Moynihan, Flahiff to speak here

Daniel P. Moynihan, assistant to President Nixon for Urban Affairs, and George Cardinal Flahiff of Winnipeg, Canada, will be the principal speakers at the University of Notre Dame's 124th annual commencement exercises June 1.

Moynihan, who is also executive secretary of the administration's Council on Urban Affairs, will speak at graduation ceremonies scheduled for 2 p.m. (EDT) in the Athletic-Convocation Center. Cardinal Flahiff, who was appointed to the College of Cardinals by Pope Paul VI last March, will preach at the 9 a.m. Baccalaureate Mass, which will also be held June 1.

Moynihan received his undergraduate degree from St. Michael's College, Toronto, and his graduate work at the Institute of Technology and Harvard University. He taught medieval history at the University of Toronto graduating school and at the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies at the University from 1934 to 1954 when he was elected superior general of the Basilian Fathers.

An advocate of renewal in the religious life, he was appointed archbishop of Winnipeg in 1961 by Pope John XXIII and from 1963 to 1965 served as president of the Canadian Conference of Bishops.

Cardinal Flahiff is a Basilian who was appointed to the Sacred Congregation for Religious and Secular Institutes on last night, nine Senators, who left the assembly because, in the opinion of the Senate, there were not enough members present to continue the meeting.

The ROTC bill, which had been presented by Senators Kevin Rooney and David Jones, stated "The Student Senate of the University of Notre Dame endorses the resolution passed by the Faculty Senate on May 7, 1969, and calls upon the Academic Council to establish that academic credit for ROTC be granted only for courses taught by faculty members of the requisite (that is, non-military) academic department of the University. We mandate the Student Body President to send copies of this resolution to Father Hesburgh, the Academic Council, the Board of Trustees, and the Faculty Senate.

Since this bill was not voted on last night, students, who were against its passage, walked out of the room in order to un-officially end the meeting. They left the assembly because, in the words of Thramer, "If we were to vote on this bill tonight, this majority of the Senate would most likely pass it. We would not get the entire opinion of the Senate and the Student Body."

In commenting on the action of the Senate, Senator John Zimmerman stated, "Many of the Senators chose to use parliamentary tactics rather than facing up to the issue, addressing the issue, and taking a stand on it. As a Senator for next year, I am very disappointed in the response of the Senate to perhaps the most important issue this year."

Thramer stated, "I think that this bill is a first step in the attempt to remove ROTC from the campus."

Prior to the unofficial adjournment of the meeting, Student Body President Phil McKennan stated that the Senate will continue meeting night after night until they decide on this issue. He also stated that it was impor-tant for the Senate to vote on this bill before the University Academic Council meets on May 29.

Before discussing this bill, the Senate decided that the Student Body should vote on a two point proposal. The first point will deal with the Senate's request for an additional semester fee from sixteen to eighteen dollars, and the second point will deal with a proposal to want mixed seating at the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students of the same class.

A conference to explore anthropol ogical aspects of liturgy is scheduled for June 9-13 at the University of Notre Dame. The symposium, entitled "Roots of Ritual" and sponsored by Notre Dame's graduate program in liturgical studies, has a twofold purpose, according to the Rev. Aidan Kavanagh, O.S.B., program director, 1) to examine the role played by ritual structures in the psycho-social development of man, 2) to determine the sources and limits of man's need for ritual structures in the civil and religious spheres of his existence; and 3) to suggest the radical effects such structures have as agencies of value dissemination in society and as forces securing a sense of identity for the individual member of society. Speakers at the symposium will include Prof. Brian Wucker of Birmingham University in England, Prof. J.C. Crocker of Duke University, Prof. Margaret Meade of Columbia University, Prof. Patrick J. Quinn of the University of California at Berkeley, and Dean Alexander Schmemann of St. Vladimir's Seminary, Tuckahoe, N.Y. In addition to Father Kavanagh, other Notre Dame faculty members on the program will be the Rev. David Burrell and Prof. Edward Fischer.

Topics to be discussed include "Ritual in Personal Development," "Ritual in the Resolution of Personal and Social Crisis," and "Ritual as a Communication Medium," and "Ritual and Christianity.

The symposium will be held at Moreau Seminary, and further information is available by writing Father Kavanagh at the University.

Sunday night, the first step was taken toward the formation of the hall government for towers A and B. Both towers will be considered one hall, with one council.

National Guard returns to Southern

President Nixon proposed a broad reform of the draft yesterday calling for a lottery system of selection which would make the youngest men most vulnerable.

Under his plan, their maximum vulnerability to the draft would last for one year only between age 19.20 rather than for the seven years from age 19.26, during which the draft hung over the heads of eligible youths today.

In a special message to Congress, Nixon put aside "more stable world conditions" to reveal his campaign pledge for replacing the draft with an all volunteer army.

The idea of a hall tax was discussed, with a majority of the members in favor of some kind of fee charged in order to raise funds.

The meeting broke down into three groups, comprising of those who joined the individual student representatives at the meeting were released. Work was done and which would be bypassed. Some system like that is necessary, Dillenberger said, "I seriously doubt it." The idea of a hall tax was discussed, with a majority of the members in favor of some kind of fee charged in order to raise funds.

Does it hurt to chill beer twice?

Not that you'd want to. Sometimes it just happens ... like after a picnic, or when you bring home a couple of cold 6-paks and forget to put 'em in the refrigerator. Does re-chilling go up the taste or flatten the flavor? Relax. You don't have to worry.

A really good beer like Budweiser is just as good when you chill it twice. We're mighty glad about that. We'd hate to think of all our effort going down the drain just because the temperature has its ups and downs.

You can understand why when you consider all the extra trouble and extra expense that go into brewing Buds. For instance, Budweiser is the only beer in America that's Beechwood aged.

So ... it's absolutely okay to chill beer twice. Enough said. Of course, we have a lot more to say about Budweiser. But we'll keep it on ice for now.
