Voor decides against indictment

University President issues statement

On protest activities and limitations

University President Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, CSC, stated yesterday that students, faculty and others who involve themselves in protest activities which disrupt or infringe upon the rights of others will face immediate suspension, expulsion and action by civil authorities.

In an eight-page letter to the University community, Hesburgh specifically explained what steps will be taken against "anyone or any group that substitutes force for rational persuasion, be it violent or non-violent." Such a group "will be given fifteen minutes of mediation to cease and desist. They will be told they are, by their actions, going counter to the overwhelming conviction of this community as to what it proper here. If they do not within that time cease and desist, they will be asked to present their identity cards. Those who produce these will be suspended from this community as not understanding what this community is. Those who do not have or will not produce identification, will not be members of the community. They will be charged with trespassing and disturbing the peace on private property and treated accordingly by the law."

The decision on whether University operations have been insubordinated or rights have been violated will be made by the Executive Committee. Religious students in such a situation will be the Triumvirate, the Disciplinary board and the faculty will follow procedures outlined in the Faculty Manual. All judgments will be delivered within five days after due process is satisfied. Action by the University in the case will be initiated against any faculty member.

The letter went further, "After notification of suspension, or trespass in the case of non-community members, if there is not then within five minutes a movement to cease and desist, students will be notified of expulsion from this community and the law will deal with them as non-students."

The letter emphasized that the law enforcement is not directed against students. "Only after these three opportunities to remain in student status, if they still insist on maintaining the will of the community, are they expelled and become non-students to be treated as other non-students, or outsiders."

Hesburgh further stated, "We can have a thousand resolutions around a yellow jay, and a kind of social existence, but when lawlessness is about, all authority is flouted, University policy is subverted, then student, then we invoke the normal social forces that we allow the university to die beneath our hatefull and hopeless gaze. I have no intention of presiding over such a spectacle; too many people who have much of themselves and their lives to this University to let this happen here. Without being melodramatic, if this conviction makes this my last will and testament to Notre Dame, so be it."

"There seems to be a current myth that university members are not responsible to the law, and that somehow the law is the enemy, particularly those who are voicing that constitution to uphold and enforce the law. I would like to insist here that all University members are responsible to the law, and are responsible to uphold and enforce the law."

"Due to uncertainty concerning Indiana State Law and the University's commitment to the rule of law, the student is not to be subject to the laws of the land. There is no other guarantee of citizenship versus the jungle or sub rule, here or elsewhere."

Further on the letter states, "If someone invokes your home, do you dialogue with him or call the law? Without the law, the university is a sitting duck for the grand jury. Voor stipulated however, that the decision applies only to students and faculty."

"If there is action, it will probably be against Andrew R. Konrad, producer of "Kodak Ghost Poems," said Voor. "But in light of such a statement, I doubt that will be initiating action against any student community people or the University itself."

Kodak Ghost Poems was seized Feb. 7 by several St. Joseph County sheriff's deputies and other officials, who seized policemen and several others injured. The film was being shown in defiance of a ban by the administration after complaints had been lodged against several films in SULC's Conference on Pornography and Censorship. A special subcommittee of the Student Life Council is preparing an official history of the Conference and will recommend action by the University in the matter.

The statement that Voor referred to in his announcement was yesterday's letter by University President Theodore Hesburgh which outlined future University action against violators of the free expression of the University or the rights of other community members.

SLC discusses report

The Student Life Council met last night in the Center for continuing education to discuss the Hall Life subcommittee's report.

Before this, however, the question arose as to who had the authority to call the Student Life Council into emergency session. Four instances were noted. A meeting was initiated by either the President of the University, the chairman of the SLC, one of the leading factions of the Council, or a petition of three members of the Council. Discussion of the matter will be continued at the next meeting.

Discussion then centered on the provision in the Hall Life Report concerning the drinking of alcoholic beverages on campus. Father Bartell, chairman of the subcommittee, stated that the report restricts the University's position to that of advising students of Indiana State Law.

As of now, University rules prohibit drinking on campus. Furthermore, Father Bartell, says of his prefects, "If they see open drinking in the halls, they are to report it to me."

Due to uncertainty concerning Indiana State Law and the University's commitment to the rule of law, the student is not to be subject to the laws of the land. There is no other guarantee of citizenship versus the jungle or sub rule, here or elsewhere."

Further on the letter states, "If someone invokes your home, do you dialogue with him or call the law? Without the law, the university is a sitting duck for the grand jury. Voor stipulated however, that the decision applies only to students and faculty."

"If there is action, it will probably be against Andrew R. Konrad, producer of "Kodak Ghost Poems," said Voor. "But in light of such a statement, I doubt that will be initiating action against any student community people or the University itself."

AUP norms Upheld by pres.

Speaking to a 1 pm convocation of some 3,000 Saint Mary's students and faculty members in O'Laughlin Hall yesterday, President Rev. John J. McGrath explained his views on the non-renewal of faculty contracts and the building of a faculty. McGrath stated that student opinion was important, but ultimately "Faculty members must be evaluated by their peers."

McGrath explained that American Association of University Professors was a professional group which offered guidelines for ethical standards and norms of conduct for faculty members. McGrath said that the present Board of Trustees has adopted the norms of the A.A.U.P. for Saint Mary's College, and "at no time have the standards of the A.A.U.P. been violated."

McGrath further explained that the Rank and Tenure Committee is composed of a department head and two senior members of the department whose member is being evaluated as well, as both faculty members elected at large, the Academic Dean and the Vice-President or President of the college. The Rank and Tenure Committee meets to discuss cases of promotion in rank, and the granting of tenure. McGrath said that the Rank and Tenure Committee is "faculty dominated. Faculty members are judged only by the "peers." Department members seated on the committee have an opportunity to speak for or against the promotion or grant of tenure to a particular faculty member. The four permanent members of the committee then submit a recommendation to the President. When questioned on the possibility of over-ruling the recommendation of the Rank and Tenure Committee, McGrath replied that it "has never happened while I have been President".
Federal law ends aid

An administrative official of the U.S. Office of Education has announced that the Office of Education is now trying to determine means of enforcing a new law which requires state colleges and universities to discontinue federal aid to students involved in campus disruptions.

The law is actually a part of an education bill passed last fall, but enforcement of the law is still being considered. Herman Allen, director of the Office for Higher Education, said that the individual colleges and universities must determine which students are in violation of the law. He does not feel the law is a "dead letter," but was unable to say exactly when enforcement of the law would begin.

Fr. James Ruhe C.S.C., Dean of Students, said that since the law applies to state institutions which receive support from public taxation, Notre Dame, as a private institution, would not be affected by such a law. However, Fr. Ruhe said that in a recent Notre Dame move in the direction of being considered a public institution because of the number of students who receive federal aid from the government, but at present does not come under this law.

Currently the Wisconsin State Assembly is in reaction to the disruption on the Wisconsin University Campus and is considering a similar bill for approval. Edward M. McManus, state executive director of the Wisconsin Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union, asked that a hearing be held before giving approval to such a bill. According to Mr. McManus, the Wisconsin Senate "pushed this bill through without a hearing, although one had been scheduled."

"Legislation of this magnitude should be given calm and careful consideration and not be railroaded through the legislature in the excitement of the moment," McManus said.

Conference on Racism

The Committee on White Racism will present a week-long conference, February 23-27, on White Racism. The conference, entitled "WAR: War Against Racism," will consist of lectures, movies, and small group discussions.

The Committee is made up of the twelve Notre Dame delegates to the National Student Association's White Racism Conference held at Notre Dame during the Thanksgiving holidays, and is chaired by Phil McKenna.

McKenna said last night of the conference's purpose: "We want to make the students aware of White Racism on both the Campus and in the Society."

The tentative speakers for the Conference include Rev. Jesse Jackson, the head of Operation Bread Basket, Father Groppi, from Milwaukee, and Mrs. Alice Nixon, an expert on Negro Folklore. Four workers from the Chicago ghettoes will also speak.

The last day of the conference will be devoted especially to Racism at Notre Dame.

McKenna also said, "We would like to see that the students take what they have learned at the conference and put it into action."

Pope warns of 'very grave error'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI warned yesterday that priests who want to marry or enter into other aspects of ordinary human life have fallen into a "very grave error" that can paralyze the friendly vocations.

The Pope delivered his warning in a speech to Rome Lentin preachers. It came as pressures for ending priestly celibacy are mounting in various parts of the world, especially Holland, and have even reached in the Holy See in recent weeks.

The Pope made clear he was not concerned only with the celibacy question, but with the broader problem of priests seeking to take up a life which other men are as a means of making contact with modern society.

Witnesses tell how they fought mob

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two witnesses told yesterday how they fought off a frenzied crowd of curfew and screaming to get to Sirhan B. Sirhan and take vengeance for the shooting of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Gigantic former football player Roosevelt Grier and Jene M. Uschold, former speaker of the California assembly and chairman of the Kennedy for president campaign, testified for the prosecution in the seventh week of the murder trial of the 34-year-old Sirhan, a Palestinian Arab.

Sirhan accompanied the police to the station where they took Sirhan and said the defendant told him, "I did it for my country," when asked why he shot the New York Senator.

Sirhan said he did not want to see a repetition of the Lee Oswald-Cuba case. President John F. Kennedy was shot to death by Jack Ruby while in the custody of Dallas police.

B - 52 bombers raid Cong strongholds

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. Air Force B-52 jets bombed Viet Cong strongholds in jungles near Saigon yesterday night 30 minutes after the end of an allied lunar new year cease fire. Shock waves from the bombs rolled across the capital.

The U.S. command said eight Americans were killed and 71 wounded in 12 Communist violations of the truce that included a charge of a large Viet Cong bombardment in South Vietnam's northern reaches. Overall, spokesman said allied forces killed 96 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The B-52 squadrons ranged over thick jungles 31 miles northeast of Saigon at 6:20 p.m. Monday and unloaded their cargoes of 500-pound and 750-pound bombs on targets pinpointed by American infantry units trying to prevent a Communist Tet offensive.

Nixon and Dobrynin confer in capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Soviet Ambassador Anatoli Dobrynin conferred for the first time yesterday at an hour long meeting. It was believed they at least touched on major East differences.

"All I can say is that the meeting lasted one hour and it was a very constructive meeting," reported White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler.

He declined to say if it was more than courtesy meeting, traditionally made between new Presidents and foreign ambassadors. But the length of the session in the President's oval office prompted speculation that the two probably discussed such major problems as the Middle East, U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks and possibly the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

Israelis raid Jordanian emplacements

MID EAST (UPI) — Israeli jet fighters swooped into Jordan yesterday and attacked Arab guerrilla positions on the east bank of the Jordan River cease fire line. New Arab violence erupted in occupied Gaza, and Cairo reports told of mounting fears of Israeli renal raids across the Suez Canal truce line with Egypt.

Official Israeli spokesman said jet fighters went into action against Arab snipers concealed in vegetation along the east bank of the Jordan River after guerrillas attacked an Israeli sentry at the west bank with bazooka rockets. The Israelis suffered no casualties, they said.

Smoking clinic to open soon

The Psychology department announced that it is now accepting interested participants from both Notre Dame and St. Mary's for its second semester smoking clinic.

There are three basic goals which the clinic hopes to achieve. Professor Whitman, head of the program, outlined them basically as being, first to help the students reduce or stop entirely their habit. Second, to develop new techniques to help others stop smoking, and lastly to evaluate existing techniques and their effectiveness.

Professor Whitman stated that the main goal of the clinic is to reduce the student's smoking habit rather than stop it entirely. He felt that it is not so important that a person smokes, as the amount he smokes. Approximately twelve cigarettes is the cut off line. He stated that "If a person smokes fifteen cigarettes or so he might as well smoke the entire pack."

About thirty students participated in the clinic that was held this past semester. According to Professor Whitman about seven out of eight reduced their habit significantly, but no one stopped permanently.

There were three main techniques used in aiding to reduce the habit. The most effective turned out to be a short-term basis. The second technique was designated to help students study and find out why they smoked and how they felt about the relationship between smoking and their health.

Second technique was designed to help the students to use any method they felt would be personally effective in breaking their habit. One technique used by several students was to record each time they had a cigarette during the day. According to Professor Whitman "it makes the student more aware of the number of cigarettes he is smoking, and as a result he is able to cut down."

The Letter

Yesterday University President Father Hesburgh attempted to lay down specific guidelines by which to control right-infringing protests. We were dismayed that the statement was not made in concurrence with the Student Life Council. We were under the impression, evidently mistaken, that the SLC was created just for such purposes. Two months ago the SLC passed a resolution supporting the general policy of the Student Manual and went so far as to form a subcommittee to consider the possibility of a statement similar to Hesburgh’s. Nothing has come of it. We submit that the SLC is to formulate and defeat the purpose of its generation. And Father Hesburgh is ignoring the SLC by merely reading the “core” of it to the SLC without asking for their formulation.

While we realize the need for a definitive set of guidelines to govern such situations as the Dow-CIA demonstration and the recent pornography conference incidents, we further submit that Father Hesburgh’s formulations are not feasible. Demonstrators and the circumstances surrounding them are loosely structured and it is rarely possible to apply a set of time limits such as 15 and 20 minutes for suspension and expulsion. The uproar of a demonstration simply make it impossible.

We further question the relationship of the Campus Judicial Board with the Dean of Students in the context of such a situation as described by Father Hesburgh. According to the Student Right section of the Student Manual a student is entitled to a trial as well as an appeal. A student falling under the circumstances of Father Hesburgh’s demonstrations evidently has recourse to an appeal only. This apparent distortion of the law needs to be delineated carefully.

As a point of curiosity it is interesting to read the sentence of the statement, “Without being melodramatic, if this conviction makes this impossible.” Exactly what does this mean?

The week in the news

Aside from the amusement provided by two girls from St. Mary’s who wrote a letter to the Observer describing Notre Dame in terms almost as childish as those used by an Observer columnist in describing St. Mary’s (“Notre Dame jocks say ‘duh,’” “St. Mary’s girls say ‘duh,’” “Nyah, nyah, nyah.) and the further amusement provided by the Observer editor’s assumption that if he rescued someone from the final deluge that person would in effect be granted salvation, this has been a quiet week.

The teacher-dismissal crisis at St. Mary’s was substantially aided by girls wearing red construction paper hearts on Valentine’s Day and by someone outside of Student Government offering that Student Government would dissolve itself in order to put SMC in a position to lose its accreditation. This move was hastily put away by people in Student Government, who don’t want to quit. The junior editors of the Scholarist’ had a meeting to decide what to do after the senior editors leave; the senior editors fearing a coup such as they pulled last year on their senior editors, have been nervously watching the junior editors ever since and publication of the Scholarist may grind to a halt any day now because no one has time to get any work done. WSNF-FM went off the air three hours early Saturday night because of a momentary power failure which trapped the programming director in an elevator in O’Shaughnessy. Leaving the air early is illegal and the FCC ought to know about it.

The St. Mary’s coordinator of the Contemporary Arts Festival owes the chairman of the Contemporary Arts Festival $30 for tickets to the Chicago Symphony and refuses to pay. A Notre Dame student who wants to be Student Union Academic Commissioner leaves St. Mary’s library books in study carrels at Notre Dame and forgets them. A committee has been set up to slander Chuck Perin. Betty Deere is truly a nice person. Sixty-five percent of the returns on the Mardi Gras booths will be used to throw parties during Lent and, as a further note on Mardi Gras, six of the girls who went were not home-town honies and four of these had a good time. < ■
The trouble with The Subject Was Roses is roses

by Tom Elbar

It reminds one of Long Day's Journey Into Night, though the primary antagonism that can arise out of the intimacy of day-to-day maried life. While Patricia Neal and Jack Albertson are at Taylor and Burton, and while the script is weaker, The Subject Was Roses is unmistakably the same line all over again.

The subject of The Subject Was Roses is roses. A vase of red roses (obviously symbolizing romantic love or the like) is violently smashed in a frenzy of anger. It serves an apt metaphor for the film, for Roses is not a pretty portrayal of marital bliss. It offers a look at that has decayed into despair and pettiness, and threatens to pervert a young man as he reaches for independence and self-assertion.

The story line hangs tight and snap: one incident carefully juxtaposed after another, a heightening of intensity, : mild groping for some resolution that never really comes. The film opens with a large "Home" party for a 21 year old son returning from a war that has changed half the world, but hasn't touched the old tensions and inadequacies of the parents. And then the three of them husband, wife, and son, begin to maneuver. All are trapped within their own narrowness and selfishness, yet all try to piece together some form of harmony and peace. One is raised in a by his ingrown childhood, 1, a severely singing career, his later days of carousing, and premonitions of his own business failures. He takes all away, often on an emotional loyalty to a crippled relative, and subconsciously hopes his daughter, who is working in a mental hospital, will help take care of his problems. With marked exceptions, no one comes off well. The whole purpose of the roaming camera, moreover, is to make the film meaningless, to bring out the dynamics of visual relationships. A movie must be kept moving, it must emphasize action - this seems to be the whole essence of the film. If the film opened up the action a little bit, broken away a little more from the dramatic script, and spent less time with characters of the same sort, it could have come out more cleanly smelling of roses.

any small group from outside or inside that wishes to destroy it, to incapacitate it, to terrorize it at whim. The argument goes-or has gone invoke the law and organizations were a result of a statements from those various and the Alumni Board. The Council, some College Councils, Faculty Senate, the Student Life "practically unanimous" support you lose the university to incapacitate it, to terrorize it well lose the university."

Hesburgh said he had the "practically unanimous" support of the Academic Council, the Faculty Senate, the Student Life Council, some College Councils, and the Alumni Board. The statements from those various organizations were a result of a Hesburgh letter of last Nov. 25.

Also in the letter the University president stated, "I believe that I now have a clear mandate from this University community to see that: 1) our lines of communication between all segments of the community are kept as open as possible, with all legitimate means of communicating dissent assured, expanded, and protected; 2) civility and rationality are maintained as the most reasonable means of dissent within the academic community; and 3) violation of other's rights or obstruction of the life of the University are outlawed as illegitimate means of dissent in this kind of open society. Violence was especially deplored as a violation of everything that the University community stands for."

He concluded with, "I truly believe that we are about to witness a revolution on the part of legislature, state and national, benefactors, parents, Alumni, and the general public for much that is happening in higher education today. If I read the signs of the times correctly, this may well lead to a suppression of the liberty and autonomy that are the lifeblood of a university community. It may well lead to a rebirth of fascism, unless we ourselves are ready to take a stand for what is right for us."

ERROR! The Observer erroneously reported yesterday that John Povey, Associate Director of African Studies Center at UCLA, would speak Wednesday night at Saint Mary's College. Mr. Povey will speak at Saint Mary's tonight at 7:30 at Carroll Hall.

Kelly to head South Bend Pres. comm.
The formation of a Special Presidential Committee to bring South Bend area university students into contact with the total South Bend community was announced by Richard Rossie today.

Headed by Peter Kelly, the Committee's Notre Dame members include Mike Shapton, Thomas Booker, Stephen Gable, John Wilson, Rich Moran, Dan Wegrocki, Thomas Nisson, and Bill Richardson. Contact will be made with the other south Bend universities within 3 weeks to set up "an inter-college board for communities."

Rossie said that the Committee is intended to "end the attitude of student apathy to what goes on around us in the community as a whole" and the "traditional animosity" of South Bend residents to Notre Dame students.

Rossie mentioned the United Health Fund, The Neighborhood Study Help Program and labor relations as particular service projects that the committee would deal with.

Petition
The petition signed by over six hundred students in the wake of the Conference on Pornography and Censorship will be used by the students' bargaining committee in their dealings with the Student Life Council, said committee member David Kahn yesterday.

The petition, was drawn up by a group of "concerned students" and circulated to the dining halls to protest the actions of the Administration and the Student Government in withdrawing their support of the Conference. It is now in the hands of the committee formed at the La Fortune Student Center protest meeting two weeks ago.

of the rules. Professor John Houck, in getting back to the issue at hand, pleaded with the Council not to "perpetuate outdated symbols" in reference to student-co-ed relations. He stated that we "have to find new symbols" in dealing with parietal hours.

Professor Edward Murphy felt the real issue at hand was the allowing of "fraternization and adultery" on University grounds.

Gregory Scott took issue with this saying the question of parietal hours was not one of moral standards but of whether the University was giving its students as broad an education as possible, especially concerning productive and responsible relations with the opposite sex.

The discussion continued in this vein until 6:00, at which time the Council adjourned until next Monday at 4:00, at which time they will either accept or reject the report.

Five get Wilson Fellowships

It was announced yesterday that five Notre Dame seniors have been named as recipients of coveted Woodrow Wilson Fellowships granted annually by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation. The five seniors are: Michael P. Anderson of Colorado in Mathematics, Barry E. Breen of Fort Lee, New Jersey, in English Literature; William L. Cullen of North Plainfield, New Jersey, in Comparative Literature; David C. Einker of Cincinnati, Ohio, in Biochemistry; and Noel D. Wycuff of Texarkana, Texas, in Political Science.

The Woodrow Wilson Foundation provides full fellowship awards to the 1,106 finalists in the national competition. Prior to 1968, the foundation made available, to itself, with the help of funds from the Ford Foundation. Now, fellowship support comes primarily through the graduate schools, with the Wilson Foundation supporting the remainder of the designates.

Ted's enduring appeal. Granted we're in the 50-year-old former Boston slugger turned it down. Appealing as Short's offer was to Williams, the baseball even offered him a cheese sandwich. Years after they retired? Poor Babe. Nobody in the middle of inflation, but who ever offered such a long term contract in that neat, small Palmer-like change. We're very close."

While Connie Mack, who was the last manager owner of the Senators' stock. Get some paper and coming in the form of an option to buy 10 percent of the Senators' stock. You'll also find no other manager has ever come close to a deal of this kind and that includes the late Connie Mack, who was the last manager owner of the Senators."

"He hit a home run," says the Senators' new manager, "I really don't want to get into this."

Whichever day Williams does sign his name to a one-year now working for Sears Roebuck."

Ted is so-o-o-o rich

NEW YORK (UPI) - Ted Williams, one of the highest paid players of all time, automatically becomes the highest-paid manager of all time as soon as he scratches his name on that Washington Senators contract.

"Hopefully it should be within the next couple of days," says Washington owner Bob Short, the man who's shedding all the heavy cabbage. "We don't want to paint any one specific day he'll sign and then invite a whole lot of questions that we don't want to answer. Nothing has changed. We're very close."

Whenever day Williams signs his name to a long term contract in that neat, small Palmer-like change, the Senators played without regular center Clarence Harper,2.20. Harper, who's worth around ND after two years of management, was injured in the January game, he scored 19 points, and his absence hurt Butler on the boards.

The Senators' terms certainly say something for their manager. The club's history ever was paid better. The Red Sox never said whether they paid Williams how much he could contribute to a club that's 50 points and 15 turnovers. Whitemore has 15 points in the first twenty minutes and Carr added 13.

At the outset of the second half, Butler brought their brand of basketball to perfection. The lead changed hands 18 times, but Irish minutes kept the game close at 18:18. The Irish then went on a drive which culminated in a 33-22 lead at 7:45. Tony's boys refused to leave the fieldhouse, however, and cut the deficit to 13-17 at 2:45. At 2:15, Irish captain Arnie Aronson was fouled. He missed the second attempt (ND missed only two the entire night), but was given a reprieve when Bob Scott Neal stepped into the lane too soon. When Neal deviated the call, he was slapped with a technical. Arnie converted the free throws, but Williams came back to take over.

Life is funny though and as tremendously as other "racehorse" basketball. Notre Dame stood the test of time and won 74-73. At this, Butler brought their brand of basketball to perfection. The lead changed hands 18 times, but Irish minutes kept the game close at 18:18. The Irish then went on a drive which culminated in a 33-22 lead at 7:45. Tony's boys refused to leave the fieldhouse, however, and cut the deficit to 13-17 at 2:45. At 2:15, Irish captain Arnie Aronson was fouled. When Neal deviated the call, he was slapped with a technical. Arnie converted the free throws, but Williams came back to take over.

Ted, at 51, only a year older than Williams. He identified with him growing up and can tell you what Williams did before he wore the Red Sox uniform. Ted was even more impressed by the superhuman effort that went along with it.

Williams made no special requests in his talks with Short. He didn't even ask for his old No. 9 uniform which he wore with the Red Sox."

"Frank Howard wears it on our club," Short smiles. "I heard that Frank said Ted could have it if he wants."

"That's right," confirms Short. "If I had taken no for an answer it would have never come to this."

When I first talked to the head coach of the club he said, "Bob, I know you and I'd like to help you. I will help you get into basketball but not without my signing. Nothing has changed. We're very close."
