SMCTotal to provide exciting week

By LORI GADDIS

The Saint Mary's campus is preparing for what looks to be a huge success during this year's spring week. Thursday marks the day that Saint Mary's will host "It's a Spring Thing" during SMCTotal, featuring many activities that members of both campuses will be able to enjoy. The Saint Mary's Student Activities Board has been planning the event since the beginning of the school year in anticipation of the event. Members Angela McNulty and Amy Kramer look to see an improvement in attendance this year. "We have really used the resources in South Bend and on campus to plan this event," stated McNulty. "The response to Twilight Tailgate earlier this year was greater than I ever expected. We look to get even better attendance at SMCTotal."

Saint Mary's has always been involved with Notre Dame during their AnTostal celebration in the spring. But Saint Mary's hopes that this year, a separate day on their home campus would encourage more students to participate in events at SMC and reduce the overlapping of AnTostal events that usually occurs.

Events begin at 1 p.m. Thursday afternoon, starting with FunFlicks in LeMans lobby, which gives students the opportunity to create their own music video to their favorite tunes. This event proved to be a huge success during Twilight Tailgate. Throughout the day, the Saint Mary's Library Green will play host to various activities including caricatures, tye dye, tattooing, and face painting. Another activity, Toyland, gives students an opportunity bring out their inner child. Saint Mary's will provide Sli 'N Spins, Hula Hoops and Twister, to name a few games, that allow students to break free from that daily grind of work and blow off a little steam. Canoe races will be held at Lake Marion on campus (across from Haggar Library Green) from 3:30 to 5:30. Sign-ups will be at the lake. SMCTotal also features a 2-mile run/walk/rollerblade which begins at Angela Cannon Library Green.

Career fair to assist A&L majors

Arts and Letters majors are often asked what they plan to do after they graduate. Career Services Placement may help in providing an answer with the Spring Career Fair on Thursday.

"This fair is smaller than the one we usually have in the fall," said Olivia Williams, assistant director of Career Services Placement. "But we needed one to get back on schedule and to give the students who will be graduating in the next month a chance to meet with certain fields that were left off of the full lineup. The fair will feature companies from 16 different fields including, among others, consulting, media, music, publications, and education. We have tried to get a lot of areas that were under-represented."

Assault survivor promotes gender unity to stop rape

By MAUREEN HURLEY
Saint Mary's News Editor

Men and women need to form a coalition against rape, according to Melissa Dessert, who spoke at Saint Mary's College last night as both a rape survivor and an advocate for rape elimination. Dessert led a discussion entitled "Not Just Bad Sex: Rape on campus," as part of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination's Sexual Assault Awareness Week. Dessert, who currently works at Washington Township Hospital, was a victim of acquaintance rape during her first year of college. "I realized that there were not avenues to tap into for support," Dessert said about her post-rape coping period. She then worked to establish Students Organized Against Rape, and has worked in advocacy groups for rape elimination since.

CSC to hold luncheon for charitable l'Arche

By DAVID FREDDOSON

In 1964, a Canadian theologian named Jean Vanier was visiting Paris when he met two mentally retarded homeless men. His love of God and charity for his neighbor prompted him to take these men into his care. It was in this way that l'Arche, an international Christian organization dedicated to the service of the mentally retarded, was founded.

Tomorrow, the Emmaus Community, a group of locals who are "Friends of l'Arche" are sponsoring a luncheon at the Center for Social Concerns.

The general public is invited to lunch at any time between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., and a small donation of $3 is requested. This event takes place at the university where Jean Vanier himself was given the Notre Dame Award. An event shared with President Jimmy Carter and Mother Theresa.

l'Arche maintains several houses throughout the world where the handicapped are cared for with charity and dignity. Yet these houses are surprisingly different from many of those which currently serve the mentally disabled. Accord-

Kaczynski defense sees dismissal based on publicity

HeLENA, Mont. — Todd M. Weereker asked a judge to block the prosecution of the Unabomber sentencing hearing by saying Tuesday that government mail leaks have jeopardized his chances for a fair trial.

Michael Donahue said the release of information from unidentified federal sources demonstrates a "lynch-mob mentality" on the part of federal investigators.

The result was a "lethal media blitz" that "poisoned the perception of government agents within the United States against Mr. Kaczynski," he wrote in his motion. Donahoe, one of two court-appointed attorneys for Kaczynski, said the prosecution should be halted until the court can decide whether the leaks will prevent a fair trial.

"The government should not be allowed to proceed before various grand juries throughout the country that have now seen, apparently for the first time, the outrageous conduct in disclosing to the media the highly incriminating nature of evidence taken from Kaczynski's cabin," Donahoe said.

Search for evidence

The FBI seized at least 585 things from Unabomber suspect Theodore Kaczynski's cabin in Montana, items seized included:

- Bolt-action .22-caliber rifle
- Remington model 30-06
- 22-caliber box-and rimfire revolver and nine rounds of ammunition
- Hand-made gun with .22 caliber cartridge
- Gun cleaning kit
- Hand tools, including file, screwdriver, wrench, tongs, pliers, and tumbler
- 15 notebooks or binders
- Various tools, including eyeglass repair kit
- Plastic shopping bag containing Montana woman's bones
- $33 cash
- Bonds
- Small packages of Tylenol, anti-depressant

"In Mr. Kaczynski's case, the possibility that he could ever be afforded anything that might remotely resemble a fair trial process has been forever lost," said Chief Judge Charles Lovell, who did not immediately rule on Donahoe's petition, which seeks to delay any grand jury proceedings against Kaczynski.

A federal grand jury will hold its regularly scheduled sentencing hearing Wednesday in Great Falls and is expected to hear evidence against Kaczynski. The Camelot of Unabomber law against him thus far makes no mention of the Unabomber attacks that killed three people and injured 23 over the past 18 years.

Lovell scheduled a hearing for 3:30 p.m. Friday to consider whether to put Donahoe's motion by calling witnesses, and told both sides to prepare written briefs.

Kaczynski, 53, was arrested April 3 after federal agents charged him in a U.S. District Court indictment of Deletha Word. Witnesses say he attacked the much older woman after her car was hijacked near the immediate immediate rise in the Detroit River. "As Martell Welch comes to the water with his arms upraised, he goes into the river," prosecutor Kevin Simons said in opening statements. The death drew national attention when initial accounts suggested the attacker was a black man. Police later said most witnesses were too shocked to do anything as the 6-foot-tall, 225-pound Welch attacked the 4-foot-11, 144-pound woman. Welch's lawyer admitted his client was wrong to attack the 33-year-old woman, but said he didn't cause her death. Welch's lawyer, CPD found in Word's body explained her jump into the river.

Fender bender ends in death

DETROIT

A man iver a fender-bender viciously beat the woman whose car he bumped and threatened to "took (her) brains out," terrorizing her into a fatal jump into the Detroit River, a prosecutor said Tuesday. Martell Welch, 33, is charged with murder in the Aug. 3, 1996 shooting of Deletha Word. Witnesses say he attacked the much older woman after her car was hijacked near the immediate rise in the Detroit River. "As Martell Welch comes to the water with his arms upraised, he goes into the river," prosecutor Kevin Simons said in opening statements. Female Citadel-hopeful still struggling

CHARLESTON, S.C.

A young woman who hoped to march at The Citadel this fall will instead go to military prep school while she continues her court challenge of the college's male-only admissions policy. Nancy Mellette, 18, will begin a one-week tour at a Preparatory School in Fort Monmouth, N.J., this fall, her father said in a statement. She had a Monday deadline to accept an offer of admission to the New Jersey school, Citadel graduate and state Sen. Brenda Mellette said. "Since neither the Supreme Court nor the South Carolina District Court has ruled on the decision pertinent to her situation, she went ahead and accepted the offer," Mellette said.真人德雷克, whose rocky marriage led to the divorce of Andrew and the former Princess Beatrice, 7, and Andrew and the former Princess Eugenie, 6, is due in less than two months. The divorce of the Duke and Duchess of York was listed for hearing May 23 in the Prince's court.

"She was pregnant," her publicist Liz Rosenberg said of the 37-year-old personal trainer-boyfriend. Though four months pregnant, "she hasn't really suffered from typical first-trimester symptoms, like throwing up at the sight or smell of just something she's eaten, nor the South Carolina District Court has ruled on the decision pertinent to her situation, she went ahead and accepted the offer," Mellette said. 'We are pleased that the appeals court will accept our arguments and allow Ms. Mellette to attend the Citadel. We believe that qualified women should be allowed the same opportunity in the United States military that men have," she said. "We are hopeful that the court will rule on this matter by the end of the year," Mellette said.

The world was informed of the release of evidence against Kaczynski. The lone charge filed against Kaczynski, said the prosecution should be halted until the court can decide whether the leaks will prevent a fair trial.

"The government should not be allowed to proceed before various grand juries throughout the country that have now seen, apparently for the first time, the outrageous conduct in disclosing to the media the highly incriminating nature of evidence taken from Kaczynski's cabin," Donahoe said.

Many people said that the main problem is the venue. I have heard a rumor that one bar tries to avoid booking campus bands because they lose money when they do. In addition to this problem, bar concerts necessitate a twenty-one year old or older audience. This solution to this is simple. Play more open venues. Concerts at Stonehenge are always well attended. Acoustic Cafe is a good time, even if one person doesn't always pay attention. Certain bars open their doors on a limited basis to those under twenty-one. There is also a venue on the Saint Mary's campus called Riff and rather easy for a band to book. Dalloway's Coffee House has seen recent incredible concerts by Luster and a few others. They are also open a few weeks ago by Swing the Leg and a few other bands, they recently allowed a little known band named Logjam appear there last year with myself on bass guitar.

So, I suppose what I am trying to say is that the music scene is out there, you simply have to quit whining, get out and see the bands. Original ones, cover rock, punk, funk, hip hop, even salsa for that matter, there is something for everyone in the Notre Dame music scene.

Evidence implicates Kevorkian in trial

By BRIAN AKRE
Associated Press

PONTIAC, Mich. — Fingerprintson a mask and a 911 tape are among the evi­dence that will prove Dr. Jack Kevorkian intended to help two women commit suicide, a pros­ecutor told jurors today.

Even before legal wrangling over jury instructions was re­ solved, opening arguments got under way in the retired pathol­ogist's third trial.

"When you put a carbon monoxide mask on somebody's face, ... the intent is to assist them in their suicide," Prosecutor Lawrence Bunting said. And he cited a call to authorities in which Kevorkian reported a "double assisted suicide — physician-assisted," Bunting said.

But defense attorney Geoffrey Fieger repeated his previous­ly successful argument that Kevorkian doesn't want anybody he helps to die.

"That was the unfortunate secondary result of relieving pain and suffering," he said. "Dr. Kevorkian's sole intent, ladies and gentlemen, is to re­lieve pain, discomfort and suf­fering."

The statements were delayed earlier in the day when Bunting asked Oakland County Circuit Judge David Breck to take him­self off the case.

Bunting cited a Detroit News interview published Monday in which Breck said the prosecu­tor's office in the past has tried to keep blacks off juries. That shows bias, Bunting said.

Breck turned the request down.

One of Kevorkian's attorneys, Mayer Morganroth, called it "the old trial tactic ... of trying to get a judge to lean over back­ward in one direction by intimi­dation.

In this case, the 67-year-old Kevorkian is charged in the Oct. 23, 1991, deaths of Sherry Miller, 43, and Marjorie Wantz, 58. Both died in a rural cabin — Miller after inhaling carbon monoxide, Wantz of an infec­tion.

Miller had multiple sclerosis; Wantz had severe pelvic pain. There were the second and third of the 27 deaths Kevorkian has acknowledged attending since 1990.

Bad Sex

"We all know that acquaintance rape happens on campus," Dessert said. "We need to find ways to actively stop this.

Awareness is essential for preventing acquaintance rape," Dessert.
"I don't know how we can stop rape if half the seats in this room don't say so," she said.

Statistics show that 90 percent of rape is acquaintance rape. Alcohol plays a large factor, with 58 percent of sex crimes and 50 percent of females consuming alcohol being involved in one way or another with the assault. Furthermore, women in the 16-24 age range are most likely to be affected by rape.

"The scary thing is, these statistics are based only on the cases that are actually reported," Dessert said.

Blaming the victim for the rape still ranks as a primary reason for a large number of cases, according to Dessert. "It is a widely held belief that any non-consensual sex is rape. Alcohol plays a large factor in this."

The responsibility to eliminate victim-blaming, we'd say with optimism that the "Spring Thing" is all about by crashing the Saint Mary's campus and participating in what looks to be the best SMCTotal yet.

According to Dr. Victoria Bosco, who has been actively involved in the establishment of L'Arche in South Bend, the goal of L'Arche is not simply to provide the mentally handicapped with material help, but also to give them spiritual and ascetical formation.

Bosco, a member of Notre Dame's Department of Roman Language and Literatures, explains that a very important aspect of the spirit of L'Arche is its emphasis on mutuality and the mutual service between the handicapped and those assisting them. The mentally handicapped, with their simplicity, piety, and cheerfulness, offer a witness and example which leaves many the L'Arche assistants feeling as though they get much more out of their service than those whom they are serving.

As Bosco explains, "the handicapped themselves have a great deal to offer us spiritually."

In order to better explore this spirit of reciprocal service, assistants live together with the handicapped in houses of L'Arche and share meals, prayers, excursions, and masses together. "The handicapped are the center of the focus in the houses," Bosco explains.

The Friends of L'Arche, in an attempt to extend their efforts to the South Bend area, are hosting this luncheon in order to raise the money they need, and to make the community aware of their work and their ideals. And, in accord with these same ideals, the meal will be prepared by a group of mentally disabled persons together with L'Arche assistants.

Although the house is only in the planning stages and money is still very short, Bosco says "It is very optimistic that the Emmanuel Community hopes to have the project done "sometime in the near future." L'Arche refers to the Ark of Noah. Like the Ark, the organization plans to be open to all types of people in South Bend.

In doing so, it will provide help for the community as well as community service opportunities for everyone at Notre Dame.

Athletic Facility, featuring prizes for finishers as well as winners. The SMCMC from 4:30-6:30 is open to Saint Mary's students and Notre Dame students. It will be a cookout with all the fixin's, including popcorn, pretzel, nachos, and cotton candy. There are 1250 coaxes available to Notre Dame students.

The biggest event of the day, however comes at 8:00 when the band Global Village will perform until 10:00. The band performed in 1994 at Saint Mary's Twilight Tailgate and gave an outstanding performance to the packed crowd who attended.

They currently travel to Grand Rapids, Michigan and hope to draw some attention to the evening for SMCTotal. SAB coordinator Mary Udoeh is looking forward to hearing Global Village perform again on campus as well as an overall increase in attendance from previous years.

"This event was well-publicized this year," said Udoeh. "Everyone involved did a great job of getting the word out. We look forward to great weather on Thursday and hope we see a lot of students taking advantage of what should be a great day."

Because SAB is an organization that cares, all activities provided are free to those who attend.

Students are encouraged to see what "Spring Thing" is all about by crashing the Saint Mary's campus and participating in what looks to be the best SMCTotal yet.

sented in previous job fairs and we have all but two companies coming from the local area," said Williams.

Among these companies are media companies WNDU and WSBT, Alliance for Catholic Education, Andersen Consulting and the College Football Hall of Fame.

"Even though it is officially an Arts and Letters fair, all other majors are invited to attend," said Williams.

"We also encourage all members and prospective members of the Arts and Letters Business Society to attend." After this fair, Career and Placement will be back with another track, only running their Fall Career Fair. But the spring fair will be noted by the added feature of speakers that will help the students decide what to do with their degrees.

"We have representatives on and that can talk about using an Arts and Letters degree and give a much needed insight into the job market," said Williams.

Letters were sent out to all juniors and sophomore earlier in the year announcing the fair and inviting them to attend.

Seniors are also invited to attend and see what sorts of opportunities may await them outside of college.

The Arts and Letters Spring Career Fair will take place on the lower level of the Center for Continuing Education tomorrow from 12 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Gas prices hit highest mark since start of 1991

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Gasoline prices have surged to their highest level since the Gulf War, the American Automobile Association reported Tuesday. The AAA's monthly price survey found the average cost of self-service regular unleaded was $1.24 a gallon. That's the most costly gas since the start of the Gulf War in January 1991, the AAA said. The price is up 6 cents from March and 11 cents from February, the AAA said. The Energy Department forecast last week that prices would peak early in the summer travel season and then begin to drop despite an expected record demand.

Tight oil supplies following an unusually cold winter and a decline in U.S. production mean prices could rise further as summer begins, the department said. But it said abundant foreign supplies would help cut prices by August. The AAA report said midgrade gas was selling for $1.47, up 4.5 cents, and premium was up 4 cents to $1.57 on a national average.

The West was the most costly area to drive, with self-service regular going for $1.32 a gallon, up 7.2 cents. It is least costly in the Southeast at $1.18, up 6.5 cents.

GM strike hinders U.S. output

Production grows despite giant's recent problems

By JOHN McCLAIN

WASHINGTON

The General Motors strike caused a 0.5 percent drop in U.S. industrial output in March, but discounting the walkout's broad impact, production grew 0.2 percent.

"Excluding GM, the manufacturing sector is holding its own and will experience improving conditions by summer," contend Mark M. Zandi, an economist with Regional Financial Associates in West Chester, Pa.

Jerry Jasinowski, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, agreed. "After flirting with negative growth late last year, we are back on a slow growth track," he said.

The seasonally adjusted decline reported Tuesday by the Federal Reserve was the second in three months attributed to special factors.

Output at the nation's factories, mines and utilities slipped 0.3 percent in January because of the blizzard that froze much of the Eastern part of the country. The drop was less than the 0.4 percent decline initially reported.

Production heated up as the weather moderated a month later, jumping 1.3 percent, largest since an identical gain in October 1987. The last time output grew faster was February 1987 when it shot up 1.4 percent.

But growth stalled in March when 2,700 autoworkers went on strike at two GM factories, causing a parts shortage that eventually closed 26 of its 29 North American plants. U.S. motor vehicle production plunged 14.9 percent.

In addition, the walkout halted work at many of the automaker's independent suppliers.

As a result, overall output posted the steepest decline since a similar 0.5 percent drop last October.

But many analysts say auto production is rebounding in April. Manufacturers have boosted production and reported increased sales.

In March, output of construction supplies was the strongest segment of manufacturing, Zandi said, and "given the current high levels of home building and accelerating gains in commercial construction, that component should continue to provide some growth through the first half of '97."

Production of computers and other office equipment also remained strong.

"I think the story is that the inventory correction which has plagued manufacturers for the past year, is over," Zandi added.

That lays the groundwork for stronger production gains — not booming conditions, but at a moderately expanding, non-inflationary pace."

The Fed also said the nation's industries were operating at 82.5 percent of capacity in March, down from 83.2 percent a month earlier and 84.6 percent a year earlier.

The rate suggests that production bottlenecks are not developing that could cause shortages and higher prices.

The report also showed output expanded at a 2.7 percent annual rate in the first quarter, up from 0.6 percent during the final three months of 1995. The improvement largely reflected resumption of aircraft production following the Boeing Co. strike late last year.

The Fed said factory output fell 0.8 percent in March after rising 1.5 percent a month earlier.

Production of durable goods — goods such as motor vehicles and machinery expected to last more than three years — plunged 1.4 percent, nearly wiping out a 2.5 percent gain the previous month.

Production of nondurable goods such as clothing and chemicals edged up 0.1 percent after climbing 0.9 percent in February.

Mining production shot up 2 percent on top of a 1.6 percent advance a month earlier. Output by the nation's utilities grew 0.7 percent after falling 1.1 percent in February.

Colombians release crash report

By RANDOLPH SCHMID
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

An American Airlines jet turned off course and crashed into a mountain in Colombia last year after the plane's crew became confused about their location and also had a misunderstanding with the ground controller, documents released Tuesday indicate.

The Boeing 757 from Miami slammed into a mountainside Dec. 20, 1995, killing 160 people, when it apparently turned back toward a navigational beacon it had already passed.

Colombian investigators have reached no conclusion on the cause of the disaster, but a set of investigators' reports was released Tuesday by the National Transportation Safety Board.

While pilot Nicholas Tafuri, 57, had flown the route often, the plane was in the hands of first officer Don Williams, 39, an experienced pilot but making his first approach to Cali.

Controller Nelson Rivera Ramirez told investigators he believed he had cleared the plane for landing at Cali, passing over a radio beacon at Tulua, 55 miles north.

The crew failed to report passing Tulua and cockpit discussion indicates confusion over whether they were to approach Cali directly or pass over Tulua first. When the plane crew reported they were 38 miles from Cali and asked if they should head for the Tulua beacon, the query made no sense, ground controller Rivera told investigators, because the distance indicated the plane already had passed the beacon. So Rivera repeated the clearance to land.

Asked what he would have said to a Spanish-speaking pilot in the same location who asked whether he should head for Tulua, Rivera said "I would have told them that their request made no sense, that their request was illegal and incongruent, but he did not know how to convey these thoughts ... in English." Rivera said that because of their distance from Cali, he thought the pilot had simply failed to report passing the beacon and "had no doubt that the flight was proceeding toward runway 19 and ... never thought to verify the aircraft's position with respect to the center line" of the runway.

Officials worldwide remember Holocaust

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Holocaust was remembered in the Capitol Rotunda Tuesday in ceremonies that celebrated the triumph of justice over vengeance in the Nuremberg war crimes trial 50 years ago.

The 1946 trial of major war criminals "reminded us that after barbarism came a call for reasoned justice," said keynote speaker Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer.

Members of Congress, Jewish leaders and five Supreme Court justices gathered for the 15th Rotunda ceremony to mark Yom Hashoah, the Day of Remembrance, and pay honor to the 6 million Jews and the many thousands of others murdered by the Nazis in World War II.

Shortly after, the House passed, 425-0, a resolution declaring individuals who deny the historical reality of the Holocaust.

In Israel, people stood in silence for two minutes as part of Holocaust Remembrance Day events.

Breyer recalled the words of another justice, the late Robert Jackson, who was a prosecutor for the International Military Tribunal at Nuremberg. "That four great nations, flushed with victory and stung with injury, stay the hand of vengeance and voluntarily submit their captive enemies to the judgment of the law is one of the most significant tributes that Power ever has paid to Reason," Jackson wrote.

Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., recalled the message of his father, the late Sen. Thomas Dodd, who was also a prosecutor at Nuremberg, that "our triumph in arms led to the triumph of ideals."

The tribunal tried 22 leading Nazis for war crimes and -- for the first time -- crimes against humanity. Ten were hanged, three received life sentences, four prison terms and three were acquitted.

The ceremony began with presentations of the flags representing some 30 American infantry groups that helped liberate concentration camps in 1945.

A candlelight ceremony included Jackson's son Robert and five concentration camp survivors.

Happy Birthday Jason.

to meet one deadline at the end of the school year. Cannon said, "We were overwhelmed last year because all the dormitories made their requests at the same time."

Dormitories will also no longer be able to make a purchase and then submit a receipt for reimbursement. Cannon said that all requests must be handled through the university's Purchasing Department and its Assistant Director, Tom Rogers.

"Do not purchase anything with dorm money without talking to Tom Rogers," Cannon said.

Cannon also said that female and male dormitories were given two different request periods because of the characteristics of past purchases. "Male dorms usually request the same things, like weights, and the same goes for female dorms. We can purchase items in bulk and get a better deal for the dorms as a result," Cannon said.

Deborah Hellmuth, co-chair of HPC, announced a budget proposal that will be submitted to the Student Senate at the Senate's next meeting on April 17.

Hellmuth said that the proposal will be modeled after last year's request process, which emphasized the need for dormitory presidents to take advantage of $500 that was allocated to each of the dorms but never used.

"I was surprised to see that some dorms did not take advantage of $500 in free money. Only 17 dorms took advantage," Hellmuth said.

Many of the dormitory presidents point out that they were unaware of the fund's existence and that improved communication is needed in the future between Student Activities and HPC.

The City of Student Activities said that continued failure by hall councils to use funds can result in a reduced budget in the future for HPC.

"Any leftover money goes into a contingency fund for future use. But, we recommend that HPC use the money allocated to them," Spencer added.

In other HPC news:

-Siegfried Hall is sponsoring a "Mystery Madness" game which will be held during April 24. The proceeds of the game will be used to benefit Mandy Abdo, a Siegfried resident who was seriously injured in an automobile accident earlier this year. The proceeds will be used for transportation of Abdo and her family to graduation ceremonies in May.

-Spencer also announced that individual hall storage will be held on April 27. Trailers will be provided to all dormitories on campus to assist their students in the storage process.

-Lewis Hall was named "Hall of the Year," and received an award of $500. Zahm Hall and Pasquerilla East received honorable mentions, and were each awarded $250.

The strain of Ebola virus responsible for the deaths of two monkeys poses virtually no threat to humans, health officials said today in an attempt to reassure the public.

"This is not the Ebola Zaire strain," Texas Department of Health Commissioner Dr. David Smith said, referring to the strain blamed for the deaths of hundreds in central Africa.

"So everything you've seen on television and everything you've seen in the movies or read in the book 'The Hot Zone,' this is a sub-type, a different type of virus," Smith said at a news conference.

The best-selling "Hot Zone" book spun a fictitious tale of research on Ebola Zaire and the case of a similar strain that infected monkeys at a primate facility in Reston, Va., in 1989.

Ebola Reston, however, has not been linked to illness in humans.

And the virus at a primate center outside Alice is 99 percent similar to Ebola Reston, said Dr. Pierre Rollin, chief of the special pathogens branch at the federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta.

"Nobody's sick. There's not a big outbreak of something," Rollin said.

The virus infected two monkeys of a shipment of 100 that arrived at the Texas Primate Center on March 21 from the Philippines, Dr. Diane Simpson, an epidemiologist at the Texas Department of Health.

The privately owned primate breeding facility is about 15 miles southeast of Alice, a South Texas town 40 miles west of Corpus Christi.

"The first one died; the second was euthanized," Simpson said, adding that the rest are under quarantine. "We're watching any people who may have come in contact with them."

The sick monkeys came from the same Filipino exporter as the infected monkeys in Reston, officials said.

Last year in Zaire, Ebola infected 316 people and killed 242. Earlier this year, at least 13 people died from Ebola in Gabon in western Africa.
Bombers may get death penalty

Defense insists on lesser charge in Oklahoma

By STEVEN PAULSON

Associated Press

DENVER

Defense attorneys in the Oklahoma City bombing case say that to obtain the death penalty, prosecutors must prove Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols intended to kill federal agents. In court papers filed Monday, the attorneys said the jury should be allowed to consider lesser charges equivalent to second-degree murder that carry a maximum penalty of life in prison.

The lesser charge would not require prosecutors to prove a specific intent to kill, the attorneys said, but would require they show that the defendants were recklessly indifferent "to the likely fatal consequences of using a weapon of mass destruction."

However, prosecutors said that to obtain the death penalty, the government need not prove the defendants intended to cause a death.

"The fact that the federal death penalty law applies to persons indirectly killed by the crime, such as firefighters responding to a bombing of a vacant building, confirms that the defendant need not have intended to cause the death of a victim," they said.

McVeigh and Nichols are charged with murder and conspiracy in connection with only eight of the 168 people killed in the bombing of the federal building a year ago.

All eight were federal law enforcement agents, those are the only cases that are punishable by death under federal law.

The trial probably will be held late this year or early next year. Oklahoma can still file charges in the 160 other deaths, which can bring the death penalty under state law.

Bush endorses Dole, advises rest of GOP

By SANDRA SOBERAJ

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Former President Bush praised Bob Dole as the presidential candidate with "maturity" Tuesday and offered an old hand's advice on China. Beside the pull of fellow Republicans to impose trade sanctions. Dole thanked Bush but made no commitment.

"We've got to lead. We can't pull back," Bush said, standing beside the all-but-certain Republican presidential nominee at a photo session with reporters.

Bush also praised Dole for standing against "isolationist pressures" during the Republican primaries when GOP presidential rival Pat Buchanan was calling for stiff sanctions.

And the former president, blending kind words for Dole with a slap at President Clinton, said, "I'm worried about U.S. leadership around the world. We need (Dole's) viewpoint and his leadership. His maturity, his credibility that will help the standing of the United States."

A spokesman for Bush, who returned last week from a private mission to Beijing, said the former president also carried a message of concern.

"If the Chinese government can achieve a new partnership between two countries, it's got to lead. We can't pull back," the spokesman said. "He's been hearing from the right.""
Protesters shook their fists and chanted slogans and waved effigies in a Tokyo park Tuesday to protest the continued U.S. military presence in Japan. According to sources, Clinton took a three-day trip to Asia.

"Together, the troops and the local population have been contributing to the 'illegal occupation' of Okinawan land, referring to laws that require some landowners on the southern island to lease land to U.S. bases. A cardboard effigy of Clinton was printed with the words, "Give me more land, more people, more money!" Next to it was one of a subservient Prime Minister Ryutaro Seiroku Miyara. Police said there were no clashes or arrests.

Opposition to the American bases has been running high since last September, when a 12-year-old Okinawan girl was raped by three U.S. servicemen. Reiterating the U.S.-Japan security alliance is a top priority of Clinton's visit.

Clinton arrived in Tokyo on Tuesday afternoon, days after the U.S. and Japanese officials announced the closing of Futenma Marine Corps Air Station on Okinawa and other moves to quiet opposition to the bases. The Japanese government estimates the plan will cost $9.26 billion. Sources said, however, demand the complete withdrawal of the American troops.

In the Okinawan capital of Naha, about 250 people gathered at a prefectural government building (state) office to call for the closure of the bases, said local labor union official Nohoo Miyara.

He said about 150 of the protesters began a 36-hour hunger strike in Naha. Okinawa hosts about two-thirds of the 47,000 U.S. troops stationed in Japan. The plan to close Futenma and other bases would return about 20 percent of the land the U.S. military now uses on the island, but affect only a few hundred of the 28,000 troops currently on Okinawa, 1,000 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The island's governor, Masahide Ota, planned to meet Hashimoto on Wednesday to ask for assurances that the moves will not just lead to intensified military activities at other bases in Okinawa, said Seiko Kajiyama, the government's top spokesman.

Ota was also expected to discuss how Futenma's 1,190 acres might be developed to boost the local economy as it is closed over the next five to seven years.

One town worried by the withdrawal from Futenma is Kadoma, about eight miles to the north, which will host some of the Marine Corps units to be relocated.

WASHINGTON

Doses of three chemicals used to protect Gulf War soldiers from nerve gas and insects are harmless alone but mixed together can cause neurological problems in animals, Duke University researchers reported Tuesday.

The nerve-gas pill reduces the body's normal ability to cleanse itself of the two toxins so they have time to infiltrate the brain, said Dr. Mohamed Abou-Donia, who presented his findings to veterans and defense officials Tuesday.

The Pentagon says it has no evidence of a new mystery disease causing the headaches, fatigue, memory loss and other symptoms reported by tens of thousands of Gulf War veterans. It attributes most symptoms to known illnesses.

"We haven't ruled in or ruled out the possibility that combinations of chemicals could indeed explain some of the illnesses of Persian Gulf veterans," said Veterans Affairs spokesman Terry James.

But he declined to comment on Abou-Donia's findings, saying Veterans officials wanted to thoroughly review his research which was published in this month's Journal of Toxicology and Environmental Health.

"That's an interesting report," Navy Capt. Michael Delaney said at a Pentagon briefing Tuesday, but he added that Defense experts also had not yet analyzed it.

Abou-Donia acknowledges his own chickens, whose neurological pathways are similar to those in humans, do not prove that the chemical cocktail hurts people.

But he says researchers at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center did epidemiological studies on soldiers that are consistent with the animal data.

Abou-Donia said. Texas scientists declined to release the results until their research is published later this year.

Now Abou-Donia wants funding to analyze the blood of 100 veterans for signs that they were susceptible to this chemical poisoning. The Duke-Texas research has exhausted $250,000 from Texas billionaire Ross Perot, a longtime veterans supporter.

"The Army has essentially eliminated any other possibility," Abou-Donia said. "We're not saying this is Gulf War syndrome, but we're saying this deserves a look."

The government should immediately investigate Abou-Donia's findings, said veterans' spokesman Phil Budahn of the American Legion.

The Pentagon already has begun funding similar chemical studies, Delaney said.

Abou-Donia first gave healthy chickens separate doses of the nerve-gas pill pyridostigmine and the insecticide DEET and permethrin. Alone, even doses three times greater than soldiers got didn't hurt the chickens.

But any two chemicals together gave chickens diarrhea, shortness of breath, stumbling and other symptoms. The three taken together paralyzed or killed some of the birds.

Autoptopies showed the chickens had inflamed or permanently damaged nervous system cells.

Abou-Donia's tests then showed the chickens most harmed had less of a natural cleansing enzyme called plasma butyrylcholinesterase, or BuCHE. This enzyme normally filters out chemicals like DEET or permethrin before they can get into the brain.

The nerve-gas pill inhibits BuCHE. In fact, it's used as a medication for people with a rare disease affecting their enzyme-producing cells, Abou-Donia explained.

Proving BuCHE plummeted in soldiers during the Gulf War would be impossible because as soon as the inhibiting chemical is removed, the body begins producing it again.

But about 4 percent of people have a genotype deficiency restricting the BuCHE they produce — naturally — meaning they are more at risk of chemical damage.

My skirt showed my knees, but it was not an invitation to rape me.

Uninvited hands covered my mouth, fondled the breasts I will cut off.

And I will cut off the ears that heard you breathing. And I will gouge out the eyes that saw you laugh, never noticing pain and tears on my face.

And I will despise the body you saw fit to use for your pleasure.

Dear Editor:

Please make yourself read the following letter sent to Prof. O'Hara BEFORE she released her "timely" response to her year long committee that studied whether or not gays/lesbians should be seen or heard at Notre Dame. SHE NEVER RESPONDED to this letter. WHY won't she talk to these people?

March 18, 1996

Dear Prof. O'Hara,

We write as the elected leaders of Gays and Lesbians of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College (GLND/SMC). On February 29th, after nearly a year of study and deliberation, the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student Needs publicly issued its final report to you. In the week following, the members of GLND/SMC gathered twice to discuss our reactions to the report, both as individuals and as the community of lesbian and gay students of Notre Dame, Saint Mary's, and the Holy Cross Colleges.

We believe that the report is mostly a needed and welcome step forward. It acknowledges the difficulties faced by gay and lesbian students here. It calls for measures to reduce harassment and to create a more accepting environment. It recommends that sexual orientation be added to the University's nondiscrimination clause. We certainly agree that serious, concerted and ongoing efforts must be undertaken to foster acceptance, to eliminate harassment, and to assure fair and equal treatment of lesbian and gay students, faculty and staff. We further believe that the important recommendation calling for inclusion of sexual orientation in Notre Dame's nondiscrimination statement should be immediately adopted.

At the same time, we are concerned that it not be forgotten that the community of lesbian and gay people extends beyond the campus of Notre Dame and includes students from the wider community of Notre Dame, Saint Mary's and the Holy Cross Colleges.

We are especially heartened to see that the Committee, despite the restrictions of its mandate, recommends the formal constitution of a student group of lesbians and gay men. We are pleased that the Committee recognizes that "GLND/SMC has been the primary source of support for the many gay and lesbian students to whom it spoke. GLND/SMC's important and positive role at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is further underscored in the report. "We have been inspired by the ways in which gay and lesbian students have cared for and assisted each other and we have been impressed by the earnestness and faithfulness with which many seek to live out their lives as Christians." As you must now be aware, the mutual care and support demonstrated by gay and lesbian students has been the hallmark of GLND/SMC's work for over the last decade. We are proud that the Committee has recorded the centrality of our presence and the beneficence of our role.

The publication of the final report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Students Needs provides an opportunity to move forward at Notre Dame. We call on you to formally constitute GLND/SMC as the University group serving the needs of lesbian and gay students in our community.

GLND/SMC's record of service and our historically central role in assisting gays and lesbians to find mutual support and explore issues of importance were last year validated by every representative body at Notre Dame. The publication of the Ad Hoc Committee's findings only confirms this evaluation.

With this letter, GLND/SMC submits our application for formal constitution as the University group of gay and lesbian students. We will find attached a current copy of our constitution. Additionally, several members of the faculty and staff have expressed a willingness and desire to serve in the role of faculty advisor to the group.

We look forward to working with all to assure that equity of rights and responsibilities be secured for the lesbian and gay community here. We anticipate that the University will formally recognize us as we already exist—not as isolated individuals—but as a group of students in the best tradition of Notre Dame.

JOHN BLANDFORD SAMANTHA SHANNON
Co-Chair, GLND/SMC

BW3's: One saucy spot

By LESLIE FIELD
Saint Mary's Accent Editor

"The way wings were meant to be." With an unbelievable selection of wings priced just right and sauces that will melt your mouth and tantalize your taste buds, South Bend's BW3's is clearly the wing winner. Opening in February, this wingy nouvelle cuisine is really flying. Senior Justin DuFour, BW3's bouncer and cashier, enjoys his job despite the minimum wage. "The managers are really cool and laid back," he claims. This laid back attitude makes BW3's a pleasure to hang out in. Like DuFour, many students have begun frequenting BW3's as both employees and customers. With their Tuesday night special of twenty cent wings and their Wednesday fifty cent legs, it is no wonder why. On top of the excellent food and drink selection, BW3's is much larger than the bars Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students have grown accustomed to. Its best feature (besides the wings, of course) is the video trivia. Simply give a picture ID to the bartender and receive your video control for the night. Some students get really into the high pressured game, making it more than just another drinking game. Senior Mary Good praises BW3's saying that, "It's not too crowded, there's always food, and I love the trivia."

"So I don't like wings. Just give me my burger, OK?" you might be saying. Well, here are thirteen reasons to put your burger down and give wings a chance. They are Blazin, Wild, Hot, Hot BBQ, Spicy Garlic, Medium, Curry, Mild, Sweet BBQ, Honey mustard, and Teriyaki. These sauce choices give the average wing connoisseur a delicious selection to choose from. BW3's has five more sauce choices than Wings Etc., making it the leader in sauce choices. If these sauces and meaty wings still don't tempt you, then you can always revert back to the old stand by. BW3's offers more conventional customers the Burger--on -Weck, advertised as, "possibly the best burger in America." What is a -Weck? It is a Kaiser roll, baked at BW3's with salt and Caraway seeds on top. And it makes the burgers awfully tasty. They also have Buffalo Breath Chili, Steak Fajitas, and Chicken Fajitas. Like all of their food, BW3's offers choices in the seriousness of their flavoring. For the more timid, there is the regular bowl of chili for two dollars and nineteen cents, but for those who like their chili a little bit more kickey, there is the Chili with wild or bleu cheese sauce. Their Pocket Pizzas aren't bad either, with the Pepperoni Pockets and Jalapeno-Cheddar Pockets being crowd pleasers. You can get six pockets with these for only six dollars and forty cents, Deals, deals. BW3's is South Bend's leader in wings. No doubt. So, next time you are up for a saucy night, cluck on over for an order of your favorite wings. You will definitely be flying back again soon.

Macri's: Have a sandwich

By MELANIE WATERS
Saint Mary's Accent Editor

Everyone knows that Macri's deli is the place to go for the best sandwiches in South Bend, but what about their wingy establishments? Unlike their shopping plaza neighbor, Wings Etc., Macri's offers only the basics in chicken chowing. For $3.25, you get a plethora of choices that includes hot and mild. Big surprise. For the truly demanding, Macri's will also serve a half-and-half basket. The order consists of eight wings and the conventional accompanying celery sticks, with the option of either barbecue sauce or bleu cheese for dipping. As for the wings themselves, they don't exactly rule the roost when it comes to finger-lickin' satisfaction. If you don't mind mashing your bleu cheese with a generous helping of grease, then you'll probably enjoy them.

The serving size isn't much of a bargain when other restaurants feature ten cent wings specials. I wouldn't mind paying a little more for a specially like cheesy garlic bread, but wings just aren't a Macri deli necessity. As far as the fire alarm rating goes, mild is definitely an understatement unless you forcefully drown your poor wing in barbecue sauce. If your idea of good spicy food usually entails having smoke seep out of your sinuses, then conventional chowing is not for you with the "hot" wings. They're about as hot as South Bend is in April, and about as wet, too, if you consider the grease factor. So, while Macri's still reigns Supreme in the sandwich department, save your $3.25 for that night's drink special.

Wings Etc: Good Alternative

By KELLY MCGANNON

Finally, the quest for a restaurant to deliver that true sports bar atmosphere can now be fulfilled. Enter Wing's Etc. With amazing woodwork, a huge selection of video games, three large T.V.'s, and a hole mini golf course, it should be obvious that Wing's Etc. reels in fun. Not only does this marry food possesses an unbeatable laid back atmosphere, but Wing's Etc. also has this amazing talent for teasing and tantalizing your taste buds with a very complete and diverse menu.

And while we're on the subject of diversity, one quick glance at the menu gives you more choices than you ever imagined possible. The wings are "Whatcha came here for?" and it isn't about filling up your about your good stuff. The wings can come in either regular or garlic flavoring and are served with celery and blue cheese. Although many of the area wings boast of sauces to complement their entrees, you have to try these sauces. They're terrific. Wing's Etc. has created the following sauces for your enjoyment; not only do they increase in severity but they also make your mouth water in anticipation. One has their choice of mild, hot, medium, or teriyaki. And for those feeling a tad braver than the majority, how about trying the TNT and Special Suicide sauces. Your mouth will not be the same afterwards.

In comparison to BW3's, Wing's Etc. gives you not only the only sides of celery and blue cheese but also your selection of sauces, whereas at BW3's you'd have to pay a little extra for those given. Aside from the excellent selection and an incredible atmosphere, Wing's Etc. has substantial spe­ cials. On Mondays, wings are just 25 cents a piece, in addition of settling for the dining halls' meal will cause surprise, why not swing on by and feast on some great food. And for those of you that are watching what you eat, you'll be relieved to know that the wings are fried only in 100% cholesterol-free vegetable oil.

Concerning Wing's Etc., junior Ross Williams had the following to say, "I used to go there for Monday Night Football and I liked it because it was a pretty mixed crowd. It's better than BW3's because it's smaller and has waiters. It's also not very packed and it has a very relaxed atmosphere. Besides, the wings are good. And if you're not a wing lover, don't worry, Wing's Etc. has a huge variety of appetizers, salads, and seafood. Not to mention the ever popular, hot wing's spots that also boast of great menu selections from the deli and charbroiler. Too, and if you're in the mood for dog or ribs, Wing's Etc. has your back. Your favorite domestic and imported beers on tap or in a basket. Wholesale, but hot and cold choices are good, too, as Wing's Etc. has most of the favorite domestic and imported beers on tap or bottled.

And if you're among the majority who have been searching for a true sports bar, look no further than Wing's Etc. With a smaller, more relaxed atmosphere, entertainment games, and a huge menu selection, this fairly new eatery is "Whatcha came here for?"

Chili's. That famous Southwestern grill and bar with the ever popular, dippable, acceptable chili queso s a u s e o s . Many people know all about the veggie tacos and Cajun Fajitas. But it is easy to forget about the wings, especially with the addition of this like BW3's taking over the South Bend area. Although their selection of wings are not be as extensive as Wings Etc. or BW3's, they are certainly not lacking in quality. Wings over bases covered with bleu cheese, and stuffed Jalapenos with sauces. Chili's may not be the leader in wings, but it doesn't claim to be instead, it boasts a varied menu, bottomless chips and salsa, and a fun atmosphere. And if you happen to feel like a basket of wings, you don't have to fly the coop because Chili's will set you up with some.

PDA: Stop the Insanity, Kids!

By ANDREA JORDAN
Accent Copy Editor

PDA aka a public display of affection. This action can be more disgusting than the dining hall's leftover food dawdling in a row. Or even more disgusting than your roommate's personal hygiene habits. How many people have witnessed in the cam­ pus, but is it a necessary one? Of course it is not, but the partici­ pants in this obscenity feel it is necessary to show their private habits in public. They walk around on cloud nine not caring that other people do not want to preview the freak show on campus. Even possible action can be viewed in a public area on campus any time of the day. There are two hot spots for PDA: outside of dorms and in the huddle.

Scenario one: You walking home from a late night at the library and it is approximately 2:00 a.m. Your brain is tem­ porarily out of order due to the past six hours spent studying. As you near your dorm you think of the nice warm cozy bed that is waiting you. What approach will your door of your dorm, what do you see, a couple kissing and fumbling each other. Your first thought is "Get a room". Your second thought is "Have they no shame?" As you have these thoughts you stare aimlessly at the couple hoping they will feel some form of embarrassment and leave for a more private area. Of course they have no shame and they continue to kiss regardless of who is watching. What do you do? Do you do what Mark B. suggests, "buckle an insult like "Get control of your hormones!" C. clap when they finally finish and compliment them on their style and technique. D. all of the above. The correct answer is B. Remember, there is no real solution to this. And finally, the last, the outright question you want to know.

Scenario two: You walk into the huddle for that nightly snack and maybe some light studying or the inevitable chit-chat that is bound to happen when you sit in the huddle. While you bite down into your quarter dog and open your text, you hear the sound of smacking lips. Okay, first you ignore it, but a few minutes or so you turn to the next booth and look at the couple sucking face. You ask yourself "Can they breathe, will they ever come up for air?" You sigh loudly as if you cannot concentrate, but they are oblivious to anything except each other mouth's.

What do you say? A. "Did you swallow each other's tonsils?" B. "Was that the new CPR method?" C. "Can you control your­ selves until you get but half way through your meal?" D. "Is it not even more disgusting than your roommate's personal hygiene habits?" E. "Get a room. George not worried about draft

By RUSTY MILLER
Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Trophy winner Eddie George says that although many people don’t have him listed as the top tailback in this weekend’s NFL draft, it doesn’t bother him.

“Beauty’s in the eyes of the beholder,” George said during a conference call Tuesday. “I think I’m just as quick, just as fast, just as effective as any of those other running backs.”

The record-breaking Ohio State runner is mentioned behind Nebraska’s Lawrence Phillips and Texas A&M’s Leeland McCarthy in most draft forecasts.

George’s agent, Lamont Phillips, has a forecast of his own. “There may be a back, maybe two, who are selected ahead of him. When it’s all said and done, I think you’ll see the type of performance from Eddie that will make people look back on the 1996 draft and say, ‘Wow. What did people see? You’ll see him be a great pro,’” Smith said.

The 6-foot-3, 227-pound George set Ohio State season and single-game records last year by gaining 1,927 yards, including 314 yards against Illinois. He also scored 25 touchdowns.

The apparent knock on George is a lack of explosiveness. Yet he had breakout gains of 87 yards against Minnesota, 64 against Illinois and 63 against Notre Dame. As a junior, when he rushed for 1,477 yards, he ran for 76 yards against Michigan State and 40 yards against Alabama in the Florida Citrus Bowl.

George had a time of 4.49 seconds in the 40-yard dash during his workout for scouts at Ohio State’s Woody Hayes Athletic Center. He said he has given special attention to speed and quickness during his pre-draft workouts.

“I’m working on everything—my speed, my quickness, getting my feet back under me, weightlifting,” George said. “Just everything I can possibly do to get better.”

George said there were enough quality backs in the draft to keep everybody happy, regardless of how they are ranked by position.

“It’s really what style of running back you like,” he said.

Elway signs for five more years

By MEREDITH J. RAMSEY
Associated Press

DENVER (AP) — John Elway, the aging master of the miracle comeback, signed a new five-year, $29.5 million contract Tuesday, guaranteeing he will end his career with the Denver Broncos.

It also will give Elway, who turns 36 in June, another shot at Super Bowl title. He has taken the Broncos to the Super Bowl three times, but they have yet to win.

“I’m going to have the opportunity to get that Super Bowl that we haven’t had up until this point,” Elway said. “We get (coach) Mike Shanahan who knows how to do it and hopefully I can help him get it done. It’s great for me to finish my career in Denver.”

Broncos owner Pat Bowlen said Elway has “by far the greatest player to play here in Denver and probably will be for a long time.”

Before Tuesday’s agreement was finalized, Elway had one year left on a four-year $18.6 million agreement.

Elway is entering his 14th year in the NFL — all in Denver — but he has shown few signs of slowing down. Last season, he threw for 3,970 yards with 26 touchdowns and 14 interceptions.

In 1995, Elway engineered the most productive offense in franchise history when the Broncos generated 6,040 yards and finished No. 1 in the AFC, averaging 378 yards per game. But even that potent offense had problems. Denver never won more than two games in a row or lost more than two games in a row, and never was more than one game above or below .500. The Broncos finished with an 8-8 record.

Over the years, Elway has built a reputation for breathtaking finishes. He solidified that in his fourth season by engineering The Drive — a 98-yard, touchdown march that produced a tie with 20 seconds left and led to Denver’s 23-20 overtime win over the Cleveland Browns in the 1986 AFC championship game.

Last season, critics began to declare Elway’s magic history, but he proved them wrong Sept. 17 with a 43-yard touchdown pass to Rod Smith in the last play to defeat the Washington Redskins 38-31.
Bulls buck history, attain record 70 win mark

By CHRIS SHERIDAN
Associated Press

MILWAUKEE
The Chicago Bulls stamped a big 70 on a season of superlatives Tuesday night. It just wasn’t the decisive win they wanted.

The Bulls barely got past the lowly Milwaukee Bucks with a 86-80 victory and didn’t exactly look like the most dominating team in NBA history.

Still, it made Chicago 70-9, breaking the 1971-72 Los Angeles Lakers’ record of 69 wins.

The Bucks shot just 39 percent, didn’t get a spectacular game from any of their superstars and needed a scoreless final four minutes from the Bucks in order to get it done.

“We didn’t really play our kind of basketball,” said Michael Jordan, who had 22 points. “Somehow, our defense kind of got hot and we were able to hold them down.”

Some of the Bulls have already called themselves the greatest team in NBA history, a boast that’s sure to be debated.

The Bulls barely got past the Bucks fans, but the Chicago field in the final four minutes when Johnny Newman with 16 seconds that could have pulled the Bucks within one.

Instead, Steve Kerr was fouled, made two foul shots and the outcome was sealed.

The Bulls didn’t even play that well, but they held Milwaukee to 70, just 20 points more than their season-low of 50.

It’s been a season almost beyond comparison for the Bulls, a run of success unlike any that’s been seen in the NBA’s 49-year history. They won their first 37 home games, setting a mark for most consecutive victories at the start of a season and most spanning two seasons (44 straight).

The possibility of breaking the Lakers’ 24-year-old mark became a near certainty as the victories piled up through the winter. With three games remaining, the Bulls can set an even higher standard of regular-season excellence.

Hundreds of Bulls fans made the 90-mile drive to Milwaukee and bought tickets from scalpers asking $200 per ticket.

The crowd appeared almost evenly split between Bulls and Bucks fans, but the Chicago portrait was silenced for longer than expected.

After trailing nearly the entire game, the Bulls took their first lead of the game with 7:22 left on a 3-pointer by Steve Kerr after an offensive rebound by Dennis Rodman, who finished with 19 rebounds.

Milwaukee pulled within one twice more, but Kerr made a 21-foot jumper and Pippen had a three-point play to keep Chicago ahead.

Pippen’s bucket and free throw with 4:41 left turned out to be Chicago’s final basket.

The Bulls went 0-for-3 from the field in the final four minutes and the Bucks were 0-for-6 as a team, but they held Milwaukee scoreless for the final 4:19.

During that stretch, Cummings rushed a jumper and then dribbled the ball away. Glenn Robinson threw a pass too hard and it went off the back of the rim.

The Bucks didn’t make a field goal in the final 4:11, but their free throws and Jordan’s block ensured their milestone win.

Astros hitting too much for Mets

Associated Press

NEW YORK

The Houston Astros used left fielder Butch Huskey's error and three stolen bases to score five runs in the fifth inning Tuesday night for a 9-6 victory over the New York Mets.

Todd Hundley hit a three-run homer and Jeff Kent followed with a homer during a five-run seventh that closed the Mets to 6-5.

Miller homered to start a three-run eighth for Houston. Rico Brogna homered in the bottom half of the inning.

Shane Reynolds (2-1) gave up seven hits in 6 1-3 innings. Todd Jones pitched a scoreless ninth for his season save.

Jason Berghofer (1-1) lasted 4 2-3 innings. He allowed six runs, only two of them earned, on seven hits and five walks.

The Astros took a 1-0 lead in the first on singles by Craig Biggio, Jeff Bagwell and Rick Wilkins.

Brian Hunter opened the Astros fifth with a single and stole second. Biggio and Bagwell then walked, loading the bases.

Hundley hit a sacrifice fly. After Bagwell stole second, Huskey dropped Berry's fly ball, enabling two runs to score. Derrick May and Miller followed with RBI singles.

Miller homered in the eighth off Robert Person, the fifth Mets pitcher. John Cangelosi walked, Hunter singled and, after Jerry Dilone relieved, Biggio walked and Bagwell hit a two-run single for a 9-5 lead.

In the Mets' seventh, Huskey reached on an error by Berry at third base and Brogna singled. Hundley followed with his fifth homer of the season on the first pitch and then Kent connected.

Cubs 6, Reds 3

CHICAGO

Steve Trachsel won in his first appearance of the season and Leo Gomez hit a two-run double in a six-run sixth inning Tuesday, leading the Chicago Cubs over the Cincinnati Reds 6-3.

Trachsel allowed two hits in six innings, walked five and struck out four. He had spent two weeks with Double-A Orlando because the Cubs started the season.

Adams and Doug Jones finished with four-hit relief, stopping Cincinnati's three-game winning streak.

Summy Sosa bunted for a single with one out in the sixth off Mark Portugal (0-2). Luis Gonzalez walked and Scott Servais was hit by a pitch, load­ing the bases. Gomez hit a drive over right fielder Eric Anthony and Hector Carrasquel walked. Rey Sanchez, again loading the bases, Scott Bullett, batting for Trachsel, singled home Servais. Brian Moran's sacrifice fly off Jeff Shaw and Ryne Sandberg's two-run double made it 6-3.

Portugal allowed four runs and seven hits in 5 1-3 innings. Cincinnati didn't get a hit until the fifth, when Jeff Branson singled off the tip of the glove of a leaping Sandberg at second.

Pinch-hitter Lenny Harris hit a two-run homer in the ninth off Jones and Eric Davis hit a solo homer, his second in three games.

Royals 6, White Sox 5

KANSAS CITY, Mo.

Tim Belcher won his first game for Kansas City and Tommy Goodwin went 4-for-5 with two stolen bases Tuesday night as the Royals built a six-run lead and hung on for a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Belcher (1-1) took a four-hit shutdown into the sixth but gave up home runs to Ron Karkvist and Frank Thomas. Belcher, who pitched for Seattle before becoming a free agent, gave up three runs and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Seitzer leads Brew Crew to 6-3 victory

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE

Kevin Seitzer, showing more surprising power, hit his fourth home run of the season Tuesday night, leading the Milwaukee Brewers past the New York Yankees 6-3.

Seitzer connected for a third home run, capped a five-run fourth inning against ineffective Jimmy Key (1-2).

Seitzer hit only five homers in 492 at-bats last season. He started this year with a total of 59 home runs in 4,507 at-bats in the majors.

Scott Karl (2-1) held the Yankees scoreless until the seventh, when he gave up two runs. Relievers Mark Kiefer and Graeme Lloyd finished up, with the Yankees scoring in the ninth on pinch-hitter Wado Boggs's single.

Key, continuing his comeback from last year's rotator cuff surgery, was tagged for all six runs on 10 hits in 3 2-3 innings. He walked one and struck out three.

The Brewers scored a run in the first on successive singles by Jeff Cirillo, Seitzer and Greg Vaughn.

Matt Mieske doubled to open the fourth and scored on Jose Valentin's one-out triple. With two outs, Pat Lintech hit an RBI single and Cirillo followed with a single.

Seitzer then hit a 1-1 pitch over the left-field wall, finishing Key.

New York scored twice in the seventh on Roberto Eenhorn's sacrifice fly and Derry Jeter's RBI single.

New York had runners on first and third with none out in the fifth, but Key escaped with the help of an inning-ending double play.

Tigers 13, Blue Jays 8

TORONTO

Forget about Ken Griffey Jr., Albert Belle and Matt Williams.

Now it's Cecil Fielder who's making a run at home run history.

Fielder hit three home runs and drove in seven runs for the fourth time in his career, increasing his major league-leading total to nine as the Detroit Tigers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 13-8 Tuesday.

Fielder, who had five RBIs, is two shy of the major league record for home runs in April, a mark shared by Craig Biggio, Mike Schmidt and Willie Stargell.

"I just heard about it," Fielder said. "But I can't worry about records. I feel good at the plate right now and if I keep swinging the bat the way I am, the hits will come."

What Can You Do With A Foreign Language Degree?

A Master of International Business.

In today's globally competitive environment, many companies are looking for managers with multicultural business and language skills. Vankoski, who decided to got wind of Vankoski's wish to play, they began looking into the situation. After a prelimidecided to allow him to particip-

"At the captains' meeting they pulled us aside and told us that I would be able to play

However, once they investi-

"We did tell him that he was going to be able to play," stated executive commissioner John Albrighton. "We then re-

Another run in the bottom of the fourth inning allowed the Wildcats to narrow the lead to 6-5, but the Irish upped their lead to 8-5 in the top half of the fifth inning on back to back singles by Lazzaroni and third baseman J.J. Brock.

Wildcat reliever John Seaman and catcher Neil Piacenti combined for three wild pitches and two passed balls in the top half of the ninth, and the Irish headed into the bottom of the final inning with a comfortable 11-6 lead.

Apparently the Wildcats thought this lead was just a tad too comfortable, as they clutched two of their four homersuns on the day and went through two Irish pitchers before closer Rich Sauget was able to retire Wildcat Jim Reeder for the game’s final out.

Stavisky earned the win, moving his record to 3-1 on the year, and Sauget earned his sixth and perhaps most literal “save” of the season, as the Irish moved to 27-10 on the year. New leadoff man Randall Bross got his average above .400 by going 3-5, and three different Irish players finished with two or more RBIs. The Irish, who have surrendered 20 runs in the last two games, will host in-state rival Purdue at 6:00.

Irish look ahead to tourney

After winning four out of their last five dual matches, the Notre Dame men's tennis team finished their regular season by taking a step backward.

Yesterday, the Irish headed to Ann Arbor where the University of Michigan handed the squad their worst defeat of the year. The Irish could not manage to win a point for only the second time this year as the No. 27 team was not a gracious host in the 7-0 win.

The score was not indicative of the play of the match. Four out of six singles matches went the full three sets. In the other two matches, Michigan came out on top of tie breakers, which if they would have gone the other way, the Irish could have won.

The Irish met a fired up Wolverine squad who had been giving 110 percent. Head coach Brian Eisner discussed the effort of his team.

"We may not be the best team in the United States, but there is nobody competing harder than us, and as a coach, that is what you want.

In doubles play, the No. 1 team of Mike Sprouse and Jason Pun provided the Domers of their only win of the day with an 8-5 victory over Peter Puszati and John Costanzo. At the second slot, the duo of Jakup Pietrowski and Brian Patterson were edged by Geoff Prentice and Arvid Swan, 8-6.

Jake Raiton and William Farah clinched the point for the Irish as they overcame J.J. O'Brien and Ryan Simme, 7-6, 6-4.

Senior Brian Harris, who has played well when he has seen action, dropped his match to William Parish, 7-6, 6-4.

The Wolverines knew this would be a key match as the winner would have the benefit of the No. 1 seed in the NCAA Regionals, and Notre Dame has been the dominate team in the region for the past three years.

Eisner commented on the importance of this match.

"This win is extremely rewarding. I cannot think of a win in the last 10 years I have enjoyed more than this one, because the toughest place to win is in your section of the country."

The win gives the Wolverines the top seed in the NCAA Regionals to be held at Notre Dame, May 10-12. The loss places more emphasis on Big East Tournament play as they will be looking to regain momentum before the Regionals.

In the Big East Tournament, which will be held in Miami Fla., the Irish will have the No. 1 seed and will be heavy favorites as the Irish dominated the No. 2 seed Miami Hurricanes earlier this year, 7-0.

Bookstore action heats up

Seeded teams dominate during opening round
By BETSY BAKER

Fun is being replaced by intensity as the competition is heating up in Bookstore XXV.

Comments like "We are just here to have a good time" are being replaced by "We expect to be seeded higher, but we'll prove it on the court."

The seeded teams were out in full force yesterday as Bookstore Basketball continued.

Despite the more impressive showings of the day, the eleventh-seeded Pass the Beernuts VI – Last Call defeated Three Guys ... and Two Other Guys 21-2. A combination of size, speed, and near flawless ball handling clinched the lopsided victory for Pass the Beernuts VI. The Beernuts’ front line, consisting of over five hundred pounds under the basket with 6-foot-7 freshman Mike Rosenthal and 6-foot-2 senior Kevin Carreta, added to the versatility and quickness of seniors Dan McConnell, Josh Burick, and junior T.R. Kane, should make this team a definite contender for the crown.

"It was the first game we have played together," Burick said. "So we were really pleased with our performance."

"We still need to improve, but I think the more we play together, the better we will get, and hopefully we‘ll make a run at the title."

Teammate Carreta has set his sights on more than just the Bookstore crown.

"I really like playing Bookstore because it might get me a date," Carreta added. Sean Tracy, a member of the frustrated Three Guys ..., commented on the team's play.

"We had a really tough loss today, and we were a little tired," Tracy said.

"I wasn’t quite focused. That would explain the nine turnovers."

Another member of Three Guys ... , Chris Wiwi added, "The hot weather was also a factor."

In other ranked action, seventh-seeded Swoosh defeated Todd’s Special Little Team 21-12, while the no. 22 seed DESIRE defeated Castun, 21-13.

The No. 23 team, Serial Killas, opened the tournament with a nine run deficit against the defenders but battled back into the game, as Irish bats just enough to get by feisty ‘Cats

The Notre Dame baseball team continues to provide edge-of-your-seat entertainment, as they nearly squandered a five run lead before finally taming the Northwestern Wildcats in an 11-10 slugfest at Evanston, Illinois yesterday afternoon.

"It (the game) was a hard-fought, tough victory for us," said head coach Paul Mainieri following the game. "To hang on for this win really showed a lot of mental toughness on our part."

The Irish showed a load of toughness early on, spanning Northwestern starter Chad Schroeder for five runs in the top of the first inning. The early attack was keyed by first baseman George Restovich, whose seventh triple of the season cleared the bases to put the Irish up 3-0, and it wasn’t until sixth inning hitter Bob Lisanti’s RBI groundout that the Wildcats recorded the first out of the game.

The Irish added a single run in the second inning but then promptly allowed the Wildcats back into the game, as Irish starter Dan Stavisky was tagged for two runs in both the second and third innings. See BASEBALL/ page 21

David Quist is engaged in a battle with fellow defensive linemen Antwon Jones and Alton Maiden for the starting nose guard position. Antwon Jones and Alton Maiden for the starting nose guard position.

Nobody Nose

Questions abound in battle for nose guard spot
By TODD FITZPATRICK

The nose guard for next season’s Fighting Irish football squad will have a tough act to follow.

The past two Irish nose guards, Oliver Gibson and Paul Grasmanis, were forces that no one expected to face. But this is a new team and a new season. Who will step up and earn the starting job for the 1996 Fighting Irish?

Maybe he will be David Quist.

"Quist brings a lot of brute strength to the table. He is very mature physically," commented defensive coordinator Bob Davie.

At 6-foot-6, 290 pounds, Quist has a size advantage over the other Irish nose guards by at least twenty pounds. After backing up Grasmanis during the ‘95 campaign, Quist has returned for a fifth year with the intention to earn the starting position.

Or maybe he will be Antwon Jones.

"Jones brings a lot of great effort and impressive playmaking ability to the field. He had two sacks on Saturday. He’s very productive, but not quite as big," said Davie.

Jones, who will play as a sophomore next season, steps up to the line at nearly 260 pounds. Jones may not possess the experience or size of Quist, but he has played very well thus far during spring practices.

Alton Maiden is also competing for the nose guard position.
