do went on with his life. Plus, there are a lot more pictures in The Little Engine That Could than there are in those philosophy books. I’d like to see the illustrations that would go along with some of the books I’ve read this year. "Here’s a picture of a guy thinking. Now he’s thinking really hard. Here’s a picture of the mafia of evil. What do you mean there’s nothing there? Stop being difficult!"

I headed home to the returns to the day when my brother and I would stage monumental battles between Star War figures and Strawberry Shortcake dolls.

Princess Leia: “Watch out, Luke! Blueberry Moffit’s brigade is approaching!”

Luke: “Look, Han is going to have to take care of it!”

Caused the Peculiar Purple Pin-Max of Porcupine Peak is threatening my left flank.”

Princess Leia: “Han’s out guarding the Ewok village from Lemon Merman. I’ll take My Little Pony and go warn him.”

“O-3PO! Yoda has been captured by Malibu Barbie!”

Yes, those were the days. In elementary school, my classmates and I wore plastic, hole-filled "jelly shoes," which could be purchased for a dollar a pair at K-Mart. Plastic was a high fashion item back then. We wore armfuls of jelly bracelets and gaudy plastic charm necklaces. We would sit on our pillows with our vibrantly colored “jams”—shorts made out of fabric that exploded at the fluorescent-dye factory. We completed the look with knee-high socks and leg warmers.

Then we put our hair in side pony tails and went around talking like Valley Girls. "I got a new pair of leg warmers. Then we put our hair in side pony tails and went around talking like Valley Girls. We hung people to "gag" us with kitchen utensils.

When I was a kid, "break-dancing" was popular.

Billy: “Look Mom, I’m moonwalking!”

Me: “Billy, stop writhing on the ground like a worm this instant!”

"A slew of break-dancing movies were produced, including the ever-famous "Beat Street" and "Breakin! To Save the Rec Center."

When I was little, I would set my alarm for 5:30 a.m. on Saturday mornings so that I could catch all of my favorite cartoons. The TV executives planned the cartoon schedule so that all of the really good cartoons came on the air before dawn. The morning started off with “The Shirt-Tales” and “Bugs Bunny,” and the programming slowly deteriorated throughout the day until “The Monchies-choos” and “Poochie” came on. I always hated Poochie.

When I was a kid, my homework consisted of coloring a few things and adding a few numbers. Then, I was free to play until bedtime. We used to make up games with creative rules.

Bobby: "I tagged you! Now I am the Lizard King!"

Sue: "No fair! You have to touch base and do the monkey dance around the apple tree before you can be the Lizard King!"

Bobby: "No you don’t, silly! All you have to do is be the Lizard King is do a handstand and count till in Wookie language!"

It didn’t take much to excite us back then. The anticipation of having pop with dinner had us bouncing off the walls. It didn’t take much to entertain us back then, either. Just a shake of salt and some garden slugs kept us going for hours. "Ooh, look at it flare!"

I don’t feel like reading Plato’s Observations On Dryging Paint. Instead, I think I’ll hang out with my inner child. Hey, can you tell me how to get to Sesame Street?"
Bronco's get needed win after their 0-4 start

By WENDY E. LANE

The Observer

The 49ers and Broncos needed to regroup, and they did. The Lions and the Chiefs needed a turnaround just as much, but they didn't get one.

Early on, it looked like the Lions and Broncos had both lost two straight games prior to heading to Detroit, but the #7-ranked Lions beat the #20-ranked Broncos 21-17 in the Motor City. The Lions needed a win, but it was their first against the Chiefs since 1989.

A 17-17 tie was the last thing the Lions wanted, but they couldn't capitalize on a 3rd-and-10 conversion on the Chiefs' last drive, and the tied game was on.

Meanwhile, the Chiefs were looking to get rolling again after getting shut out by the Panthers two weeks ago, but the undefeated Chargers held #10 Montana's team without a touchdown again, winning 29-6. A slow start was the last thing the Chiefs needed, but they couldn't capitalize on a 3rd-and-10 conversion on the Chargers' last drive, and the tied game was on.

"Nothing is easy for us right now, but we're happy to be in the playoffs," Steve Young said. "It's not easy being down 14-0 on the road, but we've got our guys on the team who have been around a long time. We know that we didn't need to scare and panic. We just had to get going." In other games Sunday, Dallas routed Arizona 38-7, the Los Angeles Rams beat New England 19-7, Chicago beat New Orleans 17-7, Green Bay took the Los Angeles Rams 34-24, and Buffalo defeated Miami 11-29, the New York Jets downed Indianapolis 16-13, and Atlanta brought Tampa Bay Miami 26-13.

Also, it was Washington at Baltimore, and the Minnesota Vikings visited the New York Giants on Monday night. Cincinnati, Houston and Pittsburgh had byes.

Against San Francisco, the Lions were penalized 12 times for 91 yards, and five of the penalties were against their special team, which is nothing to look for in the kicking game, and that's something I have to look into," said Walsh. The 49ers (4-2) won their fifth in a row against the Lions, including a 55-17 dominating last year. Young, who was sacked 15 times in the first five games, wasn't sacked just twice by the Lions (2-4).

Young hit 25 of 25 passes for 250 yards, including a 5-yard TD pass to Nate Singleton. Floyd carried eight times for 35 yards and caught 17 passes for 118 yards.

The Chiefs (3-2) have lost two straight games for the first time since Montana moved over last season. "It's always a concern when you don't get the ball in the zone, period," Montana said.
Irish burned by the Phoenix

By THOMAS SCHLIDT
Sports Writer

After a victory against Illinois-Chicago last Friday, the Notre Dame men's soccer team hinted at being out of their offensive slump. Yet, yesterday's loss to Wisconsin-Green Bay indicated that they have not fully recovered.

The Phoenix beat the Irish 2-1 in overtime as Phoenix midfielder Tom Sander scored his second goal of the game, off an assist from forward Sal LoCoco, in the 10th minute of overtime.

While the Irish did not dominate as they usually do, they played tough enough to win.

They were put a goal down late in the first half as the defense was called for a trip in the penalty box. Sander proceeded to convert the penalty kick and give the Phoenix the early lead.

After the goal, the Irish were forced to pick up the offensive pressure. While, not looking as in sync as earlier in the season, the Irish were able to score the equalizer in the 71st minute of play, as sophomore defender Brian Engesser drove in his first career goal.

"The goalie punched it (corner kick) out of the box," Engesser explained. "I was able to volley it into the far side of the goal." Yet, even with the offense in the middle of revival, it may be too late for the Irish. With the loss, the Irish finished their conference schedule even with four wins and losses.

The conference tournament takes the top four teams per division. The Irish before this past week were in third place in their conference with only three conference games left. They were ahead of Illinois-Chicago and Loyola and behind the Phoenix. In the week's time, they were only able to defeat Illinois-Chicago.

"There's still hope," Engesser said. "But, it'll be tough."

As for the rest of the season, the Irish will have to prepare to face three ranked opponents in SMU, UCLA, and Cal State Fullerton.

"We're just trying to come together," Engesser added. "We're having problems, but we're working hard."

Life
continued from page 20
he was tripped inside the penalty box after beating an Illinois-Chicago defender. Oates drilled the ball into the side netting to put the Irish up by two.

Oates then capped off the scoring in the 83rd minute of play when he won a long ball punted by keeper Bert Bader and finished off the play by blasting the ball to the near post over the charging Moreno's head.

The Irish backline of Chris Dean, Kevin Adkisson, and Brian Engesser was solid throughout the entire match, only allowing Illinois-Chicago seven shots. The trio, combined with goal keeper Bert Bader, recorded their fifth shutout of the season. This unit also gave the offense a big boost, serving up two assists.

Berticelli was pleased with the attitude and maturity of his team. "We were concerned that our players might be down from our recent run of bad luck, but they've handled it well and came out strong tonight. We played extremely well and executed on both offense and defense."

Coach
continued from page 20
a penalty kick past the Wisconsin keeper at 34:34. "We had some good chances to score, but didn't always convert them," Petrucelli said. "That has more to do with their play than ours. They are a tough, defensive team."

The Badger defense was forced to play short-handed when midfielder Jackie Billet was issued a red card just 3:44 into the second half.

Still, the Irish were unable to cushion their lead until midway through the second half when Manthei took a feed from Thompson and broke through the Wisconsin defense before dumping the shot in from seven yards left of the box.

"We were expecting a letdown after the North Carolina game," Manthei said. "Hopefully, this was it."
Miami mauls Seminoles, looking towards Gators

By STEVEN WINE

Coral Gables, Fla. — It turns out the Miami Hurricanes aren’t just the third-best team in the state af- ter all.

The Hurricanes beat Florida State 36-20 Saturday night, and they still have a chance to catch top-ranked Florida in the national championship rankings. If Miami (4-1) jumped from 13th to eighth in Sunday’s rankings. If the Hurricanes win their final six games — all in the Big East Conference — and Florida finishes unbeaten, the two teams likely would play in the Sugar Bowl.

The Hurricanes and Gators last met in 1987. "They’re always wanted to play us; we’ve always wanted to play them," Miami coach Dennis Erickson said Sunday. "A lot of things have to happen, but if things fall right, we might have an opportunity to win the national championship.

“It’s fun to speculate. It’s a lot more fun speculating today than it was a week ago.”

A week ago, the Hurricanes were supposedly slipping from their status as a perennial power-house. Their 58-game winning streak in the Orange Bowl ended against Washington, and a lackluster victory at Rutgers followed.

For the first time in more than a decade, Miami was overshadowed in its own state by both the Gators and Seminoles.

“You get tired of hearing that, especially when you have so many Florida kids,” Erickson said.

With Saturday’s impressive performance, Miami is back in the spotlight.

“After losing the streak in the Orange Bowl, and with the things that have been said about the program the last couple of weeks, it had to be the biggest win in my career,” said Erickson, overlooking his two national championship rings.

“You almost have to thank the press for getting our guys ready to play. Obviously it was a motivational factor,” Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, 2-8 against the Hurricanes in the past decade, said they seemed as talented as ever to him.

“It doesn’t look like the same club I saw against Rutgers or Washington,” Bowden said. “You saw the Rutgers film and said, ’Hmm, maybe they’re missing a link; maybe they’re going downhill.’ But they don’t look any different than in the other years I’ve seen them.”

The Seminoles (4-1), who fell from third to 11th in the latest rankings, are out of the Top Ten for the first time since the 10th week of the 1990 season. They’ve finished in the top four every year since 1987.

Bowden still harbors hopes of repeating as national champions.

“Miami got beat by Washington, and I’d have to put them back into contention,” Bowden said. “Now we’ve been through the same thing, and I hope we can make another run. I told the kids, ‘What’s the difference from a year ago after Notre Dame?’”

The Seminoles lost to the Fighting Irish last season and still finished No. 1.

Bowden said junior Danny Kanell remains his starting quarterback. Kanell threw three interceptions and was yanked from the game in the second half, but his replacements fared no better.

“The one thing we did find out from the ballgame is that we have the quarterbacks rated correctly,” Bowden said. “Danny Kanell is the first-team quarterback.”

Miami quarterback Frank Costa, meanwhile, earned a measure of redemption with a solid performance. He lost his starting job following a defeat at Florida State last year.

“I don’t know who’s happier for me — myself or my teammates,” said Costa, who completed 18 of 32 passes for 177 yards.

“It got the monkey off Frank’s back for him to win a big game,” Erickson said.

Miami quarterback Frank Costa, meanwhile, earned a measure of redemption with a solid performance. He lost his starting job following a defeat at Florida State last year.

“I don’t know who’s happier for me — myself or my teammates,” said Costa, who completed 18 of 32 passes for 177 yards.

“It got the monkey off Frank’s back for him to win a big game,” Erickson said.

Miami and Florida State both have a bye this week. On Oct. 22 the Hurricanes play at West Virginia, and the Seminoles host to Clemson.

“I wish we didn’t have an open date,” Bowden said. "I don’t like it after you lose. You spend two weeks pouting instead of one.”

The Hurricanes women’s tennis team had a fair showing at the Eck Invitational over the weekend. Held at Notre Dame, the invitational was a chance for the women to show off their skills for the hometown crowd.

The team had a couple of bright spots in the A Flight singles and the B Flight singles. Junior Sherri Vitale finished in fourth place in the former while freshman Molly Gavin placed third in the latter.

Vitale won both her first and second round matches, but then lost in the semi-finals on Saturday.

The Hurricanes beat Florida 34-20 Saturday night, and the Fighting Irish 7-6 on Saturday.

For the first time in more than a decade, Miami was overshadowed in its own state by both the Gators and Seminoles.

“They’ve finished in the top four every year since 1987. But if things fall right, we might have an opportunity to win the national championship...” Bowden said.

As for the Hurricanes, they still have a chance to catch the Gators.

“The Hurricanes and Gators last met in 1987. ‘They’re always wanted to play us; we’ve always wanted to play them,’ Miami coach Dennis Erickson said Sunday. ‘A lot of things have to happen, but if things fall right, we might have an opportunity to win the national championship. …’

“It’s fun to speculate. It’s a lot more fun speculating today than it was a week ago.’…

A week ago, the Hurricanes were supposedly slipping from their status as a perennial power-house. Their 58-game winning streak in the Orange Bowl ended against Washington, and a lackluster victory at Rutgers followed.

For the first time in more than a decade, Miami was overshadowed in its own state by both the Gators and Seminoles.

“You get tired of hearing that, especially when you have so many Florida kids,” Erickson said.

With Saturday’s impressive performance, Miami is back in the spotlight.

“After losing the streak in the Orange Bowl, and with the things that have been said about the program the last couple of weeks, it had to be the biggest win in my career,” said Erickson, overlooking his two national championship rings.

“You almost have to thank the press for getting our guys ready to play. Obviously it was a motivational factor,” Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, 2-8 against the Hurricanes in the past decade, said they seemed as talented as ever to him.

“It doesn’t look like the same club I saw against Rutgers or Washington,” Bowden said. “You saw the Rutgers film and said, ’Hmm, maybe they’re missing a link; maybe they’re going downhill.’ But they don’t look any different than in the other years I’ve seen them.”

The Seminoles (4-1), who fell from third to 11th in the latest rankings, are out of the Top Ten for the first time since the 10th week of the 1990 season. They’ve finished in the top four every year since 1987.

Bowden still harbors hopes of repeating as national champions.

“Miami got beat by Washington, and I’d have to put them back into contention,” Bowden said. “Now we’ve been through the same thing, and I hope we can make another run. I told the kids, ‘What’s the difference from a year ago after Notre Dame?’”

The Seminoles lost to the Fighting Irish last season and still finished No. 1.

Bowden said junior Danny Kanell remains his starting quarterback. Kanell threw three interceptions and was yanked from the game in the second half, but his replacements fared no better.

“The one thing we did find out from the ballgame is that we have the quarterbacks rated correctly,” Bowden said. “Danny Kanell is the first-team quarterback.”

Miami quarterback Frank Costa, meanwhile, earned a measure of redemption with a solid performance. He lost his starting job following a defeat at Florida State last year.

“I don’t know who’s happier for me — myself or my teammates,” said Costa, who completed 18 of 32 passes for 177 yards.

“It got the monkey off Frank’s back for him to win a big game,” Erickson said.

Miami and Florida State both have a bye this week. On Oct. 22 the Hurricanes play at West Virginia, and the Seminoles host to Clemson.

“I wish we didn’t have an open date,” Bowden said. "I don’t like it after you lose. You spend two weeks pouting instead of one.”
Irish cruise for second place at home

By RANDY WASINGER
Sports Writer

The 18th ranked Notre Dame women's cross country squad put 5 of their 7 runners in the top 21 last Friday afternoon as they cruised to a second place finish at the 38th annual Notre Dame Invitational. Alabama was the only team able to surpass the Irish, as they won the meet with 51 points. Notre Dame was 23 points behind with 74.

Alabama freshman Jessica Fry won the meet with a time of 17:28, the fastest time run on Notre Dame's course this season. Kristi Kramer placed the highest for the Irish with a time of 18:01 and an 8th place finish. She was followed closely by teammate Sarah Riley, who came in 10th.

In spite of the squad's high placing, Notre Dame Head Coach Tim Connelly was still not totally pleased with his team's performance. "We didn't run as well as we were capable," said Connelly. "I was hoping we would do a little better running up front."

Friday's huge field gave the Irish some trouble near the beginning of the race, as two Notre Dame runners, junior Amy Siegel and senior Sarah Riley, were tripped as the 148 runners scrambled for position. Siegel was never quite able to recover, finishing 47th, while Riley came back strong to finish 10th. "It's going to happen," said Riley when asked about the race's jumbled start. "Luckily, it didn't seem to have too much of an effect on my race."

Notre Dame's other top finishers include sophomore Emily Hood at 15th place (18:20), senior Maureen Kelly at 20th (18:29), and junior Kristen Dudas at 21st (18:30).

Next Sunday will be Notre Dame's first big road meet. They will travel to Michigan, where 6 of the participating teams, including the Irish, are ranked in the top 20.

Notre Dame varsity turned in their first meet of the season on Friday's huge field giving the Irish some trouble near the beginning of the race, as two Notre Dame runners, junior Amy Siegel and senior Sarah Riley, were tripped as the 148 runners scrambled for position. Siegel was never quite able to recover, finishing 47th, while Riley came back strong to finish 10th. "It's going to happen," said Riley when asked about the race's jumbled start. "Luckily, it didn't seem to have too much of an effect on my race."

Notre Dame's other top finishers include sophomore Emily Hood at 15th place (18:20), senior Maureen Kelly at 20th (18:29), and junior Kristen Dudas at 21st (18:30).

Next Sunday will be Notre Dame's first big road meet. They will travel to Michigan, where 6 of the participating teams, including the Irish, are ranked in the top 20.

The Irish women's cross country team cruised to second place at the 38th annual Notre Dame Invitational. Alabama was the only team able to surpass the Irish, as they won the meet with 51 points. Notre Dame was 23 points behind with 74.

Alabama freshman Jessica Fry won the meet with a time of 17:28, the fastest time run on Notre Dame's course this season. Kristi Kramer placed the highest for the Irish with a time of 18:01 and an 8th place finish. She was followed closely by teammate Sarah Riley, who came in 10th.

In spite of the squad's high placing, Notre Dame Head Coach Tim Connelly was still not totally pleased with his team's performance. "We didn't run as well as we were capable," said Connelly. "I was hoping we would do a little better running up front."

Friday's huge field gave the Irish some trouble near the beginning of the race, as two Notre Dame runners, junior Amy Siegel and senior Sarah Riley, were tripped as the 148 runners scrambled for position. Siegel was never quite able to recover, finishing 47th, while Riley came back strong to finish 10th. "It's going to happen," said Riley when asked about the race's jumbled start. "Luckily, it didn't seem to have too much of an effect on my race."

Notre Dame's other top finishers include sophomore Emily Hood at 15th place (18:20), senior Maureen Kelly at 20th (18:29), and junior Kristen Dudas at 21st (18:30).

Next Sunday will be Notre Dame's first big road meet. They will travel to Michigan, where 6 of the participating teams, including the Irish, are ranked in the top 20.
The Belles also lost to DePauw 15-9, 4-15, and 6-15.

"Our plays were not consistent," said coach Julie Schroeder-Biek. "Our serve reception is still poor.

"I have yet to see better hitters on the opposing teams, but without the percise pass, we cannot run our offense and use our hitters."

Saturday morning started the Single Elimination round. The Belles defeated both Alma (16-14) and DePauw (15-4, 10-15, 15-9) which pushed them into the finals on Saturday evening against Bethal. Unfortunately, Bethal knocked the Belles out of the tournament 4-15 and 12-15. "I really expected us to make it to the finals," said Schroeder-Biek. "It's very unusual for a team to be placed third in the first round and make it to the finals. We really had to play back hard."

Captain Sara Stroenzcek made the all tournament team. This is an honored position voted on by all of the coaches. They base their decision on which opposing player hurt their team the most. Stroenzcek had forty-seven kills, forty-two digs, nine blocks, and five service aces.

Saint Mary's will be playing the ninth in the nation team, Kalamazoo College Tuesday evening at 7:00 in Angela Athletic Center.

The Belles beat Kalamazoo last year, however this is the second year the Hornets have not lost a single player, according to Schroeder-Biek.

Tigers defeat young Belles

BY JENNIFER LEWIS
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

During an eight game losing streak, the Belles (3-9) are finding it very difficult to score. However, they did manage to tally a point for DePauw University in last Saturday's game.

The first point for the Tigers was crossed at a difficult angle. Maura Sullivan tried to knock the ball out of bounce using a chest block, but instead the ball rebounded into the Saint Mary's goal. DePauw scored one more point in the first half and two in the second, making the final score 4-0.

"We have no offense," said Tiffany Raczynski. "We spend most of our time working on our defense."

"We can have the best defense in the world, but if we can't get the ball through the goal, we can't win a game."

"It's hard to explain," said Deb Diemer. "We are playing really well defensively, but we just can't get a quality shot."

This was the first time in four years the Belles have lost to DePaul. Size was a big factor in Saturdays game. The Tigers had the advantage of having thirty players. DePauw was able to stay well rested because of their numerous substitutions, according to Shari Matelski.

Saint Mary's has not scored in six of their twelve games. The last goal scored was in Thursday's game against University of Chicago.

"We have no passing game. DePauw totally passed around us," said Lisa Nichols. "They knew their game really well and had three to four strong players."

"We are really a young team compared to our opposition," said Matecki. "We have eleven freshman coming out of high school and playing at a college level against juniors and seniors. Next year we will be more prepared."

The Belles only have four games left in the season and they are putting all of their energy into beating the undefeated Kalamazoo College this Wednesday at 3:30 in Kalamazoo.

"Everybody is ready for this season to end," said Nichols.

Neighborhood Study Help Program

If interested, please call Meghan Kelley 277-6437 or Randolph Schmidt 634-1154

---

Registration Deadline November 11th

Orientation: November 20th 4 - 6 P.M.

Follow up Meeting January 22, 199

Sunday 6:30 - 10 P.M.

Come to one of the information nights to find out what this is all about:
- October 11th at 6 - 7 p.m. Center for Social Concerns
- October 19th at 6:30 - 7 p.m. Center for Social Concerns
- November 3 at 6:30 - 7 p.m. Center for Social Concerns
- October 20th at 6:30 - 7 p.m. Haggar Lounge - SMC

Registration are available at the Center for Social Concerns and Campus Ministry - Notre Dame Campus Ministry, Multicultural Office and Justice Education Office - Saint Mary's
Monday, October 3, 1994 The Observer • TODAY

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

1 Battle of 1836
6 Snoozes
10 Read, as bar codes
14 Actress Linda
15 Song for one
16 Tropical food plant
17 "Great!"
11 Shaker contents
19 -·European
20 Rarely
23 Zero
24 They use lassos
25 Product with Ammonia D
29 1neptly
31 Counterpart of Mars
32 Jai
33 Kind of cow, dog or horse
36 Hercule Poirot's pride
41 Feminizing suffix
42 The last word?
43 Seamstress Betsy
44 Cons
46 TV secretary
47 New York's Island
50 Wide's partner
51 Surrerers
56 Double-reed woodwind
58 "The Wind in the Willows" character
60 Something to fall back on?
61 Stir up
62 Toledo's lake
63 Heavy reading
64 Lump
65 Auction off
66 Baker's need
67 "The Wind in the Willows" character
69 "The Wind in the Willows" character
70 In addition
71 Show horse
72 Faber
74 Oliver Twist's "Night"
76 Part of a 90's TV duo
78 Transport for Hawaitha
79 Zeal
80 Middays
82 Windblown
87 Cloth texture
91 Showy flower
92 Sharks
95 Summer. hrs.
96 Text. hangouts
99 Pub draught
100 Peace make
101 Like some enemies
102 No-no capital
103 Cuba's Castro
104 Held on
105 Peace maker
106 Like some enemies
107 No-no capital
108 "Honest" one and namesakes
109 Essence

I PREDICT SALES TO BE NOTHING FOR TWO YEARS AND THEN TAKE A SUDDEN SURGE.

THE SURGE WAS ADDRESSED SO I COULD GET THE BUSINESS CASE APPROVED. THE TWO-YEAR LAG GIVES ME TIME TO GET PROMOTED.

WHAT ABOUT ACCOUNTABILITY?

THAT'S WHERE YOU COME IN.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Battle of 1836
6 Snoozes
10 Read, as bar codes
14 Actress Linda
15 Song for one
16 Tropical food plant
17 "Great!"
19 -·European
20 Rarely
23 Zero
25 Product with Ammonia D
29 1neptly
31 Counterpart of Mars
33 Kind of cow, dog or horse
36 Hercule Poirot's pride
41 Feminizing suffix
42 The last word?
43 Seamstress Betsy
44 Cons
46 TV secretary
47 New York's Island
50 Wide's partner
51 Surrerers
56 Double-reed woodwind
58 "The Wind in the Willows" character
60 Something to fall back on?
61 Stir up
62 Toledo's lake
63 Heavy reading
64 Lump
65 Auction off
66 Baker's need
67 "The Wind in the Willows" character
69 "The Wind in the Willows" character
70 In addition
71 Show horse
72 Faber
74 Oliver Twist's "Night"
76 Part of a 90's TV duo
78 Transport for Hawaitha
79 Zeal
80 Middays
82 Windblown
87 Cloth texture
91 Showy flower
92 Sharks
95 Summer. hrs.
96 Text. hangouts
99 Pub draught
100 Peace make
101 Like some enemies
102 No-no capital
103 Cuba's Castro
104 Held on
105 Peace maker
106 Like some enemies
107 No-no capital
108 "Honest" one and namesakes
109 Essence

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE
13 I--T-S-T
15 H-U-M
17 Z-M--E
19 S-H-A-M
30 I--T-T-U-N-
32 E-V-
33 L-A-N
34 M-A-N
40 I-
42 U-CH
44 A-F-F-R-O-N
47 I--T
50 I--T
52 T-A-L
54 M-A-N
56 H-U-M
58 H-U-M
60 I--T
64 U-C-H
67 I--T
70 I--T
72 I--T
76 I--T
79 I--T
82 I--T
87 I--T
90 I--T
92 I--T
94 I--T
97 I--T
100 I--T
102 I--T
104 I--T
106 I--T
108 I--T
110 I--T

THE FAR SIDE

DAVE KELLETT

"Oh, yeah! They work real hard, all day long, seven days a week! ... And here's the best part — for chicken feed!"

GARY LARSON

"That's how you come in."

MENUS

NOTRE DAME
North Dining Hall
Italian Beef Sandwiches
Barbecue Ribs
Cheese and Vegetable Pie
Pasta Primavera

South Dining Hall
Hamburger Soup
Pulled Sausage Sandwich
Cheese and Vegetable Pie

Life's too short.
STOP THE HATE.

Questions, comments, ideas for Student Government???

Call 1-4554.
Irish use coach as key point to beat Badgers

By RIAN AKEY

Irish fall prey to Eagles, again

By KATE CRISHAM

SPORTS

Monday, October 10, 1994

I Women's Soccer

Irish Women's Soccer Use Coach as Key Point to Beat Badgers

By JARED PATZKE

Men's Cross Country

Mackey provides inspiration for team

BELLES FINISH THIRD

The Saint Mary's volleyball team had to settle for third in its own tournament

See page 16

Saint Mary's Athletics

Check inside for results of women's cross country

See page 15