Faculty Senate

Theology hiring sparks investigation

By RUSSELL WILLIAMS

Theology hiring sparks investigation

By RUSSELL WILLIAMS

Assistant News Editor

By unanimous vote, the Faculty Senate’s Academic Affairs Committee will open an investigation to pursue charges concerning a faculty hiring in the theology department, made despite objections by that department’s own chairman and hiring committee.

The disputed appointment was made by Father Edward Malloy, president of the University. The committee will present its findings and recommendations at the November 7 meeting of Faculty Senate. The name of the professor has not been released.

Faculty Senate Vice-Chairman Jean Porter, an associate professor of theology, introduced the resolution asking the Faculty Senate to disapprove of Father Malloy’s decision to hire a professor in the theology department.

The president’s decision came after the department’s chairman, Professor Lawrence Cunningham, and other members of his department expressed clear opposition to the appointment.

Despite the strained atmosphere, the discussion was followed with a Faculty Senate vote to open an investigation at last night’s meeting. The postponement resulted from a need to further investigate the charges. The point of further investigation was raised by Professor G. Robert Blackey of the Notre Dame Law School.

Blackey expressed the need for the Senate to investigate this charge to the fullest, adding, “President Malloy is entitled to be heard on what he did on this issue.”

The resolution introduced by Porter also notes that an earlier investigation conducted by Harold Attridge, dean of the College of Arts and Letters, supported the manner in which the interview of the professor was done.

Addressing the issue of last spring’s Patricia O’Hara report on gay and lesbian rights, the Senate unanimously disagreed with O’Hara’s decision released April 2 in “Open Letter in Response to the Final Report of the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student Needs.”

O’Hara’s conclusion called for the formation of a gay and lesbian student council, but only under the direct supervision of faculty or administration.

Area police crack down on off-campus disturbances

By BRAD PRENDERGAST

News Editor

South Bend

The problems created by a gathering of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students at an off-campus party are hardly new to local law enforcement agencies. But that doesn’t mean they like those problems.

As indicated by the several off-campus parties that were shut down by authorities last weekend, South Bend police began the school year by making their presence known.

The appearance of the police at an off-campus party depends on one of two factors, said Sgt. John Williams, assistant public information officer for the South Bend Police Department.

Police respond to a party if they notice excessive behavior while on routine patrols or if any neighbor complains about the noise, Williams said.

If complaints prompt police to come to a particular scene, the officers will usually issue a warning and tell the organizers to tone the party down. But if further complaints require a second response, the authorities are a little more stern, Williams said. “They’ll usually shut it down.”

Williams himself is in an interesting position, because he lives in the Turtle Creek apartment complex. That means he can be found at several parties each weekend if they, as he said, “get a little out of hand.”

“All the kids know me at Turtle Creek,” he said. “Usually, I’ll go around (to the parties). If the music is too loud, I’ll tell them to turn it down. Then I’ll come back in 45 minutes or an hour to see if the noise is back up high.”

Williams’ surveillance is augmented by an increased patrol by South Bend police on Friday and Saturday nights. The department also puts between four and eight additional officers on city-wide driving-under-the-influence patrol duty on the weekends.

“I used to have the guys on my shift and the guys on the midnight shift keep an eye on Turtle Creek, especially on home football weekends,” said Williams, who has lived in Turtle Creek for the last three years.

Notre Dame Security officers also pass by the various off-campus apartment complexes on the weekends whenever they are transferring a student to or from a local medical center.

Stop Underage Drinking and Sales (SUDS), an agency of the South Bend police, has also kept tabs on college students at off-campus parties, but rumors persist that SUDS patrols have ceased because of reorganization within the police department.

Williams could not shed any light on that question.

Campus Security provides assistance upon request to the local police at an incident off-campus, and Notre Dame officials also cooperate with what they consider to be a necessary precaution, to stop pick up parties that may be planning a back to campus late at night.

Security’s involvement in off-campus situations is “generally in response to requests for assistance from local law enforcement,” said flex Bakow, director of Notre Dame Security. “But we’ve seen an increase in requests for help during parties.”

Wet and wild in waterworld

Yesterday afternoon’s downpour left a soft landing for Todd Muscato, a Dilton sophomore, in a sloppy game of frisbee on South Quad.

Editor’s note: This is the second in a three-part series examining the changing alcohol policies affecting Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students. Today, we look at how law enforcement agencies view student alcohol consumption.

South Bend

The problems created by a gathering of Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students at an off-campus party are hardly new to local law enforcement agencies. But that doesn’t mean they like those problems.

As indicated by the several off-campus parties that were shut down by authorities last weekend, South Bend police began the school year by making their presence known.

The appearance of the police at an off-campus party depends on one of two factors, said Sgt. John Williams, assistant public information officer for the South Bend Police Department.

Police respond to a party if they notice excessive behavior while on routine patrols or if any neighbor complains about the noise, Williams said.

If complaints prompt police to come to a particular scene, the officers will usually issue a warning and tell the organizers to tone the party down. But if further complaints require a second response, the authorities are a little more stern, Williams said. “They’ll usually shut it down.”

Williams himself is in an interesting position, because he lives in the Turtle Creek apartment complex. That means he can be found at several parties each weekend if they, as he said, “get a little out of hand.”

“All the kids know me at Turtle Creek,” he said. “Usually, I’ll go around (to the parties). If the music is too loud, I’ll tell them to turn it down. Then I’ll come back in 45 minutes or an hour to see if the noise is back up high.”

Williams’ surveillance is augmented by an increased patrol by South Bend police on Friday and Saturday nights. The department also puts between four and eight additional officers on city-wide driving-under-the-influence patrol duty on the weekends.

“I used to have the guys on my shift and the guys on the midnight shift keep an eye on Turtle Creek, especially on home football weekends,” said Williams, who has lived in Turtle Creek for the last three years.

Notre Dame Security officers also pass by the various off-campus apartment complexes on the weekends whenever they are transferring a student to or from a local medical center.

Stop Underage Drinking and Sales (SUDS), an agency of the South Bend police, has also kept tabs on college students at off-campus parties, but rumors persist that SUDS patrols have ceased because of reorganization within the police department.

Williams could not shed any light on that question.

Campus Security provides assistance upon request to the local police at an incident off-campus, and Notre Dame officials also cooperate with what they consider to be a necessary precaution, to stop pick up parties that may be planning a back to campus late at night.

Security’s involvement in off-campus situations is “generally in response to requests for assistance from local law enforcement,” said flex Bakow, director of Notre Dame Security. “But we’ve seen an increase in requests for help during parties.”

Wet and wild in waterworld

Yesterday afternoon’s downpour left a soft landing for Todd Muscato, a Dilton sophomore, in a sloppy game of frisbee on South Quad.
Another victim of the coin toss

Oh, it's that time again. Yes, time to indulge that infantile whimsy that our annual readership survey engenders. Does anyone remember that I used to like the coin toss? I mean, Jealous?

No. I used to have kids, I feel a lot safer having a gun in the house."

I think this is a similar scene, may have played itself out a couple of years ago in the Administration Building. I'll go back there...550 students from one end of campus to the other, even though they're perfectly happy where they are.

BAD IDEA.

"Wait! Even better! Let's move them over to the other end of the south bow, and not all students for increased dining hall traffic or parking needs."

BAD IDEA.

"Let's take one dorm and break it up into two new ones. They're bound to be more successful social experiment than building an entire dorm!"

BAD IDEA.

"Wait! Let's take the old dorm they live in now and turn it into offices. Building two new dorms has got to be way more efficient than building a whole new building!"

BAD IDEA.

"You're right. Let's flip a coin to see which perfectly good dorm we rend assured... Looks like Grace."

"But... wasn't the donor for that dorm just dead?"

"Ooh, right. Well, we'll keep the name, and just toss the residents."

"All approved!" "You really have nothing else to do besides those side-walks..."

"This one, we'll water them more..."

In case you haven't guessed yet, I am a dorm resident. I could have been moved to an old, hot, cramped, infested, maybe even haunted dorm. But I got lucky; I have plenty of space, cool air, and no vermin in sight. (I understand if you want to smack me right now.)

Yes, kids could have a lot worse; they could have moved me to Zahm.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

TODAY'S STAFF

News

Derek Recher

Sasha Rodgers

Sports

Joe Carone

Todd Ferencek

Accent

Dan Cichalski

Mike Miller

Graphic

Melissa Weber

The Observer (USPS 992-0000) is published Monday through Friday during term and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press, a single publication and not subject to separate publication rates.

---

NEW WORLD AT A GLANCE

Haiti

INSUJE COLUMN

Administration Building.

Jeans?

just toss the

enjoy.

SNL spot for Bad Idea

increased dining hall traffic or parking

dorms has got to be way more efficient than those of The Observer.

current residents of Keough and was forced to relocate this year to uncharted

territory, between the golf course and a couple

DeBartolo (except the rooms in DeBartolo do

Affairs. And you'd be surprised what a rush one

want to smack me right now.)

それを知るために、私は彼女の本を読んだ。

彼女はこの新書を手に取って、中を覗き込んだ。その中には、彼女が考えていたこと、彼女が欲しかったことを書かれていた。

それが何であるかは、彼女だけが知っている。

彼女は、それを彼女の友人に示した。そして、友人は、それを読んだ。

彼女は、その友人との会話の中で、彼女が考えていたことを話し合った。

その友人は、彼女が考えていたことを理解した。

その友人は、彼女が考えていたことを笑って、彼女を見た。

彼女は、その友人との会話を続けた。そして、彼女は、彼女が考えていたことを話し合った。

彼女は、それを書いた。

彼女は、それが彼女の考えであることを知った。

彼女は、それを知った。

彼女は、それを知った。
T-storm causes campus blackout

By HEATHER COCKS
Associate News Editor

Yesterday's thunderstorms caused a power outage, plunging nearly one-third of the campus buildings into darkness and halting classes in mid-ses­sion, much to the delight of Notre Dame students.

Student Kristin Alworth wasn't so lucky. The Notre Dame junior found herself stranded in the elevator of LaFortune Student Center when the blackout occurred.

Alworth said she was en route to Scholastic Magazine's third floor office when "all of a sudden, the lights just went out."

Her voice echoing down the elevator shaft, Alworth added, "I got scared in elevators, so this isn't the most pleasant experience for me."

A power plant employee was unable to pinpoint the exact cause of the power failure, but attributed it to lightning that struck either a power line or substation.

"We make half of our power at the plant, and we buy the other half from the local electric company," he said. "If they lose power, then Notre Dame buildings are affected."

Among the areas affected were Lewis, Zahm, and Sorin Halls, as well as Fitzpatrick, Nieuwland, and DeBartolo.

The employee explained that the power plant is immediately made aware of the blackouts, but cannot flip any switches until American Electric Power, the local governing company, contacts them and informs them that it is safe to do so. "When the power comes back in, we start redistributing it to the buildings. We might turn a few on, and wait a few minutes to make sure things are running smoothly. Then we turn on the rest," he said.

The duration of the outage was estimated at 15-20 minutes; fortunately for Alworth, her ordeal in the elevator only lasted 10. "I guess it was a nice distraction," Alworth conceded upon exiting the elevator.

The power plant employee urged students and faculty to wait before calling the plant in a panic. "We are doing all we can, and the numerous phone calls tend to slow us down," he said.

He added that, although it is human nature to worry, there is no need. "We have audible alarms that sound when the power goes off anywhere on campus. We hope people can relax and let us do our best to get things up and running again."

Campus Brief

The Office of Financial Aid will be conducting an informational meeting regarding personal student finances tonight at 7 p.m. in 141 DeBartolo Hall. Student budgeting, money management, credit card usage, and establishing bank accounts for these and other financial activities will be addressed at the meeting.

In addition, general information about the financial aid process and its application procedures will be provided. All students are invited to attend.

Security Beat

Man exposes self by St. Mary's Lake

By BRAD PRENDERGAST
News Editor

An unidentified man exposed himself to two female students while they were walking around St. Mary's Lake Tuesday night.

At 10:30 p.m., the women were on the path by the lake near Carroll Hall when they heard a male voice say "boo," according to Chuck Hurley, assistant director of Notre Dame Security.

The women saw a naked, white man standing on the west side of the path. Hurley said the man was described to be at least 6 feet tall, thin, with dark, short, curly hair, and was in his twenties.

After the man fled, the women continued walking around the lake to the Security station, where they reported the incident.

Officers conducted a search of the area by the lake, but did not find any suspects, Hurley said. The incident remains under investigation by Security.

Officers using bicycles routinely patrol the area by the lake, Hurley said, as well as all other campus locations.

Hurley reminded students to alert Security of any suspicious incidents around campus. "Students should report suspicious behavior as soon as possible," he said. "There are call boxes around campus that students can use."

If you see news happening, call The Observer at 631-5323

Quick Service-Reasonable

• Fix any leather goods
• Replace zipper - shoes
• Orthopedic & Pediatric Specialist

100% Guarantee

10% Off New Customers

9-3 – Saturday
9-6 Monday – Friday

123 East Madison
O'Hara continued from page 1

members approved by the Office of Student Affairs. The proposal by O'Hara and the Administration directly conflicts with the University's consistently expressed policy by the Faculty Senate, Student Government, and Graduate Students at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Colleges.

Last night's resolution to oppose O'Hara's report was first introduced at the May meeting of Faculty Senate, but received final approval at last night's meeting.

The language in the Faculty Senate resolution is direct and critical, accusing O'Hara of continuing to "stigmatize gay and lesbian students by denying them rights and privileges accorded other Notre Dame student groups. " The resolution also states, "It is therefore resolved that the Faculty Senate deplores Professor O'Hara's response to Recommendation Five."

The Faculty Senate also demanded that the University and Board of Trustees change all non-discriminatory statements in University publications to prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation.

Police

continued from page 1

our main responsibility is on campus." Wieschaus, the Squibb Professor of Molecular Biology at Princeton University, said he believes scientific studies of how genes control early embryo development, research that should help explain some birth defects and miscarriages. Wieschaus is the first graduate of the University to receive a Nobel Prize.

After earning a bachelor's degree in biology from Notre Dame, Wieschaus completed his doctoral studies at Yale University in 1974. He joined the Princeton University faculty in 1981.

Wieschaus, the 1995 Nobel Prize Winner in medicine for his research which uncovered the development in embryos. This research helps explain congenital malformations in humans. Dr. Wieschaus will offer a popular account to his scientific trek for his days as an undergraduate at Notre Dame to the Nobel Prize. His talk will be directed to physicians, scientists and lay people who have an interest in the genetic control of the body and in the process of winning the Nobel prize.

Police

most of the time, the manpower does not permit it. According to Williams, the perception that South Bend police officers have of Notre Dame students has changed over the years. "A while ago, some officers hated ND students," he said. "Some just have a different philosophy than I have."

rather than arresting students, Williams prefers to confiscate an offending student's school ID card and warn him not to appear in an intoxicated state at Turtle Creek again. "It's better for the kid than arresting him," Williams said. "I know he needs the ID to eat with. And most of the time, you're not going to get a repeat offender. Most of them will not take the chance."

Williams usually holds the ID until Monday following the weekend's activities and then returns them to Notre Dame Security so that the ID can be returned to the student. Indiana law states that underage drinking, public intoxication, and the use of a false ID are Class C misdemeanors. The penalty for a Class C misdemeanor in Indiana is imprisonment of up to 60 days and a fine of up to $500. If cited by policy for breaking these laws, a student must appear in court, where the penalty will be set by the judge.

"Most of the judges—they're not going to ruin one of these kids' educations," Williams said. "They'll use the penalty as a certain number of community service hours."

A citation for a violation of the city's noise ordinance carries a $50 fine.

Hiring

continued from page 1

conducted. The investigation found that charges claiming the interview of this candidate for the "unfairly conducted" were ultimately unfounded. Porter further commented, "Dean Attridge's opinion on the hiring of this candidate is not a matter of public record."

Most members of the the Faculty Senate concurred with Blakney, however, calling for a thorough review of the facts of the situation. Professor Mario Bordi said, "We need to make sure that all bases are covered. I am not questioning the facts, but I think they need to be investigated.

Professor Michael Detlefsen agreed, "A careful and dispassionate investigation is needed."

"Of Flies and Men" Genes and Embryonic Development of the Fruit Fly From a Notre Dame Student to the Nobel Prize: A Long Journey

presented by

Eric Wieschaus, Ph.D., '69 1995 Nobel Prize Winner
Squibb Professor of Molecular Biology at Princeton University

Dr. Wieschaus, the Squibb professor of molecular biology at Princeton University shared the 1995 Nobel prize in medicine for research which uncovered the clues to how genes control development in embryos. This research helps explain congenital malformations in humans. Dr. Wieschaus will offer a popular account to his scientific trek for his days as an undergraduate at Notre Dame to the Nobel Prize. His talk will be directed to physicians, scientists and lay people who have an interest in the genetic control of the body and in the process of winning the Nobel prize.

10:00 am - 11:30 a.m. September 14, 1996 (Before the Purdue-ND game.)
DeBartolo Hall, West of the Stadium

Attention Students:

Are you interested in returning to your high school during Fall or Christmas Break to represent Notre Dame?

Join the Undergraduate Schools Committee

• Meeting Tonight •

If you missed last night's meeting, you must come tonight, Thursday September 12 to Hayes-Healy Auditorium (room 122) at 8:30.

Questions? Contact: Bryan Furze 4-2160 Jennifer Carrier Office of Admissions 1-7505
Economy suffers ‘dumbing down’

By JOHN CUNNIF
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK
Like a new punk rock group, the economy in the past couple of years has received more applause than perhaps its music merits. It’s reviews have been born far more scrutinizing than its performance.

What else can you say about an economy that is said to be nearing its maximum at an annual 2.5 percent growth rate when growth through much of the postwar years has exceeded 4 percent — often by a considerable amount?

And whose total growth since the trough of the 1990-1991 recession has been only a fraction of that experienced in the three other postwar recoveries that lasted at least as long?

Well, you can claim, as the Clinton administration has, that it’s the best economy in a generation. Or you can describe it, as newscasters have, as a boom. Or you can worry, as the Fed does, about it running out of control.

But such perceptions do not change the reality of an economy performing far less robustly than in the years of Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Reagan. Compared with those years, the current economy tends to pale.

The growth rate, as can be observed, quickened this year. The second-quarter rate rose to 4.8 percent, the strongest in two years, but that hardly makes up for its dull overall performance in the 1990s. It has, however, generated daily speculation that the Federal Reserve might raise interest rates to constrain economic activity. And that in turn has created a very loud noise about an economy about to boom.

What we are witnessing, say economists Aldona and Gary Robbins, is the "dumbing down" of growth. While the economy might be heating up a bit in recent months, they say, their overall performance has been decidedly cool.

"The situation, former Treasury economists, note that in the 22nd quarter of the 1990s recovery the gross domestic product was up 36.1 percent, but that in the current, 22 quarters old, it is only 13.6 percent higher. That would place the current advance, which began in 1990's third quarter, last in the GDP competition, behind not only the recovery of 1961-1969, but 1975-1980 (20.3 percent), and 1983-1990 (24.6 percent)."

Tobacco industry under fire

Associated Press

TRENTON, N.J.
New Jersey became the 15th state to sue the tobacco industry for illnesses that cost the state more than a billion dollars in health care.

The suit filed Tuesday charges the tobacco industry violated consumer protection laws with deceptive and misleading advertisements. The state estimates it spends $1.1 billion annually to treat tobacco-related illnesses.

Eight class-action suits are pending in Alabama, California, Louisiana, Minnesota, New Mexico, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, filed by smokers who claim they became hooked while the industry concealed the addictive nature of its product.

Fourteen other lawsuits have been filed by states seeking to recover money spent treating illnesses. The suit seeks unspecified damages and an order directing the companies to turn over its New Jersey profits to the state and to fund anti-smoking programs.

"We’ll see an explosion" in planet discoveries, said researcher Steven Beckwith of the Max Planck Institute for Astronomy in Heidelberg, Germany.

Tormented for years, astronomers have believed planets were rare. But the rush of reports in the past year has encouraged the belief that they are quite common, and Beckwith’s 30 percent estimate fits in with that thinking, said Steve Maran, assistant director of space sciences at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md.

Scientists: Expect ‘explosion’ of planets

By MALCOLM BITTER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK
After a year in which scientists discovered several apparent planet systems outside the solar system, a new analysis concludes that folks, there wasn’t even nothin’ yet.

Hidden planets may be lurking around half the Milky Way galaxy’s 100 billion stars, the analysis suggests.

"We’ll see an explosion" in planet discoveries, said researcher Steven Beckwith of the Max Planck Institute for Astronomy in Heidelberg, Germany.

He presented the evidence for his optimism in Thursday’s issue of the journal Nature with Aquoia Sargen of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Scientists want to find distant planet systems not only for the tantalizing possibility of finding life, but also to test theories of how the solar system formed.

There’s no direct way to tell now how many ordinary stars like the sun have planets.

"For years, astronomers have believed planets were rare. But the rush of reports in the past year has encouraged the belief that they are quite common, and Beckwith’s 30 percent estimate fits in with that thinking, said Steve Maran, assistant director of space sciences at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md.

"Not everyone is guessing that high. David Black, director of the Lunar and Planetary Institute in Houston, said he wouldn’t be surprised if the answer turned out to be 10 percent.

Since last fall, at least eight stars have been found to have a telltale wobble that suggests they’re being pulled around by orbiting planets. Some researchers maintain, however, that at least some of those wobbling bodies may be failed stars called brown dwarfs instead.

Beckwith and Sargen noted that in several regions of the cosmos, half or more of very young stars show signs that they’re surrounded by disks of dust and gas that look like the forerunner of the solar system.
U.S. jets fired upon over Iraqi no-fly zone

By BRIAN MURPHY
Associated Press Writer

A strong earthquake centered in Tokyo and felt eastern Japan by Thursday night triggered evacuations of more than 200,000 people and widespread panic in the Japanese capital.

Tokyo quake causes slight damage

By SETH SUTTEL
Associated Press Writer

A strong earthquake centered far below the Pacific Ocean Floor rattled Tokyo on Wednesday, sending large buildings swaying but causing little serious damage.

Tokyo quake causes slight damage

End of Summer Celebration

Saturday, September 21, 1996
11:00 a.m. - Midnight

- Hamburgers
- Potato Salad
- Chicken
- Cole Slaw
- Beer Brats
- Potato Chips
- Free Soft Drinks

Beach Volleyball Contest—Teams of 6
11:00 a.m. — 6:00 p.m.

- $10 Entry Fee includes:
  - Co-ed teams
  - Free Entry to Concert
  - Dinner, Dance, and Concert
  - Prizes from Outpost and Chili's

Concert
From 7:00 p.m. — 12 Midnight enjoy:
- Live Remote by WAOR
- Dancing

• JAPAN

Tokyo quake causes slight damage

The strongest earthquake I have experienced in years," said Kazuoshi Takayama, a police officer in Choshi, the port city closest to the quake's center.

Wednesday's quake was centered 25 miles off the Pacific coast east of Tokyo, and 19 miles under the city of Kobe. More than 200,000 people were sent into the streets and some buildings were damaged by the earthquake.

• SOUTH AFRICA

Whites enact boycott action

By TOM COHEN
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG

Back in the days of apartheid, few things angered white South Africans as much as the way blacks protested minority white rule by refusing to pay rent and utility bills.

Now, with blacks in power and raising taxes, whites are adopting the no-pay protest strategy.

The turnabout is one of the many ironies of post-apartheid South Africa, and it shows that whites learned something from years spent watching blacks fight the system.

One of the most successful methods was the rent-and-rates boycott. In black townships throughout the country, residents habitually refused to pay rent and utilities to object not only white rule but also their spread living conditions.

President Nelson Mandela's government, which took power two years ago in the nation's first all-race election, now wants blacks to start paying their bills. In some cases, as encouragement, city government and state-run utilities have written off millions of dollars in debts.

But while some blacks are getting a clean slate, some whites complain they are suffering the financial brunt of the post-apartheid social policies.

Before apartheid, white and black neighborhoods were governed separately, with white neighborhoods protected by law enforcement.

They are going down a dangerous path. I don't think they calculated the potential costs," said Mohamed Vali Moosa, taxpayers' associations immediately began their protest, paying the previous amount plus a percent increase — usually 20 percent — but refusing to give the rest. They have the support of major corporations, such as Liberty Life, an insurance company that owns the Sandton City mall property.

"But while some blacks are going down a dangerous path," warned Mohamed Vali Moosa, minister of Provincial Affairs in Mandela's government. "I don't think they calculated the potential costs."
Thursday, September 12, 1996
The Observer • PAID ADVERTISEMENT

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

...CONSIDERATIONS

We are ND - This is ND

Three weeks into the new academic year, most of us are settling into habits of study and time management that are harder to come by as the summer comes to an end, even for the most disciplined among us.

First year students still struggle with homesickness even as they rejoice in the new friendships that they have already formed. They begin to believe that they can get over a real sense of loss and even grief because their parents, their little brother or sister, or even their dog, are no longer a part of their formerly comfortable daily life and routine. But everyone has told them that classmates they meet during their first weeks on the campus will be the people who will serve in their bridal parties, attend their ordination to the priesthood, and serve as godparents for their children. And it seems entirely likely that this will indeed be the case.

Students from big American cities have discovered that they can look into the eyes of the people they pass on the sidewalks on the quads and greet them, without glancing back quickly and nervously to see whether or not they have made a BIG mistake, as their street-wise instincts scream out.

This weekend — our first home football weekend — we will chant that "We are ND" in "the House that Rockne built" — the stadium of the "University of Notre Dame" as the beautiful new stadium expansion shell proclaims with such simple, understated class. I hope we will also reflect on the full meaning of a great cheer that has deep roots and traditions.

Thousands of students recently attended Activities Night at the Joyce Center — hours before they camped out in front of the same great, white domes with the hope of securing seats to stand in during all but the half times of the six home football games — and thousands of students decided on the ways they would serve our community through volunteer services. Many dozens of exciting volunteer possibilities have been reduced to a dozen or so. And a new generation of Domers has implicitly understood and accepted a commitment to service during undergraduate years as many have before them. They followed through and "signed up" for Logan Center, urban plagues, ministries in the Basilica, martial arts, Student Government, Freshmen Retreats, the Center for the Homeless, N.D.E. and the Alianza, among many other possibilities.

Campus Ministry Events

Thursday, September 12 - Thursday, September 19

TWENTY-FOURTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

POWER LUNCHES

Thursday at 12:45 p.m., 1:15 p.m.
2nd Floor South Dining Hall

O’Neill Family Hall Dedication Mass
Friday, September 13, 4:00 p.m.

RCIA Meeting & Picnic for Candidates and Sponsors
Sunday, September 15, 12:30 p.m., Log Chapel

Weekend Liturgies - Solemnity of Our Lady of Holy Cross

Saturday, Sept. 14
Half-hour after the game, Basilica
45 minutes after the game, Stepan Center

Sunday, Sept. 15
8:00 a.m., Basilica
10:00 a.m., Basilica
11:45 a.m., Basilica
7:15 p.m., Vesper, Basilica

Campus Bible Study
Tuesdays, 7:00 p.m., Campus Ministry-Badin Office

Lector Workshop
Tuesday, September 17, 10:00 p.m., Basilica

KAIROS (formerly 4th Day)
Wednesday, September 18, 7:30 p.m., Chapel of the Holy Cross (Stanford-Keenan Chapel)

Come Join Us...

Confirmation, RCIA (Becoming a Catholic) and Catechist Formation Program, call 1-5242
Dole urges GOP not to be ‘fainthearted’

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON

Trying to calm GOP jitters, Bob Dole portrayed himself Wednesday as a lifetime survivor against long odds — and for proof displayed an ominous 1945 letter to his father from the Army.

The letter, regretfully informed Doran Dole that the recovery of his second-lieutenant son from World War II wounds “is somewhat questionable.”

Dole, who spent years in hospitals recuperating, produced the recently discovered letter to underscore that he’s overcome daunting odds before.

“I want to say to those fainthearted people in the audience — there are probably not very many — don’t worry about this election, we’re going to win. We’re going to make it happen,” Dole said.

The former Senate majority leader and running mate Jack Kemp spoke at a sparse, sparsely attended joint meeting of House and Senate Republicans, many of whom are sharing November ballots with them.

“Don’t let anyone dissuade you in this effort” despite disappointing polls, Dole told his audience. He trails President Clinton by about 15 points in most national polls.

Later, at a campaign stop in Hartford, Conn., Dole again exhorted supporters, “Don’t pay any attention to the polls.”

He also told a business audience that he’s election-year call for big tax cuts might seem at odds with his long Senate record. “None of us are perfect and we’ve all got voting records ... but it’s time we move on this complicated, outdated tax code of ours,” he said.

The Capitol Hill session — in the auditorium-sized House Ways and Means Committee hearing room — was arranged as a pep rally to help quiet fears that Dole’s struggling campaign could endanger GOP control of the House and Senate.

In some districts, Republicans have been distancing themselves from the national ticket and seeking to share some of the credit with President Clinton for the growing economy.

If there were any fainthearted in the audience, they weren’t admitting it. Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., locked in a tough re-election race, called Dole’s performance “a great speech” that “showed a lot of optimism.”

By LARRY MARGASAK

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON

The Republican-led House ethics committee probe of Newt Gingrich appears destined to outlast his first two-year term as speaker, and Democrats are trying to extract a political price for the inaction.

After persistently accusing committee Republicans of stalling the 20-month investigation, Democrats are intensifying attacks on individual lawmakers, calling on one GOP member to resign from the panel and condemning others in their districts.

Democrats are linking their assaults to the GOP refusal to make public an outside counsel’s report submitted last month.

James Cole’s document was described by committee members as a summary of evidence — without conclusions — on whether Gingrich complied with tax laws when raising money for his unconventional financed college course.

To increase the pressure, Democrats are likely to force a vote on the House floor to make Cole’s report public — and are considering other tactics, such as linking formal adjournment to action on the ethics case.

“It’s the same duck, delay and stall tactics going on for two years,” said House Minority Whip David Bonior of Michigan, who is leading the Democratic effort.

The minority Democrats shouldn’t expect any GOP support, said Rep. Roger Wicker of Mississippi, who was freshman Republican class president last year.

“The committee should proceed in the normal course of events and not be governed by the date of the election or the date of final adjournment,” Wicker said. “We’re fully expecting ... partisan salvos in the next three weeks.”

The ethics committee of five Republicans and five Democrats has often sputtered in partisan deadlock in the Gingrich case, although past committees have broken through such divisiveness to decide difficult cases. Democratic Speaker Jim Wright resigned in 1989 after the committee charged him with rules violations.

Gingrich, who filed the complaints against Wright, demanded that the outside counsel’s report in that case be made public, and the committee complied.

“Can you imagine anyone wanting to serve on that committee in the future?” asked the think tank’s Thomas Mann. “It has become so incredibly politicized. You have an arms race going on here on ethics charges.”
Voter apathy among youth in America

To vote or not to vote: An SMC student ponders the question

As a college student, very few of the decisions that will be discussed this year will affect me at all. I am most everyone I know is paying for their college educations straight out of their pockets, no help from Mom or Dad, no help from the government, and this is why I overlook the discussions about financial aid for college students. I don’t know a single person who is working part-time at Don Pablo’s or the dining hall to cover the cost of books, so the debates on tax deductions and minimum wage don’t affect me either.

Since I rarely fill cheap produce from the dining hall or unknowingly wear earrings produced in sweatshops at the expense of illegal immigrants, I couldn’t care less about human concerns undocumented workers. I am not a single mother, a new set of parents, or a ward of the state, nor do I know anyone who is, and therefore I can’t imagine myself being concerned over anyone who is. What else won’t I be worrying about? Social security benefits, suppose, because I am young and always will be.

Almost everyone I know is paying for their college educations straight out of their pockets, no help from Mom or Dad, no help from the government, and this is why I overlook the discussions about financial aid for college students.

A Bernadette
Papuch

Almost everyone I know is paying for their college educations straight out of their pockets, no help from Mom or Dad, no help from the government, and this is why I overlook the discussions about financial aid for college students.

I could register to vote here in Indiana, but it’s unbelievably difficult to do so. Mostly you need a pulse and a reasonable IQ (although even that is up for discussion), and to fulfill the following four requirements: You must 1) be a citizen of the United States, 2) be at least 18 years old on the day of the next general or municipal election, 3) have lived in your Indiana precinct for at least 30 days before the next election, and 4) not currently be in prison after being convicted of a crime. It’s just too much to consider, and so difficult to understand. Am I or am I not in prison (again, up for discussion)? How old am I again? November 5th minus thirty days is what date? October something? Does that mean that I should register to vote by the beginning of October? Then there’s the problem of actually registering to vote. I could look in the phone book under “State of Indiana” and try to find some information on voter registration, but that would involve work. I could call my local library and ask about getting a mail-in registration form, but that would once again require me to open up a phone book. The easiest thing to do would be to look up information on the Internet, since I am wealthy and own a computer (hence my lack of interest in economic affairs concerning the poor), but... It would, of course, be ludicrous to circle the following phone number (219-235-9521), walk over to the phone, and call the St. Joseph County Board of Voter Registration office in South Bend to ask about getting a mail-in registration form. If I did, I might also ask for some information about local elections in the area, but that would be getting carried away.

If welfare reform, health care, and basic human rights don’t mean anything to me, then local issues like school board elections mean even less. I’m only here in this South Bend community for four years, which is hardly enough time to change the way things are done. I am only one of a mere ten thousand or so students on both campuses, enough to make a wave (or a Lou chant) in the stands but not enough to make a wave in the local elections. But in spite of it all, I know what is important, and I know where my priorities lie. Someone asked me once, “Which do you think the average American would be more likely to sacrifice: the right to watch television for the rest of their lives, or the right to vote?” I think we all know the answer, and this gives me hope that I am not alone.

GARRY TRUDEAU

The safest road to Hell is the gradual one—the gentle slope, soft underfoot, without sudden turnings, without milestones, without signposts.

—C.S. Lewis
Mango Jam offers mix of pop/Caribbean styles

By JASON DOWRAT
Assistant Accent Editor

When Mango Jam's original four members got together in Minneapolis, they wanted to choose a name that truly fit their style. They saw themselves as becoming a jam band with a sweetly tropical twist to their music.

Mango, being tropical fruit, seemed to be the perfect counterpart to the idea that they did jam. The band relies heavily on the rhythmic interplay of kit drummer Brett Erickson and percussionist Geoff Prettner. Prettner joined the band for this exact reason. Erickson says that he and Prettner had been "kicking rhythms back and forth" since they were 17. They have a similar style of drumming so that they compliment each other's style.

The band's jammery is what the band is all about: they also have managed to write catchy 3 minute pop songs with hooks. Mango Jam opens their Shanachie Entertainment debut album, Flux, with such a song, "Crushed." It relies on a one-word shouted chorus that can be catchy although it isn't the most complex of songs.

The band explains that they can't stand to play any one kind of music for too long. Says Jason Bush, guitarist and primary songwriter, "I'll write an alternative sounding song, and then I'll write this Caribbean kind of deal. If you put them back to back, it's like 'What kind of schizophrenic freak are you?' But it seems completely natural to me."

While the songs may be rather diverse, the band does have a very unmistakable trademark: their island sound which is a result of Bush's Hawaiian childhood, as well as the similarity of Bush's and bassist Jon Herchert's vocals.

Mango Jam is presently touring the country, and was intending on playing at Saint Mary's tonight. Unfortunately, the band was forced to cancel for a number of various reasons, but is hoping to possibly come back for AnTostal.

VARIOUS ARTISTS

JABBERJAW

Jabberjaw is a tiny L.A. coffee house/concert venue in a bad neighborhood. A few years ago philomathic musicians such as Hole, Helmet, Beck, Jawbox, and Girls Against Boys teamed up for a benefit album to raise money for the relocation of the club.

Apparently the money wasn't enough, for a fresh crop of artists have united for Jabberjaw: Pure Sweet Hell. Only this time out the names aren't as big and the songs aren't as impressive. There are some gems, but too often they're sandwiched between stale songs by bands that rarely impress. The sloppy, beer-soaked opener by Fitz of Depression does little more than add some ethanol to Land Speed Record era Husker Du.

The always irritating, two-headed drum and bass monster of Godheadalo bears its ugly head with yet another gut-wrenching rumble. Man, or Astronomer? continues to perform the same trick with their tired old pony, testing any listeners limit for their Ed Wood space-surf rock.

Rumbling, and tweaking the conventional chord progressions and melodies of post-punk rock.

JAWBOX

Jawbox is a tiny L.A. coffee house/concert venue in a bad neighborhood. A few years ago philomathic musicians such as Hole, Helmet, Beck, Jawbox, and Girls Against Boys teamed up for a benefit album to raise money for the relocation of the club.

Unfortunately Mango Jam couldn't play tonight, but might be back for AnTostal.

As someone who is a lifelong They Might Be Giants freak, I just about fell to pieces at the prospect of a John Flansburgh side project. Frankly, it lives up to the Flansburgh name, and could be made only with a few strung-out tracks toward the end of the album. Take one part They Might Be Giants, one part Astronomer?, and one part oh, let's say Weezer and you get a fairly close idea of where Mono Puff stands.

The album is well-constructed, begins with an instrumental showcase for what the band can do acoustically in the appropriately named "Guitar Was the Case." This song is heavily influenced by such stars as Dick Dale and the Pixies in their surf rock mode.

"Unsupervised, I Hit My Head" sounds like it could be off John Flansburgh's main project's era of the Apollo 18 album.

The record touchest on the country side of music with "They Don't Break My Heart." This song's slow melodic picking of the guitar creates this feel along with that slight country twang. With "Distant Antenna" Mono Puff experiments with the use of an organ and the sound of funk. Like most of the songs it has a spacey feel. The guitar is light and the vocals are airy and filtered with distortion.

For a more straightforward rock and roll feel, the Dead Webb's "Down to Newport It Was Totally Rocking!" with its foundations in early surf music and 1980's post punk.

The nice thing about this album is that each of its thirteen tracks experiment with a different genre of music. This does however leave it somewhat disconnected from song to song. The album is brought together slightly through consistency of the funky bass guitar and the lighthearted vocals of Flansburgh.

There is a guest vocalist, however, on "Don't I Have the Right?" Nancy Lynn Howell offers her voice on this bittersweet country/folk song.

Ska and salsa are brought together on the album, as well, with the upbeat "Dr. Kidlare." A trumpet player is worked into the mix of this song that suddenly is restructured with a techno style drum loop during its bridge.

Other songs explore artificial sounds and different combinations of drums and bass guitar. For the most part this album is fairly light-hearted and experimental with a few up-tempo prises listeners in to keep your attention when you start to forget to listen to the uniqueness of the way the band examines new sounds in music; not to say that the experimentation is not good either.

For any They Might Be Giants fan this album is a must, and should attract interest from any other fans that can appreciate the finer points in all various types of music.

-by Chris Owen, WVFI

JWBOX

Jawbox is a tiny L.A. coffee house/concert venue in a bad neighborhood. A few years ago philomathic musicians such as Hole, Helmet, Beck, Jawbox, and Girls Against Boys teamed up for a benefit album to raise money for the relocation of the club.

Apparently the money wasn't enough, for a fresh crop of artists have united for Jabberjaw: Pure Sweet Hell. Only this time out the names aren't as big and the songs aren't as impressive. There are some gems, but too often they're sandwiched between stale songs by bands that rarely impress. The sloppy, beer-soaked opener by Fitz of Depression does little more than add some ethanol to Land Speed Record era Husker Du.

The always irritating, two-headed drum and bass monster of Godheadalo bears its ugly head with yet another gut-wrenching rumble. Man, or Astronomer? continues to perform the same trick with their tired old pony, testing any listeners limit for their Ed Wood space-surf rock.

Rumbling, and tweaking the conventional chord progressions and melodies of post-punk rock.
Mellencamp returns to his earlier style

By DAN CICHALSKI
Assoc Accents Editor

After a heart attack and a two year hiatus John mellencamp is back with a album that should please fans of his earlier style.

"Overture" is a creative opening to Mr. Happy Go Lucky. A two-minute orchestral piece, this first track mimics traditional overtures so common in Broadway musicals. In the same way that show overtures may be a medley of music from the songs to come, mellencamp's "Overture" takes parts from the cuts on the album and blends them together.

The first single, "Key West Intermezzo (If Saw You First)" resembles previous Mellencamp hits in that it quickly grows on its listeners. It's the kind of song that begs listeners to roll down the windows and turn up the volume while flying down the road.

The catchy chorus is just one example of amusing lyrics and phrases that are scattered throughout the album. "I saw you first/Your first time told/First time you don't/That give me the right to move around in your heart/Everyone was looking/But I saw you first."

The Full Catastrophe, whose title was taken from an Anthony Quinn phrase in "Zorba the Greek," is a blues-driven and semi-autobiographical song. "I'm glad to say I've enjoyed everyday of the full catastrophe of life," Mellencamp sings. "I've opened my belt to trouble everyday... I've seen the goodness/It's not always sunny around.

The final track, "Life Is Hard," contains a funky, jazz baseline throughout and the familiar sounds of violins during the chorus that have frequently given Mellencamp's compositions a Midwestern, small-town feeling.

"Life is funny, I don't mean ha-ha/It's not always sunny when it needs to be/life is frightening, nothing lasts forever/life is hard," be sings enabling this song—and others on Mr. Happy Go Lucky—to reach the listeners on a personal level, allowing them to relate and view life the same way as Mellen-camp does.

It's not singing about Jack and Diane growing up in Pink Houses in a Small Town the way he used to, but John Mellencamp is still singing about life from a common perspective and dealing with topics and telling stories to which many listeners can relate.

Well, it wasn't as rowdy as a Stomper Bob concert, but it was one wild and lively musical event.

New Music from Notre Dame, a faculty compositional recital held last Sunday in the Annenberg Auditorium of the Snite Art Museum featured students and faculty. The premiere compositions by Professors Ethan Haimo and Paul Johnson.

This concert began Notre Dame's Classical Music Series in a far from classic way—with modern and atonal works.

The first piece, Paul Johnson's Twelve Preludes, was performed entirely by a computer. Concert-goers were impressed by the variety and intensity of Johnson's composition, which was done without a single performer on stage. Despite the fact that he used some familiar instrumentation such as the piano and even the celesta, it was clear that these twelve short pieces were not meant for human execution.

The music is only a slightly quieter sound like movie music. These computer-generated pieces had Star Wars and Indiana Jones-like effects—for a moment, we felt like we were searching for the holy grail!

Some of the preludes mimicked Bach and Chopin with Johnson's insertion of clever sampling twangs to nonclassical sections. Using his synthesizer and MIDI system, Johnson proved that computer music was anything but music for the lazy and inept.

To add to the variety of music on this evening, the Swing Tunes were premiered by outstanding Junior soloist Laura Portune, with the accompaniment of Peter Gedney and Hyun Lee.

Portune's slide performance of the three swing tunes brought out a Breathless Mahoney-like character that her campus following had almost ruled out. It was apparent thought that she had indeed captured the sentiments of the 1930s jazz re-creation.

One last highlight of this diverse concert was Ethan Haimo's Duo Sonata for Violin and Cello. This twelve-tone composition (a salute to early twentieth-century atonal composer Arnold Schoenberg) was written expressly for senior music majors Jeanine Wynton (violin) and Miriam Eckehofer (cello). Their complete understanding and mastery of control once again underscored the virtuosity of the two musicians.

How many times do you hear Hooked on a Feeling on the radio these days? The song is more than twenty years old and still recognizable by many, but rarely heard on the airwaves. It

Some pieces of music never die, though. They have been around for centuries and are still popular. Most people call this music classical or just music that can"t be ripped to shreds by critics, despite centuries of analysis and often harsh criticism.

On campus and in the South Bend area, there are numerous concerts every year of the classical nature. Some of these concerts feature music from over 500 years ago; some (like this past concert) feature music less than one year old. Each year, top performers, not only of purely classical music but of contemporary, avant-garde music, come to South Bend and Notre Dame to educate and yet provide a delightful form of entertainment. It is our mission to keep the Notre Dame community aware of the past and upcoming quality musical events on campus and in the area.

We'll be listening to the dark, warm sounds of Christine Rutledge, Professor of Viola. It is time well spent to take an hour out of a hectic day and attend these campus and local events — by the way, they're free!!

In the coming weeks, we'll take a look ahead giving you some inside information on upcoming events like the Percussion Group, a group of educated pots-and-pans drummers who put on quite a show that is Oddly reminiscent of Canadian relaxation tapes.

Also, we are anxiously awaiting a formal piano recital by Joel Fisher, a faculty member in classical music.

We invite you join us as we journey through an exciting fall concert season of classical and cutting-edge music!
HAVE NO MAN DARE FOR SLATES FOR RUTGERS CALL PAT 229-8769.

WANT HELP WANTED 2:30 P.M. TO 5:30 P.M. Mon. thru Fri. except weekends. No exp. req. All majors welcome. Scholarships available. Info call 282-3237.

ALASKA SUMMER EMPLOYMENT-Students Needed Fishing Industry: Ear to hand; 10-15 hour a week; at rate per hour. No experience necessary. Call (206)-441-3696.

EASTERN EUROPE JOBS: Teach basic conventional English in Prague, Prague, and receive teaching certificate or European lan- guage/teaching certification or European language/teaching certi- ficate. Room & Board, and others benefits. For info call: 205)-971-3601 ext2347.

EXTRA EARN $50 working 3 for adorable children. 7-11 year olds. Non-smoker. 287-4069.

SWIM COACH-ASSISTANT CHIEF, MENDON PUBLIC SCHOOL AUGE GROUP SWIM TEAM PARENTS MEETING HELD FULL CALL TOM AT 298-6093 OR CL 298-9922.

NOTICES

ATTENTION all LESBIAN, GAY, BISEX- UAL, or QUESTIONING students: the first regular group meeting will be held TUESDAY at 7:30 p.m. Everyone seeking or offering support for LGBT issues, please attend. Please call the G.L.B.T. C.C. at 236-9601 for more information.

ATTENTION JAZZ ENTHUSIASTs: Name the time for us to come together. If you have a passion for JAZZ, or have any idea about J.S. call about, call Curtis at 463-1605 for more information.

THANK you Brother Andre for answers anonymous on Entertainment Epcot Co. 3500 Grape Rd (I-16 Classic Store) 282-5364.

TUESDAY, 7:30 pm La Fortune

LOST & FOUND

RERMIND! anyone has or knows someone who has a black Jansport backpack with a camera in it please return same and database inside. We will give a reward for return. Please, we really, really, really appreciate all questions asked.

CARE Taker $6.25

WANTED

57 Moun 10k Great-Send Fresh Spring Bears To: Trip to GPS & Mel Barrantini Cruise B757, Cali & june's 899, Pine Island Daytimes 11m receive new vehicle make a quick sale.

ATTENTION JAZZ ENTHUSIASTs: Name the time for us to come together. If you have a passion for JAZZ, or have any idea about J.S. call about, call Curtis at 463-1605 for more information.

Thank you Brother Andre for answers anonymous on Entertainment Epcot Co. 3500 Grape Rd (I-16 Classic Store) 282-5364.

Brought to you by the Notre Dame Football Program.

TICKETS

NOW is the time for us to come together. If you have ever wondered what THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

Jansport backpack with a camera in it please return same and database inside. We will give a reward for return. Please, we really, really, really appreciate all questions asked.

CARE Taker $6.25

WANTED

Brought to you by the Notre Dame Football Program.

TICKETS

NOW is the time for us to come together. If you have ever wondered what THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

Jansport backpack with a camera in it please return same and database inside. We will give a reward for return. Please, we really, really, really appreciate all questions asked.

CARE Taker $6.25

WANTED

Brought to you by the Notre Dame Football Program.

TICKETS

NOW is the time for us to come together. If you have ever wondered what THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

Jansport backpack with a camera in it please return same and database inside. We will give a reward for return. Please, we really, really, really appreciate all questions asked.

CARE Taker $6.25

WANTED

Brought to you by the Notre Dame Football Program.

TICKETS

NOW is the time for us to come together. If you have ever wondered what THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

THAT PRETTY PLACE, Bed and Breakfast inc., have to offer.

Jansport backpack with a camera in it please return same and database inside. We will give a reward for return. Please, we really, really, really appreciate all questions asked.

CARE Taker $6.25

WANTED

Brought to you by the Notre Dame Football Program.
Big East showcased on ESPN

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

PISCATAWAY, N.J. While help has been the last thing Miami has ever needed against Rutgers, the Hurricanes can count on it Thursday night.

After scoring 82 points the first two games of the season, No. 10 Miami (2-0) will be able to put a little more juice in its offense by welcoming tailback Danyell Ferguson and wide receiver Vaill Green to the lineup in the nationally televised game.

Ferguson, the Canes' leading rusher last season, and Green, the No. 2 receiver, were suspended for two games by the NCAA for accepting the use of a limousine for a night from a former Miami player.

"It's been a real long wait," said Ferguson, who gained 1,069 yards last season. "It was real tough, but I felt a little better because we won." Ferguson and wide receiver freshman Yatil Green scored on a 1-yard run.

"I'm not concerned about starting," Ferguson said. "It's not whether you start, it's whether you finish. I didn't start against Rutgers last year and I think I had two touchdowns and 170 all-purpose yards.

Sophomore Dyral McMillan replaced Ferguson in wins over Memphis and the Citadel and rushed for 275 yards and two touchdowns.

The Scarlet Knights are reeling after a 31-7 loss to Navy. Ferguson, who has the speed to get deep, the athleticism with three quarterbacks that is working now is the defense, which played well last week in a 10-6 loss to Navy. She's off offense has been part-time, with three quarterbacks trying to make something happen.

"Obviously we would love to win," Stephens said. "You don't go out to play a game to try and look respectable. Nobody likes to get blown out. Nobody likes to lose. We want to go out and compete as best we can."

"If we come out a loser, then we come out a loser," he added. "As long as we play hard and play the game we're supposed to play, it should be a good game.

Butch Davis has started two games. Butch Davis has started two games. The blowout coming last week in a loss to Navy.

"It's been a real long wait," Ferguson said. "It's not whether you start, it's whether you finish. I didn't start against Rutgers last year and I think I had two touchdowns and 170 all-purpose yards.

Sophomore Dyral McMillan replaced Ferguson in wins over Memphis and the Citadel and rushed for 275 yards and two touchdowns.

The Scarlet Knights are reeling after a 31-7 loss to Navy. Ferguson, who has the speed to get deep, the athleticism with three quarterbacks that is working now is the defense, which played well last week in a 10-6 loss to Navy. She's off offense has been part-time, with three quarterbacks trying to make something happen.

"Obviously we would love to win," Stephens said. "You don't go out to play a game to try and look respectable. Nobody likes to get blown out. Nobody likes to lose. We want to go out and compete as best we can."

"If we come out a loser, then we come out a loser," he added. "As long as we play hard and play the game we're supposed to play, it should be a good game.

That hasn't been the case ever against Miami. Rutgers has played the Hurricanes in each of the last three years and lost by margins of 31-17, 24-3 and 56-21.

The blowout coming last year when the Scarlet Knights were fielding a team players thought was capable of earning a bowl berth. Miami scored all its points in the first half, including 35 in the second quarter.

Miami's Ryan Clement made his first start in that game and completed 6 of 13 passes for 157 yards and three touchdown plays. Clement's only previous start for Rutgers was at third base for the baseball team, gets the nod this week.

"I'm not concerned about starting," Ferguson said. "It's not whether you start, it's whether you finish. I didn't start against Rutgers last year and I think I had two touchdowns and 170 all-purpose yards.

Sophomore Dyral McMillan replaced Ferguson in wins over Memphis and the Citadel and rushed for 275 yards and two touchdowns.

The Scarlet Knights are reeling after a 31-7 loss to Navy. Ferguson, who has the speed to get deep, the athleticism with three quarterbacks that is working now is the defense, which played well last week in a 10-6 loss to Navy. She's off offense has been part-time, with three quarterbacks trying to make something happen.

"Obviously we would love to win," Stephens said. "You don't go out to play a game to try and look respectable. Nobody likes to get blown out. Nobody likes to lose. We want to go out and compete as best we can."

"If we come out a loser, then we come out a loser," he added. "As long as we play hard and play the game we're supposed to play, it should be a good game.

That hasn't been the case ever against Miami. Rutgers has played the Hurricanes in each of the last three years and lost by margins of 31-17, 24-3 and 56-21.

The blowout coming last year when the Scarlet Knights were fielding a team players thought was capable of earning a bowl berth. Miami scored all its points in the first half, including 35 in the second quarter.

Miami's Ryan Clement made his first start in that game and completed 6 of 13 passes for 157 yards and three touchdown plays. Clement's only previous start for Rutgers was at third base for the baseball team, gets the nod this week.

"I'm not concerned about starting," Ferguson said. "It's not whether you start, it's whether you finish. I didn't start against Rutgers last year and I think I had two touchdowns and 170 all-purpose yards.

Sophomore Dyral McMillan replaced Ferguson in wins over Memphis and the Citadel and rushed for 275 yards and two touchdowns.

The Scarlet Knights are reeling after a 31-7 loss to Navy. Ferguson, who has the speed to get deep, the athleticism with three quarterbacks that is working now is the defense, which played well last week in a 10-6 loss to Navy. She's off offense has been part-time, with three quarterbacks trying to make something happen.

"Obviously we would love to win," Stephens said. "You don't go out to play a game to try and look respectable. Nobody likes to get blown out. Nobody likes to lose. We want to go out and compete as best we can."

"If we come out a loser, then we come out a loser," he added. "As long as we play hard and play the game we're supposed to play, it should be a good game.

That hasn't been the case ever against Miami. Rutgers has played the Hurricanes in each of the last three years and lost by margins of 31-17, 24-3 and 56-21.
MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

Fielder returns to Tiger Town as a Yankee

By HARRY ATKINS
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT

It is late afternoon and long shadows begin to stretch across the outfield of Tiger Stadium. Cecil Fielder is in the center of a crush of mini cams, microphones and notepads.

This is nothing unusual, except Fielder is wearing the visiting grays of New York and standing in front of the Yankees dugout. This is Fielder's homecoming, his first game in Detroit since being traded to the Yankees for Ruben Sierra on July 31. And now there's a pennant to be won.

The Baltimore Orioles, 10 games behind the Yankees at the time of the trade, have closed within 2 1/2 games of the AL East-leaders. In a few hours, Fielder's RBI grounder will drive in the winning run Tuesday night, allowing the Yankees to maintain that lead.

"You have to understand that Baltimore wasn't going to play the way they played the whole season," Fielder said. "They were going to come and start playing some good baseball. Up to this point you might figure we'd have played some better baseball but we haven't, so we've got a pennant race.

"I think that's what baseball's all about and we'll see what happens from this point on."

The new surroundings appear to suit Fielder. He hit .254 with nine more homers and 23 RBIs in 37 starts by the time the night was over.

"I wouldn't say that I'm shocked, but I would think we'd be playing a little bit better," Fielder said. "Things just haven't been working out for us. We went on a West Coast trip and that trip's tough for anyone. It was just a situation where we weren't doing things properly and we were losing games."

Fielder suddenly breaks from the pack. The impromptu news conference is over. He has spotted Larry Herndon, the Tigers' hitting coach. Herndon was Fielder's go-to guru during most of Fielder's six-plus seasons with Detroit.

The two hug again, and the two meet behind the batting cage. They embrace in a bear hug that might drive the air from lesser mortals.

"You all right?" Herndon asks. "Everything's good," Fielder says, "I'm happy."

"That's good," Herndon says. "The two hug again, and Fielder moves off to join his teammates in stretching. Herndon, too, goes back to work. Tony Clark is the first baseman now. He is Herndon's latest project.

"He got a lot of friends here, no doubt," Fielder says. "I think that's one thing, being in New York, you miss more than anything."

Fielder is greeted mostly by cheers and only a smattering of boos when he comes to the plate in the first inning. Somehow, he looks thinner. Maybe it's because the beard is gone. Still, he looks familiar in that crouch, rocking and waving that big, black bat.

It is unanimous cheering after Todd Van Poppel strikes him out swinging. The fans, all 11,042 of them, roundly boo Fielder in his next three at-bats.

"It's going to be like any other game, but maybe a little different because this is Tiger Stadium," Fielder said. "But at this point I've gotten pretty comfortable being here with the Yankees."

"The break is clean. The Tigers have become comfortable without him, too. "Of course we miss him," manager Buddy Bell said. "He is a wonderful human being. But he is an athlete. It was only natural he wanted a chance to compete for a championship."
Father Malloy and Dr. Nathan Hatch invite all students, faculty and their families to the Votive Mass of the Holy Spirit

SEPTEMBER 22, 4:00 PM
AT THE JOYCE CENTER
WITH DINNER TO FOLLOW

Students and faculty will be seated together by academic department at the all-campus picnic.

Both dining halls will be closed during the event.

Sponsored by:
Campus Ministry
Office of the President
Office of the Provost
Student Government
Bonds mouths off after burning Cards

San Francisco

After hitting a two-run homer in the first inning, Barry Bonds was surprised he got a chance to do it again. Bonds hit his second two-run blast in the eighth, giving San Francisco a 4-2 victory over St. Louis on Wednesday.

"If you keep playing with fire, you'll get burned," Bonds said. He later apologized to Cardinals manager Ozzie Smith.

Bonds hit a full-count pitch off Alen Benes (13-9) just over the right field fence for his 39th home run of the season.

"He's too big, sometimes you can't beat the laws of physics, I didn't think he was going to hit it," said Bonds.

With Bill Mueller at first after a leadoff walk in a tie game, Bonds hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning. A sacrifice fly from Mark Player gave Bonds a leadoff walk in a tie game, Bonds bit to discuss Bonds after the homer of teammate Tim Raines.

Bonds hit his second two-run homer in the eighth, tying the game at 4-4, giving San Francisco a 2-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds on Tuesday night.

"When I went out his hand was turning blue," Dodgers manager Bill Russell said. "He got it pretty good. You knew it was bad. I knew he was going to come out once I saw it."

The Dodgers squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.

"Obviously, it's devastating to us," rookie Dodgers outfielder Eric Davis, who was a teammate of Butler's with the Dodgers in 1992-93, cringed when he heard about the severity of the injury.

"It's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Davis said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

Butter squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.

"Obviously, it's devastating to us," rookie Dodgers outfielder Eric Davis, who was a teammate of Butler's with the Dodgers in 1992-93, cringed when he heard about the severity of the injury.

"It's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Davis said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

Butter squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.

"Obviously, it's devastating to us," rookie Dodgers outfielder Eric Davis, who was a teammate of Butler's with the Dodgers in 1992-93, cringed when he heard about the severity of the injury.

"It's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Davis said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

Butter squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.

"Obviously, it's devastating to us," rookie Dodgers outfielder Eric Davis, who was a teammate of Butler's with the Dodgers in 1992-93, cringed when he heard about the severity of the injury.

"It's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Davis said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

Butter squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.

"Obviously, it's devastating to us," rookie Dodgers outfielder Eric Davis, who was a teammate of Butler's with the Dodgers in 1992-93, cringed when he heard about the severity of the injury.

"It's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Davis said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

Butter squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.

"Obviously, it's devastating to us," rookie Dodgers outfielder Eric Davis, who was a teammate of Butler's with the Dodgers in 1992-93, cringed when he heard about the severity of the injury.

"It's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Davis said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

Butter squared around to pitch Bonds, but instead of a quick throw, Bonds took his time to talk with the umpires before leaving the game.

Four days earlier, Butler rejoined the Dodgers lineup following more than four months on the sidelines because of a cancerous tumor.

There was no immediate word on how long Butler will be out this time, but Russell said it's "highly unlikely" the center fielder will play again this year.

Butler, 39, recently told friends and several teammates that he's healthy now, and that's the negative.

"When I heard about the severity of the injury, I turned my head," Butler said.

"He's been blessed that he's healthy now, and that's the key," Russell said. "He was able to overcome some tremendous odds, so the fact that he's only played in five games is not a negative thing.

"In my eyes, he's won. Even if he came back and played one game, he still won. But on the downside, he's an inspiration to their ballclub and you hate to see a guy go down like that.

Entering Wednesday night's games against the Reds, the Dodgers were tied for first place in the NL West with San Diego and six games remaining in the season, which ends Sept. 29.
Football
continued from page 20

can get the ball moving more easily and that fun can get rid of more quickly."

Will passing remain as large a part of the offense throughout the season as it was against Vandy?

"I hope not, but we will probably have to (keep passing much)," said Holtz. "We'll do what we have to do to win, and it seemed to work last week (against Vanderbilt)."

When word that Holtz and Roberts planned to incorporate many of the ideas from the FSU game into this season's playbook, critics immediately won­ ting wideouts were expected to be the weak link of the Irish offense. In fact, the coaches even moved tailback Autry Denson to flanker just two weeks before the season started in order to shore up the position.

However, even though Randy Kinder's subsequent injury necessitated Denson's move back to tailback, the receivers showed on Thursday that they are bound to prove the naysayers wrong.

Senior Emmett Mosley and junior Malcolm Johnson, this weekend's starters against Purdue, combined for 10 recep­ tionary 124 yards. "Malcolm did a nice job (against Vanderbilt), and so did Emmett," said Roberts. "I can't think of a game last year that did not go well with the offense."

The one glaring weakness on the defensive side of the ball, however, still remains at the receiver position. Although they have proven that they are capable of playing well in pressure situations, as shown in the game-winning drive on Thursday, not one of them can be considered a legitimate deep threat. This lack of a downfield receiver to be considered a threat to win, he will exploit those strengths to the fullest extent possible. Ron Powlus is not an option quarterback, and he never will be. However, he now possesses the system and the personnel that should allow him and this team to flourish in 1996.

NOTES: Coach Holtz on Wednesday announced that sophomore Jerry Winsie would start at left guard on Saturday. Also, Holtz said Junior Ty Goodloe will be the nickel back, sophomore Shannon Stephens will be tried at receiver for a while, and freshman QB Eric Chappel will be looked at as safely for now.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Volleyball Tournament-

RecSports will be sponsoring a one-night tournament on September 19 at Stepan Courts. For more information, contact RecSports by Wednesday, September 18.

Field Hockey-Anyone interested in field hockey, meets at the field across from Stepan Center, Thursday, September 12 at 6 p.m. Call Christy Shannon at 273-2580 or Megan Kennedy at 243-9476 with questions.

Challenge U Fitness- Some classes are still open. Please call RecSports for details. If you are not able to attend for any reason, please contact the RecSports office so that we may give the spot to someone else.

Blood Pressure & Body Composition- Testing will be done on Thursday, September 12, from 11:30 - 1 p.m. in the Foster Room, LaFortune. If you cannot get there, contact Jennie Phillips at 4-5965 to set up.

Official Needed- RecSports needs official for flag football, soccer and baseball. These are paid positions. Stop by RecSports and fill out an application. If you have any questions call RecSports 1-6100.

University of Notre Dame International Study Program in Toledo, Spain

Information Meeting With Professor Olivia R. Constable

Thursday, September 12, 1996 4:30 p.m.

223 Hayes Healy

Returning Students will be on hand to answer questions

Find out more about the Sacrament of Confirmation

Are you a baptized Catholic who has never been Confirmed?

Would you like to prepare for Confirmation with other Notre Dame Students?

It's a wonderful opportunity to learn and talk about your faith and meet new friends!

For more information call Darrell Paulsen at 631-5242 or stop by the Badin Campus Ministry office.
Manny Ramirez stood and admired his game-ending home run, then started rounding the bases, the numbers of traded teammates Eddie Murray and Carlos Baerga etched on his cap.

This might be remembered as the comeback that separated the "new" Indians from the "old" ones.

Ramirez hit a two-out, three-run homer off Troy Percival on Tuesday night as the Indians scored four times in the bottom of the ninth to beat the California Angels 7-5. The team gathered at home plate and Jacobs Field erupted in cheers—just like last year, when Cleveland won 27 times in its last at-bat.

"Last year, comebacks were almost commonplace," manager Mike Hargrove said. "But this one is special. Teams are aware that we have this ability."

Help Lou and the Irish strike fear into the hearts of the Boilermakers by wearing "The Shirt '96". Stand up, show our unity, show our pride. Wear "The Shirt '96" Notre Dame will win over all!

ON SALE NOW at the Bookstore, LaFortune Information Desk, and Varsity Shop. STUDENTS! Get $4 off "The Shirt '95" with coupon included with your student football tickets.
MOTHER GOOSE & GRIMM

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Cow catchers       9. Pig -- rule
2. Rule          10. Cow catchers
3. Rule          11. Pig & Whistle
4. Pig & Whistle order
5. Wake up!! in Tennessee
6. Slow boat
7. Tippier
8. John Hancock Avail
21. Mars sightings
22. Japanese yes
23. 318th on it!! in Jerusalem
24. Exhausted
30. -- buddies

DOWN
1. Home of the brave
2. Skip-blue mineral
3. Can't, nobody, in Paris
4. Gear computation
5. Sports stats
6. Fourth-century date
7. Tropical fruit
8. Nicholas I
9. "Put money on it!!! in Beijing
10. Watering place near Koblenz
11. Solidify
12. M. Narochnaya locale
13. Alphabet chain
14. Scare (out)
15. "Sorry to cut you off!!! in D.C.
16. Classified abbr
17. Parade's egg
18. Undispatched follower
19. Snake sound
20. U.S. N. petty officer
21. Mantilla
22. Soup
23. Cheese Enchiladas
24. Shrimp Stir-Fry
25. Egg Rolls
26. Rotisserie Chicken
27. Breakfast Center
28. Cheese Enchiladas
29. Cheese Enchiladas
30. Cheese Enchiladas

DILBERT

TEAMBUILDING EXERCISE

IT'S HOPPITY! YOU'RE LOSERS! WE'LL NEVER MAKE A SAMPLE OUT OF A PENCIL AND AN EATEN DONUT!

CRUSAAD

HEE HEE! ALL YOU HAD TO DO WAS STRIC THE PENCIL IN THE DONUT.

BETH

WE JUST BROKE ALL KINDS OF UNIONS RULES.

ScOTT Adams

YOUR HOROSCOPE

JEAN Dixon

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE, a further employer or partner could wind some handsome, new ways. These would play an important role in your development. So be careful not to burn any bridges. Greater stability will come to your affairs as you roll into the new year. The management of jointly owned funds could be ripe to consider now. The future is bright with new opportunities. Your confidence will be high.

SCORPIO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A new investment strategy is advised at this time. A surefooted approach to new ventures is needed. This is a great time to gain experience with new relationships. Enthusiasm is in the air! Better make sure you have your facts straight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A desire to further your education grows stronger. You benefit from talking frankly with your parents or siblings. Long-distance phone calls could provide you with some stimulating conversation. Make sure to keep in touch with your old friends.

AS WE WISH YOU A HAPPY BIRTHDAY, the Observer wishes you a year of abundance, fulfillment, and joy.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

(2001-02)

(Credit: David Leman/Shutterstock)

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Cow catchers
2. Rule
3. Rule
4. Pig & Whistle order
5. Wake up!! in Tennessee
6. Slow boat
7. Tippier
8. John Hancock Avail
21. Mars sightings
22. Japanese yes
23. 318th on it!! in Jerusalem
24. Exhausted
30. -- buddies

DOWN
1. Home of the brave
2. Skip-blue mineral
3. Can't, nobody, in Paris
4. Gear computation
5. Sports stats
6. Fourth-century date
7. Tropical fruit
8. Nicholas I
9. "Put money on it!!! in Beijing
10. Watering place near Koblenz
11. Solidify
12. M. Narochnaya locale
13. Alphabet chain
14. Scare (out)
15. "Sorry to cut you off!!! in D.C.
16. Classified abbr
17. Parade's egg
18. Undispatched follower
19. Snake sound
20. U.S. N. petty officer
21. Mantilla
22. Soup
23. Cheese Enchiladas
24. Shrimp Stir-Fry
25. Egg Rolls
26. Rotisserie Chicken
27. Breakfast Center
28. Cheese Enchiladas
29. Cheese Enchiladas
30. Cheese Enchiladas

DILBERT

TEAMBUILDING EXERCISE

IT'S HOPPITY! YOU'RE LOSERS! WE'LL NEVER MAKE A SAMPLE OUT OF A PENCIL AND AN EATEN DONUT!

CRUSAAD

HEE HEE! ALL YOU HAD TO DO WAS STRIC THE PENCIL IN THE DONUT.

BETH

WE JUST BROKE ALL KINDS OF UNIONS RULES.

ScOTT Adams

YOUR HOROSCOPE

JEAN Dixon

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE, a further employer or partner could wind some handsome, new ways. These would play an important role in your development. So be careful not to burn any bridges. Greater stability will come to your affairs as you roll into the new year. The management of jointly owned funds could be ripe to consider now. The future is bright with new opportunities. Your confidence will be high.

SCORPIO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A new investment strategy is advised at this time. A surefooted approach to new ventures is needed. This is a great time to gain experience with new relationships. Enthusiasm is in the air! Better make sure you have your facts straight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A desire to further your education grows stronger. You benefit from talking frankly with your parents or siblings. Long-distance phone calls could provide you with some stimulating conversation. Make sure to keep in touch with your old friends.

AS WE WISH YOU A HAPPY BIRTHDAY, the Observer wishes you a year of abundance, fulfillment, and joy.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

(2001-02)

(Credit: David Leman/Shutterstock)

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Cow catchers
2. Rule
3. Rule
4. Pig & Whistle order
5. Wake up!! in Tennessee
6. Slow boat
7. Tippier
8. John Hancock Avail
21. Mars sightings
22. Japanese yes
23. 318th on it!! in Jerusalem
24. Exhausted
30. -- buddies

DOWN
1. Home of the brave
2. Skip-blue mineral
3. Can't, nobody, in Paris
4. Gear computation
5. Sports stats
6. Fourth-century date
7. Tropical fruit
8. Nicholas I
9. "Put money on it!!! in Beijing
10. Watering place near Koblenz
11. Solidify
12. M. Narochnaya locale
13. Alphabet chain
14. Scare (out)
15. "Sorry to cut you off!!! in D.C.
16. Classified abbr
17. Parade's egg
18. Undispatched follower
19. Snake sound
20. U.S. N. petty officer
21. Mantilla
22. Soup
23. Cheese Enchiladas
24. Shrimp Stir-Fry
25. Egg Rolls
26. Rotisserie Chicken
27. Breakfast Center
28. Cheese Enchiladas
29. Cheese Enchiladas
30. Cheese Enchiladas

DILBERT

TEAMBUILDING EXERCISE

IT'S HOPPITY! YOU'RE LOSERS! WE'LL NEVER MAKE A SAMPLE OUT OF A PENCIL AND AN EATEN DONUT!

CRUSAAD

HEE HEE! ALL YOU HAD TO DO WAS STRIC THE PENCIL IN THE DONUT.

BETH

WE JUST BROKE ALL KINDS OF UNIONS RULES.

ScOTT Adams

YOUR HOROSCOPE

JEAN Dixon

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE, a further employer or partner could wind some handsome, new ways. These would play an important role in your development. So be careful not to burn any bridges. Greater stability will come to your affairs as you roll into the new year. The management of jointly owned funds could be ripe to consider now. The future is bright with new opportunities. Your confidence will be high.

SCORPIO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A new investment strategy is advised at this time. A surefooted approach to new ventures is needed. This is a great time to gain experience with new relationships. Enthusiasm is in the air! Better make sure you have your facts straight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A desire to further your education grows stronger. You benefit from talking frankly with your parents or siblings. Long-distance phone calls could provide you with some stimulating conversation. Make sure to keep in touch with your old friends.

AS WE WISH YOU A HAPPY BIRTHDAY, the Observer wishes you a year of abundance, fulfillment, and joy.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE

(2001-02)

(Credit: David Leman/Shutterstock)
It's Blarney time for new-look Irish offense

By KELLY GLYNN
Sports Writer

The young guns of Saint Mary's returned home to South Bend Tuesday night with yet another victory under their belt. This win against North Park College gives the Belles a record of 6-2.

After losing captains Laura Schreng and Kelly Meyer to demanding class schedules, the team headed for Chicago under the leadership of newly appointed tri-captains, Betsy Connolly, Meg Kelly, and Courtney Love.

Following the first place tournament win last weekend, the Belles expected a win in Chicago. "We didn't come out in control," freshman Courtney Love commented.

Love and fellow freshman Katie Candito agreed that the team played great offense but their poor serve reception and court communication led to a loss in the third game. However, the Belles were not about to let victory slip through their fingers.

Melissa Miller stepped in at the end of game three to improve team passing and lead the Belles to a fourth game and final score of 15-12, 15-11, 7-15, 15-6.

Jane Cobhit led her team in total scoring with 14 points and 2 aces, while team captain Meg Kelly dominated on the outside with 12 kills and 19 digs.

"We'll go a little back to the basics," coach Schroeder-Biek commented.

As for the Irish, their starting lineup was in serious jeopardy with one third of the starters ailing of injury. Laura Vanderberg to fill in for her.

The team's main focus thus far into the season has been on their defense, which has proven very strong. The Belles' defense has proven to be their main strength and has carried them through many of their matches.

Injured Irish face Spartans

KATHLEEN LOPEZ
Sports Writer

This weekend the women's soccer team is looking to recover. The Irish played some tough games this past weekend against the Washington Huskies and the Wisconsin Badgers, and in the process of gaining their victories they sustained some threatening injuries.

The starting lineup was in serious jeopardy with one third of the starters ailing of injury. The Irish head to Michigan to play an under rated Spartan team.

Last year Michigan State finished sixth in the Big Ten conference. The Spartans are returning seven to their starting lineup. The Irish are not underestimating the Spartan's power, because they narrowly dismissed the Spartans 3-0 last year.

"Their mentality is the strongest part of their game," said head coach Chris Petrucci about the Spartans. "They are a physical team that could give us some trouble."

As for the Irish, their starting lineup is still a bit foggy. The key to the Irish defense, freshman Jen Grubb, will assume her position at sweeper. Grubb went down in the Washington game in what appeared to be a serious injury to her ankle. She only slightly turned it and is expected to play the entire game.

Sophomore Monica Gerardo is questionable for the game. She too, turned her ankle in the Washington game. Another sophomore, Shannon Boxx, is also questionable for the game. She has a broken toe. Freshman Kara Brown is probably, depending on whether or not there is a risk of her reopening her cut. Brown split open her forehead in the game against Wisconsin, and recieved stitches over her eye. If Brown does not start expect sophomore Laura Vanderberg to fill in for her.

The team's main focus thus far into the season has been their defense, which has proven very strong.