By M. SHANNON RYAN
Saint Mary's Editor

Jim Cook notices one glaring difference between the women he coaches at Division III Saint Mary's and himself as a Division I academic all-American at West Virginia University: the women he trains love the sport.

"Playing without athletic scholarships and juggling multiple extra-curricular activities, heavy academic workloads and jobs, the typical Belle plays the game for the sheer enjoyment of competition."

"The women I'm coaching, I can see that they love it. I didn't love it anymore in college," said Cook, also Saint Mary's assistant director of athletics and recreation. "It was like any job. I got paid with an athletic scholarship to do it. Nobody's forcing them to walk through that door for practice."

Saint Mary's has held fast to the Division III philosophy where student-athletes' priorities are expected to rest in the classroom, first and on the court second. In fact, what attracted many of Saint Mary's 140 plus student-athletes to the school was not the draw of athletics, but the promise of a valuable education.

"I looked at schools for their academics," said Johna Indriolo, a junior education major and a left fielder on the softball team. "I liked that at Saint Mary's the focus was being a student first and an athlete second. I also enjoy being in the center of those talents without a price."

"Not being on scholarship takes the pressure off. It makes it more fun, it's not like a job," she said.

Agnes Bill, a captain on the volleyball squad, opted for a blue and white uniform despite initializing recruits from Division I Ohio University and Division II Oakland University in Michigan.

"Besides being incredibly athletically demanding, I'd be traveling a lot, and I wouldn't be in the classrooms enough," Bill said. "Right now, I get a lot of playing time and I like what I do."

Indriolo also noted the opportunity for playing time that she might not have received at a larger institution.

"I just decided to try out freshman year and I got the opportunity to play," she said. "I just wish all the people who were good at sports...would try out." Many first year students, however, cannot handle the rigorous demands of being a Saint Mary's athlete.

"Freshmen are overwhelmed," said Jan Travis, director of athletics and recreation. "I don't think anyone coming in can have a true understanding of what academics are at Saint Mary's."
National Holiday??

Today is Martin Luther King Day. Yes, that's right, it's Martin Luther King Day, not just the first Monday of the month or the third Monday of January, but the Monday that we celebrate, not just the Monday that we mention.

What is Martin Luther King Day about? Why does Notre Dame celebrate Martin Luther King Day? Why does this university not pay homage to King's memory and message by offering students the opportunity to study the ideas that King was so passionate about?

For many years, Notre Dame has observed Martin Luther King Day. This year, Notre Dame celebrated King Day with a series of events and lectures dedicated to his legacy.

Religious group wins battle over mass mail delivery

Religious group wins battle over mass mail delivery

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

HANOVER, N.H. — Two additional paragraphs were added to the original letter from last term detailing the reasons for the mailing delay, including the following statement: "After a long and very thoughtful consideration of all the issues involved we believe that ultimately it is best for your recipient if you mail the book, so that you will receive the letter." The letter states: "Near the HIMSA office, two relocation boxes were set up by the CCC for students to deposit their books if students did not want them. Brown said he found out about the decision to mail the books yesterday and that it did not concern him. "That was a victory," he exclaimed. "I was concerned they would be violated by the circumstances in December and I wanted them to feel they could mail it out and was glad they did.""}

The Observer • INSIDE

Outside the Dome

Monday, January 18, 1999

South Bend Weather

5 Day South Bend Forecast

National Weather

The AssocWeather forecast for noon, Monday, Jan. 18.

University of Arizona

Researchers develop AIDS treatment

University of Minnesota

University offers testing alternative

University of Alabama

Student diversity on the rise

University of Michigan

Fraternity members maintain innocence

University of Arizona

Researchers develop AIDS treatment

AIDS treatment developed by two University of Arizona researchers that would bolster the health of patients suffering from the immune-deficiency disease is on its way to the market. Ronald Watson and John Marchalonsis are awaiting formal issuance of a patent on an immune-stimulating receptor peptide therapy approved earlier this year. After further tests by the drug company Allergen and FDA approval, the treatment could be available in three to four years, Watson said. While conventional treatments aim to kill HIV, the two researchers have discovered a peptide which strengthens the body's immune system before patients plunge into full-blown AIDS, Watson said, an Arizona Prevention Center research professor. "This idea is, if you're trying to kill the virus, then you might do something to benefit the immune system at the same time," Watson said.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.

In spite of the racial conflict that has scarred the reputation of the University in the past, the University is now a national leader for enrollment and graduation of African-American students. The University has been on a plateau since the mid-70s regarding enrollment of African-Americans, said E. Calpepper Clark, dean of the College of Communication and Information Sciences and author of The Schoolhouse Door: Segregation's Last Stand at the University of Alabama. "The attempt to enroll more black students was rapidly underway in 1966, and a major effort was made that year," Clark said. "The most dramatic change in the number of African-American students occurred principally in the 70s. According to Clark, black-American enrollment has increased by about 13 percent of the student population at the University.

TUCSON, Ariz.

HIV testing for college students is often a scary, emotional and even embarrassing experience. Beginning in 1990, Boynton Health Service began offering confidential testing to make the experience easier on students. Students make between 30 to 40 appointments at Boynton Health Service weekly to receive either HIV testing or results; many of them wouldn't get tested without the confidential option. The testing is called confidential because after the results are in, there is no evidence on the patient's record that the test took place. The test is so confidential that only number labels are used on blood samplers. The results are written in as a simple "nurse visit." Dave Golden, director of public health, marketing and community relations at Boynton Health Service, said that people came to Boynton for confidential testing in 1996. Only one of these tests tested positive.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.

Lawyers for 10 Pan Delta Theta fraternity members arrested outside the courtroom that their clients' actions at an Oct. 15 party have no relationship with Courtney Cante's death - the first public comments from the side of the defendants. "I think that there's a very good possibility they may be held at least at all times for some other actions or examples," said Royal Donn Al-Aids, who represents a majority of the fraternity members. "I find that very unfair to them," he said. 10 defendants stood moralized the charges and pleaded not guilty at the Washtenaw County Courthouse yesterday morning. Earlier, the students, along with attorneys, family members and other fraternity members, solemnly filled into Ann Arbor City Hall just after 8:30 a.m. The trial is expected to last up to four weeks. As Assistant U.S. Attorney Howard Fink said, "They were officially arrested, booked and taken to the courthouse."

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

Student diversity on the rise

The problems which King addressed are still present in our society. Racial inequality and economic injustice are still taking their toll in the U.S., but the occasional long weekend would be an homage to King's memory and message by offering students the opportunity to study the ideas that King was so passionate about.

UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

Researchers develop AIDS treatment

AIDS treatment developed by two University of Arizona researchers that would bolster the health of patients suffering from the immune-deficiency disease is on its way to the market. Ronald Watson and John Marchalonsis are awaiting formal issuance of a patent on an immune-stimulating receptor peptide therapy approved earlier this year. After further tests by the drug company Allergen and FDA approval, the treatment could be available in three to four years, Watson said. While conventional treatments aim to kill HIV, the two researchers have discovered a peptide which strengthens the body's immune system before patients plunge into full-blown AIDS, Watson said, an Arizona Prevention Center research professor. "This idea is, if you're trying to kill the virus, then you might do something to benefit the immune system at the same time," Watson said.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala.

In spite of the racial conflict that has scarred the reputation of the University in the past, the University is now a national leader for enrollment and graduation of African-American students. The University has been on a plateau since the mid-70s regarding enrollment of African-Americans, said E. Calpepper Clark, dean of the College of Communication and Information Sciences and author of The Schoolhouse Door: Segregation's Last Stand at the University of Alabama. "The attempt to enroll more black students was rapidly underway in 1966, and a major effort was made that year," Clark said. "The most dramatic change in the number of African-American students occurred principally in the 70s. According to Clark, black-American enrollment has increased by about 13 percent of the student population at the University.

TUCSON, Ariz.

HIV testing for college students is often a scary, emotional and even embarrassing experience. Beginning in 1990, Boynton Health Service began offering confidential testing to make the experience easier on students. Students make between 30 to 40 appointments at Boynton Health Service weekly to receive either HIV testing or results; many of them wouldn't get tested without the confidential option. The testing is called confidential because after the results are in, there is no evidence on the patient's record that the test took place. The test is so confidential that only number labels are used on blood samplers. The results are written in as a simple "nurse visit." Dave Golden, director of public health, marketing and community relations at Boynton Health Service, said that people came to Boynton for confidential testing in 1996. Only one of these tests tested positive.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.

Lawyers for 10 Pan Delta Theta fraternity members arrested outside the courtroom that their clients' actions at an Oct. 15 party have no relationship with Courtney Cante's death - the first public comments from the side of the defendants. "I think that there's a very good possibility they may be held at least at all times for some other actions or examples," said Royal Donn Al-Aids, who represents a majority of the fraternity members. "I find that very unfair to them," he said. 10 defendants stood moralized the charges and pleaded not guilty at the Washtenaw County Courthouse yesterday morning. Earlier, the students, along with attorneys, family members and other fraternity members, solemnly filled into Ann Arbor City Hall just after 8:30 a.m. The trial is expected to last up to four weeks. As Assistant U.S. Attorney Howard Fink said, "They were officially arrested, booked and taken to the courthouse."
New art exhibits take a peak at early Western culture

By VAN GILES
News Writer

A celebration of the American landscape arrived this past Friday at the Snite via two new exhibits. Mapping the West: Nineteenth Century American Landscapes is a collection of 77 rare photographs taken between 1865 and 1882. The museum’s second exhibit, FritzKaeser: A Life in Photography, is a collection of the Tuscon photographer’s 50-year career. The Mapping the West exhibit presents the work of four pioneer photographers, Carleton Watkins, Alexander Gardner, Timothy O’Sullivan and John Fillmer who captured raw American images by trekking across western territories.

"Fritz Kaeser: A Life in Photography" is being held in conjunction with the book of the same name by the Snite’s curator of photography, Stephen Mavrity. The exhibit is an array of images, such as "The San Xavier Mission," including sea shells, buffalo skulls, Guatemalan pigs, cacti and reflected clouds. Watkins’ depictions of the West, which in recent years have been recognized by a new generation of collectors, portray rivers, canyons and tall granite mountains in the American landscape.

Gardner captured images of Native Americans with images of Native Americans work has a sepia-tone hue that characterizes early photography. His images of Indians are reminiscent of an era long gone that we can only see through Hollywood’s recreations.

O’Sullivan, who was a Civil War photographer, took photographs of Pueblo villages and Native American tribes that occupied the land before America’s western states were established.

Fillmer’s work is known for his images of the stern faces of the early Pueblo Indians along the Rio Grande Valley.

“This is a unique opportunity for the university community to see rare and never before exhibited photography,” said museum curator Gina Costa. The Kaeser show closes March 14 while the Mapping the West exhibit will close in mid-February.

Patrons view the new art exhibits displayed in the Snite Museum. The shows include photographs of early American Western civilization. Pictures of animal skulls, mountains and early Native Americans are just a few of the pieces that will be on display until March 14.

Center for Social Concerns University of Notre Dame

SOCIAL CONCERNS SEMINAR:

MIGRANT EXPERIENCE SEMINAR

During Spring Break 1999, the Center for Social Concerns will offer an unique experiential learning opportunity. Students will travel to Immokalee, Florida to work with migrant farm workers and agencies that serve them. The seminar offers:

- An experiential, student-directed, alternative break opportunity (March 6-14, 1999)
- One credit in Theology
- An opportunity to work in the fields with migrant workers, to assist those agencies that serve them, and to examine related issues

Information Meeting (optional):
Monday, January 18th at 7:00 PM at the CSC

Applications are available at the Center
Applications due: Thursday, January 28th with $50 deposit

For more information: Arnold Lacy, 634-1712
Shawn Aishhill, 634-2685
Dr. Jay Brandenberger, 631-5953

SAINT MARY’S COLLEGE

Student Activities Board (SAB)

Spring 1999 Events

January
16 Student Union Open Mic Night
8 pm
18 Hear Pate (beast)
Dawley’s
9:30 pm
20 Open Mic Night
Dawley’s
8:10 pm
February
2 Think Fast
Gang Show
Yamn Deming Hall
11:45 PM 1:00 AM
20 Frederick Wasser: Impression
Dawley’s
8 pm
26 "Bentwood" (new documentary to follow rates)
Carrel Auditorium
7 pm

March
3 Open Mic Night
Dawley’s
8-10 pm
10 ‘You’ve Got Mail’
Carrel Auditorium
8 pm
20 ‘You’ve Got Mail’
Carrel Auditorium
8 pm
23 MAC (Teens) Library Green
11 pm 12 am
31 MAC Student Center Open Mic Night
8 pm

April
5 Open Mic Night
Dawley’s
8-10 pm
12 MAC (Teens) Library Green
11 pm 12 am
19 We’re Outta Here
Carrel Auditorium
8 pm
26 "Gone With the Wind"
Carrel Auditorium
7 pm

Please Recycle The Observer.

We’ll Pay You to MEET YOUR NEW
PERSONAL BANKER...

1st Source is your source for Internet banking!

Now your account information is just a click away with 1st Source Direct on the Internet!

Access information on:
- balances
- interest rates
- payments and transactions
You can also:
- transfer funds
- pay bills
- and much more.

The future of financial services is here now, and with 1st Source you can bank on it! Visit our web site today at www.1stsource.com and check out 1st Source Bank’s full range of products and services.

Join us for an Internet demonstration at the 1st Source ATM in the lower level of the Hesburgh Library on:

January 19th and 20th
any time between 11:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.
- We’ll give you a buck just for stopping by to see for yourself how secure, simple and quick Internet banking is.
- We’ll give you three months of 1st Source Direct Internet service FREE.

www.1stsource.com
Athletes continued from page 1

To ease the tension, the athletic department is developing a mentoring program to help retain athletes. Underclassmen would be paired with first year students to advise them on time management and to encourage them to stick with the sport.

Building a winning program

"I don't think other people always know how much time athletes put in," Bill said, noting 5:30 a.m. practices. "My roommates can't believe how much I'm gone."

The level of competition rose last year when Saint Mary's joined the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association. Now teams are involved in conference and post-season play.

"Even though there's no scholarship and it's Division III, it's still a highly competitive program," Travis said. The conference "is an asset to the student-athlete for many reasons."

There's closure in the season, easier to earn national awards and become an all-American," Travis said. However, Saint Mary's athletic program still has long strides to take before it is competing at a winning level.

Currently the program is suffering - basketball, soccer, softball and volleyball all finished with losing records in their most recent seasons. In the midst of their seasons, the basketball team is now 3-10 and the swim team, who loses significant points due to having no divers, won their first meet Saturday.

"The Saint Mary's program is not at the level we hope it will be in the next couple years," Travis said.

Besides fine-tuning themselves as MIAA conference members, Saint Mary's athletes must also adjust to a high turnover rate with coaches.

"I've had five or six coaches in three years," Indriolo said. "I've had to learn how to hustle three times. Each new coach has different ways of coaching. With consistent coaching, we could build up a program that's out of this world."

Travis attributed much of the problem to coaches leaving because most are hired only on a part-time basis. This also interrupts the recruiting process.

"It's difficult to continue recruiting with the turnover. You lose your continuity. If a coach resigns, recruiting stops," he said.

"Many who are working part-time are also working another job. The time demand is extremely difficult to handle," Cook said she noticed many positive changes when she took on a full-time position in August.

"My relationship with my athlete-athletes improved," she said. "It's more hands-on and I can be here at all different times. I didn't feel like part of the school last year as a part-time employee."

This year, different clubs have sponsored events like barbecues and free give-aways at events to attempt to draw out the students. There have been improvements at some events, most notably at soccer games, where these marketing techniques were used. Travis said.

Athletes and directors said that being a women's college also influences fan turn out.

At many schools, Travis said, it is common for male athletes to attend the women's games and vice versa, thus creating a larger fan base.

"The number one thing in high school was football players going to the volleyball game," Bill said.

Bill also said that by not having the "popular" sports like football and men's basketball, Saint Mary's is not always thought of as an athletic school.

With the implementation of an athletic advisory, athletes are trying to set an example by attending each other's games.

"It's not the only thing," Bill said, "but if fans were watching me play, I could play harder. It's definitely a motivator." Despite the often empty seats and some slumping records, the Belles are striving to improve. Even if the championships don't come immediately and fans don't pack the bleachers, the reason the athletes are playing won't change, Travis said.

A "Division III athlete is very special," she said. "They have to learn to juggle academics, athletics, a social life and... still be involved in college life and learn the true meaning of college life. They have to balance all facets of life."

"They're not performing for a spectator. Naturally, it's neat to be known in the stands and see people cheering for you. (But) the student-athlete is participating for the love of the sport."
World News Briefs

Hostilities continue in Kosovo

RACAK, Yugoslavia

Fighting erupted Sunday in a Kosovo village where 45 ethnic Albanians were believed to have been butchered to halt funeral services for the slain and join international monitors in fleeing to safety.

NATO forces in southern Kosovo rocketed other villages in the area later Sunday. Peace monitors from the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe reported houses burning in villages west of Racak, 15 miles south of the provincial capital, Pristina. After an emergency session, NATO announced Sunday it was sending its top generals to Belgrade to impress upon Yugoslav authorities the gravity of the situation after the killing of the ethnic Albanians, whose mutilated bodies were discreetly discovered Saturday in a gully. NATO ambassadors of the 16 member countries had met at head­quarters in Brussels, Belgium, to decide on a response to the killings. The threat of NATO airstrikes, hanging over the heads of Serb authorities since October, remains an option.

Drugs lead to American arrest

MEXICO CITY

Mexican police have arrested an American man who was caught allegedly carrying 3 1/2 pounds of heroin in his backpack during a check of a bus at the Mexico City International Airport.

Federal police said Rick Wightman was carrying two passports, one issued in New York and the other in Bogota, Colombia, when he was arrested Saturday. Wightman had arrived in Cancun on a flight from San Jose, Costa Rica. In checking the drugs hidden in clothing in his backpack, the federal attorney general's office said in a statement.

The office said U.S. consular authorities had been advised of the arrest. Wightman's age and hometown were not given.

German company recalls glucose medicine

BRUSSELS, Belgium

A German pharmaceutical company has recalled thousands of vials of a glucose medicine after two premature babies died when given injections from the containers, which turned out to hold potassium chloride.

The company, B.Braun Melsungen AG, acknowledged with consternation the babies' deaths, saying it believed that 128,000 vials of the 5 percent glucose were distributed in September 1997. But Philippe Verschuren, the company's representative in Belgium, denied that Braun erroneously mislabeled the vias, saying something could have happened after they left the factory. "In normal circumstances something like this cannot happen," he said. The production process is too automated for that, it's nearly incomprehensible," Verschuren said.

Rebels fight for leader's freedom

YUGOSLAVIA

Clairning that his forces have left the capital of Sierra Leone an uncontrollable wasteland, a rebel commander vowed Sunday to letarchy reign in the war-ravaged city until his jailed leader is released.

Both the rebels and the government of President Ahmad Tejan Kabbah claim to have the upper hand in a month-long surge in fighting that has caused a humanitarian emergency and unknown number of casualties in one of the world's poorest nations.

Rebel leader Foday Sandoh, who was sentenced to death late last year for treason and mass murder, has been held in a secret location since the rebels launched attacks last month on Freetown, the capital of this former British colony. "We have made Freetown ungovernable," said Sam Beackery of the Revolutionary United Front rebel movement. "We can do that until Kabbah steps down or they release Sandoh."

Beckery spoke by telephone from an undisclosed location in Sierra Leone. The fighting in Freetown follows months of savage attacks by the rebels, who have reportedly killed, raped and mutilated thousands of unarmed villagers in a campaign aimed at widening their influence through terror.

The insurgents are pitted against government forces and a Nigerian-led West African force known by its acronym, ECOMOG.

Parts of the capital have been set afire, and thousands of people face starvation, relief groups say.

But Beackery still vowed to stand by a seven-day ceasefire set to begin Monday evening.

"Our guns will go silent for a week. If the Nigerians do not try to do anything, they will stay silent for a week," he said. "They know, if any ECOMOG ship comes to Freetown it will be sunk by a single Nigerian jet — would cause the ships to start taking flight."

"We will not sit down and look at them shooting us," he said.

Officially, ECOMOG and the Sierra Leonean government could not be reached for comment.

Beckery also accused the British, who have moved a naval frigate into international waters off the coast, of shelling rebel positions. "Their shells have landed on our soil," he said.

"We will attack their embassy. It's going to be burned down," warned Beackery.

A British Ministry of Defense spokeswoman in London, speaking on customary condition of anonymity, conceded the shelling accusations.

United Kingdom

Pinochet's appeal causes protests

A young Kamajor, a traditional hunter who is siding with the West African peace­keeping force ECOMOG, displays his machine gun. Fighting between the West African force and rebels for control has claimed more than 2,000 lives.

A young Kamajors, a traditional hunter who is siding with the West African peace­keeping force ECOMOG, displays his machine gun. Fighting between the West African force and rebels for control has claimed more than 2,000 lives.

The appeal is being heard again because Lord Justice Hoffman, one of the law lords who made the original ruling, failed to disclose his ties with Amnesty International, a key player in the long campaign to have the 83­year-old general charged.

The House of Lords, which has upheld the Nov. 25 High Court decision that quashed Pinochet's arrest, the general will be free to go home. The hearing is expected to last into the middle of the week, and the Law Lords will have the option of reserv­ing judgment.

Pinochet, who was recovering from back surgery in a London hospital when he was arrested, is not permitted to leave his rented house.

On Sunday, he was quoted as telling a British newspaper, "I am resigned to my fate even if that means dying here. This is part of my sacrifice to the Fatherland. ... I am answerable to only two people — God and the Chileans — and I can stand honorably in front of both."

The Sunday Telegraph quoted him as saying.

---

Market Watch: 1/15

Dow Jones

| AMEX | 790.29 | +11.17 |
| NYSE | 2348.20 | +52.73 |
| NASDAQ | 592.00 | +32.70 |
| Composite Value | 5,154,000,000 |

Volume Leaders

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company</th>
<th>Shares</th>
<th>Volume</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ford</td>
<td>49,858,320</td>
<td>7,228,750</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gannett</td>
<td>24,240,000</td>
<td>4,651,430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IBM</td>
<td>21,700,000</td>
<td>3,751,430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dow</td>
<td>16,500,000</td>
<td>2,851,430</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Microsoft</td>
<td>15,000,000</td>
<td>2,561,430</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

---

President Tejan Kabbah claims to

Hostages continue in Kosovo

MEXICO CITY

German company recalls glucose medicine

inned.
U.S. ends talks with N. Korea

Associated Press

GENEVA

With no immediate breakthrough in sight, the United States adjourned talks Sunday on gaining access to what it believes is an underground site North Korea is using to develop nuclear weapons.

U.S. Ambassador Charles Kartman and North Korean Deputy Foreign Minister Kim Gye Gw-an will meet again next weekend after a round of more general peace talks during the week, U.S. and North Korean diplomats said. The wider talks, which start Tuesday, involve North and South Korea, along with the United States and China. The four sides launched the talks 13 months ago in an effort to replace the 1953 Korean War armistice with a permanent peace treaty. Until now, participants have made only slow headway on procedural issues.

Progress on the nuclear issue was expected to set the tone for the week's four-party talks.

Washington has so far rejected North Korean demands for $200 million in compensation to inspect the Kumchangni underground site, which was revealed last summer in satellite photos. Pyongyang says it needs the money because it won't be able to use the facility after outsiders have seen it, but denies it uses the site for nuclear weapons.

Detection of the site has renewed fears about the nuclear ambitions of the North's reclusive Communist government and inflated tensions on the divided Korean peninsula.

The North Korean and American diplomats, who refused to give their names, gave no details about the adjoined round of weekend talks.

North Korea's deputy foreign minister told journalists earlier that the two sides were "stuck" in the opening sessions Saturday. "I don't know whether we will manage to overcome our differences," Kim said before Sunday's meeting at North Korea's lakeside diplomatic mission.

Kartman left the meeting without comment. "I will do my best," was all he said beforehand.

Two previous rounds of U.S.-North Korean talks in Washington and New York failed to make any progress. Dispute over the underground site has compounded the tensions raised when North Korea fired a rocket over Japan at the end of August. The United States believes North Korea launched a ballistic missile, and it is now working with Japan to develop a new missile-defense system.

Congress has pressured the Clinton administration to cut financial aid for a nuclear energy project agreed upon in 1994 if North Korea doesn't accept an inspection at Kumchangni.

"I DON'T KNOW WHETHER WE WILL MANAGE TO OVERCOME OUR DIFFERENCES."

KIM GYE GWAN
NORTH KOREAN DEPUTY FOREIGN MINISTER

Iraq remembers Persian Gulf War

Associated Press

BAGHDAD

Shouting "Down, down America" and "Long live Saddam," 2,000 Iraqis marched to the U.N. Development Program headquarters Sunday in a government-organized demonstration marking the anniversary of the start of the 1991 Persian Gulf War.

Some burned flags of the United States, Britain and Israel. Several carried posters of President Clinton wearing a t-shirt with Monica Lewinsky's picture on it.

Sunday's march was the second demonstration the government organized this weekend. On Saturday, 6,000 people marched through Baghdad to mark the start of the Gulf War and to protest an American proposal that would ease U.N. sanctions against Iraq but not end them, as Iraq has demanded.

The sanctions, imposed after Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, ban the sale of oil and other financial transactions. They have severely damaged Iraq's economy and have made it hard for its 22 million people to earn a living.

Ballet

+ Beginner and Advanced classes
+ Students are instructed according to their level
+ The fun way to stay healthy and fit

Class Meet:

Beginner
Sunday: 1:00-2:30pm
Thursday: 6:30-7:45pm
Advanced
Sunday: 2:30-4:00pm
Thursday: 7:45-9:00pm
Preliminary
Sunday: 4:00-5:45pm

All classes will meet at the Rolfs Sports Recreation Center

Information Meeting
Sunday, January 17
1:30pm-8:00pm, RSRC Activity Room 2

Register in advance at RecSports

Registration fee is $35.00, Finite class is only $5.00

Sign ups begin Monday, January 18, 8:00am

Class begins Sunday, January 24

Space is limited

ACE GOES LATIN

JOIN US AND ENJOY

SABOR LATINO

LAFORTUNE BALL ROOM

9 P.M. TILL MIDNIGHT

JANUARY 20, 1999
Hesburgh: King's legacy survives

King's widow works for world peace

The Associated Press

ATLANTA

On the eve of the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, the widow of the slain civil rights leader gathered with others Sunday to discuss how world leaders can promote reconciliation from South Africa to Cuba to Iraq.

"I think that when you look at conflict anywhere in the world ... and you boil it down, it's all about the same thing. It's all about difference," said Nobel Peace Prize winner John Hume of Northern Ireland. "The answer to difference is to respect it, not to fight it.

Hume, former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Andrew Young, head of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission in South Africa Desmond Tutu and King's widow, Coretta, tried to get that message across during a discussion that often conflicted on the themes espoused by King.

"Martin Luther King was a great example for people in Northern Ireland," Hume said. "He was seeking equality, not victory for any one section."

"We've inherited a very bad legacy since the days of slavery. And it's not easy to turn that around, because color should be irrelevant."

FATHER HESBURGH

PRESIDENT EMERITUS OF NOTRE DAME

I don't think Martin Luther was an honest man, and he'd have to say we have made more progress in the last 20 years than we did in the 200 before," Hesburgh said. "But do we have a long way to go yet? Of course. The real problem is not just laws. We've got the laws. It's people in their hearts."

"This isn't something that you can just pare away. It's something you have to work at all the time. It's not automatic. We've inherited a very bad legacy since the days of slavery. And it's not easy to turn that around, because color should be irrelevant."

Even after King's death, the civil rights leader had an impact on Hesburgh's life.

"In the first anniversary of [King's] death, I was invited down to Martin's church ... to give the talk, the sermon down there," Hesburgh said. "And Daddy King, his father, said, 'Do you want to wear Martin's robe?' And I said, 'Sure.'"

"It was a Baptist church. Then he leaned over to me and he said, 'You're not only the first Catholic priest who ever preached in this church. You're the first white man who ever preached in this church.'"

And I said, 'OK, Daddy, then you come up and preach in our church.' And he did it.

Colleen McCarthy contributed to this edition of a story that was published in The Observer on Feb. 20, 1998.

Reflections on King

I THINK THE IMPORTANCE IS IN REGARDS TO THE FACT THAT WE AS A PEOPLE NEED A FOCUS ON SOCIAL JUSTICE, SO THERE IS EQUALITY FOR EVERYONE, AND THAT EVERYONE HAS THE OPPORTUNITY TO QUIT, LIVING AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS.*

IRENE O'TULL

DIRECTOR OF MULTICULTURAL STUDENT AFFAIRS

MARTIN LUTHER KING WAS ONE OF THE GREATEST LEADERS OF ALL TIME. I THINK IT'S IMPORTANT FOR EVERYONE TO CELEBRATE THE ADVANCEMENTS HE CAUSED IN CIVIL RIGHTS.

PETER CESARO

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

DEFINITELY THINK THAT IT'S A CELEBRATION OF DIVERSITY AND A TIME FOR US TO REFLECT NOT ONLY ON THE IMPORTANCE OF THE UNIQUE ASPECTS OF EACH OF OUR LIVES, BUT ALSO THE IMPORTANCE OF LEARNING ABOUT DIFFERENT CULTURES AND ETHNICITIES.

ANDREA SILK

STUDENT BODY VICE PRESIDENT

THE STUDENT BODY OF NOTRE DAME NEEDS TO ENCOURAGE MULTICULTURALISM AND DIVERSITY ON A BASIC GRASSROOTS LEVEL OF PARTICIPATION. IF WE CAN REACH THIS AMOUNT OF COMMITMENT, WE WILL BECOME WELCOMING TO ALL PEOPLE, REGARDLESS OF ETHNICITY.

BRIAN O' DONOGHUE

KENDRICK HALL, S/F

Hesburgh

By DAN CICHLON

The Observer • MARTIN LUTHER KING DAY page 7

Reflections on King

I HAVE A DREAM THAT ONE DAY THIS NATION WILL RISE UP AND LIVE OUT THE TRUE MEANING OF ITS CREED. "WE HOLD THESE TRUTHS TO BE SELF-EVIDENT: THAT ALL MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL." I HAVE A DREAM THAT ONE DAY ON THE RED HILLS OF GEORGIA THE SONS OF FORMER SLAVES AND THE SONS OF FORMER SLAVEOWNERS WILL BE ABLE TO SIT DOWN TOGETHER AT A TABLE OF BROTHERHOOD ... I HAVE A DREAM THAT MY FOUR CHILDREN ONE DAY WILL LIVE IN A NATION WHERE THEY WILL NOT BE JUDGED BY THE COLOR OF THEIR SKIN BUT BY THE CONTENT OF THEIR CHARACTER.

I HAVE A DREAM TODAY.

The peace he strived for has not been won. Mrs. King said at the meeting of Global Circle, a group founded 25 years ago to discuss world issues.

"I had hoped that we would be a lot further in building bridges ... this close to the turn of the century," she said. "There is still too much demonizing of enemies as is evident in the United States' relationship with Cuba and Iraq."

Tutu said the world can learn from South Africa's example, in which the country turned what could have been a potential blood bath into a scene in which people were hugging instead fighting at the end of apartheid.

"South Africa has given this unbelievable hope of saying it is possible," he said. "And it is not just possible, it is going to happen."

Tutu said openness was necessary, including a full disclosure of the truth.

"It is a history that all of us have to accept," he said. "And by doing that we close the chapter. We forget, but in remember we don't repeat what happened."

I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: "We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal." I have a dream that one day on the red hills of Georgia the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slaveowners will be able to sit down together at a table of brotherhood ... I have a dream that my four children one day will live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character.

I have a dream today.

The Observer • Joe Mueller
Racial issues expected to dominate national elections

Associated Press

CAPE TOWN

From "lily white" sports teams to affirmative action in the workplace, a series of political spats has many South Africans convinced race is moving up the political agenda.

President Nelson Mandela's five-year term is coming to an end and his likely successor, Thabo Mbeki, is expected to break away from the conciliatory approach to race that Mandela has followed since the 1994 election that ended white rule.

One of the constant themes of Mbeki's speeches last year was that South Africa is still "two nations" — one rich and white, the other black and poor.

Senior officials of the governing African National Congress deny they are practicing racial politics heading into elections expected to be called between April and June. They say they want to balance the wrongs of the past by redistributing resources from those who prospered under apartheid to those who suffered. However, political analysts expect race to be a major issue in the upcoming campaign.

"The ANC will attack the position of white privilege and many whites will experience that as racism," said Stampie Terreblanche, a political analyst at Stellenbosch University.

Last year saw Parliament pass tough new legislation forcing companies to employ more non-whites, and Mbeki has vowed to speed up delivery of basic services to millions of poor blacks by taxing well-off whites.

"They were highly critical of the ANC and Mandela was taken aback," Terreblanche said. "He was then rather sharp. He told them in no uncertain terms that the time of white privilege was over."

Opposition politicians, whose parties attract few black votes, accuse the ANC of bringing racial issues back into politics.

Douglas Gibson, a senior lawmaker from the small, liberal Democratic Party, said the ANC is too quick to play the race card in an attempt to drum up support with blacks.

"The ANC has re-racialized South Africa," he said. "If you criticize a minister for incompetence or for a mistake, they will simply say it is because you are white and defending past privilege."

Jan Momberg, one of the ANC's top parliamentary leaders, gets angry when anyone suggests his party has adopted racial politics.

As a white Afrikaner who supported the ruling National Party for 30 years during the apartheid era, he says he has never come across racism in his new party, which he joined in 1992.
The Norm of Greatness: Daring to Seek the Truth

"...until justice flows down like waters, and righteousness like a mighty stream."
A Celebration in Honor of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Monday, January 18th
THE NORM OF GREATNESS
A Theatrical Portrayal of Dr. King with excerpts from some of his famous speeches
7:00 P.M. LaFortune Ballroom

Wednesday, January 20th
A BIBLICAL PERSPECTIVE
A Prayer Service in honor of Dr. King
8:00 P.M. Keenan-Stanford Chapel

Thursday, January 21st
A CELEBRATION OF CULTURES ON CAMPUS
A dialogue with underrepresented students on their Notre Dame experience
6:00 P.M. LaFortune Ballroom

*Sponsored by Student Government and Student Senate
Norm of Greatness – Daring to Seek the Truth

On the side of the Hesburgh Library at Notre Dame is an in-the-round mural celebrating Christ The Teacher. On either side of the image of Christ are depictions of famous scholars and teachers in the history of the Christian church. They were chosen for their representative role as examples of a deep commitment to the pursuit of truth, which in faith is seen as connected to the search for the living God. There is no better way to understand why Notre Dame was established a Catholic university in the first place. At the Notre Dame Law School, Thomas Moore is depicted in several places because he has become a prime example of a person of integrity who is so committed to the truth that he is willing to die for it. Thomas Moore was a professional person of great intelligence and governmental responsibility who defined the King for reasons of conscience.

In the same way that saintly men and women of the past modeled the fullness of Christian living, so in the academy and in public life we seek to be inspired by comparable examples of heroic commitment to the truth. In my own personal life I was led to a greater conscientiousness of the need for dramatic social change by the preaching, teaching, and example of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. He was a riveting speaker and example of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. He was a riveting speaker and example of the spirit of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., we must prepare the next generation of leaders for a society that struggles with notions of integrity, honesty and honor. At a time of national disenchancement with the highest levels of government we need to avoid any semblance of despair or cynicism. We need to be people of hope and possibility who want to make a difference with our lives. We need to utilize our God-given talents of intellect, compassion and memory to reestablish a higher level of expectation for leadership in all walks of life. Knowing in our inner most being that we are all fallible and capable of sin, we must also be open to forgiveness freely and openly rendered and received. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. died in service of a worthy cause. His courageous works in the course of our collective history have displayed a similar level of courage. May our commitment to the truth never dim and may we be guided by our well formed consciences to do the right thing for the right reason.

Fr. Malloy’s column is the first in a series dedicated to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

The Teacher.
CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

CAPPY’S CORNER

GIVING THANKS AT NOTRE DAME

Recently, a copy of The Scholar made its way to my office. I was astonished to find a page dedicated to “The Gipper” itself. I should have called him “The Gipper” because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.

My first visit to the campus was during the Fourth of July weekend of 1961 (not a misprint, actually the second year of the Kennedy Administration). My family, including my maternal grandparents, the Geary’s, and my family, the Creech’s, stayed at a large beach house in Ocean City, New Jersey. My paternal grandparents, the Huggins’s, were spending their first Fourth of July in Ocean City, New Jersey.

I had never been to the East Coast (I am referring to The Gipper, because I am thankful every day, for the many reasons why Notre Dame means so much to me.)

Aunt June and Uncle Tony took me to the beach house one evening. I remember the ocean breeze, the warm sand, and the sound of the waves. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.

I had never been to the East Coast until that evening. It was a magical evening, and I will never forget the feeling of excitement I had that night. It was a turning point in my life, and I will always be grateful for that experience.
Scene Observer

Monday, January 18, 1999

---

‘Waking Ned is Devine’ Irish Film

“Waking Ned Devine”

Director: Kirk Jones
Starring: Ian Bannen, David Kelly, Florence Flanagan, Susan Lynch and James Nesbitt

(Out of five shamrocks)

By CHRISTIAN A. PIERCE

Scene Movie Critic

Did you ever wonder what you would do if you won the lottery? Well, if you’re an old Irish fisherman named Ned Devine, you die before collecting the prize money.

Just imagine the irony of watching the announcement of the numbers, holding the ticket in your hand and the excitement of realizing you won, only to die seconds later. Talk about highs and lows — this poor guy finally discovers financial happiness, but has no time to enjoy it.

Ned seems to be — what will happen to the money? With no one holding the ticket in your hand and finally discovers next week’s prize. This creates unclaimed, simply added to the money. So how will the little town of Tullymore, Ireland manage to liven spirits and generate a sense of accomplishment by ignoring the beaten path and going his own way. With Ned dead, the big question seems to be — what will happen to the money? With no one holding the ticket in your hand and finally discovers next week’s prize. This creates unclaimed, simply added to the money. So how will the little town of Tullymore, Ireland manage to liven spirits and generate a sense of particular lotto players. In winning and winning the regulars they notice one has not arrived. Ned Devine decides to bring a meal to the old fisherman, only to find the poor soul dead in his favorite armchair with the winning ticket in his hand.

The village of Tullymore is a struggling community with citizens who merely hope to hold on to the little fortune they have. The town definitely could use this money. With Ned being the giving type, there is no doubt he would have shared his seven million pounds with his neighbors. Therefore, Jackie and Michael undertake the task of collecting the money in an effort to have the开奖 of the town.

Actually it is not as gruesome as it might sound and definitely not as stupid as "Weekend at Bernie’s." This is a sophisticated comedy about deceiving the big city just long enough for this small town to collect. Jackie contrives a scheme to cheat the Lotto Commission and shares the millions with the town. Michael will pretend to be Ned, but the rest of the town must recognize him as such when the Lotto representative asks questions. Afraid they might go to jail for fraud, Jackie and Michael reveal their plans to the people of the village. The townspeople agree to go along with the scheme, with one major exception - the local witch, Lizzie Quinn.

This puts a slight wrench in the works, but makes for some rather amusing scenes. "Waking Ned Devine" thus becomes a comedy of errors due to Jackie and Michael underestimating their fellow citizens of Tullymore. The story unfolds as the community unites forces and through it all, learns just a little about life, death and the almighty dollar (or in this case, pound).

Photo courtesy of Fox Searchlight

David Kelly (left) and Ian Bannen star in "Waking Ned Devine."

---

‘Patch’ defies critics and wins audiences

“Patch Adams”

Director: Tom Shadyac
Starring: Robin Williams, Monica Potter, Philip Seymour Hoffman, Peter Coyote and Harvie Pressnell

(Out of five shamrocks)

By JENELLE WILLIAMS

Scene Movie Critic

"Follow your heart. "Pursue your dreams." "Do not give up." The war cries of parents and counselors, they are pieces of advice so often ignored, feared or simply misunderstood.

It is advice forced into clichés by "inspirational" films — movies designed to lift the spirits and give false hope. But few in the genre offer the essential ingredient successfully, the aspect most cherished in any Robin Williams film — humor.

"Patch Adams" is a delicate balance of melodrama, inspiration and humor, is the true story of a man who dared to accomplish his dreams, ignoring the beaten path and going his own way.

The narrative begins as a nearly suicidal Hunter Adams (Williams) checks himself into a mental institution. Here he encounters the stereotypical conglomerations of comical peers — a roommate who sees invisible squirrels, a man who is comatose, yet still attends group therapy and a once brilliant mathematician who no longer lives in reality. In these surroundings, Hunter, nicknamed Patch, finds his calling. He realizes that "what so many people in this world suffer from — boredom, fear — can’t be cured with a pill," and that humor is the realy the best medicine. So, currently in his mid-30’s, Patch decides to become a physician.

Medical school, of course, seemingly poses an obstacle. But not for Patch. With the excitement and vigor of a person working towards a specific goal, and the stamina of the medical students half his age, he conquers any fear of rejection or expulsion. At this point, as the plot thickens, the comedy becomes more frequent (and a little crude). With the aid of a goofy and lovable sidekick (Daniel London), and a beautiful ice princess, a feminist gone astray (Monica Potter), Patch forms a gross anatomy subculture, threatening his education and making an enemy of the inhumanly cold dean, by ignoring any and all restrictions. Namely, he steals a white coat and violates the cardinal rule of the medical school, that only third year students are allowed to visit patients. Adams begins to routinely sneak into the hospital, disguised as an upperclassman, so that he can be closer to the patients. By entertaining children with one-liners and using puppets to get a smile.

When these antics are repeatedly scorned by the dean and seemingly the entire medical profession, Patch realizes yet another dream, to build the Gesundheit Institute, a free clinic where illness is combated with humanism. But even this idea is frowned upon, and is threatened by both the school and bankruptcy, due to insufficient funds. No worry, for Patch is persistent. Time and time again, when it seems as if all is lost and unretrievable, he finds a way to overcome even the largest of obstacles, usually with a smile.

Yes, Robin Williams has played similar roles before. But this is the kind of performance that audiences cherish. Who else could play the guy who rails against authority and fights the status quo with laughter as his weapon? For those who have been longing for another film like "Good Morning, Vietnam" or "Dead Poet’s Society," this is it. But this role is also unique, in that it is strikingly similar to the life of Williams himself. As a student at Julliard, he took several acting classes where improvisation is taught as an essential. When Williams would take the stage, he would leave his fellow students rolling in the aisles. But he, much like Patch Adams, was scorned by his professors because he refused to follow the norm. They often told him that what he was doing was stand-up comedy, NOT acting. So, in many ways, this role seems to be tailor made.

This film, half comedy and half romance, is directed by Tom Shadyac. The actors perfectly cast their parts, making them all the more realistic and endearing. For those who enjoyed the off-the-wall, somewhat crude comedy of "There’s Something About Mary," this film embodies a similar sense of humor. But for some odd reason, most film critics have shamedly dismissed this film. All Do not be deterred by their opinions. A quick note for those cynical critics — a film must be worth seeing if the audience applauds while the credits are rolling.
By JULIE HAMILTON
Scene Movie Critic

Have you ever wondered what would happen if you caught the train you missed? How different would your life be? Would it remain the same, or could such a small, trivial event change the course of your life forever?

In the charming romantic comedy "Sliding Doors," we are shown two different paths that a young British woman's life could take as a result of simply missing or catching a subway train. In a split second, her life becomes two separate stories that are both intriguing and entertaining.

As the film begins, Helen, played by Gwyneth Paltrow, rushes to the Public Relations firm where she works. When she arrives, she is fired for a combination of factors, and she leaves for the subway station to return home. The story splits as she misses and catches her train at the same time.

Such a quick and unexpected event begins to shape Helen's life into these two stories that both pivot at the train station. When she catches the train, Helen returns to her and her boyfriend Jerry's home to find him with another woman. When she misses the train, she also misses Jerry's mistress, who leaves before Helen comes home.

In both stories there is evidence that Helen is a strong, independent woman who knows how to get her life back on the ground, despite the fact that she has lost Jerry. All the while, the major scenes in the movie revolve around a pair of sliding doors that Helen either enters or exits. You must look carefully for this symbolism — it is easy to miss during each story as we watch Helen's grace under several difficult situations.

The story where Helen catches the train is focused around the harpoon encounter with a sweet and handsome man, James. After engaging in a short conversation on "the tube," Helen goes home, finds Jerry with Lydia (Jeanne Tripplehorn), walks out and ends up at a bar where she coincidentally runs into James again.

When Helen misses the train, we watch as her boyfriend Jerry lies to her about his affair while Helen dutifully works several part-time jobs. She suspects that something could be wrong with their relationship, and even questions Jerry. He denies it, of course.

The story line that follows the Helen that caught the train makes the viewer cheer Helen on as she struggles to pick up the pieces of her broken life and be successful. The other story begins to evoke sympathy because we know about Jerry's deceit.

The film was the best thing to happen to Helen because she realized she had to depend on herself with the help from anyone, especially Jerry. She begins seeing James, who is a positive influence on her, and she even starts her own Public Relations firm.

Even though both of the stories are separate, toward the end of the film they begin to intersect, showing how some events can change the course of your life, but sometimes, things will happen regardless of what steps are taken beforehand.

This film does an excellent job of showing how when things in life are meant to be, they will eventually be.

---

THE AWARDS CIRCUIT

Here's a look at the nominees for the 1999 Golden Globe Awards

FILM:
- Best Motion Picture: Drama
  - Elizabeth
  - Good Will Hunting
  - The Truman Show
- Best Motion Picture: Comedy or Musical
  - Bulworth
  - Patch Adams
  - Shakespeare in Love
  - Still Crazy
  - The Mask of Zorro
  - There's Something About Mary

BEST ACTRESS (Drama):
- Gwyneth Paltrow

BEST ACTOR (Drama):
- Ian McKellen

BEST ACTRESS (Comedy or Musical):
- Calista Flockhart

BEST ACTOR (Comedy or Musical):
- Anthony Edwards

BEST DIRECTOR:
- Steven Spielberg

BEST WRITER:
- Steven Zaillian, Saving Private Ryan

TELEVISION:
- Best TV Series (Drama)
  - The X-Files
  - The Practice
  - Diagnosis: Murder
  - The Practice
  - The X-Files

Best Actress (Comedy):
- Calista Flockhart

Best Actor (Comedy):
- Anthony Edwards

BEST ACTRESS IN A TELEVISION SERIES:
- Calista Flockhart

BEST ACTOR IN A TELEVISION SERIES:
- Anthony Edwards

---

CHRISTOPHER AXE

Awards Nominee for the 1999 Golden Globe Awards

COLLABORATION:
- Best Supporting Actor
- Best Supporting Actress

EXECUTIVE PRODUCER:
- Best Television Series

---

1998 at the Box Office

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Movie Title</th>
<th>Gross Sales</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Titanic</td>
<td>$448.2 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Armageddon</td>
<td>$201.6 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saving Private Ryan</td>
<td>$190.8 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There's Something About Mary</td>
<td>$174.4 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Waterboy</td>
<td>$147.9 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Dolittle</td>
<td>$144.2 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deep Impact</td>
<td>$140.5 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Godzilla</td>
<td>$136.3 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rush Hour</td>
<td>$136.1 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Good Will Hunting*</td>
<td>$134.1 million</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Source: Variety

*1998 figures only; opened in 1999

---

1999 Improve Your Life

- Best Supporting Actor
- Best Supporting Actress
- Best Television Series

---

DO YOU LIKE TO WATCH MOVIES?

WHO DOESN'T?

Quench your thirst for films by becoming a Scene Movie Critic!

Call 1-4540 or 4-3271 if you are interested in writing for Scene.
Associated Press

Shawnetta Stewart scored 20 points and 10 rebounds in a comprehensive victory for Mississippi State, brushing aside full-court pressure to defeat Wisconsin 78-62 on Sunday.

The Scarlet Knights (12-4, 2-2 Big Ten) took the lead for good early, outscoring Wisconsin 23-9 in the first half and forced the Badgers to turn the ball over 17 times.

Mississippi State, led by its defense, held Wisconsin to 21% shooting from the field and outscored the Badgers in paint by 58-18.

"They're a good team, they're a tough team," said Rutgers head coach C. Vivian Stringer. "But our defense was very strong today."

Associated Press

Wisconsin 78-62 on Sunday. 42-30 full-court pressure to defeat of reach.

Missouri State's Elyse Barns added 19 points for Kentucky.

Summitt's Lady Vols started fast, outscoring the Lady Bulldogs 26-16 in the first half.

But Kentucky, behind the play of Marrika Porter, held firm and controlled the game, converting on 6-of-7 free throws in the last minute to seal the victory.

The Lady Vols converted 15 of 16 points from the foul line.

The Volunteers finished with 13 assists on 37 field goals, including 9-of-15 from 3-point range.

The Volunteers outrebounded the Vols 42-25, but the Lady Bulldogs were 3-of-4 from the line.

Kentucky's achievement was the team's fifth straight contest.

The Lady Bulldogs made six 3-pointers, including two from Tiffany Wait, who scored just 17 points.

Missouri State's defense was the key, holding the Lady Vols to 41.6% shooting from the floor.

But the Lady Bulldogs were able to outscore the Lady Vols 11-2 in the second half, including 6-of-13 free throws, to win handily.

Kentucky (11-6, 2-4 SEC) was held to seven points in the first half, while Missouri State (9-7, 3-4 ACC) was held to 12 points.

The Lady Bulldogs' defense was also dominant, holding the Lady Vols to 16 points in the last 10 minutes.

The Lady Vols' offense was moribund, shooting 2-of-10 from the field in the last half.

Missouri State's defense was exceptional, holding the Lady Vols to 16 points in the last half.

The Lady Vols' defense was also exceptional, holding the Lady Bulldogs to 16 points in the last half.

The Lady Vols' offense was weak, with just 16 points in the last half.

The Lady Bulldogs' defense was also exceptional, holding the Lady Vols to 16 points in the last half.
Men's Basketball

Loss of Murphy impacts Irish strength

Special to The Observer

PHILADELPHIA
Howard Brown scored 19 points as Villanova, which started the game with an 18-0 run, defeated Notre Dame 85-58 in a Big East game Saturday. The Wildcats were 8 of 12 in the first six minutes of the game, while the Irish were scoreless in their first 12 possessions. The Irish did not make a field goal until Phil Hickey’s layup with 13:05 left in the first half.

Harold Swanaga had a season-high 22 points for the Irish (9-9, 3-1), which shot just 34 percent and were 2 of 14 from the three-point line. Notre Dame also committed 21 turnovers.

The Irish played without two key players, freshmen Troy Murphy and David Graves. Murphy suffered an ankle injury at Thursday night's practice and is expected to be out for two to five weeks. Graves was injured on Thursday night as well, and while the freshman did play some on Saturday, a sprained shoulder led him to shoot 1-11 from the field.

John Colestand had 16 points for the Wildcats (13-5, 4-4), who defeated Notre Dame by a 93-62 score on Jan. 7. Malik Allen had four points and a career-high eight blocked shots for Villanova.

The Wildcats led 43-27 at halftime following a 55 percent shooting performance. A 22-7 run at the start of the second half capped by a 3-point shot by Brian Lynch gave Villanova a 65-34 advantage, and the lead reached 79-47 with four minutes to play.

The victory gave Villanova an 11-10 edge in the all-time series.

The Observer • Sports

Crew

continued from page 24

Charles Regatta. As the coxswain in the spring of 1998, his varsity four boat took first at the Clemson Sprint Regatta, finished third at the Merrill Lynch/Big Ten Regatta and was fourth at the Midwest Springs Regatta.

"I am very pleased to have Kevin join our staff," Stone said. "His prior experience as a lightweight rower and coxswain will be a great asset to those areas of our program."

The Sports Department is currently hiring for Production Assistants and Sports Writers for the spring term. Please call 1-4543 for more information.

---

Spring Mandatory Club Meetings

All clubs receiving funding through the club Coordination Council must attend their respective mandatory club meetings.

The agenda will include a discussion on the allocation & registration processes, explanation of University policies, and the elections for CCC division representatives.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Club</th>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Time</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ACADEMIC</td>
<td>Monday, 1/18/99</td>
<td>9:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ETHNIC</td>
<td>Tuesday, 1/19/99</td>
<td>7:00 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SERVICE/SOCIAL ACTION</td>
<td>Tuesday, 1/19/99</td>
<td>8:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ATHLETIC</td>
<td>Wednesday, 1/20/99</td>
<td>7:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SPECIAL INTEREST</td>
<td>Wednesday, 1/20/99</td>
<td>9:00 pm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

ALL MEETINGS HELD IN THE MONTGOMERY THEATER

"If you are unable to attend your respective division meeting, you will be permitted to attend another division’s meeting; however, your club will forfeit its voting rights for the CCC division representative elections.

Failure to attend one of the club meetings could result in a reduction in student activity fee allocation.

Any questions, contact Ryan Willerton (willerton.1@nd.edu) or Ryan Harding (harding.3@nd.edu)
Injury-plagued Chandler finds championship at last

Chandler found himself in injury-plagued career, Chris Chandler on the turf. "It had to overcome a lot and I never gave up, despite some poor years," Chandler said after guiding the Falcons to a 30-27 overtime victory over the Minnesota Vikings. "Now, I find myself in a good situation and it's very rewarding."

The 33-year-old Chandler bounced from Indianapolis to Los Angeles to Houston - never staying anywhere for more than a couple of years - before the Falcons acquired him before the 1997 season for a couple of round draft picks.

Even coach Dan Reeves has admitted that he didn't know how good a quarterback he was getting, and how could he? Chandler rarely managed to play a full season because of injuries, earning the nickname "Chris Chandler." On Sunday, they should have called him John Elway. Chandler directed an eight-play, 71-yard drive that tied the game at 27 with 49 seconds remaining. He completed four of six passes for 56 yards and also had a 9-yard run that left him briefly hobbled with a shin injury.

"It wasn't anything major," said Chandler, who shook off the pain and his past. Three plays later, he threw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Terance Mathis for the tying touchdown.

In overtime, Chandler and the Falcons put together another memorable drive after taking over at the Atlanta 9, moving 70 yards in 10 plays to set up Morten Andersen's game-winning, 38-yard field goal. Chandler completed all three of his passes, accounting for 47 yards, and had another big run for 6 yards.

"It was very special the way we won that football game," said Chandler, who has been named to the Pro Bowl twice since coming to Atlanta. "You look back at the way our season went and this game symbolizes our season. We had to overcome a lot of things to win."

With Jamal Anderson held to 67 yards on 23 carries, it fell to Chandler to bail out the Falcons from a 20-7 deficit. He completed 27 of 43 passes for 340 yards, including three touchdown passes.

"What we do running the ball is important," Chandler said, "but it can't be done without our passing game. We've proven all season long that we can throw the ball, we can make some big plays. We did that today."

Reeves, who coached Elway in Denver, said few quarterbacks could have duplicated Chandler's performance against the Vikings.

"I told him after we went down there and tied the score, that tanks right up there with any of the big-time quarterbacks," the coach said. "He's done it with the pressure on him, made some big-time throws, did it after being hurt from the scramble, hung in there."

Before the season, the Falcons signed Chandler to a four-year, $25 million contract extension that would keep him in Atlanta through 2002.

Keenan Hall proudly announces that the 23rd Annual Keenan Hall Review will be held at 7:30 pm on January 28, 29, and 30 in Saint Mary's O'Laughlin Auditorium ticket window

Wednesday, January 20, at 1:30 pm at the O'Laughlin Auditorium ticket window

Friday, January 22, at 2:00 pm at Gate 3 of the Joyce Center

Keenan Review t-shirts will also be on sale at these times for $10.

The Observer is accepting applications for:

1999-2000 Editor-in-Chief

Any undergraduate or graduate student at the University of Notre Dame or Saint Mary’s College is encouraged to apply. The editor-in-chief is entirely responsible for the operation of The Observer. Applicants should have a strong interest in journalism and possess solid management, public relations, and communications skills. Previous newspaper experience and a background in writing and editing, while helpful, are not required.

Applicants should submit a resume and five-page statement to Heather Cocks by 5 p.m. Monday, January 25. For additional information about the position or application process, contact Heather Cocks at 631-4542, or stop by the office downstairs in South Dining Hall.
Tyson rallies with knockout victory

LAST VEGAS

The punch silenced Francois Botha. It did not silence Mike Tyson's critics.

Until he knocked out his towering opponent with a counter right to the head in the fifth round, Tyson was headed for his third straight loss, one that would have wrecked his career.

He lost all of the first four rounds on the cards of two judges and won only one round on the third judge's card.

"I didn't prove anything," Tyson said. "I'm just trying. I've got a long way to go. We're working on it."

While Tyson hasn't lost his punching power, many in boxing contend his performance Saturday night underscored the opinion that he has fallen a long way from his pedestal as "the baddest man on the planet," and it is too late to climb back.

"I'll be back in the gym in two weeks," said Tyson, whose showing was spectacular victory in the MGM Grand Garden was his first fight since he bit Evander Holyfield's ear June 28, 1997.

Plans call for Tyson, who has multiple-bout deals with Showtime and with the MGM, to fight again April 24.

Asked if his next opponent would be Axel Schulz of Germany, who was at ringside Saturday night, Tyson said, "I don't know. I guess. I'll fight anybody."

Schulz, who lost title-bout decisions to George Foreman and to Botha, is one of the names on a list of prospective opponents.

Jay Larkin, in charge of boxing for Showtime, had said the quality of Tyson's performance against Botha would determine the quality of his next opponent.

Schulz, like Botha, is not a big puncher. At the moment, Tyson does not need to face a power puncher.

Tyson, who will be 33 on June 30, now must turn his attention to out-of-the-ring problems.

On Feb. 5, he faces sentencing in Maryland on a non-contempt plea on two misdemeanor assault charges. One man accused Tyson of punching him and another accused of kicking him in the groin after a traffic accident involving his vehicle.

Monica Tyson has settled with both men out of court.

After the sentencing, Indiana authorities will consider whether Tyson violated his parole and what action, if any, they will take. Tyson served three years in an Indiana prison on a rape conviction. His probation is to end in March.

Those closely involved with Tyson's career seem confident he will not be sent back to prison.

Tyson wants to fight four times this year, and Larkin wants to see that fourth fight be a third match with Holyfield, who stopped Tyson in the 11th round Nov. 9, 1996, then won the title fight.

The Tyson who beat Botha wasn't as good as the Tyson who lost the two Holyfield fights.

Tommy Brooks, Tyson's new trainer, had Tyson working on basics in preparation for Botha. But Saturday night, Tyson didn't punch to the body, hardly jabbed and loaded up on his punches in quest of a knockout.

"Asked if he knew he was behind on points, Tyson said, "I wasn't worried about that."

Brooks said Sunday, "He said, 'I got him in my sights coach. Just give me time.'"

Tyson should have been worried. Many of his power punches were wild, and he was getting stopped by right hands.

Age and two long periods of inactivity have robbed Tyson of the quickness that made him the world's most feared fighter from 1986 to 1990. That quickness enabled Tyson to overcome the fact that he is a small heavyweight. He is listed at 5-foot-11 1/2 but is closer to 5-foot-11 1/2.

One important thing gone from Tyson's arsenal is intimidation. Botha showed no fear of Iron Mike.

At the end of the first round the two men, who were in a clinch at the bell, began a hitting-and-shoving match that brought a dozen security and corner men scrambling into the ring, Ike grabbed my arm, he

THE 10TH ANNUAL
N O T R E DA M E
STUDENT
FILM FESTIVAL
FRIDAY & SATURDAY 7:30 & 9:45PM
JANUARY 22 & 23
$3 ADMISSION SUTURE MUSEUM OF ART
SPECIAL ENCORE SHOWING MONDAY JAN 27 7:30 PM

PRESERVED BY THE
DEPARTMENT OF FILM, TELEVISION, AND THEATRE
www.nd.edu/-cohabit

MEN'S BASKETBALL
SETON HALL VS. RUTGERS
January 19th at 7:30 pm
January 23rd at 12:00 pm

Support Your Fighting Irish!!!
I still remember that day back in October of 1993. I was 14 and in the first half of my eighth grade year. Basketball was a big part of my life. Watching my favorite team, the Chicago Bulls, led by my favorite player, Michael Jordan, was a big part of this basketball life.

And then it ended. Just like that, the man whose likeness covered every square inch of wall space in my room, the guy whose moves I tried to duplicate (with minimal success) on my driveway hoop, decided to retire with three straight NBA titles and seven straight scoring titles in the bag.

I was stunned.

At school the next morning, people laughed and made light of the whole thing. They all knew how big of a fan I was and remembered how much pain the uninspired-Bulls had inflicted on their favorite teams. To them, it was a big joke.

I was still stunned.

A year and a half later, my parents and I were driving to Florida for spring break. Now approaching the end of my freshman year, I paid tribute to the retired Jordan by wearing his number, 23, for my high school team. He was still my favorite player, but I had no hopes of seeing him play basketball.

But then I was stunned again.

While driving along in North Florida, clues came across the radio.

Michael Jordan had announced his return to the NBA with the simple statement: "I'm back."

Now I was ecstatic.

The return wasn't a total fairy tale. The Bulls didn't win the NBA title that year. The man who had always been characterized by near-flawless performances seemed to be making more errors than in the past. But flashes of his brilliance still lit up the faces of basketball fans everywhere.

While we were on our trip, I saw him beat the Atlanta Hawks on a turnaround jump-shot from the top of the key as the clock expired.

The next week one of my friends called to say Jordan was on a scoring spree against the Knicks at Madison Square Garden in the first half. I couldn't watch the game myself — we didn't have cable TV — but I woke the next morning to hear he finished the game with 55 points, the highest single game total in the league for the whole season.

This from a man who, two weeks earlier, wasn't even playing in the league.

The Bulls as I used to know were back, and the whole NBA took notice.

For the next three years, Michael and the Bulls cemented the rest of the league as they had in the past, only this time a lot more VRs rolled every time MJ took the floor because no one knew when he would be gone for good. Every game played was special. The inevitable exit came this week.

This time, I wasn't stunned.

Most people expected him to call it quits with the labor strike and the grimg of Bulls head coach Phil Jackson. But that wasn't the reason I wasn't shocked.

By coming back in 1995, Michael gave me and everyone else a chance to watch him play the game he made into an art form one last time. He gave every Bulls fan three last "in your faces" to combat the slings of all our friends. I gave me time to tape his games so one day I can sit my kids down and not have to tell them about the greatest player of all time, and show them. Most of all he gave us three more years of unforgettable memories that will provide a lifetime of dreams.

So, from one basketball player to another, thanks Michael. For everything.
DENVER

John Elway's Mile High sendoff ended with another trip to the Super Bowl, an emotional victory lap and praise from his faithful fans for "One More Year."

With Terrell Davis on Elway's side, the Denver fans just might get their wish.

They get a fifth AFC, championship out of the Elway-led Broncos as Davis, the NFL Most Valuable Player, rushed for 167 yards and a touchdown in a 23-10 victory Sunday over the mistake-prone New York Jets.

Elway also had a touchdown pass in what probably was his final home game — he is expected to retire after the Super Bowl on Jan. 31 in Miami.

"I can't tell you that yet," Elway said of a retirement announcement. "We're just going to go back and win the next one. I'm just thrilled to death to be going back."

When they get there, the Broncos, who ended a 13-year AFC slide in last year's title game, will find the Atlanta Falcons, former coach Dan

John Elway's — who once taunted Elway and Denver coach Mike Shanahan — will be awaiting them.

The way Elway celebrated his victory sure looked as if he were bidding farewell to the Mile High Stadium fans, who have loved him throughout a 16-year career. The 38-year-old quarterback, ran a victory lap, holding the AFC championship trophy to the fans, who were also chanting "One More Year."

If Elway needs some convincing, having Davis behind him might do the trick.

Davis was the main weapon for Denver, which overcame 40 minutes of ineptitude with the kind of efficiency and spark that identifies the defending NFL champions.

"The team came together and made up our minds to do the things we've been doing all year," said Davis.

The Broncos' winning method hardly was in keeping with their dominant, high-scoring image. They bunched their way to a 10-0 deficit and seemed to forget about Davis, their only effective offensive performer early on.

But they didn't forget they are champions.

"We had the strength and the ability to come back," Shannon Sharpe said. "We knew that."

On the first play following Curtis Martin's 1-yard TD run after Blake Speno blocked a punt, Elway found Ed McCaffrey wide open for 47 yards. That got the usually loud crowd back into the game and, two plays later, it was fullback Howard Griffith bulling his way in on an 11-yard reception.

Jason Elam, who would make field goals of 44 and 48 yards in the third quarter to give Denver the lead, then blooped a kickoff into a 25 mph wind that carried just past the second wave of Jets. The ball ricocheted back toward Denver territory and was grabbed by Keith Burns.

By then, New York was waver­ring.

"It was the combination of turning the ball over three times across midfield which limited our scoring opportunities," said Bill Parcells. "It's hard to win with mistakes like that."

"At times, we were best friends," said Shanahan, who has a 33-3 record at home. "He's done a great job with that football team."

Elway called playing for Reeves "hell" when the coach was fired after the'92 season. Reeves guided Denver to three Super Bowl losses in four years.

Oddly, the crowd, apparently still feeling some affection for Reeves, cheered wildly when Morton Anderson's field goal gave Atlanta its win.

The fans had little to cheer about for the next hour or so.

Elway, who finished 13-for-34 for 173 yards, was off. His receivers ran some poor routes and dropped some passes. The Jets got pressure on him, wind­ing up with three sacks.

But all was right at the end.

Shanahan's interception of Vinny Testa­verde, who threw for 336 yards, set up Elam's third field goal, a 35-yarder. Gordon had another pickoff with 2:47 to go.

That began the celebrations.

Shockingly for two teams that combined for 917 points this season, the game was scoreless for all but the final play of the first half. Both sides made some mudd­dening point-costing mistakes as Denver was blanked through 30 minutes for the first time since September 1993.

Broncos' Harold Hasselbach and Mike Romarakowski celebrate Denver's second straight AFC title with its win over the Jets, 23-10.

Happy Birthday J

Love,

The Hammond Tree Farm and Your Roman Girls

GET MONEY FROM YOUR UNCLE INSTEAD.

Your Uncle Sam. Every year Army ROTC awards scholarships to deserving students. If you qualify, these merit-based scholarships can pay tuition and educational fees. They even pay a flat rate for textbooks and supplies. You can also receive an allowance of up to $1,000 each school year the scholarship is in effect. Find out today if you qualify.

ARMY ROTC
THE SMARTEST COLLEGE COURSE YOU CAN TAKE

For details, visit Room 217 Pasquerella Center or call 631-6265

Center for Social Concerns

MEXICO SEMINAR

- May 11-28, 1999 in Mexico
- leaves time for summer work
- Service & learning opportunity
- One credit Theology
- Spanish not required
- Applications at the CSC
- Applications due: January 28, 1999

- Applications at the CSC
- Applications due: January 28, 1999

SEMINAR
Abortion, euthanasia and capital punishment demean the lives of countless individuals in our society. Gather with us in Eucharistic Adoration to pray for an end to the culture of death.

Jesus is here with us in the Eucharist to give us answers—answers that will lead us to truth, happiness and peace. In this culture of death, it is easy for people to become weary and indifferent to God and His gift of life. People often fall short of their obligation to care for and nurture the spiritual and physical lives of themselves and others. Eucharistic Adoration gives a person the opportunity to nurture his own spiritual life, as well as the spiritual lives of others (through prayer for them.) Prayer also protects the physical lives of those endangered by abortion, euthanasia and other forms of violence. It is only through the grace which comes from prayer that others’ hearts can be changed from seeking death to loving life. Christ gives us the strength to press on in our battle for life. In order to be Christ-like in our service to preserve life, we must be filled with His life through prayer.

We ask you to join us in prayer for life at Eucharistic Adoration.

What is Eucharistic Adoration?

God is present to us in many ways in our world, but He is especially present to us in the Eucharist. As Roman Catholics, we believe that Jesus Christ, who lived 2000 years ago, is truly present in the Eucharist. In Eucharistic Adoration, the Host is placed in a monstrance, in order for us to be able to come and pray. Jesus is always hidden in the tabernacle, but in adoration He is exposed so that we can come and kneel before Him, face to face, and speak with God. When Jesus is exposed like this, He can never be left alone. Thus, people sign up to be responsible to come and pray with Him for a certain amount of time (usually 1/2 -1 hour) every week.

Why should I go?

If Jesus were to come to the JACC, wouldn’t you come and stand in line for hours just to talk to Him for a minute? Even if you weren’t Christian, wouldn’t you be at least interested in this God so many people talk about? Well, Jesus is truly present here on campus—in the Eucharist. IN ADORATION YOU HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO GO AND SPEAK WITH GOD FACE TO FACE. You can confide in Him, plead with Him, question Him. And if you sit quietly enough, He will inspire you with answers.

What do I do when I am there?

When you enter the chapel, you should genuflect as a sign of reverence to Jesus. It is common practice during Adoration to genuflect on two knees, instead of just one (like you do whenever you enter a chapel.) You can stand, sit, or kneel—whatever helps you pray. And then you pray. There are many ways to pray: you can do spiritual reading; you can pray a rosary; you can sit in silence; you can even just talk to Jesus—like you would to a friend. The most important thing is that you love Him and allow Him to love and strengthen you.

What does the Church think?

"Exposition of the Blessed Sacrament, whether in a pyx or a monstrance, is a recognition of the wondrous Presence of Christ in the sacrament and stimulates us to unite ourselves to Him in a spiritual communion. It is, accordingly, eminently in harmony with the worship which we owe Him in spirit and truth..."

MINNEAPOLIS — For nearly 42 minutes Sunday, the Atlanta Falcons did the unexpected: They shut down the Minnesota Vikings.

Randall Moss, Randall Cunningham, Cris Carter, Robert Smith & Co. managed only seven points after halftime — remarkable for an offense that scored an NFL-record 566 points during the regular season.

"At halftime, we knew we could play with them," linebacker Jesse Tuggle said after the Falcons advanced to the Super Bowl for the first time with a 30-27 overtime victory over the Vikings. "After the first half, we said, 'OK guys, they threw their best shot at us and we're only down by six.'"

"Nobody believed in us," end Lester Archambeau added. "Everybody was saying we're second-rate. I don't know what they were thinking."

The Vikings scored on their first four possessions against the Falcons, who fell behind 20-7 when Gary Anderson kicked a 35-yard field goal late in the first half.

Minnesota, showing no respect for a defense that ranked fourth in the NFL and went for more points. That was the turning point.

Cunningham dropped back to pass, but defensive end Chuck Smith batted the ball out of his hand and Travis Hall recovered. On the next play, Chris Chandler threw a 14-yard touchdown pass to Terance Mathis.

"A lot of guys stepped up and made some plays," Tuggle said. "That's how it's been all year long. Not just me or any other individual. It's been a different guy each and every week making big plays."

"We've been headhunters. We've been running to the football, creating havoc all year long. We didn't fall apart. We stayed together and went out there and executed and won the game."

In the second half, Atlanta cornerbacks Ray Buchanan and Michael Booker got more physical against Moss, who set an NFL rookie record with 17 touchdown receptions. They jammed the 6-foot-4 receiver at the line, preventing him from getting loose for those long catches that were the trademark of his spectacular season.

Moss had five receptions for 71 yards in the first two quarters. He managed only one catch for 4 yards the rest of the way.

"We played more aggressively," said Booker, a second-year player who was starting because of an injury to Ronnie Bradford. "It was very important for me to get my hands on Moss. I thought I did a fine job getting my hands on him so he was not able to catch that deep ball like he had been doing. I felt if I could do that, we could win the game."

Cunningham praised the Falcons secondary for mixing its coverages after halftime, taking Moss totally out of the game and forcing Minnesota to look to lesser-known receivers such as Andrew Glover, Matthew Hatchette and Greg Dubong.

"They did an excellent job," said Cunningham, who was 29-48 for 266 yards. "Their scheme was sound and good. We were able to move the ball and put 27 points on the board, but in the end they were the ones who won the game."

Added Moss, "The thing I'm disappointed about right now is the lead we had and with the offensive defense we have, we couldn't make it happen."

The Atlanta defense came up with one huge play after another, allowing only a 5-yard touchdown pass from Cunningham to Hatchette early in the fourth quarter.

Even when the Vikings won the coin toss to begin overtime, the Falcons didn't waver. They stopped Minnesota on two drives, the most heart-stopping moment coming when Cunningham went deep for Moss but safety Eugene Robinson got the best of a jump ball and knocked the pass away.

"I think it was just a little bit more desire, more than anything," linebacker Cornielius Bennett said. "This is a special football team, special guys doing special things when it counts."

The Falcons offense, which put the defense in bad position with two first-half fumbles, appreciated the effort on the other side of the line.

"They have a lot of pride either side," center Robbie Tobeck said, "I knew they were going to step up and make plays when they needed to make plays."

Associated Press

Saint Mary's College
Notre Dame

26TH ANNUAL
LONDON SUMMER PROGRAM
MAY 19TH - JUNE 18TH, 1999

ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING
6:30-8:30 p.m., Tuesday, January 19
Carroll Auditorium, Saint Mary's College

Travels in Ireland, Scotland, England and France

Courses offered in History, Education, Biology, Philosophy and International Business.

For further information contact:

Professor David Stefanic
54 Madelvita Hall, Room 347
Saint Mary's College
Notre Dame, Indiana 46556
(219) 284-4462
dstefanic@ saintmarys.edu

Fax: London Summer Program (219) 284-4716
Hockey

continued from page 24

killing unit, which entered the weekend sporting the lowest efficiency in the CHA. With three of the team's best penalty killers out of the lineup, head coach Dave Poulin was forced to use more players than usual to kill penalties.

"This was certainly the most guys I've used killing penalties this year, because Simon is certainly one of our top penalty killers," Poulin said. "But if I need other guys, it will be up-tempo and short shifts."

On the night the Irish killed off all five UAF power plays by playing with a more aggressive style. For the weekend, the unit was eight for eight, which represented the most satisfying part of the series sweep.

"That's what we key on all week because that's what we needed," sophomore left wing Chad Chipchase said. "We knew coming into the weekend we had the worst penalty killing in the conference."

Sophomore left wing Dan Carlson also stressed the importance of the penalty killers in terms of the team's overall success.

"We've worked a lot harder at (penalty-killing), so we're getting better at it," said Carlson. "We have to get better at it if we want to do well this year."

In Saturday's game, the Irish welcomed back Ben Simon, but were forced to say goodbye to senior Aniket Dhadphale, who was ejected six-and-a-half minutes into the game out of character for Dhadphale, it certainly drew the attention of the head coach.

"It was a bit of retaliation on his part because he was hit from behind earlier," Poulin said. "It was a moment of frustration, but you just don't hit a guy from behind."

In a strange turn of events, however, the Nanooks continued their sloppy and undisciplined play by taking back-to-back penalties to actually put Notre Dame on the power play during Dhadphale's five minute major. With a four-on-three skating advantage, Ben Simon pounced on a rebound of Joe Dusbabek's shot to give the Irish a 1-0 lead.

Less than a minute and a half later, with the Irish now down a man once again, Brett Henning capitalized on yet another sloppy pass up the middle by the UAF defense. Following the steal, Henning came in with team captain Brian Urick two-on-one. Henning smoothly slid a backhand pass to Urick, which Urick converted into the first shorthanded goal of his illustrious career, going top shelf on UAF goaltender Ian Perkins.

The team's high-paced game continued, with sophomore Chad Chipchase emerging as the offensive star in the second period by converting into the first series sweep bolstered by the team captain's two goals. "Coach (Poulin) has been telling us that ever since the turnaround has much to do with coaching, as junior Joe Dusbabek will attest. If you take care of your home ice and win half of your games on the road, you're going to be in great shape," Dusbabek said. "Coach (Poulin) has been telling us that ever since he's been here."

"Coach has been telling us that ever since he's been here."

Join the Notre Dame Junior Achievement!

Sign Up to Teach Children in South Bend Elementary Schools

You can decide When and Where You Want to Volunteer—Times are Flexible

Brief Organizational Meeting

7:30 pm *Tuesday, January 19th
Sorin Room in LaFortune

Call Kim Smith @ 4-2978 with questions or if you are unable to attend the meeting.

Spring Break Seminars

March 7-13, 1999 Experimental/ Sevice Learning Center for Social Concerns

APPALACHIA SEMINAR
-Work and learn at one of 15 sites in the Appalachian region
-An ND tradition of service-learning

L'ARCHE COMMUNITY SEMINAR
-Live for a week in community with persons with disabilities
-Read the work of Jean Vanier

MIGRANT EXPERIENCES SEMINAR
-Work in the fields with migrant workers
-Assist agencies that serve migrants

WASHINGTON SEMINAR
-Travel to key civil rights sites in the South (e.g., the King Center, the Nat. Civil Rights Inst.)
- Learn from leaders who were instrumental in civil rights legislation and development
- A new and unique opportunity

All seminars offer one academic credit (various departments)
Applications Available Now at the CSC
Applications Due: Jan. 28, 1999
Also: Deadline extended for the Mexico Seminar
The Observer • TODAY

LOOKING THROUGH THE WIZARD OF ND
DAN SULLIVAN

YOUR HOROSCOPE
EUGENIA LAST

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DAY: Cary Grant, Kevin Costner, John Denver, Jimmy Stewart.

Happy Birthday! Your carefree approach to life will attract numerous people. You can expand your circle of friends and try your hand at a new and exciting activity. Follow your desires, and you'll be sure to enjoy what the year ahead has to offer. You must learn to go with the flow and take things as they come. The more adaptable you become, the better your chances of success. Your numbers are 2, 3, 12, 22, 27, 46.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Problems with gas, oil or water in your home are likely. You must use caution if you plan to work with electrical tools. Avoid adverse treatment by meeting clear of flammable for an appropriate distance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Your romantic ambitions may be countered. Try not to be too fearful when dealing with others. Do not hold a grudge because of joint financial problems. Take care of your mental health before proceeding quickly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21): You will have to work on your words and it will be even easier. Avoid confrontational approaches. Don't be too quick to think that the worst has happened. You will be successful in your endeavors. You will have to watch your p's and q's in your dealings. Your mates will ensure your property is guarded. You will be guarded.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your friends who share the same zodiac. Changes in your home will bring delight to the whole family. Get your personal things in order. Get rid of things that are no longer of use.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your thoughts may be all the rage. Changing your location to a new home may be a likely event. Your mate will confide in a close friend who will give you insight and turn things around if you need it. Do not get too sentimental about the past.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Expect to have your home front in order. It is unlikely that your home has been completely honest with you. Some family members may be unsociable. They may try to evade matters and try to resolve matters quickly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Problems with gas, oil or water in your home are likely. You must use caution if you plan to work with electrical tools. Avoid adverse treatment by meeting clear of flammable for an appropriate distance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22): Your romantic ambitions may be countered. Try not to be too fearful when dealing with others. Do not hold a grudge because of joint financial problems. Take care of your mental health before proceeding quickly.

The sports department is currently taking applications for the position of Production Assistants. Call 1-4543 for more information.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Make checks payable to:
and mail to:

Enclosed is $85 for one academic year

Enclosed is $45 for one semester

Name
Address
City State Zip

CEO OF INTEREST
Rodeo club meeting at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in LaFortune today.

Summer Internship Fair will be sponsored by Career & Placement Services on Thursday from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Sports Hall and in the Sports Hall on the last day of the Joyce Center. Those interested should bring their resumes. Many companies will interview interested candidates the following day.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Make checks payable to:
and mail to:

Enclosed is $85 for one academic year

Enclosed is $45 for one semester

Name
Address
City State Zip

CEO OF INTEREST
Rodeo club meeting at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in LaFortune today.

Summer Internship Fair will be sponsored by Career & Placement Services on Thursday from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Sports Hall and in the Sports Hall on the last day of the Joyce Center. Those interested should bring their resumes. Many companies will interview interested candidates the following day.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Make checks payable to:
and mail to:

Enclosed is $85 for one academic year

Enclosed is $45 for one semester

Name
Address
City State Zip

CEO OF INTEREST
Rodeo club meeting at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in LaFortune today.

Summer Internship Fair will be sponsored by Career & Placement Services on Thursday from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Sports Hall and in the Sports Hall on the last day of the Joyce Center. Those interested should bring their resumes. Many companies will interview interested candidates the following day.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Make checks payable to:
and mail to:

Enclosed is $85 for one academic year

Enclosed is $45 for one semester

Name
Address
City State Zip

CEO OF INTEREST
Rodeo club meeting at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in LaFortune today.

Summer Internship Fair will be sponsored by Career & Placement Services on Thursday from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Sports Hall and in the Sports Hall on the last day of the Joyce Center. Those interested should bring their resumes. Many companies will interview interested candidates the following day.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Make checks payable to:
and mail to:

Enclosed is $85 for one academic year

Enclosed is $45 for one semester

Name
Address
City State Zip

CEO OF INTEREST
Rodeo club meeting at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in LaFortune today.

Summer Internship Fair will be sponsored by Career & Placement Services on Thursday from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Sports Hall and in the Sports Hall on the last day of the Joyce Center. Those interested should bring their resumes. Many companies will interview interested candidates the following day.

The Observer
P.O. Box Q
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Make checks payable to:
and mail to:

Enclosed is $85 for one academic year

Enclosed is $45 for one semester

Name
Address
City State Zip

CEO OF INTEREST
Rodeo club meeting at 7 p.m. in Montgomery Theater in LaFortune today.

Summer Internship Fair will be sponsored by Career & Placement Services on Thursday from 1-4:30 p.m. in the Sports Hall and in the Sports Hall on the last day of the Joyce Center. Those interested should bring their resumes. Many companies will interview interested candidates the following day.
Irish climb to third in CCHA with weekend victories

By TED BASSANI
Sport Writer

The eighth-ranked Notre Dame hockey team managed to remain unbeaten on home ice with a convincing two-game sweep of Alaska-Fairbanks over the weekend, which vaulted them back into third place in the CCHA standings, one point ahead of both Ferris State and Ohio State.

In the series, Notre Dame continued the trend from last year's season series by out-shooting the Nanooks 78-44 en route to two blowout wins. The Irish scored two goals in each of the six periods, giving them wins by a score of 6-2 and 6-1.

Late Friday afternoon, Notre Dame received word from the CCHA office that junior center Ben Simon was to be suspended for one game following a stick foul which occurred in a game on November 21 against Michigan. Entering the weekend, Simon was the team's leading scorer on the season. The Irish were also missing Tyson Fraser and Ryan Clark on defense. Fraser's injury is minor, while Clark will miss the remainder of the season.

Filling in for Ben Simon on Notre Dame's top line would be freshman Brett Henning, who usually centers the team's third line. Moving from a checking line to a line with Brian Urick and Dan Carlson was a challengeHenning was ready and eager to take on.

"I practiced all week with the line, and I felt good," Henning said. "They're great players. I just tried to work with them and play up to their potential."

Henning filled in well for Simon, registering an assist as well as a power play goal.

On Friday night, the Nanooks jumped out to a quick lead when Dwayne Zinger's shot from the slot was deflected home by sophomore winger Pat Hallett. After that point, however, Notre Dame seemed to find their legs with great team speed through the neutral zone.

Midway through the first period, Notre Dame tied the score on the power play as Ankil Dhadphale scored one of his signature goals, camping out in front of the net to bang home a rebound. Dhadphale would later score on a four-on-four situation near the end of the second period, a goal which seemingly put the game out of reach at 4-1.

The story of the night, however, was the team's penalty-

---

see HOCKEY page 22