Committee tackles bevy of residence life issues

By DEREK BETCHER

The Residence Life Committee reported progress on several fronts — among them dining times, laundry in move-in, parking and social space reclassification — at yesterday's Student Senate meeting.

Most of the news stemmed from an earlier meeting between Morrissey senator Matt Szabo, Knott senator Matt Tomko, director of food services David Tomko and South Dining Hall general manager William Yarbrough.

The meeting was in response to a letter the senators sent recommending adjusted dining times for the dining halls.

"It sounds like he's very open to making some changes," Tomko said. "Hopefully we'll see some changes as early as next semester."

Keeping lunch open until 2 p.m. and extending breakfast grab-and-go until 11 a.m. were among the senate leader's proposals that Prentkowski told Szabo and Tomko he is willing to seriously examine.

The most significant part of the meeting is that [Prentkowski] is really willing to use the senate and come to us for input on this issue," Szabo told the senate.

Immediate, tangible improvements also resulted from the meeting: Szabo announced to the senate that Food Services agreed to extend Huddle hours one hour further into the morning.

Beginning Monday, the Huddle will remain open until 2 a.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays and until 3 a.m. on Thursday through Sunday.

see SENATE / page 4

New savings plan to tackle college funds

State treasurer Joyce Brinkman announced last week implementation of the Indiana Family College Savings Plan, a new state program to help Indiana parents save for their children's postsecondary education.

"Today, we took the first step to help Hoosier families meet the educational needs of the 21st century," Brinkman said during a press conference in Notre Dame's Center for Continuing Education.

The plan is intended to encourage parents to start saving earlier for their children's education. For an initial investment of $50, parents can begin participating in the plan when the child is an infant.\n
"It sounds like he's very open to making some changes," Tomko said. "Hopefully we'll see some changes as early as next semester."

"The earnings on their contributions continue to compound the entire life of the plan."

An important advantage to the Indiana Family College Savings Plan is that federal and state income taxes on earnings are deferred until withdrawals.

see BUSINESS / page 4

Saint Mary's lectures continue to focus on diversity

By ERIKA WITTORF

Noemi Sohn, a self-described "Jack of all trades" and the first Filipina to ever lecture at Saint Mary's College, discussed diversity, gender, race, sexuality, and class at a lecture held last night in Carroll Auditorium.

Along with conducting workshops, Sohn has also counseled rape and domestic violence victims and people with disabilities. In addition, she has programmed for television shows and is currently working on a documentary.

Sohn was born in the Philippines and moved to Berkeley, Calif., when she was three years old. She found it very difficult growing up being a "woman of color" with a disability.

"This society does not appreciate diversity," Sohn said. "At an early age, I found it hard to articulate how I felt about my situation. At the age of 40, I am now beginning to find my voice."

Despite the fact that she fied into minority categories by being Filipino and having cerebral palsy, she is not partial to any one issue.

"I do not look in the mirror every morning and say, 'I'll be taking up for women's issues today.' I choose to look at the issues as a whole and not to single issues out," Sohn explained.

She realizes that the problems of diversity, gender, race, sexuality, and class are ongoing, and it is important to address them every day.

"I was listening to a talk radio show the other day. The gentleman conducting the interview was commenting on the fact that President Clinton always addresses race issues in the presence of black people. I don't understand why Clinton doesn't address the issue in front of white people," Sohn said.

One of the issues that Sohn addressed in her lecture was the implementation of diversity into collegiate student bodies.

"It behooves universities to start taking proactive steps to ensure this," Sohn said.
Lovelyn teen kills three, wounds six in rampage

PEABODY, Mass. - A teenage-aged stabber, his mother is death, then went to school Wednesday with a rifle under his trench coat and opened fire, killing his former girlfriend and another student and wounding six others, police said.

Luke Woodham, 16, was distraught over a breakup with his girlfriend, Police Chief Bill Slade said, choking back tears as he talked about the rampage in this town of 22,000 people just outside Jackson. He "gave us a statement, and his manifesto was that he felt he had been wronged," the chief said.

Woodham was arrested as he drove away in his dead mother's car and was charged with murder and aggravated assault.

The shootings at Pearl High School began about 8:10 a.m. as buses arrived.

---

Screening could help CF patients

Routine screening of newborns for cystic fibrosis could prevent malnutrition among infants with the disease, a study found. Cystic fibrosis is one of America's most common fatal inherited diseases. It allows mucus to clog the lungs and also affects the pancreas, harming digestion and the absorption of vitamins. Without treatment, most patients die of infant or childhood infections or lung fibractions. Routine screening is offered only in Wisconsin and California now because a 1983 task force appointed by the American Thoracic Society recommended it. However, a study in Thursday's New England Journal of Medicine found that a newer screening test allows infants to be diagnosed much earlier and get a head start on nutritional and therapy treatments. The evidence has accumulated that early diagnosis and treatment are beneficial and that screening probably saves money and curries no harm of its own," wrote Dr. Jeanette Eankert-Roelse of Free University.

---

Nestle takes chocolate toys off market

Under pressure from state attorneys general and the Food and Drug Administration, Nestle USA announced Wednesday it will pull off the market the chocolate candies with Disney toys like Hercules hidden inside. Nestle insisted the chocolates were safe. And the fact has made it unpopular with parts of the oil industry, and the ethanol additive, through

---

Madden's Telestrator, the Secret Service and his egos?

"I'm sorry and was not shooting anybody in particular," King said. "My apologizer, I was not targeting at all. I was just inside the front door of the imposing house. The police say they pelted her house, first with stones and finally with but­

---

PHILADELPHIA

The AccuWeather
Forecast for today, Thursday, Oct. 2.

Lines separate high temperature zones for the day.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Tonight:
Phoenix 58 West
---

---

At a breakup with his girlfriend, witnesses said.

---

LONDON

For three years, Kelly Yeomans endured taunts of "fatty." Her teenage tormentors threw salt in her school lunch and dumped her clothes in the garbage. Last week they pelted her house, first with stones and finally with but­

---

WASHINGTON

The Senate Finance Committee agreed Wednesday to extend a tax break for ethanol, the corn-based fuel additive, through 2007, a move strongly criticized by the chief executive of the House. By a vote of 20, the panel support­

---

WASHINGTON

For teenagers, entered the large commons area just inside the front door of the imposing school and immediately locked up his former girlfriend, witnesses said. Police said she was the first to fall, followed by three young men and four young women apparently shot at random.

---

WASHINGTON

Better yet, could they all fit into the room with their egos?

"I'm not sure what the best way to win a game?" Could this bring the end of an era that an Atlanta Brave does not win the Cy Young Award? If the voice mail lady paid more attention, she would ever have to say, "Tell my, I didn't get your pass code. Please try again?"

Could this be the end of the expensive on the field player?

---

WASHINGTON

Lines separate high temperature zones for the day.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

---

MONTREAL

Some people argue homophobia is a disor­

Stations: 80 60 40

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

---

WASHINGTON

The Senate Finance Committee agreed Wednesday to extend a tax break for ethanol, the corn-based fuel additive, through 2007, a move strongly criticized by the chief executive of the House. By a vote of 20, the panel support­

---

WASHINGTON

For teenagers, entered the large commons area just inside the front door of the imposing school and immediately locked up his former girlfriend, witnesses said. Police said she was the first to fall, followed by three young men and four young women apparently shot at random.

---

WASHINGTON

Better yet, could they all fit into the room with their egos?

"I'm not sure what the best way to win a game?" Could this bring the end of an era that an Atlanta Brave does not win the Cy Young Award? If the voice mail lady paid more attention, she would ever have to say, "Tell my, I didn't get your pass code. Please try again?"

Could this be the end of the expensive on the field player?
Events highlight Hispanic Heritage Month

By CHRISTOPHER SHIPLEY

The celebration of Hispanic Heritage Month has given members of La Alianza, the Latino student organization on campus, the opportunity to provide numerous events in their attempt to raise multicultural awareness.

Local observance of Hispanic Heritage Month began on September 7th with a La Alianza sponsored "Welcome Back" picnic and a general first meeting of La Alianza on September 9th.

Other events for the month have included the September 13 concert of Toledo, a Cuban jazz guitarist, a forum on Mexican independence and Latino studies on September 16, a perspective of "new Latinos" by Irene Fenravia on September 18, and series of movie nights designed to raise awareness on several Latino issues.

"There have been a lot of positive experiences," said John Fernandez, the president of La Alianza. "We have had a lot of people who have never attended a general meeting show up for events. We needed to teach on other aspects of the Latino community, not just the Mexican." La Alianza also produced the forum "Latinos in Business and Media" on September 25. The night, which featured students from the Hispanic Business Student Association and Mexican American Engineering Students, was designed to spark community interest in the Latino population and the disciplines with a profound effect on society.

Hispanic Heritage Month is being recognized nationally this year from September 12 to October 12. This month, which pays tribute to accomplishments of Latino culture, has been nationally observed since the Lyndon B. Johnson Administration.

The month-long series of activities will conclude on October 4 with a regional high school conference on issues facing Latino students in South Bend. This will be the second year for the conference, which is expanding due to high demand over the program. Representatives from each of the five area high schools will address topics such as making a college decision, starting a minority group within a school, and community changes like drugs, violence, and pregnancy.

"The conference is an opportunity for high school students and parents to get together and share their experiences," Fernandez said.

"I think that the people who did the planning this year did an excellent job," said Kevin Huse, Assistant Director of the Alumni Association. "Especially this early in the year, it is a difficult thing to plan and pull off.

Sponsorship of events has also come from the Alumni Association, the Hispanic Alumni Association of Notre Dame, the Mexican American Engineering Students, and the Hispanic Business Student Association.
Fund continued from page 1

have become the norm throughout the Notre Dame's director of financial aid. Joseph Russo, commented. "Practically every state has initiated a program to help students save for college tuition.

Russo stressed the benefit of allowing tax-deferred contributions from income. "That's a major tax incentive for those students," he said. He applauded the Indiana program for encouraging parents to begin saving early, for providing more college options to students, and for reducing the growing expense of higher education.

He cautioned, however, that there are fees involved in set-ing up an account, as well as a penalty of 10 percent of interest accrued for early withdrawal. Although the Indiana program may not be the ideal solution for every family, "We would certainly endorse any program that helps parents save for college," Russo concluded.

According to Connie Koloszar, at the office of student accounts, the current cost of tuition at Notre Dame is $19,800 per year and housing costs are $6,102. The annual rate of increase in tuition over the past 10 years has remained steady at five to eight percent and is expected to continue at that rate into the 21st century.

Most students currently meet University expenses through a combination of resources, including contributions from par-ten savings and financial aid. Many families resort to heavy borrowing.

In the future, as educational costs increase, programs such as Indiana's will offer a viable option for reducing the need for some of this borrowing. Said Brinkman, "The Indiana General Assembly is to be commended most of all for recognizing the need to give Hoosier families a vehicle for saving for their children's future education."

Business continued from page 1

examples of student service organizations, he focused on the increasing membership of the student chapter of Habitat for Humanity, the success of Christmas in August and the growing popularity of the Alliance for Catholic Education program. He also pointed out, however, the 45 social agencies of the South Bend community and the benefits reaped when the community and the University join together on these projects.

"The Homeless Center of South Bend stands as a monument to times when a community with a basic goodness works with a university with a basic goodness," he said.

According to Sexton, "We have a two-way street going on here." One half of that street depends on student committment to social projects. The other half lies in the commitment of the Michiana community and its corporate leaders.

As examples of the first side of this two-way street efforts, Sexton introduced Autry Denson, who spent this past summer working with the National Youth Sports Programs here at Notre Dame. He said Denson helped the corporate leaders, explaining how community service programs "elevate the gap between Notre Dame students and the community."

Sexton also introduced Karen Dubay, a 1995 alumna and current assistant rectress of McGinn Hall. Dubay spoke of her experiences with the Northeast Neighborhood project, but emphasized that Notre Dame's commitment to service does not end with South Bend. "This is really about the issue as opposed to a conve-ience issue," said Sazbo.

"It's been an eyeopener for the University to see what we can as a university to be good neighbors and citizens and to maximize the potential of our staff and student body."

In addition to offering suggestions for improvements, the students asked if anything could be done to alleviate crowding in SDH. Students need to eat at North Dining Hall "as often as they can, especially during lunch," the food service officials said.

"Laundry in men's dorms emerged as another concern for the Residence Life Committee. Keenan senator Matt Mamak contacted Food Services vendor director Dean Winters and reported to the senate that allocating washers and dryers is not a problem. Space and utility hookups in the dorms are the problem," Winters cited.

"In Dillon, we've seen four college dorms go up in our back yard," said O'Hara.
Police beat peaceful protesters

Clubs and tear gas used to calm Albanian Serbs

By KATARINA KRATOVAC
Associated Press Writer

PRISTINA

Serb police used clubs and tear gas in this southern city Wednesday to break up the biggest show of dissent in years by Yugoslavia’s increasingly fractious ethnic Albanian minority. In Belgrade, a second day of protests also ended in violence.

The clashes were the second time in as many days that Serbian police have violently put down protests against President Slobodan Milosevic. Dozens of people were injured in Pristina as riot police in full gear waded into a peaceful protest by 20,000 people who ignored an order to disperse, demanding the right to an Albanian-language education at Pristina University. Within minutes, the Pristina suburb of Velanija, the gathering point for what was to be a march into the city, was deserted except for hundreds of police with shields and helmets. In Pristina itself, hundreds of police were deployed.

The protesters were mostly young ethnic Albanians who attend an underground college because the official university teaches in Serbo-Croatian, rather than Albanian, the language of the overwhelming majority of Kosovo’s population. A number of student leaders were detained and badly beaten before being released. Later Wednesday, they announced an indefinite halt to their protests, saying this was decided after consultations with Western ambassadors from Belgrade. It was the worst clash between Serbs and Albanians since Serbia stripped Kosovo of autonomy in 1989. Then, at least 25 people were killed when the Serbs turned tanks and heavily armed forces on protesting Albanians.

American chemist receives award

Activist wins 'Alternative Nobel' prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden

An American chemicals activist so sickened by pesticides that she has not been able to go outside for eight years was named Wednesday as a winner of the Right Livelihood Award. Ingrid Doutriant of Epqing, N. D., was one of five people cited for the award, widely considered the “alternative Nobel.” Other winners were Joseph Ki-Zerbo of Burkina Faso, founder of the Center for Studies of African Development; German environmentalist Michael Surow, and Myde Schmieder of France and Jigahiro Takagi of Japan, jointly cited for their work against the use of plutonium.

Each citation carries a cash award of $60,000. The award was established in 1980 by Jakob von Uexkull, a Swedish philately expert, who sold his stamp collection to fund recognition of pursuits he believed were ignored by the Nobel priem. A jury of several people with an interest in such issues was appointed by the foundation.

Doutriant was training to be a doctor in 1985 when she was poisoned by a pesticide used to treat her apartment for fleas. She developed extreme sensitivity to chemicals; even exposure to detergents and perfumes can send her into seizures.

Although she has not been able to leave her sealed, filtered house since 1989, she has done extensive work on education and advocacy for others injured by chemicals. She founded the Environmental Access Research Network, which is now the research division of the Chemical Injury Network. Ki-Zerbo, who also is an opposition member of parliament in his impoverished West African country, was cited for promoting development strategies that run counter to the Western development model often imposed on Africa. “Growth strategies which ignore the people’s authentic culture can only end in schizophrenia,” the Right Livelihood Foundation said.

Happy Birthday Kelli!

21!

Love,
Mom, Dad,
Tracy, Shawn,
Ryan, Erin

Contact your career placement office today to schedule an interview, or check out our website at www.rayjobs.com.
Calendar of Events

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Event Description</th>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Time</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rejoice! Black Catholic Mass</td>
<td>Sunday, Oct. 5</td>
<td>4:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Respect Life Sunday - Life Chain, Ironwood Road</td>
<td>Sunday, Oct. 5</td>
<td>2:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Francis Day - The Living Rosary and Community Service at “There Are Children Here”</td>
<td>Saturday, Oct. 4</td>
<td>11:30 am</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Filipino American Student Organization Retreat</td>
<td>Saturday-Sunday, Oct. 4-5</td>
<td>1:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Misa En Español - Spanish Mass</td>
<td>Sunday, Oct. 5</td>
<td>1:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notre Dame Encounter Retreat #47</td>
<td>Friday-Sunday, Oct. 3-5</td>
<td>1:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pen Dulce y Alegre</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weekly Eucharistic Adoration</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campus Ministry is sponsoring a 24-hour period of Eucharistic Adoration in Fisher Hall Chapel.</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Twenty-Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Mass

Eucharistic Adoration and Service

10/2/97

There is a long-standing tradition at Notre Dame of deep respect for and full participation in the Mass.

Mass with parents and students is the main celebration of Freshman Orientation and the first mass of the year. Mass with faculty and students is the principal way we mark the beginning of a new academic year, and Mass with faculty, parents and students always signals the beginning of our Commencement Exercises at the end of the year.

In between these celebrated Masses on major occasions, we have the beautiful liturgies on weekdays and Sundays at the Basilica. Hundreds of students take part in the Mass as members of choirs, altar servers, Eucharistic ministers and greeters... a wonderful service they offer with respect and reverence to the Church and to many hundreds more of their fellow students.

And, of course, of exceptional and singular significance to Notre Dame students as well, are the weekday and Sunday liturgies celebrated in each of the residence halls. These powerful celebrations of Mass with friends are special moments in our life and experience them. Most student participants in their residence hall Masses feel closer to God and to each other during these moments than they can ever remember feeling before.

The Mass is our central act of worship as Catholics, as the Catechism of the Catholic Church teaches.

Each time we celebrate the Mass together, whether in an elaborate or a simple setting, we participate in the most astonishing and awe-inspiring experience available to any man or woman. Why? Because at the command and invitation of Jesus Christ and through the words and the actions of the priest who acts in the name of the Church and gathered believers, the life-giving effects of the passion, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ become immediately available to us. And so it will be until the end of human history.

At Mass we celebrate and acknowledge Jesus Christ as savior, brother and Son of God, in a way that is unparalleled in any other act of prayer or devotion available to us.

We believe that at Mass we remember the events that make us one with Jesus Christ and with each other as nothing else ever will or can. And in that remembrance what we remember actually becomes present to us. It brings about in our lives, in full measure, what the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ brought about for all people two millennia ago.

This is why so many holy men and women of all ages have placed frequent celebration of the Eucharist at the center of their lives: Thomas Aquinas, Dorothy Day, Mother Teresa, Vincent de Paul—to name but a few among millions. For these men and women, and for us, Mass is the principal way we center the words and actions of our lives on the words and actions of Jesus Christ himself. This way, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, the Church as God’s people carry on and continue the mission of Jesus Christ in simple ways that take on transcendent meaning and import.

The Mass is the source and the summit of what we are and of who we can become if we but imitate the words and the actions of Jesus Christ in our own lives.

The Mass is the source and the summit of every prayer, devotion and act of service. It is why simple acts of service to a brother or sister become human actions offered to the person of Jesus Christ himself.

The Church has promoted Eucharistic Adoration so that we remember and celebrate all these things that are at the core of who we are as disciples of Jesus.

The Body and the Blood of Jesus Christ—the Body broken for us and the Blood shed to make us one with God and with each other—become a reality at every Mass. Through our service, whether that assistance is offered at LaGone Center, through the Urban Plunge, as a catechist, as an R.A., or as a member of one of our Basilica or residence hall choirs, we tend to the broken bodies of our human family even as Jesus did. We help raise minds and hearts to worship and praise our God, and we minister to the least among us, who are the most important in the eyes of God, in imitation of and in the name of Jesus Christ.

The Mass enables and empowers us to bring about the effects of the mission of Jesus Christ here and now.

How privileged we are to be members of a community where Mass is celebrated so often and where young people are surrounded by so many other young people every time Eucharist is celebrated.

How privileged we are to be members of a community where Mass is celebrated so often and where young people are surrounded by scores of other young people each and every time we reach out to another.

Mass and service are intimately related for the Church and for us at Notre Dame.

The Mass is the central act of all worship, and therefore, of every prayer, act of service, moment of Eucharistic Adoration, and word of comfort offered to another in the name of Jesus.

(Rev.) Richard V. Warner, C.S.C.
Clinton to improve food safety

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON

Faced with soaring food imports, disease-tainted produce and fast fewer safety inspections, the Clinton administration is moving aggressively to police the world’s food supply. Under a plan President Clinton is to announce Thursday, the government would spend up to $24 million inspecting farms overseas. Those failing to meet certain food-safety standards would not be allowed to import to the United States.

U.S. farmers also would face new sanitation guidelines. The Associated Press has learned, in part to forestall any complaints that the United States would hold foreign farmers to higher standards.

Critics charge that the food plan is an effort to counter opposition to free-trade legislation Clinton has pending in Congress. They argue that the U.S. food supply already is the world’s safest.

"Clearly, being the world food police complicates the trade environment we operate in," said John Aguirre of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. Risks from food imports are low enough that "this is unworkable," he added. But the Food and Drug Administration, which has been pushing for the changes since 1993, said it has kept pace with American food supply.

"The whole infrastructure of food safety needs to be strengthened," said Associate Commissioner William Hubbard.

FD&A figures show budget constraints made its inspections of domestic food supplies plummet from 27,000 in 1994 to just 5,000 last year. Foreign food imports have doubled to 2.2 million shipments a year since 1992, while FDA border inspections were cut in half.

The name for products or services offered by companies. Schedules subject to change. AAdvantage program rules, regulations, travel awards and special offers reserves the right to change AAdvantage program rules, regulations, travel awards and special offers.

Grand jury checks into Hudson Foods

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON

A federal grand jury is investigating whether Hudson Foods Inc. tried to hide the extent of potential E. coli Summarization in what eventually became the nation’s biggest meat recall.

Tom Monaghan, the U.S. attorney for Nebraska, issued a statement saying the investigation arose from information received last month from the Agriculture Department’s inspector general regarding the August recall of 25 million pounds of hamburger produced in Nebraska, yesterday.

"It is has in the past, Hudson Foods is in the process of being sold to Arkansas rival Tyson Foods Co.

 samt

Amway Corporation

Entry level accountant or analyst positions.

Amway’s global operations provide stimulating opportunities for accountants and analysts in a variety of areas including financial reporting, pricing, global operations analysis, management accounting & analysis, Activity Based Costing, cash management, international accounting and budget performance planning. All members of Amway’s Financial Services division have the best available technology at their disposal.

Position Requirements:

All interested students must be eligible to work in the United States, regardless of citizenship status. Grade point average a minimum of 3.0 on a 4.0 scale, and you must bring a copy of your most recent transcript to your interview.

Overview of Company:

Amway Corporation is one of the world's largest direct selling companies with operations in 75 countries and territories, and more than 13,000 employees worldwide. More than two million Amway distributors market Amway products in such fields as home care, health & fitness, commercial line products and catalog shopping. Amway is a privately held company with estimated annual sales in excess of $6.8 billion.

See Career & Placement Services for an appointment.

Savings

Would you like to experience the excitement and opportunity of American Airlines as a College SAAver Fares traveler? We've got a special treat for you! Get a special savings of $275 off round-trip tickets anywhere American Airlines in the U.S. on the American Eagle, for students and recent graduates.

Visit us on the web and find out how to win six free* round-trip tickets anywhere American Airlines in the U.S. on the American Eagle, for students and recent graduates.

Free Entry into Sweepstakes when you're approved for a no-annual-fee Citibank credit card.

You Returned Your Roommate's New Car In Less Than Mint Condition.

www.americanair.com/college

When You Gotta Get Out Of Town.

American Airlines' American Eagle

Win Six Free Tickets

Visit us on the web and book your ticket on http://www.americanair.com/college. Sign up for six free tickets to America's only fast and easy flight to any destination within 224 miles of the continental U.S. See website for rules and specifics.

Special Low Air Fares

Sign up for College SAAver Fares and get exclusive special savings to selected destinations via email.

Receive Travel Certificates

Receive College SAAver Fares certificates when you're approved for a no-annual-fee Citibank credit card.

Collect Advantage Miles

Earn the Advantage travel rewards program and get the most miles for your money, ways to travel for less with American.

American Airlines
Rich American Girl Gets Ready to Shed Her Skin

12:56 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1, Cochin, India.

I can’t believe that today I’m starting classes. After five weeks of hotel hopping and riding down a bouncy bus with the same 27 people, I actually have a room I can call my own. Room 44, Seafort Hotel.

Cochin is not at all the city I thought it would be. It’s nice. We’ve seen a wide spectrum of India these last weeks of traveling. From the beauty of the Himalayas, the poverty in the streets, the amazing ride through the tea fields to teach attacks in a tiger reserve, I’ve seen the best and worst of this country. I’ve seen the best and worst of this country.

Yet, for some people, they have a college education. Biochemistry, mathematics, architecture, literature, accounting, everything under the sun, and what are they doing? Standing their plight (As if I won’t just think that would make me sickening it seems to me now). It’s just ignorance, or pure laziness, I think that I’ve gone at least a week much more grateful when I get back to America! That’s such a difficult word, and I can’t wait to go back to it, and I can’t wait to go home.

As American as I am, I did do something very “Indian” today. I got my nose pierced. Ouch! It hurt bad. Don’t let any one tell you differently. A good thing is that instead of $60 in the U.S. it cost me $6 (or 200 rupees). I had no idea it would be such a project. First, I went to about a million jewelry stores looking for a stud to my piercing. They have no concept of small. Finally, I found one, bought it and waited. Some strange man came out. I think he does it too. The girl was ready for us. Two girls went before me, then my turn. Fifteen minutes later, three men with their fingers up my nose, one flashlight, many pictures and tears later I’m brand new with my small diamond stud on (my right side representing womanhood instead of man). Like I said before: Ouch! It’s sore and tender now, but soon I think I’ll actually like it. It’s all on one side. I can’t wait to go back to Breck and Judy to see that one, they’re going to kill me. I just pray I don’t get cold.

Anyway, that’s the lowdown on Cochin. I’m already beginning to fall in love with this part of India as I did with the rest. My new project here is shedding my thick American skin, stop making predictions and just live it. I guess that’s all I can do.

Juliana Vodicka

spectrum of India these last weeks of traveling. From the beauty of the Himalayas, the poverty in the streets, the amazing ride through the tea fields to teach attacks in a tiger reserve, I’ve seen the best and worst of this country. I’ve seen the best and worst of this country. Yet, for some people, they have a college education. Biochemistry, mathematics, architecture, literature, accounting, everything under the sun, and what are they doing? Standing their plight (As if I won’t just think that would make me sickening it seems to me now). It’s just ignorance, or pure laziness, I think that I’ve gone at least a week much more grateful when I get back to America! That’s such a difficult word, and I can’t wait to go back to it, and I can’t wait to go home.

As American as I am, I did do something very “Indian” today. I got my nose pierced. Ouch! It hurt bad. Don’t let any one tell you differently. A good thing is that instead of $60 in the U.S. it cost me $6 (or 200 rupees). I had no idea it would be such a project. First, I went to about a million jewelry stores looking for a stud to my piercing. They have no concept of small. Finally, I found one, bought it and waited. Some strange man came out. I think he does it too. The girl was ready for us. Two girls went before me, then my turn. Fifteen minutes later, three men with their fingers up my nose, one flashlight, many pictures and tears later I’m brand new with my small diamond stud on (my right side representing womanhood instead of man). Like I said before: Ouch! It’s sore and tender now, but soon I think I’ll actually like it. It’s all on one side. I can’t wait to go back to Breck and Judy to see that one, they’re going to kill me. I just pray I don’t get cold.

Anyway, that’s the lowdown on Cochin. I’m already beginning to fall in love with this part of India as I did with the rest. My new project here is shedding my thick American skin, stop making predictions and just live it. I guess that’s all I can do.

Juliana Vodicka is a junior English and theology major. Her column appears every other Thursday. The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

"For of those to whom much is given, much is required."
—John F. Kennedy
charged with eight capital felonies, and barring his commuting appeal. It is likely that a jury of 12 individuals will be forced to decide whether he lives or dies. Once again, our society will be forced to confront this state of affairs. As the trial progresses, it is sure to bring all of the federal trial of Terry Nichols for his role in the Oklahoma City bombing. The families of these victims can never have adequate compensation for the people they loved are gone. As tragic as that is, watching another person die will not change that.

Similarly, one of the most common defenses of the death penalty is that the punishment must fit the crime. But once again, in capital cases, particularly extreme ones like Oklahoma City, fulfilling such an obligation becomes impossible. The more serious a crime is, the more plausible the concept of equal punishment becomes. Quite simply, there are limits on what we can consider fit and criminal. If the laws of nature didn’t exist, there would be no need to worry about the justice of the punishment.

It is time to redirect ourselves away from making such an obligation a prerequisite. The Constitution outlines a set of rules within which the death penalty is allowed to exist, but it doesn’t make it mandatory. The conclusion we must reach is that the Constitution allows a death penalty, but it does not require one.

As the preeminent law enforcement leader in the Oklahoma City community at large, we as members of this community have lost sight of the bigger picture. While the death penalty is a topic of discussion, it is up to all of us to ensure that the death penalty is used fairly and justly. The question of whether or not capital punishment is the appropriate punishment for murder is a matter of personal conviction.

No person, by taking another person’s life, has the right to take another person’s life. However, if someone steps beyond that set of rules, then what can’t we do? It’s a precedent I feel uncomfortable with. All the while, we are undermining the legitimacy of GLND/SMC and the pro-Human rights arguments.

The view expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily that of The Observer.

Scott Cullen is a junior Arts and Letters major at Notre Dame. His column appears every other Thursday.
The End of Violence

Judging from the cover of The End of Violence, songs from the motion picture Soundtrack are not in evidence that this is no ordinary soundtrack.

The seeming allusion to Edward Hopper’s famous painting of loneliness and abandonment, “Nighthawks,” creates expectations of mood for the album that are similar to those in Hopper’s classic. The soundtrack surprisingly meets these expectations with most tracks, but falls miserably with others.

German director Wim Wenders is the master of moodiness, from his road films of Paris, Texas, and “Until the End of the World,” to his post-modern analysis of angels, “Wings of Desire.” Judging from the soundtrack to his most recent film, The End of Violence,” he continues this trend. The opening track by Ry Cooder, “Define Violence,” whose slide guitar occasionally accompanied the Rolling Stones but since then has moved on to becoming a premier film composer, sets the tone for the entire soundtrack, a compilation of original songs written expressly for the film by some very talented composers.

The journey into a world of moodiness and eclecticism begins with Ry Cooder’s pangs and twangs of the electric guitar which draws strong parallels to the work of Neil Young. The capriciousness continues with Spain’s moody soundtrack, a compilation of original songs written by such artists as Cooder, “Deline Violence,” whose slide guitar occasionally accompanied the Rolling Stones but since then has moved on to becoming a premier film composer, sets the tone for the entire soundtrack, a compilation of original songs written expressly for the film by some very talented composers.

The film stars Bill Pullman, Gabriel Byrne, Traci Lords, and Andie MacDowell, and the soundtrack (as seems to be the current trend since the Pulp Fiction soundtrack) features samples of their dialogue. The most memorable is when Traci Lind asks, “Define violence ... you’re making a movie about it, shouldn’t you know what it is.” They may not be able to define violence, but they definitely know what good music is; too bad they couldn’t be consistent with this knowledge.

by Joey Crawford

---

What's YOUR Name

Adam Sandler's newest release, What's YOUR Name?, the third addition to a collection of remarkably funny CD's, takes a surprising turn for the serious. As opposed to a majority of dialogues and skits like the previous albums, What's YOUR Name? is comprised of original songs. This apparent intent on going for a much more musical album just ends in disaster. To obtain the majority of dialogues and skits like the previous albums, What's YOUR Name? is comprised of original songs, this album brings back several of the characters from the previous CD. Such songs as “The Respect Chant,” “The Goat Song,” and a new reggae tune, “Voodoo,” end up just like the CD as a whole: as disappointing他在。“Red Hooded Sweatshirt,” first performed on Saturday Night Live, is redone on this CD as a much slower, watered-down version. Again, this is due to the fact that Sandler tried to incorporate too much music into it.

Adam Sandler has recently been trying to push his career into a more musical light lately, reportedly doing covers for Led Zeppelin in concert. This career decision will most likely end up as a disappointing change to his present fans, mainly because it does involve a watering-down of the humor. Let’s hope that the watered-down effect that music has hasn’t done the same thing to his career as a whole; otherwise, don’t expect to hear about him too soon.

That characteristic of watered-down seems to be a theme throughout What’s YOUR Name? which, for many Sandler fans, is a disappointment. Keep in mind that this entire review is from the eyes of one of these Adam Sandler fans, so of course I am going to be a little biased and, as explained, a bit displeased with the change. However, this change opens up Sandler’s audience to those that disliked his career as a whole; otherwise, don’t expect to hear about him too soon.

by Dave Levin

---

Zoot Suit Riot

The rest of the album will have you snapping your fingers to songs such as “Brown Derby Jump,” and “Ding Dong Daddy of the D-Car Line.”

Listening to this album leaves you asking: what ever happened to the Big Band Era? The Cherry Poppin’ Daddies attempt to bring that sound back with a ’30s slant combining a great mix of guitars, saxophones, trombones, trumpets, tubas, and more. If swing is your thing, the Cherry Poppin’ Daddies will keep you spinning. They are appearing in Chicago this Saturday for an all ages show at the Fermilde Bowl as they continue to mix the sounds of the big band era with a dab of ’30s ska and punk.

by Nate Rackwitz

---

cherry poppin’ daddies

Are you down with swing? If you have ever been through freshmen year Social Dance, you have tuned in to Brother Pedro’s Big Band Show (Friday and Sunday evenings on WSND), or are a member of the Notre Dame Marching Band then my guess would be yes. A rapidly growing revival of swing music and its culture in the United States and England as well as the mainstream emergence of the ska scene have paved the road for modern swing bands such as the Squirrel Nut Zippers and the Cherry Poppin’ Daddies to gain popularity.

The Cherry Poppin’ Daddies continue to beat and blow their way into the hearts of this nation’s hip-swirling young people in their latest release, Zoot Suit Riot: The Swingin’ Hits. They are an eight-piece band that merge a ’30s spirit of swing with a ’90s punk rock sensibility. This album is the Eugene, Ore., based band’s fourth CD and provides a great mix of songs from their first three CDs as well as four previously unreleased tracks.

Throw in a cup of jazz, a tablespoon of ska, and a pinch of punk and you have the Cherry Poppin’ Daddies’ first single, “Zoot Suit Riot,” telling a tale of two sailors and their adventures out on the town.

by Nate Rackwitz

---

adam sandler

What’s YOUR Name

(out of five stars)

---

The End of Violence

(out of five stars)

---

Zoot Suit Riot

(out of five stars)

---

cherry poppin’ daddies

The End of Violence

(out of five stars)

---

Accent needs writers, writers, writers. If you want to be a features writer, a music critic or a movie critic, please call Joey or Ashleigh at 1-4540
emer kenny

Emer Kenny

Emer Kenny is a classically trained Irish harpist who studied at the College of Music, Dublin and Trinity College of Music, London. She began to play the harp at the age of nine. Her self-titled album is a mix of tradition Irish music and contemporary. The mixture, however, leaves the listener feeling somewhat lacking. The balance between old and new is not very well defined. The feeling of the album is almost new age with a twist of occasional bursts of traditional fare, such as on the third track of the album, it is masked by a beat that seems almost Spanish in rhythm.

One of the most distinctive features of Emer Kenny's music is her voice. Kenny's voice makes every lyric into a deep throaty ethereal sigh. While it is haunting, oddly intimate and lonely at the same time, the ghostly whisper occasionally is difficult to understand. The words become difficult to follow, which is unfortunate since the songs have complex themes and engaging ideas. In addition, five of the album's 11 songs are sung in Gaelic. These songs are in fact the most engaging musically, with a minimum of new age sampling; without an understanding of the language, the songs convey a deeper meaning.

Kenny attempts to capture that Celtic spirit in her music. The production values are solid throughout the album, but stand out here as evidence that much could have been accomplished with a better appreciation of the music's potential.

Unfortunately things do not remain at this high level. "Soldier's Sweetheart" is a horrible ballad ill-suited to the rest of the album; sounding as if written for particularly sentimental seven-year-old girls, this fourth track breaks down the cohesion of the first half of the album and prepares us for the mediocrity to follow. "We All Want to Be Free" is dull and ridden with cliches; its refrain, "let us be," is unimpressed and obviously a product of the Spice Girls School of Songwriting. The title track is also forgettable, a meandering bout of nothingness which complements its immediate predecessor "I'll Be Here"; another song lacking enthusiasm. Everything is wrapped up by the strangely titled "Lichen me to Wyoming," a song, as the singer announces, about his favorite state. Without meaning to be rude to the masses of Wyoming fans out there, if this were the type of thing being sung about your state then it may be best to move elsewhere or have all its musicians executed; any way to avoid the sheer dreadfulness of dire Hank Williams impersonations such as this should be found at all costs. Overall then, an average album with a few bright spots and a larger number of dismal moments. Save your money.

by Dominic Caruso

tranquility bass

Let The Freak Flag Fly

Combining ambient and '60s influences, Tranquility Bass has produced a partly enjoyable album, but one, however, which lacks anything to make it memorable. Things start off well with "Five Miles High," a relaxed, lush piece which introduces the listener to the easy mood of the album while at the same time presenting an open, almost choral sound. The second track carries on this theme and is the best on the album; sampled Indian woman chant in perfect time to an electronic backing without sounding new age in a cheesy kind of way. The production values are solid throughout the album, but stand out here as evidence that much time has been spent at the mixing desk.

Unfortunately things do not remain at this high level. "Soldier's Sweetheart" is a horrible ballad ill-suited to the rest of the album; sounding as if written for particularly sentimental seven-year-old girls, this fourth track breaks down the cohesion of the first half of the album and prepares us for the mediocrity to follow. "We All Want to Be Free" is dull and ridden with cliches; its refrain, "let us be," is unimpressed and obviously a product of the Spice Girls School of Songwriting. The title track is also forgettable, a meandering bout of nothingness which complements its immediate predecessor "I'll Be Here"; another song lacking enthusiasm. Everything is wrapped up by the strangely titled "Lichen me to Wyoming," a song, as the singer announces, about his favorite state. Without meaning to be rude to the masses of Wyoming fans out there, if this were the type of thing being sung about your state then it may be best to move elsewhere or have all its musicians executed; any way to avoid the sheer dreadfulness of dire Hank Williams impersonations such as this should be found at all costs. Overall then, an average album with a few bright spots and a larger number of dismal moments. Save your money.

by Julian Elliott

upcoming concerts in the area

Counting Crows
They Might Be Giants
Grand Funk Railroad
Teenie Fancult
The Radiators
Steve Winwood
10,000 Maniacs
Jane's Addiction
Ratdog
Beach Boys/Chicago
Let's Go Bowling/Greenhouse

Oct. 18
Oct. 18-19
Oct. 22
Oct. 25
Oct. 25
Oct. 29
Oct. 30
Nov. 4
Nov. 6
Nov. 9
Nov. 11
Elliott Hall of Music (West Lafayette)
Riveria Theatre (Chicago)
Metro (Chicago)
House of Blues (Chicago)
Park West (Chicago)
House of Blues (Chicago)
State Fair Coliseum (Detroit)
Murat Theatre (Indianapolis)
Roberts Stadium (Evansville)
Metro (Chicago)

wvfi top 10
1. Chisel- Set You Free
2. Radiohead- OK Computer
3. Austin Powers- Soundtrack
4. Buck-O-Nine- Twenty-Eight Teeth
5. Candy Machine- Tune International
6. Jon Speer Blues Explosion- Controversial Negro
7. Cub- Mauler!
8. Guided By Voices- Mag Earwhig!
9. Echo & The Bunnymen- Evergreen
10. Charlatans UK- Tellin' Stories

nocturne top 10
1. The Refreshments- The Bottle & Fresh Horses
2. Save Ferris- It Means Everything
3. Cherry Poppin' Daddies- Zoot Suit Riot
4. Tanya Donnelly- Love Songs for Underdogs
5. Chumbawamba- Tubthumping
6. Catherine Wheel- Adam & Eve
7. Teenage Fan Club- Songs From Northern Britain
8. Oasis- Be Here Now
9. The Sundays- Summertime
10. Morrissey- Maladjusted
GREEN BAY, Wis. - The Green Bay Packers are in an unfamiliar position — looking for a vacant room at a cheap hotel. The team is trying to find a base for its first big showdown in the NFC.

Some pundits say Tampa Bay’s not on anyone’s radar, ultimately they’ll be this year’s version of the 1999 Washington Redskins, who started 7-1 but missed the playoffs.

Or the 1995 St. Louis Rams, who last won at Green Bay, Week 5, before losing their next seven games.

After all, the Bucks have never won six straight.

There are no skeptics in the Packers locker room, where nobody’s trash talking Tampa, the only undrafted team in the NFC.

“I think you have to judge a team on what they do, not talk,” coach Mike Holmgren said.

“They’re in the same boat we were in the ‘90s,” said Chill Johnson, new coach, new stadium, new uniforms, new uniform colors.

And they’re. And they’re the new bully on the block, said safety Roy Butler.

A loss to the Buccaneers (3-0) on Sunday would drop the struggling Packers (3-2) three games behind the NFC Central and force the champions to start thinking about defending their title.

They’re 5-0, so they’re the best team in the conference to me,” defensive tackle Santana Dotson said.

Right now, Tampa’s top dog only is Brett Favre, who almost unbelievably a month ago that he’d play this season in the NFC.

“We have never a non-mistaken game and we’re going to go to Brett Favre said.

“Maybe you got a real game for them and a status game for us.”

Butler said. “They’re trying to prove they’re still there and we’re trying to get our status back as world champions.”

“Everybody’s got to look at themselves on that team and decide how they’re going to approach the rest of the year,”

Robinson said maybe some attitudes need tweaking, but nothing the system.

“Coach is not going to scrap his game plan, from an offensive viewpoint or a defensive viewpoint,” he said. “It really comes down to execution.”

There is one big forthcoming change, however.

Free agent linebacker Jeff Jane was released Saturday after awkward arthroscopic surgery to make his Packers debut on Sunday.

The Packers are hoping Joyn is his miracle tonic.

“Maybe you got some added leadership to the field to give the defense a spark, enthusiasm,” coach Mike Holmgren said. “All those guys are kind of contagious,” Joyn said.

“The tempo couldn’t be better.”

The photo of the Chicago Tribune on Thursday, October 2, 1997.

The Observer • SPORTS

Classifieds

NOTICES

FOUND

The Princess Path Bed & Breakfast located at 15 MIN. UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN OPENINGS FOR FALL/ WINTER

WANTED

Copyright 1997 by Excellence in Journalism, Inc. All rights reserved. No part of this periodical may be reproduced in any form without permission.
Garnett re-signs with T'wolves

By RON LESKO
Associated Press Writer

MINNEAPOLIS
Kevin Garnett agreed to terms Wednesday night on what could be the richest contract in professional sports history, a six-year deal with the Minnesota Timberwolves reportedly worth as much as $123 million.

Garnett, the charismatic, sky's-the-limit forward who jumped from high school to the NBA two years ago and helped rescue one of the league's worst franchises, agreed to the contract extension just four hours before a midnight deadline.

Shaquille O'Neal's $120 million, seven-year deal with the Lakers (a $17 million yearly average) is the most lucrative long-term contract ever. Garnett's almost certainly will far surpass that in terms of yearly average and also could eclipse it in total worth.

The amount of the extension was shocking, but so was the prospect of the Wolves losing Garnett to free agency after this season. That would have been a real possibility if Garnett failed to sign before Wednesday night's deadline for offering extensions to players picked in the first round of the 1995 draft.

"It lets you know the power KG has," teammate Doug West said. "I never thought the negotiations would be this steep, for this much money. But I'm glad something will be done and he'll be around."

The Wolves have made it clear since early in Garnett's rookie season - they drafted him fifth overall out of Chicago's Farragut Academy - that he was the player around whom they would build their future.

An agile 7-footer, Garnett became a starter midway through the 1995-96 season and developed enough last season to make the All-Star game as an injury fill-in. He helped the young Wolves to a franchise-best 40-42 record and their first-ever playoff berth.

Even though Houston swept the Wolves in three games, they had established themselves as one of the NBA's most promising young teams. Most of that promise fell on Garnett's shoulders, although Minnesota's lineup also includes All-Star forward Tom Gugliotta and outstanding point guard Stephon Marbury.

"The expectations are going to be big," West said. "I want to go further than just the playoffs now. I want to go to the next step. And I think (Garnett) realizes the expectations that will be on him, and I guess he's willing to live up to them."
Notre Dame's biggest Dance Party

Ever!!!

Friday, October 3rd, from 8:00 pm to 12:00 am in the Stepan Disc Ball. Featuring WSND Radio Personalities, the Taste of Nations food celebration, Groop ND, and your grandmother. Don't be lame, man! Can you dig it?

Free Food
Free Admission
Life's easier with 10¢ a minute, AT&T Call Organizer and Student Advantage. It's all FREE just for being with AT&T.

- 10¢ A MINUTE—AT&T Simple Rates—on long distance calls from home to anywhere in the U.S. from 7pm-7am weekdays and all weekend long; 25¢ a minute all other times.
- FREE AT&T CALL ORGANIZER: no more hassles—use your personalized code before you dial, and we'll tally your phone bill by roommate (up to 12 people per bill).
- FREE STUDENT ADVANTAGE: get special offers and up to 50% off every day at thousands of your favorite neighborhood places and national sponsors—like Kinko's®, Tower Records® and Amtrak:

  * Live off campus? Get it all FREE with one easy call.

  Call 1-800-878-3872

  or visit www.att.com/college/np.html
Glavine stings ‘Killer Bs,’ Braves take a 2-0 lead

By PAUL NEWBERRY
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA

This time, it wasn’t close.

In the first blowout between the teams this year, the Atlanta Braves took advantage of eight walks by Mike Hampton and again shut down “The Killer Bs,” routing the Houston Astros 13-3 Wednesday to move within a victory of their sixth straight NL championship series.

Hampton, who had only two walks in 17 innings during his season record to 8-9, throw a staggering 117 pitches through six innings, allowing all three runs and five hits. The Braves’ bullpen got some work, with Mike Calhoun throwing two scoreless innings and Mark Wohlers finishing.

Blauser, hitting .588 in his career against Hampton, gave the Braves a 9-0 lead in the third with his fourth postseason home run.

After pitcher Tom Glavine singled and Kenny Lofton knocked, Blauser hit a 333-foot drive into the left-field seats despite a Wrigley Field-like wind sweeping across Turner Field. Houston tied it in the fourth, taking advantage of Glavine’s wildness.

Two walks set up Brian Ausmus for a two-run double, the ball sailing just beyond the glove of Ryan Klesko as he dove in the left-field corner. Ausmus scored on Hampton’s hit to right.

Atlanta opened the series by becoming the first team since 1974 to win a postseason game with two hits. The Braves continued to make full use of their hits in Game 2, piling up their 13 runs on 10 hits.

Marlin win puts team one game away from first NLCS

By STEVEN WINE
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI

New hero, same result.

Moises Alou singled home the winning run with no outs in the ninth inning and the Florida Marlins — helped by a lucky bounce — lined a single.

The Marlins took a 6-4 lead into the seventh, but three defensive misplays helped the Giants come back.

San Francisco closed to within a run in the seventh. Jose Vizcaino’s routine fly became a double when Sheffield misplayed the ball, and Barry Bonds followed with an RBI double.

Florida first baseman Jeff Bagwell, the top three hitters in the Astros order, are a combined 1-for-25 with no RBIs in the series.

Glavine, improving his postseason record to 8-9, threw a staggering 117 pitches through six innings, allowing all three runs and five hits. The Braves’ bullpen got some work, with Mike Calhoun throwing two scoreless innings and Mark Wohlers finishing.

Blauser, hitting .588 in his career against Hampton, gave the Braves a 9-0 lead in the third with his fourth postseason home run.

After pitcher Tom Glavine singled and Kenny Lofton knocked, Blauser hit a 333-foot drive into the left-field seats despite a Wrigley Field-like wind sweeping across Turner Field. Houston tied it in the fourth, taking advantage of Glavine’s wildness.

Two walks set up Brian Ausmus for a two-run double, the ball sailing just beyond the glove of Ryan Klesko as he dove in the left-field corner. Ausmus scored on Hampton’s hit to right.

Atlanta opened the series by becoming the first team since 1974 to win a postseason game with two hits. The Braves continued to make full use of their hits in Game 2, piling up their 13 runs on 10 hits.

Please Recycle The Observer

Come Find Out More About the URBAN PLUNGE PROGRAM

Informational Meeting

Sunday, October 5th
7:00 pm

For Additional Information Contact

RODNEY T. COHEN
DIRECTOR OF URBAN PROGRAMMING & OUTREACH DEVELOPMENT
UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
631-7949

JAN PILARSKI
JUSTICE EDUCATIONAL COORDINATOR
SAINT MARY’S COLLEGE
284-4512

You can get at our ATM!

Just need a few bucks? 1st Source Bank has you covered. Check out our Resource Center ATM conveniently located in the Hesburgh Library basement.

Grab your funds quickly with no additional fees if you have a 1st Source Resource® or Resource Plus® card. Or you can use any other bank card honored by the worldwide Cirrus Network.

Other 1st Source locations—Saint Mary’s Haggard College Center, U.S. 31 at Cleveland, U.S. 23 at Fremwood—dispense $10s and $20s, so there are lots of places around campus to cash in fast!
Orioles pound the Big Unit as Mariners take loss at Kingdome

By JIM COUR
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE

The Baltimore Orioles proved their regular-season mastery over Randy Johnson was the real deal. This time, it was a big defeat for the Big Unit.

If they can beat Seattle's ace so easily, as Mike Mussina and his teammates did Wednesday night, the Mariners are serious jeepers.

The Orioles, wire-to-wire champions of the AL East, took advantage of Johnson's wildness to beat the 20-game winner 9-3 Wednesday night in the opener of their division series. Johnson lost for only the fifth time this season.

A crowd of 59,579, the largest ever to watch baseball at the Kingdome, saw Johnson's playoff flop last 100 pitches. In five innings, he gave up five runs on seven hits and four walks, with only three strikeouts.

The Mariners have to be wondering if the Orioles have their number, too. Cal Ripken, who finished the season in a 6-for-36 slump, had three hits as Baltimore improved to 8-4 against Seattle this year.

Mussina improved his career record against the Mariners to 9-1 by beating Seattle the second time this season.

Mussina, a 15-game winner this season, allowed five hits, including home runs by Edgar Martinez and Jay Buhner, in seven innings. He struck out nine and walked none in winning his first postseason game.

Jesse Orsoso and Armando Benitez finished the combined no-hitter. Ken Griffey Jr. went 0-for-4 for Seattle, and Alex Rodriguez homered in the ninth.

Geronimo Berroa and Chris Hoiles even stole some of Seattle's thunder by hitting home runs. The Mariners broke the Orioles' major league home run record with 264 this year.

On Thursday, the Mariners will attempt to salvage a split at home. Seattle sends 17-game winner Jamie Moyer against Baltimore. Facing a lineup stacked with righties — Rafael Palmeiro, Roberto Alomar and H.J. Surhoff — he fell to 3-8 overall.

Johnson began the fifth by walking Jeffrey Hammonds, who stole second and went to third on first baseman Paul Sorrento's throwing error, and Mike Bordick.

Brady Anderson followed with an RBI single. Jeff Reagor sacrificed and Eric Davis bounced a single over the head of节约ous Buhner. Flowsr for a 4-1 lead. After Davis was caught stealing, Berroa homered.

In the sixth, the Orioles turned the game into a rout with four runs off Mike Timlin, acquired on July 31 from Toronto to help Seattle's bullpen. Timlin helped the Orioles instead.

Hoiles led off with a home run and Palmeiro followed with a double. Bordick hit an RBI single and Surhoff delivered a pinch-double that scored two more runs.

Bordick hit an RBI double in the third for a 1-0 lead. Martinez tied it with a homer in the fourth. Buhner homered in the seventh.

On Friday, Baltimore sends 20-game winner Key against Seattle (Moyer 17-5) at 4:07 p.m. In Chicago, the Indians host the White Sox (Stewart 11-9) at 7:07 p.m.

Seattle's Randy Johnson won his 20th game this season against Chicago on Wednesday. The Associated Press

---

The Observer • SPORTS
Walsh, Cavanaugh set to clash

Belles control, beat North Park

Pasquerillas prepare for the East/West showdown

By PAUL DIAMANTOPOULOS
Sports Writer

One team is undefeated and looking to maintain its momentum. The other team is recovering from a slight slump. What happens when these two teams play each other? The only way to find out is to watch Walsh battle Cavanaugh at 4 p.m. this Sunday.

Walsh comes into its fourth game of the season with a 3-0 record. Despite its success, the team has quietly risen to the top of women's interhall football. According to senior co-captain Sara Morrill, by avoiding the number one ranking, the team doesn't have to deal with added pressure.

"We were ranked number one in past years and then had a downfall after that. Now that we aren't highly ranked we haven't become overconfident and can just focus on the game ahead," said Morrill.

Cavanaugh, on the other hand, has struggled in the first half of this season. One of the main obstacles that they hope to overcome is the amount of penalties that they have incurred in their first three games.

While they have posted a 1-1-1 record, their practice focused on turning things around. "We’ve learned a lot from our last game (loss to Lyons 12-6), and our planning to play a better game. We were hurting ourselves in the other games," stated junior flanker Megan McNally.

By MOLLY MCVY
sports Writer

The Belles’ luck at home continued on Tuesday against North Park University. Saint Mary’s won 15-12, 13-15, 15-3, and 15-7 in a fast-paced game.

The Belles lost a little of their intensity in the second game, and North Park stepped up to win. However, Saint Mary’s rallied and soundly defeated North Park in the third and fourth games.

Saint Mary’s ability to control the pace of the game seemed to be critical in their win.

"Our intensity was constant and that really helped. Everyone worked together as a team and hopefully we can carry that over to our next game," noted sophomore Agnes Bill.

Overall, Bill led in the kill department with 17, while freshman Megan Jardina helped tremendously with 44 assists. Coach Jennie Joyce said that aggressive serving was one of the keys to victory, and sophomore Jayne Ozbolt held the key, serving for 14 points with two aces.

Tuesday’s win raised their record to 3-0-3 at home.

"We have a lot of respect for them, but we’re really looking forward to play them especially after losing to them last year 6-0," said PW co-captain junior Liz McKillop.

While the squads have shared some competition over the past few years, this game is not one to miss. Both teams are coming off of impressive shutout victories this past weekend, in which the respective offenses dominated.

According to PW’s quarter-back Elizabeth Plummer, this game is just as important as all the other ones. "We’re not worrying about the upcoming game. It’s a fun rivalry, but we’re going to take it one step at a time," stated Plummer.

Belles control, beat North Park

By PAUL DIAMANTOPOULOS
Sports Writer

Two teams are anxious to fight it out. Not only will they showcase great offense and defense, but it will also settle which of these neighboring dorms is better.

Women’s interhall football will pit the top two teams against each other. Not only will they compete for a chance to be the number one team this season, but they will also compete for the first time.

While both teams clearly state that they have the utmost respect for each other, there is no denying the fact that these two teams are anxious to fight it out. "We have a lot of respect for them, but we’re really looking forward to play them especially after losing to them last year 6-0," said PW co-captain junior Liz McKillop.

While the squads have shared some competition over the past few years, this game is not one to miss. Both teams are coming off of impressive shutout victories this past weekend, in which the respective offenses dominated.

According to PW’s quarter-back Elizabeth Plummer, this game is just as important as all the other ones. "We’re not worrying about the upcoming game. It’s a fun rivalry, but we’re going to take it one step at a time," stated Plummer.
DEAR EUGENIA: I'm born on Feb. 11, 1972, at 11:32 a.m. I need to know what to do with my life. I'm sort of floundering. By what I would do (at least I can't find my niche). More important is there a chance that I could find a security? What are my lucky numbers? Will I ever be happy?

DEAR TODD: Your chart is in high gear where work, money and professional gains are concerned this year. You would do well in areas that deal with communications, research, radio, television, photography, computer, travel, entertain ment. As you can see, the problem is that you have too many possibilities. I suggest that you pick two or three and start focusing. As for happiness, you must make your own happiness. You need to stand up, stop sitting and thinking about it. Life only passes you if you let it. Your chart indicates that you are more likely to make your money through work. However, the possibilities of winning a lottery is something you can never rule out, but lucky numbers are 1, 5, 19, 26 and 41.

ARIES (March 21-April 20): Don't jump to conclusions before getting all the facts. You should be completely careful while operating equipment. You will see things more clearly now. Art will move if you feel that your thinking is too abstract. Think twice before taking action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Social events that involve colleagues may not be to your disadvantage. Don't move on without being careful while operating equipment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22): Personal problems may be rule out. A lottery is something one can never get out of. You may be more likely to do with my opinion. It's a matter of your frustrations and anxiety.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): Your energy will get you to the top. More minor injuries will occur if you involve yourself in competitive open. Your chart is in high gear where compeition and phone calls are concerned. You will be encouraged to attend. Trip may involve colleagues emotionally.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): No lottery? You will not be able to see your opportunities. Minor injuries will occur if you involve yourself in competitive open.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Overconfidence and negligence will be your worst enemies. Personal problems may be rule out. This is the time to confront the basic uncertainties regarding your professional gains. Your chart is in high gear where computer, research, technology, photography, travel, entertain ment are concerned. You will meet new and existing friends and enemies in all walks.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23): Your chart is in high gear where money and professional gains are concerned this year. You would do well in areas that deal with communications, research, radio, television, photography, computer, travel, entertain ment. As you can see, the problem is that you have too many possibilities. I suggest that you pick two or three and start focusing. As for happiness, you must make your own happiness. You need to stand up, stop sitting and thinking about it. Life only passes you if you let it. Your chart indicates that you are more likely to make your money through work. However, the possibilities of winning a lottery is something you can never rule out, but lucky numbers are 1, 5, 19, 26 and 41.
Freshman Boylan sets ND volleyball attack

By BILL HART
Sports Writer

Irish look for return of Getherall to speed up offense

By JOE CAVATO
Assistant Sport Editor

Irish look for return of Getherall to speed up offense