HPC wants compromise constitution

The Hall Presidents Council met last night and discussed at length whether or not to act on the proposal designed for them in the Knapp Administration's proposed new Student Government Constitution. Emerging from the conference with Krashna and SBVP Mark Winings was a realization, in the words of HPC executive coordinator Tim Mahoney, "that the answer is not in this constitution or the Senate, but somewhere in between."

In closing the meeting, it was decided by President Phillip Faccenda that the body would then set up an interim government to discover "the best possible solution to the problem."

On the whole, the presidents rejected the proposal but endorsed the idea of the constitution or the Senate, or the need for assistance to the Minority Student program.

Winings proposed a compromise to Faccenda's proposal calling for increased funding for minority recruitment, claiming that the Trustees were not accurately assessing the gravity of minority student program.

President Philip Faccenda proposed that the motion again be tabled because of what he termed the continuing confusion in the intent of the amendment. SBVP Dave Krashna and Senate Representative Glen Corso objected strongly to Faccenda's motion claiming that the proposal was clear and that it should not be put off any longer.

The vote to table ended in a tie which was broken by Chair Fagan's vote in favor of the motion, presenting a vote on Winings' bill for the second time.

Following the meeting, Winings termed the council's action: "A cowardly way to go about business." He contended that a "vote should have been taken today."

Portions of the meeting were taped by NBC's "First Tuesday" film crew who plan to use a part of a presentation on life at Notre Dame on the December 1 show.

In another business, Carol Riehle proposed that the HPC call for establishment of an appeal board consisting of two SMC and two ND students to try appeals of parking violations incurred by one school's students on the other school's campus. The amendment was passed and will take effect immediately.

Krasna disappointed with trustees

SBVP Dave Krashna expressed disappointment with the reaction of the Board of Trustees to the report he presented to them at a meeting last Friday. Krashna felt the Trustees had been especially unresponsive to his proposal calling for increased funding for minority recruitment, claiming that the Trustees were not accurately assessing the gravity of the Minority Student program.

"My reactions to the meeting were not very good," Krashna said. "I thought that the Trustees were not really honestly appraising what we had done."

Krasna's main complaint centered on the specific questions thrown at him by the Trustees which he was not prepared to answer. Krashna said the Trustees had instructed him to keep the report as general as possible and so he was not ready to discuss detailed aspects of his report.

The report concentrated on what Krishna termed the three main concerns of his administration: student social life, minority student social life, and a restored University Forum. Though two of the ideas received some favorable comment from the Board, Krishna's proposal for establishment of an appeal board was received under heavy criticism from the Board members.

He also stated that the major objection of the trustees which he had discussed was the proportionate percentage of minority funding. Krashna felt the 26% figure of percentage of minority funding was misleading. "26% is not enough if you have a low total amount..."

Election recess vetoed at SMC
By Ann Therese Darin

The St. Mary's Academic Affairs Council vetoed an academically motivated proposal to require all students to fill out student registration forms each day during the upcoming election recess. The defeated proposal "recommended" that students be given written agreements with teachers to arrange their work loads during their ten-day absence. The teachers then could negotiate non-punitive action against students.

However, the Council members suggested that students who wish to absent themselves from classes and campaign but have doubts about their academic plans, should try to work out written agreements with their teachers.

In defeating the proposal by a 4-2 vote, the Council felt that it was superfluous to already existing policies. They also stated that no amount of legislation can change a teacher's classroom policy, and that the proposal incorrectly assumed that the faculty would be unduly punitive to students.

Students would have had to show proof of participation in a political campaign to be eligible for the special arrangement.

"It's unfortunate," said Ann Marie Tracey, student body president, "that the Council failed to take a definite stand on the issue; however, with the consideration of the academic freedom of the faculty, its position is understandable."

The ambiguity of the attendance system and difficulties that arise in the exercise of the functions of the Community Relations Board came up in discussion on the proposal.

Although both Notre Dame and St. Mary's have "no cut" policies, said Carol Hennenfent, Academic Affairs chairman, "Notre Dame generally interprets its rule so that its students can attend or cut classes at will. St. Mary's policy is interpreted as compulsory attendance. This ambiguity must be changed."

Mrs. Tracey said the role of Notre Dame is to be "hard to do because of the abstract basis for possible issues such as grades or 'unfair' decisions."

Joe Theismann and Tom Gatewood, the latest in Notre Dame's series of great pass-catch combination, have added their names to the conversion. The nation's leading pass catcher with 36 grabs, Theismann aerials for 136 yards, a touchdown and a two-point

Stadium, presented an even greater tactical problem to the Army

Gatewood is a sure All-American selection and appears well on his way to breaking Jack Snow's single season pass reception mark of 60, set in 1964.

The questionable status of All-American guard Larry DiNardo cast a shadow of gloom over Saturday's victory celebration. A knee limping in the first half and the Irish attack will be seriously

Scott Hemple moved into the ND elite over the weekend. His five successful conversions placed him in the tenth position of all time Irish scorers. Hemple's three year total is 141, which passed former Notre Dame star Nick Eddy. Eddy had 140 points in his three year career.

Ruggers remain undefeated

Notre Dame A and B rugby teams both registered impressive shutouts against the University the Saturday behind Stepan Center. The "A" team won their third straight without a loss 3-0 against a Homer team that was last year's Big Ten champions. The "B" team didn't do only remain undefeated but also to remain unscored upon.

The Irish ruggers were, however, dissatisfied with some of their offensive play. They plan to work hard this week on their backfield passing in order to generate more offense in their next game.

Three points will not be enough to defeat their next, the Palmer Chicopee Rugby Club. The game is next Sunday in South Bend, and the Irish ruggers agree that this should be one of their toughest opponents. The ruggers season record now stands at 3-0.

Counseling program discussed at St. Mary's

By Mary Dalheim

The counseling program at St. Mary's College was one of the most extensively discussed issues at the meeting of the Educational Policy Committee of the Board of Trustees Friday morning, according to Carol Henninger, Academic Commissioner.

Directors Miss Mary Martucci and assistant director Miss Wheaton made presentations of their guidance and counseling program at St. Mary's. Miss Martucci explained the goals of counseling as well as the Student Advisor Program. She proposed that student advisors be not only compensated for their work, but given academic credit as well. The Educational Policy Committee recommended that this proposal be accepted. She pointed out that many schools as well as 16 of his 32 assistants were presently suffering from this intestinal flu.

An open house will be held in Bertrand Hall from 1:00 to 4:00 pm and displaying the many archives which have made up the history of Saint Mary's. At 7:30 pm an informal get-together will be held in Stapleton Lounge in Le Mans Hall.

Various guest speakers include Sr. M. Concepta, Associate Professor of Education, Sr. M. Franzita, Professor of English, Fr. John Cavanagh, chaplain in Le Mans Hall, Sr. M. Raphaelita, Director of Admissions, and Miss Carroll, Executive Director of the Alumnae Association.

Miss Wheaton also handled job transfers for alumnus and student placement in part-time jobs.

The ND-SMC recruiting program was also discussed. It stands, St. Mary students registered with the placement bureau will be able to attend recruiting sessions and interviews held at Notre Dame. A proposal suggesting that Notre Dame students be allowed to attend recruiting sessions at St. Mary's, primarily in the field of education, is under discussion.
