New security device foils attempt to drive on campus

By MICHELLE KRUPA
Assistant News Editor

Three people were injured at approximately 9:17 p.m. Saturday after their car ran into the electronic rising bollards on the west side of the Main Circle.

The short, retracting metal poles known as bollards sink into the ground as an access code has been given, said assistant director of Security/Police Chuck Hurley. After the system senses the passage of the automobile, the bollards are electronically raised to block passage of other cars on campus.

"After the first car gives an authorization code, it pass through [the gate] typically blocked by bollards," Hurley said.

The drivers required treatment at the St. Joseph Medical Center emergency room for lacerations and bumps," he continued. Nobody was seriously injured.

Hurley said that Security/Police does not anticipate making any changes to the two sets of two bollards that block automobile access to campus on either walk entrance at the Main Circle.

"The kind of thing won't happen unless people try to go in without using the code. Anyone trying to tailgate a car is going to get damage to their car," Hurley said.

The system presently incorporates red lights on each of the four bollards as well as warning signs to dissuade people from attempting to follow automobiles on campus.

Cheer, Cheer...

The Observer apologizes

On Friday, The Observer's campus comic strip, "Men About Campus," consisted of a panel that suggested possible Halloween costumes. One of the suggestions was an "alien," followed by the words, "a Mexican without a green card.

The Observer apologizes for the offense the comic strip has caused.

The comic was not published in order to offend anyone or to make light of any of the struggles endured by Hispanics or any other minorities. The comic was written with the intention of providing a humorous angle to Halloween costumes.

With the comic in question, the editor, Dan Sullivan, was making a play-on-words of the term "alien." Instead of showing a figure from another planet, Sullivan drew a figure that would fit another definition of "alien," that of someone in this country without a green card.

"The comic should not be designed to stereotype Mexicans. In fact, the word "pursuer" could have been inserted in place of "Mexican" without altering the comic's intended message.

In his opinion, The Observer recognizes that using a term related to a specific ethnic group was an error of judgment. The use of the term "Mexican" in this context carries a connotation that is offensive to many people, and The Observer should have been aware of

Men about Campus' offends students

By MATTHEW LOUGHRAN
Editor-in-Chief

Notre Dame students reacted angrily this weekend to a panel of "Men About Campus," the comic strip written by junior Dan Sullivan. The comic strip in Friday's Observer depicted four "Quick and Easy Halloween Costumes." The final costume was a student labeled "an alien—a Mexican without a green card."

In response, the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs, Campus Ministry and the Hispanic Alumni of Notre Dame expressed their concern on the issue. A large group of concerned students met last night in the student government office with Kevin Ogan, the assistant director of the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs, to discuss the cartoon.

All who attended the meeting declined to comment last night on what was discussed or what they plan to do in response.
Unmask The Holidays

Ding-dong (Panels).
Ding-dong-ding-dong-ding.

"Hello. I am rudely interuping your quiet evening to demand that you pay for with your hard-earned money. I'm working on a second pillowcase, and I have three more waiting to be paid for. My mom bought this costume with her hard-earned money, and, quite frankly, I have no clue why we celebrate. All I know in that it's free and I get to stay out late. Besides, everyone else is doing it."

I have a big problem with Halloween. The festivities, the pumpkin-carving, the seed-toasting, and the zany costumes are all wonderful, and I enjoy the wild celebration. Heck, I'll be the first to admit for an apple or tell a spooky ghost story.

My problem is ignorance.

Most people in this country have no idea where halloween came from or why it is even celebrated.

If Friday's Observer didn't feature the history of halloween in the section and Accent, would you have known all that interesting stuff? Okay, maybe some of you would, but this University is pretty in tune with both Celtic and Christian history. Most people are not.

Anyway, this is probably the holiday most celebrated with the least knowledge, but there are several other holidays that we let come and go without full appreciation or understanding.

Did you know that Jesus was probably born in July? But we celebrate Christmas on Dec. 25? Yes. Virginia, we do. Check out the history of The Festival of Lights for the full story.

Can we honestly set off joyful fireworks on the Fourth of July without remembering with shame that Thomas Jefferson, author of that little paper called The Declaration of Independence, owned slaves? I don't think so.

Did you know that Catholics didn't even celebrate Christmas until the 1000's? Again, check out history for the full report. (Yes, I am a history major.)

Does anyone really know the full story of St. Valentine? Or St. Patrick? (Okay, Notre Dame might know a thing or two.) And, I wonder on Memorial Day how many people truly remember the dead and reflect on why they died.

There is so much more to each holiday than simply setting the tone for a month or providing a reason to relax or miss school (this University excepted). When we celebrate without fully understanding why, we deny ourselves a lot of special meaning.

Tradition is more than that annual barbecue, more than dining and hiding eggs, more than trick-or-treating, more than greedy trick-or-treating. Tradition is remember­"
SAC has invited all students, faculty, and staff of the College to participate in the discussion, which will follow a round table format.

Righton also mentioned that this forum may to some degree help College President Marilou Eldred in gauging students’ feelings on issues pertaining to sexuality.

Eldred has promised to issue a formal decision on the status of the Alliance, a student group at Saint Mary’s with an agenda related to sexuality, by the end of the academic school year.

The Committee on relationships, a group of administrators, professors and students who are focusing specifically on sexuality issues and reporting to Eldred, will also have representatives at the forum.

If you see news happen, call 1-5323

KAPLAN
1-800-KAP-TEST
www.kaplan.com

MCAT

Date: November 4

Location: Keffy, chewing

Time: 4:45 PM

Call for Details: Alpha, Alpha Beta, CCI

252-1465

If not, read on...

Wessels, Arnold & Henderson, L.L.C.

STUDENTS MAJORING IN FINANCE OR ACCOUNTING:
Plan on attending an information session on career opportunities in Investment Banking

WEDNESDAY

NOVEMBER 5, 1997
7:00 P.M. - 9:00 P.M.

FOSTER ROOM
LAFORTUNE STUDENT CENTER

Snoopy! L’Adonde va?

Happy 22nd
Love, Your MTY “Vat” Crew

Dalton discusses naval necessities

By HEATHER MACKENZIE
Assistant News Editor

“IT MAY BE SUNDAY IN AMERICA, BUT OUR NATION’S ARMED FORCES CANNOT AFFORD TO REST,” proclaimed Secretary of the Navy John Dalton in an address Saturday morning.

Citing the advances of the military in the age of technology, Dalton discussed his views on the challenges of service in the Navy to an audience of Notre Dame ROTC midshipmen, parents and naval officials in the Hesburgh Library auditorium.

“An effectively engaged Navy needs to maintain a balance between academics and professionalism,” Dalton said.

Drawing a parallel between American armed forces and the military philosophies of the ancient civilizations of Athens and Sparta, Dalton expressed that a successful program combines both physical strength and thoughtful moral strategy.

“The Athenians were forward-thinking and cerebral; they had a predilection to a moral base that defined every action,” he said.

“But Sparta had a culture of warrior spirit defined by determination, blood and sweat. Moral standards were a distant second to victory.”

Dalton believes that the way to meet the challenges of the future is to find the balance between Athens and Sparta.

“We need to be forward-thinking, efficient and innovative, but our forces must also maintain a warrior spirit,” Dalton said. “When our officers are in harm’s way, they need to have unquestioned bravery and mental effectiveness.”

Dalton went on to describe the kind of leadership the Navy will need.

“With the nature of warfare in the future, we need a combination of old-fashioned leadership and smart people in preparation for the complex modern battlefield,” he said.

New Navy programs will emphasize a leadership continuum, or continuous leadership training for officers.

“Out sailors are the best in the world,” Dalton claimed, “because we use innovative ways to adapt traditional leadership to the modern Navy.”

Dalton said that the Navy was also concentrating on ways to improve the quality of life for those enlisted.

“Our people are our most important and valuable asset,” he said. “We have to balance the procurement of new technology with taking care of our people. There are significant strides being made to enhance the quality of life on our bases and to narrow the compensation gap between the officers and the fleet.”

Dalton called for reduction of unneeded resources within the military, acknowledging current excesses in the armed forces.

“We need to find the political courage to get rid of infrastructure,” he stated. “We have more than we need.”

Still, Dalton is excited about the future. He concluded by applauding the commitment that current Notre Dame ROTC cadets have to the Navy.

“The Navy is on course,” he said. “It is the balance of modern technology and the warrior spirit that will make the difference.”
Security encourages bike registration

Notre Dame Security/Police is currently offering free bike registration in order to deter bike theft on campus.

By MATTHEW LOUGHRAN

As a result of the number of bicycle thefts in the past few years, Notre Dame Security has urged students to register their bikes.

"When people register their bikes it helps us return any of them that we might find," said Phil Johnson, assistant director of Security. "It will also aid in the recovery of any stolen bikes that students report to us."

Security has dozens of bicycles in its corral at the Security Building. "We just had an auction a couple of weeks ago, and already we have so many bikes," said Chuck Hurley, assistant director of Security. "Often they are abandoned or just laying around. We take the bikes in order to prevent a theft. If the bike is registered, we can get it back to its rightful owner. But otherwise, we have to wait until someone calls us to tell us that his bike was taken."

Johnson added that the registration is a permanent record. "Even after students leave, if they forget their bike's serial number, we have a record of it on file. That way, if a police force recovers a bike with a Notre Dame registration on it, they can call us and we have the name of the owner," he said. "So far this year we have been called by police in Boston, Iowa and even Arizona."

For now, students who wish to register their bikes can stop a Security officer or go to the Security Building. Registration is free for all students.
U.S.-Iraq tensions escalate

By WAIEL FALEH  Associated Press Wire

BAGHDAD, Iraq

Iraq barred three American weapons inspectors from entering the country Sunday, the second such refusal in a week and the latest sign that Baghdad has no intention of backing down from its threats to expel American inspectors.

The experts arrived on a U.N. flight from Baghdad in advance of the scheduled resumption of U.N. inspections on Monday, foreign diplomats said on condition of anonymity. But they were turned back in a polite manner at Hubabiya, the military airport 40 miles west of Baghdad that inspectors use, the diplomats said.

The diplomats said inspectors from other countries were admitted, but gave no details.

The three Americans were the same ones who tried to go to Baghdad Thursday, the diplomats said.

On Wednesday, Iraq gave the 10 American weapons inspectors leave to Baghdad a week ago to enter the country Sunday, the second sign that Baghdad will not back down from its threats to expel American inspectors.

Vitaliano's arrest is a huge political boost coming into the 1998 midterm elections season and its bid to reclaim control of Congress. But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

U.N. targets corruption

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations has identified $30 million - that was lost through waste or fraud, part of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization. An annual report released last week also identified millions of dollars in savings after measures were instituted to crick down on fraud and unnecessary spending. But U.N. inspector-general Vitaliano in Staten Island, N.Y. Vitaliano's rare, gubernatorial contests in New Jersey and Virginia, and the long-shot bid of Democratic-heplicans to the waste of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization.

But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

U.N. targets corruption

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations has identified $30 million - that was lost through waste or fraud, part of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization. An annual report released last week also identified millions of dollars in savings after measures were instituted to crick down on fraud and unnecessary spending. But U.N. inspector-general Vitaliano in Staten Island, N.Y. Vitaliano's rare, gubernatorial contests in New Jersey and Virginia, and the long-shot bid of Democratic-heplicans to the waste of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization.

But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

U.N. targets corruption

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations has identified $30 million - that was lost through waste or fraud, part of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization. An annual report released last week also identified millions of dollars in savings after measures were instituted to crick down on fraud and unnecessary spending. But U.N. inspector-general Vitaliano in Staten Island, N.Y. Vitaliano's rare, gubernatorial contests in New Jersey and Virginia, and the long-shot bid of Democratic-heplicans to the waste of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization.

But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

U.N. targets corruption

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations has identified $30 million - that was lost through waste or fraud, part of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization. An annual report released last week also identified millions of dollars in savings after measures were instituted to crick down on fraud and unnecessary spending. But U.N. inspector-general Vitaliano in Staten Island, N.Y. Vitaliano's rare, gubernatorial contests in New Jersey and Virginia, and the long-shot bid of Democratic-heplicans to the waste of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization.

But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

U.N. targets corruption

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations has identified $30 million - that was lost through waste or fraud, part of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization. An annual report released last week also identified millions of dollars in savings after measures were instituted to crick down on fraud and unnecessary spending. But U.N. inspector-general Vitaliano in Staten Island, N.Y. Vitaliano's rare, gubernatorial contests in New Jersey and Virginia, and the long-shot bid of Democratic-heplicans to the waste of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization.

But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

U.N. targets corruption

UNITED NATIONS

The United Nations has identified $30 million - that was lost through waste or fraud, part of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization. An annual report released last week also identified millions of dollars in savings after measures were instituted to crick down on fraud and unnecessary spending. But U.N. inspector-general Vitaliano in Staten Island, N.Y. Vitaliano's rare, gubernatorial contests in New Jersey and Virginia, and the long-shot bid of Democratic-heplicans to the waste of a campaign against waste and corruption in the global organization.

But even as Clinton campaigned Sunday after a $3 million fund-raising weekend in Florida for the Democratic National Committee, the party's lingering $15 million debt from 1996 has forced Democrats into decidedly underdog roles in this year's races.

Britons support convicted au pair

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Supporters of a British au pair convicted of murdering a Massachusetts boy propped duels for her freedom during Sunday services and demonstrated for it outside the U.S. Embassy.

About 25 people demanding the release of Louise Woodward in candles in Newport News, Va., wrapped a yellow ribbon around a tree outside the embassy as they waited for Hillary Rodham Clinton to arrive there Monday.

"This is the only part of America with which I am in touch," said Haig Parker, a retired school headmaster from New Malden, 30 miles west of London.

The first lady had been on a speaking tour in Northern Ireland and was attending a reception at the embassy.

But she was driven through a year of stress and isolation from the compound and missed the politicians saying drivers passing the embassy should have fixed headlights in agreement with the demonstrators. It was unclear how many Britons responded to a call by Woodward defenders for drivers to run their lights at 4 p.m. Sunday.

At a church service in Thornton Le Moors, near Woodward's hometown of Elton in northwest England, the congregation listened with their heads bowed as the vicar complained that Woodward was under pressure to admit guilt in the death of 8-month-old Matthew Eynon.

"It is one thing for people to know that somebody is innocent," said the Rev. Ken Darcy. "But when you have other people actually putting pressure on you to say that they are guilty, it takes a very strong person to stand up against that pressure.""While there is widespread regard in Britain as having been unfair and Thursday's verdict of second-degree murder wrong, opinion is divided on whether Woodward is innocent or should be convicted of a lesser charge.

Woodward received a mandatory life sentence and will be eligible for parole in 15 years. On Tuesday, the judge in the trial considered defense motions to throw out the verdict, order a new trial or reduce the charge — possibly to manslaughter.

In an interview with The Mail on Sunday, Darcy said the panel wanted to consider manslaughter, but the judge had allowed Woodward's lawyers to rule out that option.
A Different Approach to Environmentalism

The environmental movement has arisen in the latter half of this century as a response to the global threat of doom. The plundering of natural resources, and the eradication of other species has spawned (no pun intended) varied views and approaches to the natural world. One view that has not been embraced widely by environmentalists, ironically, is the only sane approach to solving environmental problems. In looking at things closely, a prevailing theories surrounding the environmental movement, it is clear that Christianity provides the only workable solution to the ecological crisis. This should already be obvious to Christians, since we believe in God-given hands to participate in the divine work of creation. Their "deep ecology" philosophy asserts that other than having an advanced intellect, man is essentially no different from another animal. He should not be allowed to do all his power to keep his hands off the rest of the natural world. In contrast, Christianity’s genius is realizing that man is an animal with a soul, who should use his God-given hands to participate in the divine work of our Creator. Deep ecology presumes that it is wrong to cut trees, that we have no right to ride horses, and no business eating cows. The logical consequence of this is an evolution to a man who is unable to move, for fear of disturbing the mosquitoes on his nose, or unable to eat, for fear of ingesting a microbe.

The other extreme, equally as dangerous, and certainly more prevalent, is the Nietzschean idea of a superman’s will to power. This is used to justify poisoning, laying waste and pillaging the Earth for his own material gain. Though our culture may not admit such thought as its own, by and large, its actions speak otherwise. The logical consequence of this has only recently been brought to our attention: a world unliveable for habitation by any of God’s creation — man included. This is the philosophy that many have embraced today, if not in word, then in deed.

How then, does one go about saving the rain forest or the tiger? First, one must acknowledge that there is a profound problem. Forests and tigers are disappearing (tigers are no dispute this), but they should not be. Second, one must understand the true relationship between tree and man, between tiger and man. Without Christianity, one can never proceed safely because one will either want to eradicate tigers, or become sentimental about tigers. Both result in disaster; the first solution ends in a world without tigers, the second, in a world without humans. The reasonable approach to saving tigers was summed up by G. K. Chesterton when he quipped that Christians should "admire his stripes while avoiding his claws," which is a sarcastic way of saying that we should see tigers in light of God’s plan for them.

Environmental degradation is not only a technological problem, it is primarily a moral problem. Its solution must therefore be rooted in truth. Thus, Christians should look first to Christ for answers. He warned of the greed and attachment to money which drives the shortsighted destruction of creation. St. Francis of Assisi (who was more than a pet lover) is the patron of those who promote ecology.

The Holy Father, in his message on the Ecological Crisis, wrote: "Saint Francis offers Christians an example of genuine and deep respect for the integrity of creation. As a friend of the poor who was loved by God’s creatures, Saint Francis invited all of creation — animals, plants, natural forces, even Brother Sun and Sister Moon — to give honour and praise to the Lord." In his "Ideas of a Christian Society," T.S. Eliot echoed this necessity of a Christian attitude with respect to creation: "A wrong attitude toward nature implies a wrong attitude toward God, and the consequence in an inevitable doom."
Notre Dame is the least of its problems. "But U.S. News and World Report only ranks us in the top 20!"
The Full Monty Directed by Peter Cattaneo
Starring Robert Carlyle, Mark Addy, Tom Wilkinson and Hugh Speer (out of five shamrocks)

always a movie like that I can relate to, one which provides a deep meaning or important message. Certainly we can all relate to the woes of financial distress — intensified by hostile letters from the Federal Credit Union and various credit card companies — and the desperation which arises when trying to raise money and still keep our pride.

"The Full Monty" is about just such conflicts, and its characters explore the practical solution of male stripping.

The town of Sheffield was once a booming steel city in England, prosperous and full of opportunity for its citizens. Unfortunately the steel plant has shut down, becoming nothing more than a sight for marching band practice and mischief. The mischief of one such worker, Gaz, on another scheme with his son to make some quick money, opens the door to the practical solution of male stripping.

A group of steel workers try to make a quick buck as amateur male strippers in "The Full Monty." The 50-something African-American preaches his audition with "me break-dancing days is probably over, but there's always the funky chicken." Most of the movie is focused on their attempt to transform themselves from dungaree- and uncoordinated former steel mill workers to entertaining, professional, cash-worthy male strippers. This process is often hilarious, if not always pathetic. However, there is a certain amount of gravity from departure of the characters — their wounded pride is what helps this movie transcend cornball British comedy to a level of significant meaning. These men are not the sex symbols of today's television or the Big Top — their bodies are beautiful — look at it now!" types like Demi Moore, but rather, they are very reluctant, ashamed and nervous about their attempted revenue source.

The group earns some rather unexpected free publicity when they are arrested for indecent exposure during their first dress rehearsal in an abandoned warehouse. Security camera tapes are used for front-page shots in every paper, and suddenly the Steelworkers' union notices the title of this film means "to go all the way," which in the case of stripping, of course means to show it all.

Father-son relationships on screen are sometimes a pass the line from meaningful to cheesball, but this picture provides much of the film's comedy and meaning. The son is of course more responsible and mature than his father, and both teach each other a lot during the course of the movie. The son's charm with helping his father improve on his stripping and dancing seems to dissipate once he sees how bad the others are.

One of the only downsides to this film for me was the ending. While the last scene is hilarious and extremely entertaining, I felt like it should have been a more satisfying finish. The ending is so big a surprise, and that's okay with me, but I needed an answer to the question in my head: "So, now what?" The movie does not end in a bad way, really — it just doesn't end in a great way.

IMAGINE: A cross between "Mr. Bean" and "Strip-tease," only funny. This movie is worth seeing if you can stomach British comedy and such offbeat material. It's a witty and sharp-edged view of unemployment as shown through the eyes of the men working class blues. Their efforts to get past shyness and lack of talent are entertaining, both because they are humorous and touching. If you can find this movie playing somewhere in South Bend, you should first gasp in shock that culture has touched this town, but then you should go see this film.

ACTING: A job well done by everybody. It's especially surprising to see Robert Carlyle playing a role in such contrast to his role in "Trainspotting." Publishing and English Translation: I have a feeling that we missed quite a few witlockers due to a failure to understand some of the quips made in the British accents. Oh well, can't catch 'em all.

SOUNDTRACK: One of the most entertaining aspects of this movie is the music. Some of the best songs in the history of cinema are sung while we watch.

THE FULL MONTY? Not shown. Although the movie ends on screen gets to see it, all movie maintains an R rating and does not cross that line. So, sorry ladies — you'll just have to wait for the Alumni Bun Run during finals week.

Playing God
Directed by Andy Wilson
Starring David Duchovny, Timothy Hutton and Angelina Jolie
(out of five shamrocks)

"What the heck?" This phrase captures the attitude of "Playing God." Eugene, a.k.a. Fox Mulder, a.k.a. David Duchovny, is a doctor strung out on synthetic heroin with a carefree, roll-with-the-punches persona. Add a gangster with an affinity for wearing Gucci and a large-lipped mistress and you have a typical day with Doctor Eugene.

If you think Coach's games are lazy on Thursday nights, you have not seen "Playing God." The Los Angeles club scene depicted would be too lax's nightmare. After losing his doctor's license, Eugene barely leaves his nasty abode except when he must obtain a hit at the local, hedonistic bar. While there, two Russians get a little rowdy. Doctor Eugene is left with a small decision: either save the guy with a bullet through the stomach or stand by because he does not have a medical license.

Needless to say there would be no movie if Eugene obeyed the law. So, he steps in and saves the man along with some help from Big Lips. Enter the worst dressed gangster of them all — Raymond. He puts Eugene back in business, giving him $10,000 for every medical procedure he performs on fallen gangsters.

The plot has a little of everything, including blood, irony, bitterness, intrigue and humor. The premise of the movie coincides well with the theory of relativity. Every action and decision that is made in this film has an equal and opposite reaction.

The dialogue is clever with plenty of quotable lines. The movie played with morals — there was no bad guy or good guy. Your typical hero is not a junky like Doctor Eugene.

Our Ratings:
Best Scene: Doctor Eugene pulls into a biker bar to save Big Lips. He operates with the help of a barmaid, two hilli's, the Angels and one local. The fact that she is in kinder and gentler hands here than she would be at Johns Hopkins is humorous.

Best Line: Eugene's twisted love life is summed up by the thought, "She is either something mean to me because she doesn't like me and wants me to go away or she is being mean to me because she likes me and wants me to go away." Not shown.

Best Clothes: Big Lips wins hands down. In the final scene she is wearing a spectacular red silk sheath and matching cigar pants given to her by none other that the fashion impaired Raymond. How is it that he whips out an Audrey Hepburn dream but runs around his lavish beach house in tight white pants and drawstring shirts?

Best Hair: Call us sick and prescribe us some drugs because we're running in the fiery anime of Doctor Eugene's hair. What — you say he is a drug addict, he has no license, he charges $10,000 a visit? What a difference a little importance in the face of such a great haircut.

Best Side Show: Raymond's two surfing helpers sport a nose ring fit for a cow, no shirts, long underwear, tangles and bad accents. We cannot forget the gun-toting English gangster who saves the day in a shoot-out right out of a 70s karate flick.

In conclusion, the performance was a welcomed break from the ordinary. We especially recommend this flick to those depressed souls who will find a new appreciation for their life in comparison to Doctor Eugene's life...
Surviving a Scare

By KATHLEEN LOPEZ
Assistant Sports Editor

Head coach Bob Davie won’t soon forget his first November game, especially the final three seconds.

"You always remember what you do in November," Davie said.

"Certainly, September did not go quite the way we wanted it to go. We are trying to make a big push here in November. We have the chance to play two tough football teams, and that is why the win was critical." Davie almost watched another victory slip out of his team's grasp.

His team, leading 21-17, tried to run down the clock but failed. Navy took over the ball with three seconds left.

"We missed by three and that is not an exact science," Davie said. "To give them the football back, obviously with one play left in the game, you know I will take our odds on that one."

On the last play of the game, Navy quarterback Chris McCoy tossed a 69-yard "Hail Mary" in the direction of Irish and Midshipmen.

Irish free safety Deke Cooper bobbled and dropped a possible interception into the hands of Navy’s Pat McGrew. The Midshipmen found himself a few feet shy of the end zone when Notre Dame’s Allen Rossum made the game-saving tackle.

"It was a tough loss," Navy head coach Charlie Weatherbie said. "We had our chances. We had our opportunities several times in the football game. You can't turn over the ball as many times as we did in that football game and have an opportunity to win."

The Midshipmen turned over the ball six times. In the fourth quarter, Notre Dame's Benny Guilbeaux intercepted McCoy in the end zone for what turned out to be one of the key defensive plays of the game.

"We should have never thrown an interception," Weatherbie said about his decision to go for a touchdown. "We’re gonna throw the football when we have a chance to throw the football."

In the first half, the Irish intercepted two passes. Ivory Covington recorded his first interception of the season and second of his career. Irish captain Kory Minor recorded the other interception for Notre Dame. It was his third of the season, tying him with Guilbeaux for the team lead.

Tailback Autry Denson suffered a bruised knee early in the fourth quarter but returned in time to score the go-ahead touchdown in Saturday’s 21-17 victory over Navy.

Following Saturday's game, Navy, under the direction of head coach Chuck Weatherbie, chose to interfere with the Notre Dame band in an attempt to conduct a prayer at midfield.

I would like to think more could be expected of the United States Naval Academy.

The events that transpired following the ridiculous confiscation to Saturday’s contest between Notre Dame and Navy could have been expected from a classy program such as Ohio State or Miami. Even USC found a way to go out at the expense of Notre Dame tradition when a Trojan player ran the length of the field waving a USC banner during the band’s post-game routine earlier this season.

If it had been a bunch of Florida State players or Stanford band members that purposely disrupted the traditional concert that follows every game at Notre Dame Stadium, we may not have been as taken aback by what we saw this weekend.

But in the same way that the University of Notre Dame is held to a higher standard in virtually all of its endeavors, I believe that Navy should be held more accountable for its classless display from Saturday.

You might say that the Midshipmen were just poor losers, but that would be ignoring the fact that they have shown that they can be very well-behaved losers in each of the prior 33 meetings Notre Dame. In fact, anyone associated with the Navy football program should know quite well by now what takes place on the field after a Notre Dame-Navy game.

So why was it that the Midshipmen
Denson, Powlus overcome injuries to spark final drive

By ALLISON KRILLA
Sports Writer

He may be a mere 5-foot-1, 184-pounder, but Irish running back Autry Denson aspires to be as big as Notre Dame Stadium. Denson sparked the offense with 29 rushing yards during the Irish 93-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter, including a five-yard burst into the end zone for the winning touchdown. But Denson’s effort was considered extraordinary in the context of an injury-plagued contest the first play of the 17-play scoring drive.

With 13:29 remaining in the game, Ron Powlus handed the ball off to Denson, who ran for two yards before a crushing blow pinned the junior’s right leg between safety Kevin Lewis and the stadium grass. Assisted by medical trainers, Denson hobnobbed off the field with what was later diagnosed as a bruised right knee.

“Tate. Tate’s interception began a four-play, 59-yard drive that proved to be the difference in the game,” Denson said.

“Tate interception, Tate’s interception, Tate...”

Denson’s down on that field, he’s hurt,” said Rob Davie. “I was concerned. I thought he had a possible knee injury.”

Twelve plays later, Denson was in the slot receiving backups coach Desmond Robinson’s side-bogging to re-enter the game. “He’s a competitor,” Davie said about Denson. “He wanted back in the game, and I thought, when he wants to go back, he should go back.”

Showing no ill-effects from the injury, Denson proceeded to lift the team on his shoulders, carrying the ball four consecutive times, resulting in an Irish touchdown and a 21-17 lead.

“I had to sell (Davie and Robinson) on going back in the game,” Davie said. “After all, Glen (Stokes) was doing a good job, but with the game on the line, I would hate to have to call the timeout. But on our next possession you could tell that the best engineered scoring drive of the game, Davie’s game plan was to move the ball out of the puzzle pieces.

Stokes carried the ball seven times in Denson’s absence for 19 of his 44 yards, and Powlus completed 3 of 4 passes, including a 21-yarder to Buki Nelson in Notre Dame’s nine-yard line. Perhaps the most critical was Powlus’ 14-yard completion to Bobby Brown on fourth down in Navy’s red zone for the winning third-and-10 at the Navy 32. Powlus’ pass was broken up by Gerald Wilson.

“They answered with their own drive later in the third. Once again, the Midshipmen’s running game charged 48 yards in seven plays. McCoy rushed for the touchdown, and Vanderhorst secured the extra point. Heading into the fourth quarter, the game rested with Navy leading by three points. Davie and Co. made a gutsy fourth quarter call by going for it on fourth-and-10 at the Navy 7.

“Powlus’ pass was broken up by Gerald Wilson,” Davie said about the decision to go for it on fourth down.

“We go for it on fourth-and-10, and we convert. Then Autry goes in and scores. The defense goes in and stops them,” Davie said.

To the dismay of Irish fans, early in the fourth quarter, Denson went down after an apparent knee injury. Despite the injury, Denson re-emerged and led the team in the game-winning touchdown.

The drive ate up 93 yards in 17 plays and gave the Irish the 21-17 victory. On the day, Denson racked up 125 yards and had two touchdowns. He also underwent surgery, Navy coaches said, so Denson could not be disappointed,” Davie said. “I would have loved to have been on the other end of that ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

He also completed six passes for 122 yards, with his longest of the day coming on the game’s final play for 69 yards. "I am not going to let the last play of the game take away from what a big win this was for us. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

Navy answered with its own drive later in the third. Once again, the Midshipmen’s running game charged 48 yards in seven plays. McCoy rushed for the touchdown, and Vanderhorst secured the extra point. Heading into the fourth quarter, the game rested with Navy leading by three points. Davie and Co. made a gutsy fourth quarter call by going for it on fourth-and-10 at the Navy 7.

Navy’s Tom Vanderhorst drilled back, "Weatherbie said. "We have some injuries to spark final drive.

Tailback Clement Stokes helped the Irish mount a 17-play, 93-yard scoring drive that proved to be the difference in the game. McCoy opted to throw the ball on fourth down, and Powlus responded, rolling out to the right and hitting Brown in stride.

“I think it was critical," Davie said of the scoring drive. "I don’t want in over drive. It seems to fall right through Nelson’s hands. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

He also completed six passes for 122 yards, with his longest of the day coming on the game’s final play for 69 yards. "I am not going to let the last play of the game take away from what a big win this was for us. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

He also completed six passes for 122 yards, with his longest of the day coming on the game’s final play for 69 yards. "I am not going to let the last play of the game take away from what a big win this was for us. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

He also completed six passes for 122 yards, with his longest of the day coming on the game’s final play for 69 yards. "I am not going to let the last play of the game take away from what a big win this was for us. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

He also completed six passes for 122 yards, with his longest of the day coming on the game’s final play for 69 yards. "I am not going to let the last play of the game take away from what a big win this was for us. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.

He also completed six passes for 122 yards, with his longest of the day coming on the game’s final play for 69 yards. "I am not going to let the last play of the game take away from what a big win this was for us. McCoy’s run to the outside was that he couldn’t have picked a better time to come on. Fractures in this stadium today with quarterbacks, and the ball game. They played their hearts out, but I tell you that our kids played their hearts out.”

McCoy turned out to be the real thing for the Midshipmen. His opening touchdown was the 22nd of his career, making him the school’s all-time leader in career rushing touchdowns. On the day, he averaged 6.4 yards per carry.
Final three seconds almost haunt Irish defense

Notre Dame narrowly avoids nightmare as Rossum saves the day

By MIKE DAY

It's a good thing it was the day after Halloween. Otherwise, the Irish defense may not have avoided the nightmare that almost took place in the final three seconds on Saturday.

For the non-superstitious, what transpired on the game's final play will go down as one of the "freakiest" endings in recent memory.

I couldn't believe it — what a freaky way to end a football game," said Irish cornerback Allen Rossum.

But it was more than "freaky" — it was downright scary.

When Navy quarterback Chris McCoy trotted onto the field with just three ticks left on the clock, the celebration had already begun. Sure, it was only a four-point victory over a mediocre Midshipmen squad, but wins can no longer be taken for granted in this day and age.

And it certainly seemed like a good time for the Irish fans. After all, the Notre Dame defense had just stuffed a Navy offense that looked as uncomfortable passing the ball as Jim Colletto at a recent renewal meeting.

McCoy had completed a mere 5-of-15 passes for 56 yards and would need a miracle to get the ball just halfway from his own 35-yard line to the Irish end zone on a "Hail Mary" attempt.

But a miracle is what he got. As the Notre Dame defense may have expected, McCoy's "un Courtesy or "duck" did not travel far nor far. However, instead of knocking the ball to the ground, he caught a low percent-age pass, but a good receiver can increase his odds.

Now, here's where it gets even "freakier." Having caught the deflected pass in stride, McCoy seemed destined to score game-winning touchdown and in the process, end Notre Dame's 33- year winning streak over Navy.

However, Rossum and linebacker Kory Minor had other ideas. Instead of giving up on the play after the ball apparently ended up in the lap of Cooper, Rossum and Minor, perhaps the team's most dependable defensive players (along with Melvin Dumas) chased the play down the field.

"I think something told us to not give up and keep going with the play," said Minor. "It looked like the play was dead, and the game was over. Whatever it was, I'm glad we decided to keep going."

Rossum, a two-time all-American sprinter at Notre Dame, ran McCoy out of bounds on a 42-yard run in an attempt to block a punt, preserved the game for the Irish by notching Navy's 99 yards of bounds inside the one-yard line. Just as he stepped out of the playing field, the Navy receiver attempted to lateral the ball back, but it was too late.

It was out of bounds. The clock had expired. Notre Dame avoided being on the losing end of what would have been one of the most amazing comebacks in recent memory.

And it certainly seemed like a good time for the Irish fans. After all, the Notre Dame defense had just stuffed a Navy offense that looked as uncomfortable passing the ball as Jim Colletto at a recent renewal meeting.

McCoy had completed a mere 5-of-15 passes for 56 yards and would need a miracle to get the ball just halfway from his own 35-yard line to the Irish end zone on a "Hail Mary" attempt.

But a miracle is what he got. As the Notre Dame defense may have expected, McCoy's "un Courtesy or "duck" did not travel far nor far. However, instead of knocking the ball to the ground, he caught a low percent-age pass, but a good receiver can increase his odds.

Now, here's where it gets even "freakier." Having caught the deflected pass in stride, McCoy seemed destined to score game-winning touchdown and in the process, end Notre Dame's 33- year winning streak over Navy.

However, Rossum and linebacker Kory Minor had other ideas. Instead of giving up on the play after the ball apparently ended up in the lap of Cooper, Rossum and Minor, perhaps the team's most dependable defensive players (along with Melvin Dumas) chased the play down the field.

"I think something told us to not give up and keep going with the play," said Minor. "It looked like the play was dead, and the game was over. Whatever it was, I'm glad we decided to keep going."

Rossum, a two-time all-American sprinter at Notre Dame, ran McCoy out of bounds on a 42-yard run in an attempt to block a punt, preserved the game for the Irish by notching Navy's 99 yards of bounds inside the one-yard line. Just as he stepped out of the playing field, the Navy receiver attempted to lateral the ball back, but it was too late.

It was out of bounds. The clock had expired. Notre Dame avoided being on the losing end of what would have been one of the most amazing comebacks in recent memory.

And it certainly seemed like a good time for the Irish fans. After all, the Notre Dame defense had just stuffed a Navy offense that looked as uncomfortable passing the ball as Jim Colletto at a recent renewal meeting.

McCoy had completed a mere 5-of-15 passes for 56 yards and would need a miracle to get the ball just halfway from his own 35-yard line to the Irish end zone on a "Hail Mary" attempt.

But a miracle is what he got. As the Notre Dame defense may have expected, McCoy's "un Courtesy or "duck" did not travel far nor far. However, instead of knocking the ball to the ground, he caught a low percent-age pass, but a good receiver can increase his odds.

Now, here's where it gets even "freakier." Having caught the deflected pass in stride, McCoy seemed destined to score game-winning touchdown and in the process, end Notre Dame's 33- year winning streak over Navy.

However, Rossum and linebacker Kory Minor had other ideas. Instead of giving up on the play after the ball apparently ended up in the lap of Cooper, Rossum and Minor, perhaps the team's most dependable defensive players (along with Melvin Dumas) chased the play down the field.

"I think something told us to not give up and keep going with the play," said Minor. "It looked like the play was dead, and the game was over. Whatever it was, I'm glad we decided to keep going."

Rossum, a two-time all-American sprinter at Notre Dame, ran McCoy out of bounds on a 42-yard run in an attempt to block a punt, preserved the game for the Irish by notching Navy's 99 yards of bounds inside the one-yard line. Just as he stepped out of the playing field, the Navy receiver attempted to lateral the ball back, but it was too late.

It was out of bounds. The clock had expired. Notre Dame avoided being on the losing end of what would have been one of the most amazing comebacks in recent memory.

And it certainly seemed like a good time for the Irish fans. After all, the Notre Dame defense had just stuffed a Navy offense that looked as uncomfortable passing the ball as Jim Colletto at a recent renewal meeting.

McCoy had completed a mere 5-of-15 passes for 56 yards and would need a miracle to get the ball just halfway from his own 35-yard line to the Irish end zone on a "Hail Mary" attempt.

But a miracle is what he got. As the Notre Dame defense may have expected, McCoy's "un Courtesy or "duck" did not travel far nor far. However, instead of knocking the ball to the ground, he caught a low percent-age pass, but a good receiver can increase his odds.

Now, here's where it gets even "freakier." Having caught the deflected pass in stride, McCoy seemed destined to score game-winning touchdown and in the process, end Notre Dame's 33- year winning streak over Navy.

However, Rossum and linebacker Kory Minor had other ideas. Instead of giving up on the play after the ball apparently ended up in the lap of Cooper, Rossum and Minor, perhaps the team's most dependable defensive players (along with Melvin Dumas) chased the play down the field.

"I think something told us to not give up and keep going with the play," said Minor. "It looked like the play was dead, and the game was over. Whatever it was, I'm glad we decided to keep going."

Rossum, a two-time all-American sprinter at Notre Dame, ran McCoy out of bounds on a 42-yard run in an attempt to block a punt, preserved the game for the Irish by notching Navy's 99 yards of bounds inside the one-yard line. Just as he stepped out of the playing field, the Navy receiver attempted to lateral the ball back, but it was too late.

It was out of bounds. The clock had expired. Notre Dame avoided being on the losing end of what would have been one of the most amazing comebacks in recent memory.
Notre Dame linebocaٌر Jimmy Friday pursues Navy fullback Tim Cannada in the first half on Saturday. The Midshipmen proved to be successful on the ground, amassing 277 yards.

Notre Dame 21 Navy 17
Notre Dame Stadium
November 1, 1997

Game notes:
Notre Dame extended its winning streak over Navy to 34 games.

Autry Denson's 125 yards moved him into third place on Notre Dame's all-time rushing list with 2,763 yards, passing Jerome Heavens. Denson now looks up at Vagas Ferguson (1,372) and Allen Pinkett (1,315) in the school's record books.

Ron Powlus broke Joe Theismann's completion record for a season with his 156th.

Before Saturday's fourth quarter comeback, Notre Dame was previously 0-3 in 1997 when trailing at the half in losses to Purdue, Michigan State, and Stanford.

Kory Minor's first quarter interception was the first for the Irish defense since Minor's pick against Michigan State, spanning 18 quarters. It was the third takeaway of the season for Minor, tying him with safety Benny Guilbeaux for the team lead.

Navy quarterback Chris McCoy opened the scoring with his 32nd rushing touchdown of his career, moving him to the top of Navy's career rushing touchdown list and passing Napoleon McCallum. The senior quarterback rushed 23 times for 147 yards and moved into fifth place in NCAA history for rushing yardage by quarterback.

Jarious Jackson's interception in the second quarter was the first of his career on his 23rd attempt.

Ken Barry's fumble in the second quarter was just the second lost fumble for the Irish running backs in 1997. Including Barry's, the Irish have lost just four fumbles all year. Denson and Powlus (two) are the only other players to have put the ball on the ground this season.

Game quotes:
Bob Davie: "I'll tell you what. I thought it was Halloween there at the end of that football game."

Ron Powlus on Navy's "Hail Mary" pass with three seconds remaining: "I couldn't believe it. It sure made for a pretty dramatic ending, and we're happy it turned out the way it did."

Defensive coordinator Greg Mattison on the difficulty of beating a wishbone offense: "I never look down on a win, especially against a wishbone team, when you have two days to prepare and they have their lifetime to practice."

Bob Davie on Jarius Jackson's lack of playing time: "It was such a scheme game that I just felt better having had Ron in there because Ron's been in that situation before. I just felt better with him in there, knowing how few possessions we'd get, knowing we'd have to throw the ball."

Navy head coach Charlie Weatherbie on Navy's disruption of the Notre Dame band following Saturday's game: "We always go to the middle of the field after we've gone to our band ... and our fans, and one of the players usually leads us in a prayer. So we weren't doing anything different than we normally do."
Movie Monday

VIDEO PICK OF THE WEEK

Goodfellas’

By JOE KRAUS
Access Movie Critic

If you haven’t noticed, when I do this video pick, I tend to ignore the new releases. I like to bring something out of the vault that may have been forgotten about for a while but should be remembered soon. This week’s video pick is Martin Scorsese’s “Goodfellas,” the greatest gangster movie ever, and possibly one of the top five films ever — bar none! Scorsese likes to provide tough, in-your-face films that leave the viewers feeling like they were hit by a semi. However larger-than-life films seem to always have a personal flavor for both Scorsese and the viewer. “Goodfellas” is no different. This film’s story revolves around the life of Henry Hill (Ray Liotta). Hill is a half Irish, half Sicilian who grew up in Pauly Giongo’s gang back in the gangster-ridden 1960s when the mob was a major part of the American landscape. In the early 1960s, Hill (Joe Pesci) and Tommy (Johnny De Niro) are in the mob life along with Hill’s alluring cocain and drinking with a gun in his hand. It doesn’t offer a break for almost 15 minutes! Last but not least, Scorsese’s soundtrack moves the movie right along in a thrilling manner. Scorsese treats us to a private showing of someone getting beaten to death while a song about the tranquility of the ocean plays in the background. Then, as if that were not enough, we get a personal view of the death to the death of Tommy. Tommy goes on the war path set to the soothing sounds of the instrumental at the end of Eric Clapton’s “Layla.” In this scene, we hear an extremely soothing and melodic piece of music while we see the likes of mutilated bodies in dumpsters and meat lockers. Only from the mind of Marty! If you get the sense that I like this movie, GOOD! You must have been paying attention. If you have never seen “Goodfellas,” do yourself a huge favor. The two and a half hours it lasts will not seem long enough, trust me. If it has been a while since you have seen “Goodfellas,” after dark, grab a bottle of wine, turn it on the VCR. You know you liked it before (who doesn’t?). You will like it again!

---

SOAP OPERA UPDATES

By GENEVIEVE MORRILL
General Hospital Correspondent

This week in Port Charles, the stock market crash robbed us of Brenda and Julia’s relationship. Steve and Alexis are now engaged. Ned and Julia are on their way to the altar. Bobbie is working with Sulu to get the company righted. In the meantime, Jax discs her life for the millionth time, and she realizes that she and Julia love each other and thanks him for helping her to realize it. Jax later stops by and says the same thing. Lea has a fever if he is to believe what onions are saying. Brenda thinks it not to be that bad, especially since she saved the only picture of their mother for Brenda. Jax tells her to call her a genius. Jax’s new partner is Dr. John. Dr. John is a distant relative of Jax. Jax shows her a house, and she gets a good fortune from its Sunny-side quality and buys it. Keesha sees A.J. and Jula hugging and gets jealous. Jula catches up with Ned and Sonny for a blow-wile with on the hanging company that raised the company. Turns out it’s a front for a prominent Greek family — bastard! Stefan promises Alexis that he will make sure that Ned never knows, but looks like it’s a hit date. Later, Ned and Alexis play work games until he pounces and asks why she bet her friend.

Ned goes straight to Spoon Island to see Alexis, after he returns from losing ELQ in Jakarta. They admit they missed each other. Stefan enters and rips into Alexis once they are in Greece and she will not get all about it. Lea brings Alexis the papers from her plot against Katarina, and she’s in a hurry to meet Ned; so she hides them in the secret passage. Later when Luke cases the joint he finds the papers. But that is only after he hides in Stefan’s room, and sneaks out behind his back; Stefan’s not the sharpest knife in the kitchen, he is not the sharpest knife in the kitchen. Kathy admires defeat, but then changes her mind and tells Luke if he can find the gun that press charges. I like thinks his lucky day has come, but Kathy only wants to stop her one true love from returning to Greece. The next time Katharine sees Stefan she warns him that Armagotton is coming. The little trick or treaters who are screaming from Stefan, as Edward confronts him with a similar situation. Lorraine tells Carly to induce labor so no one will be suspicious about the due date. Carly refuses out of concern for her child. A.J. calls Carly on her association with Lassiter, but she pulls it off with female bonding. Little do they know that Bobbie is hiding behind a plant. She tries to pummel for info, but he stays strong and tells her they will look into it later.

Alain is Mr. Moody, and while I don’t agree with Ned’s suspicions about male impotence, I guess every once in a while everyone is noticing his rapid moss swelling. Meanwhile the heat is on as Jared begins an investigation into his drug use in the medical community, and Bobbie wonders why drugs are delivered directly to his office. He puts everyone else off and continues to press charges as Daras asks him to be an anti-drug speaker. Sarah and Nik go shopping, and she buys him his answer. Later Lizzie slaps on a package of condoms so that Sarah and Audery will find it. So Gram and Sarah have THE TALK. However, this business Audrey talks up will reveal in her relationship to her son with Billy. When it turns out to be Mediterranean’s charm, but those condoms imply that Nik has other ideas. Meanwhile, it is all going to Lucky that Nik and Sarah might be more than just friends. However, Nik Sarah might be more than just friends, but what he talks about she now assumes is just sex. Later Stefan tells Nik that they will be returning to Greece, the young prices is not pleased.

Felicity is maintained by a woman looking for her husband, and the picture she has is of Mac." Days of Our Lives is written by several authors including Genevieve Morrill and Nicole Paulina. The text is a summary of the show's events. The title reads "Days of Our Lives." The text is divided into sections for each character. The characters are given reactions to the events that happen to them. The text is written in a narrative style.
I

information

GREAT

Call

"Cutest Puppy

Stonehenge
does not respond to the names

Fri.: 7:30 a.m.-7:00 p.m.

Business?

FOUND

FOUND••••FOUND

FOund

stellar, allowing only three defeated 12th-ranked Michigan game. Beene also lowered her took care of business io the Shannon Boxx.

stretcher, her 14th and 15th, to tied her with

Michigan (15-3-1) its first to 11 games, tying her with Manthei was fouled in the box,

the net at 55:13, her 15th assist for Manthei, the nation's goal of the year, and the 27th

after that win, we were so for our team because every­ opportunities (yesterday).”

Maund, a tri-cap­

has allowed only five goals this has been a good day

it." [Mr.]

had

I

try as a good day

"As

like my

a newspaper ad

and BC? Fr. Michael Himes!

and we did. They so happy about the way we played

we wanted to keep it going bound for winning.

would be a good

said Streiffer.

and exciting.

12th graders.

"We

needed for 8th grader said

the best race of the her first against prospectus is 3p.m. All classifieds musr be prepaid. The charge is 3 cenrs per character per and exciting.

on that

The Irish, despite being for the allure a powerhouse for the

and BC? Fr. Michael Himes!

on my of South Bend.

reaching

I will

Fate Cali.

I will

to

I think people

I cannot

"I couldn't be happier

I chose them with orthope­ with

I was too

with hair.

I will

I can't believe that

I can't believe that

I couldn't

with

I was with

I never use it anymore,

I can't

I can't

I couldn't

I couldn't

I couldn't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

I can't

"Realistically, you are black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.

I am

black.
Hockey

continued from page 1

against the second-ranked Spartans, and it didn’t take long for Michigan State to take the lead. Less than seven minutes in to the game, the Spartans had already solved senior Irish goaltender Matt Eisler, who in the previous four games had seemed invincible.

Sophomore center Ben Simon, who continued on his scoring tear this weekend, knocked the game at one early in the second period with a tip-in, power-play goal, which was set up by junior forward Brian Urick.

But that meager goal represented the extent of the Irish’s offense for the evening. Unlike the Spartans of ancient Greece, who used the deceptive Trojan horse to sneak past their enemies’ wall, the contemporary Spartans just barreled the wall down with an onslaught of goals.

The Spartans recorded two more goals before the second period expired, taking a 3-1 lead into the second intermis­ tion, and they added two more in the final stanza to complete their 5-1 triumph.

"Those goals were breakdowns on our part," lamented
Notre Dame head coach
Dave Poulin.

"We had good chances, but you just aren’t going to get many against a team like Michigan State, and so you have to capitalize on the chances."

But the Boys saved their best dramatics for Saturday night, utilizing a four-goal flurry in the final stanza to ice
the victory. Notre Dame jumped out to a 2-0 lead,
courtesy of a first-period goal
by Simon and an unassisted,
second-period goal by Urick.

Simon is currently enjoying a six-game scoring streak and has five goals already this season, equalling his season goal output from last year. Urick’s goal came from a Spartan turnaround.

He intercepted a clearing pass at the center of the blue­ line and skated near the top of the right circle before firing a shot that eluded Eisler.

The teams entered the third period with the Boys of Winter nursing a tenous 2-1 lead.

Urick, the Boys’ goalie for the season, equalling his season goal output from last year.

"It was a great sign that we responded like we did tonight," mussed Simon.

"Because we showed that we truly are a good team that can compete with the top teams in the nation. People started to notice us after the two wins at St. Cloud State and a pretty good game with Boston College,
but this was another big step.
We actually have been playing better on the road."

In addition, the Irish recorded two more goals to clinch the victory.

"It is a huge one for our program," so that’s what I called it," said Poulin.

Enter junior forward Aniket Dhadphale, who has simply begun to blossom.

His first came on a shot that knotted the game at one early in the second period with a tip-in, power-play goal, which was set up by junior forward Brian Urick.

But that meager goal represented the extent of the Irish’s offense for the evening. Unlike the Spartans of ancient Greece, who used the deceptive Trojan horse to sneak past
their enemies’ wall, the contemporary Spartans just barreled the wall down with an onslaught of goals.

The Spartans recorded two more goals before the second period expired, taking a 3-1
lead into the second intermis­
tion, and they added two more
in the final stanza to complete their 5-1 triumph.

"Those goals were breakdowns on our part," lamented
Notre Dame head coach
Dave Poulin.

"We had good chances, but you just aren’t going to get many against a team like Michigan State,
and so you have to capitalize on the chances."

But the Boys saved their best dramatics
for Saturday
night, utilizing a four-goal
flurry in the final stanza to ice
the victory. Notre Dame
jumped out to a 2-0 lead,
courtesy of a first-period goal
by Simon and an unassisted,
second-period goal by Urick.

Simon is currently enjoying a six-game scoring streak and has five goals already this season, equalling his season goal
output from last year. Urick’s goal came from a Spartan turnaround.

He intercepted a clearing pass at the center of the blue­
line and skated near the top of the right circle before firing a shot that eluded Eisler.

The teams entered the third period with the Boys of Winter
nursing a tenous 2-1 lead.

Urick, the Boys’ goalie for the season, equalling his season goal output from last year.

"It was a great sign that we responded like we did tonight," mussed Simon.

"Because we showed that we truly are a good team that can compete with the top teams in the nation. People started to notice us after the two wins at St. Cloud State and a pretty good game with Boston College,
but this was another big step.
We actually have been playing better on the road."

In addition, the Irish recorded two more
goals to clinch the victory.

"It is a huge one for our program," so that’s what I called it," said Poulin.

Enter junior forward Aniket Dhadphale, who has simply begun to blossom.

His first came on a shot that knotted the game at one early in the second period with a tip-in, power-play goal, which was set up by junior forward Brian Urick.
Newell’s overtime goal hands Goshen a defeat

Saint Mary’s closes regular season with win

By LYNETTE MALECKI

The Saint Mary’s student body arrived in full force Friday to cheer on its soccer team which was geared up for the final game of the season.

The Belles (6-13-0) were prepared to face a challenging Goshen team which boasted a 12-5-1 record. Saint Mary’s strong determination and efforts were rewarded with a nailbiter as Goshen’s defense was able to hold strong as did Goshen’s, with few available shots at either goal. The Belles did not give up, however, and continued playing strong. The game remained scoreless at the end of the half.

"Everyone’s support on Friday meant a lot to the team," said senior forward Debbie Diemer.

The second half found both teams fighting for a goal with play continuing much the same as the first half. Jo Wagner had several crucial saves, while the rest of the team continued applying pressure to Goshen. The second half ended 0-0, sending the game into overtime.

said junior tri-captain and goalkeeper Jo Wagner. In the first half, both teams played very aggressively with play spanning the entire field. The Belles’ defense was able to hold strong as did Goshen’s, with few available shots at either goal. The Belles did not give up, however, and continued playing strong. The game remained scoreless at the end of the half.

"Everyone’s support on Friday meant a lot to the team," said senior forward Debbie Diemer.

The second half found both teams fighting for a goal with play continuing much the same as the first half. Jo Wagner had several crucial saves, while the rest of the team continued applying pressure to Goshen. The second half ended 0-0, sending the game into overtime.

The score not only was this game a dramatic ending to the Belles’ season but also signified the ending of the soccer careers for three seniors on the team, including Newell, Diemer, and fullback Keary Sullivan.

Have something to say? Use Observer classifieds.

S.A.D.D. Presents Red Ribbon Week

Monday

Candle Light Vigil 6:15 PM
Meet at Stonehenge and walk to the Grotto Rosary at the Grotto 6:45 PM

Saturday

MARA FOX FUN RUN
Meet at the Lyons courts at 10:00 AM 5K Run

WEAR YOUR RED RIBBONS ALL WEEK

Sponsored By: Students Against Drunk Driving

AT&T Summer Internship Program

Why an AT&T Internship?

- Internal exposure to the global leader in the telecommunications industry
- Structured program that includes:
  - Professional Development Seminars
  - Formal Objectives and Appraisals
  - Social Gatherings
  - Challenging assignments
  - Experience in a Fortune 500 Corporation
  - First consideration for AT&T’s Financial Leadership Program (FLP)

Job Description

- Entry-level management positions
- Project & team oriented assignments
- Well defined goals and objectives

Requirements

- Junior Accounting & Finance Majors
- Overall GPA of 3.5+ preferred, 3.0 minimum
- Majority of positions in New Jersey (Housing Assistance Available)

Location

- On Campus Interviews are Tuesday December 2nd at Career & Placement
- Resume drop is Monday December 2nd at Career & Placement
- Final interviews are November 3rd & 4th at Career & Placement
Irish volleyball captures first place in Big East

By BILL HART
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame volleyball team took to the road this weekend, traveling to the East Coast to play two conference opponents on their own fields. While the results were the same as most roadstrip weekends, the ramifications were not, as the Irish took sole possession of first place in the Big East conference.

The Irish started off their weekend stretch with a trip eastward to face conference co-ruler Villanova. While Notre Dame has not lost a conference match since 1991, the Wildcats have given the Irish a scare more than once, including a five-game thriller at the Joyce Center in 1996.

"Villanova's definitely one of the best teams in the conference," head coach Debbie Brown said before the match. "They're not very big, compared to us, but they play well together as a team. Along with us, we're the two best teams in the conference."

However, the Wildcats proved not to be a major challenge, as they were easily dispatched in three games, 15-8, 15-7, 15-7. The Irish were led by Harris and Jaimie Lee with 13 and 11 kills respectively, while freshman phenom Christi Girton also had 11 kills. Junior Lindsay Treadwell rounded out the Irish effort with 10 kills on .350 hitting.

Girton led the serving attack, earning three of four aces while Harris served the remaining one. Villanova never had a chance to change the momentum of the match, as it hit just .295 in the first game and .309 in the second. Elizabeth Jones and Ruth Ann Blanckenheim led the Wildcats with nine kills apiece.

With the win over the Wildcats, Notre Dame took sole possession of first place in the Big East conference for the first time this season. The victory also ended a nine-match winning streak for Villanova, which dated back to Sept. 20. With the loss, the Wildcats fell to 15-6 on the season and 5-1 in conference play.

On Sunday, the Irish traveled to Washington, D.C., in face off against Georgetown. Despite a lackluster record, most of the Hoyas' losses have been close, including a five-game loss to Villanova the week before. However, Georgetown's defense wasn't enough to thwart the Irish stampede, as the home team was defeated in three games, 15-2, 15-6, 15-2.

Notre Dame had its third-best hitting match of the season, with a team hitting percentage of .392, while holding the Hoyas to .138. Girton was in her usual hitting form, with a .531 average in the second game and .579 in the third. In the third game, the Irish kept up their defensive power and held the Hoyas to .000 hitting.

The Irish were led by Harris and Lee, who had 11 and nine kills, respectively. Sophomore Mary Leffers aided the Irish cause with seven kills on eight attempts. The team was also helped by a tremendous 11-3 blocking edge, with Girton assisting on seven of those blocks. Treadwell also had five block assists while Leffers assisted with four.

Georgetown's main threat was in the form of freshman Kiran Gill, who had 12 kills on .138 hitting. With the loss, the Hoyas continued a five-match losing streak and fell to 2-5 in conference play and 11-14 overall.

Along with this weekend's action, the Irish have won their last four matches and 11 of their past 12.

---

Downsize This!

Michael Moore (Creator of "TV Nation" & "Roger & Me"

Random threats from an armed American Offers

"Essential, lethally funny reading. Michael Moore has a genius for boiling down massive, apparently mundane topics like global economics into funny, heartfelt, deeply human arguments."

— New Musical Express

Available at:

The Hammes Notre Dame Bookstore

LA SALLE BOOKSTORE

Your source for the best in theological and philosophical books—we can special order any book you need!

Anniversary Sale!

20% OFF ALL BOOKS

NOVEMBER 3-7

THE LA SALLE BOOKSTORE • 234-0003

237 N. Michigan St., downtown South Bend

(at the corner of Michigan and LaSalle Sts.)

Open 10-5, Monday - Friday, parking due south

InterRACE

When? Wednesday, November 5, 1997

Where? CSC Coffee House

Time? 5:30-7:00 pm

Dinner will be served

Please RSVP @ 1-6841 by November 3

Sponsored by the Office of Multicultural Affairs

---
Team earns tournament berth

By TOM STUDEBAKER and DAN LUZIETTI
Sports Writer

Tournament seeds were sewn yesterday on Alumni Field as the Notre Dame men’s soccer team sewed up its regular season schedule on a positive note with a 3-1 victory over Boston College.

With the win, Notre Dame wrapped up the fifth place seed for the conference tournament. The Irish finished the season with a record of 9-8-2 and a conference mark of 5-5-1.

The first half was a defensive battle. Both teams had trouble developing an offensive rhythm. As a result, the majority of the action was in the middle of the field.

"At halftime, we tried to make the players understand that our midfielders weren’t getting forward enough in the first half," head coach Mike Berticelli commented. "Against an organized defense like Boston College, the midfielders have to get ahead of the forwards and we have to run more from behind.

"In the first half, we didn’t do that. Give a lot of credit to the team. We made a tactical adjustment at halftime, and as a result, three midfielders scored in the second half."

Junior co-captain Matt Johnson gave the Irish a 1-0 lead 10 minutes into the second half. It was the first goal of his career. Senior co-captain Ryan Turner was credited with an assist after he set up the play with a beautiful pass from the wing. Junior Ben Bocklage was the next to strike for Notre Dame. Freshman Conor LaRose was able to beat the Eagle defense with a nice pass to the streaking Bocklage for the goal.

Senior Joe Gallo wrapped up the scoring for the Irish just five minutes later when he tallied his first goal of the season. Senior David Cutler was credited with an assist.

"It is a positive that we scored those goals on a solid team like Boston College," Berticelli explained. "They haven’t given up many goals this season, and scoring that many gives us momentum going into next game. We played well, we scored goals, and hopefully we can carry that into the playoffs."

Boston College was able to muster one goal against Notre Dame, coming late in the game. Junior Keith McDonald scored off a pass from sophomore August Suppes, but it was just too little too late.

The win was critical for the Irish as they head in to the postseason. It snapped a five-game losing streak that included four conference opponents.

"We had a tough little stretch over fall break," Berticelli said. "It is always a bear for us playing three or four games in five or six days against some of the top teams in the conference on the road."

Using the momentum of the victory, the Irish will face Seton Hall in the first round of the Big East tournament on Nov. 9. Boston Heights, the season ranked fourth in the Big East after losing to Connecticut in overtime by a score of 3-2.

---

UPCOMING LECTURE:

The Great East Africa: The History of the World Cinema

Nov. 19 at 6pm

Followed by a Panel Discussion on:

"Knowledge, Wisdom, & Power in Our Societies"

Moderator: Prof. Carolyn Fidstrom, Anthropology Dept.

Panel: Prof. Douglas Armstrong, Economics Dept.; Prof. Patrick Gaffney, Chair, Anthropology Dept.; Prof. Carolyn Nordstrom, Anthropology Dept. & Peace Studies; Prof. Benedikt Agumann, CEE/Formation in Ministry; Rev. Thomas Tibalunguka, CEE/Formation in Ministry

YEELEN: "Brilliant!" tells the story of Nsimbokiro, a young warrior destined to destroy a corrupt older society, the secret Kung cult, and with it, his father, and inevitably, himself. The film follows him on a quest across arid llambara, a traditional way of seeing the world.

YEELEN enables viewers not just to understand but to experience a traditional way of seeing the world. Its innovative narrative style captures the film’s brief time in circular, not linear, always returning to that initial "brightness" which crosses the world.

---

Summer Service Projects ’98

What are you doing next summer?

Life Nights at the CSC: Nov. 19 at 5pm

- 9 weeks of service-learning
- Three elective Theology credits
- $3700 Tuition Scholarship

Applications are available at the CSC—apply now!

Deadline Jan 3rd (rolling acceptance)

(Dec. 2 for students abroad Spring ’98)

Questions? Call Erika at 4-1494

---

Student Season Ticket Pick-Up

Tickets already purchased: $44

Ticket Purchase:

Tuesday, November 4th

Dining Hall 11:00am - 2:00pm

Wednesday, November 5th

Dining Hall 11:00am - 2:00pm

---

The Notre Dame African Students’ Association

Proudly Presents

YEELEN

1987 105 min.

A feature film by Souleymane Cissé (Mali)

"One of the greatest experiences of world cinema"

"Transports viewers to a world they could never imagine and will never forget"
STANFORD BAND VS
NAVY FOOTBALL TEAM

CROSSWORD

1. Enlarge da

3. Span

5. Smear

8. Deuce

10. Fizz

11. Observe

12. Vicious

14. Child

15. Bead

17. Glove

19. Ground

21. Helm

22. Gaze

23. Acre

24. Veil

25. Kraken

26. Plunge

27. Gory

28. Paper

29. Slap

30. Door

31. Bar

32. Drizzle

33. Profile

34. Enact

35. Sausage

36. Scott

37. Cut

39. Transport

40. Twist

41. With

42. Baddie

43. Viper

44. Enlarge

46. Llama

48. Trumpet

49. Tape

50. Passion

51. Glint

52. Nook

53. Pail

54. Bangle

55. Stage

56. Hex

57. Sparrow

59. Adept

60. Run

61. Mere

62. Ken

63. Neat

64. Knob

65. Vow

66. Gore

67. Hop

68. Belt

69. Muser

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

1. Bob

2. Bolen

3. Bond

4. Boley

5. Mek

6..integer

7. Ben

8. Mek

9. Ben

10. Ben

11. Mek

12. Ben

13. Mek

14. Ben

15. Mek

16. Ben

17. Mek

18. Ben

19. Mek

20. Ben

21. Mek

22. Ben

23. Mek

24. Ben

25. Mek

26. Ben

27. Mek

28. Ben

29. Mek

30. Ben

31. Mek

32. Ben

33. Mek

34. Ben

35. Mek

36. Ben

37. Mek

38. Ben

39. Mek

40. Ben

41. Mek

42. Ben

43. Mek

44. Ben

45. Mek

46. Ben

47. Mek

48. Ben

49. Mek

50. Ben

51. Mek

52. Ben

53. Mek

54. Ben

55. Mek

56. Ben

57. Mek

58. Ben

59. Mek

60. Ben

61. Mek

62. Ben

63. Mek

64. Ben

65. Mek

66. Ben

67. Mek

68. Ben

69. Mek

THE OBSERVER • TODAY

YOUR HOROSCOPE

EUGENIA LAST

ARIES: This is a day of discover and invention. You expand comfortably to fill your world. Even if you don't make the history books, you are satisfied by your accomplishment.

TAURUS: This is not a day to grab for your moment of glory. Focus on group dynamics as you run with the pack.
Be thifty with any material resources that do not grow on trees.

GEMINI: A familiar relationship changes its character.
Make sure that you understand the situation before you react. All words are written in time today, and all sides are final.

CANCER: Your personal history weighs heavily on you today.
It's time to clean the slate and open a new account. Look at yourself from the outside and evaluate your virtues.

LEO: This is your moment in the sun. Fortune smiles and great honor is bestowed upon you. The world is your kingdom. All doors are open for you today.

VIRGO: You are faced with something bigger than yourself. A problem becomes manageable when broken into little pieces. Start slowly and work your way up to a comfortable rhythm.

LIBRA: This is a favorable day for planning projects, especially in a small team environment. Good news travels quickly. Last week's postponed decision turns out to have been a wise move indeed.

SCORPIO: Nothing good will happen today unless you put some effort into making it happen. Investigate mutual funds with an eye on long­ term performance. Do not trust the judgement of someone who is restless.

SAGITTARIUS: You work with speed and power today, your flame burning brilliantly.
Acting out of self-interest does not mean that you're selfish.
On days when you are owner of the universe, it's simply a waste of time to pretend otherwise.

CAPRICORN: Business travel is favored today, although there are no guaranteed results once you reach your destination. A beggar offers peculiar, unsolicited wisdom. Time suddenly seems irrelevant.

AQUARIUS: A major cultural shift is happening, and you want to watch it from a front row seat. Everyone's spirits are high, even if their reasons are different. This is a day of sudden peaks, and even the sun does not mean that you're selfish.

PISCES: Your professional environment may be a less than pleasant place today.
Confusion is lurking beneath the surface of seemingly calm, rational interactions. If possible, avoid subjects related to civil or criminal law.

WANTED: Reporters, photographers and editors.
Join The Observer Staff.
Hockey

Irish triumph with monumental win

By CHARLEY GATES
Sports Writer

Tremendous. That's about as close as the English language can come to describing how Notre Dame's hockey team kicked off its CCHA season. At a cursory glance, casual fans note that the teams equally split their two-game series. But the Irish's victory on Saturday night means so much more; it reflects how far the program has come and how bright its future is.

On Friday night, the Spartans dominated the Boys of Winter, dispatching them 5-1 in front of a sold-out Joyce Center. But on Saturday, the Irish's victory was an all-out spanking of the Spartans 6-1 for a mind-boggling, eyebrow-raising win at East Lansing.

"Saturday's win was a huge one for our team and for our program," said head coach Dave Poulin. "The biggest thing was how we were able to bounce back from Friday night — the players knew they had to play much better to beat a team like Michigan State."

The Boys came out tentatively in the first period. But the Irish dominated, scoring on goal after goal — a huge shot that went in, a deflection off the skate of a Michigan State player, a breakaway goal by Mike LeBlanc — to pull ahead 2-0 after two periods. In the third period, the Spartans got within one, but the Irish scored two more goals to pull away, scoring on a power play and again on a breakaway goal by Mike LeBlanc.

"I've got to believe this win is going to give us tons of confidence and may even help our ranking, which could help if we need an at-large bid for the NCAA championships," said Poulin.

"We need to stay healthy and win well over the next four games, which are going to be important to our ranking," he added.

On Saturday, freshman Matt Van Arkel and the Irish upset the second-ranked Spartans, 6-1. But the Irish's victory on Saturday night means so much more; it reflects how far the program has come and how bright its future is. Right, we would come out victorious. Because the course is fairly open at the start and narrows down at about the mile, we knew we had to get to the front early.

"We did and were in command the entire way. We proved to ourselves and everyone else that we deserved our ranking."

The team is preparing for NCAA Districts on Nov. 15 at the University of Indiana in Bloomington.

"I've got to believe this win is going to give us tons of confidence and may even help our ranking, which could help if we need an at-large bid for the NCAA championships," said Poulin.

"We need to stay healthy and win well over the next four games, which are going to be important to our ranking," he added.

On Saturday, freshman Matt Van Arkel and the Irish upset the second-ranked Spartans, 6-1.

Cross Country Big East Championships

Men: 1st Place
Top Finishers: Jason Rexing, 4th Place
Antonio Arce, 5th Place

Women: 4th Place
Top Finishers: JoAnna Deeter, 18th Place
Alison Klemmer, 18th Place

See page 12

Men's soccer secures tournament spot

See page 14

Women's soccer wins, 7-0

See page 12