Flag draped coffin of Charles de Gaulle is driven past the De Gaulle family tomb (white cross at right) stop armored scout car en route to village church (background) for funeral services here November 12. (UPI photo)

NORDEN MOURNING FOR DEGAULLE

PARIS (UPI) King and president East and West Arab and Jew joined Wednesday to pay homage to Charles de Gaulle in historic Notre Dame Cathedral and at small funeral service where Frenchmen marched 50 abreast through driving rain up the Champs Elysee.

Seven hours after de Gaulle's death, President Nixon joined in mourners to pay tribute to the French leader, who died at age 79, in an emotional ceremony.

Nixon was bused one of the world's figures at the memorial services in Paris standing among two emperors, four other monarchs, 20 other presidents and 3,200 of the French public in Notre Dame Cathedral. Thursdays of others gathered outside to listen to the services broadcast on loud speakers and millions more observed the services on television.

"Our assembly which united millions of men in France and in the world proves the place held by him who has just been called unexpectedly to his eternity" said Cardinal Marty. It was the only eulogy in line with de Gaulle's last will that there be no politics.

Responding to a government invitation to lay flowers at the Arch of Triumph where de Gaulle's statue stood during the liberation of Paris from the Nazis 26 years ago. Nixon said that his presence at Notre Dame was a gesture of respect and friendship, a sentiment shared by every Frenchman gathered there.

"I am here because I believe that Charles de Gaulle is to Frenchmen what Abraham Lincoln is to Americans" Nixon said. "He was a man of action and so was Lincoln."

"I am here because I believe that Charles de Gaulle is to Frenchmen what Abraham Lincoln is to Americans" Nixon said. "He was a man of action and so was Lincoln."

"I am here because I believe that Charles de Gaulle is to Frenchmen what Abraham Lincoln is to Americans" Nixon said. "He was a man of action and so was Lincoln."

"I am here because I believe that Charles de Gaulle is to Frenchmen what Abraham Lincoln is to Americans" Nixon said. "He was a man of action and so was Lincoln."

The Observer
SLC ELECTIONS

Student Body President Dave Kruzhin announced last week that the election for the Student Life Council seat from Flanner and Grace Towers will take place next Thursday, November 19. Petitions for those running must be picked up in the Student Government Office. The petitions must have a total of 100 signatures and corresponding full addresses for the names to be placed on the Towers ballot.

The Towers seat became vacant when Observer Editor Glen S. Corso resigned to devote full time to his editorial duties.

Kruzhin said that the election rules concerning campaign expenditures and other campaign items will be the same as the rules for the general SLC elections last April.

UNIVERSITY RESEARCH

The University of Notre Dame has accepted $470,899 in awards for the month of October to support research and educational programs, according to Dr. Frederick D. Rossini, vice president of research and sponsored programs.

FROSH ELECTIONS

The freshmen class will hold elections for its officers Wednesday, November 18. Petitions for office will be distributed from the Student Government Office today until 7:30 P.M. and must be turned in Sunday by 12 noon. Campaigning will begin Sunday and will end 2 A.M. Wednesday morning.

Theology dept. to begin Death Week on Monday

Death Week, a series of events and lectures on death, will be held on both campuses of Notre Dame and St. Mary’s from November 16-19. This week has been organized by students of the Humanistic Studies department and conducted by Mr. Ted Hengesbach. The purpose of the week is to provide an opportunity for the campus “to confront the profound and mystery of death.”

The week will open on Monday, November 16 at 8:00 p.m. at the SMC Coffee House. This will be “Dramatic Readings on Death,” which will include selections from various authors, including major excerpts from Albert Camus’ “The Just Assassins,” a work concerned with revolution and death.

On Tuesday evening, November 17, Dr. Eugene Leaty of the N.D. Music Department will present a two hour program on “Music and Death.” His selections will range from the Medieval period to the contemporary scene. Dr. Leaty will present a summary of each musical piece and its composer. The even will be at the Coffee House of SMC at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Elizabeth Kuhler-Ross, a Chicago psychological and author, will deliver a lecture, “On Death and Dying.” This will be given Wednesday, November 18, at 8:00 p.m. in the Memorial Library Auditorium.

The students who have organized Death Week will present two events on November 19. At 4:00 p.m. in the Library Auditorium, Rev. Kenneth Grabner, C.S.C. will give a lecture, “Death and Eastern Thought.” Father Grabner will pursue this subject through an examination of the, “Death of the Book of the Dead.”

The final event will be at 8:00 p.m. in the Architecture Auditorium. “Death, War and the Chaplain” will be the subject of a lecture delivered by Edmund Murray, C.S.C. Father Murray has himself been a service chaplain and will speak from his experiences and from a survey he has conducted on military veterans.

Parents’ Weekend big success

Terminating the Sophomore Parents’ Weekend a “big success”, Gary Caruso, executive coordinator of the sophomore class, said yesterday that “Fr. Hesburgh’s speech to the parents was original and I think really made the weekend.”

About 1600 parents and friends attended the sophomore affair which included seats to the Pittsburg game, a catered dinner, and the Sergio Mendez concert.

Caruso explained that the idea of a weekend for the sophomore parents was originally that of Fr. Charles Magrare. The sophomore officers began working in May, distributing letters and postcards publicizing the event throughout the month of June.

“Personally I spent about 1000 hours working on the weekend right up to the final days,” said Caruso. “I’d just like to reiterate what Fr. Magrare told the parents and say that I hope it sets a precedent.”
Sophomore cars unlikely this year

By Kevin McGill

Although student backers are still holding on, administration officials doubt that car privileges can be given sophomores this year. This information was conveyed in an interview with Dean of Students Rev. James L. Riehle, Student Council President Mark Winn, Vice President of Business Affairs Rev. Jerome J. Wilson, Director of Security Alfred Giuffrida, and Student Life Council representatives Gary Caruso and Alfred Giuffrida.

Fr. Riehle has held the position that sophomores and freshmen, who will soon be wanting the same privileges, should not have cars. He feels that students should work hard in college for at least two years without the temptation of a car. Fr. Riehle, however, sees "nothing immoral" in the situation between students and cars.

The only real obstacle to sophomore car privileges is the lack of parking spaces on campus. At present there are 212 spaces not being utilized in all on and off campus lots. Most of these, according to Mr. Pears, are filled by juniors and seniors who bring cars the second semester. Caruso maintains that between one and two hundred sophomores would register cars next semester if they were permitted to, and between four and five hundred would register next fall.

To facilitate the parking problem, Caruso presented a two part proposal to the Student Life Council last Monday. He called for reorganization of present lots to make optimum use of all available area, temporary enlargement of several existing lots, and, as a long range goal, construction of "underground parking lots...under chaotic Notre Dame's future building such as the law and engineering building."

At present, there are approximately one thousand parking spaces south of the ACC and the stadium which are used only for football games and activities in the ACC. Caruso hopes that this space can be used for off-campus parking. The lots would be emptied by evening when they would be required for ACC events. The present off-campus lots could then be used by sophomores. Mr. Pears pointed out that since 25 to 150 cars can be now found every night, cars of students using the library or some other facility. These same cars would take up valuable ACC parking spaces. Caruso feels that if they would be allowed in the evening to move to the area near the Stadium Center, which would be vacant for the night, the problem would be solved. Both Fr. Riehle and Mr. Pears mentioned an incident last Saturday in which thirty-two students who had promised faithfully, failed to remove their cars from the stadium lot before the football game. They contend that there will always be students who will refuse to vacate the lots, too many to be towed away. Caruso wonders if thirty-two less parking spaces will really hurt the ACC and suggests that the arrangement be at least tried on an experimental basis.

"The fact is, that the lots by the stadium were provided specifically for the ACC and the stadium to facilitate people coming to activities there," said Fr. Riehle. "In this sense they were actually paid for by the people of South Bend and by alumni. If it had been known that the lots were to be used for student parking they would not have been built."

Caruso also proposed that the C2 lot, the dirt lot north of the aerospace building, could be expanded cheaply on its northern half without hitting the baseball field. He also thinks the DI lot opposite the library could be relatively simply expanded by two rows, creating more than two hundred spaces.

Although nine suggestions were made in the Caruso Plan for rearranging or creating new facilities.

US: Taiwan to stay in UN

The United States appeared to move closer yesterday to a "Two-China's" policy which would accept Communist China into the United Nations. Diplomatic observers regarded as highly significant a speech in which Ambassador Christopher H. Phillips, deputy undersecretary of the U.S. told the General Assembly:

"As the most important part of the matter is that the United States is as interested in

ND-SMC Academic Comm. to cooperate

A growing number of St. Mary's girls are now working on the lecture series at Notre Dame sponsored by the Academic Commission. Such an arrangement "sets the groundwork for

Study tour to visit England

There will be a meeting on Wednesday, November 18, for all those who have expressed an interest in the trip or who are interested in participating in the trip to England, Scotland, and Ireland being sponsored by the St. Mary's history department.

The study tour, which will leave New York on December 28th and return to New York on January 18th, is being personally directed by Dr. Anthony Black, a member of the history department at St. Mary's. Dr. Black has arranged, along with the sight-seeing activities, a series of meetings and discussion seminars with college faculty members and student groups in London, Oxford, Edinburgh and Dublin. Among the places the group will visit are: London, Salisbury, Oxford, York, Edinburgh and Dublin.

At the meeting on Wednesday, interested students will be asked to speak to Dr. Black and also to the travel representative involved in planning the trip to visit the Union ticket office according to Missy Underman, the body's publicity commission and the ACC.

Miss Underman also heads the St. Mary's Academic Commission, which is divided into two smaller committees such as the distinguished lecture, drug conference, and women speakers' committees, to name a few. She directly heads the women's lecture series, the urban studies lecture series, the environmental lecture series, and the poetry series.

Previously there had been some difficulty with girls holding a position on the Academic Commission because it was almost entirely controlled by Notre Dame.

Bayanihan Philippine Dance Company

Bayanihan Philippine Dance Company presented at the Union on November 18. At 8:30 pm tickets $5, $4, $2 were sold at student union social commission & acc

Wednesday – November 18 – 8 PM – 8:30 pm tickets $5, $4, $2 on sale at student union social commission & acc

Fred Giuffrida
DETROIT (UPI) - The United Auto Workers' General Motors Council recommended yesterday the 375,000 union members on strike for 59 days accept the tentative agreement between UAW President Leonard Woodcock and GM. The council's decision came after a show of hands vote and was in favor of recommending acceptance.

Council members were in favor of the council's recommendation. It they ratify the pact - which GM calls inflationary and which is expected to cost the company well over $2 billion in wages alone over three years - some production lines at the world's largest manufacturing organization probably will start rolling again by Dec. 1.

"I want to tell you I am not satisfied with this agreement," Woodcock told the 350 GM council members and several hundred other union members who began a five hour closed door meeting by an explanation of the tentative agreement in a hall at Detroit's Riverfront Veterans Memorial Building.

"But I do believe a point of time in the battle when the gains to be made to have to be weighed against the hardships being imposed on a show of hands vote and the fact that the agreement will go into effect this year.

The tentative agreement also provides that GM will pay all health insurance premiums regardless of increases in cost. In return the UAW dropped its demand for dental care.

The tentative agreement covers only UAW members in the United States. Both sides still are negotiating a contract for the 23,000 UAW members in Canada. Under the agreement GM members who get an average wage $4.02 per hour would receive $5.23 cents per hour in the first year and 14 cents per hour in the second and third years. In addition GM agreed to lift the limit on the cost of living allowance which workers against inflation and to give $500 per month pension after 30 years service. The full pension would be paid to workers retiring at age 65. It is the first year of the contract 57 in the second year and 56 in the third.

Two additional holidays also were negotiated including one which would give the workers an unbroken Christmas New Year's vacation. However negotiations have not yet decided whether that vacation would go into effect this year.

GM settlement likely

The tentative agreement between the United Auto Workers and General Motors November 12 during meeting of the UAW's GM Council at Detroit's Veteran's Memorial Building. The UAW's GM Council met early to examine the tentative contract. (UPI photo)

Applications now being accepted for student mem­bership on University Academic Council.

Submit name and statement of purpose to student chairman clo appropriate Dean's office.

Art & Letters - Ed McCarr
Business - Robert Bramlett
Engineering - Robert Jenson
Science - Thomas Kenny

Friday, November 13, 1970

Heller lectures on Bertold Brecht

The conflict between love of nature and the need for political commitment, is the constant concern in the life of Bertold Brecht according to Dr. Erich Heller who gave a speech in St. Mary's Little Theater last night. He summarized his own position as "I want to tell you I am not as one who, in a time of darkness, manged to be a good poet."

Heller started his speech admitting that by giving this talk he was breaking a private vow he had made to himself never to talk about "Bert Brecht." Heller claims "It is so immensely difficult to speak with justice about a man "whom he described as being obsessed with the necessity of being unjust." Heller emphasized the "tender and pure lyricism" of Brecht, and the fact that he could keep this virtue in the "most political times." Heller read several of Brecht's poems, twice in German so as to show their true lyricism.

Krasha announces changes in cabinet

By Fred Schofer

Several cabinet changes were announced at last nights cabinet meeting. Community Relations Director Dave Schmidt resigned, and Jack Condon, previously As­istant to Schmidt was appoint­ed Department Director. He was formerly an assistant in that Department.

According to SBP Dave Krash­na, "Dave resigned because he had too many other activities which took away from his time here.

A new cabinet post was creat­ed, the Special Projects Director, who will work on projects design­ed by Krashna. Tim Connor, formerly Research and Develop­ment Director, has been designa­ted to fill the post.

Bob Obelshimmer will assume duties as the Research and Develop­ment Director. He was formerly an assistant in that office.

One other change was an­nounced. Paul Dziefrid has been named as an assistant Public Relations officer. Krashna said, "He came to us and said he wanted to help on press releases. I felt Don Mononey needed some help, since it is such a large department."

An evaluation of the Student Government was prepared by the Cabinet, and presented to Krashna. He said, "The big thing they said was that we haven't been very good to the Cabinet and we should. We do plan to do it, although it is hard with all the other work which protects the Cabinet."

In other developments, the Student Government is planning to sponsor two "big events" next semester according to Krashna.

There will be a General Assembly of Students the early part of second semester, "hope­fully in the first or second month." Bob Meyers will lead the Assembly, although the SBP will chair it. "In it, the students will present their ideas to the Cabinet, which they will then develop. It will be as informal as possible, but with the necessary controls. Each hall will partici­pate," Krashna stated.

A two day Police Conference will be started, bringing local and state police to campus along with the ND security force. One of the main reasons the conference is being sponsor­ed is the incident in Alumni Hall last year, in which some of the local police were called on cam­pus. Krashna feels that because of this, "We need some understanding between the stu­dents and police." The conference will be struc­tured along the lines of a work­shop, and it will be a chance to meet police officers and officials Krashna said, "Students look down on police, and police look down on stu­dents. We feel that some of these opinions should be confront­ed." Krashna also plans to invite Fr. Hesburgh to participate, in his capacity as Civil Rights Commissioner.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

Let Budweiser ferment a second time. (Most brewers quit after one fermenta­tion. We don't.)

These beerwood strips offer extra surface area for tiny yeast particles to cling to, helping clarify the beer. And since these strips are also porous, they help absorb beer's natural "edge," giving Budweiser its finished taste. In other words, "a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price."

Ah yes, drinkability. That's what's so special about Beerwood Ageing. But you know that.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)

Krasha announces changes in cabinet

By Fred Schofer

Several cabinet changes were announced at last nights cabinet meeting. Community Relations Director Dave Schmidt resigned, and Jack Condon, previously As­istant to Schmidt was appoint­ed Department Director. He was formerly an assistant in that Department.

According to SBP Dave Krash­na, "Dave resigned because he had too many other activities which took away from his time here.

A new cabinet post was creat­ed, the Special Projects Director, who will work on projects design­ed by Krashna. Tim Connor, formerly Research and Develop­ment Director, has been designa­ted to fill the post.

Bob Obelshimmer will assume duties as the Research and Develop­ment Director. He was formerly an assistant in that office.

One other change was an­nounced. Paul Dziefrid has been named as an assistant Public Relations officer. Krashna said, "He came to us and said he wanted to help on press releases. I felt Don Mononey needed some help, since it is such a large department."

An evaluation of the Student Government was prepared by the Cabinet, and presented to Krashna. He said, "The big thing they said was that we haven't been very good to the Cabinet and we should. We do plan to do it, although it is hard with all the other work which protects the Cabinet."

In other developments, the Student Government is planning to sponsor two "big events" next semester according to Krashna.

There will be a General Assembly of Students the early part of second semester, "hope­fully in the first or second month." Bob Meyers will lead the Assembly, although the SBP will chair it. "In it, the students will present their ideas to the Cabinet, which they will then develop. It will be as informal as possible, but with the necessary controls. Each hall will partici­pate," Krashna stated.

A two day Police Conference will be started, bringing local and state police to campus along with the ND security force. One of the main reasons the conference is being sponsor­ed is the incident in Alumni Hall last year, in which some of the local police were called on cam­pus. Krashna feels that because of this, "We need some understanding between the stu­dents and police." The conference will be struc­tured along the lines of a work­shop, and it will be a chance to meet police officers and officials Krashna said, "Students look down on police, and police look down on stu­dents. We feel that some of these opinions should be confront­ed." Krashna also plans to invite Fr. Hesburgh to participate, in his capacity as Civil Rights Commissioner.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

Let Budweiser ferment a second time. (Most brewers quit after one fermenta­tion. We don't.)

These beerwood strips offer extra surface area for tiny yeast particles to cling to, helping clarify the beer. And since these strips are also porous, they help absorb beer's natural "edge," giving Budweiser its finished taste. In other words, "a taste, a smoothness and a drinkability you will find in no other beer at any price."

Ah yes, drinkability. That's what's so special about Beerwood Ageing. But you know that.

Budweiser is the King of Beers.

(But you know that.)
Student cooperation great; Local kids to attend game

On Saturday almost 700 South Bend area children will see their first college football game when Notre Dame takes on Georgia Tech. This project, organized by chairmen Eric Andrus, Jack Candon, and Diane Tarr, was "on borrowed time" Tarr said. It was to change it enough to make it a reality.

Georgia Tech. This project, organized by chairmen Eric Andrus, Jack Candon, and Diane Tarr, was "on borrowed time" Tarr said. It was to change it enough to make it a reality.

The idea for this project was broached in September during a meeting of the Notre Dame Student Government. Under the direction of Andrus, Candon, and Shahade, it has since won the approval of University officials, including Athletics Director Larry DiNardo and Tim Kelley. Beyond that, the Notre Dame and Chicago

Eric Andrus

Shahade, was finalized last night when the chairmen met with the monitors who will watch the children during the day.

The children will all meet at their schools and then be driven by Notre Dame students to South Bend. They will all be driven with their monitors. The driving is being done by 53 cars and a bus donated by the owning club.

The children will then be taken for a 2-hour tour of campus. About 12:30 they will all be brought to the Stadium.

Each monitor has at the most two children. Most of the monitors are tutors and they will be with the kids that they teach. The kids will have the tickets donated by the Notre Dame students. They are placed as close as possible to the monitors, but a minimal amount of moving around will have to be done.

Andrus asked that "the student body be patient and tolerate" with a minimal amount of moving around will have to be done.

Andrus asked that "the student body be patient and tolerate" because he admitted "this is essential for this project to work."

After the game, the children and the monitors will return to South Bend. They will then be driven home.

Bye, bye draft

LOS ANGELES (UPI) The draft is now unpopular. It is living on borrowed time according to the director of the selective service system.

Curtis W. Tarr said Congress might soon eliminate the President's power to draft.

"The Selective Service is living on borrowed time," Tarr said. "We hope we can make it more tolerable, but there is a calculated risk we may never be able to change it enough to make it tolerable."

Tarr said the best compromise would be to replace the draft with a lottery system, but keep the draft in reserve for wartime.

Placement Bureau

FOR SENIORS AND GRADUATE STUDENTS WHO WISH TO RECEIVE DEGREES IN JANUARY, MAY, OR AUGUST OF 1971, YOU MUST BE REGISTERED WITH THE PLACEMENT BUREAU BEFORE DEC. 15. PAPER WORK CAN BE CODED WITH THE EMPLOYERS LISTED HERE ON PAGES 3 AND 4 OF THIS BULLETIN. SIGN UP UNDER THE HEAD "RESERVE FOR WINTER 1971".

RIPON, WISCONSIN, MONDAY, NOV. 16 FOR INTERVIEWS DURING THE WEEK OF NOV. 16. INTERVIEWS WILL BE AVAILABLE FROM 8:30 AM., MONDAY, NOV. 16. THROUGH FRIDAY, NOV. 20. WED DEC. 3

Standard Oil Company (Ohio) Department of the Army

Clark Equipment Co.

Standard Oil Company (Ohio) Department of the Army

Clark Equipment Co.

Kent State University, Kent, Ohio

The Magnolia Co. & Florsheim

Standard Oil Company (Ohio)

Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

Amerada Hess Corp.

Amerada Hess Corp.

Cranes' Country Club

American Can Co.

New York Dept. of Transportation

National Labor Relations Board

Amerada Hess Corp.

Ohio Department of Highways

Beloit Corp.

Republic National Bank

Underwriters Laboratories, Inc.

Republic National Bank

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., Inc.

Montgomery Ward & Co.

Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., Inc.

Weathervane Broadcasting Co., Inc.

Weathervane Broadcasting Co., Inc.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.

Ember 16, in Room 207, MAIN BLDG. THE SIGN-UP SHEETS ARE ON THE UPPER AND EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE IS ON THE LOWER SHELVES. FEEL FREE TO TAKE A COPY OF EMPLOYMENT LITERATURE TO READ AND STUDY. KEEP YOUR "CAMPUS INTERVIEW" BOOKLETS FOR REFERENCE. THE PLACEMENT BUREAU PROCESSES BLEND WITH THE JOBS. AND STUDEN preparing for the interviews.
Deal for the Students

The Senate, as it painfully agonizes over the budget, needs a most immediate reminder of where its priorities are, and where they should be. They are with the halls. Sixty-three percent of the student body asserted that last March.

In the deliberations so far, the Senate has granted three organizations more money that they requested. In one case the Hall President's Council-the increase was justified by the money-back-to-the-hall provisions defined by Mr. Winnings and others. It was also justified for the legitimacy for Mr. Krashna, campaigning precisely on that platform. It is the will of the students.

Less justified are the increases in the Afro-American and Mexican-American budgets. The rationale offered justify the allocation to the Afro-American society above and beyond their budget request are patently irrational. Senators are elected to consider the validity of submitted budgets from all organizations, not to "make a commitment," as Mr. Winnings vaguely theorized, or to "solve a real problem in the world," as Mr. Ryan muttered. The student Senate of the University of Notre Dame has not the capacity to help the world's real problems. It has barely the capacity to help solve the student's problems. If the Senate is to make any commitment, it must be to the students who elected them-a commitment to judge every budget rationally, fairly, and objectively.

Both are budgeted for the current academic year. The third is to assume a bold new priority, as the Student Body asserted that priority last March. There are with the halls. Sixty-three percent of the student body asserted that last March.

The organization truly desired the further budgeting the Senate gave to each of them, that desire would have appeared in print. The two organization's absences spoke eloquently for them.

Student Government is, at the moment, twenty four thousand dollars in debt to the University. The debt could undercut at any mordent Student Government's dealings with the University. The Senate has three options open to it. The first is to continue practices of making dramatic gestures to the detriment of the student body. The second is to overspend the budget and perpetuate the debt. The third is to assume a bold new priority, as the Student Body asserted that priority last March.

We advise them to adopt the last choice.

Letter

Editor:
Mr. Corso's comments on the ignorance of Bishop Pusley in the area of modern Catholic theology are very interesting. I had no idea that the edifice-chief of our campus press was so well-educated in the doctrines of the Catholic faith.

But I feel that his statement, from my limited knowledge of modern Catholic theology, is inaccurate. Fr. Charles Sheedy gave an interesting explanation of the systematics of Catholic thought at the recent Forum on Abortion. While most Protestant theologies are existential, search oriented, the Catholic theology is essential, or absolutist, in its grasp of truth. While both Protestants and Catholics accept the reality of a higher moral order, the existential nature of Protestant theology allows for relativism and subjectivity in their individual search for Truth. On the other hand, while Catholics are for the most part also seeking the Truth, the Catholic doctrine is that they are in possession of the Truth, the higher moral order existing, on any issue concerning which the Pope speaks ex cathedra. To my knowledge, the doctrine of ex cathedra has not been abandoned by Rome in the great sweep of modern theology. It is still held that the Holy Spirit speaks through the Vicar of Christ on earth, the Pope, whenever he presents an article of faith or gives deeper and/or new interpretations to old articles of faith. This certainly smacks of absolutism.

Christian doctrine has always held the great evil of the willful taking of the life of another. From the time of Augustine onward, the Church has always held that the soul is infused by God at the moment of conception, the formation of the zygote. Therefore, from the moment of conception onward, the mother is carrying within her a human being. "And certainly from no later than 150 A.D. abortion has been specifically condemned in Christian catechisms." This leaves the Church no other choice but to vigorously condemn abortion as murder. And in the eyes of the Church, or at least in the eyes of Bishop Pusley and Our Sunday Visitor, The Observer has, by itsTyping errors, has made serious errors in the reporting of Bishop Pusley's and Mr. Conroy's assertions that the society had submited a "really valid budget" and in the same breath that they had "totally underestimated their costs." At the risk of sounding obvious, we suggest that organizations incapable of doing minimal work such as estimating their costs and developing their budgets would be hardly able to "run really good programs.”

If the Student Government truly desired the further budgeting the Senate gave to each of them, that desire would have appeared in print. The two organization's absences spoke eloquently for them.

Student Government is, at the moment, twenty four thousand dollars in debt to the University. The debt could undercut at any mordent Student Government's dealings with the University. The Senate has three options open to it. The first is to continue practices of making dramatic gestures to the detriment of the student body. The second is to overspend the budget and perpetuate the debt. The third is to assume a bold new priority, as the Student Body asserted that priority last March.

We advise them to adopt the last choice.

Glen Corso

Back to the Halls

With the annual budget (fiasco almost at an end it has become painfully obvious that the Kranz administration has chosen to ignore its main campaign promise.

During last year's SBP race the victorious candidates promised a greatly increased emphasis on hall life. This has not been done. Instead we have witnessed the same old attitudes on the part of the so-called student leaders who sit at the Fortune. The government is still highly centralized and the union has gone its merry way absorbing more and more activities and organizations.

There is great potential in the halls. While no hall or halls could have concerts and the like there are many fine activities they could do which serve to bring people closer together. President Kranz claimed that his administration would direct attention to the halls, yet he made no protest when the Senate passed a resolution to decentralize the government.

It seems student government has failed to realize that the huge majority who voted for Kranz indicated their desire to see a viable hall oriented policy. Even if the new constitution is eventually implemented it will probably be far too late to do any good. The HPC will be stuck with a budget drawn up by a lama-duck legislative and compliant student government.

The present administration obviously has no desire to decentralize its powers, activities or money. The Senate, while probably not very happy with the budget is unable to act, as it has been for the past three years. The only body which can act is the Hall President's Council.

Opponents of the new constitution have cited a reluctance on the part of the HPC to assume the Senate's duties, as proof that the Senate should be retained. The HPC itself has lent credence to these claims by vacillating in its attitudes towards the constitution. In fact a good number have flatly declared their unwillingness to assume any responsibilities.

The HPC, with firm decisive action can dispel these doubts. They must petition the Senate to raise the activity fee back to $16 with all monies realized to be given back to the halls. A committee composed of Hall Presidents and Senators could then decide who to give the money to.

Until and unless the HPC decides to act, student government, student union and the Senate will continue to follow the same old course of virtually ignoring the halls and allowing influence and power to gather in a centralized administration.

None of these bodies are going to change voluntarily, because no matter how many campaign promises are made each year there are many people who have been badly entrenched and have no intention of sacrificing anything to the petty influences in a move to decentralize the government. Their main inclination is to increase their influence as much as possible.

Student government and student union have become the "establishment" with no intention of changing their policies despite any politician's promises. Until and unless they are forced to do so by the HPC the halls will remain at the mercy of their bureaucratic whim.
Tuesday Night: Earth Light Theatre

Earth Light Theatre troupe will perform Tuesday night at 8:00 in Stepan Center, courtesy of CAF. A donation of $1.50, and 50¢ of the proceeds to CAP. From the Thursday night performance in the following review, which appeared in the Northwestern campus paper, it sounds like a great show.

Nearly 1,000 people were bapized Sunday night at Cohn Auditorium, and the medium was neither fire nor water. It was Earthlight.

Earthlight is a year-old Los Angeles based theatre troupe, and the only theater group signed to perform at last summer's Woodstock festival.

That was impressive enough, but their Sunday trip, the kick-off to Symposium's week-long "Projections '70" program, should, if there were any booking agents in the audience, make them a much desired cast on college campuses.

They're modestly publicized, distributed at the door, says Earthlight, "makes use of various theatrical techniques.

A better analysis would be to say the best parts of Second City, The Committee, Hair, and Living Theater are emulated in this young, fluid, and really-together company.

The applause was slow in coming at first. Several skits or "pieces" went by uninterrupted by any audience reaction. But the crowd was just getting the feel of the group.

Toward the end, skits occasionally were interrupted by applause, and frequent whistling, stamps, and cheering seized the final point of a skit.

Some of the skits were prothetic, some profound, and some just fun. Two skits, back to back, told, in 10 minutes, the entire history of aggressive capitalism.

Thurber a la carte

The first studio production of the season will be presented in the Little Theatre of Morea Hall, Saint Mary's College, on November 13, 14, 15 (Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Sunday at 7:30 p.m.) It will be a Chamber Theatre presentation of some works by James Thurber entitled Thurber a la Carte. Tickets may be obtained by calling the Programming Office at Saint Mary's, telephone 283-4176. We hope you will join us for this theatrical experiment.

Observer, something lacking

Editor:

I wish to congratulate The Observer for Mr. Lenehan's coverage of the Strigo Mendler concert. This review was a typical manifestation of the lack of taste and knowledge which has so far proven to be an unfortunate characteristic of your newspaper. True to its image as a musical little mid-western college - The Observer has once again proven its cultural contribution to the community to be not even neutral, but negative.

Many of you have wondered why The Observer failed to cover some other musical and cultural shows of international interest, especially that which took place on Columbus Day, sponsored by the Pan American Club and the Latin American Circle. Now I'm quite sure that your oversight is appreciated in view of the fact that your concert reporter cannot tell Latin rhythm from the sound made by the garbage trucks on campus - despite his self-appointed expertise in the fields of Brazilian opinion and Latin Sexuality.

Last year The Observer proved its acrobatic ability by dodging the issue when asked to account for the lack of coverage of the Indian Association's program for the Ghanaiian Centennial, and the China Night festivities. Excuses for this ranged from being uninformed to complaints of being understaffed, with one to write your articles...while I wrote and personally submitted one of the previews myself.

There happens to be somewheres in the ballpark of around three hundred foreign students, a few thousand or so who have travelled to other countries, a few of whom would refrain from insulting our intelligence with the assumption that the only cultural experience attainable here is dropping acid...and maybe coming up with another "once I read some-" When you have the lack of preparation, maybe you are in your right to fill in columns with abortion and continue to understate the pretense of representative journalism at the Daily. But other than this, just an attempt to fill the cultural gap with such blatant manifestations of ignorance, why don't you exercise your editorial ability by dispatching Mr. Lenehan to an assignment on his own taste and cultural level, such as decorating bathroom stalls?

Sincerely,
Fred Vogelweide

Prof. Carl Estabrook

The latter day levithion

Professor Carl Estabrook teaches in the history department at Notre Dame. He attended Harvard University, where he received his doctorate.

Historians are by nature men of conservative temperament. Since Thucydides, they've known that there is nothing really new under the sun, but only rearrangements of earlier patterns. So they hesitate to deal with problems from a timeless perspective or to abstract concept such as "force" and "revolution" and treat them like Platonic ideas. They are, in effect, Gnostics: there is a "sacred knowledge" of human reality to which history is the key. Now, as you might imagine, it has become fashionable to hold such things too openly: your garden-variety historian deals with the minutiae in flux over the unchanging human reality. "(Some historians will of course go so far as to deny the existence of that "unchanging human reality," while continuing to work on the minutiae; but this is only the parallel Agnosticism generated by every Gnostic.) In short, historians are teaching us a lesson in the way they've come to be seen it all before.

For this reason it is particularly disturbing for someone like me who is unnerved in the historical toils to read Sidney Lens' The Military-industrial Complex. For what Lens has done in this simple and straightforward book is to show that something truly new has emerged in Cold-War America. The book has prompted some dark meditations, about which I would be happy to be proved wrong. In any case, read the book, ideally the best short account of its subject.

Lens argues that The military-industrial complex is not a faultless accident, but an outgrowth of a new postwar concept of national purpose. Several skits or "pieces" went by uninterrupted by any audience reaction. But the crowd was just getting the feel of the group.

Thurber a la carte

The first studio production of the season will be presented in the Little Theatre of Morea Hall, Saint Mary's College, on November 13, 14, 15 (Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m., Sunday at 7:30 p.m.) It will be a Chamber Theatre presentation of some works by James Thurber entitled Thurber a la Carte. Tickets may be obtained by calling the Programming Office at Saint Mary's, telephone 283-4176. We hope you will join us for this theatrical experiment.

Observer, something lacking

Editor:

I wish to congratulate The Observer for Mr. Lenehan's coverage of the Strigo Mendler concert. This review was a typical manifestation of the lack of taste and knowledge which has so far proven to be an unfortunate characteristic of your newspaper. True to its image as a musical little mid-western college - The Observer has once again proven its cultural contribution to the community to be not even neutral, but negative.

Many of you have wondered why The Observer failed to cover some other musical and cultural shows of international interest, especially that which took place on Columbus Day, sponsored by the Pan American Club and the Latin American Circle. Now I'm quite sure that your oversight is appreciated in view of the fact that your concert reporter cannot tell Latin rhythm from the sound made by the garbage trucks on campus - despite his self-appointed expertise in the fields of Brazilian opinion and Latin Sexuality.

Last year The Observer proved its acrobatic ability by dodging the issue when asked to account for the lack of coverage of the Indian Association's program for the Ghanaian Centennial, and the China Night festivities. Excuses for this ranged from being uninformed to complaints of being understaffed, with one to write your articles...while I wrote and personally submitted one of the previews myself.

There happens to be somewheres in the ballpark of around three hundred foreign students, a few thousand or so who have travelled to other countries, a few of whom would refrain from insulting our intelligence with the assumption that the only cultural experience attainable here is dropping acid...and maybe coming up with another "once I read some-" When you have the lack of preparation, maybe you are in your right to fill in columns with abortion and continue to understate the pretense of representative journalism at the Daily. But other than this, just an attempt to fill the cultural gap with such blatant manifestations of ignorance, why don't you exercise your editorial ability by dispatching Mr. Lenehan to an assignment on his own taste and cultural level, such as decorating bathroom stalls?

Sincerely,
Fred Vogelweide
Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Something has been bothering me about the Observer since I saw my first issue this year, and that is the cartoons printed on your editorial page. I do not know who is your resident artist, but on the whole, I find the cartoons a poor excuse for the role they are supposed to play in expressing editorial opinion. They are generally vague, irrelevant, and for the most part, rather stupid. They seem to try to convey some measure of humor, but even in this, they are usually unsuccessful.

To my mind, the purpose of an editorial cartoon is to point out discrepancies in the "system" by ridiculing the discrepancy through a caricature of some other form of drawn satire. They are meant to be relevant to contemporary living at Notre Dame, or issues that have no possible hope of remedy.

As I said, I have been noting this fallacy of the Observer since the beginning of school this year, but the cartoons in last Wednesday's issues prompted me to finally write this letter. This was the first time I had seen evidence of a real caricature working for the Observer. The cartoon, one of Student Body President Krishna walking away from the Senate meeting singing "Boots," was in itself rather idiotic, but the artwork was outstanding for the Observer. Why can't this fine artwork be put to good use?

The editorial cartoon of a newspaper is supposed to be equivalent to any other editorial published (more so, for more people are willing to take the 2-3 seconds needed to read the cartoon than the ten necessary to read an editorial). If the Observer continues to print the type of cartoon it does now I strongly suggest that this feature be moved to the Features Page, for it surely does not belong with the editorials.

Thank you,
Joseph Abell
204 Farley Hall

To Chris Wolfe

Dear Editor:

In typically simplistic manner, Chris Wolfe has once more undertaken to solve a problem and thereby miss the whole point - this time, abortion. Obviously, abortion is not the peninsula to the ill of the world. But, what any serious person must come to grips with is: "how does this fit into the overall scheme of the ultimate solution to this problem?" We must take each aspect of the total picture, examine it, judge it - not only in itself, but in its relation to the overall picture. We must decide if the new problems arising from the solution are worse than those which the solution tries to solve. If we were to reject something because it does not cure the world's ills, we would no longer have, among other dictums to which Mr. Wolfe is attached, U.S.A. nor Mother Church. But some good did spring from it, I now better understand why people like Ti Grace Atkinson are the way they are.

Perhaps in his next column, Chris might propose that we use the many people who die daily from going to quacks for abortion, or who die from malnutrition or other "natural" causes, that we use this one third of the money spent on the problems of overpopulation, unwanted pregnancies, food shortage, etc. Or better yet, perhaps he may decide to attempt to come to grips with an issue, rather than set up dummy issues with which anyone can deal. Answers of the kind Chris has are a dime a dozen. What the world needs is some intelligent, thoughtful attempts to solve its problems.

Warren G. Scadza
Jane Fonda
Editor:

I wish to publicly congratulate Jim Metzker on his presentation of another fascinating speaker. Miss Fonda provided a balance to the other extremest viewpoints that have been presented on campus during this semester. The talk itself should be recorded for the sake of posterity. Though its subject matter differed; it was certainly comparable to Pericles' Funeral Oration. Its power was overwhelming and its effect magnificant.

In closing, I only hope that the university that recognize Miss Fonda's brilliance and contributions to society, and consider granting her an Honorary Doctorate in Economics and Political Science.

Michael E. Melody
AAS Budget

Open letter to the Senate:

The Afro American Society requested a mere $4,328.00 dollars to pursue the road of providing and enriching the Black students of Notre Dame with the needed knowledge. In the meantime, all students were in a position to derive profits such a practice, even if it meant stepping on the toes of a bunch of morals degenerates. Perhaps, however, it enough individuals must be made aware of these daring hypocrisy of those who one moment condemn the employment of personnel for DOW and the next moment condone or even support of the very same human beings whose misfortune is that they are not white. Perhaps it may mean good may yet come out of this disgust that the university that to the "Notre Dame-St. Mary's Community" is presently being formed.

"Thankfully Alive"

The Strigler

Editor:

Across both campuses in Notre Dame, Indiana the cry of the "no parking" rings out after this year's home football games. This year the Observer has been derelict in its duties of reporting the news. In the beginning of the year the Observer printed an article in which (the editor) Chris Wolfe's stripper's replacement was put forth. When a man, the "Naked Kubaba," failed to appear, the people of the paper was nothing was said. This dedicated performer does not desire money or material acclaim, but only wants the recognition he so richly deserves. Perhaps, at this point, the "Thankfully Alive" could be apropos to show your approval and give him the strength to continue his act during the winter months of Notre Dame's female population.

Jamie Egan
Tom Davis
Fran McGowan

A chamber theater presentation of works by Michael E. Melody, Tuesday and Wednesday at 8:00 p.m. Thursday and Friday at 8:00 p.m. Tickets: $1.00 Season Subscribers FREE

Pre-Law Society - University School of Law - Pre-Law Society - Akron University Pre-Law - Pre-Law at the University of Iowa School of Law.

Sewer & Sweater Things

THURBER A LA CARTE

a chamber theatre presentation of works by Michael E. Melody

TICKETS:
$1.00 EACH
20% DISCOUNT TO ALL STUDENTS SHOWING I.D. CARDS

H E R E :
COMMUNITY NEENSTAD
121 W. WASHINGTON
NOTRE DAME, INDIANA 46601

To Chris Wolfe

Dear Editor:

In typically simplistic manner, Chris Wolfe has once more undertaken to solve a problem and thereby miss the whole point - this time, abortion. Obviously, abortion is not the peninsula to the ill of the world. But, what any serious person must come to grips with is: "how does this fit into the overall scheme of the ultimate solution to this problem?" We must take each aspect of the total picture, examine it, judge it - not only in itself, but in its relation to the overall picture. We must decide if the new problems arising from the solution are worse than those which the solution tries to solve. If we were to reject something because it does not cure the world's ills, we would no longer have, among other dictums to which Mr. Wolfe is attached, U.S.A. nor Mother Church. But some good did spring from it, I now better understand why people like Ti Grace Atkinson are the way they are.
Sophomore car privileges slowed by parking problem

(Continued from Page 3) probably pass it by next semester. Giuffrida feels that some other process must be used to replace the present nine general suggestions.

The university does plan to build new parking lots as it constructs new buildings and enlarges its faculty and student body. All those interviewed were unanimous, however, in wanting to preserve the beauty of the campus. Future parking lots will be kept as much as possible to the periphery to keep cars off the campus. Future parking lots will be kept as much as possible to the periphery to keep cars off the campus. They claim that these lots would not be eyesore, would require no maintenance and little security, but would provide large revenue. A lot that would hold 140 cars would cost $690,000 (compared to $35,000 for a similar surface lot) or $2,250,000 for 500 cars.

Fr. Wilson stated that the university is having enough trouble finding money for the buildings themselves, without the added expenditures of underground lots. He said, "The proposal doesn’t have too much meaning to the present administration." He also pointed out that the sandy soil around South Bend would make such a structure impractical and expensive.

Fr. Rieble suggested that an outside entrepreneur might be induced to build and operate a parking garage on campus, but that he would have to get back his initial investment within ten to twenty years, so that the rates would be higher even than the $50 registration fee proposed in the Caruso Plan.

It is too far into the winter for any new lots to be constructed this year, and Fr. Rieble and Fr. Wilson both pointed out the expenses involved. Fr. Rieble said that it would cost $25,000 to pave a lot that was already graded, $10,000 to fence it, and $6,000 to light it.

Fr. Rieble said, "I really don’t know of any proposed plan that would be workable this year. Wisconsin was more optimistic."

Speakers Bureau instituted to tell high schoolers about SMC

The Student Development Commission of the Student Services Organization at SMC has instituted a speakers bureau. Janet Endress, Student Development Commission, is organizing activity, with the assistance of Kelly Hamilton.

The bureau is directed both toward helping keep the caliber of St. Mary’s students high, and toward giving the girls a chance to talk about their experiences at SMC. Under the program, girls will go to high schools in their area during their vacations and talk to the students or the guidance departments about St. Mary’s. Their purpose is not to act as professional recruiters, but to give prospective students a chance to hear first-hand about SMC.

Sing-up sheets were placed in the SMC cafeteria this Thursday and Friday. The idea right now is just to get the names of girls who might be interested in the project. There will be a short meeting of those interested next Thursday and Friday night with Sister Raphaelita. The commission hopes to have brochures and information ready for the students by their Thanksgiving or Christmas vacation.

Miss Endress emphasized the fact that this endeavor would be fun for those who participate in it, and very worthwhile for St. Mary’s.

Goodbye Columbus (as in Ohio State)

Ali McGraw Richard Benjamin

Friday, Nov. 13 - 8. 10 PM

Saturday, Nov. 14 - 7. 9. 11 PM

Sunday, Nov. 15 - 2 PM

Knights of Columbus Bldg.
Admission $1.00

He said that all the possible plans are now being studied by a committee of the SLC and that the SLC should decide the matter by Christmas. He added that the majority of the SLC is sympathetic to the issue and will probably pass it by next semester.
Coeducation discussed in LeMans

By AIN Terece Darin and Patti S'hea

The consideration of co-education between Notre Dame and St. Mary's was highlighted yesterday by a discussion in the LeMans Lounge between Dr. Rosemary Park, a consultant hired by Notre Dame and St. Mary's, and a dozen interested students.

The main area of concern was the question: "If Notre Dame goes coed, what would happen to St. Mary's?"

First they discussed the status quo: St. Mary's as a Catholic College of the Sacred Heart from 15 years ago.

Barat Plan, proposed two years ago, would no longer operate, and many students would have to leave. These plans are currently being reduced to competition.

Finally they previewed and commented on proposed coeducation plans. Within St. Mary's and Notre Dame community, the most feasible plan, according to the participants of the discussion, would incorporate St. Mary's into the Notre Dame community. The present liberal arts colleges of both schools could be divided into colleges of different orientations. One college would concentrate on graduate school preparation. The other college would attract a well-rounded liberal arts education.

In December, they will organize the information that they have gathered during their stay.

In the next few weeks, Dr. Mayhew and Dr. Parks will meet to report to each other.

The two investigators said they were impressed by the degree of cooperation they had received on the two campuses.

Dr. Parks, who spent the day at St. Mary's, said "I liked the brains" of the students whom she met. She said they were most cooperative.

On the other hand, said he was primarily occupied with answering questions from students. He too, was satisfied with the degree of cooperation he received.

Nixon chats with dignitaries in Paris

(Continued from Page 1)

Concerning specific proposals, Dr. Mayhew said, "I think they are a little alike."

Dr. Mayhew, who served as a dean in the University President Father Hechburgh and SMC acting President Sister Almas Peter and the coordinating committees of the two schools Saturday, they have gathered during their stay.

In December, they will also confer for 41 minutes. Concerning problems the two campuses face, one dominates the scene. Dr. Mayhew said, "The problem and the solution are precisely the same - human beings."

One major area of debate at St. Mary's has been the separate "identity" of that institution. Dr. Parks said of this, "It's one of the values you have in this whole situation. You are dealing with institutions that have been in operation for a long time and have acquired a very definite personality. One may say that this amount of human effort may not be passed over lightly. This is something one pays attention to, but how much attention is a matter of what one thinks the future demands."

On the subject of a new SMC president, Dr. Parks said that the current vacancy is an advantage for the school. She said that once the "path" is to be taken has been described a new president can be chosen to meet the criteria necessary to the pursuit of that path. This is the way the two consultants were to spend today talking with University President Father Hechburgh and SMC acting President Sister Almas Peter and the coordinating committees of the two schools Saturday, they have gathered during their stay.

In the next few weeks, Dr. Mayhew and Dr. Parks will meet to report to each other.

Dr. Parks, who spent the day at St. Mary's, said "I liked the brains" of the students whom she met. She said they were most cooperative.

Dr. Mayhew, on the other hand, said he was primarily occupied with answering questions from students. He too, was satisfied with the degree of cooperation he received.

PHILLIPS AT ND

(Continued from page 1)

Concerning specific proposals, Dr. Mayhew said, "I think they are a little alike."

Dr. Mayhew, who served as a dean in the University President Father Hechburgh and SMC acting President Sister Almas Peter and the coordinating committees of the two schools Saturday, they have gathered during their stay.

In December, they will also confer for 41 minutes. Concerning problems the two campuses face, one dominates the scene. Dr. Mayhew said, "The problem and the solution are precisely the same - human beings."

One major area of debate at St. Mary's has been the separate "identity" of that institution. Dr. Parks said of this, "It's one of the values you have in this whole situation. You are dealing with institutions that have been in operation for a long time and have acquired a very definite personality. One may say that this amount of human effort may not be passed over lightly. This is something one pays attention to, but how much attention is a matter of what one thinks the future demands."

On the subject of a new SMC president, Dr. Parks said that the current vacancy is an advantage for the school. She said that once the "path" is to be taken has been described a new president can be chosen to meet the criteria necessary to the pursuit of that path. This is the way the two consultants were to spend today talking with University President Father Hechburgh and SMC acting President Sister Almas Peter and the coordinating committees of the two schools Saturday, they have gathered during their stay.

In the next few weeks, Dr. Mayhew and Dr. Parks will meet to report to each other.

Dr. Parks, who spent the day at St. Mary's, said "I liked the brains" of the students whom she met. She said they were most cooperative.

Dr. Mayhew, on the other hand, said he was primarily occupied with answering questions from students. He too, was satisfied with the degree of cooperation he received.

Michael's

HAIR STYLING FOR MEN

1614 North State Road

Harrisburg, PA 17110

Ph. 272-7222

JAMES WARD WINNING STYLISTS

STANDARD HAIRCUTS, HAIR STYLLS - RACE CUTS - HAIR STRAIGHTENING.
Tech will discover Irish hospitality

by Terry Shields

Observer Sports Editor

Think back a second. Remember November 18, 1969. The Notre Dame Fighting Irish were about to take the field at the University of Texas in Austin Saturday night in South Bend and cover one in Atlanta. Georgia. This was the big chance for Notre Dame to show its team to national television. The opponent was Georgia Tech and the result was predictable, ND 38 Tech 20. It isn't the playing power of the game that makes Irish coach Ara Parseghian and his troops remember as much as the treatment received by the team.

Southern hospitality was for- gotten. The Tech defense was not specially at the games conclusion. The Notre Dame bench, which should have been overflowing with abuse throughout the game was under attack from every angle, ranging from dead fish to tin cans filled with soda pop. The Irish were so well known to receive the red carpet treatment. This year will be a different story. The Yellowjackets will be shown how visitors should be treated. Unfortunately, they will also be shown how to play tough hard-hitting football by the na- tion's Number One Team. Notre Dame has proven themselves to be no pushovers for any team whose 7-2 record might indicate.

The result was predictable, ND 38 Tech 20. It isn't the playing power of the game that makes Irish coach Ara Parseghian and his troops remember as much as the treatment received by the team.

Southern hospitality was for- gotten. The Tech defense was not specially at the games conclusion. The Notre Dame bench, which should have been overflowing with abuse throughout the game was under attack from every angle, ranging from dead fish to tin cans filled with soda pop. The Irish were so well known to receive the red carpet treatment. This year will be a different story. The Yellowjackets will be shown how visitors should be treated. Unfortunately, they will also be shown how to play tough hard-hitting football by the na- tion's Number One Team. Notre Dame has proven themselves to be no pushovers for any team whose 7-2 record might indicate.

The result was predictable, ND 38 Tech 20. It isn't the playing power of the game that makes Irish coach Ara Parseghian and his troops remember as much as the treatment received by the team.

Southern hospitality was for- gotten. The Tech defense was not specially at the games conclusion. The Notre Dame bench, which should have been overflowing with abuse throughout the game was under attack from every angle, ranging from dead fish to tin cans filled with soda pop. The Irish were so well known to receive the red carpet treatment. This year will be a different story. The Yellowjackets will be shown how visitors should be treated. Unfortunately, they will also be shown how to play tough hard-hitting football by the na- nation's Number One Team. Notre Dame has proven themselves to be no pushovers for any team whose 7-2 record might indicate.

The result was predictable, ND 38 Tech 20. It isn't the playing power of the game that makes Irish coach Ara Parseghian and his troops remember as much as the treatment received by the team.

Southern hospitality was for- gotten. The Tech defense was not specially at the games conclusion. The Notre Dame bench, which should have been overflowing with abuse throughout the game was under attack from every angle, ranging from dead fish to tin cans filled with soda pop. The Irish were so well known to receive the red carpet treatment. This year will be a different story. The Yellowjackets will be shown how visitors should be treated. Unfortunately, they will also be shown how to play tough hard-hitting football by the na- nation's Number One Team. Notre Dame has proven themselves to be no pushovers for any team whose 7-2 record might indicate.

The result was predictable, ND 38 Tech 20. It isn't the playing power of the game that makes Irish coach Ara Parseghian and his troops remember as much as the treatment received by the team.

Southern hospitality was for- gotten. The Tech defense was not specially at the games conclusion. The Notre Dame bench, which should have been overflowing with abuse throughout the game was under attack from every angle, ranging from dead fish to tin cans filled with soda pop. The Irish were so well known to receive the red carpet treatment. This year will be a different story. The Yellowjackets will be shown how visitors should be treated. Unfortunately, they will also be shown how to play tough hard-hitting football by the na- nation's Number One Team. Notre Dame has proven themselves to be no pushovers for any team whose 7-2 record might indicate.
The Academia and the military-industrial complex

The American revolution has become the counter-weight to the industrial revolution. Today playing the role acted by Metternich's Austria after the fall of Napoleon, what a difference in the power of the modern American Metternich!

Naturally, anyone who wishes for this sort of revolution also wishes that it be peaceful and non-violent. The power that Lens describes doesn't allow us to be very sure about this idea. It is reasonable to suppose that the power in American society that will not permit social revolution in America or Indochina will be very happy with it here at home! On the contrary, the violence that we have observed just in the past few months in Chicago, Kent, Augusta and Jackson indicates that the powers that be are quite prepared to show the street anyone who is even associated with the attempt to force the American people to accept Socialism. Thus the question of the use of "violence" is pursued of social change. Nevertheless, as lens revealed in a previous question. The much more important question is how to guard against the "socialism" of the business, or rather the "socialism" for the rich, capitalism for the poor" when Lockwood simply calls it "a way to say how much money they say we'll make.

The maddening thing is that this system has been built in many cases by men of the most sincere good will. There is more evil in the world than private malice accounts for, wrong ideas must be held responsible. Thus the "scholars," as the students call them, say that "socialism" is not against ideas, but against ideas and assumptions backed by immense power. Only different ideas held by vast numbers of people can possibly compete. The conclusion is that elitist or patch-wrench strategies can do nothing but increase the use of repressive power under the rubric of "law and order"—the "the spirit of the people is stronger than the Men's technology.

I read The Military-Industrial Complex on the same day that the Wall Street Journal reported that the National Labor Relations Board had classified most private universities in this country as "big business," not only in regard to their own employees but also to the world at large. Indeed, my primary criticism is that Lens doesn't really plumb depth in his chapter on "The Academia in Harness." He quotes Clark Kerr's frank admission that "elitist" has become "component part of the "military-industrial complex" (p.126), but he dis-cases little more than war re-

structed the nation by universities by vast amounts of Pentagon money. The object of the universities is to train the students on the various ROTC programs and the corresponding assistance to the military of many of the universities themselves. The incalculable is that we can find in the classroom of the American ideology (which masquerades as "no ideology, or rather at the conclusions that remain after the "end of ideology," and therefore politics is the empty framework of ideological criticism); the silencing of radicals through the use of discriminatory hiring and promotion procedures; and the general commitment of academic institutions as academic factories to turn out young men and women ready to act as cog within the MIC — all these forms of university cooperation with the "inner freedom" of a mention in Lens' book.

I mean to suggest merely that, generally speaking, we scratch the surface of the power nexus in post-WWII America. It is natural to say that we have been associated with universities in the past decade will be most critical of the chapter on them, but I sus-tence that "professionals" in other fields will have the same attitude against the "battle is not against individuals but against ideas and assumptions backed by immense power. Only different ideas held by vast numbers of people can possibly compete. The conclusion is that elitist or patch-wrench strategies can do nothing but increase the use of repressive power under the rubric of "law and order"—the "the spirit of the people is stronger than the Men's technology.

I read The Military-Industrial Complex on the same day that the Wall Street Journal reported that the National Labor Relations Board had classified most private universities in this country as "big business," not only in regard to their own employees but also to the world at large. Indeed, my primary criticism is that Lens doesn't really plumb depth in his chapter on "The Academia in Harness." He quotes Clark Kerr's frank admission that "elitist" has become "component part of the "military-industrial complex" (p.126), but he dis-

nces little more than war re-

structed the nation by universities by vast amounts of Pentagon money. The object of the universities is to train the students on the various ROTC programs and the corresponding assistance to the military of many of the universities themselves. The incalculable is that we can find in the classroom of the American ideology (which masquerades as "no ideology, or rather at the conclusions that remain after the "end of ideology," and therefore politics is the empty framework of ideological criticism); the silencing of radicals through the use of discriminatory hiring and promotion procedures; and the general commitment of academic institutions as academic factories to turn out young men and women ready to act as cog within the MIC — all these forms of university cooperation with the "inner freedom" of a mention in Lens' book.

I mean to suggest merely that, generally speaking, we scratch the surface of the power nexus in post-WWII America. It is natural to say that we have been associated with universities in the past decade will be most critical of the chapter on them, but I sus-tence that "professionals" in other fields will have the same attitude against the "battle is not against individuals but against ideas and assumptions backed by immense power. Only different ideas held by vast numbers of people can possibly compete. The conclusion is that elitist or patch-wrench strategies can do nothing but increase the use of repressive power under the rubric of "law and order"—the "the spirit of the people is stronger than the Men's technology.

I read The Military-Industrial Complex on the same day that the Wall Street Journal reported that the National Labor Relations Board had classified most private universities in this country as "big business," not only in regard to their own employees but also to the world at large. Indeed, my primary criticism is that Lens doesn't really plumb depth in his chapter on "The Academia in Harness." He quotes Clark Kerr's frank admission that "elitist" has become "component part of the "military-industrial complex" (p.126), but he dis-

nces little more than war re-

structed the nation by universities by vast amounts of Pentagon money. The object of the universities is to train the students on the various ROTC programs and the corresponding assistance to the military of many of the universities themselves. The incalculable is that we can find in the classroom of the American ideology (which masquerades as "no ideology, or rather at the conclusions that remain after the "end of ideology," and therefore politics is the empty framework of ideological criticism); the silencing of radicals through the use of discriminatory hiring and promotion procedures; and the general commitment of academic institutions as academic factories to turn out young men and women ready to act as cog within the MIC — all these forms of university cooperation with the "inner freedom" of a mention in Lens' book.

I mean to suggest merely that, generally speaking, we scratch the surface of the power nexus in post-WWII America. It is natural to say that we have been associated with universities in the past decade will be most critical of the chapter on them, but I sus-tence that "professionals" in other fields will have the same attitude against the "battle is not against individuals but against ideas and assumptions backed by immense power. Only different ideas held by vast numbers of people can possibly compete. The conclusion is that elitist or patch-wrench strategies can do nothing but increase the use of repressive power under the rubric of "law and order"—the "the spirit of the people is stronger than the Men's technology.

I read The Military-Industrial Complex on the same day that the Wall Street Journal reported that the National Labor Relations Board had classified most private universities in this country as "big business," not only in regard to their own employees but also to the world at large. Indeed, my primary criticism is that Lens doesn't really plumb depth in his chapter on "The Academia in Harness." He quotes Clark Kerr's frank admission that "elitist" has become "component part of the "military-industrial complex" (p.126), but he dis-

nces little more than war re-

structed the nation by universities by vast amounts of Pentagon money. The object of the universities is to train the students on the various ROTC programs and the corresponding assistance to the military of many of the universities themselves. The incalculable is that we can find in the classroom of the American ideology (which masquerades as "no ideology, or rather at the conclusions that remain after the "end of ideology," and therefore politics is the empty framework of ideological criticism); the silencing of radicals through the use of discriminatory hiring and promotion procedures; and the general commitment of academic institutions as academic factories to turn out young men and women ready to act as cog within the MIC — all these forms of university cooperation with the "inner freedom" of a mention in Lens' book.

I mean to suggest merely that, generally speaking, we scratch the surface of the power nexus in post-WWII America. It is natural to say that we have been associated with universities in the past decade will be most critical of the chapter on them, but I sus-tence that "professionals" in other fields will have the same attitude against the "battle is not against individuals but against ideas and assumptions backed by immense power. Only different ideas held by vast numbers of people can possibly compete. The conclusion is that elitist or patch-wrench strategies can do nothing but increase the use of repressive power under the rubric of "law and order"—the "the spirit of the people is stronger than the Men's technology.

I read The Military-Industrial Complex on the same day that the Wall Street Journal reported that the National Labor Relations Board had classified most private universities in this country as "big business," not only in regard to their own employees but also to the world at large. Indeed, my primary criticism is that Lens doesn't really plumb depth in his chapter on "The Academia in Harness." He quotes Clark Kerr's frank admission that "elitist" has become "component part of the "military-industrial complex" (p.126), but he dis-

nces little more than war re-

structed the nation by universities by vast amounts of Pentago