The Student Senate voted yesterday to accept a resolution deploring "[Assistant Vice President of Residence Life Bill] Kirk's" attempts to regulate the free speech of members of the University community such as the College Democrats of Notre Dame, a recognized student organization, based on its content and purpose.

The resolution cited the student demonstrations clause on page 69 of the University's Student Senate Manual. The Senate considers as evidence that the Office of Residence Life does not have the authority to refuse approval of a demonstration by a recognized student organization. It also called for the end to what the Senate sees as "the University administration's efforts to censor the free speech of any member of the University community."

"I am very pleased that the Student Senate recognizes the importance of students' rights," said Catherine Mullally, president of the College Democrats. "I hope that the support of the SPC and the Senate can prevent such abuses from happening again."

Due to the fact that the Office of Residence Life has not received a copy of the resolution, Bill Kirk has no comment.

The Senate passed the resolution on an 11 to six vote. They also passed a resolution by unanimous consent establishing a Faculty Senate Representative. The representative, according to the resolution, would foster a "continuing dialogue between the students and the faculty."

---

Americans flock to watch game

Irish welcome visitors, know little of football

By CAROLINE BLUM
Saint Mary's Editor

Imagine 55,000 foreigners arriving in South Bend for a soccer game at Notre Dame Stadium. Crowding into South Bend bars, restaurants, and tourist spots, they invade Grape Road by the hundreds. This was the scene in Dublin last weekend. For three days, Americans overtook the city—shopping, walking, and celebrating in honor of a sport Dubliners know little about.

"This is unbelievable," a Dublin taxi driver muttered, while transporting yet another American football fan.

Dubliners knew little about the sight of the pre-game pep rally. When the RDS neared maximum capacity, guards barred the front gates, refusing admittance to the remaining 200 fans outside.

"I want to talk to someone from the Notre Dame Alumni Association immediately," one angry fan demanded. "I've spent money for this package, and I deserve to be let in."

Verbal disputes developed into pushing matches between guards and patrons of the stadium later spreading to mass hysteria. Secure inside, representatives from each team spoke about the pride and privilege they felt by commemorating the first Notre Dame in Ireland.

A gallery of Irish shops inside the RDS sold Guinness, Crystal of Ireland. Traditional Irish fare. Favored names, Crystal of 1967 alumni Stan O'Grady said.

After the rally, Americans stormed the streets again, crowding into pubs around the RDS and Temple Bar area. On Saturday morning fans could be found walking along the famous O'Connell Street in Dublin.

Lost without the customary field of tailgating RVs, fans took to the Irish pubs, drinking Budweiser and sharing predictions of the game.

As game time drew near, fans paraded through the streets to the stadium, cheering and waving flags. Irish residents stood on their porches

---

Cengia diagnosed with stomach cancer

By TIM SHERMAN
Sports Editor

The good feeling surrounding the Notre Dame football program after The Shamrock Classic was dealt a severe blow yesterday when the team learned that junior placekicker Scott Cengia had been diagnosed with stomach cancer.

After being informed of Cengia's condition by special teams coach Kirk Doll, Irish head coach Lou Holtz called the team together and informed them of the situation after practice.

The Observer learned late last evening that the Melbourne, Fla., native will take a medical leave of absence from the University and return home to seek further examination and treatment.

Cengia, who came to Notre Dame as a walk-on, was awarded a scholarship by Holtz at the start of the 1996 season. He began the season as the team's top placekicker.

Cengia did not make the trip to Ireland.
Questions to think about

Today, we decide the future of America. We will select the individual who will represent us for the next four years, who we will depend on to represent our nation, who we will turn to in times of crises, who will take us into the 21st century. As you cast your ballot today, please think of your absence ballot, think to yourself: what qualities do you look for in a leader? What is it that you look for in someone with high moral standards? Someone who is willing to stand up for what he believes in? Someone whose actions do not stray from what they proclaim to believe in? Someone who people can count on to be an upstanding role model?

Why then, has character not been a pervasively discussed question in this year’s election? Would you choose someone as your business partner if you didn’t trust them? If you had a choice as a business partner, who would you choose Bill Clinton or Bob Dole? Who would you trust? Don’t we need to trust the individual we place in the position of Chief of State, Chief Diplomat, Commander-in-Chief and Chief Legislator?

No president in history has more allegations, investigations or legal actions racked up against him than that of Bill Clinton. Are we to just assume that these numerous and seemingly unrelated charges are mere coincidences or possibly a Republican conspiracy against him?

The issue is absolutely outrageous. The worst thing is that Clinton does not deny the allegations. Rather, he postpones answering these allegations. He makes one of his favorite comments: “I am busy.” To answer questions and gives weak excuses such as “presidential pardon.” So then, we must trust him.

Yes, as a nation, want an individual with such a reputation to continue to be the representative of our nation? How have we allowed this to happen? What has happened to America? Will you and I have the fortitude to stand up for what the American people believe in when they don’t have the treat of a looming re-election?

KIGALI, Rwanda

Zaire rebels declare unilateral cease-fire

With the international community threatening to intervene, Zairian Tutu rebels declared a cease-fire Monday in eastern Zaire and agreed to let aid agencies to try to get Hutu refugees home to Burundi and Rwanda.

Fighting between Tutsi-led rebels and Zairian troops has forced hundreds of thousands of refugees to flee their U.N. camps, venturing deeper into Zaire and farther from the reach of aid workers. Diplomats said groups met Monday in two African capitals to discuss what to do next.

The recent cross-border warfare began three weeks ago, choking off road and air routes for emergency food into the region and pushing aid workers last week to evacuate.

In a statement read on British Broadcasting Corp. radio, Tutsi spokesman Laurent Kabila said the cease-fire took effect Monday morning: “We declare a unilateral cease-fire starting immediately for three weeks.”

In Rwanda, news came that the capital of eastern Zaire, Goma, was quiet after four days of gun and mortar fire.

The 1.2 million refugees have destabilized the lake region along Zaire’s border with Burundi, Rwanda and Uganda, spreading political and ethnic fighting.

Report: King of Pop is pop-to-be

It’s a thriller, all right: Michael Jackson’s longtime friend is pregnant with his child. And contrary to a tabloid report, there were no sex tubes involved and she’s not getting paid. On top superstar status, Jackson claims, “I am thrilled that I will soon be a father and am looking forward, with great anticipation, to having this child,” Jackson said in a statement. “This is my dream come true.”

The mother of the baby, 27-year-old divorced nurse who has been a friend for 15 years, according to the statement released by Christine Holteas, Jackson’s spokeswoman. Holteas denied a Sunday report in the London tabloid News of the World that the baby was a product of artificial insemination and that she was being paid $528,000 to have it. “The reports speculating that Ms. Rowe was artificially inseminated, and that there is any economic relationship, are completely false and irresponsible,” said the statement. “Michael regrets that the news of Debbie’s pregnancy was accompanied by false and distorted reports and speculations and urges the media to respect his and Debbie’s privacy,” the statement read.

Former Nazi youth leader dead at 83

Berlin

Artur Axmann, the former leader of Hitler’s youth organization and who claimed to have witnessed the Nazi leader’s suicide, has died at age 83. Axmann died Oct. 24, Interior Ministry officials said Monday. The officials did not give further details, but Saxony Zeitung, a newspaper in eastern Germany, reported that Axmann’s body was flown for a medical examination Monday.

“Axmann was the person who did not want to draw the attention of neo-Nazis,” Axmann, who was born in Hagen in 1913, founded the first Nazi youth group in 1932. In 1928, Hitler made him youth leader for the country in charge of the Nazi youth movement and was responsible for publishing the first inner-Coreen-Verheimungting, saying, “Voices From The Bunker," a book by Pierre Galante and Eugene Silfen.

Soldier commits suicide in prison

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone

A soldier killed himself while being questioned about his alleged complicity in a coup plot, the army said Monday. The soldier’s father said he suspected his son was tortured. An army spokesman said Staff Sgt. Lamin Kamara jumped from the second floor while being interrogated Oct. 30. He had been arrested earlier that day. Kamara’s relatives doubted the official account. “If my son was not tortured, why then did it take four days for the body to be shown to me?” the father, Army Sgt. Maj. Ali Kamara, said. He police were working to find the death and whereabouts, in an effort to avoid an autopsy, took the body straight to a funeral home instead of to the government morgue.

“The family has demanded that a post-mortem be performed to determine the cause of death, and the military has agreed that a post-mortem will be performed tomorrow,” the father said Monday. Information minister George Banda Thomas said the death would be investi­ gated.

Burundi

A Tutsi rebel captain, whose actions to advance their own personal ambitions are evidence by the week’s opinion polls, was killed Sunday in eastern Zaire. As you cast your ballots today, you should ask yourself: what to do next.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

31-10-95

The Observer • INSIDE

Tuesday, November 5, 1996

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

31-10-95

The Observer • INSIDE

Tuesday, November 5, 1996

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
President Clinton appealed for a second term Monday by defending his record for a revived economy and promising that if given four more years, "we'll be better off all the way down the line." He said the very odds on election eve, Bob Dole countered that Clinton's "daydream is an ethical mess and declared: "America deserves better."

Control of Congress was at stake, too, as Americans prepared to cast ballots in the last presidential election of the 1990s. Clinton had the upper hand in the race against Dole and Reform Party candidate Ross Perot, while Republicans were favored to keep their House and Senate majorities.

"I'm not optimistic on a national basis at all on the presidential race," said Florida Republican Chairman Tom Slade. "It truly would be a political miracle if Dole can pull this one out." House Speaker Newt Gingrich, on the other hand, said he would not have to haul off with Bill Clinton if the Democrats come January. "I'm currently planning on what we'll do next year in the House," Gingrich said as he campaigned back home in Georgia.

Still, strategists in both parties said dozens of races were too close to predict on the final Monday of a campaign that was both a referendum on the incumbent Democratic president and the Republican Congress.

"There are going to be a lot of close races and that's just a fact," Chairman Haley Barbour said.

Given that, the candidates were up early. In Dole's case, did't bother sleeping at all. Clinton began in New Hampshire, once firm Republican territory but now part of the president's solid Northeast base. "We're one day away from victory," Elaine Krasker told him inside a Manchester restaurant.

"I don't believe, isn't it?" Clinton replied, at age 50 setting out confidently for the final day of what is likely to be his final political campaign. Later, in Cleveland, Clinton said the economy had created nearly 11 million jobs and the deficit had been cut to 60 percent since he took office. "We're better off than we were four years ago," Clinton said.

In addition, while the refinements from the White House hopes were familiar, election eve brought a sense of urgency to the delivery. It was much the same in hard-fought congressional contests.

Today's electoral college vote will determine the next president of the United States. This week's last-minute push brought candidates to states with higher numbers of electoral votes.

Dole, at 73, likely was taking for votes for the last time, too, win or lose. He is closing out a political career that included a dozen years in Congress, and a record 12 years as the Senate Republican leader.

"I need your votes," Dole told a crowd in New Mexico as he raced through four time zones and six states in a final push that was ending at midnight Tuesday back home in Russell, Kan.

"There's still time," he said.

Even many of Dole's most loyal campaign aides weren't sure of that. A dozen states were considered tossups in the presidential race. But even if he won all of them, Dole would need to, upset Clinton in California or in several Midwest states in win.

The race tightened somewhat in the final days as Dole raised questions about Clinton's role in questionable Democratic Party fund-raising from foreign interests. "We will not compromise ethics or violate the public trust," Dole said, keeping his remarks to a few minutes. "Clinton won't be going back home in Russell, Kan."

"I'm still here," he said as he campaigned back home in Russell.

"Better.""Dole told a crowd in New Mexico as he raced through four time zones and six states in a final push that was ending at midnight Tuesday back home in Russell, Kan.

"There's still time," he said.

Even many of Dole's most loyal campaign aides weren't sure of that. A dozen states were considered tossups in the presidential race. But even if he won all of them, Dole would need to, upset Clinton in California or in several Midwest states in win.

The race tightened somewhat in the final days as Dole raised questions about Clinton's role in questionable Democratic Party fund-raising from foreign interests. "We will not compromise ethics or violate the public trust," Dole said, keeping his remarks to a few minutes. "Clinton won't be going back home in Russell, Kan."

"I'm still here," he said as he campaigned back home in Russell.

"Better."
ND student named as contest finalist

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame student and Observer columnist R. Thomas Coyne has been named one of the ten finalists in the 1996 Thomas Thomas Star Writing Competition. To be eligible, contestants statewide, all of whom attend Indiana colleges, such submitted three feature articles or columns which were judged by a panel of working journalists.

Those chosen as finalists will participate in an on-site writing contest in Indianapolis Nov. 8-9. All competitors will be taken to a location somewhere in downtown Indianapolis of which they have no prior knowledge and given five hours to develop a Star newsroom, write the story and submit it on a disk to competition organizers.

Cash prizes totaling $3,000 will be awarded to the winner. First place will be presented to the winner judged the best overall, the best on-site story, and best showing by a student attending a Marion County College. All finalists will be recognized at a banquet the evening of Nov. 9 at The Indianapolis Press Club, where awards will be presented.

Ireland

continued from page 1

and watched in amazement while others joined the general cheer.

"I flew to Dublin all the way from Australia for this game," native DUBLINER John Murphy said. "I used to watch Notre Dame play on cable television. I love Notre Dame."

Football fans celebrating the Notre Dame victory returned to the pubs for post-game celebrations. Members of both the Notre Dame and Navy football teams made frequent appearances. "This entire bar is full of Americans," an Irish woman whispered loudly to the bartender.

"They must be here for that American football match." Store owners in the Grafton Street area witnessed the same experience Sunday, as they were visited by Americans buying a souvenir claddagh ring or Irish sweater.

"I didn't expect to be busy today," the attendant at the Woolen Mills Store told an observer.

"Usually on Sundays I am dozing off. So are you from Notre Dame or Navy?"

Have something to say? Use Observer classifieds!

Debate

continued from page 1

role as Chief Executive Officer, there was plenty of room for blaming the upcoming party for government gridlock.

Referring to Clinton's efforts towards universal health care as an example, Pluta said the Republican Congress impeded Clinton's "commitment to protect and expand the availability of health care," which she described as "a right, and not a privilege in the community." Dole's side retorted by stating that, "All of the achievements of the Clinton administration are a result of the Republican congress," charged Poinsatte.

"Clinton has a way of taking credit for their actions. He'll say anything to get votes."

Both sides maintained that the candidates they supported possessed the most meritorious characteristics for the office of President.

"The most important thing about Senator Dole is that, no matter if you agree or disagree with him, you can count on him and his word," said Zigmond.

As an incumbent, Clinton was not safeguarded from attacks on his past performance.

"If America's truly concerned about credibility, they should look at their Chief Executive," said Zigmond. "Most think if Clinton is elected tomorrow, he won't make it through the entire term."

However, Clinton supporters regard high economic indicators and legislation, such as the Welfare Reform Act during his term as indicators of his success.

"A lot of people say Clinton doesn't have firm convictions, but he's tried to make ideas into workable policies," Belanger said, in regards to Clinton forging with the Republican Congress.

While the focus of the debate was issue-oriented, panelists described arguments between candidates, particularly in light of the character and credibility issues, as a result of media coverage.

"We've reduced ourselves to soundbyte politics," Pluta said.

Please recycle The Observer.

Wednesday, November 6, -- 7:00 p.m. -- Carroll Auditorium

Saint Mary's

Semester Around the World Program

Open to all NDSMC students

Applying for travel and study in many countries of the Far East, Southeast Asia, South Asia, Eastern Europe, and Western Europe

Unlimited to answer questions

Any Questions, call Dr. C. Pullapilly, 284-4468

Taj Mahal

Everyone Welcome!

WOMEN'S SOCCER PEP RALLY!

Cheer on the Irish as they head for the Big East Tournament

Join Coach Petrucelli and members of the team this Wednesday in the LaFortune Ballroom from 7:30 - 8:30 p.m.

The Skalkoholics will perform

plus a women's soccer attire giveaway

Don't Miss It!

Brought to you by Student Government
Assistant to United Nations peacekeeping order, conduct
By DEREK BETCHER
Assistant News Editor

Significant advancements bringing order and commonality to United Nations peacekeeping have been made despite that field's ambiguous background, according to Harvey Langholtz, director of the United Nations Institute for Training and Research (UNITAR). Langholtz lectured Friday on the genesis of UN peacekeeping and on the evolution of training measures for international peacekeepers.

"How do you prepare 70,000 soldiers from 70 different nations for 20 different missions?" Langholtz asked, highlighting the challenge UNITAR faces.

He began by examining the background of UN peacekeeping, in hopes of illustrating the compound foundations which underlie current training programs. Langholtz noted that the UN's 1945 charter does not even explicitly mention peacekeeping.

To define their actions, nations could use only the charter's sixth chapter - which deals with the settlement of disputes through negotiation and arbitration - and its seventh chapter, which addresses the use of sanctions and blockade.

Langholtz also pointed out that until recently, an unoffical collection of ideas known as "Chapter Six and a Half" was the facto basis for UN nations to define their peacekeeping operations. "These guidelines are traditional and ad hoc more than anything," he admitted.

Butors-Boutros-Bghall's 1992 release of Agenda for Peace helped to define the spectrum, though. Langholtz said the report targeted two types of operations: military peacekeeping, where "preventative deployment" and "peace enforcement" would challenge aggression, and humanitarian peacekeeping, where natural disaster rather than aggression would be the cause of mobilization. This redefined stand was far less passive than its predecessor.

"We're going into chaos and we will enforce peace. We're not waiting for an invitation," Langholtz said. "Butors-Bghall's clarification of peacekeeping called for more consistent and advanced training. Despite the difficulties associated with writing a training manual in a field without "standard established doctrine," UNITAR has helped to fill that need, according to Langholtz.

The UN has established five correspondence courses, with topics ranging from basic peacekeeping principles to logistic support, which have been established. The former, for example, addresses the subtle differences between the monitoring and the enforcement of peace.

Highlighting the perniciousness of "Principles for the conduct of peacekeeping," Langholtz said, "enunciating.,, Langholtz explained that lessons which in one course contain can partially explain the lack of success the UN has met in the Balkan conflict.

"We tried peace keeping on the ground and peace enforcement in the air," he said, pointing the inconsistency UNI­ TAG's training now waxes or wanes against "It just plain didn't work.

More courses, such as one addressing humanitarian mine removal, are on the way. Langholtz added.

Friday's colloquium, titled "United Nations Training for Peacekeeping Operations," was sponsored by the Kroc Institute for International Peace Studies.

The Observer is now accepting applications for the following position:
Assistant Accent Editor
Copy Editor
Music Editor

Call while they last 219-232-4000

Malloy named to new health committee
President of Notre Dame Father Edward Malloy has been appointed to the new National Committee of Higher Education and the Health of Youth.

Funded by the Centers of Disease Control and Prevention, the committee consists of 20 leaders in higher education, health, and child and adolescent development. Its goals are to:

- Promote among leaders in higher education a broad understanding of health and its relationship to learning.
- Provide a national platform and support network for colleges and universities that are systematically engaged in improving the health of children and youth in the community and on campus.

- Disseminate information, effective models, innovative ideas and suggested standards for partnerships between institutions of higher education and communities to improve the health of young people.

The committee is a byproduct of an April 1995 conference at Harvard University titled "Higher Education and the Health of Youth: Challenging a National Course in a Changing Environment."

Conferences agreed that colleges and universities could be an ideal setting to train future experts in the need to the needs of children and youth, leading to the establishment of the national committee.

Malloy has been an active leader in other programs including his current chairmanship of the Commission on Substance Abuse at High Schools.

at SAINT MARY'S

SMC's SAB focuses on student needs

By ALLISON KOENIG

- Is the Saint Mary's Student Activities Board serving the College community to the best of its abilities? What are Saint Mary's students anticipate from student government branches, namely SAB? Do students even recognize SAB's purpose and function?

At the SAB meeting on Monday evening, the members of the board discussed these questions and have decided to form a questionnaire to determine Saint Mary's students targeting specific topic and others.

The survey will be part of the board's ongoing quest to determine the needs and wishes of the SMC community. SAB is the branch of student government whose main focus, as provided in their mission statement, is to "enhance the campus culture through social, recreational, multicultural, and educational programming."

The board sees student feedback in the form of campus-wide survey as an essential element in its continuing effort to fulfill its mission. At the meeting, the board examined their financial status and reflected on their efforts so far this year. Treasurer Melissa Sanchez presented each of the board members with a three-page report detailing SAB's spending. The Student Activities Board has an annual budget of $44,000. With a current balance of about $32,000, both coordinator Lori McKeeough and Sanchez were pleased with the overall spending pattern.

SAB plans to continue careful budgeting to so as to provide Saint Mary's with qualitative programs as well as quantitative programming. Some people just don't realize how much some lectures and celebrities) are to bring in," said Jen Ligda. She commented that she feels the board is doing the best that they can under the confines of the budget.

The survey might be followed up by further information for students and faculty, explaining both the goals and limits of SAB.

The Peck CPA Review Course invites you to a presentation on "Preparing For The CPA Exam" and current events.

Wednesday, November 6, 1996
7:00 P.M.
University of Notre Dame LaFortune Center
Montgomery Theatre
Pizza and Pop will be served
Special College Discount Available to Students
Open to ALL Students Interested - BRING A FRIEND!
For further information, Call 277-4366

at SAINT MARY'S

Rooms are available at The Inn at Saint Mary's
Friday & Saturday night for the Pittsburgh and Rutgers Games
Call while they last 219-232-4000

Page 5
Second U.S. pilot fires at Iraqi missile site

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON
The pilots of two U.S. F-16s who fired high-speed missiles at Iraqi radar sites in separate incidents over the past three days had every indication they were being targeted by Iraqi missiles, Defense Secretary William Perry said today.

"These incidents did occur. In both cases, the F-16 warning gear alerted that they were being tracked by a surface-to-air missile system," and ... they launched a HARM missile, a radiation-seeking missile, toward the source of that radiation," Perry said.

The Iraqi Foreign Ministry said the incidents were fabricated by the Clinton administration "to divert the attention of American voters from their domestic scandals by creating false problems abroad.... Since no evidence has been found that Iraq actually launched any missiles, Perry said an intense investigation is underway.

He said he did not know whether faulty equipment might be involved or whether the Iraqis were playing cat-and-mouse games with their radar systems.

The defense secretary insisted that allied overflights of the area will continue, even though Saddam Hussein's forces have been "quiet" in the past week. Perry said he did not have any reports about possible damage caused by the missiles. The latest incident occurred at 4 a.m. EST about 25 miles from where the earlier firing took place.

The Pentagon said the pilot in the second incident, assigned to the 4404th Wing participating in patrol of the southern Iraq "no-fly" zone, returned safely to his base.

White House spokesman Mike McCurry said President Clinton was briefed on the incident and analysts were trying to "determine why we've had a second incident." McCurry said the pilot did not have any reports about possible damage caused by the missiles.

The latest incident occurred at 4 a.m. EST about 25 miles from where the earlier firing took place.

The Pentagon said the pilot in the second incident, assigned to the 4404th Wing participating in patrol of the southern Iraq "no-fly" zone, returned safely to his base.

Turner to TV: Raise your standards

By DAVID BAUER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK
Media mogul Ted Turner urged a roomful of television executives to raise their standards on Monday, taking a shot at rival Rupert Murdoch's drive for profits.

"People are beginning to realize the total effect of watching so much stupid, sleazy, lousy, violent, exploitive television," Turner said.

Turner said he sold his Turner Broadcasting empire to Time Warner instead of other interested rivals like Murdoch's News Corp. or General Electric, because he wanted to make sure the Cable News Network landed in a company with strong credentials in journalism.

"I wouldn't have wanted Rupert Murdoch, for all his business acumen," he said. "He is exactly the kind of person I'm talking about who puts profits and power absolutely first, second and third. I would have hated to see CNN dragged through the same kind of stuff that the New York Post is." A Murdoch spokesman, Howard Rubenstein, responded by saying the mogul is proud of the Post, and declined further comment about Turner.

Turner, whose empire included CNN, Turner Network Television and the Atlanta Braves, went to the seat of broadcast industry power to deliver the lecture, named for CBS founder William Paley, at the Museum of Television & Radio in mid-town Manhattan.

Industry officials packed the room - Turner even chided Dan Rather for skipping in late - anxious to hear him renew his feud with Murdoch. The mogul's are fighting in court over Time Warner's refusal to allow Murdoch's Fox News Channel on its cable systems.

Turner Planning to Attend Graduate School?

•Identify •Secure
•Write

Planning to Attend Graduate School?

Learn the Nuts and Bolts of Applying to Graduate School

Wednesday, November 6, 1996
4:00 P.M. - 5:00 P.M.
Notre Dame Room - LaFortune

Panelists will be:
Dr. Peter Diffley, Associate Dean of the Graduate School and
Dr. Barbara Turpin, Director of Graduate Admission

Moderated by:
Olivia Williams, Assistant Director
Career and Placement Services

Election Party Tuesday, November 5, 1996
In the Huddle at 8 P.M.

GRUMPY OLD

Brought to you by the C.C. of '96, '98, and '99, and...
ed by millionaires and by their interna ti on al corporations. It was decided by tobacco, and it was decided by speech with the help of the politicians, and it was decided by the talk-show hosts. It was decided by half-truths, and half-people, and half-wits who believed what they wanted to believe. The CNN world wide web page devot ed to Campaign 96, called "AllPolitics," lists the following as "the basics of the presidential election: abortion, affirm a tive action, gun control, crime, education, the environment, foreign affairs, health care, immigration, taxes, welfare reform, and medicare." In 1984, in 1960, in 1912, even in 1876. It was decided by "electors," and it was decided by television. It was decided by television commercials, and we voted for two cookie-cut figures with "issues" and the Taxpayers Party. In 1960, the gunpowder treason and plot character, the lesser of two actors. In 1960, the gunpowder treason and plot, the Natural Law Party. In 1960, the gunpowder treason and plot character, the lesser of two actors. The greatest it has ever been in U.S. history; the state and federal government continue to insist they can fight crime by hiring more police and building more prisons; large producers of electricity are allowed to purchase permits to emit pollutants into the air; and our welders and woodcutters are being plundered by faceless corporations who own allegiance to the people. Implicit in the call for someone to lead America into the 21st century is the assumption that we need to be led. May it be that this election date will mark some sort of turning point in American history...
Electoral Expert and President
Robert Remini Offers Campaign

By DAN CICHLASKI
Assistant Accent Editor

In a word, the 1996 presidential campaign could be described as "boring." "The American President" had a more interesting, enjoyable race for what may be the most revered office position in the world.

In the movie, Richard Dreyfuss attacked Michael Douglas, the incumbent widower who had begun dating again. Dreyfuss continually criticized Douglas' character while the President refrained from immediately singling the movie at him.

In the 1996 campaign, Bob Dole sounded like a broken record in his failed attacks on Bill Clinton, who, in turn, repeatedly spewed out favorable statistics from his first term. It was almost a 4-rated, Disney campaign.

Sitting behind the desk in his corner office in Decio Faculty Hall, Robert Remini expressed his disappointment with the campaign. "It's one of the most uninteresting, feeble, and uninspired," he said. "And it might be that the candidates are not really that attractive to us. I've met both; I've talked with both; and I admire both very much, for different reasons.”

Remini is a visiting professor in the American Studies department. His two courses this fall consist of Presidency and American Life, covering the presidency from George Washington to Abraham Lincoln, and a seminar on writing presidential biography. His three-volume biography of Andrew Jackson, "The Life of Andrew Jackson," earned Remini praise from the New York Times as "the foremost Jacksonian scholar of our time."

As a historian (the title he gives himself first over any others), professor, and biographer, Remini has studied campaigns and administrations from the earliest days of the United States. His research and interpretations have also brought him recognition as a lecturer and Remini has spoken at the White House and around the world for the State Department.

When the polls finally close today, Remini believes the result will reflect what the numbers have said all along: President Clinton will be building that bridge to the 21st Century. "It may be quite a sweep for the Democrats. [Television reports] are saying now that even Dole himself is considering a week before the election.

In a word, the 1996 presidential campaign could be described as "boring." "The American President" had a more interesting, enjoyable race for what may be the most revered office position in the world.

In the movie, Richard Dreyfuss attacked Michael Douglas, the incumbent widower who had begun dating again. Dreyfuss continually criticized Douglas' character while the President refrained from immediately singling the movie at him.

In the 1996 campaign, Bob Dole sounded like a broken record in his failed attacks on Bill Clinton, who, in turn, repeatedly spewed out favorable statistics from his first term. It was almost a 4-rated, Disney campaign.

Sitting behind the desk in his corner office in Decio Faculty Hall, Robert Remini expressed his disappointment with the campaign. "It's one of the most uninteresting, feeble, and uninspired," he said. "And it might be that the candidates are not really that attractive to us. I've met both; I've talked with both; and I admire both very much, for different reasons.”

Remini is a visiting professor in the American Studies department. His two courses this fall consist of Presidency and American Life, covering the presidency from George Washington to Abraham Lincoln, and a seminar on writing presidential biography. His three-volume biography of Andrew Jackson, "The Life of Andrew Jackson," earned Remini praise from the New York Times as "the foremost Jacksonian scholar of our time."

As a historian (the title he gives himself first over any others), professor, and biographer, Remini has studied campaigns and administrations from the earliest days of the United States. His research and interpretations have also brought him recognition as a lecturer and Remini has spoken at the White House and around the world for the State Department.

When the polls finally close today, Remini believes the result will reflect what the numbers have said all along: President Clinton will be building that bridge to the 21st Century. "It may be quite a sweep for the Democrats. [Television reports] are saying now that even Dole himself is considering a week before the election.

In the first presidential debate, Dole criticized Clinton's trust. "I trust the American people," Dole said. "The President trusts the government." But this may be another attack that turned around to hurt Dole rather than help him in that race.

According to Remini, it is important for the people to trust their government. He referred to Ronald Reagan for a recent example of why this confidence is so important: "He told the people the government was the problem," Remini said. "And people have a great distrust of government now. You have to trust them in their job. If you don't trust them to..."
There was more to The Shamrock Classic than football. This coverage of Irish culture reflects a broader perspective of the country, its people and its ties to America.

By PATTI CARSON
Managing Editor

There is a rich history, one of blood and drama, splendor and majesty. They add a completely novel dimension to an already diverse Irish landscape. Cold and stately, yet inviting, they beg the curiosity of any passer-by. They are the castles of Ireland. And these castles can be found over the whole of Ireland, from north to south and east to west, in the most unexpected places. Castles are fortresses of necessity — they always have been. Castles always serve their purposes. The first castles to be erected in Ireland were those of the Anglo-Normans. Built primarily between 1169 and 1220, these castles consisted of palisaded earthworks with added stonework. But the period of the great stone castles of Ireland (1190-1330) and the numerous late medieval castles are those which still adorn the Irish landscape. The Normans are credited with the first stone castles in Ireland. These structures they built known as the ‘Motte and Bailey’ — a watchtower.

By TIM SHERMAN
Sports Editor

The religion of Ireland is clearly Roman Catholic. The Irish worship a three-person God — the Trinity. The religion of many Dublin tourists is clearly a different type of faith. They worship a four-person god — U2. Whereas Catholics make pilgrimages to the National Shrine at Knock, U2 worshippers make pilgrimages to Windmill Lane, the former site of the Dublin band’s recording studio.

By PATTI CARSON
Managing Editor

In Ireland, it’s considered the nectar of the gods. Guinness is huge there. Its advertisements occupy every other billboard in Dublin, or so it seems. Even the latest ad campaign for Guinness promotes its size: XXL, XL, L, M, S, or S/S on the Richter Scale. PUMPS UP SIZE MATTERS. That’s how they all read. And sales are big too. Every day, nearly ten million glasses of Guinness are had around the world. That number is so high because the Dublin-based company has sister breweries in five countries—Britain, Nigeria, Malaysia, Cameroon and Ghana. Guinness is also brewed under license in many other locations, so that no fewer than 120 countries and new markets are opened every year.

So the St. James’s Gate Brewery, Dublin, is one of Guinness worldwide. And the importance of Guinness in Ireland cannot be understated. Guinness, more than 200 million Irish pounds (360 million U.S. dollars) is spent annually on the wages and salaries bill for its 3000 employees all over the country. Along with the purchase of home grown raw materials and other requirements for operations in the Republic, according to Colin McKillop, a guide of the world famous brewery.

This frothy beverage has an infinite history, but part of that...
The interior of the Bunratty Castle has been restored to resemble period furniture. Most of the furniture has been imported, yet it offers a true glimpse into the past.

Glory continued from page 1

The sentiment toward Guinness in pubs and bars, however, is quite often one of the people gathered around the bartender. They'll tell you about Guinness. "I only drink Guinness," John Carey says. "I'm a Guinness man. And I'll tell you why: it's the best in the business. It's dry, it's crisp. It hits the spot." And then he'd recommend a wide range of the drinks that serve as his inspiration. But that's a bit too hard to capture in print.

The Observer • IRELAND EXTRA Tuesday, November 5, 1996

Historical Haven
By TIM SHERMAN
Editor

One of the more popular and fascinating tourist attractions in Ireland is the Book of Kells, an illuminated manuscript of the Gospels fashioned by Irish monks around 800 A.D. The book is so popularly perceived as a work of art that it is often referred to as a "religious masterpiece," and its beauty is such that its existence alone makes it worthy of traveling from virtually anywhere to see it. The Book of Kells is housed in the Chester Beatty Library in Dublin, but the idea of making such a journey may be too daunting for some travelers. A less visually impressive but equally fascinating example of Irish art can be found in the Guiness Brewery in Dublin. The Guiness Brewery is located in the heart of Dublin, near the River Liffey, and offers a tour of its facilities to the public. The tour begins with a visit to the Guiness Storehouse, which houses a collection of historical artifacts and memorabilia related to the brewery. The tour then moves on to the building itself, where visitors can see the various stages of the brewing process, from the malting of the barley to the bottling of the final product. The tour concludes with a visit to the Guiness Garden, which features a number of attractions, including a children's playground and a picnic area. The Guiness Brewery is open daily, and admission is free. For more information, visit the Guiness Brewery website at www.guinness.com.
Cosmopolitan

By PATTI CARSON
Managing Editor

Ireland is all about an abundance of resources within a very small area. Consider how diverse the country is in topography, language, tourist sites, history and customs. Now consider that Ireland is roughly the size of Indiana.

But you have not seen anything until you have stroll down one Grafton Street in Dublin. Talk about variety within a small area.

The street is lined on both sides by a multitude of shops and several eateries, but it is mostly a shopping mecca.

Thomas Graff, a frequent shopper of Grafton Street’s Weir Sons Clothiers, discussed prices on the infamous Grafton Street. "This street is a shopper’s paradise," he said. "Rather, you’d better make a rich shopper’s paradise."

Grafton, unlike most shopping meccas, is not cheap. Graff explained that Grafton draws those who have a little extra money in their pockets. "You can find many of the same stores on Henry Street, another shopping district, but there’s more variety within the stores on Grafton. And shoppers pay for that variety. They pay more for their merchandise because there is more merchandise to choose from," he said.

It is all there on Grafton Street: clothing, shoes, lingerie, housewares, hair stylists, opticians, jewelry and watches, books, music, food — nearly anything imaginable. The merchandise caters to a continental market. On a huge store window of Marks & Spencer is printed, "London, Paris, Madrid, Amsterdam, and Brussels."

There is a Rolcs flag flying high, and a few steps away is "Sortez." There are literally only about twenty pieces of clothing in the store. Here you will find sequins, leather, tiger print, and black all expensive.

At Golden Discs music store, a normally priced CD, like The Cranberries’ latest, is $15 pounds, translating to about twenty-five American dollars.

But you have not seen anything until you have stroll down one Grafton Street. There are numerous side streets running off Grafton which are home to a myriad of shops, rather similar to those on Grafton Street.

But it’s "Grafton" that draws the big spenders. With Dublin being the third most popular weekend vacation city in Ireland, according to recent statistics compiled by the Dublin Tourism Bureau, Grafton Street is never slow-paced. Even the eateries are working at maximum capacity. The McDonald’s and Burger King on Grafton are used to traffic moving through quickly, and they detect no slow-down.

"Ireland loves to shop (or simply window-shop on Grafton)," Mary McNulty said, carrying three bags in one hand and a bottle of sparkling mineral water in the other.

Ireland may love to shop on Grafton Street, but oddly, it’s not really her own. Roughly eighty percent of the stores on Grafton are English owned, according to John Reilly of Barrett’s, a men’s clothing store. "We are one of the few Irish-owned stores, but mostly the landlords are English," Reilly said.

Dublin is quite European, he added. This European influence is easily detected on Grafton Street, yet it still draws a plethora of serious Irish shoppers on a daily basis. The street also attracts Americans, Italians, and other different nationalities due to its location in the center of Dublin near many hotels that regularly host conventions.

Grafton’s shops cater to a increasingly diverse clientele. The street is such a microcosm of the growing diversity in greater Ireland.

U2
continued from page 1

Well, for one thing, Windmill Lane is one place where the walls actually do talk.

Not literally, of course, but the walls and fences of the lane are flooded with spray-painted graffiti devoted to the band and speak volume as to the status the group owns.

"U2, you have changed my life," thank you, wrote a fan named Joe.

"We need U2 like a fish needs water," said another.

"U2, the Best Rock and Roll Band Ever," a third extremely devoted fan said.

The current studio stands without any sign to stay anonymous to tourists, but the old studio continues to get plenty of visitors.

Not surprisingly, lead singer Bono is singled out the most by any individual member, particularly by foreign tourists. In fact, an inordinate number of the "U2," as some might call it, comes from Italian and German visitors.

Marla from Italy wrote on 11/19/92, "Marry me, Bono." Such adoration is common.

But the worship of the international stars doesn’t end at Windmill Lane. It extends throughout Dublin, especially in music circles.

While U2’s albums are available throughout the world, many Dublin stores, especially smaller shops, have found a niche in selling bootleg concert tapes of the group which their fans consider different. U2 music is unquenchable.

Again, foreigner interest is strong.

Dublin’s Grafton Street is the city’s most refined thoroughfare. English-based line department stores line the pedestrian street, giving it a true European feel.

The Clarence Hotel

The Clarence Hotel, one of U2’s business ventures in Dublin, was purchased a few years ago, and refurbished into an elegant establishment. Nearby is The Kitchen, a club owned by the group.

"I’d say at least half of the people who come looking for U2 tapes are from outside Ireland," said Peter Murray of Dublin’s Rhythm Records. "They’re mostly American and European tourists. As a matter of fact, we call the summer tourist season ‘U2 season’. We can’t keep enough in stock. It’s pretty crazy."

One might think the cottage industry of mass producing illegal concert recordings would bother the band. One would be wrong.

"Bono actually came into our shop a few years back," said Murray. "He had no objections to all the bootlegs."

Actually, in a way, allowing bootlegs to exist on the black market is a wise business decision. "Even their manager (the famously strict Paul McGuinness) doesn’t mind," Murray added.

"The group feels that the live tapes only generate more interest. If you’re a fan, you’re going to already own the albums and they had no problem getting people to their concerts."

Nor do they have much trouble retaining a bit of their own dignity among Dubliners.

"In Dublin, they can walk down the street without getting molested," Murray said. "Well, tourists might but the Irish may just say ‘Hi, Bono’ or whoever and let them be."

"They actually go to clubs sometimes," said Murray. "They can sometimes be seen at The Kitchen."

The Kitchen is the Dublin club which is owned by the band. In many respects, it is much like any other club — expensive and expensive.

But there is one difference — its owners are among the world’s biggest rock stars.

It is not the only Dublin business venture of the group. They also own the elegant Clarence Hotel.

U2 purchased the establishment a few years back and invested in a new furnishings project. It is now one of the city’s best.

It is just another example of the band bringing in substantial tourist dollars to Dublin.

But more importantly, though they’re more popular overseas, they’re a source of pride.

"Of course we’re proud, they’re Irish," Bider said.
SIZE MATTERS

IRELAND

THE FOOLS

DEAD AND WHILE IRELAND
THIS GRAVES IRELAND UNFREE
SHALL NEVER BE AT PEACE

RUC
Although a presidential expert, Remini refuses to reveal his own political affiliation, opting instead to "try to seem neutral."

The primary area where Jackson and Clinton do seem to differ, Remini believes, is in the way they handled their personal lives. Clinton, Remini says, was "a very strong leader and I think Clinton hesitates too much."

A glaring similarity, Remini stressed, could be found in the appointments made by the eighteenth and forty-second presidents. "Most of them were disasters," he explained. "There weren't some really good people there to advise him. The appointments were very checked. There have been some successes, but not great successes."

Where Remini really gives credit to President Clinton is his handling of foreign affairs. "He's done very well. We have not engaged very many troops, no body bags coming back in great numbers. And Clinton has managed to uphold the authority of the United States," he said.

Overall, Remini gave the Clinton Administration an average rating and credited the president with "a lot of political skill." The second term, if today's results produce one, will depend a lot on Congress and who controls it.

The most important aspect of a president is how he runs the country. "This is the reason Dole's character attacks on Clinton have backfired," Remini said. "Dole, too, has little tolerance for some of the scandals."

One way or another, Robert Remini will be smiling tonight when the results come in. He will be living the good life as the subject of his Jackson biography. "If I can't care less about the woman thing. That's almost a constant with American history," he said with a laugh. "I just think they held off telling the public about the woman thing. That's almost a constant with American history.

Jason Huggins is a junior science major from Thousand Oaks, CA. Over fall break, he learned how to cook sausage and noodles thanks to the Medial Minute article. E-mail him at Jason.R.Huggins,99@edu.

If you're really broke and need a meal, you can learn how to do it yourself. Check out The Virtual Bar (www.TheVirtualBar.com) for a huge drink database of more than 700 drinks. You can even enter the ingredients from your home bar and have the computer generate a list of only the drinks you can make. The Virtual Bar also has drinking tips, glossaries, and other useful information.

Cooking for yourself or for loved ones is now even easier with the help of the Internet.

Sweating it Out: The Benefits of Exercise

By LARRY WARD

It is not at all uncommon to see students jogging around campus or around the lakes. Moreover, most students who live on campus enjoy a vigorous workout at the Rock. Furthermore, many ladies at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's enjoy an aerobics class several times a week. Some of male Donners enjoy an extensive weight training routines a couple of times each week.

What these students realize is that a regular exercise routine has numerous benefits on the human body.

- Our forefathers and foremothers lived and worked on farms. Their daily lives involved countless tasks which required physical labor. Often, those daily routines were vital for our ancestors to stay healthy and alive.

- However, in contemporary American society, we are very spoiled. We do not have to till our own fields or Westerns. Rather, we are able to walk slowly through the dining hall until we finally find something that appears edible. On the whole, our society does not require us to do much, if any, physical labor to function.

- The physical inactivity presented by our society can result in a steady decline in the capacity to do work. This is not worrying from a physically active existence makes activities that require physical strength and stamina to do more difficult, especially if not engaging in physical activity the chance of injury increases, the risk of heart disease rises, and the risk of developing other ailments increases.

- Thus, in recent years, there has been a general promotion and a corresponding increased trend of working out. A primary reason is that so many people are working out is the way that working out makes you feel and the long term benefits of exercise.

- As a result of exercise, it is very common for the heart to become stronger and subsequently more efficient. It also increases the quality and quantity of oxygen in the blood.

- Exercise increases one's ability to perform physical and even mental activities, reduces fatigue, and decreases tension and anxiety. Exercise also causes one's joints to feel more flexible and to function better. In addition, the main reason many work out exercise helps to aid in shedding weight, especially if accompanied with a healthier diet and less food intake.

- Other changes and effects of exercise, though, cannot be seen or noticed as easily. It is a matter of general health that overall, regular exercise helps to keep the body healthy.

- As a result of exercise, it is very common for the heart to become stronger and subsequently more efficient. It also increases the quality and quantity of oxygen in the blood.

- Exercise increases one's ability to perform physical and even mental activities, reduces fatigue, and decreases tension and anxiety. Exercise also causes one's joints to feel more flexible and to function better. In addition, the main reason many work out exercise helps to aid in shedding weight, especially if accompanied with a healthier diet and less food intake.

- Other changes and effects of exercise, though, cannot be seen or noticed as easily. It is a matter of general health that overall, regular exercise helps to keep the body healthy.
Elway rallies Broncos one more time

BY ROB GLOSTER
Associated Press Wire

OAKLAND, Calif. — The king of comebacks did it again.

John Elway led the 33rd fourth-quarter game-winning drive of his career Monday night, throwing a 49-yard touchdown pass to Rod Smith with 4:14 remaining to rally the Denver Broncos to a 32-27 victory over the Oakland Raiders.

Elway, who had just 108 yards passing in the first half of the game’s five minutes, finished with 333 and two touchdowns. He also ran for a career-high 71 yards, breaking his own 1991 record set last week.

Elway also had a 10-yard scoring pass to Shannon Sharpe in the first quarter. Jason Elam had kicked goals of 36, 43 and 28 yards for the Broncos, who shut down the Raiders, the only team in the NFL to beat Denver this season.

Jeff Hostetler threw a pair of touchdown passes in the fourth quarter to give the Raiders a 24-20 lead, but the Broncos responded with a 16-yard field goal.

Lynch intercepted Elway on the game’s second play, returning the ball to the Denver 27. Four plays later, Hostetler ran 5 yards through a gaping hole for the tying touchdown.

The Broncos responded with a 90-yard drive kept alive by an 18-yard scramble by Elway on third down. Six plays later, Elway scrambled to avoid two tacklers and passed to tight end David Kramer for a score.

Colin Ford appeared to kick a 22-yard field goal on Oakland’s next possession, but a penalty on the Broncos nullified the play. An illegal procedure call nullified the kick, and Ford then missed from 30 yards.

That blown scoring chance seemed to deflate the Raiders, who got another first down in the half.

Elam, meanwhile, kicked field goals of 36 and 43 yards — the last three seconds before halftime — to give Denver a 13-7 lead.

The opening minutes of the game were not as smooth for Elway.

Lynch intercepted Elway on the game’s second play, returning the ball to the Denver 27. Four plays later, Hostetler ran 5 yards through a gaping hole for the tying touchdown.

The Broncos responded with a 90-yard drive kept alive by an 18-yard scramble by Elway on third down. Six plays later, Elway scrambled to avoid two tacklers and passed to tight end David Kramer for a score.

Colin Ford appeared to kick a 22-yard field goal on Oakland’s next possession, but a penalty on the Broncos nullified the play. An illegal procedure call nullified the kick, and Ford then missed from 30 yards.

That blown scoring chance seemed to deflate the Raiders, who got another first down in the half.

Elam, meanwhile, kicked field goals of 36 and 43 yards — the last three seconds before halftime — to give Denver a 13-7 lead.

The opening minutes of the game were not as smooth for Elway.
Runners capture fourth place at conference meet

By WILLY BAUER
Sports Writer

In the closest Big East men's meet in history, Notre Dame cross country squad finished in fourth place, trailing the winning team by only five points. The meet took place in Boston, Mass. on November 1.

"It was ridiculous to be that close," said cross-country coach Joe Piane, whose team slipped a little from last year's third place finish. "But we had the potential to be the best team in the country this year. In the meet, along with the nationally ranked teams to run in the meet, along with the ninth ranked Providence Friars and the No. 13 Georgetown Hoyas. The three teams entered the meet to challenge for the title and did not disappoint. Pioneered nosed out the pack with 76 points to continue its dominance of Big East cross-country. This was the Hoyas second straight Big East championship and the 11th in the school's history. The Hoyas finished in second place, with 79 points. Hoya Brian Klaas won the race with a time of 23:49. A surprising third-place team, St. John's, entered the meet unranked and edged out the Irish for the "bronze" position. The Red Storm had two top-five finishers, and used these low scores to cruise for the rest of the meet.

"I have never seen a meet that close," said Piane. "To have four teams within five points is amazing. Unfortunately, we were got the short end of the stick." Jason Rexing ran one of the best races of his career, finishing in second place only eight-hundredths of a second off the pace. Derek Seiling was the second Irish runner to cross the finish line, he finished with a time of 24:06. The time was good enough for eighth place, which was three notches shy of his fifth place finish from a year ago. Matt Althoff finished in 11th position with a time of 24:13. Because all three finished in the top 15, they each received all-Big East accolades for their performances.

Tom Englehardt ran one of his best races of the season, and was the fourth Notre Dame runner to cross the finish line. He finished in 30th place. Joe Dunlap rounded out the Irish qualifiers at 32nd.

"Rexing, Seiling, Althoff, and Englehardt, and Shawn McManus ran great," said Piane. The Irish now prepare to qualify for the NCAA's at the District IV meet in Illinois on November 16. The Irish finished second last year and hope to finish strongly again this year. Sophomore Brian 10 and Mid-American conference, Iowa and Notre Dame will make up competition. Four nationally ranked teams in Michigan, Wisconsin (win last year's meet), Michigan State and Notre Dame should compete for the title.

"I think it the Big East championship was ridiculous to be that close for those who didn't run as well as they are capable of running," said Piane. "But they have to do well at the District IV meet. If they don't do well, we won't send a team to the NCAA meet.

---

GW SEMESTER IN WASHINGTON
Graduate School of Political Management
The George Washington University

Spring 1997
An Intensive Program in Political Management for Qualified Undergraduates

• Learn from Washington, D.C.'s political professionals
• Produce TV & Radio ads, construct opinion polls, stage media events, conduct field research, and more
• Make connections to launch your career
• Attend "inside" special events

STILL ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS FOR JANUARY ADMISSION

For more information, and to receive an application, contact: (800) 367-4776, (202) 994-6000, or http://www.gwu.edu/~gspm.

Look for our brochure at your school's Career Center or Political Science Department.

GW is an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution.

Creative Control.

Intelligence. Conscientious. Ambition. This powerful combination needs only one thing more. A venue in which to excel. CIGNA, for example.

We're 44,000 people strong. We've 96 billion dollars big. We're five continents across. We're health care. We're insurance. We're investment management. And we're covering new ground in a world of financial services designed to do good things for good people.

If you're looking for a place where you can exercise care and creativity—as well as control over your career, come with us. And accept the challenge of leadership.

We would like to invite you to an information session hosted by Ed Hanaway, President of CIGNA HealthCare.

Date: November 7, 1996
Time: 6:00 - 8:00 p.m.
Location: University Club, Main Lounge
Open to all students.

CIGNA
A Business of Caring.

Internet Address: http://www.cigna.com

---

MEN'S TENNIS
Freshman sparkles in collegiate debut

Observer Staff Report

Notre Dame advanced two men's singles tennis players to the semifinals of the ITA Rolex region IV Championships in East Lansing, Mich. Sunday. Junior Jakub Pietrowski and freshman Ryan Sachire won quarterfinal matches to set up the all-Irish semifinal between the two teammates who met Monday for a spot in the finals.

The second-seeded Pietrowski won a 6-4, 7-6 (8-6) match over No. 6 seed Alex Witt of Northwestern. Pietrowski had won three straight-set matches to advance to Sunday's quarterfinal.

Sachire had a much easier route to the semifinals with his three straight-set matches on Friday and Saturday. On Sunday though, eighth-seeded Jerry Turek of Illinois routed the freshman 6-0 in the first set before Sachire rallied for a 6-3, 6-4 win in the last two sets. Sachire extended his impressive debut, as he advanced to begin IV Round matches with a 7-6, 6-4 win over Pietrowski. His run at the title was cut short by Purdue's Jamie Gordon, who took the match 7-6, 3-6, 6-1.

In doubles action, Notre Dame's No. 3 seeded duo of Pietrowski and Brian Patterson dropped their semifinal match to the top-seeded team of Derek Myers and Chris James of Purdue. The pair lost a 9-7 (7-5) match as James and Myers advanced to the finals to face Turek and Brady Blain. Turek and Blain had earlier ousted a squad from Notre Dame in the third round 8-6.

Notre Dame returns to action at the Ice Volley in Minneapolis, November 8-10.

---

SPORTS BRIEFS
Drop-In Volleyball Recreational will be offering Drop-In Volleyball on Thurs. Nov. 7 and Tues., Nov. 12, Dec. 5, and Dec. 19, from 7-10 p.m. in the Joyner Center. No established teams or advanced sign-ups necessary. For more information call IC-6100.

---

Late Night Olympic Steering Committee - Anyone interested in serving on the Late Night Olympic Steering Committee should call Kari at 8:327.

OFF-Campus Basketball - If interested in off-campus basketball contact Jeff Miller at 622-6433.

OFF-Campus Volleyball - Anyone interested in playing off-campus interhall volleyball please call Greg at 273-8653.

Basketball ticket sales will be extended until Monday on first come, first serve basis. They will also be sold at Moonlight Madness Saturday night.

Ski Team - A important meeting will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 regarding the ski trip to Colorado. It will be in room 140 Dohalligan. If you are going to be there, bring a copy of your insurance card and final payment, and the registration forms, call JP at 634-2414.

---

BREAKING NEWS
593 Madison: 419
Cancun: 419

FREE Partners
FREE Meals
FREE Activities
Student Express, Inc.
1-800-SURFS.UP
Accused Eagles deny charges

By JIMMY GOLEN
Associated Press Writer

NORTH, Mass.

Lawyers for four Boston College football players at the center of gambling allegations said Monday their clients never bet on their own games.

"We're confident when everything is said and done that they'll be exonerated of anything that smacks of illicit bet­ting on the BC football team," attorney John McBride said in a telephone interview.

"They play football for BC. They study for BC, where they are sophomores. All they want to do is clear their names, their families' names and the school's name."

McBride's partner, Bill Keefe, said athletic director Kevin Gladchuk told him that none of the players would be suspended and they would be allowed to play Saturday against No. 17 Notre Dame.

Gladchuk, who could not be reached for comment Monday, had stressed earlier that there was no evidence of any gaming.

Defence

continued from page 20

"We tried to take their quar­terback out of the game. We did not want their quarterback beating us running the football," Davie said.

"The result of these changes was quite a tangible one. Unlike the Air Force game, in which the Irish defense produced only two turnovers, Navy coughed up the ball twice. Weirn returned a fumble for a touchdown and Kory Minor picked off a pass. For a total of three turnovers caused by the Irish defense. Navy coach Charlie Weatherbie acknowl­edged the significant effect of the big-play Irish defense. In particular, he noted that Weirn's touchdown was a turning point in the game."

"That was a big play," com­mented Weatherbie. "You can't afford to give up what we did in terms of big plays.

With this conquest under their belt, the Irish defense must now turn its eyes to Boston College. The wish­bone/option attacks employed by the Falcons and Midshipmen may have been complex and at times confusing, but do not think that the Eagles are going to be a walk in the park.

Although they do not use the option as a primary weapon, they do utilize a multi-forma­tion attack, including a three

Playoffs

continued from page 20

Alumni's offense just could not produce after the opening scor­ ing drive. The Fisher line, questionable at times during the regular season, looked ab­solutely infallible after the early mishaps. While the offense was struggling, the defense stepped up their game to prevent Fisher from taking a halftime lead. The secondary in particular came up huge for Alumni, intercepting a Fisher pass deep in Alumni territory.

Things just fell apart for Alumni as the second half went on. The defensive line, the stalwart of the Alumni team, allowed some of the biggest rushes of the year, mostly to Fisher quarterback Alfredo Griffin. This would prove to be costly, as it was Griffin who scored the go-ahead touchdown to put Fisher up 14-7, after three quarters.

The final result of 14-7 keeps the defending champions alive.

(6) Flanner 6, (3) Zahn 0

Flanner did the unexpected to defeat heavily favored Zahn.

Madrigal Dinners

Please join us in Regina Hall, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December sixth, seventh and eighth at dinner, plus a matinee on Sunday at two.

Advance reservations required, $24.75 per person. Tickets on sale at the Saint Mary's box office, located in O'Laughlin Auditorium, 9-5 Monday-Friday.

The Saint Mary's College Department of Music cordially invites you to the twenty-first annual

Summer Service Projects

Information meeting: November 7 (Thurs.) 6:30 - 7:00 PM at the Center for Social Concerns find out how you can spend eight weeks in a social service agency and earn a $1700.00 tuition scholarship and 3 credits

"THE DOMER"

Now, you can own your very own piece of Notre Dame Stadium. This exclusively manufactured piece for students features an authentic piece of brick from the Stadium and a plate citing its origin mounted on a solid walnut base. A certificate of authenticity is affixed to the bottom.

Pick up your "Domer" at:
LaFortune Center Information Desk 9 a.m. - 8 p.m. Mon. - Fri. 12 noon - 8 p.m. Sat. & Sun. Please be sure to bring your I.D. card! (Limit one piece/person)

OwN PiECE OF NOTRE DAME STADIUM $19.95

THE DOMER"

The "Domers" used the run effec­tively against one of the best run defenses in the league, and scored a touchdown on a scor­ing defense that allowed an av­erage of less than one point per game in the regular season. Flanner dominated the game early on both sides of the ball. Zahn opened the game up on the offensive side and found themselves up against a im­penetrable Flanner line.

After trading a few series with each other, Flanner's offense took over the game. The run­ning corps, led by Drew Hester, ran through a Fisher defense that usually allows no one through. The one and only scoring drive of the day was capped off by a Mike Daigler touchdown pass to put Flanner up 6-0. This was the final result, as Flanner's de­fense allowed only one serious threat for the entire game.

So the stage is set for what should prove to be the game of the year, a rematch of last year's championship: Flanner vs. Fisher.

Other Scores:

Sorin 7, Keough 0 Off-Campus 14, Keenan 0

SUMMER SERVICE PROJECTS
My name is Colleen Henshaw, and I'm NIKE's Notre Dame student rep. It's my job to make cool things happen on campus, including this SportsPage. Just so if you want to see something that's not here, let me know. Use my e-mail address: colleen.henshaw@nike.com.

Where did your NIKE shoes take you over fall break? Across the Appalachian Trail? To the top of Mount Everest? If you'd like to find out more about how your outdoor interests and adventures could link you to great NIKE stuff, send me an e-mail with your name and campus address and wait for details to follow.

SOMEONE I know is planning a tailgater on the soccer fields right across Douglas Road before the Pitt game on November 16. She can pretty much guarantee that the trip out there will be worth your while.

Tiger's Time

When 20-year-old Tiger Woods turned pro in late August, he had in mind a modest goal: to earn enough money in the remaining two months of the season to automatically qualify for the PGA tour again next spring. Anything beyond that would be gravy. Well, pass the gravy.

The first weekend in October, Woods won the Las Vegas Invitational. The win cinched an automatic spot on the tour for the next year and a check for $250,000. Two weeks later, Woods won the Walt Disney World/Oldsmobile Classic and $216,000.

Woods has a chance to load up on even more gravy Thanksgiving weekend, and not just at the dinner table. The Skins Game is an annual made-for-television (ABC, specifically) event pitting four marquee golfers against each other in an unorthodox format that rewards clutch play. Tiger'll be the one pumping his fist.

Flag football players: Think you're ready to take your game to the national level? The NIKE College Flag Football Regional tournament will be held November 29 through December 1 at Ohio State University. Winners receive an expenses-paid trip to the National Championship in New Orleans the week of the Nokia Sugar Bowl in late December. Contact Beau Rugg at (614) 292-7671 for more information. The 1996 NIKE College Flag Football Regional Championships are brought to you by Butterfinger.

In creating this SportsPage, NIKE has made every effort to accurately present the time and location for upcoming athletic events on campus. We regret any schedule changes or mistakes. If your club or intramural sport wasn't covered, let your NIKE student rep know and we'll try again next month.

Despite this setback, Christy resumed her basketball career at Notre Dame. She plays interhall, Bookstore, and RecSports hoops. She also plays softball and volleyball and is co-captain of flag football powerhouse Pasquerilla East. "I had to play athletics," she says. "There was never any doubt in my mind. I could never give it up."

Sounds like love to me.

CAMPUS CORRESPONDENT: TIMOTHY S. MCCONN, JUNIOR

NIKE has made every effort to accurately present Sounds like love to me.

The GOAL OF THIS SPORTSPAGE IS TO INFORM STUDENTS ABOUT SPORTS ON CAMPUS. This does not supersede any campus Daniel, unless the Student Activities Office makes a decision on this campus. This page does not in any way imply school sponsorship.

The ideal of this SPORTSPAGE is to inform students about sports on campus. This does not supersede any campus Daniel, unless the Student Activities Office makes a decision on this campus. This page does not in any way imply school sponsorship.
Belles dominate, defend home court

By ANGELA OLESEN
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

"A big team effort." These were the words used by Saint Mary's College head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek to describe how the Belles managed to win both of their matches Saturday in their home quadrangle. The Belles were on a roll this weekend as they defeated Franklin College 15-11, 16-14, 15-17, 15-5 and DePauw University 15-7, 15-8, 15-2.

"They got their competitive drive back," said Schroeder-Biek.

The Belles squared off against Franklin in their first match of the day. Their aggressive play and solid coverage were enough to hold off the Grizzlies for the first two sets, but in the third Franklin stepped up their level of play and caused problems for the Belles. In a see-saw battle, the Belles fought for control of the set.

"It was side in and side out," said freshman defense specialist Katie Schroeder-Biek. "That's a hard mental transition, but she did a good job."

Looking ahead to their next match and final match, the Belles will be practicing hard this week and playing scrimmages. "Our big goal is to get that 20th win," said Schroeder-Biek. With a 19-13 record, the Belles are clear about what they need to do next.

"We were mad that we lost that game," said Junior Kelly Meyer. "We decided that we were going to win the match then and there." The Belles came out strong once again in the fourth set and dominated from the beginning, winning it 15-5.

In their second match of the day, the Belles faced off against DePauw.

"We thought they were going to be so good," said Meyer. "We came out ready to play at their level." The Belles played consistently throughout and were able to close out the match in three straight sets.

Junior outside attacker Meg Kelly had a solid day for the Belles both offensively and defensively.

"Not too many balls went past her," commented Schroeder-Biek.

The Belles also found solid play in freshman outside hitter Mary Rodowich.

"She played both on the left and right side," said Schroeder-Biek. "That's a hard mental transition, but she did a good job.

Please Recycle the Observer

Irish edged out by Cardinals

By JOHN COPPOLELLA
Sports Writer

On Saturday, in a meet that was decided in the last race of the day, the Notre Dame men's swimming and diving team fell just six points short of victory at Ball State University. In an exciting meet, the Irish and the Cardinals exchanged leads five times before Ball State pulled away in the last race.

"We broke everything up this season from week to week," stated Irish head coach Tim Welsh. "We lost to Ball State by 30 points last year and this year it came down to the final race.

Notre Dame, which falls to 1-1 after a win at Western Ontario last week, battled throughout the whole meet. Drown 13-4 after the first event, Irish swimmers Scott Zumbach, John Lubker, and Sean Casey took the top three spots in the 1000-yard freestyle, propelling Notre Dame to a 20-16 lead.

This lead was short-lived as the Irish fell behind and trailed Ball State 56-37 after five events. However, the Irish rallied and, by virtue of Zumbach, By Beville, and Richardson sweeping the first three places in the 200-yard butterfly, gained a slim 65-66 advantage. This advantage was soon dis­placed and, after ten events, Notre Dame was down 106-82 with only three events remaining.

Still, the Irish refused to quit. Another Irish sweep in the 100-yard freestyle by Wes Richardson, Lubker, and Robert Fetter combined with senior captain Matt Rose, John Beckwith, and Tony Fonseca placing first, third, and fourth, respectively in the 200-yard breaststroke, cut the deficit to 114-112 with one race remaining. Notre Dame came out strong in this last event, the 400-yard freestyle, as Ball State placed first and third to narrowly defeat the Irish.

"We were impressed by our performance," commented Welsh. "We had great races from the freestyleers, gutsy performances from the breaststrokers, and our relays improved significantly."

In addition to the mentioned above, Irish swimmers who placed in the top three in their events included Ray Fitzpatrick, Chris Fugate, Hon Hoyer, Herb Huesman, Jeff Page, and Peter Mehok.

Notre Dame swims again at Boston College on November 8 and at the University of Connecticut on November 10 before returning home to host the University of Pittsburgh.

CROFUT & BRUBECK SPONSORED BY The Elkhart Concert Club Bringing the STARS to Elkhart for 45 GREAT YEARS Bill Crofut and Chris Brubeck team up for a live concert on November 6, 1996 at 7:30 pm at the ELCO Performing Arts Center Downtown Elkhart, (219) 293-4469

Wanted: Reporters, photographers and editors. Join The Observer staff.

CSC Open Discussion on Multiculturalism, Diversity and Notre Dame's National Position in preparation for Notre Dame's participation in a national collegiate teleconference on diversity on November 13.

For further information Contact: CSC Director, Rodney Cohen at 1-5293

Among the Worst
The following is a recent survey by the Princeton Review* of the "Best" and "Worst" campuses for Race Relation

Institutions with the Best Race Relation

1. West Point
2. Naval Academy
3. Cooper Union
4. Naval School of Arts
5. St. John's College ( Md)
6. Regis College
7. Cal Tech
8. Bard Conservatory
9. Harvey Mudd College
10. Naval Academy ( Md)
11. Arizona State University
12. Ithaca School
13. S.F. Conservatory of Music
14. Mount Holyoke College
15. Wellesley College
16. Stevens School of Music
17. Bethany College
18. Bryn Mawr College
19. New College of University of South Florida
20. Parsons School of Design

Institutions with The Worst Race Relation

1. Miami University
2. Vanderbilt University
3. Cornell University
4. Harvard-Sydney College
5. St. John's University of New York
6. Lawrence University
7. Cornell College
8. UCSD
9. Loyola University
10. University of Vermont
11. Drexel University
12. Spelman College
13. University of Notre Dame
14. Butler University
15. University of Akron
16. Fairfield University
17. Boston College
18. Providence College
19. Boston College
20. Northwestern University

* The Princeton Review is not affiliated with Princeton University

CSC CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS

Think of us as your school bus

Wednesdays, weekends break or heading home for your sister's wedding, if going home means catching a plane at Midway or O'Hare, the best way to the airport is United Limo. Whether it's a small service, all day non-stop service, you have a plane or train on schedule. And when it's time to fit the buses again, we'll pick you up at the airport and bring you back to school. No hassle, no problems.

For information and schedule contact your travel agent or call 1-800-839-5555

GO IRISH

CSC Center for Social Concerns

GO UNITED LIMO

Your Airport Connection. O'Hare & Midway. All Day. Every Day
MOTHER GOOSE & GRIMM

GRIMM, WHAT HAVE YOU DONE?

I THINK I SWALLOWED AN UMBRELLA.

WE REALLY NEED TO STOP NOW OR WE WILL MISS THE BALL GAME.

WE LET THE KITTENS PLAY WITH THE BALL.

SCORE OF TWO TOUCH THAT LITTLE, OH NO!

MIKE PETERS

DILBERT

I HATED THE DOGGERETTE CONSULTING COMPANY TO ADD CREDIBILITY TO MY DECISIONS.

AS MY ANALYSIS SHOWS, IT'S MUCH BETTER TO GIVE YOUR MONEY TO ME THAN TO WASTE IT ON FUTURE DOWNSIZE YOURS.

WHAT ANALYSTS THIS IS A PAGE RIPPED OUT OF THE MAGAZINE IN OUR LOBBY.

PERHAPS YOU SHOULD UPGRADE TO MY DELUXE SERVICE.

SCOTT ADAMS

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. "Six O'Clock producer Rej" (3, 5, 6)
2. Kind of nerve (5)
3. Married (3)
4. Get used to (3)
5. Madrid muslin (6)
6. "Are you a man...?" (5, 5)
7. Forenoon worker (7)
8. Smoke (6)
9. Queen of Eng. (3, 6)
10. Mine material (3, 3)
11. "... ———— Mousie" (4, 4)
12. Taneem (4)
13. Williams & The Night of the (7)
14. Girl Ponics (5)
15. Clear as (6)
16. Money held by a third party (4)

DOWN

1. "Interview with the Vampire" author Anne Rice (5)
2. Scott Turnor (3)
3. German car maker (6)
4. Musty (5)
5. That girl (5)
6. Palace, for one (5)
7. Dressed usually (5)
8. Little bit (5)
9. Big smash of all time (5)
10. Least appealing也就是说 (5)
11. Poetry (3, 3)
12. Palm tree fruits (4, 4)
13. Aretha Franklin's sapphire ring (4)
14. Adenoid component (4)
15. Out of the way (5)
16. The Mesopotamian flood (2, 2)
17. Ogres make (6)

18. "Ocean's 11" actress (3)
19. "105 psi" (4)
20. Lack's in brief (5)
21. Some change (4)
22. Make up with (6)
23. The end (6)
24. Vice President in 2008 (7)

25. "On the Rocks, Have a Coke," (3, 5, 4)
27. "Word between the Friends" (7)
28. "... ———— monkey's uncle" (5)

33. Stag (5)
34. French fireball (5)
35. Address (5)
36. Thurman (5)
37. Actor Yves (6)
38. Newswoman (6)
39. "Doctor, doctor..."
40. Dist. entry (6)
41. Fusilis (6)
42. Sculptures on pedastals (6)
43. Day to wear a bonnet (6)
44. The Divine Miss M (6)
45. "The Great Gatsby" (6)
46. General (4, 4)
47. "The Divine" (5)
48. "The Quill" (4, 4)
49. "A Place in the Sun" (5)
50. "I Murrow" (4)
51. "The Diving Bell" (5)
52. "The Grapevine" (5)
53. "The House at Pooh Corner" (5)
54. "The Legend of King Arthur" (6)
55. "The Life of Pi" (6)
56. "The Little Prince" (6)
57. "The Maltese Falcon" (6)
58. "The Night of the Hunter" (6)

59. Pitcher (6)
60. Sphere (6)
61. Sofa (6)
62. "Soap Opera Digest" (6)
63. "Spaghetti Pie" (6)
64. "Chicken Soup" (6)
65. "Cheese."
66. "Chimichangas."
67. "Shrimp Scampi."
68. "Chicken Enchiladas."
69. "Beef Potato Skins."
70. "Beef Stroganoff."
71. "Broccoli Cheese."
72. "Chicken Parmesan."
73. "Spaghetti and Meatballs."
74. "Macaroni and Cheese."
75. "Pasta Primavera."
76. "Chow Mein."
77. "Penne All'arrabiata."
78. "Ravioli."
79. "Spring Rolls."
80. "Beef and Bean Enchiladas."
81. "Little Debbies."

63-66 OCEANS KNIVES' (2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2)
67-69 IOO PSI'S (4, 4, 4)
70-72 LACK'S IN BRIEF (4, 4, 4)
73-75 SOME CHANGE (4, 4, 4)
76-78 MAKE UP WITH (4, 4, 4)
79-81 THE END (4, 4, 4)
82-84 VICE PRESIDENT IN 2008 (5, 5, 5)
85-87 JOHN WAYNE (5, 5, 5)
88-90 ADAM'S APPLES (5, 5, 5)
91-93 FORD, ROYAL (5, 5, 5)
94-96 "WORD BETWEEN THE FRIENDS" (5, 5, 5)
97-99 "...———— MONKEY'S UNCLE" (5, 5, 5)

92-94 "OCEANS KNIVES'" (2, 2, 2, 2, 2, 2)
95-97 IOO PSI'S (4, 4, 4, 4)
98-100 LACK'S IN BRIEF (4, 4, 4)
101-103 SOME CHANGE (4, 4, 4)
104-106 MAKE UP WITH (4, 4, 4)
107-109 THE END (4, 4, 4)
110-112 VICE PRESIDENT IN 2008 (5, 5, 5)
113-115 JOHN WAYNE (5, 5, 5)
116-118 ADAM'S APPLES (5, 5, 5)
119-121 FORD, ROYAL (5, 5, 5)
122-124 "WORD BETWEEN THE FRIENDS" (5, 5, 5)
125-127 "...———— MONKEY'S UNCLE" (5, 5, 5)
Linebackers key in shutting down Navy wishbone

Minor, Irish contain option quarterback to halt Midshipmen

By TIM MCCONN
Sports Writer

What a difference two weeks makes. Going from losing to the Air Force Academy 20-17 to defeating the Midshipmen of Navy 54-27 in the Shamrock Classic was a huge boost for the sagging Irish football team. Not only did they take the first step back to regaining their confidence, but the defense demonstrated that, despite criticism to the contrary, they could indeed shut down a wishbone attack.

The obvious difference in the two contests, besides the fact that Notre Dame beat Navy, was the ability of Bob Davie's defense to shut down the main cog of any option attack: the quarterback. In particular, they brought Chris McCoy and the third-ranked Navy rushing attack to a screeching halt.

"We knew that stopping the quarterback was going to be the key," nodded a jubilant Renaldo Wynn after Saturday's win. "We knew a lot could happen when he runs the ball."

Air Force quarterback Beau Morgan shredded the Irish defense two weeks ago for 183 yards rushing. However, this week, Navy quarterback McCoy ran 13 times for a whopping (negative) sixteen yards.

As a team, Air Force ran for a total of 304 yards. On the other hand, Navy was only able to accumulate 184 yards on 55 carries, for an average of 3.3 yards per carry. How could the defense go from one such extreme to another?

In the case of Air Force, because their players held Morgan to just 69 yards rushing in last year's 44-14 victory over the Falcons, the Irish coaching staff believed they could concentrate on containing the running backs, like Nokia Addison, who had given them fits in the two previous meetings.

Not this time. By pinching down on the backs in an attempt to shut down the middle, the Irish defense became vulnerable on the outside. Morgan intelligently read the actions of the Notre Dame defensive linemen. Consequently, he made a habit of turning the play to the outside, usually cutting back to avoid the containing outside linebackers. As a result, Morgan was able to gain 5 or 6 yards on a consistent basis.

However, the coaching staff would not make such a mistake the second time around. Against Navy, they decided to stick with what had worked in the past. They implemented into the game plan a similar scheme to the one utilized against Morgan last year. By giving up some ground in the middle, linemen such as Wynn and Melvin Dansby, plus outside linebackers Minor and Berri Berry, had a field day with McCoy, throwing around the backfield like a rag.

Sophomore linebacker Kory Minor (4) sparked the Irish defense with plays like the eventual interception shown above.

The Observer/Jed Donahue

MEN'S INTERHALL

Wave, 'Cocks advance to semis

By ADRIAN WILKERSON
Sports Writer

An old sports aphorism goes, "This is the year they aren't played on paper." This statement can clearly be applied to this high volume of upsets that took place during this past weekend's interhall football playoff action.

(7) Fisher 14, (2) Alumni 7

The Alumni Dawgs were poised for a determined run at the title that eluded them last year. However, history proved that it has a funny way of repeating itself, as the Fisher Green Wave handed Alumni a stunning 14-7 upset.

At the outset of the game, Alumni seemed ready to shake off the ghosts of last year's upset, at the hands of Fisher. The Dawgs ran out of the gun with an early touchdown, virtually running over the Fisher defensive line.

That's where the long dominance by Alumni came to an end. After stopping a Fisher drive, Alumni took over on their own 25 yard line on Fisher punt. Disaster then struck the Dawgs as the Fisher defensive line came to life. They ripped through the Alumni offensive line and forced a fumble that gave the ball to Fisher on the Alumni 20 yard line. A short series by Fisher tied the score at 7-7 early in the second quarter.

The usually stifling Zahm Hall defense was not enough to stop the Gamecocks as Flyer atoned a 6-0 victory in the first quarter.

at Boston College, November 9, 9:30 p.m.
vs. Rutgers, November 8, 7 p.m.

Big East Tournament, November 9

at Boston College, November 8, 7 p.m.

Eagles refute allegations of gambling

By TIM MCCONN
Sports Writer

Harriers take fourth at Big East

The Observer/Staff Report

The Pasquerilla East Pyros win Sunday night over Farley's Finest continued the Pyros' winning streak. The Pyros have won every game this season and are anxiously awaiting the playoffs.

Pyro captain, Kristen Tate remarked, "It was a good game against Farley and we are looking forward to doing well in the playoffs and hopefully making it to the championships."

The battle between the Pyros and the Finest was fought early Sunday evening under the bright lights of Stepan Field. Both teams seemed anxious to play a quick game, hoping to minimize their time in the cold temperatures.

Farley's Finest began the game looking to beat the undefeated Pyros. However, it was not long into the game when the Pyros showed their dominance. In the middle of the first half, quarterback Elizabeth Plummer scored a touchdown, giving the Pyros a 6-0 lead. Plummer did not score the two-point conversion.

As the game continued, Farley began to move the ball, but was not able to score. When the Pyros recovered the ball, they made two more attempts to score. On first down, Plummer threw to Kerry Hanley. Hanley failed to catch the ball in the end zone. Again, Plummer tried to score by throwing a pass to Anne Searle who also missed the pass.

Despite the unsuccessful passing in the second half, the Pyros were able to show their fire in the darkness of the night. Melissa Gorman scored after catching a pass from Plummer. Plummer then scored the two-point conversion.

The final touchdown of the game was scored by Pyro Annie Searle. However, the touchdown was called back for a clip and the final score was 14-0.

Although Farley was disappointed with the loss, their spirits remained high.