Adams postpones ND visit
Irish leader to focus on peace process
By DAVE TYLER
New Editor

Sinn Féin president Gerry Adams cancelled his American speaking tour today, citing a desire to stay home to help jump start the stalled Northern Ireland peace process.

Among Adams’ scheduled stops was a November 1 speech at Notre Dame. New York City attorney Richard Harvey, general counsel for the American lobbying group Friends of Sinn Féin and a spokesman for Adams said the controversial Irish leader has postponed all of his planned engagements so that he might prepare for U.S. President Bill Clinton’s visit during the last week of November and the first week of December this year.

Clinton’s visit will be the first by a sitting president to the six counties of Northern Ireland. Clinton’s visit should help “to create a peaceful resolution to the conflict,” Harvey said in a letter released Tuesday. Adams hopes that the president’s visit will be a turning point in the now stalled talks between Great Britain, Ireland and the Sinn Féin.

Organizers of Adams’ Notre Dame visit said the event was postponed and not cancelled. Friends of Sinn Féin hopes to reschedule Adams’ appearance for sometime in February of 1996, according to senior Kevin Klau who helped to plan the event for Notre Dame’s Office of Student Activities.

“We’re disappointed, but for anyone who’s watching the conflict (in Northern Ireland) this news might be a good sign,” said Klau. "Hopefully, we’ll see Gerry Adams in February and he’ll be talking about the events of these next few months.”

Sinn Féin is the political wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), an organization fighting to end British rule in Northern Ireland.

Adams has been Sinn Féin’s president since 1983. The 47-year-old left his occupation as a Belfast harman to become involved in Irish Republicanism in 1969.

Once considered a fringe organization, Sinn Féin has, under Adams’ leadership, blossomed into a pivotal player in the Northern Ireland peace process.

Klau said students who had already purchased tickets for the canceled talk may claim refunds from the LaFortune Student Center Information Desk beginning November 30.

Organizers are looking to bring another speaker to campus to fill the void created by Adams’ cancellation. Klau said the Adams visit to Notre Dame was sponsored by Notre Dame’s Student Government, the Student Union Board, and the Office of Student Activities.

Analyst Shields to describe County judge enters plea of innocence for Herro

By BRAD PRENDERGAST
American News Editor

Mark Shields, a syndicated political columnist and television commentator on the PBS MacNeil/Lehrer News Hour, will speak this evening in the auditorium of the Hesburgh Library. Shields’ lecture, “The Making of the President — 1996,” will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

A 1950 graduate of Notre Dame, Shields has been a featured political analyst on MacNeil/Lehrer for the past eight years. During the first six years, Shields and David Gergen, representing the political left and right, respectively, were teamed together on the popular political segment “Gergen & Shields,” until Gergen left the show to become President Clinton’s communications director in the spring of 1993.

Prior to becoming a columnist and commentator, Shields managed political campaigns in 38 states, beginning in the mid-1960s. His first major campaign was organizing California for Robert Kennedy’s presidential bid in 1968. Speaking to The New York Times today, Shields said SIEHLD S / page 6

Howard encourages change
By TOM Moran
New Writer

Howard said that the conventional view of human nature emphasizes “maximization and optimization” of human achievement - celebrating the people who make the most money, who work the most productively, or even who create the most progeny. "Such "extreme beliefs," he noted, are very problematic for the cause of the environment.

This extremism leads to an inevitable overtaxing of natural resources. "If we have too many people trying to utilize too many of the earth’s resources, it’s the earth’s health that’s going to suffer," he said. Extinction of production also leads to the conclusion that "happiness comes from consuming as much as possible," a mindset that is clearly in opposition of the environmental movement.

Howard stated that he believes human natures can be altered to accept a new set of priorities more in tune with environmental goals. "I think human nature in very changeable," he said. "I think change is a factor of what people think about themselves. We have many fields that tell us ‘maximizers’ - if we come to believe this, we will act this way. Therefore, according to Howard, human nature can be changed if the maximizing emphasis of such fields as economics is replaced by a more environmentally conscious par-adjm. “I think there’s enormous room for change,” he said. “Modifying thoughts so that they’re a little more ecologically conscious is a step in the right direction.”

According to Howard, such a change would work best when coupled with short-term practical measures such as a “green tax” that would raise the price of environmentally unsound products. Such a tax would be offset by refunds in other income taxes, thereby aiding “green” products without raising taxes.

He also urged that people be taught in school “like investors” — “thinking of long-term benefits rather than short-term gains. This sort of attitude, Howard stated, is important in assisting the cause of more expensive, but ultimately more economical, environmentally sound products.

He spoke about the changes in human nature necessary to benefit the environmental movement. “I think the ecolog-
Strong quake hits remote region of southwestern China

BEIJING
A strong earthquake with numerous aftershocks knocked over buildings and killed at least 29 people in southwestern China's mountainous Yunnan province today.

More than 100 people were injured by the 6.5 magnitude quake, which struck nearly 200 buildings in Yunnan province's epicenter, 1,000 miles northwest of the provincial capital Kunming, according to the State-run Xinhua News Agency and local seismologists.

The quake, which struck at about 4:46 a.m., shook beds in Kunming and was felt 125 miles away, seismologists said.

Telephone lines were cut and roads blocked to some towns near the epicenter, officials said. A report that cracks were found in two reservoirs after the quake was premature, officials said.

Seismologists said damage reports near the epicenter were incomplete. Provincial officials sent 30 teams to help out with relief and damage assessment.

"The earthquake was relatively strong and there were many aftershocks," said an official with the Central Seismology Bureau in Beijing, who identified himself by his surname, Ma.

Within 75 minutes, seismologists had recorded 1,046 aftershocks, the strongest with a preliminary magnitude of 9, said seismologist Ma Dajinquant Kunming.

Ma warned a second quake with a magnitude between 5 and 6 could strike within a few days. A quake with a magnitude of 6 can cause severe damage to populated areas.

Although the quake was felt across several provinces, it was not deadly because most of the buildings were made of badly constructed buildings or those on shaky foundations, Ma said.

Most of the deaths occurred in Yunnan and neighboring Luguang County, Ma said. One person died and three were injured about 60 miles north in neighboring Shizhu county.

Yunnan province, about 1,300 miles southwest of Beijing, has steep mountains rising to more than 6,500 feet.

NYC mayor asked Arafat to leave

NEW YORK

Mayoral aides asked Yasser Arafat to leave a New York Philharmonic performance of Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony" because he was not invited, city hall sources said today.

Mayor Rudolph Giuliani had made it clear last week that the Palestinians would not be invited to a city-sponsored concert at Lincoln Center. However, the Palestine Liberation Organization chief showed up anyway, ready to haggle over the program.

The mayor had Deputy Mayor Randy Maddot invite Arafat to leave. The mayor said the concert only occurred because the concert was invited.

The mayor's aides said that the concert was invited.

Shuttle problems snag fifth flight day

CAPE CANAVERAL
Columbia's astronauts heated oil and shook water droplets in orbit Tuesday, a necessity for day one to load on fuel pumps and missile storage.

But today's hours of space travel will not lead to a possible change of Earth and better fuel storage in space. Communications glitches caused minor problems during day 5 of the two-week labora-

More people evacuated after gas leak

BOGALUSA, La.

At least 1,200 more people were evacuated today as authorities tried neutralizing a toxic chemical in a ruptured railroad tank car that already had forced 1,500 people out of their homes.

The spillage, which occurred in two houses near a railroad track, is not expected to grow much of the day observing temperature-induced changes in the flow of silicones and oil and using sound waves to drops of water.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are not necessarily those of The Observer.
HALL PRESIDENTS’ COUNCIL

Council to assist in funding

By JAMIE HEISLER
Assistant News Editor

Assistance in fundraising for the Keenan Revue as well as the Fall Festival was one of the major focuses of yesterday’s Hall Presidents’ Council meeting.

Mark Kiser, producer of this year’s Keenan Revue, requested that ads from the presidents’ dorms be placed in the programs, stating that this year the Revue has been “limited in fundraising.” The Revue is in its 20th year and will be held February 1, 2, and 3.

Leaders of this year’s Fall Festival, a community service project which works in conjunction with the CSC and the Northeast Neighborhood, also requested assistance in raising funds to cover the Festival’s estimated $1,000 cost.

Frank Berry, one of the organizers of the project, which will take place on November 11, stated that the Festival’s major goal is “to clean up the neighborhood.” But “another major side effect,” he said is “improved relations between students and the community.”

Volunteers who participate in the project will be treated to a free barbecue, which is one of the main expenses of the project. Other expenses include equipment for the project, some of which is donated by the University.

In other HPC news, Student Government announced that the deadline to turn in forms for the Boston College Banner contest will be extended until this Friday just before judging. The winner will be announced at the BC pep rally that evening.

The council also reported positive feedback for the College of Arts and Letters plan to hold a career fair, which would have booths instead of individual meetings for each major. If the fair occurs, student representatives as well as faculty members will be present at each booth.

University honored for building character

The University of Notre Dame has been selected to the 1995 John Templeton Foundation Honor Roll for Character Building Colleges.

Established in 1989, the biannual honor roll recognizes those institutions of higher learning that “best encourage the development of strong moral character among students.”

The Templeton Foundation was formed in 1987 by international investment counselor John Templeton to forge stronger links between the sciences and all religions.

The foundation works closely with scientists, theologians, philosophers, scholars, and medical professionals to support programs and studies that seek to further understanding of spirituality and the importance of personal character.

The purpose of the Honor Roll for Character Building Colleges is threefold:

• To acknowledge the accomplishments of those institutions that promote character and value development,
• To inspire other institutions to reevaluate their attention to character development in their curriculums,
• To serve as a reference list of schools for prospective students and their families and for prospective benefactors.

Among other institutions on the honor roll are Yale University, Boston College, and the University of Portland. Portland, like Notre Dame, was founded by the Congregation of Holy Cross.

A complete list of the 1995 Templeton Foundation Honor Roll for Character Building Colleges is available by calling (800) 217-7175.
A MASS IN MEMORY OF

Robert T. Adams
A Senior at the University of Notre Dame

Will be Offered at the Basilica of the Sacred Heart
on
Wednesday, October 25, 1995
at 5:00 p.m.

Father Edward A. Malloy, C.S.C. Presider
Music by the Notre Dame Folk Choir

A reception for the family and friends will follow the Mass
By MATTHEW LOUGHRAN

Russia is teetering on the brink of returning to authoritarian rule, according to Archie Brown, a professor of politics at St. Antony's College of the University of Oxford, who advanced this theory in a lecture last night at the Hesburgh Center for International Studies.

Brown, a recognized expert on Russian Politics, addressed the leadership problems that Russia has had in the transition period between the USSR and the current Russian Republic. Brown said of the current government: "It has become a mixed form of part liberal democrats, part authoritarians, and part - I would say - criminals."

Brown said, "Contrary to popular Western belief, Ronald Reagan [who was President of the United States in 1985] and Margaret Thatcher [who was Prime Minister of Great Britain in 1985] had little if anything to do with the fall of the Soviet Union, and had nothing to do with Gorbachev's rise to power in 1985."

Gorbachev brought about the changes that facilitated the break up of the Soviet Union. He himself was brought to power after three hard-line communists died within two years of each other, creating a vacancy at the position of General Secretary of the Communist Party. "There were no real stimuli for change inside or outside of the Soviet Union," Brown said. "The dissident movement was at a low point in 1985. Until 1989, Lenin was considered the greatest man in history by Russians."

Because of these circumstances, Gorbachev was forced to try to reform the system from the inside. However, he lost control by 1991. Brown mentioned that, "It was not in Gorbachev's personality to restore control through dictatorship."

Gorbachev just let the power move away from the center. "At the same time," Brown said, "Boris Yeltsin had quit as a party boss and taken up leadership of the opposition."

Yeltsin took command of the government in 1991 and was forced to lose more control. He responded to this lack of control with authoritarian measures that he had gotten so used to as a party boss. This resulted in massive consolidation of the government.

However, according to Brown, "Yeltsin has a very weak sense of rule of law. Dissbanding Parliament in February 1994, Yeltsin wrote his own constitution and proceeded to ignore its provisions in relation to political prisoners."

Results of this policy are what could be sending Russia back to an authoritarian government, according to Brown. "It has caused tremendous disillusionment with government," he said. "There has been a fall in support for democracy, a sense of apathy and lack of participation. If the December election goes badly for Yeltsin he might push back or cancel the presidential election, which would be a major setback."

Brown, who has written twelve books, has been visiting the Soviet Union and Russia frequently since the mid-1960's. He was responsible for briefing Margaret Thatcher before her very first visit with Gorbachev in 1985.

---

By MAUREEN HURLEY

Most college students never think the statistics about alcoholism will affect them. However, the meaning behind the statistics becomes real when hearing them from a peer, according to Laura Richter, the Saint Mary's News Editor. "Speaking from experience," Richter said.

Richter, who serves as the Respectability Hall Association secretary and is the co-captain of Saint Mary's softball team, related the problems she faced with alcoholism during her junior year of high school to the college drinking scene.

"I started drinking a lot when I was in high school, because everyone else did, just like what happens here. I started to center my life around the next drink, and realized I had to get help," she said. "Life is not lived when you're focused on the next drink or the next weekend."

Richter cited drinking at SYRAs and formals as primary problems on campus.

As an RHA board member, Richter hopes to propose a dance policy procedure to the Dean of Student Affairs, which would include the 11 p.m. rule. "Drinking is a serious problem on campus, and it's the students' responsibility to make that change. As much as the administration can do, the change will only come when student expect more from their peers," Richter said.

In a poll conducted by The Observer in September, only 14 percent of Saint Mary's students stated that they do not drink at all during the week. Richter said, "The Saint Mary's community must realize their responsibility to demand respect and responsibility from their peers. The community must rise to that challenge," Richter said.

According to Geonna Rosenbush, director of Student Activities, change will only come through the leadership of students. "Laurie took a lot of risk, and made a huge impact on everyone here, herself included," Rosenbush said. "Students have such an impact on their peers. Change on campus always comes from the students."

As part of RHA's Alcohol Awareness Week, RHA board members said they hope Richter's lecture will encourage change in the community. "I'm hoping this brings about an awareness, so students will think about the choices they make, and why they make those choices," Richter said.
Governor announces program

Special to The Observer

Governor Evan Bayh announced the formation of a statewide education initiative to provide students in grades K-12 with volunteer tutors. The program, "Partners in Learning," is a partnership between existing tutoring programs, the Governor's Voluntary Action Program and the Indiana Commission on Community Service.

"Our state's most valuable resource is our children," Bayh said. "I am calling on the citizens of Indiana to help our children be successful in school. By helping a child, you will have made a positive difference.

To begin this initiative, site visits were conducted by state officials to find out the needs of current tutoring programs. Program administrators expressed a need for assistance with recruiting volunteers and tutor training. To meet these needs, the new program has developed public service announcements and an 800 number to recruit volunteers, set up a statewide tutor training seminar, and developed a tutoring handbook.

The Young's and Ford's Club of St. Joseph's County and Twenty-First Century Scholars will be participating in this initiative and need 30 volunteers to help students succeed. Anyone interested in being a volunteer tutor should call (800) 267-9029.

Shields continued from page 1
Times in 1993, Gergen said, "I'll go to my grave believing Robert Kennedy would have been the best president of my lifetime." Shields, who earned a degree in philosophy at Notre Dame, presently serves on the Advisory Council for the College of Arts and Letters at the University. He is also host of CNN's "Capital Gang."

Tonight's lecture is sponsored by the Student-Alumni Relations Group and the Department of American Studies.

Herro continued from page 1

Dennis Moore, director of public relations and information. The matter is under review by the University, Moore added.

Earth continued from page 1

Voluntary Action Program and to provide students in grades K-12 with volunteer tutors.

The program, "Partners in Learning," is a partnership between existing tutoring programs, the Governor's Voluntary Action Program and the Indiana Commission on Community Service.

"Our state's most valuable resource is our children," Bayh said. "I am calling on the citizens of Indiana to help our children be successful in school. By helping a child, you will have made a positive difference."

To begin this initiative, site visits were conducted by state officials to find out the needs of current tutoring programs. Program administrators expressed a need for assistance with recruiting volunteers and tutor training. To meet these needs, the new program has developed public service announcements and an 800 number to recruit volunteers, set up a statewide tutor training seminar, and developed a tutoring handbook.

The Young's and Ford's Club of St. Joseph's County and Twenty-First Century Scholars will be participating in this initiative and need 30 volunteers to help students succeed. Anyone interested in being a volunteer tutor should call (800) 267-9029.

Wanted: Reporters, editors and photographers. Join The Observer staff.

Shields continued from page 1

Times in 1993, Gergen said, "I'll go to my grave believing Robert Kennedy would have been the best president of my lifetime." Shields, who earned a degree in philosophy at Notre Dame, presently serves on the Advisory Council for the College of Arts and Letters at the University. He is also host of CNN's "Capital Gang."

Tonight's lecture is sponsored by the Student-Alumni Relations Group and the Department of American Studies.

Herro continued from page 1

Dennis Moore, director of public relations and information. The matter is under review by the University, Moore added.

Earth continued from page 1

Voluntary Action Program and to provide students in grades K-12 with volunteer tutors.

The program, "Partners in Learning," is a partnership between existing tutoring programs, the Governor's Voluntary Action Program and the Indiana Commission on Community Service.

"Our state's most valuable resource is our children," Bayh said. "I am calling on the citizens of Indiana to help our children be successful in school. By helping a child, you will have made a positive difference."

To begin this initiative, site visits were conducted by state officials to find out the needs of current tutoring programs. Program administrators expressed a need for assistance with recruiting volunteers and tutor training. To meet these needs, the new program has developed public service announcements and an 800 number to recruit volunteers, set up a statewide tutor training seminar, and developed a tutoring handbook.

The Young's and Ford's Club of St. Joseph's County and Twenty-First Century Scholars will be participating in this initiative and need 30 volunteers to help students succeed. Anyone interested in being a volunteer tutor should call (800) 267-9029.
THE OBSERVER
NOTRE DAME UNIVERSITY
FACULTY DEPARTMENT, D. O. Box G, Notre Dame, Ind. 46656
479-631-7471
SOUTH DAKOTA UNIVERSITY
FACULTY DEPARTMENT, D. O. Box G, Notre Dame, Ind. 46656
479-631-5355
1995-96 General Board
Joseph M. Riley
Managing Editor
Elizabeth Rogan
Business Manager
John Lucas
News Editor ............................................. Brad York
Assistant News Editor ......................... Mike Wetz
Sports Editor ............................................. Craig Hartley
Multimedia Editor ......................... Matt Houlihan
Editor-in-Chief ............................................. Kevin Carty
Publisher ............................................. Wes Cowan
The Observer is the independent weekly newspaper published by the students of the College of Arts and Letters at Notre Dame. It is produced and operated entirely by students. The views expressed in the Observer are those of the students and/or the administration, as appropriate.

Part III: The Rage of a Privileged Class

"A black director of a large bank told me one of a board meeting he attended at which evidence was presented that the bank was not treating its black customers the same way it treated whites. Blacks who weren't against earning it, and at credit histories had significantly lower loan approval rates. "The directors recognized immediately that there had been a problem, that it was clear that they had to do a much better job with 'affirmative action.' "The board of directors bitterly disagreed, pointing out that the problem had nothing to do with affirmative action, that the bank was simply not acting in its own best interest in rejecting loans that should be approved. "The black director was grateful for the bank's support in doing what was right."

Cristiane Likely

"For all the controversies involving Farrakhan, and the lack of support by the NAACP, I think that something like this couldn't have happened at a better time when black folks are more and more losing their trust and hope in this nation and ourselves."

Back Up Man, You're pinsing Her.

J.J. P. 175, '95, BABE -oving THING.

"To have a grievance is to have a purpose in life."

—Eric Hoffer

DOUGESBURY

30-29

QUOTE OF THE DAY

GARRY TRUDEAU
Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the commentary concerning the O.J. Simpson trial written in The Observer by Cristiane Likely. This commentary's generalizations about white people in America and at Notre Dame cannot go without a response. Likely uses numerous generalizations about whites.

Likely discusses the polls taken concerning the verdict in Simpson's trial. She talks about how the majority of people who believe Simpson should have been tried are white. Likely makes known that she herself "wholeheartedly" agrees with the verdict, and that it is about time an African-American received some justice.

Likely then goes on to say how this white majority thinks Simpson should have been convicted because he is in fact guilty. Likely assumes the opposite, stating that she firmly believes in Simpson's innocence. Just as Likely criticizes whites for assuming Simpson's guilt, she should be criticized for assuming his innocence.

The jury was chosen to decide whether Simpson was guilty or not guilty. The trial was not about racism, nor is Likely likely or anybody else for that matter, to sit in the courtroom every day listening to all the testimony and learning the facts of the case while ultimately making a decision. The prosecution in fact tried to prove Simpson's guilt; a reasonable doubt; therefore, he was found not guilty. This is justice to Ms. Likely.

Likely then cites the Rodney King case as an injustice. The prosecution in that case failed to prove King's innocence. But then why, can a responsible doubt exist if the prosecution maliciously beat King, so they were found not guilty. Yet, Likely believes one is justice and one is injustice. This is ridiculous. My main problem with Hannah's letter is rooted in the fact that a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. That a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. Fortunately, in that situation the "race card" would not have been an issue.

What saddens me the most is that many people, that you, Miss Hannah, choose to make something a race issue. If we were in the dining hall and I was looking at you and you were wearing the shirt you were wearing, would you believe I was staring at you because you were wearing a black shirt? Would this be another example of the plight you speak of that follows all black people everywhere? I have some close black friends that I speak to, and they have escaped this terrible plague you speak of.

Does racism exist? Sure it does, and I would never be so bold as to say that the black existence in America is an easy one or a completely just one for that matter. However, you can't fight it by imitating it and expect to get anywhere. So in closing, I say to Hannah, stop complaining. If you aren't going to try to help the situation, at least don't emit racism by yourself by implying exactly what you detest.

BRYAN SCHNEIDER

Wednesday, October 25, 1995

Students and alum直升 response to O.J. trial verdict

Dear Editor:

I am responding to Nikole Sheri Hannah's article on Oct. 10. If I understand your article correctly, you are angry that whites believe O.J. was acquitted because of race when in reality, whites are the ones to Nikole would probably be convicted.

I am not here to discuss the history of race relations in our country nor to discuss the history of how people murdered and not, as you miss the issue. In the Dahmer case, there was evidence of his presence in the area when O.J. Simpson's wife was last seen alive. But who

Likely then cites the Rodney King case as an injustice. The prosecution in that case failed to prove King's innocence. But then why, can a responsible doubt exist if the prosecution maliciously beat King, so they were found not guilty. Yet, Likely believes one is justice and one is injustice. This is ridiculous. My main problem with Hannah's letter is rooted in the fact that a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. That a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. Fortunately, in that situation the "race card" would not have been an issue.

What saddens me the most is that many people, that you, Miss Hannah, choose to make something a race issue. If we were in the dining hall and I was looking at you and you were wearing the shirt you were wearing, would you believe I was staring at you because you were wearing a black shirt? Would this be another example of the plight you speak of that follows all black people everywhere? I have some close black friends that I speak to, and they have escaped this terrible plague you speak of.

Does racism exist? Sure it does, and I would never be so bold as to say that the black existence in America is an easy one or a completely just one for that matter. However, you can't fight it by imitating it and expect to get anywhere. So in closing, I say to Hannah, stop complaining. If you aren't going to try to help the situation, at least don't emit racism by yourself by implying exactly what you detest.

BRYAN SCHNEIDER

ND '94

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the commentary concerning the O.J. Simpson trial written in The Observer by Cristiane Likely. This commentary's generalizations about white people in America and at Notre Dame cannot go without a response. Likely uses numerous generalizations about whites.

Likely discusses the polls taken concerning the verdict in Simpson's trial. She talks about how the majority of people who believe Simpson should have been tried are white. Likely makes known that she herself "wholeheartedly" agrees with the verdict, and that it is about time an African-American received some justice.

Likely then goes on to say how this white majority thinks Simpson should have been convicted because he is in fact guilty. Likely assumes the opposite, stating that she firmly believes in Simpson's innocence. Just as Likely criticizes whites for assuming Simpson's guilt, she should be criticized for assuming his innocence.

The jury was chosen to decide whether Simpson was guilty or not guilty. The trial was not about racism, nor is Likely likely or anybody else for that matter, to sit in the courtroom every day listening to all the testimony and learning the facts of the case while ultimately making a decision. The prosecution in fact tried to prove Simpson's guilt; a reasonable doubt; therefore, he was found not guilty. This is justice to Ms. Likely.

Likely then cites the Rodney King case as an injustice. The prosecution in that case failed to prove King's innocence. But then why, can a responsible doubt exist if the prosecution maliciously beat King, so they were found not guilty. Yet, Likely believes one is justice and one is injustice. This is ridiculous. My main problem with Hannah's letter is rooted in the fact that a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. That a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. Fortunately, in that situation the "race card" would not have been an issue.

What saddens me the most is that many people, that you, Miss Hannah, choose to make something a race issue. If we were in the dining hall and I was looking at you and you were wearing the shirt you were wearing, would you believe I was staring at you because you were wearing a black shirt? Would this be another example of the plight you speak of that follows all black people everywhere? I have some close black friends that I speak to, and they have escaped this terrible plague you speak of.

Does racism exist? Sure it does, and I would never be so bold as to say that the black existence in America is an easy one or a completely just one for that matter. However, you can't fight it by imitating it and expect to get anywhere. So in closing, I say to Hannah, stop complaining. If you aren't going to try to help the situation, at least don't emit racism by yourself by implying exactly what you detest.

BRYAN SCHNEIDER

ND '94

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the commentary concerning the O.J. Simpson trial written in The Observer by Cristiane Likely. This commentary's generalizations about white people in America and at Notre Dame cannot go without a response. Likely uses numerous generalizations about whites.

Likely discusses the polls taken concerning the verdict in Simpson's trial. She talks about how the majority of people who believe Simpson should have been tried are white. Likely makes known that she herself "wholeheartedly" agrees with the verdict, and that it is about time an African-American received some justice.

Likely then goes on to say how this white majority thinks Simpson should have been convicted because he is in fact guilty. Likely assumes the opposite, stating that she firmly believes in Simpson's innocence. Just as Likely criticizes whites for assuming Simpson's guilt, she should be criticized for assuming his innocence.

The jury was chosen to decide whether Simpson was guilty or not guilty. The trial was not about racism, nor is Likely likely or anybody else for that matter, to sit in the courtroom every day listening to all the testimony and learning the facts of the case while ultimately making a decision. The prosecution in fact tried to prove Simpson's guilt; a reasonable doubt; therefore, he was found not guilty. This is justice to Ms. Likely.

Likely then cites the Rodney King case as an injustice. The prosecution in that case failed to prove King's innocence. But then why, can a responsible doubt exist if the prosecution maliciously beat King, so they were found not guilty. Yet, Likely believes one is justice and one is injustice. This is ridiculous. My main problem with Hannah's letter is rooted in the fact that a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. That a white man in the exact same situation would not have been put on trial as well. Fortunately, in that situation the "race card" would not have been an issue.

What saddens me the most is that many people, that you, Miss Hannah, choose to make something a race issue. If we were in the dining hall and I was looking at you and you were wearing the shirt you were wearing, would you believe I was staring at you because you were wearing a black shirt? Would this be another example of the plight you speak of that follows all black people everywhere? I have some close black friends that I speak to, and they have escaped this terrible plague you speak of.

Does racism exist? Sure it does, and I would never be so bold as to say that the black existence in America is an easy one or a completely just one for that matter. However, you can't fight it by imitating it and expect to get anywhere. So in closing, I say to Hannah, stop complaining. If you aren't going to try to help the situation, at least don't emit racism by yourself by implying exactly what you detest.

BRYAN SCHNEIDER

ND '94

Dear Editor:

After reading Nikole Hannah's response to how all white people think black americans are acquitted of a crime. I was shocked but more disappointed. Her views were prejudiced and seemingly incompe-
I didn't know what to expect as I began dialing "Domers" to talk to Kevin Coyne's telephone number. Would I get a crusty old man who would want nothing less than to hang up on me? Or would I get a young hot shot writer who would proclaim he's the second coming of Ernest Hemingway. Fortunately when the line was answered my premonitions had proved false, as a kind, everyday voice came on and said, "Hello?" Thus the interview began. Mr. Coyne was most helpful and courteous on the phone.

Rather than having to probe for answers, talking to Coyne was like getting to know a new acquaintance. At times it seemed like Coyne wanted to know as much about me as I did about him. One thing was plain from the get go, Kevin Coyne loves Notre Dame.

Mr. Coyne resides in Freehold, New Jersey. He was quick to point out that it's the hometown of Bruce Springsteen. Coyne attended the University of Pennsylvania where he began his writing career as a journalist for the campus paper.

After graduating with a degree in history, Coyne and his friends started their own newspaper. Unfortunately after a year the paper folded, and Coyne went on to work for various other newspapers. Coyne had greater aspirations than this and embarked on the writing of his first book, "A Day in the Night of America," a non-fiction work on late night occurrences around the country. Totally switching gears and inspired by the Notre Dame fanatics he knew, Coyne set out to write a book chronicling a year at Notre Dame.

"There are only a handful of schools that are unique enough and special enough to warrant a book on them: the military academies, Harvard and maybe Berkeley," Coyne said.

Coyne wanted to write not only for alumni but for the everyday person like himself. "Many only know Notre Dame from NBC football coverage on Sunday afternoons. They have a very narrow view of the school. I wanted to show what the school was really about," he said.

For a years time, Coyne engrossed himself with every aspect of Notre Dame. He spoke excitedly when asked for his fondest memories from his Irish experience. "The game against Penn State... the "Snow Bowl"—that was intense. Being privileged enough to attend Moose Krause's Funeral and seeing the awesome display of Old Notre Dame being re­presented, and Sunday mass at Purcell with Father Joe Ross. I admire him a lot. You just don't see masses like that anywhere else.

However, his research wasn't always fun and exciting. Coyne left his wife and daughter back home in New Jersey for the duration of the year. "I would stay two or three weeks at Notre Dame, then fly home to Jersey for four or five days. It was rough.

Other trying occasions were the SYR's where Coyne chuckled. "Being thirty three at the time it was obvious that I wasn't a student. The SYR's made me feel really old. Those were the times I really wanted to be back at home with my wife. But, the dances are all part of the Notre Dame experience so I had to be there."

Looking back, Coyne saw the whole experience very rewarding. "I feel more attached to Notre Dame than I do to Penn. At Penn it was wonderful and opened up a lot of doors for me, but I felt no connection. Certain professors there don't even see undergraduate students. At Notre Dame they care about you. You belong, whether you like it or not, to a community."

Coyne's book has been well-received by the public and has gained rave reviews from the likes of the Washington Post and Newsweek.

When asked how it feels to get a book in print Coyne replied, "The first time around it's cool. One of my friends went and got me the library of congress catalog card with the dewey decimal number. After you see that you know if nothing else I'll be in a library for a long time. I don't think Coyne has much to worry about with "Domers" already in its second printing.

As for the future, Coyne says there is to sequel to the works for Notre Dame. He does still keep in touch with many of the students he interacted with. In fact he has attended the weddings of a few of the students, "Kids at Notre Dame are really good about staying in touch," he said.

His next project is an intriguing theme again, this time going back to Freehold, New Jersey and interviewing six World War II veterans chronicling how they have affected America today.

As our interview ended I asked Kevin Coyne for some words of wisdom for budding writers.

His reply, "Read constantly and work for a newspaper. Read because it exposes you to different views. Work for a newspaper because it's a real job, you write all the time, and have to deal with the pressures of deadlines. It's a good training ground to learn the voices and how to write down the voices of diverse groups of people." In "Domers," Coyne has definitely captured the voice of Notre Dame.
ATTENTION JOB SEEKERS & ADVERTISERS: Please submit your resume or business card to the Career Center at the Cleveland State University Career Center.
Holtz
continued from page 16
appears to be little chance of that. Just don't tell Holtz that.
"Boston College scares me," said Holtz, who is still undecided about where he will be coaching from.
"I know they are going to come in here and play an exceptionally fine football game. They return a lot of people from their defensive line and their line was very good last year. I'm worried about whether we're going to be able to block them," said Holtz. "Emmett Mosley will be returning punts this week."
Mosley will be replacing Scott Sollmann, who has struggled thus far in holding onto punts. However, Holtz is not down on the speedy junior.
"We've got to get Scott Sollmann on the field more," Holtz said. "We've got to get him the ball more because he is an excellent competitor and he has played very well without the ball."

Captain Call
Holtz has decided the time has just about come for the team to finally select official team leaders.
"We are going to choose captains the week before Navy. I had planned on doing it late in the season. Our seniors have done a nice job, plus, a captain should be the captain at the last pop rally, at the last luncheon, and at the last home game."

Great Aspirations
While he has no plans on ending his coaching career anytime soon, Holtz does have plans on what he wants to do once he does leave the coaching ranks.
"Though I haven't taken any notes, I plan on writing an autobiography," Holtz said. "I'd like to call it something like "The Rest of the Story. I've been through a lot in my career."
Whatley takes over reins at St. Mary's

By LAURIE KELLEHER
Sports Writer

After several weeks of uncertainty, the Saint Mary's Belles swimmers finally have a new coach. Coaching the Belles for the 1995-1996 season will be Mike Whatley.

Whatley's swimming career began early on, skyrocketing as a member of the men's team at the University of North Carolina. Charlotte. Whatley was named to the Mecklerberg Aquatic coach.

Currently, Whatley is a second-year law student at Notre Dame.

"I'm looking forward to coaching the Belles this season," says Whatley. "We have a wide range of talent on this team. I'm looking forward to working with these women. They are a very spirited group. We will show great improvements over the season."

Whatley plans on emphasizing fundamentals of the strokes. The team has been practicing drills and stroke work during practice. Whatley has been and will continue to dedicate personal attention to each swimmer during the season.

Whatley hopes to send more swimmers to NCAA championships this year. A hopeful includes sophomore All-American Allison Smith.

We just may send more people to NCAA's this year," says sophomore Allison Smith. "I hope to see everybody do well. Mike is very enthusiastic about the team."

Smith placed 11th in Nationals last year, earning her All-American status.

"Mike works with our strokes a lot," says junior Shannon Kelleher. "He uses a different approach than last season's coach Greg Janssen did. We did more yardage with Janssen but we do more stroke work with Whatley. We'll see how it works out on Friday at the Relay meet."

By LAURIE KELLEHER
Sports Writer

---

PRINCIPLES OF SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

Everyone will give you their two cents worth, but will that be enough to retire on?

Today there seems to be an investment expert or financial advisor almost everywhere you turn. But just how qualified are all these experts?

Peace of mind about your future comes from solid planning. From investments and services designed and managed with your needs and retirement security specifically in mind. The kind of investments and services TIAA-CREF has been providing for more than 70 years.

We'll help you build a rewarding retirement.

Our counselors are trained retirement professionals who have only you and your future in mind. So you're treated as the unique person you are, with special needs and concerns about retirement. And that makes for an understanding, comfortable relationship.

With TIAA-CREF, you have plenty of choice and flexibility in building your retirement nest egg—from TIAA's guaranteed traditional annuity to the investment opportunities of CREF's seven variable annuity accounts. And we're nonprofit, so our expense charges are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries. That means more of your money is where it should be-working for you.

TIAA-CREF is now the largest private pension system in the world, based on assets under management—managing more than $145 billion in assets for more than one and a half million people throughout the nation.

TIAA-CREF: The choice that makes sense.

It's tough to wade through all the "advice" to find a reliable pension plan provider. But as a member of the education and research community, your best choice is simple: TIAA-CREF. Because when it comes to helping you prepare for retirement, our annuities will add up to more than just cash.

For more information about how TIAA-CREF can help you prepare for the future, call our Enrollment Hotline at 1-800-842-2888.

---

CLASS continued from page 10

Hey Colin—Things are definitely getting rowdy in our room, but I can't care if there's a fire...

Rose, you know you're a southerner, just admit it.

Laurie, I hope it all comes out today.

Have you ever gone hopping down 80/90? Break out the Mud Dog and let's find out.

Well, you know little boys are flexible...-

Lance

What's that fish small? Oh don't worry Scott, that's not us... it's the machinery.

--

Does Uranus have an aurora? T.T.

My gas light comes on at about a quarter tank. When does yours? Well, mine comes on when you're just running on fumes. Let's not blame the bull and pay the 48 1/2 cents.

Here just fill this survey and get a free sandwich—Crazy McDonald's employee "The greatest day of my life."-

Tom Hassler—The man, the myth, the legend. You were the wind beneath our wings.

Hey What do you say we have fun this weekend? Maybe...-

Remy, that was a nice Irish joke you did the other day. You should have put in, I wouldn't have paid $3 to see Showgirls.
Osborne clears Phillips to play

By DAVE ZELIO
Associated Press
LINCOLN, Neb.
Nebraska star tailback Lawrence Phillips, who was suspended from the team after hitting his ex-girlfriend, was cleared to return to practice today.

Coach Tom Osborne said Phillips won't travel to Colorado for Saturday's game but probably will play against Iowa State on Nov. 4.

Osborne said Phillips was expected at practice this afternoon.

The announcement came one month after Osborne initially dismissed Phillips from the No. 2 Cornhuskers because of the Sept. 10 attack on Kate McEwen, a Nebraska women's basketball player. The coach later said Phillips, once a Heisman Trophy contender, was suspended indefinitely from the team.

"Obviously he made a mistake," Osborne said today. "He knew he made a mistakes when he did what he did."

Phillips, who pleaded no contest, is scheduled to be sentenced Dec. 1 in Lancaster County Court on misdemeanor charges of trespassing and assault. Police said he climbed to the second-floor apartment of transfer quarterback Scott Frost and assaulted McEwen inside.

"At first I thought he should be dismissed permanently because I thought it was a stalking case or something like that," said Osborne.

But Osborne said Phillips later told him that he was "out of control" on the night of the incident.

He said Phillips has received a thorough mental evaluation and is not dangerous to himself or others but a structured environment is important to him.

A court order forbids Phillips from having contact with Frost or McEwen. Osborne said that order would not prevent Phillips from practicing with the team under supervision.

"I guess it's still a court order that he and Scott couldn't go to the movies or something together," Osborne said.

The coach said Phillips had been receiving counseling and has been required to attend classes. "He's expected to make normal progress toward a degree, which is pretty remarkable under the circumstances," Osborne said.

Osborne said that under the point-system he uses for discipline, Phillips would have been required to miss at least three games. "He will have missed six before he will be allowed to play," Osborne said.

He said he did not know how much playing time Phillips would receive against Iowa State.

"I don't think the university or athletic department did the easy thing" in allowing Phillips to return, Osborne said. "The easy thing would have been to dismiss him.

"We simply didn't feel it was the right thing to do," Osborne said. "We tried to do the right thing, the best thing for Lawrence Phillips."
Belles find successful formula

By CAROLINE BLUM
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

A 3-4-3 line-up, a new midfield and a forward line who knows how to test out the opponent's goalie early on. If only the Saint Mary's soccer team knew earlier in their season that this was their formula for success.

Starring in coach Solomon Scholz's new 3-4-3 lineup is former fullback-turned-midfielder senior Rita Juster. Juster, who had not played her previous three seasons, was moved to the position after the injury of junior Bridget Keyes.

Keyes suffered a serious knee injury and is expected to be out for the rest of the season.

Juster's new position has proved to be an asset to the Belles' lineup.

"In our game before break against Rockford, Juster was incredible," said head coach Solomon Scholz. "Rita creates speed on the field, which is a major component in keeping the ball in the forward's possession. She generates communication on the field as well."

"Playing midfield enables me to help the offense in their attack," said Juster. "We were really worried after we lost Bridget, but luckily I think we've developed a way to make it. Our talent really showed in Saturday's game. Prior, we hadn't been able to get it all together. The defense held up, but the offense just could not get the ball in the net. Against Rockford, we got the ball in the net. We got the ball in the net three times."

The Belles' 3-0 victory also stemmed from sophomore forward Elizabeth Newell's goal in the first ten minutes of the game.

"Rockford was the first time we have ever scored in the first ten minutes of the game," said Newell. "Solomon had told us to test out the goalie early, so that's what I did. Scoring early enabled us to play with a better attitude. We were confident that more goals would come."

The Belles took their formula for success to help the offense in their attack. The defense held up, while the forwards' goals against Saint Francis today. Last year, the Belles took Saint Francis into overtime, beating them 3-2.

"We picked up a lot of confidence against Rockford," said Newell. "We will use this confidence and our new strategies today against Saint Francis."
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Real beauty, in old slang
2 Make sense
3 Crowds around
4 Syrah from Rhone
5 Simon of song
6 Last degree
7 Prong
8 Model wood
9 "Make the most of-it"
10 Cobbler
11 Tax-exempt convey
12 Porter's compounds
13 Ancient letters
14 "I know, you don't go to school every day."
15 And if you don't have to learn anything, and if you took away all the other kids, if it was completely different, school would be great.
16 Course and hobbies
17 "Oh, that means at least three more rows' due. Assigned to similar projects, you must find them and crush them..."
18 Nothing fun and valuable. Shop shoot
19 "A lot of things are like that."
20 Nickers asks me, "How these oughta be. I've got tons of disks!"
21 "If you're a real Republican."

DOWN
1 "New Look" designs
2 This is a "home" for Gov. Carlson of Minnesota
3 Charlie Brown's exclamation
4 Is incumbent on a Panthenin stile
5 "20-20 - Oah!"
6 "Delirious" decisively
7 Raw in old Rome
8 Incorrigible
9 Long, hard-lined
10 Pretty, tiny
11 Fly
12 "Loin" of the Senses
13 Make up to 3
14 Comic "Dame"

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE
1 Real beauty, in old slang
2 Make sense
3 Crowds around
4 Syrah from Rhone
5 Simon of song
6 Last degree
7 Prong
8 Model wood
9 "Make the most of-it"
10 Cobbler
11 Tax-exempt convey
12 Porter's compounds
13 Ancient letters

YOUR HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1995

New professional battles will be fought and won. You will outdo those people who were initially critical. Make sure to get your part of the story. Your friendship with a prominent individual could be very good news for a business venture. It could not be too much to hope that some friends who you accumulate wealth, their support is a priceless asset! The romantic happiness you could create this year would excite by summer.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON OCTOBER 25:
- Van Heflin, actor (1902-1971)
- Brother De Luxe, rapper (1969)
- Jodie Foster, actress (1954)
- Robert De Niro, actor (1943)

NOVEMBER

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Domineering homebody is important to you. Sense of well-being. Avoid taking risks of a remedies or emotional nature. You need to be careful of your anger.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Domestic harmony is important to you. Sense of well-being. Avoid taking risks of a remedies or emotional nature. You need to be careful of your anger.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your personal relationships are in a passive cycle. Resist not to others. Proposed chores could catch up with you. Pay attention to what needs fixing, especially at home. Make an effort to get more exercise.

OF INTEREST

Attention Job Seekers: Fr. Bob Lombardo, class of '93, is recruiting volunteers to help serve at the St. Anthony Residence for formerly homeless men located in New York City. You will be provided with room and board, health insurance, and a stipend between $200 and $300. For more information, call (631) 5142 or schedule an appointment.

CROSSWORDS

The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education would like to thank the following departments for their donations towards the Alcohol Awareness Week Activities held during the week of October 9, 1995.

- Computer Store
- Country Harvester
- Barber Shop
- LaFortune Hair Stylists
- Pizza Company

Irish Gardens Floral Shop
Notre Dame Bookstore
LaFortune Information Desk
St. Michael's Laundry

THANK YOU
SPORTS

Wednesday, October 25

Xavier makes non-conference call

By DAVE TREACY
Sports Writer

After having played four games away from home, the Irish return home to play Xavier tonight at Alumni Field. It’s hard to say which should be harder for the Irish to cope with: Xavier, or the weather. Probably the weather.

One of the few AMC rivals the Irish have left on their schedule, Xavier has provided the Irish with little more than an opportunity to practice their shooting as of late.

Since head coach Chris Petrucci came to Notre Dame in 1996, the Irish have beaten Xavier seven straight times by a 4-1 combined score of 33-3. The last contest was a 1-0 embarrassment at Alumni Field.

The Irish, however, seem to know that any game they play is up for grabs as long as they don’t come out strong from the start. This tendency has plagued them this season and has allowed their opponents to take the lead in the four games the Irish did not win.

They came out strong in their last game against Big East rival Georgetown, winning the game 10-9. If this is an indication that they’re getting back on track, the rest of the regular season, the Big East tournament, and the NCAA tournament could prove to be a lot more interesting.

“We played well the whole game against Georgetown,” said sophomore defender Kate Sobrero. “The slump was something we had to get over. Another one that should be in Notre Dame’s favor is that they’re not taking the Munkenys lightly. We’re not expecting an easy game,” Sobrero said. “They have really good forwards. They’ve played some really tough opponents, but they’ve also scored some. Plus, they’re a very physical team.”

If everything goes well, the game could allow the Irish to recover the form they displayed at the beginning of the season.

“We’re really excited to get out and play because we’ve used some of our travel time to get some,” Sobrero concluded.

Irish salvage break with two Big East wins

By MICHAEL THOMPSON
Sports Writer

Over the course of Fall break, the Notre Dame volleyball team dropped four matches. All four losses, however, came at the hands of ranked teams.

On October 12-14, Notre Dame participated in the Georgia Tech Invitational. Georgia Tech, ranked 12th in the nation, was Notre Dame’s first opponent. The Yellow Jackets defeated the Irish in three straight sets.

On Sunday, the Irish had to face Texas once again. Four weeks ago, Texas handed the Irish their first loss of the season, and once again the Longhorns’ arsenal of kills was too much for the Irish defense.

The Irish lost to the No. 8 Longhorns, 15-11, 15-10, 15-9.

The next two opponents looked to be the second and third most difficult opponents on the Irish schedule this year. Stanford and Long Beach State proved why they are ranked third and fifteenth, respectively. Stanford defeated the Irish 11-15, 15-7, 15-5, and 15-11. Long Beach State had a little more trouble in their victory, winning 13-5, 9-15, 15-5, and 15-11.

Coach Debbie Brown was anything but sullen. Considering the long and difficult road trip for the Irish, once they returned to the JACC it was back to business. Syracuse was the first victim and the Irish showed new signs of life and confidence. Notre Dame took care of the Orangemen in straight sets, 15-3, 15-3, 15-1, allowing only seven points to be scored by the Big East opponent.

Sunday afternoon, Notre Dame was back on the mark again. In their fourth game match the Irish showed much more enthusiasm and made fewer errors.

Pittsburgh showed up with a fired-up and hungry team and made a run in the second set. The Irish finally put down the attack in the fourth.

“Syracuse and Pittsburgh opened up the season and we wanted to show that we are capable of playing our best.” Brown added. “We got us back into the upswing of things. Syracuse presented no real threat, but Pittsburgh put pressure on us. That gave us a little more experience to bring to the table. We’re excited to see what we will be up against in the NCAAs.”

Both losses, however, fired up and hungry team and made a run in the second set. The Irish finally put down the attack in the fourth.

“Syracuse and Pittsburgh opened up the season and we wanted to show that we are capable of playing our best. We got us back into the upswing of things. Syracuse presented no real threat, but Pittsburgh put pressure on us. That gave us a little more experience to bring to the table. We’re excited to see what we will be up against in the NCAAs.”

It’s truly amazing what one week can do for a man’s mind set. Lori Holtz is the perfect example.

Just a week ago, the Notre Dame coach was still smarting from his team’s rather lackluster play against a 24 point underdog and cringing at the game plan of one of the nation’s top five teams. He wondered aloud if his Irish truly had a prayer of staying on top.

Yesterday, however, fresh off a wonderful win over USC, Holtz was anything but sullen. Jovial was more the word for the day.

When asked about his back-ward for next week, the Irish coach was quick with a quip. “Hopefully nothing except maybe my wife,” Holtz joked.

One thing the Holtz family wants least wrapped around his neck is the distinction of losing to Boston College for the third straight year.

“Coming off a 49-7 drubbing at the hands of Army, there is little time to practice and get prepared for the next game. The players are hungry and ready to do their part to keep the momentum in the Tarheels’ favor. On every head ball, there was an elbow in somebody’s back. If the Irish completed a string of passes, it was broken up in any manner possible. Every advantage that could be taken was exploited.”

Some say that this is just evidence that Carolina has the will to win, or the killer instinct. People say that football is a part of the game, and that you can’t get away with it, you might as well do it.

FOOTBALL

Jovial Holtz still wary of Eagles

By TIM SHERMAN
Associate Sports Editor

It’s truly amazing what one week can do for a man’s mind set. Lori Holtz is the perfect example.

Just a week ago, the Notre Dame coach was still smarting from his team’s rather lackluster play against a 24 point underdog and cringing at the game plan of one of the nation’s top five teams. He wondered aloud if his Irish truly had a prayer of staying on top.

Yesterday, however, fresh off a wonderful win over USC, Holtz was anything but sullen. Jovial was more the word for the day.

When asked about his back-ward for next week, the Irish coach was quick with a quip. “Hopefully nothing except maybe my wife,” Holtz joked.

One thing the Holtz family wants least wrapped around his neck is the distinction of losing to Boston College for the third straight year.

“Coming off a 49-7 drubbing at the hands of Army, there is little time to practice and get prepared for the next game. The players are hungry and ready to do their part to keep the momentum in the Tarheels’ favor. On every head ball, there was an elbow in somebody’s back. If the Irish completed a string of passes, it was broken up in any manner possible. Every advantage that could be taken was exploited.”

Some say that this is just evidence that Carolina has the will to win, or the killer instinct. People say that football is a part of the game, and that you can’t get away with it, you might as well do it.