CRC moves to abolish Senate

by Ed Ellis

The Student Government Constitution Committee met last night for the fourth time, and after discussing the length, approved a motion proposed by senior student Ron Lewis.

The evening’s meeting followed the first two sessions, which were held in the President’s Conference Room. The committee was formed by students in response to the widespread dissatisfaction with the Senate’s current functioning.

In addition to discussing the Senate’s structure, the committee also discussed the possibility of creating a Student Forum. The forum would serve as an intermediary between the Senate and the student body, allowing for more direct communication.

The committee members agreed that the Senate’s current setup is not functioning effectively. They discussed the need for a more inclusive and participatory decision-making process.

The next steps for the committee include further consultations with students and the preparation of a report for the student body. The committee hopes to have a proposal ready for discussion by the end of the semester.

The committee encourages all students to attend their meetings and participate in the discussions. They believe that student voices should be at the forefront of any changes made to the government structure.
Free City plans set

by Dave Lammeres

The plans to turn Notre Dame into "a Free City for a day" were largely tested at a meeting in the Student Center last night. The group plans a concert by the First Friday, an on-campus walkabout, a free bobbing night in Room 104 tyton revolution in the Third nations and is presently conducting an extensive comparative study of revolution in Algeria and African revolution activities as "an academic b o n ." We want to take education out of the class room and present it as an experience. Arcia has written a number of articles on current unrest in underdeveloped nations and is presently conducting an extensive comparative study of revolutionary and counter-revolutionary techniques in Algeria and Vietnam.

In addition, he has written a frequently published book Political and Labor in the Middle East. Dr. Ahmad is a native of Pakistan and received most of his education there, culminating in a Master's Degree in modern history from Punjab University. He was later moved to the United States and received his Ph.D. from Princeton in 1967. Dr. Ahmad is now in the services of the Stanford Institute for Foreign Affairs and was previously a professor of the School of Industrial and Labor Relations at Cornell University.

Dr. Ahmad's free lecture is being sponsored by the Student Union Academic Commission.

Administration proposes to set drastic steps for the future raids

each of the four dorms, at least one case of manhandling has been reported, ranging from bruises to attempted sexual molestations.

Most students who had previously laughed at "panty raids" after Monday night have concluded, "it's not funny anymore." The syndrome of pantry raids bespeaks deeper problems facing the environment of this school. And the reported sales of beer, etc., are frequent, well to known co-eds by the thieves indicates this manifestation. Of the exaggerated sexual relations between the sexes are only symptoms of the disease. And disciplinary authorities (there are rumors that this will block arguments with the Board of Trustees on increased parietal) do nothing to cure the disease. Only further suppress any movement toward human relations, recognizing the need of women as officially forbidden sex objects to be thus explored, is the answer to sexual celibacy. With the situation as it exists in this "community," for the majority to find it most mob action, or the de-humanizing tactics used in the Circle, or the utter unleashing of frustration and hatred on some objectified, generalized concept of "Townie" or "St. Mary's girl." The resulting situation is damaging to both groups.

On the other side of the coin, the women who visited edition of the screaming masses did it in the spirit of fun and games, seeing themselves, unconsciously or consciously, as beings to be conquered — sexually or otherwise. To some, a pantry raid is a compliment. "Girls stood smiling in their nightgowns and,crochets, shaking to friends, shaking hands, agape at the undesired sight of hundreds of smiling and excited men running throughout the halls." (A strange portrait of a knight in shining armor.) The assailants were frequently curiously surpised to find themselves and their possessions the object of attack. Illusions of coquettishness quickly dissipated.

The problem boils down to the perverted view of women and their private lives which dominates Notre Dame. The presence of men in women's dorms is anything but the natural interchange of human bodies, living normal daily lives. Again, from the masculine side, women are consistently viewed as objects of personal gratification: why else is the possession of a pair of women's underwear, or bra, a momento of fantasized sexual pleasure?

There is no excuse for the conduct of either the men or women who engaged in Monday night's violence. It is frighten ingly disgusting and sad that there are the terms in which Notre Dame men deal with women, and more sad that for some women this is a pleasant experience. Again, the problem is a deep-seated one, outbursts of the disease. The Pantry Raid, the sale of women at An Tostal, or a kissing contest, or the obscene phone calls and remarks which most women experience are only symptoms. And there will not be solved by further repression of humanism, this is what has caused the present disgusting state of affairs. Any human would question when such things as normal encounter are going to be allowed, much less encouraged, by this "community."

Incomplete estimates of personal property losses are:

McCandless $885
LeMee 576
Regina $160
Holy Cross $2,400

A more complete inventory list will be published tomorrow. These estimates do not include several broken windows, torn doors, broken knobs, locks and fire doors.

Grads chosen for awards

Richard R. Russell, a candidate for a law degree at Notre Dame, is the recipient of an Administrative Intern award. The award was announced by officials of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

A native of Houston, Texas, Russell is a 1969 graduate of Notre Dame who pursued his graduate studies after military service. He is the first Notre Dame recipient of an award of this kind.

Candidates for the award are selected on the basis of their academic performance. Fellowship recipients are assigned to an administrative position with a developing college in the South, and have the opportunity to use their expertise and skills in the areas of research, planning and development.

Two other Notre Dame students have been selected as alternates for similar awards. They are Richard Johnson, Rockville, Md., a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, and Kevin Sullivan, a 1969 Notre Dame graduate, Staten Island, N.Y.
DDT is no longer in ND’s trees

Father Jerome Wilson, Vice President for Business Affairs, announced yesterday that the University would be spraying its elm trees with the controversial pesticide this year instead of DDT. The switch in insecticide, he said, was due to the increased threat of the elm beetle and the necessity for its frequent use makes it much more expensive.

Father Wilson noted that to use DDT at all would be "taking a chance at the loss of all the trees." A tree was found infected at the Grotto this weekend, and will be torn down and burned.

Spraying should begin sometime within the next two weeks. The University has 850 elm trees in the late 1930′s, Presently, the University has 790 left. The rest were killed by the disease.

In an attempt to combat the beetle, the university has been trimming dead branches off of living trees, cutting down dead trees, and have been injecting and burning them. This eliminat- ed winter nesting grounds for the beetle. In the spring the University had been spraying by a mixture that include DDT, and this year the University was successfully in killing the beetles.

It was the most effective means of combating the disease.

Recently DDT has come under heavy criticism effecting on other species besides insects. Other wildlife in areas that had been sprayed have been effecting on other species. Some scientists currently believe that the negative effects of DDT may have on human life. Recent investigation and experiments are stating that the majority of American mothers probably carry more DDT than there is naturally in their breast milk that is allowed in milk sold on the market.

Last year the University scaled the decision to stop using DDT in the fall due to a map of instructions caused the chemical

HPC opposes Hall Life Board

The Hall Presidents’ Council continued to express its dissus­ fiancement with the Board of Trustees’ controversial parietal hours ruling last night at a post-An Tostal meeting of the HPC in LaFortune’s Student Assembly.

The presidents, who one week ago signed a statement rejecting the Board’s parietal decision, agreed last night that they opposed the formation of a new Hall Life Board as proposed by that same ruling of the Trustees. The presidents decided therefore to postpone their selection of two student representatives to the new board until after a meeting Thursday between the Trustees and four members of the HPC.

According to Ron Mastrana, former Executive Coordinator of the HPC, the new Hall Life Board would have the status of an Administrative Board and would not only have the powers to review hall violation hearings, but would also possess authority to regulate such diverse aspects of hall life as the hall staffs.

Members of the HPC opposed the Hall Life Board on the grounds that it was just another tactic of the Administration to prevent the halls from determining their own parietal hours philosophically. The presidents also felt that it would be nearly impossible for any student representative to devote as much time as a seat on the Board would require. Current plans call for the Hall Life Board to review and investigate the parietal hours policies of every hall on campus.

John Barkett of Maryman Hall criticized the Trustees creation of the Hall Life Board as a stalling tactic: “They say let’s create a board to fix up the halls’ problems, but what we should do is to forget the board and start working on the problem,” he said.

Mike Neven of Cavanough Hall felt that the Trustees decision to form the new board was stalling the battle of the SLC.

In other action at last night’s meeting, Ron Mastrana explicitly denied any connection between An Tostal and Sunday night’s party raid.
Editorial:

The so-called “panty raid” on St. Mary’s Sunday evening was a glaring example of the immaturity and irresponsibility which, because of the actions of a minority of inconsiderate individuals, is attached by many to all Notre Dame men.

A panty raid is but one of the student’s most commendable efforts, An Tostal, the Contemporary Arts Festival and other student sponsored events are forgotten. Tostal, the Contemporary Arts Festival and other student sponsored events are forgotten.

The sad thing is that one of the students’ most commendable efforts, An Tostal, has been obscured. The Hall Presidents’ Council put long hours of effort into the weekend to make it a success. And it was a success.

It is unfortunate that it is an activity such as Sunday’s “panty raid” which reaches individuals from Notre Dame and is subsequently attached to all Notre Dame men.

Tostal, the Contemporary Arts Festival and other student sponsored events are forgotten.

The “Panty Raid”

Sunday night, 1000 Notre Dame “men” responded to the arrival of spring with a fun-filled romp on the St. Mary’s campus. The result: thousands of dollars in damage and theft, and a testimony to the inability of many students to deal with the female on a human level.

In the last 24 hours I’ve received calls from a number of my friends who have been offended by the ramroaching and theft of their possessions, and attended by the total immaturity of these men. As a student leader, I find myself in a strange position. I advocate the decentralization of responsibility from the administration to the student, yet I find this total lack of responsibility by possibly one is six students totally indefensible.

In my last article I called for a show of student responsibility. If this is a manifestation of it, we as students are in a very awkward situation. In this case we must admonish and hopefully restrain those who must participate in such violence.

Another thought: while we can get excited by a panty raid or a Notre Dame football loss, we can’t get as emotionally involved in the real social problems of the day, such as racism, university complicity, or paranoia in becoming real, responsible men.

Friday I must face the Trustees on the issue of Hall Autonomy, especially parental hours. One of my basic rationales has been that the total education of the male demands his taking pride in the female. I must show them of student responsibility. If this is a manifestation of it, we as students are in a very awkward situation. In this case we must admonish and hopefully restrain those who must participate in such violence.

Letters

Father McGrath’s ongoing dispute with the St. Mary’s staff student takes up the large issue of the administration of the College’s current financial and student affairs. There is no excuse for the administration’s hostility and arbitrary treatment of the students, while An Tostal, the Contemporary Arts Festival and other student sponsored events are forgotten.

If one looks only at “panty raids” it becomes understandable that those in a position to make rules for the community would point to destructive activities and conclude that the participants are hardly mature enough to govern their own lives.

This should not and must not be the case.

When anyone asks my opinion of Notre Dame students, I always reply that each student is an individual and shouldn’t be categorized, however, a few hours ago, several hundred individuals from Notre Dame raided the St. Mary’s dorms like wild animals. Ten Notre Dame “men” forced their way into my room and ramroached my drawers, stealing much of the content. Some of my friends had stolen from their beds. When doors were locked, a few “men” tried to force open the rooms through the windows.

I hope our after-midnight garnet-scallers realized the image they were projecting on their University. Is Notre Dame asking the women of St. Mary’s to form a community with a bunch of roughnecks who break into dormitories? St. Mary’s women don’t want to be associated with Notre Dame when we have to fear the invasion of privacy and stealing of personal property by these “men.” They have shown that a large segment of the Notre Dame student body is a mob of juvenile delinquents.

Peace??

LOndon (UPI) -- Actor Tony Curtis, who often appears on television crosscutting against smoking cigarettes, was arrested yesterday at London's Heathrow airport for possession of a small amount of marijuana.

Curtis, who was found for Saint Yard son customs officials discovered the drug when Curtis arrived yesterday afternoon from New York. The 43 year-old actor was released and was scheduled to appear in court this morning.

Saint Yard son spokesman declined to say how much marijuana was found, or whether it was allegedly handed over.

Curtis, who was president of an "I Quit Smoking Club" in the United States, was found speaking to London people on the perils of smoking.

People often talk to me "Pete, you're such a stud. How do you do it, you devil?"

In this space, I will tell all my secrets, so that you too can be a hell of a stud.

PART I: THE INTRODUCTION

The trickiest part of getting a Saint Mary's girl of your very own to found her and take her to the Huddle is meeting her. Now, we can start with a few basic assumptions. For example, I am sure that you are a sexy stud, cool--all over, you are built like Saint Mary's. I know you are the Saint Mary's girl, for me, my roommates, and the other girls.

Not to mention being class president, Boy's State delegate and diocesean president of the CVO! From that we can make our second assumption, that is, that the Saint Mary's girl is lovable. So, if you are right about that, Biggie, we're going to have to make sure you make a first impression that will put your social phobia to shame.

Where to meet the girl: There are several good places to make your first contact. The Huddle and the Library are but two. But let's face it, the best place is Saint Mary's campus. First thing you want to do is go over to Saint Mary's gym, after a weekend night with three or four of your friends and walk around until you run into a girl. It is important to appear relaxed, but it is best to have a few drinks before you go over. It might be a good idea to bring a bottle or two in case you are over there than expected. Once you get there, don't waste a lot of time in places where the hounding doesn't look too good. Wander around a lot, wander between halls and other buildings, you never know where an opportunity may be waiting for you.

What to wear: It is important that you look your most impressive. The girl should be reminded that you are from the University of Notre Dame so that she will build up a relationship in her mind between you and the football team. The bookstore carries a fine line of clothing especially geared to bring this about. A pseudo-tuxedo jacket may be alright--which has leather sleeves and male's collar, "NOTRE DAME" on the back. For an additional charge, you may purchase various uniforms, even and even have you name stitched on the front. Topped off by an ND wool cap and a blue and gold scarf, you will be the epitome of the Cool Young Stud. Sort of an Irish Joe Buck.

Confiscation: Only you can't just walk up to the girl and say something stupid like "Hi, Lousy weather, huh?" You have to make The Big Impression. Your introduction has to say to the girl, "Hey, this guy is really something! You have to have a "One liner" that is something to really spark her interest. A few examples:

1. "How's the baby?"
2. "Hey, where's the action around here, sweetheart?"
3. "Hey, where are you going?"
4. "Are you free?"

Once you have delivered your Opening Line, you must then proceed to keep the impetus of your Big Impression. Small Talk is important. Ask a few pertinent questions to determine the girl's interests. In a subtle way as possible, attempt to establish the girl's name, year, major, and hometown. Ask her if she has seen THE TYPICAL Saint Mary's Girl," if not, get her first and last name. This point cannot be over-emphasized.

In my next column, I will show you how to use this information in "Going your way..."
Letters to Editor

SMC girls. They are also, supossedly, exciting. Well, I must admit, this one was very exciting. Imagine the excitement of a girl who discovers that her vest sweater, a favorite blouse, and her entire jewelry collection missing. Or of the girl whose window is suddenly smashed by an over-anxious raider, who proceeded to help himself to a football jersey which her boyfriend just recently sent her. Or of the girls who lost complete drawers of clothes.

Many of the articles, although perhaps not worth much money, had sentimental attachments, such as the scarf given to me by a boy who died in Vietnam last spring or the many other borrowed memories.

Some of the raiders did not confine themselves to looting, however, as the girl who was pulled down the hall by her hair can tell you. She managed to do what many of us wish we could. She shagged him.

From our room alone, almost one hundred dollars in personal belongings was taken. It's not funny any longer. We're not asking for much, "gentlemen." Just a little respect and our clothes.

Nakedly yours,
Barb 4291

Rite of Spring

Editor:
I had a few sharp reactions to the "rite of spring" that occurred last night and thought I would share my thoughts with my fellow students.

First, I find it all too much in the spirit of the Notre Dame man to obtain "goodies" by force rather than by finesse. For those men who don't have sisters or mothers or girl-friends, let them realize that the average "goodie" costs five times more than a pair of snowshoes from Gilberts. I think we all know what records, radios, and other such items cost and anyone who took items of this sort, not to mention the "goodies", is nothing but a thief.

Finally, most of the girls thought it was great fun until they started to total their losses.

They say she doesn't exist...

- or does she??

draft letter on panuty raid

Editor:
We feel that after last night's incident, it is necessary for us to make a statement concerning the extensive property damage. We therefore make a plea to you, first of all, to return the articles taken either to the respective dorms or if you don't know where they came from, to the Lost and Found in the Fregueaux of Le Mans Hall. No questions will be asked. Second, we feel the lack of cooperation for both the property of the students and that of the college is totally degrading and must be stopped. We must add that not just the boys are to blame, but also some members of this community who have not yet learned respect for their fellow residents. The vandalism and personal abuse that were seen cannot be tolerated.

UAC strives for growth of the arts

(Part II in a three part series devoted to an appraisal of the position of the arts at Notre Dame and an explanation of the University Arts Council.)

The University Arts Council has outlined a program designed to upgrade the creative environment at Notre Dame and increase student participation in, and appreciation of, the arts. Chairman Rob Bartlett has set up six committees to handle next year's activities. They are: Theatre, Writers' Union, Cinema, Art Gallery, Music and Student Arts Festival. The Council is also exploring the possibility of having an open poetry reading, a concert and a student film festival this year.

These programs are contingent on funding and student interest. The core of the UAC cannot carry all of these programs out alone yet they are necessary programs. All of the following plans are able to be implemented before the $1.6 million dollar drive to refurbish the Fieldhouse is completed.

Students have drawn up plans for a temporary theater in the round in the old Fieldhouse. The UAC also plans to publish a monthly Student Literary Review. This would offer students a chance to criticize literary works that are of a particular interest to them. Hopefully, this can include reviews of many contemporary pieces that are not covered in the classroom.

Student Art Studios and a Student Art Gallery will also hopefully be constructed in the old Fieldhouse. Next year's fine arts requirement should stimulate increased interest in the arts. The studios will be open to anyone who is willing to experiment, to interact with other artists, and, hopefully, to improve.

The Council hopes to purchase lighting and sound equipment to accommodate campus theatre and music groups. The UAC will again present a Student Arts Festival. This year's program was the largest in Notre Dame's history and if student interest and participation is large enough next year's festival will be much larger.

My last article will deal with the economic priorities of the University and the position of the arts in that list of priorities. The popular belief is that priorities exist only for the administration and the board of trustees. Most students see the lack of creativity at Notre Dame and many disparage it verbally. I would like to point out that each student is confronted with a "list" of priorities. The programs outlined above can be carried out only if people are willing to work on committees and more importantly, to become involved in the arts. I began this series by referring to the need for a synthesis. It is to provide an opportunity to achieve that synthesis that the Arts Council seeks to create a physical and intellectual center--a building and a spirit in the ND-SMC community. Exposure to this synthesis can no longer be considered a "luxury"; not by the administration, not by the Board of Trustees and, most importantly, not by students dedicated to education rather than training.

Hojnacki bids for seat in state government

William P. Hojnacki, a twenty-seven year old Notre Dame graduate student, is running for Indiana state representative on the Democratic ticket from his home district of South Bend. Hojnacki, probably best known among Notre Dame undergraduates for his work during the Kennedy and Brademas campaigns during 1968, is aiming for a victory in the May 5th primary.

He has been the only candidate to issue position papers on pollution legislation and governmental reform claimed Peter Kelly, a Notre Dame student and supporter of Hojnacki. Hojnacki is a life-long student of South Bend where he attended South Bend Central High School. He received his undergraduate degree from Western Michigan University.

He is a former assistant director of the South Bend Human Relations Employment Practices Commission. He is the president of the Young Democrats and the First District Democratic Club.

Hojnacki is married and in 1967 he was the Democratic nominee for South Bend's First District Councilman. He lost the election.

Lacrosse team edged by Spartans

by Steve O'Connor
Observer Sportswriter

The ND Lacrosse Club ran the season record to 5-2 by splitting in two matches over the weekend with Michigan State's Varsity 9-8 but bounced back on Sunday to whip the Defiance College Club 7-4. In Saturday's game ND got off to a poor start by giving up two goals in the first two minutes. They soon came to life though, and overcome this deficit by lead three by the 4th quarter before bowing in the closing minutes to a powerful, consistent MSU attack. The Irish suffered a serious setback in the first period when the referee, overreacting to a shoving match, threw the Irish goalie Jerry Kennedy out of the game with a fighting penalty. ND blew their three goal lead the MSU squad that capitalized on their mistakes to score five period goals. In general it was a failure to back backup teammates on defense that cost the Irish. These lapses allowed MSU attackers to drive in on goal for deadly close shots.

Outstanding for the Irish on offense was junior attackman Ken Kenn, who continued his hot scoring pace by scoring four goals and assisting on two others. He accompanied these points with his characteristic hustle and heart to cap a fine overall performance. Helping out Ken on offense were Capt. Tim McHugh, who added another goal and assist, and Ed Hoban, Dave Juruk, and Jim Lepley who each scored a goal.

On Sunday, playing primarily for the Freshmen and Sophomores Notre Dame defeated Defiance College Club 7-4 in a Midwest Lacrosse Club League contest. The Irish were in control throughout the entire contest and kept Defiance on defense by controlling the ball well. It was only a great performance by the Defiance goalie that kept the Irish from running away with the score. In the other net Jim Roeller had an easy time of it as the Irish defense offense was not able to mount an offense against the Irish defenders and consequently got off few shots.

Sophomore midfielder Gary Riegeko had two goals and one assist to lead the Irish scorers. Ed Hoban and Jerry Kennedy had two goals apiece and Vic Lupo had a goal and an assist to account for the other ND scores.

ND has a big match this weekend vs. Ohio State and in this match will close out the season schedule at 7:00 Saturday on St. Peter Center Field.

Ed Hoban, sophomore attack man, scored three goals over the weekend in two games. Hoban, along with Kenny Land, has been the chief scoring threat for the ND stickmen this season.

Bootees win twice

The Notre Dame Soccer Club started its spring season in fine fashion over the weekend. The Irish stickers defeated St. Norbert's College twice. Both games had identical 1-0 scores.

The game played Saturday afternoon was an overtime affair and neither team could muster much of an offensive. The winning play came on a shot by Gary Troy who was assisted by Tom Shriver. Maury Bric, the ND goalie notched the shutout.

Beard gives victory thanks

RANCHO LACOSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Beard looks like the nearest thing in creation to a golfing machine but a guy who goes off to the church to give thanks for winning $30,000 must be winning on the course under that hard exterior.

The 70-year-old Beard will be 71 on May 1, ran away from the field Sunday in the final round of the 72 hole, $150,000 Tournament of Champions when he shot a one under par 71 for a total of 273, 15 under.

"I knew I was ahead and I shot for the middle of the green," Beard said.

Beard's rounds were 70-71-72 for a 15 under total. His $30,000 up until this tournament had won only $23,000 in 1970 although that was the leading pro with $17,500.

Seven strokes back at 280 there was a three-way tie for second. Tony Jacklin, Bob Hope, and Jim Brown opened only two shots back after their first round 71's and finished fourth with their final 117; making them the fourth place 69,72,71,213.

"It looked like Beard was playing a different course," Casper said.

Casper had to sink a 30-foot birdie putt on the final green to get into the three-way tie for second, worth $11,633.

Arnold Palmer put strong, steady but unsensational golf all the way, shooting 70-72-69-70-281, under par. That was good for fifth place and $7,400.

Three shots back of Palmer in sixth was the U.S. Open King, Merit and with a final 70 and a 284 total. He earned $6,400.

Beard and his wife, Pat, who was on hand here, have three children and are expecting another.

Old Moneybags and his wife went off to a Catholic Church near here after he got through with post-tournament ceremonies.

Beard will take the week off and go home to Louisville, Ky. He plans to attend the Kentucky Derby — his first.

The second day's game was nearly a carbon copy as defense dominated the day's activity. Tom Shriver was involved in the scoring once again as he hit a penalty kick squarely into the Green Knight's goal.

Tom Makarski matched Bric's performance of the previous day and he was credited with the shutout.

Both of these Irish victories were registered in West DePere, Wisconsin.

Crew, sailors post wins

Although the varsity had no opponent and thus was unable to race, the JV and third string crews on gaited up their opponents by defeating Culver Military Academy and Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago in races at St. Joe River Saturday.

The varsity was skippered by coxswain Barbara Walker, overcame Culver in the final 200 meters of the 6 mile race and scored a first place by 5:41-4.15. The crew promptly celebrated its victory by jumping Mishh in the river.

The third boats were over for half a mile, but ND pulled ahead and won by five lengths, timing 5:51-4-13. The race was held in 7-8.

This week, the varsity and the JV crews will enter the Mid-America championships at Marietta, Ohio, and a strong showing is expected.

The Sailing Club had a very successful weekend as they captured the Midwest first round sailing final at Iowa City, Iowa. The Irish were the favored team in this regatta and they showed their superiority in the out.

One of five other schools entered besides ND. In order of their finish they were Northwestern, Ohio State, Michigan, and Wisconsin, Iowa and Wisconsin.

The ND contingent included seven men, while most schools stuck with only their two best representatives. The Irish took an early lead and this allowed them to utilize the high number of sailors.

Those who appeared in the regatta for ND were Commodore Chuck Taylor, Mark Doyle, Kevin Hoyt, Tim Flodin, Mike Mischke, Bill Donelon and Pat Leonard.

The Irish will now appear in the Midwest team race final at Ohio Wesleyan (Delaware, Ohio). Two weeks hence they will sail in the Midwest regular finals at Indiana.

The Notre Dame Rugby Club suffered their initial defeat of the spring season 9-6 against the University of Iowa this weekend. The "A" team ruggers, who had just beaten Indiana, the Big Ten champion weekend, did not send their best tent to Iowa City. However, the "B" team put together a fine defensive performance as they defeated the Irish 9-0.

The "A" team ruggers, whose record now stands at 6-1-1, scored on a try by senior Paul Rogers and a penalty kick by senior captain Mike Paterni. Both Mike Morrison and Charley Blum played well in the scrum for the Irish, but the lack of experience in the background made it a difficult job for the football rugby club. "A" team regulars Gary Gleason, Bill Chugotet, Tom Hughes, Mark Rubinstein, seniors beat juniors in Poolah Bowls

Bill Berry, Kenny Kern, and Sal Bonmattito were unable to make the trip to Iowa.

A try by Chuck Leggero and the conversion by John Zukatis accounted for the scoring by the "B" team. The "B" team now 3-0-1, will play the Oxford Rugby Club in Chicago on Saturday.

"A" team Irish ruggers also travel to Chicago to compete in the Midwest Rugby Union Tournament on Saturday and Sunday. The winner of this 16-team tournament is declared as the Midwest Champion, and although the ruggers played poorly at Iowa, they will be at full strength and spirits this weekend in the Windy City.
