Rockne's House expands 'upward'

Renovation to be finished by '97 season
By BRAD PRENDERGAST
Ass't News Editor

59,075. It's a familiar number at the bottom of Notre Dame football game summaries found in newspapers. But after the renovation and expansion of Notre Dame's Student Stadium is complete before the 1997 football season, the stadium capacity will increase to 80,990.

The $50 million stadium project will begin after the final home game this season on November 4 against Navy. After the Irish battle the Midshipmen, workers will raze the existing press box and begin adding 26 rows of seating around the stadium.

By adding roughly 22,000 seats, the stadium moves up from 44th in seating capacity among the 100 Division I-A football facilities to 14th.

The additional rows will extend the stadium upward and outward, but Mike Smith, director of facilities engineering for the University, says that the view of Touchdown Jesus, the mosaic on the wall of the Hesburgh Library facing the stadium, will not be completely obstructed from within the facility.

"If at the south end of the field you can see Touchdown Jesus from rows 20 and up now, you'll still be able to see him from about 24 rows up after the expansion," he said.

A new wall will be constructed around the stadium, and the area between the new wall and the present wall will become the new concourse.
"The new concourse will have an upper and lower level, and within this new expansion there will be additional restroom facilities and concession stands," Smith told Blue and Gold Illustrated. "The existing concourse will still be there after the renovation, but it will serve as just a gathering area. Although the preferred seating areas in the first few rows will be furnished with theater-type seats, all seats in the expanded area will be bleachers. These new bleacher seats will have an extra inch of space on each side and another six inches of leg room.

Among the other changes to the stadium:
• The new press box will be enlarged but will retain the same three levels that it now has. The press box will include up to 330 work stations, up from 240. Three television broadcast booths, up from one, and five radio broadcast booths, up from two.
• A new natural-grass field and new goal posts will be added, and new dot-matrix scoreboards will be located on the north and south ends of the stadium.
• Instead of keeping parking spaces directly around the stadium, that area will be landscaped.

ND Wall of Fame celebrates student leaders
By JAMIE HEISLER
News Writer

While most students are aware of the upcoming openings of the Cleveland Rock and Roll Hall of Fame or South Bend's College Football Hall of Fame, many may not be aware that in June of this year, Notre Dame dedicated its own academic version of a Hall of Fame.

The Wall of Fame, located in the LaFortune Student Center, honors the top leadership positions in student organizations ranging from editors of school publications to class officers. Plaques engraved with the names of the student leaders line the side hallway leading to the Huddle.

Planning for the project began as early as three years ago and was finally carried through with the help of the Student Senate and the Alumni Association who assisted the Office of Student Activities in the completion of the wall.

According to Joe Cassidy, director of student activities, "the bulk of funding came from students." The Student Senate Funding Committee provided the money to purchase the plaques as well as to engrave them. This left only the renovation of the hallway to be funded by student activities.

The Alumni Association assisted by researching the names and present addresses of the student leaders which dated back as early as the 1900's when several organizations originated.
"We totally supported it from the standpoint of encouragement," said Chuck Lennon, the executive director of the Alumni Association.
Those alumni honored on the plaques were invited to the dedication of the wall which was held in June dur-

College football hall opens
By DAVE TYLER
Assoc. Ed.

This weekend, a college football hall will open open it's showcase shrine right down the street from the home of its most celebrated team.
South Bend becomes the home of the College Football Hall of Fame in ceremonies this weekend, including a tailgate party, a battle of the marching bands and a fireworks and laser show. And it's all just minutes away from the House that Rockne built.
In fact, the proximity of the South Bend College Football Hall of Fame is not just coincidental. Notre Dame has more representation than any other school in the Hall of Fame with 34 players enshrined. End/slinebacker Jim Martin, co-captain of the 1949 National Championship team will become number 35 this weekend.
Other members of the Hall of Fame's first class to be inducted in the new facilities include legendary Syracuse linebacker/running back Rueben Mayes, Mississippi quarterback Jake Gibbs, guard Rich Glover of Nebraska, Jim Grabowski, an Illinois fullback, Penn State line backer Dennis Onkst, Washington guard/inlinebacker Richard Rutledge and Paul Robeson, Oklahoma running back Billy Sims, Baylor linebacker Mike Singletary coach Frank Kush of Arizona State and legendary Notre Dame defensive end/tackle Jim Martin.

The above drawing shows what the stadium will look like once its renovation is complete. The photo to the left is the stadium's present form. Renovation is scheduled to begin after this football season.

The Observer/Heisler
What will I tell my children?

There seems to have been remarkably little kicking and screaming over the computer conversions, when compared with those of the past. No sleep has been lost over Flanner, Siegfried and Knodell losing a file or losing Cuvannon or Pangborn. But last night, I had a nightmare.

My son was turning 18, and we were making the traditional college tour. He wanted to see Notre Dame, so naturally we journeyed across Interstate 80 to that magical exit on the Indiana Toll Road.

Upon arriving the traditional stops were made, the Stadium, the Library, Stonehenge. A car window sticker was even purchased at a bookstore in hopes that admissions would send us a letter allowing us to display it prominently on my son, suitably swed, asked me the question:

“Dad, where did you live on campus?”

Well, there was a time when I thought I dreaded more than any other. That was easier than this.

“Dad, where did you live on campus?”

I stumbled, “We probably can’t get into it. Let’s go to the Huddle.” I was stalling. “No let’s go see it!” he said wide eyed. Dr. Deering’s office was one of those office buildings.

That was before the number of administration offices increased the number of students.

The door was open, and, not without some trepidation, I walked in. I was not prepared to tell him about the money the University promised to tell him about the money the University.

“Anybody ever ask you about the money?”

He said wide eyed, “Yes I dejectedly replied, “I wonder what I would tell my kids.”

Women’s leadership program opens.

STANFORD, Va.

Standard dress issue at this school includes combat boots, military fatigues — and white skirts and pumps. Welcome to the Virginia Women’s Institute for Leadership, a brand new military-type training program designed to keep women out of the Virginia Military Institute. “Anybody can organize a protest,” Brenda Bryan, asked the 42 freshmen gathered for orientation Tuesday. “But they won’t do anything about it and the biggest buildup of any computer product, Microsoft has finally delivered a major revision to the program.

Hagman receives liver transplant.

LOS ANGELES

Doctors should know within a day or so how well Larry Hagman’s body will accept a new liver. The 63-year-old actor, who has been in critical condition the past two days, said Wednesday night, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise. “This is a critically important day for Larry and his family because it will tell us whether or not the liver transplant we’ve been waiting for is going to work,” Wise said.

Air Force general reduced in rank.

WASHINGTON

An Air Force general accused in June of “inappropriate personal conduct” has been relieved of his command and reduced in rank, officials said Wednesday. Thomas B. Griffith, who was a lieutenant general as commander of the 12th Air Force and the U.S. Southern Command Air Forces at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Ariz., has had one of his three stars taken away and has asked to retire after only one year of service. Announced by Gen. Joseph W. Rabin, commander of Air Combat Command at Langley Air Force Base, Va., said Griffith was given “several injustices” after a year of service.

Stray cows cause concern in India.

NEW DELHI

India’s worst train accident, caused by a train slamming into a cow that wandered onto the tracks, has prompted the government to consider setting up a special commission to stop cows from roaming freely across the country. At least 348 people were killed and hundreds were injured Sunday when an express train struck the cows that had wandered onto the tracks.

The government has been under growing pressure to take action. The recent train accident has been the most deadly in India’s history. The government has been under growing pressure to take action.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

The Observer • INSIDE

Friday, August 25, 1995

page 2

NEW YORK

At the stroke of midnight, computer enthusiasts nationwide started buying Windows 95, signaling a new day in personal computing. Or maybe it was just the high-tech equivalent of the Super Bowl — and only interesting in the first quarter. The scene at two stores in midtown Manhattan demonstrated this question best: Microsoft Corp.’s new software for running personal computers, which was accompanied by an international promotional campaign that includes lighting the Empire State Building tonight in Windows 95 colors. At CompUSA, about 150 people lined up, newspaper ads and free pizza lined up to watch the Microsoft brand ripped from a pile of several hundred copies of the program. A dozen TV crews and at least that many Microsoft employees watched. The crowd jammed checkout lines for 30 minutes. But at a Datawest comparably sized superstore one block away, about two dozen people bought copies. At 20 minutes past midnight, the store was empty. “That’s what food and a little party gets,” said Ben Linnito, a Datavision manager, said of CompUSA’s tactics. “We had a sport and that was it.” Similar comparisons were reported across the country. A Computer City store near Detroit drew nearly 200 people, but there were only a few dozen at a Staples store near Hartford, Conn. Nonetheless, after four years of development, the program has finally delivered a major revision to the program.

File names: No longer limited to eight characters.

Task bar: Click on lists of running applications.

Start button: Press to get pop-up menu or launch files.

Start button: Press to get pop-up menu or launch files.

Windows 95

IBM OS/2

Mac OS

Windows 3.1

Open a file

from Start button

from shortcut

from application

from Apple menu

from application command

from desktop

from application icon

from desktop icon

Print a document

drag to desktop icon

drag to desktop icon

Save a file

drag to desktop icon

drag to desktop icon

Windows 95

IBM OS/2

Mac OS

Windows 3.1

Window

Open

New

Save As

Close

Maximize

Minimize

Restore

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

Close

Minimize

Maximize

ND folk choir publication provides music for nations

By KIM SMITH

After receiving requests for sheet music from parishes throughout the country, the folk choir is now able to share their music with English speaking countries throughout the world.

The Notre Dame Folk Choir finalized dealings this summer for publication of the sacred music series, "Songs of the Notre Dame Folk Choir." The series contains a dozen of the most popular songs from the choir's collection.

Preparations have been made over the past year for expected publication by World Library Publications in mid-October. As a result of the publication, the folk choir has been invited to sing at two national Pastoral Musicians Conventions.

Composition of the series was the result of a combined effort by the choir's founder and director, Steven Warner, Rev. Chrysogonus Waddell, O.C.S.O., choirmaster of the Trappist Abbey of Gethsemani, and by Ellen Coman, former assistant and arranger for the choir.

Warner's original pieces include favorites, "Set Your Heart on the Higher Gifts," "Song of Judith" and "The Lord's Prayer."

"Steve has an enormous amount of talent, and he is so humble that he gives the choir a lot of credit for the work that he does," Donahoe said.

Future creative efforts will all be done under the Notre Dame mast head and all will benefit the Sacred Music Program.

Warner said he wants to insure that this first series of octaves is not the last. By working with other contributing musicians and instrumentalists, the folk choir continues to build on their already expanding collection.

"This is very much a community effort. It is the work and song of a whole community that is being brought forward," Warner said.

---

SECURITY BEAT

MON., AUG. 21st

7:11 p.m. A Farmer Hall resident reported the theft of his wallet from his unlocked room. His wallet was later recovered in the ROG/COL lot.

8:44 p.m. Security transported an off-campus student to St. Joseph Medical Center for treatment of a sports injury.

9:44 p.m. A Flanner Hall resident reported the theft of his wallet from his unlocked room.

WED., AUG. 22nd

11:01 a.m. A University employee reported the theft of her bike from her room.

1:05 p.m. Security transported a University employee to the St. Joseph Medical Center for treatment of a sports injury.

TUES., AUG. 22nd

1:38 a.m. A Green-Phillips resident reported the theft of her belt from the town outside of her hall.

2:44 a.m. A Sorni Hall resident reported the theft of his wallet from his room.

5:17 p.m. A Grace Hall resident reported the theft of his wallet from his room.

8:15 p.m. Security arrested a South Bend resident for criminal trespass.

WED., AUG. 23rd

11:04 a.m. Security responded to a two-car accident in the ROG parking lot. There were no injuries reported.

1:59 p.m. A Fischer Hall resident reported the theft of her bike from a Farmer Hall bike rack.

3:30 p.m. Security responded to a two-car accident on Unicorn Road. There were no injuries reported.

8:09 p.m. A University employee reported that her parked vehicle was involved in a hit and run accident while parked in the A-15 parking lot.

---

4 GOOD REASONS TO CALL THE HUDDLE FOR DELIVERY

- $5 DEAL
  - Any Large 14" Pizza Only $5
  - The Best Pizza at the Best Price
  - Call 1-6902
  - COUPON EXPIRES 12/16/95

- $10 DEAL
  - 2 Large 14" Unlimited Topping Pizzas and a 2-liter Coke Product Only $10
  - Call 1-6902
  - COUPON EXPIRES 12/16/95

- $4 DEAL
  - Large 14" Cheese Pizza Only $4
  - Now, That's a Deal!
  - Call 1-6902
  - COUPON EXPIRES 12/16/95

- DOUBLE DEAL
  - You get 2 Large 14" 1 item Pizzas for Only $9
  - Call 1-6902
  - COUPON EXPIRES 12/16/95

CALL THE HUDDLE AT 1-6902

We'll meet or beat any competitors coupon or deal, just call us and ask. We Deliver 7 days a week-lunch, dinner and late nite.
Nine-year-old kills sister in anger

By MARTHA IRVINE

OREGON CITY, Ore. A 9-year-old boy punished his little sister for refusing to go to her room by shooting her to death with his father's hunting rifle, authorities say.

Prosecutors charged Brandon Rosas with the juvenile equivalent of murder over the objection of his parents, who insist he didn't mean to kill 5-year-old Kari. Brandon, now 11, killed his sister in a fit of anger.

A hearing continues today to determine if Brandon should be removed from his home for at least 30 days for a psychiatric evaluation. His family wants him to stay home or with an aunt while he gets counseling.

His father, who packed the courtroom, wept yesterday as the boy testified Wednesday that he shot Kari when she took their three older siblings to a dance rehearsal.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.

Brandon, seated at the defense table with his father, often looked bewildered during the hearing. The towheaded boy flashed an occasional smile at family members and friends who packed the courtroom.

"The little boy knows he disappointed his parents. He feels real bad about it," said Brandon's grandmother, Ramon House.

"This is a real sensitive little boy," said Brandon's grandfather, Ramon House.
Clinton enjoys vacation
Poll reveals response to tobacco dilemma

By HOWARD GOLDBERG
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Although most Americans want tobacco companies to help battle teen-age smoking, they oppose a ban on marketing cigarettes through colorful ads, T-shirts and sporting events, an Associated Press poll found.

With the goal of cutting teen-age smoking in half, President Clinton on Aug. 10 ordered the Food and Drug Administration to strictly regulate cigarette sales, advertising and promotion. The FDA could begin writing the regulations in November unless stopped by a tobacco industry court challenge or Congress.

According to the poll of 1,007 adults taken Aug. 16-20, 73 percent support Clinton's proposal that the tobacco industry be required to spend $150 million a year on a campaign to discourage teen-age smoking.

Even 65 percent of smokers support that idea, which the tobacco industry is fighting as an illegal tax.

But 58 percent reject a ban on tobacco brand names on T-shirts or in sporting events such as auto racing's Winston Cup or the Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament. And 33 percent oppose allowing only black-and-white text — no color or pictures — on tobacco billboards and in cigarette advertisements in magazines that many young people read.

People on both sides of the issue found encouraging in the poll results.

Forbes encouraged to run for president

By RITA BEAMISH
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Publishing magnate Malcolm Forbes Jr. says hundreds of people are encouraging him to run for president, in a bid to fill a "void and vacuum" in the Republican field.

But he is undecided about whether to put his business on hold, subject his family to campaign and pour millions of dollars of his own money into the race.

He's given himself a Sept. deadline to decide, but said in an interview from New York that, "The vision hasn't come yet."

Forbes, 48, said he would be "an outsider running against what you might call the political class." He has no political background, but served as a Reagan and Bush appointee to head the commission overseeing Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty.

He said he has received hundreds of letters of encouragement since making public his thought of running. And nothing has happened over the past several weeks to make him feel better about those in the GOP. "The void and vacuum are still there," he said.

He particularly criticized the Senate, home of four presidential candidates including Majority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, for failing to pass a tax cut and other reforms.

If he enters the race, Forbes said he will spend "what it takes" of his fortunes to compete with candidates raising more than $20 million this year and supplementing that with federal matching funds next year. By using his own money, he would have to forgo matching funds.

Forbes has sought out party operatives and advisers since supply-side economics enthusiasts, led by economic consultant Jude Wanniski, began urging him on. He said he never entertained the notion until Wanniski came to him. "Steve is a kinder, gentler Ross Perot," said Wanniski.

Forbes has consulted with former Reagan strategist John Sears and North Carolina political veterans Carter Wren and Tom Ellis, along with longtime friends and Readers Digest editor Ken Tomlinson and Bill Dal Col, president of Empower America, the conservative group of which Forbes is board chairman.

Also on board is Virginia radio personality John McCaslin. He left his firm, which is working for front-runner Dole, so he could help Forbes.

Analysts forecasting economic resurgence

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The economy, after grinding to a near standstill, will be revived this fall by a resurgence in consumer spending on big-ticket items such as houses and furniture.

That's the hope, at least, of economic forecasters. But they concede that the risk of a recession is still very real if, for some reason, consumer confidence begins to wobble.

The most pessimistic forecasters are contending that a glut of unsold products will force more cutbacks in factory production and virtually guarantee a recession next year. The pessimists got support for their views on Thursday, when the government reported that orders to factories for big-ticket durable goods skidded 1.7 percent in July, the fifth decline this year.

Elliott Platt, chief economist at Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Securities in New York, saw ominous signs in the factory orders report, particularly in the components that measures orders by businesses for new capital goods such as computers and machinery.

Strength in this category has been a driving force behind the current expansion.
Bosnian troops block U.N.

By LIAM McDOWALL

SAVARJEVO
Bosnian government troops blocked the further withdrawal of U.N. peacekeepers from the Sarajevo "safe area" on Thursday, demanding payment for the pullout.

The United Nations, meanwhile, sought to ensure a continued U.N. presence in the government's last remaining eastern enclave.

It said a team of about a dozen unarmed U.N. military observers would deploy to Gorazde before the last peacekeepers left.

But the international aid agency Doctors Without Borders accused the United Nations of abandoning its pledge to protect Gorazde and the remaining U.N. "safe areas" in Bosnia.

A group of 58 Ukrainian peacekeepers left Gorazde late Wednesday.

Their commanding officer, Lt. Col. Nikolai Batalin, and an aide remained behind because of a "contractual problem" with local authorities, said Maj. Myriam Sochacki, a U.N. spokesman. She would not elaborate.

A U.N. official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said government troops were demanding $13,350 in rent and for environmental damage allegedly caused by the Ukrainians.

The Bosnian government also had not granted permission for the withdrawal of Gorazde's remaining peacekeepers — 159 British and 10 Norwegians.

The U.N. official said money was an issue in that withdrawal, too.

The British commander of U.N. forces in Bosnia, Lt. Gen. Rupert Smith, met Thursday with Hassan Muratovic, the Bosnian minister for relations with the United Nations.

"The aim is to withdraw all troops from Gorazde by the 31st of August," said Lt. Col. Chris Vernon, a U.N. spokesman.

"We are now running behind schedule, but we are hopeful that we will obtain the go-ahead from the government today," he said.

Dangerous road to Sarajevo

By BOB SEAVEY

The revelations will depict an Iraq far more advanced and aggressive than it previously said, and that production occurred at more sites, said Duelfer.

The International Atomic Energy Agency, which is investigating Iraq's nuclear potential on Thursday refused to confirm news reports that the new disclosures show Iraq was much closer to developing a nuclear weapon than officials realized.

Iraqi advanced arms program discovered

U.N.: Warfare reveals efforts of destruction

By BOB SEAVEY

UNITED NATIONS

Iraq had missiles and bombs late in 1990, a U.N. weapons inspector disclosed Thursday.

By suspected, a move the United States and its allies believed it was more of the germ warfare agents ready for use during the Gulf War, and its program to build other weapons of mass destruction was larger than suspected, a U.N. weapons inspector disclosed Thursday.

Allied forces during the Gulf War suspected Iraq had biological weapons, but it was not revealed the sanctions the weapons in-...
Wu's release affects U.S.-China relations

Supected spy allowed to leave after conviction

By CHARLENE FU
Associated Press

BEIJING
Chinese-American human rights activist Harry Wu was taken into custody before heading to the United States in 1985. Beginning in 1991, he made four clandestine trips to China to research, document and film abuses in China's extensive "reform-through-labor," or laogai, system.

His television documentaries showing widespread use of prison labor to manufacture exports and the transplanting of organs from executed prisoners earned him international attention, and he became a frequent witness at congressional hearings on China's human rights abuses.

Wu, 58, was taken into custody on June 19 as he attempted to enter China a fifth time on prison release. He was expelled from the country, according to the government-run Xinhua news agency.

His expulsion could mitigate the damage to Sino-American relations — described by Xinhua on Wednesday as at their "worst ebb" since 1979. But domestic political battles in both capitals are likely to block any further improvement.

An American undersecretary of state, Peter Tarroff, travels to Beijing on Friday to try to arrest the slide in relations. Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Chen Jian said China hopes the visit will be a "concrete step forward." Sino-U.S. ties began faltering after China's military crushed pro-democracy demonstrations in 1989. While much of the Communist world moved toward democracy in the next few years, China continued to suppress dissent, jail activists and confound American expectations of reform.

Against the backdrop of mutual distrust, arguments flared over human rights, trade and arms control.

In May, relations worsened further when the White House allowed the president of Taiwan, the island China regards as a renegade province, to attend a college reunion in the United States.

The White House decision, made over Chinese objections, unleashed bitter official denunciations of the United States for trying to contain China's aspirations as a regional power.

As China sees it, Washington has blocked its entry to the World Trade Organization, carping about sales of arms and nuclear technology while carrying on its own lucrative arms trade and encouraging Chinese-registered companies to investment. The United States pressed for him to be expelled on the grounds of national security.

The quick expulsion may allow first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton to attend the U.N. women's conference in Beijing this September, something China's leaders are believed to want.

In the long run, however, both nations are governed by leaders who place domestic concerns ahead of foreign policy.

President Clinton faces an uphill battle for re-election in November 1996 after his Democratic rival, Vice President Al Gore, won the Indiana, New Mexico and Connecticut primaries.

Any short-term improvement will depend on how Chinese hard-liners in the leadership, Harry Wu was part of the U.S. political encyclopedia identified him as Peter H. Wu, a name he rarely used. Chinese officials called it an illegal alias.

His sudden release took place a few weeks ago and is expected to raise Beijing's attention, and he became a frequent witness at congressional hearings on China's human rights abuses.

Wu, 58, was taken into custody on June 19 as he attempted to enter China a fifth time, this time at a remote border crossing with Kazakhstan.

He went on trial Wednesday in Wuhan Intermediate People's Court, a State Department official in Washington, and was convicted of espionage and stealing state secrets.

When Harry Wu crossed into break neck east China two months ago, the human rights activist stepped into the political landscape of deteriorating Sino-U.S. relations.

Wu's arrest at the border on June 19 put a human face on the troubled bilateral relationship and deep-seated ideological differences between the two nations.

A Chinese court this morning sentenced Wu to 15 years in prison for spying. Hours later, he was expelled from the country, according to the government-run Xinhua news agency.

His expulsion could mitigate the damage to Sino-American relations — described by Xinhua on Wednesday as at their "worst ebb" since 1979. But domestic political battles in both capitals are likely to block any further improvement.

An American undersecretary of state, Peter Tarroff, travels to Beijing on Friday to try to arrest the slide in relations. Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Chen Jian said China hopes the visit will be a "concrete step forward." Sino-U.S. ties began faltering after China's military crushed pro-democracy demonstrations in 1989. While much of the Communist world moved toward democracy in the next few years, China continued to suppress dissent, jail activists and confound American expectations of reform.

Against the backdrop of mutual distrust, arguments flared over human rights, trade and arms control.

In May, relations worsened further when the White House allowed the president of Taiwan, the island China regards as a renegade province, to attend a college reunion in the United States.

The White House decision, made over Chinese objections, unleashed bitter official denunciations of the United States for trying to contain China's aspirations as a regional power.

As China sees it, Washington has blocked its entry to the World Trade Organization, carping about sales of arms and nuclear technology while carrying on its own lucrative arms trade and encouraging Chinese-registered companies to investment. The United States pressed for him to be expelled on the grounds of national security.

The quick expulsion may allow first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton to attend the U.N. women's conference in Beijing this September, something China's leaders are believed to want.

In the long run, however, both nations are governed by leaders who place domestic concerns ahead of foreign policy.

President Clinton faces an uphill battle for re-election in November 1996 after his Democratic rival, Vice President Al Gore, won the Indiana, New Mexico and Connecticut primaries.

Any short-term improvement will depend on how Chinese hard-liners in the leadership, Harry Wu was part of the U.S. political encyclopedia identified him as Peter H. Wu, a name he rarely used. Chinese officials called it an illegal alias.

His sudden release took place a few weeks ago and is expected to raise Beijing's attention, and he became a frequent witness at congressional hearings on China's human rights abuses.

Wu, 58, was taken into custody on June 19 as he attempted to enter China a fifth time, this time at a remote border crossing with Kazakhstan.

He went on trial Wednesday in Wuhan Intermediate People's Court, a State Department official in Washington, and was convicted of espionage and stealing state secrets.

When Harry Wu crossed into break neck east China two months ago, the human rights activist stepped into the political landscape of deteriorating Sino-U.S. relations.

Wu's arrest at the border on June 19 put a human face on the troubled bilateral relationship and deep-seated ideological differences between the two nations.

A Chinese court this morning sentenced Wu to 15 years in prison for spying. Hours later, he was expelled from the country, according to the government-run Xinhua news agency.

His expulsion could mitigate the damage to Sino-American relations — described by Xinhua on Wednesday as at their "worst ebb" since 1979. But domestic political battles in both capitals are likely to block any further improvement.

An American undersecretary of state, Peter Tarroff, travels to Beijing on Friday to try to arrest the slide in relations. Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Chen Jian said China hopes the visit will be a "concrete step forward." Sino-U.S. ties began faltering after China's military crushed pro-democracy demonstrations in 1989. While much of the Communist world moved toward democracy in the next few years, China continued to suppress dissent, jail activists and confound American expectations of reform.

Against the backdrop of mutual distrust, arguments flared over human rights, trade and arms control.

In May, relations worsened further when the White House allowed the president of Taiwan, the island China regards as a renegade province, to attend a college reunion in the United States.

The White House decision, made over Chinese objections, unleashed bitter official denunciations of the United States for trying to contain China's aspirations as a regional power.

As China sees it, Washington has blocked its entry to the World Trade Organization, carping about sales of arms and nuclear technology while carrying on its own lucrative arms trade and encouraging Chinese-registered companies to investment. The United States pressed for him to be expelled on the grounds of national security.

The quick expulsion may allow first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton to attend the U.N. women's conference in Beijing this September, something China's leaders are believed to want.

In the long run, however, both nations are governed by leaders who place domestic concerns ahead of foreign policy.

President Clinton faces an uphill battle for re-election in November 1996 after his Democratic rival, Vice President Al Gore, won the Indiana, New Mexico and Connecticut primaries.

Any short-term improvement will depend on how Chinese hard-liners in the leadership, Harry Wu was part of the U.S. political encyclopedia identified him as Peter H. Wu, a name he rarely used. Chinese officials called it an illegal alias.

His sudden release took place a few weeks ago and is expected to raise Beijing's attention, and he became a frequent witness at congressional hearings on China's human rights abuses.

Wu, 58, was taken into custody on June 19 as he attempted to enter China a fifth time, this time at a remote border crossing with Kazakhstan.

He went on trial Wednesday in Wuhan Intermediate People's Court, a State Department official in Washington, and was convicted of espionage and stealing state secrets.

When Harry Wu crossed into break neck east China two months ago, the human rights activist stepped into the political landscape of deteriorating Sino-U.S. relations.

Wu's arrest at the border on June 19 put a human face on the troubled bilateral relationship and deep-seated ideological differences between the two nations.

A Chinese court this morning sentenced Wu to 15 years in prison for spying. Hours later, he was expelled from the country, according to the government-run Xinhua news agency.

His expulsion could mitigate the damage to Sino-American relations — described by Xinhua on Wednesday as at their "worst ebb" since 1979. But domestic political battles in both capitals are likely to block any further improvement.
Flight attendant praised for crash composure

By A.J. HOSTETLER
Associated Press

CARROLLTON, Ga.

A flight attendant with the efficiency of a drill sergeant tested terrified passengers one by one to ensure they knew how to brace themselves and calmly pointed out the emergency exits as a crippled commuter plane lurched toward a hayfield.

"I can't imagine anybody being more calm and purposeful in doing her job," passenger Byron Gaskill said Wednesday from his home in Monroe Falls, Ohio. "She was extremely terrific."

Robin Fech, 37, was the only flight attendant on the twin-engine Atlantic Southeast Airlines plane when it crashed Monday after the left engine failed.

Five of the 29 people on board were killed, including the pilot.

Injured herself once the plane hit the ground, Ms. Fech hollered at others who were on fire to roll over and used pieces of her own clothing to help those hurt.

"Because of her, folks inside the cabin remained clam. No one was screaming. We did not panic," said another passenger, Air Force Maj. Charles LeMay of Bellevue, Neb.

Ms. Fech, who is from Warner Robins and has been with the airline for 2 1/2 years, remained in Tanner Memorial Hospital with a broken arm and cuts. She has declined to talk to reporters.

Seven others remained in critical condition with burns. In the nine minutes between a loud bang and the crash itself, the flight attendant never raised her voice and made every passenger demonstrate the doubled-over crash position to her, correcting them when they did it wrong, LeMay said.

Passengers said Ms. Fech "behaved like a drill sergeant" in preparing them for the crash, according said John Hammerschmidt, who is leading the National Transportation Safety Board investigation.

As the Embraer 120 turboprop grazed treetops and sharply descended, she pointed out exits and even lowered the shade on a passenger's window so he couldn't see out.

She also made some passengers change seats so the most able-bodied were closest to the emergency exits.
Opus Dei: Misunderstood Catholicism

Chuck Roth

Opus Dei order is through "Opus Dei houses." Opus Dei houses are located near college campuses all around the country, though they are not advertised (some would say secretive). There are in fact two Opus Dei houses near Notre Dame, one for men, one for women. I don't know about the women's house, but the Opus Dei men's house is called "Windmoore," and is on Notre Dame Avenue (in case you're curious). Students can live in Opus Dei houses without officially joining the organization. There are Opus Dei priests living in the Opus Dei houses, and their task is to give residents spiritual advice and counselling.

Opus Dei people can end up in this stage for a long period of time. Many Opus Dei members end up living in celibacy for several years before discerning that the priesthood is not for them. They then go off and get married. Married members of Opus Dei attend certain meetings in the house, and give financial support to the house (if you wonder why Opus Dei gets described as "wealthy," it's mostly because of these members, who contribute hourly). Other Opus Dei members stay celibate, and end up becoming priests.

Opus Dei organization is interesting, and I could go on. But before this starts getting anyone interested, I should tell you the problems I've seen with it. To begin with, Opus Dei intentionally does not advertise its presence, here or anywhere. The reason that Opus Dei would give (if you could get one out of them) is not secrecy, but simply a 'low-profile, ordinary type of lifestyle. Whatever their reason, the result is a strange seminarcissism, in which people reveal their identity as Opus Dei members only to certain people, and when they're asking these people if they could be interested in the organization.

Another problem related to that, is that the normal looking people in Opus Dei generally submit themselves to the spiritual direction of the priest in residence. That may sound innocuous enough (though weird), but it has strange ramifications. Opus Dei people may be encouraged not to associate with certain people (this happened to a friend of mine), or encouraged to become someone's friend. To non-Opus Dei types, this may appear as manipulation. I don't attribute this motive to Opus Dei, but the impression seems inevitable given the group's approach.

Chuck Roth is a third year law student.

Finally, and not least, Opus Dei tends to recruit people (like us?) who are college educated and well off. Essentially, they're elitist. Opus Dei does some service work, but this is not the focus of the group. The focus of Opus Dei is upon personal spiritual growth, for members in the group. The image I would use of a football team that goes into a huddle, and never comes out to make the next play.

When you add together the elements I have just described, the result is a group which, though dynamic, is not good. Combining elitism and secrecy leads to a cult-like society that members are specially called, and that others are not. When secrecy and blind obedience are combined, there's a tenden­cy toward authoritarianism.

Combining obedience and elitism has the effect of making members ultra-protective of the group. I was prepared to support Opus Dei, because I could not imagine that a Church-supported group could be so screwed up. I cannot. So much of what I love about Catholicism — the universality, the openness, the combination of people from all social strata — is antithetical to the reality of Opus Dei. However much I respect and admire their goal of personal sanctity, I cannot support a group that achieves this goal by means which divide the Church: I think that the Pope would someday agree with me.

Chuck Roth is a third year law student.

[QUOTE OF THE DAY]

"What is a weed? A plant whose virtues have not yet been discovered." —Ralph Waldo Emerson
COFFEE

COFFEE

COFFEE

By ANNE DELANEY

Accent Writer

Why pick a coffeehouse for a meal instead of a restaurant? There is always the promise of a savory dessert to wash down your coffee, and an almost guarantee that your eating experience will be different from that of a restaurant where what you get is what you expect.

A java lamp wearing a wool glove sits on the counter next to a jar of chocolate covered biscotti, a bowl of green apples and a stack of ashtrays. On the far wall an autographed photo of Mike Ditka smiles. A rickety set of shelves holds an assortment of books and a stack of board games, Candyland on top. The cover of a tabloid shouting, "Midget Trapped 10 Hours in Wife's Spaghetti Sauce Wrecks 16-Year Marriage" shares bulletin board space with a coloring book Grever crayoned in orchid.

There are more surprises behind the yellow-and-green tinted windows of the coffeehouse called Cap’n Cinos. There is neither a Cap nor a Cino, according to 24 year old owner Adam Sutton; it’s just a play on the ever-popular cappuccino. Sutton, a six-year old on and off resident of South Bend, saw the need for an outlet for creativity here, an opportunity for the town’s culture to emerge and a place where under 2 I year olds could enjoy bands they normally couldn’t see because of their age. So he opened Cap’n-Cino’s.

A while ago he noticed an old garage for rent nestled unobtrusively between an Amoco station and Oakhill Condominiums. He leapt at the chance to craft the space int<>...
Cap'n Cinos
Weekly Calendar

Mondays: "From the Heart," poetry readings beginning at 8:30 p.m.
Wednesdays: "On Stage," acoustic concert series beginning at 8:30 p.m.
Thursdays: Evening "Drum Circle." Bring your own percussion instrument
Fridays & Saturdays: Band Nights
Sundays: "Sunday at Six" Open Stage

The coffeehouse craze is hitting big city and small town alike all across America. To what is its emergent popularity due? Coffeehouses have been in existence for many years, beginning in London where, in the 18th and 19th centuries before newspapers were in existence for many years, beginning in London where, in the 18th and 19th centuries, newspapers were in existence for many years. They have been in the United States for many years. Relatively recently their numbers have grown and the chains such as Starbucks have opened all over the country, sometimes with several stores in one city. The more eclectic, hard-to-find and unique coffeehouses are the San Francisco, New York City and Washington, D.C. predecessors to the chain-type places. They survive because of their character, word-of-mouth and regular crowd.

Lula's Cafe
1631 Edison Road

On the corner of Edison and South Bend Avenue behind the Amoco station.

What is it about the coffee bean that brings people together? It's not just the caffeine, cigarette haze or specialty muffins that keep the door open and people at the tables. It's something more intangible. It's the feeling of being in a time capsule, of common anonymity, of anything goes. The atmosphere, the stimulation of sight, taste, smell and hearing as well as a generalized philosophy of openness and strange familiarity all add to the allure. Occupations and obligations and where you'd been before getting coffee all fall by the wayside. This is a break in the day, a relaxing time, an open-to-experience hour and an alternative setting.

Why pick a coffeehouse for a meal instead of a restaurant? There is always the promise of a savory dessert to wash down your coffee. And an almost guarantee that your eating experience will be different from what you expect. A typical deli sandwich is, after-theater and student crowd. It is an alternative to other social settings where people can hang out and talk. Coffee does seem to lend itself to conversation, and depending upon the flavor of your drink, mood, or topic, Lula's has the corner for you.

Lula's Cafe comes with a menu of drinks, soups, salads, snacks and pastries. It also offers the entertaining legend of Lula, on the back of it, which claims that the fictional "Lula" evidently had even more influence than Forrest Gump on the likes of literary geniuses and café society. Part of her bio reads, "Lula sewed with Amelia Earhart on her flight around the world, but left in Hawaii and parachuted out to join Ernest Hemingway on his sailboat. It was there that she convinced him that the sun also rises." Apparently Lula was pretty famous.

Anna Bledsoe and partner Steve Egan, a 1993 graduate of Notre Dame, began discussing Lula's Cafe last May. The space for rent in Edison Plaza was up for lease in November, and they took it. It opened March 4, and the two have enjoyed watching a business evolve from the ground up. Most Americans have some entrepreneurial blood, Steve thinks, and he chose to follow the flow. Egan and Riley brought in artists who designed the motifs and mosaics for Lula's, giving it an eclectic living room feel. Egan hopes to develop a good dessert crowd for after the theater or other evening events in South Bend. Lula's is a nonsmoking environment, and very clean and new. Those who are attracted by a quieter and smoke-free place would enjoy Lula's. It's on its way to becoming three separate businesses once it gets rolling, with a to-go morning crowd, a mix of faculty and people who are out and about for lunch, and an evening after-theater and students crowd.

Why open a coffeehouse? Like the other owners, Egan believes that it's a niche that is unsatished in South Bend. It is an alternative to other social settings where people can hang out and talk. Coffee does seem to lend itself to conversation, and depending upon the flavor of your drink, mood, or topic, Lula's has the corner for you.

Anne Delaney is a 1995 graduate of Saint Mary's. She majored in English Writing and Humanistic Studies and is currently doing a service project.

If you like Lula's and Cap'n Cinos try...
R.J.'s Espresso Shoppe, 109 W. Washington Madison Oyster Bar, 402 E. Madison Barnes & Noble's, Grape Road Allegro, basement of LaFortune Waddick's, first floor of O'Shaugnessy
Griffey's high-flying homer downs Yankees

The Seattle Mariners inched closer to their sixth straight loss, but collected nine hits and scored three runs in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning to become baseball's eighth to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.

The Mariners had been 0-3 when trailing after eight innings in their last six games, but Griffey hit his second home run of the day in the ninth inning to get the victory, and left-handed pitcher Andy Buhner, his 24th homer, in the ninth inning.
RecSports Intramurals - RecSports is offering Interhall & Grad/Fac/Staff Baseball, Interhall (Men's & Women's) & Grad/Fac/Staff Football, II & Grad/Fac/Staff (Men's singles, women singles & mixed doubles) Tennis, Freshman Swim Meet and 16 & Co-Rec Softball. The entry dates are from August 23 to August 30 in the RecSports office. Please call RecSports (1-6100) for date and time for captains' meetings. Our new hotline is 1-8REC.

Scuba Course - There will be an information meeting for this course on Sunday, August 27 at 1:00 in Rockne Rm 218. Completion of course results in YMCA certification. For more info call 1-6100.

Shorin-Ryu Karate - Semester long course that meets in Rockne 219 M/W 4:30-6:30 starting Wednesday, September 14. You must register in advance and the fee is $35.00. A demonstration will be held on September 4 at 5:00 in Rm 219. Call 1-6100 for more info.

Women's Safety and Self-Defense - Class meets for ten sessions on M/W from 6:30-7:45 in Rockne Rm 219. Class begins on Monday, September 4 and is open to students and staff. Fee is $9.00 and more info at 1-6100.

Ballet - Semester long course that meets on Sundays from 1:00-3:00 in Rockne Rm 201. An informational meeting will be held on Sunday, September 3 at 1:00 in Rockne Rm 201. The fee is $25.00 and more info at 1-6100.

Horseback Riding Lessons - The information meeting for this course will be Thursday, September 7 at 6:00 in the Rolfs Aquatic Facility classroom. Class begins September 14 and more info at 1-6100.

Athletic Commissioners - All hall Athletic Commissioners need to contact the RecSports office. We need names, phone numbers, and addresses. Please call 1-5100.

Challenge U Aerobics - Sign-ups started yesterday at the RecSports office. Interval aerobics and Advanced aerobics will be offered. Call 1-5965 for further details.

Broadcast Irish Football - WVFI needs assistants to help broadcast ND football games. If interested call Ken Maverick at the station (1-6888) or at home (277-1753).
The Observer • SPORTS
Friday, August 25, 1995

■ NATIONAL LEAGUE
Last-place Cardinals faring well against NL division front-runners
By R.B. FALLSTROM
Associated Press

ST. LOUIS
Somehow, the St. Louis Cardi­

The Cardinals blew a five-run lead, but Ray Lansford’s sixth-inning single gave them a 6-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds on Thursday.

St. Louis, which has the worst record in the National League, took three of four from the NL Central leaders, who have the second best.

"I don’t know where they turned it around, but they defianns had their best homes­

Lankford had a run-scoring single in the Cardinals’ three-run first. Burba walked three in the second, including Sweeney with the bases loaded, and Ozzie Smith added an RBI single. Burba said he hasn’t been feeling well the last few days.

"I don’t know if it’s the flu or what, but I definitely wasn’t 100 percent," Burba said. "I went out and did the best I could. I just didn’t have it."

Gant’s first home run and two throwing errors by Bell at second base helped the Reds score three runs in the fourth. One run scored when Bell threw wildly to first on Hal Morris’ infield hit, and Mark Lewis added a run-scoring dou­

Lankford has had both good and bad times this homestand, with nine strikeouts and five doubles.

"When it’s going, it’s going bad," Lansford said. "When it’s going good, you’ve just got to enjoy it."

Lansford’s RBI single came after reliever Hector Carrasco (2-5) walked two in the sixth.

Cardinals starter Donovan Osborne, however, continued a lengthy drought, remaining winless since Aug. 18, 1993. He allowed five runs in five innings and gave up two home runs to Ron Gant. Osborne missed all of last season after undergoing shoulder surgery.

"It’s been a long year," Os­

Lincoln. Neb.

Tommie Frazier, who missed most of Nebraska’s national championship season last year because of surgery for blood clots, will start at quarterback for the Cornhuskers in next week’s season opener.

Coach Tom Osborne an­

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Associated Press

Frazier to start for Nebraska

"Tommie has really improved his passing. Instead of 45 per­ Osborne said. "I don’t know how it will translate during the season, but he’s capable of be­

Tommie graded the best in the films and will start," Os­

Berringer was hospitalized with blood clots in his calf. Frazier’s health condition ultimately re­

Im beginning my career as a journalism student at Notre Dame and Howard Street

At Notre Dame and Howard Street

PANDORA’S

1-800-221-4333

FRIDAY and SATURDAY 7:30 and 9:45 pm

CINEMA AT THE SNITE
presented by Notre Dame Communication and Theatre

MARILYN BRANDO
JOHNNY DEPP
FAYE DUNAWAY

"HYSTERICALY FUNNY, CHARMING,
WILY Imaginative..."

Don Juan

WASHINGTON SEMINAR

Welfare: Public or Private Responsibility?

- One-Credit Experiential Learning and Service Opportunities in Appalachia, Washington D.C., and Chicago

Applications (due Sept. 7) are available at the Center for Social Concerns

Welcome Students
Now That You’re Back
It’s Time to Start Planning
... for Fall Break!
Consider: Service and Work for Justice
Participate in:
- One-Credit Experiential Learning and Service Opportunities in Appalachia, Washington D.C., and Chicago

Center for Social Concerns

■ COLLEGE FOOTBALL
The Observer is now hiring for the following paid position:
Friday Circulation Drivers
If you are interested and have between 11:00 - 2:00 open on Fridays, contact Joe Riley at 1-5313.

SAVE MANY DOLLARS
$555555555555555555555555

Textbooks - up to 40% off (for all courses)
Two day or immediate pick up service.

PANDORA’S
at Notre Dame and Howard Street
233-2342
See you there!
Football
continued from page 20

"every game," Chryplewicz says. "But I know coach Holtz will be rotating us and each will get a good deal of playing time.

Both have earned three letters in their careers, gaining experience behind Oscar McBride. Chryplewicz has four career receptions for fifty yards. He earned eight starts in 1993, but missed most of last season after he broke a bone in his right wrist against Michigan. Wallace has three career receptions for 29 yards, including a 15-yard touchdown pass from Gus Orstein against Navy. He nabbed a seven-yard pass from Ron Powlus for a TD in the 1995 Fiesta Bowl as well. Wallace also lost some time to injury, missing the end of the 1993 season after having back surgery.

"Coach Holtz sets standards for the team, and standards for each position," Chmiel says. "Both of these men have been striving on a daily basis to improve toward these standards and work toward the goals of the team."

The standards for an Irish tight end have been, according to Chmiel, "to block like an offensive lineman but still be able to run patterns and catch like a receiver."

In the recent past, though, the blocking abilities of the tight ends have been valued more than their catching skills. "I'd love to catch the ball more, but I knew coming into Notre Dame what my role would be," Wallace says. "I'll be looking to do whatever I can to contribute this year," Chryplewicz says. "As long as we're winning, I'm happy."

---

NBA

New contract criticized

Representatives of NBA players seeking to dissolve the union assailed the proposed labor agreement for containing hidden provisions that would restrict player movement. The New York Times reported Thursday, "These are terms from the June 21 agreement that no one ever knew before, in many cases. Some I would characterize as bombshells."

Kessler claimed the league was trying to include a contract clause that would bar players and teams from negotiating contracts downward — a common practice that helps teams find room under the salary cap to bring in new players.

But Granik said, "The feedback we're getting is most of the players feel it is a fair deal," he said.
Sosa hits seventh homer in seven games as Cubs score big over Marlins

Associated Press

Sammy Sosa doesn't have an intricate explanation for his recent hitting streak. He just needed one as long as he keeps hitting home runs.

His seventh homer in seven games—a two-run shot—helped the Chicago Cubs to a 6-2 win Thursday over the Florida Marlins.

It was his ninth home run and 27th RBI in his last 14 games.

"I am trying to do my part just a little bit," he said. "Just wait for my pitch and hit it. I'm going up there relaxed. Not pressing, and thinking in my mind is to get to the playoffs.

"The win put the Cubs two games behind Houston and Colorado for the NL wild-card spot."

Kevin Foster (8-9) won for the first time since July 16 against Cincinnati. In nine innings, he allowed two runs on five hits. He picked up four strikeouts.

In the ninth, Foster walked Jeff Conine and gave up a single to Terry Pendleton before Randy Myers relieved for his 29th save.

"Today, I pitched my game for the most part," he said. "I had a really good fastball and used both the fastball and the curveball."

The Cubs led 5-2 when Brian McLeish opened the seventh inning with a single, his third hit of the game, and scored on Rey Sanchez's double. One out later, Mark Gardner replaced starter Chris Myers, and Sosa hit his 27th homer to give Chicago a 1-2-3 fourth.

"Hammond pitched pretty well," said Florida manager Steve Luechense. "He pitched well enough to win. But they hit a couple of the balls that we made an error, the other team scored a run. Unearned runs are getting to be a problem. We can't continue to pay that price.

The Marlins finished their 11-game road trip with a 2-9 record.

Rockies 8, Pirates 6

Larry Walker, pinch hitting for the first time this season, hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning Thursday at the Colorado Rockies' free-four deficit and beat the Pittsburg Pirates 8-6.

The Rockies trailed 6-1 after 5 1/2 innings, but five different players drove in runs over the next four innings.

When Walker pinch hit for reliever Lance Painter with no outs, runners at first and second and a 6-1 deficit, five-run-trailing 6-1, Pittsburgh manager Jim Leyland replaced right-hander Paul Waner (2-1) with left-hander Jason Christiansen.

Walker ran the count to 2-2 before hitting his 28th homer of the year, and his first since Aug. 14.

Painter (1-0) pitched two innings for the win. Scott Karlishek relaxed Darren Holmes with running on first and second and one out in the ninth but retired Carlos Garcia and Mark Parent for his fifth save.

Ray Bell and Nelson Vicario combined for six hits and five hits for the Pirates, who lost for the seventh time in eight games.

Walker's homer made up for a poor performance by Colorado starter Kevin Ritz, who failed to get out of the first inning.

Powell, starting for the third time in his career, failed to take advantage of the run support. He pitched three innings before being chased by Andrew Galazan. Galazan's first hit in the fourth, Wagner relieved, and allowed an RBI single to Castilla that made the score 3-0 before ending the inning.

Irish

continued from page 20

greater part of the season due to a serious knee injury.

"Bill Lanza right now is at about 85 percent," commented Berticelli, far as his knee goes, he is OK, but he suffered a bad ankle sprain in the summer.

"Even so, Bill Lanza at 85 percent is more effective than most strikers at 100 percent. He's a tremendous talent, and his role with this team will once again be one of creating goal scoring opportunities for us.

"He has outstanding speed and acceleration, and is very dangerous when the ball is on his foot. He will be back to 100 percent for us soon.

While Lanza is back, fellow forward Ryan Turner is currently seeing very little practice time due to a lower back strain, a setback for Berticelli as well.

"Definitely a setback for us.

While Lanza will be expected to provide offensive punch and creativity up front, it is the Irish midfield which appears to be the team's strong point.

"We have our most depth at midfield," muses Berticelli. "It's a confiudent and talented team. Although young and somewhat inexperienced, we will play exciting, attacking soccer, and we will play every game expecting to win. We can only hope that the pieces will fall into place along the way.

Biathlon & Beach Party
Saturday, August 26
10:30 AM at St. Joe Beach

Biathlon

1/2 Mile Swim & 2 Mile Run

Register in Advance at the LaFortune Information Desk

Shuttle to the stadium, begins at 5:45p.m and leaves at Noon.

Student Government & Student Activities Office
Sponsored by:
Student Government
Student Union Board

WELCOME BACK!

Need a job that fits your busy schedule?

MEMORIAL HOME CARE

17900 Dogdale Drive, South Bend, IN 46635

Call 273-2273 to find out more!
What Irish coach Mike Berticelli is saying about...

Tony Capasso

"He is an unselfish player and a tremendous leader who is always working to make himself and those around him better."

Bill Lanza

"Bill Lanza at 85% is more effective than most snipers at 100%.

Konstantin Koloskov

"He is capable of scoring as well as setting up goals, and he will be used to do both."

---

Starting spots on line for Irish

St. Louis game only chance to experiment with combinations

BY NEIL ZENDER

Sports Writer

Five is the magic number. Coach Mike Berticelli's Notre Dame Soccer Team has five starting positions available and Saturday's 7:30 p.m. exhibition game against St. Louis University will decide the men who will fill them.

"It's not a game that counts," Berticelli said. "We have to see 18 to 20 players perform. We don't know who's going to start. Five of eleven starting positions are open." The Irish are a young, rebuilding team, so the season could go either way.

"It'll be pretty interesting," Berticelli said. "You can never tell what a young team can do. You don't know until things unfold. We'll be competitive in every game. We have more talent than we've ever had before." The key to winning will be eliminating youthful mistakes.

Already slated to start are junior Brian Engesser at defender, juniors Tony Capasso and Konstantin Koloskov at midfielder, and senior Bill Lanza at forward. Sophomore Bill Savarino and freshman Matt Johnson will shift between midfielder and forward and midfielder respectively. Sophomore forward Ryan Torre, who has seen limited practice with a lower back strain, will likely miss the game with a lower back strain.

However, Berticelli is more concerned with determining who fills the starting lineup.

"We need to see what they can do and can't do and how they adjust to their roles."

The Billikens are the perfect team to test a player against. Last season they went 16-6 and finished No. 1 in the Midwest Conference, which is now Conference USA.

The Billikens lost 2-1 in the first round of the NCAA tournament to Creighton and ranks No. 15 in the Soccer America Poll.

"I think that's the fun part," he said. "We see them do it in practice. A game will reveal a great deal about players. We need to test them against really good teams that will show some weaknesses."
Irish opponents face off in Kickoff Classic

By JIMMY GOLEN
Associated Press

BOSTON
Boston College started with nationally ranked Michigan and Virginia Tech last year and fell even tougher.

Overall, the No. 22 Eagles play the Kickoff Classic against No. 12 Virginia Tech.

Wins this season Top 25.

three ranked teams in a row.

Virginia Tech last year and fell even tougher.

into an overall. the No. 22 Eagles play

Kickoff Classic against No. 12

nationally ranked Michigan and vestigation into a pro­

some.

team's 1993 national champi­

were on Alabama, and it scares

onship season.

decision on its preliminary in­ investigation and was anx­

of the enforcement

disappointed the case isn't

in the shopping spree.

The NCAA also is believed to be looking into another charge that at least two other former Seminoles football players were paid by a Jacksonville booster for a job with no duties. Both players have denied the accusation and one, Green Bay All Pro safety LeRoy Butler, has threat­

ed legal action.

Bowden said his 1995 team — ranked first heading into the season — wasn't affected by the investigation and was anx­ safety to play football.

David Hart, Florida State's new athletic director, also was disappointed the case isn't over.

"It is frustrating, but it is an involved process," he said.

Hart and Bowden both hoped the NCAA would finish its review before the start of the football season. They also hope to have the examination concluded by February, when colleges sign high school recruits.

I hope that he will continue to play at the level he played last year, and take a step fur­ further into that wonderful land of intangible abilities that come out of true quarterbacks,"

Henning said.

"He's a big strong athlete that can throw the ball. But to become a great quarterback, there's a trait there that comes out in the big game and it comes out in the most important part of the game. And I hope that he's able to do that.

The one thing holding him back at this point, it seems, is the inexperience of the young men expected to catch his passes. Konyatta Watson, the top returning receiver, is recovering from a left hamstring injury; No. 2 pass-catcher Greg Grio is suspended for the first two.

Watson is expected to be ready for the opener. But if not, the Eagles will rely on three young receivers: Freshman Anthony DiCosmo, redshirt freshmen Dennis Harding and sophomore Steve Everson.

Freshmen Derrick Gristedden and Brandon King are also standing by if needed.

Bowden nervous about probe

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.

Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, anxious to have an investigation by the NCAA behind him, acknowledges that a program review is always worris­

some.

"You see how tough they were on Alabama, and it scares you," Bowden said Wednesday after the NCAA delayed a final decision on its preliminary investigation into a $6,000 shopping spree by Florida State football players during the team's 1993 national championship season.

"I understand they are still trying to talk to some people," he said. "I doubted it would have been resolved by today, but I'd feel better if it was behind us."

Earlier this month, the NCAA put Alabama on three years of probation. Alabama is also prevented from playing in a bowl game after this season and loses 30 scholarships the next three years.

The NCAA could have told Florida State it was curtailing its formal six-month review or announced it had enough evidence to warrant a full-scale investigation of the school's athletic department policies.

"The review of information in the case is continuing," the NCAA's David Berst, "Members of the enforcement staff are making every effort to complete the necessary interviews to ensure that full information is developed."

The Florida State probe centers around a November 1993 after-hours shopping spree at a local mall, where several players received merchandise paid for by prospective sports agents.

Five players were suspended last season from between two and four games for their roles in the shopping spree.

The NCAA also is believed to be looking into another charge that at least two other former Seminoles football players were paid by a Jacksonville booster for a job with no duties. Both players have denied the accusation and one, Green Bay All Pro safety LeRoy Butler, has threat­

ed legal action.

Bowden said his 1995 team — ranked first heading into the season — wasn't affected by the investigation and was anxious to play football.

David Hart, Florida State's new athletic director, also was disappointed the case isn't over.

"It is frustrating, but it is an involved process," he said.

Hart and Bowden both hoped the NCAA would finish its review before the start of the football season. They also hope to have the examination concluded by February, when colleges sign high school recruits.

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE
DAVE KELLETT

I can't believe summer is almost over.

School will start, no more freedom, no more long days outside, no more fun.

Well, let's go make the most of the time we have left.

Now, I've reserved the rest of the month for moping.

ASSUME ALL EMPLOYEES ARE LYING, TREASURE-HUNTING THIEVES. GIVE THEM LOW-COST SUBSTITUTES AND CLAIM THE SAVINGS ON YOUR ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

I asked for a multimedia laptop PC. This is to a 'dymo' labeler.

NICE TRY, PAUL, IF THAT'S YOUR REAL NAME.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Some cards
7. Bodybuilder's concern
13. Ricocheted
15. Central American capital
16. Fashionable
17. "Swings" (1965 Roger Miller hit)
18. Armchair activity
26. Kind of sauce
31. Hermitage
32. "Platoon" actor
33. Bit
34. Solar warmers
35. Word with house or mouse
36. Like summer days, often
37. W. W. II locale, in brief
38. "East of Eden" director
39. Eclogues
40. Burial places
42. Antibody producers
44. Ho do
46. Armchair activity, colloquially
53. Add one's two cents' worth
54. Furniture worker
55. Anticipate
58. Flip again

DOWN
1. Deface
2. Blanch
3. Composer Khachaturian
4. Major ending
5. Thespians, perhaps
6. Spring rituals
7. Joked
8. Lodge
9. Weight watcher's concern: Var.
10. On even terms, old style
11. Puzzle clues, sometimes
12. Inferior, as an excuse
14. Numerical prefix
15. Landry sign
16. Alert
17. Curtain fabric
18. Boston Symphony maestro
21. Something to lend or bend
22. Curtain fabric
23. Boston Symphony maestro
24. Mississippi feature
25. "Swings" (1965 Roger Miller hit)
26. Kind of sauce
27. Moves via twists
28. -2600 (old game-playing machine)
30. "East of Eden" director
32. Archaic form of address
34. "Swings" (1965 Roger Miller hit)
35. Rap sheet list
36. Breakfast delicacy
56. Astor Cup competition
57. Gets wind of
58. Take on
59. East of Eden
60. Ring forever

Solve Daily Crosswords: 1-900-420-5566 (75¢ each minute).

Have something to say? Use The Observer classifieds.

STUDENT UNION BOARD AND STUDENT ACTIVITIES INVITE YOU

While You Were Sleeping CUSHING AUDITORIUM FRIDAY 8 PM & 10:30 PM

9TH ANNIVERSARY COMEDY NIGHT SATURDAY 8 PM
ROYALE WATKINS GREEN BANES WASHINGTON HALL

ROCK FEST IV FEATURING SABOR LATINO EMILY TALK BOX GEORGE AND THE FREEKS FRIDAY 8 PM

FIELD HOUSE MART SATURDAY
Beasts of the East
St. John's, Rutgers make conference national power
BY NEIL ZENDER
Sports Writer

The men's soccer team, 12-10-2 last season, was ranked third in the Big East in a poll by conference coaches. The Irish tied with Georgetown and were behind St. John's and Rutgers. However, if Notre Dame is going to fulfill the expectations of Coach Mike Berticelli's peers, they have a lot of hurdles to clear.

The Irish are facing increased competition and a brutal travel schedule to boot as they enter the Big East. Still, Berticelli is quite happy to join the conference.

"From a soccer perspective it's a great conference," he said. "The Big East, the Big 10 and the ACC are the better soccer conferences."

Notre Dame's Big East membership will also strengthen recruiting beyond its Midwest stronghold.

"The conference gives us exposure in the East. It's better to have Big Ten, Rutgers and Syracuse on your schedule than small schools people don't recognize."

(By Neil Zender, page 17)

Tight race for role of blocker
BY MEGAN McGRATH
Sports Writer

A quick glance at the Notre Dame football depth chart reveals what could be a battle for supremacy at the tight end position.

Could be a battle, save for the fact that the two men contesting for playing time, seniors Pete Chryplewicz and Leon Wallace, refuse to declare war.

There is no competition, says Chryplewicz. "We're like brothers out there: we're each other's main support." Wallace concurs, saying, "We've become closer than in the past because we're doing the same job and sharing the same experiences."

Tight ends coach Bob Chmiel believes the seniors also share similar skills that makes playing a front-runner difficult. "Pete and Leon are both great athletes with tremendous ability," Chmiel says. "They're both strong, fast and very versatile."

(Photograph of Leon Wallace above)

(Note: All assignments are as of press time.)

(By Megan McGrath, page 15)