Kennedy Wins 42% Of Indiana Vote

BY MICHAEL O'CONNOR

Senator Robert F. Kennedy has emerged the victor in his first Primary clash with Senator Eugene McCarthy for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

The Indiana Primary, much touted as the definitive contest between Kennedy and McCarthy, has resulted in an overwhelming victory for Senator Kennedy.

A much heavier turnout of voters was received than had been expected. Voting was especially heavy in the large industrial areas near Chicago, including Gary, Hammond, and East Chicago. A turnout of approximately six hundred thousand was predicted by the experts for the state as a whole.

500 Students Demonstrate Against ROTC

BY TIM O'MEILLIA

Approximately 300 protesters staged a sit-in on the field of the annual ROTC Presidential Review but failed to halt the procedure of the review yesterday. The protesters filed onto the field three abreast from the southwest corner of the field and seated themselves in the southwest corner of the prescribed marching area of the ROTC contingents. They succeeded in forcing the ROTC students to march some 50 yards in front of the reviewing stand.

All together an estimated 500 demonstrators, mostly students, protested the ROTC, but only 300 of the demonstrators actually marched onto the field. Both the protesters and the Administration felt satisfied with the outcome of the review. When asked whether he felt the demonstration had succeeded, former Notre Dame student Lenny Joyce answered, "obviously." Joyce said that the demonstrators did not move to put themselves in the path of the ROTC students when it became apparent that they would not be obstructed because, "I think we effectively demonstrated our point."

Student Body President Richard Rosie who twice attempted to convince the demonstrators not to sit on the field said, "It could have been worse." Dean of Students Rev. James Riehle, CSC, commented, "Fortunately we got away with it."

Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, assistant commander of the Marine Corps, and the voters of the rural districts will have been compiled. It is expected that the final tally will not change the results appreciably, probably giving slightly increased support to Governor Branan.

With 95% of the vote tallied, Kennedy had received 42% of the ballots cast; Governor Branigan 31%; and Senator McCarthy 27%.

The significance of this victory for Senator Kennedy is indicated by the fact that several enormous obstacles stood in his path. As he himself said, "There wasn't a political leader in Indiana who thought it would be wise for me to come into Indiana. No one thought I could win or even do well. But I all the people like you across the state."

Both candidates were weakened by the fact that the original significance of the Indiana Primary was severely underestimated. Its reconstruction as one of the major battles occurred with the development of great animosity between the Kennedy and McCarthy camps following the New York Senator's declaration of candidacy. The Indiana primary was the first confrontation between these two outspoken critics of the Johnson Administration and both candidates found themselves saying virtually the same thing, and in the face of the President's have won because of you and overtures towards peace talks. The tension was increased by the recently announced candidacy of Vice-President Hubert Humphrey.

Senator McCarthy said that he felt this was a preliminary skirmish; in stating his determination to carry on through the other primaries, he declared, "It's going to be an entirely different contest from here on."

Primaries were also held yesterday in Washington, D.C., and New York; in both Senator Kennedy showed a significant margin at last report. Upcoming primaries are those in Nebraska, Oregon, South Dakota, and California.

...
SENATE KILLS ROTC, MILITARY CONTRACT BILLS

TABLES OF ACTIVITIES
FEE INCREASE PROPOSAL

BY CHRIS WOLFE

The Student Senate Monday night passed a constitutional amendment eliminating college senators, and a declaration stating that the Dean of Students has no right to regulate student demonstrations. Motions concerning Key Club cards and the student union were defeated. The Senate adjourned after a debate on a resolution to increase rates were tabbed, while the Senate defeated bills calling for changes in ROTC, University policy on secret contracts, Parking policy, student activities fee, the student demonstration fee. Mike Kendall and Bob Rigney.

The financial report from the student government treasurer Dick Roderick was submitted for the night, but Rossie said that he was unable to be present. The treasurer is supposed to appear before the Senate every other week. A. L. Jack Powers pointed out, but he has appeared only twice. Rossie said that he was willing to schedule a special session, but the senators did not like the idea. Mike Kelly said that the meetings should not be arranged at the treasurer's convenience. Rossie said that he will be at the next meeting, the last of the year. At that time there will also be breakdowns of budgets for Mardi Gras and the General Assembly. Paul Higgins then introduced a bill which calls for a change in the status of ROTC. According to the bill no academic credit should be given for ROTC, inclusions in ROTC are required, and the University shall not discriminate against ROTC students. The university record of the student, ROTC teachers should not be faculty members or receive recommission from the University, and the University shall not encourage or discourage student participation in ROTC. Higgins said that the program was the only academic entity on campus which has advertised, pays and contracts students, has a majority in its faculty with only B.A.'s, or B.S.'s, and with non-academic direction.

Fairley Senator John Mulligan a member of Navy ROTC, said that other programs advertised, that other people were paid (e.g., football recruiters), and personally he felt that people taking courses deserved credit. Jim Scherer said that he would not give credit would be to discriminate against those taking ROTC, since they would have an extra work load, but no extra credit. Mike Mead told of the overwhelming feeling of the bill in his hall, and of the need for money to pay extra expenses. On a roll call vote, the bill was downed 13-26.

Jon Sherry next spoke for his motion calling for the University to prohibit all secret research contracts and war research contracts. "He said that Notre Dame is a Catholic University and has a special duty to examine contracts, especially those for development of illegal weapons and to release findings of research to the world. He mentioned confusing reports which said that either there were "very few" secret contracts for war weapons, or "none at all." The University, according to Sherry, is involved in work on fragmentation bombs, and that according to the military, only 2% of the weapon system. The bill was to formalize what the University already, partially accepted as unofficial policy.

Polygraph Tests This Week
FOR STUDENT UNION OFFICIALS

Polygraph tests will be administered to members of the Student Union sometime this week, according to Campus Security Director John Hickey. TREMBUSCH said that so far he has hired a private individual connected with the police department to give the tests concerning the $3,000 Union robbery.

The surrounding police departments have refused to administer the tests. The South Bend Police Department was willing to give only two tests. Sears said he would probably know tomorrow exactly when the tests will be administered.

Student Union President Rick Rembusch said that the Union will pay for the tests which will cost $25 per test. Rembusch said the Administration refused to pay for the tests. Although there will be at least six tests administrated Rembusch has agreed to pay for up to nine. Sears has the names of eight, possibly nine persons he would like tested, according to Rembusch. It was also reported that he has hired a private individual to give the tests.

Vice President Bill Wade said at least the following six will be tested: Rembusch, Wade, social commissioner Lou Lanwermyer, business manager Terry Trent, ticket manager Jim Brogan and Larry Connelly. Trent, Brogan and Connelly were responsible for returning the receipts from the Henry Mancini concert to the Union vault.

Rembusch cited two reasons for wanting to give the lie detector tests. "There is a chance that something will turn up and it will give the student body some indication of the willingness of the administration to do so. I am concerned about the integrity of the Union in the minds of the students. I do not think it helps going into next year with some indication that the people in charge had nothing to do with this." Sears said at this point it would be impossible to predict what his procedure will be if any of the polygraphs are positive. He did say that if the tests singled anyone out that they "will be interrogated intensively."

Rembusch said he expects no change to come of the tests.
No Punishment For Demonstrators

Rev. James L. Riehle, C.S.C., Dean of Students, told a group in an NACC meeting that the University would take no action against them. Riehle agreed to call WSNF with the news and said he would speak with other Administration officials about the arrest clause in the Student Manual.

Riehle told the group, which included one faculty member, that "I say now that nothing is going to be done at all. My first inclination about this whole business was to 'cool it' and do nothing. I didn't think I would be forced to do anything." Regarding an alleged earlier statement to WSNF that those arrested would be punished if convicted, Riehle maintained "I told WSNF I had not made up my mind. In fact, the intention in the back of my mind was to do nothing. I'll inform WSNF that I didn't make any such statement."

Pressing the Dean of Students on the question of the entire set of regulations in the Student Manual, Senior Brian McGinley asked Riehle "Do we have to call a General Assembly to change a rule around here?" Riehle replied that he has no authority to make policy changes and that such matters are decided upon by the Board of Directors. Not satisfied with Riehle's answer, McGinley demanded to know the reason for the rule that students convicted of civil offense are liable to university disciplinary action. Riehle stated "There is not a duplicating of rules. The University feels it has the right if it wants it to act. There can be no argument about this. Double jeopardy means that legally you cannot be twice taken to court for the same action. The University action is nothing like that."

In another issue discussed at the meeting, Riehle confirmed that the student manual would undergo thorough revision over the summer. When asked by Prof. John A. Williams of the YD's YR's Pick Officers

The Notre Dame chapters of the Young Republicans and the Young Democrats elected officers last night for the 1968-69 school year. Sophomore Mike Kelly was elected chairman of the Young Republicans and Pat Barbolla was elected President of the Young Democrats.

Kelly, the first Sophomore chairman in the club's history was Executive Secretary and editor of the YR newspaper Thrust last year. He's also a Senator from Breen-Phillips Hall and is working on plans for next year's planned Constitutional Convention for the Student Union Academic Commission.

Joan McGowan and Jim Symonowicz were elected to the posts of Co-chairman and Secretary of the Young Republicans. McGowan is a junior government major from St. Mary's. Tim Walsh, a Sophomore history major, was appointed Executive Secretary.

The Young Democrats also elected Sophomore Rich Libowitz Vice-president, and Don Graham Secretary-Treasurer. Libowitz was on Notre Dame's College Bowl team and has a show on WSNF, and was Vice-President of the club this past year.

----

Tom Figel

Just What This World Needs

One thing a Notre Dame or St. Mary's diploma signifies is an ability to chat-chat politely on a high plane. St. Mary's students especially, who have been around the world without seeing anything, can speak five different languages without anything to say in any one of them. Both John's schools can talk commitment as if fine words were also fine actions.

Every class or social announcement reads like a call to arms. Make Your Class Government, Your Social Commission, Your Fly-Tying Club better or the best ever! Almost everyone can follow "God is Love" and be uplifted but no one can put that love into something concrete and worthwhile. The schools are full of people who would go down South, would work for Bobby Kennedy or McCarthy, would do something for someone else except that there are heads to split and papers to write. The schools' intentions are good; but their commitment boils down to Ayn Rand on a bad day.

St. Mary's and Notre Dame may not be the only student bodies capable of supporting programs or candidates without doing anything; but they certainly set an example of apathy difficult to imitate. Notre Dame, for example, is made up of six thousand button-wearers, but the students from Detroit, Boston, and Chicago caused the town last weekend. Everyone is against the war but no one does anything about it. Everyone likes Negroes aren't Negro children just darling? but no one does anything about their situation.

Apparently, the Summa Drive has enjoyed its greatest successes in its own backyard. "And He Called It The University Of Notre Dame" still goes over big. Somehow, four years at the school serve to reinforce the conviction that because Notre Dame is Catholic, it leads the way on all fronts. If only we would follow, instead of serving as the base for Father Hesburgh's shallow efforts.

The student bodies of both schools have found that it is a lot more pleasant to be hip than effective. The Anti-Tсадал don't beat up cops; but they don't do much else, either, unless, in some strange way, long gowns and dandolions stop paint from flaking or troops from landing on a foreign shore. God himself is nice, but he doesn't seem to do much no matter how modern the Mass is or what the texture of the host happens to be.

The hippies, too, are aware, but the awareness gets lost somehow in the small talk of getting stoned. Four years develop the ability to hold strong principles without acting on any one of them. That's why everyone had a candidate in the election which ended yesterday; but no one registered and no one worked for any of them. Everyone knows what America ought to be without at the same time knowing who should make it that way.

The words come thick and fast, nevertheless; because lack of action does not go with lack of bluster. Things will probably go on in the same way and chances are that the two classes which graduate this year will be alumni and that's all. Just Notre Dame or St. Mary's alumni. Just what this world needs.
BY PAT COLLINS

The sign said, "Brass buttons and guns don't make a war. And it was one of many scribbled on cardboard for the occasion - the annual anti-ROTC packet of the Presidential Review. Walt, the Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, addressed a moderate-sized crowd in Stephenson Stadium. He was relating numerous personal experiences at the Marine Corps, and was training and arming the Namsarm army and people. He said, "We must not give the enemy the idea that we may pull out because of antagonism back home." This, according to Walt, would only serve to foster the morale of the Viet Cong and consequently prolong the war. "The enemy is in bad shape," he said. Also he contended, both the spirit and sense of duty of the U.S. soldier remain high. Walt concluded his speech by requesting widespread support for the continuing war in Vietnam.

BRASS BUTTONS AND GUNS DON'T MAKE MEN

BY BOB SCHUELER

Returning from Easter vacation, Notre Dame students were greeted by a leaflet from Mr. Robert Cahill, ticket manager for the University's Athletic Department. This leaflet informed the students that they would no longer be able to perform the services of basketball team free of charge. Instead, they were informed that students must purchase a $12 student season ticket to watch 12 home games in the beautiful, spacious new Athletic and Convocation Centers. However, as explained by Mr. Cahill, there are good reasons for initiating this new policy. They expanded maintenance costs for the new Athletic Centers are enormous compared to the main athletic facility in existence. In total volume, the Athletic Center is larger than the Library, and cost $600,000. That is unusual and normal to maintain. In order to meet this huge expenditure, the University decided to charge students for the services.

Previously, all students were directly paid for the cost of the basketball games through fees included in the tuition. Faced with this added cost, Mr. Cahill said that the University felt it would be more equitable to charge the students who go to the games, rather than to increase the fee for all students. This fee will now be used to maintain the large areas of the Athletic Center, such as the squash and handball courts, that will be open to all students.

There are two complaints that many student have registered about the new ticket system, apart from the cost. Many students only want to see the UCLA game and don't wish to buy a season ticket, thinking it unaffordable. The others are angry because they will no longer be able to bring dates to the games.

Concerning the UCLA game, Mr. Cahill said that provisions for avoiding disappointment are being made. Closed-circuit telecast of the game, either in the other dome or in the Stephenson Center, is the procedure followed at Madison Square Garden and at Princeton University when events are sold out.

The date situation has also been discussed, and the seating arrangements have enough flexibility to reserve a section for this purpose if the students show enough interest in it also. A 100 seat section has already been set aside for sales to St. Mary's or Notre Dame students.

Student Body President Richard Rossie pointed out that the situation could be much worse. "At Purdue," he said, "they have a comparable facility. But at Purdue, which has 14,000 students, they sell only 3 thousand seats to students. Despite the supposed problems with new arrangement, the student response has been one of concern and excitement. Sales have been running very high. Apparently, basketball fever at Notre Dame surpasses all monetary considerations.

BY TOM EHRBAR

Last evening Lt. General Lewis Walt, Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, addressed a moderate-sized crowd in Stephenson Stadium. He was relating numerous personal experiences at the Marine Corps, and was training and arming the Vietnamese army and people. He said, "We must not give the enemy the idea that we may pull out because of antagonism back home." This, according to Walt, would only serve to foster the morale of the Viet Cong and consequently prolong the war. "The enemy is in bad shape," he said. Also he contended, both the spirit and sense of duty of the U.S. soldier remain high. Walt concluded his speech by requesting widespread support for the continuing war in Vietnam.

BY BOB SCHUELER

Returning from Easter vacation, Notre Dame students were greeted by a leaflet from Mr. Robert Cahill, ticket manager for the University's Athletic Department. This leaflet informed the students that they would no longer be able to perform the services of basketball team free of charge. Instead, they were informed that students must purchase a $12 student season ticket to watch 12 home games in the beautiful, spacious new Athletic and Convocation Centers. However, as explained by Mr. Cahill, there are good reasons for initiating this new policy. They expanded maintenance costs for the new Athletic Centers are enormous compared to the main athletic facility in existence. In total volume, the Athletic Center is larger than the Library, and cost $600,000. That is unusual and normal to maintain. In order to meet this huge expenditure, the University decided to charge students for the services.

Previously, all students were directly paid for the cost of the basketball games through fees included in the tuition. Faced with this added cost, Mr. Cahill said that the University felt it would be more equitable to charge the students who go to the games, rather than to increase the fee for all students. This fee will now be used to maintain the large areas of the Athletic Center, such as the squash and handball courts, that will be open to all students.

There are two complaints that many student have registered about the new ticket system, apart from the cost. Many students only want to see the UCLA game and don't wish to buy a season ticket, thinking it unaffordable. The others are angry because they will no longer be able to bring dates to the games.

Concerning the UCLA game, Mr. Cahill said that provisions for avoiding disappointment are being made. Closed-circuit telecast of the game, either in the other dome or in the Stephenson Center, is the procedure followed at Madison Square Garden and at Princeton University when events are sold out.

The date situation has also been discussed, and the seating arrangements have enough flexibility to reserve a section for this purpose if the students show enough interest in it also. A 100 seat section has already been set aside for sales to St. Mary's or Notre Dame students.

Student Body President Richard Rossie pointed out that the situation could be much worse. "At Purdue," he said, "they have a comparable facility. But at Purdue, which has 14,000 students, they sell only 3 thousand seats to students. Despite the supposed problems with new arrangement, the student response has been one of concern and excitement. Sales have been running very high. Apparently, basketball fever at Notre Dame surpasses all monetary considerations.

BY TOM EHRBAR

Last evening Lt. General Lewis Walt, Assistant Commandant of the Marine Corps, addressed a moderate-sized crowd in Stephenson Stadium. He was relating numerous personal experiences at the Marine Corps, and was training and arming the Vietnamese army and people. He said, "We must not give the enemy the idea that we may pull out because of antagonism back home." This, according to Walt, would only serve to foster the morale of the Viet Cong and consequently prolong the war. "The enemy is in bad shape," he said. Also he contended, both the spirit and sense of duty of the U.S. soldier remain high. Walt concluded his speech by requesting widespread support for the continuing war in Vietnam.