Daley Replies to Report

Conlisk, in his first public reaction to the so-called Walker Report, said in a news conference that he "rejects Mr. Walker's conclusions that any kind of police rioting occurred. I believe that the report, as de­scribed by a petition of 100 stu­dents. Any company that did not comply with the quota, to be submitted by the Student Body President, would be asked not to attend.

The mayor denied, as charged in the report, that his controversial order of "shoot to kill arsonists and maim looters" after the April West Side riots influenced police actions during the convention.

"That order had nothing to do with it," he said. "We have had a lot of riots since then since then and things have calmed down." He also denied reports that he had been at odds with the Justice Department on the question of demonstrations.

But before accepting defense research, he said, "each university would have to make its decision as to how it can involve itself and to what extent with weapons research."

Besides his college duties, Dubridge has been an adviser to the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Mobilization Office.

LBJ Refuses To Censure

The Student Senate last night passed a bill demanding that re­public companies refrain from re­cruiting on campus be required to "appear in public to answer questions if it is de­manded by the student Body, President, or any of the Student Senate."

The bill passed, 31-8, after little debate.

However, a bill proposed by Lysons Senator John Rank cen­sure the "actions of those demonstra­tors who obviously impede the freedom of the Uni­versity Community" was defeated 25-15.

The bill specifically men­tioned the demonstrations against Dow Chemical Company which occurred in April during the conference "Cities in Con­text" and another "demon­strations in May's job placement inter­views. Rank claimed that the bill was not aimed at past demonstrations, but rather at fu­ture demonstrations which might disrupt the rights of the students.

The bill demanded that any accusations of violations be handed immediately by the Dean of Students. Although not a statutory provision of the bill, this action was defined as taking pictures and I.D. cards of demonstrators in these cases before the Campus Judicial Board. Rank emphasized that the bill did not call for physical removal of demonstrators.

Shepard's Wife Sues

CLEVELAND (UPI) – Dr. Samuel Shepard, convicted in the 1954 bludgeon slaying of his pregnant first wife and acquitted in a retrial after serving nearly 10 years in prison, yesterday was used for divorce by his second wife, who told the court she feared for her safety.

The German born Mrs. Arlene Shepard, 39, immediately was granted a petition for an injunction restraining Shepard from attempting any contact with her. She said in the petition to the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court she feared he would do her "great bodily harm."

Afro-Americans Make Demands

Last Tuesday, members of the Afro-American Society delivered a Black Power statement to Uni­versity President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh CSC requesting that he guarantee certain black demands by 5:30 Fri. Dec. 6. As a reprisal against an unsatisfactory re­sponse, the students hinted at a possible boycott or disruption of the UCLA basketball game Sat. night.

The statement read in part: "The Afro-American Society of Notre Dame has concluded that action taken thus far upon the grievances which we presented on Oct. 3 has been insufficient. We base our conclusion on the fact that we have received only one letter token concerning each of our grievances. Arthur McFarland, head of the Society, enumerated a list of specific de­mands which he felt required immediate action from the administration. "They’ve had two months and so far nothing’s happened," McFarland said. Exactly what the Afro-American Society wants is not an absolute guarantee of the support agreement, but rather a written reply expressing that definite steps have been taken to eventually bring about the demands. The statement to Hesburgh enumerated certain specific­ally to the black stu­dents. McFarland explained each demand:

1) A black scholarship fund.
2) Black recruiters, hopefully employed full time by the ad­missions department.
3) Ten percent of the student body be black by 1977. This would involve an addition of 150 students a year. Of course, this would only be possible with a vigorous scholarship program.
4) Black counselors, especi­ally in connection with the Freshmen Year of Studies Pro­gram.
5) Blacks in supervisory posi­tion.
6) Increase in black faculty.
7) Blacks in supervisory posi­tion.
8) Remedial and tutorial programs.
9) University Community was de­termined as of this date.
10) Academic aid, he contended that much of it involves relatively small sums of money. McFarland explained that the black scholar­ships would be determined pri­marily on the basis of financial need.
11) Academic aid, he contended that much of it involves relatively small sums of money. McFarland explained that the black scholar­ships would be determined pri­marily on the basis of financial need.
12) Avoidance of the "safety." the word has been defined as 'appear in public to answer questions if it is de­manded by the student Body, President, or any of the Student Senate."

"Great bodily harm."

Nobody would let me be a Boy Scout. My brother was permitted to collect insects, leaves, stones, and ancient badges. I got to be a Brownie, but it wasn’t the same. My brothers got to build campfires.

I had to go to Saint Mary’s College, across the street from Notre Dame. I was used to standing outside of packed meetings, looking in. I didn’t think I would have an adjustment problem. I joined the Observers only so I could be one of the guys. I promised to be honest, obedient, and the rest. But then the guys started to treat me like a good scout, a troop of one. I had an identity crisis, and concluded that I would rather be a Democrat. That role just increased my frustrations, since the cub reporters in the office couldn’t seem toprogress beyond the wool jumpers.

Over Thanksgiving I attended a Boy Scout Banquet. My father was receiving the Silver Beaver Award for outstanding service. My Den Mother mother was there, three of my Boy Scout brothers were there, five hundred Boy Scout leaders, including my father, were there. I was there feeling insecure, until someone announced that girls were being admitted to the Explorers. At last I had a chance, but I knew that I had to find a troop.

People have been complaining about the social atmosphere at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s for years. I can see it all clearly. A constructive approach would be to organize an Explorer Troop. Dress everyone in War World II uniforms and send them out in the woods. Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students might watch together, going on trips, lighting fires. Think of the merit badges they could win for being crafty. Since Notre Dame Explorer would be trustworthy, Saint Mary’s girls wouldn’t hesitate to join up with the Notre Dame troop. Instead of going to the dunes only in the summer, students would have an excuse to sit around campfires all year long.

If I’m going to be a scout, I’ll have to be honest, have the purest of reasons for starting a troop. Better Notre Dame. Saint Mary’s reasons. But I have Saint Mary’s in my blood, and I’ve been known to get carried away. Notre Dame students would start out as Cub Scouts in one big wolf pack. They would move on to become bears and then lions. Their next step would be the Boy Scouts. They would work all the way up to eagle scouts. Then they would be ready to descend on Saint Mary’s at Explorers. But I’m not all that sure that the girls would be trustworthy. The ultimate goal of the Saint Mary’s Explorer might be a merit badge for learning to tie the knot. It might be wise for the Notre Dame Explorer to remember the first rule of scouting: Be Prepared.

ASP Chairman Resigns

Junior Pete Kelly has announced his resignation as chairman of the Action Student Party. Kelly has held that position since last Spring, and was unanimously re-elected this September.

Off-campus senator Armand Gelnis, the vice chairman of A.S.P., will stand as acting chairman until Friday. Gelnis stated yesterday, “I’m going to try to pull the party together. The party will either run or endorse a candidate this spring.”

The A.S.P. plans to hold a meeting this Thursday dealing with its constitution and its statement of purpose. It will also consider endorsement of a bill of independence on campus politics. The party provides an efficient mechanism for the emergence of intelligent and informed student leaders. I am resigning from my present position only because I have found the other projects to be more rewarding. Also, I have found consensus politics personally constraining, and have on several recent occasions been guilty of exactly that for which I have been condemning campus bureaucrats (i.e., playing the student intrigue game).”

“Presently, I don’t consider the A.S.P. important. I hope the party continues to act in a healthy influence on campus politics. The party provides an efficient mechanism for the emergence of intelligent and informed student leaders. I am resigning from my present position only because I have found the other projects to be more rewarding. Also, I have found consensus politics personally constraining, and have on several recent occasions been guilty of exactly that for which I have been condemning campus bureaucrats (i.e., playing the student intrigue game).”

Irish Five Rolls Over King’s, 84-54

Notre Dame’s highly ranked varsity cages were 30-point victors last night, but were something less than impressive in winning. King’s College of Wilkes-Barre, Pa. hurled the Irish all night before going down 84-54. Captain Bob Aronzo opened scoring in the Monarch’s new gymnasium, while Austin Carr hit on his first three shots from the floor. But sophomores Dave Lampman and Ron Rose countered to keep King’s close at 17-16 with 10:40 left in the half. The much smaller Monarch front line baffled Notre Dame even off the offensive boards, and used a controlled, patterned offense effectively.

But the Irish slowly wore down the Monarchs and stretched their lead to 41-23 at intermission. King’s was hurt by a horrendous cold spell which saw the Monarchs ring up only seven points in the entire second quarter. Carr and Aronzo paced Notre Dame with 15 and 11 points, respectively. The second half was a carbon-copy of the first. King’s shooters alternated hot and cold, but Irish turnovers prevented a breakaway. Notre Dame couldn’t get a consistent fast-break going, and lost numerous long passes. John Pleck, Bob Whitmore, and Sid Colletti did the damage for Notre Dame in the second period, combining for 20 points.

New Monarch coach Ed Donohue saw his scrappy youngsters finally run out of steam in the last few minutes. With both teams substituting freely, a late flurry, headed by Jim Hinga, pushed the final margin to 30.

Notre Dame shooting was mediocre both from the floor and line, but a stout man-to-man defense throttled the Monarchs’ attack for most of the game. Carr cooled off considerably but still ended up with 20 points to lead Irish scorers, followed by Aronzo’s 14. Bob Whitmore and Pleck, who had a�� tie with Larry Sheffield on the all-time scoring list with a lifetime total of 1,255, provided back up power with 12 and nine points. Rose, a fine-looking forward, topped the Monarchs with 15 markers.

T.H.H. Meets R.M.N.

NEW YORK (UPI) – Notre Dame quarterback Terry Harratty and four other college All-Americans enjoyed the flavor of presidential sporting interest Monday when President-elect Richard Nixon took time out to exchange quips on the game.

The four — Harratty, Heisman Trophy winner O.J. Simpson of Southern California, tackle Dave Foley of Ohio State and tackle Bill Stanfill of Georgia — called on Nixon to present him with an autographed football in appreciation of his interest in the game.

“I don’t think I can get to the Rose Bowl but it should be a great game,” Nixon told them. “But if I did I’d be caught right in the middle. I have some mixed emotions about the game. One of my great friends for many years is Woody Hayes, Ohio State coach, and my wife went to USC in ‘37.”

Simpson told the president-elect, “It’s been signed by all the guys.” He handed the football to Nixon who replied, “I expect to receive many symbolic gifts over the next few years, but none will mean more to me than this.”

Nixon questioned both Harratty and Simpson closely about how to hold the football when it’s thrown. Nixon, enjoying himself, spent about a half hour joking with the four players.

Harratty, who injured his leg several weeks ago, was dressed in a black blazer with a white turtle neck sweater and was on crutches.

Nixon has been an avid sports fan since his days as a second strings on the Whittier College football team.

Ohio State

Cops Crown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ohio State won the National Football championship the easy way in front of a television set. The Buckeyes, who finished with a 9-0 record, watched Saturday as Southern California and Notre Dame battled to a 21-21 tie in a nationally televised game.

The tie dropped Southern Cal (9-0-1) out of the top ranking and paved the way for Ohio State’s second national championship. The United Press International latest list of Coaches cast 28 of 34 possible first place votes for the Buckeyes, who won their first title in 1957.
