SMC to host GLND/SMC dialogue

By NORA MEANY
News Writer

A forum to discuss the place of GLND/SMC in the Saint Mary’s community will be held by the Committee in Support of GLND/SMC at Saint Mary’s College.

Max Westler, an English teacher at Saint Mary’s, describes this debate as “the beginning of a discussion at the school regarding the community.” It is not meant to finalize the issue by coming to an agreement over the place of homosexuals in the community, but rather to begin a dialogue.

The meeting will begin with several speakers giving their opinions concerning the policy set by the school regarding the homosexual support group meeting on campus.

John Blandford and Kelly Smith, the co-chairs of GLND/SMC, are slated to talk. Joe Incandela, a religion teacher at Saint Mary’s, will give the religious reasoning behind the policies, and Mary Caputi, a political science teacher, will speak concerning gender studies. Sarah Sullivan, the Saint Mary’s student body president, will also speak.

Following the speakers will be a group discussion including any faculty, students and administration from the two schools who wish to attend. In this discussion, people will have the chance to voice their opinion concerning homophobia and the GLND/SMC meeting.

“This meeting is meant to include all parts of the college community. We hope to address many different points of discussion today,” Westler said.

“The meeting will be very informal,” Westler said.

Golden Dome renovation begins

By MATTHEW LOUGHRAN
News Writer

For many it is the first view of the University of Notre Dame seen before landing in Mishawaka Regional Airport or from the overpass before entering South Bend.

It has been the backdrop of many romantic and inspiring camera shots on NBC during home football games. But now, the most recognized symbol of the University of Notre Dame is due for cosmetic surgery.

Scaffolding and fencng were erected on Monday and Tuesday around the Main Building and its Golden Dome as contractors began the first complete renovation in its 116 year history this week.

The first part of this renovation is a complete exterior overhaul. This is estimated to cost $5 million.

A major portion of the work will go towards restoration and cleaning of the 4.3 million bricks of muri and replacing the roof.

“There have been numerous projects to fix the bricks, and all structural problems have been fixed,” said Donna Brown of the University Public Relations Department. “This is just a basic cleaning.”

The dome itself will not be renovated. It was regilded in a previous project in 1988 at the cost of $300,000.

Also planned to be renovated are window hoods and the base of the statue of Mary. Windows in the dome area and on the fifth floor will be replaced, and minor electrical and mechanical modifications will be made.

The main building houses many of the University’s administrative offices, including the Registrar, Provost, and President’s Offices. “We have been assured that daily operations will not be upset by the construction,” said Brown.

The fire escapes that line the building will be removed. Due to the fire alarms and sprinkler system, they are no longer necessary. Brown said.

It is ironic that the fire escapes are to be removed because the building had its genesis in a fire that claimed the former administration offices, dining facilities, library collection, and classrooms in April of 1875.

The building was commissioned by Father Edward Sorin, then the president of Notre Dame, upon his return to Notre Dame from Montreal after learning about the fire. “If it were all gone, I should not give up,” Sorin is reported to have said. “Tomorrow we will build again, and build it bigger.”

That is just what they did. The design of the building was drawn up by Chicago architect Willoughby Edbrooke. It took three hundred laborers all summer to construct much of the current building out of marl dredged from the two campus lakes.

The Golden Dome, the most well-known portion of the building, was added in 1882 and is topped with a 19-foot tall, 4,000 pound statue of Saint Mary that was a gift from Saint Mary’s College.

The building was entered into the National Register of Historic Places in 1978. The historical landmark status demands special considerations in the renovation.

The construction cannot involve a wholesale change in the renovation.

This is the last regular issue for the 1994-95 school year. The graduation issue will come out on May 19. Have a safe and pleasant summer.

FACULTY SENATE

By GWENDOLYN NOBLE
Assistant News Editor

Financial aid, appeals procedures, and student athletes were topics of discussion last night, as the Faculty Senate wrapped up business for the 1994-95 academic year.

One of the resolutions passed at last night’s meeting concerned appeals procedures described in the Academic Articles. The Executive Committee Resolution asks that “the Faculty Senate send the Academic Affairs Committee proposal on appeals to the Provost for its endorsement and enactment” and that it also be sent to the Academic Council for its approval, with the recommendation that the Council incorporate the proposal into a revision of the Academic Articles of the University.” The resolution specifically refers to section 3, 4, and 9 of Article III.

Prior to the voting on this resolution, Father Wilson Miscamble questioned why the Senate should be involved in the appeals procedure. He suggested that “the Senate be careful as a representative body involved in the appeals procedure.”

In response to this statement, Chair of the Faculty Senate Father Richard McBrien noted that “the credibility of the Senate as a representative body is not an issue at hand.” According to Paul Rathburn, associate...
Confessions of a transfer student

It happened a little over two years ago. I had called my brother from my dorm room at the University of California, Santa Cruz, to ask some innocuous questions. I'll even remember it now—when he mentioned in passing that a letter had come from ND.

I had determined some time before that my chances of going to Notre Dame were slimmer than those of my dorm mate's Saint Mary's staff. I had even looked into going to UCSC. I had been active in various clubs and activities (as I have been here as well, to the huge detriment of that GPA thing), the only thing keeping any hope I had to go to Notre Dame was support from home.

Take my advice and listen to your friends. I asked my brother to open the letter for me and read it, as I didn't want to lose any hope I had to go to Notre Dame was supported.

Prince Charles marks war's end

To remember the dead and reconcile the living, Prince Charles and Winston Churchill's daughter, Sarah, flew to Hamburg on Tuesday to Hamburg, one of the cities most ravaged by British bombing during World War II. Love him or hate him, the British artist's suave image has been so powerful that the theme today is still "very much a commemoration and reconciliation."

Circulation declines for newspapers

The circulation of most of the largest metropolitan newspapers declined in the latest six-month period, new figures show. The declines contained in data released by the Audit Bureau of Circulations extended a trend of declining circulation at big metropolitan newspapers. Industrial experts attribute the erosion to increases in newsprint and other operating costs.

Math-science education promoted

WASHINGTON

Two federal agencies are joining forces to encourage students to choose careers in math, science and technology. Education Secretary Richard Riley and Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary signed an agreement Monday pledging use of their agencies' resources to achieve the goal of being first in the world in math and science education, one of the goals of the Goals 2000 education reform program.

NATIONAL WEATHER

The Accu-Weather forecast for noon, Wednesday, May 3.

INDIANA WEATHER

Viewpoint

Brad Prendergast

Deborah Schult

I wish there was a name

Tara Groshop

Lab Tech

Dane Kramer

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

The Observer • INSIDE

day, month, year

Bob Graham, D-Fla., said Clinton's decision "was a difficult one." While endorsing Clinton's policy, Graham said he supported the return of future refugees to Cuba, "causes great concern to many people, including myself." The Republicans in the administration overrode that policy. Dennis Hays, the State Department's coordinator for Cuban affairs, and his deputy, Nancy Mason, asked to be reassigned in protest of the decision to repatriate fleeing Cubans, officials said.

HAMBURG, Germany

Prince Charles marked the end of World War II Tuesday, in Hamburg, one of the cities most ravaged by British bombing during World War II. Love him or hate him, the British artist's suave image has been so powerful that the theme today is still "very much a commemoration and reconciliation." His accompanied Charles and Britain's minister for armed forces, Nicholas Soames, the grandson of Britain's wartime prime minister, at a memorial service in St. Michael's Lutheran Church. Charles reproved the waves of people outside the church. Reflecting trade and cultural ties that go back to the Middle Ages, there is a saying that Hamburgers are simply Londoneers who speak German.

NEW YORK

The circulation of most of the largest metropolitan newspapers declined in the latest six-month period, new figures show. The declines contained in data released by the Audit Bureau of Circulations extended a trend of declining circulation at big metropolitan newspapers. Industrial experts attribute the erosion to increases in newsprint and other operating costs.

WASHINGTON

The number of refugees rescued at sea spiked upward in 1994 when President Clinton allowed in the elderly, chronically ill, unaccompanied minors and some teenagers. The Associated Press.

Bob Graham, D-Fla., said Clinton's decision "was a difficult one." While endorsing Clinton's policy, Graham said he supported the return of future refugees to Cuba, "causes great concern to many people, including myself." The Republicans in the administration overrode that policy. Dennis Hays, the State Department's coordinator for Cuban affairs, and his deputy, Nancy Mason, asked to be reassigned in protest of the decision to repatriate fleeing Cubans, officials said.

HAMBURG, Germany

Prince Charles marked the end of World War II Tuesday, in Hamburg, one of the cities most ravaged by British bombing during World War II. Love him or hate him, the British artist's suave image has been so powerful that the theme today is still "very much a commemoration and reconciliation." His accompanied Charles and Britain's minister for armed forces, Nicholas Soames, the grandson of Britain's wartime prime minister, at a memorial service in St. Michael's Lutheran Church. Charles reproved the waves of people outside the church. Reflecting trade and cultural ties that go back to the Middle Ages, there is a saying that Hamburgers are simply Londoneers who speak German.

NEW YORK

The circulation of most of the largest metropolitan newspapers declined in the latest six-month period, new figures show. The declines contained in data released by the Audit Bureau of Circulations extended a trend of declining circulation at big metropolitan newspapers. Industrial experts attribute the erosion to increases in newsprint and other operating costs.

WASHINGTON

The number of refugees rescued at sea spiked upward in 1994 when President Clinton allowed in the elderly, chronically ill, unaccompanied minors and some teenagers.
Play to aid research group

By EDWARD IMBUS
Assistant News Editor

Prepare for next year to start off with a bang.
The Notre Dame Club of the St. Joseph Valley will be sponsoring the comedy play "Coaches" next fall for students.

"Coaches" is a two-act play about the famous Knute Rockne, Vince Lombardi, and Bear Bryant. Focusing on these personalities "up close," the play just touches football, instead choosing to examine their various characters as depicted in the locker room.
The characters all meet in Act II as they encounter the Almighty in a humorous, uplifting ending that makes people "feel better about themselves," according to the directors.

Twenty-five extras will be needed for the play, according to Club representative and alumnus Jennifer Lang '94, and will be chosen next semester.

Seniors win Fulbright scholarships

Special to The Observer

Four Notre Dame seniors have been awarded Fulbright grants for 1995-96.

• Jeanne Curran, an economics major from Omaha, Neb., has been awarded a grant to Canada.

• Ericka Sherden, an engineer from Chile.

• Tanja Beckman, an English major from Germany.

• Brad Hunter, a government and German major from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., has accepted a Fulbright teaching assistantship to Austria.

The grants are to benefit the Arta Parseghian Medical Research Foundation, which sponsors research into Niemann-Pick's disease.

A fatal, degenerative genetic disorder, Niemann-Pick's usually attacks children by interfering with metabolizing cholesterol.

The play will be shown at Washington Hall on Thursday, Sept. 7. Tickets will cost $10 and be sold only to the students of Notre Dame, St. Mary's, and Holy Cross.

Gurule: Racism eclipses severity of Simpson trial

By BRIAN MOLINARO
News Writer

The latest hot topic in the O.J. Simpson murder trial is the talk of racist acts surrounding the investigation, trial and jury, according to Jimmy Gurule, who spoke last night at the St. Edward's Forum.

Gurule, a law school professor and former assistant U.S. attorney, spoke about the excessive presence of racism radiating throughout the trial.

According to Gurule, "it seems that almost every person involved in the trial has had some racist act performed either by them or against them: white jurors receiving better treatment than black jurors, racial comments made toward witness Dennis Fung after the defense supposedly had a "Fung day" with him, and the entire defense's theory that the L.A. police department framed O.J. by sprinkling a sample of his blood at the crime scene.

Not only does the racism surrounding the case seem to exist inside the courtroom, but it seems to be present in the public as well.

"Over 70% of blacks in the U.S. subscribe to the defense's theory that O.J. was framed by white police officers who were jealous of his fame and resented the fact that O.J. had a white wife," said Gurule.

The O.J. Simpson trial is not the only racially related trial in L.A. in the past few years.

Riots broke out all over L.A. a few years ago, after the acquittal of police officers who were charged with excessive force.

The officers were charged after being caught on video tape beating a drug suspect, Rodney King.

Due to the numerous amount of cases such as the O.J. trial and the Rodney King trial, "America's ethnic minorities seem to be losing faith in the fact that the U.S. judicial system is colorblind," Gurule said.

Connection

Tuesday's article on AnTostal, contained a number of inaccuracies.

Gaylin Spencer is the Assistant Director of Student Activities - not the Director of Student Activities. AnTostal is sponsored by the Student Union Board (SUB) rather than Student Activities.

Student Activities discontinued contract negotiations with Digable Planets' management - Negotiations were discontinued because of security concerns.

The Observer regrets the error.
Taming the hungry beast
A complicated, high-tech process brings meals from Food Services to your mouth

By LIZ FORAN
Associate News Editor

Food. You want it? They got it.
But did you ever wonder how they get it?
Food preparation is, of course, the most essential function of the Notre Dame Dining Halls. But this seemingly simple task is in reality an involved process requiring a lot of planning and looking toward the future.

Just getting food to campus can be a huge chore, as described by North Dining Hall Manager Jill Riggs. Orders must be placed in bulk, and supplies come from several different companies in South Bend and the surrounding area.

"The budget is set," she said. "We submit to the a budget to the University for approval, and all purchases are based on that budget."

Riggs said that Food Services buys large volume items, which are food items produced in great quantities at a time, in bulk. They try to buy name brand products whenever possible. Certain food items, such as milk and bagels, are purchased differently.

Milk is bid on by a number of different companies in the beginning of each year, and the contract remains with the one company for the entire year.

Bagel lovers may have noticed a difference in their food choice this year, as bagels are now delivered fresh every morning as opposed to last year's frozen variety.

Despite the number choices among distributors, the amount of food that needs to be ordered is determined by a less complicated process.

"Everything is computerized," Riggs said of menu planning and food production. "We forecast (the popularity) of every item on the menu."

Riggs described how food items can be programmed into a computer, which will predict how many serving of an item should be prepared according to the food's past performance as a mealtime hit. After every meal, computer print outs show how much of each item was prepared and how much was actually eaten.

Another key in perfecting the food options is detailed planning of menus. According to Jim Yarbrough, manager of South Dining Hall, menus are planned on a yearly basis with minor revisions when needed or requested.

"There are eight different menus that carry over from year to year," he said. "We look at the performance of an item, whether or not it is popular. If an item does well, we leave it on. If not then we replace it with something we think the students will like better."

And students are not shy in expressing their opinions about changes they would like to see. Both Yarbrough and Riggs say they receive many of the blue suggestion cards every week.

Food services submit to the a budget to the University for approval, and all purchases are based on that budget. "Everything is computerized," Riggs said of menu planning and food production. "We forecast (the popularity) of every item on the menu."

Riggs described how food items can be programmed into a computer, which will predict how many serving of an item should be prepared according to the food's past performance as a mealtime hit. After every meal, computer print outs show how much of each item was prepared and how much was actually eaten.

Another key in perfecting the food options is detailed planning of menus. According to Jim Yarbrough, manager of South Dining Hall, menus are planned on a yearly basis with minor revisions when needed or requested.

"There are eight different menus that carry over from year to year," he said. "We look at the performance of an item, whether or not it is popular. If an item does well, we leave it on. If not then we replace it with something we think the students will like better."

And students are not shy in expressing their opinions about changes they would like to see. Both Yarbrough and Riggs say they receive many of the blue suggestion cards every week.
A closer look at... Notre Dame and Saint Mary's food services

Changes planned for SDH

By BRAD PRENDERGAST
Assistant News Editor

While plans are still sketchy, South Dining Hall will "definitely" undergo reorganization within the next three to four years, said Ronald Ahney, assistant director of food services.

Ahney and other members of an exploratory committee are examining several options as the dining hall prepares for the influx of students who will live in Keough and O'Neill Halls, scheduled to open August 1995.

Among the options are moving the Oak Room to another part of the dining hall building, installing a food court system similar to that used in North Dining Hall, and making the building more accessible to the handicapped.

"Something is definitely going to be added to the back of the building," he said. "We want to make it look more cosmopolitan for beautiful students for whom you will live behind it. The loading dock in the rear will also have to be relocated, Ahney said.

Ahney said the options are also underway regarding how to improve the Grab-and-Go system, though no headway has been made thus far.

"We don't really know where to put it," Ahney said. "The Knights of Columbus building was talked about, but it wasn't a viable option."

The two new dorms are expected to add a total of 500 students to the population of the south side of campus, which Ahney said the dining hall could handle with little reorganization, but if two more dorms are added as expected to what will be the West Quad, then the dining hall will have to adjust.

"We would have to increase our serving area to the students," if the two additional dorms were built, Ahney said.

One way to do that would be to take the beverage islands out of the seating areas or to incorporate the Oak Room into a food court system.

If the University builds a third dorm, fourth floor, the options are good that we would utilize the Oak Room or move the Oak Room to another part of South Dining Hall," Ahney said.

Recently, Ahney and David Pretkowsi, director of food services, stressed that nothing has been decided.

Presently, Ahney, Pretkowsi and the other members of the University facilities and maintenance operations are meeting with architects at the South Bend and Becket.

The architects have already made an audit of the building to make sure it is up to current building codes, in order to meet building codes, the accessibility of the building for the handicapped must be improved, Pretkowsi said. That includes installing elevators and designing counters to the appropriate height.

Ahney said discussions are a decision to be made within a year to two years.

In addition, the lighting of the area will be improved, the new dining hall will have a "etch-a-sketch," the menu will be "freshly printed," and a "handsome" sign will be added to the back of the dining hall.

Currently, the menu is "definitely" going to be changed, with a "strong" emphasis on fresh made-to-order food, and a "stir fry" option is also in the works.

"People want to eat fresh," Ahney said.

But we rarely think about the people who help us, Kirwan said. "They really learn a great deal more than just job skills," she said.

"When J.J. first moved into his own apartment, he was 21," Kirwan said. "He has completely turned his life around. He used to be a delinquent, he is now involved in the court system."

"If the University builds a third dorm, fourth floor, the options are good that we would utilize the Oak Room or move the Oak Room to another part of South Dining Hall," Ahney said.

As we make our way over to the ever popular yo-cream machine, hoping to see a sign above it reading "cappuccino,"

By LESLIE FIELD
News Writer

We go there every day, waiting in long lines for the meal we have been dreaming about since Stats. As we make our way into this dining Mecum, we peer at the potato bar, check out the wings 'n' things and make our way over to the ever popular yo-cake machine, hoping to see a sign above it reading "cappuccino."

But we rarely think about the people who help the Saint Mary's dining hall to run smoothly every day are from the Brown School.

This is a school located in South Bend that educates young adults who are mentally chal-

Leon Kirwan, who like James, now do this, was a former employee at South Dining Hall, pre-

Volunteer's day which started when a fuel can was knocked over and a tablecloth caught fire. The fire spread to three other tables before it was finally extinguished.

Sophomore manager Pete Rufo says that the hall can not take this once people quickly enough at the main meal times, specifically at noon and between 5:30 and 6 p.m.

Being a student manager means more than wearing a nametag. It means responsibility to clean dishes, clean floors and tables, get food served, and even fire control.

A Closer Look at... Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Food Services

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Food Item</th>
<th># prepared</th>
<th># eaten</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Thin Spaghetti</td>
<td>197</td>
<td>194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lasagna</td>
<td>72</td>
<td>64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheese Pizza</td>
<td>96</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Pizzaaria</td>
<td>264</td>
<td>252</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turkey w/ Gravy</td>
<td>640</td>
<td>560</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broccoli Sluts</td>
<td>160</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tomato Soup</td>
<td>300</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meatball Grinders</td>
<td>240</td>
<td>237</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamburger</td>
<td>248</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bacon Burger</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hot Dogs</td>
<td>62</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheese Sauce</td>
<td>160</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French Fries</td>
<td>287</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beef Tamales</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Cookie Jar</td>
<td>545</td>
<td>516</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Fruit</td>
<td>1008</td>
<td>1008</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yo-Yo</td>
<td>480</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grab 'n Go</td>
<td>875</td>
<td>744</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beverages</td>
<td>2876</td>
<td>2875</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Lunch</td>
<td>19279</td>
<td>19997</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Special faces behind scenes

Marriott, SMC provide jobs to Brown students

By LESLIE FIELD
News Writer

We go there every day, waiting in long lines for the meal we have been dreaming about since Stats. As we make our way into this dining Mecum, we peer at the potato bar, check out the wings 'n' things and make our way over to the ever popular yo-cake machine, hoping to see a sign above it reading "cappuccino."

But we rarely think about the people who help the Saint Mary's dining hall to run smoothly every day are from the Brown School.

This is a school located in South Bend that educates young adults who are mentally chal-

Leon Kirwan, who like James, now do this, was a former employee at South Dining Hall, pre-

Volunteer's day which started when a fuel can was knocked over and a tablecloth caught fire. The fire spread to three other tables before it was finally extinguished.

Sophomore manager Pete Rufo says that the hall can not take this once people quickly enough at the main meal times, specifically at noon and between 5:30 and 6 p.m.

Being a student manager means more than wearing a nametag. It means responsibility to clean dishes, clean floors and tables, get food served, and even fire control.

A Closer Look at... Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Food Services

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Food Item</th>
<th># prepared</th>
<th># eaten</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Thin Spaghetti</td>
<td>197</td>
<td>194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lasagna</td>
<td>72</td>
<td>64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheese Pizza</td>
<td>96</td>
<td>95</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Pizzaaria</td>
<td>264</td>
<td>252</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turkey w/ Gravy</td>
<td>640</td>
<td>560</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Broccoli Sluts</td>
<td>160</td>
<td>130</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tomato Soup</td>
<td>300</td>
<td>300</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meatball Grinders</td>
<td>240</td>
<td>237</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hamburger</td>
<td>248</td>
<td>243</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bacon Burger</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hot Dogs</td>
<td>62</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheese Sauce</td>
<td>160</td>
<td>152</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>French Fries</td>
<td>287</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beef Tamales</td>
<td>20</td>
<td>18</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Cookie Jar</td>
<td>545</td>
<td>516</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Fruit</td>
<td>1008</td>
<td>1008</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Yo-Yo</td>
<td>480</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Grab 'n Go</td>
<td>875</td>
<td>744</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Beverages</td>
<td>2876</td>
<td>2875</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Lunch</td>
<td>19279</td>
<td>19997</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Senate

continued from page 1

professor of English, in years past, the Faculty Senate was seen as "a harmless, weak, debating society that is never part of the action."

Stating his support of the proposal, Rathburn said, "This proposal suggests that we get in the game - that the Senate join the big leagues."

There was also a discussion of the Faculty Senate Self-Study that was submitted at last month’s meeting.

Dome

continued from page 1

design or appearance of the building,” said Brown. “It also must bring the building closer to its original state, not add to it.”

The renovation is part of a master plan that includes many different projects. An interior renovation is planned as a separate project after the exterior is completed.

The switch of administration offices to Grace Hall and the construction of the new dorms must be completed before the interior renovation occurs. The interior renovation is supposed to be finished by 1999.

Intermediate renovation will consist of a complete rehabilitation of the fifth floor. This floor is currently unused and closed to the public because of serious structural damage. “If everything stays according to schedule,” said Brown, “the exterior renovation should be finished in a year to 16 months, and the interior renovation ought to start in the summer of 1997.”

approval of participation by the women’s softball team in a tournament during the week of final examinations.

At the start of the meeting, McBrien’s first order of business included the announcement of the retirement of Senator Harriet Flowers after “twenty-three years of faithful and dedicated service.”

“She’s the one who kept everything straight,” said Sheehan, a former Senate chair. Another former chair of the Senate, Paul Conway, described Flowers as “cooperative, loyal, and dedicated.”

“She cares about the Senate,” Conway said.

GLND/SMC

continued from page 1

formal, and will not attempt to settle the questions raised by the Saint Mary’s community. We just want to know what students think.” Westler said. “Talking about the issue is healthy.”

The meeting will be held in Stapleton Lounge at Saint Mary’s College on Friday at 3:30 p.m. Students, faculty and administration are encouraged to attend.

Cleaning house!

Students throw away everything from couches to chairs to lofts behind Flanner.

Hey ND, guess what? Rob is a B.D. and Terrance is a J.D.

PUT YOUR SUMMER TO WORK AT LOYOLA UNIVERSITY CHICAGO

Early Session
Six weeks beginning May 19 [6 pm]

Middle Session
Six weeks beginning June 7

Late Session
Six weeks beginning July 5

Double (Extended) Session
Beginning May 19 [6 pm]

> Day, evening or weekend classes.
> Courses in business, arts and sciences, education, nursing.
> All courses applicable to Loyola University Chicago degrees.
> Classes held at Loyola’s Lake Shore (Chicago), Water Tower (Chicago), Medical Center (Maywood), and Mallinckrodt (Wilmette) campuses.
> Convenient touch-tone registration (TTR) system.

The Program of Liberal Studies

proudly salutes PLS majors who have won national fellowships

Fulbright Teaching Fellowships

Elissa Bell
(France)

Helen Dieteman
(France)

Mellon Graduate Fellowships

Emily Lehrman
(Russian, Yale)

Amy Siddons
(English, Virginia)
Senate hears nominee bid

By DAVID ESPO
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Blending poignant details of life in medicine with a defense of his integrity, Henry Foster battled Tuesday to deflect criticisms about a widely publicized hospital billing scandal years ago.
"I am a doctor who delivers babies, and the people prefer me to be the shipbuilder I once was," he said. "I have always been potential makers probing his views on abortion.

At a day-long Senate hearing, Foster pledged to lead a na­tional campaign to "get the truth out and people will believe it.

Foster said his greatest concern in his new post was to

The Senate, hearing testimony on the nomination of Foster to lead the Vander Sehaaf, the Navy's top business executive, was the main problem at the

Although the Navy's Portland shipyard was not

While Vanderc Sehaaf said his problems should be

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

The failure of the two unfinished hulls to complete the Navy's $400

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said his greatest concern in his new post was to

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

The audience included

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

The audience included

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the

Foster said he had always been responsible for the Bombing continues to take toll in Oklahoma

By JULIA PRODIS
Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY

Every night since the Oklahoma bombing, Vietnam veteran Jim Robinson has been going on what he calls “night patrol” in his pajamas.

He rises from his bed in his sleep, rustles through the bomb in his back yard in a search for the enemy, hides behind his living room furniture and crawls under the car in his garage.

He wakes up in bed with grass stains, cuts and bruises, wondering where he has been.

“It puts you right back where you were 25 years ago. You try to do a reality check. It’s real hard sometimes,” he said at the Oklahoma City Veterans Center, where he volunteers.

At the Veterans Center alone, counselors have met with 135 veterans since the bombing—one-third more than usual. And nearly every one was having flashbacks, nightmares and signs of “hyper vigilance” — a feeling of being in constant danger.

Robinson, 46, served as an infantryman in Vietnam in 1966 and 1969 and was diagnosed with post traumatic stress disorder in 1984. He is on full disability because of it.

He had been coping pretty well with his anxieties before the bombing, but he reduced his counseling sessions to once every two weeks, instead of every week, and was having fewer nightmares.

But on April 19, when the bomb ripped apart the federal building and rattled his office five miles away, he suffered a major set-back. He’s been getting counseling nearly every day.

When he felt the blast, he instinctively ran outside as if his Army tent had taken a direct hit. He stood in the parking lot, shaking. His adrenaline was surging.

“My reaction was: ‘Go to war — ambush patrol’,” he recalled. For a week after the bombing, he was sure he was seeing bodies lining the highway as he drove to work.

“I couldn’t see the traffic. All I could see was dead bodies, torn up and mangled like they were in Vietnam. Like they were downtown,” Robinson said. “I had to keep saying, ‘I’m in traffic, I’m on the freeway.’”

By the time he arrived at work, he would have an erecting headache from the sitting to concentrate so hard.

Numerous other veterans from across the country have also been traumatized by the bombing, according to Terence Keane, director of the National Center for PTSD Traumatic Stress Disorder at the Boston Veterans Administration Medical Center. The bombing occurred the week before the 20th anniversary of the fall of Saigon.

“Some of them won’t even turn on the TV or pick up a newspaper because it’s just too threatening. It created too much anxiety, too much despair,” Keane said.

When Vietnam veteran Robert Kinney saw reports of the bomb blast on TV, memories of Vietnam came flooding back.

“It’s like the past becomes the present. You can’t discern the two,” said Kinney, 44, who was at the local veterans center for counseling.

The other night, when his dog barked at the back door, he dashed back to Vietnam and thought his house was being hit by enemy fire.

“I was out the back door,” he said.

Vietnam veteran Bert Moore of Edmond has had trouble sleeping — especially since he saw the picture of a firefighter, cradling the limp, bloody body of a toddler in front of the federal building.

“I’ve had bad dreams, mostly of the things I’ve seen when I was in Vietnam. I had to shoot a little 6-year-old boy. He was 6. I had a live grenade. I knew he was going to throw it at me. It was me or him,”” said Moore, 58, who was in Vietnam in 1970 and 1971 and now is a volunteer helping veterans get benefits.

Unfortunately, our competitor is struggling with this simple test:

- True
- False

Now we’re not saying anyone’s lying, you understand.

It’s just The Princeton Review can’t seem to figure out exactly what’s true. Their advertised average LSAT score improvement dropped from “10+ points” in 1993 to 7.5 last year. Now an arbitration panel has ruled that their “study” really only supported an average improvement of 6.9 points. That same arbitration panel ruled similarly for their MCAT, GRE and GMAT studies.

In fact, Princeton Review has been forced to abandon or lower every score claim that has ever been legally challenged and resolved.

It’s no wonder more than twice as many students take Kaplan, the acknowledged leader in LSAT, MCAT, GRE and GMAT preparation.

Our expert instructors know the tests inside out, so they can help you get your highest possible score. And our score improvements are backed by rock-solid Price Waterhouse studies.

Honest.

1-800-KAP-TEST

KAPLAN

Before you take your test, call for our free brochure

The Truth About Test Preparation Companies.
April, participating in the
This year, we have started a program which brings gay and lesbian students
Many people at Notre Dame have sacrificed their time and energy to minister to working with students in order to find more ways of empowering people to
As I think back about this school year, I think about the thousands of students and accomplishments, excitement and boredom.
It has not always been an easy year.
Next fall, we will begin a retreat program especially for freshman. We want to be

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

THANKS

The other day I was talking to a student who is finishing his freshman year at Notre Dame. It has not always been an easy year.
He told me that he is not exactly the same person who showed up on campus in August. He does feel like he has learned and changed.
As important as classes are, he told me that the people he has come to know in the last several months have changed him more than anything else.
As I think back about this school year, I think about the thousands of students who have affected my life and the lives of other students by their witness.
They have tried to put their faith into action by leading retreats, ministering with the homeless, being part of Communities ND, planning hall and campus-wide liturgies, singing and serving in the Basilica, sponsoring people who are preparing for baptism and confirmation, planning and participating in the weekly Fourth Day presentations on the challenge of Christian living, serving in Christmas in April, participating in the Urban Plunge, and countless other ways.
Many people at Notre Dame have sacrificed their time and energy to minister to their fellow students and to other people, inside and outside of Notre Dame.
We in Campus Ministry are privileged to be part of this. We look forward to working with students in order to find more ways of empowering people to minister to others.
This year, we have started a program which brings gay and lesbian students together to listen to and talk about issues related to their sexuality. We want to be part of making Notre Dame a more welcoming place for gay and lesbian students.
Next fall, we will begin a retreat program especially for freshman. We want to be
WASHINGTON

The chairman of the Senate Budget Committee plans to unveil a deficit-reduction proposal next week that omits—for now—the tax cuts so strongly supported by many Republicans.

To the ire of some conservatives and a legion of Democrats, the budget proposal by Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., would instead let Congress trim taxes only after lawmakers approve spending cuts that the nonparisan Congressional Budget Office certifies would balance the budget by 2002.

Once that is achieved, Domenici's measure would allow about $170 billion in tax reductions over seven years—more than President Clinton has proposed, but less than approved by the GOP-controlled House.

That figure represents the "economic bonus" Republicans say the government would enjoy as a result of balancing the budget, thanks to lower interest rates and increased economic activity.

Pushed by conservative rivals in his race for the Republican presidential nomination, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., has said the Senate will approve tax cuts this year.

But Congress is now moving from talking about the budget to working on it, and Domenici's language seeks to balance the demands of senior Republicans like himself who want a tax cut, with those of the budget's top priority, and conservatives eager to also slash taxes.

"You've got to complete the primary task of balancing the budget," Domenici said in an interview.

"I don't believe the people I'm in contact with want a tax cut before you get a balanced budget.

But Domenici is being fought by conservative Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, one of Dole's presidential rivals and a member of the Budget Committee.

In an interview, Gramm said Domenici's approach would not deliver the tax cuts Republicans promised during last fall's election campaign.

Under the figures Domenici is using, just $79 billion of the $170 billion in seven-year tax cuts could occur in the first five years, and only $24 billion could take effect in the first three years.

"It would provide virtually no tax relief until well into the next administration. That's not acceptable," Gramm said.

Germann said he would try to add tax reductions, and spending cuts to pay for them, to Domenici's plan either at the Budget Committee or later on the Senate floor.

Democrats said they were suspicious about cutting taxes as an assumption they would be paid for by an economic bonus resulting from elimination of the deficit.

"I'm very fearful of falling back into the familiar scenario of the early 1980s, when Ronald Reagan gave us a scenario of a balanced budget in four years and having a tax cut," said Sen. James Exon of Nebraska, senior Democrat on the budget panel. "The worst vote I ever cast in my life was in support of that.

Mainstream economists from both parties agree that a balanced budget would allow interest rates to drop slightly, which would mean reduced borrowing costs for the Treasury and would probably lead to increased economic activity.

Many of them say there is no way to predict how much extra money that would mean for the Treasury, since the economy reacts to many different factors.

Domenici plans to present his deficit-reduction package to his committee Monday for the first time. It will mark the beginning of Congress' effort to deliver on Republican campaign promises to balance the budget.

The House Budget Committee plans to vote on its package May 11, and it is certain to reflect the five-year, $189 billion tax cut already approved by the House.

Clinton has proposed $63 billion worth of tax cuts over five years.

Congress is likely to work until June on its budget, which will outline spending and tax policies for the next four years.

This summer and fall, lawmakers will then debate a separate bill containing specific spending reductions.

Under Domenici's plan, it is bill that the Congressional Budget Office will have to certify as balancing the budget before legislators could consider approve tax reductions.

According to several Senate Republicans, Domenici's budget will propose seven-year savings including:

• $270 billion from Medicare,

• $160 billion from Medicaid, which helps the poor pay medical bills,

• $220 billion from agricultural subsidies, veterans and other benefit programs,

• $200 billion from other domestic programs,

• Freezing defense spending increases by roughly $20 billion annually.
Murderer begs to be executed

By MICHAEL GARRUSSO
Associated Press

BELLEFONTE, Pa. - Keith Zettlemoyer begged the courts to let him die, pleading that "brain disease" made his life in prison hell.

Wednesday, May 3, 1995 The Associated Press

Zettlemoyer fired his attorneys and faced his pending before the U.S. Supreme Court. "I saw my execution as an end of suffering to my imprisonment - a blessed, merciful release from all these health symptoms that I'm constantly suffering with," he testified Saturday in U.S. District Court.

Attorneys for the Pennsylvania Post-Conviction Defender Organization argued that Zettlemoyer was not mentally competent to decide his own fate.

Three psychiatrists testified that Zettlemoyer was sane. "I'm not crazy. I'm not loony. I understand perfectly what's going on with the execution and everything." Zettlemoyer said.

Zettlemoyer was convicted of murdering Charles DeVesto.

Veterans' protests oust museum head

By MIKE FEINSLBER
Washington

WASHINGTON - The director of the Smithsonian Institution's Air and Space Museum resigned Tuesday, a casualty of protests by World War II veterans over the way the museum had planned to depict the atomic bombing of Japan 50 years ago.

"I believe that nothing less than my stepping down from the directorship will satisfy the museum's critics and allow the museum to move forward with important new projects," said Martin Harwit, noting that the controversy over the Enola Gay exhibit had not ended with its cancellation.

The Enola Gay was the B-29 that dropped the atom bomb over Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945, following a second atomic attack, over Nagasaki, Japan surrendered on Aug. 14, ending the war. Harwit's critics said the exhibit's tone was one of "brain disease," though doctors said they could find nothing physically wrong.

Smithsonian's board of regents, suggested he was still not satisfied.

I feel confident that we will continue to make sure that all of the museums are on the right track," Johnson said. "This resignation is the first in a long line of management changes that I expect to see."

Another congressional critic, Rep. Peter Blute, R-Mass., said Harwit had backed an exhibit "dedicated to political correctness and revisionist history rather than truth and balance."

"Martin Harwit was primarily responsible for the broadly acknowledged bias of this exhibit and was a willing participant in the effort to prevent changes at all costs," Blute said.

In January, the American Legion demanded the cancellation, citing "highly debatable information which calls into question the morality and motives of President Truman's decision to end World War II quickly and decisively by using the atomic bomb."

Eighty-one members of the House of Representatives then called for Harwit's removal.

Senior Last Visit

to Sacred Heart & the Grotto

A celebration of four years of friendship in song, readings, and poetry.

Sacred music of the Notre Dame Glee Club and Folk Choir.

Thursday, May 18 at 9:00pm

starting at the Basilica

Sponsored by Campus Ministry and the Class of 1995
Preliminary Report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student Needs Submitted to Professor Patricia A. O'Hara, Vice President for Student Affairs

In your March 6, 1995, Open Letter to the Notre Dame community, you announced the creation of the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student Needs. You asked that the committee provide you with two written reports, a preliminary report by May 1, 1995, and a final report by no later than December 6, 1995. This shall serve as the Preliminary Report of the Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student Needs.

The membership of the committee is as follows:

Sister Joris Binder, O.P.
Rector of Pasquerilla East
Rev. David Burrell, C.S.C.
Hesburgh Professor of Theology and Philosophy
Rev. Robert Dowd, C.S.C.
Assistant Director of Campus Ministry
Ms. Ann M. Firth (Chair)
Assistant to the Vice President for Student Affairs
Rev. Terence Linton, C.S.C.
Rector of Grace Hall
Mr. Dennis McCarthy
Student Body Vice President, 1995-96
Ms. Sharon Miller
Graduate Student
Mr. Jonathan Patrick
Student Body President, 1995-96
Professor Maura Ryan
Assistant Professor of Theology
Mr. Anthony Silva
Undergraduate Student
Dr. Susan Steibe-Pasalic
Assistant Director of the University Counseling Center
Dr. Patrick Utz
Director of the University Counseling Center
Director of Campus Ministry

In your March 6 letter, you outlined the committee's mandate. You asked us to consider the following questions:

1. How can the University, through Student Affairs, sponsor a facilitated setting respectful of church teaching in which gay and lesbian students can come together as a group to explore common issues and find mutual support?
2. What types of programs should Student Affairs sponsor for rectors, hall staff and other Student Affairs professionals to better equip them to meet the needs of our gay and lesbian students?
3. What additional measures should Student Affairs take to promote an environment free of harassment based on sexual orientation?

The committee has met three times over the past seven weeks, and we plan to meet at least once more before the end of the academic year. We have spent much of our time together in dialogue as a committee. We also have had the opportunity to hear from several gay undergraduates, as well as from the co-chairs of GLMS/SMC.

We have focused our energy in recent meetings on part two of our mandate, namely on formulating recommendations regarding those programs Student Affairs might sponsor for rectors, hall staff and other Student Affairs professionals to better equip them to meet the needs of our gay and lesbian students. We have been able to discuss our efforts in this area because we are hopeful that our recommendations might be implemented as early as fall 1995, when hall staff will once again participate in staff training and orientation.

The committee affirms and wholeheartedly endorses the following passage from your March 6 letter:

The committee affirms that the University to be a safe and inclusive environment in which every student can pursue the educational endeavor to which we are committed-free from harassment of any kind. As with all our students, we want to meet the needs of our gay and lesbian students. We seek to do so through appropriate channels—channels that we believe are best equipped to address the issues with which gay and lesbian students deal and channels that allow us to balance our desire to support our gay and lesbian students with our responsibility to remain faithful to the teachings of the Catholic Church.

In light of the above statement, we offer the following recommendations with regard to part two of our mandate:

Recommendation No. 1: That the Office of Student Affairs incorporate a workshop on how to assist the gay or lesbian student into its orientation program for all resident assistants and assistant rectors.

Recommendation No. 2: That the Office of Student Affairs offer continuing professional education to all residence hall rectors on the psychosexual development of college-age students, both heterosexual and homosexual.

In determining the content and format of these workshops, the Office of Student Affairs should call upon the University Counseling Center, Campus Ministry, and, most importantly, upon our own gay and lesbian students for input.

Recommendation No. 3: That the Office of Student Affairs make available resources to assist rectors in sensitizing their staffs and hall residents to the needs of gay and lesbian students.

Recommendation No. 4: That in their words of welcome at the beginning of the year, residence hall rectors be encouraged to specifically articulate their willingness to be a resource for those who are struggling with issues of sexual identity or who are convinced of their homosexuality. Rectors should also communicate to the hall community the University's intolerance for harassment on the basis of sexual orientation.

In terms of their interactions with hall staff, the gay and lesbian undergraduates with whom we have spoken generally reported positive experiences. At the same time, the students expressed feelings of great loneliness and isolation, particularly during their first year at Notre Dame.

By sensitizing members of the hall community and by having rectors specifically articulate their willingness to support those who are either struggling with or who are convinced of their homosexual orientation, the committee hopes to minimize the very real suffering experienced by some of our students.

In the months ahead, the committee will address the other portions of its mandate. There is much work to be done. We intend to spend a significant portion of our time listening to gay students on our campus, both undergraduate and graduate. We intend to invite gay members of the faculty to speak with us so that we might benefit from their insights and perspectives. We will seek assistance in reaching a more complete understanding of the theological and ethical issues which must frame our conversation at a Catholic university. We will seek advice from those who are equipped to provide us with useful information from the field of psychology.

We thank you for your continued support for the work of the committee.

Respectfully submitted,

Ann M. Firth
Chair
May 1, 1995
Curiosity opens door to computing with DNA

By JANE ALLEN
Associated Press

LOS ANGELES

Computer scientist Leonard Adleman watched as associates in his lab tumbled DNA from tiny viruses to the biggest mammals. And he was struck by how similar the laboratory cutting, splicing and copying of these strands were to the manipulations of numbers he performed with computers.

Then came the light bulb. Could DNA somehow be harnessed to tackle calculations, perhaps more efficiently than theoretical travel itinerary, is pie numbers used by silicon cryptographer and assistant simplest, you don't need any energy-efficient-computer science

But as soon as he published human language, the basic units encoding DNA's information are four tiny molecules called adenine, cytosine, guanine and thymine. They're abbreviated A, C, G and T. These four building blocks can fit together to form more complex numbers or words, which then combine to make larger words.

Source: Prof. Leonard Adleman, University of Southern California

Each DNA strand represents a sequence of numbers. Mathematical rules are applied to determine how the strands are to be sorted. First, each strand is sifted into one of two vats, depending on whether the number sequence starts in the strand begins with a zero or a one. Then each vat is separated into two more vats, depending on whether the second digit is a zero or a one. Since only two of the vats contain DNA where the first and second digits are the same, these two vats can be combined while the other two vats can be discarded.

To solve a complex problem, the combining and sorting can be continued until all that remains are strands of DNA representing the answer.

The sequences of A,C,T, and G molecules are "kind of like LEGO pieces that stick together," said Don Beaver, a cryptographer and assistant professor of computer science and engineering at Penn State. To test his theory, Adleman used a form of the Traveling Salesman problem, a simple puzzle which requires picking the shortest flight route to connect seven cities with no more than one stop at each. He gave each trip segment a piece of DNA made of a particular sequence of those A, C, T and G molecules. Mixing those pieces together in a solution then allowed them to stick together and form various new combinations, like stringing words together to make a new sentence.

To read the answer, a separate chemical reaction has to be used to determine the identity of each single group of A, C, T and G along a strand of DNA.

For problems with one unique solution, a series of these tests would pick out the strands that hold the right sequence.

For more complicated problems, Beaver explained Tuesday, a mix of chemical Velcro would have to be composed that would stick to one particular combination or word and pull out the DNA strands that start with that word.

Then another sticky chemical marker has to be used to separate out those DNA strands that have a particular word in the second position. And so on.

Because it relies on simple chemical reactions rather than the movement of electrons on silicon chips, the process is more energy-efficient — at its simplest, you don't need any electricity.

DNA computing should yield some solutions a million times faster than electronic computers because billions of DNA molecules could carry out billions of operations simultaneously, even though each individual step might be fairly slow. "We've grown accustomed to thinking computers have to look like our PCs or Macs," says Adleman. "But the molecular computer... raises the question of whether the world is full of computers just waiting to be discovered."

But don't expect to see DNA computers knock PCs off the shelves anytime soon.

"The door has just opened. We certainly haven't thought of all the possibilities," says Eric Behnke, a specialist in molecular intelligence at NEC Research Institute in Princeton, N.J.

Two things you can't afford to miss.

Happy 21st Birthday Andrea!!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Mildred, Carlo, Alex & Scout

PowerBook* 520c w/Modem
12 MB RAM/30 MB hard drive and modem.

Right now at your campus reseller.

Notre Dame Computer Store
Room 112 CCMB • 631-7477
M - F 9am-5pm
EVERY VACATION, THE SMITHS ALWAYS COUNTED ON TWO THINGS:
LOTS OF 1-800-COLLECT CALLS HOME, AND ANN COLLIDING WITH THE BOAT.

1-800-COLLECT®
Save The People You Call Up To 44%.
Weather report heats up as streaker runs by

LIVERPOOL, England

A streaker ran onto Britain's airwaves Tuesday during a live weather report.

The weather reports on the ITV network's "This Morning" program normally feature forecaster Fred Talbot prancing about on a 50-foot-wide map of Britain and Ireland afloat in the Liverpool docks.

The streaker, taking a running leap from the nearby docks, joined Talbot aboard the floating podium.

As Talbot tried to continue his report, the streaker ran from England into Wales, streaking a cheer and a cheerleader.

"This Morning" hosts, Richard Maddelley and Judy Finnigan, asked to meet the streaker.

"He told us he had done it because it was a sunny day and it was a bit of humor," Maddelley said. "Anyone who fails to see the funny side needs a sense of humor transplant."

Interrogation leads to death

Palestinians claim suspect was tortured

By DAN PERRY
Associated Press

HEBRON, West Bank

Hours after being seized by Israeli Shin Bet agents who suspected he was a key Islamic militant, Abdel-Maddeley Harizat lay mortally wounded in an Israeli hospital. An autopsy suggested he was tortured.

Palestinians dispute whether Harizat, a 29-year-old computer operator who stood only 4 feet 7, was a senior activist in the fundamentalist Hamas group. They say his death deepens hatreds at a time when the peace process is in trouble.

"What happened to Harizat is an execution," said Nabil Abu Arafat, 29-year-old senior activist in the military wing of Hamas.

Evidence suggests Harizat may have been politically active.

He spent three months in Israeli prison in 1993 and was fined $1,350 for distributing Hamas leaflets.

His employer, a Hebron publishing house known as a center of fundamentalist support, was closed by Israel and has since reopened under another name.

Manager Jawad Said said Harizat supported the fundamentalists but kept politics out of the office. He was "a simple but educated person, very nice to customers," Said said.

Abdallah Harizat, 32, said his younger brother had no links to Hamas. But his mother Fadma, 60, conceded that if he did, he would have likely kept them hidden.

"But how can somebody so small destroy Israel?" she asked, weeping and clasping her hands together as she received relatives offering condolences Tuesday at her home on Hebron's outskirts.

A top security official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, maintained the agency had several leads that Harizat was deeply involved in plans for a car bombing in Israel.

"Just because he was small does not mean he was incapable of being a senior member in the military wing of Hamas. We do not accuse him of firing rockets," the official said.

Fatma Harizat said Israeli troops seized her son at the family home about midnight on Saturday, April 22, blindfolding and beating him. Family members were then locked in a room while troops searched the house, she said.

Security sources said Hamas leaflets were found. Abdelah Harizat said Israeli agents returned Sunday to summon him and his mother to Jerusalem's Hadassah Ein-Karem hospital, where they were told his brother had been admitted Saturday.

The prisoner was unconscious, legs shackled. Two days later the hospital declared him dead.

"The Shin Bet has denied Harizat was tortured. But in an affidavit published this week, Derrick Pounder, a Scottish psychologist who participated in Harizat's autopsy at the family's request, said he died of "trauma to the brain" caused by "violent shaking."

Reflected Palestinian anger, the Arabic-language Al-Manar weekly wrote that the incident "will only deepen the hatred between Israelis and Palestinians.

Israeli legislators called for a reassessment of interrogation practices and the Justice Ministry and Shin Bet both launched inquiries. Harizat's two investigators were transferred to desk jobs and one of them was suspended.

The Haaretz daily said in an editorial that Israel's pressing security needs did not justify torture. Harizat's death in custody "is an incident no decent society can let pass," Haaretz wrote.

But there was little protest among average Israelis, who have grown increasingly outraged at the fundamentalists' terror attacks and generally support tough action against them.

Government spokesman Uri Benzion said there was no choice but to exert some pressure on detainees.

"We are facing the threat of the most fanatic and cruel terrorist organizations history has only just started to taste," he said.

Bombings and shootings by Hamas and a smaller fundamentalist group, Islamic Jihad, have killed 105 Israelis since January 1994.
Thank You for Your Support!

One Day Only!
May 3rd, 1995
From 9 am - 5 pm

10% Off your purchases* - Special Music Coupon Promotion - Many Other Great Savings

Register to Win One of Several Special Prizes - TV's, WalkMans', Exercise Equipment and More!

The Hammes
NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
"on the campus"
Open Monday - Saturday 9 am - 5 pm

*Health and Beauty Aids, Textbooks, Music, Film and Film processing, and Class Rings Are Not Included!
Serb rockets blast Zagreb streets

By BRANKA KOSTOVSKA

Serb rockets slammed into Zagreb's teeming streets Tuesday, yelling people wounding 121 and terrorizing residents who hadn't seen such carnage since the 1991 civil war.

The rocket attack came in response to a Croatian army offensive Monday in which the Zagreb government claimed victory in routing Serb rebels from a key swath of territory they had occupied since the 1991 war.

But the triumph could be a mere prelude to a new and more dangerous round of fighting, Judge Peter Carver, deputy head of the Zagreb's war crimes tribunal, said Tuesday.
Shades of racism taint national institutions

Let's talk race. I think the racial aspect of Affirmative Action upsets more people then the government's policies. Most people, of course, don't want to admit to 'it, but it's definitely true. I'm not saying it happens in your neighborhood, but it happens in the country.

I have no problem talking about race. It might make some people uncomfortable. So, I have no problem talking about race, it's when people say stupid stuff that I get angry. Or especially when people ask me stupid questions.

Hey, this is the deal, ask me a genuine question. Most people, of course, don't want to admit to 'it, but it's definitely true. I'm not saying it happens in your neighborhood, but it happens in the country.

Most people don't realize this, but black folks haven't enjoyed the same legal and constitutional freedoms that white folks have until about thirty years or so. With the signing of the Civil Rights Act, blacks and other ethnic minorities, were given the right to be equal to white people.

Now, of course, any fool can tell you that equality didn't come instantaneous, and realistically it has yet to come. So it isn't unreasonable to say that we can not overcome four hundred years of overwhelming national, institutional, systemic racism in 30 years. It will take you four hundred years as well, hmm, I doubt it, but definitely not in my lifetime. Given this, we have programs such as Affirmative Action to help eat away at the brick wall minorities and women have to climb.

I can hear people yelling at me now saying "That's not fair! That's not fair!" Well, let's take a look at what is really fair. A few years ago, of the most dynamic people I have ever had a conversation with, Brother Khalid Abdul Muhammad from the Nation of Islam (who has also been condemned by the world) said that our government didn't give the Japanese in Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II any warning, and how is that murder or equally damnable. "Hey", Brother Muhammad said, "at least they had a warning".

So one seems to want to realize he is fair. Brother Muhammad said that our government didn't give the Japanese in Hiroshima and Nagasaki during World War II any warning, and how is that murder or equally damnable. "Hey", Brother Muhammad said, "at least they had a warning".

I guess I should say that I am not particularly concerned with the so-called anest of Generation X, because I think it is self-inflicted, media-created buckraper. I am not particularly concerned with people like Ronald Reagan, George Bush, Newt Gingrich, and even Bill Clinton who want to raise America up to it's alleged former glory years.

I guess I should say that I am not particularly concerned with the so-called angst of Generation X, because I think it is self-inflicted, media-created buckraper. I am not particularly concerned with people like Ronald Reagan, George Bush, Newt Gingrich, and even Bill Clinton who want to raise America up to it's alleged former glory years.

I don't advocate killing anyone, but when it comes to fairness be careful what you ask for, because you just might get it. Before you call me a racist and write letters to the Editor, just be warned that I am not a racist. Truthfully, I'm sick of this reverse-racism rhetoric, because it doesn't exist. Black people cannot be racist, not in this society.

I don't think so. I think the situation we are now in is one that expect minorities and women to forget past discrimination and oppression and all of a sudden pretend and act like every thing is peaches and cream. That is unrealistic and unfair.

The question of the century is whether or not white people, not only in this country, will be willing to give up some of their natural born privileges in the name of equality and fairness. And I doubt that.

The fact of the matter is that black people have to work twice as hard to get half as far, and frankly that pisses off my. My father is a testament to that, but I won't go there...not today anyway.

So do I think Affirmative Action is a law thing? Nope. Race is a very important thing to most black people, and ethnic minorities as well, and to anyone who says race isn't a way of life, they have the wrong idea about our institutions, our government, and yes, even in our spiritual well-being. I call you a fool.

So, I don't think so. I think the situation we are now in is one that expect minorities and women to forget past discrimination and oppression.
Dear Editor:

I am a philosophy professor and have recently been thinking a great deal about the nature of responsibility. As a formalist, I have come to realize that the concept of responsibility is deeply intertwined with the idea of personal autonomy and self-determination. I believe that in order to truly understand the nature of responsibility, we must first consider the role of personal agency in shaping our actions and decisions.

In my view, responsibility is not simply about holding people accountable for their actions. Rather, it is about recognizing the complexity of the human condition and the ways in which we are interconnected with one another. We are not simply isolated individuals, but rather part of a larger social and political fabric.

As we navigate the challenges of the modern world, it is crucial that we recognize the importance of personal autonomy and self-determination. Only by embracing these principles can we truly take responsibility for our actions and decisions, and work towards building a more just and equitable society.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Dear Editor:

I am writing to announce that this year's recipients of the Hipp-Beeler Freshmen Memorial Scholarship are Jean Kenol from South Hall and Amie Thompson from Sorin. Each member of the Notre Dame women's swim team, were killed on January 24, 1992 when the team bus, returning from a meet in Evanston, overturned near campus.

In an attempt to help relieve the pain of this tragedy and to honor the lives of these two freshman, the student body has established an endowment in both their names. The Jean-Beeler Freshman Memorial Scholarship was established in memory of Colleen and Meghan with the intent to memorialize the lives of all student who pass away during their years at the University.

Students are nominated for the award by their Freshman Writing Program instructors, who choose each candidate on the basis of his or her character: an ability to accept and synthesize the criticisms of others, a displayed sense of self-confidence, and an embodiment of the Notre Dame spirit.

These candidates are students who — through a commitment to a discipline — exemplify the work of Meghan and Colleen toward a greater vision of one's self. Recipients are then selected from inter­ national, student-coordinated and student-funded scholarship at the University of Notre Dame.

Myth the New Right have spread are not political philosophies but ideologies, which control people's views by using emotional triggers rather than through justification by reason. The inevitable end of such ideological conditioning is fanaticism, which has become not a fringe factor but a major presence in our culture. They must be rooted out, given no comfort, and expelled from our states.

But the real problem is the mass base of milder but dangerous ideologies that destroy the world economy.

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation. But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

arguing with people who defend the right to semiautomatic weapons and state rights and the end of income tax.

The time has come to start pressing on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.

But each of us should press on them instead of moral responsibility to not to argue in extremes and vagueness, like "big government."

These phrases are no longer just stupid — they have become reprehensible. This is not to say nothing is wrong with our federal budget and our social policies in this nation.
Life Goes On...

South Bend survives summer without students

By ANGIE KELVER
St. Mary's Access Editor

This week, as the academic year winds down, U-Hauls will frequent the Notre Dame and St. Mary's campuses and parking peanuts will litter the dormitory hallways. Stressed-out students will complete their finals, give one last hurray and make tracks out of town to begin their summers. But after the last U-Haul pulls out of the parking lot and all that remains of schoolwork is the lonely piles of notebook paper blowing across the quad, the city of South Bend still remains. Contrary to popular belief, life in the Bend does go on after school lets out for the summer. But frankly, how, and to what extent?

Area businesses, even the ones that cater mostly to students, still have a business-to-run in the summer months. So the problem is obvious: what do they do in the summertime to earn a living? Most businesses do cite a decline in customers when the students leave, but the general consensus is that they will survive, as they have in the years past.

Kathy, a bartender at the Linebacker Inn, which enjoys a large student following during the academic year, stated, "We become just a local neighborhood bar when the students are not here. We depend on the locals in the summertime to carry us through." There is also an influx of new students, South Bend natives from other colleges who come home for the summer, and also students who are taking summer school courses at Notre Dame and St. Mary's.

This concern of getting through the summer is also present at Powertan, which figures students make up about half of the tanning center's business. Powertan also faces another facet to the problem of summertime. The sports camps and conferences that meet provide us with a lot of business, Mehler said. "But it seems that we, as students, may not be as indispensable to South Bend as we may have foolishly thought. Though the campuses will empty and students will leave the city behind, South Bend will not be suspended in time only to restart itself in late August. Life in the Bend will continue on until the students return and fresh notebooks are bought in the fall.

But don't be discouraged by the news that South Bend can carry on without us, we will be missed. "As soon as Fall-Fools around and the students come back, it will all be new and exciting again," Thomis said.

So, as you enjoy your respective summers, just keep the comforting thought in the back of your mind that though life goes on, South Bend is right here, waiting for the sound of student laughter, the roar of football Saturdays, and the impending chug of U-Hauls approaching in the distance.
ATTENTION SENIORS who are interested in playing on our next year's team?—Come sign up at the CSC to be considered for our next year's Bond/Send-off Fri., May 19th 6:30-9:30.

F4 FOR TEXTBOOKS
Are you having trouble finding what you need? Then call 332-0342

ANTIQUE FILLED RED & BREAKFAST, 35 Min. to T.D. Special, Overnight Rates, Full Breakfast.
The Homestead, N Alpha, Wichita

WORD PROCESSING, TAXES, ETC.) SUMMER/PERMANENT, $5000.00
MASS, 1990 •spotless, $4000.00 •1990 •SPOTLESS, $3900

JUNIORS
S UMMIT PRINTED COPY OF RESUME AND DISK on the first floor in front of the library
Write for location & services

D EADLINE: BEFORE YOU LEAVE CAMPUSS IN MAY

TRUCK BACK TO D.C. TRUCK BACK TO D.C.
Could you be the person for Saturday, May 12, 1:20PM-PM.
Call Rob, 260-6980. Me, J. Finley and Jim #1874

PHI lAGGAGE truck loads soon! Details call Dan Kirkhart. Call now, space limited

LOST & FOUND
L OST: Visitor AFD 205 35 min space at an apartment on Laclede or vicinity during the Shadrack's sale on Fri., April 26. Name and address unknown. S no questions asked. Reward, call Sue #1522

Silver and Brass Bangle Bracelet Delivered to the wrong address in a box. If it is still there, call got it in last, get it at Metro, 316-9035. If found, call Janie—1412

Lost at Ft. Tostore, a pair of gold-inked earrings, $50.00. Reward, if found, please call #1434.

Thank you

MAG: multi-colored ankle bracelet; lost seen in front of renaissance.

Found: Bunny Pin/Brooch near Spellman and the Red Lab. Call Peter x-7895.

FOUND BY STEPHAN CURTIS—CLASS RING CALL, 277-0717 & IDENTIFY.

M E DICAL CENTER

L OST: Camera. Last seen Planner room 112. Call Ken Johnson—2732-4083.

ATTENTION SENIORS who are interested in playing on our next year's team?—Come sign up at the CSC to be considered for our next year's Bond/Send-off Fri., May 19th 6:30-9:30.

F4 FOR TEXTBOOKS
Are you having trouble finding what you need? Then call 332-0342

ANTIQUE FILLED RED & BREAKFAST, 35 Min. to T.D. Special, Overnight Rates, Full Breakfast.
The Homestead, N Alpha, Wichita

WORD PROCESSING, TAXES, ETC.) SUMMER/PERMANENT, $5000.00. MA S S, 1990 •spotless, $4000.00 •1990 •SPOTLESS, $3900

JUN IORS
S UMMIT PRINTED COPY OF RESUME AND DISK on the first floor in front of the library
Write for location & services

D EADLINE: BEFORE YOU LEAVE CAMPUSS IN MAY

TRUCK BACK TO D.C. TRUCK BACK TO D.C.
Could you be the person for Saturday, May 12, 1:20PM-PM.
Call Rob, 260-6980. Me, J. Finley and Jim #1874

PHI lAGGAGE truck loads soon! Details call Dan Kirkhart. Call now, space limited

LOST & FOUND
L OST: Visitor AFD 205 35 min space at an apartment on Laclede or vicinity during the Shadrack's sale on Fri., April 26. Name and address unknown. S no questions asked. Reward, call Sue #1522

Silver and Brass Bangle Bracelet Delivered to the wrong address in a box. If it is still there, call got it in last, get it at Metro, 316-9035. If found, call Janie—1412

Lost at Ft. Tostore, a pair of gold-inked earrings, $50.00. Reward, if found, please call #1434.

Thank you

MAG: multi-colored ankle bracelet; lost seen in front of renaissance.

Found: Bunny Pin/Brooch near Spellman and the Red Lab. Call Peter x-7895.

FOUND BY STEPHAN CURTIS—CLASS RING CALL, 277-0717 & IDENTIFY.

M E DICAL CENTER

L OST: Camera. Last seen Planner room 112. Call Ken Johnson—2732-4083.
Study Break?

Service Break!

NCAA

CHAMPIONSHIPS

1995 NCAA DIVISION I MEN'S COLLEGIATE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS
First & Second Rounds • Courtney Tennis Center • Notre Dame

NCAA TENNIS SCHEDULE
Courtney Tennis Center (north of the Joyce Center)
Fri., Sat., Sun • May 5-7

FRIDAY, MAY 5
10 a.m.: Michigan vs. Northwestern
1 p.m.: Minnesota vs. Ball State

SATURDAY, MAY 6
10 a.m.: Mississippi vs. Michigan or Northwestern
1 p.m.: Notre Dame vs. Minnesota or Ball State

SUNDAY, MAY 7
1 p.m.: FINALS

1:00 P.M. SATURDAY!

Nationally-ranked #19
NOTRE DAME MEN'S TENNIS
vs. Winner of Friday's Minnesota / Ball St. Match
NCAA-bound Notre Dame to battle Buckeyes

By DAVE TREACY
Sports Writer

Notre Dame will be in the 1995 NCAA tournament. This Saturday’s game in Columbus, Ohio will only help to determine the seeding.

The upcoming game against the Ohio State Buckeyes gives the Irish a great opportunity to hone their skills for the upcoming tournament. The Buckeyes, a strong defensive team without much offensive threats, are 5-8 on the year, and haven’t won a game against a conference opponent. Notre Dame has already sewn up the Great Western Lacrosse League bid, and is presently ranked 13th in the country.

“This is not their best team. They play people tough, especially their longsticks, and have kept themselves in games,” said coach Kevin Corrigan. “Their problems are at the offensive end. If they had any kind of an offense, they could easily be 8-5.”

Due to Notre Dame’s outstanding defense and net play, the weak Buckeyes offense stands little chance of making a surprising run. The Irish defense must simply play at their consistently high level, and leave the rest to the offense.

The Irish attack has been very strong for the past few games. They have been able to take advantage of their scoring opportunities due to better shooting and excellent ball movement.

“It’s great that we’re able to diversify our attack. Guys like (Will) DeRiso and (Tim) Kearney are stepping it up, and it’s great to get their assists from the crease. More offensive threats make us that much harder to play. And our first midfield has been excellent,” Corrigan added.

The Irish can’t be sure of their opening round opponent until next week. If they do well in the Ohio State game, they could be ranked as high as tenth in the tournament. There is a chance that they could play some old opponents in the first or second rounds, such as North Carolina or Princeton.

Notre Dame has two aces in the hole when the tournament rolls around. One arrived on the scene last fall, the other has been here for four or five years. The play in the crease by Alex Cade has been phenomenal throughout the season. As a freshman, Cade has come into the program and made a tremendous impact to shore up an already strong defensive squad. Thus, having a rookie in the cage is not a liability for Notre Dame in the NCAA tournament.

“I’m not worried about Alex. First off, he’s surrounded by seniors (on defense). Secondly, he is just a tough competitor. He gets mad in practice if someone scores on him,” said Corrigan.

The senior class is the other major advantage for Notre Dame.

“These guys have been to the tournament for four years now. In the country, only four other schools can say that,” Corrigan added.

The class of 1995 has brought a program that was never ranked before to a top 15 program. They also have a chance to crack the top ten for the first time this year.

Included in this class are two fifth-year seniors, middle Will Sutton and attacker Randy Colley.

The two of them have led the Irish offense all season. Colley has claimed three offensive titles in his career, including the career assist record this season. Sutton leads the present squad in career ground balls, and his vocal play on and off the field have left their mark on the team.

All-American defenseman Mike Ferris leads a list of senior defenders who have started on defense for three years now.

Co-captain Billy Gallagher and Chris Bury have built themselves into an iron curtain for Irish opponents’ offenses. The strength off this group also lies in the consistently solid play of Pete Snyder and Todd Bihalski.

The Notre Dame midfield has taken tremendous strides in the last four years. Along with Sutton, middies Marc Pasquale, Kevin Lynyk, and Jason Potte have combined powerful offensive strength and defensive pressure for the Irish throughout their careers.

---

HAPPY 21st TODD WE'RE SO PROUD OF YOU! LOVE, Scott, Geoff, Mom, Zachi
Arthur Andersen
Welcomes the Following 1995 University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College
Graduates to Our Firm

Christopher Androski
New York Office

Thomas Borger
Chicago Office

Stanley Bowman
Chicago Office

C. Patrick Braley
Atlanta Office

Donato Capobianco
Boston Office

Jim Carr
New York Office

David Clear
New York Office

David Crawford
Chicago Office

Christine DeMott
Pittsburgh Office

Bret Dooley
Minneapolis Office

Jennifer Dowd
New York Office

Tracy Ellis
Chicago Office

Nicholas Galassi
Chicago Office

Sarah Haiman
Denver Office

Michelle Hiigli
Chicago Office

Sarah Iretom
Chicago Office

Michael Jarosky
Chicago Office

John Jennings
Chicago Office

Keith Kooman
Chicago Office

Jason Langan
New York Office

Stephanie Lausier
Chicago Office

James Locke
Washington, D.C. Office

Catherine Lupo
Chicago Office

Erik Maier
Atlanta Office

Alexander Marchetti
Chicago Office

Ryan Martin
Orange County Office

Kristen Martina
Chicago Office

Kristen Mikolyzik
Chicago Office

Michael Molnar
New York Office

Lisa Monaco
New York Office

Laura Mossey
Atlanta Office

Sara Noe
Chicago Office

Mary Pelican
Chicago Office

Jason Pett
Baltimore Office

Lisa Powers
Chicago Office

Michael Riggs
Chicago Office

Ricardo Rios
Pittsburgh Office

Christoph Rosen
Chicago Office

Jeanne Schloegel
Milwaukee Office

Timothy Shannon
Chicago Office

Eric Shultz
Washington, D.C. Office

Kara Smith
New York Office

Stephen Soderling
Chicago Office

John Starr
Washington, D.C. Office

John Taliferro III
Washington, D.C. Office

Randy Torres
New York Office

Dennis Verzico
Chicago Office

Joseph Wagner
Baltimore Office

Margaret Zimmerman
Chicago Office
EX-SETON HALL SLUGGERS LIFT BOSoX

NEW YORK

It turned into a Seton Hall alumni celebration, and Vaughn Escheman and the Boston Red Sox were the beneficiaries.

College teammates John Valentine and Mo Vaughn hit grand slams an inning apart, and Escheman won his major-league debut Tuesday night as the Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees 6-0.

"We still talk about it. We'll talk about how we have become important parts of the team here," Vaughn said. "It's because of the way we have developed and become good players that we still talk about it, having been together at Seton Hall.'

The Red Sox tied a major-league record, accomplished 41 previous times, with the two grand slams in the same game. It was the seventh time it was done by the Red Sox.

Eshelman (1-0), who spent last season with Class AA Bowie of the Orioles' organization, allowed three hits in six innings, walked two and struck out one.

Injuries to starters Roger Clemens and Zane Smith helped open the way for Escheman.

"I thought I'd be back in Double-A at Bowie, Maryland," he said. "It definitely makes it easier when you have a lineup behind you that you know in going to get you some support.'

"He pitched very well, you have to take your hat off to him. He had good command, said Yankees manager Buck Showalter.

"He was outstanding. He set the tone right away by throwing strikes and working fast,' said Red Sox manager Kevin Kennedy of Escheman, who was 11-9 last year.

Jose Canseco pulled his groin while stealing second base in the second inning and left the game, but the injury is not considered serious. Canseco is listed as day-to-day.

Valentin hit his grand slam in the third off New York starter Todd Stottlemyre (0-1), and Vaughn hit his in the fourth off Brian Boehringer.

Valentine's homer was his first of the season and second career grand slam, while Vaughn's homer was his second of the season and his third career grand slam.

Notes: Escheman is the first Boston pitcher to win his major league debut since Nate Minchey in Sept. 1993.

Cecil Fielder.

The Cleveland Indians routed the Chicago White Sox 8-2, with some 39,398 fans booed into silence by security. The smallest crowd to attend a home opener since 1972, when 31,510 attended.

Before the game began, fans threw magnetized schedules onto the field. They then delayed the action with a barrage of beach balls and toilet paper.

Indians center fielder Kenny Lofton complained in the fifth inning after a what appeared to be a golf ball was thrown. The public address announcer asked the crowd to stop, but to little avail.

In the mid-1980s, the Tigers signed Fielder to an eight-year contract, worth about $50 million, which included a $30 million signing bonus.

Fielder, who is currently with the Kansas City Royals, was a five-time All-Star and was named the American League MVP in 1994. He was also a three-time batting champion and a two-time World Series champion.

Fielder played for the Detroit Tigers from 1992 to 2004, and was a three-time All-Star during that time.

The Tigers traded Fielder to the Kansas City Royals in 2004, where he played until 2009.

Fielder was a five-time All-Star and was named the American League MVP in 1994. He was also a three-time batting champion and a two-time World Series champion.

Fielder played for the Detroit Tigers from 1992 to 2004, and was a three-time All-Star during that time.

The Tigers traded Fielder to the Kansas City Royals in 2004, where he played until 2009.

Fielder was a five-time All-Star and was named the American League MVP in 1994. He was also a three-time batting champion and a two-time World Series champion.

Fielder played for the Detroit Tigers from 1992 to 2004, and was a three-time All-Star during that time.
VOLLEYBALL

‘All-Time Great’ Brown honored

Irish coach honored by USA Volleyball

By BETSY BAKER

Notre Dame head volleyball coach Debbie Brown is back in the news because she has been honored for the impact she has made on the world of volleyball. Brown, who will enter her fifth season with the Irish this fall, was named by USA Volleyball as an All-Time Great Volleyball Player, an award that dates all the way back to 1954.

The All-Time Great award is the highest honor awarded in the sport of volleyball in the United States, and this year’s recipients prove no exception.

Brown’s fellow 1995 honoree is the two-time Olympic gold medalist and the best player United States volleyball has seen thus far, Karch Kiraly. The two will have their photos and records displayed in a permanent exhibit at the Volleyball Hall of Fame in Holyoke, Mass.

Brown joins 51 previous winners of the award, including former teammates Flo Hyman, Sue Woodstra, Bebbie Green, Rita Crockett and Laurel Brasley. Brown attributes much of the significance of the award to the company of excellent players she is joining.

“I am very, very honored to receive this award,” said Brown. “I have so much respect for those who have received it in the past and I feel honored that the committee feels I belong with them.”

“There is no question that this is the biggest award I have ever received.”

Brown’s playing and coaching career has done nothing but flourish since she first began playing, at age 17, on the U.S. National team on a part-time basis. Brown then led the University of Southern California to back-to-back national championships in 1976 and ’77 and a 72-1 record over those two seasons. Her 1977 team remains the only undefeated women’s Division I team in the history of collegiate volleyball.

Brown then left USC to compete on a full-time basis as captain of the national team from 1978-80. She did not get the chance to participate in the 1980 Olympics, as the United States boycotted the 80 games.

She began her coaching career as an assistant at Arizona State in 1980 and in 1983 was appointed head coach of the Sun Devils. She coached ASU for six seasons, leading her team to the NCAA tournament in five of those, and then returned to the national team as an assistant coach for the 1988 Olympic games in Seoul, South Korea. Brown is the only college coach to have played for and coached the U.S. women’s Olympic volleyball team.

In her four years with the Irish, Brown has compiled a 116-30 record with three NCAA appearances. The Irish team made it to the Sweet Sixteen last season and in the 1993 season was one game away from the Final Four. She currently serves as president of the American Volleyball Coaches Association and has previously served on the U.S. Olympic Committee’s Athletes Advisory Council and on the board of directors of USA volleyball.

Her players attest to her coaching ability and knowledge of the game.

“Her experience as a player, especially on the national team, helps her deal with us,” said junior setter Shannon Tuttle. “We value a lot what she thinks of us because we know she was such a good player herself.”

Brown will be honored with the award on May 25 at the U.S. Open National Championships in Springfield, Massachusetts.
New AD continued from page 36

involved with Irish affairs for just over a year now. Wadsworth has had little time or reason to detract from the publie. That is, except for one Notre Dame football portrait behind the desk.

It's not a flashy picture, but it is the same one that his Notre Dame Class of 1966 ring shows. Wadsworth is a Domer in every sense of the word.

"There's kind of a romantic notion about returning to your alma mater," he said. "What really appealed about this situation was that we were going to be working with outstanding people."

Wadsworth has never strayed far from the Notre Dame family. Football has been the consistent bond between him and the golden dome.

Being a member of the Irish football team rooted him deep in Irish tradition, and playing offensive tackle in the Canadian Football League made him remember his previous successes with Notre Dame.

So it's only fitting that Wadsworth would be first approached about the athletic director position on the field at Notre Dame Stadium.

"I was approached by Dick Rosenthal and we had our discussion about it at the time of the Florida State game here on campus," he said. "It was an impromptu inquiry into whether or not I'd have any further interest in discussing the position."

Obviously, the interest was there. On both sides.

"Michael Wadsworth is an absolutely perfect guy," Rosenthal said. "I don't know if anybody has a broader or more appropriate base of experience to come in." Besides playing football professionally, Wadsworth has been a practicing lawyer, a radio and television announcer, and a businessman, and, since 1989, has served as the Canadian Ambassador to Ireland. Not a bad resume.

"What better credentials can a person have?" Rosenthal summarized.

This was the general consensus of the Irish sports brain trust, which includes Rosenthal, executive vice-president Reverend E. William Beauchamp, C.S.C., and president Reverend Edward A. Malloy, C.S.C.

But the decision wasn't as clear cut on the side of Wadsworth. While on his six-year-diplomatic stint, he was a consideration for the position of commissioner by both the National Hockey League and the Canadian Football League. He chose to be director of athletics at Notre Dame.

"This is no me to the top-level athletic position within North America," Wadsworth said. "And it's a much happier kind of circumstances in which we operate within a sports administration, as compared to the professional ranks."

Questions have been raised about his inexperience in athletic administration, but most have fallen on deaf ears. Nothing but complete confidence in Michael Wadsworth has exuded from the present contingency.

"He's got himself a definite process of indoctrination that will bring him up to speed," Rosenthal, a former banker himself, boasted. "He gets here before 8 a.m. and leaves after 6 p.m. He takes home a briefcase full of stuff."

As far as anyone knows, the athletic director-to-be has already taken over. The present athletic director is just guiding him through the daily chores. Choices with huge ramifications, like the hiring of Dave Poulin, the new hockey coach, have already crossed Wadsworth's desk. He has had already considerable input in such matters.

But following the legacy of Rosebowl may be difficult for anyone just taking over at Notre Dame. And while Wadsworth may have the impressive resume coming in, he will be expected to accomplish the present director's endeavors as well as create a few of his own. "You've got to get something done and hopefully you're going to accomplish something during the year," he said. "I don't really know where this position fits on my list of accomplishments, but that's because I haven't accomplished anything yet."

But one thing can be assured from the Dome come home to lead the athletic department—Notre Dame won't be corrupted with any funny stuff. "We're entrusted, obviously, with being able to perpetuate the reputation and traditions that have developed at this university," Wadsworth pro claimed. "You don't trifle with tradition."
Rosenthal continued from page 36

lost his affinity for Notre Dame, and eagerly returned to his alma mater.

"I believe in Notre Dame," he stated. "I had been a student here, an athlete here, but most of my adult career had been spent right here within the confines of this campus."

Yet, Rosenthal is quick to point out that this knowledge of the Notre Dame community was all of great value in making the transition from banking to athletics as smooth as possible.

"I'm not sure it would have been very easy to assume a role in Notre Dame athletics administration had it not been for the experiences we had here," added Rosenthal. "We were blessed with a campus with absolutely marvelous administrators.

Drawing on all of these factors, Rosenthal has enhanced both the prestige and the competitiveness of Irish athletics throughout his regime. Perhaps the crowning achievement of his tenure occurred in 1991, when Rosenthal engineered a deal with NBC to televise all Notre Dame home football games. The deal has been extended through the 2000 season.

Certainly we're at a time affiliated with the College Football Association, but the trend of regionalizing games on network television worried the Irish administration. Perhaps once concerned with a plan that would consolidate all of college football on one network, "explained Rosenthal, "the Pac-10 is a national university, and it was important that our goals be equal on both coasts because our constituency was national."

Certainly a controversial move, and one that drew harsh words from critics who believed Notre Dame thought it was above the rules, Rosenthal explained, however, this criticism was the product of a double standard, according to Rosenthal.

When Notre Dame entered into the contract in football with NBC, it did exactly what others had done before it, he noted. "It has always been a source of puzzlement to me how people could say Notre Dame was written in football when they had just done the same thing in basketball."

Rather than fostering elitism, Rosenthal saw opportunity in NBC's offer, and determined that in this case the 'right' decision was to pursue the university's best interests.

"The number one priority of the university, established by the trustees, was to raise money for the endowed fund for student aid," he explained. "Joining NBC was an avenue for materially aiding that funding, and has been successful, as we've raised upwards of $35 million."

Rosenthal was not content with this accomplishment alone, however, but followed it with yet another coup for Notre Dame sports less than three years later, alleviating what many detractors saw as the biggest disadvantage to Notre Dame sports, the lack of conference affiliation, by joining the Big East.

In the summer of '94, Notre Dame announced that starting in the 95-96 school year, most major sports with the exception of traditionally independent football team would begin conference play. Again, Rosenthal played an integral part.

"When Mike Tranghese called me to say that conference membership was only one facet in making Notre Dame's future is brighter now than at any time in its history, and it should be because of the tradition of growing on the past," he stated. His own future holds equal promise, as Rosenthal expects to spend time with his wife of 39 years and their eight children and eight grandchildren. While comfortably falling back into the role of a fan, he also expects to stay active with Notre Dame in various leadership functions within the university framework.

"This is home for me, and we're going to stay here," he concluded.

* Sports Briefs

AQUATICS - Shirley A. Nagy of Northville, Mich. will receive the 1995 University of Notre Dame Lifeguard Award for Outstanding Service.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS - Volunteers are needed to help with swimming on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 4:30-5:30 p.m. at the Rolfs Aquatic Center. For more information, call Cornelia Dennis-Stark at 1-5832.

BIATHALON - RecSports will be offering a one-mile swim, two-mile run biathlon August 26. Start training now and over the summer!
Saint Mary's softball soars to 20-win season

By LORI GADDIS
Sports Writer

Jerry, La Pared, Pajsy, Michy-Mich, Paus, Heisenberg, Deborahson, Banita, Chico, Gerty, Scaly, Beaker, Durf, Woody, Aper. Believe it or not, these are the members of the Saint Mary's softball team. It does not sound much like a rough-and-tumble, down-and-dirty athletic team. But that is what is so ironic about this Belle squad. Saint Mary's has emerged this season tough, aggressive, and ranked in the national poll.

The nicknames come from a season of double headers, a training trip to Florida and a closeness that has developed among team members throughout the long months of softball. The ranking comes from an outstanding season of talented women who finished with a season record of 20-15.

Saint Mary's is about to finish their season by playing a make-up game with Bethel College, which was called on account of darkness. The Belles must play their third innings of the game in which they were leading 6-3.

Saint Mary's returned from Calvin College with two tough losses, 6-4, 5-1. Calvin is ranked number 2 in the Central Region.

The Belles' Michelle Limb went 3-4, scoring 2 runs and stealing bases. Junior Laura Richter went 1-3 with 2 RBIs. The Belles had 7 hits in the game as good as an 11-1 and 4 hits in the second game but still could not get around errors and leaving runners stranded on base.

Saint Mary's is a team filled with much talent as well as potential. Freshman Andrea Arena had an outstanding season at third base for the Belles. Arena had a batting average of .393, including 49 hits, 5 doubles, 25 RBIs and 17 stolen bases.

She recently received the Impact Award for softball at the athletic banquet held last Sunday.

It entails having the greatest impact on the overall performance of the team: offensively, defensively, maintaining a positive mental attitude, and being coachable and a supportive teammate.

"As a first-year player, I was little intimidated but after playing for a season, I feel the confidence that everyone has in this team," Arena said. "I am capable of beating any of the teams that we played this year."

Heise received an award for Team Player, showing high levels of intensity, being a leader both on and off the field and generally providing a spark for the team, while sophomore Katie Maxhauer received an award for Most Improved Player by continually working hard to improve herself and working her way into a starting position in right field.

"As a team, we improved as a whole," Maxhauer stated. "To be recognized as an individual that helped the team improve is flattering."

One of the most impressive aspects of Saint Mary's softball is the intense level of enthusiasm as well as a common respect among the members of the team. Softball season itself lasts 5 months, not including pre-season training that takes places in the fall.

Surprisingly, the Belles are not bothered by the amount of time that they spend together, but they welcome it. Saint Mary's players and comrades can be seen on and off of the field.

"All of the individuals make up one unique unit," explained junior Laura Richter. "I really thank God for the opportunity to be involved in all of these players' lives. I have been blessed to work with this group of women."

The team is also fortunate to have a close relationship with their coaches, Maggie Killian and Jan Travie.

"I am glad for the opportunity to work with a close group of young ladies," said Killian. "They have a lot of unrealized potential which will benefit future seasons.

Saint Mary's has gained much experience which will help them next year. They will have 12 returnees, graduating only 2 seniors Seanne Patrick and April Rhoades."

"I think we have a good foundation to work with next year," said sophomore Gretchen Moore. "We will continue our training during the off-season. We did that for the first time this year and that really helped to improve our season."

Junior Amy Misch agreed with Moore and was also optimistic about next year.

"We had a great season and the fact that we are all friends helped us to work hard," Misch explained. "We didn't want to let each other down. I am really looking forward to next year, with the hopes that our relationships will only get stronger."

The Saint Mary's softball team finished the 1995 campaign with a solid 20-15 record, a national ranking, and hope for the future.
Women's lax advances to semi-final in inaugural season

By MEGAN McGARTH
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's lacrosse team concluded their inaugural season this past weekend at the Women's Collegiate Lacrosse League Play-offs held at Ohio State.

The team exceeded all pre-season expectations by advancing to the semi-final round. There they fell to a State coached, experienced squad, getting three quick goals of their own in the defense, and the Irish cut the lead in 5-3. Unfortunately, the Buckeyes responded with two quick goals of their own that put the Irish away.

"We were in the game until the end and we didn't give up," said senior captain Molly Donius. "I was proud of the way we played all season."

Sunday members of the Notre Dame squad dominated the East-West All-Star game. For the West, the Irish played along side players from Ohio State, Miami (Ohio), Toledo and Michigan State. They posted a 13-7 win over the East, comprised of women from Pitt, SUNY-Binghampton, Mercyhurst and Carnegie Mellon.

Irish all-stars Tara Pierro and Michelle McQuillan dominated the offense for the West. Pierce led the team with five goals, and McQuillan scored two while valiantly playing with severe flu-like symptoms. Senior Julie Mayglothing keyed a strong defensive effort.

Despite the play-off loss, the team has high hopes for the seasons to come. "We're a very young team, and with more experience we'll only get better," said freshman Eileen Regan. "We have a lot of talent; next season we need to learn how to use it more effectively."

SAILING

They aren't ordinary skippers. Steve Kelley, Bridget Murray, Lauren Mack, and Brien Fox are the Notre Dame Sailing Team's leading skippers who will end their season this weekend at the Team Racing Finals. Last weekend the team raced in the Cendy Dingy Championships for the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association, and received a respectable fourth place. Unfortunately, only the top two teams qualified for Nationals.

"The regatta was an exciting experience," said sophomore skipper Brien Fox. "I feel we did a great job this year, and we're really geared up for next year."

Fox is also excited about the team's race this weekend, and feels that they will place better than last weekend. The Sailing Team is excited about next year due the discovery of two new renown freshman skippers, one from St. Petersburg, Florida and the other from Hawaii.

- Caroline Blum

Hey Eddie, nice hair.
At least I had a costume on.

From: Nacho & Dave

HEY NACHO! DID YOU SEE THAT PICTURE OF Super Dave IN THE OBSERVER?

"DOMER"

WELL, IT COULDN'T HAVE BEEN ANY WORSE THAN YOURS!
P.S. NACHO YOU DON'T LOOK SO WELL.

- Super Dave

The Observer • SPORTS page 31

Wednesday, May 3, 1995
Irish drop 16 inning heartbreaker to Wolverines, 7-6

By MEGAN McGRATH

Any one hoping to enjoy a relaxing night at the ball-park got more than they bargained for tonight.

Patrons of the Notre Dame-Michigan game at Old Kent Park in Grand Rapids were treated to an intense, epic battle in which the Wolverines eventually prevailed 7-6 in 16 innings.

"I don't ever remember being a part of a game this long," head coach Paul Mainieri said. "But I couldn't be more proud of the effort we showed tonight."

Michigan (20-23) jumped out to a quick lead. The Wolverines scored four runs in the second inning. Larry Mohs relieved Parker in the third, and promptly gave up a lead-off dinger to Scott Weaver, giving the Wolverines a 5-0 lead.

But the Irish provided some long-ball power of its own to spark a comeback. Junior Ryan Topham led-off the top of the fifth with his 18th homer of the year. The blast was the first hit allowed by Wolverine starter Tyler Beerman, but Beerman overthrew first allowing Richards to score.

The Wolverines wouldn't give up, though. With two outs in the bottom of the frame, Michigan's home run leader Brian Simmons took a Rich Sauget offering just over the fence in right to tie the game.

In the bottom of the 16th, the Wolverines' finally delivered the knock-out punch. Van Oberan singled and advanced to second on a sacrifice. Weaver was given an intentional pass to get to first baseman Chad Chapman, who was 0-7 on the night.

Chapman responded by poking a single through the hole in left. Sollmann came up throwing and with a head-first slide Van Oberan just eluded Restovich's tag.

"This was one of those games that its a shame any one has to lose," Mainieri said. "Its a shame Rich Sauget had to get a loss with the tremendous job he did."

Sauget threw eight and a third innings of relief, allowing nine hits, two earned runs and striking out six. It was the senior's first loss against two wins.

Up next for the Irish is a Thursday double-header at Central Michigan. Friday the team returns home to face Northeastern Illinois at 7:00 p.m. Notre Dame will also be the host of the MCC tournament, to be held May 13-17 at Frank Eck Stadium.
NCAA

continued from page 36

the midwest. Assuming they defeat Ball State on Friday, Minnesota will be a formidable opponent for the Irish.

"Minnesota is a big hurdle for us. I can’t even think of Mississippi...we will have to play the best match all year (to beat Minnesota)," Bayliss said.

Notre Dame has a couple of players coming off injuries, and the Irish hope to be at one-hundred percent at the end of the week. Bayliss also mentioned the Irish had plenty of time to rest, going without a match for two weeks. He feels Minnesota is more match ready than the Irish since they had the Big Ten championship last week. Plus, Minnesota will play a match on Friday, while the Irish don’t play until Saturday. However, Bayliss feels Minnesota may be in an advantageous spot.

"They play a match Friday and we come in cold. I would want the early match," Bayliss said.

Since the match is at Notre Dame, Bayliss hopes for a big crowd so the location works to the advantage of the Irish.

Bayliss mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.

Bayliss also mentioned the team hasn’t seized some of the opportunities they have had this year playing close matches against tough teams, and hopes this weekend the Irish will step up and seize this opportunity to win a regional championship.

"Certainly they have given great effort, and they’re a great group of guys. They haven’t really cashed in the check yet, hopefully we will this weekend." The winner of the region advances to the NCAA. The 15-8 Irish will hope to extend a great season by “cashing the check” this weekend.
Stretch run key for No. 23 Irish

By NEIL ZENDER
Sports Writer

Live and let die. For the Notre Dame softball club it's all come down to that. Only three opponents remain in the regular season and every one will have a major influence on the Irish postseason.

"We're going to take these one game at a time and try and keep as focused as possible," Coach Liz Miller said. "We're not going to look backwards, everything hinges on this last week.

No. 23 ranked Notre Dame (31-15) needs to defeat their next three opponents: Northwestern tomorrow, Detroit on Saturday and an as yet unscheduled game against Loyola. That would guarantee their second straight MCC division title and fourth in five years. The next three games will determine the seeding for the MCC title and right now the Irish are only a half game ahead of the rest of the pack.

"Right now we're just focusing on getting the number one seed in the tourney," Miller said. "We have control. We just have to win the next three games."

The MCC tournament will be held May 16-17 and the winner advances to the NCAA tournament beginning May 19. However, even if Notre Dame fails to win the MCC it can still qualify for the NCAA as a wildcard. However, to have a prayer the Irish need to rank among the region's top three. Right now, Notre Dame is ranked fifth - right ahead of No. 14 Northwestern.

After the Irish's 13-inning loss to top ranked Michigan State last Saturday they'll need a sweep of the Wildcats to avoid dropping below them in the rankings. Notre Dame will be boosted by the solid play of Katie Marten. Marten's not a spark plug, she's a sub-station, current ranking second in the MCC in batting average and has set an Irish team record by stealing 15 bases this season.

"Batting behind her is hit-hitting freshman Jennifer Giampaolo. Giampaolo's true prowess is in centerfield. She covers more real estate than Century 21 and has gunned down six runners at home plate. Terri Kobata's the 10.45 strike-outs per seven innings ranks third in America and her 0.51 E.R.A. is fifth. However, Kobata has been plagued by a sore hip flexor the last few weeks. It appears as if the hip is only a problem in cold weather. However right now Kobata is only at 60 percent. "Terri's not throwing as well as she did earlier in the year," Miller said. "Stamina will be crucial. I'm looking for other kids to step in. I'm confident that they can do that."

"That'll mean Joy Battersby and Kelly Nichols. Battersby, the number two starter, must have played with matches as a child. She has a habit of getting into jams but has the incredible ability of working her way out nearly every time. She can be counted on for a solid outing. Reliever Kelly Nichols is ready to pick up Kobata's slack if needed.

UNUSUAL SUMMER JOB ON CAMPUS

WNDU needs a vacation relief technician for summer employment from May through September to install, operate, maintain, and repair radio, television, cable, and satellite equipment. This is ideal for a technically-minded science/engineer student with a knowledge of electricity and electronics. The position is for up to 40 hours per week, includes shiftwork, and requires a valid driver's license and transportation. Please apply at the WNDU Studios by May 5.

ATTENTION

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION SOPHOMORES

If you are interested in serving on the College of Business Administration College Council please submit your resume to Assistant Dean Sam Gaglio, Room 132 Hayes-Healy Center, no later than May 3, 1995.

If you need more information call 631-6602.

Consider summer classes at Holy Cross College

Session I - May 18 to June 23
Session II - June 26 to August 3

There are some good reasons to take classes at Holy Cross College this summer. Perhaps you could benefit from one or both of our summer sessions, each offering a wide variety of quality general education courses. Or maybe our affordable summer tuition rate of $140 per credit hour sounds appealing.

Whatever the reason, Holy Cross College summer sessions can offer you the opportunity to use your time more productively during the upcoming summer break. You can take advantage of our exceptionally small classes, dedicated and caring faculty and our convenient location just west of the University of Notre Dame campus. And, of course, credit earned is transferable.

So why not write or call today for more information about Holy Cross College? Applications for Summer Sessions I and II, as well as for the 1995 Fall Semester, are now being accepted.

Before leaving for home...
I DON'T KNOW... SOMETIMES I QUESTION WHETHER THERE REALLY IS A HAND.

CALVIN AND HOBBES

I WRITE WHEN A LOT OF KIDS ARE ON THE PLAYGROUND. THEY THINK I'M A POW... FOREVER TO GET TO THE TOP AND THEN THE RIDE IS OVER SO FAST.

AND IF YOU SIT FOR A MOMENT TO ENJOY THE VIEW, EVERYONE YELLS AT YOU TO GET UP. AND SOMETIMES THE DUDE BEHIND YOU STARTS DANCING TOO AND THEN HE SMOKES INTO THE BOTTOM WHERE YOU CAN GET MARIJUANA.

BILLY WATTerson

16 Florence's river subjects
19 Tortoise-like
20 Telegraph... "There"
26 Accessory to commodity
37 Newborn
42 Futures market language
50 Category for "dive"

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS
31 Tease
32 R. B. Is. et al.
34 Clan
44 Kind of team
46 Futures market
47 "The Drums-Shop" author
50 Newborn
52 "You... There" (50's TV show)
54 Apt anagram of 53 Capri's
57 Malevolent
59 Hungarian
61 Yes, to Yves
65 "The Doors" author
67 Shiner
69 Patrick or J.R.

DOWN
1 Wall clinger
2 Fr. company
3 Miss Lupino
4 Crunch maker
5 Gloomy books
6 Wrestling maneuver
7 Vagrant
8 Friendly
10 Generalissimo
11 Sweater fabric
12 Terminal
13 Humble
14 Gay
15 Roadside sign
16 Scord
17 Emulate Mr. Chips
18 Captain's Blue
19 Crossword
21 Missy
22 "You... There"
23 "You... There"

SCOTT ADAMS

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Cake topper
4 Synagogue
10 Newborn
14 Movie rental
15 Come in second
16 Florence's river
18 Be an accessory to the crime
19 Tortoise-like
20 Telegraph language, formally
23 Vaina participant
24 Somewhere in dive
27 Apt anagram of 23 Across
29 Get away from 30 Debate
31 Tease
32 R. B. Is. et al.
34 Clan
36 Futures market
37 Newborn
38 Hot one (top)
40 Actress Armour
42 Holier
43 "The Drums-Shop" author
44 Kind of team
45 Futures market
46 Futures market
47 "The Drums-Shop" author
48 Futures market
49 Hungarian
50 Newborn
51 "You... There" (50's TV show)
52 "The Drums-Shop" author
53 Capri's
54 Apt anagram of 53 Capri's
55 Hungarian
56 Malevolent
57 Hungarian
59 Hungarian
60 Hungarian
61 Hungarian
62 Hungarian
63 Hungarian
64 Hungarian
65 "The Drums-Shop" author
66 Hungarian
67 Hungarian
68 Hungarian
69 Hungarian

DOWN
1 Wall clinger
2 Fr. company
3 Miss Lupino
4 Crunch maker
5 Gloomy books
6 Wrestling maneuver
7 Vagrant
8 Friendly
10 Generalissimo
11 Sweater fabric
12 Terminal
13 Humble
14 Gay
15 Roadside sign
16 Scord
17 Emulate Mr. Chips
18 Captain's Blue

DILBERT

TODAY WE'RE TALKING ABOUT SEX AFTER MARRIAGE. MANY LIBERALS SUPPORT THIS DERIVED PRACTICE BUT I DON'T.

IT CAN LEAD TO HEADACHES, FATIGUE, AND UNUNIONED FAMILY MEMBERS WHO BECOME CONSULTANTS.

WOULDN'T YOUR PHILOSOPHY LEAD TO THE EXTINCTION OF MANKIND??

CRY ME A RIVER, LIBERAL.
Host Irish seeded second in region

By B. J. HOOD
Sports Writer

The weekend of the men’s tennis regional championship is here for the host Notre Dame team. And, typical of this Irish team’s season, they are in the toughest region. Mississippi, Notre Dame, Minnesota, Michigan, Northwestern, and Ball State are the six teams, seeded one through six, respectively.

On Friday, twenty-fifth ranked Michigan takes on Northwestern, and eighteenth ranked Minnesota battles Ball State. On Saturday at ten a.m., Mississippi plays the winner of the Michigan-Northwestern match. The Irish play at one p.m. on Saturday against the Minnesota-Ball State winner. The championship is Sunday at one p.m.

The number one seed is eighth rated Mississippi, a team Bayliss called “dynamite.” Mississippi was picked to contend for the NCAA championship. Last year, the Irish team played Mississippi twice, and Mississippi had the upper hand both times. Playing number one singles for Mississippi is Mahesh Bhutathi, who plays Davis Cup for India. Bhutathi is ranked in the top two hundred of the world.

The second seeded and nineteenth ranked Irish can’t look ahead to Mississippi, though. The third seed is eighteenth ranked Minnesota, a team that defeated the Irish 4-3 earlier this year, and will feature Ross Loel, possibly the best player in the region.

Rosenthal to leave lasting legacy of excellence for Notre Dame athletics

By TIM SEYMOUR
Assistant Sports Editor

Protecting and guiding the state Notre Dame sports tradition is a delicate matter indeed. No other school in the country inspires such interest on a national level, and very few fluctuate in the “love them or hate them” attitude that constantly embroils Notre Dame.

Finishing his eighth year as director of athletics, no one understands this more than Dick Rosenthal, who will end his tenure with the Irish when he retires in August.

“I think people find themselves in a position where if they act they will be criticized, and if they don't act they will be criticized,” explained Rosenthal of the dilemma facing Notre Dame. “The only thing to do is what is right.”

Throughout his term, Rosenthal has done just that for the university, making the difficult decisions that have cemented Notre Dame’s place at the pinnacle of collegiate athletics.

Rosenthal assumed the post of director of athletics in August 4, 1987, but his relationship with the university existed long before that. He is a 1954 graduate from Notre Dame, where he was a basketball all-American who remains on the Irish career scoring list with 1,237 points.

A native of St. Louis, Rosenthal later returned to South Bend, where he was chief executive officer of the St. Joseph Bank and Trust Co. for 25 years. However, he never see ROSENTHAL/ page 29

see NEW AD/ page 28

ND

Wednesday, May 3

No varsity sports today.

Thursday, May 4

ND Softball vs. Northwestern, 3 p.m.
ND Baseball vs. Central Michigan, 2 p.m.

Friday, May 5

ND Baseball vs. Northeastern Illinois, 7 p.m.
ND Men’s Tennis — NCAA Regionals at Eck Tennis Pavilion

Saturday, May 6

ND Softball vs. Detroit, 1 p.m.
ND Lacrosse at Ohio State, 2 p.m.
ND Track & Field at National Invitational at Indianapolis and Central Collegiates (men) at Notre Dame