Race team to roar in Phoenix

By SEAN O'CONNOR
News Writer

The Indy-style electrically powered Phoenix Ireland Racing Team will clash with cars from four other schools this Sunday in Phoenix at Firebird International Raceway.

The 80-kilometer race will cap off a weekend of competition which begins today with the qualifying and continues through the heat races. The main event will fire up Sunday at 1:45 p.m., when Notre Dame’s car faces competitors from Arizona State and Bowling Green State Universities, the University of Arizona, and Carl Hayden High School of Phoenix.

The team hopes to continue its racing success, following up a first-place finish over 11 opponents last July in the Cleveland Electric Formula Classic.

They took second behind Ohio State University in August in the Electrice Formula Light Car at Indianapolis Raceway Park.

The Solar and Electric Racing Association of Phoenix, with the cooperation of Arizona State University, has developed an Indy-style race car in the summer of 1993 and began a program designed to further electric car technology while providing learning experiences to students.

see RACE CAR / page 4

Senate kills budget amendment

Dole, Hatfield cast deciding votes

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Senate solemnly dealt defeat Thursday to the balanced-budget amendment to the Constitution, cornerstone of a broader Republican drive to cut spending and shrink government. Both sides sought political advantage in the outcome of battle.

The 65-35 vote left the amendment just shy of the needed two-thirds majority, and followed a Democratic accusation that the Republicans were threatening Social Security, a charge Majority Leader Bob Dole sharply denied.

At the White House, President Clinton challenged GOP leaders in Congress to detail "how they are going to keep the promises of their "Contract (With America)" by reducing the budget and paying for their tax cuts."

Fifty one Republicans and 14 Democrats voted for the amendment, while 33 Democrats and two Republicans—Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Dole—voted no.

Dole is a firm supporter. His vote—which left the amendment's supporters two votes short of victory—was cast solely to place on the pre-voting side, a parliamentary maneuver to keep the political- ly popular amendment alive for another possible vote during the 1996 election season.

"Let em' try," Democratic leader Tom Daschle said defiantly a few hours before the vote. By opposing the amendment, he said, Democrats were saving Social Security trust funds from deficit cutters.

The amendment is designed to end the so-called "red ink" that has the national debt approaching $5 trillion. It calls for a balanced budget beginning in the year 2002, unless three-fifths of both houses vote otherwise.

Social Security aside, the amendment's supporters two votes short of victory. Previous protests were not approved by Kirks Office.

Officials from Student Government discussed the amendment with students. Officials said students had sent letters to members, asking them to sign petitions for an advers the Senate declaring support for the cause of GLND/SMC.

Faculty, staff and students in the Fieldhouse Mall listening to speeches and readings from an assortment of speakers, about forty minutes, was sponsored by two the administration's action in barring GLND/SMC from meeting in the University Counseling Center as a group. Hutchinson noted that while the administration may not recognize GLND/SMC as an official organization, "we recognize you, accept you, and love you.

Mark Jordan, associate professor at the Medieval Institute, also spoke and pointed Nole Dole sharply denied, out Notre Dame traditions that would be subject to scrutiny if the administration used the same criteria it used to judge GLND/SMC.

"If the university cracked down on everything they found to be against Catholic Teaching, SYR's and a dozen other student activities would be shut down this afternoon," he said.

John Blandford, co-chair of GLND/SMC, addressed the assembly and thanked the Notre Dame community for its support during the past weeks.

"When I decided to see RALLY / page 4

Faculty, students rally for GLND/SMC

By DAVID TYLER
News Editor

Over three hundred members of the Notre Dame community gathered to press the demonstration. Organizers announced that they hope to file signed petitions for an adver the Senate declaring support for the cause of GLND/SMC.

Faculty, staff and students in the Fieldhouse Mall listening to speeches and readings from an assortment of speakers, about forty minutes, was sponsored by two the administration's action in barring GLND/SMC from meeting in the University Counseling Center as a group. Hutchinson noted that while the administration may not recognize GLND/SMC as an official organization, "we recognize you, accept you, and love you.

Mark Jordan, associate professor at the Medieval Institute, also spoke and pointed Nole Dole sharply denied, out Notre Dame traditions that would be subject to scrutiny if the administration used the same criteria it used to judge GLND/SMC.

"If the university cracked down on everything they found to be against Catholic Teaching, SYR's and a dozen other student activities would be shut down this afternoon," he said.

John Blandford, co-chair of GLND/SMC, addressed the assembly and thanked the Notre Dame community for its support during the past weeks.

"When I decided to see RALLY / page 4

GSU to create teaching award, study housing

By EDWARD IMBUS
Assistant News Editor

The Graduate Student Union, the primary representative body of Notre Dame graduate students, decided to address the University for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.

The ad criticized the Union for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.

The ad criticized the Union for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.

The Graduate Union, the primary representative body of Notre Dame graduate students, decided to address the University for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.

The ad criticized the Union for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.

The ad criticized the Union for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.

The Graduate Student Union, the primary representative body of Notre Dame graduate students, decided to address the University for students with housing. The Graduate Student Union, however, focused on The Observer's return to publication after publishing an advertisement that it had submitted. It was defaced 8-7, with two abstentions.
Barbie is not a realistic career goal

I just had my first job interview ever the other day. It was hell. Pure hell. You know they were going to take me up to the curve balls they were going to throw me. If you could be any type of cookie you wanted, what would it be and why?

Uh, if I say Fig Newton, is that bad?

"You're on a plain that's been hijacked over Hoboken. What do you do?"

Uh, ask if they'd consider stopping for huggin'!

"What's the square root of 576?"

Uh, can I come back to you on that one?

Those: Wait a minute. Then they threw me the cliché.

"Tell us about your direction in life."

Director of life? You want me to name one of those now, like today? Maybe I missed one too many days of pre-school. Even my kid knew him. What he wanted to be. No ifs, ands, or buts.

A great car. Great clothes. Ken. Whether or not you put them on, it makes you feel good. You think it's funny. At least it showed some direction in life. Some imagination. A remote connection to something I'll have in the future career choice.

Had you asked me at the same age, I would have said, "Barbie wants to be a doctor, she is now, and, heck, I think I'd still say Barbie."

Barbie had it made. She had a great house. A great car. A great boyfriend. Ken. Whether or not she had a job, I couldn't say for sure. She didn't need any or something for a white space suit doubled as evening gown, but I think that's just a little out of my league.

And, sadly enough, I recently come to the conclusion that Barbie is one heck of an innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative. I couldn't say for sure. She didn't need any of those or something for a white space suit doubled as evening gown, but I think that's just a little out of my league.

As a skillful enough, I recently come to the conclusion that Barbie is one heck of an innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innovative, innov
Sheehan to head education alliance

Sister Lourdes Sheehan R.S.M., U.S. Catholic Conference (USCC) secretary for education since 1990, will become director of the University of Notre Dame-sponsored Alliance for Catholic Education (ACE), effective July 1.

The National Catholic Educational Association (NCEA) announced Thursday that Sister Sheehan has been named to the position after a nationwide search. Sister Sheehan was named to the position of executive director of the newly formed ACE in the fall of 1994.

Sister Sheehan will oversee the ACE's educational programs throughout the country. She will work closely with university presidents and foundation directors to improve the quality of Catholic education.

Sister Sheehan has been a member of the ACE board of directors since 1990. She is a member of the ACE board of directors and has served as vice president of the organization since 1992.

Prior to joining the ACE, Sister Sheehan was a member of the ACE's steering committee. She served as vice president of the organization from 1984-85.

Sister Sheehan served as college president at Mount Saint Agnes College in Baltimore in 1958, with a bachelor's degree in history and education.

She earned a master's degree in colonial history from the University of Pennsylvania in 1963 and a doctorate from Virginia Tech in 1981.

In its first year of operation, ACE has trained and placed 46 recent Notre Dame and Saint Mary's graduates in 30 schools in dioceses across the country.

"The ACE excites me and provides an opportunity to participate in a new and unique program to spur on Catholic schools," Sister Sheehan said.

"It is a work of providence that she now has consented to step into the directorship of the program as we continue to set ambitious goals for its growth." Sister Sheehan has been an educator and educational administrator for more than 35 years.

"It can be the teacher's or the principal's role, or even the director's role," she said. "It can be the role of a leader in a new and unique program to spur on Catholic schools."

Sister Sheehan was named to the position of executive director of the newly formed ACE in the fall of 1994.
Senate

continued from page 1

some opponents argued it would lead to devastating cuts and cripple efforts to deal with future economic emergencies and didn’t belong in the Constitution. A key element of “Contract With America,” it cleared the GOP-controlled House in January on a vote of 300-132. Its rejection marked the sharpest setback to date for the conser­ ative revolution that Republicans launched after gaining control of both houses.

The Senate vote also marked a remarkable triumph for 77­

year-old West Virginia Democrat Robert Byrd, who led the opposition. He said afterward: “The issue has decided in favor of the sanctity of the Constitution.”

Republicans had looked to the measure to provide discipline for tough votes ahead. “It might make getting what we want to do harder,” Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Budget Committee, said shortly after the vote. “For some senators, it might be easier to avoid the tough votes.”

Moments before the vote, Dole accused Democrats of playing blatant politics. “All this talk about protecting Social Security is a cover for a tax increase,” he said, referring to two years ago, including higher levies on wealthy Social Security recipients.

He said Republicans would soon propose a five-year plan to put the budget on a path toward balance by 2002. “Our plan will not raise taxes,” he said. “Our plan will not touch Social Security.”

Daschle said Democrats would gladly join in the deficit­ cutting effort, but added, “It’s the Republicans who are in the leadership here … We want to see what they’ve got.”

For the roll call finally occurred after a month of debate, it was dramatic, yet scripted, since every senator’s position was known in advance. They voted out of order, rising at their desks by turn to answer the roll. Aides and House members lined the back of the chamber, and all eyes turned to Hatfield when he rose from his seat at the center aisle to utter the “no” that sealed the measure’s fate. Dole and other Republicans sharply attacked six Democrats voting against the measure after supporting a virtually identical one last year.

A contingent of the 73­ member House GOP freshman class trooped across the Capitol parking lot toward the Senate bearing a huge poster. “Wasted for flip­flop.” It said, bearing photographs of Daschle as well as Sens. Bill Bradley, Paul S. Feinstein, Byron Dorgan, Jeff Bingaman, Wendell Ford and Ernest Hollings.

In an indication of the measure’s popularity, all other senators who face re-election next year — three Democrats and two Republicans — abandoned past opposition to vote in favor.

No sooner had the measure died than Republicans announced a news conference for Friday to discuss “plans to defend the Democratic balanced­budget amendment opponents.”

Presidential politics lurked in the background, as well, as aides to Dole acknowledged that passage of the amendment under his leadership would have been a boon to his un­ annonce­

bidding for the White House.

Even so, said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, already in the race for the White House, continued from page 1 began his bid for the White House.

The students and other member of the team were able to present the car for the July 1994 race in Cleveland at a cost of about $120,000. This figure includes the car, transporteral, tour­ing and the many other costs as­so­ciated with developing a race­

ning team.

The students and members of the team were able to present the car for the July 1994 race in Cleveland at a cost of about $120,000. This figure includes the car, transportation, testing, and the many other costs associated with developing a racening team.

The Formula Lightning is a single­seat, open­wheeled race­ car which is 30 inches high and 163 inches long. The Notre

Race Car

continued from page 1

The cars were to be built by students using the Formula Lighting chassis coupled to a motor and drive system of their own design. The program aimed to bring interested schools together in a race that would test the accomplishments of the builders by pitting school against school.

Notre Dame’s car was constructed by undergraduates in the College of Engineering. The college entered the program in September 1993, “with a loan from the University Research Office, faith in our abilities, and numerous visits to the Groto,” said J.D. Miles, an Engineering Assistant Dean and one of the members of the racing team.

The students and members of the team were able to present the car for the July 1994 race in Cleveland at a cost of about $120,000. This figure includes the car, transport­

eral, tour­ing and the many other costs as­so­ciated with developing a race­

ning team.

The students and members of the team were able to present the car for the July 1994 race in Cleveland at a cost of about $120,000. This figure includes the car, transportation, testing, and the many other costs associated with developing a race­

ning team.

The Formula Lightning is a single­seat, open­wheeled race­

run on the car, but test it and work with our students during development,” Miles said. “Mark Folkerts did a truly superb job for our team.”

The work done by students in designing the car propulsion system attests to the intellectual significance of the project. “To build a car and prepare for races, team members must adapt the skills they learn in the classroom to make decisions on materials to be used, chemical safety, electrical interfaces, and pit stop strategies,” explained William Barry, a professor and team member.

Race Car

continued from page 1

The electrically powered car of Notre Dame’s Irish Racing Team will race at Firebird International Raceway this Sunday.

Dame vehicle uses 29 AC Delco 12-volt lead-acid batteries to power its 350-volt AC Delco electric motor. The car achieves 0-60 in 6.5 seconds, boasting a top speed of 140-145 mph.

At the wheel is racing veteran Mark Folkerts, whose driving brought victory in Cleveland and second in Indianapolis. Folkerts, who became involved in the project soon after its conception, is the 1993 SCCA Central Division National Champion in Formula Atlantic Cars.

“We were fortunate to have a professional driver volunteer to Endeavor astronauts prepare for stargazing

By MARCIA DUNN

CAPE CANAVERAL

Eager to begin two weeks of stargazing, space shuttle Endeavour's astronauts focused and adjusted three ultraviolet telescopes in orbit Thursday following a brilliant nighttime launch.

The crew's four astrophysicists spent most of the day reading the telescopes for astronomical observations, expected to begin Friday.

During the 15 1/2-day flight -- the longest in shuttle history -- the telescopes will study ultraviolet light streaming from stars, galaxies, quasars, the moon and Jupiter. Astronomers want to understand how the universe began and how it might end.

Their No. 1 quarry is elusive, so scientists have to study it from space.

The observations by the telescopes at a quasar 10 billion light years away to see if ultraviolet light radiating from the quasar is absorbed by anything. If it is, the absorber material could be intergalactic helium.

"If we just succeed in getting good enough observations of that one object, I'll be satisfied with the mission," said Arthur Davidson, an astrophysicist at Johns Hopkins University who is in charge of one of the telescopes.

Astronomers have more than 600 celestial targets from which to choose.

Endeavour's astrophysicists will work around the clock in 12-hour shifts to squeeze in as many observations as possible before the flight ends on March 17.

Earth's atmosphere blocks out most ultraviolet radiation, so scientists have to study it from space.

The observations by the $200 million set of telescopes known as Astro will complement -- not duplicate -- the work of the $1.6 billion Hubble Space Telescope.

Over 200 attend Campus Ministry faith seminar

By KELLY MOORE

Campus Ministry is sponsoring a three-part series called "Keeping the Faith" which focuses on different ways people find God.

The lecture series began last Sunday night as more than 200 people joined in a meditative prayer called taize, which involves repetitive songs.

Following the prayer, John Dunn, a professor of theology, presented a lecture on finding God in the "center of stillness" by finding a center of stillness of one's own.

Each session includes an experience of a prayer, a presentation by a speaker or panel, and a question and answer period.

The second session, held on Thursday, included a presentation by popular theology professor, Regina Coll. She discussed praying with the scriptures and expanding images of God in prayer form.

The last session will be held in the Keenan- Stanford chapel from 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. This session will focus on the relationship between service and prayer.

In place of a speaker, a panel to discuss how prayer and service go hand in hand will be held.

Members of the panel represent different lifestyles and therefore will discuss many different spiritual experiences.

Gregg Behr and Katie Glynn, both Notre Dame students, Felicia Leon and Dan Driscoll, a married couple, and Joe Ross, rector of Morrissey Hall will all share their experiences on relating service and strong prayer.

The whole point of this series of lectures is not to give students the type of information about religion that they can learn in a theology class.

"The series is designed to help people learn how they can use prayer in their lives and feel more comfortable with their own spirituality," Kate Barrett, of the Campus Ministry office in Badin Hall, said.

The lecture series began last Sunday night as more than 200 people joined in a meditative prayer called taize, which involves repetitive songs.

Gregg Behr and Katie Glynn, both Notre Dame students, Felicia Leon and Dan Driscoll, a married couple, and Joe Ross, rector of Morrissey Hall will all share their experiences on relating service and strong prayer.

The whole point of this series of lectures is not to give students the type of information about religion that they can learn in a theology class.

"The series is designed to help people learn how they can use prayer in their lives and feel more comfortable with their own spirituality," Kate Barrett, of the Campus Ministry office in Badin Hall, said.
Welfare plan to cut $35 billion

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Republican legislation to dis- mandle the federal welfare sys- tem would cut spending on so- cial programs by more than $32 billion over five years, congressional budget experts said Thursday.

The biggest savings in the GOP plan, according to an analy- sis by the President’s Budget Of- fice, come from deep cuts in programs that provide cash assistance to disabled children and elderly aliens.

A House Ways and Means subcommittee released its third day of debate on the GOP legislation, which would repeal dozens of welfare programs developed since the New Deal and cut the money — and the responsibility for sup- porting the poor — to the states.

The GOP legislation also re- peals the federal government’s promise to provide a monthly check to single mothers and children whose income meets eligibility requirements.

Republican lawmakers, meanwhile, released their plan late Thursday to strengthen child support collections by es- tablishing strong new state and national guidelines and a network to track non-paying parents.

Democrats criticized the child support measures as weak, noting that they do not include provisions to take away the professional, occupational and driver’s licenses of non-paying parents.

"This was really the hope for fair treatment of women," said Rep. Barbara B. Kennelly, D-Conn. But Rep. Jim McCrery, R-LA., said the bill would "create a national network to track and locate deadbeat dads and demand child support judgments against those dads. As a result, parents who are guilty of using hypobole."

President Clinton told Ways and Means Committee chair- man, meanwhile, that he be- lieved the bill should go to Congress for a full vote when it returns after two days off.

Democrats argue that the plan would cut a program for the elderly and disabled, and denial of cash benefits to single mothers and children whose income meets eligibility requirements.

"This is really the hope for fair treatment of women," said Rep. Barbara B. Kennelly, D-Conn. But Rep. Jim McCrery, R-LA., said the bill would "create a national network to track and locate deadbeat dads and demand child support judgments against those dads. As a result, parents who are guilty of using hypobole."

President Clinton told Ways and Means Committee chair- man, meanwhile, that he be- lieved the bill should go to Congress for a full vote when it returns after two days off.

Democrats argue that the plan would cut a program for the elderly and disabled, and denial of cash benefits to single mothers and children whose income meets eligibility requirements.

"This was really the hope for fair treatment of women," said Rep. Barbara B. Kennelly, D-Conn. But Rep. Jim McCrery, R-LA., said the bill would "create a national network to track and locate deadbeat dads and demand child support judgments against those dads. As a result, parents who are guilty of using hypobole."

President Clinton told Ways and Means Committee chair- man, meanwhile, that he be- lieved the bill should go to Congress for a full vote when it returns after two days off.

Democrats argue that the plan would cut a program for the elderly and disabled, and denial of cash benefits to single mothers and children whose income meets eligibility requirements.
Catholics cheer papal visit

By RICK HAMPSON

NEW YORK

From a Nebraska family of 12 to a New Jersey souvenir maker who almost lost his shirt when the pope canceled last year's U.S. visit, American Catholics cheered the news Thursday that John Paul II will be coming in October.

The unlucky businessman, miraculously, again wants a piece of the action. "After last year," said Robbi Villani, "we sure in hell know what we're doing."

Last year the pope had planned to visit the dioceses of Newark, Brooklyn, New York, N.J., and Baltimore, but postponed the trip while he recovered from hip-replacement surgery.

On Thursday, the Vatican announced he will make the trip this fall, arriving in Newark and flying home from Baltimore on Oct. 8.

The family of Pat and Debbie Wahlmeier of Junction, Neb., was to have come to New York last year to meet the pope — an honor that went with being selected the Knights of Columbus' International Family of the Year.

Debbie said she hoped the family, which includes 10 children, three of them adopted, could come East in October.

"But it's a real blessing just to have him 'Come to the U.S.'" she said. "We've been concerned about his health. We've prayed for him.

Last year's trip was canceled at a time when the 74-year-old pontiff was looking particularly frail and tired. But the Vatican denied he was seriously ill, and the pope resumed foreign travel in January.

Villani is looking forward to the visit. The Newark souvenir maker won the contract to make T-shirts, hats and other memorabilia to sell at the pope's scheduled Mass last year at Giants Stadium in northern New Jersey.

The archdiocese had canceled cancellation insurance. Villani did not, and under his contract he was stuck with $500,000 in merchandise, much of it dated. Despite his losses — Villani would not disclose them by specific — "we are a lot of it" — he said he hoped to be selected as the souvenir vendor for the pope's New Jersey event.

It remained unclear exactly what the pope would be doing in addition to an Oct. 5 visit to the United Nations to celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Several church officials said they expect the pope's New York-area itinerary to be similar to last fall's, which would include a Mass at Giants Stadium and visit Newark's Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, both of which were on the pope's 1994 schedule.

"I'd love the holy father to see our cathedral. The many faces of the church of Newark," McCarrick said. "I'd love him to say 'Hello! That church of Newark, wow! They have a little of everybody.'"

The Baltimore archdiocese said the pope will celebrate Mass at the Camden Yards baseball park on the last day of his U.S. visit.

The University Counseling Center
Fischer/O'Hara Grace
Campus Ministry
University Village

A Continuing Series for Graduate Students
Presenting
Dominic Vachon, Ph.D.
Discussing
CONFLICT:
"YOU'RE RIGHT -- I'M RIGHT!
WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT NOW?"

This workshop focuses on techniques for recognizing and working through "conflicts" which occur between roommates and which arise in relationships and friendships.

Date: Sunday, March 5th
Time: 4:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
At: Fischer/O'Hara Grace Community Center

Sponsored by:
The University Counseling Center
Fischer/O'Hara-Grace
Campus Ministry
University Village

Planned Parenthood may add primary care

By MICHAEL BLOOD

NEW YORK

Planned Parenthood, one of the most forceful advocates for abortion and birth control, is bitterly debating a reorganization that would turn its 900 clinics into health-care centers treating everything from the flu to bruises.

The plan to add primary care to Planned Parenthood's roster of family planning services would be one of the most dramatic changes in the organization's history. Villani did planning the trip was canceled at a time when the 74-year-old pontiff was looking particularly frail and tired. But the Vatican denied he was seriously ill, and the pope resumed foreign travel in January.

Villani is looking forward to the visit. The Newark souvenir maker won the contract to make T-shirts, hats and other memorabilia to sell at the pope's scheduled Mass last year at Giants Stadium in northern New Jersey.

The archdiocese had canceled cancellation insurance. Villani did not, and under his contract he was stuck with $500,000 in merchandise, much of it dated. Despite his losses — Villani would not disclose them by specific — "we are a lot of it" — he said he hoped to be selected as the souvenir vendor for the pope's New Jersey event.

It remained unclear exactly what the pope would be doing in addition to an Oct. 5 visit to the United Nations to celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Several church officials said they expect the pope's New York-area itinerary to be similar to last fall's, which would include a Mass at Giants Stadium and visit Newark's Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, both of which were on the pope's 1994 schedule.

"I'd love the holy father to see our cathedral. The many faces of the church of Newark," McCarrick said. "I'd love him to say 'Hello! That church of Newark, wow! They have a little of everybody.'"

The Baltimore archdiocese said the pope will celebrate Mass at the Camden Yards baseball park on the last day of his U.S. visit.

THE OBSERVER • NATIONAL NEWS

Sunday, March 5, 1995

Planned Parenthood, one of the most forceful advocates for abortion and birth control, is bitterly debating a reorganization that would turn its 900 clinics into health-care centers treating everything from the flu to bruises.

The plan to add primary care to Planned Parenthood's roster of family planning services would be one of the most dramatic changes in the organization's history. Villani did planning the trip was canceled at a time when the 74-year-old pontiff was looking particularly frail and tired. But the Vatican denied he was seriously ill, and the pope resumed foreign travel in January.

Villani is looking forward to the visit. The Newark souvenir maker won the contract to make T-shirts, hats and other memorabilia to sell at the pope's scheduled Mass last year at Giants Stadium in northern New Jersey.

The archdiocese had canceled cancellation insurance. Villani did not, and under his contract he was stuck with $500,000 in merchandise, much of it dated. Despite his losses — Villani would not disclose them by specific — "we are a lot of it" — he said he hoped to be selected as the souvenir vendor for the pope's New Jersey event.

It remained unclear exactly what the pope would be doing in addition to an Oct. 5 visit to the United Nations to celebrate its 50th anniversary.

Several church officials said they expect the pope's New York-area itinerary to be similar to last fall's, which would include a Mass at Giants Stadium and visit Newark's Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, both of which were on the pope's 1994 schedule.

"I'd love the holy father to see our cathedral. The many faces of the church of Newark," McCarrick said. "I'd love him to say 'Hello! That church of Newark, wow! They have a little of everybody.'"

The Baltimore archdiocese said the pope will celebrate Mass at the Camden Yards baseball park on the last day of his U.S. visit.

THE OBSERVER • NATIONAL NEWS

Sunday, March 5, 1995
Exceeding Expectations

It's a big decision, choosing where to begin your career. There are many reasons to join Deloitte & Touche — our clients, our dedication to quality, our professional development opportunities, our people. People who enjoy what they do. Our mission is simple: To be the professional services firm that consistently exceeds the expectations of our clients and our people.

With 15,800 people in more than 100 offices in the United States, and through our global organization, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu International, we offer clients worldwide an outstanding and diverse portfolio of services. For you, this means unlimited opportunities to grow, professionally and personally. So why not join a firm that will exceed your expectations?

Congratulations to the following individuals who will join Deloitte & Touche after graduation:

- Brian Baker
- Phyllis Barber
- Tom Blatt
- Christopher Boyle
- Peter Connolly
- Jane Daly
- David DiFranco
- Doug Duncan
- Mike Fox
- Molly Freeman
- Margaret Garzello
- Chris Graves
- Rita Hajjar
- Mike Halloran
- Matthew Janzaruk
- John Kilcayne
- Andrew Kindred
- Mark Kost
- Stacey Krajewski
- Matthew Kramer
- Jon Lindberg
- Charles McEnery
- Kurt Merschman
- Mike Murray
- Shirley Nagy
- David Owings
- Christopher Pardi
- Gary Rychhalski
- Michael Schreck
- Vince Smith
- Patricia Sullivan
- Paul Weis

These professionals will join our Audit, Tax and CAS practices in the following offices: Atlanta, Boston, Charlotte, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Denver, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Indianapolis, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, New York, Omaha, Phoenix, Pittsburgh, Springfield and St. Louis.

Accounting, Tax, and Consulting Services

Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu International

Deloitte & Touche is an equal opportunity firm. We recruit, employ, train, compensate, and promote without regard to race, creed, color, national origin, age, sex, veteran status, or handicap.
Alcohol may lower diabetes risk

By RANDI HUTTER EPSTEIN
Associated Press

LONDON

Pack-a-day smokers are twice as likely as non-smokers to get adult-onset diabetes, but moderate drinkers run a lower risk than teetotalers, according to a study of more than 40,000 men.

Although doctors have long known that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.

Although doctors have long noted that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.

Although doctors have long noted that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.

Although doctors have long noted that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.

Although doctors have long noted that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.

Although doctors have long noted that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.

Although doctors have long noted that diabetics are particularly susceptible to the ill effects of smoking, this is one of the few studies to show the converse: healthy people who smoke are more likely to get diabetes.

"The message for smokers clearly is to stop, and you may also want to ask your doctor to check you for diabetes," said Dr. Eric Rimm, the leading investigator from Harvard School of Public Health.

"For alcohol," said Rimm, "this is one additional piece of evidence... that shows that moderate drinking is okay among people who can control their consumption."

The findings will be published in Saturday's British Medical Journal.

"I was delighted to see his results," said Dr. Gerald Heaven, the leading investigator at the University of London.
German police detain trader

By NESHIA STARCEVIC
Associated Press

FRANKFURT

The British trader whose gambles led to the collapse of Britain's oldest investment bank was several steps ahead of a Singapore arrest warrant and almost home when police caught up with him Thursday.

Nick Leeson was escorted off a flight from Malaysia and detained by German police while he was made to police Monday, said Thursday it was "very odd" to have traveled the "revered man." He was released and flown to Britain.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brunei Airlines office in Kota Kinabalu on Tuesday, asked for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

The Seemng snub may have served as a face-saving gesture. According to Japanese media, the U.S. ambassador to Japan, assumed the U.S. Embassy official would say only, "We have not made any decision on what to do if invited." The embassy official was not available to comment.

Leeson repeatedly told police he wanted to return to Britain, where his employer, Baring Brothers & Co., was trying to figure out how one man could lose an estimated $1 billion and bring down the 232-year-old bank in a matter of weeks.

In its first comment on the case, Singapore's fraud squad said Thursday it was investigating a complaint by Baring Brothers & Co., asking for the next available flight to Europe and paid $1,500 cash for the tickets. Leeson was taken into custody.

Police carrying pictures of the couple boarded the plane when it landed in Frankfurt early Thursday. Leeson was taken into custody, but Ms. Simms was released and flew to Britain.

The couple drove across the border into Malaysia, where they spent the night, then went on to the city of Kota Kinabalu, about 900 miles away on the island of Borneo.

Malaysia's Daily Express newspaper said Leeson went to Royal Brune
Dear Tom Dooley,

I know we’ve never met, sir, but I felt like someone ought to apologize to you for the rest of us here at Notre Dame. I’m sure it’s frustrating for you, sitting up there in the clouds (or whatever dimension heaven is in), listening to our dumb arguments. I can’t just imagine what we’ve been doing, but I did want to try to explain it to you. I guess a bunch of people down here have got it in their heads that homosexual acts are OK. I know, I know, they have the Church, but they don’t believe the Church on this one. I’m sure the Church is right, sir, but I can’t just imagine what they have the Church say. They say that homosexuality is wrong. Who’s to say? We can’t prove that it’s wrong. Our point of view, they say, is based only on the Bible and the Catholic tradition, which everyone in the world doesn’t believe in. Moreover, the theologians and literary theorists have been deconstructing the Bible something fierce. Paul, they say, was a homosexual. Sodom and Gomorrah were about hospitality. The Old Testament stuff doesn’t apply because those books also include dietary prescriptions and rules on uncleanness (besides, Christians rejected those other restrictions in the book of Acts). The end result, sir, is that we’re not sure that we can condemn people based on evidence as uncertain as this.

Charles Roth

Am I Not A Potted Plant

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"This will remain the land of the free only so long as it is the home of the brave."

—Elmer Davis

But We Were Born Free
Ron Thorp, three and half year Papa John’s delivery veteran.

9:00 p.m. The Anatomy of An Order
This is where it all begins—behind the counter at Papa John’s Pizza. “Thank you for calling Papa John’s. Will you please hold? (Time lapse). Thanks for waiting. How can I help you? Yes, we have pizza. (Oh my gosh. It's going to be a long night.) Name, address, phone number, 40 minutes or so.” The counter-guy takes the dough pastry, slips on the flour, kneads it, slaps it, flips it, spins it, then adds the fixings. Fun fact for today? A large pepperoni pizza at 9:00 p.m. The Anatomy of An Order.

9:15 p.m. And They’re Off...
Ron and his Nissan leave the premises in the direction of Howard Hall at Notre Dame. Ron drives his own car to deliver, but he is reimbursed for gas and mileage. Ron was one of four delivery men working on Monday night. And Monday night is supposedly one of the slowest nights at Papa John’s.

Ron’s got a Papa John’s emblem stuck to the back window. The guard at Stepan watches us pull up. He waves Ron on and raises the gate. Is this even student’s dream or what? A life. The guard sees you, you see the guard, he waves, you’re on. It’s that easy. Ron explained that Papa John’s used to have lighted signs attached to the cars, but sadly enough, the students kept stealing them. “Now we’re down to stickers on the windows,” he said.

9:24 Howard Hall: Breadsticks to freshman Desirde Delea

9:28 Moriosey Hall: Large pepperoni Pizza to sophomore Pete Robinas
Walsh: Cheesesticks to sophomore Karen Daylor, breadsticks to freshman Christine Archibeck

9:45 p.m. Back to Papa’s for more orders
On the way back to the store. Ron explained that the average tip per delivery is 75 cents, but it gets skimpier around spring break. It all events out, though. “One guy in Flanner tipped me three dollars once,” he said.

9:55 p.m. It’s that guy from Dillon again. It’s about this time every night that one of the residents in Dillon Hall calls to order pizza. “He’s a regular.” Samantha Duble, a student worker from McCandless Hall said. “He calls regularly and I know what he’ll want as soon as he says his name,” she said.

10:10 p.m. Lewis: Jenny Manning gets her breadsticks.

10:14 p.m. Pangborn: Chrsisy Giacoci gets her breadsticks. Bystanders look on in jealousy and frustration because they didn’t order earlier. As we drive back to the store, Ron tells us of one of his funniest delivery memories. A guy in the marching band ordered a pizza to be delivered to the Snite Museum on a football Saturday at noon. As he marched by, he spotted the delivery man, jumped out of line, paid the man, grabbed his pizza and jumped back in line. What instrument did he play? The drums, of course.

10:30 p.m. Here we go again McCandless Hall: Breadsticks to Kelly Falscik. After this, Ron told us a little about the history of Papa John’s. Ten years ago in southern Indiana, there was this guy who owned a bar. His son, a Ball State graduate, worked there. The customers said they wanted something to eat with their beer (go figure) so they started serving pizza in the bar. Soon enough, they were delivering the pizza and before you know it, they had moved the corporate office to Louisville, Kentucky. It all started with one store. Now there are more than 600; some of them are even west of the Mississippi.

10:45 p.m. Residential delivery. Oh, you mean there are people besides college students who eat pizza around here? Good to know.

11:00 p.m. LeMans Dilemma
Ron tries to get through to one of the women who ordered a pizza, but her line is busy. And he can’t call her neighbor after 10 p.m. because it’s against security policy. So he waits and waits and waits. Still busy. Wouldn’t it be great if Saint Mary’s had call waiting? Just a thought. Finally, a desk worker runs up to get the girl and she makes it down to the lobby by 11:14 p.m.

“Wow, I’ve already had lucky charms, rice cakes, an apple, crackers, and cookies today. But nothing seems to help me up like Papa John’s. He’s accessible. It’s good pizza. It’s cheap,” she says.

At this point Ron says a word or two about what he calls “Pizza Awareness.” His theory is this: If you order a pizza, stay off the phone. Tell your roommates that you ordered it. Forbid them from using the phone or just make sure they answer it when it rings. Also, it helps if you have your money ready. If everyone played by these rules, you’d get your pizzas faster.

On the way to an off campus delivery, Ron tells us another funny story. “Last year, I had to deliver a pizza to Saint Louis Street the night of that big 500 person party. Believe it or not, the band stopped, they found the girl who ordered, and she got her pizza.”

THIS IS WHERE IT GETS GOOD
11:45 p.m. We finally make it to the off campus delivery. Ron finds the house. He pounds on the doors, the windows, the house itself. We get blasted with a great Full of Kryptonite. But not until the drums stop do they hear the pounding at the door. Then the members of Shady Elaine came to the door.

“Oh, hey, it’s the pizza guy.”

“We order Papa because we get hungry. You see, we discovered it freshman year. We really like the sauce and the peppers. Great pizza,” Michael Johnson said.

Then some guy in the back chrew in “Listen to Shady Elaine!“

12 a.m. Back to headquarters. All four lines are holding. Dough is in the air. The delivery men are off and running.

Back to all four dorms at Saint Mary’s:
LeMans: Analia Kokoruda (breadsticks)
Holy Cross: Steph (pizza), Erin Brophy (breadsticks and cheesesticks)
McCandless: Ellen (pizza)
Regina: Sam (breadsticks)

12:25 a.m. Ron has to hurry to the car because he doesn’t want to get a ticket. (Yes, they do give tickets to the pizza delivery men on the Saint Mary’s campus.)

12:45 a.m. Back to the store. Us Observer types call it a night, but Ron is already out the door again. He has a good two more hours ahead of him. And tomorrow, he will be working a 17 hour day.
Jeff Goddard is defined by his passion for the Bouts

By GEORGE DOHRMANN, Sports Editor

When Jeff Goddard arrived on campus as a freshman three and a half years ago, he wanted only to find his place at Notre Dame. He first tried baseball, but realized his bat speed wasn't what it needed to be and his fielding looked better to the fans back home in Urbana, Ohio than it did to the Notre Dame coaching staff.

Goddard stood in limbo, wondering where he would land. He was hoping not to be another star athlete in high school who faded on the college scene. His only glory came during pickup games at The Rock, that is, until the day he heard about the Bengal Bouts, and figured he could, possibly, be a boxer. He never envisioned himself surrounded by the glamour of the sport, but simply wrapped by a circle of friends with whom he could make his mark.

"Since that first day, I have loved boxing," Goddard said. "I'm just so happy at first that I found my niche on campus." As he prepares for his last bout Saturday in the 170-pound final against Todd Murphy, Goddard remembers. He stands on the verge of his third title, the memories of past victories and one bitter defeat flow through his thoughts and dominate his final days as a Bengal Bout competitor.

"I know I will remember so much about my time with the guys and fighting," Goddard said. "I think about the past now and I'm not even done yet. It's hard because this has played such a large part in my life the last four years."

There was a time when Goddard was nothing more than a name on the Bengal Bouts card. That first year he walked into the boxing room in the Joyce ACC curious and green. But he trained as hard as anyone and won his first two bouts with surprising ease, advancing to the finals. Then he stepped under the lights of the JACC Arena, staring across the ring at senior Shane Hitzman and seeing the two titles...
Unlike the 1994 field, few boxers have stepped forward this year and distinguished themselves as all-time great Bengal Bout competitors. With the exception of Jeff Goddard’s run for his third title, most of the finalists this year are either looking for the championship that has eluded them or on the verge of establishing themselves as top-flight performers. Dan Couri, Mike Mantey, Eric Garcia and Rob Naticchia are after their second title—looking to show they are anything but one hit wonders. Chris Rosen, Eric Hillegas, John Christoforetti, and Mike Thompson strive for wins after losing in the finals a year ago. Meanwhile, a host of eager challengers look to pull the upset. A look at each fight on the 1995 Bengal Bout card:

130 lb
Eric Garcia vs Todd Bello

Eric Garcia is looking strong in his return after falling in the 135-pound semifinals a year ago. He is a fundamentally sound boxer who has proven that he can beat the skilled fighter as well as the brawler. He may have problems with senior Todd Bello, a left-handed first-time fighter who has shown good form in his victories over Pete Bancroft and Dan Zepf, the second seed in the division.

Look for the two boxers to throw a lot of jabs with some controlled flurries from the favorite, Garcia. Because of it being his first year, Bello may come out a little fast in the first round, which could cause him to slow down in the latter part of the bout.

It looks to be a very close bout that should be decided by a split decision. Because of the boxers’ styles, whoever is able to win the first round should be able to pull out the victory.

135 lb
Greg Marks vs Andy Dicello

One of the only weight divisions that went as planned, the first seed, Greg Marks, will take on No. 2 Andy Dicello in Saturday’s finals. Marks moved into the finals with unanimous victories over Paul Villa and Ben Decio, while Dicello scored a unanimous decision over Toby Hochlin after recording a knockout over Dennis Joyce in his quarterfinal bout.

Both boxers are hard-punchers that like to throw combinations. Because of their parity in height, reach should not come into play in this bout, but look for Dicello to open it up with some early flurries.

Countering will be the key for Marks, who sports better fundamentals along with a good parrying technique.

This fight looks to be a very close matchup between two seasoned veterans. Dicello, a junior, is in his third year, while Marks, the senior, will fight his final bout in his four-year career with the Bengal Bouts organization.

145 lb
Rob Naticchia vs Chip Farrell

Naticchia doesn’t really know many competitors in Bengal Bouts, but he’s heard of Eric Hillegas, his opponent in Saturday’s finals.

The sophomore was not even aware of who he was matched up against in the semifinals, it turned out to be Stefan Borso, who Cabreros defeated with a unanimous decision Wednesday night.

“I didn’t know much about anybody before I fought them, but I have heard the Hillegas’ name before,” Cabreros said.

Hillegas, a senior, is favored in the 157-pound division against the younger Cabreros, a former Golden Gloves boxer in his home of Corpus Christi, Texas.

“The fight with Butch will be a lot different than my bout Wednesday night,” Hillegas said. “The issue is that his training has been a lot different than what we have here.”

Cabreros, who has trained in South Bend for this year’s bouts, likes to throw more combinations and roundhouse punches than the average Bengal Bout student. Hillegas, however, are used with skilled precision. It’s easy to see that the sophomore knows

157 lb
John Goddard vs Todd Murphy

This fight looks to be a very close matchup between two seasoned veterans. Dicello, a junior, is in his third year, while Marks, the senior, will fight his final bout in his four-year career with the Bengal Bouts organization.
155 lb
Chris Rosen vs John Kmetz

Will the real Chris Rosen please stand up. After bollering to the boxing community that the undisputed version of himself was gone, Rosen reverted back, swinging like a spinning windmill in his narrow win over Brendan McGuire. Rosen, when he wants to be, is one of the more gifted fighters around but when he slips he is vulnerable, as McGuire showed. John Kmetz is no Brendan McGuire. He is much better. Rosen was upset by an aggressive fighter in 1994 when Rob Ganz charged and charged and ran away with the title. Kmetz could do the same. He likes to throw, loves to dictate the fight, and will not be facing a soft brother.

This is one of those fights you want say the favorite will win, but no way on the green earth would you lay money on it. Rosen has the talent and certainly the desire but if he doesn’t fight his game, Kmetz will win.

160 lb
Michael Thompson vs Dan Adams

This will be a very interesting bout between two boxers with only one fight of experience between them this year. Thompson, a favorite in this fight and with good reason. His semifinal fight came in the semis of the spring finals due to an injury to challenger Rob Pleece. Freshman Pat Dolan recorded a knockout in his first bout over Dan Bergan, but, like his competitor Christoforetti, had a knockout when his semifinal opponent, Jack MacLeod, could not compete due to injury. Dolan looked impressive in his first bout on Sunday, but look for him to have problems with the quick and powerful Christoforetti. The sophomore carries with him years of kickboxing experience along with one year in the Bengal Bouts, in which he went lost a split decision to two-time champion Jeff Goddard. Look for Dolan to come out fast, trying to throw the favorite off-balance. Don’t expect Christoforetti to lose his composure too easily, though.

165 lb
John Christoforetti vs Pat Dolan

This bout between Rob Naticchia and Chip Farrell should be one of the weekend’s finest shows. Farrell, a native of South Bend and son of Bengals trainer Pat, is a crowd favorite and a very skilled boxer for a freshman. He won both of his bouts thus far by split decisions, Wednesday’s win being an upset over second seed Bob Laker.

Naticchia, last year’s champion at 175 pounds, received a bye in the quarterfinals and was able to defeat a taller Pat Keaney by a unanimous decision in the semifinal.

Naticchia carries the total package with him into his second consecutive final bout. He is a very aggressive fighter with strong punches that can devastate.

One area the senior lacks in, however, is defense. A key for Farrell will be to keep a quick jab and his ability to wrap the champion up when he makes a charge.

170 lb
Jeff Goddard vs Todd Murphy

This bout may come up and surprise some people. Few no what to expect from both boxers.

One certainty is that both can hit. Phillips dropped Dan O’Bourke 40 seconds into the second round during the semis, and Baker flopped Jake Lauging a little over a minute into his opening fight.

Insiders say Baker is an athlete who can move, and matched up well with heavyweight favorite Greg Stec during sparring sessions. Few can ignore what Phillips did in his first fight. He may be a bit stronger than Baker and will be looking to move his opponent around the ring.

Baker, who is an excellent baseball player, will need to keep moving and not get into a brawl with Phillips.

Heavyweight
Everyone is buzzing about Greg Stec. The former football player dropped forty pounds to compete in the Bouts and has been impressive since the start. He is strong quick and will be rest of come Saturday after not fighting in either the first or second rounds.

Stevan is a South Bend fighter with good hands and adequate strength. He opened some eyes with the way he manhandled Brady Curtis in the semifinals. Insiders are playing wait and see with Stec. He is a mystery to the fans but not to the boxers who know he can deliver the blows. But the competitors were elated when Stevadve advanced because if anyone can compete with Stec, Stevadve can, and in the Bouts’ featured event anything can happen.
Happy Birthday Bouts

It's not Dame's Bengal Bouts turns 65 this year. It can now officially start collecting social security. But in no way does it need to. Because in an era of clocks, calendars and carbon dating, the Irish boxing club remains ageless. It doesn't need a facelift or a Pearl Cream to retain its natural beauty. 65 years. Just think what this organization has seen.

Bengal Bouts has outlived communism. It has watched the Great Depression come to an end, Hitler come and go. About the only thing 1965 hasn't seen is the Cubs winning the World Series.

But realistically, you don't have to look past the boxing realm to get a good dose of history. The Bengal Bouts tradition is thicker than the walls of Stonehenge.

65 years...of teaching and helping the students of Notre Dame. From the days of Dominic J. "Nappy" Napolitano to the coordinators and trainers of today, nothing has changed in terms of the message taught. Even the faces haven't changed that much.

Knute Rockne and Nappy were friends. It was the legendary football coach who started the program in 1924 in order to give the boys something to do during the winter. Napolitano took over in 1930 and ran the Bouts for 50 years before retiring in 1981.

65 years...of healthy competition. Now matter how much you may dislike the idea of boxing, you have to acknowledge the dedication and preparation that each athlete puts in just to get a chance to step in the ring. One chance, 1/2 minute. Or, if you're lucky enough to make the finals, six minutes. Six weeks of sweat for one week of having the spotlight, which surrounds the champions.

Champions like The Five Fighting McGraths, Kerry Waite and Jeff Gerber. These are the names that people remember. Anyone who steps in the ring, though, is a true champion.

It's those boxers that make up the heart of Bengal Bouts. Sure, the finals will showcase the best of the bunch, but they would not be seen as the best if they didn't have to get by two other fighters.

The competition grows every year. There were 92 participants in this year's tournament, requiring a card of 13 weight divisions. 65 years...of helping the needy and underprivileged.

Since the days of Nappy, all of the proceeds earned by the Bouts goes to help the people of Bangladesh.

So Sally Struthers was telling the truth. But what she has been saying for five years the Holy Cross Mission, Nappy and the Bengal Bouts has known all along.

It looks like Nappy's line still holds.

"Strong bodies fight, that weak bodies may be nourished." A perfect sentence to describe a perfect organization. Happy Birthday, Bengal Bouts. May you live to see 165.

Friday, March 3, 1995

The Observer • SPORTS EXTRA

continued from page 1

Hitzman had already won. Hitzman's third crown came at Goddard's expense.

"I think about that fight all the time, when I am running or training, I think about it and wish I could have it back. But I know if I was a freshman again, and fought the same fight, I would lose. But I look at where I am now and just wish I could fight him now."

Goddard fought like a freshman against Hitzman, passive and unsure. Anyone who steps in the ring, though, is a true champion.

But Goddard doesn't dwell on the loss. He wishes dearly he could have joined the Bengal Bouts elite, being the eighth man to win four Bengal Bout titles. But Hitzman won and if he didn't, Goddard may not be in the position he is now.

"I've grown each year as a fighter. Just having one year under your belt makes all the difference in the ring. My second year, I was confident and knew that I could win the title."

He did by beating Kevin Mullaney easily. "I sat and looked all year at my runner-up jacket all year. All it did was remind me that I had lost," Goddard said after the fight when asked about his motivation.

His motivation in 1994 was simple, repeat. Goddard was well on his way, breezing to the finals where he hit a tall speed bump in the form of freshman John Christoforetti (the favorite in the 165-pound division). Neither fighter may have seen it at the time, but each was looking in a mirror when they stared across at one another. Christoforetti may look back at his narrow loss freshman year, as Goddard does with the Hitzman bout, and ponder the possibility.

"I felt so much pressure last year because people were expecting me to repeat," Goddard said. "I knew what a good fighter John was and he showed it. I knew it was a close fight and I feel lucky to have won."

Goddard has anxiously waited for 1995, his final run in the Bouts and year as president of the boxing club. What Goddard didn't expect was his picture on the cover of the Bengal Bouts poster—shirtless in a empty gym, wrapping his hands.

"I get a lot of flack for that," Goddard said. "I'm a little embarrassed by it, but also happy that we have a current boxer not an old one on the poster and the program.

"It's been a joke for a lot of people. Girls come up and joke with me and say that all the posters in the halls have to be ripped off and are now above girls' beds. It's funny but I look at it as an honor. I'm just happy that the other boxers thought I should be on the poster."

It isn't uncommon for children to approach Goddard before fights and ask for his autograph. He laughs when you call him famous, but their two more children show paper in his lap as he sits ringside.

It will be one more fond memory for Goddard if he can top Murphy and capture his third title. He should win, is expected to, the role of the heavy favorite is now old hand.

"All I want to think about is Murphy. That's what's important. But it is hard to stay focused when I am busy running around helping organize things and also knowing that this is going to be my last fight."

Goddard insists this won't be his last Bouts. As a fighter, yes, but he can't help but return in the future.

"I know I will be like (Bouts coordinator) Terry Johnson or (trainer) Pat Farrell, coming back and helping out when I get older. I couldn't be a part of all of this."

"The guys here are all my friends and I know that I will remember Saturday night and every night I've had in the Bouts for the rest of my life."

"This is what college was all about for me."
Dinner's here! One more happy customer gets a Papa John’s delivery from Ron Thorp. Ron’s pick? Cheesesticks and Italian Sausage pizza.

The choices for on-campus pizza delivery are numerous. From local parlors to chain names, the variety can be intimidating. Here is a brief summary of what you can expect from the most popular.

Pizza Hut
- Large, One Topping Pizza: $11.28
- Delivery Time: Varies

Bruno’s
- XLarge, One Topping Pizza: $10.50
- Delivery Time: 45 min. - 1 hr.

Domino’s
- Large, One Topping Pizza: $5.99 (Special)
  - 12 Slices / 14"
- Delivery Time: About 20 min.

Huddle
- Large, One Topping Pizza: $5.00 (Special)
  - 8 Slices / 14"
- Delivery Time: 10-15 min.

Papa John’s
- Large, One Topping Pizza: $9.20
- Delivery Time: 30-40 min.

---

Papa John’s Mission Statement

To deliver the perfect pizza by exceeding the needs and expectations of our customers, franchise family, and employees.

---

Movies

- CALL 277-7336
  - UNIVERSITY PARK EAST
  - PULP FICTION 2, 5:15, 8:45
  - THE HUNTED 1:40, 4:40, 7:20, 9:40
  - LEGENDS OF THE FALL 4, 6:45
  - BILLY MADISON 1:45, 9:20

- UNIVERSITY PARK WEST (MALL)
  - BRADY BUNCH 2:15, 4:30, 6:45, 9
  - BOYS ON THE SIDE 2:30, 4:50, 7, 9:40
  - WALKING DEAD 7:15, 9:20
Hollyfield preparing to make a comeback against Mercer

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Former heavyweight champion Evander Hollyfield, who retired last April after a heart scare, is returning to the ring for a May 2 fight against Ray Mercer in Atlantic City, N.J. Mercer's promoter has called a Monday news conference to officially announce the bout.

Hollyfield said his goal is to box in New Jersey, but the state's athletic commissioner said the former champion has no guarantee of getting an official license.

"Evander appears to be the most tested; we can't say he's at his best, but he wants to be," commissioner Larry Hazzard said. "For that reason, I don't think he'll have any problem."

Hazzard said his opinion was "based on the documents that I have carefully reviewed, based on the discussion that I have had with his personal physician, based on the discussion I have had with his physician at the Mayo Clinic."

"I suspect that Hollyfield has made the decision, probably, to stick with his physician at the Mayo Clinic because they seem to imply that Hollyfield doesn't have a serious heart condition."

Hollyfield is flying to New Jersey on Friday to watch a fight card in Atlantic City and will sign for his license in the next couple of days, said Mike Boumgar, a spokesman for Main Events.

"He's the undoubted world heavyweight champion, announced his retirement shortly after losing the WBA and IBF titles to Michael Moorer in Las Vegas. Hollyfield was hospitalized immediately after the fight and then flown to his hometown of Atlanta, where he was diagnosed with an enlarged heart and a ventricular problem.

Last week, the Nevada State Athletic Commission decided to suspend Hollyfield after he was diagnosed with heart problems. However, commission members stopped short of ending Hollyfield's plan to fight again, saying there still were questions that needed to be answered before he could be licensed in the state.

"This is not to say we will issue Evander Hollyfield a license," said Dr. James Rice, the commission's medical director. "It is to say we will not sit up here being pompous and say another state will."
If you are interested in learning how to confront oppression, then sign up now!

The Multicultural Executive Council is offering students, staff, and professors the opportunity to participate in this diversity sensitivity workshop.

Limited Enrollment—Call Immediately

Saturday, March 25
8:00 A.M. – 3:00 P.M.
Earth Science Building
Room 101

Breakfast and Lunch Will Be Provided

This workshop is being presented by the Notre Dame Affiliate of the National Coalition Building Institute

Contact:
Mickey Franco • 631-4355
Adele Lanan • 631-7308
Cavaliers top Mavs in battle of wounded Associated Press

DALLAS

Round up the injured players for the Dallas Mavericks and Cleveland Cavaliers and the result would be a team to challenge for the NBA title.

The Mavericks were able to cope without their top two scorers Thursday night, using Jason Kidd's three-point play with 2:36 remaining to snap a tie and beat the Cavaliers 90-84.

Dallas was without Tim Jackson and Jamal Mashburn, who combine to average nearly 50 points per game. Jackson is sidelined indefinitely with a sprained left ankle and Mashburn has a sore right hip, stemming from an adverse reaction to an injection for a strained right hand.

Kidd has stepped up his scoring in the three games since Jackson's injury, averaging 17.3 points and shooting 50 percent.

His two free throws with 3.26 left had put Dallas into a 76-76 tie. John Williams' layup had drawn the Cavaliers to 80-78 but Kidd fed McCloud for a layup as the Mavericks increased their advantage to 82-78 with 1:22 to play.

Chris Mills, who paced the Cavs with 16 points, missed two free throws with 40.3 seconds left, then Tarpley converted two foul shots with 38.8 seconds left to push Dallas' lead to 84-78. Dallas converted all eight free throws in the final 38.8 seconds to seal the victory.

Dallas seemed on the verge of pulling away, building a 71-62 lead with 7:50 to play. But Cleveland, which had beaten Dallas in six of the previous seven meetings, responded with a 9-0 run capped by Ferry's 3-pointer with 5:37 remaining, tying it 71-71.

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA

Twenty-four days after it was interrupted by a student protest, the game between Massachusetts and Rutgers will be completed: 20 minutes on a neutral court with nobody quite sure of the proper decorum for playing half a game.

The three biggest questions Friday at the Spectrum will be: — Should players warm up harder or longer than usual because they will only play half as long as they usually do? — Should the coaches double their intensity because of the lack of comeback time should they fall behind?

"My question is," Massachusetts coach John Calipari said, "if halftime going to be to 10 minutes? We'll go in for like a 15-minute break. I don't know how it's going to be."

No one does because suspended games are extremely rare in college basketball.

"There was nobody to call a timeout because I don't know if you can," Calipari said.

The eighth-ranked Minutemen (22-4, 12-3) already clinched the regular-season title.

"I was going to go out in a sweat suit to coach the game," Calipari said. "I told the staff we just go out in sweat suits. And then they were like 'Yeah, then our guys will act like it's not a game.' And they're right. So we're going to prepare like it's a regular game. That it counts for us being prepared and being ready to do some things."

Calipari since suspended senior guard Mike Williams, the team's best outside shooter, for the remainder of the season for unspecified violations of team rules.

Wenzel since suspended junior forward Charles Jones for the rest of the season for academic reasons.

Both played in the first half — Williams was 1-for-4 from the field and had three points, while Jones was 0-for-5 and had one point. They will be in the boxscore that comes out after the game and the stats will be added to their totals, so two players not even playing will see their shooting percentages fall without taking a shot.

Calipari, Massachusetts' sophomore center, wasn't even in the Rutgers Athletic Center when the first half was played. He missed parts of four games with a strained right hamstring; the Rutgers game was one of them, two of the three were losses.

Since Camby wasn't in the scoreboard for the first half, it will mean a technical foul against Massachusetts when he re-enters in the game.

"The whole thing is, when you're down four, which is what we're going to be down because I don't know if you think I'm smart, but we're going to exchange two foul shots for Marcus Camby, so we're going to be down four," Calipari said.

By JIM O'CONNELL

Associated Press

No one does because suspended games are extremely rare in college basketball. suspension took effect Friday at the Spectrum (prior to the start of the game), pending the completion of the protest over a racially inflammatory statement made by Rutgers president Francis R. D'Orazio.

With a 10-for-10 field goal conversion in the first half and the longest streak of consecutive games without taking a shot, the Scarlet Knights were on the verge of pulling away, building a 71-62 lead with 7:50 to play.

But Cleveland, which had beaten Dallas in six of the previous seven meetings, responded with a 9-0 run capped by Ferry's 3-pointer with 5:37 remaining, tying it 71-71.
Buffalo stops Penguins behind red-hot Hasek

Associated Press

Wayne Presley scored two goals, and the Buffalo Sabres killed seven minutes of penalties in the third period to beat the Pittsburgh Penguins 6-3 Thursday night.

Presley started the scoring in the first period and put the Penguins away with 5:24 remaining in the game with a short-handed goal to give the Sabres a 3-1 lead. He picked up a loose puck near the blue line, faked Wendell Young to his knees and slid the puck into the net for his sixth goal of the season.

Donald Audette scored the game-winner in the second period, and Brad May added an empty-net goal with one second left in the game.

Jagr scored his third short-handed goal and 16th of the season when he took a pass from Larry Murphy at the blue line, fought off Buffalo’s Doug Bodger and beat Hasek to the stick side 4:22 into the second period.

Ulf Samuelsson was thrown out of the game in the second period when he lost his temper with the Sabres and started a fight.

The victory was the Sabres’ third straight, their second win in three games against Pittsburgh this season and their first to follow three straight losses.

Brinks 7, Devils 2

Bryan Smolinski scored three times and Mats Naslund got his first NHL goal in five years as the New Jersey Devils were sent home with a 1-0 loss to the Detroit Red Wings.

The game marked former Red Wings goaltender Tim Cheveldae’s return to Detroit, and he didn’t get much of a welcome.

Detroit took less than five minutes to score as Sheppard scored on an empty-net goal at 4:21 of the first. Just over a minute later, Keith Tkachuk and Nelson Emerson were called for simultaneous minor penalties, and Sergei Fedorov made it 2-0 on the power play when he tipped in Coffey’s shot.

The Jets took nearly 11 minutes to get their first shot of the game, and even though they did play better late in the period, Detroit was able to make it 3-0. Shawn Burr’s long shot went wide of Cheveldae, but bounced off the back boards and right onto to Dino Ciccarelli’s stick for an easy tap-in at 14:29.

Winnipeg got the only goal of the third period when Took Enroth deflected a shot by Dave Taylor out of the net and into the goal.

The win was the Jets’ fifth straight, while the Devils dropped their fourth straight.

The celebrating Winnipeg Jets are shown with their new Stanley Cup after winning Game 5 of the NHL finals.

The following is a survey from an...uh...a consumer group.

Think you’ll be inspired by our hockey team this weekend?
Want to see if you have what it takes to stay up on the ice?
Ever experienced the thrill of making the 3rd goal in a hat-trick?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, then we need you to come to the JACC this Friday, March 3rd after the hockey game against Illinois-Chicago to go ice skating with Flip Side, the group that provides the ND/SMC community with great activities that do not involve alcohol. We will be holding an ice-skating extravaganza for all those who wish to see if they have the ability to skate with the best of them. But, first, you have to skate with us; so come down after the hockey game on March 3rd from 10 p.m.-12 a.m. and see if you can do it!

Cost is only $2.50 for all ND/SMC students!

If you want to help out in any way with the organization of this event, call Steve (4-1762) or Cristin (4-4206) for details. If you want to learn more about Flip Side, call either of our esteemed presidents, John (4-1410) or Mary (4-4904).
Jordan leaves Sox camp

By RICK GANO
Associated Press

SARASOTA, Fla. - Baseball's most famous minor league cleaner cleaned out his locker and left camp Thursday. Michael Jordan's departure wasn't clear, and neither was when he'd be back and that he would release a statement at a later date.

"I'd have to wait and see and address it," he said. "I don't know all the issues involved. I'm really not sure he's leaving town," said White Sox general manager Ron Schueler. He said he had no indication that Jordan had left for anything more than an afternoon round of golf.

"Let's wait until tomorrow morning and see if he shows up," Schueler said. "As far as I know, he's not missing unless he's not here tomorrow morning." Jordan's departure came after a hectic and bizarre morning in which the White Sox divided their squad into players who were willing to participate in exhibition games and those who were not.

Those declining were told to move their belongings into the adjoining minor league clubhouse, which is more spartan and less spacious. They also were asked to retrieve the tea that hotel and had their meal money slashed. They were not, however, sent home as Schueler earlier said they might be.

Jordan's personal assistant and driver, George Koehler, said all Jordan told him was: "We're going." "I walked in and he said, 'We're going.' We walked out to the truck as if that was it. I don't know anything." Jordan had voted a desire from the beginning of camp to not be caught in the middle of structure between the players union he supports and the owners. He still had not made his decision public on whether to compete in the exhibitions, which the union has labeled replacement games.

Jordan, who has shown marked improvement from a year ago when he first joined the Sox, needs to sharpen his skills by playing games. He also was sympathetic toward minor leaguers forced to make a decision about the games. The White Sox exhibition opener is Friday.

After the workout Thursday, many players were moving their belongings from the major league locker room to the minor league dressing quarters. Thirty-two players stayed and 31 went to the other side. Jordan's locker was bare and his chair was folded up inside. A clubhouse assistant said Jordan was signing a lot of autographs before he left, and a quick inspection of the minor league clubhouse did not reveal a locker with Jordan's name.

Indians top Reds in exhibition opener

By BEN WALKER
Associated Press

PLANT CITY, Fla. - No, Pedro Borbon did not pitch for the Cincinnati Reds. The plump, 48-year-old reliever plopped over backwards trying to make it through pregame drills, however.

That was the biggest pratfall Thursday as the Cleveland Indians beat the Reds 3-1 in their first crack at replacement baseball before an announced crowd of 1,260, seemingly doubly the actual attendance.

Instead, the smallest crowd ever for an exhibition opener in Plant City Stadium's eight years - the previous low was 4,464 in 1993 - saw a relatively clean game that had only one error and just a few other miscues. Rather, there were a couple of nifty plays, not bad for an early spring game in which losing pitcher Rick Reed had the most big-league experience.

"There was nothing wrong with what was out there," Reed said. "It was not major league, no it was not. But it was good baseball."

"Maybe even a little better than that, actually."

"This has been portrayed by a lot of people as a bunch of guys out of the beer leagues," Indians manager Mike Hargrove said.

"The skill level obviously isn't the same as if we'd had Kenny Lofton or Albert Belle or Barry Larkin, but these weren't beer leaguers. These guys have played." "Still, the day had its strange moments.

Hours before the game began, the Reds and Indians announced baseball's first two trades of replacement players.

Mason leads big comeback as Knicks top Bulls

By WENDY E. LANE
Associated Press

NEW YORK - Anthony Mason scored 15 of his season-high 26 points in the final period, including the go-ahead basket with 21.2 seconds left, as the New York Knicks held the Chicago Bulls to 12 points in the final period and won 93-89.

Mason's putback of a blocked shot by Scottie Pippen put the Knicks up 91-89, and Mason put a hand in Pippen's face as the Bulls forward missed a long jumper. Pippen fouled Charles Oakley going for the rebound, and Oakley sank both free throws with 6.1 seconds remaining. That sealed the victory for the Knicks, who won eight of their last nine, and 31 went to the other side. Jordan's locker was bare and his chair was folded up inside. A clubhouse assistant said Jordan was signing a lot of autographs before he left, and a quick inspection of the minor league clubhouse did not reveal a locker with Jordan's name.

The Bulls had one field goal, a breakaway layup by Pete Myers, in the first 9:51 of the final period. Pippen had 21 points in the first half and finished with 28 and 14 rebounds to lead the Bulls. Mason added 12 rebounds for the Knicks, who have won six of their last nine, and 31 went to the other side. Jordan's locker was bare and his chair was folded up inside. A clubhouse assistant said Jordan was signing a lot of autographs before he left, and a quick inspection of the minor league clubhouse did not reveal a locker with Jordan's name.

Mason then gave the Knicks their first lead of the half. A pair of free throws by Pippen tied it 89-89 with 35.8 seconds left after Davis hit a 3-pointer to put the Knicks ahead. It was a rough night for Ewing, who had scored more than 30 points in the last five games. In the last three minutes of the second half, Ewing missed three of four foul shots, gave up a dunk to Will Perdue, missed an 18-foot jumper and was called for traveling. He finished the half with just nine points.

TO TAKE A WILD SIDE
GRAND OPENING FRIDAY, MARCH 3
IN THE REAR OF PARKMOOR PLAZA ELKHART
JUST 30 MINUTES FROM THE N.D. CAMPUS - US 20 E. TO SR 19 NORTH
Milwaukee topples Hawks

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE—Rookie Glenn Robinson scored 28 points and keyed a fourth-quarter comeback Thursday night as the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the Atlanta Hawks 102-93 to snap their three-game losing streak.

Vin Baker added 25 points and Todd Day 23 for Milwaukee. The Hawks, who had won three in a row, were led by Stacey Augmon with 25 points and Steve Smith with 21. The Bucks, who trailed by 5-3 advantage when Hookie Glenn Robinson scored the lead several times, but Robinson, who had nine points in the period, got it back for good when he dunked with 4:28 remaining for a 91-90 lead. He followed that with another basket and then hit one of two free throws and the Bucks hung on.

Smith, who had 14 points in the quarter, hit his second straight 3-pointer in the third period to give the Hawks a 79-76 lead. But the Bucks scored nine straight points to end the period, pulling to 79-76 on a basket by Johnny Newman with 20 seconds left.

The Hawks led 50-38 with 4:43 left in the second quarter after a basket by Augmon, who was 7-for-8 and had 16 points in the first half. But the Bucks offense finally came alive, scoring 12 unanswered points, with Day capping the surge with his second 3-pointer.

Atlanta led 56-52 at the half after Smith sank a pair of free throws with 22.2 seconds left.

Tennis

continued from page 24

Ryan Simme is back on track and playing more aggressively. The Illini have benefited from great play from Ron Menclas, who made the last two matches, and Jason Horn has become a dependable player.

Bayliss also had high praise for Jakub Pietrowski. "Pietrowski showed a lot of toughness in winning a tough match against Wisconsin." The Irish hope to have John Jay D’Rosa back from a sore thumb this weekend, and Bayliss feels the reliable Mike Sprouse should be rested and ready to go this weekend after not participating against Wisconsin.

"We have had good reserve play. Horst Dziura won at number three doubles to secure the doubles point, and Brian Harris is 3-0 in singles play," Bayliss says. "We are able to accommodate minor injuries.

Bayliss said this weekend’s matches are important in order to establish strength in Midwest Region to qualify for the NCAA. "We need both of these matches. If we keep our heads up and play with poise, we’ll be fine."

If you see sports happening, call

The Observer at 631-4543.

Hoosiers top Illinois, help NCAA chances

By HANK LOWENKRON

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Charlie Miller made a three-point play with 3.8 seconds to play and Alan Henderson scored a season-high 34 points as Indiana defeated Illinois 85-85 Thursday night.

The Hoosiers shot a season-high 63.3 percent from the field and led most of the game.

Richard Keene’s 3-pointer with 18.7 seconds to play tied the game 85-85. Indiana (17-10, 9-6 Big Ten) came down court and Miller took a pass from Andre Patterson underneath the Hoosiers’ basket and hit the layup despite being fouled by Kevin Turner.

Illinois (17-10, 8-7) then turned the ball over when Keene attempted a three-quarter court pass to Kiwane Garris, but tossed the ball out of bounds. Michael Hermon was fouled with 3 seconds remaining and made one free throw to end the scoring.

Brian Evans was the only other Hoosier in double figures with 16 points, while Jerry Hester and Garris shared scoring honors for the Illini with 18 apiece.

Henderson made 13 of 17 shots before fouling out with 53.9 seconds left and Indiana leading 83-81. Robert Bennett made the first free throw, but missed the second. Keene came up with the loose ball for the Illini, who hit him with a 55.6 shooting effort. Coach Lou Henson was calling for a time out from the sideline, but Garris didn’t see him.

Garris attempted a shot, but it was blocked by the out-stretched arm of 7-foot Todd Linderman, who had come into the game when Henderson fouled out.

The ball went to Hermon and he hit two free throws with 29.6 seconds left to give Indiana an 85-82 advantage.

The victory was the fifth straight for Indiana against the Illini in Assembly Hall and came in a game that is expected to be crucial to both teams as they try to get into the NCAA tournament.
Irish begin title defense

By JOE VILLINSKI
Sports Writer

There's a motivational phrase teams like to use stating, "There's no I in team." For the Notre Dame fencing team, there will have to be an I as they travel to Appleton this weekend to compete in the Midwest Regional Qualifiers. That letter will stand for individual.

Due to rule changes in the sport by the NCAA governing body, the qualifying tournament and the championships themselves will differ considerably from the team format that existed last year.

Now, the team championships will be based on the results of a few individuals. The new rules are a result of women's epee being added to the competition for the first time ever. Rather than expanding the budget to include the additional fencers, the NCAA decided to limit the number of fencers who can compete.

"The fencing coaches have worked for over 40 years to get both a team and individual competition structured," men's coach Mike DeCicco said. "We wanted it this way because the teams who won could put themselves in good position in three weeks."

For Notre Dame to have a chance to repeat, two fencers in each weapon that are available to put themselves in good position in three weeks.

"For Notre Dame to have a chance to repeat, two fencers in each weapon must qualify," DeCicco said.

This is not out of the realm of possibility considering the Irish will be facing the same people they encountered last weekend at the Midwest Fencing Team Championships.

"Last weekend was a good chance to look at all the people," de Bruin said. "We were also able to gain some confidence from it."

If the fencers do not qualify outright this weekend, there are still four at-large bids in each weapon that are available based on various factors such as season mark and record against others who qualified.

"I think we have a good shot at putting two in from each weapon," Hajnik said. "We all saw how we could do against midwestern competition last weekend."

The only question that remains is if the Irish can adjust to the new format.

"Team unity has been building all year in the dual meets," assistant coach Ed Baguer said. "But then it all comes down to the individual. It really is a big mental change."

"If the team can carry over the momentum they gained last weekend to Appleton," DeCicco added, "we will be back on track to making a run at the NCAA championship."
Notre Dame home for two

By TIM SHERMAN
Assistant Sports Writer

The nationally ranked Notre Dame women’s tennis team gets a little breather this weekend - they aren’t up against any top five teams.

Last weekend, the 5-5 Irish headed up to Madison, Wisconsin for the National Team Indoors only to come home with losses to top-ranked Georgia and no. 3 Stanford. The task is a easier this time, but not by much.

Both Michigan and Wake Forest visit the Eck Tennis Center this weekend owning national rankings. The Irish face their regional rival Wolverines today at 4 p.m. and return on Sunday to face the red-hot Demon Deacons at 12 p.m.

“This will be another tough weekend,” Irish coach Jay Louderback. “It is definitely better than playing cupcakes though.”

That is one problem Louderback and the Irish have not had to worry about this season. This is their seventh straight match up against top thirty opponents, and although the record doesn’t really indicate it, Louderback feels his squad is right where they should be.

“We’re playing pretty good tennis right now. We’ve lost some tough matches but I’ve been pleased.”

Still, Notre Dame will need to step the play this weekend to get back on the winning track after two straight defeats.

Michigan is off to a somewhat disappointing start, but nonetheless is one of the top four clubs in the Midwest region.

“They haven’t played many matches, but they are definitely one of the better team in our region,” Louderback noted.

Last season, the Big Blue slipped by the Irish in Ann Arbor 5-4. That match is still in the back of Irish minds.

“We lost in a tough one last year and I’m sure everyone remembers it.” Louderback said. “Wendy (Grabriee, #1 singles) lost to a very, very talented freshman and she will be ready.”

Wake may present even more of a challenge, as they come to South Bend on a four match winning streak. The Tribe own a win over the Irish earlier this year.

In the past, Notre Dame has had some success against Wake Forest. Two of the past three matches have been decided by 5-4 counts.

Irish ‘dome’ for weekend

By MEGAN McGRATH
Sports Writer

For perhaps the only time this season, the fabulous Notre Dame weather might give its baseball team an advantage.

This weekend the Irish travel to Seattle for the College Baseball Classic, to be held in the Seattle Kingdome.

“I think the location will definitely be to our advantage, since we’re used to turf, a roof, an indoor environment,” said coach Paul Mainieri. “It’s just like Loftus, except I think Loftus is nicer facility.”

Notre Dame opens the tournament tonight at seven o’clock against Virginia and then Saturday takes on Washington State. Both are Pac-10 North schools, but neither are ranked.

“Both teams are off to a slow start,” Mainieri says. “I’m sure they will be ready for us and tough to beat in their own backyards.”

Mainieri looks for Sunday’s morning game against Nevada to be the toughest match of the tournament. The Wolfpack is 12-2, and ranked as high as 17 in some national polls.

“Nevada is an outstanding team,” he says. “They have a great deal of offensive firepower.”

But the Irish have some firepower of their own, namely juniors Ryan Topham and Rowan Richards and sophomore Mike Amrhein.

Richards led everyday players in California with a .345 average. He had five RBI with a double and a home run. Topham hit .426 with eight RBI, four doubles, a triple and a homer. Amrhein posted a .538 average.

“Topham, Amrhein and Richards and Craig DeSensi (445) all hit well for us in California,” said Mainieri. “We’ll be looking for them to keep their production up in order for us to be successful.”

In order to combat the strong bats of the opposition, the Irish pitching staff will have to perform better than last weekend in Anaheim, when the staff gave up 30 earned runs and 39 hits in the three-game series.

The only Irish pitcher to record a win in California was senior Tim Kraus. Dating back from last season Kraus has a ten-game winning streak, but because of tightness in his throwing arm he has been coming out of the bullpen.

“Tim had a super workout Wednesday,” Mainieri said. “We get a lead in a close game, Tim will be the one to come in and hang on for us.”

Senior right—hander Craig Allen will start on Friday for Notre Dame. Allen pitched the last two innings of the Pepperdine win.

Darin Schmelz looks to rebound from a tough opening game start against Texas. The righty took a loss last Friday, giving up three runs and six hits in a three and one-third innings performance against the fourth-ranked Longhorns.

Freshman Christian Parker will start Sunday against Nevada. Parker had a no-decision against Pepperdine, losing three and two-thirds innings and surrendering four earned runs and seven hits.
The Iceberg Debates Are Coming!

The Iceberg Debates are an undergraduate debate series focusing on campus, national, and global issues. If you are interested in competing against your hall president.

If you would like to help organize the debates, or you’re a faculty member or grad student and would like to be a judge, call John Emery at 288-9174.

Captains should meet on Monday, March 6 at 9:00 p.m. in the Student Government Office, 2nd floor LaFortune.

Happy Birthday, Krista!

Love, Mom and Dad

Better late than never... THE SWEATSHIRT "I've always wanted."

NATIONALLY 2ND-RANKED MICHIGAN NEXT!

THE SWEATSHIRT "I've always wanted."

NATIONALLY 2ND-RANKED MICHIGAN NEXT!

THE SWEATSHIRT "I've always wanted."

NATIONALLY 2ND-RANKED MICHIGAN NEXT!

THE SWEATSHIRT "I've always wanted."

NATIONALLY 2ND-RANKED MICHIGAN NEXT!
Friday, March 3, 1995

MIRRORLAND

CALVIN AND HOBBES

W~N

M'l

DILBERT

DROP YOUR TROUSERS AND TURN AROUND. I NEED A DNA SAMPLE.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 One often called on for answers
2 One for the road
15 Pointedly punctuated
16 Atty.'s assn.
17 Monitor for 12-Across
18 Throw
19 Reddish-brown horses
20 Ship's peril
22 Malta or Martinique: Abbr.
23 Food cooker
24 Part of the plot?
25 Current status
28 Magnetic attraction
30 Get
31 Fourth Spanish letter
32 Jalopy
33 Graceful and slim
34 Ministry, perhaps
36 Androgen, e.g.
37 Sign up
38 Jamie of "M*A*S*H"
39 Holiday serving
40 Union targets
41 Long dress
42 End of a 1/1 song
44 Forest god
45 Jazz grp.
47 1980's United Nations name
49 Roman statesman Marcus Vipsanius--
53 Uncover, poetically
54 Persian
55 Some advice
56 Certain brother
57 Certain brother
58 Vane direction
59 Agree

DOWN
1 — Mill of "Red River"
2 Big showcase
3 Maple genus
4 Priest
5 Charon's destination
6 Skin softener
7 Horn (shadef)
8 Fr. holy one
9 Sleeping
10 At attention
11 Phoenician city
12 The British seized it in 1795
13 Oddly
14 The brink
15 Cotton machine
16 Deseatable
17 9 on a hotel phone, e.g.
21 Cheese Sticks/Spaghetti Sauce
22 Leaky indicator
23 Presidential instrument
24 One of the Gibb brothers
25 —— de
26 Brawny
27 Palindromist
28 Easy questions
29 Unprestigious publication
30 Saint's so
31 Oddly
32 Western attire
33 Subject of media law
34 Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).
35 Forehead
36 thumbs up
38 Geisha's accessory
39 One of the Gibb brothers
40 "But that's the beauty of it. I'd don't have to worry about my fat intake today. I'm having a quadruple bypass tomorrow!"
41 Thalassic
42 Reach by ship
43 Leaflike part
44 Gay
45 Sheet of paper
46 Sheep
47 Sailo's accessory
48 Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5656 (75¢ each minute).

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

THE SPANISH CLUB will be viewing "La Historia Oficial" this Friday, March 3, at 8 p.m. in Badin Hall's First Floor Lounge. Homemade food will also be prepared by club members.

Have something to say? Use The Observer classifieds.

Check it out!
Interview With The Vampire

tonight at the beloved Cushing theatre brought to you by S.U.B.

8 and 10:30 pm
Notre Dame looks to get back on track

By DAVID TREACY

Sports Writer

The best way to forget about a tough loss is to get a tough win.

This Sunday, the lacrosse team has a chance to earn a victory which should definitely get them back on the fast track.

The problem is, this Sunday's opponent probably doesn't want to help the Irish get themselves together.

The Tar Heels of North Carolina should prove to be a formidable and unforgiving opponent this weekend. This is the first meeting between the two schools and will prove to be a formidable and unforgiving game.

North Carolina is already one of the top lacrosse schools in the country. They go into their first game of the season ranked 7th in the polls, while the Irish have dropped to 17th in the polls after the loss to Penn State last weekend.

North Carolina returns 24 lettermen, including 5 starters, from last year's NCAA semi-final squad. Included in these returnees is keeper Rocco D'Andraia, a returnee is keeper Rocco D'Andraia, a starting defensemen, and several explosive midfielders. One possible weakness of the Tarheels is the loss of two high-scoring attackers due to graduation.

Of course, the bigger they come, the harder they fall.

Notre Dame will need a productive game in the cage from keeper Ryan Jewell. In addition, the defense, the team's mainstay, needs to perform up to par against the powerful Tarheel offense.

Strong games would be especially needed against the top-flight Tarheels, provided the Irish play up to any team in the country, provided we play Notre Dame-caliber lacrosse. There isn't a single team that should beat us.