Pro-Alliance rally protests deferment

By LORI ALLEN

The Alliance of Lesbian, Bisexual, Straight and Questioning Women of Saint Mary's College has been through more in its two months of existence than any other group on campus.

Characterized of its roller-coaster semester, The Alliance staged a rally outside of Le Mans Hall on Friday afternoon to show its support for the Board of Governance (BOG) and the student voice that it represents.

Alliance members as well as several other students and faculty members donned blue ribbons and signed a petition to demonstrate their frustration with College President William Hickey's decision to defer official club recognition of The Alliance.

T' makes me really proud of Saint Mary's to see the students and professors come out to stand up for what they believe in.' Shannon Crunk

Officials gather for dedication of Habitat house

By DAVID FREDDOSO

A beautiful Sunday afternoon provided the backdrop for the dedication of the latest house completed by the Notre Dame Chapter of Habitat for Humanity. Father Edward Malloy was present to perform the dedication of the last house.

Despite being plagued by recently publicized problems with the vans, the students that it serves. It has grown so popular that, on Saturday, three residents of Turtle Creek Condominiums climbed aboard the pick-up. We just want to be part of the Saferide experience. "That is part of the fun of driving," said Mark Higgins, student body secretary and Saferide volunteer. "The students react so well to you, and it is a good time."

Saferide depends on up to seven volunteers to keep it running on every Friday and Saturday night. More volunteers drive the early shift in one van. The final four volunteers make up the late shift of drivers after 10:30 p.m., when another van is.

Dawgie paddling...

Fortunately for the soaked participants, Saturday's racing of the Eleventh Annual Fisher Regatta enjoyed fair weather.

Alumni Hall beat two-time defending champion Morrissey Carry twice and sailed to the title from there. Their boat, "Dawgie E. Style," won despite last minute alterations.

Officials were alerted Friday that Alumni's boat was five feet over the regatta's length limit. The extraneous footage had to be sliced off before the Dawgs rowed to victory. In the weekend's competition, "Always on Top," one of Walsh's three entries, proved victorious. Lewis took second with "Six Opa and a Chicken Nugget."
Always make time for friends

Well, the academic year is coming to an end. To us in the NDSSMC community, this means a final sprint with frantic graduation planning and cramming for the inevitable finals. Next year we will be leaving South Bend to pursue more enlightening paths, leaving behind strong support and family.

How many of us will keep in touch with everybody they promise to? The reason I ask this question is for the sake of my own experience. I have made the same promise to many people in my life. "Sure, I'll write you soon. We've gotta stay in touch." Camp friends from grade school, high school friends and acquaintances. Friends from Ireland. An elite bunch of people that I have lost touch with over the years. Far from it. These are people with whom I have shared my life's experiences, and I don't believe we would be the people we are now without them. I love them all very much. However, I am very busy. Very busy.

Well, some of the time. Actually, to be quite honest, replace the word "busy" with "lazy" and you'll have a more accurate picture. Hey, how can I concentrate keeping in touch while "The Simpsons" are on? I received a wake-up call last week, however, when I decided to bridge the gap between myself and an old friend from high school. I really don't know what made me call him, unless it was that it was at a time when "The Simpsons" were not on.

After exchanging pleasantries, he asked me to reacquaint myself with his life. I babied for about ten minutes about my job, my work and my life. By the time I had to recapitulate the questions and ask him how he was doing, but he answer briskly, "I haven't talked to you in a long time. My life will probably dominate conversation, so why don't you finish telling me all that you've been doing first."

Finally, curiosity got the best of me, and I had to know:

"So, what is this big news, anyway?" He was just getting started. The bastard was probably engaged, and all I could talk about was moving off-campus next year. "I'm sick, I'm very sick. I have HIV, Nora." Until that conversation, I had never understood what people meant when they said "stop talking." My chest ached, and I tried not to cry. He had been my high school confidant.

"When did this happen?" "I found out a year ago, but I had pneumonia this winter, and they've been trying to build my system up since."

"You had pneumonia a year ago. Why didn't you call me?"

"I was in the hospital, Nora. I couldn't. Why didn't you keep in touch with me? Didn't you wonder? Didn't you care?"

I thought about that question for a while, and I still can't come up with a reason. Somehow, "The Simpsons" just do not seem separate anymore.

No matter where life takes you, I'm sure it will have a telephone, computer or paper and pen. For your own happiness, I strongly suggest you make an effort to keep in touch with those you love. The effort may wear you down, but the remorse of ignoring the faint is the true killer.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

---

World At A Glance

Zaire's dark economy brightened by ordinary life

Zaire's dark economy brightened by ordinary life

The problem with Zaire isn't Zairians in general, it's their leaders, said Tcheka Kasuba Shemususe, a civilian representative of the rebels.

"In the past, they were forced to do whatever their bosses said, whether it was right or wrong. They were conditioned to accept corruption, which is worse than disease," Kasuba said.

The deterioration of the country's roads, schools and economy is bad, but corruption is worse, he said.

"Our aim must be to change the mentality of the people, so that we can change the country," Kasuba said.

Carter mediates in Sudan

Jimmy Carter has returned to his peacekeeping role in Sudan, talking with opposition and government leaders about bringing more rebels into peace talks. The former president arrived Saturday in Sudan to review the situation. In 1995 he brokered a six-month cease-fire in the country's civil war. His latest visit comes before Monday's signing of a peace accord between the Islamic and Christian rebels.

Tupac's mom sues

LOS ANGELES

The mother of slain rapper Tupac Shakur is suing Death Row Records for $1 million, charging the hip-hop label failed to pay royalties and cheated Shakur out of millions of dollars. The federal lawsuit filed Friday follows a $7.1 million lawsuit Death Row filed against him earlier this month, demanding reimbursement for money allegedly advanced to Shakur for cars, houses, jewelry, and travel expenditures, including recording and video costs. Besides seeking unpaid royalties and repayment of disputed expense billings, the counter-suit from Shakur's estate is aimed at a written 1995 contract Shakur signed with Death Row while in prison. It asks that the contract be declared void and that the work of the victims' 15-year-old son, the family said. They have survived the colonial rule of the Belgians, an era of AP Nkuba, a slight man in his 60s, who made himself one of the richest men in the world by his country's roads, medical and education system.

Parents discovers stalker son

EMERYVILLE, Ontario

A widely reported case of electronic harassment was actually the work of the victims' 15-year-old son, the family said Sunday. Police confirmed that the stalker was an inside job, but refused to name the culprit and said nothing would be done.

"We have been living in fear," said Karole, who has returned to his home in the past, people were doing whatsoever their bosses said, whether it was right or wrong. They were conditioned to accept corruption, which is worse than disease," Kasuba said.

The deterioration of the country's roads, schools and economy is bad, but corruption is worse, he said.

"Our aim must be to change the mentality of the people, so that we can change the country," Kasuba said.

Carter mediates in Sudan

Jimmy Carter has returned to his peacekeeping role in Sudan, talking with opposition and government leaders about bringing more rebels into peace talks. The former president arrived Saturday in Sudan to review the situation. In 1995 he brokered a six-month cease-fire in the country's civil war. His latest visit comes before Monday's signing of a peace accord between the Islamic and Christian rebels.

Tupac's mom sues

LOS ANGELES

The mother of slain rapper Tupac Shakur is suing Death Row Records for $1 million, charging the hip-hop label failed to pay royalties and cheated Shakur out of millions of dollars. The federal lawsuit filed Friday follows a $7.1 million lawsuit Death Row filed against him earlier this month, demanding reimbursement for money allegedly advanced to Shakur for cars, houses, jewelry, and travel expenditures, including recording and video costs. Besides seeking unpaid royalties and repayment of disputed expense billings, the counter-suit from Shakur's estate is aimed at a written 1995 contract Shakur signed with Death Row while in prison. It asks that the contract be declared void and that death row records failed against him, a lawsuit that resulted in a $5 million settlement and a new trial. moo 1991. The suit is a response to what appeared to be the power to turn individual appliances on and off by remote control. They have never been the colonial rule of the Belgians, an era of AP Nkuba, a slight man in his 60s, who made himself one of the richest men in the world by his country's roads, medical and education system.

Parents discovers stalker son

EMERYVILLE, Ontario

A widely reported case of electronic harassment was actually the work of the victims' 15-year-old son, the family said Sunday. Police confirmed that the stalker was an inside job, but refused to name the culprit and said nothing would be done.

"We have been living in fear," said Karole, who has returned to his home in the past, people were doing whatsoever their bosses said, whether it was right or wrong. They were conditioned to accept corruption, which is worse than disease," Kasuba said.

The deterioration of the country's roads, schools and economy is bad, but corruption is worse, he said.

"Our aim must be to change the mentality of the people, so that we can change the country," Kasuba said.
Student wins $1,000 for photo

By SEAN O' DONNELL

For Farley freshman Elizabeth Brown, pictures are not always worth a thousand words. Sometimes, they are worth a thousand dollars.

Brown entered and won the annual photography contest sponsored by U. Magazine, one of the handouts that comes regularly with The Observer. Her picture portrays the Irish Guard marching from the Administration Building towards the stadium on the morning of last year's first home football game against Purdue. The Fighting Irish defeated the Purdue Boilermakers 35-0 in a strong defensive effort.

"I thought it was a good picture," said Brown, obviously pleased with her cash prize. "Brown is an amateur photographer and was quite surprised when she won. Later on in the football season, Brown saw an ad for the contest. She submitted the photo under the category of campus life and traditions.

"I read the magazine, saw the contest, and thought the picture would be perfect for the category."

Elizabeth Brown

Brown snapped the photo for $1,000, which was the top prize in the campus life and traditions category of its photo contest.

CME chairman set for Holy Cross ceremony

Holy Cross College has announced that John Sandner will be the commencement speaker at the college's 30th graduation ceremony on May 10.

Sandner, chairman of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange (CME), represents more than 2,700 members and 86 member firms in the Chicago area. Appointed to the U.S. Advisory Commission on Financial Services by U.S. Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin in 1995, Sandner played a pivotal role in the development of GLOBEX, the international after-hours, electronic trading system.

Sandner received a BA from Southern Illinois University, '65, and a law degree from the University of Notre Dame, '68, where he has served as a trustee since 1993. Sandner is also a trustee of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, and Roosevelt University where he was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters degree in 1994. Formerly a trial attorney, Sandner is currently a member of the American Arbitration Association, a member of the advisory boards of Mercy Hospital and Medical Center, and Chicago Cares, and a member of the Northwestern University Associates.

Director of the Jones Institute for Reproductive Medicine at the Eastern Virginia Medical School, and the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse, he also serves as director of the Economic Club, Chicago.

Take a gander...

Spring weather has helped bring goslings to St. Joseph's Lake.

Congratulations Heather for redeeming the family name

Love, Dad, Mom, Abby, and the "Rock"

Chinese - American Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge

Authentic Chinese, Mediterranean and Italian Cuisine

Lunches starting at $4.25
Dinners starting at $5.95
Banquet rooms available up to 200

GREAT WALL

Bar and Restaurant open 7 days a week

-One Down Way N, South Bend (next to Howard Johnson) Rally
continued from page 1

and advisor to The Alliance. Gretchen Sherer, Saint Mary's class of '91 and English professor, cited the specific nature of The Alliance's purpose as a reason it should be recognized.

"I recognize the difficulty of the position that President Hickey and the College may be in, I don't necessarily agree with the approach that is being taken because it is focusing on this as a club on homosexuality rather than a student club on sexuality, which this campus has a great need for," noted Sherer as the students marched through the lobby of Le Mans Hall. A few BOG members were outside as well, including student body president Jen Turbiak, who was eager to contribute to the rally.

"I think this is an outstanding show of support for the community, and I hope that President Hickey is listening," said Turbiak. "The students out here are standing in support of student government. As a BOG member I casted my vote and I'm standing behind it," said Lori McKeough, student body president-elect. While most students agreed with the gathering, others were hesitant.

"I appreciate the respect and time that BOG was allowed to have in making their decision, which I support," I think that President Hickey should be given the same respect," said Sarah Siefert, communications commissioner for BOG. Hickey has not yet announced a timetable for his decision regarding the club's status as an officially recognized organization. He was meeting with the College's Board of Trustees while the students protested.

You have a voice. Use it.
Viewpoint.1@nd.edu

St. Joe County Ambulance Service
AP Image Team
SMC Athletics
Salon Nouveau
Regina Hall
McCandless Hall
Holy Cross Hall
LeMans Hall
Anderson & Son Heating & Cooling
Dine-In Delivery
Stude-bagels
CJ's Pub
Bridget McGuire's
Hacienda

The Game of Saint Mary's
Gotta Have it.
On sale this week for $15
Mon-Wed 4:30-6:30
& Tues & Wed 11:30-1:30
in LeMans Lobby
or by calling Karey at 284-5168

Monday, April 21, 1997

The Feast of Saint Anselm
ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY (1033-1109)

The Holy Communion (Episcopal)
Alumni Hall Chapel
5:15 p.m.
The Rev. James F. Turrell

"O Christian soul, soul raised up from grievous death, soul redeemed and freed by the blood of God from wretched bondage: arouse your mind, remember your resurrection, contemplate your redemption and liberation."

St. Anselm, Meditation on Human Redemption

The Rev. James F. Turrell
Lawyer tied to Hubbell meeting

By JOHN SOLOMON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The day before Webster Hubbell quit the Justice Department's No. 3 post under a cloud, President Clinton's Whitewater lawyer was summoned to a meeting with the White House living quarters for a meeting with the first couple and senior presidential aides.

Attorney David Kendall joined some of the Clintons' most trusted political trouble shooters at the March 13, 1994, meeting, which is now embedded in prosecutors' investigation of White House-inspired payments to Hubbell after he resigned as the counsel's office head, replacing Bernard Nussbaum.

Some of the attendees; fighting since then has killed an estimated 60,000 civilians in a little more than two weeks. Security forces have redoubled their efforts to clean up the region before June 5 legislative elections, the first since the army canceled a January 1992 vote that the Islamic Salvation Front was poised to win.

There was no official confirmation of the killings. They were thought to have occurred Thursday and Friday as part of a government offensive south of Algiers where attackers have terrorized villages, killing, shaving, shooting and burning.

Villagers largely blame Ayoub's faction for the attacks, which have killed 180 civilians in a little more than two weeks. Security forces have redoubled their efforts to clean up the region before June 5 legislative elections, the first since the army canceled a January 1992 vote that the Islamic Salvation Front was poised to win.

The army's action then triggered an uprising by Islamic mili­tants, fighting since then has killed an estimated 60,000 people. The Islamic Salvation Front has urged Algerians to boycott the June elections, saying the government is certain to rig the vote.

Intensive Italian Summer Language Program

June - July, 1997

Earn up to Nine Credits in Italian Fulfill Arts and Letters Language Requirement Survival Skills for Travel*Grammar*Culture*Musical Movies*Art.

ROIT 101, Beginning Italian 6/16-7/1
ROIT 102, Continuing Beginning Italian 7/2-7/16
ROIT 103, Intermediate Italian 7/17-7/30

Classes meet daily from 9:10-11:20 AM
Tutorial from 1:30-2:30 PM
Contact: Summer School Director at 631-7282

ALGERIA

Forces target Islamic militant group leader

Associated Press

ALGIERS - Algerian forces killed the leader of an Islamic milit­ant faction and 32 of his followers blamed for village massacres south of Algiers, newspapers reported Saturday.

Amir Ayoub's faction was part of the Armed Islamic Group, considered the most radical underground group fighting to topple Algeria's military-backed govern­ment.

The papers gave no details of the raid on the group around the town of Chebli, 20 miles south of the capital, Algiers.

There was no official confirmation of the killings. They were thought to have occurred Thursday and Friday as part of a gov­ernment offensive south of Algiers where attackers have terror­ized villages, killing, shaving, shooting and burning.

Villagers largely blame Ayoub's faction for the attacks, which have killed 180 civilians in a little more than two weeks. Security forces have redoubled their efforts to clean up the region before June 5 legislative elections, the first since the army canceled a January 1992 vote that the Islamic Salvation Front was poised to win.

The army's action then triggered an uprising by Islamic mili­tants, fighting since then has killed an estimated 60,000 people. The Islamic Salvation Front has urged Algerians to boycott the June elections, saying the government is certain to rig the vote.

The Notre Dame African Students' Association proudly presents the Caribbean Film:

AIME CESAIRe: A VOICE FOR HISTORY

By Euzhan Palcy, from Martinique, 1994.

This monumental, three-part study introduces American audiences to the celebrated Martinican author who coined the term negritude and launched the movement called the "Great Black Cry." Euzhan Palcy, the internationally acclaimed director of Sugarcane Alley and A Dry White Season, weaves Cesaire's life and poetry into a vast tapestry featuring many of the most important artistic and intellectual figures of the past six decades. Andre Breton, the high priest of surrealism, described Cesaire as, "a black man who embodies not simply the black race but all mankind, who will remain for me the prototype of human dignity."

Followed by a Panel Discussion on AFRICA & THE DIASPORA IN THE NEW MILLENNIUM

• Prof. Dominic Thomas, Romance Languages Dept. (Moderator)*
• Prof. Nyle H. Udoum, Center for Philosophy of Religion*
• Iris Outlaw, Director, Multicultural Student Affairs
• Vero Gilliam alias Brother Sage, Director, Urban League
• Rodeny Cohen, Director, Urban Programming & Outreach Dept./CSC
• Olayita Oyetunbi, Andrews University*

Wednesday, April 23 • 7:00 PM • 155 DeBartolo

Transfer Orientation 1997

COMMITTEE HEADS AND STAFF NEEDED
APPLICATIONS NOW AVAILABLE IN THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE.
IF YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS CALL: LISA PARRY @ 4-4058
BILLY MCCARTY @ 273-1929

Bike or walk to campus

Tuesday, April 22

Security will guard & register bikes from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the northwest doorway of DeBartolo Hall.

Refreshments will be available in the morning.

Two campus bike tours will begin at 12:15 p.m. from DeBartolo. Helmets are recommended.

For more information call Jessica at 631-5829
What is Taizé?

"Their joy, mercy, and simplicity provide a tantalizing glimpse of what Christ's Church, healed and reunified, is called to become."

Rev. Edward A. Malloy, C.S.C., Notre Dame's president, describing the monks of Taizé

The community was founded 56 years ago when Brother Roger and a few companions took up residence in Taizé, a remote and nearly abandoned village in eastern France. Today the Taizé community includes almost a hundred Anglicans, Lutherans, Evangelicals and Catholic monks from more than twenty countries.

The earliest ministry of the Taizé community was hospitality, as Brother Roger and his friends offered shelter and concealment to the refugees of World War II, including many Jews fleeing Nazi persecution. Following the war, the growing community sent several members into Eastern Europe to establish surreptitious prayer circles among young Catholics in Poland and young Protestants in East Germany. Each year since 1978 the Taizé community has sponsored large international gatherings of young people for ecumenical discussion and prayer.

The life of the community centers around prayer, work and hospitality. Its white-robed monks never preach to their guests, insisting that their role is to live together as a "parable of community," a sign of the Gospel's call to reconciliation at the heart of the world. The liturgies at Taizé combine elements of the Catholic, Orthodox and Protestant traditions, and the community's distinctive sacred music, mostly meditative chants of scriptural verses, has become popular in Christian churches all over the world.

University of Notre Dame cordially invites you to attend a special evening celebrating the life and ministry of

Brother Roger of Taizé

1996 Notre Dame Award recipient

Thursday

April 24, 1997

7:15 p.m.
Basilica of the Sacred Heart
Taizé prayer and song
led by the Notre Dame Folk Choir

7:30 p.m.
Basilica of the Sacred Heart
Prayer service and presentation of the Notre Dame Award to Brother Roger, followed by his reflections

8:15 p.m.
Corby Hall
Reception for all present with an opportunity to meet Brother Roger Earhart imitator even flies vintage 1935 plane

By LOUIS MEIXLER
Associated Press Writer

Associated Press Writer

NORTH, Egypt

Water dribbles into the cockpit when it rains. The two-propeller engines are louder than a jumbo jet. The flight is long and cold.

Texas businesswoman and pilot Linda Finch is attempting to trace—and complete—the aviation pioneer Amelia Earhart, whose plane disappeared just 7,000 miles away from the finish.

To add to the realism, Finch is using a renovated Lockheed Electra 10E, the same model Earhart flew in 1935. And flying a plane that was state-of-the-art more than 60 years ago can be taxing.

“Not comfortable physically, but I’ve spent so much time in it, I know what to expect,” Finch said after arriving in southern Egypt on Friday, her ninth country and almost halfway into the 29,000-mile trip.

Next stop: Dubai, United Arab Emirates.

“Amelia set extraordinary goals to show people that they can do extraordinary things,” said Finch, 46, who restores aircraft in her spare time. “We are doing this to send people that message.”

Finch’s quest began when she was looking for a vintage aircraft to rebuild. She already had restored a World War II training aircraft, and a P-47 Thunderbolt fighter, widely used during that war.

Leasing through an aircraft registry, she discovered that the same model airplane that Earhart flew on her trip was being stored in a barn in Wisconsin.

It took Finch three years to convince the owners to sell the plane for $300,000. It cost another $700,000 to renovate it—including installing Wasp radial engines assembled from vintage but unused spare parts. Pratt & Whitney, which manufactured the nine-cylinder Wasp engines, has paid for the airplane and for most of Finch’s trip—a total of $1.5 million.

The clock has started ticking for the arrival of the colorful, inexpensive Swatchmobile, which goes on sale in a year. The poppy two-seater—from the manufacturer of some of the world’s most expensive cars and the maker of some of the cheapest watches around—will certainly raise eyebrows with its chameleon-like features.

But it enters a small-car field crowded by some of the auto industry’s biggest names, which could make sales difficult.

The Swatchmobile—a formally known as the Smart—is the product of a unlikely joint venture between Germany’s Mercedes-Benz and Swiss watchmaker Swatch.

Mercedes-Benz announced Friday that the Smart will go on sale in Europe in April 1998 for the equivalent of $9,400 (about $11,600, with 100,000 to be made the first year). There are no plans to sell it outside of Europe.

“It’s difficult to see who’s going to buy it,” says Graeme Maxton, associate editor of the Economist Intelligence Unit automotive publications in London. “They’re aiming at young professionals and students. It’s clearly for use in an urban environment, not some­thing you’d want to drive across Europe.”

Swatchmobile buyers can purchase a special kit with differently brightly colored body panels to change the shade and shape of the car to suit moods, clothes, or special occasions.

But despite its unique appearance, it will still face competition in the growing subcompact-car segment in Europe known as sub-B.

Ford and France’s Renault have sub-B models out already, and Volkswagen and Fiat have models on the way.

“All are meant to be low-cost city runabouts,” Maxton said in an interview from Thailand.

TRISH ACCENTS comedy improv troupe

SHOW
Tomorrow night, 9 P.M.
Library Auditorium
Admission: $1
($1.75 with this ad)

It’s not plural, Regis.
family can only happen through men and women working together, she stressed.

"The Promise Keepers and the Million Man March both concern the family, but they don't include women," she said. "They can talk the talk, but they can't walk the walk. To succeed, families need to come together," she said.

One thing we know about the best students in America — which cuts across race, gender, economic status and geographic location — is that most of those students have dinner with their parents three to four times a week. Jokingly referring to herself as a "covering politician," Schroeder is the longest-serving woman in Congress. The National Women's Hall of Fame honoree ran for president in 1988, and is noted for bringing family and policy issues to Congressional debate. After retiring in 1996 after a 24-year tenure in the House, she had a teaching stint at Princeton University.

"Pat Schroeder knows a lot about change. She fought for it, worked to bring legislation for it, and helped champion it," SRC president William Hickey said.

The lecture was the first in the Shaheen President's Lecture Series. The aim of the series is to "bring nationally recognized speakers," to Saint Mary's, whose work will bring national issues to the College," said Hickey.

Washington Hall management is now interviewing candidates for four 10-hour per week positions. Washington Hall student managers are trained to facilitate the use of Washington Hall by groups rehearsing and performing in the hall. Managers help groups to use lighting and sound equipment, and they greet patrons at public events. There is also some administrative work. Knowledge of FILEMaker Pro, Word, Excel, and PageMaker is useful.

Student managers usually work evening and weekend hours, and they are the only students who get to meet the ghost of Washington Hall. "The Promise Keepers and the Million Man March both concern the family, but they don't include women," she said. "They can talk the talk, but they can't walk the walk. To succeed, families need to come together," she said. One person who rides in the van has the job of keeping track of numbers of passengers and helps to navigate for the driver. "This is my first time riding and I have not had a chance to take the training course yet," said Matt Tomko, Knott Hall senator, who rode along with Higgins during the early shift on Saturday.

The program is currently having staffing problems because most of the people who drive are also members of the new Student Union. "Ideally our new volunteers will go back and tell the people they live around about it," Higgins said. "Then we would have a network of drivers, and people would only have to work once or twice a semester." Higgins commented that he has driven almost every weekend.

One Saturday night rider, Molly Symon, a freshman from Radin Hall, described why she thought that Saferide was so popular. "I have been to parties and seen the panic that comes with the question, "How will we get home?" This program gives students the opportunity not to worry about that, and it's free." "Our ride home had been drinking," added her friend Stephanie So, also a Radin freshman. "So I decided that Saferide was a better option. But I couldn't remember the number, so I had to call security and ask them what it was."

The program has also had to contend with lack of publicity. "A lot of people don't remember the dispatch number (631-9488) because it is not all the same digit," Harris said. "But we are working on getting the word out, and we hope that people will remember."

Most of the riders for Saferide call during the late shift, between 12:30 and 2 a.m. "Often we will have people call us as we are about to close," said Harris. "So we have to keep going until 2:30 a.m." In response to the increased traffic during the late shift, Saferide has added a new feature to the program. At around 1:30 a.m., the dispatcher calls Papa John's to order pizza for all the riders to enjoy. Between 10 p.m. and midnight, Harris only picked up four people. But, in the second shift, from 12 until 2:30 a.m., he picked up 41 people from five different locations. One group of seniors that he picked up at Turtle Creek to go to Fisher Hall asked, "why didn't you think about this when we were juniors?" They then proceeded to show their appreciation for the driver by singing the fight song and substituting Mark's name in every reference to Notre Dame. Every student that called the service expressed this same type of gratitude towards the drivers. "I think this is a great idea," said Sarah Sweetman, a freshman from Walsh Hall. "But it is amazing that these people give up their Saturdays for it."
Administration needs lessons in cooperation hand-picked students from plunging the campus into anarchy? Does the central paradox of the Notre Dame undergraduate experience remain a mystery: why is it that a university whose body meticulously selected from across the country the best on the basis of intelligence, character and achievement feels that it must maintain a large and tyrannical enforcement bureaucracy to keep the "straight arrows," a phrase generally associated with the archaic doctrine of in loco parentis - a phrase generally associated with the archaic doctrine of in loco parentis, an almost adversarial climate of mutual suspicion that permeates student affairs itself, an almost adversarial climate of suspicion that permeates student dealings with administrators at this school. From the early guards at the campus gates who behave like they're running a border checkpoint, on up the line to the Office of Student Affairs itself, an almost adversarial relationship exists between students and administrators/staff.

Every student who has experienced this climate of mistrust: From the guard who won't let you on campus despite your trunk full of luggage, to the dining hall ID taker who refuses to let you back in to pick up your book bag, to those charming ladies who are the hour-guards in women's dorms and will gladly write you up for exiting the building at 2:02 a.m., all the way up to those pesty tyrants in Student Affairs who will equally gladly give you dozens of hours of "community service" for exiting that women's dorm a minute late. The administrators and staff at this University tend to be long on suspicion and short on understanding. What's more, they are at best, legalistic in their demeanor. Has any ND security officer ever had a good day or is he just a grumpy jackass in waiting? I have no idea, but I wouldn't mind being on the receiving end of his wrath.

Now I realize that there are broad generalizations and there is no doubt in my mind that somewhere on this vast campus there is an administrator or staff member who is a much-loved saint. Also, it's important to note that the relationship between ND students and the actual providers of the educative services is paying so dearly for - the faculty - seem admirably healthy; professors are accessible and friendly and the cultivation of personal relationships that extend beyond the classroom room is not uncommon.

I do not want to turn this column into a simple catalog of student vs. administration horror stories. Such tales are common enough - every upperclassman seemingly has a few of their own - and tend to lose some punch when not told from the first-person perspective. But the reality of the cloud of mistrust that hovers over our campus is undeniable; one need look no further than the paranoid and often thoughtless behavior of those so-called ushers at home football games to see this illustrated. There is no reason that the cooperative relationship that exists between students and faculty could not be replicated or used as a model for the relationship that should exist between students and the administration. Indeed, one is hard-pressed to understand how such an adversarial climate came into being at all; undergraduate Donors are a pretty polite and well-behaved bunch and it's not as if there have been any sit-ins in the Main Building recently. Insofar as there are no causal reasons for the undeniable suspicion and surpleness that characterizes administrative dealings with students, we must look for other factors. Upon examination, the conclusion that a fish rot from the head down is unavoidable. In other words, the security guards, student ushers, women's dorm night proctors, Dome bureaucrats, and the rest did not unilaterally one day decide to be as rude and uncooperative as possible. Instead, they were hired and trained in a climate where such behavior is the expectation and is seen as necessary to control the unruly student body. At some very high level within our administration there is a fundamental mistrust - perhaps even a disdain - of undergraduate students, and this mentality manifests itself in the actions and demeanor of the whole administrative structure. Even a cursory reading of du Lac reveals that the administration has next to no faith in its students. Rather than being viewed as extremely talented adult men and women who have come to Notre Dame out of a genuine desire to better themselves, students are seen as little better than children who need to be carefully monitored with their behavior carefully regulated. The archaic doctrine of loco parentis - a phrase generally associated with boarding schools, not first rate universities - fails to recognize that virtue which is imposed rather than freely chosen is not virtue at all. This unspoken perception that undergraduates are a source of moral rot in the otherwise pristine Catholic city-on-a-hill which is Notre Dame has been the single most disappointing aspect of my four years here. While never enunciated, this doctrine shines through in the actions and tactics of the Office of Student Affairs, amongst others. A top university - especially one blessed with the caliber of students that Notre Dame enjoys - simply does not need an in-house secret police force.

Until a relationship based on mutual respect and cooperation comes into being, the climate of mutual suspicion that exists between students and administrators will continue indefinitely. While I will miss many aspects of my undergraduate experience, I cannot wait to be done with the kangaroo courts, patronizing overly legalistic rules, self-righteous administrators, and arbitrary enforcement procedures that characterize Notre Dame at its worst.

Christopher D. Kratovil is a senior Arts and Letters major. He will be attending the University of Texas School of Law in the fall. His column has appeared on Mondays in the Viewpoint page for the last four years. A final "Winter of My Discontent" will be appearing in the graduation issue.

CHRIS KRATOVIL
"Chasing Amy" — Love with a Twist

By JOHN BARRY

Ascom Movie Critic

While watching a movie, I have a habit of trying to predict what's going to happen next. When the ending isn't what I expect, and it's better than anything else I can come up with — it isn't such a bad habit — the movie seems clever and deserving of four or five shamuroms.

And then there's the other kind of movie, where the ending is a letdown, unrealistic or insulting, dragging down the rest of the movie. "Chasing Amy" is one of those kinder movies.

Kevin Smith, that great entertainer that made us all fall in love with "Clerks," brings us a third movie, this one with a clever set-up and a talented cast. He takes the old boy-meets-girl story and twists it around, filling it with the emotions we can relate to, and then throws it full speed into the 1990s.

Holden (Ben Affleck), a small time comic book artist who becomes enamored by another comics creator, Alyssa (Joey Lauren Adams). They seem perfect for each other, until the chemistry on the screen is strong. Soon Holden's daydreams are crushed: Alyssa is a lesbian. But the connection between Holden and Alyssa's that you want to smack on the head of the knock some sense into him. He met the girl of his dreams, fell in love with her, and despite her seemingly unreasonable lifestyle, she comes to view him as the one special person meant for her.

Holden's best friend, who does not feel a love, but not between love of the opposite sex and love of the same sex. Some rather small dialogues discussing homosexuality and prejudice in their romantic involvement. Thus, Holden expresses his love for Alyssa in a surprising, realistic monologue, passionate yet not in the over-scripted manner such drama tends to include. She decides that this guy might be the one, but not the soul mate she's been unknowingly searching for.

In an episode of "Sexiest," a character can just "switch teams" with comix fluidity. However, Alyssa and Holden's relationship isn't easy going, (otherwise it would be a short film, not a feature-length movie).

Holden's friend shows great animosity towards Alyssa, and uses some harsh slang to try and convince Holden of his foolishness (although this is all done in that hysterical raunchy humor that made me think shorter lines like "Clerks"), and Alyssa's friends make her an outcast for betraying her sexuality.

Aside from the main plot, the various small dialogues discussing homosexuality in 1990s America are particularly well done. Smith doesn't pretend that everyone easily accepts lesbianism, and even criticizes those who do accept it just became lesbianism has become acceptable. So much is crammed into the scenes that people may not notice, but if you do they will get some rather realistic dialogue on the subject of lesbianism. By the time the film is over, you're pretty convinced that the gay community is on the verge of becoming one of the most powerful in America.

Unfortunately, Kevin Smith's character always eventually act in ways that are somehow out of character. The audience is left with the feeling that they don't really know the characters they have grown to love.

I only appropriate that I write this video review right after my classical music shift at the radio station. I am talking about the 1945 Best Picture, "Amadeus," directed by Milo Forman. I do not know how I could have just seen this movie for the first time a couple of weeks ago. Maybe my family and I have just been in ignorance for the past 13 years, or maybe I have not seen any of "Amadeus" before. It was one of the most enjoyable, well-done films I have ever seen.

Amadeus is the story of the humble beginnings of the greatest composer of all time, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (Gust Landa). This film is told not from Mozart's perspective, but rather, the story is dictated to us in the form of a conversation from Antonio Salieri (F. Murray Abraham), the jealous and jealous court composer in Vienna. This conversation takes place in an asylum and assumingly right before Salieri's death.

This setting is what intrigues me most about the film. The viewer does not get a straight-forward glorification of Mozart. Rather, the viewer is given an overview of genius and jealousy, yet adhering, account of Mozart's life and talent. This perverse account from Salieri gives the viewer a unique perspective on the life of this legend.

Salieri's account starts with his first introduction to Mozart in the court of Emperor Joseph II in Vienna. Salieri's account is an honest and unfiltered unadulterated whole life. However, Salieri's own guilt, jealousy, and insecurities ultimately drive him insane as well.

We can see today that Salieri's plan backfires based on the amount of material material available compared with the amount of Salieri material material. The disparity is sizeable.

Besides the captivating plot, the visual style in "Amadeus" is stunning. The composition of each frame absolutely blows me away. The lighting and work in the sanatorium is used in an extremely clever way to show the passage of time. The audio weaves different Mozart pieces to show the passage of time.

The climax of the movie, where Salieriతš¬s experimental drugellest what kind of experimental drugs Kevin Smith's character is using, is breathtaking. As he is faced with confronted with the couple also acts disappointingly when faced with the chemical breakdowns. Their romantic relationship is much more flexible than the obstacles they ran into since it has been built on the foundation of a strong friendship. For a film that goes from policy to openness associated with friendship, free of prohibitions, they stumbled clumsily into the bizarre Holdens of this world.

"Chasing Amy" is a movie that will make you laugh out loud, if you enjoyed the cruder humor of "Clerks." The basic plot line is clever and effective in showing how the sensitive issues surrounding miscegenation, homosexuality and prejudice.

Unfortunately, Kevin Smith's character eventually act in ways that are somehow out of character. The audience is left with the feeling that they don't really know the characters. Each frame absolutely blows me away. The lighting and work in the sanatorium is used in an extremely clever way to show the passage of time. The audio weaves different Mozart pieces to show the passage of time. The climax of the movie, where Salieri's experimental drugellest what kind of experimental drugs Kevin Smith's character is using, is breathtaking. As he is faced with confronted with the couple also acts disappointingly when faced with the chemical breakdowns. Their romantic relationship is much more flexible than the obstacles they ran into since it has been built on the foundation of a strong friendship. For a film that goes from policy to openness associated with friendship, free of prohibitions, they stumbled clumsily into the bizarre Holdens of this world.

"Chasing Amy" is a movie that will make you laugh out loud, if you enjoyed the cruder humor of "Clerks." The basic plot line is clever and effective in showing how the sensitive issues surrounding miscegenation, homosexuality and prejudice.

Unfortunately, Kevin Smith's character eventually act in ways that are somehow out of character. The audience is left with the feeling that they don't really know the characters. Each frame absolutely blows me away. The lighting and work in the sanatorium is used in an extremely clever way to show the passage of time. The audio weaves different Mozart pieces to show the passage of time. The climax of the movie, where Salieri's experimental drugellest what kind of experimental drugs Kevin Smith's character is using, is breathtaking. As he is faced with confronted with the couple also acts disappointingly when faced with the chemical breakdowns. Their romantic relationship is much more flexible than the obstacles they ran into since it has been built on the foundation of a strong friendship. For a film that goes from policy to openness associated with friendship, free of prohibitions, they stumbled clumsily into the bizarre Holdens of this world.

"Chasing Amy" is a movie that will make you laugh out loud, if you enjoyed the cruder humor of "Clerks." The basic plot line is clever and effective in showing how the sensitive issues surrounding miscegenation, homosexuality and prejudice.

Unfortunately, Kevin Smith's character eventually act in ways that are somehow out of character. The audience is left with the feeling that they don't really know the characters. Each frame absolutely blows me away. The lighting and work in the sanatorium is used in an extremely clever way to show the passage of time. The audio weaves different Mozart pieces to show the passage of time. The climax of the movie, where Salieri's experimental drugellest what kind of experimental drugs Kevin Smith's character is using, is breathtaking. As he is faced with confronted with the couple also acts disappointingly when faced with the chemical breakdowns. Their romantic relationship is much more flexible than the obstacles they ran into since it has been built on the foundation of a strong friendship. For a film that goes from policy to openness associated with friendship, free of prohibitions, they stumbled clumsily into the bizarre Holdens of this world.

"Chasing Amy" is a movie that will make you laugh out loud, if you enjoyed the cruder humor of "Clerks." The basic plot line is clever and effective in showing how the sensitive issues surrounding miscegenation, homosexuality and prejudice.

Unfortunately, Kevin Smith's character eventually act in ways that are somehow out of character. The audience is left with the feeling that they don't really know the characters. Each frame absolutely blows me away. The lighting and work in the sanatorium is used in an extremely clever way to show the passage of time. The audio weaves different Mozart pieces to show the passage of time. The climax of the movie, where Salieri's experimental drugellest what kind of experimental drugs Kevin Smith's character is using, is breathtaking. As he is faced with confronted with the couple also acts disappointingly when faced with the chemical breakdowns. Their romantic relationship is much more flexible than the obstacles they ran into since it has been built on the foundation of a strong friendship. For a film that goes from policy to openness associated with friendship, free of prohibitions, they stumbled clumsily into the bizarre Holdens of this world.

"Chasing Amy" is a movie that will make you laugh out loud, if you enjoyed the cruder humor of "Clerks." The basic plot line is clever and effective in showing how the sensitive issues surrounding miscegenation, homosexuality and prejudice.

Unfortunately, Kevin Smith's character eventually act in ways that are somehow out of character. The audience is left with the feeling that they don't really know the characters. Each frame absolutely blows me away. The lighting and work in the sanatorium is used in an extremely clever way to show the passage of time. The audio weaves different Mozart pieces to show the passage of time. The climax of the movie, where Salieri's experimental drugellest what kind of experimental drugs Kevin Smith's character is using, is breathtaking. As he is faced with confronted with the couple also acts disappointingly when faced with the chemical breakdowns. Their romantic relationship is much more flexible than the obstacles they ran into since it has been built on the foundation of a strong friendship. For a film that goes from policy to openness associated with friendship, free of prohibitions, they stumbled clumsily into the bizarre Holdens of this world.
File Grueney's Hollywood Pictures John Cusack makes a major home-screen comeback in "Grosse Pointe Blank."

BY COURTNEY VOELKER

John Cusack is back! Those who fell in love with his sweet, kind-hearted character in "Say Anything" will once again revel in his rom-com repertory. Grosse Pointe Blank, directed by Doug Liman and starring John Cusack and Minnie Driver, is a hard-hitting comedy that is present throughout the movie, delivering a strong message about the importance of family and relationships.

As a law student, Cusack was told by his professor that he was destined for greatness. However, when he returns to his hometown, he discovers that his past mistakes have come back to haunt him. He must now decide whether to fight for his future or give up on his dreams.

Cusack's performance is a standout in the film, as he seamlessly blends his comedic prowess with an unexpected depth of emotion. Driver's role as his girlfriend is equally impressive, and their chemistry on-screen is palpable.

The film's soundtrack, featuring hits from the 1980s, adds another layer of nostalgia to the already engaging story. Overall, Grosse Pointe Blank is a must-see for fans of rom-coms and those who appreciate a good laugh with a touch of heart.

---

General Hospital

Everyone at the Q's is thrilled when the article about Dorman's arraignment on his charity spree appears in the newspaper. Dorman takes Kahlartme for a drive and they make out and bond over tales of childhood. Stefan tells tales of his lonely paranoid childhood and how he changed. Poor Alexis, who is still in the testing phase of something, but Stefan is unconcerned and sends her off. She has wisty replies and Lake who. She shares some of the stories and helps him dispose of the body. Now that's friendship for you.

As Martin tries to justify to Debi that these are bad people that he is killing, more of the mystery unfolds that is present throughout the movie is delivered. Martin tries to rationalize his actions saying that if he is on someone's doorstep, chances are that person did something to bring him there. Debi tells him that he is a psychopath, to which Martin responds, "No, psychopath do what for no reason. I do it for money." Debi decides that she cannot handle his lifestyle and tells him to leave.

Will be his job and responsibility to going after leaving Grosse Pointe? Will he ever turn his world around? Will he ever join the "hit man union?" will he ever turn his heart black? These are questions that I will leave unanswered so I do not ruin the film.

It must make a few comments about the movie. First, it does contain strong violence, more than you would expect from the previews, but for the most part, the movie remains true to its roots and does not overwhelm you with mushiness. Rather, the chemistry between Cusack and Driver is appealing without overkill.

The entire cast is entertaining and well-developed, from Martin's on-screen love interest, Marcella, to an employee at an Ultimart convenience store. It is a great film for fans of rom-coms and those who appreciate a good laugh with a touch of heart.

---

Soap Opera Updates

By GENEVIEVE MORRILL

Access General Hospital Companion

Everyone at the Q's is thrilled when the article about Dorman's arraignment on his charity spree appears in the newspaper. Dorman Takes Kahlartme for a drive and they make out and bond over tales of childhood. Stefan tells tales of his lonely paranoid childhood and how he changed. Poor Alexis, who is still in the testing phase of something, but Stefan is unconcerned and sends her off. She shares some of the stories and helps him dispose of the body. Now that's friendship for you.

As Martin tries to justify to Debi that these are bad people that he is killing, more of the mystery unfolds that is present throughout the movie is delivered. Martin tries to rationalize his actions saying that if he is on someone's doorstep, chances are that person did something to bring him there. Debi tells him that he is a psychopath, to which Martin responds, "No, psychopath do what for no reason. I do it for money." Debi decides that she cannot handle his lifestyle and tells him to leave.

Will be his job and responsibility to going after leaving Grosse Pointe? Will he ever turn his world around? Will he ever join the "hit man union?" will he ever turn his heart black? These are questions that I will leave unanswered so I do not ruin the film.

It must make a few comments about the movie. First, it does contain strong violence, more than you would expect from the previews, but for the most part, the movie remains true to its roots and does not overwhelm you with mushiness. Rather, the chemistry between Cusack and Driver is appealing without overkill.

The entire cast is entertaining and well-developed, from Martin's on-screen love interest, Marcella, to an employee at an Ultimart convenience store. It is a great film for fans of rom-coms and those who appreciate a good laugh with a touch of heart.

---

Days of Our Lives

By TRACY GORMAN and LYNN WONG

Act 4 Days of Our Lives Companion

There was a big upset in Salem this past week ... the death of Roman Brady. It was a shock to fans who have come to love and hate Roman over the years. However, his death was not a surprise to the writers as Roman had been taken hostage by the military. The first person informed is John, who rushed to the hospital. We then see Roman as well as NSA agents, a hit man, and his old mentor and fellow killer Grover (Dan Aykroyd), all of whom want him dead. Grover is tracking him to kill him since he refused to join his "man's union." His days visiting Grosse Pointe are filled with trying to visit old friends, win back his girlfriend, kill his assignent, dodge his enemies, attend his reunion, and sort out his life.

His first encounter with the spirited, witty Debi is at her radio job as a deejay. Here, she causes him public humiliation by asking, on air, whether she should giveMartin a sec- ond chance. She eventually decides to, and the sparks fly as they attend their reunion.

At the reunion, everyone wonders what he has done with his life. He answers, "I freaked out on the army, became a professional assassin," and people assume that he is joking. However, while still at the reunion, Grover tells Martin was telling the truth when he finds upstairs by his old Locker. She calls him by his wisty replies and Lake who. She shares some of the stories and helps him dispose of the body. Now that's friendship for you.

---

Top 10 at the Box Office

1. Anaconda
2. Liar, Liar
3. Murder at 1600
4. Sleepers
5. Grosse Pointe Blank
6. The Devil's Own
7. That Old Feeling
8. Heads in a Duffel Bag
9. The Chasing Amy
10. The Scream

Top 10 Video Rentals

1. The First Wives' Club
2. The Long Kiss Goodnight
3. Courage Under Fire
4. Liar, Liar
5. Glimmer Man
6. Sleepers
7. Grass
8. For Your Consideration
9. Space Jam
10. 2 Days in the Valley

---

Comments or suggestions? E-mail us at Tracy.A.Gorman.138@nd.edu or Lynn.Wong.260@nd.edu
Blue-Gold continued from page 20

"I felt pretty comfortable out there," said Powlus. "I know I improved and was much more efficient, but as far as the offensive end, I thought I had a pretty good grasp of what we're doing.

"When you're passing game struggled, the Irish rushing attack complemented West's offense. We're hoping to get the ball down to their 20-yard line in the secondary and then focus on a tight end or running back."

"When we finally broke the game open in the second half, [West's] running game was tough to stop."

"I think we came out really well," said Powlus. "I felt pretty comfortable out there."

"I'm happy with our performance. The offense was very strong, but the defense also played well.

"Our team didn't really give up hope, even when we were down by 14. We never gave up and came back with a strong second half."
Intensity picks up in Bookstore

Teams start to feel pressure to perfect play

By RUSSELL WILLIAMS
Senior Sports Writer

Working out the kinks. That seemed to be the dominant theme for the high seeds in this weekend's Bookstore tournament action.

Top-seeded Corby's, number four Swoosh III, and eleventh-ranked Downtown Assassins advanced to the next round of the tournament, all with hopes of advancing to next weekend's final four which will be held at Stepan Courts.

Corby's defeated Scooby Snacks 21-10 on Sunday. Tim Ridder was the high scorer with seven points, including a thunderous dunk late in the second-half. Despite the win, none of the team's members were overjoyed with the performance, which wasn't as dominating as in Corby's first two games. Scooby Snacks came out with a zone defense against Corby's and briefly gave them trouble.

"We have to work on our zone offense. That's the first time we've seen that [zone defense]," said Dan Fannon of Corby's. "We're not at all satisfied with the way we played. We're still a couple of steps from where we want to be."

Also yesterday, fourth-seeded Swoosh III raced out to a 11-3 lead but slowed down in the second half, winning 21-14.

Swoosh experienced a major scare on Friday when Jason Newcomer was taken to the hospital for a shoulder injury following their win. He was replaced on Sunday by football team member Malcolm Johnson and will return to action for Tuesday's game.

Despite the second half slowdown, team captain Benedict Rocchio was still satisfied with Swoosh's performance.

"We played well in the first half, but slowed down later. But these tough games early on will only help us get better. Right now our biggest concern is staying healthy," said Rocchio.

One aspect of Swoosh's game which really improved was their outside shooting and Darnell Smith's emergence as a dominant offensive force.

"I think our shooting was good. Benedict shot real well from the outside. Darnell drove the length of the court a few times real well," said Swoosh's Matt Campbell.

Eleventh-seeded Downtown Assassins put on an impressive display, defeating The Patio's Yanni, 21-10. The Assassins advanced on the play of quick guards Gerry Barca and Raki Nelson and the athletic play of the supporting cast of tall players, which includes Eric Chappell, Will Martin, and Tom Daigald.

If the win was any indication, this may be one team to be reckoned with as the tournament advances. Much like the other top-seeded teams playing yesterday, Assassins came out strong early on but slowed down their game in the second-half.

"We can't be that satisfied. We got lazy," said Downtown Assassin's Daigald. "We were blowing them out early and then got complacent."
Baseball

continued from page 20

games," said Coach Paul Mainieri with a sigh of relief. "But to their credit, these guys never let up; they have a lot of confidence." The nightcap proved to be a bit more profitable for Irish stalkers.

After scoring one run in the first inning and two in the second, the Irish sluggers baked apart Wildcat pitching for eight runs in the fourth. With two outs and the inning nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.

The fourth-inning assault led to a 14-3 Irish triumph. Sunday's showdown spelled imminent doom for Notre Dame. The Irish collapsed nearly over, the relentless Irish sent 12 batters to the plate, including grand slammer Mike Amrhein who crushed a bases-loaded home run for his third career slam.
Irish sweep St. John’s, split doubleheader with UConn

By ALLISON KRILLA
Sports Writer

This weekend the Notre Dame softball team headed east for two doubleheaders against Big East rivals St. John’s and North Division leader Connecticut. The squad took three of the four conference games to improve to 13-3 in the Big East and 28-19 overall.

Against the Red Storm, the Irish pounded out 26 hits in 12 innings, including four doubles and two home runs in game one. Catcher Kris McCleary led the way for Notre Dame, going 2-3 with a double and her first first-bagger of the season. Meghan Murray hit a solo home run and scored two runs in the victory, and Liz Perkins, Sarah Madson and Lisa Tully each added doubles. With the 11-1 defeat of St. John’s, Angela Russo picked up her team-leading twelfth win of the season, allowing one run on five hits. Kelly Nichols retired the side in the fifth to preserve the win.

In game two, a 7-0 win for the visiting Irish, the squad scored five runs in the first three innings and added two more in the seventh for the final tally. Murray once again propelled the Irish to victory with a double, two RBIs and one run scored. Kelly Rowe went 2-2 with two RBIs. Karrie Allen and Allison Starks each scored two runs. The victory was the major keys to the upset tournament, it often can affect the mental game of the team, pressure to perform in the tournament. It often can affect the mental game of the team, pressure to perform in the tournament.

In the third upset of the day, Notre Dame answered with a 3-1 win in the fourth when Tara King drove home Perkins with a single to centerfield. In the bottom of the fifth, an Irish error and back-to-back singles gave the Huskies a 2-1 lead. Notre Dame knotted the score in the top of the sixth with an unearned run off a Connecticut error. Another Notre Dame error in the sixth allowed Connecticut to regain the lead for good. Results allowed three runs on eight hits for the loss, dropping her record to 12-9.

Connecticut leaped out to a 2-0 lead in game two before Notre Dame answered with McCleary’s RBI double in the second inning and a pair of runs driven in by Mathison and McCleary in the fourth. In the fifth, the Irish broke the game open with Kara McMahon’s double and Perkins’s single to set up Murray’s three-run blast.

Katie Nichols relieved starter Batterby and picked up the win, improving her record to 9-4.

Two games against Butler on Wed., April 23 and a four-game series against Big East South Division rival Rutgers remain on the regular season schedule for the Irish before they return to Storrs, Conn. for the 1997 Big East softball championship.

For more information, call 272-1441
Summer leases Available

Campus View Apartments

We are now taking applications for NEXT YEAR!!

Furnished apartments - shuttle bus - central air - 326 hour laundry

Swimming pool/SPA • Tennis, volleyball, & basketball courts

FLEXIBLE LEASE PLANS

Apartments Available for your selection

Summer leases Available

We are now taking applications for NEXT YEAR!!

Furnished apartments - shuttle bus - central air - 326 hour laundry

Swimming pool/SPA • Tennis, volleyball, & basketball courts

FLEXIBLE LEASE PLANS

Apartments Available for your selection

For more information, call 272-1441

Summer leases Available

Turning Back the Clocks to the Glory Days of Baseball...

WEDNESDAY NIGHT!

NOTRE DAME

vs.

NORTHWESTERN

NOTRE DAME BASEBALL

7 PM, ECK STADIUM

• FREE ND collectors hats to the first 250 fans
• $1.00 hotdogs, popcorn, and pop
• First pitch thrown out by Tony Rice, member of 1988 National Championship football team
• See the Irish outfitted in ’50s uniforms
• 1950s cars parked outside the stadium
• One lucky fan will win a FREE mountain bike

FREE admission with ID* FREE admission with ID*
Clement Stokes (32, top and above right) recorded the top rushing performance in the scrimmage on Saturday. Stokes rushed 12 times for 65 yards, averaging 5.42 yards per carry.

(Left) Malcolm Johnson (6) was involved in many of the offensive plays of the game.
Jackson finds niche in offense

By BRIAN REINTHALER
Associated Press Lead

As expected, the first of the two Blue and Gold contests more closely resembled practice than an actual game. There were few offensive highlights and even fewer heavy hits from the defense.

Of course, it was understood before Saturday's intra-squad scrimmage began that the various offensive and defensive units would be focusing on specific aspects of the game, rather than attacking each play as they would in the course of a complete game. If there was a highlight of the game, it was Jarious Jackson's 80-yard touchdown pass to Malcolm Johnson on the Gold squad's first play from scrimmage.

After a short drive by the Blue team to open the game, Jackson and teammates took possession on their own 20 yard line. The rising junior took the snap from center and dropped back quickly lofting the ball over the shoulder of the streaking Johnson. The senior wide receiver caught the ball near his own 40 and proceeded to outrun the second string defensive backfield for the only touchdown in regulation.

Jackson went on to complete nine of 16 passes for 143 yards and no interceptions. Head coach Bob Davie was encouraged by Jackson's efforts.

"I was pleased with Jarious," Davey commented. "A lot of people have the misconception that Jarious is more of an option-style quarterback than he is a drop-back passer, but I think it's pretty obvious that Jarious Jackson has a strong arm."

Davey indicated that the new offensive system actually accentuates Jackson's talents -- which flies in the face of many speculations about the young quarterback's strengths.

"There's no change in scheme may benefit Jarious in the long run as much as it benefits anyone," explained Davie. "I think it's a great situation for Jarious to be in."

Jackson also displayed the ability to throw to a number of different receivers in various types of routes. On his nine completions, Jackson connected with four receivers other than Johnson.

Following the touchdown pass, Jackson completed his next two passes for 19 and seven yards -- both to sophomore Jay Johnson, who finished fourth in receiving yards among receivers on Saturday. Rake Nelson was the recipient of a 15-yard Jackson pass in the fourth quarter. Leading receiver Clement Stokes and fullback Ken Barry caught three and two balls, respectively.

Based on the way Jackson has adapted his game to the new look Irish attack, it appears that he will have no problem taking the reigns of the offense when his number is called. Davie expressed his enthusiasm about Jackson's potential for even greater development.

"Over the period of the next couple years," stated Davie, "I think you're going to see him develop into a top-notch quarterback."

If Jackson can deal with his somewhat limited role as the back-up to fifth-year senior, Dan Powlus for one more season, there is no reason to believe that Davey's prognosis could not become a reality.

And nothing would make Notre Dame fans happier.

---

Linebackers: D
Powlus saw more of Kory Minor than he would have liked as he recorded three sacks and five total tackles and looks like he'll be the playmaker next year. Lamont Bryant will help ease the pain of losing Bert Berry as he was all over the field with seven tackles and two sacks. Bobby Howard and Jimmy Friday also look like they'll fill the middle linebacker position as they combined for 10 tackles and one sack on the day.

Secondary: B-
After ignoring Johnson on the first play, they didn't allow another big play on the day, but they didn't make a big play either. A'Jani Sanders and Jarvis Edson looked like they're recovered from their injuries.

Special teams: D
Only time B was able to show some positive development was in the kickoff unit which produced no touchbacks and one punt return in the first half.

Coaching: B-
The new wide-open system of Jim Colletto amassed a total of 16 points and just one touchdown on the day. Mattison's defensive game plan gave the offensive lines fits. There's nothing they can do about the kicking game but pray.

---

"Joe Cava

Fifth-year senior Ron Powlus will return for another year as captain.

Captain continued from page 20

He gives me pointers on what I'm doing well and what I'm not. He's been like a big brother to me.

The 5-foot-7 bottled speed known as Allen Rossum will likely spend more of the field than the NBC TV timeout guy. Rossum burst onto the scene last year and the coaching staff is excited that him being named captain is "a natural thing," said Jordan.

"Allen. he is a general on the field because he plays on both offense and defense, and he has the best vision of the field," said Jordan. "He was a captain last year and had the only touchdown of the game."

"Although there are still roadblocks, they have all worked through those road blocks. They now have a team full of just good people."

"I think that the three of them was not a good sign, but we're in a tough situation we're battle back and do what we can."

"We have three captains but all of us share responsibility," Autry Denson said. "Actually everyone is a leader by example."

"The best thing about this team is that we have so many great guys on this team that the captains don't have to do much more than call the coin toss," Powlus said. "With these guys we have a bunch of leaders on the team, and we have a team of just good people."

"Powlus and Dansby's careers have been sidetracked by injuries while Rossum was criticized early in his career, but he has adapted his game to the new look Irish attack, it appears that he will have no problem taking the reigns of the offense when his number is called. Davie expressed his enthusiasm about Jackson's potential for even greater development."

"Over the period of the next couple years," stated Davie, "I think you're going to see him develop into a top-notch quarterback."

If Jackson can deal with his somewhat limited role as the back-up to fifth-year senior, Dan Powlus for one more season, there is no reason to believe that Davey's prognosis could not become a reality. And nothing would make Notre Dame fans happier.

Linebackers: A-
Powlus saw more of Kory Minor than he would have liked as he recorded three sacks and five total tackles and looks like he'll be the playmaker next year. Lamont Bryant will help ease the pain of losing Bert Berry as he was all over the field with seven tackles and two sacks. Bobby Howard and Jimmy Friday also look like they'll fill the middle linebacker position as they combined for 10 tackles and one sack on the day.

Secondary: B-
After ignoring Johnson on the first play, they didn't allow another big play on the day, but they didn't make a big play either. A'Jani Sanders and Jarvis Edson looked like they're recovered from their injuries.

Special teams: D
Only time B was able to show some positive development was in the kickoff unit which produced no touchbacks and one punt return in the first half.

Coaching: B-
The new wide-open system of Jim Colletto amassed a total of 16 points and just one touchdown on the day. Mattison's defensive game plan gave the offensive lines fits. There's nothing they can do about the kicking game but pray.

---

"Joe Cava

Fifth-year senior Ron Powlus will return for another year as captain.

Captain continued from page 20

He gives me pointers on what I'm doing well and what I'm not. He's been like a big brother to me.

The 5-foot-7 bottled speed known as Allen Rossum will likely spend more of the field than the NBC TV timeout guy. Rossum burst onto the scene last year and the coaching staff is excited that him being named captain is "a natural thing," said Jordan.

"Allen. he is a general on the field because he plays on both offense and defense, and he has the best vision of the field," said Jordan. "He was a captain last year and had the only touchdown of the game."

"Although there are still roadblocks, they have all worked through those road blocks. They now have a team full of just good people."

"I think that the three of them was not a good sign, but we're in a tough situation we're battle back and do what we can."

"We have three captains but all of us share responsibility," Autry Denson said. "Actually everyone is a leader by example."

"The best thing about this team is that we have so many great guys on this team that the captains don't have to do much more than call the coin toss," Powlus said. "With these guys we have a bunch of leaders on the team, and we have a team of just good people."

"Powlus and Dansby's careers have been sidetracked by injuries while Rossum was criticized early in his career, but he has adapted his game to the new look Irish attack, it appears that he will have no problem taking the reigns of the offense when his number is called. Davie expressed his enthusiasm about Jackson's potential for even greater development."

"Over the period of the next couple years," stated Davie, "I think you're going to see him develop into a top-notch quarterback."

If Jackson can deal with his somewhat limited role as the back-up to fifth-year senior, Dan Powlus for one more season, there is no reason to believe that Davey's prognosis could not become a reality. And nothing would make Notre Dame fans happier.

Linebackers: A-
Powlus saw more of Kory Minor than he would have liked as he recorded three sacks and five total tackles and looks like he'll be the playmaker next year. Lamont Bryant will help ease the pain of losing Bert Berry as he was all over the field with seven tackles and two sacks. Bobby Howard and Jimmy Friday also look like they'll fill the middle linebacker position as they combined for 10 tackles and one sack on the day.

Secondary: B-
After ignoring Johnson on the first play, they didn't allow another big play on the day, but they didn't make a big play either. A'Jani Sanders and Jarvis Edson looked like they're recovered from their injuries.

Special teams: D
Only time B was able to show some positive development was in the kickoff unit which produced no touchbacks and one punt return in the first half.

Coaching: B-
The new wide-open system of Jim Colletto amassed a total of 16 points and just one touchdown on the day. Mattison's defensive game plan gave the offensive lines fits. There's nothing they can do about the kicking game but pray.

---

"Joe Cava

Fifth-year senior Ron Powlus will return for another year as captain.

Captain continued from page 20

He gives me pointers on what I'm doing well and what I'm not. He's been like a big brother to me.

The 5-foot-7 bottled speed known as Allen Rossum will likely spend more of the field than the NBC TV timeout guy. Rossum burst onto the scene last year and the coaching staff is excited that him being named captain is "a natural thing," said Jordan.

"Allen. he is a general on the field because he plays on both offense and defense, and he has the best vision of the field," said Jordan. "He was a captain last year and had the only touchdown of the game."

"Although there are still roadblocks, they have all worked through those road blocks. They now have a team full of just good people."

"I think that the three of them was not a good sign, but we're in a tough situation we're battle back and do what we can."

"We have three captains but all of us share responsibility," Autry Denson said. "Actually everyone is a leader by example."

"The best thing about this team is that we have so many great guys on this team that the captains don't have to do much more than call the coin toss," Powlus said. "With these guys we have a bunch of leaders on the team, and we have a team of just good people."

"Powlus and Dansby's careers have been sidetracked by injuries while Rossum was criticized early in his career, but he has adapted his game to the new look Irish attack, it appears that he will have no problem taking the reigns of the offense when his number is called. Davie expressed his enthusiasm about Jackson's potential for even greater development."

"Over the period of the next couple years," stated Davie, "I think you're going to see him develop into a top-notch quarterback."

If Jackson can deal with his somewhat limited role as the back-up to fifth-year senior, Dan Powlus for one more season, there is no reason to believe that Davey's prognosis could not become a reality. And nothing would make Notre Dame fans happier.
Jacksonville selects Wynn, No. 21 in first round

By MIKE DAY
Sports Editor

Renaldo Wynn rolled the dice, and it paid off — big time.

A year ago, the Notre Dame defensive end could have played it safe and declared himself eligible for the NFL draft. While he most likely would not have been selected until the fourth or fifth round, Wynn would have been assured of a nice contract and future security.

Instead, Wynn opted to return for a final year, risking an injury that would have ruined his NFL career while costing him thousands of dollars. Indeed, it was a bold move.

But as the saying goes, all good things go to those who wait.

Wynn was nothing short of dominant in his senior year, earning team MVP honors for his performance. He added size and strength to help make him a more valuable commodity.

On Saturday afternoon, Wynn was rewarded for his hard work and patience. The Jacksonville Jaguars selected the 6-foot-2, 290-pound star with the 21st pick of the first round. And to the victor goes the spoils (i.e. millions of dollars).

"This is a lifelong dream, to be able to provide for my family," said Wynn. "That's a beautiful thing. To be doing something that I love to do, you can't ask for anything better than that.

"I'm just so happy that he made the right decision," said Irish head coach Bob Davie. "A year ago, he was projected as a fourth round draft pick, and I'm so happy for him. That's a great success story.

The weekend's draft provided good news for other Notre Dame seniors as well. Marc Edwards, the first fullback taken in the draft, was selected by San Francisco with the 25th pick of the second round.

"I had no idea," said Edwards after being chosen by the Niners. "I found out two seconds before the announcement.

Linebackers Bert Berry and Kinnie Tatum were selected on consecutive picks in the latter part of the third round. Berry was taken by Indianapolis before Carolina snatched Tatum with the 87th pick of the first round.

"I knew something would happen," said Berry. "I just needed to be patient. I just want to come in, play some linebacker, and take the Colts to the Super Bowl."

Tight end Pete Chryplewicz, chosen by Detroit with the fifth pick of the fifth round, was the only other Notre Dame player selected in the two day draft. Jeremy Akers, Lyron Cobbins, Robert Farmer, and Randy Kinder will likely try to sign on somewhere as free agents.

The South Bend Tribune contributed to this report.

University of Notre Dame

G.P.A.

Guitar Players Association

G.P.A. is a new club for students and faculty at Notre Dame, Saint Mary's and Holy Cross College.

- Free guitar lessons starting Fall '97
- Yearly raffles of guitars and books
- Technique workshops
- Guest lecturers
- And more...

Interest Meeting

Tonight!
Monday, April 21, 1997
7:30-8:30 p.m.
Notre Dame Room
(2nd floor of LaFortune Student Center on the campus of Notre Dame)

More information available at:
http://www.nd.edu/~juggin1/gpa/
Gold outruns Blue in 10-6 victory

By MIKE DAY
Sports Editor

It was hardly a thing of beauty. Nevertheless, Notre Dame head coach Bob Davie left Saturday's annual Blue & Gold game with a smile on his face.

The new coach unveiled a new era of Irish football to over 5,000 fans at Carter Field, and although the game was far from mistake-free, Davie still found something to smile about in Gold's 10-6 victory over Blue.

"Overall, I'm pleased with our performance today," said Davie. "There are some areas out there that we need to work on. But right now, I feel we're right where we should be."

Second-team quarterback Jarious Jackson, who completed 9-of-16 passes for 141 yards, was largely responsible for the grin on Dave's face. On Gold's first play from scrimmage, Jackson hit Malcolm Johnson in stride, and the 6-foot-4, 223-pound receiver raced down the sideline for an 80-yard touchdown.

"I was able to get open, and he got the ball to me on the run," said Johnson. "It turned out to be a pretty easy score. It felt good to start things out on a good note."

That was the end of the offensive fireworks, however. Well aware that the two offenses would be throwing at each other, the defenses were able to get up on the line and bear down on what was shown today. The defenses were two teams combined for just 349 total yards, but both the Blue and Gold squads had their moments.

Irish pound Wildcats in sweep

BY T. RYAN KENNEDY
Sports Writer

Each time Notre Dame chased the four-run gap, Villanova added a couple of runs to maintain its lead. But a team can only stand firm under nerve-racking pressure for so long.

The sluggers of Notre Dame chipped away at Villanova for six innings, then pounded the Wildcats for five runs in the seventh, finishing what he started.

"It's been a lot of close games but being able to come out on top is what's important," said coach John Flood. "The team is starting to gel and we're starting to play better together."