Pope calls for equality, yet still denies ordination

CASTELGANDOLFO, Italy

Women deserve equality in the Roman Catholic Church, although they still can’t be priests, Pope John Paul II said Sunday.

The pope’s remarks were his last public comments on the role of women before the Fourth U.N. World Conference on Women, which begins Monday in Beijing.

The pope has spent months trying to portray the Vatican as a champion of women’s rights. A Vatican to be destroyed, by no means an atheist law professor Mary Ann Glendon, will seek a conference statement denouncing abortion and sterilization as violence against women.

"We can appeal today to the entire ecclesiastical community...to favor in every way, in its entire being, feminine participation," the pope told a crowd at his summer residence outside Rome.

The pontiff urged "concrete gestures" by the church to include women, citing changes over the past decades like allowing lay women to participate in Mass and assuming roles in diocesan and Vatican offices.

"This is the path to follow with courage," he said.

But the pontiff made clear there was no room in the church for female priests. A papal document last year says only male priests are possible because Christ selected only men as apostles.

First Lady supports conference

Right-wing says women’s forum too radical

By TERENCE HUNT

HONOLULU

Hillary Rodham Clinton defended an international women’s conference in China, saying conservative critics were unfairly portraying it as a gathering of "radicals and atheists bent on destroying our families.

"The composition of our delegation refutes that charge," the first lady said Sunday in her weekly newspaper column. "It is a broad-based, family-oriented group committed to the mainstream agenda of the conference."

Conservatives have portrayed the conference as a radical, anti-family event that will endorse liberal stands on issues such as abortion. Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., seeking the GOP presidential nomination, has deemed it "misguided" and a "genuine waste of the taxpayers’ money."

Mrs. Clinton issued her defense as she prepared to fly to Beijing to address the conferenee Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the White House sternly rebuked China for its harassment of delegates to a parallel meeting of women’s advocacy groups. "We very much regret the restrictions on free expressions and association which have been occurring in Beijing," said White House press secretary Mike McCurry. "We believe those are wrong and they are counterproductive to the work of a very important international conference."

McCurry said it was the responsibility of the United Nations, the sponsor of the women’s conference, and China to clear up the problem.

"We’ve been making clear to Chinese officials for some time that there should not be limits on freedom of expression and association during the course of the international conference," McCurry said. "Women have complained of Chinese security guards shadowing and photographing delegates, harassing Tibetan and human rights campaigners, confiscating video tapes and breaking up meetings.

McCurry said U.S. officials have been talking to the Chinese and U.N. officials about the problems. "And the first lady, especially, hopes that those matters will be cleared up prior to her arrival."

McCurry has said that the first lady would not directly challenge China about its human rights abuses because there are other countries at the conference with a record just as bad — if not worse.

"The first lady is expected to argue on women’s behalf for adequate health care, political rights and economic opportunities."

"It saddens me that a historic event like this is being misconstrued by a small but vocal band of critics trying to spread the notion that the U.N. gathering is really the work of radicals and atheists bent on destroying our families," Mrs. Clinton said in her newspaper column.
Quality, not quantity but... Maybe I'm just caught in that Grillfle Dance Medicine Men, still searching for new people to sign my T-shirt. I still want to introduce myself to everyone by name, hometown, and major. I still want to make friends and keep the old, as that old Brownie Troup song goes.

The dining hall depresses me. Every day, twice a day, I take a seat in the hallowed halls of North Dining Hall with my vegetarian chilli con carne and look around me. I can count on one hand the kids I know, but this is understandable as a large portion of seniors move off campus every year.

But when I enter Senior Bar, or any other bar around here, I feel like a wall flower. I make the rounds. I mingle. But I feel like an alien, alone, somewhere where, but I've never seen half of them during my entire Notre Dame career. Did some earthy-potential bouncer, some truckload of alien transfer students onto South Bend while I wasn't looking. I'm 21 and have a hard time getting past the bouncer, the Linebacker. (2 times photo, my Video Watch card and my AAA membership and he still isn't convinced I am me. Talk about the wrong place twice a day, I take a seat in the hallowed Stoop Smoker?

Men love big, cuddly women. Tony Fratus recalls the first time he walked into The Whole-Bodied Club. "It was like, "Wow," I couldn't believe my eyes," said Fratus, a 43-year-old heavy equipment operator. "Everywhere I looked, big women. I almost snapped my neck." Fratus was just one of many men who gathered for an invasion of the Weekender's personal section: "ATTENTION: Big Beautiful Gals and the men who prefer them!" The Whole-Bodied club promotes dances and social events for women who are ... Hefty? Plus-sized? Rubenesque? "You can say fat, because that's what we are," Fratus said. "Just so you know, it's just not all we are. We're people too, and as a lot of men already know, we can do the lot of fun to be with." He started the club three years ago. Tired of sitting alone at bars, or being refused dances at clubs, she was sure there were men out there who preferred women who are more overweight.

Drug smokers are sainly. With strumming guitars and wheedling accords, the musicians jam into the blue, weather-beaten chapel to serenade the bust of Jesus Malverde — patron saint of drug dealers. "Jesus Malverde, angel of the poor, the poor, I come to you a great big favor," the musicians wail, their lament rising before the plaster molded image of the man dressed in a white shirt and black cape. The statue's cowboy shirt is painted white, his scarf, eyes, hair black. One young man in T-shirt, tight jeans and reptile skin cowboy boots bows before the bust, then crosses himself after reciting his "manto" — Spanish for "vow." Malverde, a common hanged in 1999, was not himself a drug trafficker. But some of Mexico's most powerful smokers have joined locals in recent years in paying homage at his shrine just around the corner from the state's main Catholic church.

Here she comes, Miss America. Johnny Johnson Jr. didn't even stand a chance before taking a 50-foot dive off a bridge to save his fiancee's dog. "I was like your typical American hero," said Johnson, member of the Coast Guard, setting off after his Chihuahua, who had fallen from a bridge. "I'm into survival training and I thought just be a sign of how close my particular group of friends is." Johnson was rescued by the Coast Guard and that was the last he heard of his dog. "I'm still in recovery in my senoritas. I want to meet everyone. I plan to come out of retirement and run again. I'm just be a sign of how close my particular group of friends is.

Powell rejected appointments

WASHINGTON In his new book, Retired Gen. Colin Powell says he turned down a chance to become director of the CIA when President-elect Bush offered him the job in 1988, according to Newsweek. He said he turned down a chance to be Clinton's secretary of state, said the Sept. 11 issue of Newsweek, which obtained a copy of the 613-page autobiography "My American Journey."

White House press secretary Mike McCurry, traveling with Clinton in Hawaii, did not dispute Powell's assertions. "I think you know that the president cast a wide net as he was searching for a running mate," McCurry said. "It is no secret that President Clinton has very high regard for Gen. Powell, as do many Americans."

He said Clinton settled on Al Gore and looks forward to being reelected with him. "All the rest is ancient history," McCurry said.

As for the status of Secretary of State Warren Christopher, McCurry said the secretary and the president talked at the beginning of 1995 about what Christopher should do, and eventually decided that he should remain on the job.

McCurry said that as Christopher weighed his future, it was "prudent . . . that the president might have inquired to several people about their interest in that position."

"Obviously, these are very sensitive personal decisions and apparently Gen. Powell has felt free to write about that," the press secretary said. "That's his right, as an American."

The book, scheduled to arrive in book stores next week, doesn't explicitly state Powell's political ambitions. But if he wants a top job at the White House, he may succeed by resisting the temptation to run as an independent and winning a Republican nomination as a presidential or vice presidential candidate, according to a poll in the same magazine.

In a three-way race against GOP Sen. Bob Dole and President Clinton, Powell finished last with 21 percent of registered voters who participated in a telephone survey. Clinton won support from 36 percent, and Dole got 33 percent, Newsweek said.

But as the Republican candidate, Powell troubled Clinton as by as many as 10 percentage points. As a GOP vice presidential candidate, Powell would boost Dole to victory, beating a Clinton-Gore ticket 51 percent to 44 percent.

Financial support needed to bring bears to Indiana

GARY, Ind. A coalition of northwest Indiana businessmen trying to convince the Chicago Bears to build a $280 million stadium in Lake County says the proposal will require financial assistance from the state. But some legislators say that idea will be controversial. Lt. Gov. Frank O'Bannon said the Department of Commerce has money available for training and infrastructure depending on "investments and creation of jobs, but nothing for construction purposes." O'Bannon said he has spoken with Gary L. Neese, chairman of NIPSCO Industries Inc. and a member of the coalition.

"There is nothing specific at this time," O'Bannon said Friday about a financial plan, adding that state bonding authority would need legislative approval.

Northwest Indiana Forum Inc. President Thomas M. McDermott said during the Bears would take a combination of state and local taxes or financial incentives. That could mean a county income tax and sales tax.

State Rep. Chester Dobis, D-Merrillville, said a request for a major stadium in Indiana was contingent on a financial plan, with the proceeds to help build the Bears in," Dobis said, northeastern Indiana. O'Bannon said the United Airports would need legislative approval. Sen. Robert D. Gorton, R-Columbus, said the state allowed a Marion County food and beverage tax to help build the RCA Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis. schools nationwide, but the method usually works: 27% of its graduates eventually earn doctorates, compared to the national average of under 10%.

At the beginning of each semester at the school, students describe the courses, reading, and research they plan to pursue by drafting academic contracts, and they are expected to complete those obligations with minimal prompting from the faculty. "(The professors) encourage students to figure out what they want to get out of class," Kelcey Burns, a nineteen-year-old psychology major, told Money. Instead of receiving grades, students at New College are issued written evaluations from their professors, and three independent study projects are required during the three-week mini-session in January.

Money compared the 1,049 schools across the country by collecting data on each school in 16 educational categories, including entrance exam results, high school grade point average and class rank, faculty and library resources, and percentage of students who continue their studies beyond graduation. These factors were then compared to the overall fees charged by each institution to determine the value of each school.

Bomb sparks worries of terror wave

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS

PARIS

A homemade bomb hidden in a pressure cooker caused an explosion in an outdoor market Sunday, slightly injuring four people, setting several food stalls ablaze and sparking worries that a new terrorist wave had hit Paris.

It was the third bomb attack in as many months in the French capital despite a nationwide security alert.

The explosion came shortly before noon at the market, held on a broad, tree-lined boulevard with a center island where merchants, shoppers and tourists gather every weekend. "I turned around and saw a huge fireball that went into the air," said John Hower, 46, an American businessman. "The stall canopies started to burn, and I, like everybody else, started running."

"Then, when we saw the bomb was not that big, we came back to look at it," said Hower, as the market continued to bustle even after the bombing. "One of the merchants put the fire out with a hose."

The four victims, all women, suffered leg and arm injuries and superficial burns.

Police have tightened security around the country since a bombing in a Paris regional subway train July 25 that killed seven people and injured 84. Another bomb exploded on a street near the Arc de Triomphe on Aug. 17, wounding 17 people, including 11 tourists.

Last weekend, authorities found a bomb planted on a high-speed train track north of Lyon.

Women fight for fairness

By EDITH LEDERER

On the eve of a 181-nation U.N. women's conference that China hoped would boost its prestige, delegates from a parallel meeting of private groups said Sunday it will have a double goal — pushing for equality of the sexes and applauding the official meeting, which begins Monday.

The head of the U.N. meeting said Sunday it will have a double goal — pushing for equality of the sexes by the 21st century and fighting to keep social gains made in the 20th.

"We must struggle . . . to come out with a document for the advancement of women," said secretary-general Gertrude Mongella. "We must watch out . . . for conservative or backward-looking elements which want to keep the woman in a place where she has always been.

Mongella called on delegates to oppose attempts to roll back previous conference agreements on human rights, abortion and contraception.

BEIJING

On the eve of a 181-nation U.N. women's conference that China hoped would boost its prestige, delegates from a parallel meeting of private groups on Sunday staged their biggest day of protests yet.

The NGO Forum dropped its threat to send its 23,000 delegates home, even though China refused to loosen security that the women said was intended to harass and intimidate them.

Complaints that China is trying to muzzle the activists and limit their contact with delegates to the U.N. Fourth World Conference on Women have overshadowed the official meeting, which begins Monday.

Tibetan independence activists said one of their members was shoved and chased from a meeting Sunday when she tried to hand out leaflets. Security guards also stopped a march by about 150 anti-nuclear activists.

The Chinese did not intercede with Kuwaiti women demanding that Iraq free Persian Gulf War prisoners or Iraqis protesting the U.N. embargo. There also were protests by Muslim women whose use of a movie theater was preempted by and women from South Asia shunting "Peace now!"

CLEVELAND

Strangers faced each other and danced.

Revelers exchanged warm beers and high-fives, marveling at what was happening onstage at Cleveland Stadium and in the city.

The music didn't die until the wee hours Sunday as more than two dozen acts celebrated the opening of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum.

"I feel like I was part of history," said Sherry Bedlac, who were earrings fashioned out of 45 rpm records.

"Aretha Franklin, Johnny Cash — it was all great stuff. I moved here from New York and now all my friends back there are now envious of me.

Highlights included Bruce Springsteen playing with Chuck Berry, Jerry Lee Lewis and Bob Dylan. Springsteen also teamed up with the E Street Band.

Creedence Clearwater Revival founder John Fogerty did "Fortunate Son," and "Born on the Bayou," while John Mellencamp helped "Ring of Fire," and Lou Reed and Soul Asylum harmonized on "Sweet Jane."

Slash, whose role as lead guitarist in the hard rock band Guns N' Roses often obscures his gift for blues, paired with Roe Stagg on "Red House," a slow grind dedicated to Jimi Hendrix.

Other performers at the nearly seven-hour show included Sheryl Crow, the Kinks, Bruce Hornsby, George Clinton and the P-Funk All Stars, Heart, Robbie Robertson, James Brown and Jackson Brown.

The crowd of 57,000 finally filed from the stadium at about 2:30 a.m. to the fans' own choruses of "Rock 'n' Roll!"

The concert capped two busy days of festivities, including Friday's ribbon cutting and Saturday's opening to the public.

I AM NOT A POTTED PLANT

Struggling through life in the London Program

When I learned that I'd have the opportunity to continue sharing my vast opaqueness and keep insights into the human condition with you, my dear schoolmates, all the way from London, I figured I'd better get out and do something other than the usual ND routine this semester. But of course, in addition to the above desires to travel and pad my resume, I also had several sub-motives in making this trip. Foremost among these was the desire to get out of South Bend on just about any pretense; I think that I would have strongly considered a foreign study program in Beirut or Baghdad were they the only options. A desire to live in abject poverty, with a meal allowance of only £40 every two weeks, in one of the most expensive cities in the world was also a definite factor.

Having established my rationale for being in London, I thought I'd share a few first impressions of this city. First of all, it just doesn't seem as that, well, foreign. Once you get past the funny accents, backwards traffic patterns, room temperature beer, occasional ancient building and unarmed police, its easy to forget that you're in a foreign country.

American consumer products and recycled American popular culture are everywhere (e.g. there's a 7-11 down the block and X-Files are the highest rated show on the BBC). Still, I know the realization that I'm not in America is going to hit me very suddenly one day when I step out into the street, look the wrong way and get plowed by a double-decker bus.

In terms of school, it often seems more like I've transferred to a tiny urban college, rather than that engaged in a foreign study program. Aside from that professor's accent— if any— and possibly sub-decent manner, you'd be hard-pressed to tell you're not in some sub-basement at Notre Dame.

Entertainment is, obviously, a wee bit easier to find in London than in South Bend. On any given night options ranging from going to a West End show or a symphony, to pub-hopping or clubbing are open to this intrepid band of scholastic adventurers.

The abundance of "going out" type of entertainment choices is offset by the lack of "staying in" options. Although our flats have TVs there's just not much to watch, just four channels of PBS-like programs and/or reruns of American shows (they had a show called "The Secret Life of Plants" on during prime time the other night). What's more, the Brits have about the worst taste in sports of any people on Earth. Last week we endured a five day, six hour per day, every moment televised cricket match which (get this) ended in a draw— 30 hours of play and no one won!!

Well that's about it from this side of the Atlantic. By the way, if you're one of my friends who has not yet received a letter or post card from me I want you to do something, close your eyes, take a deep breath, and reread the above column pretending its a letter from me to you... there, now won't you feel guilty if you don't write me back?

Northwestern seizes opportunity, outplays ninth-ranked Irish

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Editor

Coaches, players and fans alike had a list of high expectations for the 1995 Notre Dame football team.

Having to make a dramatic, last-minute comeback against Northwestern was not on the list.

Losing to the Wildcats was not even fathomed.

But, in the clash of the overachievers and the team that left its heart in the locker room, Northwestern handed Notre Dame a 17-15 loss in front of a sellout crowd at Notre Dame Stadium Saturday. They dropped to 25th in the Associated Press poll.

It was Notre Dame's first season-opening loss since Lou Holtz's first year as head coach in 1986.

It was the Wildcats' first victory over the Irish since Ara Parseghian was Northwestern's coach in 1962.

But it wasn't until Notre Dame's final timeout and Northwestern's third-and-seven conversion with a minute left to play that the game's outcome was realized.

"I felt we were going to win the game until they got that last first down," said Irish quarterback Ron Powlus, who finished the day 17-for-26 for 175 yards.

"I just knew if we got the ball back, we were going to go down and score."

The game's ending kind of sneaked up on the Irish. When Darnell Autry scampered for 26...
Wildcats confident in shocking win

"If people tell you dreams don't come true, tell them about Rudy," the movie previewing Notre Dame. The place where dreams are fulfilled and miracles happen.

Originally these were supposed to be for Notre Dame students, now it seems that other schools are getting into the act. First came Boston College, then BYU and now Northwestern. Has the Irish luck turned evil. Have we insulted the almighty Celtic gods so that the miracles go against us. Or is it something more practical.

"The mental part of football is such a huge aspect," senior Ryan Leahy said after Saturday's game. "And that's probably the part we're lacking right now. I have all the confidence in the world in our team. It's just a matter of our teammates getting the same confidence in themselves."

Northwestern definitely did not lack confidence in themselves. As the door mat of the Big Ten for the past two years, they had all the reasons to doubt their abilities. This season they don't.

"We're starting to think like winners now," Northwestern quarterback Steve Schnur explained after the victory. "And today only re-enforced that."

Wildcat coach Gary Barnett concurred.

"We so believed we would win this game that we had a very loose attitude in fall camp. When we left the hotel today, I told them to hold their Steves and I didn't want to be carried off the field. Just watching the game, one could see the different levels of confidence and concentration."

The Wildcats played mistake free. Schnur threw no interceptions and looked like the Heisman quarterback candidate of the game. The Irish were the exact opposite. While Ron Powlus didn't throw an interception he looked as frazzled as he did last season. He tangled feet with the offensive line and fell on the two-point conversion, and couldn't seem to take his eyes off wideout Derrick Mayes all game.

And on the fifth play of the first series, couldn't connect on a handoff to running back Randy Kinder which led to a fumble. Talent didn't beat the Irish, lack of concentration and confidence.

"I think (the fumble) really hurt the team mentally," Powlus commented. "I don't think we recovered from that."

That became apparent when the Irish took a time out directly after the Wildcats at the end of the first quarter.

"We lined up in the wrong formation," Powlus explained. "By the time we got guys switched, we ran out of time. But it is still early in the season, and there is plenty of time to get back in the hunt."

"We've got a long season ahead of us," Mayes explained. "There is no rule to keep our heads down. You just get to bounce back and carry the load."

"Yes, but can the Irish recapture an arrogance, or at least a confidence, that will make them winners again?"

"We lost our first game," Powlus said. "Now we have to win ten in a row. I don't think anyone is going to say 'well, OK, maybe we'll be 8-3 this year.' No body is going to say that. We're going to win ten in a row."

Well, it's a start anyway.

Irish

yards down the left sideline, the Wildcats had the first down they needed. All they had to do after that was run out the clock.

"I told the players when we boarded the bus that I didn't want to be carried off the field when we won."

Northwestern coach Gary Barnett said, "I wanted them to act like we had done this before."

But upset victories when you're 28-point underdogs on the road don't happen all that often.

"We believed that we were going to win this game when we started fall camp," Barnett said. "It's just one of those things when you have a bunch of guys that believe in each other and are really tight."

Those were the same intangibles that the Irish were supposed to pick up at Culver Military Academy. Instead, they came back doubtful in their own and their teammates' abilities.

"The mental game is a big part of football," offensive guard Ryan Leahy said.

"That's probably what we're lacking in right now."

The mental game was lost in the first quarter. On Notre Dame's first drive, Running back Jack McDonald dropped a wideout and without a defender in the same area could have taken it upfield. Wildcat linebacker Danny Sutter jumped on the gift.

"I just think (that the fumble) really hurt us mentally," Powlus continued. "I don't think we ever really recovered from that."

The Irish spiral continued downward from there. The Wildcats took over at midfield and put up 26 points before half the first quarter. The second half passed for 175 yards.

"For the first time since last year that if we just don't give up the big play, if we just go one-on-one and check where they are, we would have a chance to win," Barnett said. "But we'll never win the game if we give up the big plays."

Instead, the Wildcats made the big plays, including Schnur's second touchdown pass, a 26-yard strike to D'Wayne Bates in the third quarter. And, defensively, they recorded four sacks and two fumbles.

"We've never had that consistency," Holtz said. "I think Northwestern did a good job on third downs, and we did not."

Notre Dame was 3-of-13 on third down conversions, and 0-for-2 on fourth downs. The second fourth down failure came with less than four minutes left on the game. Minnesota had the ball 44-yard line. Randy Kinder could not get two yards up the middle, and ball was turned over on downs.

"We've got to win the big games," Mayes said. "We've got to win the big games."

That crucial call could have been avoided had the two-point attempt been converted on Notre Dame's final score. But, Powlus fell trying to throw to Derrick Mayes, and the play was ruled dead.

Mayes finished the day with eight catches for 94 yards. His performance was overshadowed by that of Autry, who gained 163 yards on 33 carries for the Wildcats.

When asked why they lost, many players scratched their heads in amazement. But in an attempt to halt what happened in 1994, a firm resolution was made by the team.

"We just have to go back and figure this one out and correct it," Leahy said.

"This team will learn how to win," Powlus added. "There's no one here who is going to say, 'Maybe we'll go 8-3.' We just have to win ten in a row."

Quarterback B-
Ron Powlus completed 17-of-26 passes for 175 yards. But he didn't do anything to put the team over the hump. He himself said he could have done more.

Running Backs C-
Both Randy Kinder and Robert Farner scored, but they also fumbled. Lou Holtz hates people who fumble. But since they both did it, they both got to play more. Too bad for Irish faithful.

Receivers C-
Derrick Mayes is the man. But he can't be the only man. Charlie Stafford is no good as a decoy, because he hasn't done anything to draw any notice.

Offensive Line C-
Powlus was sacked four times. Come on, Powlus was sacked four times by Northwestern. It's not like Mike Manum makes plays for the Wildcats or anything.

Defensive Line D-
First of all, how many yards did Darnell Autry gain? (165). Second of all, who is this guy? Enough said.

Safety LaRon Moore stays in bewilderment, trying to figure out what happened.

Defense stomped in first half, strides made late

Hitting starts in second half, but can't make up for being hit in first

Defense is the name of the game. It will either win or lose the game for you. Irish head coach Lou Holtz knows this, so he brought in Bob Davie to install his "Wrecking Crew" defense. Yet entering the season, the defense was one of the main concerns for Notre Dame. It still is. But it showed some hope on Saturday.

The Irish are inexperienced, thin in depth and thin in stature. The defensive front consists of a 245 pound tackle and a 222 pound rush end. The linebackers consisted of one experienced starter who had knee and back surgeries and a small yet quick sophomore making his first collegiate start. The line backers were the strength of the team, but they needed to help cover weaknesses in the other two areas along with their own duties.

In the beginning the defense was a mess. There was a lack of intensity, and when Darnell Autry wasn't on the field, the Irish were still within the game. There was a lack of intensity, and when Darnell Autry wasn't available, the defense was one of the main concerns for Notre Dame. The defensive front consists of a 245 pound tackle and a 222 pound rush end. The linebackers consisted of one experienced starter who had knee and back surgeries and a small yet quick sophomore making his first collegiate start. The line backers were the strength of the team, but they needed to help cover weaknesses in the other two areas along with their own duties.

The biggest surprise on the line was sophomore tackle Greg Bennett who seemed to be always near the ball and was second on the team with seven tackles. The Wildcats also seemed to get most of their yardage when they ran away from him. Freshman Kory Minor started his first collegiate game and although played well early, and of his three tackles, two were for losses.

Middle linebacker Bryan Cobbs picked the Irish with nine tackles, but, in the whole, the linebackers were disappointing. Brian Magee once again showed he was one of the best tacklers and defensive backs on the team. He ended with six tackles and had one of the most impressive hits in the game as he drilled Brian Musso on a reception over the middle.

Towards the end of the third quarter, linebacker Bert Berry brought back some intensity with a tremendous hit on Wildcat punt returner Brian Musso. Berry's special play became contagious and the Irish came to life. They were able to shut down Autry and while they gave up some long passes they made the receivers pay.

It was then that Magee drove through Musso and caused a fumble that the Cats couldn't recover in the end it wasn't enough.

"As a whole I think we have to step it up a little," nose tackle Paul Grasmann said after the game.

realized the myth was quite short. Last year's Northwestern media guide pro claimed "Expect victory," certainly a bit deluded after Saturday's game, the same phrase was echoed by numerous of the Wildcat players after the game.

In fact, in his pregame address coach Gary Barnett asked his guys to just sit in the field after the win. Expecting victory in Notre Dame Stadium.

Perhaps the most conspicuous, except for the result. The Notre Dame tradition of clutching victory from the jaws of defeat under the arches of Touchdown Jesus scared the Wildcats about as much as the possibility of Zeus hurling lightning bolts from the heavens.

"History is history, that's all," stated line-backer Matt Fitzgerald. "It's something you read about in books."

"If you get caught up in (the tradition), you lose sight of what you're trying to do," added quarterback Steve Schnur, whose nose displaced the Irish all afternoon.

What the Wildcats were trying to do was win a football game. In the old days the legends would have ocupied the opponent more than the game plan.

What Northwestern realized was that to be effective, spirit must be backed by substance.

"When you execute better on (offense, defense, and special teams), you win football games regardless of the stature of the program or where you are from," said Wildcat head coach Gary Barnett.

"We came in on a business trip preparing for war," echoed Fitzgerald.

Business. War. One concrete world. Rising towards an established program is easily quantifiable.

The descent towards mediocrity is tougher to express. Senior Ryan Leahy noted that the impact of the loss was still "too abstract."

Game Notes

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Editor

There wasn’t much doubt as to where the Irish were looking when they were on offense. Derrick Mayes caught eight passes for 94 yards. The rest of the team caught nine passes for 81 yards. Could Ron Powlus have been looking for Mayes a bit too often?

"I think I might be forcing the ball to Derrick a little too much," Irish coach Lou Holtz said. "I think it’s more me than anybody else." Emmett Mosley was the only other receiver to catch a pass. Charlie Stafford was a decoy. But Mayes was double- and triple-teamed throughout the game.

"They don’t give us much cushion over to the flanker side, there’s no doubt," Holtz said. Is it time to look at the other guys?

"I’m not going to criticize Coach Holtz’s play calling," Powlus. "You have to do what you have to do in a situation. "And Derrick is the man.”

Slight Mishap: Offensive tackle Chris Clevenger left the locker room with a cast on his left hand Saturday. He tore ligaments in his left hand Saturday. He tore ligaments in his left hand Saturday. but will be able to play with the cast next week.

Fresh legs, fresh worries: Holtz noted Kevin Kopka’s missed extra point attempts as one of the crucial plays of the game.

"I thought that the PAT that we missed really hurt," the Irish coach said. "The snap was a little bit low, he rushed it a little bit too much and the timing was off.

"I thought overall our kicking game was pretty good, except for the PAT. It’s like, ‘Other than the assassination, how was the play Mrs. Lincoln?’” Hunter Smith punted six balls for a 49.3 yard average. Scott Palmbe shanked one punt for 16 yards.

Series End: When asked if he wished the series between Notre Dame and Northwestern wouldn’t end this year, Wildcat coach Gary Barnett answered, "I’d just assume it was over. But, you never know, we might see them in a bowl game somewhere."

Everyone laughed. Motivational Techniques: Northwestern linebacker Pat Fitzgerald didn’t like a television show he saw recently. "We watched a Coach Holtz show last week, and on it they asked Coach Barnett when he starts preparing for Notre Dame. We said, ‘Right away,’” Fitzgerald said. "Then they asked Coach Holtz when he starts preparing for Northwestern, he said, ‘We don’t have that luxury. We don’t get to think about our opponents like that because we play such good opponents.’"

“Well, I guess that sums it up.”

The Dilemma: Fitzgerald was mildly recruited by Notre Dame. "I’m from the south side of Chicago, so I’m a huge Notre Dame fan,” the linebacker said. "Just look at my name.

"The reason I went to Northwestern, though, was to beat Notre Dame. ‘The guys that were close to me said, ‘Would you rather play for Notre Dame or would you rather beat Notre Dame?’”

Fitzgerald wore the number 81 in high school because of Tim Brown. "I guess he can still be my favorite player even though we won,” he said.

While it is probably safe to say that anyone who passes through Notre Dame in their thorough journey through life remembers the Dome and the Word of Life, there are a select few each year that will count the hills of Toledo and the Spanish countryside among their Irish memories. For these students who find the courage to leave their small South Bend for the winter, the experiences rank among the most beautiful and pronounced like a long "hay," as in "baya," an ancient city in the center of Spain dating back to before the birth of Christ. With a population of just under 60,000, it is a rather small city, but one with an immense tradition and history—a history which通知书's its declaration as a national landmark. Toledo has been a part of the seven-hundred-year Moorish control of Spain as well as the center of the infamous Inquisition. It was also the home of the painter El Greco; the majority of his work is displayed in different venues throughout the city.

Notre Dame's program is part of the Integrated Program in Spanish Language, Latin American and European Studies, which as the name suggests, encourages such students to exchange as means of a cultural educational program. It is a year-long program with a calendar that is set for the winter. Classes begin in early September and end in mid-May. Among the class requirements is one course in the Spanish language or Spanish or Latin American literature. Further promoting the goals of the program:

Although all the classes are taught in Spanish by Spanish and Latin American professors, there is the opportunity for students of all levels to learn and enhance their knowledge of Spanish and the language. "The program is geared towards Americans with varied backgrounds in Spanish," said James Crowe, who spent his sophomore year in Toledo. "The classes is accommodate everyone, enabling them to learn a lot." Summer classes are required to live in the San Juan de la Penenitenza Residency for their first semester but have the opportunity in the spring to live with a local family. "I learned so much more while living with a family," said Sarah Crowe. I was lucky to have such a great one and they accepted me as well."

The program also organizes trips throughout Spain in order to expose students to the culture. Several day trips are planned to such cities as Madrid, with its several museums and the seat of the Spanish government, and another old city which features Roman architecture. Classes are held Monday through Thursday, leaving Friday open for those who wish to explore more. A few longer ones are also on the schedule, such as a visit to the northern province of Galicia and south to the cities of Cordoba and Granada. These trips highlight the best of Spain and its storied history, from the Pyrenees of the fantastical Don Quixote to the glory of Spain and the light of her cities.

"Walking into Toledo is like moving to another city," said Andrew Crowe. "I was lucky to have such a great one and they accepted me as well." The program allows students to get a feel for life in Spain and experience the differences between the way of life and the one we fondly call the "American way." 49ers hold on against Saints

By DAVE GOLDBERG

NEW ORLEANS

Are the San Francisco 49ers that good, or are they the NFL champions as close to disaster as they looked in beating New Orleans 24-22 on Sunday? A case could be made for either as the 49ers opened defense of their Super Bowl title with more mistakes than they usually make in a full-season.

Steve Young, who missed the end of the first half with a neck sprain, threw for 260 yards and two touchdowns, one a 26-yard pass from Jackie Harris to put the Bucs up by eight.

The Eagles were driving toward what would have been the go-ahead score when Watters fumbled at the Tampa Bay 33 late in the third quarter. Kenneth Gantt scooped up the bobble and returned it to the Buccaneers' 46. Eight plays later, Dilfer found Harris to put the Eagles up by eight.

After gaining only 4 yards on their first drive, the Bucs got 16 times that on the first play of their second possession, a 64-yard touchdown reception by Copeland.

It was definitely the key play of the match," said May. "It was a great way to end the game, and it gave us a lot of confidence heading into the fourth game."

The Irish had trouble shaking off the cobwebs early against Northwestern on Friday night, but they rallied to win going away against a pumped up Western Michigan.

May was brilliant in her first game playing at setter, contributing a game-high 14 assists, while Harris added 24 kills and nine digs in the victory.

"It was definitely a great way to start out the season," said May. "Winning big right from the first night was exactly what we wanted to come out and do."

It appears apparent Saturday that the Irish will be doing a lot more of it this season.

Notre Dame pounds Friars, Red Storm

McCarthy, Gerardo lead Irish to decisive victories over Big East

By JOE VILLINSKI
Assistant Sports Editor

When the women's soccer game concluded on Sunday following the second Irish demolition of a Big East opponent during the weekend, a conspicuous blank spot on the Alumni Field scoreboard told the whole story. Even the youngest Irish fan who gathered around their favorite player after the game for an autograph understood its importance.

This blank spot, designated S.O.G., on the scoreboard, meant that St. John's had managed not one shot on goal during Notre Dame's 9-0 shutout.

Irish netminder Jen Renola might have regretted not bringing a few books with her to get some work done as the Red Storm posed no threat as a small rain cloud during the rout.

Eager to show that they are every bit as good as last year's record setting squad, the Notre Dame women's soccer team methodically dismantled No.9 St. John's as she headed one in off a feed from midfielder Stacia Mastees, making the score 2-0.

"We were all anxious to play this weekend," said McCarthy who also scored two goals Saturday against Providence. "It felt good to be back.

"The philosophy remained effective as St. John's could not cross midfield all day. When they did, any threat was put down immediately by the attacking Irish defense.

"We train very hard and our ability was much better than theirs," senior Hagen Coyne said. This superior ability shown through in the opening minutes as Coyne fired a shot off the crossbar and forward Rosella Guerrero was there to put in the rebound for the opening score.

"I'm excited because it feels great to play again," Guerrero commented.

Forward Michelle McCarthy scored the first of her three goals against St. John's as she headed one in off a feed from midfielder Stacia Mastees, making the score 2-0.

"We were all anxious to play this weekend," said McCarthy who also scored two goals Saturday against Providence. "It felt good to be back.

"After the third goal we lost our intensity and focus," Petrucci said. "Its hard to keep focused when you know the game is won already. During halftime we wanted to regain that intensity.

"The second half was a great way to start the season."

Center for Social Concerns

WELCOME!

I hope you enjoy reviewing the opportunities outlined in these pages. The experiential and service learning involvements have been extremely valuable for students over many years. All are in many different careers, continuing to integrate their ND and CSC experiences as they work for a more just and humane world.

Please explore the challenges open to you, and others. Stop in at the Center or give us a call!

MISSION STATEMENT OF THE CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS

The Center for Social Concerns provides educational experiences in social concerns inspired by Gospel values and Catholic social teachings. Central to this process is enhancing the spiritual and intellectual awareness of students, faculty, staff, and alumni about today's complex social realities, calling us all to service and action for a more just and humane world.

Service Learning Coordinators What Serving and Learning Join Hands

As you can see from the microcosm of the Center for Social Concerns, it is dedicated to providing opportunities for students, as well as others, to be of service to the community and to learn as they serve. We have discovered that both of these goals can be better reached if there is cooperation with people and agencies in the community who are working for positive change. One thing that happens when students begin to work in the community to address the needs of the people they meet is that they become acquainted with people who have dedicated their lives to serving their communities. These new friends become role models and teachers to our students.

As I think of people who have provided that kind of example, I think of Sr. Ethel Kennedy. Sr. Ethel is a woman who has dedicated her life to serving others. She came to South Bend five years ago to help start a program to serve people with AIDS and their families. She, along with a growing team of dedicated folks, has developed a program called AIDS Ministries/AIDSThis program serves people who have AIDS and educates the community about the disease and how to prevent it. While Sr. Ethel may be old enough to retire, she sees so much more to do that she doesn’t want to slow down. Last year she had knee replacement surgery. But that only served to make her more mobile and active. Sr. Ethel is a teacher and a shining example to the Notre Dame students who have become involved in serving people with AIDS in South Bend.

The Center for Social Concerns wants to introduce more and more students to people like Ethel. We want to make it possible for students to learn and serve. In order to do this we have begun a new program that places “Service Learning Coordinators” in community service agencies in South Bend. These coordinators are key people who introduce students to people and programs in the South Bend community that are making a difference. We currently have five Service Learning Coordinators in the South Bend community. They are located at Logan Center, the South Bend Center for the Homeless, La Casa de Amistad, the Northeast Neighborhood Organization and The St. Crispin School. Please explore the challenges open to you, and others.

COMPUTER PROGRAM ACCESS TO DIRECTORY OF CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS SERVICE PROGRAMS
There is a complete hypertext directory of service groups and community agencies on the Notre Dame computer network. The service projects are arranged according to type of service. It is menu driven so that you can select programs that are interesting to you. Anyone can access this by following these directions:

On all Macintosh computers in the computer clusters there is an icon in the upper right hand corner labeled CMS A. Open that icon. Open the file called Coursesware. Open the file called Other. Select the file labeled The Center for Social Concerns. When you then open the file called A Guide to CSC Programs, you will receive a message that the programs are written in support color. Just click on OK and proceed with the interactive programs. Information about various programs at the Center for Social Concerns is available on this program. Nurture Life Through Service

The Center for Social Concerns demands service and social action from students, faculty, and staff. Our activities focus on the needs of our local community and our world as a vital part of being well educated. We know that service experiences can create lasting impressions. We are committed to making it possible for students to make the most of these experiences. The “Service Learning Coordinators” are just one way that we put you in touch with people like Sr. Ethel so that one day you may be a teacher as she is.

ACADEMIC COURSES/EXPERIENTIAL SEMINARS

All courses and the experiential and service learning seminars listed on this page are developed and coordinated by Center faculty and staff. They are offered through these academic departments: Theology, American Studies, Gender Studies, Peace Studies, Psychology and Sociology. Information meetings for the courses will be announced. Contact the Center for more details.

THE CHURCH AND SOCIAL ACTION (THEO 365)

(URBAN PLUNGE)

The Plunge is a 48-hour immersion into the kind of life most Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students seldom see. Over 355 students made the Urban Plunge during early January 1995.

The purpose of the Plunge is to experience injustice, apathy and poverty; to increase awareness of people who are working to improve these situations; and to witness and reflect on ways to address Gospel concerns regarding the oppressed. (1 credit, Theor. or Govt.)

APPALACHIA SEMINAR (THEO 361)

Each Fall and Spring break approximately 100 students travel to the Appalachia region of Kentucky and West Virginia. Students spend the week working side by side with the people of the mountains. Through physical labor and person-to-person contacts, students experience the cultural richness of the area and begin to understand and analyze the social forces that influence the lives of the mountain people. (1 credit)

WASHINGTON SEMINAR (THEO 363, GOVT 496)

Approximately 22 students travel each semester break to the nation's capital to explore crucial issues of the day from a variety of perspectives. In Washington, they meet with the decision-makers, members of congress, ambassadors and church leaders. On-campus preparation, on-site experience and follow-up reflection combine to create a unique learning opportunity. (1 credit, Theor. or Govt.)

CULTURAL DIVERSITY SEMINAR (THEO 362, SOC 362)

This seminar explores the rich cultural heritage of Chicago's ethnic neighborhoods and immigrant tradition. The corresponding problems of urban life and racism also are examined during the semester break experience. (1 credit, Theor. or Soc.)

NEW WOMEN/NEW CHURCH (THEO 364, GSC 364)

This seminar is designed to acquaint students (during a week of involvement in Chicago) with the challenges of women in society and the church. This seminar studies gender issues and commitment to community and service. (1 credit, Theor. or Gender Studies)

LEADERSHIP ISSUES SEMINAR (THEO 369)

The Leadership Issues Seminar is designed for students working in a leadership capacity promoting community service or social action. (1 credit)

MIGRANT EXPERIENCES SEMINAR (THEO)

Offers a unique immersion into the lives of migrant farm workers in Florida during the spring break experience. In the fields, live with migrant families, and assist agencies that serve workers. (1 credit, Spring semester)

MEXICO SEMINAR (THEO 366)

Provides an international service opportunity through a two week immersion (during the last two weeks of May) in Oaxaca, Mexico. (1 credit; applications available in Fall)

ENVIRONMENTAL ISSUES SEMINAR (THEO)

Provides opportunities for students to challenge and deepen their understanding of environmental issues through direct experiential involvements. (1 credit, Spring semester)

OTHER SEMINARS include East Africa and Holy Cross Seminar. (1 credit each)

REFLECTIONS ON SERVICE (THEO 360)

(SUMMER SERVICE PROJECTS)

The Summer Service Projects are eight week sessions of community service facilitated by Alumni Clubs all over the country. During the summer of 1995, 168 Notre Dame students took part in this experience. Through physical labor and person-to-person contacts, students experience the cultural richness of the area and begin to understand and analyze the social forces that influence the lives of the mountain people. (1 credit)

THREE CREDIT COURSES BY CSC FACULTY

In addition to the many seminars graded S/C, there are multidisciplinary courses by CSC faculty in various departments:

- Reading and reflection on issues raised by service experiences. Courses include:
  - Don McNeill, C.S.C., Ph.D. and Staff - Theology and Community Service (THEO 273)
  - Kathleen Maas Weigert, Ph.D. - Theology and Social Ministry (THEO 367)
  - Jay Brandenberger, Ph.D. - Children and Poverty: Developmental Implications (PSY 405)
  - Kathleen Maas Weigert, Ph.D. - Introduction to Peace Studies (IPS 320)
  - Kathleen Maas Weigert - Peace and Change in America (AMST 432, IPS 425)

PEACE AND JUSTICE PROGRAMMING

The Center sponsors or co-sponsors a variety of creative peace and justice programs throughout the year, including films, panels, invitational lectures and performing arts. Each opportunity focuses on an important issue of social concern (e.g., racism, poverty, the environment).

POST-GRADUATE SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

Workshops, seminars and other meetings enable seniors to consider the integration of service into their chosen careers and/or the advantages of a year or two of volunteer service, e.g., Peace Corps, Holy Cross Associates. Contact Maureen Skurski (631-5293).

ADDITIONAL EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

...include, as resources available, service-learning trips to the L'Arche Daybreak Community in Toronto, to the rural south, and to Holy Cross Mission sites in the U.S., Mexico, and Africa. Student leadership plays a key role in developing unique learning opportunities.

CSC STAFF

1st Row: Robert Dowd, C.S.C., liaison of Campus Ministry with Center for Social Concerns; Carol Porter, Secretary; Kathy Royer, Coordinator: Service/Social Action Groups; Patty Flynn, Secretary-Executive Assistant. 2nd Row: Coordinator: Urban Plunge and Summer Service Projects; 3rd Row: Margaret Davis, Administrative Assistant; Ardis King, Secretary; Maureen Skurski, Coordinator: Post-Graduate Service Opportunities and Program Initiatives; Kathleen Maas Weigert, Faculty Liaison/Academic Coordinator; Jay Brandenberger, Coordinator: Experiential Seminars and Justice Education; 3rd Row: Jim Paladino, Associate Director; Don McNeill, C.S.C., Director. The work of the Center is also facilitated by student managers and student assistants, by resource persons, and volunteers.

CSC AND CAMPUS MINISTRY COLLABORATION

The desire for a deeper integration of faith and action in the lives of Notre Dame students has led Campus Ministry and the Center for Social Concerns to work towards a more creative and public colloaboration. In moving towards this goal, Rev. Robert Dowd, C.S.C., serves as Campus Ministry's liaison with the Center, and Jim Paladino as the Center's liaison with Campus Ministry.

THE FACULTY AND CENTER ACTIVITIES

The special focus of our opportunities designed for faculty during the 1995-1996 academic year will be on "service learning" and the ways in which it can be incorporated within courses and research. Through one-on-one consultation, class visits, a fall "Service Learning Fair" and a May workshop, we hope to work with those faculty who want to link their teaching and/or research with community collaborators. The "Faith and Professional Life" faculty series, co-sponsored with Campus Ministry, will continue this year; watch for speakers and dates. For the first time this year, faculty will have the opportunity to participate with students in the Social Concerns Seminar: Appalachia over fall and spring break.

Faculty are a vital resource to the CSC as well. They serve as facilitators for the Urban Plunge, opening their homes to students on campus and in their homes and to provide students with an occasion to reflect on and extend their analysis of the Urban Plunge experience. They are speakers for our various cross-listed experiential learning courses, advisors to the service and social action groups, and offer directed readings on related social concerns topics.

Faculty interested in getting involved in any of these opportunities are encouraged to contact Dr. Kathleen Maas Weigert (phone: 631-5319 or e-mail: Kathleen.M.Weigert.26nd.edu.).

Center facilities include . . .

- a coffee house
- a large multi-purpose room
- seminar rooms
- a resource area
- a library
- a reflection room

These facilities are available for use by student and community groups. Contact the Center receptionist (631-5293) to reserve rooms for lectures, films, liturgies, meals, and other gatherings.

FROM THE CENTER'S DEAN

Current information on Center programs and activities is available throughout the year in The Observer, through the CSC Newsletter, mailed quarterly to Center alumni and friends, and other Center publications.

This paid advertisement is made possible through the cooperation of:

- The Observer staff who assisted in its production
- Notre Dame Student Government, which partially defrayed the cost
- the student groups that provided a write-up of their organization
- Center staff who shared material on their programs
- And you, the reader, whose interest and follow-up make all this possible.
