Construction alters the face of ND

By KATE ANTONACCI
Associate News Editor

The brighter-than-ever Dome and the log-north "Gug" may be grabbing all the attention, but several other construction projects underway on campus will soon make their presence felt in student life.

From the majestic new entrance to the renovated Edison Road to the renovated Health Services building, changes are underway at Notre Dame, and construction crews worked tirelessly over the summer months to prepare the campus for the 2005-06 school year.

Their efforts are seen most visibly through work on the campus road project, as Edison Road and Route 23 are widening. A large portion of Edison was demolished and realigned so a four-lane north-south road could be created where Edison met by road.

"The campus road project went spectacularly," said Executive Vice President John Alberge-Graves. "It is five months ahead of schedule."

Construction on the campus road project, shown here in its early stages in April, is set to be completed in 2006.

Transpo offers new routes for ND/SMC

Company gives free transportation throughout both campuses and the South Bend area

By MADDIE HANNA
Associate News Editor

For cash-strapped students, it's a lot better than hitchhiking.

The South Bend Public Transportation Corporation (TRANSPO) has established a public route that links Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, faculty and staff ride for free, provided they show identification.

"Over the years we hear from different community groups about service needs," TRANSPO general manager Mary McIlain said. "This will provide greater connectivity for college age passengers to businesses in the community."

A new routing loop called The Sweep will travel between Notre Dame, Angela State Road 933, University Village and Saint Mary's. The Sweep will connect with the pre-existing but newly modified Route 87 at Library Circle. Route 87 will now include stops along the Grape Road corridor.

Dan Skendzel, director of administrative services for the University, said the new routes use Angela and SR 933 to get to Saint Mary's, no longer traveling on Holy Cross Drive like last year's shuttle.

"I think the new route serves the primary access points to Notre Dame and Saint Mary's," Skendzel said.

"The logically concept is visually appealing," Skendzel said.

TRANSPO has been under contract with the University for the past 20 years, and several improvements have been made throughout that time.

"I think we've pleased the number and quality of firms that are interested in purchasing the on-campus service," Skendzel said.

Nearly five months after Notre Dame announced its plans to sell WNDU-TV to South Bend Telecasting Corp. (MTS), the operator of WNDU-TV, multiple bidders have expressed interest in purchasing the on-campus NBC affiliate, officials said.

A number of "experienced, high quality" bidders have stated their interest in buying the station, which Notre Dame has owned since the 1950s, University President Father John Jenkins said.

"We're pleased with the number and quality of firms that are interested in purchasing WNDU," he said. "I think it will be in good hands with any number of these. So that's where we are now. [There are] several bidders, we're talking with them and I hope we'll get a resolution before too long.

The University announced April 1 that Kaill and Co., a brokerage firm based in Tuscon, Ariz., had been hired to look into the possible sale of WNDU.

Kaill and Co. has been involved with the sale of tel-

Interest shown in WNDU

Several qualified bidders vie for station

By KATE ANTONACCI
Associate News Editor

Police cancelled their search for Stephen Liu, the Notre Dame sophomore who went missing Thursday morning, after he was located in northern St. Joseph County Friday afternoon.

Authorities said Liu, 19, was located by police after a tow truck driver spotted the student and recognized his car and physical description from news reports, said Capt. Philip Trent, public information officer for the South Bend Police.

Liu is "safe and fine," Trent said in a press release. Trent said it was thanks to the publicity the story received that Liu was found.

"This is a textbook example of our cooperation helping solve a case," said Trent, who could not be reached for further comment.

The University also declined to release further details on the case.

"We're obviously very pleased that he was found safe and sound, but my understanding was that the family wants as much privacy as possible," University spokesman Matt Storin said.

Missed student found in St. Joe County, safe

By KATE ANTONACCI
Associate News Editor

The indigenous perspective as critical to the study of Latin America.

Quechua is most prominent in Peru, and was also the language of the Incas before Spanish conquerors destroyed the more powerful civilization in the 16th century. Notre Dame is currently one of only 14 universities that offer the language.

Notre Dame faculty stressed the importance of offering courses in an indigenous language rather than simply teaching courses in more dominant languages like Spanish or French.

"The assumption is if you are to study Latin America, you need to know Spanish," Beatty said. "That will get you a certain distance ... but there are limitations. For South America ... Quechua is the most important and the most widespread indigenous language."

Ted Carchy, chair of the department of romance languages and literatures, said the Quechua courses complement the department's mission to help students realize the "importance of knowing languages and knowing the world through language."

He also believes that the courses, taught in alternating years by two women from Cuzco, Peru — the ancient capital of the Incan empire — will improve the diversity of academic and professional experiences students can be exposed to.

We are excited about having the opportunity to offer Quechua. It also corresponds to a goal that we have of enhancing diversity of the college and the University ... indigenous languages represent a source of diversity to us," he said. "[Also]

ND offers courses in Quechua

Peruvian language viewed as one of Latin America's most important

By JOE TROMBELLO
News Writer

Junior Kevin Blinn received some strange reactions from friends and family last spring when they heard of his decision to take Notre Dame's first-ever beginning Quechua course.

"My dad right off the bat was like, 'You are taking what and why?'" Blinn said. "Hardly anyone has heard of Quechua. My friends even know it was a language."

In fact, not only is Quechua a language, it is one of Latin America's most important indigenous languages, according to Ted Beatty, an associate professor of history and fellow of the Kellogg Institute.

"We are excited about having the opportunity to offer Quechua. It also corresponds to a goal that we have of enhancing diversity of the college and the University ... indigenous languages represent a source of diversity to us," he said. "[Also]
INSIDE COLUMN

The big questions

It has been over a year since I came to Notre Dame for my Frosh-0 weekend, but I can remember those first crazy days clearly. While I did manage to have a few meaningful conversations that weekend (even at Bonnerfest), most exchanges required me to say no more than "Hi, I’m Karen from New Jersey and now from Farkley Hall."

This year, I returned to campus as a sophomore and realized that this was going to be a very good year. I was less excited to come to school this year. In fact, the biggest difference was that as a sophomore, I know people.

While missing so many people over the long four months of summer made me long for the return to campus, I had forgotten that the big questions of Frosh-0, the "What is your name? Where are you from?" would be replaced by another set that would become no less repetitive. "How was your summer? What did you do?" became the mantra among the upperclassmen who arrived on campus early.

Being from Jersey hardly sets me apart among college freshmen, and so this year I didn’t mind having a more interesting answer to the generic back-to-school question. "It was interesting," I said. "I worked at a medical clinic for homeless people. And I lived in a shelter."

After assuring people that I do still have a place to live and thanking them for offers to crash on their sofas, some wanted to know more about my Summer Service Project in Albuquerque, New Mexico. I told them it was a pretty crazy summer. I saw the doctors treating a man for a gunshot wound in the head, and I arrived home one night shortly before a man tried an unsuccessful armed robbery of the restaurant next door to the shelter.

I told them that after some of the conversations I had, I doubt awkwardness will ever again bother me. There were days when a nurse would ask me to talk for 10 or 15 minutes with someone who was newly homeless because he or she had just gotten out of prison. I learned that California penitentiaries are the best place to get a colored tattoo, and the ex-cons listened to how the Irish student bodies rushed the field after beating Minnesota.

I told them it was a lonely summer, and that I felt I am family. At times I thought much of my cell phone bill became an issue. At the same time, I met some incredible people. Some were breaking out of a generation-old cycle of poverty by getting an education. Others were kicking habits so their kids could have easier lives than they did. Not any less striking were the reliably Irish ND alumni who welcomed students into their homes in the city, the suburbs and even the Navajo reservation.

Living with the homeless wasn’t always easy, but I wouldn’t give up this past summer for anything. My experience of poverty could not be entirely genuine because I always had an out, a safe home and a good school that I could return to in a matter of weeks, but I was able to see the gritty reality of the poor firsthand. And it gave me a pretty good conversation starter this Frosh-0 weekend.

Contact Karen Langley at klangle1@nd.edu.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

CORRECTIONS

In the Aug. 26 Irish Insider, the article on page 7 titled "Zbikowski leads experienced secondary" stated Tom Zbikowski. Anthony Versaggi. Terrel Lambeth and Mike Richardson had solidified starting spots. This was incorrect, as no starters had been named as of Friday. The Observer regrets the error.

INSIDE COLUMN

QUESTION OF THE DAY: Which Harry Potter character are you most like and why?

Luther Yoo sophomore Dillon, James Mitchell freshman N’Neill, Claire Veierlust freshman Welsh Family, Chris Wilkinson freshman Old College, Tony Piskurich freshman St. Edward’s, Dan Ott sophomore Alumni

"Harry Potter! He does magic!"

"Whatever's good for America and freedom."

"Hermione, because I’m the brains of the bunch and I do stuff better than the guys."

"Dumbledore, because I totally want the long hair and astronomy makes me happy."

"Harry, because I love him."

"Iagrod, because I’m big."

The king of And At the same time, I met some summer for anything. My experience of see the gritty reality of the poor firsthand. in a matter of weeks, but I was able to much my cell phone bill became an issue. people. sophomores, I know people. While missing so many people over the long four months of summer made me long for the return to campus, I had forgotten that the big questions of Frosh-0, the "What is your name? Where are you from?" would be replaced by another set that would become no less repetitive. "How was your summer? What did you do?" became the mantra among the upperclassmen who arrived on campus early. Being from Jersey hardly sets me apart among college freshmen, and so this year I didn’t mind having a more interesting answer to the generic back-to-school question. "It was interesting," I said. "I worked at a medical clinic for homeless people. And I lived in a shelter."

After assuring people that I do still have a place to live and thanking them for offers to crash on their sofas, some wanted to know more about my Summer Service Project in Albuquerque, New Mexico. I told them it was a pretty crazy summer. I saw the doctors treating a man for a gunshot wound in the head, and I arrived home one night shortly before a man tried an unsuccessful armed robbery of the restaurant next door to the shelter.

I told them that after some of the conversations I had, I doubt awkwardness will ever again bother me. There were days when a nurse would ask me to talk for 10 or 15 minutes with someone who was newly homeless because he or she had just gotten out of prison. I learned that California penitentiaries are the best place to get a colored tattoo, and the ex-cons listened to how the Irish student bodies rushed the field after beating Minnesota.

I told them it was a lonely summer, and that I felt I am family. At times I thought much of my cell phone bill became an issue. At the same time, I met some incredible people. Some were breaking out of a generation-old cycle of poverty by getting an education. Others were kicking habits so their kids could have easier lives than they did. Not any less striking were the reliably Irish ND alumni who welcomed students into their homes in the city, the suburbs and even the Navajo reservation.

Living with the homeless wasn’t always easy, but I wouldn’t give up this past summer for anything. My experience of poverty could not be entirely genuine because I always had an out, a safe home and a good school that I could return to in a matter of weeks, but I was able to see the gritty reality of the poor firsthand. And it gave me a pretty good conversation starter this Frosh-0 weekend.

Contact Karen Langley at klangle1@nd.edu.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

CORRECTIONS

In the Aug. 26 Irish Insider, the article on page 7 titled "Zbikowski leads experienced secondary" stated Tom Zbikowski. Anthony Versaggi. Terrel Lambeth and Mike Richardson had solidified starting spots. This was incorrect, as no starters had been named as of Friday. The Observer regrets the error.

INSIDE COLUMN

QUESTION OF THE DAY: Which Harry Potter character are you most like and why?

Luther Yoo sophomore Dillon, James Mitchell freshman N’Neill, Claire Veierlust freshman Welsh Family, Chris Wilkinson freshman Old College, Tony Piskurich freshman St. Edward’s, Dan Ott sophomore Alumni

"Harry Potter! He does magic!"

"Whatever’s good for America and freedom."

"Hermione, because I’m the brains of the bunch and I do stuff better than the guys."

"Dumbledore, because I totally want the long hair and astronomy makes me happy."

"Harry, because I love him."

"Iagrod, because I’m big."

The king of And At the same time, I met some summer for anything. My experience of see the gritty reality of the poor firsthand. in a matter of weeks, but I was able to much my cell phone bill became an issue. people. sophomores, I know people. While missing so many people over the long four months of summer made me long for the return to campus, I had forgotten that the big questions of Frosh-0, the "What is your name? Where are you from?" would be replaced by another set that would become no less repetitive. "How was your summer? What did you do?" became the mantra among the upperclassmen who arrived on campus early. Being from Jersey hardly sets me apart among college freshmen, and so this year I didn’t mind having a more interesting answer to the generic back-to-school question. "It was interesting," I said. "I worked at a medical clinic for homeless people. And I lived in a shelter."

After assuring people that I do still have a place to live and thanking them for offers to crash on their sofas, some wanted to know more about my Summer Service Project in Albuquerque, New Mexico. I told them it was a pretty crazy summer. I saw the doctors treating a man for a gunshot wound in the head, and I arrived home one night shortly before a man tried an unsuccessful armed robbery of the restaurant next door to the shelter.

I told them that after some of the conversations I had, I doubt awkwardness will ever again bother me. There were days when a nurse would ask me to talk for 10 or 15 minutes with someone who was newly homeless because he or she had just gotten out of prison. I learned that California penitentiaries are the best place to get a colored tattoo, and the ex-cons listened to how the Irish student bodies rushed the field after beating Minnesota.

I told them it was a lonely summer, and that I felt I am family. At times I thought much of my cell phone bill became an issue. At the same time, I met some incredible people. Some were breaking out of a generation-old cycle of poverty by getting an education. Others were kicking habits so their kids could have easier lives than they did. Not any less striking were the reliably Irish ND alumni who welcomed students into their homes in the city, the suburbs and even the Navajo reservation.

Living with the homeless wasn’t always easy, but I wouldn’t give up this past summer for anything. My experience of poverty could not be entirely genuine because I always had an out, a safe home and a good school that I could return to in a matter of weeks, but I was able to see the gritty reality of the poor firsthand. And it gave me a pretty good conversation starter this Frosh-0 weekend.

Contact Karen Langley at klangle1@nd.edu.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

CORRECTIONS

In the Aug. 26 Irish Insider, the article on page 7 titled "Zbikowski leads experienced secondary" stated Tom Zbikowski. Anthony Versaggi. Terrel Lambeth and Mike Richardson had solidified starting spots. This was incorrect, as no starters had been named as of Friday. The Observer regrets the error.
SMMC kicks off year with Mass

Packed Loretto celebrates new academic term, importance of education

By KATIE KOHLER
News Writer

Saint Mary’s students, faculty and staff kicked off the school year with high participation in an opening Mass for the 2005-06 Academic Year Sunday afternoon in a full to capacity Church of Loretto.

Father Kenneth Molinaro presided over the ceremony and was assisted by many Saint Mary’s students through singing, reading, liturgical dancing and acting as Extraordinary Ministers of the Eucharist. Both the Saint Mary’s Women’s Choir and the Liturgical Choir sang and several students contributed to the music ministry through playing instruments and participating in the Handbell Choir.

Molinaro welcomed the entire community to another academic year at Saint Mary’s and blessed the College, praying for another successful school year in all aspects.

Molinaro’s homily — which referenced Sister Madeleina Wolfe’s book “Conversations with Cassandra” — who believes in education? and the former College’s emphasis on the importance of “educating women and transforming lives” — coincided with the special Votive Mass readings, which for the most part dealt with the Holy Spirit present among the students. He said the Holy Spirit would transform the students into leaders.

Father Molinaro also encouraged the students to enter “with the ideas of girls, but leave with the ideas of women.” College President Carol Mooney also spoke near the conclusion of the liturgy, to give her opening remarks and hopes for the school year. She, too, spoke about the readings and gave her thoughts on their significance for this year.

Mooney said many of the images of the Holy Spirit in the Bible are abstract, such as that of a “spirit of truth.” “I think it is hard for us to relate to a spirit of truth,” as the Bible puts it, because it is abstract and gives no sense of the power of God.”

Carol Mooney
College president

Mooney went on to say her favorite image is that of the dove, which is painted on the ceiling of Loretto. She said the flying dove is special in that its presence can be seen, heard and even felt by people — when its heart beats, it emanates warmth and wind can be felt when it drops its wings.

Mooney also made Biblical references to fire and wind, calling them tangible, powerful images but abstract as that of a “Spirit of truth.” She urged the congregation and students especially to recognize that “the Spirit is always with us.”

Mooney began her closing remarks using excerpts of Gerard Manley Hopkins’s poem “God’s Grandeur,” which makes references to nature and fire and fit perfectly with the many Holy Spirit references throughout the afternoon. Similarly to Molinaro, Mooney also ended by welcoming the students to another academic year — with hopes that it will be as successful as years past.

Contact Katie Kohler at kkohler1@saintmarys.edu

ND Anthropologist publishes new book

Richman focuses on migration and vodou

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame anthropologist Karen Richman examines the nature and centrality of religion for Haitian migrants in a new book titled “Migration and Vodou,” published by University Press of Florida as part of the New World Diasporas series.

Discrediting myths of exotic and primitive vodou long used against Haitians, “Migration and Vodou,” which is accompanied by a compact disc, provides a rare excursion into the innovative ways a community of Haitian migrants to South Florida has maintained religious traditions and familial connections, including recording sacred songs and circulating them among communities.

The first ethnography of the religion, ritual and aesthetic practices of a single, transnational Haitian society, the text and compact disc were produced in collaboration to give the reader intimate access to Haitians’ ingenious uses of cassette tapes to extend the boundaries of their rhetorical and ritual spaces.

“The people at the center of this book and compact disc are a transnational community,” Richman said. “Ti Ryvè Liilde River, a coastal hamlet in Loagane, Haití, is their moral and material anchor, and although Ti Ryvè spans Haiti, the Caribbean, North America and France, its major outpost is Palm Beach County, Fla. This study explores how migration has affected the religion and ritual practices of this mobile, long-distance community, and how religion and ritual influence the experience of migration.”

Richman, assistant professor of anthropology and a faculty fellow in Notre Dame’s Kellogg Institute for International Studies and Institute for Latino Studies, specializes in Haitian society, language, religion, migration and politics.

Write for News.
Call Heather at 1-5253.
The Observer • CAMPUS NEWS
Monday, August 29, 2005

Transpo
continued from page 1

came to him with an acceptable proposal after discussion with Notre Dame student government, the Student Activities Office, Notre Dame Security/Police and Saint Mary's.

"TRANSPO recognized an underserved population center at our campuses," Kenzdzel said. "They began asking the University and Saint Mary's what the transportation needs were for students, faculty and staff."

"The student body president Dave Baron said his involvement with the project begun with students who were unsatisfied with South Bend transportation options."

"We had received complaints about gaging taxi fares, inconvenience, lack of alternative means of transportation as compared to peer schools, and especially, safety," Baron said.

So in fall 2004, student government representatives went to the Board of Trustees with a presentation on off-campus safety recommending the Saferbus, a proposed late night bus service for students. The trustees reacted negatively to the idea.

"When the University expressed their reluctance to the bus, we continued to explore other options," Baron said.

In spring 2005, Baron and former student body president Adam Istan met with McLain, and the TRANSPO talks began. Baron said he thinks the service will greatly benefit students.

"I recognize that some students now are a bit weary to venture out with public transportation," Baron said. "I do believe that any reluctance to ride TRANSPO will dissipate quickly as more students ride the bus and with how clean, safe and convenient it is." McLain, who said TRANSPO has been working on this plan for a while, was optimistic about the future of the new

"We are confident that this offering is going to be so popular that [usage] will continue to grow," McLain said.

"An off-campus student himself, Baron said he had already used the system to travel to and from campus for classes three times and on Friday nights.

"Once you have the schedule in your hand, the system is easy to navigate," he said.

Several Saint Mary's freshmen were enthusiastic about the new service.

Meghan Conaty, who used TRANSPO to go to Zahm Hall Saturday night, said she found the system efficient and appreciated not having to worry about getting a cab.

Emily Cwida-Kusheh, who used TRANSPO to get football tickets and to travel to Alumni Hall, agreed with Conaty about the convenience.

"It is always there when you need it, it is free, and you never have to worry about needing a ride," Cwida-Kusheh said.

But she said the actual ride Saturday night was "claustrophobic," noting the three-to-a-seat, standing room only crowed bus.

The Sweep will operate year round from 7 a.m. until 10:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday with additional hours on Friday nights until 2:30 a.m., and Saturdays from 9 a.m. until 2:30 a.m. Extended hours for Route #7 are until 2:30 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. Neither The Sweep nor Route #7 runs Sundays.

Contact Maddie Hanna
mhanna1@nd.edu

Changes
continued from page 1

Although the project involved the demolition of soccer fields on Edison previously used for parking on football weekends, the fields will be relocated for the fall football season, according to the University Architect's office.

"Phase One is substantially complete, and that was the rerouting of Edison Road," said James Lyphout, Vice President for Business Operations. Landscaping and lights still need to be added, he said.

Phase Two of the campus road project—which will take the Ivy Road replacement all the way to Douglas Road—will be open to students in a week to repair landscaping, Lyphout said.

The "the dry summer was great for the construction projects.

We were able to stay on schedule and on budget. We haven't had any surplus costs."

James Lyphout
Vice President for Business Operations

The entrance was financed with University funds for the campus road project. Renovations also began this summer on the 47,591 square foot Health Services building on Holy Cross Drive next to Stanford Hall. Work will include demolition of interior walls, new windows and roof repairs, among other things, Lyphout said.

Work will "probably be completed in time for the fall semester of 2006," Lyphout said, adding that the center should open following Christmas break of 2006.

The renovation of the building will cost approximately $9.5 million, funded by private gifts, Lyphout said.

Health Services is temporarily housed in the old campus security building near the D-6 parking lot, while the counseling center is temporarily located in the old post office. The Golden Dome is also showing bright, thanks to a $2 million worth of work this summer. The remaining painting and construction should be finished by Sept. 9. It will take a week to repair landscaping, Lyphout said.

"The dry summer was great for the construction projects," Lyphout said. "We were able to stay on schedule and on budget. We haven't had any surplus costs."

If you didn't buy your textbooks at Half.com, you paid too much. Half.com has all the textbooks you need like chemistry, astronomy and history for a lot less.

For a limited time, save an additional $5 on purchases of $50 or more. Simply use this code: SAVEMORE2 half.com

FINISH IT IN THE FALL.
New Orleans braces for storm's fury
Katrina's winds reach 160 mph; evacuations result in massive traffic jams

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — As Hurricane Katrina barreled toward New Orleans on Sunday with 160-mph wind and a threat of a 28-foot storm surge, the mayor ordered the evacuation of the below-sea-level city and prayed for those who remained to face a doomsday scenario.

"Have God on your side, definitely have God on your side," Nancy Noble said as she sat with her puppy and three friends in six lanes of one-way traffic on grid-locked Interstate 10. "It's very frightening."

Katrina intensified into a Category 5 giant over the warm water of the Gulf of Mexico, reaching top winds of 175 mph before weakening slightly on a path to hit New Orleans around sunrise Monday. That will make it the city's first direct hit in 40 years and the most powerful storm ever to slam the city.

Forecasters warned that Mississippi and Alabama were also in danger because Katrina was such a big storm, with hurricane-force winds extending up to 105 miles from the center. In addition to the winds, the storm packed the potential for a surge of 18 to 28 feet, 30-foot waves and as much as 15 inches of rain.

"The conditions have to be absolutely perfect to have a hurricane become this powerful," National Hurricane Center Director Max Mayfield, noting that Katrina may yet be more powerful than the last Category 5 storm, 1992's Hurricane Andrew, which at its peak leveled Miami. When South Florida, killed 43 people and caused $31 billion in damage in 1992.

"It's capable of causing catastrophic damage," Mayfield said. "Even well-built structures will have tremendous damage. Of course, what we're really worried about is the loss of lives."

"New Orleans may never be the same."

By evening, the first squalls, driving rains and lightning began hitting New Orleans. A grim Mayor Ray Nagin earlier ordered the mandatory evacuation for his city of 450,000, conceding Katrina's storm surge pushing up the Mississippi River could swamp the city's system of levees, flooding the bowl-shaped city and causing potentially months of misery.

"We are facing a storm that most of us have long feared," he said. "This is a once-in-a-lifetime event."

As many as 100,000 inner-city residents didn't have the means to leave and an untold number of tourists were stranded by the closing of the airport, so the city arranged buses to take people to 10 hastily-arranged shelters, including the Superdome.

For years, forecasters have warned of the nightmare flooding a big storm could bring to New Orleans, a bowl-shaped city bounded by the half-mile-wide Mississippi River and massive Lake Pontchartrain.

Residents of Coden, Ala. board up their windows and front door Sunday in preparation for the arrival of Hurricane Katrina.

As much as 10 feet below sea level in spots, the city is as the mercy of a network of levees and canals to keep the water in.

Scientists predicted Katrina could easily overtake that levee system, swamping the city under a 30-foot cusp of toxic chemicals, human waste and even coffins that could leave more than 100,000 people homeless.

"All indications are that this is absolutely worst-case scenario," Ivan Hoeber, deputy director of the Louisiana State University Hurricane Center, said Sunday afternoon.

Iraq

Sunnis fail to endorse constitutional

Baghdad — Iraqis voted in an万家ful灰尘 towards the government and against the draft on Sunday and referred it to the voters but without the endorsement of Sunni Arabs, a major setback for the U.S. strategy to lure Sunnis away from the insurgency and hasten the day U.S. troops can go home.

The absence of Sunni Arab endorsement, after more than two months of reconciliation efforts, raised fears of more violence and set the stage for a bitter political fight ahead of any nationwide referendum on the document.

A political battle among religious and ethnic lines threatened to sharpen communal divisions at a time when relations among the Shiites, Sunnis Arabs and Kurds appear to be worsening.

Sunnis negotiated their rejection in a joint statement drafted by the opposition that was submitted to parliament. They branded the final version as "illegitimate" and asked the Arab League, the United Nations and "international organizations" to intervene against the draft.

Intervention is unlikely, however, and no further amendments to the draft are possible under the law, said a legal expert on the drafting committee, Hussein Addah.

"I think if this constitution passes as it is, it will worsen everything in the country," said Saleh al-Mulaik, a Sunni negotiator.

President Bush expressed disappointment that the Sunnis did not sign on but pinned his hopes on the referendum, saying it was a chance for Iraqis to "set the foundation for a permanent Iraqi government."

But the depth of disillusionment over the charter in the Sunni establishment extended beyond the 15 negotiators, who were appointed to the constitutional committee in June under U.S. pressure.

The country's Sunni vice president, Ghazi al-Yawer, did not show up at a Sunday ceremony marking completion of the document. When President Jalal Talabani said that al-Yawer was ill, senior government officials including Deputy Prime Minister Ahmad Chalabi bowed with laughter.

Talabani, addressing the gathering, said it is left to our people to approve or reject it.

"I hope that our people will accept it despite some flaws."

New Orleans — A plane carrying two U.S. senators was detained for several hours Sunday while trying to leave Russia, before being permitted to leave the country for Ukraine, according to spokesmen for the lawmakers.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and Sen. Barack Obama, D-Ill., who had both been visiting storage sites for weapons of mass destruction held at a military site in the Ural Mountain city of Perm for several hours, but were allowed to leave after talks between U.S. and Russian officials.

"I am in Ukraine with Sen. Lugar," Lugar's spokesman, Andy Fisher, said in a message sent from a personal messaging device Sunday afternoon.

He said Russian officials refused to let the plane take off for three hours and insisted on boarding the plane itself. The hectically finally got orders to let us go," Fisher said.

"We were treated just fine," he said.

Bomb destroys ferry in Philippines

Manila — A ferry full of clothes exploded on a ferry in the southern Philippines as it was loading passengers Sunday morning, injuring at least 30 people, including nine children, military officials and a local region had been on alert for terror attacks.

The M.V. Dona Ramona was docked at the wharf at Lamitan, on the island of Basilan, around 7:30 a.m. local time as it prepared to depart for nearby Zamboanga. At least six people were badly burned, including a soldier.

Residents of Coden, Ala. board up their windows and front door Sunday in preparation for the arrival of Hurricane Katrina.
WNDU continued from page 1
evision stations like WNDU in the past, University spokesman Matt Gronin said.

Jenkins said the University involved an outside agency because such a sale must be handled by the experts.

"We, in house, don't have that kind of expertise," he said. "We don't have the people that know that kind of business well, so we don't have the people who can make the tough decisions in a kind of intelligent way.

WNDU's President and General Manager Jim Behling declined to comment about the possible sale.

"My job is to run and operate the station here," Behling said. "We've just been going along with business as usual. I don't really have anything to do with it." Notre Dame started WNDU in the 1950s, during a time when a number of other institutions took similar initiatives.

"It was kind of a fledging industry, and made sense for communication, and it's done just a tremendous job," Jenkins said. "It is the leading local station. They just do high quality work."

Still, Jenkins said it is a complicated business and there are certain pressures that need to be addressed.

"I think we'd be better served if we do our best at running the University and I think a company is going to buy WNDU that knows this business and it's going to flourish," Jenkins said.

Jenkins said that the station is "better off" — as is the University — if it is owned by a group who knows the media business well. The University is not worried about students being able to learn from WNDU, as working there will still be an option.

"Any educational benefit we got from it, we can still get from it, even if we don't own it ... so it's not an impediment to the education of our students."

Father John Jenkins University president

Quechua

continued from page 1

There is a benefit to the student to have teachers from all parts of the world.

Cachay said his department is trying to promote the courses through posters displayed in O'Shaughnessy Hall. While some undergraduates dit not take Quechua in the spring, the only two students currently enrolled are first-year Ph.D. candidates in the new doctoral program in Latin American History, which is being offered by the history department.

"We invite the undergraduate students to seriously consider [Quechua courses]," he said. Both the Quechua courses in particular and the new historical doctoral program in general were due to the influence of Sabine MacCormack, an endowed professor with joint appointments in the history and classics departments. She said exposing students to an indigenous language will afford them a more realistic understanding of the culture and history of Latin America.

"We view Latin America as being populated by people who speak Spanish or Portuguese," MacCormack said. "In fact ... practically all Latin American countries have a significant population that speaks an indigenous language. Our students [taking Quechua will] have access to how these countries really are.

MacCormack has conducted much of her academic work in Peru. Her connections with the Andean College in Cuzco — as well as her previous teaching at the University of Michigan, which offers Quechua — enabled MacCormack to start the language courses at Notre Dame.

Inez Callalli will be teaching Quechua this academic year and currently lives with MacCormack. The previous teacher, Gena Maldonado, is residing in her native Cuzco and will return next school year.

The language is currently being offered at the beginning and the intermediate levels, while next term will allow students to also take the course at the advanced level.

MacCormack said the course is conducted primarily in Quechua, although Spanish is also used.

"My hopes are that the Quechua program will really thrive and become a regular part of the curriculum," she said. "We have a fully formed advanced class, people could be reading colonial texts which give in histori-ical terms to an understanding of the complexity and many-faceted cultural diversity of Latin American countries."

MacCormack said the language courses connect with a number of programs, like the new doctoral program in Latin American languages and literatures being offered by the department of romance languages and literatures and the Kellogg Institute's emphasis on the relationships between the democratic process and Latin America.

In addition, a new study abroad program will be offered for the first time this summer in Cuzco. MacCormack says a knowledge of Quechua could be beneficial to students who would be encountering indigenous people in their day-to-day lives. Also, given student emphasis on community service, she believes students could volunteer either at archeological digs or through teaching English and computer courses to indigenous people who have been displaced from the countryside.

"From the point of view of the student, practicing Quechua can be very illuminating in other ways," she said. "It is helpful for us who come from a rich country to see what poverty is really like — that although poor, these people live useful and worthwhile lives."

MacCormack also said that being exposed to an indigenous perspective can help students become part of the complexity of a concept like identity.

"In Latin America, identities are constructed in many different ways from those that we take for granted," she said. "A program that helps draw attention to the polyphony of voices will help Notre Dame students locate themselves in the current and in the future."

Contact Joe Trimbello at jtrimbello@nd.edu
Iraqi company to repair key oil wells

Westeners refused to undertake responsibility without extensive legal protection

Associated Press

BASRA — An Iraqi state-owned company has been given the job of repairing oil wells that lies on large sur­­face oil reserves in the coun­­try's south. The task amounts to mean­dition of more than 1000 barrels of pumping delays for an industry al­so­ferring from sabotage and lo­st revenue.

The decision by U.S. reconstruction officials came after American and other Western companies have the needed expertise. But the U.S. reconstruction agency is unavailable to undertake the job of the project. The wells deteriorated during Saddam Hussein's rule, when international sanctions halted Western companies from working with the Iraqi government. Oil production in the south could increase by as much as 300,000 barrels a day once the project is complete, according to the U.S. reconstruction agency. The number of wells to be repaired has not been dis­closed.

The contract to repair wells was originally award­ed to KHR Oil, a subsidiary of Halliburton. But the agreement was canceled after the oil giant and other companies involved in the project were damaged by the Iraqi authorities.

Nigeria

African oil accompanied by corruption, violence

Associated Press

BUGDUMA — The capital of the ancient Kalabari kingdom is vivid testi­monial to the development of Nigeria's oil industry. The city is home to one of the biggest oil producers in the coun­try, and most of the local oil companies have their headquarters in Buduma.

The oil industry in Buduma is still under the control of the Nigerian government, but many questions remain about the condition of the oil fields and the management of the company. Some local officials have even suggested that the oil industry in Buduma is being run to benefit only a few people, who are often accused of corruption.

Oil revenue is a driving force in Buduma, with long-standing political rival­ries to the boiling point. Buduma's unrest is at least partly due to the lack of political stability in the country, which has led to frequent changes in government. The situation in Buduma is similar to that of many other Nigerian cities, where political and economic instabil­ity is a constant threat.

On the other hand, the oil industry in Buduma is still a source of hope for the people of the country, who are often referred to as "oil rich." However, the long-term impact of oil revenue on the country remains uncertain, and many questions remain about the future of the oil industry in Buduma.

Market Recap

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Company</th>
<th>Change (Gain</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dow Jones</td>
<td>10,379.29</td>
<td>-53.34</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Commodities

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Light Crude (S/R)</th>
<th>44.81</th>
<th>44.81</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gold (2/00 oz)</td>
<td>+4.00</td>
<td>44.43</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pork Bellies (corn/b)</td>
<td>+20</td>
<td>82.83</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

in Brief

Raycom Media buys Liberty Corp.

Associated Press

AMHERST, Mass. — Raycom Media of Montgomery, Ala., said Tuesday that it would buy Liberty Corp. of Greenville, S.C., in a $987 million deal that will boost Raycom's holdings to 52 TV stations.

Liberty operates 15 network affiliated stations, including WLS in Evansville, Ind., and WJTV, an employer-owned company, oper­ates in Memphis. The deal will give Raycom a high­ly rated station in its hometown, WSFA-TV.

Raycom President Paul McTeer said the agreement "allows us to take an exciting and logical next step into an exceptionally attrac­tive group of markets." Raycom agreed to purchase Liberty's stock at $47.35 per share, making the deal worth $987 million.

Raycom will keep its headquarters in Montgomery, McTeer said.

Raycom, Liberty's CEO and chairman, said Liberty's stations "will benefit from greater scale and resources, which are neces­sary to compete effectively in today's increas­ingly competitive media market." Company officials said they expect to complete the transaction by Dec. 31.

Voxbox makers may settle lawsuits

NYW 11/26 B — Merck & Co. might consider set­tling some lawsuits over its painkil­ler Vioxx, whose links to heart trouble have spawned thou­sands of lawsuits and a $253 million jury verdict, a spokesman for the company's legal team said Friday.

The company has previously said it would fight all claims that the drug's painkill­ing over the drug's harmful side-effects.

"Certainly we will make reasonable decisions about how to proceed in defending each one of those cases," spokesman Kent Jarrell told The Associated Press. "We are talking about potentially more than 10000 cases." Merck has "no intentions of entering into any kind of global settlement," Jarrell said.

Merck's general counsel, Kenne Kruzel, told The New York Times in Friday's edition that Merck would consider settling suits brought by people who took Vioxx for long periods of time and had few other risk factors for heart disease.

New Jersey-based Merck pulled Vioxx from the market nearly a year ago when a study showed it could double the risk of heart attack or stroke if taken for 14 months or longer.
MTV Video Music Awards roll out white carpet in Miami

Rock bands Green Day, Fall Out Boy, The Killers win moonmen; rap mogul Suge Knight shot at pre-party

Associated Press

MIAMI — MTV dugged two major disasters — one from nature, the other from the barrel of a gun — as the Video Music Awards unfolded Sunday night with flashy performances, over-the-top bling and a few blasts from the past.

The annual bash was briefly overshadowed by Hurricane Katrina, which hit southern Florida on Thursday and killed several people. As the storm passed, a celebratory mood took over the city — until early Sunday morning, when rap mogul Suge Knight was targeted by gunfire at a Kanye West party.

MTV vowed that neither event would affect the ceremonies — and they didn’t.

"The theme of tonight is, anything can happen," pro-claimed host Diddy, whose entrance included dancers, pyrotechnics and a cascading waterfall — a spectacle that rivaled the show’s actual performances.

When it comes to booty shaking, Luke of 2 Live Crew fame is the king with his infamous dancers, and he brought a bevy of women a dance with Diddy and R&B heartthrob Omarion.

But one of the biggest surprises was a performance from MC Hammer, recapturing some of his glory while shaking to his ’90s hit, "U Can’t Touch This."

Another flashback moment came in a tribute to Diddy’s protege, the late Notorious B.I.G., that featured Diddy "conducting" a string orchestra as the legendary rapper’s songs played.

Sunday waterfall — a spectacle that shook to his storm passed, a celebratory and a few blasts from the past.

"I guess they’re saying, ‘We’re going to give him his award early so we don’t have to worry about not missing,’" said West, referencing his infamous American Music Awards tantrum last year.

"It’s great to know that rock music still has a place at MTV," said lead singer Billie Joe Armstrong of hip-hop’s recent takeover.

On the red carpet, many guests arrived in a tribute to Diddy-designed elements of Ludacris’s "Pimp My Ride," complete with steel drummers, Mardi Gras-like multicultural uniforms — and they didn’t.

Another flash back moment came in a tribute to Diddy’s protege, the late Notorious B.I.G., that featured Diddy "conducting" a string orchestra as the legendary rapper’s songs played. Snoop Dogg came out at the end and delivered a verse on the B.I.G. hit "Warning."

"I would like to say, ‘We’re going to give him his award early so we don’t have to worry about not missing,’" said West, referencing his infamous American Music Awards tantrum last year.

"It’s great to know that rock music still has a place at MTV," said lead singer Billie Joe Armstrong of hip-hop’s recent takeover.

Some of the night’s more decadent moments came during the pre-show arrivals. Lil’ Kim came by sea, on what looked to be a three-story, pimp-my-yacht compilation. The prison-bound Lil’ Kim arrived on the white carpet in a Rolls Royce Phantom, though she looked somewhat demure in her low-cut mauve dress — no pasties or dangling appendages this year from the diminutive rapper.

"I might show some leg," teased the star, who is due to start serving a year-and-a-half sentence in September on a perjury charge. When MTV personality SWAT delicately asked if she had anything to say to fans who "might not see you for a while," Lil’ Kim said:

"You can write me letters."

Entourage" star Jeremy Piven couldn’t help but tease her about her upcoming bid as they presented best rap video, which was won by Ludacris.

"You know, she’s about to go to the big house, for lying," he said of Lil’ Kim. "I’d like to place a call to the warden and upgrade your situation."

The much-hyped white carpet was one of one of the Diddy-designed elements of the show. Another was the "Diddy Fashion Challenge" — in which he vowed to give away $50,000 each to the charities of the best dressed female and male at the event. Amerie, Gwen Stefani and Eva Longoria were the three female finalists; Usher, West and a plimped-out Snoop Dogg were the male finalists. Diddy himself was out of the running, though he wouldn’t know it — he made three wardrobe changes in the first half-hour.

The awards typically snowball into a weekling party with decadent A-list bashers, but Hurricane Katrina forced the cancellation of some events. Several stars, like West, were late arriving to Miami because of the weather.

Knight, the Death Row Records founder who has been at the center of some of hip-hop’s most violent moments, was shot in the leg early Sunday morning at a star-studded party thrown by West. His injuries were not life-threatening; no arrests were made.

Yellow" star Jeremy Piven couldn’t help but tease her about her upcoming bid as they presented best rap video, which was won by Ludacris.

"You know, she’s about to go to the big house, for lying," he said of Lil’ Kim. "I’d like to place a call to the warden and upgrade your situation."

The much-hyped white carpet was one of one of the Diddy-designed elements of the show. Another was the "Diddy Fashion Challenge" — in which he vowed to give away $50,000 each to the charities of the best dressed female and male at the event. Amerie, Gwen Stefani and Eva Longoria were the three female finalists; Usher, West and a plimped-out Snoop Dogg were the male finalists. Diddy himself was out of the running, though he wouldn’t know it — he made three wardrobe changes in the first half-hour.

The awards typically snowball into a weekling party with decadent A-list bashers, but Hurricane Katrina forced the cancellation of some events. Several stars, like West, were late arriving to Miami because of the weather.

Knight, the Death Row Records founder who has been at the center of some of hip-hop’s most violent moments, was shot in the leg early Sunday morning at a star-studded party thrown by West. His injuries were not life-threatening; no arrests were made.

Top, Ludacris accepts the MTV Video Music Award for best rap video. Bottom, early 90s superstar M.C. Hammer makes a surprise guest appearance at Sunday night’s award show.

Opening Night of the Official Notre Dame Football Coach’s Radio Show

Monday, August 29 • 7-7:30PM

LIVE at Logans 4225 N. Main, Mishawaka

Listen to 92.3FM

Special Guest Appearance

Charlie Weis, Head Coach

Presented by Boling Vision Center

Have news? Write news? Call Heather at 1-5323.

VerA Bradly’s

New Fall Designs are at The Mole Hole

Corporation Blvd (815) 232-6644

Vera Bradly's New Fall Designs are at The Mole Hole

Telephone 1-5323.
Man fooled in S.I.U. student paper hoax

Associated Press

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Patrick Trovillion got a military-style haircut, was outfitted in fatigues, and studied a script detailing the character he was to play in what he thought was a documentary about a father torn away from his young daughter by his deployment in Iraq.

But Trovillion says his acting paled in comparison to that of the woman he says tricked him into thinking he was starring in a film. Instead, it was part of a bizarre hoax that hoodwinked the Southern Illinois University student newspaper and its readers with heartrending stories of a mother whose 9-year-old girl's anguish at seeing her dad go to war.

The Daily Egyptian for more than a year published letters from little "Kodie Kennings." The paper issued a complete retraction and apology on Friday after investigations by the Egyptian and the Chicago Tribune determined that a Sgt. Dan Kennings with the Army's 101st Airborne didn't exist.

Trovillion said he was tricked into acting as the girl's father by Jaimie Reynolds, a 2004 SIU graduate who is now accused of concealing the ruse. He said Reynolds told him he was appearing in a legitimate movie.

Both Trovillion and Caitlin Hadley, a 10-year-old from Montpelier, Ind., who played Kodie, said they were tricked into believing they were being taped by hidden cameras.

"I'd sure like to know the motive behind all of this and know why this entire story was concocted," Trovillion told the [Carbondale] Southern Illinoisan. "In the end, I was unmanned. (Reynolds) is a con artist."

The Jackson County state's attorney's office did not return messages Saturday asking whether the hoax could result in criminal charges.

Reynolds admitted the hoax to the Tribune this week, saying she conspired with Daily Egyptian reporter Michael Breener to help his career — something he denies.

"If I was lying I would have had to lie pretty much every single relative I have for two years. I just can't do that," Breener said Saturday. Reynolds could not be reached for comment Saturday; a public phone listing for her Marion home could not be found.

Trovillion, a registered nurse from Vienna, said Reynolds paid him $100 to meet with Daily Egyptian staff members and $400 to make an overnight trip to Detroit, where he spoke to members of a Baptist church.

"I mean, these people were hugging me and telling me they loved me and just went along with it. I thought they were just playing the part," Trovillion said of the church visit.

The girl's mother, Tawnya Hadley, told the Southern Illinoisan that she was close friends with Reynolds and thought her daughter was taking part in a legitimate TV project.

"We noticed what everybody else noticed. We have a generation of parents that are heavily involved in their students lives and it causes all sorts of problems," said Dean of the College Adam Weinberg. College, he said, should be "a time when you go from living in someone else's house to becoming a functioning, autonomous person."

When parents call, unless there's a safety risk, they're usually told to encourage their children to seek out those resources themselves.

As for the China inquiry, Weinberg said, "we tried to explain in the 21st century, the ability to plop down in a foreign country and hit the ground running is a fundamental skill."

Highlighted parental involvement is one of the biggest changes on college campuses in the last decade, experts say. One major reason is the tight bond between Baby Boomer parents and their children.

"This is a group of parents who have been more involved in their children's development than in previous generations," said Helen E. Johnson, author of "Don't Tell Me What To Do, Just Send Money," a guide for college parents. I think colleges have been far too resistant in inappropriate ways to this very savvy group of consumers."

Another factor is cell phones.

The era of the 10-minute weekly check-in from the pay phone in the hall has given way to nearly constant contact. Bob Sobelman, a Colgate sophomore, says when students walk out of a job, many dial home immediately to report how it went. One friend checks in with her mother every night before going to sleep, he said.

"Even 10 years ago, parents couldn't even get hold of their children," said Colgate President Rebecca Chopp. "If you reached them once a week it was a miracle."

Now she says she's hearing from older alumni who are "worried their grandchildren won't learn accountability and responsibility."

Many schools have noticed the trend, but they've been reluctant to alienate parents. Some have tried to accommodate the change, opening parental liaisons to faculty, for instance.

But some schools, while glad to see parents care, are expressing concern over the down side. During freshman orientation this year at Northeastern University in Boston, administrators urged parents not to call their children but to let them call when they want to talk. At Washington University in St. Louis, upperclassmen perform skits about healthy transitioning for parents. The University's dean hires students as "parent bouncers" to delicately keep parents from interfering in, for instance, meetings with advisers.

---

Colleges deal with pushy parents

Institutions attempt to handle 'hyper-involved' moms and dads

Associated Press

HAMPTON, N.Y. — They're called "helicopter parents," for their habit of hovering — hyper-involved — over their children's lives. Here at Colgate University, as elsewhere, they have become increasingly hard to keep in recent years, telephoning administrators to complain about their children's housing assignments, roommates and grades.

Recently, one parent demand ed to know what Colgate planned to do about the sub-par plumbing her daughter encountered on a study-abroad trip to China.

"That's just part of how this generation has been raised," said Mark Thompson, head of Colgate's counseling services. "You add a $40,000 price tag for a school like Colgate and you have high expectations for what you get."

For years, officials here responded to such calls by hitting their lips and making an effort to keep parents happy. But at Freshman orientation here last week, parents heard a different message: Colgate is making educating students a priority higher than customer service.

The liberal arts college of 2,750 students has concluded helicopter parenting has gotten out of hand, undermining the out-of-the-classroom lessons on problem-solving, seeking help and compromise that should be part of a college education.

Those lessons can't be learned if the response to every difficulty is a call to mom and dad for help.

"We noticed what everybody else noticed. We have a generation of parents that are heavily involved in their students lives and it causes all sorts of problems," said Dean of the College Adam Weinberg. College, he said, should be "a time when you go from living in someone else's house to becoming a functioning, autonomous person."

When parents call, unless there's a safety risk, they're usually told to encourage their children to seek out those resources themselves.

As for the China inquiry, Weinberg said, "we tried to explain in the 21st century, the ability to plop down in a foreign country and hit the ground running is a fundamental skill."

Even 10 years ago, parents couldn't even get hold of their children. If you reached them once a week it was a miracle."

Rebecca Chopp

president

Colgate College

---

GET CONNECTED

Everything you need for high-speed Internet access.

Sign up for the SBC Student Plan

SBC Yahoo! DSL Express

+ Your Local Access Line

as low as $24 75

a month for a 9-month term!

sbc.com/l/ 1.888.428.0689

GOING BEYOND THE CALL!

Terms, other charges and the federal Universal Service Fund cost-recovery fee extra. For details of additional charges, restrictions and requirements, call 1-866-472-1363 toll-free or visit sbc.com. SBC, the SBC logo and other SBC product names are trademarks and/or service marks of SBC Knowledge Ventures, L.P. and/or its affiliates. All other trademarks and service marks are the property of their respective owners. ©2000 SBC Knowledge Ventures, L.P. All rights reserved.
Reality bites

I suppose it is a sign of the times that one of the most popular teen television shows of the past year- "Laguna Beach" - is about real people who act in a real setting while using a fake script. This is a really close look at the fake lifestyles of the supposedly real residents of Orange County, Calif.

With this utterly confusing layering of reality blurring every action taken on the show, we would think that viewers would have a hard time connecting with the characters as they cheat, lie, manipulate and drink their way through high school in a ultra-rich, ultra-rich Pacific coast suburb. On the contrary, though, our society has grown so detached from the restraints of reality that a layered television show like "Laguna Beach" seems to fit right in with our own perceptions of what really is and what isn't in this crazy world of ours.

In other words, we all have a basic understanding of certain truths about today's reality, although we act as if our lives are somehow layered and detached from these truths - as if we're all real characters acting out fake lives on television.

Take the recent gas-price crisis, for example. We've all watched the numbers advertised outside of local gas stations soar to somewhere in the $2.65 range, and we all take pride in cursing the gas pump as we squeeze out a few extra drops to fill the tank of our SUV at an even $50. We even curse our excessively large cars for getting terrible gas mileage and we curse the president for getting us into an oil-acquisition war that has somehow only sent oil prices skyrocketing.

At the same time, we've all heard rumors that the global oil supply could be dwindling, and with the unstable political climates in oil-rich countries like Saudi Arabia, Iran and Venezuela, we could be the helpless victim of a colluded oil shock at any moment.

Here, in a sense, is the problem - the set of "Laguna Beach," real-life crises like oil shortages and skyrocketing gas prices don't affect us. We just keep on driving our gas-guzzling cars as we always have - even think about making me give you my Jeep Grand Cherokee, because these so-called real problems can't possibly get through to our disconnected layer of reality. We're unattainable characters behind the safety of a glass television screen, and it will have to be up to the rest of the world to cut back on oil so that our children's children will still be able to drive their Cadillac Escalades on cross-country road trips.

And then there's Iraq. Did you hear that the U.S. death tolls are getting so high that it's approaching the enrollment of Notre Dame's freshman class? Not that it really matters, of course, because the reality of that distant war is several layers away from the day-to-day reality of our worry-free lives. Sure, we've all heard about the enraged mother who camped out in front of President Bush's ranch in Crawford in protest of her son's death, but was that real either? What '60s hippie movie does this woman think she's in if she believes that protesting is going to get her anywhere in the reality of today's detached society? After all, if a president can escape the war that he got himself into by chopping wood and "clearing brush" in Texas, then why should we have to ruin our peaceful reality by concerning ourselves with events that one day we'll just be able to watch in two hours after Steven Spielberg makes a movie about them.

We are, of course, living in the most detached example of reality in all of American society college. Anywhere else in the world, getting drunk six nights a week would make you a raging alcoholic; hooking up with three guys a week would earn you the reputation of a prostitute; waking up at 4 a.m. every day would earn you a spot in the unemployment line; and staying up four in the morning until midnight would leave you with the lifestyle of a raconteur. This isn't "real" life. Why else do we think we pay $40,000 a year to have the chance to take part in it? It's not like we're actually paying $120 for a dining hall chicken breast and $3,000 for a grad student to lecture us on Spanish grammar. The majority of that tuition money essentially goes directly to distancing us as much as possible from the constraints of reality - for example wars and oil crises to domestic political struggles and employment concerns.

And perhaps what explains why we can relate so well to the fake lifestyles of real people acting out a fake script in a real setting on "Laguna Beach" - we are just as detached from reality as the characters on that show.

Or else we've just huge perverts who get off on observing the sex lives of high school students, but that's an entirely different story.

Joey Falco is a junior American Studies major who hopes the Irish rip into his home state of Pennsylvania this Saturday. His column appears every other Monday. He can be contacted at jfalco@nd.edu.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

The Observer
The Independent Daily Newspaper Serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College, Indiana

MANAGING EDITOR: Megan Reynolds
ASSISTANT MANAGING EDITOR: Sarah Vabulas
EDITOR: Maureen Reynolds
EDITOR IN CHIEF: Claire Heininger
BUSINESS MANAGER: Claire Heininger
ADVERTISING MANAGER: Megan O'Neil
PHOTO EDITOR: Claire Kelley
WEB EDITOR: Graham Ebetsch
DESIGN ADMINISTRATOR: Donnie Althoff
BUSINESS OFFICE MANAGER: Julia Kehn
BUSINESS OFFICE: (574) 631-4324
CLERICAL SUPPORT: (574) 631-5313
NEWS DESK: (574) 631-5324
ASSISTANT NEWS DIRECTOR: Mary Jo Costello
SPORTS DESK: (574) 631-7471
ASSOCIATE SPORTS EDITOR: Matt Bressett
EDITORIAL CARTOONIST: Joey Falco
WEB EDITOR: Graham Ebetsch
PHOTO EDITOR: Claire Kelley
ADVERTISEMENTS: Joanne Kanzler
ADMINISTRATIVE: Donnie Althoff

THE OBSERVER ONLINE
www.ndsmcobserver.com

Policies
The Observer is the independent, daily newspaper published in print and online by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College, Indiana, including advertisements, is not governed by policies of the administration of either institution. The Observer reserves the right to refuse advertisements based on content.

The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsourced editorial opinions represent the opinions of the major of the Editor in Chief, Managing Editor, Assistant Managing Editor, Editors and department editors. Commentaries, letters and columns present views of the authors as well as the Observer.

EDITORIAL COMMENTARY
The Observer is a member of the Associated Press, and editorial positions are stated.

Today's Staff
News
Nicole Zook
Kelly Mehan
Megan O'Neil Viewpoint
Sarah Falvey
Graphics
Graham Ebetsch
Sports
Mike Gillion
Ken Fowler
Anna Friedo
Sarah Falvey

Observer Poll
What will the Notre Dame football team's regular season record be?

Vote by Thursday at 5 p.m.
www.ndsmcobserver.com

Submit a Letter to the Editor at www.ndsmcobserver.com

QUOTE OF THE DAY
"Whenever I get the urge to exercise, I lie down until the urge passes away."
Mark Twain Author
Shame on Sheehan

Our country has been involved, for the majority of the past 100 years, in wars that concern other countries more than our own. It is not a new theme that sol­diers are dying for the sake of democra­ty and freedom overseas. It is something that we viewsets support their coun­try and are enthusiastic about their job. When their elected leader asks them to fight for democracy, they are to be honored for their service and dedication to democracy.

Their service and sacrifice are not to be used as political weight by any group, nor are their deaths something to be trivialized. Unfortunately, this is exactly what is happening in Crawford, Texas.

Cindy Sheehan, for those of you who do not know, was the central fig­ure in a protest this month in front of President Bush’s ranch. She claims she had the unfortunate experience of bury­ing her own son, Casey Sheehan, who was killed fighting in Iraq. Because of this, she has lined the road to Bush’s ranch with crosses bearing the names of those who have died fighting in Iraq. If this brave woman, somehow unaware that we have lost around 1,800 troops since March 2003, were to meet Casey’s father, she would include his son and other soldiers’ deaths into her main appeals? While we’re at it, what exactly does losing a son in Iraq do for your argu­ment? Ms. Sheehan, you have my sympa­thy, but nothing more. There are par­ents who have lost children in Iraq and still support the effort. There are par­ents who have lost children in Iraq and still support the effort. pounding our heads against the wall. If you want to make a sign against the war, you could do it. But you are not the first to do it.

I simply don’t understand how a mother could do such a thing to her first born. There are better ways of dealing with grief. Ms. Sheehan. You are not the first, nor will you be the last, to lose a loved one in Iraq. It is an inescapable fact of war that people die. Let us honor the soldiers who serve or have served and let us pray that Cindy Sheehan doesn’t tarnish the good name of her son.

This article originally appeared on Aug. 25, 2005 in The Daily News, the daily pub­lication at Ball State University.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not neces­sarily those of The Observer.

Sean T. Ybarra
Akon, Cake fail to impress the Notre Dame crowd

By BOB COSTA
Scene Writer

Although The Show is billed as Notre Dame’s biggest concert of the year, it seemed merely like an extension of Frosh-O activities. Veteran alternative-rockers Veteran rockers Cake and newly debuted rapper Akon played to a crowd of about 2,500 students at the Joyce Center. Under the watchful eyes of numerous overzealous Notre Dame security guards, the performances were at times awkward and interrupted.

Akon’s biggest moments came when he sampled Outkast’s “Ms. Jackson” and performed his single “Lonely,” which is well-known for its background chorus sung by what seems to be Alvin and the Chipmunks. Even though The Show 2005 was Akon’s first time to campus, he still found time to make some astute observations about campus culture.

For his song “Bananaza (Belly Dancer),” Akon decided to “give the guys what they want” when he brought up five girls on stage to do their best belly dances in front of their peers. It was a nervous moment for all five involved. Akon seemed to enjoy the fact that he was able to get five college girls to grind in the background of his track, continuously making catcalls and snide remarks to his backing band and DJ.

Unfortunately, for many of the true rap fans in attendance, Akon spent much of his hour-long set not performing. Instead he wasted time talking to the crowd about image subjects that made some wonder whether he was just phoning in his Notre Dame gig.

Cake, who began their set at around 9:40 pm, opened with “Frank Sinatra,” a signature deadpan pop song off their platinum 1996 album “Fashion Nugget.” While bearded lead singer John McCrea sang of “A faintly glimmering radio station/While Frank Sinatra sings Stormy Weather,” he was able to evoke emotions of both longing and regret.

Cake, which features everything from bouncing rhythms to mariachi trumpet, played their songs with vigor of a younger band and hardly sounded like mid-90s radio castoffs. With their incessant jams and intricate musical interplay that bounced small bursts of acoustic riffs against the percussion, Cake was a Nor-Cal version of popular jam-band Phish, mixed with a little Weezer. Unfortunately, even as Cake began to reach a pulsating crescendo in their set, the security staff in attendance ruined the moment. For approximately 10 minutes during the middle of Cake’s set, the bright house lights of the JACC were turned on, supposedly because a few students actually decided to attempt crowd surfing.

Cake finished their set with sing-alongs of their singles and fan-favorites, including a spirited rendition of “Sheep Go To Heaven,” which led to the crowd echoing McCrea’s chants with “Goats go to HELL!” and alt-rock anthem “The Distance.”

Metal barricades stopped the crowd from ever developing naturally in front of the stage. This created an empty expanse of space between the students near the front and the students lounging on the bleachers a hundred yards from the stage. Behind the stage was a massive mural of a landscape painting that appeared to depict Switzerland in the summer, with mountains and flowing streams that looked like they were ripped from “The Sound of Music.” Plus, a huge disco ball hovered over the top of the stage.

For many freshmen in attendance, The Show 2005 was less about coming to see the booked acts, and more about meeting new people at an event that didn’t take place in a packed alley off-campus. While small groups of students were lining up at 8 p.m. to enter the JACC, hordes of students were bypassing the arena as if it was invisible.

Even though the crowd fluctuated at times because people were coming and going between The Show and off-campus festivities, The Show 2005 sank under the weight of overzealous security measures.

Also, it is questionable whether or not most of the campus could identify with the two artists selected for this year’s performance.

Thankfully, Cake’s stream of hits from about seven years ago and some enthusiastic freshmen saved The Show 2005. On Friday night, you were able to have your “Cake and Akon too,” but that doesn’t mean it tasted good.

Contact Bob Costa at rcosta1@nd.edu

The Show 2005

Akon, Cake fail to impress the Notre Dame crowd

The unique, deadpan delivery of lead singer John McCrea coupled with the band’s use of percussion and brass sections gives Cake a distinct sound.
CONCERT REVIEW

Juliana Theory plays past difficulties

By KATE PETELLE
Scene Writer

The Juliana Theory made its Notre Dame debut Saturday night at Legends, meeting with generally good reviews from students. The band played some old favorites like "Into the Dark" and "To the Tune of 5,000 Screaming Children," as well as some new songs the band had never before performed in front of a live audience.

The band blew an amp early in the show, causing some delay (and some bad joke-telling), but still met with generally good student reviews.

"Despite experiencing some equipment problems, Juliana Theory was still able to rock out and put on a good show," said senior Martin Snow.

During the course of the night, Legends saw between 800 and 900 students come for the concert, an exceptional crowd for the first show of the year.

The Juliana Theory is comprised of Brett Detar on vocals and guitar, Chad Alan on bass and backing vocals, Joshua Kosker on guitar and backing vocals and Josh Walters on drums.

All of the band members grew up in southwestern Pennsylvania, and Detar, Alan and Walters have been friends since childhood. They met up with Kosker and Fiedler while still in high school. The five formed The Juliana Theory as a side group while playing in other bands, but they eventually each committed to The Juliana Theory as a full-time project in 1997.

While the name of the band is unusual, there is actually no special meaning behind it. The band signed with the independent label Tooth & Nail for its first two records, after spending some time touring the country. Tooth & Nail released The Juliana Theory's first album, "Understand This Is a Dream," in 1999, and "Emotion Is Dead" in 2000. The band released their third album, "Music From Another Room" in 2001, and signed with Epic Records in 2002 for their next album, "Love."

The album "Love" is more mainstream than the previous albums, which is possibly a reflection of signing with Epic, but it still stays true to the band's independent and unique roots.

Fans can visit www.julianatheory.net to learn more about the band, its influences and to gain access to information about tour dates. They can also get things like photos, buddy icons and merchandise that relate to the band.

Each album is different than the previous, showing how the band has evolved musically and has been inspired by bands like U2, the Smashing Pumpkins and Led Zeppelin.

The Juliana Theory's new album is called "Deathbeat Sweetheart" and is set to be released September 13 from Abram Records. For Juliana Theory fans at Notre Dame, hearing the first live performance of some of the band's new music made for a great night.

"It was really exciting to hear their new songs and some of the best of their old," senior Kathryn DiPietro said.

The next major show at Legends is GASM on Sept. 1. The band is composed of seniors and grad students and does covers of songs from the 80s and 90s.

Contact Kate Petelle at kpetelle@nd.edu

Brett Detar of the Juliana Theory sings at a 2003 performance with Snapcase and Hopefall in Regina. The band performed at Legends on Saturday.

Photo courtesy of punkoryan.com

NOTRE DAME'S BEST... Brenches

BY CLAIRE KELLEY

Edward "Moose" Krause was a student-athlete, coach and athletic director at Notre Dame. You can sit next to him on this bench and share a cigar, confess your deep dark secrets or give him some love.

Not only does this bench have a spectacular location in the heart of campus, it is also labeled "The Field Office" of Dr. Emil T. Hoffman, the beloved chemistry professor. You can find the living legend sitting here in all types of weather.

With its serene view of the lake, this is a perfect bench for those contemplative Sunday afternoons.

For next week: What are the best places to nap on campus?
Send your suggestions to obsphoto@nd.edu.
A’s take lead in West out with Red Sox win

Angeles Angels in the standings, Athletics had just moved into struggle to score, but interim straight victory, a stern lecture.

innings of three-hit ball, and the to a stretch in which right-hander had lost his last make them get a hit, I wouldn’t be a collective yawn.

port for two or three months who lost to Tampa Bay 2-1.

These who have lost one-s,.

My swing is compact at home runs and a single, driving to a stretch win, limiting the Royals and yelling at these guys would happen," Greinke said.

Both of Giambi’s homers came on Jacque Slide.

The 42-year-old lefty took a

against Minnesota on Tuesday

against Minnesota on Tuesday

a one-hitter while striking against Minnesota on Tuesday

the result of traded on June 27 last year.

while. I’m still going to prepare for two or three months straight, the third baseman, his team ran into a little funk.

Haren (11-1)

worse, and he’s going to só fine," Greinke said.

as they’ve done, with 28 runs to rent out

wishing they had they’ve got to get over it.

What would I yell at them for? For not getting a hit? They’re trying. When they wish, they get lazy, I’ll yell at them."

Yankees 10, Royals 3

Jason Giambi was the其实 Player of the Month when he batted .355 with 24 RBIs in July. In August, he found himself locked in a spots of 0-for-21 and 4-for-38.

same game, same swing, different results.

The good Giambi made an appearance Sunday with two home runs and a single, driving seven runs ningle in the sixth. Bernie Williams drove in the other three Yankee runners with a pair of singles.

Both of Giambi’s homers came against Zack Greinke (3-16), who lost for the first time in eight starts.

"If I pitch about as good as I can, whether I’m pitching in my way, some way to score runs and win the game when I’m pitching."

Today I didn’t really give us a chance. They’ve got some great hitters and early on they were hitting my pitches pretty much, but later in the game I was mowing up.

Manager Buddy Bell said it was not one of Greinke’s better stars.

"His location wasn’t very good and it’s tough aSEP, Bell said especially when they’re swinging the bats like they are, it’s tough to deal with, and when you don’t have your a last, you can struggle a little bit."

Giambi’s two homers gave him 23 for the season. In August, he hit six multihome runs of the game and the 29th of his career.

Al Leiter (3-3) earned his third straight win, limiting the Red Sox to two hits six innings, striking out six, walked three, and hit 112 pitches after reaching 75 after three innings.

Mariners 9, White Sox 2

Once his teammates, the Athletics beat Red Sox, Freddy Garcia’s nemesis.

Bennett conseguir brillantemente in a 1-0 one-hit loss to Minnesota on Tuesday night. Garcia struggled with a scoreless inning-high eight runs in 4-1 innings in Chicago’s loss to the Minnesota on Sunday.

Garcia, who ranks third on career all-time wins behind only Jamie Meyer and Randy Johnson, dropped to 0-3 with an 8.35 ERA against the Mariners this year. He made his first start in his old ballpark since being traded on June 27 last year.

It was a nice day today, but not for me season. "It just hit them all over the place. I don’t have any excuses," Garcia (11-7) made his shortest outing of the season, lasting only 2.2 innings.

"I played hard; maybe too hard," Garcia said. "That’s the game. You have to take it like a man."

Garcia pitched a one-hitter against Minnesota on Tuesday night when the Mariners chased him with three runs in the inning to take an 8-2 lead.

"It’s not good," Oakland said, "I know I haven’t had a hit for a month."

"I had thought going in there

"They’re trying. They’re putting pressure on themselves, but

"We’re going to play tremendous ball, from here on out," said Wells (11-6). "Our starting enough to step up a little bit more."

in their previous three games, Boston’s starters allowed five earned runs. More trouble could be looming when the result at home by the AL Central leaders for the first time since July 30-Aug. 1, 1993.

"This 42-year-old lefty took a hard tumble in the opening inning when he was face-covered again, first on Pablo Ozuna’s bunt. Sexson shuffeled the ball to Meyer, who fell when Ozuna tipped him during a head-first slide.

Moyer wasn’t on the play.

"I was fine," he said. "It was just a matter of catching my breath. I didn’t want to step on him. I was just trying to avoid an injury to his behalf and my behalf."

Red Sox 31, Tigers 3

The Red Sox bested the Tigers 31-27 in a wild game with David Wells on the mound, the Tigers couldn’t keep up.

Wells pitched seven strong innings and gave Boston’s overworked bullpen a break.

distress when the Red Sox beat Detroit to maintain their 1-2-game lead over the Los Angeles in the AL East.

"We’ve got to play tremendous ball, from here on out," said Wells (11-6). "Our starting pitching has to step up a little bit more."

in their previous three games, Boston’s starters allowed five earned runs. More trouble could be looming when the result at home by the AL Central leaders for the first time since July 30-Aug. 1, 1993.

"This 42-year-old lefty took a hard tumble in the opening inning when he was face-covered again, first on Pablo Ozuna’s bunt. Sexson shuffeled the ball to Meyer, who fell when Ozuna tipped him during a head-first slide.

Moyer wasn’t on the play.

"I was fine," he said. "It was just a matter of catching my breath. I didn’t want to step on him. I was just trying to avoid an injury to his behalf and my behalf."

We scored. Don’t we do them as well as we can, as said, said Damon about Saturday’s 12-8 loss in which Boston batted a 6-0 lead. "David Wells knows how to pitch and we’ve got to have a great month of September and get us back to where we need to be."

Wells’ appeal of a six-game suspension for a confrontation with umpire on July 27 is announced. Wells expects to learn that Monday.

"Regardless of what happens, I still go to prepare myself the same way I always do," Wells said.

This suspension at six games, he wouldn’t pitch before next Sunday.

His absence may not hurt much if the Red Sox keep hitting as they’ve done, with 28 runs and 38 hits in their last three games.

"I don’t know whether they’ve got all the pitching or not," Detroit manager Alan Trammell said.

"It’s going to put things offensively."

The Red Sox were led by David Ortiz’s 23rd home run and three RBIs, Bill Mueller’s homer and three hits and Johnny Damon’s two hits and three RBIs as Boston outhit Detroit 14-10. Wells hadn’t pitched since his three runs, two earned, and nine hits with a sea­son-high seven strikeouts.

in their previous three games, Boston’s starters allowed five earned runs. More trouble could be looming when the result at home by the AL Central leaders for the first time since July 30-Aug. 1, 1993.

"This 42-year-old lefty took a hard tumble in the opening inning when he was face-covered again, first on Pablo Ozuna’s bunt. Sexson shuffeled the ball to Meyer, who fell when Ozuna tipped him during a head-first slide.

Moyer wasn’t on the play.

"I was fine," he said. "It was just a matter of catching my breath. I didn’t want to step on him. I was just trying to avoid an injury to his behalf and my behalf."

"What would I yell at them for? For not getting a hit? They’re trying. When they wish, they get lazy, I’ll yell at them."

Yankees 10, Royals 3

Jason Giambi was the actually Player of the Month when he batted .355 with 24 RBIs in July. In August, he found himself locked in a spots of 0-for-21 and 4-for-38.

same game, same swing, different results.

The good Giambi made an appearance Sunday with two home runs and a single, driving seven runs ningle in the sixth. Bernie Williams drove in the other three Yankee runners with a pair of singles.

Both of Giambi’s homers came against Zack Greinke (3-16), who lost for the first time in eight starts.

"If I pitch about as good as I can, whether I’m pitching in my way, some way to score runs and win the game when I’m pitching."

Today I didn’t really give us a chance. They’ve got some great hitters and early on they were hitting my pitches pretty much, but later in the game I was mowing up.

Manager Buddy Bell said it was not one of Greinke’s better stars.

"His location wasn’t very good and it’s tough aSEP, Bell said especially when they’re swinging the bats like they are, it’s tough to deal with, and when you don’t have your a last, you can struggle a little bit."

Giambi’s two homers gave him 23 for the season. In August, he hit six multihome runs of the game and the 29th of his career.

Al Leiter (3-3) earned his third straight win, limiting the Red Sox to two hits six innings, striking out six, walked three, and hit 112 pitches after reaching 75 after three innings.

Mariners 9, White Sox 2

Once his teammates, the Athletics beat Red Sox, Freddy Garcia’s nemesis.

Bennett conseguir brillantemente in a 1-0 one-hit loss to Minnesota on Tuesday night. Garcia struggled with a scoreless inning-high eight runs in 4-1 innings in Chicago’s loss to the Minnesota on Sunday.

Garcia, who ranks third on career all-time wins behind only Jamie Meyer and Randy Johnson, dropped to 0-3 with an 8.35 ERA against the Mariners this year. He made his first start in his old ballpark since being traded on June 27 last year.

It was a nice day today, but not for me season. "It just hit them all over the place. I don’t have any excuses," Garcia (11-7) made his shortest outing of the season, lasting only 2.2 innings.

"I played hard; maybe too hard," Garcia said. "That’s the game. You have to take it like a man."

Garcia pitched a one-hitter against Minnesota on Tuesday night when the Mariners chased him with three runs in the inning to take an 8-2 lead.

"It’s not good," Oakland said, "I know I haven’t had a hit for a month."

"I had thought going in there

"They’re trying. They’re putting pressure on themselves, but Valdez and Giants top Mets; Padres win but may lose Klesko

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The zeros keep piling up for Roger Clemens. Unfortunately for him, they are on the Houston Astros' side of the scoreboard.

Clemens again got no run support as his former Yankees teammate Jeff Weaver combined with Banner Sanchez on an eight-hitter to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 1-0 victory on Sunday.

It was the eighth in Clemens' 27 starts this season the Astros were shut out, and the fifth time by a 1-0 score — including three games that went extra innings.

"I don't bat an eye at that," said Clemens, who was trying for his 340th career win. "That's baseball. I don't pull a lot of stock in it either way. I've had my share of wins. If I was worried about that and how many games that I've had some tough luck over my 22 years, it would probably drive you crazy. So I don't worry about that."

"These are really good games, fun to pitch in and fun to battle in, but I wish they'd come out on our side a little more often," Weaver (13-8) allowed seven hits in eight innings, struck out 10 and walked none. The righthander had nine strikeouts over the first five innings — already tying the season high for any Dodger starter.

Ryan Klesko had three RBIs and Pedro Astacio threw seven strong innings as the Padres beat the Rockies on Sunday.

But the knee injury that drove Giles out of the game was a major concern for the NL West leaders. "It's fair to say he is one guy we can't lose," Padres fielder Brian Giles said. "That would be a tremendous blow for us if we had him go down."

Giles' injury is being called a bruised right knee after he collided with center fielder Dave Roberts on a double hit by Choo Freeman into the right-center field gap in the second inning. The two hit their right knees together and Giles went down for a few minutes before remaining in the game.

The double in the third inning, but had trouble running and was replaced by pinch-hitter Xavier Nady, who stayed in the game in right field.

Giles is scheduled to undergo an MRI exam to rule out any further damage. The four is that there would be ligament damage to the knee, the same knee in which Giles suffered a strained ligament in April 2003 when playing for the Pittsburgh Pirates. He was forced to go on the disabled list and missed 23 games.

"Hopefully, it's a day to day thing and I will be right back out there," said Giles, who added that the injury does not feel the same as when he strained the ligament with Pittsburgh.

Giles leads the majors with 98 walks and has a team-high 68 RBIs. He is also considered by the players to be their inspirational leader.

"It's the glue that holds this team together," said Mark Sweeney, who started at first base Sunday.

Even without Giles, San Diego finally figured out a way to beat the Rockies, the NLs worst road team at 15-44. Colorado came into the game with a four-game winning streak — all on the road — including the first two games of the series.

The Padres also handed Jamey Wright his 16th loss, tying him for the most in the majors.

Klesko, who had been struggling recently, broke a 2-all tie in the fifth inning with a bad hop single that knocked in two runs.

Giants 4, Mets 1

Felipe Alou recalls how Noah Lowry's name rarely came up in discussions of San Francisco's top pitching prospects. Lowry's stuff was wild, and Matt Cain and Merkin Valdez always were considered the best of the young bunch.

The 20-year-old Cain will get the chance to showcase his talent when he makes his major league Monday night, but Lowry has already proved his dependability every fifth day.

Pedro Feliz hit a tiebreaking two-run homer in the sixth and J.T. Snow also connected in the inning, rallying the Giants to help Lowry win his fifth straight start with a victory over the New York Mets on Sunday.

Lowry isn't looking for the limelight — though he will certainly be a strong candidate for NL pitcher of the month after an amazing August.

"Matt Cain and Merkin Valdez are guys with electrifying stuff," Lowry said. "My fastball is 96-90 and I rely more on my speed. That's OK, that's fine with me. But I'm not an unknown, I'd rather go out and stick to the way I do things.

After Carlos Beltran broke a scoreless tie when he came on as a wild pitch in top of the sixth, the Giants finally got to Kris Benson in the bottom half.
The SHOW would like to thank our sponsors for all of their support:

Student Affairs
Student Activities
OIT NDTV
Campus Ministry
The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education
Notre Dame Food Services
Notre Dame Student Government
Saint Mary's Board of Governance
Saint Mary's Office of the President
Saint Mary's Student Activities Board
Multicultural Student Programs and Services
The Morris Inn
Class of 2006
Class of 2007
Class of 2008
O'Neill Hall
McGlinn Hall
Stanford Hall
Pasquerilla West Hall
Center for Social Concerns

We’re looking forward to next year, The SHOW 2006!
NFL

Bears say Orton's their guy

Former Purdue star to start opening day against Washington

Associated Press

LAKE FOREST, Ill. — Rookie Kyle Orton was in the weight room when he was summoned to coach Lovie Smith's office and given the news he expected to hear. It was the Chicago Bears' starting quarterback.

"I was happy. I wasn't surprised," said Orton, a former Purdue star, said Sunday when the Bears made yet another change at quarterback.

"I obviously know the recent history, so I know the city and all the fans want a talibated quarterback who's going to go out there and play well and win a lot of football games and hopefully that's me," Orton added, showing his confidence.

"I think I will.""While Orton was promoted due to a strong performance in Friday's 16-12 exhibition win over Buffalo, struggling Chad Hutchinson was demoted all the way down the depth chart.

"As of now he's out in the wilderness. We want to take a look at another guy," Smith said, announcing that recently signed veteran Jeff Blake is now Orton's backup and Kurt Kittner is No. 3.

Golf

Molinari rallies to capture US Amateur

Italian overcomes three-stroke deficit to win coveted title

Associated Press

ARDMORE, Pa. — Bobby Jones made history on the 11th hole at Merion Golf Club.

Eighty years later, Edoardo Molinari made a statement.

The 24-year-old Italian dropped a 40-foot birdie putt at the last hole Sunday, turned his lead over to three holes, then went on to beat American Dillon Dougherty 4 and 3 to win the U.S. Amateur championship on Sunday.

Molinari rallied from a three-hole deficit after 18 holes and closed out the victory with a 23-foot birdie putt at the 33rd hole.

He became the first Italian to win a U.S. Golf Association title, and the first Italian to win the Amateur since Harold Hilton in 1911. He also joins Charles Evans Hughes (1916), Bobby Jones (1934, 1936) and Chris Cowan (1996) as U.S. Amateur champions at Merion, which hosted its 15th U.S. Amateur with a 17th USGA championship.

"It means a lot to me. I still have to realize it completely." — Edoardo Molinari

U.S. Amateur Champion

Molinari, a senior at Northwestern University and from the small northern Italian town of Sorbolo, was named USGA's amateur champion on Sunday.

Molinari rallied from a three-hole deficit after 18 holes and closed out the victory with a 23-foot birdie putt at the 33rd hole.

He became the first Italian to win a U.S. Golf Association title, and the first Italian to win the Amateur since Harold Hilton in 1911. He also joins Charles Evans Hughes (1916), Bobby Jones (1934, 1936) and Chris Cowan (1996) as U.S. Amateur champions at Merion, which hosted its 15th U.S. Amateur with a 17th USGA championship.

"It means a lot to me. I still have to realize it completely." — Edoardo Molinari
Major League Baseball

American League East

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
<th>%</th>
<th>Last 10 GB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Boston</td>
<td>.575</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New York</td>
<td>.530</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Toronto</td>
<td>.500</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Baltimore</td>
<td>.473</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tampa Bay</td>
<td>.429</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

American League Central

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
<th>%</th>
<th>Last 10 GB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>.546</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cleveland</td>
<td>.522</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Minnesota</td>
<td>.500</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Detroit</td>
<td>.482</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kansas City</td>
<td>.466</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

American League West

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
<th>%</th>
<th>Last 10 GB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Oakland</td>
<td>.588</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
<td>.502</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New York</td>
<td>.532</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seattle</td>
<td>.515</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

National League East

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
<th>%</th>
<th>Last 10 GB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>St. Louis</td>
<td>.336</td>
<td>5-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Houston</td>
<td>.423</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Milwaukee</td>
<td>.409</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chicago</td>
<td>.420</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New York</td>
<td>.336</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Washington</td>
<td>.412</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

National League Central

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
<th>%</th>
<th>Last 10 GB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>San Diego</td>
<td>.757</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Los Angeles</td>
<td>0.546</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arizona</td>
<td>.570</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Francisco</td>
<td>.442</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colorado</td>
<td>.757</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

National League West

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Team</th>
<th>Record</th>
<th>%</th>
<th>Last 10 GB</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cincinnati</td>
<td>.526</td>
<td>6-6</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PGA

Brad Faxon celebrates after winning the Buick Championship Sunday. Faxon defeated Tjaart van der Walt when he birdied the 18th hole, capping off a 9-under 61.

Faxon’s 61 good for Buick Championship

Brad Faxon said.

> "It was really kind of out of the blue," he said.

> "The first two days I played OK. Then something happened yesterday where all the puts started going in.

On Sunday, not only did his puts fall but he took advantage of a couple of favorable rulings to save par on the last two holes. When his tee shot on No. 17 rolled about 40 yards down a cart path and damaged the ball, Faxon got to pull out a new ball and place his drop.

On the playoff hole both hit good second shots.

In Brief

Clarett to be released by the Denver Broncos

DENVER — Unable to practice much or play at all during the pre-season, Maurice Clarett will be released by the Denver Broncos later this week, his agent said Sunday.

Agent Steven Feldman said Clarett, the troubled running back who the Broncos surprisingly chose in the third round of this year’s draft, will be released when the Broncos make their first round of cuts.

> "They didn’t contact me, per se," Feldman said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. "The kid called me and let me know they’re going to let him go.

Claret’s pending release also was reported by ESPN.com on Sunday. Broncos spokesman Jim Saccomano said the team didn’t plan to release anybody until Tuesday.

The pending release marks a disappointing start to the NFL career of the former Ohio State running back, who missed two years of football because of an academic suspension.

Around the dial

- NFL
  - St. Louis at Detroit 7 p.m., ABC
- MLB
  - Washington at Atlanta 6:35 p.m., TBS
  - Los Angeles at Chicago Cubs 7:05 p.m., Comcast
- TENNIS
  - U.S. Open Coverage 10 a.m., USA
  - U.S. Open Coverage 6 p.m., USA

---

> Around Lehman’s 12-turn, 2.26-mile track in the first Hill race held on a road course.

Philadelphia releases defensive end Simon

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Eagles withdrew their franchise tag on former first-round draft pick Corey Simon on Sunday, making the defensive tackle an unrestricted free agent.

Simon was offered a one-year franchise tender worth about $5.13 million, but wanted a long-term contract and never signed the deal or reported to training camp. With the franchise tag, another team would have forfeited two first-round picks if they signed the former Pro Bowl lineman.

> "We appreciate all that Corey has done for this organization over the last five years," coach Andy Reid said.

> "With the great amount of depth and talent we have along the defensive line, we chose to give Corey an opportunity to sign with another team."
Duffy’s off season proves golden

By HEATHER HOEGAARDEN
Sport Writer

Senior Megan Duffy went from having hopes of being a water girl for team USA to its captain and starting point guard in a matter of four months.

Duffy won gold with the 2005 USA Women’s Basketball National Team this past summer and was one of 12 chosen from a group of 16 finalists to make the team.

"I was just hoping to make the team honestly, when I saw the competition," Duffy said. "When there were 16 left, I was just hoping to be the water girl at the end of the bench — I was perfectly fine with that."

However, Duffy became much more than that as she was elected co-captain by her teammates, which included the likes of Duke’s Monique Currie and LSU’s Seimone Augustus, both considered two of the best in women’s collegiate basketball.

"To be voted captain by my teammates and peers, was definitely unexpected and something that I hold close to my heart," Duffy said. "It was an honor for me and a privilege."

The senior helped the team achieve a 7-0 record, winning every game by at least 24 points, including a 79-53 win over Serbia & Montenegro in the gold-medal game. Duffy averaged 6.1 points and 2.1 assists per game, starting all seven games played in Izmir, Turkey.

"Representing my country was the highest honor I've ever gotten and it was an overall unbelievable experience," Duffy said.

Notre Dame head coach Muffet McGraw said she hopes this experience will help Duffy’s confidence coming into her final season with the Irish.

"I think just the whole experience of her leadership and seeing what she's been able to do with this team is going to give her confidence, more than anything," McGraw said. "Making the team was great, but then she's elected captain, then she's a starter, so I think it's just doing great things for her confidence."

Duffy made the team Aug. 1 after participating in USA Basketball Training Camp from July 28-31 in Colorado Springs, Colo. Duffy and Rutgers’ Capge Ponderexter represented the Big East Conference as the only two players selected.

"And playing overseas gave Duffy a taste of a different type of game, one that she was not used to," McGraw said. "My impressions going into it were that it was going to be more like a European game, but really it was the opposite," she said. "It was more physical, a couple of the games were more physical than any of the games I've played in college."

And McGraw thinks the experience has given Duffy a taste of a different style of basketball that will only benefit Duffy and the Irish this season and likely into next year’s second round loss in the USA Women’s Basketball Survival Cup.

"I think she's learned a lot of things from them and understands a little different type of game at the international level," McGraw said. "But even while gaining valuable experience, Duffy said it was an honor just to play on the team, especially after taking home the gold."

"It's pretty neat anytime you have USA across your chest," Duffy said. "We had just an unbelievably talented team."

"To get a gold medal and share it with your teammates and step on that podium and hear your national anthem was pretty amazing."

Notes:
- Sophomore guard Charel Allen, who tore her ACL and MCL in her left knee in the final game of her freshman season, should be ready to start practicing by November and ready to play come the Big East season, McGraw said last week.
- "She's on track, she's working hard," McGraw said. "We definitely expect her to play this year. We're not exactly sure when, but we're hoping for certainly by the Big East season, I think she'll be practicing by November and it will be a week-by-week thing."
- Allen said she feels confident she can return to the form that earned her a spot on the All-Big East Freshman team.
- "I feel the improvement," said Allen, who had surgery in May. "I'm capable of doing things I wasn't coming out of surgery and when I got hurt. I'm still confident in it, not confident enough to play yet, but the whole process — it feels fine."

Contact Heather Van Hoegarden at hvanhoeg@nd.edu

International Study Programs

INNSBRUCK and Berlin
2006-2007 Academic Year

Please Join Prof. Hannelore Weber and returnees of the program Information Session Wednesday, August 31, 2005
118 DeBartolo 7:00 PM

Applications Available www.nd.edu/~intlstud

NOTRE DAME DEPHT CHART

WR 21 Maurice Stovall 5’11” 220 193 2 8 9 1 80 1 60
63 Jeff Samardzija 5’10” 185 13 6 0 1 1 5 1 1 1
LT 68 Ryan Harris 6’6” 257 10 2 3 0 2 3 0 1 1
77 Michael Turkovich 6’9” 265 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
LG 50 Dan Santucci 6’10” 250 10 6 0 1 0 1 1 0 1
79 Brian Matus 6’10” 235 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
C 76 Bob Morton 6’8” 258 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0
78 John Sullivan 6’11” 260 0 0 0 0
62 Scott Ravan 6’11” 235 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
RG 74 Dan Stevenson 6’11” 210 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
82 Scott Ravan 6’11” 235 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
RT 73 Mark LeVoir 6’10” 270 4 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
72 Paul Duncan 6’11” 260 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
TE 88 Anthony Fasano 6’11” 220 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
89 John Carlson 6’11” 200 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
87 Michael Farina 6’10” 250 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
WR 5 Rhema McKnight 5’9” 200 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
82 Akeem Thomas 6’8” 195 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
QB- 10 Brady Quinn 6’3” 250 2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
24 David Wolke 6’3” 200 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
FB 16 Rashon Powers 5’10” 225 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
44 Asaph Schwapp 6’1” 200 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
HB 3 Darius Walker 6’4” 215 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0
26 Travis Thomas 6’2” 200 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0

Pages 19 - The Observer • SPORTS

Depth
continued from page 24

"At the tackle spots, it's clearly Ryan and Mark as the No. 1 guy," Weis said.

"We do not see a similar rotation with those guys, as we do with the four inside."

Three freshmen — Asaph Schwapp, Michael Farina and Paul Duncan — are currently listed as offensive back-ups. Left tackle and right tackle, respectively, Weis has been particularly impressed with Schwapp’s bruising style of play.

"Asaph has been a very physical and imposing arms," Weis said. "I would not call him a pleasant surprise because that is what we thought we were getting when he went here."

"It is just a question of how quick these guys can get ready to go. I would not be surprised to see Asaph on the field Saturday," Weis said.

Sophomore Daniel Wolfe won the right to back-up Quinn at quarterback, edging out freshman Evan Sharpley, and figure of walk-ons in Dan Gorski and Marty Mooney.

"We had a really tough competition at the backup quarterback spot, and I think we decided that David’s experience really stood out. I don’t think it was anything else," Weis said. "He felt that we were ready and we had to play someone, the guy that would give us the best chance to win is David."

On the defensive side of the ball, Weis will employ a similar defense with his defensive line, aligning the defensive line and offensive line — using three players (Trevor Laws, Derek Landri and Brian Bediash in) in two spots (left and right tackle) the same way.

"Maurice Crum, Jr. joins Walker as the only two sophomores starting on offense or defense. Crum’s football intuitions are with him apart during training camp."

"Maurice is both very athletic and is a football player," Weis said. "That is a significant comment for me to make. When I say he is a football player — there are some guys who are out there, but they don’t have great football instincts."

"I feel confident when he is out there."

While McGraw said his competition to start with tackle was "very, very close," he added that "Dan established, will lead a secondary rounded out by Christian Nordkak at safety and Mike McLaughlin and Ambrose Woodsea at the corners."

In a fierce battle of young players for the open secondary spot, McGraw said his competition to start the secondary was "very, very close."

"We didn’t have much him in the spring because he was coming off an injury," Weis said. "He was an unknown to me. I knew he had a lot of athletic ability. I knew he was very intelligent. He is another one that falls into that pleasant-surprise category."

There were 37 players competing for a spot, and a lot of inexperienced players vying for spots. If anything, Weis said, it was an advantage to the spot that warrants him looking at five or six players.

"On special teams, D.J. Fitzpatrick will once again handle punting duties, and Chase Anastasio remains the primary kickoff specialist, although as many as five other players could see time there," Weis said.

"Perhaps the most surprising special teams listing is Freshman David Grimes in the No. 1 punt returner slot."

"I think David Grimes has had a very excellent camp," Weis said. "From day one, I think he is by far the most pleasant surprises we have had here. He has shown exceptional ball skills and quickness."

"With the starting back-up roles defined, Weis and his staff can now turn their attention to preparing for their first game on the Notre Dame Stadium against the Panthers on Saturday night."

Contact Matt Puglisi at mpuglisi@nd.edu the game. A perfect pass from Amanda Cinalli opened up a huge breakaway for Thorlakson against New Hampshire goalie Julie Randall.

After she was defeated by Hampshire's Ashlee Cieslak capitalized on an Irish defensive miscommunication five minutes later. Thorlakson and Hanks assisted on Susan Pinnick's decisive goal at 29:49.

From there, the Irish played possession soccer, controlling the ball for long stretches at a time. They dominated time of possession so much that New Hampshire only managed one shot on goal — Cieslak's early goal.

The win gave the Irish six consecutive opening-day victories under Waldrum. His only defeat came in 1999 at the hands of perennial powerhouse North Carolina.

This time, the team's 22 shots on goal paved the way for a decisive victory.

"We've really got a lot of weapons to start a good attack," he said.

Senior Brittany Bock added two goals for the Irish in her first official contest with the team.

"She's an offensive weapon," Waldrum said, "and I believe she's a physical presence, going up in the air (for 50-50s)."

Senior defender Maggie Manning also added a goal and two assists for four points on the night. Ginalli netted a goal and two assists for the Irish.

Notre Dame 6, Vermont 0

With her second straight double-strik¬ er performance to begin her Irish career, Kerri Hanks led the Irish to a solid victory over Vermont Sunday.

After scoring three goals on Friday, Hanks opened the ante Sunday, netting four more goals for a 32-goal streak in her first two collegiate games.

What's more, Hanks scored the first three goals of the game in a 20-minute span, for her second consecutive game with a natural hat trick.

Coach Waldrum had only superlatives to say about Hanks' performance.

"I don't know how that ranks in terms of freshman performances on a weekend," he said, "but it's definitely up there in the record books."

That was, as Hanks became just the second freshman in Irish history to record hat tricks in consecutive games. She is the first to do so in her first two contests.

After the game, she was presented with the Nike Classic's offensive MVP award for her 15-point (5G-10A) performance.

Not only did Notre Dame shine with possession of the ball, but the Irish stymied the opposing offense for the second consecutive game.

Irish goalkeeper Erikka Bohn, the tournament's defensive MVP, needed to make just one save thanks to a suffocating defensive performance.

The game was marked by steady play by a slew of Irish starters and reserves, as the coaching staff looked to match and match the lineups to find what combinations of players worked best together.

Despite Waldrum's admission the team might have to hurt continuity a little bit," the Irish still managed 18 shots, including Brittany Bock's third goal of the weekend.

"We played her (Bock) at a couple different places," Waldrum said, "and we're just trying to find again where she should play and with what players."

Though the Irish won both games convincingly, Waldrum said that the team still had areas that needed substantial improvement.

"We weren't quite ever in sync but I'd probably be a little worried if we were," he said. "It's going to be a long battle in the year, and we want to peak at the right time.

The next several games may be one such time to peak, as the team faces what Waldrum calls a "tremendously difficult stretch of games" over the next two weeks.

The Irish face Florida and Maryland at home in the Inn at St. Mary's Notre Dame Classic weekend, then go on the road to face perennial powerhouse Santa Clara and Gonzaga in the SEU Adiass Classic Sept. 9 and 11.

Contact Ken Fowler at kfowler1@dallad.edu

---

ND WOMEN'S SOCCER

Tough to get by goalie Bohn

By BOBBY GRIFFIN

Associate Sports Editor

In 2004, Notre Dame won its second national championship in 10 years due in large part to its strong team defense for much of the season.

The Irish were able to dominate their opponents, limiting their scoring opportunities while putting up impressive offensive numbers of their own.

"Lost in much of that was Erikka Bohn, the goalkeeper for the Irish whose talented teammates virtuously allowed her to sit back and watch many of the games," Waldrum said, "and, by default, collects more saves."

"It seems like we've struggled over the years with our goalkeepers, because we've had such a great legacy of good goalkeepers, to get them recognized," Waldrum said.

"Most of the keepers that are getting some of these awards, especially you'll find it in our conference, are the ones that are giving up two or three goals a game, but they are handing 25 or 30 shots a game."

But according to Waldrum, those types of individual achievements do not concern the quiet, mild-mannered Bohn.

"I think she would rather have the All-American status and the national championship ring," Waldrum said. "I think she's got her priorities placed well."

Interestingly enough, Bohn has already been named the 2005 Big East preseason goalkeeper of the year despite the relative difficulty Waldrum described.

The Irish goal has been improved with Bohn in the early stages of this season, notably when it comes to her conditioning and confidence.

"She looks the best physically that she's looked in the four years that she's been here," Waldrum said. "She's probably the healthi¬est she's been since she's been here. Mentally, her confidence is really soaring."

And that confidence means more to the Irish than just her ability to stop shots.

Waldrum described Bohn when she first arrived at Notre Dame as a shy, quiet freshman who was nervous around her coaches and her new surroundings.

But as time progressed, Bohn — who by nature likely to lead by example — has started to understand her role a bit more.

"She's starting to come around and become more vocal," Waldrum said. "She's starting to command a little more and be a little bit more demanding. Those are the things you want with a goalkeeper."

"I think there's just a lot of respect for her as a person and I think that translates to some leadership with her as well."

It is no secret that the Irish have unlimited firepower on offense, as was made evident in last weekend's victory over New Hampshire and Vermont.

"The team continues to be solid, eating up offensive chances as quickly as they are presented."

And with a confident, eager Bohn returning in goal, the Irish just might have what it takes to prove that last year was only the beginning of something very special.

Contact Bobby Griffin at rgriff @nd.edu

---

Talk It Out... Walk It Out... Wait It Out...

Make a difference in a life!

* Spend an hour a week with your team in an area school teaching violence prevention skills
* Choose from a variety of schools, age groups, and meeting times
* Training will be provided
* Federal work study positions available

Help prevent youth violence in South Bend!

Come visit our table at activities night, Tuesday August 30!

Please contact:

Kim Overdyck taker@nd.edu 574.631.9424

Miranda Quinata mquinata@nd.edu 574.631.9422

To register online visit our website: www.taketen.org

---

Carrie Dew dribbles during practice Aug. 16. The Irish freshman scored one goal during Notre Dame's 6-0 win over Vermont Sunday.
NOTRE DAME ACTIVITIES NIGHT

Tuesday, August 30th ... 7:00 PM - 9:00 PM ... JOYCE CENTER FIELDHOUSE

ACADEMIC, ATHLETIC, PERFORMING ARTS, SPECIAL INTEREST CLUBS AND ORGANIZATIONS

SOCIAL SERVICE CLUBS AND COMMUNITY AGENCIES

- AIDS Awareness
- AIDS Mentorship/ARIS Assist
- Alliance To Lead And Serve
- American Cancer Society Club
- Arnold Air Society
- Beta Builders
- Big Brothers/Big Sisters Club
- Big Brother/Big Sister Stories of Notre Dame Club
- Big Brothers/Big Sisters of St. Joe County
- Boys of America, LaFollette Council
- Boys and Girls Club of St. Joseph County
- Campus Alumni for Hope Elimination
- Campus Citi Schools
- Center for the Homeless
- Charles Martin Youth Center
- Circle K
- Community Alliance to Serve Hispanics
- Domestic Hope
- Domes Mentoring Kids
- Foodshare
- Habitat for Humanity
- Helpful Undergraduate Students
- Honour Society of St. Joseph County
- Irish Fighting for St. Jude Kids
- Knights of Columbus, No. 1477
- La Casa de Amistad

SPECIAL GUESTS

- LEAD-ND
- Life Treatment Centers
- Logan Center
- Logan Recreation Club
- Mr. Wizard Day Program Town
- Neighborhood Study Help Programs
- Operation Smile Student Organization
- Bridge of Life, Inc.
- Saint Joseph's Chapel: Health Center Volunteers
- Saint Vincent de Paul Society
- Silver Wings (Helicopter Di Francesco Chapter)
- S.O.S. of Michigan Center
- South Bend Youth Corrections
- Southern Care Haven
- Special Friends Club
- Students for Environmental Action
- Students for Organ Donation
- Super Sites
- Teamwork for Tomorrow
- Tribes National Society
- Twenty-First Century Scholars
- Women in Social Service and Health
- Women's Care Center
- World Hunger Coalition

GET INVOLVED

All current Notre Dame, Saint Mary's and Holy Cross students are invited to join us for our annual Notre Dame Activities Night. Hundreds of clubs and organizations will be represented to meet and sign-up new members, distribute information and share their plans for the year. Don't miss it.

Online info: sao.nd.edu/studentgroups/programs/an/index.shtml

ACTIVITIES NIGHT IS COORDINATED BY THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE AND COSPONSORED BY RECSPORTS IN COLLABORATION WITH THE CLUB COORDINATION COUNCIL.
House
continued from page 24

that there’s a lot of things that we did well. I think it’s also good because we can look at Justin Michaud, who notched that we did that we weren’t as Irish more confidence; you get more with your team, it gives you didn’t do so well on some three saves in the game. The the 64th minute, as Kevin drew the game’s first blood on a goal at golden time.

I think it was important for Mexican-and back, scored the way.

This week the Irish will try to make their corrections in in time for The Inn at Madison

Mallorie to get in, to get out the front line, in addition

The experienced Kelby gave credit where credit was due.

Obviously it was a com-
tained team effort, she said.
We had the passes and great sets that we could put the ball away. We’re an all-around crew. I don’t think it was just a girls — I think we all contributed greatly.

On the front line, in addition to Kelby and Brewer, Carolyn Casper and Meg
Henican combined for 11 kills.
Ellen Heitzman added six.
Throughout the three games, the Irish dominated the Wolverines with a combination of powerful kills, brick-wall-like blocks and diving digs. Brown was pleased with her team’s effort in the openner.

“I think the way the team approached it mentally was tied with New Mexico
we did well. I think it’s also

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

House

H
CROSSWORD

ACROSS 1 Scene
5 Money...
9 Northern Scandinavians
11 Toward shelter, nautical
15 Burn the surface of 16 Divorced quickly
17 Soft light
18 Chew as a snack
19 Desmond of 20 Lungful
21 1976 Hoffman/
22 Toward 23 Burn the Observer
24 Devoured
25 Finland
26 Portugal's "Sunset Blvd."
27 Stag party
28 Be unsteady
29 "Hi and"
30 Make a boom
31 Hubble
32 Sign
33 April Fool's Day
34 Nick Charles's wife
35 Workshop gripper
36 Darth of 37 The woman of "I Love Lucy's "Woman"
38 DK Brown's "Hi and"
39 Strikingly bright
40 Hula hoops, e.g.
41 Make a boom-up
42 2005 Christo display in New York City, with "the"
43 Social class
44 Got quest with "down"
46 Take back, as one's story
47 Draft status
48 Hold back
49 Character who debuted in All Star Comics, December 1941
51 Save
52 Character who debated in All Star Comics, December 1941
54 Hold back
55 Character who debated in All Star Comics, December 1941
56 At last 57 Road
58 August 1 sign
59 Master hand
60 Word said before opening the eyes
61 Can's victim
62 & 63 First two names of Guy de Maupassant
64 Ivy
65 Advances of money
66 Conclusions
67 Look at 68 1976 Hoffman/
69 Smart
70 DK Brown's "Hi and"
71 Stan's partner in old comedy
72 Title song of a 1966 hit movie
73 Dam, as socks
74 Tel Aviv's land
75 Prophet
76 Nother
77 Where it's best that you don't try to fry the tuna
78 Lemon wedge
79 It's nice.
80 Word said before opening the eyes
81 Can's victim
82 & 83 First two names of Guy de Maupassant
84 Ivy
85 Advances of money
86 Conclusions
87 Look at 88 1976 Hoffman/
89 Smart
90 Where it's best that you don't try to fry the tuna
91 Lemon wedge
92 It's nice.

DOWN
1 1976 Hoffman/
2 Dam, as socks
3 Tel Aviv's land
4 Dam, as socks
5 Tel Aviv's land
6 Prophet
7 Nother
8 Where it's best that you don't try to fry the tuna
9 Lemon wedge
10 It's nice.
11 1976 Hoffman/
12 Dam, as socks
13 Tel Aviv's land
14 Prophet
15 Nother
16 Where it's best that you don't try to fry the tuna
17 Lemon wedge
18 It's nice.
19 1976 Hoffman/
20 Dam, as socks
21 Tel Aviv's land
22 Prophet
23 Nother
24 Where it's best that you don't try to fry the tuna
25 Lemon wedge
26 It's nice.

Horoscope

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DAY: LeAnn Rimes, 23; Jason Priestley, 30; Billy Bob, 37; Ernest Serrano, 45

Happy Birthday: A host of opportunities will come your way this year, and you must be prepared to take advantage of it. A chance to prove yourself or do something that you will be remembered for is in the stars. Think about what you can do to cultivate your gesture will bring you rewards. Your numbers are 9, 17, 18, 32, 45

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do whatever is necessary to settle financial and emotional differences. You will be surprised how much you can resolve if you are open and honest. Today is about compromise.*

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do your best to get things done around home. The more you do to improve your own attitude, the better you will feel. Prepare to say no to someone who is continually asking for favors.*

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Today will be your kind of day — full of activity and excitement. Prepare to make quick decisions so you can pack as much into your busy schedule as possible.*

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Work behind the scenes, avoiding the problems that you tend to attract. Just when you think you know how things are going, something will change. Don’t count on anything or anyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You can make a difference just by lending a helping hand or by listening to others. Your insight and knowledge will help you to find solutions and, in turn, feel good about yourself.*

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don’t let things get you down. Reflect on the past but don’t let it diminish your optimism. Look at today as a new beginning and prepare to stop and start.*

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your interest in other people and different cultures will open your mind to new and exciting ideas. Take part in community events, and you will be happy with the outcome. Be yourself and look for opportunities.*

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A home improvement project may benefit you in earning a business. Potential deals are looking good, but don’t spend more that you can afford right away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your ideas and your take-charge personality will bring about some favorable results today — ones that could turn out to be quite prosperous. Everything is possible if you have a positive attitude and a good work ethic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Put the past behind you. Your greatest strengths will be your ability to see the big picture. Your ability to talk to around your peers will also bring you satisfaction and greater belonging.*

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Think about your future and what you can do to make it positive and bright. You have everything going for you today, so aim your goals and you will be successful.*

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Take things one step at a time. If you let some plans upset you, it will be difficult to make the right choices. Overindulgence is not the answer. Today should be about curtailing your habits, not giving in to them.*

Birthday Baby: You are a peacemaker and a door. You know your limitations and you continue to push to surpass your wildest dreams. You are perceptive and can interpret a situation in order to make things right.

ND VOLLEYBALL

Cleaning house

Notre Dame sweeps Michigan in season opener

By TOM DORWART
Sports Writer

The leprechaun worked up a sweat. The men’s swim team stripped and did push-ups in the Joyce Center stands. And Lauren Kiebley and Lauren Brewster pounded 15 kills apiece to lead the Irish.

Tradition holds that the swimmers wear 30 pieces of clothing. For every Irish point, they shed one item until they reach the 30th—says the Speedo.

Saturday night, the Irish saw the Speedos—three times.

In the first match of the 2005 season, Notre Dame defeated Michigan in straight games, 30-24, 30-16, 30-26, in front of 574 fans at the Joyce Center.

"Obviously, we’re very excited to have the win," Irish coach Debbie Brown said. "For the first game, I think we did well."

Hanks tallies seven in first game with the team.

Brewster pounded 15 kills in the first game with the team. "It’s a good start to the season game with the team." Fighting time to complete the natural setting.

"Obviously, we’re very excited to have the win," Irish coach Debbie Brown said. "For the first game, I think we did well."

End of the line, left, reaches to block a spike by Michigan’s Lyndsay Miller during the 30-24, 30-16, 30-26 Irish sweep of the Wolverines Saturday at the Joyce Center.

Notre Dame’s Carolyn Cooper, left, reaches to block a spike by Michigan’s Lyndsay Miller during the 30-24, 30-16, 30-26 Irish sweep of the Wolverines Saturday at the Joyce Center.

ND MEN’S SOCCER

Irish snag OT win over UM

By KATE GALE
Assistant Sports Editor

Exhibition games might not count for much in a team’s final record.

But as the No. 19/16 Irish work towards becoming a unit, a road win at Michigan is a solid final step of the pre-season.

Ian Etherington’s goal in the 94th minute gave the Irish a 2-1 win over the Wolverines. The game was Notre Dame’s last of the 2005 exhibition season and also their first road match.

"We forced the game even though we were playing away from Alumni Field," said coach Bobby Clark, "Our team was still looking to win (in overtime) and I thought we were always the team that was going to win the game."

FOOTBALL

Depth chart release spotlights surprises

Wooden to start at cornerback; Grimes set to return punts

By MATT PUGLISI
Assistant Sports Editor

Anticipation for Saturday’s season opener at Pittsburgh is beginning to peak. But the speculation surrounding who will start against the Panthers died Sunday when Irish coach Charlie Weis released Notre Dame’s depth chart.

With 10 of 11 starters returning on offense, most holes were already filled heading into training camp. And while Brady Quinn will still be under center, Darius Walker in the backfield and Maurice Stovall and Rhema McKnight at wide receiver positions “X” and “Z,” respectively, Weis did have a few tricks up his sleeve.

Arguably the most surprising change is Weis’ intention to rotate four players—Dan Santucci, John Sullivan, Bob Morton and Dan Stevenson—at the three inside offensive line spots: left guard, center and right guard.

"We think that we have four guys that can start on the interior on the offensive line,” Weis said. "If you don’t have confidence that you have four guys that you could play, you would only play three. The benefit of that, you end up keeping them fresh."

"You will see in the game against Pittsburgh all four of those guys playing in those three spots."

While he’s willing to move players around the middle of the line, Weis doesn’t anticipate doing the same with left tackle Ryan Harris and right tackle Mark Levoir.

SPRINTS AT A GLANCE

ND WOMEN’S SOCCER

Erica Bohr anchors the No. 1 Irish in her fourth year minding the net.

ND WOMEN’S BASKETBALL

Megan Duffy leads Team USA to a gold medal in the World University Games.

PBA

Head Faxon wins the Buick Invitational by finishing at 14 under par.

NFL

Bears promote former Purdue star Kyle Orton to starting quarterback.

MLB

Dodgers 1, Astros 0

Astros shut out for eighth time with Roger Clemens on the mound.

MLB

Athletics 10, Orioles 3

Athletics stay hot with rout of team in downward spiral.
The Center for Social Concerns invites you to push the boundaries of your classroom into the neighborhoods of South Bend and beyond. Come and enter the lives of those who live and study and work there. Indeed, consider the ways that you might begin to be a part of the world's transformation.

Through the years, thousands of students have taken part in the numerous opportunities offered through the Center for Social Concerns and our many partners. Each student has made an important difference.

Often this service involvement, and the learning that comes through and with it, transforms you. In turn, this transformation allows each of you to be a more effective agent of transformation and/or goodness within others' lives. This is seen within our community long after your time at Notre Dame, Saint Mary's and Holy Cross College.

Jesus called love the greatest of all commandments—love the Lord God with all our hearts and to love our neighbor as ourselves (Mark 12: 28-31). It is not easy but it remains no less our challenge and call. It is the foundation on which we will build the justice we seek and the peace for which we long.

Be a part of the transformation to which we are called, and be transformed. Give yourself away. One or more of the opportunities on these pages could quite possibly change you forever.

An Invitation to Serve Your Local Community

Agencies in South Bend depend on Notre Dame students as volunteers and greatly appreciate their time, energy and enthusiasm. Working with a large number of volunteers, especially groups doing one-time projects, takes a considerable amount of planning and effort on behalf of the agencies. Below are some FAQs about finding a service placement in South Bend.

How do I pick an agency?

Decide on an organization that will fit your schedule, your goals, and your interests. Consider a placement that might complement your educational goals. The Center for Social Concerns has a great deal of information to assist you in making your decision, so please stop by the CSC. Once you’ve decided upon an organization, call the volunteer coordinator at the agency. He/she can provide you with contact information so you can set up a time to meet.

How do I plan a project for a large group?

If you are planning a project for a large group, be certain there is interest in the project before contacting the agency and committing to a project. Check with the agency to determine if they can support a large group of volunteers for a one-time project. Be as specific as possible in terms of dates, number of volunteers, hopes for the project, etc.

I left a message, but no one has returned my call. Why not?

Please keep in mind that many service agencies are understaffed and may not always return phone calls promptly. You may need to call several times, so don’t get discouraged.

Variety of Service Opportunities Available

Among the many service opportunities for Notre Dame students is an after school running program at the Robinson Community Learning Center.

Directory of Service Organizations

Addictions
Life Treatment Centers

Adult Literacy
Center for Basic Learning Skills
Lentoney Council of St. Joseph County South Bend Community Schools
-Adult Education Program

Adult-older
Cardinal Nursing Center
Miluna Home
Purgite Manor
REAL Services

Children & Youth
Ask Angels, Inc.
Big Brothers/Big Sisters
Big Brothers & Big Sisters of ND
SMC
Boys and Girls Club
ND/SMC Campus Girl Scouts
Cate Center
Charles Martin Youth Center
Children’s Defense Fund
Circie R Neere Dame
Circle of Mercy
Demos Mentoring Kids
El Campus Day Care Center
Family and Children’s Center
Home Management Resources
Hugh O’Brien Youth Foundation Alumni Association (ND-HOBY)
Irish Fighting for S. Judes Kids
Justice Mental Health Association
Lead ND
ND/SMC Lunch P.A.C.K.
Madison Center
Mr. Wizard Day Program Team
Neighborhood Study Help Program
Robinson Community Learning Center
Slice of Life ND
South Bend Juvenile Correctional Facility
Southgut Dream Center
St. Hedwig’s Outreach Center
Ther Are Children Here
Tracker for Tomorrow
University Young Life

West Side Neighborhood Partnership Center
Youth Services Bureau
Criminal Justice
Antony International
Indiana Legal Services
Michigan Ottoman House
United Religious Community
Cultural Issues
Broadway Christian Parish
Community Alliance to Serve Hispanics (CASH)
La Casa de Amistad

Disability Services
Best Buddies
Chiara Home
Cerealia, Inc.
Council for Fun and Learning
Logan Center
ND/SMC Logan Club
Reins of Life
Special Friends Club
SuperSibs

Environment
ND for Animals
Net Impact
Student for Environmental Action (SEA)

Housing/Homelessness
Center for the Homeless
ND/SMC Center for the Homeless Children’s Group
North Dame Habitat for Humanity
Hope Rescue Mission
St. Margaret’s House
St. Vincent de Paul
Salvation Army
South Bend Heritage Foundation

Hunger Concerns
Foodbank of Northern Indiana
Foodshare
World Hunger Coalition

Medical AIDS Awareness
AIDS Minors/Adults assist
American Cancer Society
American Red Cross
Chapin Street Clinic (St. Joseph’s Health Center)
ND First Aid Services Team
Healthmen Specialized Care
Helpful Undergraduate Students (HUGS)
Harbor Light Hospice
Hospice of St. Joseph County, Inc.
Operation Smile - Student Organization
Southern Care Hospice
St. Joseph’s Chapel Street Health Center Volunteers

Multi-Service Groups
Alliance to Lead and Serve (ATLAS)
Arnold Air Society
Catholic Charities
College Football Hall of Fame
Experiential Learning Council
Kights of Columbus Council 4477
Muscular Dystrophy Association
Northern Indiana Center for History Programs Zoo
Silver Wings (Benjamin D. Foulois Chapter)
Students for Organ Donation of Notre Dame
Trident Naval Society
Twenty-First Century Scholars

Peace and Justice Issues
Africa Faith and Justice Network
Anxiety International Peace Fellowship
Progressive Student Alliance
South Bend Right to Life

Women’s Concerns
Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination (CARE)
Sea Offense Services (SOOS)
Women’s Care Center
Women in Social Service and Health
YWCA Women’s Shelter

Rooted in the Gospel and Catholic tradition, the Center for Social Concerns of the University of Notre Dame creates formative educational and service experiences in collaboration with diverse partners, calling us to action for a more just and humane world. —Center for Social Concerns Mission Statement
Africa Faith and Justice Network

The Africa Faith and Justice Network of Notre Dame (AFJN-ND) is an organization devoted to education and advocacy on behalf of justice for Africa on the campuses of the University of Notre Dame, Saint Mary's College, and Holy Cross College. AFJN-ND is a university branch in the network of the Africa Faith and Justice Network (AFJN) founded in Washington, DC. In its first year AFJN sponsored Africa week, raising money and awareness about African issues, and will build upon the success of Africa week during the upcoming school year. Student Contact: Lauren Fenyi at lfenyi@nd.edu

AIDS Awareness

AIDS Awareness is an organization that aims to provide a forum for discussion about the disease, increase awareness on-campus, serve those living in the Notre Dame and outside community living with AIDS, and assist in fundraising efforts for those with AIDS. We work with AIDS Assist/AID's Ministry of South Bend and participate in an AIDS Walk in the fall. In addition, members of AIDS Awareness have the opportunity to assist those living with AIDS and work on campus wide campaigns to raise awareness on World AIDS Day. Student Contact: Lauren Cofone at lcofone@nd.edu

Alliance to Lead and Serve (ATLAS)

ATLAS is a community service organization committed of people interested in making a difference in the lives of others and takes a leader-driven approach to volunteerism. Students are encouraged to envision and cultivate their own community service projects, many of which are focused on the local military, community members, soldiers, or local youth. ATLAS helps students grow as leaders and as socially conscious community members. Student Contact: Margarete Lively at mlively@nd.edu

American Cancer Society

Volunteers organize on-campus raising and fund-raising events. Student Contact: Kelly Stephens at kstephe1@nd.edu

Amnesty International Notre Dame

Amnesty International is a worldwide movement of people whocampaign for internationally recognized human rights. In pursuit of this vision, AI's mission is to undertake research and action focused on preventing and ending grave abuses of the human rights in every country in the world. AI is a human rights organization working in the context of its work to promote all human rights. Notre Dame's Club hosts meetings once a week, and is open to all interested students. Meetings are held once a week and are student run. Student Contact: Ryan Lajugia at rlajugia@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~jasl

Foodshare

Foodshare is a volunteer organization that ensures leftover food from Notre Dame Hall is not wasted and the needs of South Bend residents are fulfilled. Every Sunday through Thursday students collect any unneeded food from North Dining Hall and deliver it to the Hope Rescue Mission in downtown South Bend. In addition to delivering food, members of Foodshare have the opportunity service at the Mission for the Homeless. Student Contact: Mariah Quinn at foodshare@nd.edu

Habitat for Humanity

Volunteers are needed to work on construction crews, donate materials, help fundraising, and interact with our partner family. Help us build a home in partnership with a local family in need. Student Contact: Ryan Lajugia at rlajugia@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~jasl

Helpful Undergraduates Students (HUG.S.)

HUGS volunteers provide 2 hours biweekly time with children at St. Jude Hospital in Memphis, TN. The hospital is one of the world's premier centers for research and treatment of catastrophic diseases in children, primarily pediatric cancers. Student Contact: Stephanie Smith at ssmit3@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~hugs

Irish Fighting for St. Jude Kids

Irish Fighting for St. Jude Kids dedicates itself to year-round fundraising activities in support of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, TN. The hospital is one of the world's premier centers for research and treatment of catastrophic diseases in children, primarily pediatric cancers. Student Contact: Stephanie Smith at ssmit3@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~irish

Knights of Columbus Column 1477

Knights of Columbus Column 1477 volunteer to help raise funds in order to support various service and social action facilities in the area. Student Contact: Ed Medrick at emedrick@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~knights

Lead-ND

The Lead-ND outreach program works to promote the voice of traditionally overlooked and under-represented young people in South Bend. Volunteer your time in downtown South Bend. Student Contact: Megan Gaudet and Eitan Kamyszewski at friends@nd.edu

Logan Recreation Club

Students volunteer for Friday night bowling, Friday night dances, and Sunday recreation with people from the community who have disabilities. Opportunities include lesson planning, mentoring, and leading small-group activities and discussions. Student Contact: Sereen Carwright at leandro@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~logan

Special Friends Club of Notre Dame and St. Mary's

The Special Friends Club of Notre Dame and St. Mary's brings young women from the South Bend Community with mental disabilities. College sibs of Special Friends Club volunteers work with local youth weekly to facilitate social and recreational events. All club members have siblings with disabilities. College sibs refer survivors of rape to the appropriate resource. (However, we volunteer with local girl scouts. We help with cookie booth fundraising activities in support of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, TN. The hospital is one of the world's premier centers for research and treatment of catastrophic diseases in children, primarily pediatric cancers. Student Contact: Megan Gaudet and Eitan Kamyszewski at friends@nd.edu)

St. Joseph's Chapin Street Health Center Volunteers

Volunteers are needed to help serve the indigenous population in the South Bend Community. Student Contact: Debbie Saccoen at dsaacoen@nd.edu

Solve of Life ND

Student Contact: Brigitte Thomas at bthomas@nd.edu

Silence Wings (Benjamin D. Foulois Chapter)

Silver Wings (Benjamin D. Foulois Chapter) Student Contact: Ellen Riley at slate775@nd.edu

Special Friends Club of Notre Dame and St. Mary's

Volunteers work with children in the South Bend Community on a structured educational program in a home environment. Time commitment is 2-4 hours per week. No experience is necessary to be a Special Friend. Student Contact: Megan Gaudet and Eitan Kamyszewski at friends@nd.edu

Student for Environmental Action (SEA)

Student Contact: Kyle Frazay at kmedri@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~sea

Students for Environmental Action (SEA)

Volunteers promote awareness of environmental issues among the student body and the South Bend Community. Student Contact: Megan Gaudet and Eitan Kamyszewski at friends@nd.edu

Students for Organ Donation of Notre Dame

Student Contact: Shane Kappler at skappler@nd.edu

Super Sibs

All club members have siblings with disabilities. College sibs mentor children (8-14 yrs. of age) who also have a sibling with a disability. Biweekly activities include bowling, skating, holiday parties, and pizza and chat evenings. Student Contact: Michael Goosen at mggoosen@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~super

Sustained Dialogue at Notre Dame (SD) is a systematic, gradual process used to establish relationships between conflicting groups by opening lines of communication and questioning the effectiveness of current strategies. Continued on page 4

The Guide to Community Service

Facilities Available For Students’ Use

Hospitability is an important part of the Center for Social Concern's work on campus. The Center for Social Concerns includes a conference facility (above shown) and kitchen, a large multi-purpose room, seminar rooms, and a reflection room. These facilities are available for use by approved student and community groups. Contact the Center at 631-5293 to schedule meetings, films, literary readings, and other gatherings, and to inquire about the new policies surrounding vehicle use.

ND for Animals

ND for Animals promotes a compassionate, cruelty-free lifestyle. Members volunteer at animal shelters, hold demonstrations, and organize events to promote awareness. Student Contact: Phil Adamhah at wadlam@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~animals

Neighborhhood Study Help Program

Volunteers serve as a center of mentors twice a week for one to two hour period each time. Student Contact: Katie Johnson at kjohnson@nd.edu

Operation Smile Student Organization

Volunteers work with Operation Smile International to provide reconstructive surgery to children around the world. Student Contact: Amy Conroy at aconroy@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~operation

Peace Fellowship

Peace Fellowship is dedicated to prayer, Gospel non-violence, and social awareness. It educates and promotes issues related to peace and justice around the world. Student Contact: Katherine Herman at herman@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~peace

Progressive Student Alliance

PSA works for social justice by organizing around issues of interest to create change. The club brings people and groups on both a local and global level. Recent focuses have been economic injustices, student power, and rights for all. Student Contact: Ryan Hennessy at mhengen1@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~psa

St. Joseph’s Chapin Street Health Center Volunteers

Volunteers are needed to help serve the indigenous population in the South Bend Community. Student Contact: Debbie Saccoen at dsaacoen@nd.edu

Solve of Life ND

Student Contact: Brigitte Thomas at bthomas@nd.edu

Silence Wings (Benjamin D. Foulois Chapter)

Silver Wings (Benjamin D. Foulois Chapter) Student Contact: Ellen Riley at slate775@nd.edu

Special Friends Club of Notre Dame and St. Mary's

Volunteers work with children in the South Bend Community on a structured educational program in a home environment. Time commitment is 2-4 hours per week. No experience is necessary to be a Special Friend. Student Contact: Megan Gaudet and Eitan Kamyszewski at friends@nd.edu

Student for Environmental Action (SEA)

Volunteers promote awareness of environmental issues among the student body and the South Bend Community. Student Contact: Megan Gaudet and Eitan Kamyszewski at friends@nd.edu

Students for Organ Donation of Notre Dame

Student Contact: Shane Kappler at skappler@nd.edu

Super Sibs

All club members have siblings with disabilities. College sibs mentor children (8-14 yrs. of age) who also have a sibling with a disability. Biweekly activities include bowling, skating, holiday parties, and pizza and chat evenings. Student Contact: Michael Goosen at mggoosen@nd.edu or visit http://www.nd.edu/~super

Sustained Dialogue at Notre Dame (SD) is a systematic, gradual process used to establish relationships between conflicting groups by opening lines of communication and questioning the effectiveness of current strategies. Continued on page 4
Volunteers provide one-on-one companionship, support, advocacy and assistance to navigators of systems for individuals/families who are living with HIV; general office support, establish and maintain databases, assist with mailings, proofread, and make phone calls in an office setting.

Contact: Community-Based Learning Coordinator,Debra Standley at 234-2070 ext 151.

Anne`s Place
Community Volunteer Services plans, programs, recruits, trains and places volunteers to meet community needs through community and emergency services.

Contact: Jeanette Simon at 234-0191, ext. 231.

Ark Angels, Inc.
Volunteers tutor youth in age-appropriate and manageable group situations. Volunteers share their own passion or interest area into the enrichment structure. Volunteers can help with parenting classes, arts and crafts groups on the weekends and with advanced learning opportunities.

Contact: Ron King at 234-5390 or 287-3503.

Michelle Disman House
Volunteering at Disman House, a faith based prisoner reentry program, gives students a unique opportunity to serve the broader community. It provides students with the framework to examine the complex issues of social and criminal justice. Volunteers can reach out to help prepare men for the day when they will no longer be a part of their families. The volunteers can provide support, guidance and care for individuals new to life on the outside.

Contact: Jim Haugmann at 239-2503.

Cerrillo, Inc.
Volunteers help with families (FUN) activities like bowling, dances, picnics, holiday parties, hay rides, cookouts and movies. Volunteers also help with the web site, developing brochures and helping with fundraising events such as Snowball Softball, Glow In The Dark, and other events.

Contact: Diana Delo at 209-9779 or ddelo@cerrillo.org.

El Campito Day Care Center
El Campito's mission is "to promote the educational, social and emotional development of children between the ages of 2 and 3 1/2.

Contact: Patricia Benn at 232-0220 or rlcampito@menarita.net.

Family and Children's Center
Join other Parents Partnership Program to take a child to your place of worship or become a sponsor if you can give 3-4 hours per month. Contact: Deep Brown at 259-5666, ext. 250. For interest opportunities in marketing and resource development contact: Community-Based Learning Coordinator,Debra Standley at 234-2070 ext. 232.

Food Bank of Northern Indiana
Volunteers needed for cleaning, painting, construction, human resources, computer skills and administrative support in the Montessori classroom. All work can be done at your convenience. One free meal is provided for each volunteer.

Contact: Coordinator Michelle Peters at 280-7092.

Healthwin Specialized Care
Volunteers work one on one with our residents, reading, socializing, communicating one on one with residents and helping with medication administration.

Contact: Karen Martindale at 272-6109, ext. 206. Volunteers can help out one day a week during which they agree to be reachable by phone in the morning and afternoon.

Home Management Resources, Inc.
Volunteers exist in childcare, clinical/reception work, and computer technology. Occasional help is needed for mailing programs, preparing newsletters, answering the phone, and data entry.

Contact: Heather Mead at 234-8127.

Hope Rescue Mission
Volunteers needed for painting, cleaning, construction, preparing and serving meals, chapel service, tutoring, mentoring, counseling, clerical, reaching classes, and assisting with addiction programs.

Contact: Don Bloom at 235-4150, ext. 231.

Hospice of St. Joseph County
Volunteers help with activities for terminal ill patients and their families.

Contact: Jackie Byck at 243-3127.

Indiana Legal Services
Volunteers serve as Intake Workers to assist potential clients with the paperwork needed to summarize legal problems for staff attorney review. ILS is funded to provide free legal representation to low income persons in civil matters.

Contact: Heather Mead at 234-8127.

La Casa de Amistad Inc.
Be an active friend, a companion or a partner in your activities or your philosophy.

Contact: Brenda Matt at 234-5441.

Life Treatment Centers, Inc.
Volunteers work with people, who are in one of our treatment facilities by assisting in staffing the residential and detoxification areas, kitchen help, laundry, clerical, housekeeping, front desk staffing, maintenance assistance, chart breakdown and assistance in our computer. If you have experience with this type of work, we would love to hear from you.

Contact: Brenda Green at 234-6229.

Logan Center
Volunteer with children and adults with special needs. Activities include art, cooking, exercise and computer classes as well as one-on-one assistance in children's homes.

Contact: Group Coordinator at 354-289-4831 or visit www.logancenter.org.

The Guide to Community Service
What things do I talk about with the volunteer coordinator?

- Explain your interest in choosing a particular organization, and answer questions about the agency.
- Make sure to call if you will be late or unable to attend due to sickness and arrange for an alternative time.
- Make sure the agency is aware of when you will be away on break or unable to attend due to finals.

If you have further questions, please stop by or call the CSC. Do a good job and enjoy the work you do!

Community-Based Learning Sites

Below are the different sites in South Bend where the CSC has partnered with Community-Based Learning Coordination. They work closely with ND students and faculty to provide comprehensive learning and service experiences at their sites. They are a wonderful resource to call with your questions.

AIDS Ministries/AIDS Assist Debra Stanley, Coordinator
234-2870, ext. 1151
WuWuWu@aol.com
http://www.aidsministries.org/

Boys & Girls Club of St. Joseph County
Kegg Van Meter, Development Coordinator
259-5666, ext. 232
lismoyer@bgcsjc.org
http://www.bgcsjc.org

Center for the Homeless
Adam Krook, Director, Volunteer Services & Community Education 282-8700, ext. 344
akrook@cfh.net
http://www.cfhn.org

LOGAN Center
Marris Runville, Volunteer Coordinator
289-4831, ext. 1043
marissa@logancenter.org
http://www.logancenter.org

Mendoza College of Business
Janice L. McManus Warnell, Program Manager & Concurrent Instructor 631-9182
jmcmanus@nd.edu
http://www.mendoza.nd.edu/

Robinson Community Learning Center
Margarette Taylor, Adult Programs Coordinator 631-9425
mgaylord@juno.com
http://www.nd.edu/~rccl

Saint Joseph Regional Medical Center – Community Outreach
Michelle Peters, Manager, Outreach Services 239-5299
petersm@sjhmc.com
http://www.sjhmc.com

Women in Social Service and Health

WISSH is a club that is committed to spreading awareness about issues that affect the lives of females. It is also dedicated to helping those in need and supporting the female peer populations. This group encourages primarily participants in service to the community regarding health issues.

Student Contact: Ann Marie Szymanski at acszym@nd.edu

World Hunger Coalition

Volunteers raise awareness and support for the poor and hungry in South Bend and around the world. Volunteering aims to explore pertinent issues involving hunger and become involved in alleviating, global hunger. Student Contact: Shawn Lawrinowitz at plawrin@nd.edu

General Information about the CSC

Hospitability:

Hospitality is an important part of the Center’s presence on campus. We invite student, community, and campus groups to use our coffeehouse, kitchen, multipurpose room and reflection rooms. Classes in a variety of disciplines also meet at the Center. All are welcome to come to host or attend hospitality lunches through the (much benefit) community groups or student organizations.

Agencies

Continued from page 3

St. Margaret’s House

Volunteers can help provide kitchen help, receptionist, tutoring, assist with donations, assist with food pantry, assist with program, interact with children, interact with women, and other choice volunteers. Contact: Kathy Schneider or Patricia Maravel at 234-7799.

St. Joe’s Regional Medical Center

We invite pre-med students to consider a part of the continuum of care of our patients. Students can choose from Emergency Room, Cardiac Care, Post Surgical, Medical/Renal, Oncology, Childbirth, and Outpatient Pediatrics. Choose one 6 hour shift once a week for a semester. Uniforms will be provided and include a meal ticket. The medical center is less than 2 miles from the ND campus.

Contact: Director of Volunteer Services, Denise Kapala, at 237-7242 or kapala@jrmc.com.

St. Vincent DePaul

Volunteers work in the thrift store to prepare used goods for sale and help with special projects at Christmas time. Anyone organizing a food or clothing drive can work through this grassroot service site. Contact: Josie Ash at 234-6211.

Groups

Continued from page 2

deep-rooted stereotypes. There will be a Kick-Off Retreat, then participants will be divided into smaller groups. Simultaneously discussions will be held in the small group to address various sensitivities and common diversity problems on Notre Dame’s campus and on the global stage. SD fosters dynamic relationships among all people regardless of backgrounds and cultures.

Student Contact: Anne Goodenow at dialogue@nd.edu

Teamwork for Tomorrow

Teamwork for Tomorrow is an after-school tutoring and mentoring program for all ND and ICMC students. Working one on one with their students two days a week, school students by acting as Christ role models, sharing our faith with them, and ministering to the needs of this age group. Student Contact: John Moran at johnmoran@nd.edu or visit www.nd.edu/~teamwork

Trident Naval Society

The group works to develop the professionalism and camaraderie among NROTC Midshipmen and ND students necessary to assume the highest levels of citizenship and command. Volunteers provide services such as assisting at the Logan Center, tutoring, and participating with the elderly. Student Contact: Victoria Denslow at vddenslow@nd.edu

University Young Life

The purpose of Young Life is reaching adolescents with the gospel of Jesus Christ. This club is committed to reaching out to high school students by acting as Christ role models, sharing our faith with them, and ministering to the needs of this age group. Student Contact: John Moran at johnmoran@nd.edu or visit www.nd.edu/~ylic

There are Children Here (TACH)

TACH has a 15 acre facility and hosts an after-school program M-F for about 20 children ages 4-11 per day. Volunteers are needed to work with the children and to coordinate special projects.

Contact: Jim Langford at 299-8767.

Twenty First-Century Scholars

Volunteers assist with enrollment, mentoring, campus visits, service learning projects, clinical assistance, parental support and chaperoning activities. We can help build a volunteer position to meet your schedule and interests. Contact: Audrey Byrd at 1-888-605-5981, ext. 235.

United Religious Community

Volunteers needed to do clerical work or take part in special projects, with the Victim Offender Reconciliation Program and the Advocacy Centers. Volunteers work one-on-one with community members unable to meet basic needs: This is a good platform for service-learning in the area of psychology. Computer skills are also needed. A regular commitment is expected one day a week (M-F, 9-12).

Carole Torn at 282-2937.

West Side Neighborhood Partnership Center

Work directly with youth tutoring, reading programs, sports and recreation. Conversational Spanish interactive/play learning programs, and with administrative support. Contact: Jeanette Hilf at 235-3000.

The commitment is two hours a day two days a week and is for an entire year. Spanish speaking students are encouraged to apply. Student contact: Clare Murphy at cmurphy@nd.edu or visits www.nd.edu/~teammwork

Women’s Care Center

Volunteers welcome pregnant women and couples by helping them to prepare for their new family and help with the crib club and baby items store. Contact: Deborah Allen at 234-0363.

Youth Services Bureau

The Youth Services Bureau has several day and evening service opportunities, including supervision and recreation for teens living at the runaway shelter, providing supervision for small children during monthly educational meetings for their parents, and staff training and staff preparation. Hours of service are geared to student needs. Contact: Youth Links Director at 255-9231.

YWCA of St. Joseph County

Volunteers serve as children’s activity aides, clinical assistants, ministers, court monitors, as well as a cover for crises times, sort donations, assist in the kitchen, provide transportation, create welcome bags, plan parties for clients and help with whatever else we need. Contact: Volunteer Coordinator at 235-9491.

Transportation to Service Sites

Recent Policy Changes:
Risk Management’s rules have changed, and students who have vehicles can now transport students to community service sites as long as those sites are within St. Joseph County. Therefore, if you have your own vehicle on campus, you are no longer able to rent vehicles from the CSC.

South Bend Commons, in conjunction with Notre Dame and the Center for Social Concerns, has added CSC service sites to their menu in order to provide students with free transportation to South Bend and Mishawaka community service locations (including most private homes). If your destination is on the bus route, then you will no longer be able to rent vehicle through the CSC. Exceptions to the rule: students who run errands for an organization, students who transport patients for the Health Care Ministry, students for an organization to an activity, and students who will be traveling outside of South Bend and Mishawaka. If you think that you or your group qualify for an exception to this rule, please e-mail the vehicle coordinator at cvcservices@nd.edu to discuss your options.

For more information regarding bus routes, you can contact South Bend Transit at (574) 233-2131 or visit their website at www.sbtranspo.com. Bus routes map to community service sites, as well as directions on how to get around using the bus system, will also be available at the Center.

Vehicle Rentals:

Students who wish to perform community service in the surrounding area, and do not have transportation to their sites, may rent vehicles free of charge from the Center for Social Concerns. If you wish to rent a vehicle, please contact the CSC and pick up a copy of the Vehicle Policies and Procedures.

The Policies and Procedures will explain the logistics of vehicle use and will instruct you as to what you need to do next in the process of renting the vehicle. If you are not able to pick up a copy at the Center, the Policies and Procedures are also online at http://csc.traanspack.mormons nd.edu/campus_local/vehicle.shtml. Request forms are available at the CSC, and if you have any questions, you may contact the Vehicle Coordinator at cvcservices@nd.edu.