University Forum discusses major issues

Student life, govt., issues and priorities talked on

Representatives exchange ideas in Forum
by Glen S. Corso

The University Forum meeting yesterday for its second session of the year spent nearly four hours discussing four major areas of concern to the Notre Dame community.

The four areas discussed were "Student Government," "Current Issues on Campus," "University Priorities," and "Campus Life." The first three were allocated forty minutes of discussion time each, while the last topic was allowed an hour.

The event was covered by four Observer reporters whose detailed accounts of the proceedings follow.

First to speak was Student Body President David Krashna, who spoke on what he felt were the problems of student life. Krashna stressed that he felt too much emphasis has been on the academic life at Notre Dame. He also continued on page 7

Present views on campaigns
by Rich Smith

The University Arts Council's fieldhouse renovation drive and the Nutting-for-President campaign were the two issues which concerned the current issues on campus program of the University Forum, which was attended by at least one observer.

Continued on page 6

Leprechauns pay visit to LeMans bell tower
by Cliff Wistrad

Observer Associate Editor

A band of mischievous leprechauns brought St. Patrick's Day cheer to the colloquers of Le Mans bell tower yesterday when they posted a sign reading "Happy St. Pat's Day From Notre Dame Kudos to the Le Mans bell tower."

Intensive investigation by the Observer staff (anything for a pot of gold) revealed that the student group had help from the models—J. Cronin, of the General Program of Liberal Studies, expressed his "anger and sorrow", at the decline of Catholicism at Notre Dame, and Dr. Dugan of the Economics Department criticized the current system of allocation of funds among the colleges and department of the University.

Dr. Cronin, who spoke first, told his experience at Notre Dame, beginning as a student in the 1930's and culminating as a Professor in the General Program. He said that the Mission Impossible Force would have been proud of our investigation has also discovered the names of the three Kudos agents involved. The name of the colloquers, however, is unknown, except that she is called Agent 49, (trust a women) (Continued on page 3)

SBP opens talks;
First hour deals with student life

by Mike Ruffer

The All-University Forum met for the second time this year yesterday at 2:00 pm. in the Hayes-McCarty Center. The first area of discussion was Student Government.

David Krashna, SBP-elect, was the first speaker. He first addressed himself towards the problems of student life. He emphasized the fact that the focus of student life here at Notre Dame is academics and that there is too much emphasis on this part of student life.

"The student is much more than an academic being. He should be a social and moral being," he said. He stressed the idea that there is a competitive air which lingers around the campus life. "Competition is very fine, but when it becomes an evil when you become enthralled in it. Guys are trying to get A's because they're A's, the learning experience is second in importance," he said.

Alumnus speaks on campus life

by Bro. Pat Corney

Campus Life dominated the discussions of yesterday's final open session. The first speaker was Joe Kelly opened the session with an appreciation of the many alumni who turn out to be present and perhaps none of them described this as much as the first speaker Charles Lenon whose wife was due to deliver her fifth child as he spoke.

In his presentation, Lenon opened by quoting one of the many letters that appeared in the Alumnus regarding the Octo­ber non-denominational observance on campus. The author of the par­ticular letter gave his opinion that the student who took part in the mass after formally renouncing his faith in order to avoid a required theology course was guilty of a greater sin than 300,000 deaths.

Lenon thought that such a view showed more concern about what others are thinking than about individuals. He felt that the author should have been concerned about the particular student as an individual and why he renounced his religion.

Seeing in this a stereotype of how some students view the alumni—those whose only inter­est is the Notre Dame image and whose only purpose is to donate money, the speaker reminded that if this were cor­rect, he could see why some students believe that the only power they have is the power to disrupt.

However, it was Mr. Lenon's contention that the alunos do care about the students and not in a paternalistic way but rather in a sense of fraternity. In relating to previous issues, he said that he worries about the over­use of alcohol by many members of the Notre Dame community, not because of Indiana law or University regulations, but be­cause of his concern for the students and why they feel they need this artificial means to escape.

To Lenon, hall life is very important in the total educational picture but is being over­looked. By and large he claimed that the faculty is not at all aware of the problems and po­tentialities of the halls.

Last spring he said, the Univer­sity began experiments in openness, trusting students, etc., and although there are certainly problems which must be solved, he feels that hall life has been greatly improved.

He sees the purpose of the hall to be to provide and feel that the University must take a look into the staffing. According to Lenon, "We show what we value by what we're willing to pay for." He suggested full time rec­ruiting of counselors, and during the discussion, some members of the hall staff were present to hear Lenon's presentation.

A band of mischievous leprechauns was seen yesterday when they posted signs on the Le Mans bell tower reading "Happy St. Pat's Day From Notre Dame Kudos to the Le Mans bell tower."

Intensive investigation by the Observer staff (anything for a pot of gold) revealed that the student group had help from the models—J. Cronin, of the General Program, expressed his "anger and sorrow", at the decline of Catholicism at Notre Dame, and Dr. Dugan of the Economics Department criticized the current system of allocation of funds among the colleges and department of the University.

Dr. Cronin, who spoke first, told his experience at Notre Dame, beginning as a student in the 1930's and culminating as a Professor in the General Program. He said that the Mission Impossible Force would have been proud of our investigation has also discovered the names of the three Kudos agents involved. The name of the colloquers, however, is unknown, except that she is called Agent 49, (trust a women) (Continued on page 3)

Cronin speaks on ND

By Ed Elko

In the third session of yesterday's University Forum meeting, that dealing with University Priorities, Dr. Edward J. Cronin, of the General Program of Liberal Studies, expressed his anger and sorrow, at the decline of Catholicism at Notre Dame, and Dr. Dugan of the Economics Department criticized the current system of allocation of funds among the colleges and department of the University.

Dr. Cronin, who spoke first, told his experience at Notre Dame, beginning as a student in the 1930's and culminating as a Professor in the General Program. He said that the Mission Impossible Force would have been proud of our investigation has also discovered the names of the three Kudos agents involved. The name of the colloquers, however, is unknown, except that she is called Agent 49, (trust a women) (Continued on page 3)

Continued on page 7
Krashna discusses government plans

Student Body President-Elect David Krashna discussed the possible structure of future student government in an interview yesterday with the Observer.

When asked when he was going to ask for applications for the positions on his cabinet, Krashna said that applications for Student Union Director came out today. "I am going to do it within the week for all cabinet positions. We are going to icon out what we want in our cabinet and announce for applications that weekend. It is being done now."

Krashna also discussed some new positions that might be created. The Human Affairs Commission would possibly be divided into three areas. First, the Human Affairs Commission would take care of campus activities. Second, the Recruitment Action Program (RAP) Commission would be established and a chairman appointed. Last, two chairmen for Students Against Racism, one black and one white, would possibly be appointed.

"The Hall Life Commissioner would be in contact with the Student Forum," Krashna added.

Will focus on state government

Is Indiana state government like those of so many states—using 19th Century methods to cope with 20th Century problems?

That is the central question to be examined Friday (March 20) in a "Conference on Modernizing Our State Government," scheduled for Notre Dame's Center for Continuing Education and sponsored by the Indiana State Division of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) and Notre Dame.

"Unlike business, which has moved with the times, state government today is dealing with political, social, and economic questions with approaches fashioned in the late 19th and early 20th Centuries," commented Dr. Herbert E. Yon, conference co-chairman and associate professor of finance and business economics at Notre Dame.

Mrs. John F. Magee of South Bend, chairman of the AAUW's Indiana state constitutional revision study-action committee, said that the conference "is intended to stimulate thinking and bring a broader discretionary power and authority if that executive is to fulfill a leadership role in meeting contemporary problems.

Following Welsh's address, five other speakers will discuss briefly some of the key issues in state government reform. These speakers and their topics are Richard C. Bodine, former speaker of the Indiana House, "The Indiana Legislature"; Harold W. Handley, former governor, "The Executive Branch of Indiana State Government"; Marshall F. Kizer, state senator, "Financing Indiana State Government"; Lloyd M. Allen, mayor of South Bend, "Local Government in Indiana," and Samuel Mercantini, Mihawaka's Democratic chairman, "Party Organization and Politics in Indiana."

These same five speakers will lead separate afternoon panel discussions on these topics, and at a 4 p.m. session they will present concluding statements.

The conference is open to the public, and registration starts at 8:45 a.m. in the Center. The registration fee is $10.

"I would like the Ombudsmen people working with the faculty Ombudsmen which I think is going to be created." An executive coordinator of the cabinet would also be established. This could be the Vice-President, Krashna explained.

"There will be a proposal put in Tuesday night's Student Senate meeting to abolish itself," Krashna said. This would make way for the Student Forum, which will be designed to get around the bureaucracy, he commented. The Student Forum will "coordinate hall sung and find out what student opinion is behind particular issues."

According to Krashna, the Student Forum will be made up of the Student Body President and Vice-President, Hall Presidents, and representatives from off-campus.

"One recommendation we are going to make is to have each hall re-examine their leaders right now. See if the hall president is amenable toward the position which he will have to hold within the Student Forum. If he is not, possibly the hall will call for new hall elections, which can be held right after Easter break."

Krashna mentioned that Senator Don Mooney and others were working on the proposal for the Senate's abolition. He noted, however, that a committee would have to be set up for the purpose of revamping the constitution. Krashna said that any interested students, senators himself and Vice-President would make up the committee.

Krashna emphasized the need for awareness to expose problems. "Exposure is the basis of anything that we are going to get done here."

Leave sign at SMC

(Continued from page 1)

has been in stopping the big jobs, and even though the job took more than fifteen minutes, the little band marched unbothered out of the Le Mans lobby singing the Mission Impossible theme song and climbed into the getaway car.

The little people would say only that the sign was a "constructive, concrete gift" to the St. Mary's colonists, and that it was "a bit of fun."

The leprechaun felt the sign would "brighten up the day by the fact that some Notre Dame leprechaun got up there to do something for awareness to expose problems."

"We wanted to add a little excitement and do something different and suspenseful for Saint Patrick's day," added the leprechaun.

BULLETIN... BULLETIN...

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) The United States cast its first veto in United Nations history Tuesday night to kill an African resolution calling on Britain to use force to overthrow the white supremacist regime of Southern Rhodesia.

WEATHER

Wednesday and Thursday partly sunny and warmer. Wednesday highs in the 40s.

MOD-FUNNY-SAD LETTERS?

Have you received a "classic" letter from home (domestic) parents, wisdom, advice about sex, politics, lifestyle, etc. and want it for publication? Send copies and your name and address to The Observer, Letters, 1125 Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The Observer is published daily during the college semester except vacations by students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. It is printed in the Yenching Press, Peking, China. Second class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana. 46556.
CONGRATULATES

THE

MAGNIFICENT

SEVEN

Winner of Regional Budweiser
Inter-Collegiate Music Festival
The Observer

An Independent Student Newspaper

GAETANO M. DE SAPIO
Editor-in-Chief

FOUNDED NOVEMBER 3, 1966
NOTRE DAME, INDIANA

SLC on drugs

The Student Life Council's action on Monday establishing a committee to study the drug problem on campus is a long awaited step.

The use of drugs has been growing around the nation at a phenomenal rate. The country as a whole has little or no knowledge about some of the drugs that are being used and their effects on people.

As the SLC envisions it the committee would begin to gather as much information as possible on drugs, the effects of their usage, and treatment in case of ill effects, in order to disseminate that information to students who are currently using or who are contemplating using drugs.

The need for which the committee hopefully will try to fulfill is that of seeing that competent personnel are hired so that the infirmary can offer assistance to students who are on a "bad trip" or are experiencing other physical or mental problems.

The main concern of the committee should be to see, however, that students have a place to go to obtain reliable information on drugs and their effect.

At the same time the committee should consider what the University's policy will be in regard to students who use drugs on campus.

The SLC must not involve itself in problems beyond its capability. The relative merits of the present drug law and whether or not it should be changed is not the present concern. Its primary concern must be the drug situation as it exists on campus. The SLC can do little to change national laws or attitudes. It can help Notre Dame students who are looking for aid in coping with the drug issue.

Initiative needed

Workmen began last week installing a fence around D1 parking lot as a step toward providing better protection against the vandalism that has been occurring throughout the year.

The fact that the administration is making the move is a sign that they are beginning to wake up to the fact that there is a need to redirect some of Notre Dame's priorities to take care of immediate problems such as security.

The tragedy of the situation is that the administration was not far-sighted enough to initiate the changes on its own. The tragedy of the situation is that the administration was not far-sighted enough to initiate the changes on its own. The relative merits of the present drug law and whether or not it should be changed is not the present concern. Its primary concern must be the drug situation as it exists on campus. The SLC can do little to change national laws or attitudes. It can help Notre Dame students who are looking for aid in coping with the drug issue.

...
by T. C. Treanor

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1970

THE OBSERVER

Rats

Reflections after being profoundly disturbed by the absence of puttergists or, indeed, any supernatural phenomenon in Washington Hall.

Second of what became a two parts series.

Mr. Stewar led us. He had enough, I guess and I couldn't blame him. He had thought I lived in the place, anyway. But he kept his good name. He had to check doors until four, and he had a heavy cold, but he kept his good humor. Arthur Mears may know more about drugs than he lets on.

Joe showed us around the hall, showed us the Green Room, where the Gipper was reputed to play the piano; showed me how to get to the balcony beyond; showed me all the little offices and meeting-rooms. He didn't show me the ghost, and he didn't show me the silence.

We set out for the third door, he for his room, I for the Green Room, where I would post my first watch until 2:30. Before he left, I had a question for him.

"What about the ghost, Joe? Have you seen him or heard him at all?"

"I have nothing to say about that."

"No statement for the press?"

"None."

"How about off the record?"

"Nope. Sorry."

"We got to his door. "Are you going to be here all night?" he asked skeptically.

"Well, I guess I intend to."

"Good -- wake me up at seven. One other thing. If you decide to leave during the night, be sure to close the outside door after you. I don't want people to get in here."

Read good. Joe, if I decide to leave the night, I am neither going to take the time to open the door before me or close it after me.

Thus comforted by Mr. Doyle's verbal parsimony, I staked my watch in the Green room, alert for noises. The first few were highly audible. I had the building settled. The building had been settling for a hundred and fifty years, but sure, it was still settling.

At about two, a strange feeling began to creep over me. Ennui.

By two - thirty, I was sitting on the stage, waiting for the Gipper or whoever would suit for the star that night. I sat there for an hour. For an hour, I stared out at the great auditorium, and it stared back at me.

I moved at thirty thirty into the audience section. Nothing. No ghosts, no noises, no pianos, no lights, no tabas, nothing.

Four - thirty was the balcony watch. I quoted that after half an hour. The balcony was as quiet as everything else.

No phantom of the opera there. Not even a gentle rapping.

At five, I stumbled around the place, desperate at this point for even a faint trace of apparatus. No luck.

I ran across a maid and a janitor around six, too. They both assured me that they had never seen any evidence of a ghost at Washington Hall. They had seen a lot of people looking for them, though. I told them the story of the guy who had been on the rafters high above the auditorium and felt a ghostly finger gently rapping his shoulder. They both thought that was pretty funny. The story had to be a lot of people looking for them.

Extract of editor

June Fonda tonight

Porphomone, pristine, male chauvinist. Jane Fonda is definitely not redskinned. Film screenings at 7:00 and 9:30, Washington Hall.

Pardon, pristine, male chauvinist, feminist, passionate, objective, psychological, explosive. Vadim's The Game is Over is none of these things, but rather cultivates a parody of forbidden love. The ride is gorgeous short moments of life which we can only call absurd. Jane Fonda portrays the youthful married woman whose rebellion against the indifference of her husband culminates in a seduction sequence which is both realistic and intellectually stimulating.

The conclusion you reach inevitably after viewing The Game is Over is that Vadim is definitely not intellectual and Jane Fonda is definitely not redskinned. Film screenings at 7:00 and 9:30, Washington Hall.

Dave Stauffer, most recent in the line of Observer features editors, died suddenly last week. Due to the lack of difference between his natural condition and the rigour mannered authorities, found the death under yesterday morning's causes believed to have been a terminal case of insanity and a severe heart attack. The thousands of victims of his insane ravings.

Bob Richer, hep-head of the Commercialization Committee, says his group is waiting for official word before breaking the story of the alleged crackdown. Market retail value is estimated to be in the area of two (2) cents per ounce.

When questioned as to the possible uses of Essence of Stauffer, Richer was quoted as saying, "For God's sake, all anybody did when he was around was suffer. It's like the old story about wearing a pair of shoes that are too tight. The only difference is that Stauffer in a bottle will be one helluva lot cheaper than a pair of shoes. I myself have already reached an unheard degree of ecstasy by simply looking at him and knowing that I can rid myself of his presence if I really want to."

"Think of what you can do and feel when you pour the old fellow down the drain. I've even heard that he would be a great deal of money any bid against us for rights to his re mains. Seems as though they figure that by the time that the N.R. to name the ante you're going to be worse than I am."

"Why don't we just find out for ourselves?"
Continued from page I are qualified to work in psychology.

He sees the problem not being solely that of the rector, but the whole faculty. In particular, he said that the resident assistant was especially well known to the students and are now supposed to function as counselors but in his opinion the transition, they have lapsed into a state of performing little or no service.

On the part of the students, Baskett called for more responsibility and charity. "What counts," he stated, "is the number of scars. It is difficult to be charitable without getting hurt." But this charity and sensibility are what he called if half life is to advance beyond the present "embryonic" stages.

In the final prepared address, James Couney, Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association spoke about campus ministry. Beginning with a statement that he considered wanderlust, he would be firmly convinced that the place is going down the drain. Couney went on to claim that a tape of the session would sound like a "bunch of Gethsemane monks giving a moratorium on silence" because of the stress on Christian principles.

It was this ability to openly discuss such issues as these which he said as vital as breathing at Notre Dame which is one of the university's distinctive characteristics. He saw the Forum as speaking more of the place is going down the drain.

In fact, he said "It's a hell of a lot easier to be a relevant professor of finance, alumni secretary, or cement mixer, than a priest." Claiming that the university "sat for too long" and that the effect was piling upon work and function upon function on the priests. The result is that a number of the priest's whose pure role is spiritual have been forced to serve as "accountants, traffic cops, janitors, rectors; and rectors which is a combination of the other three.

This he says has caused much concern among the alumni. They are very worried about what has happened to this core group of men whose number tend to grow proportionally smaller.

Couney called for the university to take a close look at its role as Christian and to set new priorities. Specifically he asks that men be brought to the university whose commitment is to the people of the place. He envisions each of these men in a truly pastoral role and even said that he should be "a priest's priest." This he feels is very necessary if the people are to be the first priority on campus.

As the floor was thrown open for discussion Mr. Philip F. Coudere, Special Assistant to the President, pointed out that he was specifically refraining from "answering" some of the questions which were left unasked, "so as to do the fact that the steering committee requested questions, and rectors, which is a question and answer session, but rather as a vehicular for getting as many ideas as possible to the floor at possible.

Graduate Student Union President Jim King then related some of his experiences as a resident assistant over the past two years. He said that he meets freshmen who have left after the first semester of college.

The second annual Grand Prix Festival will be presented by the Notre Dame Student Union Social Commission on May 2nd. The Festival is the culmination of Grand Prix Week which will run from April 26th to May 2nd.

On May 1st the go-cart race will start at 1:30 P.M. and races starting at 1:00 P.M. The 100-lap race will be held on the 45 mile A.C.C. course. The 100-lap race is 200 P.M. Spy and the Family Stoney will appear in concert following the presentation of awards for the day's race.

On Thursday, April 30th a race driver from the Indy "500" will present the Champion Spark Plug Highway Safety Program.

Time trials will be held on Tuesday, April 28th at 4:00 P.M. on the A.C.C. track with the publication of the results.

The tri-class prom will be held on Friday, May 1st at 8:00 P.M. Come early and be prepared for the Grand Prix queen to be crowned at 8:30 P.M.

Teams entered so far are: Dillion, Farley, Fisher, Alsenyi, Grace, Kieran, Stanford, Cavanaugh, Bierman, Mcbrady, Semberger, and St. Ed's balls, and the Scosbach, "the Vikings." Anyone interested in forming a team can contact Mike Gunning, phone number 1408.

Continued from page I hundred students, faculty mem-

month-old fund drive had been slow and often frustrating with no large commitments yet received. He concluded by saying that the Arts Council was not going up, but would ask for an extension of the moratorium on raising the building, which cur rently is set to expire on June 1.

Next Kenneth Guentert spoke for the Nutting-for-President cam paign. Citing the "soci antic crises" such as last year's pornography conference and "the peripheral Dow-ATA confrontation," Guentert em phasized the need for having a President which would be present on the campus.

"It is too much to ask that there be someone around from the administrative sector with whom we can have some kind of continuous dialog on complex problems?" Guentert then said that the campaign should not be construed as an attempt to get rid of Father Hesburgh.

"In terms of the larger community, we have no desire to put the light of this university under a bollard-lit basket." Guentert asked the Forum members to consider the defici encies of the present system and the need for a "stronger and more efficient" then the Trustees, the administration, and the faculty or the students." Guentert asked the Forum members to consider the defici encies of the present system and the need for a "stronger and more efficient" C.J. O'Donnell then reiterated that the students needed more exposure to the arts.

"This will be a significant step if Notre Dame is to educate the total man," O'Donnell said. Dr. O'Donnell stated that the recent Student Arts Festival proved that there was an interest in the arts at Notre Dame and stimulated creativity on the campus.

"The thing placed no undue pressure on the engineering or premed students while fostering interaction between the scientist and the artist. And it introduced fresh points of view."

Next, Pat Bridenton talked on the feasibility of the proposed University Arts Center. Brid- enton stated that there were four reasons why the Arts Coun cil felt that the fieldhouse would serve as an Arts Center. Included in the rationale was the fact that the fieldhouse would be the type of building the Arts Council needed for the needs of the Art Council, since it had sufficient unobstructed area.

Also, Bridenton stated that three studies over the last year had determined that the building was structurally sound. Finally, the cost of a separate building housing the Arts Center coupled with the cost of raising the field house and building the mall would be prohibitive.

According to Bridenton, the total cost of the remodeling would be $15 million with $50,000 going to demolition, $135,000 to renovation and $1,295,000 needed to pay for new construction and studios.

Continued from page I...
Cronin stresses need for Catholic atmosphere

Continued from page 1

Dr. Cronin said that for all their attorneys, the Catholic universities have a unique role in fighting for the rights of students. He compared the Universities by their de-emphasis on Catholicism, the administration, the faculty and the students. The universities that have had both succeeded in de-emphasized the students of the Arts and Letters from the "hard sciences," thus making Arts and Letters a College with a very high priority for the students. "We talk about priorities, yet we have increased expenses, and there is no change in the relative position of the programs," Dugan said.

Dr. Dugan also criticized the faculty salary policy of the administration. He noted that while the cost of living rose 6% in 1969, the faculty salaries rose somewhat less than this. He said the religious community handles the problems of student grievances. In the area of academic priorities, Dr. Dugan of the Economics department spoke first and talked about the role of the alumni and his hope for more student exposure to the arts, citing this as part of the process of educating the "total man."

Pat Bradenlose also spoke for the UC, concerning the feasibility of the renovation of the fieldhouse. He pointed out the reasons the UC decided upon the fieldhouse, and the Nutting-for-President campaign. Dr. Duggan spoke first and talked about the role of the arriving student. He called for more student exposure to the arts, citing this as part of the process of educating the "total man."

Ken Guentert spoke next about the Nutting-for-President campaign.

Dr. Edward Cronin, of the General Program, and Dr. Duggan of the Economics department spoke during the third session.

Dr. Cronin’s talk was concerned with the decline of the Catholic spirit at Notre Dame. He scored the university for "trying to look just like everybody else." He criticized the lack of system with regards to University financial priorities. Dr. Edgan of economics outlined what he felt were inequities in the distribution of funds to the various colleges.

The fourth and final session of the forum concerned itself with the rather broad topic of campus life. The first speaker, Charles Leonon addressed himself to the issues of the University Arts Council and its efforts to renovate the fieldhouse, and the Nutting-for-President campaign. Dr. Duggan spoke first and talked about the role of the arriving student. He called for more student exposure to the arts, citing this as part of the process of educating the "total man."

The second speaker of this segment of the program was Mr. Edward Isley, from the Graduate Student Union. Mr. Isley began his talk saying, "The University's graduate student is the University's forgotten man." He stated that graduate students have many grievances. In the area of academics he commented that the quality of education is declining to that of other schools.

He referred to the environment he said the religious community here doesn’t really include the graduate student. He stressed the idea that Notre Dame, while being primarily an undergraduate school, doesn’t really want the graduate student here; he is only here so that Notre Dame can be called a "University."

Isley went on to say Notre Dame was "unliveable" for two reasons: 1) The sexual segregation of women on campus; and 2) Geographical and sociological isolation. "Notre Dame is just like an Army post on a Saturday night," Isley said. He also stated that leadership was lacking. "Although Notre Dame is changing, the world is changing faster, Notre Dame should anticipate the future. Does N.D. want graduate education and where exactly does it fit in?"

In the discussion that followed, Jack King, Graduate Student President, strengthened Isley's stand. He mentioned that the SLC offered non-voting seats to graduate students, but that he would like to go on record as saying, "Thanks, but no thanks."

Mr. Nicholas Hui, a graduate student, discussed the idea that there is a lack of dialogue between graduate and undergraduate students because students don't live on campus. He wanted to mingle with the undergraduates and get to know them both academically and socially," he concluded.

---

Forum-idea exchange

Continued from page 1

spoke on campus life. He felt the University budget to those colleges and departments where are assigned a moral or actual priority by the students or faculty. He gave an example as if you were reading it naturally.

Krasha talks about student life

Continued from page 1

Cronin asked the two speakers how they would set the budget priorities, and also referred to the Faculty Manual in his question. Dugan replied that priorities must be set by students themselves, as in the case of the current book in the College of Arts and Letters, or else the faculty must set priorities. "I think both the budget and the Faculty Manual came from the department of creative writing. They’re really not very interesting reading," Cronin concluded.

---

Biola collection today

Students for Biafran Relief plan to take up collections in the halls of St. Mary's tonight and Notre Dame tomorrow night. Dan Shoton spoke for the program,个guard that both hall captains are needed to head the drive in Pangborn, Lyons, Howard, and Sein Halls. Sheryl said if anyone is interested in being a hall captain or in helping to canvas in South Bend this weekend, they should contact him at headquarters, Room 2-A, LaFortune, or at 283-1996.

---

Annual Basketball Banquet

Tuesday the 24th

ACCC Monroe Room

Refrements at 6 p.m.

Open to the public — Students welcome

Tickets on sale at the Basketball Office in the ACC.

Guest Speaker: Al McGuire—Head Basketball Coach at Marquette University

Price $10

---

C O M B O S

Indiana U.
U. of Illinois

U. of Missouri

U. of Notre Dame

U. of Pennsylvania

Ball State

Michigan State

U. of Illinois

Indiana U.

Case Western Reserve

U. of Northern Iowa

Memphis State

M.I.T.

Shenandoah Conservatory

Indiana U. (Pennsylvania)

Tickets: $1-Afternoon Session, $3-Evening, $4.50-All Sessions available at the door, at Gilbert's, and the Bookstore

A Service of Student Union Social Commission
Maravich given Naismith trophy easily wins in press ball voting

Wednesday, March 18, 1970

The Observer

Maravich, the scorer playmaker whose list of accomplishments includes 1 NCAA scoring records and 34 Southwest Conference Tourney victories was named winner of the second annual James A Naismith Award Monday.

The slender, 6 foot, 5 inch Maravich, college basketball's greatest scorer ever is an easy winner in the balloting for the Naismith Award conducted by United Press International.

The young man with the tossed hair and floppy drapes was named the top player in the country by 467 college sports writers and sportscasters participating in the balloting.

Announcement of the award, presented by the Atlanta, Ga. Sport Club was made jointly in New York and Atlanta. Lew Alcindor of UCLA was the winner of the first Naismith Award 2 years ago.

Bob Lanier, the giant center for University of Mississippi, was considered the best big man in the college ranks this season, was second in the voting, while Rick Mount of Purdue was third with 13 votes, followed by a tie of 11 votes between Kentucky of Kentucky with 12 and Austin Carr of Notre Dame with 11.

The award winner and his father coach, press Maravich were in New York for the announcement in New York.

College Park, Md. (UPI) - The defending champion UC. Bruins, bidding for an unprecedented fourth straight title, checked in today as early birds for their first joint meeting since the merger of the AFL and NFL, gathered in meeting rooms yesterday at the 1971 Super Bowl.

The members of the merged National Football League established some playing procedures Monday in the fall's regular season schedule.

The battle for the Super Bowl was expected to be between New Orleans and Miami. Boston has pulled out and Southern California is considered by television interests to be a poor deal to forget.

New Orleans, with Tulane Stadium's 85,900 seats and a net income of more than $4 million for pro football from the 1970 season's home game, was considered the favorite.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

The clubs Monday adopted the NFL's one point conversion rule and the NFL's three attempts over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.

Miami, host of two Super Bowls, was expected to make strong offers to land the title game. But it was the general feeling that Miami's South Sea of Orange people and a title fight over the Super Bowl being "locked in" at one city.