Harold Attridge leaves College of A&L for Yale

By DAVID FREDDOSO
News Writer

Harold Attridge, dean of the College of Arts and Letters, has announced that he will be leaving Notre Dame after this academic year.

Attridge, a member of the theology department, decided this past summer to accept the Lilian Kraus Chair of New Testament Studies at Yale University.

When interviewed, he cited several reasons for making this move, among them Yale's Divinity School's prestige in his field of bibli- cal studies.

"Part of the attraction of Yale," he said, "is the quality of the university, the library, and the tradition in my area of study."

"Attridge expressed excitement at the possibility of playing a key role in the new academic initiative being undertaken at Yale to rebuild its program of New Testament studies."

Because of the many responsibilities he has had as dean since 1991, Attridge has had little time for research in theology, and thus he is looking forward to the new opportunities Yale will offer. Within the next decade, he plans to publish a commentary on the Gospel of John for the highly prestigious Hermeneia Commentary Series.

Looking back on his five years as dean of the College of Arts and Letters, Attridge considered one of his most important accomplishments to be the hiring of new faculty members in the College.

"We decided that we really needed to have more [faculty] around, because given our commitments to teaching and research, we weren't able to cover all those bases adequately with the size of the faculty we had," he explained of his early term decisions.

Attridge also recalled the curriculum expansions in some Arts and Letters programs. During his term, several language programs have been bolstered with new faculty members and increased funding, giving the College a more international flavor. He cited the following:

- The Crypt, Sacred Heart Parish
- The Observer/Courtesy Murphy

Kirk's disapproval may not stop rally

By BRAD PRENDERGAST
New Editor

A demonstration in support of National Coming Out Week, scheduled to begin late this morning at the Fieldhouse Mall, did not receive approval from the Office of Residence Life. But the rally may occur anyway.

In a letter dated yesterday, Bill Kirk, assistant vice president for residence life, denied a request from the College Democrats to register the demonstration. The College Democrats were one of several campus organizations sponsoring the event.

But it was an earlier request for approval that see RALLY / page 6

Faculties marriages involve sacrifices, too

By JOHN DE BOY
News Writer

When Professor Joan Brennecke began teaching at Notre Dame in 1989, her husband, Mark Stadtherr, was employed as a tenured professor of chemical engineering at the University of Illinois. For six-and-a-half years the couple endured the hardships of a long-distance relationship, seeing each other only on weekends and during breaks.

The arrangement was hardly a pleasant experience for Brennecke and Stadtherr, living in separate homes in cities 200 miles apart.

"I didn't feel like I really belonged here," says Brennecke, an associate professor of chemical engineering. "I felt like I wasn't really a part of Notre Dame. I almost had two lives, which could be very confusing at times. I never knew which cable channels were which, or where things were in the grocery store."

However, the pressures of living apart were finally alleviated for Brennecke when, in January of this year, Stadtherr

see COUPLES / page 8

Schedule of Events

Friday, October 11

3-7 p.m. Football: Northwestern vs. Notre Dame at the Dome for the Homecoming Game. For tickets go to the Notre Dame Bookstore or Main Building.

7 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

Saturday, October 12

9 a.m. Women's Soccer vs. Illinois at Notre Dame Stadium.

11 a.m. Men's Soccer vs. Illinois at Notre Dame Stadium.

1 p.m. The Casuals perform at the Main Building.

3:30-6:45 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

6:45 p.m. The Casuals perform at the Main Building.

7:30 p.m. "Barefoot In the Park" by Neil Simon at Washington Hall.

Thursday, October 11

8:30 a.m. Football: Notre Dame vs. Virginia Tech at the Dome for the Homecoming Game. For tickets go to the Notre Dame Bookstore or Main Building.

9:45 a.m. Women's Soccer vs. Illinois at Notre Dame Stadium.

3:30-5 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

5:45 p.m. The Casuals perform at the Main Building.

6:45 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

7:30 p.m. "Barefoot In the Park" by Neil Simon at Washington Hall.

Friday, October 11

8:30 a.m. Football: Notre Dame vs. Virginia Tech at the Dome for the Homecoming Game. For tickets go to the Notre Dame Bookstore or Main Building.

9:45 a.m. Women's Soccer vs. Illinois at Notre Dame Stadium.

3:30-5 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

5:45 p.m. The Casuals perform at the Main Building.

6:45 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

7:30 p.m. "Barefoot In the Park" by Neil Simon at Washington Hall.

Saturday, October 12

9 a.m. Women's Soccer vs. Illinois at Notre Dame Stadium.

11 a.m. Men's Soccer vs. Illinois at Notre Dame Stadium.

1 p.m. The Casuals perform at the Main Building.

3:30-6:45 p.m. Pep Band will play in the Student Center and in the Fieldhouse Mall.

6:45 p.m. The Casuals perform at the Main Building.

7:30 p.m. "Barefoot In the Park" by Neil Simon at Washington Hall.

Sunday, October 13

11 a.m. Football: Notre Dame vs. Pitt at the Dome for the Homecoming Game. For tickets go to the Notre Dame Bookstore or Main Building.
New Afghanis regime attacks critics

KABUL
Afghanistan’s new Taliban rulers ordered house-to-house searches Thursday for anyone suspected of collaborating with the former regime, unleashing a wave of fear among ethnic minorities. In Bagram, near the front line, a resident was dragged from his home and summarily executed by Taliban fighters. Other alleging he collaborated with the former government and helped a rebel fighter, said travelers arriving in the capital.

Taliban forces also set fire to two other homes, saying the occupants had fired in the direction of their soldiers.

In northern Afghanistan, meanwhile, three Afghan farmers reportedly formed a military alliance against the Taliban.

In suburbs of the capital of Kabul, terrified residents said heavily armed Taliban troops were rounding up members of Afghanistan’s Tajik or Panjshir ethnic minority groups and accusing them of collaboratning with the former government.

The Taliban are mostly Pashtuns, the country’s dominant ethnic group, and fear has grown among minorities that they will be targeted for revenge.

A Foreign journalists returning from the front line reported heavy artillery and small arms fire Thursday near Bagram military base, about 25 miles north of the capital.

Gore fares well in VP debates

WASHINGTON
Like a school kid sporting straight As, Vice President Al Gore basked in the reviews of his debate performance and proudly brought the president to the White House. "It’s nice to be in Nashville, riding along with Al Gore’s coattails," President Clinton joked before a crowd assembled at the Nashville Auditorium Coliseum. Gore even looked presidential. He arrived before Clinton at the airport and discreetly climbed aboard Air Force One. This way, he and Clinton walked down the plane’s steps together rather than meet on the tarmac. In his remarks later, he made almost no mention of the vice president’s presence but did say: "Last night Jack Kemp and I debated the future, this morning Bill Clinton and I are building the future." Their campaign stop focused on administration proposals to further the creation of high-speed communications networks.

Pet detective’ con man arrested

BALTIMORE
An Ace Ventura wannabe has landed in jail, accused of posing as a pet detective and bilking a couple who had lost their parrot. Richard Latta responded to a newspaper ad placed by Deborah Gemann, who said she had lost her tiny brown parrot. She claimed her bird was found in her yard. Latta told Gemann that her parrot was found and was out for $60. She was seen chasing her bird, and Latta was charged Monday with two counts of theft by deception. He has been released on his own recogniance. "The birds flew the coop, and we put a suspect in a cage," Sgt. Charles Wenz said.

Powell apologizes for racial slur

STOCKTON, Calif. Retired Gen. Colin Powell apologized for using an ethnic slur against Chinese in a speech last weekend. Speaking about affirmative action and the global economy, he said Saturday at a Black Enterprise Summit, Powell was quoted as saying: "If you give 1.3 billion people a chance, you will drown out that one country." A spokesman for the Bush campaign said Powell was "misquoting" Powell. Powell later apologized, saying: "I misused the word 'nationalism' is over, because there is no way communism can compete with a Salad Shooter for $9.95." In a letter, the Republican National Committee accused the Democratic National Committee of "inappropriate" remarks. Powell had been a prosecutor and a veteran of the Vietnam War.

The context in which I used the word was a positive one as I recounted the economic progress being made in China by the unshackling of the creative and entre-preurial potential of the Chinese people," the letter said. "I apologize for any offense it may have caused."

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
Survey fails to honor ND MBA

By MICHAEL LEWIS
News Writer

It's official. Notre Dame is a lousy job for MBA prospective students.

In Business Week's annual study of the best business school graduates, Notre Dame was rated the tenth lowest in education dollar payoff, while the survey found the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania to be the best graduate B-school in the nation. The University of Michigan jumped from number six in 1995 to number two in the rankings.

Although several of the more traditionally recognized schools fell in rankings, they maintained the highest starting salaries for business graduate schools. Stanford, Harvard, and the University of Chicago dropped significantly in the ratings, but the starting salaries for their graduates remained quite impressive.

The price of attending one of these top schools is high, but the rewards are tremendous. The average starting salary for the top five schools is $100,000, $81,400, $95,000, $110,640, and $117,000, respectively.

Another advantage that these schools provide is the number of job offers their graduates get. The top ten schools have an average number of job offers between 2.7 per student and 4.2.

The news, as far as the results of graduating from these institutions is concerned, is encouraging. In the United States, their admissions are more competitive than ever.

Every school in the top 25 posted an increase in applications over the past year, having a 56 percent increase. Massachusetts Institute of Technology reports 21 percent applications for only 325 seats. If not, their admissions are more competitive than ever.

The University of Michigan topped this list with a total investment of $74,500 taking 3.9 years to pay back with an annual rate of return of 28.6 percent. The other top five schools in this regard were Brigham Young, Dartmouth, MIT, and Carnegie Mellon.

The slowest five schools to pay back an MBA were Georgia, with a $95,300 total investment that takes 9.7 years to pay back, Wisconsin, Case Western, Southern California, and Babson.

Notre Dame was the tenth slowest school in payback. It takes an ND MBA 6.8 years to pay back his or her investment of $119,700, at an annual rate of return of 12.4 percent.

Students to march on capital for solidarity

By ANGELA CATALDO
News Writer

Over 20 students from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's will be traveling to Washington D.C. today to take part in the first-ever Latino march on the capital.

They are joining groups from across the nation in "pay tribute to Latino's contributions to the nation's development and raise awareness of the group's unity as well as its diversity," explained Maria Jimenez, coordinator of U.S./Mexico border programs for the American Friends Service Committee.

The purpose of the march, which is fittingly taking place on "El Dia de la Raza" (Day of Our People), is to draw attention to the seven main concerns of the Latino people: protecting immigration rights, controlling police brutality, raising the minimum wage, ensuring that all children get public education regardless of citizenship, restoring affirmative action, and maintaining and expanding health services.

"Twenty years ago, Chicanas were visibly active, but in the past year, they have been "sleeping," said Tracy Hollingsworth, a Saint Mary's senior, who will be leading one of the caravans to Washington D.C. "This march is a call to action. We need to all come together as one voice and show the public and the government that there are needs to be met and we are concerned."

The traveling group from Saint Mary's/Notre Dame community is being sponsored in part by Alliance, the campuses' Hispanic-American organization. Participants are leaving for the ten-hour trip tomorrow, hitting the highway in true road-trip style, with two vans and a truck.

Guillermo Tijerina, Jr., one of the student organizers, sees a dual purpose in this trip: to strengthen the Latino community here on the campuses and to support the national community. "Last year we were faced with a problem within our Latino community here on campus. There wasn't a feeling of togetherness," he said. "We began to struggle with creating a family."

Our trip is working on two levels, we are strengthening our community at Notre Dame by helping the students feel at home with their culture as well as strengthening the Latino Community in America," Tijerina said.

With predictions that up to a half million people will attend the march, that "spirit" is sure to be far-embracing. Saint Mary's dean of Student Life, Barbara Pampuch expressed widespread anticipation when she said "I feel like I am taking part in something meaningful, something that will make the presence of Latinos in the United States felt and appreciated," she said.

Only Our Name is Hard to Swallow

Our name may be hard to understand, but not our food. Because we serve only the freshest ingredients. From sandwiches and pizzas made with our famous Baked Fresh Daily" bread. To crisp garden salads and hearty soups. Take our food seriously. Not our name.
The Hammes
NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
"on the campus"

Call for our illustrated catalog  1-219-631-6316

Open Monday-Saturday, 9am-5pm
Special Hours Football Weekends!  Friday 9am-7pm; Saturday 8am-6pm
Focus on immigration shifts

By VIVIAN GEMBARA

New Yorker

The identity of immigrants in the United States will be an important focus in future immigration policies, according to Tom Aleinikoff of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Speaking to a packed room in the Hindbruck Center yesterday afternoon, Aleinikoff focused on the future of Immigration Policy by addressing comparisons between the Immigration Control Act of 1986 and the recently passed 300-page immigration bill.

He began by citing the 1986 bill as a clear example of different approaches distinguishing legal and illegal immigration policies. In 1986, illegal immigration was addressed by limiting aliens' employment opportunities. However, Aleinikoff noted that imposing sanctions against employers of illegal immigrants only resulted in a growth of fraudulent documents. The 1986 act addressed the problem of long-term illegal aliens by granting them instant citizenship, but this attempt to halt further migration from Latin America was also unsuccessful. It did bring 3 million illegals "out of the shadows," but it also increased the flow of immediate family members who were subsequently allowed to join their newly legal relatives.

According to Aleinikoff, the ten years that have passed since these policies were implemented have brought new concerns rather than improvements. Most prevalent is the discrimination question brought up with California's Proposition 187, which denied health care benefits and education to illegal immigrants. By deputizing local authorities, the proposition stirred feelings of discrimination among Latin American immigrants.

But now, this is no longer the controversy as an issue of "assimilation."

Aleinikoff elaborated on the debate as much about American identity as about financial and political matters," he said. "Are the right people immigrating? There are new interests in the reasons why people want citizenship— is it citizenship of a group, or people who want to join the American culture?"

Today the majority of illegal aliens are from Latin America, while ten years ago, immigration was mainly from Europe. This changing physical identity will continue to be a source of debate in immigration policy.

"The fear will be that people who are naturalizing aren't Americanizing," Aleinikoff explained. As another example of how policies have become more concerned with the identity of entering immigrants, he cited new provisions which require a certain level of income for immigrants who want to enter the U.S. Poorer immigrants are deemed more likely to become a burden on the system and are thus denied entry from the start.

"Then there's the verification process, and who will be asked to show verification of their status? Will it just be those 'foreign looking people?"

The 1986 immigration bill also produced a need for a verification method to stop illegal immigrants using fraudulent documents to gain employment. Aleinikoff explained that because the verification method will stop illegal workers, the increasing demand for labor in certain industries will be unsatisfied. The meat-packing industry is currently experiencing a shortage of labor and will be hurt in the long-term unless they subscribe to the guest-worker program, which imports workers from other countries.

Aleinikoff also mentioned that issues not covered in the recent immigration bill would emerge as the future's hot topics. For example, because of the Republican party's split, the controversial issue of policies toward alien children illegally enrolled in U.S. schools was not addressed in the recent bill.

"We can expect to see much less focus on the illegal side of immigration in the future, but we will begin the debate of naturalization and turn to the question of assimilation."

Aleinikoff is currently a professor on leave from the University of Michigan Law School.

---

Goldman, Sachs, & Co.

invites University of Notre Dame undergraduates to an information session to explore opportunities in the Investment Banking Division

Monday, October 14, 1996
The Morris Inn
The Notre Dame Room
8:00 p.m.

casual attire

---

BOARD OF GOVERNANCE

academic newsletter debuts, events planned

By CAROLINE BLUM

Saint Mary's Editor

Students should expect to receive copies of "Spotlight on Academics" early next week.

The newsletter, besides information about clubs and current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's, includes information about current events with in each academic department at Saint Mary's.

By Vivian Gembara

The identity of immigrants in the United States will be an important focus in future immigration policies, according to Tom Aleinikoff of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. Speaking to a packed room in the Hindbruck Center yesterday afternoon, Aleinikoff focused on the future of Immigration Policy by addressing comparisons between the Immigration Control Act of 1986 and the recently passed 300-page immigration bill.

He began by citing the 1986 bill as a clear example of different approaches distinguishing legal and illegal immigration policies. In 1986, illegal immigration was addressed by limiting aliens' employment opportunities. However, Aleinikoff noted that imposing sanctions against employers of illegal immigrants only resulted in a growth of fraudulent documents. The 1986 act addressed the problem of long-term illegal aliens by granting them instant citizenship, but this attempt to halt further migration from Latin America was also unsuccessful. It did bring 3 million illegals "out of the shadows," but it also increased the flow of immediate family members who were subsequently allowed to join their newly legal relatives.

According to Aleinikoff, the ten years that have passed since these policies were implemented have brought new concerns rather than improvements. Most prevalent is the discrimination question brought up with California's Proposition 187, which denied health care benefits and education to illegal immigrants. By deputizing local authorities, the proposition stirred feelings of discrimination among Latin American immigrants.

But now, this is no longer the controversy as an issue of "assimilation."

Aleinikoff elaborated on the debate as much about American identity as about financial and political matters," he said. "Are the right people immigrating? There are new interests in the reasons why people want citizenship— is it citizenship of a group, or people who want to join the American culture?"

Today the majority of illegal aliens are from Latin America, while ten years ago, immigration was mainly from Europe. This changing physical identity will continue to be a source of debate in immigration policy.

"The fear will be that people who are naturalizing aren’t Americanizing," Aleinikoff explained. As another example of how policies have become more concerned with the identity of entering immigrants, he cited new provisions which require a certain level of income for immigrants who want to enter the U.S. Poorer immigrants are deemed more likely to become a burden on the system and are thus denied entry from the start.

"Then there’s the verification process, and who will be asked to show verification of their status? Will it just be those ‘foreign looking people?’"

The 1986 immigration bill also produced a need for a verification method to stop illegal immigrants using fraudulent documents to gain employment. Aleinikoff explained that because the verification method will stop illegal workers, the increasing demand for labor in certain industries will be unsatisfied. The meat-packing industry is currently experiencing a shortage of labor and will be hurt in the long-term unless they subscribe to the guest-worker program, which imports workers from other countries.

Aleinikoff also mentioned that issues not covered in the recent immigration bill would emerge as the future’s hot topics. For example, because of the Republican party’s split, the controversial issue of policies toward alien children illegally enrolled in U.S. schools was not addressed in the recent bill.

“We can expect to see much less focus on the illegal side of immigration in the future, but we will begin the debate of naturalization and turn to the question of assimilation."

Aleinikoff is currently a professor on leave from the University of Michigan Law School.
Rally continued from page 1

prompted Kirk to deny the College Democrats' request. The University administration and the bussowing organizations disagree on who is the official author of that first request. On Wednesday, Sean Gallavan, senior at Notre Dame and co-chair of Guys and Lesbians of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Co. C.I., attempted to register the event with the Office of Residence Life. Gallavan said he was acting only as an independent student who helped organize the event. Gallavan contended that, because he was acting as an individual and not as a representative of GLND/SMC, his request met the guidelines for a demonstration. Consequently, Kirk, however, said that action, submitted on official GLND/SMC letterhead, constituted a formal request by the University community. The guidelines state that only a "member of the University community" may organize a demonstration. Kirk, however, said that action, submitted on official GLND/SMC letterhead, constituted a formal request by the GLND/SMC. Because GLND/SMC is not a University-recognized student group, it cannot organize or lead a demonstration, according to du Lac. Consequently, when the College Democrats submitted their request, Kirk said he could not approve it. In the letter to the College Democrats, Kirk stated that the idea of the event was perfectly valid, but the earlier request made him unable to approve the demonstration. "Let me make clear that my inability to approve the proposed event does not arise from any difficulty inherent in the proposed function itself," Kirk wrote in the letter. "If initially the College Democrats had decided to independently organize a demonstration or reserve space to host a picnic to show support for National Coming Out Week, such events would have been eligible for approval. "It is clear to this office, however, from references in The Observer, as well as from a prior effort by GLND/SMC to register this same event with our office, that GLND/SMC is the sponsor of this function," Kirk's letter continued. The references in The Observer include classified ads that have run throughout the week and an item in Wednesday's Heart Presidents Council Article that stated the HPC would co-sponsor the event. Nevertheless, Gallavan said early this morning that the event would take place. "We fully intend to hold that demonstration," Gallavan said. The demonstration, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., will include a number of speeches celebrating the coming out of gay, lesbian and bisexual students, Gallavan said. "Among the organizations who had initially agreed to sponsor the picnic were the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs, the Women's Resource Center, HPC, the gender studies program, and the College Democrats. Catherine Mullally, president of the College Democrats, said her organization would continue to sponsor the event despite the decision by the Office of Residence Life. "If the demonstration goes on, then we'll support it. The point of the demonstration is to support the gay community," Mullally said last night. "We don't feel that we're doing anything wrong. With that in mind, we're going to continue as planned. "It (the picnic) is a good cause," she continued. "The Residence Life decision is unfortunate." It was not known last night whether any of the other original sponsors would continue to support the picnic. Deborah Hellmuth, HPC co-chair, said she could not say whether the council would or would not support the event in light of the decision by the Office of Residence Life. But she did say the council was overwhemingly in support of the picnic when it voted Tuesday to sponsor the picnic. "HPC was fully in support all along with the event," Hellmuth said. "It was a vote of 25-1 without any abstentions. "Personally, I am a little dismayed at the University," Hellmuth said. "I honestly didn't occur to me that the University would not approve it." —Galvan Attention Irish football fans! This Friday's pep rally at the Joyce Center is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. However, the Joyce Center is expected to reach capacity very early. The early admission plan was a huge success at the OSU rally, with 3,200 students gaining entrance! So again this Friday, from 5:30 - 5:45 p.m., only students with a valid student I.D. will be admitted through Gate 11. After that, general admission will begin at Gate 10. Get there early to cheer on the team! GO IRISH BEAT HUSKIES!

Gallavan

Attitude Studies Program

International Studies Program

Innsbruck

Innsbruck

APPLICATION FORMS WILL BE AVAILABLE (DEADLINE FOR APPLICATION: DEC. 1)

PROF. GERD GÜRTLER,
UNIVERSITÄT INNSBRUCK

PROF. URSULA WILLIAMS,
UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 5:00 PM

ETS THEATER (BASEMENT CCE)

VIDEO FEATURE: THE IMPERIAL TREASURY

FOLLOWING ARE THE ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS SENT IN.

No. The dollar and the mark do not have the same value. The dollar is worth only 0.8666 of the mark.
Canadian auto strike rattles GM jobs in U.S.

By JOHN HUGHES
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT

The weeklong strike by Canadian autoworkers finally brought General Motors to a halt in Canada on Thursday and could shut down U.S. assembly plants in quick order.

Workers at GM’s three remaining Canadian plants — in Woodstock, London and Windsor, Ontario, walked off the job late Wednesday night, putting the total number of workouts at 26,310.

The shutdown was felt south of the border Thursday with 100 more layoffs at a GM transmission plant in Ypsilanti, Mich., because the parts they make were no longer needed at plants struck in Canada.

Monday, 800 workers at the Ypsilanti plant and 1,050 workers at an engine plant in Tomowanda, N.Y., were laid off due to the Canadian strike.

“These U.S. plants will start to experience shortages and have to shut down” if the CWA strike continues, said Alfie Morgan, a business professor at the University of Windsor in Ontario. “They keep virtually no inventory because the parts are shipped to go right on the line.”

GM spokesman Tom Klipstine said the automaker would not speculate on how the CWA strike might further affect production and jobs in the United States.

“Most of our U.S. assembly plants receive material from Canada,” he said, and Canadian plants get parts made in the United States. “With all of our component plants, that’s a pretty complex situation.”

Analysts have said layoffs are inevitable because of the tight linkage among all of GM’s plants get parts made in quick order.

NDY

A smoky fire at NBC’s 70-story headquarters early Thursday knocked the local TV affiliate off the air, briefly disrupted the “Today” show and caused minor injuries to 13 people.

More than 300 firefighters battled the blaze at the landmark GE Building in Rockefeller Center for more than four hours before bringing it under control.

The fire, which was confined to the fifth through 10th floors, was believed to have started in a 10th-floor electrical closet at the network’s local affiliate, WNBC.

Early morning programming for the New York area was knocked out. “Today,” which broadcast from a glass-enclosed studio across the street, began on schedule, but the video signal was interrupted at one point and Katie Couric spent some of the morning co-hosting from the street.

The cause of the fire was believed to have started in a 10th-floor electrical closet at the network’s local affiliate, WNBC.

Early morning programming for the New York area was knocked out. “Today,” which broadcast from a glass-enclosed studio across the street, began on schedule, but the video signal was interrupted at one point and Katie Couric spent some of the morning co-hosting from the street.

Taping of the Rosie O’Donnell and Maureen O’Boyle talk shows had to be postponed, and the network’s evening news show was broadcast from Washington. Conan O’Brien left the studio to tape his late-night talk show outside in front of the skating rink.

Fewer than 100 of NBC’s 2,000 employees were in the building when the fire broke out at 4 a.m. All were evacuated.

Thirteen people were treated for smoke inhalation, including at least two firefighters.

The cause of the fire was under investigation. NBC said it may have been started by a generator at a section under construction. The Art Deco building houses the studios for such programs as “NBC Nightly News,” “Late Night with Conan O’Brien” and “Saturday Night Live.” Tourists know it for the skating rink and the towering Christmas tree outside.

Fire at NBC disrupts ‘Today’

13 injured as 300 firefighters battle blaze

By SARAH CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK

A smoky fire at NBC’s 70-story headquarters early Thursday knocked the local TV affiliate off the air, briefly disrupted the “Today” show and caused minor injuries to 13 people.

More than 300 firefighters battled the blaze at the landmark GE Building in Rockefeller Center for more than four hours before bringing it under control.

The fire, which was confined to the fifth through 10th floors, was believed to have started in a 10th-floor electrical closet at the network’s local affiliate, WNBC.
Couples

joined the faculty of Notre Dame's department of chemical engineering.

"I belong here now," Brennekoe says. "It's really good that I'm finally able, for the first time, not to be so disjointed between two places."

In a recent article, The Chronicle of Higher Education reported an increasing number of academic couples like Brennekoe and Stadtherr as making career changes and sacrifices in order to land two jobs at campuses that are miles apart. Meanwhile, more universities, including Notre Dame, are working to make such arrangements possible.

Academic life

For Dennis Brown, who was on the associate director of Public Relations and Development at Notre Dame, staying in the same geographic location as his wife Debbie has required making sacrifices and even a career change on his part. Ms. Brown is currently head coach of Notre Dame's volleyball team.

For another sponsor, Mr. Brown followed his wife from Colorado Springs to Phoenix and from Phoenix to San Diego while she pursued a career as a collegiate volleyball and assistant coach of the United States women's national team. When Ms. Brown was given the head coaching position at Notre Dame, Mr. Brown made the switch from journalism to public relations.

"There were a couple of times when I made the sacrifice," Mr. Brown says. "So when we moved here from San Diego in 1994, we found a new position there. But once there, there was something sacrifice involved on my part, too. It's easier for me to find a position than it is for Debbie. There are very few coaching positions out there." Other Notre Dame couples have taken turns making the sacrifice. When Professor Mei-Chia Shaw's husband, Professor Hsiu-Chang Chang, moved from the University of California at Santa Barbara to the University of Houston to be closer to Shaw who was teaching at Texas A&M at the time - he found the professional change less than desirable.

"If we always jockeyed that he would never forgive me for making him leave Santa Barbara, Shaw says. However, soon after Chang's move from California, before the couple arrived at Notre Dame, Shaw also took a position at the University of Houston in order to lessen the distance between them.

"It was a sacrifice for me to go to Houston," Shaw says. "For me, at the time, that move was a big step down."

Work overlap

For some married couples, working on the same campus means less than receiving paychecks from the same institution. But many others find overlap in their daily routines.

In recent years Brennekoe and Stadtherr have taught in the department of chemical engineering, have begun to work together on research projects.

"We understand the demands of each job," Ms. Borelli says. "I understand when he needs extra time and can't be home to cook a meal, and sometimes he brings home some information that might be useful to Debbie in recruiting.

Yet for many other couples, work overlap is an added bonus. "We leave in the morning together and come back in the evening together," Ms. Borelli says. "There's very little overlap in that.

Even couples who work in the same department often find that their professional lives are separate to a considerable extent. Kathleen and Stanley Farnam, both of whom served for 19 years as law librarians and professors of legal research before retiring in 1985, rarely saw each other during a typical work day.

"We saw very little of each other at work," Ms. Farnam says. "We were like ships passing in the night because we were both so busy."

Pros and cons

Virtually all married couples at Notre Dame contend that working in the same community environment has both its posi­ ive and negative aspects. On the positive side, the Borellis, who are in the obvious lifestyle and geographic advantage of working on the same campus provides a firm ground for mutual understanding. "We understand the demands of each job," Ms. Borelli says. "We have the same type of schedule, which means that things can be very demanding at the same time, especially during finals."

\[Answer\]

ERASMUS BOOKS

- Used books bought and sold
- 25 categories of Books
- 250: books, paperback and paperback books in stock
- Online Winter Season: $2.00
- Approximate large and small

Irish Import Shop

Edison Plaza
1643 Edison Road
Next to Janisson Inn
243-1400
10% off any purchase with this ad

Study Break

Gorch Games Room (LaFortune)

Take a break from studying for your midterms and play some free pool, eat some free food, and receive a free Class of 2000 t-shirt (for the first 30 people) brought to you by Gorch Games Room & where fantasies are a way of life

Bob Dole welcomed Colin Powell's "vim and vinegar" to the Republicans' tagging White House race on Thursday and kept up his tease that the popular retired general would be "one of the stars" in his administration.

In Dole's largest and most spirited crowd in weeks, several thousand people jammed downtown Cincinnati's Fountain Square on a bright fall day to hear from the Republican presidential candidate, running mate Jack Kemp and Powell.

"My task, specifically, is to introduce you to a straightforward man who has a straightforward vision for America," Powell said in introducing Dole and saluting the self-described presidential underdog as a fellow soldier.

"He wears proudly the Purple Heart as a daily reminder to him about what fighting for this country is all about," Powell said of Dole.

Asked offstage what Powell brings to the campaign, Dole said, "He's a good friend. I think he gives me more vim and vinegar and vitality ... a little excitement, too."

Enchantment was what Dole had hoped to generate with his performance against President Clinton in their first debate last week. But with post-debate polls finding Dole's double-digit deficit largely unchanged, he has just one week before the final debate to find a comeback route.

In a striking moment late Wednesday, Dole expressed frustration with his campaign and indicated changes would have to be made quickly. He plans a critical meeting with top aides on Saturday to decide where he'll target his advertising and travel in the final 3 1/2 weeks.

"I don't pay attention once I'm on the road -- I'm out of it all day long, 12, 14 hours. But we're going to ... take a hard look not only at the electoral maps but everything else," Dole said in an interview on CNN.

For weeks, the campaign has hinted that it would try to stir enthusiasm by announcing Powell as Dole's pick for secretary of state. On stage Thursday, with Powell standing behind him, Dole said nothing of the general's place in a future Dole administration. But he told reporters that Powell was "going to be one of the stars of our administration."

The idea of announcing Cabinet picks in advance has been discussed within the Dole campaign. But Dole, according to campaign sources, has resisted on grounds it would be viewed as a gimmick born of desperation.

Undecided voter Judy Smallwood, a Cincinnati clerk, said Powell was a "drawing card" for the GOP ticket. But, she added, "that still wouldn't sway me. He's not the one running, and even secretary of state doesn't have much say-so on the stuff I care about in government."

Still, Dole has been eager to involve the former secretary of state in his campaign. The general has been described by Dole aides as somewhat reluctant to go solo in any prospective Cabinet announcement but willing to be part of a broader list.

Clinton pushes for funds to expand Internet access

By LAWRENCE KNUTSON
Annexed From Wire

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.

Envisioning a day when computers are "as much a part of classrooms as blackboards," President Clinton moved Thursday to broaden the sweep of the Internet to all universities, national labs and other federal institutions.

The president said his ultimate goal is to "revolutionize and democratize" American public education by making computers available regardless of income, ethnicity or social status.

Clinton said his administration will push for $100 million in federal financing in 1998 to begin a five-year project to expand the Internet's capabilities. Aides said the cost for the full five years would be about $500 million if approved by Congress.

"Everything ages, and the Internet is straining under its growing popularity," the president said, noting that the global information network began a generation ago as a Defense Department system.

"It is now time to invest in the next generation of Internet," he said.

Clinton began his campaign day in Knoxville by extending congratulations to his running mate, Vice President Al Gore, on his Wednesday night debate with Republican Jack Kemp.

"It's nice to be in Knoxville riding on Al Gore's coattails," Clinton said. "Mr. Kemp is finding out something I learned a long time ago: It's better not to get on the other side of an argument with Al Gore. Last night it was Al Gore who sacked the quarterback."

Clinton was heading out to two other battleground states, with rallies planned in Dayton, Ohio, and Louisville, Ky.

Setting out his goal to see every American classroom linked to the Internet, Clinton said "I want to see a day when computers are as much a part of classrooms as blackboards."
Hospital massacres lead to military crackdown

By CHRIS TOMLINSON
Associated Press Writer

Zaire, Burundi, Gaza:

Arafat: ‘We will not kneel’

By SAMAR ASSAD
Associated Press Writer

RAMALLAH

Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat said Thursday that this week’s negotiations with Israel have not yielded results, and warned that his people “will not be forced to kneel for peace.”

Frustrated by the hard-line policies of Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, Arafat said he would not renegotiate the terms of an Israeli troop withdrawal from Hebron, the last West Bank town still under occupation.

Under the agreement signed by Netanyahu’s predecessor, Israel was to have pulled troops from Hebron, except from six small enclaves where 450 Jewish settlers live among 94,000 Palestinians.

The pullback was delayed after Islamic militants carried out four suicide bombings in February and March. Netanyahu, who took office in June, wants to renegotiate the terms of redeployment to provide better security for the settlers.

Among other things, negotiators have demanded that Israeli troops retain the right to chase suspects into neighborhoods under Palestinian control.

“We are ... the people who opted for peace,” Arafat told the Palestinian legislative council during its weekly meeting. “But at the same time, we will not be forced to kneel for peace.”

The talks, which began Sunday at the Erez Checkpoint on the Israel-Gaza border, ended Thursday without results.

The parties agreed to resume negotiations next week “to intensify and to accelerate their discussions,” according to a statement by U.S. envoy Dennis Ross, who is overseeing the talks.

Skull may be clue to murder

By BILL CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY

Forensic experts began tests Thursday to determine whether an unearthed skull and bones belong to a man suspected of conspiring with the ex-president’s brother to kill a political rival.

The mud-caked skull — dug up Wednesday at a swank ranch owned by Raul Salinas de Gortari — brother of ex-president Carlos Salinas de Gortari — could represent powerful new evidence against Raul Salinas, who is accused of masterminding one of Mexico’s most notorious assassinations.

Raul Salinas has been imprisoned since February 1995 on charges of plotting the murder of a top ruling party official, Jose Francisco Ruiz Massieu. He has said he is innocent.

Prosecutors are waiting to see if the remains are identified as those of his alleged accomplice, Manuel Munoz Rocha.

Munoz Rocha, a federal congressman for the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, disappeared after the Sept. 28, 1994, slaying of Ruiz Massieu in Mexico City. Police have long believed Munoz Rocha was dead.

Prosecutors theorize that Munoz Rocha fled to Pachuca, about 60 miles northeast of the capital, after the Ruiz Massieu slaying and then returned to Mexico City to meet with Salinas.

Attorney General Antonio Lozano Gracia said the bones found Wednesday at the suburban Mexico City ranch were those of a man. Authorities were treating the case as a homicide.

Lozano said investigators were examining a hole in the skull that could indicate a powerful and possibly fatal blow.

Scores of police occupied the estate — known as “El Encanto,” or “The Enchanted” — after prosecutors obtained a warrant to search for Munoz Rocha’s remains near the sprawling ranch house, tennis courts and horse trails.
NORTHERN IRELAND

Police arrest, question IRA bomb suspect

By SHAWN POGATCHNIK

Associated Press Writer

BELFAST

Detectives interrogated a Belfast man Thursday in connection with the Irish Republican Army attack on the British army headquarters that returned bombing to Northern Ireland.

Police arrested the man at dawn in Poleglass, a vast Catholic neighborhood three miles north of Thiepval Barracks, the key army installation struck Monday by two car bombs. He can be held for up to a week without being charged.

Detectives released photos Wednesday of the three cars used in the attack: two Volvos, each packed with more than 600 pounds of explosives, and a Volkswagen Passat getaway car that was later torched in Poleglass.

It was the first IRA bombing in the British-ruled province since May 1994, and threatened to provoke pro-British paramilitary groups to break their own truce. The IRA ended its cease-fire in February, but previously restricted bombings to England and a British base in Germany. A cross-community group, Women Together, meanwhile, was organizing a peace rally Friday outside Belfast City Hall, the spot associated with the emotional high point of the peace process — President Clinton's jubilant address last November.

Women Together coordinator Anne Cook said she hoped the "silent majority" would gather to "demand an immediate end to this nightmare."

In Dublin, politicians from all parties rallied against the IRA and its allied Sinn Fein party during an emergency debate in the Dail, Ireland's parliament.

Unless the IRA calls a new cease-fire, Sinn Fein — which represents a third of the north's Catholic minority but gets few votes in the Irish Republic — will remain barred from the negotiations on Northern Ireland's future that began in Belfast in June.

Foreign Minister Dick Spring said IRA attacks "are progressively widening the credibility gap which Sinn Fein must overcome if Sinn Fein is ever to deal as a fully accepted democratic player."

Prime Minister John Bruton said Sinn Fein-IRA leaders "will have a significantly different and more difficult task to convince the rest of us that a further cease-fire, whenever called, is in fact credible and irrevocable."

Bruton said IRA leaders would have to "get rid of the tactical use of violence for good."

"And accept the fact that the British presence in Ireland is not the Irish army or state, but a million unionists."

BOSNIA

General: Military force needed

By JEFFREY ULRICH

Associated Press Writer

TUZLA, Bosnia-Herzegovina

The commander of the American division in Bosnia says peacekeepers must be replaced by a new force, one of several options Washington is considering. How many soldiers are needed depends on what politicians want to accomplish, he says.

"Everybody wants to get on the great political issue of whether there will be a follow-on (follow-up) force," said Maj. Gen. William Nash, commander of the NATO-led force's northern sector, which includes 15,000 Americans. "Well, the issue is what do you want to do? What's your plan?"

Even as the first Americans began withdrawing to meet the Dec. 20 deadline imposed by NATO, there is still no political decision about whether or how many troops will remain in this Balkan nation ravaged by 1 1/2 years of war.

"There is a continuing requirement to maintain a secure military environment, the absence of war," Nash said in an interview. "The former warring factions tell me that means continued outside military presence. Their logic is pretty sound."

NATO defense ministers meeting last month in Norway charged military chiefs with drawing up plans based on four options — total withdrawal of the 52,000 troops from 30 nations, a deterrence force capable of preventing a new outbreak of hostilities, a "deterrence-plus" force that would go further to stabilize Bosnia, and a continuation of the present mission.

It seems clear options 1 and 4 are there for show.

There was a consensus among the defense ministers that it was too soon to declare peace in Bosnia and that the potential continues for renewed conflict among its ethnic Serbs, Muslims and Croats.

But it was also obvious that Washington was interested in postponing a decision until after the Nov. 24 elections in the U.S.

Bosnia, Nash insisted, is more a political, economic and social problem than a military issue.

"As we talk about the issue of the follow-on force, I wish more debate was going on with the civilian implementation of the next phase," the general said.

The three hard ones are the political, economic and social aspects. I can understand why people don't want to talk about it. That's hard stuff. It's much easier being a soldier."

About 5,000 troops from the 1st Infantry Division under Maj. Gen. Montgomery Meigs are expected to begin arriving shortly. These soldiers are a "cowering force" for the withdrawal of Nash's 1st Armored Division. The infusion and outflow will keep the troop level at about what it is now through the Nov. 22-24 municipal elections.

CHINA

Student dissident may face trial

By JOHN LEICESTER

Associated Press Writer

BEIJING

Chinese officials told the parents of dissident Wang Dan to hire a lawyer for their son Thursday, the same day the authorities announced that they had put the former student leader on trial.

Wang Lingyun, who has not seen her 27-year-old son since Thursday, the surest sign yet that authorities plan to put the former student leader on trial.

Chinese officials told the parents of dissident Wang Dan to hire a lawyer for their son Thursday, the same day the authorities announced that they had put the former student leader on trial.

Wang Lingyun, who has not seen her 27-year-old son since Thursday, the surest sign yet that authorities plan to put the former student leader on trial.

Chinese officials told the parents of dissident Wang Dan to hire a lawyer for their son Thursday, the same day the authorities announced that they had put the former student leader on trial.

Wang Lingyun, who has not seen her 27-year-old son since Thursday, the surest sign yet that authorities plan to put the former student leader on trial.

Chinese officials told the parents of dissident Wang Dan to hire a lawyer for their son Thursday, the same day the authorities announced that they had put the former student leader on trial.

Wang Lingyun, who has not seen her 27-year-old son since Thursday, the surest sign yet that authorities plan to put the former student leader on trial.

Chinese officials told the parents of dissident Wang Dan to hire a lawyer for their son Thursday, the same day the authorities announced that they had put the former student leader on trial.

Wang Lingyun, who has not seen her 27-year-old son since Thursday, the surest sign yet that authorities plan to put the former student leader on trial.

Chinese officials told the parents of dissident Wang Dan to hire a lawyer for their son Thursday, the same day the authorities announced that they had put the former student leader on trial.
South Bend’s Finest...

Large 1-topping Pizza $5.99
277-0300
Open 'till 4AM on Friday and Saturday!

Go ND Beat Huckies
Ask about our...

WALL of FLAME

...plus our Daily lunch specials, 4 big TV screens, and multiple dart boards!

838 University Center
6502 Grape Rd.
(by Best Buy)
273-0088
After the game...
After work...
After all...
It's

Applebee's
Neighborhood Grill & Bar

Two Post-Game Celebration Locations:
Granger: 6615 N. Main Street 273-0003
Elkhart: 3241 Interchange Drive 266-1129

Mickey's Pub
Home of the "Huskie Burger"

127 N. Main Street
Downtown South Bend
287-6530

Go Irish...
...destroy Huskies!

Visit our brand new location...
Trivia • 7 ft TV Screens • Seating for Over 300
Extra Large Booths • Mouth-Watering
Variety of Sandwiches and Entrees

227 University Drive 277-7273

Macri's is now hiring:
• Servers
• Hostesses
• Cooks
• Busers

Flexible scheduling for students
Competitive wages - good tips!
Located on the Transpo Line
Macri's is a Great Place to Work!

Stop in at Macri's NEW Location for an application today!
227 University Drive 277-7273

College Football
HALL of FAME
SOUTH BEND, INDIAN

Celebrate the legends and traditions of the game through interactive exhibits and reflective galleries. Whether a serious football enthusiast, the big game fan, or everyone!

Hall of Fame
3307 S. St. Joseph St.
IN 46601
574-579-9465

MACRI'S DELI
SPECIALIZING IN
Pastries • Cakes • Cookies
Gourmet Foods • Italian Sandwiches
Homemade Soups & Breads
Appetizers • Salads • Sandwiches and PASTA

Go Irish!
Beat Washington!
A ‘thank you’ for a simple favor

Dear Editor:

I met two Notre Dame students in the parking lot of the Indiana Dunes State Park a couple of Saturdays ago. I don’t know their names but I wanted to write to them, so I hope you can publish this letter so that they might read it.

I took the South Shore train down to the dunes from Chicago that day because I needed to pray. I had choreographed a Mass with a powerful message to be celebrated the next day. I could not pray that we could convey the immensity of God’s glory through our movements and words and music. So, at the dunes, I prayed.

I had bought a little $1 booklet in the supermarket—check-out line called The Power of Prayer. The most powerful type of prayer, it said, was reflective — listening to God. I had just told a friend of mine that I didn’t think it mattered whether God existed or not: all I knew was that praying to a higher power was helpful. On that sand dune, I realized how wrong I was, how arrogant. If I wasn’t sure there was a God, then I couldn’t really be listening through all my senses: listening, communicating, to have a dialogue with God, I had to be open and receptive. I had to listen through all my senses: listen, feel, smell, taste and see.

Yet, we have played four games, yes, we wanted to be the national champions by going 12-0, and yes, we felt we could do it. But, no, there are no buts, because, when you use that word, you can make excuses. This football team did lose to Ohio State, and so did you!

Two weeks ago, I can say you as a student body and with this team, your fan, your classmate, your friend to the very end. Therefore you became the 12th Man, by not letting up and backing them by your noise of cheering!

Now it’s up to you; if you think this team is going to roll over and say, “That’s it, we lost; so there goes everything, let’s just go through the motions,” you are not part of their team. They will have gathered what they have and will go on with their lives and their season, for they have pride and faith; from the offensive line to the backs to the receivers to the defensive line to the line-backers to the secondary.

And what about you, the student body? Where do you fit? Will you come back with pride and faith in this team, your team?

No matter where you fit or where you are, this group of young men will be there Saturday with more will and drive than ever, because they are molded in the spirit of the Fighting Irish of the Notre Dame football team with or without you!

KEITH PENROD
Notre Dame #1 Fan

---

DUNDEES

Mike, I wish I could explain Jean-Claude and the fact I behaved back in Paris...

You have to understand that I’m used to my life being random. The guy who is to never get too attached and is so...

Remember in Paris when I tried to make you look like I’m me and I behaved back in Paris...

What you wanted me to do?

What do you want me to do?

Too embarrassed...

---

QUOTE OF THE DAY

“There could be no honor in a sure success, but much might be wrested from a sure defeat.”

—T. E. Lawrence
Future of economy hinges on candidates’ plans

College Democrats

There are two major problems confronting the economy in this presidential election year. They are the country’s stagnating growth rate of 2.4 percent and the increasing disparity gap in income distribution.

Economists estimate that a moderate increase of just 0.5 percent in the annual growth rate would raise a family earning $45,000 a year to an additional $6,000 — enough to pay for eight typical home mortgage payments. Both Bob Dole and President Clinton agree that this is a reasonable target. The question is, who’s plan should you trust to achieve it?

Current economic indicators show that the economy has recovered from the 1991 recession and is now on the upswing. According to the Department of Labor, the August unemployment rate was 5.1 percent, the lowest since 1989. Average hourly earnings rose by 3.4 percent and pay checks for all workers jumped $25,000 in August. Real wages have jumped by 2.5 percent, making household incomes rise. In the same income bracket, housing prices have risen 4.7 percent in August — the highest annual rate in more than a decade. All of these improvements have been aided by the Economic Stabilization Administration, whose moderate fiscal policies have restored faith in the American economy. The economy is healthy and growing everyday — why stop now?

Dole advocates a radical tax reduction plan that will balloon the federal deficit, increase interest rates and dramatically halt growth. In order to balance the budget, he will have to cut govern- ment spending in non-defense discretionary areas by about 10 percent. This will result in huge losses in education, Medicare, Social Security and other programs upon which millions of America’s working families depend. It is not possible to dramatically decrease government revenue, balance the budget and sustain prolonged economic growth simultaneously. The Dole plan will completely reverse the progress the economy has made in the past four years.

President Clinton recognizes the large disparity in income between the rich and poor. His administration has made impressive strides in alleviating this problem. While the situation is far from perfect, the latest reports show that 1 million people moved out of poverty in 1995, marking the second straight year that the number of people living in poverty declined. The last three-year turnaround in 27 years. To further deal with this problem, President Clinton advocates increasing the federal poverty line for families. These are aimed at making education — the best way to solve the problem of income disparity — available to all Americans.

Dole’s tax plan will make the rich richer at the expense of the poor and middleclass. The wealthiest fifth of Americans will receive 75 percent of Dole’s proposed tax cut, while the bottom 20 percent will receive less than 1 percent. To further exacerbate the tax burden on the rich, Dole will eliminate the earned income tax credit. This will alleviate lower-income families and further widen the income gap.

President Clinton has guided the country to economic recovery and growth. But the work has just begun. Now is not the time to return to the economic policies of the 1980s when we lost 500,000 jobs, or to continue to what is working and what will provide economic opportunity and stability for every American family. Now is the time to re-elect President Clinton.

College Republicans

The state of the economy today could best be described as a ship dragging an anchor. Even though employment is up, the employed are working harder, making less, and are insecure about whether they will have a job tomorrow. Real wages have stagnated. Where income was once sufficient to provide for a household, two parents must now work just to meet ends meet. Although The New York Times recently reported a quarterly rise in median family income in the U.S., Americans are becoming poorer and the gap between the rich and the poor has widened. The Fed confirms the economy’s sluggish state by keeping interest rates at record lows. In a stagnant, flooded, de-pressed economy to reduce the cost of production and spur economic growth, overall, the economy has grown at the aro- nomic rate of 2.1 percent in the 1990s, less than half the clip of the 1960s. And the status quo? This is economic “prosperity”? While Bill Clinton is willing to settle for the status quo, Republicans believe that America can do better than 2.1 percent. The solution to the economic crises we face today is growth. A high growth rate perpetuates the American dream. Workers produce and companies produce more, wages and profits rise and everyone is better off.

At a time when America needs economic leadership out of the wilderness of low growth, we are stuck with the Anti-Growth President. Clinton’s newest economic proposals, expi- ration date Nov. 6, are targeted tax cuts for the middle class. Unfortunately, targeted tax cuts have no capacity to generate growth. They are merely social policy masquerading as fiscal tonic. During his four-year term, the Anti-Growth President has led a clandestine crusade to decapitate growth, raising taxes on jobs creators from the largest corporations in New York to the smallest lemonade stand at a heartbeat until this summer. This summer he hiked the minimum wage, ignoring the fact that employers can not stay in business and pay workers for more than they are worth. Clinton claims credit for reducing the budget deficit. However, he inherited an economy at the trough of the business cycle. It was a strength of his how to raise treasury revenues with a larger work force and a higher tax rate.

While Bill Clinton avoids the issue, Bob Dole offers America a pro-growth plan on the road back to prosperity. His proposal to cut income taxes 15 percent across the board and slash capital gains taxes in half will stimulate growth. Dole, like John F. Kennedy in 1963, believes tax cuts will free an economy held down by unemploy- ment. To further deal with this problem, he will make the rich richer at the expense of the poor and middle-class. The wealthiest fifth of Americans will receive 75 percent of Dole’s proposed tax cut, while the bottom 20 percent will receive less than 1 percent. To further exacerbate the tax burden on the rich, Dole will eliminate the earned income tax credit. This will alleviate lower-income families and further widen the income gap.

President Clinton has guided the country to economic recovery and growth. But the work has just begun. Now is not the time to return to the economic policies of the 1980s when we lost 500,000 jobs, or to continue to what is working and what will provide economic opportunity and stability for every American family. Now is the time to re-elect President Clinton.

NOTRE DAME COLLEGE DEMOCRATS

At a time when America needs economic leadership out of the wilderness of low growth, we are stuck with the Anti-Growth President. Clinton’s newest economic proposals, expiration date Nov. 6, are targeted tax cuts for the middle class. Unfortunately, targeted tax cuts have no capacity to generate growth. They are merely social policy masquerading as fiscal tonic. During his four-year term, the Anti-Growth President has led a clandestine crusade to decapitate growth, raising taxes on jobs creators from the largest corporations in New York to the smallest lemonade stand at a heartbeat until this summer. This summer he hiked the minimum wage, ignoring the fact that employers can not stay in business and pay workers for more than they are worth. Clinton claims credit for reducing the budget deficit. However, he inherited an economy at the trough of the business cycle. It was a strength of his how to raise treasury revenues with a larger work force and a higher tax rate.

While Bill Clinton avoids the issue, Bob Dole offers America a pro-growth plan on the road back to prosperity. His proposal to cut income taxes 15 percent across the board and slash capital gains taxes in half will stimulate growth. Dole, like John F. Kennedy in 1963, believes tax cuts will free an economy held down by unemploy- ment. To further deal with this problem, he will make the rich richer at the expense of the poor and middle-class. The wealthiest fifth of Americans will receive 75 percent of Dole’s proposed tax cut, while the bottom 20 percent will receive less than 1 percent. To further exacerbate the tax burden on the rich, Dole will eliminate the earned income tax credit. This will alleviate lower-income families and further widen the income gap.

President Clinton has guided the country to economic recovery and growth. But the work has just begun. Now is not the time to return to the economic policies of the 1980s when we lost 500,000 jobs, or to continue to what is working and what will provide economic opportunity and stability for every American family. Now is the time to re-elect President Clinton.

Capitol Comments

Dole too dull to snatch victory from defeat's jaws

Gary Caruso

being called “Boom” from the man who twice taunted President Clinton during the debate for not calling George Bush, “‘Bushie”’ a year ago. The name has stuck with him. Dole said to Clinton, “I will address you as Mr. President, you as Mr. Bush.” This comment was made by Mr. George Bush in 1992.

Would it be that Dole has begun to sink to his old nasty self in desperation? Polls throughout the country show strong support for Clinton. Dole has even lost his coattails. Bob Dole said to Clinton, “I will address you as Mr. President, you as Mr. Bush.” This comment was made by Mr. George Bush in 1992.

On this subject, he said, “The last two days during a six-day period, his administration has made impressive strides in alleviating this problem. While the situation is far from perfect, the latest reports show that 1 million people moved out of poverty in 1995, marking the second straight year that the number of people living in poverty declined. The last three-year turnaround in 27 years. To further deal with this problem, President Clinton advocates increasing the federal poverty line for families. These are aimed at making education — the best way to solve the problem of income disparity — available to all Americans.

Dole’s tax plan will make the rich richer at the expense of the poor and middle-class. The wealthiest fifth of Americans will receive 75 percent of Dole’s proposed tax cut, while the bottom 20 percent will receive less than 1 percent. To further exacerbate the tax burden on the rich, Dole will eliminate the earned income tax credit. This will alleviate lower-income families and further widen the income gap.

President Clinton has guided the country to economic recovery and growth. But the work has just begun. Now is not the time to return to the economic policies of the 1980s when we lost 500,000 jobs, or to continue to what is working and what will provide economic opportunity and stability for every American family. Now is the time to re-elect President Clinton.

Gary Caruso

Viewpoint is a weekly column that appears every other Thursday. 1/e

NOTRE DAME COLLEGE REPUBLICANS

As written by Neil Zinder

Dole too dull to snatch victory from defeat's jaws

Gary Caruso, ND ’73, worked at the U.S. House of Representatives for eleven years and is now a publicist with the International Union of Electronic Workers (RUE) in Washington, D.C. His column appears every other Friday. He can be reached at hotline@aol.com.
A Fighting Chance

Fran McCann (pictured above) leads RecSports' women's self-defense classes at the Knute Rockne Memorial. McCann introduced the program as part of the physical education program five years ago. "It was pretty popular back then, one of the first classes to close," he said. RecSports then asked him to develop the program for them.

"We run the program generally in the fall and winter," he said. "It is a one-month program done in ten sessions."

The class concentrates on techniques that are useful during the initial moments of an attack. Because of this, McCann drills his students during every class session. "You have to react automatically, and that kind of reaction only comes with practice and repetition," he said.

McCann also indicated that he believes that the course is very useful for his students. "I got a call from a student that was assaulted down by the lakes in her sophomore year," McCann said. "She called to tell me that [the training] worked"

The fall program just finished on Wednesday. Those interested in registering for the next session should contact RecSports.
Wondering about Washington?

You may or may not be interested in some stuff about this weekend's opponent, but we thought we'd give it to you anyway. Enjoy. Or else.

"Bow Down To Washington"
The University of Washington's fight song, written in 1913, goes something like this:

Bow Down to Washington, Bow Down to Washington, Mighty are the men Who wear the purple and the gold, Joyfully we welcome them Within the victors fold. We will carry their names In the hall of fame To preserve the memory of our devotion. Heaven help the foes of Washington; They're trembling at the foot Of mighty Washington, The boys are there with bells, Their fighting blood ascends, It's harder to push them over the line Than pass the Dardenelles. Victory the cry of Washington. . . Leather lungs together With a Ruh! Ruh! Ruh! And o'er the land Our loyal band Will ring the glory Of Washington forever.

Stuff You Probably Didn't Know (and is fairly interesting)

• Bruce Lee went to Washington.
• Gil Dobie is Washington's Knute Rockne. As coach from 1908-1916, he led the Sun Dodgers to a 58-0-3 record. He was one of the most tyrannical and pessimistic coaches to ever walk a sideline.
• Alumnus Herman Brix, who starred in 75 movies including "Treasure of Sierra Madre" with Humphrey Bogart, also played Tarzan in several 1920s flicks. He also earned a silver medal in the shot put at the 1928 Olympics.
• The University of Washington, like Notre Dame, is affectionately known by its initials. The most common way Washingtonians refer to the school is "U-Dub" or "The U."
• Washington Warm-Ups are Alumni Association-sponsored tailgaters at all Husky away games. Look out for them tomorrow.
• Washington claims to have originated The Wave, although it's probably one of those things whose origin will never be known. Like the High Five. Anyway, they say that on October 31, 1981, cheerleader and "Entertainment Tonight" co-host Rob Weller told the crowd to start in one section and make a human wave that rolled around the stadium. Everyone remained standing until the wave completed the circle.
• Oklahoma holds the NCAA record for consecutive wins with forty seven from 1953-57. Washington has the second-longest winning streak with thirty nine victories from 1908-1914, when Dobie was the coach. They outscored their opponents 1,331 to 73. The streak broke when Notre Dame's Jim Crowley outscored their opponents 1,331 to 73. The streak broke in 1913.
• The University of Washington was founded in 1861 and has a student body of 34,000.
• Notre Dame leads the series 3-0, surpassing the Huskies 102-28. The Irish won by scores of 102-28 in 1948, 27-7 in 1949, and 29-21 last year.

The Story of Sunny Boy
(THIS ACTUALLY HAS SOMETHING TO DO WITH NOTRE DAME.)

Before the 1920s, when the Washington teams were known as the Sun Dodgers, the football mascot was a three-and-a-half foot wooden statue named Sunny Boy. He was meant to be a symbol of "Joe College," with books under one arm, a football under the other, and a case of Budweiser in his backpack. (OK, just kidding.) When Washington changed its mascot (see below), Sunny Boy disappeared. He was found twenty three years later right here in South Bend. Apparently, Sunny Boy had been removed from the trophy room of a UW fraternity house as a prank and shipped here to keep it in hiding. In 1948, it was returned and presented back to Washington officials at that year's Notre Dame game (won by the second-ranked Irish, 46-0).

King Redoubt
Washington's mascot, King Redoubt, is the eighth Alaskan Malamute to be the Husky mascot. Previous mascots were Frosty I, Frosty II, Wasky, Wasty II, Ski, Denali, King Chinook, Regent Denali, and Sundodger.

Purple and Gold
Washington's school colors were adopted in 1892 by a student assembly vote. The other major possibility was red, white, and blue because the school was named after George Washington. The purple and gold came from Lord Byron's "Destruction of Sennacherib." Before the 1920s, the Washington's teams were known as the Sun Dodgers. The name didn't do much for the Northwest image, so the students voted on a new mascot in 1921. The other finalist, along with Huskies, was Malamutes.
Barry's new book will have readers LOL

By DAN CICHLASKI

There's no stopping technology. We live in an age in which information is available to us at a dizzying rate and in a variety of ways. As a computer user, you have to keep up with the latest in order to stay ahead of the game.

THE COMPUTER AGE

By DAN CICHLASKI

There's no stopping technology. We live in an age in which information is available to us at a dizzying rate and in a variety of ways. As a computer user, you have to keep up with the latest in order to stay ahead of the game.
Palmeiro's two home runs lift O's over Yanks
Tied up series moves to Camden Yards
By Tom WITHERS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK
There were no 12-year-olds to pull things up for the Orioles this time.
Rafael Palmeiro hit a two-run homer in the seventh inning Thursday, lifting Baltimore to a 5-3 victory over St. Louis and forcing the Orioles to even the American League championship series at one game apiece.
Palmeiro's shot to right-center off Jeff Nelson snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Orioles a reason to celebrate less than 24 hours before the start of Game 5. Wednesday's Game 1 was stolen away by a 12-year-old Yankee fan.
The youngster, Jeff Maier, had leaned over the right-field wall and interfered with Orioles' outfielder Tony Tarasco in the eighth inning of Wednesday's game, turning a routine flyout into a game-tying homer by Bernie Williams with one out in the ninth.

Gary Gaetti hit a game-breaking grand slam off starter Maddux in the seventh inning and the victorious Orioles started the Brave's 8-3 Thursday night, evening the NL championship series at one win apiece.
"I thought he would work his way out of it," Braves manager Bobby Cox said. "That was going to be his last inning." By the end of the game, the stadium was about half-full. Then, again, it was all at the start, compared to the 3,000 empty seats for Game 1.
For Gaetti, who led Minnesota to an improbable World Series championship at St. Louis in 1987, it was his third hit of this postseason, his third hit of this postseason, and the fourth of his career against Maddux.
"I know they had a winning streak going. Now, we got a man to go on the mound," Maddux lamented. After giving up a sacrifice fly to Mark Lemke to score Smith in the seventh on a 3-1 pitch, Orioles' catcher Gary Gaetti hit the ball down the left-field line where left fielder Tim Raines gathered on the mound around the wall and interfered with Orioles' game 5-4 in 11 innings.
Majestic hit, they had the game again, but sat with his family behind the Yankees' dugout and could not watch Palmeiro's drive sail over the wall beyond the fence. The best-of-7 series shifts to Baltimore's Camden Yards for Game 3 on Friday night.
But watching Palmeiro's drive sail over the wall behind the center-field key will start for the Yankees against Mike Mussina.
With the score tied 2-2, Roberto Alomar doubled down the left field line with one out in the fifth and sixth innings before leaving with runners at first and second and setting up the big three games. The Braves went 0-2 against Atlanta this year.
The Yankees took away the home-field edge in the best-of-7 series, when they came away with a 4-3 lead against Atlanta this year.
Despite four straight Cy Young Awards, he is just 5-4 with a 5.4 ERA in 11 career starts in the postseason. One of those five losses came in this year's opening-round sweep of Los Angeles.
Even though Maddux was charged with just three runs earned in this game, it was surprising the Cardinals scored so many.

Architecture Career Week
October 14 - 17
Hayes-Healy Room 122

The Architecture Faculty and the Notre Dame Chapter of the American Institute of Architecture Students proudly present our exciting and informative "Career Week '96." Architecture students and other major students who might be considering a career in architecture are encouraged to attend the following events:

Monday, October 14, 7:00 pm
"Getting Started: Pre-graduation Employment and Objectives"
Panel Discussion
Thursday, October 17, 7:00 pm
"Career Design: The Resume, Cover Letter, and Portfolio"

Watch The Observer or stop by Hayes-Healy next week for a detailed schedule of events for each evening. This is an architectural event you will not want to miss. If you have further questions, please contact the American Institute of Architecture Students Hotline at 1x6664!
The Hammes

NOTRE DAME
BOOKSTORE

"on the campus"

Call for our illustrated catalog 1-219-631-6316
Open Monday-Saturday, 9am-5pm

Special Hours Football Weekends! Friday 9am-7pm; Saturday 8am-6pm
Former Irish QB unhappy in Seattle

Mirer plans to be elsewhere next season

It will be an awkward final 10 weeks of the Seahawks season for the former Notre Dame star, who is in the fourth year of a five-year contract. John Friesz took over for Mirer last Sunday in Miami and threw three touchdowns passes in a 22-15 win.

When the Seahawks (2-4) play in Kansas City (4-2) next Thursday night, Mirer will be Friesz’s backup again. He knows he will probably only play this season if Friesz is hurt.

“I don’t know how I could feel any more in limbo,” he said.

Mirer knows coach Dennis Erickson and his coaching staff have lost confidence in him. The coaches have also been less than candid with him this season, he said.

“I just want to get looked in the eye,” Mirer said. “I have people who walk by me now and look at their shoes. That’s not the way I approach it.”

Asked about his relationship with Erickson, Mirer said: “I found out where I stand and that’s that. I’m not going to say anything; I’m not going to hurt anybody.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office for not keeping him up to date on the status of the George trade talks. When the Seahawks left Seattle for Miami last Friday, Mirer was on a cellular telephone from his agent, Los Angeles-based Marvin Demoff, asking him if he should get aboard.

If it was going to happen, then certainly didn’t want to waste 12 weeks just getting a glancing blow here and there. He said he had no problem with the Seahawks trying to get George, only the way the club went about doing it.

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.

“George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.”

Mirer was particularly unhappy with Erickson and the Seahawks office in 1993 after George was suspended following a sideline confrontation with coach Jones. Whether it was 50-50 or 2-2, the bottom line is we’ve just got to get a win at some point in the season.
Battle of West Coast offenses

By DAVE GOLDBERG

Coryell rebuffed it, Bill Walsh rejected it, and Joe Montana made it work.

Yet when the Green Bay Packers and San Francisco 49ers each take their versions of that offense into the first marquee game of the NFL season Monday night, it may be Smith's a la Coppery and Montana made it work.

The key to the offense often is the swing pass, used in much the same way that a run is used. Throwing to the outside is what opens up the slant routes that Jerry Rice and Robert Brooks run so well for San Francisco and Green Bay, just as Lance Alworth (Gilmour), Charlie Joiner (Coryell) and Dwight Clark (Walsh) did before them.

"In our offense, the guy is not going to carry the ball 25 times as a rule," says Green Bay coach Mike Holmgren, who tutored under Walsh and was the 49ers' offensive coordinator before taking over the Packers.

"So he has to be able to block and catch and do all the little things. That's what he does for us.

In Holmgren's case, "he" is Edgar Bennett, who is inching closer to the accomplishments of Roger Craig, the prototype running back for Walsh's San Francisco offense that Montana guided. He set the standard in 1985, when he became the only running back in NFL history to rush for 1,000 yards in his first three seasons.

season.

Bennett wasn't too far away from that standard last season, when he ran for 1,067 yards — the first Green Bay back over 1,000 since 1978 — and caught 61 passes for 678 yards.

So what do the 49ers bring with their 4-1 record when they challenge the 5-1 Packers, who season this have joined San Francisco and Dallas among the NFC elite?

Terry Kirby, perhaps?

Kirby, obtained in a trade with Miami just before the season, fills most of the criteria for a running back in the West Coast offense. But he's injury prone and was slowed by an ankle problem early in the season.

He may have had his break-
Split squad fares well at Princeton, UNC meets

Observer Staff Report

For the second weekend this fall, the Notre Dame men’s tennis team showed that it will be imposing, as Coach Bob Bayliss split his squad, sending one group to the North Carolina Classic and the other to the Princeton Invitational.

Each group made an impressive showing. In Chapel Hill, Notre Dame’s Jakub Pietrowski reached the Blue Flight Finals, losing to UNC’s Tripp Phillips 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Bayliss was encouraged by the play of Pietrowski, who said “did a great job of constructing points and patterns. The only flaw lay in Jakub’s inability to finish the points. He moved up in the count and dictated play very well.”

Notre Dame’s Brian Patterson won three matches, losing also to Phillips.

In the White Flight, rising Irish star Ryan Sachire continued his outstanding play, winning the tournament by defeat­ing Michigan’s Brad McFarland and Matt Wright easily.

The only flaw lay in Jakub’s losing to Tripp Phillips, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

At Princeton, Irish senior Ryan Simme reached the finals, losing to Udi Kish of Pennsylvania, by way of Israel 6-3, 6-3. Simme’s best win came in the quarterfinals against Mark Fisicaro of Penn.

Assistant coach Andy Zurcher said, “Ryan did a great job of mixing up his pace and spins, keeping Fisicaro from getting into a groove.”

Irish junior Dan Rothchchild reached the semifinals, also losing to Kish 6-2, 4-6, 6-0.

“Ian is for real this year,” said Zurcher. “He has had two consecutive outstanding performances in fall tournaments.”

“Ian has been a pleasant surprise,” said Bayliss. “He has been a pleasant surprise.”

Also making strong showings were Notre Dame’s Matt Horasly and Vijay Freeman. Horasly teamed with Sachire to win the White Doubles, defeating Michigan’s Brad McFarland and Matt Wright easily.

In the Blue Flight Patterson and Pietrowski defeated Harvard’s Mitty Arnold and Majmudar on the strength of their service returns. They remain undefeated this year.

At Princeton, Irish senior Ryan Simme reached the finals, losing to Udi Kish of Pennsylvania, by way of Israel 6-3, 6-3. Simme’s best win came in the quarterfinals against Mark Fisicaro of Penn.

Assistant coach Andy Zurcher said, “Ryan did a great job of mixing up his pace and spins, keeping Fisicaro from getting into a groove.”

Irish junior Dan Rothchild reached the semifinals, also losing to Kish 6-2, 4-6, 6-0.

“Ian is for real this year,” said Zurcher. “He has had two consecutive outstanding performances in fall tournaments.”
Joyce Center: “On the Concourse” (Enter Gate 1 or 2)

Fieldhouse (Enter Gate 3)

Tent: Located outside Gate 10
Open 10:00 a.m. on Friday
Open 8:00 a.m. on Saturday
Open 10:00 a.m. on Sunday (Joyce Center only)
Running game, defense key for Fisher, St. Ed’s

Zahm’s Big D shoots for yet another shutdown
By ADRIAN WILKERSON
Sports Writer

The Fisher Green Wave will try to climb above the .500 mark while the Steds just want to break into the win column in this week’s matchup between the two teams.

Fisher will try again to use the run offense that seems to be the most effective. Defensively, the Fisher line will seek to contain the Steds’ running game, the bright part of the St. Edward’s attack.

The Steds running game will try to overcome the near misses that have allowed opponents to shut down the game by shutting down the running lines that have put them in the position to win both games. The seconds have also shown improvement by not allowing the big plays that resulted in Sorin’s lone losses.

ZAHM (2-0) VS.
ALUMNI (3-0)

This is the game of the week in men’s interhall action. The victor in this contest will be the one that can overcome either of the teams’ best defenses.

Zahm, well rested after a bye week, must resume the production they enjoyed in the second half of their last game. By scoring 13 points against Carroll in that game, they had more than four times the offensive production in the previous six quarters. Zahm’s defense has effectively shut down all opposition’s offense. Alumni has effectively shut down all that have opposed them. The defensive line, much like Zahm’s, has not allowed a serious run play to leak through. The secondary has had serious opposition as of yet, so it will be interesting to see if the new found Zahm aerial attack can respond against the Alumni defensive backs.

BLUE DIVISION

In action in the Blue Division, Off-Campus attempts to recover from last week’s thrashing at the hands of Morrissey. Both their offense and defense looked weak, and will have to regain their form if they want to beat Keenan.

Flanner, coming off a bye week, has looked inconsistent thus far this season. They will have to play their best game of the year if the wish to beat top-ranked Morrissey. The Manor has looked unbeatable. Tailback Mark Tate has dominated the league, and will be a tough one to bring down this week. Lastly, Dillon and Keough square off. The Dillonites have been awful this season. On the other hand, Keough is led by quarterback Brian Perez. His efficiency has made Keough a solid team this season.

CARROLL (1-2) VS.
SORIN (1-1)

Two teams moving in opposite directions will also face off this Sunday. Sorin will seek to build on a one game winning streak, while Carroll seeks to snap a two-game losing streak.

The Vermin, who looked rather impressive to begin the season, have since had nothing but offensive production problems. To remedy this problem, Carroll may seek to go to an aerial attack over the questionable Sorin secondary.

There are no problems on the outset with Carroll’s defense. It has managed to relatively contain the opposition in the first half of each of its contests. The defensive line has kept the Vermin close by totally shutting down some of the most vaunted rushing attacks in the division. However, as with most teams this year, Carroll will have to step up coverage in the defensive backfield.

The Screamin’ Otters will seek to build on the positives of last week’s victory to emerge with a win this week. The Otter defense has done a fantastic job putting the clamp on the opposition’s running game that have put them in the position to win both games.

The Otter defensive line has effectively shut down all opposition’s offense. Alumni’s relatively untested passing game may be called to step up in pressure situations.

Zahm’s defense is not the only unit that instills fear in the opposition’s offense. Alumni has effectively shut down all that have opposed them. The defensive line, much like Zahm’s, has not allowed a serious run play to leak through. The secondary has had serious opposition as of yet, so it will be interesting to see if the new found Zahm aerial attack can respond against the Alumni defensive backs.

WIN AN APPEARANCE ON BAYWATCH

Baywatch is looking for 26 lucky people to appear on their show and ‘Glamour Shots’ is the official entry location. Come by between now and October 17th and get a professional portrait from the fashion experts. With any $29.95 complete session, you can receive a FREE 8x10 to enter into our contest. See store for details. This could be your chance to star on Baywatch so call for your appointment today!
Dear Alumni and Friends,

The staff of Campus Ministry extends an invitation to come together and celebrate the Eucharist this weekend.

University of Washington Football Weekend
October 12 and 13, 1996

Saturday Vigil Masses

- Basilica 30 minutes after game
- Stepan Center 45 minutes after game

NEW

Sunday Masses

- Basilica 8:00, 10:00, & 11:45 a.m.
- Sacred Heart 6:00, 7:00, 8:00
- Parish Crypt 9:30 & 11:00 a.m.
Soccer
continued from page 32

Notre Dame has not been stop the polls since the end of the 1994 regular season, just prior to losing to North Carolina in the NCAA finals. Currently, the soccer team is in the roughest part of their schedule. They had two tough road games against two ranked opponents last weekend in North Carolina. Now they are set to play two more ranked opponents this weekend on the road.

"The results from last week will help us," said Petrucelli about these tough back to back road games against two ranked opponents last week-end on the road. "It gives us a lot of confidence, which helps. We have had some time off, so we are well rested."

Laura Vanderberg and Kate Sobero (above) know that, despite their new No. 1 ranking, they cannot get complacent and that they "need these games" this weekend. Shannon Baxx (above right) had a tough weekend's game. This weekend the Irish will face No. 8 Santa Clara. The Broncos return ten of their starters and appear to be one of the stronger teams in the nation. Currently, Santa Clara has a record of 9-2-0. "Santa Clara is as good as we are," said Petrucelli. "We are going to have to fight for every inch. We will have to be at the top of our game to win. Whoever wins the battle in the air will win the game."

Freshman Jenny Streiffer was named Big East Offensive Player of the Week. She scored both of the goals in the North Carolina contest. Streiffer chalked up another goal in the 2-0 win over the Duke Blue Devils.

In the first week of the season, she was named the Big East Rookie of the Week. Streiffer also leads the team in goals and total points. This weekend the Irish are looking to defend their new top ranking, and prove that they are the team to beat.
Setter Carey May returns to the Angie Harris to move back to her natural position at hitter.

Friday, Irish ‘new team’ with return of October II, 1996

The Observer • SPORTS

By JOE CAVATO
Sports Writer

For most teams the midway point marks a time when the team has already meshed.

But, for the Notre Dame volleyball team it marks a time of transition in which they will begin to mesh.

This weekend the Joyce Center will host two Big East contests as the Providence Friars and Boston College Eagles will challenge the Irish. The Friars and Irish will take the court after the pep rally and the BC-ND match up is set for 2 p.m. Sunday.

The home team has just begun to make a setter transition from Jaimie Lee to Carey May.

"Now I think everything is totally different," observed junior hitter Angie Harris. "With Jaimie going back to hitter and Carey back at setter it's kind of like a new team."

May saw her first significant action of the season in Tuesday's loss to Illinois State as she rallied the team at their attempt at a comeback. May earned all-district honors last season and her setting has been sorely missed. Thus, the transition is eagerly awaited as the Domers' record has dropped to 10-5, with two of those losses coming against unranked foes.

Lee, who had never played setter before in her life, filled the void left by May while she recovered from a dislocated shoulder and she did an admirable job, but clearly the team's hitting was affected by May's absence.

Last season, the Irish hitters posted a team record .271 hitting percentage under May's guidance. This season the percentage has dropped to .215.

Lee's return combined with Lee, an all-district performer at hitter from a year ago, switching back to her natural position will almost certainly improve the squad's offensive assault.

"I think it brings a comfort level," said Lee of May's return. "I don't think it would have mattered how good I would have done. I could have been great or bad because it will be different having Carey back."

Junior outside hitter Angie Harris explains the importance of May's return.

"It is real important, it adds depth at setter. Also, where we had depth before (at outside hitter), we're back to where we were (with Lee's return to hitter), so we have depth all around now."

The squad's loss to Illinois State marked their second loss in a week's time to unranked foes as Ball State upset the Irish the week prior. Head coach Debbie Brown saw her squad's streak of 52 consecutive wins against unranked opponents come to a halt. After the combination of the two losses in such proximity one wonders about the team's confidence level.

Angie Harris assesses the situation.

"It has been tough but as Debbie said we can get down now and give up or we can keep going hard. I think that we just need to learn how to win. We know were a good team, we just need to develop the attitude that it will change.

The Achilles heel for the team this year has been coming out flat, as the Irish have dug themselves into holes early and often. Lee still wonders what the problem is.

"I have no idea why not everybody has been on at the same time or even out flat, but I think it will change."

Lee continued to discuss the affects of the team's losses.

"Ball State was a lot more detrimental, I think, than the Illinois State loss because I think we got into a pretty good rhythm, I think we did too well late."

The Irish will likely improve on the nation's 17th best blocking average (led by Mary Leefer) and 10th best ace per game average (led by Harris) as the Friars and Eagles finished in the bottom half of the Big East conference a year ago.

Brown hopes to receive continued good play from last week's Big East player of the week Lindsay Treadwell, who has sparked the Irish in recent matches.

Junior Molly McCarthy is fresh off a gutsy performance in which she played through sickness to ignite the Irish rally and the team can always count on the solid leadership of Jenny Dikkar.

The Friars were swept by ND last year by the final of 15-11, 15-3, 15-5. Middle blocker Becky Lotus will have to be on top of her game if they hope to give the Irish a run for their money.

"I don't think it would have mattered how good I would have done. I could have been great or bad because it will be different having Carey back."

The Friars and Eagles finished with a .466 winning percentage compared to the Irish .517 winning percentage.

The Observer/Rob Finfrock

Setter Carey May returns to the Irish lineup this weekend, allowing Angie Harris to move back to her natural position at hitter.

The Diamond Solitaire Necklace

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest

The Perfect Sweetest Day Gift
Special Financing for Notre Dame Students
No Payments No Interest
Hockey
continued from page 32
helps the new players; not only do they have me to learn from, but they can also learn from the veterans."

Another strong indicator for a competitive season lies in the talented freshman class that matriculated at Notre Dame.
Freshman center Ben Simon is fresh off a tour of Europe with the U.S. junior national team, and center Joe Dusbabek joined Simon in the national team camp. Defensemen
Tyson Frazier and Nathan Borega were British Columbia all-stars.

Coach Poulin was pleased with the play of the newest members of his team.

He said, "They've settled in very nicely. Each has stepped in the way we hoped. They definitely will increase our tal-et level."

One of their most notable contributions to the team will be overall speed.

"That's the first thing you notice about them," continued
Poulin. "They're fast."

Thus far the team has had a good camp. Junior captain Steve Noble said that the pre-season went very well.

"We're definitely ahead of where we were last year at this time," he remarked.

He also stated that the team had worked especially hard during the first few weeks and that their practices had been up-tempo.

The road to the top of the CHA, which is putatively the most competitive conference in country, will not begin until next week, when league play commences. But the Mustangs will be the first test for the young Irish squad.

Noble stated that he wanted to start the season off on the right note.

He also said that the game will give the freshman valuable experience.

"They'll get to see what it's like at this level," said Noble.

Coach Poulin expects a scrambly start.

"Our initial problem will be that we try to do too much, but that's to be expected. We want to focus on improving our special teams."

In the recent past the Notre Dame hockey program has experienced a decline. But Coach Poulin's enthusiasm and knowledge of the game, combined with a young, talented team, bodes well for the future.
Attention All Students:

This year Columbus Day falls on Saturday, Oct. 12th. For the first time in our 154 year history, Notre Dame will be honoring this holiday by CANCELLING ALL CLASSES on MONDAY, OCT. 14th. Consider this the administration's way of saying, "We appreciate you."
WOMEN'S SOCCER

California Girls

Petrucelli, girls 'not focusing' on elevation to No. 1 ranking

By KATHLEEN LOPEZ
Sports Writer

Finally the women's soccer team got what they deserved. The defending national champions received a unanimous number one ranking this week. They attained it by beating the top ranked North Carolina Tar Heels, last weekend, by a score of 2-1 in overtime.

"It is a big deal for us," said sophomore Shannon Boxx. "We should have been No. 1 before. I am glad that we got the respect we deserve. Although, we are not focusing on it, because we still have a lot to do."

"We have not discussed it," said head coach Chris Petrucelli about being the top ranked team in the nation. Instead of focusing on the rankings, the team is concentrating on this weekends games.

The Irish were previously ranked second behind the Tar Heels, despite the fact that they beat them in the semifinals en route to claiming the national championship. This year was the first time in the history that the defending national champions were not the top-ranked team in the following season.

Freshman phenom Jenny Streiffer, who scored three goals against UNC and Duke last weekend, will help the Irish maintain their No. 1 ranking.

HOCKEY

Irish icers set to begin season
Team more accustomed to ways of Poulin

By CHARLEY GATES
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team opens its season tonight at 7 p.m. at the Joyce Center, when they face off against the Western Ontario Mustangs.

Head Coach Dave Poulin begins his second year at the helm, and he seeks to return the program to its glory days of 1982, when he starred on an Irish team that played for the Central Collegiate Hockey Association (CCHA) title.

The Irish return 20 of 30 players from last year's squad, including six of the top seven scorers.

Expected to lead the offense are senior Tim Harberts (8 goals, 17 assists), sophomore Aniket Dhadhphale (13 goals, 7 assists), and sophomore Brian Urick (12 goals, 15 assists).

Defensively, sophomore Benoit Coteiro (6 goals, 13 assists), senior Ben Nelsen, and junior Justin Theel will form the core of the Irish defensive unit.

Junior Matt Eisler (4.36 GAA, 0.867 save percentage) will mind the net for the Irish.

The players, too, are more comfortable since they know what to expect from him. Poulin said, "It was much easier when we began practice this year. Twenty of the thirty players knew what I wanted and what I expected. That Junior Matt Eisler will tend goal for the Irish this season, as he looks to anchor a defense that should improve over last year.

see HOCKEY / page 30
October 12, 1:30 p.m.
Fighting Irish

Tailback Autry Denson leads the Irish with 338 yards on the ground.

It's time to dine with your Papa...

...Dine-In and Delivery now at both Locations!

"Papa John's and ND Football—the tradition continues..." Papa Predicts...

NOTRE DAME: 27
Washington: 22

Your Papa is now hiring:
• Delivery Drivers • Order Takers
• Pizza Makers

Hours:
Mon thru Thurs: 11 a.m. - 1 a.m.
Fri thru Sat: 11 a.m. - 3 a.m.
Sunday: 12 p.m. - 1 a.m.

Notre Dame: formerly Cactus Jacks
271-1177
Saint Mary's: North Village Mall
271-PAPA

"The Most Popular Number on Campus"

The Irish Extra • THE STATS
Friday, October 11, 1996

The Irish Extra
3 WAYS FANS GET THE LATEST
NOTRE DAME SPORTS NEWS.

In their mailbox...

- America's No. 1 Notre Dame sports publication
- More news & interviews
- The latest recruiting news
- More experienced reporters
- Award-winning photography
- More issues for less money

22 BIG ISSUES! only $35
per year

To subscribe, call 1-800-457-3533

On our award-winning interactive website...

http://www.irishsports.com/

On their phone...

ISR EXTRA!
1-900-820-IRISH

Up-to-the-minute Notre Dame sports news at your fingertips!

Call 1-900-820-IRISH.
Only $1 per minute*

*Callers must be at least 18 years of age or have parental consent to call ISR EXTRA!

LOOKING FOR SOMETHING ENTERTAINING?
The South Bend Tribune is your guide to area entertainment and events. With our newly designed INTERMISSION and SUNDAY PUNCH sections, along with Thursday's WKD!, the Tribune is your one-stop source for local happenings.

Subscribe now to the South Bend Tribune and get 7-Day Delivery (excluding campus breaks and holidays) for the special price of only $60 for the entire school year! With your paid subscription, we'll send you a poster of the last football game ever played in the original "House that Rockne Built."

South Bend Tribune

To subscribe, call 235-6464.
Long Distance, call 1-800-220-SERV.
Sunshine State set to serve as college football showcase

By TIM MCCONN
Sports Writer

#3 Florida St. at #6 Miami
This matchup of fiery and controversial Florida teams is this week's Game of the Year, and it should not disappoint. Each team can brag of a high-octane offense and a suffocating defense.

Coming off of an off-week, the Seminoles have had two weeks to get ready for this contest with their in-state rival. This should allow coach Bobby Bowden to pull out all the stops for this momentous contest. Having faced only one true test this season (a 13-0 win over 38th Carolina), Bowden must not allow his team to come out complacent. But hey, this is Miami, and for the 'Noles that's motivation enough.

Running back Warrick Dunn and quarterback Thad Busby lead an offense that can put the points on the board, and can contain Field. Kevin Faulk is fast becoming one of the most-talked about backs in the nation, and the rest of the offense is solid.

If Florida can continue to put points on the board, and can contain Faulk, this one could be over very quickly.

Wisconsin at #2 Ohio St.
Can you say rampage? If you cannot, you better learn, because that is exactly what the Ohio State Buckeyes are doing right now to the rest of college football. After disposing of them #5 Notre Dame 29-16 two weeks ago, and then humiliating then #4 Penn State last week 38-7, the Buckeyes look to do the same this week to unraveled Wisconsin.

The Buckeyes feature an offense that has All-American potential at every position. The offensive line is led by Heisman candidate Orlando Pace, the master of the pancake block. Tailback Pepe Pearson has been brutal to opposing defenses, with his combination of speed, strength, and quickness.

#4 Arizona St. at UCLA
An unexpected surprise this season has been the Arizona State defense. UCLA will be more of a challenge than Boise State, however. The Bruins proved to be a tough test for Tennessee earlier in the year, so ASU will have to be ready for this Pac-10 showdown. Wideout Kevin Plumber has been one of the nation's best, and he will need another strong performance this weekend.
Following in the Footsteps

By DAVE TREY

I t's like a cycle, constantly in motion. It started some years back, with players like Chris Zorich and Jeff Alm.

Not much later, Jack Grasmanis and Devon McDonald continued the tradition. The process carried through with Bryant Young and Jim Flanagan. Most recently, Oliver Gibson and Paul Grasmanis filled the role.

Now it is Ronaldo Wynn's turn. The Irish offensive line is one of the best in the country, and Wynn is a big reason why.

"I've always been a hard worker, and I've always tried to improve," Wynn said.

"When I was coming up, the older guys expected a lot of me, and sometimes it just seemed like they were being mean," he recalls. "But the truth is, they were getting me ready. They were preparing me to get to a higher level. They saw potential in me, and they made sure I worked hard to achieve it."

"And now, when I ask the younger guys to do the same, it's because I've been in their shoes. I don't have a problem making sure people are doing their job as best they can. I know what needs to be done. And I don't ask any more of them than I ask of myself."

"All he asks for is 120%. All the time."

"The guy's a beast out there; he plays every snap of the ball and never gets tired," evaluates Melvin Danesby, a fellow member of the cycle. "Even in practice, when things tend to get a little dry, he still maintains to stay sharp. He's always working on technique, always trying to improve."

"He's quick as a cat and strong as an ox. When he decided to come back, it made our front seven one of the best in the country."

"He's the aircraft carrier of the defense," Holtz praises. "They know one thing; when we go out there, there isn't anybody who's going to knock Ronaldo Wynn."

"His presence in the defense gives us great attitude, and tunnel vision on whatever is in his immediate future."

"I really thought hard about whether or not to stay," Wynn acknowledges. "But I really didn't think I had gotten as good as I felt I could have."

"I hadn't reached the edge where I felt I could move on." Holtz recognizes that there may have been other factors involved.

"I really think his wife had a lot to do with Wynn staying for a fifth year."

"He told everybody he was coming back. I think Alton Maiden was coming back, and he and Alton are pretty good friends. When I did talk to him, I told him (to do) whatever is in (Wynn's) best interest. He's a class young man, he's an excellent football player, and he's going to play football for a lot of years."

"He's one of my best friends a team leader," Maiden reports. "His presence in the defense gives us great chemistry. I'm very happy he's back."

"In truth, Wynn's fifth year at Notre Dame is an opportunity for him to put up some numbers that will impress NFL scouts. There obviously were factors besides improving statistics that kept the lineman in the lineup."

"His performance this year (with Wynn staying for a fifth year) has gotten him beat by way over a year. But what's important isn't the age, it's the experience and the成熟 experience."

"I've been around for a long time," he remembers. "But I've had a lot to learn. I think that this year with me and Alton (Maiden) and Melvin, we really have good leaders with experience."

"However, he did not feel that he had enough experience to head to the next level after last season. Many an Irish fan wondered what if Wynn would be after the 1995 season or that possible spot in the NFL seemed to be in his immediate future."

"I really thought hard about whether or not to stay," Wynn concedes. "But I really didn't think I had gotten as good as I felt I could have."

"I didn't reach the edge where I felt I could move on."

There are many factors that will help Wynn in his determination and natural abilities. The combination of strength (in the high 450 pound range), attitude, and tunnel vision on the field will make him an attrative pick.

"I try to do my job on the field at all times. I want to be reliable and fill the holes or whatever. But if it's my job to be aggressive and get through to the quarterback, I like the challenge of somebody trying to stop me."

"A lot of players know felt the same way when they were here. Those players have travelled on, following their predecessors to the NFL."
ISRH ON THE ONSIVE...

L

ou Holtz has made it very clear that the Irish defense has not meshed.

“We have a quarterback who can throw and read coverages. But we have problems beating man-to-man coverage, which is what we see,” Holtz said. “And we don’t run a lot of options which presents some problems.

And the problems continue. While the defense has borsnt, an infection in his knee,

The team is hopeful he can play on Saturday. Because of an injury to Jeremy Akers at left guard, sophomore Jerry Wene will be the starter.

Speedy receiver Baki Nelson has a hip pointer. His availability is questionable after missing several days of practice.

Tight end Pete Chryplewicz is just coming back from an ankle injury, so he isn’t running at full-speed.

All of the injuries and inconsistencies concern Holtz, which has led him to make some changes this week when the Irish have the ball.

Luke Petitgout and Tim Ridder will see more action on the offensive line. Petitgout, in particular, should get more playing time at left tackle and could replace Chris Clevergan as the starter.

Holtz was disappointed with the dropped passes by Irish receivers against Ohio State.

So he has decided to make some adjustments with the receiving corps. Enter Bobby Brown.

“Bobby Brown is a young man who hadn’t played much, but Bobby has really come alive the past two weeks and I expect him to play an awful lot this week,” Holtz said.

Jarious Jackson may also stake some snaps Saturday if the offense sputters with Powell.

“I have really entertained the thought of playing the entire second team for one series in the first half, just to see how people respond,” Holtz said.

The Irish offense this week must contend with a Husky defense led by its talented trio of linebackers. And one linebacker, in particular, is expected to pose the greatest threat to the Irish.

That man is 6-2, 225-pound senior Ink Aleaga, a candidate for the Butkus Award. A force competitor, Aleaga has been compared to Junior Seau of the San Diego Chargers.

DEFENSIVE LINE

The Huskies sport three Butkus award nominees.

Normally a strong advantage for the Irish, that will not be the case this weekend. The Huskies sport three Butkus award nominees.

Dave Janoski has 77 career tackles.

Benny Guilbeaux will return to his strong safety position.

UW has the confidence in their two redshirt freshmen cornerbacks to let them play man coverage. The Irish secondary is unsettled.

Special Teams

Senior John Wales has more experience than Sanborn. Washington averages 20 yards a punt return, and ND has had coverage problems.

The Irish secondary is unsettled.

Offensive Line

Normally a strong advantage for the Irish, that will not be the case this weekend. The Huskies sport three Butkus award nominees.

Linebackers

Normally a strong advantage for the Irish, that will not be the case this weekend. The Huskies sport three Butkus award nominees.

McDermott and others.

Colin, Wynn, and Maiden are due for a big game.

Running Backs

When Shehee hasn’t been running all over opponents, Dillon has. Denson will be harried by finger. Kinder, Edwards must help.

Receivers

Jerome Pathon has emerged with 19 receptions, and Dave Janoski has 77 career catches. The Irish would love one of them.

Quarterbacks

Shane Fortney and Brock Huard have split time at QB, and both have had success. Neither measures up to Ron Powlus provided he has time to throw.

The MATCH-UPS

A position by position look at who holds the advantage.

Quarterbacks

Shane Fortney and Brock Huard have split time at QB, and both have had success. Neither measures up to Ron Powlus provided he has time to throw.

Running Backs

When Shehee hasn’t been running all over opponents, Dillon has. Denson will be harried by finger. Kinder, Edwards must help.

Receivers

Jerome Pathon has emerged with 19 receptions, and Dave Janoski has 77 career catches. The Irish would love one of them.

Defensive Line

Normally a strong advantage for the Irish, that will not be the case this weekend. The Huskies sport three Butkus award nominees.

Linebackers

Normally a strong advantage for the Irish, that will not be the case this weekend. The Huskies sport three Butkus award nominees.

Secondary

UW has the confidence in their two redshirt freshmen cornerbacks to let them play man coverage. The Irish secondary is unsettled.

Special Teams

Senior John Wales has more experience than Sanborn. Washington averages 20 yards a punt return, and ND has had coverage problems.

Coaching

Lambright, in just his fourth season, is emerging as one of the best young coaches. But give Holtz two weeks to prepare and watch out.

Overall

Washington’s only loss of the year was by three points to No. 4 Arizona State. However, they will run into an angry Irish team, determined to put the 16-0 loss behind them.

Mike Day

The IrishExtra • THE MATCH-UPS
Downright 'offensive'

It was supposed to be "The Year." Not like last year, when an inexperienced Notre Dame football team never had a stake in the claim for national one. No, this season was supposed to be the one. The pieces were in place, and the Irish looked ready for a run at the national title. Now the pieces lay scattered across the football field. Now this is no longer "The Year."

Coming into this season, the major question marks surrounding the Irish were to be found in two areas: the secondary and the receivers.

Both areas were exposed and exploited by the Buckeyes, but the disease on this Irish team has extended further. It has infected the entire offense.

What the Irish didn't count on, what has spoiled what could have been a championship season, was this: An offense that has sputtered worse than an old Ford Pinto.

With a flat tire...

"The thing that is bothering me the most about our offense is we haven't been able to get into a rhythm," said Lou Holtz after the crippling loss to Ohio State. "We haven't been consistent, and maybe we tried to do too many things, I don't know."

While the Irish have tried to do many things so far this season, the problem is that not many of them have worked.

They've tried to pass the ball, which was mildly successful, until Ohio State challenged the Irish receivers to beat them man-to-man. They couldn't, and their passing game was disastrous.

They've tried to run the ball, which worked great at Texas, line against Purdue, and would've worked against Vanderbilt if Irish backs didn't fumble seven times. Against Ohio State, the Irish ground game never even got started.

They've tried to mix it up, and while the mix looked fluid against Purdue and did the job against Texas, it blew up in their faces against Ohio State.

In short, four games into the season, they don't even have an identity. They are the Bill Clinton of college football. If they can claim any sort of name, maybe "average" would be best.

The Irish offense is currently ranked 64th out of 111 Division 1 teams in scoring, sputtering its way to just 23 points per game. Their total offense is 56th, their passing offense 69th, and their rushing offense had been solid, and at times dominant. The defense has allowed just 15 points per game, with two of those games coming against the top-ranked scoring offense of Ohio State and the 15th ranked Texas unit. Simply put, they have done their job, despite the presence of more than a few inexperienced starters.

The more veteran-laden offense hasn't. Against the Buckeyes, their failure cost them the game, a game in which the overworked defense did their damndest to keep them in.

Perhaps Holtz said it best. "Falling into a rhythm is really, really important," said Holtz. "We haven't been into a rhythm at all this year on offense. And if you can't get into a rhythm on offense, you really don't have much of a chance."

Assistant Editors: Dylan Barmmer and Mike Day

Barmer and Mike Day

Graphic Design: Chris Mullins, Brian Meyer

Statistician: Jim Belden

Assistant Editors: Dylan Treacy and Joe Villinski

Production: Heather Cocks
The competition doesn’t get any easier for the Irish running game this weekend.

The Huskies are ranked 20th in the nation against the run, and feature some of the nastiest linebackers in the nation.

The starting front seven for the Huskies have amassed 19 sacks and 25 tackles for losses in just four games, with monster strong-side linebacker Jesse Binkley leading the charge with seven sacks and 9.5 tackles for losses. Inside linebackers Kris Armstrong and M. Feat-James, along with Binkley, were named to the preseason list of Butkus award candidates.

If the Irish are to tame Binkley and company, the banged-up offensive line will have to play to the best of their abilities, and the running backs must step to the forefront and around tacklers.

Irish running attack vs. Husky front seven

Backfield Marc Edwards is due for a big game.

---

Washington Schedule

- Sept. 7 at Arizona State L 42-45
- Sept. 14 BYU W 29-17
- Sept. 21 MICH W 49-3
- Oct. 1 STANFORD W 27-6
- Oct. 12 at Notre Dame
- Oct. 19 UCLA W 54-10
- Nov. 2 USC
- Nov. 9 Oregon State
- Nov. 23 at Washington St.

---

Notre Dame Schedule

- Sept. 5 at Vanderbilt W 14-7
- Sept. 14 PURDUE W 26-0
- Sept. 21 at Texas W 27-24
- Sept. 28 OHIO STATE L 39-36
- Oct. 12 WASHINGTON
- Oct. 19 AR ACES
- Nov. 2 at Boston College
- Nov. 16 Pittsburgh
- Nov. 22 Rutgers
- Nov. 30 at USC

---

Notre Dame

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No.</th>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Pos.</th>
<th>Ht.</th>
<th>Wt.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Tony Rice</td>
<td>FB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Kenyon Crowell</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-9</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Kevin McQuarrie</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Kyle Whjian</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>James Mackinnon</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Travis Adair</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-11</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Nick Nelson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Kirk Johnson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-9</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>Raki Nelson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>Todd Dvorak</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-11</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>Mark McKenna</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>Hunter</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>Autry Denson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Kevin McDonnell</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Mike Rosenthal</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>Sem Binkley</td>
<td>DE</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Mark Haggard</td>
<td>DE</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>Deon Brown</td>
<td>DE</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>Tim Ridder</td>
<td>DE</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No.</th>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Pos.</th>
<th>Ht.</th>
<th>Wt.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Tony Rice</td>
<td>FB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Kenyon Crowell</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-9</td>
<td>180</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Kevin McQuarrie</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Kyle Whjian</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>James Mackinnon</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>6-0</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Travis Adair</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-11</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Nick Nelson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>190</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Kirk Johnson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-9</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>Raki Nelson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>Todd Dvorak</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-11</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>Mark McKenna</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>Hunter</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>Autry Denson</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Kevin McDonnell</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Mike Rosenthal</td>
<td>DB</td>
<td>5-10</td>
<td>200</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

Washington Defense

- Strong Safety: 5-10
- Cornerbacks: 5-10
- Linebackers: 5-10

---

NOTRE DAME

- Fullback Marc Edwards is due for a big game.
- Tims Alegea (54) is a Butkus award nominee.