Colombey des Deux Eglises, France (UPI) President Charles deGaulle offici­ ally resigned last night after French voters defeated his Constitu­ tional reform plan in a refer­endum. He had been presi­ dent of France since 1958. The general made the announcement that will end a political era in France from his country estate here after nearly complete polling results showed Frenchmen had rejected his political reform plan by a ten­ tative margin of 52.48 to 47.52 percent.

DeGaulle's resignation would be effective as of noon Monday. According to the French Con­ stitution, deGaulle will be suc­ ceeded immediately by French Senate President Alain Pohler, 60 year old leader of the Center Party. The 78 year old general informed France by day—and its day—had come with these terse words: "I am ceasing to exercise the functions of the president of the Republic. This decision takes effect at midday today Monday." Thus, in 20 words, Charles deGaulle again stepped out of the hurly burly of French political life as he had done shortly after World War II and ended the DeGaulle reign in France which began in May of 1958. Then, he came forth from retirement from this same estate to lead France out of the bitter rivalry of the Algerian rebellion and to build his Fifth Republic on the political ruins of the fourth.

The issue upon which DeGaulle fell was technically, a vote for or against continuation of DeGaulle's power. The general made it so Friday night when he told them in what proved to be his last nationwide television appearance: "If I am disapproved solemnly by the majority of yourselves on this capital subject ... my present task as chief of state will clearly become impossible and I will immediately stop carrying out my functions."

The Observer

On Thursday, April 24, there was a massive demonstration (about 15 people) in front of South Bend's CBS affiliate, WSBT-TV, protesting the cancellation of the Smothers Brothers television show. CBS, undoubtedly worried about such overt displays of loyalty caused by their Smothers Brothers smoother, have thus far remained silent.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) President Rene Barrientos Ortuno, whose army crushed the guerrilla forces led by the late Ernesto Che Guevara in a battle last week, was killed when his helicopter crashed outside his hometown of Cochabamba in the Bolivian interior.

Radio Condor said Barrientos' helicopter crashed when it hit a power line outside of Cochabamba, about 200 miles southeast of the capital. His aide, Lt. Leo Orellana, was accompanying him and also was killed.

A spokesman for the presidential palace confirmed the president's death shortly after the semificial Radio Condor broadcast the announcement.

Barrientos was an accomplished pilot, but government officials could not confirm whether he was at the controls of the aircraft when it crashed.

More troops arrive in North Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) The final contingent of an airlift of 350 British troops from London arrived Sunday to reinforce British forces already based here in guarding the country's ultra-violent border areas.

More than 15 persons were injured in a clash between Protestant militiamen and Catholic demonstrators in the West Belfast area of the city.

Robert S. McNamara, president of the World Bank and former secretary of defense, will be the principal speaker at the May 1 dedication of the University of Notre Dame's Hayes-Healy Center for graduate business education.

Robert Strange McNamara C.S.C. Preaching at the Mass will be the Rev. W. Stacey Joyce, S.J., president of Boston College and a former dean of its College of Business Administration.

The dedication events will start with a 10 a.m. Mass in Sacred Heart Church celebrated by Notre Dame's president, the Rev. Theodore M. Heasburgh, O. S. B., and to be homiletic at a dedication luncheon.

Lepham elected new YD chairman

Sophomore Harry Lepham became the new Chairman of the Notre Dame Young Democrats last week. The present Chairman, Richard Hunter, chose not to run for re-election.

At last night's meeting, the YDS also passed two resolutions and announced future plans for a sponsored lecture by John Singenthaler, who managed the California primary campaign of Robert Kennedy.

In a run off election, Lepham defeated the present vice-chairman Rick Libowitz by a margin of one vote. Freshman Jack Gillis, the Chairman of Notre Dame Students for Kennedy in '72, became the new Vice-Chairman.

Steve Novak was elected to the office of Secretary and Bill Joyce to the office of Treasurer. Prior to the elections, the YDs passed a proposal to endorse Indiana Senator Vance Hartke for re-election in 1970. A resolution establishing a policy committee to draft stands on specific issues was also passed. This committee will consist of the newly elected officers and three other members appointed by Lepham.

The lecture by Singenthaler, which will deal with the press reactions to the trail surrounding the Robert Kennedy assassination, is presently scheduled for May eighth in the Library Auditorium.

When asked about his future plans as chairman Lepham stated that he proposes to contact the Chairman of the Saint Mary's Young Democrats concerning a possible merger of their two organizations. He also stated that he plans to accompany Hunter to the Indiana State Democratic Committee Meeting, which will deal primarily with both the reform of the Democratic Party in Indiana and the necessary planning for the 1970 campaign races. The meeting will be held in Indianapolis on May 17.

Chicago Area Draft Resisters (CADRE) will speak on resistance tonight at 7:30 in the Law Auditorium.

Letters to the editor

Grace Hall Editor Regarding Joel Connolly's letter in Wednesday's 10/28 issue, on the naming of Grace Hall, Joel is entitled to call on us as he pleases, but his disregard for facts makes his rhetoric suspect. Joel's new line—'We need a high—on him not to be named for the donor, Mr. J. Peter Grace but rather in memory of his father, Joseph P. Grace. As far as I can learn, Joel, is the only one confused about fact in all this.

J. Peter Grace is not, of course, a Notre Dame graduate, as Joel presumed without checking but instead a Yale graduate and a former University president with a long and distinguished record of service. And most of all, I take exception to Joel's implication that the program's military directors an award based not on academic criteria, but on a contractual agreement made some years ago.

While the letter's two questions can be debated on their own merits, I suggest that a rather academic decision seems to ride on the answer to the first question: military training compatible with the function and goals of a university?

If the answer be no, it is clear that the credit and the professorships must leave the campus along with the program itself. If, however, ROTC is thought to be a legitimate university activity, its status as curricular and extra-curricular must do more than seem to be all that significant.

Father Hesburgh concerned himself with this question of the functions and goals of a university in a recent conference called "The Task of Universities in a Changing World." The "university," in his opinion, is "not a mere hodgepodge of role-confusion, conflict of values. The contention that ROTC is necessary for this is not convincing. If after four years of freely examining (as a civilian) the issues and the principles of military service, a man decides to serve, then an expanded postgrad OCS program could make him an officer. Unless perhaps the military is interested in getting boys into the ranks before they have thought such things out, a four year delay in training would have no adverse effect on the liberalizing element deemed so important.

Without regard to the implications of a Christian commitment, it seems the question of ROTC and Notre Dame can be considered on two levels. The essential question asks if a cooperative association with the military is worth it. And the more fundamental question is, does Notre Dame and her students have "serving the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College Community." You serve all right — but whom do you serve? There is the question of why one objects to porno-parodies. It is, I think, the same thing as the wanton destruction of the Giuseppe on Wednesday evening. You alone was reprehensible enough, but your hypocrisy. Under the Innsbrook criterion, any "relevance" (oh, poor misguided Joel) is not make the final confirmations.

There comes a time when someone simply has to risk his reputation, his career, and what is in one's heart. I am a mother of five children, three boys, two girls. We live near the university and my husband teaches there, and we have taught our children that they possess the great gift of sex among other marvelous gifts. We have told them that it is indeed a wonderful and beautiful gift, in a sacred trust. Never have we permitted anyone of them to do anything unpleasant, dirty or shameful about sex.

We have also taught them to love the body of Jesus Christ, to have a reverence for her womanliness, her compassion, her strength, and her beauty.

Now I find that my daughters, aged 9 and 6, cannot walk on the front porch without being attended by one of their pretend brothers. They neither understand nor enjoy the remarks that pass for the sound of the windows. They are just little girls, but they somehow sense the meaning of the sill words, and they feel uncomfortable about even knowing exactly why. The pornography conference was a sad sad event for our family — an opportunity to explain something to the children...but a sad and even heartbreakingly event for us.

We take exception to your ad for NODOZ in the April 21 issue. We take exception to your filthy attitude toward sex. But most of all, I take exception to your hypocrisy. Under the Innsbrook's criteria, any "relevance" (oh, poor misguided Joel) is not make the final confirmations.

Error costs ND sweep

For the second weekend in a row the ND baseball team has split a pair of games with their opposition. This time it was Western Michigan who disposed of the Friday-Saturday games, the Irish winning 5-2 at home on Friday and Western coming off with a victory at Kalamazoo, 7-4.

The big star of the Irish win had to be sophomore Ron Schmitz. He relieved the Notre Dame ace, Jim Phelps, in the third inning with the bases loaded and nobody out. Schmitz then retired three men in a row without ever touching the plate. However, Western did score on Phelps before he made his exit. Besides this brilliant fireman performance, Schmitz added his name with a bases loaded double in the 4-run fourth inning for Notre Dame.

The sophomore from Cleveland is now 2-1 on the season.

Rick Crisp was the leading hitter in the ball game with 3 hits in 4 appearances at the plate. One of his hits was a double. He had support from Schmitz who put up four runs apiece in the third and ninth innings.

The game at Kalamazoo was an extra inning affair which the home town won in the eleventh inning. Crisp scored an Irish shortstop Phil Krill. The error occurred with two outs and the bases jammed. There was a 3 and 2 count on the batter, Dave Shoenmacker, and this permitted the runners to be going on the pitch. This forced Krill to make the long throw short and it was wide of its target.

This was a heartbreaking defeat for the Irish who came behind with a 4-run ninth to take the lead, 6-5 after trailing by 3. The lead didn't last long as Shoenmacker smashed an inside the park homer for WMU. Schmitz was the hitting star of the day with a 4 for 5 afternoon.

Sophomore Tom Sinnott suffered the loss after relieving Bob Arrenz in the ninth. This was Sinnott's first decision of the season.

Leading hitters for the Irish were Tom Sinnott with a pair of runs batted in and Rich Lappe who also scored twice. Shoenmacker hit two for 4. John Schlucke hit a towering home run for the Broncos to give them their first run.

ND scrimmage: offensive show

Ara may not be able to "stop the snow" as evidenced at several football games the past few falls, but he doesn't do too bad with the sunshine.

After a week of unpredictable weather, the Irish were treated to a warm, sunny day for their second Saturday football scrimmage. Seated in the stadium this week, the crowd watched as 73 points were totaled, some by the defense.

The Joe Theismann-led Blues had it their own way for the early part of the work-out, scoring five times. Freshman Andy Huff accounted for two TD's with runs of seven and four yards. Ed Ziegler also scored from the seven and Theismann fired TD passes to fullback Jeff Zimmerman (14 yards) and Jim deArrieta, working at split end, (20 yards).
