Response denied to McKenna on ND Placement Bureau recruiter policies

by Jim Holzinger

A request by Student Body President Phil McKenna for objective information about the functions of the university's Placement Bureau was denied by the director of the bureau last Friday.

Early last July, McKenna called for an "objective look" at the Placement Bureau. A list of questions was sent to Rev. Louis J. Thornton, Director of the Placement Bureau.

In a ten-page letter to McKenna dated September 26, Thornton took a defensive attitude toward the request, and didn't answer the questions.

The interest in the bureau stems from the CIA-Dow protest of last November. During a three day demonstration against the presence of the recruiters from the CIA and Dow, discussions arose concerning the purposes and procedures of the Placement Bureau.

In order for the university to benefit from the discussions, McKenna felt it was necessary that certain facts should be publicized since there was little known about the bureau.

"The problems have not been asked in an intimidating atmosphere. I feel that it is necessary for the University to take an objective look at all of its past policies," wrote McKenna in a letter to Fr. Thornton last summer.

The questions are factual. They ask about the origins of the program, the number of students involved, and the results obtained over the years. Greg Scott, a member of last year's SLC, then went to Fr. Thornton and gave him the list of questions.

In July of this year, Phil McKenna sent a letter explaining the reasons for the study to Thornton. The ten-page reply was released yesterday.

The letter dealt with the supposed injustice of the Dow protest and of the proceedings which followed it.

Fr. Thornton accused protesters and certain members of the student government of interfering with the rights of the individuals who sought information from the recruiters.

The protesters at the November sit-in were asking that representatives of the companies on campus should be required to meet with groups of interested students. (continued on page 7)

Finance Committee meets

by Jim Graf

The recommendations of the experimental college subcommittee of the Notre Dame Curriculum Revision Committee-containing the proposal that the university begin an experimental sophomore year program emphasizing "a process and methodology rather than subject matter orientation"-is not radical enough, says Edward A. Goerner of the Political Science Department.

Goerner whose 10 page proposal entitled Experiments with Truth: A Radical Proposal appeared in the May 16 issue of the Scholastic and began much emphasis on the sophomore year program, contended. "Some young men at least may profit from spending a part of their college years living with students, 'Gallagher explained. "This would allow the Student Union more flexibility.

At the present time, committee members are divided over which of the two options to follow. Those who favor a balanced budget feel that such action would create a feeling of respect for, and confidence in, student government by the members of the student body. Those who favor a deficit believe that it would allow the Student Union to provide more services for students and would give the Union more flexibility.

Tonight the committee will go over the Student Union and the Student Government budget requests and try to decide if it will be necessary to ask for line loan. These two organizations receive priority in the allocation of funds. Both McKenna and Conlith were impressed that a decision could be reached to-night. However, in the next three weeks the committee will view requests for funds from other campus organizations and thus the final decision could be delayed.

Goerner requests radical revision

by Paul Gallagher

The recommendations of the experimental college subcommittee of the Notre Dame Curriculum Revision Committee-before being forwarded to the Academic Council, the political scientist said: "It just doesn't speak to the problems that generated my proposal. It is not a serious answer to the problems we (Dr. Goerner and other faculty members submitting experimental college proposals) presented.

The problems, as outlined by Professor Goerner's request last spring, centered around the "obscure but deeply felt and genuine alienation from their college experience of so many of our students," and the fact that a student's life is "in great, neatly landlocked barracks where he is largely cut off from any rounded contact with older scholars whose life of wonder and study he might have an opportunity to share," to test.

Professor Goerner's proposal was that a five year resident college within the university be set up with no more than 200 students (100 men, 100 women), and 30 faculty members. Junior scholarship students and senior scholars (faculty members) would live together, would share a life of reflection and growth together-the thesis being that "some young men at least may profit from spending a part of their growing up among a community of learned and holy men."

The proposal for having students live for one year in a co-ed dormitory and with freedom to pick their own courses is not enough, said the professor. "It is irrelevant to the issues brought up about life at Notre Dame last year," Goerner contended. "None of the people who wrote proposals are happy with it."

The recommendations to be voted on by the entire Curriculum Revision Committee have indeed reworked Goerner's ideas such that little of his ideas remain, admitted Barney O'Neill Gallagher, a student member of the CRC.

"The ideas are too radical for Notre Dame," Gallagher explained. "They are radical, but conservative views were continued. He felt that he presented a rigid, scholastic view of education," said the committee member. "Goerner wanted to dictate what students should take, but the subcommittee was in favor of giving students greater freedom in this regard," said Gallagher.

Also, in regard to faculty living with students, Gallagher said, "It has been tried in colleges. It doesn't work. It isn't feasible," he said.

Discussion on the Goerner proposal is just beginning, say faculty members and students in support of the political scientists. Among campus faculty members known to be in favor of the Goerner live-in university idea are Professors Joseph Duffy, Frank O'Malley and Donald Sniegowski of the English Department and Professor Peter Walch of the economics department.

Professor Goerner of the Political Science Department is acting CAP director.
We Call it "Livability"

Our idea is to serve you with lunches and dinners you can live with day by day. Fine steaks properly broiled and at prizes you can live with, too. And with pleasant surroundings, comfortable booths and chairs, a little background music; and a smile from the folks who serve you. And a choice of dinners to match your taste:

1. Sirloin............$1.19
2. Rib Eye............$1.29
3. Chopped Sirloin.....$1.09
4. N.Y. Strip.........$1.89
5. Ham Steak.........$1.19
6. Fish Fillet..........99
7. 1/4 lb. Hamburger Platter with French Fries...79

---

STEAK HOUSE

1516 N. Iroquois
Just N. of Edison

BLACK ANGUS

STEVIE HOUSE

Pro Law Society

Important Introductory Meeting

Thursday, October 2

7:30 p.m. 127 Nieuwland

Registrations for 1969-70 and pertinent speakers. All students interested in Law School are invited.

---

SMC cafeteria plans new line procedures

by Jeanne Sweeney

The excessive length of the dining hall lines during the dinner hour at SMC will soon be an unpleasant memory of the past. If newly enacted procedures are successful.

Mr. Percy, the manager of Saga Foods, spoke at the SMC Assembly meeting last night, and said they had decided on two approaches to relieve the problem.

The first step will be to open the dining hall for dinner at 4:45 p.m. instead of 5:00 p.m. According to Percy, this new time will hopefully get the line moving sooner and more swiftly.

This year's ROTC enrollments plummet as symbolized by the Aero-

---

North Wedgewood room, which has been open to students but not yet used.

At its meeting next week, the assembly and Percy will evaluate the effect of the new procedures.

---

2550 sign away all desserts for the year

Nearly twenty-five hundred Notre Dame and St. Mary's students signed their names and gave their desserts away for the rest of the year in the dining halls.

The money for their desserts will be spent to provide breakfasts for several hundred South Bend school children. Many people signed the statement with reservations and questions about the program.

They were assured that the funds will be handled entirely by students.

The food will be distributed through the Catholic Social Services Agency of South Bend and another private charitable agency.

Bill Mitchell, one of the organizers, emphasized that the university still has to give its permission for the idea.

Mitchell said that his approval is necessary for the project to be put into effect.

The university faces a possible conflict with the food services director with whom they have a contract. The university agreed to have him make a certain number of desserts a week and each desert that is forfeited means less of a profit for him.

---

Directory finished

The 1969 Freshmen Photo Directory has finally made its long awaited appearance on campus. The directory, 200 pages thick, has photos of both SMC beauties, and ND men. It has long been considered a valuable asset for those fresh who are inclined to make frequent blind date calls.

The directories will be distributed today and tomorrow, in the Tom Dooley Room of the LaFortune Student Center, between 4 - 6 p.m.
Hall presidents set strict parietal enforcement

by John Shreeves

Parietal hours became the main topic at the Off-Campus Office last night's Hall Presidents' Council meeting.

The meeting began with nominations for chairman of the Council for this year. Those nominated are Tom Suddes of Holy Cross Hall, John Backett of Murphys Hall, and Kevin Hall's president, Gerry O'Shaughnessy. The meeting will be held one week after a short speech before the Council by each candidate.

Pat Fields, the Community Relations Commissioner, spoke to the Council explaining his new programs and their relation to the individual halls. He said each hall president should select a person in his hall to be in charge of distribution and collection of an index questionnaire. The questionnaire would concern the students' preference in volunteer programs and the time they would be able to devote as a volunteer.

The upcoming Senate election and their procedures were presented to the Council by Stay Senator, John Zimmerman. The campaigning period begins Saturday night and will be extended this year because of the complications produced by the unfinished high rise buildings. Election will be held next Thursday. Hall Presidents were asked to take it in the names of those who will be in charge of the ballot boxes, and also to give the candidates in their halls the necessary information on campaigning procedures.

The Council decided to purchase a ditto machine because other ditto machines which they regularly use are either not reusable or already in use. The machine will cost $100 and because of the fact that the Council has a total of 64 cents in their treasury, $7 will be collected from each hall to pay for the machine.

The Council then began discussion on possible means that could be used to amend the parietal hour system of sign-ins. The means decided on was a strict enforcement of the parietal hour rules this weekend.

This weekend all females including mothers and grandmothers will have to be signed in and out. This ruling remains in effect for all parietal times. To enforce this rule, a suggestion was entertained to post signs at each entrance to the halls which would explain the strict enforcement very clearly.

By enforcing these absurdities of the parietal hour legislation and by informing and demonstrating to the parents the absurdities, the Council hopes they will inform the University officials of their views and thus forcing the new rules to be removed. It was pointed out that this method could make the new system look ridiculous or, in retrospect, if no parent complained, it would only strengthen its position.

The second proposal would have the Hall Presidents' Council, as a body, present their rationales for rejecting the new system. Many members felt the previous idea would only cause trouble and that this method would be more to the liking of the University officials.

Most halls, it was stated, operate now as if there were no parietal regulations. The system which some use is one of respect for each member in the community. Names are turned in if a sufficient cause is presented but otherwise, only a reminder is necessary. Other halls rely on the honesty of the students to comply with the parietal regulations and so no watch is kept.

The Council did not vote on any of the proposals.

The last item discussed dealt with the speakers invited to each hall. Hopefully, each hall will in the course of the year have a member of the board of trustees and Father Hesburgh in to speak.

Are you a very satisfied off-campus student? Room in new dorms (Flanner) overlooking campus available. Call 232 - 0550.

---

State troops move in MADISON, Wis. (UPI) - National Guard troops occupied the Wisconsin capitol yesterday to prevent another takeover of the state legislature by demonstrators demanding more for welfare.

Gov. Warren P. Knowles said the guard would stay "as long as necessary" to make sure the legislature would not be intimidated. The legislature is meeting in special session to consider the needs of state welfare recipients.

The Rev. James E. Groppi, a militant Roman Catholic priest, and about 1,000 of his followers including college students took over the assembly chambers for approximately 10 hours Tuesday, leaving after National Guardsmen surrounded the building. The state department of administration estimated they caused damage amounting to $20,000.

Groppi and about 150 to 200 others planned to march on the capitol later Tuesday after attending a rally at the University of Wisconsin.

Knowles had called the special session to consider a $33.1 million supplementary budget to reduce welfare cuts and to provide funds for urban areas.

Knowles said the demonstrators did not represent the state's welfare Recipients.

---

War pamphlets are distributed; Selective Service is questioned

Two pamphlets from the War Resisters League will be distributed at the Off-Campus Office today. The pamphlets have been printed up by a group of interested students who obtained the material from the War Resisters' Office in Palo Alto, California.

One of the pamphlets deals with the income tax, which its author claims is being levied solely to finance the Vietnam War. It urges people to boycott the tax, and to deduct it from their monthly telephone bills. It cites the telephone company as assuring subscribers that the company as assuring subscribers that the IRS can resort to to collect the tax.

The second pamphlet is supposedly an official Selective Service System memorandum, put out in 1965. It deals with the supposed "spirit of the Selective Service System," which is concerned with channelling "man-power into many occupations, activities that are considered in the national interest." Mike Kovacevich, one of the students involved in the distribution of the pamphlets, commented on the Selective Service System: "We think it is a farce. It is not fair to everyone. If it is a Selective Service System, then it is a Selective Service System..." Kovacevich claimed that even though a person is supposedly free to choose his occupation in the U.S. it is essentially a "false choice.

"It's a false choice because the Selective Service provides ways of staying out of the draft through deferments, then they decide if the deferments should be granted," he said.

Kovacevich stated that "deferment is silenced by deferments," and that "if student deferments were ended, the SSS would be destroyed."

The stated purpose of the pamphlets is to "educate the ND community to what they're into, that they are a part of a system that may call on their direct participation either physically or economically," he commented.

---

Customer Service

NOTRE DAME ITS PEOPLE AND ITS LEGENDS

by FRANCIS WALLACE

This is the story of the University of Notre Dame from its founding to the present—the story of its people, its traditions, its spirit, its great events and achievements, and its new expectations.

1967.......$6.95

NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

Spirou Men's Shop

since 1891
downtown South Bend

Clothing by Hart, Shaffner and Marx, Van Heusen, Pendleton and Jantzen

The Time Has Come

STUDENT UNION SOCIAL COMMISSION

Presents the

Chambers Brothers

In Concert

Saturday, October 4 at 8:00 PM

Athletic and Convocation Center

Tickets $4.50, $3.50, $1.50 on sale in the Dining Halls

Tonight and Tomorrow night
Desserts for breakfasts

The idea of a "dessert" fast to help feed South Bend children who go hungry to school every day has raised a number of questions in the minds of many St. Mary's and Notre Dame students.

Although over 2100 Notre Dame men and over 450 Saint Mary's women signed up for the fast early in the dining halls, many of them did so only after they had received assurances about the need for the project and about the precautions that would be taken to assure that funds obtained would not be wasted. Such a concern is justified when viewed in light of the fact that similar fasts organized by other student associations across the country were plagued by misdirection of funds. NSA fast funds that were to go toward work in the Civil Rights movement actually went toward paying off the association's five-hundred thousand dollar debt.

As we see it there is little danger of such an incident marred the proposed program. The program is being run entirely by Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students. It will be quite easy for the entire community to keep an eye on whether or not those money is being spent appropriately. The students are working to distribute the food through the Catholic Social Services Agency in South Bend and through another private group. We are sure they will be more than willing to provide periodic information as to whether the students are using the funds to supply the food that is promised.

The concept of sacrifice is very personal. Each man sacrifices for those goals that he deems personally worthwhile for him. The Observer then cannot officially ask students to join the fast.

Sponsors of the program however, state that future progress is contingent upon approval of the proposal by the administrations of both schools and the food services. The fast will not effect either administration to a great degree. The food services however will have to make some sacrifice. Part of the cost of each dessert that is relinquished by a student is profit for the food services. If the fast were one or two nights they might not mind. But a project for the whole year cuts into their profits.

We encourage the food director to make a decision that will enable students at both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's to aid a cause which they deem to be worthwhile. Place the children of South Bend over profit and agree to the fast proposal.

Parietal sign - ins

The Hall Presidents’ Council at its meeting Monday night discussed various ways that it could express its disapproval with the present sign-in procedure for parietal hours.

The concensus of the body is that the procedure is ridiculous. If a public opinion poll of students were taken it would probably yield the same results.

The rationale for the sign-in procedure was never clearly outlined. Apparently it was instituted to give the hall some idea of how many women were visiting on a particular evening and where they were at. No one thought ever stated what the list was to be used for—whether to check as to if the girls have left at the appropriate hours or not, and we doubt very much that anyone cares to assume that responsibility. Most students who would keep a woman in after hours would probably not take the time to sign her in anyway.

As it stands now hall members must sit next to the sign-in book during all of the visiting hours on weekends. Sign-in is a tremendous inconvenience for them as well as for students who have to sign in the female visitors they are entertaining.

The Hall Presidents intended to ask each of their halls to enforce the sign-in procedure this weekend to the letter and to make fathers visiting their sons sign in their wives and small daughters. Surely if such a procedure was established, many more people around campus would be openly cognizant of the meaningless and inconvenience of the regulation.

Perhaps the issue can be resolved without resort to such absurd measures. The Board of Trustees meets this weekend and could easily eliminate the regulation in five minutes if pressed to do so.

If the Trustees take no action, we urge the student members of the SLC to introduce as soon as possible a resolution calling for the abolition of the regulation.

If neither body acts, the regulation will probably go the way of most outdated and meaningless rules at Notre Dame. No one will take the time to enforce it and soon—in little or no time, no one will be manning the sign-in desks and no one will be signing-in.

---

THE MILITARY INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX. Has a nice ring to it, doesn’t it? It seems almost to be an obscene phrase that symbolizes imperialism, war mongering, fascism, and baby buying all in one.

But is that actually what the military is all about (i.e. killing and aggression)? If you can answer a simple “Yes,” that is also a fair evaluation of your thought processes. Consequently, we can deduce that defense spending and employment is a great stimulus to our economy. Could other government activities, at this time, provide a greater stimulus? Doubtful, especially when we consider the defense contracts given to private industry, whose goal it is to maximize profits, and the more these corporations make, the more tax money is available to the government for other projects of importance. Despite this, should we channel defense money elsewhere? It is often argued that the government can best fulfill its mission by answer “No,” when faced with the fact that only eleven billion dollars were apportioned to Health, Education, and Welfare in the same year. Yet, for the dollars put into those areas which have generated popularity, but which pay out less to the United States as a whole (including the poor, in particular), due to poor administration, the Office of Economic Opportunity and Peace Corps fall into this category. However, it is possible to reallocate such activities, as the above mentioned, and efficiently run them with positive results for both the economy and the underprivileged. This, of course, is one point that the Nixon Administration claims it will accomplish while in office.

The cut-backs that have been made in defense, indicate that Nixon not only considers reallocation of funds desirable, but practically as well; a welcome option to say the least.

My own suggestion calls for a reduction in the defense budget to fifty billion by 1975. The roughly twenty billion dollars cut, should be put into a new section of the Health, Education, and Welfare Department which would reorganize the OEO and the Social Security System as one group. In addition, all foreign aid programs, other than military aid, should be tied together with domestic organizations with similar goals (eg. Peace Corps training, in some basics, combined with VISTA).

CONCLUSIONS: 1) a military force is necessary; 2) the present structure is not without flaws, but also contains positive aspects; and, 3) defense spending can and should be re-channelled.

QUESTIONS: 1) why is the military under attack from the people, and, 2) how can the military avoid criticism and become a better run organization?

These questions will be considered in my next article. In the mean time, this column is set up as a “feedback” system of sorts. Do you have comments upon, or solutions for, “the military industrial complex” problems? I would be elated to hear from you and bring them to the OBSERVER office.

The Editor's note: Tom Murphy is the Chairman of the Campus Young Americans for Freedom.
The saga of rock 'n' roll

This is the first of a five-part series on the development of rock 'n' roll as a musical form. The articles originally appeared in the Louisville Daily Herald. In this piece Michael Kendall discusses some of the problems of rock 'n' roll has had in growing to acceptance in the U.S. Subsequent articles will trace the history of rock 'n' roll from its origin in 1953 to the present day.

Walking across campus this morning I suddenly felt very ancient—which, I imagine is not all that uncommon for a college senior.

The cause of this was an "oldie-but-goodie" parading the early morning air waves. Now in itself, it isn't so bad, but the song was "Blue Suede Shoes" by Elvis Presley and that, in case you weren't listening, is vintage 1956 rock! A decade plus is a lot longer than rock 'n' roll's critics thought it would last but that's just what happened. To Frank Sinatra, who once called rock 'n' roll a "rancid-smelling aphrodisiac," the news must be unbearable. Even daughter Nancy is warbling to the tune of a little over a half million dollars. And apparently the only thing she's walked over with her boots is her dad's sensitivity.

If nothing else, rock 'n' roll has demonstrated a durability that confounds critics and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans. That alone should demand some respect from its staunchest and even some fans.

As if things weren't bad enough, in the jumped the payola scandal of 1959. Allen Freed, a Cleveland disc jockey with a mafia for hitting phone books in town to the rock records he played, was indicted for accepting $30,000 in bribes from six recording companies. The calmness that was Freed wasn't just any d.j., he was the cat who started the whole rock scene. He was the one who began playing the rock to the teen and he was the man who gave it the name 'rock 'n' roll'. Crouned Bong Crosby, "My kind of music is coming back."

Not so Bong! Riding the flips of a king-sized trout named Chubby Checker, rock 'n' roll came grinding back. The twist of 1960 not only saw the reinvigoration of rock of a new generation in American banter—but of things to come. Pretty soon everyone was twisting, then pogoing, frugging, jerking—everybody was in the act. Record sales reached new peaks, dance rooms filled like never before. Nothing since the swing era and even the chiropractic business received a shot in the arm.

But then the musical quality sagged and reinvigorated rock began to wane. Finally, said the critics, this curiously persistentfad is fading away.

The brightest thing in the music scene were Jan and Dean. A group owing something to the electric amplifiers, they were fearful of live concerts lest the fans discover their secret.

The Beatles Arrive

In the first month of 1963, Huntsville-Brookley had a phenomenon—a strange phenomenon in England. A shaggy-haired foursome had become the king-sized twister named Chubby Checker. The Beatles were the man who gave it the name 'rock 'n' roll'. They conquered. They conquered. They conquered. They conquered. They conquered. They conquered. They conquered. They conquered.

In 1962 James Meredith became the first Negro to register at the University of Mississippi. In 1965 the first world series started in Boston. The Boston Americans of the American League beat Pittsburgh in a series that went eight games.

"She's a whale of a pianist and a whale of a girl," as Dr. Willis Stevens, chairman of the department says concerning Miss Griffel. A native of Ashtabula, Ohio, she completed her graduate studies at Indiana University in 1962, by Bastiat, and Little Jerome, by Debussy.

All day today

(UPI)—Today is Wednesday, Oct. 1, the 274th day of 1969 with 91 days to follow. The moon is last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:
In 1885 the first special delivery mail service began for towns of at least 4,000 persons.
In 1903 the first world series started in Boston. The Boston Americans of the American League beat Pittsburgh in a series that went eight games.
In 1908 Henry Ford introduced the model T automobile.
In 1962 James Meredith became the first Negro to register at the University of Mississippi.

A thought for the day: "Manander said, "We live, not as we wish, but as we can."

Are you kidding?

NORTH MANCHESTER, Ind. (UPI)—Seventy Manchester College students plan to set a new world record for the duration of a touch football game, starting today at 5 p.m. and running uninterrupted until Saturday at 7 p.m. for a total of 110 hours.

The 70 students, all residents of Ickneray Hall residence for men, announced yesterday that they plan to break the unofficial record of 85 hours set in the fall of 1966 by Manchester students.

SMC hosts recital

by Laura Hafed

The SMC Music Department's Concert Series is presenting the first of its faculty recitals next Tuesday, October 7th at 8:15 p.m. in the Little Theater of Monon Hall. The pianist is Miss Pamela K. Griffel, new to the faculty this year along with three other members. They are Miss Susan Stevens, a soprano who was recorded; Ronald Morello, a pianist from the Army; and Dr. Arthur Lawrence, organist and chorall director from Stanford University, who is on joint appointment with Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

"She's a whale of a pianist and a whale of a girl," as Dr. Willis Stevens, chairman of the department says concerning Miss Griffel. A native of Ashtabula, Ohio, she completed her graduate studies at Indiana University in Bloomington this past summer. She received a Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degree in piano performance, and is presently working on a Doctorate in the same field.

Miss Griffel spent her first two years of college at the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa, where she studied with pianist Dr. Joyce Gaul. For the past four years, she has studied with famed international pianist Menahem Pressler. It was during this time that Miss Griffel received the very coveted Perelman Certificate, an award given for outstanding technical and musical talent and ability.

For her program Miss Griffel has selected Sonata in C Minor, K. 457, by Mozart, Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Haydn, Op. 24, by Brahms, Sonata in E Minor, (1926), by Bartok, and Little Jerome, by Debussy.

The world of man danceth in laughter and tears.

The hills and the sea and the earth dance:

Why put on the robe of the monk, and live aloof from the world in lonely pride?

Behold, my heart danceth in the delight of a hundred arts, and the Creator is well-pleased.
Coercion

Editor

With regard to the recent publicity offered to the eating Notre Dame masses concerning a project to help the needy children of South Bend, I commend the individuals involved and hope that they manage to aid said children. I take issue, nevertheless, with the manner used to garner to the eating Notre Dame masses concerning a project to help the needy children of South Bend, I commend the individuals involved and hope that they manage to aid said children. I take issue, nevertheless, with the manner used to garner

I see before me a picture of the Golden Donner, huddled into a corner of the dining room, sneaking a cup of ice cream gingerly from under one extra napkin, gobbling it down, and leaving the dining hall alone and frustrated, frustrated that his name was not among those offered up on "Tuesday or Wednesday." Our young hero works and scrapples and saves all summer to pay for part of his schooling and comes from almost two thousand miles away, no ties at all with South Bend, Indiana. He comes to the All-American City, not realizing the great tragedy that will befall him. Suddenly, his buddies request that he relinquish his privilege to his own dessert, not for a day, not for a week, not even for a month... but for a year, with promises of successful continuance into next year. "No," says our young man, "I paid for the food. I skip half the food anyway including break fast (oh meal of dubious distinction) and if I should see a dessert that I want, I will, I do it!" "Thank you for your extreme generosity, do-gooders, but may I be promised that Austin Carr, Phil McKenna, and the rest of your merry band will not always hold it against me, even my presence, sever all relationship with me, and ruin my collegiate career?"

"Ah," you good guys say, "but then that is the beauty of our little printed sheet that we so ably circulated at mealtime. Everybody is doing it, so you had better jump onto the proverbial, but fallacious, bandwagon."

Follow the white-hatted leader, and forget about dessert until you skip the ironing drag. Kick over Hampshire House! The shirt with the bold, shades. The one with the new wider spread Bradley collar. And with permissibly spread Van Heuseans to let you skip the ironing drag. Kick over the trousers, man! C'mon over to Hampshire House!

P.S. Produce better food and we will produce a better response! Take note of how successful food sales are all over campus and you desire that we give up more? I think the meals as they are constitute quite a sacrilege. Names and address of author must accompany letters that will be withheld upon request as was the above case.

Charity stays home

Editor,

"Give to all who ask you, and don't ask for it back...but let your alms sweet in your hands until you know to what end you are giving." (DIDACHI, 1:4-6) I believe this is the advice which should be given to those campus Christians who "want to give, want to give, want to give their desserts to those who are in need, in need, in need." There is the same tragic flaw as that of their heroic fellow, Candy Christian.

Certainly most of us would not mint those fourteen pieces of pie or twenty-eight cookies offered by Saga, even if we are not inspired by the voluntary and selfless gestures by our leaders, named at the bottom of the minicopyrighted sheet circulate by the organizers of the charity. However, we shall certainly not hesitate to take all we want from the salad tray right beside the desserts. In other words, at least at Saint Mary's, we shall eat all we want, desserts or none. It occurs that Saga is not going to save any money this way. But the worst fallacy in this perpetuation is that while being filled with the sweet knowledge of generosity, we cannot as intelligent Christians really believe that our gift of alms, however given to those who truly deserve help, is a sacrifice. We may see pleasing to be known as the University that gave up its desserts for the hungry, although not quite as dramatic as that college who last year gave up its Thanksgiving dinner. However, I do not feel that such mindless gestures as periodic token fasts are meaningful contributions to be made by a serious Christian.

Until further informed, I consider the people of South Bend justious and insulig. I do not desire to be a Candy Christian, in all seriousness.

Laura Hufeder

ROT C retort

Editor:

I must agree with Mr. Johnson's statement that militarism is fallacious, but when he says that the ROTC units are "ob­viously a manifestation of militari­anism," all I can say is, "Don't go into Nurnswald or somebody is going to use you for a Bussen bumer."

Why is ROTC militaristic? Are the detachment officers always speaking of the glory of fighting in uniform with your Kameme? Is the U.S. planning a military attack on the "peace-loving allies of the Soviet Socialist Republics"? Not quite, but not quite.

Each and every one of the military men down in Building 95 would be quite happy if they woke up tomorrow and found that their particular skill, whether it's how to navigate a B-52 or aim a torpored or drive a Patton tank, would no longer be needed, that Man "ain't a-gonna study war no more." The trouble is, that isn't going to happen in the foreseeable future.

No American officer or government official has said, within the last ten or so years, that the United States could emerge the winner of a thermonuclear exchange. Recent Indian premier Jawaharlal Nehru's suggestion that the U.S.S.R. might attack America and that Russia was so strong that she would survive the conflict and remain as it is. You say WE are the aggressors???? Or do you define aggression as preparing to defend oneself?

Finally, I'd just like to make a slight request to Mr. Johnson and the rest of his friends. Gentlemen, you are perfectly entitled to voice your opinions and even try to make converts, just don't try to shove it up your noses and forget about dessert until you skip the ironing drag. Kick over Hampshire House! The shirt with the bold, shades. The one with the new wider spread Bradley collar. And with permisibly spread Van Heuseans to let you skip the ironing drag. Kick over the trousers, man! C'mon over to Hampshire House!

All candidates for the Student Senate must meet in the Auditorium, Student Center, at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 2, to pick up petitions and election rules. Attendance is mandatory! For information call John Zimmerman at 7663.
The interests of the protesters were incorporated into a bill passed by the Student Senate last year.

The bill reads in part: "the Student Senate demands that all firms granted the privilege of on-campus recruitment appear in public to answer questions as to the policies desired by a significant number (100 of students.)"

The bill further provides that if a firm fails to make the public appearance they will be asked not to return.

Immediately after the passage of the bill, a petition was presented to the Placement Bureau asking representatives to meet with the public.

When Dow officials could not hold a meeting, many members of the university engaged in controversy over the policies of the Placement Bureau.

It was at this time that McKenna sought to obtain the facts about the operations of the placement bureau.

He felt that both sides could benefit from an open discussion. From the discussions if the facts about the Placement Bureau's operations were known, said McKenna.

Thorton used the reply to make accusations rather than answer the question.

Thorton wrote, "It is fundamental that our policies and activities be firmlv decided upon.

We can bring peace, we will bring peace," he said in delivering a presidential unit citation to the First Regiment of the First Marine Division at the White House.

In an apparent reference to the Vietnam debate in Congress over the war, Nixon said he hoped U.S. political leaders "would match the sacrifices" that American troops have made in the war.

He turned to the Marines at one point during the ceremony and said, "It is very difficult to fight any kind of war. It was difficult even when the country was united as it was in World War II. It is even more difficult to fight... when the nation is divided."

W A S H I N G T O N (UPI) - President Nixon, in a strong appeal for public support, urged Americans yesterday to stand fast on Vietnam until the Communists are forced to negotiate a peace settlement.

"We can bring peace, we will bring peace," he said in delivering a presidential unit citation to the First Regiment of the First Marine Division at the White House.

The Senate reveals plan for election by Steve Hoffman

John Zimmerman, Student Government and Development Commissioner, revealed plans last evening for the mobilization of the Student Senate for the coming academic year.

The opening stage of the mobilization refers to election of two senators from each hall.

Prospective candidates are required to pick up petitions which may contain the signatures of twenty-five students, and a pamphlet describing campaign rules must be turned in by 11:00 p.m. on Thursday in the Student Center.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

If Zimmerman finds that any part of the campaign is 6:00 pm on Thursday, the following day.

Balloting will be conducted on Thursday, October 9th, during noon and evening meals in the hall jobbies. By contrast, bulletin board notices for the six off-campus Senators to represent 1200 off-campus students will be held all day Thursday and Friday in the off-campus office.

Problems and bulling time has also been made available for residents of incomplete Grace Tower who are presently flung all over campus. Votes of Grace residents and their tem­porary addresses. A question­tionnaire of Grace candidates and voters will be scheduled for the middle of next week.

Election results will be tabu­lated by the Election Committee on Thursday evening in the Stu­dent Center.

As a forewarning to Senate candidates, Zimmerman remarked that each should be prepared for the result of several several evening intensively reviewing this year's budget.

The Senate will be equipped with only half of normal fi­nancial resources this year, and the responsibility for an efficient budget lies with each Senator.

In touching upon Senate outline­lines for the year, Zimmerman observed that the Senate has been recently hobbling with a "playing in the sandbox" image. He also failed to regret recent Senate sessions to relate to their particular halls as indicative of Senate inaction.

Emphasis this year will focus on special interest topics, such as approval of their campaign, including a discussion on election rules on Thursday night at 8:00 p.m.

As a forewarning to Senate candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.

After having garnered the necessary twenty-five signatures as approval of their campaign, candidates must return their petitions no later than 6:00 pm on Friday, the following day.

The forum which allows for Stay Senators will speak on a particular topic of interest with the public, should they feel, be acceptable.

Each will present ideas and guidelines dealing with finances of Student Government, the Senate's new Committee structure, general tips on procuring campaign materials, and concluding with a discussion on proposed Senate priorities.

The meeting of candidates, Zimmerman stressed, is mandatory, and he urges each to have seriously considered the possibility of office.
Duffy Daugherty is a funny man. His humor is well-recorded by sports writers and banquet speakers across the country. The Spartan Sports Information Service even supplies a "Duffy-ism of the Week" in the press releases (example: "During a light thunderstorm which disrupted a practice session, Duffy remarked, "If this ever happens during a game, I've got a job for my assistant coaches. They're to form a big circle around me and start lightning-thunderstorms which.")

One thing that has helped Duffy Daugherty in good humor has been his winning football teams. There are more than a couple trips to the Rose Bowl to keep the Alumni quiet. This year Duffy is off and running with a 2-0 record, victories over Washington and Southern Methodist. He's been such a success that the Spartans have ordered a special edition of the Rose Bowl program. The game program features Duffy with a green screen, performing in front of a green screen, performing in front of a green screen, performing in front of a green screen.

People sometimes look to Duffy to put something sneaky in his big games, like telling the press that MSU will most likely go on an off-side kick and then go against a head and do it. That play worked last year against the Irish on the way to a 21-17 upset. There is nothing really sneaky about Duffy's winning this year, however. He's just overjoyed at the success of his Veer-Option Wishbone-T 3 Yds. and-a-Cloud-Out-Defense. The Spartans version of this power offensive set-up has hammered two defenses to death so far this season.

To make his coaching ground game go, Duffy has Bill Tripplet at quarterback. As a sophomore last season, he engineered the upset over the Irish. His faking and running are most important to the Veer offense while his passing (8-28, 59 yds., three interceptions) has been less than spectacular. Kermis Smith is 6-0 and 204 lbs. and one tough blocking fullback. His fake/false plunges off tackle freeze opposing linebackers and enable Don Highsmith and Eric Allen to roam outside. Allen, "the Flea" is only 5-11, 168 lbs., but he has speed and moves that must be seen to be believed. Last year against the Irish front, he carried the ball virtually on every running play and still averaged nearly four yards a carry in the game at South Bend. He has steadily worked his way to the first team and is deadly on punt and kick-off returns.

When Tripplet does not pass (though there is no guarantee that he will ever have to), he probably aims for Frank Foreman, a double letter winner at split end. From Duffy's factory in Hawaii comes Soph Tight End Jim Nicholson, 6-7, 260 lbs. A powerful ground game in front of him is just too much pressure on a coach. Bill admits.

Duffy's morale this season, catching six passes for 75 yards. Winning isn't paramount with him, he does it from a couple of things about Leo Durocher. Everybody wants to win, but I've never seen anybody who wants to win so much this year he could taste it. Leo Durocher wants to win every year but this year he wanted to more than ever before. This was his ball club. Hadn't he brought it together? Nobody.

Leo glowed with pride when his Chicago Cubs got off so well and then ballooned their lead to nearly killed him. Who could he tell that to? Nobody. Who would understand the way he felt? Nobody.

Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that. Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that. Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that. Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that.

Tough one to lose, Leo

NEW YORK (UPI)-They say a lot of things about Leo Durocher and many of the things they say are not nice. Well, let me tell you a couple of things about Leo Durocher.

Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that. Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that. Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that. Winning isn't paramount with him, it's the rung above that.

New career ambitions:

"I never really thought he wouldn't congratulate us," the Mets' manager said. Actually, Durocher already had two nights before. He had congratulated the Mets through the press.

I have known Leo Durocher 25 years and although I haven't always agreed with everything he has done, I figure that's fairly enough because he hasn't agreed with everything I've done in that time.

They say a lot of things about Leo Durocher and many of the things they say are not nice. Well, but the one thing they can never say is that he quits. He doesn't know how, and he tries every way he knows how to make you play better, too. That's why a guy like Ron Santo feels the way about him he does.

Okay, so Leo Durocher isn't perfect. That's obvious. But what's his crime? He wants to win so much?

That's no crime in my book. As a matter of fact, isn't that what he's getting paid for?