SMC creates program with spiritual focus

BY KATHLEEN POLICY

Saint Mary's Campus Ministry and Residence Life Departments have teamed up for a "partnership" to emphasize the importance of spiritual life on campus.

The people within this program hope that planned projects will bulk increase the presence of campus ministry in the residence halls and provide a spiritual presence on the campus in order to assist in times of crisis.

The Campus Ministry department has assigned a representative to each dorm. The representatives are to heighten the spiritual awareness of the students by organizing activities within the dorms to promote spiritual awareness. The representatives are Father Jim Gaullinhan, McGrady, Sister Betty Smoyer, S.N.D. (Regina), Judy Fean (Holy Cross), and Eileen Ponder (LeMans).

The activities are planned with the help of dorm residents "We want to show people who we are, and what we do. We want people to see that we are here to help them," said Susan Orr, Director of Residence Life.

The members of the Campus Ministry Department want to create an openness for the students to come in them in times of need. They see this as an opportunity to answer questions that students have about their faith. "The students may not be comfortable coming in to an office, but may be more comfortable talking to someone in their dorm," said Judy Fean, Campus Ministry Director.

Interested students are trying to become more active in campus ministry. The plan is to have a spiritual focus for the week of October 9th through October 15th.

---

JOIN THE OBSERVER

Wednesday, November 1, 1995 • Vol. XXVII No. #

THE INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER SERVING NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY'S

HALL PRESIDENTS’ COUNCIL

Council determines boundaries of funding

By BILL CONNOLLY

The Hall Presidents Council last night debated the constitutionality of two types of dorm funding.

According to the University's constitution, dorms cannot give funds to non-University charities or events for profit. However, events like Carroll Hall's Haunted House use funds given by Student Government to raise money for charities.

Such funds indirectly go to charity through the profits raised from the event. IFPC argued different suggestions to remedy this situation.

---

NIGHT FRIGHT

If it's Halloween, that must mean it's time for Carroll Hall's annual Haunted House. The Notre Dame tradition was interrupted for a while last night as a false fire alarm forced the evacuation of the premises.

The Notre Dame Fire Department responded to the call but no fire was found. The disturbance and wet weather failed to dampen spirits as the excited countenance of this ghost (above) shows. Lines for the Haunted House were long again this year.

---

Medina: Religion plays role in Cuban politics

By DEREK BETCHER

The religious nature of Cuba has an important role in the future of Cuba, according to Rene Cardenas Medina, who spoke yesterday at the Hear­­ral Center for International Studies.

In a lecture entitled "The Role of Protestantism in Cuba," Medina spoke about the current developments in Cuban religious movements, a key figure in both Cuba's Center of Psychological and Sociological Research and the University of Havana, was brought to campus by the University's Sociology Department and the Kelllogg Institute.

Medina's initialy tried to dispel the myth that Cuba is a predominantly Catholic country. He noted that only a small percentage of the Cuban population even practices a conventional form of Western Catholicism. Religion in Cuba is a "partnership" that planned and an indiscernable main part: Catholicism, Protestantism, Pantheonism, and Afro-Cuban blends of several paganisms have resulted in a group of people that do not want to have to affiliate themselves with any institution.

Nevertheless, recent developments may be strengthening Protestantism and Catholicism's positions, and Medina even labeled churches in Cuba as "tradi­tionally don't affiliate with any institution."

---

Board selects student regent

Medina's words may be relevant to the students' role in University politics. Medina likened the churches as a pre­­dominantly Catholic country. In order to have this honored position, Steinke went through a difficult elimination process. To apply, she wrote a letter to the Acting Dean of Student Affairs, listing her numerous qualifications.

Three recommendations were required that she received from a faculty member, a student, and a Resident Hall director. After reviewing the applications and respective letters of recommendation, the Student Affairs Council recommend four candidates to the Board of Regents for final selection.

"I didn't expect to get the position," said Steinke. "I kept getting a shock when I was asked back for more interviews."

Being the Student Regent, Steinke must attend a spring and fall meeting throughout the year. She also attends the Board Retreat in June, and meet with various Respect life by choosing life

Last week was Respect Life Week, a week dedicated to promoting an awareness of the sanctity of life and the pondering of issues concerning respect for life, such as the death penalty, euthanasia, and abortion. While it is true that the week went by without a great stir, much attention has been said concerning the crosses in front of the library. It ismitigated by the fact that the centenarian undergraduate population of Notre Dame is one of the most pro-life groups in the nation. The right to take a stand for the conservative tenor of our campus, many people here are proponents of abortion. They claim that the Constitution of the United States, the document that signed our freedoms, is willingly wiped out every two days, and many people here are proponents of abortion.

The call themselves Pro-Life advocates. They call the claim of the Constitution of the United States to protect the unborn as a legal choice. The right to have an abortion, to choose to live or to die, is a right. However, those who choose to abort have already chosen the right to life. The choice to have sex, they have chosen to unprotected sex. These people have chosen to deprive others of choosing to have sex, sexual activity with another person.

The claim that people who choose to have sex are not human, that they are not human beings, that they are not human beings. They are not human beings, that they are not human beings, that they are not human beings. They are not human beings, that they are not human beings.

Such an attitude is expressed in the new Statistical Abstract of the United States, published on Tuesday. It is a book of more than 1,000 pages, some with enough facts for a game of Jeopardy or Trivial Pursuit.

Whoopi chosen as Oscars' hostess

Whoopi is back on tap for the Oscars. The actress was selected by the academy's 5,400 members, the producer of the past six Oscar shows, to produce the 1994 Academy Awards ceremony. Last year, the honnor went to David Letterman, who received mixed reviews and a poor rating.

Scream show that often people are not even aware of the choice of the unborn. People that Halloween imagery has special appeal to children," said the producer of the past six Oscar shows. "It's a time when people are aware of the choice of the unborn. People that Halloween imagery has special appeal to children," said the producer of the past six Oscar shows. "It's a time when people are aware of the choice of the unborn.

Boos lead to more booze

Beer ads featuring Halloween characters such as Elvira and the Crypt Keeper are encouraging children to start drinking. The beer industry should withdraw these ads, health advocates say. "It's so blatantly obvious to people that Halloween imagery has special appeal to children," said Laurie Leiber, director of the Center on Alcohol Advertising in Berkeley. In a presentation for today at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, Leiber outlined "Hands Off Halloween," a campaign intended to persuade the beer industry to remove Halloween images from advertising. As just the industry has done with Santa Claus. Goats has been cited by the industry as a reason for their withdrawal. However, in its advertising, and Anheuser-Busch is this year using television's creepy Crypt Keeper — bones pecking out of his decaying clothes and all. Children start drinking by age 13 on average, and in high school in 1988 percent of the average age was 19.1. I believe that the drinking age in this country is not 21; the drinking age is when you can get it.

Whoopi is back on tap for the Oscars. The actress was selected by the academy's 5,400 members, the producer of the past six Oscar shows, to produce the 1994 Academy Awards ceremony. Last year, the honnor went to David Letterman, who received mixed reviews and a poor rating.

Scream show that often people are not even aware of the choice of the unborn. People that Halloween imagery has special appeal to children," said the producer of the past six Oscar shows. "It's a time when people are aware of the choice of the unborn. People that Halloween imagery has special appeal to children," said the producer of the past six Oscar shows. "It's a time when people are aware of the choice of the unborn.

Boos lead to more booze

Beer ads featuring Halloween characters such as Elvira and the Crypt Keeper are encouraging children to start drinking. The beer industry should withdraw these ads, health advocates say. "It's so blatantly obvious to people that Halloween imagery has special appeal to children," said Laurie Leiber, director of the Center on Alcohol Advertising in Berkeley. In a presentation for today at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, Leiber outlined "Hands Off Halloween," a campaign intended to persuade the beer industry to remove Halloween images from advertising. As just the industry has done with Santa Claus. Goats has been cited by the industry as a reason for their withdrawal. However, in its advertising, and Anheuser-Busch is this year using television's creepy Crypt Keeper — bones pecking out of his decaying clothes and all. Children start drinking by age 13 on average, and in high school in 1988 percent of the average age was 19.1. I believe that the drinking age in this country is not 21; the drinking age is when you can get it.
NASAND plans events for awareness month

Special to the Observer

The Native American Student Association of Notre Dame (NASAND) will sponsor two campus events in November in observance of Native American Awareness Month.

The film "Thunderheart" will be shown in Cushing Auditorium on Thursday (November 2) at 8 p.m.

The film features aspects of Native American culture, reservation life, and political corruption within and without the reservation community.

A panel is discussion with Native American students will follow the presentation. Admission is free.

Native American comedian Charlie Hill will perform on November 11 at 8 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library auditorium. An Ojibwa Indian from Wisconsin, Hill worked as a disk jockey, studied acting and was a member of a Wisconsin theater group before becoming nationally famous as a performer on the Richard Pryor Show. His first album, "Born Again Savagery," was recently released by Universal Sound Productions.

He now appears on numerous late night television programs, including Jay Leno's Tonight Show and David Letterman's Late Night, and he has a role in an upcoming episode of Roseanne. Tickets to Hill's Notre Dame appearance ($3 for students and $5 for all others) will be sold at the door.

If you see news happening, call The Observer at 1-5323.

Pregnant?

We Care.

Women's Care Center

Free Pregnancy Test
Referrals to Support Agencies
Confidential Counseling

Call 234-0363
(24 hours)
SOUTH BEND
417 N. St. Louis Blvd.
(Convenient to Campus)

As part of Native American Awareness Month in November, the Native American Student Association of Notre Dame is proud to present

Thunderheart

"A Dramatic Movie, Starring Val Kilmer, About Corruption And Culture."

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1995
7:00 pm
Cushing Auditorium
FREE ADMISSION

Panel discussion with Native American student following the film.

O'Meara names appointees

Special to the Observer

University of Notre Dame academic-administrative and faculty appointments for the 1995-1996 academic year have been announced by the University's provost, Timothy O'Meara.

Faculty appointed since fall 1994 are:

- David Alonso, visiting assistant professor, department of chemistry and biochemistry.
- Albert-LaSalle Barabasi, assistant professor of physics.
- Robert Battalio, instructor of chemistry.
- Susan Blaha, adjunct assistant professor of the Freshman Writing Program.
- Cara Carroccia, assistant professor of architecture.
- Eve Caulfield, visiting assistant professor of marketing.
- Karen Chandler, assistant professor of mathematics.
- Cheng-wo Chi, visiting professor of chemistry and biochemistry.
- P. Richard Ciccone, adjunct professor of American studies.
- Oliver Collins, associate professor of electrical engineering.
- Marc Cameron Conner, visiting assistant professor of the Program of Liberal Studies.
- Olivia Constable, associate professor of history.
- Michael Coppelod, associate professor of government and international studies.
- L. Stephen Cory, assistant professor of naval science.
- Brian Ford Crippen, fellow in the Kellogg Institute for International Studies.
- Zadilla Suarez de Mata, visiting professor of biological sciences.
- Linda Doerschger, adjunct staff librarian.
- David Ferguson, John A. O'Brien adjunct professor of theology.

Money will go to benefit Logan Center

The medical neck brace worn by Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz since his September spinal surgery will be auctioned off by WNDU-TV on Thursday.

The television station is currently accepting bids, which must be received via U.S. Mail, facsimile, electronic mail or hand-delivery by 10 a.m. Thursday.

The brace, which has been autographed and dated by Holtz, will become the property of the highest bidder, and the proceeds will be donated to the Logan Center in South Bend.

Logan Center is a not-for-profit organization providing a range of services to the developmentally disabled.

All persons, age 18 or older, are eligible to participate in the auction, except for the employees and their families of WNDU and the firms aiding in the auction, except for the employees and their families of WNDU and the firms aiding in the auction.

Money will be awarded to the person with the next highest bid who will be declared the winner.

Payment can be made by certified check or money order, payable to "Logan Center," at the WNDU-TV business office.

No other form of payment will be accepted.

The auction is being conducted by Michiana Telecasting Corporation, owner of WNDU-TV.

It is being administered by the auction judges: Gary Sieher, Louis Pierce, Ellen Cooke and Gregory Cigiz, all employees of Michiana Telecasting.

All above rules will be administered and interpreted by the judges, whose decisions by the judges are final.

Holtz to auction neck brace

As part of Native American Awareness Month in November, the Native American Student Association of Notre Dame is proud to present

Thunderheart

"A Dramatic Movie, Starring Val Kilmer, About Corruption And Culture."

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1995
7:00 pm
Cushing Auditorium
FREE ADMISSION

Panel discussion with Native American student following the film.

The National Shakespeare Company presents

HAMLET

Tickets $8 general
$6 students
Available at Lafun Information Desk.
Call 466-5111 for reservations

The Observer • NEWS page 3

Parents Weekend!
8:00 PM
Friday Nov. 3, Washington Hall
Steinke continued from page 1
panels and committees through out the year. "Julie's leadership and communication style set her apart from the other students," said Linda Pat- tim, Vice President of Student Affairs.
All students are encouraged to apply the second semester of their junior year. "I think everone should try for it," said Steinke. "Because it is a great opportunity to find out more about the college, and to be surrounded by great intellectual people. The process is also a good job interview prepara-

Medina continued from page 1
cessable contingent. Of this complicated international communication, Medina said, "This is actually a positive effect of the embargo for our religions."

While Cuban leader Fidel Castro has not done anything as extreme as outlawing religion, Medina admitted, "It's true that religion and social life have been constricted, but this is changing."

An example Medina gave of Cuba's increasing role in religion was the Cardinal of Havana's recent appointment as vice president of Cemal, a Latin American Catholic coal-tion.

Despite these advances of Catholicism, Protestantism remains the dominant institution in Cuba. Medina asserted that recent changes resulting in more active and participative liturgies have added to Protestantism's popularity.

In Third World capitalist countries, political and moral transitions must be aided by a modern rationality, a rationality that Medina felt Protestantism is providing in Cuba. Protestantism may develop into an important role in Cuba, to see how potentially important one need only examine the role that the religious right currently plays in American politics.

And so, Medina tried to show that although Cuba's religious community may counter the beliefs of many outsiders, it is still vying for a more suitable form of religion, notably Protestantism.

HPC continued from page 1
stead of directly being given out.

Since the money allocated to dorms by student government comes directly from the student body's tuition, the HPC was concerned that some might object in their tuition dollars being toward a specific charity. The HPC discussed the point that, according to the school's constitution, four dorms must sponsor an event in order to receive money. This point has been disregarded in the past through events such as Carroll's Haunted House and Keenan Hall's Keenan Revue.

This provision was made so that one dorm would not be granted a large part of the funds for performing an event which only a small part of the student body would be attending.

In light of this debate, a bud-gest meeting was scheduled in order to further discuss these issues. The HPC plans to vote on these issues in the near future.

The HPC also heard from a number of the Native American Student's Association at Northern Illinois University. Sophomore Reymundo Diaz explained how members of his group were offended by what they say is the exploitation of Native Americans depicted in the murals of Christopher Columbus located in the Main Building. He also discussed how NASA-ND planned to discuss this issue with the administration.
The students met with Patri-cio O'Hara, vice-president of student affairs last Friday. She said she would pass the students' concerns along to the University's officers when she meets with them at the next officers' meeting on November 28.

Any students interested in this issue should call the Multicultural Office and speak with Candice Pascua, president of NASA-ND.

NASA-ND has suggested that the paintings be placed in the Snite Museum of Art. The group believes the paintings to be art. However, they disagree with the paintings' depiction of Columbus discovering America - NASA-ND believes Columbus was merely lost and did not discover anything.

Since the paintings could be perceived as depicting the white race as superior to Native Americans and other races, NASA-ND and other local cultural groups believe they have no place in the Main Building.

In addition, Alumni Hall announced its Thanksgiving Blood Drive, which will occur on November 15 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. in Alumni's lounge.

Medina continued from page 1

Ministry continued from page 1
in the program, new lecturers for the Lenten lecture series, "Friendship as Holiess," will be a part of lunch-chons hosted by the residence halls whith the students after the lecture in Statler Lounge.

Michigan considers stricter welfare laws
By JUDY DAUBENMIER
Associated Press

LANING, Mich. Welfare recipients who don't try to find a job would lose their benefits after 60 days under tough new rules proposed Tuesday by Gov. John Engler. The program is not meant to punish, but to encourage welfare recipients to participate in the labor force.
"We think that the best welfare reform is a job and that private sector jobs are available to many," Engler said. "This landmark day marks the end of welfare as we know it and the beginning of a new, empowered life for aid recipients."

Engler and legislative leaders said they expect to pass the package by the end of the year so it will be ready to implement by the time Congress grants the state more flexibility to run their own programs.

Engler, a Republican in his second term, and welfare chief Gerald Miller predicted the changes would drastically reduce welfare rolls but declined to estimate how much.

The proposal builds on efforts under way in Michigan since 1992 to push welfare recipients into jobs. The state estimates more than 70,000 families have left welfare for work since Oc-

Recipients must already look for work, perform community service or work 20 hours a week to receive benefits, but it currently takes a year for the state to trim benefits of those who don't comply.

Under the proposed rules, a single case worker will be responsible for helping a welfare recipient line up all needed ser-s, from finding a part-time job to establishing paternity or arranging child care. The worker will be responsible for a recipient until he or she is off welfare.

Currently, a recipient may have to speak to several people to get all the assistance available. The state would step up enforcement of child abuse and neglect laws in cases of children whose parents lose their benefits because they refuse to follow the new rules, Miller said.

"Welfare mothers can no longer expect to stay home with their children and count that as productive activity," Engler said. "Staying at home is 'fine as long as you don't ask somebody else to pay the bills.'"

The exceptions: mothers of children less than 6 weeks old, teen mothers and people with disabilities, said John Truscott, a spokesman for the governor. Teen-age mothers will be required to live with parents, other relatives or in an adult home.
A former recipient of Aid to Families With Dependent Children wasn't sure putting new mothers to work is a productive move.

Spring Break 1996 TRAVEL FREE!!
Jamaica, Calcutta, Bahammas Panama City, Davison, Pratt*  Great low, low prices  Free Trip on only 15 sales Call for a FREE information packet!
Sun Splash Tours 1-800-426-7710

Schedule for November

domingo, 5 de Noviembre de 1995
11:30 a.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
The Most Rev. Mark G. McGrath, D.D.
Archbishop Emeritus of Panama

domingo, 12 de Noviembre de 1995
No Spanish Mass

domingo, 19 de Noviembre de 1995
11:30 a.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
Padre James McDonald, C.S.C.

Todos Estan Invitados

SPANISH MASS
MAÑANA EN ESPÁNOL
MIÉRCOLES 17 DE NOVIEMBRE DE 1995
11:30 a.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
Padre Dr. Michael Pollack, S.J.

SÁBADO, 19 DE NOVIEMBRE DE 1995
2:30 p.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
Padre Oscar Arias Sánchez, Nobel Peace Prize

Jueves, 24 de Noviembre de 1995
11:30 a.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
Rev. Dr. José Angel Gutiérrez, Director, Caritas Internationalis,
Washington, D.C.

Sábado, 26 de Noviembre de 1995
11:30 a.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
Rev. Dr. Juan José Ortiz, National Director, CARITAS, Chapultepec, Mexico

DOMINGO, 27 DE NOVIEMBRE DE 1995
11:30 a.m. Stanford-Keenan Chapel
Padre Antonio Ayala, S.J.

Todos Estan Invitados

Spanish Mass
Parizeau: Immigrants weighed heavily in outcome

By SHEILA NORMAN-CULP

MONTREAL

Us and them.

That's how Quebec Premier Jacques Parizeau described Francophone separatists like himself and ethnic minority groups who, he maintained, blame him for demolishing the separatists' dreams of making Quebec an independent country.

His comments left immigrants in Quebec wondering — again — if the province's French majority would ever consider them more than second-class citizens, and prompted television analysts to label Parizeau a demagogue.

"It's true we have been defeated, but basically by what?" asked Parizeau. "Not by leaving Quebec."

Parizeau said Monday night in a news conference, following a speech to French separatists.

On Tuesday, the backlash against Parizeau was so great that Parizeau announced his resignation at the end of the fall legislative term and apologized for his comments.

"I spoke uselessly, but that does not change the facts," said the 65-year-old politician, whose name is synonomous with the push for sovereignty. Parizeau said he decided to leave "a long time ago," but there were no hints of that position in his concession speech Monday.

Immigrants make up an estimated 15 percent of Quebec's population — or about 700,000 people — and are concentrated around Montreal, the province's largest city.

They provided a key swing vote in Monday's referendum, with 90 percent voting against separatism in an election decided by the thinnest of margins.

Lana Osborne, 42, a native of Trinidad and Tobago who came to Montreal 23 years ago, said the premier's comments stung.

"I think he was just ignorant. I felt it was the hurt of losing that brought it on," she said, fingering the cross around her heart and saying she was married to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

"Hopefully, we will be able to overcome that. But if this the head speaking, you have to wonder about the party's message," she added.

Parizeau's comments "confirm what we have always believed: This was a very racist campaign. They were trying to hide it, but it came out," said Farhat Abbasi, chairman of the Islamic Center of Quebec.

Ethnic groups do not enjoy the respectability that "purely French" do, he added, using an expression meaning pure wool that refers to long-time French residents of Quebec.

Quebec, which has some autonomy over its immigration policy, is not as receptive to French-speaking immigrants as neighboring provinces like West Africa. Studies, however, have found that the children of these immigrants are cool to Quebec, but only narrowly — 50.6 percent to 49.4 percent.

Monday, said he would try to get other provincial premiers to look at the threat to the government of Quebec, which is a part of the tinct society.

Bouchard described his reaction to Parizeau's offer as "boredom" and "big yawns."

"Nobody's going to get us sovereignists involved in any of these discussions," he said.

Parizeau's comments stung. The premier quit after making a devastating speech.

By DAVID CRARY

MONTREAL

Stung by defeat in the separatist referendum, Quebec Premier Jacques Parizeau said Tuesday he plans to resign, but also apologized for blaming the loss on non-French-Québécois, Parizeau maintained staunch support, however, for the separatist cause that has been at the heart of his long political career. He said his Parti Québécois would choose new leadership capable of achieving independence for the mostly French-speaking province.

Parizeau, 65, was elected premier last year after promising to hold a referendum on secession. His side lost Monday, but only narrowly — 50.6 percent to 49.4 percent.

But at the same time that the separatists could have been taking heart at their strong showing, Parizeau shocked even his allies with a beercan-sized campaign headquarters, blaming the defeat on immigrants.

"It's true we have been defeated, but basically by what?" Parizeau said in his resignation speech.

Parizeau's co-leader in the separatist Parti Québécois, Lucien Bouchard, distanced himself from Parizeau's comments on Tuesday, signaling that the premier's position had become untenable.

Parizeau expressed regret for

Canadian dollar holds steady; investors still fret

By BARBARA BORST

TORONTO

The Quebec referendum that preserved Canada lifted stocks and the Canadian dollar Tuesday. But the federalist victory was so narrow, and long-term uncertainties so close, that investors and executives remained wary.

The outcome was a "reprive, not a pardon," said Desmond Morton, director of the McGill University Institute for the Study of Canadian Democracy.

"The Canadian dollar may go up, but not as far as if the issue had been put in a box and buried," he said.

The Toronto Stock Exchange composite index shot up 130 points Tuesday and settled back to close up 79.40 points, or about 1.8 percent, at 4,459.16. The Canadian dollar ended its North American trading day at 74.35 U.S. cents, up 0.77 cents from Monday.

In response, the Bank of Canada lowered a key interest rate used to set consumer rates. Analysts predicted it will also slash up to 1.25 percent off the rate base. Standard & Poor's lifted its rating on the Dominion Bond Rating Service reaffirmed Quebec's bond rating.

"In the short term, it's good," said Morton, "but the government is maintaining a cool economic dividend.

The vote Monday gave those opposed to separating 0.6 per cent above a narrow victory — 50.6 percent to 49.4 percent.

Monday, said he would try to get other provincial premiers to look at the threat to the government of Quebec, which is a part of the tinct society.

Bouchard described his reaction to Parizeau's offer as "boredom" and "big yawns."

"Nobody's going to get us sovereignists involved in any of these discussions," he said.

Parizeau's comments stung. The premier quit after making a devastating speech.
Bankrupt governor turns to wife

By EUN-KYUNG KIM
Associated Press

PHOENIX

Gov. Fife Symington, a one-time millionaire who promised to run the state like his real estate empire, told creditors at a bankruptcy hearing Tuesday he has turned to his wife and mother to help pay his mounting debts.

The two-term Republican underwent a painstaking examination of his finances but offered little new in his first court appearance since filing for personal bankruptcy Sept. 20.

Though he comes from a family that traces its wealth to industrialist Henry Clay Frick, and is married to a wealthy heiress, Symington claimed assets of just $61,000. Other assets, including his townhouse in an exclusive gated community, are in the name of his wife, Ann.

Symington lost millions in Arizona’s boom-to-bust real estate economy in the late 1980s and early 1990s. He owes nearly $25 million, including more than $11 million to a consortium of union pension funds that financed a downtown shopping center that has attracted almost no shops or shoppers.

Attorney Michael Manning, representing the pension funds, questioned Symington at length for two hours. He probed for details of family trusts that have at times been vague, he said.

"It's pure politics," Manning said of Symington’s answers. "I'm satisfied that the governor knows who he's trying to embarrass me," he said. The governor later called the question "pure politics."

Manning said that despite the sometimes vague answers, he was satisfied.

"It's the first round and it went like we expected it to," he said. "We gained a lot of information we needed. There's a lot of fodder to follow.

Symington said he has four family trusts which provided about $30,000 a year in interest. He said he also has received portions of the principal on a few occasions in the past. "I have the ability to request a distribution from the trustees.

They are totally independent. Sometimes they say yes, sometimes they say no," Symington said. He provided no details other than to say that of some of the trusts went to pay legal and accounting fees.

He said he doesn’t know the total value of the trusts, though he has previously said they are worth less than $1 million total.

Symington also said his wife and mother have helped pay off legal bills that have amounted to over $1 million.

He was sued in 1991 by the federal Resolution Trust Corp. over his actions as director of a failed savings and loan that invested in one of his projects. He and other defendants settled the $200 million lawsuit for $12 million in an agreement that didn’t require Symington to pay any money or admit wrongdoing.

A parallel criminal investigation by a federal grand jury continues.

In addition to legal fees, Symington said he owed about $1 million to the accounting firm Coopers & Lybrand and has paid part of it. A party was paid out of various sources, some of which he paid, some of which my wife paid," Symington said. He said his mother, Martha, also contributed $30,000 to $40,000. Nothing will have to be handled in a formal court hearing.

Ex-juror: Governor knew of plot

By PAUL QUARY
A panel of ND alums will share their career paths and experiences, offer suggestions, and answer questions –

By EUN-KYUNG KIM
Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY

The grand juror thrown off the panel investigating the federal building bombing says the governor knew all along who John Doe No. 2 is and Sy­mington was the plot, before the explosion.

"He was either a government agent or a government inform­ant, either way they had..."签署了炸弹的爆炸，而且他们说他们无权去完成这项工作。当他们开始工作时，Heidelberg has been exposed for as long as he’s known.

"I’m satisfied that the govern­ment know who he is," Heidelberg says of the suspect pictured in FBI sketches dis­tributed right after the bomb­ing. "Just a bunch on my part."

His quotes come from more than 200 pages of transcripts filed by prosecutors contesting the defense motion to dismiss the indictment against Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols.

McVeigh and Nichols told face the death penalty if convicted on murder and conspir­acy charges in the April 19 bombing that killed 169 people. Defense lawyers submitted tigh­tly edited transcripts of the interview earlier this month, saying Heidelberg’s comments show that prosecutors illegally refused to present evidence demanded by jurors about John Doe No. 2 and a larger conspir­acy.

The full transcript shows that Heidelberg was the lone dis­senter, and even he voted to indict. Grand jurors vote by a two-thirds majority, but prosecu­tors effectively control what they see and hear.

A judge could still jail Heidelberg, 55, for as long as six months.

Career Options within Non-Profit Organizations

The decision, the opportunities, the challenges, the rewards!

A panel of ND alums will share their career paths and experiences, offer suggestions, and answer questions –

• Bill Appleby Purcell, MD '92
  Vice President, Non-Profit Regional Training
  United Way of Elkhart County

• Bonnie Raine, PhD '83
  Executive Director
  United Health Services of St. Joseph County

• Roger Mullins, MBA '91
  Associate Vice President for Human Resources
  University of Notre Dame

Thursday, November 2nd
4:00 - 5:30 p.m.
Center for Social Concerns
Memorial honors those killed in Indiana plane crash

By NANCY ARMOUR
Associated Press

BOISELAWN, Ind. — Family and friends of those killed in the crash of American Eagle Flight 4184 returned to the sight once more Tuesday, this time to dedicate two memorials to their loved ones.

"It's difficult to think she's in three different places. Parts of her are here, parts of her are in Merrillville, parts of her are in (a cemetery)," said LaVerne Tuck, whose daughter Cheryl Dwyer was killed last Halloween.

"I'm really grateful that they've remembered them."
Energy Department to conduct nuclear tests

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Energy Department said Tuesday its Nevada Test Site will conduct six subcritical explosions using nuclear materials over the next two years to help ensure the safety and reliability of its atomic weapons stockpile.

Department officials emphasized there will be elaborate safeguards to assure that the underground experiments are designed to prevent a self-sustaining nuclear chain reaction and a nuclear explosion.

The Clinton administration is committed to ending nuclear testing. Last August, President Clinton said he would seek a "zero" yield comprehensive test ban treaty as part of ongoing negotiations in Geneva.

"To ensure these experiments cannot result in a nuclear explosion and are, thus, consistent with the president's 'zero' yield policy, each experimental design will undergo a technical compliance review," the Energy Department said in a statement.

"The analysis must conclude that, by design, the experiment will not reach criticality in order to proceed with the experiment," it continued.

The department said it planned two subcriticality experiments next year and four additional experiments in 1997. They will be conducted 980 feet underground at the Nevada Test Site's Lyner facility.

Also, the department said it awarded a five-year, $1.5 billion contract to Bechtel Nevada Corp., to manage the test site.

CIA faces long road to repair

By DONALD ROTHERBERG
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

An assessment of damage to U.S. intelligence caused by the Aldrich Ames spy case provides "a devastating record" that will take years to repair, CIA Director John Deutch said Tuesday.

After closed sessions with the House and Senate intelligence committees, Deutch acknowledged that the investigation had uncovered evidence that the president and top government officials were fed information that originated with CIA sources controlled by the Soviet KGB.

"It's an inexcusable lapse in elementary intelligence practice," said Deutch.

The CIA director said that agency officials knew the information came from double agents but did not tell the recipients in government, including the president.

"Distribution of the tainted information is believed to have occurred during the Reagan and Bush administrations.

"Nobody could be more indignant than I am," he said.

Deutch noted that as a former deputy defense secretary he was a recipient of CIA reports. "It is a devastating record that will take us years and years to recover from," he said.

Deutch said the damage assessment was done by an independent team of intelligence analysts and operations officers from throughout the intelligence community.

"We are all deeply sorry that we have let you down in this crucial area," Deutch told Congress.

The CIA was created in 1947 to coordinate the U.S. intelligence community that includes the FBI, the National Security Agency and the National Intelligence Council.

The CIA is responsible for gathering intelligence, but Deutch said the damage assessment was not about intelligence reports or how poorly they are written.

The CIA has been criticized for not knowing about the Ames espionage ring until last May. Ames, a CIA officer, admitted in August that he passed classified information and money to an FBI agent posing as a spy.

A late 1980s plea bargain on a bank fraud charge enabled Ames to avoid a more serious conviction.

The CIA spy ring uncovered by the FBI has cost the agency prestige and millions of dollars, the CIA said in its internal report.

Bomb squad discovers device at courthouse

Associated Press

CHICAGO

A "book bomb" addressed to a federal judge was discovered today at Chicago's federal courthouse and detonated by a police bomb squad, authorities said.

No injuries were reported.

The bomb, a book rigged to explode when the recipient opened it, could have caused significant damage, U.S. Marshal Joseph DiLeonardi said.

DiLeonardi declined to identify the judge, saying only that he had received threats involving two cases before his court, one of them involving civil rights.

The bomb was discovered this morning when the package addressed to the judge was X-rayed.

The parking garage area beneath the skyscraper Everett M. Dirksen Federal Building was then evacuated, and the bomb squad detonated the book bomb in the garage, officials said.

Wanted: Reporters, photographers and editors.
Join The Observer staff.

The Notre Dame Symphony Orchestra

Dan Stowe, Conductor

Featuring works by Grieg, Tchaikovsky, Beethoven, Brahms

Thursday, November 2, 1995
8:00 p.m.
Washington Hall
Free admission

The Politics of Disabilities: Independence vs. Dependence

The Inclusion of People with Disabilities in Communities of Faith

Prof. Brett Webb-Mitchell
Duke University Divinity School

Thursday, November 2, 1995
7:30 p.m.
Moreau Seminary Auditorium

The public is invited

Sponsored by LOGAN and the University of Notre Dame Center for Social Concerns, Law School, Masters of Divinity Program and Moreau Seminary.

For more information call LOGAN - 289-4831

Edna K Miller Memorial Lecture
Exploring questions of equal representation

Cristiane Likely

Don't make me have to make you pump yourself. As I roll my eyes and give a deserved sigh of "good grief," I must control the overwhelming urge to go off and vent some bent up frustration, but I won't, not today anyway.

I just want to address one issue that bugs me probably more than anything else in my subconscious "trivial" sense, which is the question of representation.

From my knowledge, I am probably the only black columnist writing on any major newspaper. I've known a few editors here and there, but that's about it.

Someone asked me the other day if I am supposed to write about black issues, was that my calling or my specific duty? Well, no. No one specifically told me to write about black people. I just do.

I know I personally have a lot of things to talk about, but always in the back of my head I know that if I don't, who will. Believe me there have been times when I really have not wanted to sit down at this computer and write my articles column, but if I don't who will speak for me? Who will voice my interests and concerns? Who will voice black students interests and concerns?

Obviously, this is a problem not only at Notre Dame but nationwide. Our institutions, governmental and educational, lack equal representation, which puts a heavy load on those individuals who lack the representation and those sparse souls who have too much responsibility for their numbers, but more numbers isn't inherently the solution, for instance, Clarence Thomas.

Our institutions, governmental and educational, lack equal representation, which puts a heavy load on those who lack the representation and those sparse souls who have too much responsibility for their numbers, but more numbers isn't inherently the solution, for instance, Clarence Thomas.

I personally don't know the man nor do I know much about him, but as a successful black man he has caught my attention.

I do know that he grew up in South Bronx, in a less than stable community life, much like most black people. He beat the odds, went to college, joined the United States Army and became an imminent success.

Now, I am not going to do the whole voting thing as I usually see it as either casting my vote for the devil or his brother, but now, it is different. Powell might run, that changes everything. Powell might run, that changes everything.

Cristiane Likely is a senior living in Pasquerilla West Hall. She can be reached over e-mail at: clicke@nd.edu ‘Mondegreeners’ interpret lyrics in their own way

I blame my parents. I don’t recall them ever taking me to get my hearing checked as a child. May­be that’s why I hear Eric Clapton’s “Lay Down Sally” as “Way Down South.” Or sing Pearl Jam’s “Can’t Find a Better Man” as “Can’t Find the Big Man.”

I know I’m not a talker when it comes to misheard lyrics. Surely, many of you have sung along with me while a recording of a song is playing. Maybe I’m the one on the recording that is singing inaccurate verses of a song.

Great humiliation for belting out the wrong lyric at a middle school chorus concert.

Flashback: The year is 1987. It’s late spring. I’d been selected to sing an excerpt from “Huck Finn” the musical. A cue came from the pianist and instead of singing about a pig, I sang about some man being big.

Although I’m over the embarrassment, singing inaccurate verses of a song has been a common thing throughout my life. And it hasn’t been that hard to try to sing a song correctly and fail to do so. On a whim I make-up my own lyrics only to be stopped by some annonyed person and cor­rected.

But now there’s support for those of us who’ve ever misheard a lyric wrong. Gavin Edwards, a contributing editor for Details magazine and author of “Scare Me While I Kiss This Guy and Other Mishearing Melodramas” ($8.95) gathered the courage to admit he was a chronic “ Monroe­ green.” By now all of you have heard the term for one who mishears lyrics. His book is named after “I was me while I kiss the sky” in Jimi Hendrix’s “Purple Haze.”

Mondegreens or misheard lyrics are found in virtually every aspect of the music industry. This extends from the CD buyer who asks for a copy of “Roxanne” by The Police instead of “Roll On,” the author of a book I’ve complied a list of my top ten favorites, and the correct lyrics follow.

1) “Nice Arrangement,” The Knack; it’s “My

2) “Take your pants down and make it hap­pen,” Irene Cara; it’s “Take your passion and make it happen.” From “Flashdance...What a Feeling.”

3) “Baking carrot biscuits.” Bachman­

4) “Secret Asian Man.” Johnny Rivers;

5) “Mama say mama saw my moocassins.”

6) “Huck Finn.” Or “Down South.”

7) “My heels are alive with the sound of music.” The Sound of Music; “The hills are alive with the sound of music.”

8) “Apartheid lover,” Stevie Wonder; “Part­Time Lover.”

9) “And doughnuts make my brown eyes blue.” Crystal Gayle; “Don’t It Make My Brown Eyes Blue.”

10) “You were counting on your ovaries...” Billy Joel; “You were counting on your ovaries...” From Notre Dame’s favorite, “Only the Good Die Young.”

In 1987, concern over parents like Tipper Gore have asked for the labeling of popular music so song lyrics may be monitored. However, recent studies in this area have shown the majority of people do not understand song lyrics. Researchers try especially hard to find fault with heavy metal music but cannot do so because the lyrics can’t be understood. Tipper, don’t you really have to be the one who wrote heavy metal music to understand it?

Plus, why worry about song lyrics being violent when many readily decide they like their own version of a song. My version of Pearl Jam’s “Can’t find the Butter. Man” is practical when I am in need of this condiment and it can’t be found in a messy refrigerator. Hey, those dairy products are important.

And according to Edwards, there is nothing wrong with coming out of the closet and singing lyrics as you hear them. For who’s to say that those who misheard lyrics aren’t more exciting?

This column is dedicated to Rob Adams who taught us all a little something about “correct” lyrics.

Kara Pavlik is a senior at Saint Mary’s. She can be reached via e-mail at pavlik97@email.saint­marys.edu.

SMC Women’s Center questions use of ‘Belles’

Dear Editor:

We are writing in response to Kara Pavlik’s article on the Saint Mary’s mascot which appeared in The Observer on October 10. We at the Saint Mary’s Women’s Center strongly support Pavlik’s viewpoint which questions the appropriateness of “The Belles” as a school mascot. As a college dedicated to educating independent women, we feel a name such as “The Belles” is degrading. This issue has been present on cam­pus for the past two years, yet the apathy of the student body has hindered any sort of positive change which could occur.

If Saint Mary’s students truly care about their school and are concerned with the problems we are faced with, then we should take issues such as our degrading mascot seri­ously.

The women’s center offers the SMC community a comfortable atmosphere to discuss a variety of issues including politics, campus topics and societ­al problems which we are faced with as women. We hope the SMC community will begin to take a stance on current issues.

In a college environment such as our own, many times individuals overlook important topics which seem so minor because they become the norm. We invite you all to think in a different light and begin to truly look at what your school represents. Do you want to be known as a passive group of undereducated girls, or do you want to be known for who you truly are: strong, intelligent and growing women of the nineties.

THE STUDENTS OF THE SMC WOMEN’S CENTER

Kara Pavlik

SMC Women’s Center president

Flip-Side president criticizes illustration for inaccuracy

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to Greg Barlin’s Accent article (page 9) about the Flip Side, the group dedicated to offering alcohol-free social activities to the Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s community.

The article itself was excellent and accurately portrayed the various aspects of our organization. However, we feel that the illustration accompanying the article- a picture of a man holding a cross through it- can easily lead to a misunderstanding of the purpose of our organization.

The purpose of our organization is to stamp out the use of alcohol on campus. This, as the article thankfully emphasized, is not the case.

Flip Side is not out to encourage nor discourage the use of alcohol on campus; we merely seek to provide alternative social activities for people who might be looking for something different to do on weekends. Anyone, drinker or non-drinker, who wants to participate in our activities is welcome to join us.

Your dramatic graphic strongly suggested that the Flip Side is some sort of Puritanical temperance crusade. Nothing could be further from the truth. We’re just a group that wants to help people at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s have fun.

Unfortunately, this was not accurately conveyed by the gi­ gantic cross-out over flowing beer mug. Please be aware of this, and more thoughtful in your use of accompanying graphics in the future.
By SARAH CASHMORE

The Beauty of the Written Word

...something else where you have to make a difference. It's social inter-
...tion with social problems. It's supposed to give you a new perspective,
...uring you," Jeremy Juskunas, another '95 Plunge participant, agrees.
...hings, but you can make a difference within yourself. It can erase a lot of
...ing the problems of poverty, it can afford to do it. It's my job and take for the people. Juskunas also joined Auth and Jaskunas as ...Plunge participants who work with the Urban Plunge Task Force be
...e the people who I've been completely impressed by the people who ...touched me very much," says Gerben.
...the school, and housing projects. "The things that we saw, the people
...en and interacting with the men, women, and children who partici-
...Urban Plunge 95 participant not only served as a Task Force member; she
...s a person emerge from an experience can offer only brief expo-
...served as a Task Force member; she plans to take the plunge all over
...one night with several gang members and two Christian Brothers," he ...showed a clip from a TV program which had been made about their
...e evening, they showed her mother crying over her body in the
...and, hopefully, to inspire them to do something about it.
...Can 48 hours make a difference? Undoubtedly, a young mind change
...times, and you don't even know how you do it. Forty-eight hours may
...rer Plunge last January.
...after completing a registration form and presenting an identification
...number from the CSC, those who choose to participate in Urban Plunge
...Urban Plunge is based in Columbus, Ohio. Urban Plunge participant

Holy Cross students who participated in Urban Plunge last January.

Participants agree that the most important aspects of the program are
...of things, that it doesn't just numbers, it's real people," Participants recall
...and, hopefully, to inspire them to do something about it.

Urban Plunge will be held the week of January 3-11, 1996. Registration
...f a person who emerges from an experience can offer only brief expo-

Participants of the Urban Plunge program examine inner city problems.
STORMING THE CAPITAL

Whether it be for a week or a semester...

By KRISTIN TRABUCCO
Accent Writer

Take 21 community-minded college students, one week in October, welfare reform, and the nation's capital and what do you get? No, not one big economically con-scientious party. It's the Washington Seminar.

From October 14 through October 20, during Fall Break, a group of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students traveled to Washington, D.C. for the seminar, whose topic was entitled, "Welfare: Public or Private Responsibility?"

The students met with and heard a variety of speakers concerning different aspects of the welfare reform issue. These included Congressman Tim Roemer (D-IN), a Notre Dame alumnus, Patrick Fagan, a Policy Analyst for Family Culture at the Heritage Foundation, and Ron Hauts from the House of Representatives Committee on Ways and Means.

They heard from both liberal and conservative sides, as well as from philosophical, economic, and moral positions.

The focus of discussion was on how welfare reform affects children and young mothers, especially regarding the proposed "family cap," which limits aid to young mothers on welfare who have more than two children.

This cut is designed to diminish illegitimacy in America, which some conservatives believe is the need for welfare.

The students spoke with social workers who work with those on welfare, as well as with those on welfare in order to get a closer perspective on the issue. They do not disagree that there is a need for reform, but they disagree with lawmakers on how the problem should be solved.

The group in addition heard from the U.S. Catholic Conference, which provided them with the views of Catholic bishops, who are not happy with the views of the White House.

They are concerned with both citizens and government doing their share to help. Many bishops also fear that the "family cap" will cause an increase in the number of abortions.

When the group was in Washington, they witnessed firsthand the Million Man March organized by Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan. It took place on Monday, October 16, with the "official" attendance figure approxi-mately 400,000.

Regardless of the fact that Farrakhan maintains that the head count was much higher, it was the largest black economic convention ever convened in the U.S. "It worked out well," said the trip's coordinator, graduate student, Theresa Vihayahil, because it related to the issues the seminar was addressing. With the March, Farrakhan called for solidarity and self-help in the black community, as well as for men, especially black men, to take responsibility for their role in the family.

The seminar group's visit also includ-ed tours of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum, the White House and a Gallery Tour of the House of Representatives.

Last Friday, the House of Representatives passed a bill proposed by Republicans which would balance the Federal budget in seven years, cut taxes, and give more power to state governments.

This bill, if vetoed by President Clinton, will limit the amount of money going to Aid to Families with Dependent Children, a major part of the federal welfare program. Also, the bill will transfer to the states the right to decide who is given aid and how the aid is to be received. Government spending, in addition, on such programs as assistance for child care and food stamps would be cut.

Students who participated in the seminar attended three meetings before traveling to Washington.

They were also given several reading assignments, from such sources as "Economic Justice for All" and "Putting Children and Families First," both written by the U.S. Catholic Conference and three Congressional Research Service Reports for Congress on welfare.

Participants also will attend the open meetings, and during the second will meet with local leaders. The final discussion will include representatives from the Center for the Homeless and Family and Children's Services of Saint Joseph's County who will give their agencies' view on the welfare reform situa-tion.

The meeting will be held on November 6 at the Center for Social Concerns, although it has not yet been determined whether it will be open to the public.

Student response to the program was overwhelmingly positive. Sophomore Greg VanSlaambroek commented, "It was a great opportunity because we were actually talking to the people who were directly involved. We had our own certain mindset before we went, and we could challenge that mindset, and they would say things that gave us new ideas."

Washington Seminar gave those attending a chance to learn about the political process and to discuss and listen to serious issues that affect many U.S. citizens.

...Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students are taking Washington D.C. by storm.

By ANGELA CATALDO
Accent Writer

The American University Washington Semester Program is not politics as usual. Every semester, close to five hundred students from some 200 institutions nationwide join in Washington, D.C. for a semester of travel and fun.

Saint Mary's has been part of this pro-gram for over 20 years while Notre Dame began participating only a few years ago.

Students who are accepted into the program must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.5 and complete the application process.

Each program has three components: an internship, regular seminar classes and a research project. Each student is responsible for his or her own internship.

Such intern-ships may be secured before arrival in Washington, but they are supervised by a contract. Saint Mary's Political Science depart-ment encourages all of his students to wait until they arrive.

There are two reasons for this. A. The student must be in Washington while also includ-ing student evalu­ations of each program. Thus, stu-dents can search out the internship which suits their needs. Also, the students can interview for various internships, some of which, that Professor Pierce believes is most important to the internship process.

Essentially, one can interview many employers and this will make you a much more valuable candidate for employment in the future," Pierce said.

The seminar classes are a chance for students to frequently listen and interact with various speakers and bureaucrats. This, too, is a favorite with Professor Pierce.

"Because the students do come from all over the nation, it is a diverse group and there are some pretty lively discus-sions," said Pierce.

It is this interaction between students, faculty, and politicians that proved quite rewarding for Saint Mary's senior Laura Fagan, who commented, "Washington is so much faster and that is part of what makes it so interesting."

While Pierce was in Washington, D.C., she said, "I found out that it isn't just the academic life that makes the Washington program so important, but the city itself. At first I was scared and thought about coming home," said Boeckman, who was initially uncomfortable in a city as big as Washington, D.C.

But it did not take her long to realize the many opportunities offered by the capitol city.

"People in Washington, D.C. are such over-achievers, so ambitious. It just rubs off on you," she said.

Living there empowered her. She realized that if she could survive in Washington, D.C. on her own, she could survive anywhere.

Washington and Washington life are tremendously exciting," said Pierce, "the pace of life and pace of people thinking is so much faster and that is part of what makes it so interesting.

Through the internship each student experiences the most valuable part of the program by making connections that will help him or her secure future jobs.

Previous coursework as a member of the American University Washington Semester Program is an added plus when applying to MBA programs, Pierce said.

Boeckman cannot wait to return to Washington, D.C. and now she knows she will look for a law school in the Washington, D.C. area. How does she describe her total experience in Washington?

"It was awesome," she said.
Hurricanes admit to lack of a testing regimen.

"That is the allegation that is very Important," Joe said this was a whole lot of fun sitting near the fence. "Our Pell grants, but NCAA charges..." and now in exchange for official information, our home. Interests in hearing more? "I rememb­ er back when we slarted, my ex­ cessive distribution of books to..."

College Football

Hurricanes admit to lack of a testing regimen.

"That is the allegation that is very Important," Joe said this was a whole lot of fun sitting near the fence. "Our Pell grants, but NCAA charges..." and now in exchange for official information, our home. Interests in hearing more? "I rememb­ er back when we slarted, my ex­ cessive distribution of books to..."

College Football

"That is the allegation that is very Important," Joe said this was a whole lot of fun sitting near the fence. "Our Pell grants, but NCAA charges..." and now in exchange for official information, our home. Interests in hearing more? "I rememb­ er back when we slarted, my ex­ cessive distribution of books to..."
ACE
Alliance for Catholic Education
Live It!
Breathe It!
A.C.E. It!

Be a teacher and experience:

- Master-level Teacher Preparation
- Community Life
- Spiritual Development

Informational meeting:

Thursday, November 2nd
7:00 p.m. in the LaFortune Ballroom.
Any Questions?
Call Sr. Lourdes Sheehan, R.S.M. or Lou DelFra at 631-7052
Upon his return, Sandberg says the game never left him

By MIKE NADEL

CHICAGO

The Hall of Fame will have to wait. Ryne Sandberg is ready to face up his spikes, pull on his golden glove, range behind second base and make another great play for the Chicago Cubs.

"I was a baseball player. I'm still a baseball player. And I'll always be that," Sandberg, 36, said Tuesday after ending his 16 1/2-month retirement by signing a one-year contract.

"I did the retirement thing. I did the summer activities and all that. It just got to the point where now it was time to go back and play baseball."

"This is something that I wanted to do and I needed to do. It was very important to me. I don't think it really left me."

But Sandberg — statistically the best fielding second baseman in major league history, a 10-time All-Star and the 1984 league MVP — left it.

In doing so, he walked away from the approximately $17 million he had left on his contract.

When he stunned Chicago with his announcement on June 13, 1994, his Cubs were in last place. In his opinion, general manager Larry Himes had ruined the team. And his personal life was in turmoil; his wife would file for divorce later that month.

A lifetime .289 hitter with 245 career home runs, 905 RBIs and 1,050 stolen bases, Sandberg was batting .238 with five home runs, 24 RBIs and two steals in 57 games and was in a l-fer-28 slump.

Baseball was no longer fun.

So he retired.

"That was something I had to do," he said. "I couldn't worry about what the public thought.

"Some labeled him a quitter."

He didn't like the front office, he didn't like losing, he didn't like the manager, he didn't like the things in his personal life," said Cubs first baseman Mark Grace, one of Sandberg's closest friends in baseball.

"It all just came to a head and he had to get out. I understand it. Whether I agree with it or not, who is Mark Grace to pass judgment on him? Yeah, we could have used him that year, but nobody could have saved that club.

"They had 94-69 when the strike ended the season."

Then, Andy MacPhail was in place to run the team. MacPhail replaced contending for a playoff spot and weren't eliminated until the second-to-last day of the season.

Sandberg, who had happily remarried, returned to Wrigley Field to tape some television commercials and watched the Cubs' late-season charge.

"I liked what I saw," said Sandberg, whose one-year deal reportedly is worth $2 million.

"It was really just after the sea­son ended that it dawned on me that (coming back) was what I wanted to do. The change of attitude and the feeling around Wrigley Field was something that I liked. I missed being at Wrigley Field every day, being part of the team, having fun. That's what I'm going back for."

While it has been suggested that Sandberg might play third base to save some wear and tear on his body, he said: "The intent for me signing the con­tract and coming back with the Cubs is to play second base.

"And money wasn't his moti­vation for coming back," Lynch said. Noting that Grace, short­stop Shawon Dunston and pitchers Jaime Navarro and Randy Myers are free agents, the GM said: "He had no inten­tion of doing anything to hurt our ability to sign our players."

"Chicago fans — still giddy that Michael Jordan came out of retirement to rejoin the Bulls last March — already have the free agent baseball player they wanted most."

Full-season ticket packages had dwindled from about 13,000 in 1994 to 10,000 in 1995, ticket operations director Frank Maloney said Tuesday.

"But by 10 o'clock this morn­ing," he said, "we already had three calls from people who had dropped their tickets because of the strike but now wanted to renew them because of Ryne Sandberg. These days, heroes are hard to come by."

---

Ford Motor Company Informational Systems

will be visiting ND on November 1

Presentation will be held in the Notre Dame Room at the Morris Inn from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. It is open to all interested students.

Refreshments will be served.

Interviews for graduating students, bachelor and above, will be held Nov. 2.

Many openings still available!
Parcells no longer riding high with pathetic Patriots

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press

FOXBORO, Mass. — There is a vivid image of a smiling Bill Parcells riding high on the shoulders of his players after winning the Super Bowl with the New York Giants.

There is a much gloomier picture of the subdued coach at a post-game news conference — more like a post-mortem — struggling for still another week to explain why his New England Patriots played so miserably.

"The losing looks like it's wearing him down a little bit, leaving him sort of clueless," running back Dave Meggett said sympathetically.

"It wasn't supposed to be this way," Parcells, a proven winner under new owner Bob Kraft.

Stability has been elusive in the AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.

The offensive line has done well after Parcells shook it up following the fifth game, and rookie running back Curtis Martin has been impressive.

Overall, the Patriots have been depressing.

Parcells underwent heart surgery after leaving the Giants in 1991 and was dehydrated after a loss in Kansas City on Oct. 15. But he has said he feels fine.

Although his rebuilding program is crumbling, he said he will follow his routine of deciding whether to return next season after this one is over.

Parcells sees some hope in the fact the Patriots play their next four games against AFC East rivals, starting with a team that may be more incompetent, the 2-7 New York Jets.

"We still have a small measure of control about what's going to happen," Parcells said.
Reports continue to worsen in King camp

Expert testifies to promoter's insurance fraud

By LARRY NEUMESTER
Associated Press

NEW YORK

A handwriting expert testified Tuesday that a boxer's signature on two copies of a contract with promoter Don King were identical, supporting a government theory that King faked a contract to collect insurance.

The testimony came as pros­ecutors in federal court in Manhattan considered whether to rest after a month of testi­mony meant to prove King col­lected $350,000 illegally from Lloyd's of London. The trial will resume Thursday.

King is charged with nine counts of mail fraud in an indictment that alleged he faked a contract with Julio Ce­sar Chavez in 1991 so he could collect training fees that he had never paid to the boxer. If convicted, King could face up to five years in prison on each count.

The halt between Chavez and Harold Brazier was can­celed after Chavez cut his nose.

On Tuesday, handwriting expert Gus Leenveich testified that the signature of Chavez on one copy of the fight contract was identical to that on a copy that prosecutors allege King faked.

"A person never signs their name exactly the same more than once," he said. "Actually, if a person sat down and wrote their name five times in a row on a sheet of paper, each one would have a little variation from the one above it."

"We are not machines. We cannot reproduce things exactly the same way," he added.

Earlier Tuesday, Internal Revenue Service Agent John Ryan testified that a review of King's finances in 1991 showed there was no $320,000 check written to Chavez for training expenses.

Hockey

continued from page 20

given up Tuesday moved the season total to 13 or 3.33 per contest. If Notre Dame is going to compete this season in the NCHA, they will have to cut that number down consider­ably.

Otherwise, Irish hockey fans may be looking at a mirror image of 1994.

University of Notre Dame International Study Program at Notre Dame Australia 1996-97 Applications will be available INFORMATION MEETING

Wednesday November 1, 1995 126 DeBartolo 6:30 PM

Sophomores in Colleges of Arts and Letters and Business Administration Are Welcome!

 Tyson's right hand sore before
Mathis fight

By ED SCHUYLER

LAS VEGAS, Nev.

Mike Tyson's right hand is hurting, but it doesn't seem to be a matter of concern to him or one of encouragement to Buster Mathis Jr.

"My hand feels good; it's a lit­tle sore, but it's good," Tyson said Tuesday at the final news conference before his sched­uled 12-round heavyweight fight against Mathis on Saturday night in the MGM Grand Garden.

"I call it a fake," said Mathis, a 20-1 underdog. "I don't think Mike is hurt."

"What we have to do is follow the doctor's orders," said Jay Bright, Tyson's trainer. "He will not be el­aborate."

Marc Ratner, the executive director of the Nevada State Athletic Commission, said Tyson would be examined by Dr. Flip Homansky at the pre­fight physical and official weigh­in Thursday at 2 p.m.

PST.

No special examination is scheduled.

"The hand isn't in a cast," Ratner said. "He spared Monday. To the naked eye, he looked fine."

Tyson appeared relaxed at the news conference.

"I feel good. I feel happy," said the 29-year-old former undisputed champion, fighting for the second time after a four-year layoff. He was released from prison on March 25 after serving three years on a rape conviction.

"Everybody knows I'm going to do my thing," Tyson said. "I'm looking forward to this. I'm going to burn."

After getting $25 million for his last October victory over Peter McNeeley in his first comeback fight on Aug. 19, Tyson will make $10 million for fighting the 25-year-old Mathis on the Fox Network. It will be Tyson's first appearance on commercial television since he knocked out Marvis Frazier in 30 seconds on July 11, 1996. The fight is expected to start about 7:40 p.m. PST. The Hurd­dick Bowl-Evander Holy­field match on TKO pay-per­view outdoors at Caesars Palace, a short cab ride from the MGM Grand, will not start until the Tyson-Mathis bout ends.

Mathis, who will make $540,000, is a much better boxer than McNeely, but isn't considered a threat to Tyson (9-0, 9 knockouts on his 20-0 record) and he doesn't appear to be a serious obstacle to Tyson.

Tyson's next fight is expected to be a challenge to Frank Bruno on March 16 at the MGM Grand. Bruno, of Britain, is supposed to arrive in Las Vegas on Thursday and a news con­ference later is planned.

There will be litigation over a Bruno-Tyson bout. Don Drew, promoter for former WBC champion Lennox Lewis, and Frank Maloney, the fighter's manager, contend that the WBC mandated the winner of the Lewis-Lionel Butler fight on May 13, won by Lewis, would need to fight a mandatory chal­lenge to Oliver McCall. When Bruno outpointed McCall on Sept. 1, he inherited McCall's mandatory defense.

Bruno reportedly would make about $5 million to fight Lewis on HBO, but about $11 million to fight Tyson on SET pay-per­view inter­national.

Bruno is tied promotionally to Lewis's promoter, but Lewis isn't.

King was not a Tuesday's news conference because of his wire story released Sunday. He is supposed to fly to Las Vegas on Friday night.
Hope outlasts Saint Mary’s in final home match for seniors

The Saint Mary’s soccer team suffered a 4-2 loss at heartbreaking as the weather yesterday in their final home game of the season against Hope College. With one game left to play, the Belles are now 6-10-2.

In the cold, rain, and fog, the Belles fought their way to a 3-0 lead at the half with a goal from senior Tiffany Itaczynski. Shortly into the second half, sophomore Ann Fowell scored again to give Saint Mary’s a solid lead which many thought would carry them to certain victory.

The first half saw junior Julie Pokorny all over the field. In one battle, Pokorny ended up with the ball, but her opponent ended up face first in a muddy puddle along the sideline. While her opponent was looking to dry off, Pokorny was on her way downfield where the Belles dominated much of the first half action.

The Belles were at a major disadvantage with only 18 healthy players compared to Hope’s 26.

The Saint Mary’s soccer team suffered a 4-2 loss at home in the seniors’ last home game of the season against Hope College.

“We've never played really well but towards the end we had some breakdowns and a few balls got by us,” said senior Gwennie Davis.

Fans and players alike have noticed how this group has come together as a team. The contributions of the four seniors have also not gone unrecognized.

“The seniors have made this team great. It is just so sad that we are finally getting it together so late in the season and this was their last home game. Those four really make the team,” said Matelski.

On Thursday the Belles will be on the road playing their final game of the season against Valparaiso University at 2:00 p.m.

“Last year we went up against Valparaiso with only eleven players and no substitutes because of all the injuries,” said Davis. “This year we only have three people out and we have a really great team. I think we have a really good chance of beating them.”

The seniors hope they will be tears of joy as the clock expires one last time.

Stakes continued from page 20

met once in the regular season and the battle ended in a tie.

“If we've played them before, we are at an advantage and a disadvantage because we know what their offense is going to run but they know what our offense is going to run,” stated Badin captain and nose guard Fran Mahoney.

“We are going to try to stop Shelly Dillenburg,” stated Lyons captain and quarterback, Julie Byrd. Badin’s Shelly Dillenburg is notorious for intercepting opponent’s unsuspecting passes.

"Badin is an excellent team,” Byrd revealed. “And we are going to try to stop their execution, because offensively we know they are capable.”

Radio, on the other hand, is focusing on coverage.

“Basically we want to make sure that their is good and tight coverage on every single Lyons’ player,” Mahoney said.

“If we run the plays right, then execution is not going to be a problem. The other key is putting pressure on the quarterback. The defense is anticipating holding Lyons to one touchdown, if not less. The offense is working on penetrating Lyons’ defense.”

Lyons is looking for the defense to continue doing well and for the offense to play and execute consistently, according to Byrd.

“The game should be a tough game, we know what we have to do to win,” Mahoney concluded.

---

The Saint Mary’s soccer team suffered a 4-2 loss at home in the seniors’ last home game of the season against Hope College.

“We've never played really well but towards the end we had some breakdowns and a few balls got by us,” said senior Gwennie Davis.

Fans and players alike have noticed how this group has come together as a team. The contributions of the four seniors have also not gone unrecognized.

“The seniors have made this team great. It is just so sad that we are finally getting it together so late in the season and this was their last home game. Those four really make the team,” said Matelski.

On Thursday the Belles will be on the road playing their final game of the season against Valparaiso University at 2:00 p.m.

“Last year we went up against Valparaiso with only eleven players and no substitutes because of all the injuries,” said Davis. “This year we only have three people out and we have a really great team. I think we have a really good chance of beating them.”

The seniors hope they will be tears of joy as the clock expires one last time.

Stakes continued from page 20

met once in the regular season and the battle ended in a tie.

“If we've played them before, we are at an advantage and a disadvantage because we know what their offense is going to run but they know what our offense is going to run,” stated Badin captain and nose guard Fran Mahoney.

“We are going to try to stop Shelly Dillenburg,” stated Lyons captain and quarterback, Julie Byrd. Badin’s Shelly Dillenburg is notorious for intercepting opponent’s unsuspecting passes.

"Badin is an excellent team,” Byrd revealed. “And we are going to try to stop their execution, because offensively we know they are capable.”

Radio, on the other hand, is focusing on coverage.

“Basically we want to make sure that their is good and tight coverage on every single Lyons’ player,” Mahoney said.

“If we run the plays right, then execution is not going to be a problem. The other key is putting pressure on the quarterback. The defense is anticipating holding Lyons to one touchdown, if not less. The offense is working on penetrating Lyons’ defense.”

Lyons is looking for the defense to continue doing well and for the offense to play and execute consistently, according to Byrd.

“The game should be a tough game, we know what we have to do to win,” Mahoney concluded.
Q: Why do you drink?
A: I drink because it loosens me up, and I'm more outgoing.

Celebrate a friend's birthday with a special Observer ad.

Menu
Notre Dame
North
Home-Style Chicken Sandwich
Turbot Almondine
Kushki Noodles

Saint Mary's
Boast Turkey Breast
Old Fashioned Beef Stew
Corn Bread Dressing

South
Fortunato Alfredo
Grilled Pork Chops
Fried Okra

Celebrate a friend's birthday with a special Observer ad.

Get Real
TRY BEING YOURSELF. YOU (AND OTHERS) MIGHT ACTUALLY LIKE IT!
Sponsored by The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education
Irish mirror last year in 6-2 loss

By MIKE DAY
Sports Writer

A mirror image of 1994. Through the first six games of the season, the Notre Dame hockey team, eager to turnaround a slow start against the Spartans Tuesday night is the only team left at full speed. We expect him to be ready by Saturday, but we'll have to wait and see.

The trend continued Tuesday night as the Notre Dame hockey team, eager to turnaround a slow start. "The players are in a good mood and have a good frame of mind. Even when we won earlier in the season, they didn't seem to have the same sense of confidence that they have now."

In his usual "take nothing for granted" manner, Holtz spoke briefly about how much he feared the Navy wishbone offense and an improving Midshipmen defense that gives up just 18 points a game. "We always have trouble with the wishbone as the game against Army showed," said Holtz. "They are smaller but possibly quicker than Army. They have a strong passing game along with the triple threat option, and that will present problems for us on defense.

"On defense, they give you so many different looks that it's hard to fall into a rhythm. If we can't fall into a rhythm, then we have trouble for the entire game."

Lou Holtz returns to the field without his brace Saturday...