Women do not need to be ordained by the Church because they can be ordained by God, Edwina Gateley told an audience last night in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium.

In a lecture and exhibition as part of The Women’s Story, A Journey of Faith, Gatesley, a writer, poet and missionary, chronicled her life history and perseverance to achieve faith in a world that is constantly pulling in the opposite direction.

Gateley said that her calling comes from a feeling “deep within her belly.” Yet, at the same time, a fear exists in our heads that cause us to rationalize away our impulse to do what is right. Society, the media, and politicians are constantly “telling us to be the best, build defenses, fly your flag the highest and stay on top” in order to retain security, Gateley stated.

However, according to Gateley, “God does not want us to worry about security and defenses or remaining big and strong.” What we need to do is “take care of the little ones.” One of the ideas that we all must stand up to is the current status quo.

“We must stand up all of our lives because ‘we cannot compromise’ and ‘we must always be on the journey’ to achieve faith in today’s confusing world during her lecture in the Hesburgh Auditorium last night.”

Gateley began her journey in November, poet, and missionary Edwina Gateley challenges an audience to believe in God’s calling in today’s confusing world during her lecture in the Hesburgh Auditorium last night.

The festival, in which Notre Dame students work with South Bend residents to beautify the Northeast Neighborhood, will be held November 5.

“It’s similar to an urban renewal project,” Carroll said.

Participants will be planting bulbs donated by the University and cleaning up residential yards and parks for the local residents.

“The gospel and we promise the gospel and we need to be the best, build defenses, fly your flag the highest and stay on top” in order to retain security, Gateley stated.

Yes, we play hard too

Football, football, football. Our media, our coaches and our schools are crazed with the sport. Today, I will share with you my thoughts on this past weekend's games. No, not the commercialized nation wide Notre Dame-BYU upset, but the small stuff, the back slapping, and zone dancing interhall football games.

It all started when a friend of mine asked me to come watch him play in a friendly interhall game on Sunday. There was nothing I wanted to do more than to take a walk across both campuses on such a beautiful autumn day. Wanting to be fashionably late, I lingered in the distance until the other groupsies arrived. Getting my friend's attention was more difficult than I imagined. He seemed to turn around to catch my eyes at least a dozen times and with total confidence in myself I smiled and waved profusely. However, the wave was no return. I turned my back around without the wave and with total confidence in myself I smiled and waved profusely. However, the wave was no return.

Okay, maybe he didn't see me. That's cool, I'll just get a little bit closer. By the way, he invited me here. He turned around for a split second and with that? After a touchdown, the receiver doesn't have his contacts on, but I didn't think the rest of the team and stared long and hard as I

The sound of helmets colliding and players giving the match such a personal, not to mention terrifying, effect.

Where else could you go to watch a priest Ferrari, The-Other-Side-Football, and no one would think twice about it? The priests, the bishops, the cardinals, all they could have played Springsteen's 'What's Going on?'

Prince Charles faces doomed marriage

LONDON

Prince Charles' future subjects are divided as they feast on an official biography revealing the man born to be king as an unhappy child and an anorexic husband trapped into a loveless marriage. Lawyers for the couple said Tuesday that "the truth" in reports Charles and Diana have agreed to a divorce and a financial settlement. The lawyers issued a joint statement after a French weekly, Voici, said Diana was to get a $38.5 million pay-off. The weekly said the maternal came to be published next month on Diana. But while doubts remained about a royal divorce, the Charles biography, left few with any doubts the marriage is truly over. The prince's aide hopes his candor will boost his public image. So far, much reaction is hostile and the gamble isn't paying off.

Film star Raul Julia suffers stroke

NEW YORK

Raul Julia, the star of films like "Kiss of the Spider Woman" and "The Addams Family," suffered a stroke, his agent said Tuesday. Julia, 49, "is in a coma and in intensive care." His doctors are very optimistic," agent Jeff Hunter said in a statement. The stroke occurred Sunday in New York. Hunter refused to divulge any details - including which hospital the actor was in. The 54-year-old actor played Gomez Addams in two films, has starred in several Broadway shows, and appeared in Joseph Papp's acclaimed Shakespeare festival.

Hall closing hurts seniors

BY PEGGY LENCZEWSKI

Saint Mary’s College Residence Hall Association (RHA) is pleased with the student support of Alcohol Awareness Week and hopes that the support continues through the week.

Holy Cross Hall’s mass and following reception were successful, according to the Holy Cross RHA representative. So far, one hundred Saint Mary’s students have pledged to abstain from beer during alcohol awareness week.

Residence Hall Advisor Gerlette Shaw feels that the programs are a success and indicate the over-all wellness of the Saint Mary’s student body.

Colette Shaw will be leading a discussion concerning alcohol and a woman’s sexuality in the Bell Tower Thursday night at seven o’clock; it promises to be "informative and utilizing" according to Shaw.

Saint Mary’s student Sandy Penska will be delivering a lecture about the effects of alcohol on women Wednesday night at seven o’clock in the Reginal North Lounge.

The RHA and SAB sponsored Halloween Party will be held at Dallaugy’s on Monday, October 31. There will be a pumpkin decorating contest, and the winners will receive a gift certificate or care package.

A discussion will be held concerning senior housing and the closing of Augusta Hall November third in Stapleton Lounge.

Many juniors are upset over the closing of the hall because it offered a lot of senior housing. Next year, the convent will expand into the hall.

A final Sesquicentennial photo will be taken in front of Le Mans Hall on Tuesday, November first. It will be shown December eighth on Good Morning America.

The Chicago Tribune said of his Pulitzer prize winning work, "Butler’s achievement is not only to reveal the inner lives of the Vietnamese, but to show through their eyes how the rest of us appear."

Sayers believes Butler is best known for his tremendous range of international themes that run throughout his books including, "American popular culture, gender issues, religion, and the clash between tradition and new culture." He has published seven novels since 1981, his most recent being "The Whisper," praised by the New York Times as "a fully realized and important expression of our era."

Butlers works can be found in "The Best of American Short Stories" and "New Stories From the South." His notoriety in these prestigious writings won him the 1993 Guggenheim Fellowship for Fiction and the Rosenthal Foundation Award, given by the American Academy of Arts and Letters.

Iraq opens doors to sites

By NEIL MacFARQUHAR
Associated Press

Musayib, IRAQ
International sanctions lifted, Iraq opened a missile test site and an explosives factory for a limited tour by the media Tuesday.

The tour of two munitions plants run by the secretive Military Industrialization Corp. is part of Iraq's campaign to begin testing the U.N. surveillance system in Baghdad and other Iraqi sites.

Once the Security Council determines that the weapons-monitoring system works, Baghdad wants the United Nations to rescind the debilitating economic sanctions it imposed on Iraq for invading Kuwait in August 1990.

"We have an important objective: to lift the sanctions to end the suffering of our people," said Husam Amin, a missile engineer who directs the liaison office with U.N. monitoring teams.

The tour occurred during the latest crisis over Saddam Hussein's military actions - Iraqi soldiers flooded southward toward the Kuwaiti border last week before U.S. forces were sent to Kuwait and the Gulf region.

Saddam's weapons of mass destruction have been dismantled since the Gulf War but many in the West believe Iraq provoked the confrontation mostly in hopes of getting the sanctions dropped.

Rolf Ekeus, head of the U.N. Special Commission charged with dismantling Iraq's military programs, says the monitoring system needs a six-month testing period, after which it can be considered operational.

At that point, Iraq asserts, it will have complied with all U.N. requirements about the weapons and should be allowed to resume oil sales, lifeline of its economy.

Iraq last month cut government rations by almost half because of shortages and poor harvests.

The U.N. agency providing humanitarian aid in Iraq warned a health and food crisis could worsen, the official Iraqi News Agency reported.

Prime Minister John Major said Tuesday he would press ahead with "care and caution" to bring peace to Northern Ireland.

The Irish Republican Army's political allies, meanwhile, intend to take the IRA declared a cease-fire seven weeks ago. Pro-British Protestant gunmen declared a truce last week.

"I plan to take the opportunities that exist," he said. But Major warned there was "as long as is necessary."

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College. It does not necessarily reflect the opinions of the administration or of the university. The views expressed in advertisements and classifieds are solely those of the advertisers. The editorial page is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s community and to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s community. Multicultural Affairs responds

Dear Editor:

In light of the number of pieces published recently in The Observer which contain erroneous information concerning ticket distribution for the Maya Angelou presentation, I am compelled to compose this letter. The Observer stated that fifty tickets were reserved for the Maya Angelou presentation were sold to any person or group, and no tickets were distributed to any person or group prior to August 22. Twenty percent of the original number of tickets were reserved for members of the general community and available on a first come, first served basis. The remaining tickets were made available to the Saint Mary’s community.

Many letters stated that the presentation should have been scheduled for the Angela Athletic Facility. In negotiations with Dr. Angelou’s agent, it was clearly stated that she will not perform in an athletic facility without a stage, a screen, and a number of costly modifications to such a facility.

I am both troubled and gratified by the articles and letters that I have read in The Observer.

I am gratified that there is such a great demand on the Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame campuses for attendance at a presentation by a great African American writer. I remind members of the Saint Mary’s College and University of Notre Dame communities that the door of the Office of Multicultural Affairs is always open to answer questions. I also remind the readership that the Office of Multicultural Affairs sponsors numerous events every semester by equally talented persons, but there are usually more seats than people. I sincerely hope that in the future we can generate this kind of interest even though the speaker might not be an international celebrity.

Who checks up on Student Affairs?

Dear Editor:

A week and a half ago I submitted a request to the Student Senate, aimed at protecting student rights and interests on a daily basis. Our resolution seeks to form a commission that will be the watchdog of student rights and interests. The commission would document abuses by Student Affairs and periodically report its findings. The people that serve on this commission will be focused on student rights and interests. We would work on your behalf and in your interest.

The student senate will meet to discuss this issue at 4:30 on Wednesday October 19 in the Notre Dame Room on the 2nd floor of the Angelia Athletic Facility. I encourage you to stop by and support this effort for student empowerment.

ND’s private battle: Higher learning vs. warped reality

Dear Editor:

I used to find myself continually asking “Why here?” I found myself entangled in a web of pervasive negativity: racism, homophobia, sexism, general trivialization of the important, and the bloating of the trivial. I find myself still asking this question, but more in a context of what I can do when up against so cunning and overwhelming a social force as there is here.

I was recently horrified by the circumstances surrounding two incidents on campus. First, the "lads must die" epithet scrawled by some close-minded fascist in the name of God. Where is the Administration on this? Here is an opportunity to show that Catholicism no longer supports genocidal trends. Once again, they have flown from reality, and chosen not to be real leaders.

Secondly, this entire issue of the sexist portrayal of women found in hall news. The very existence of any such grotesque literature reveals a certain unreal, inhuman psychological bent of this so-called place of higher learning. I had to bitterly laugh at the scrambled response of dorm representatives. Rather than acknowledge this trend towards woman bashing, they pulled in the drawbridge to their respective little dorm worlds.

Sometimes, I wonder if there are any other people on this campus that have our viewpoint. I see people rushing straight lines to their classes, and I notice when people are "too busy" to hold a real conversation with me. I beg, I plead, I refuse to accept this schools warped version of reality. I seeblindness, I acknowledge this close-minded syndrome. I ask you to take a stand for something. I love the individuals of this school. I despise the masses of business clad pseudo-scholars bent on continuing the corporate slavery and destruction of our world. Take a stand.

Big Brothers & Big Sisters

Students reach out to local children

By SHANNON FORBES

Children grow up fast. Within the brief period of time that they are children, interaction with positive adult role models is essential. Most Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students are fortunate enough to understand the beneficial effects of adult friendship and guidance.

Children's relationships can influence a child's development. Unfortunately, not all children have positive adult role models in their lives. Luckily, many people in the Saint Joseph community recognize this problem and are working to correct the situations.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Saint Joseph County is a not-for-profit social service organization dedicated to befriending children, ages six to thirteen, from single-parent homes. According to Chris Collins, a junior participant in the program, the goal of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program is to help children develop positive personal growth. By enabling them to interact with adult volunteers, on a one-to-one basis, with professional supervision and support services, they tend to show improvement.

Collins explained that many of these children often experience difficulties in social situations, as well as economical and emotional issues in the community in general. The service believes that the friendship, companionship, and guidance of a caring adult can make a positive difference in the lives of these children.

The first Big Brother agency began in Cincinnati in 1903. It was founded by a group of businessmen who befriended fatherless boys in the city. Other cities soon followed and in 1947, thirteen agencies from across the country united to form Big Brothers of America. In 1962 a group of women in New York began caring for girls who came before the New York Children's Court. This became known as the Big Sisters of America.

The two groups merged in 1977 to form Big Brothers/Big Sisters of America. In 1968 Big Brothers started as an interest group on the Notre Dame campus. One year later Big Sisters was formed through a South Bend Concerned Women's group. In 1973 both groups merged into one program and secured funding through the United Way. United Way funds the majority of the program's annual budget. Other income is generated from contributions and fund raisers.

The program is now organized through the Center for Social Concerns. Junior Volunteer Scheidler is involved in Notre Dame's Big Brother program and deems the program a great success. "It is a satisfying feeling for both the youth and the child to learn from each other's experiences."

Scheidler has developed a close friendship with his little brother, Terrell. Their time together consists of a tutoring session and a recreation session where the two play Nintendo, roller-skate, or engage in other activities on campus.

"Both the volunteer and the child benefit from the relationship," Scheidler said.

This month Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Saint Joseph County is celebrating twenty-five years of successful matches between adults and area youth.

Events include a luncheon October 14 at South Bend's Century Center. The luncheon, hosted by WNDU news anchor Maureen McFadden, will highlight the achievements each of the children will also feature the opening of an art project sponsored by the South Bend Regional Art Museum. The panel display was created by children who are waiting to be matched with volunteers.

Currently, 175 children are matched with Big Brothers and 1,497 are Big Sister, but 109 children are still waiting to be matched. Children must be between the ages of six and thirteen at the time of referral, and can participate in the program until they reach the age of eighteen or when they graduate from high school.

Volunteers must be eighteen years of age or older. They must live or work in St. Joseph County and must cooperate with a screening process that includes securing at least three positive references, consenting to a police background check, an in-depth personal interview and home visit, a personality profile test, and a volunteer training session. Volunteers are required to spend three to five hours a week with the child.

"The matching process is rigorous and detailed. The case-work staff assesses various factors. If there is a personality mismatch, our Big Brother or Big Sister, but 109 children are still waiting to be matched. Children must be between the ages of six and thirteen at the time of referral, and can participate in the program until they reach the age of eighteen or when they graduate from high school. Volunteer and child benefit from the relationship," Scheidler said.

Pre-match interviews are conducted with the volunteer, parent and child in the child's home. All three people must consent to the proposed match. After this initial introductory meeting, each weekly outings are planned by volunteer and child. The caseworker keeps close contact with volunteer, parent, and child to provide guidance, support, and goal-setting assistance.

Volunteers commit to at least one year of service, but the average length of most matches is 2 1/2 years. The program asks for commitment of at least one year because many children have already experienced great losses and desperately need a secure, stable relationship. In many cases, a one-year commitment results in a lifetime friendship.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters volunteers come from all types of backgrounds, and represent many different groups of people. They are professionals, homemakers, college students, and retirees. All possess the desire to share time, life experiences, and caring.

Big Brothers and Big Sisters receive valuable gifts such as friendship and increased self-worth in return for their service. Junior Shannon Kasten has been an active Big Sister for two years. She describes the programs as "an experience that makes volunteers feel really good about helping other people. I have learned to value my role as teacher and friend." Kasten and her little sister, Jennifer, meet once a week for two to four hours. Their activities include eating dinner together, watching movies, and doing homework. "My relationship with Jennifer has exposed me to different types of children and in doing so has made me appreciate all that I had as a child."

Kasten, Scheidler, and Collins all agree that a great deal of the program's success is due to the fact that both volunteer and child develop new understandings and perspectives concerning the extremes of childhood relationships and the importance of positive adult guidance.

In the immediate future, Big Brothers/Big Sisters is trying to take all the unmatched children to the Notre Dame-Navy game on October 29th. However, they still need tickets to accommodate the 109 unmatched children. Students who do not plan to attend the game can have the satisfaction of helping a child by donating their student ticket.
Big Dog money paid public

Associated Press

The Milwaukee Bucks took the unusual step Tuesday of going public with their offer to point guard Brandon Robinson. The offer has a $60 million guarantee over nine years — to top draft pick Glenn Robinson.

The move is further by confirming exactly what Robinson's asking for: $100 million over 13 years. That's four years more than the Bucks want to pay, coach and general manager Mike Dunleavy said in a news conference as a chance to set the record straight for fans.

"I feel we'll get a sanity will come into play," Dunleavy said.

Robinson, the nation's leading scorer with 30.4 points a game, was the first two weeks of training camp.

Dunleavy made the club's latest offer to Robinson last week. Robinson and his agent, Charles Tucker, countered with a proposal for an "inflexible 13 years" and $120 million, Bucks vice president John Steinmiller said.

"We feel it is unreasonable," said Steinmiller, who added the Bucks weren't trying to pressure Robinson by disclosing contract details.

Tucker told reporters Tuesday that Steinmiller he wasn't bothered by the Bucks holding their own Waiting.

"They have a right to do what they want to do," he said. As for why no agreement has been reached, he's said, "Absolutely everything is not the same thing Glen thinks it should be."

Tucker also confirmed that Robinson wants $100 million, but has said he's seeking a lifetime deal.

"I would think he's offering the highest ever made to an NBA rookie. While the proposal isn't as lucrative as a billion-dollar contract guard Anthony Hardaway's nine-year, $70 million contract with Orlando or as long-term as former veteran forward Larry Johnson's 12-year pact with Charlotte, Steinmiller said the Bucks are guaranteeing a record amount of years and dollars.

"It is aggressive. We feel it reflects how we feel about Glenn Robinson and his importance to this organization," Steinmiller said.

In the final minutes of the second half with B.P. leading 7-6, they put together a drive that resulted in a Katie Meehan touchdown and an almost sure victory.

The Badin Attitude showed they were not ready to give up their chances for the playoffs, though. A long pass, caught by Jill Satarak, put the Attitude on B.P.'s five yard line. With ten seconds left on the clock, Badin's Kim Gold caught a pass that put Badin in the driver's seat to the playoffs. It was not to be, though. With no time remaining on the clock, Badin was unsuccessful in converting the two-point and thus, ended the game and the season for the Attitude, by one point.

B.P.'s captain Melissa McPike said, "We had a lot of determination. At halftime, I gave an arousing speech and told my team that I didn't want this to be my last game. We really wanted this, so we stepped up and made a team effort, and I think that is what made it work."

Trinity defeats battered Belles, 6-1

By JENNIFER LEWIS

Trinity's Lady Crusaders were too much for the scoreboard in the first half. Trinity was the first to score. But immediately afterwards, Lisa Nichols passed the ball down the field to Tiffany Racynski. Racynski went on for a long drive, which appeared to go over the goal, but instead went over the defenders head and into the net, tying the game 1-1. Shinewith in the second half, Trinity scored two more goals making the final score 6-1. "It came down to which team had the most energy." Lisa Nichols said. "We were already exhausted after Saturday's game, not to mention yesterday's game."

Women prevail over Cougars

By GARRETT KERN

This past Friday, the Notre Dame men's and women's swim teams competed against BYU. The first competition for both the Cougars of BYU. This was the first team to come in after the Cougars have put up a fight, but only the women prevailed.

Sophomore Erin Brooks, lead by a strong contingent of underclassmen, defeated BYU by the slim score of 160-139. Freshman Lauren Reider finished first in all three of her events, breaststroke, and diving. Senior David Nath had the other first place finishers for the Irish. Senior Jedd Rizzi had the most impressive performance of the meet. "It was a really good day for us. We did what we needed to do," Reider said.

The Irish were lead by junior Freestyle Relay. The bright spot for the Irish came in the 200 Yd. butterfly. Irish swimmers Beville, Alan Shaw, and Matt Blanchong placed first, second, and third, consecutively. BYU came into Notre Dame with strong depth in the distance events, breaststrokes, and diving. Senior David Nath had the other first place finishers for the Irish in the 100 Yd. freestyle. "It was a really good day for us. We did what we needed to do," Reider said.

MEN'S INTERHAU

Regular season ends tonight

By NEIL ZENDER

In a battle between two play-off teams, Off-Campus and Fenn will close the Interhall season tonight on Cartier Field at 8 p.m. (2-1) Off-Campus rides into the showdown well rested after a bye week. But captain Dave DelTerzo said that the team will be anything but a cakewalk. "It's not going to be an easy game. We definitely feel that we can win. But we definitely need to cut down on the turnovers and penalties. We have to work on offensive timing and eliminate penalties." Off-Campus needs to get its offensive attack rolling. So far this season, they've struggled. On the ground, they'll give the ball to tailback Mike Thompsen, a fleet back who can make Lawrence Taylor nightmares.

The Off-Campus defense has only given up six points all year. The crew is led by Joe Goodwin on the defensive line, and George Reider at linebacker. Reider was the leader of last year's Morrissey championship defense. "I'm really proud of them. They are hungry, and we're just trying to get back into it."

Grace vs. Dillon Pride is at stake in tonight's Grace-Dillon matchup. Dillon is trying to avoid a winless season. After not winning an Interhall game for three years, Grace is hoping to finish the season at 0-1. Look for Grace to come out and mix the ball up early. They'll be testing Dillon's Big Red defense for weak spots, and trying to figure out whether to attack on the ground, or through the air. Grace's aerial attack will rely on quarterback Brian Perez. Last Sunday against Keenan, Perez averaged 8 yards per passing attempt, an impressive number even by NFL standards.

Defensively, Dillon needs a big game from right end Josh Noem, a man Big Red captain Zach Budzichowski said is a tough player. "He has the most amount of talent on campus. He'll be a real challenge to match with up."

When quarterback Scott Lupo goes to the air, he'll look for his favorite target, tight end big tight end Jim McKe. Lupo is also a great scrambler, who complements running backs Steve Hrovat and Matt Beaumun well. Grace vs. Dillon Pride is at stake in tonight's Grace-Dillon matchup. Irish blast DePaul 3-0 for first road victory

By JARED PATZKE
Sports Writer

It took eight hours, four minutes and thirty-one seconds for the Notre Dame men's soccer team to score their first goal of the season away from Alumni Field. Midfielder Jason Fox ended the Irish's five game traveling nightmare as he redirected a Tim Oates shot past DePaul goalkeeper Brett Rosenberger in the 35th minute of the game. The goal was the first of three by the Irish on the day, as they went on to defeat the Blue Demons 3-0.

The Irish offensive unit, which has come to life in the past two games, put continual pressure on the DePaul defense, amassing eight shots in the first half. Notre Dame had an opportunity to take a quick two goal lead as Tim Oates was awarded a penalty kick with six minutes left to play in the first half; however, Oates' shot was blocked by Rosenberger. Keith Carlson added the Irish's last two goals of the game in the second half.

The first came in the 71st minute of play as he took a cross from Antonio Capasso and put it past Rosenberger. His second goal came in the 70th minute of play as he unleashed a bullet from 35 yards out. The shot surprised Rosenberger and found the back of the net.

Coach Mike Berticelli only had positive things to say about his team's performance. "This was a good win for us. We came out and relaxed. We have been playing well for the past two games and the pressure has been on the Irish's last two goals of the game. This marks their seventh shutout of the season.

"We moved Kevin Adkisson to stopper and he dominated that area of the field and shut down DePaul effectively," commented Berticelli. Adkisson was joined by fellow defensemen Brian Engesser, Chris Dean, Dane Whitley, and goalkeeper Bert Bader. The five flustered the Blue Demon offense, only allowing four shots in the game. Bader was only called upon once to make a save.

Since the Irish have moved Adkisson to stopper and placed Whitley at sweeper they have gone 2-0-1 and outscored their opponents 6-1. The switch from the 3-5-2 to the 4-4-2 alignment could be the missing niche which the Irish have been desperately looking for all season. The win versus DePaul propels Notre Dame above the .500 mark for the season, giving them a 8-7-1 record.

Lineup competition, fundamentals will mark rest of season

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz enters the bye week with some definite plans he hopes will better his football team before the Irish (4-3) host Navy October 29. Holtz vows the Irish, losers of two straight, will return to fundamentals and also give some younger players a chance to crack the lineup.

"There will be a spring type atmosphere," Holtz said. "It will be very similar in tempo and intensity." Notre Dame's coach also listed a number of young players that will be given a chance to earn playing time. Ivory Covington and Allen Rossum will be tried in the defensive secondary, along with fellow freshman Jarvis Edison. Starting cornerbacks Bobby Taylor and Shawn Wooden are ailing and it is uncertain how much they will practice.

John McLaughlin and Corey Bennett will be looked at rush end and left tackle respectively. Senior midfielder Keith Carlson will ignite the Notre Dame offense as he scores two goals in the Irish's 3-0 victory over DePaul.

One person cannot win a football game for the whole team, however, one person can control much of the outcome. In an offensive battle between No. 1 Pangborn and No. 11 Howard, P.B.'s Kelly Brady proved she had the talent to control.

She said, "If it wasn't for my team, I wouldn't be that good." Her contribution in this game included three impressive touchdowns and numerous runs, catches and moves that left Howard speechless.

Her first touchdown came on a pass to the right which she bobbled three times before regaining control and running it in for the score, just as time expired in the first half. On the next play of the game, the second half kick-off, quarterback M.T. Kraft caught the ball, ran it five yards and lateralled it to Brady, who proceeded to take it to the outside and into the endzone. After the successful extra-point, Pangborn knew they were in complete control as they were in the lead 14-7.

"We are the better team by far," Brady said. "Our offense really gelled tonight."

Lyons 20, Cavanaugh 7

Equal strength in offense and defense earned Lyons the No. 2 position in the power polls. However, last night against Cavanaugh, it was the combination of quarterback Julie Byrd and tailback Kathy Tschang that led Lyons to 20-7 victory over Cavanaugh. It seems as though the two knew where to be to make a connection, whether it was for a first down or a touchdown. Byrd's magic started immedi-ately, as she ran the ball into the endzone within the first two minutes of the game.

Later in the first half, Byrd connected with Tschang for her first touchdown of the game, putting Lyons up 13-7 at the half. Cavanaugh showed some impressive offensive line skill, as their quarterback rarely encountered any kind of pressure from Lyons' defense.

"Overall, I think I played pretty good. I had bad plays mixed in with good ones, so I guess you could say that even though I think I played pretty good," she said.

Breen-Phillips 13, Badin 12

The destinies of two seasons were decided on one play with no time left on the clock. Emotions ran high as No. 8 Badin watched their playoff hopes disappear while No. 10 Breen-Phillips secured a playoff spot.
