Prof. Michael T. Hinke- meyer, Chairman of the Education Department faculty since the fall of 1969, received a letter notifying him of the termina- tion of his contract on Nov- ember 25, 1970.

The ambiguities surrounding his dismissal have led to the following statement by Richard T. Bohan of the SMC Political Science Department:

The following days:

Students who purchased season basketball tickets may pick them up at the Box Office, second floor when the ticket was paid for at our Ticket Office. Married Students must present the receipt issued Upperclassmen, Grad Students, Lawyers and Freshmen, who ordered by mail, must present their ID cards.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Student ticket orders have hence, day or time of day the ticket is called for will have no bearing on seat location.

Box Office is open from nine to five, including the noon hour.

DONALD E. BOUFFARD, JR.
Ticket Manager

URBAN STUDIES INFORMATION

Community Service for Academic Credit

Double Major in Urban Studies

Certificate in Urban Studies

ROCKNE MEMORIAL

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY

DECEMBER 1 and 2

RARE EARTH

and BLOOD ROCK

A look at SUAC’s fuctions

by Tom Degnan

Four years ago when Student Body President Chris Murphy first realized a need for a student union, one of his main interests was in forming a commission to coordinate the procurement of speakers for the Notre Dame campus. Today, the combined ND-SMC Academic Commission is the largest financial concern of the Student Union, using its $23,000 budget to bring speakers to Notre Dame of such notoriety as Senator George McGovern, a author Arthur Clark, and actress Jane Fonda.

The combined commission headed by co-commissioners Jim Metzger and Mary O’Laughlin, is an experiment initiated this year aimed at consolidating the two school’s speakers programs. In the past, the present commission’s predecessor, The Student Union Academic Commission, worked almost independently of the academic activities branch of St. Mary’s Student Services, bringing speakers to the ND campus alone. The present cooperative system has resulted not only in a more extensive speakers program for both campuses but also a reduction of the strain on the ND speaker’s facilities. Besides the Library Auditorium, Steppe Center, Washington Hall, and the Engineering Auditorium, speakers are now able to use O’Laughlin, Carroll Hall, and The Little Theatre.

The commission staff is comprised of between 25 and 30 members whose responsibility is in to write letters to the various speakers and speaker’s agencies. Nearly 250 letters have been sent out this year attempting to obtain speakers. About 80 speakers will be brought.

No salaries are paid to members of the academic commission. The $23,000 allotment is derived from three main sources. The bulk of the budget, $19,000, is allotted by the Student Senate, with another $1,500 provided by the Student Services of St. Mary’s. The remaining $2,500 is donated through interdepartmental sponsorships. Speaker’s fees which range from $300 to $1,000 constitute the main part of the academic commission’s allocation. According to Metzger, the normal speaker’s fee is about $500. Defeated California politician Jesse Unich and actresses Jane Fonda both cost $1,000.

Besides paid speakers, the academic commission also hosts speakers like Allard K. Lowenstein and Sen. George McGovern who wish to speak free. The commission incurs the expenses of advertisements and handbills that are circulated about both campuses.

The distinguished speakers series is probably the best known of the series sponsored by the ND-SMC commission. Other programs put on by the commission include: a drug conference, an environment series, a series of poetry readings, an urban affairs and urban studies program, and an Arian studies series. Plans for next semester call for the inclusion of a series on education and a program on the American workingman with an emphasis on the “hard hat” point of view.

Another innovation this year is the hall speakers program. The academic commission is endeavoring to bring speakers into the various halls before and after their main presentations.

One of the main complaints lodged against the academic commission recently has been the so-called bias in its speaker’s program this year. Critics of the commission claim that the number of liberal speakers far outweighs the number of conservatives invited to the campus.

Sighting Sen. McGovern and David Hawk as examples of speakers presenting a liberal point of view, the critics of the program have asked that a more balanced agenda be presented. Metzger, in differing the criticism “not very knowledgeable” answered these charges saying: “I just wish these people would wait and see about the whole point of view. Our program on the whole (Continued on page 8)
SMC tightens security

by Ann Therese Darin

In an effort to bolster their occasionally shaky security system, St. Mary's College has introduced three major innovations for this year's security.

At the beginning of the school year, Sr. Immaculata, dean of students, introduced many innovations in an effort to improve the system. These included wiring two of the halls with alarms and intensifying patrol of the halls. The effectiveness of these changes will be evaluated at a meeting of administrative and security force representatives Dec. 18.

For the meeting, each of the hall directors, security guards and the dean of students prepared reports evaluating the present policies. Although these reports are confidential, interviews with several members of the panel indicate that they are generally pleased with the changes.

Regina Hall, primarily a freshman and sophomore dormitory, has concentrated on solving the problem of excessive "bolting." ("Bolting" is leaving or entering the dorm after its closing without permission.) The hall sporadically uses its new alarm which is wired for every door except the main one as a check on residents. To stymie the problem, the hall council is also conducting unannounced bed checks. "Students not in their rooms or signed out will be brought before the campus judiciary," commented Laura Bayer, hall president. One member of the council termed the system effective especially on football weekends with as many as six girls being reported.

LeMans Hall has also attempted to solve its security problems with student aid. "At the beginning of the year, there were some incidents where people walked upstairs into the rooms," recounted Margaret Canwell, hall president. "We were forced to lock the doors leading to the library. That meant that girls had to walk around the building which was also hazardous since one girl got attacked," she continued.

"So, Sr. Immaculata said that we could keep the door open as long as we had a student guard at the door," she reported that every girl will have a turn at the desk.

Wiring McCandless Hall with an alarm system has curtailed that hall's difficulties. "We have recently started locking the two doors at six o'clock in the evening. Kids used to use them and then leave them open which was naught," commented Jane Sheehy, hall president.

In Holy Cross Hall, "security is pretty good," said Kathy Murphy, hall representative. In September, student complaints prompted the firing of one guard for sleeping and admitting students after dorm closing without their identification cards.

In Craftsmen in Optics

SOUTH BEND - THE SHERMAN BUILDING, 132 SOUTH MICHIGAN STREET

Mouse of Vision

The House of Vision, Inc.

More than 400 original etchings, lithographs, woodcuts, and screenprints including works by: CALDER, CHAGALL, PICASSO, VASARELY, REMBRANDT and LONDON ARTS' PUBLICATIONS originals from $10 to $4000

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME

Art Gallery, O'Shaughnessy Hall

Tuesday - December 1, 1970

10 a.m. - 4 p.m.
Freshman Farce

After more than the customary amount of agony, what was either the Freshman Class Elections or a spectacularly inept replay of the comic classic "Who's on First?" is apparently done with. No one will ever know who would have won the election had it been conducted honestly and competently by the Sophomore Class. A judge by both the number of people voting in the election and the response of this campus in general towards class government, no one will ever care.

Nevertheless, for the sake of those few who do contend for the prize, such as Strawberry, and for the sake of those few who do take the offices and all their pomps seriously, the Sophomore Class owed the Freshman Class a fairly-run election. They didn't deliver.

In Sorin Hall, zero votes were collected and counted. Holy Cross' box was "missing" for twenty-seven hours after the polls closed. In Alumni and Grace, ballot boxes weren't available until dinner time. In Morrissey, the ballot boxes weren't available until after dinner. The stupidity affected about four hundred and fifty potential votes. The election was decided by forty-eight votes.

The whole shabby show walked a tightrope between the tragic and ridiculous. Were the offices of any major importance, the subsequent outrage on campus would probably have been sufficient to impeach those responsible. We suggest that the Sophomore Class Government keep this in mind the next time they are saddled with an equivalent responsibility.

Letter

Editor:

In a light hearted, merry, frivolous, and viciously abominable travesty of journalistic honor Chris Wolfe has succeeded in defiling the memory and heritage of Jonathan Swift in a cheap and gutter-bred parody of a Modest Proposal, unwitting an already unfortunate midday repeat, coining a series of alliterative profundities to the level of which even the most Agnewish profundities may be quenched in the parade of non-talent that constitutes the public's taste.

Ed Ellis

Vigilant's "Bishop Parsley's Lament," by Ed Ellis in The Observer. Flippant and scurrilous, it was in exceedingly bad taste and totally lacking in the respect and reverence due to ecclesiastical authority and particularly to the Bishop of the diocese in which Notre Dame University is located.

In publishing in Our Sunday Visitor his letter of protest against the scurrilous tirade of Ti Grace Atkinson against Our Lady, the Blessed Mother of Our Lord, Bishop Pusley was only doing his duty. Indeed, in speaking out against such outrageous action Bishop Pusley was expressing the moral indignation of virtually the whole Notre Dame community: students, faculty, parents and alumni. We are grateful for his prompt and vigorous action and we apologize for the scurrilous attack upon him.

Rev. John A. O'Brien, Ph. D.

"Give me those ... yearning to Breathe Free"

On Nov. 23, the United States government denied political asylum to a Lithuanian crewman from a Russian fishing factory ship. The Russian ship was alongside the American Coast Guard vessel (ironically misnamed the Vigilant) for a conference on fishing rights off the Massachusetts coast, when the Lithuanian radio operator jumped to the American ship. After eight hours of negotiations, in which the Vigilant's captain was in frequent contact with the head of the Coast Guard and the State Department, it was decided to return the refugee to the Russians.

The President of the Seafood Products Association, Mr. Breeze, reported that the Lithuanian said he would not return to the Russian ship, unless it was by force, undoubtedly knowing the fatal consequences of his return. After the political defector was denied American help, he was beaten and bound by the Russians, within sight of the Americans.

Our government's policy can be interestingly contrasted with Turkey's action toward two Balts who recently hijacked the first Soviet plane, killing a stewardess in the process. Although guilty of hijacking and homicide, these defectors were granted asylum on the grounds that their defection was political rather than criminal.

The Soviet government had put a strong pressure on the Turkish government in its effort to regain the two refugees. Izvestia asked: "But is it in Turkey's national interest to cast shadows on relations with a neighboring nation for the sake of a criminal pseudo-Lithuanian organization which serves the CIA?"

However, Turkey, a minor power and a next-door neighbor of the Soviet Union, was not intimidated, and it did not return the two men.

The man who jumped aboard the Vigilant injured no one. The event took place either in international, or in American territorial waters. His political situation was similar to those who break through the Berlin Wall. A valid justification for our government's action is thus inconceivable.

The only possible reason was our leaders' ignorance of the present political conditions existing in occupied Lithuania and their unwillingness to endanger the fishing rights' conference. Stupidity is bad, but such official materialism and moral deadness is unbelievable. The eight hours of subsequent negotiations lead one to wonder if the man was manhandling in exchange for some Russian fishing concessions. In any case, it was a clear cut refusal to defend human freedom, in preference of a material gain.

A couple of days latter an East German jumped from a Russian ship to the safety of his brother's waiting vessel. It is unfortunate that the Lithuanian who made a leap of faith to the American ship found no brothers there.

Travesty

Editor:

The whole shabby show walked a tightrope between the tragic and ridiculous. Were the offices of any major importance, the subsequent outrage on campus would probably have been sufficient to impeach those responsible. We suggest that the Sophomore Class Government keep this in mind the next time they are saddled with an equivalent responsibility.
The future of WNDU

Dr. Peter Walshe

The following article is a commentary by Dr. Peter Walshe, director of the African Studies Program. Prof. Walshe was born in South Africa and received his doctorate at Oxford University.

The people of South Africa, we were also told, were the most civilized on the continent of Africa, a people made up of Boer (Dutch) and Brion, some German and French — the country was a meting pot composed mainly of United States. Apparently it all went back to 1652 when the ancestors of modern South Africans, the first four million, W.N.D.U.'s ProDominium, were "human beings, a race which they likely and the people in particular." From the early days of the 17th century to the present day, W.N.D.U.'s ProDominium, carefully recording the social, economic and religious well-being of all citizens, without at any point alluding to the institution of slavery.

The reality of South Africa is a booming, racially integrated economy, in which the colour bar is rigorously applied in the defence of a white elite. That elite is in turn dominated by Afrikaners of predominantly Dutch descent, heroic in their economic defence of their economic interests, tragic in their refusal to apply Christianity across colour lines and to adapt their values to modern times. White supremacy within the Republic is the publicly declared aim of the country's leaders and its highest moral principle. This implies, of course, a serious state of dechristianisation amongst the white South African and the Dutch Reformed Churches in particular. Throughout the four centuries, there has been a strong tendency within these Churches to depopulate the Old Testament chosen people — and to use the termology of this section of the Bible to defend already established social and economic interests and to bolster racial prejudice.

To show such a program without comment on W.N.D.U. is to degrade the University's public role. It is an insult to black South Africans, to the peoples of Africa, to Black Americans and, I believe, the efforts of the Federal Communications Rights Commission and its Chairman, the Rev. T. Flesher, C.S.C. South Africa is no ordinary country. Its policies are destroying the cultural, social and political identity of people and they touch the exposed nerves of our nationalistic myths throughout the world.

Such a program raises at least two issues: (i) the need for television time to provide a more broadly based view of South Africa and the role of the United Nations as the function of W.N.D.U. as part of the United Nations system. It seems one is prompted to ask whether the University is not failing in some culpable way in its basic calling — the pursuit of truth — when so powerful a medium as its own television station is apparently oriented to commercial gain, heavily conditioned by the program demands of its advertisers and prepared to show a program such as that described above, simply to ensure Americans to spend their dollars in the United States. The reality of the product being advertised in this case is strictly for whites only which in turn raises some interesting issues.

SMC presents 'The Hostage'

What's the inside of Washington Hall looking like the outside of a Dublin battlefront? Not exactly, by asking Roger Kenvin. But it's nothing to get alarmed about. A loud and raucous production of the 70-71 season for the SD -SMC Drama Department; The Hostage by J.B. Priestley. The play is loud and funny comedy full of song and dance, a restless, irrepressible Irish thrice. The attraction centers around a young English soldier captured by the Germans, "boarding" house in reprisal for a young soldier who is being held hostage in the enemy's country. The Hostage is directed by Dr. Roger Kenvin and can be seen in Washington Hall on December 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12. Richard and Bergman is the set designer.

A typical ND student after exams

The next seventeen days will surely go down in Notre Dame's history as the busiest stretch of time as terms are slipping away, search projects, take home tests, and a synthesis of Greek and English, and pull something out for Philosophy of Man, I may have a chance to get into med school." - Dave Lammers.

A typical ND student after exams

The next seventeen days will surely go down in Notre Dame's history as the busiest stretch of time as terms are slipping away, search projects, take home tests, and a synthesis of Greek and English, and pull something out for Philosophy of Man, I may have a chance to get into med school." - Dave Lammers.

A typical ND student after exams

The next seventeen days will surely go down in Notre Dame's history as the busiest stretch of time as terms are slipping away, search projects, take home tests, and a synthesis of Greek and English, and pull something out for Philosophy of Man, I may have a chance to get into med school." - Dave Lammers.
American Rudy Tomanovich but they are hopeful of improving on last season's 10-14 record. The Wolves use a fast breaking offense and a double post when the break is not available. The key men in the U of M attack are captain Dan Fife, a 6'3" guard who runs the middle of the break and Rodney Ford, a 6'4" forward with great speed enabling him to fill in one of the breaking lanes. Last season Ford hit for 14.5 per game and Fife tallied 13.2 per contest. Ken Brady is the big man on the Wolves team. He is 6'7" and is counted on to supply the major rebounding strength. He is a sophomore.

Other Starters are soph Henry Wilmore and Wayne Grable. Wilmore is a potential power keg. As a freshman, the 6'4" leaper hit 23.1 points per game. Garvie, a senior, is a steady type performer and he has great size for a guard at 6'9". Ernie Johnson, 6'8" tall, provides backup strength underneath. Overall the Wolverines are looking for an improved board game over last season and a better defensive game. The Wolves play a man for man defense.

Someone on Michigan's squad better be a super defensive player if U of M is to win this one

Collegiate Diamond Importers present diamond shows at the
NOTRE DAME
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
Wed., Dec. 2 & Thurs., Dec. 3
10:00 AM-4:00 PM
The CDI National Diamond Consultant will personally assist you in choosing your engagement ring and other diamond jewelry.
He'll help you choose your own loose diamond; marquise, round, pearshape, emerald, oval or any other popular shape. Then you'll select your individual mounting to create a unique diamond ring that is truly "yours alone".

You always save 20% to 40% with CDI diamonds
CDI imports diamonds directly from the world's diamond centers. You avoid unnecessary middleman profits. The cost of your diamond does not help pay the plush expenses of a jewelry store, Every CDI diamond is fully guaranteed, by certificate. Full refund within 15 days if you are not completely satisfied.
Ask for your FREE copy of "The Romance of the Diamond", a 32 page booklet about the history, romance and crafting of diamonds; it includes tips on how to choose and care for your diamond.

bonus offer
When you purchase any CDI diamond ring, you'll receive a 50% reduction on the choice of a set of complimentary matching gold wedding bands. Value up to $125!

by Terry Shields
Observer Sports Editor
Tonight marks the beginning of the impossible task facing Johnny Dee and his Fighting Irish cagers. The impossible task is the tremendous schedule that starts Dee directly in his Irish mag. Number one task is the University of Michigan Wolverines.

The Wolverines have lost All-American Rudy Tomanovich but they are hopeful of improving on last season's 10-14 record. The Wolves use a fast breaking offense and a double post when the break is not available. The key men in the U of M attack are captain Dan Fife, a 6'3" guard who runs the middle of the break and Rodney Ford, a 6'4" forward with great speed enabling him to fill in one of the breaking lanes. Last season Ford hit for 14.5 per game and Fife tallied 13.2 per contest. Ken Brady is the big man on the Wolves team. He is 6'7" and is counted on to supply the major rebounding strength. He is a sophomore.

Other Starters are soph Henry Wilmore and Wayne Grable. Wilmore is a potential power keg. As a freshman, the 6'4" leaper hit 23.1 points per game. Garvie, a senior, is a steady type performer and he has great size for a guard at 6'9". Ernie Johnson, 6'8" tall, provides backup strength underneath. Overall the Wolverines are looking for an improved board game over last season and a better defensive game. The Wolves play a man for man defense.

Someone on Michigan's squad better be a super defensive player if U of M is to win this one.
Shamrocks A Weed

Well, now, 'to God's holy will, surely.'

Didn't he send the rain, after all?
The Irish say that the only weed there has never been a leprechaun seen west of County Cork. Put them all together, they spell 'Trogans.'

Put the cork back in the leg. Turn off the fire under the corned beef and cabbage. Save the old Gipper for the Cotton Bowl. He couldn't even play for a tie Saturday. Trojans 38, Irish 28.

The Luck o' the Irish? Go tell it to Sweeney. It's as phoney as the baseheans, as empty as an Englishman's promise.

Examine your conscience and tell us why Irish eyes should be smiling. Like a mom in spring, is it? When you get beat by a goal-line fumble—the OTHER GUYS' FUMBLE—it's time to ask for a look at the cards.

When you run up 28 first downs and FIVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SEVEN YARDS, you're entitled to pull your first string out by the third quarter.

Where was Johnny (One-Play) O'Brien? The Rock? The Gipper? Did he send the rain, after all?

Well, now, the Lord tests us, surely.

Consider the third quarter. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.

Now you have to explain what follows to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick? Match this ground O'Connell Street.

The Trojans have the ball on the 2-yard line when a back named Dyer booted 10 yards. This was the game. The Trojans were leading by a piddling 10 points. Not enough when we're all in the state of grace and have been kind to dumb animals and supported our local police and all.
Attention
Observer Staff:

There will be a staff picture taken Wednesday afternoon at 4:45 in the office.

Christmas party will be discussed.

Union defends speakers policy

(Continued from page 2) has been judged on the basis of its first two months of performance. In both the David Hawk lecture and the McGovern appearance people came up to me and said that they could procure the men for this or that night. I agreed to the lecture and made the necessary preparations.”

Metzger went on to say that many of the speakers are made available at the last minute and that it is not possible to draw up a balanced speakers program at the beginning of each semester.

“We started with a long list of people that we had hoped to get at the beginning of the year,” said Metzger. “We made a special effort to procure conservative speakers, but honestly, a good conservative, is hard to find. The commissioner cited a letter from the Ruth Abbott speakers agency which read: “Here’s a list of 5 conservatives. Sorry but that’s all we could find. William F. Buckley is booked well into next year.”

Besides the biased speakers complaint, the academic commission has also merited criticism for the Ti Grace Atkinson lecture. Miss Atkinson, a noted proponent for the Women’s Liberation Movement spoke to a Notre Dame audience on October 15 on “The Church’s Part in Oppressing Womanhood.” In the ensuing weeks a letter from Bishop Leo A. Purcell and an editorial in Our Sunday Visitor by Monsignor James Concannon appeared, criticizing both the academic commission’s open speaker policy and an article on the lecture which appeared in The Observer.

“The best you can do,” said Metzger concerning the incident, “is to know a person beforehand by what they write and by their credentials. Miss Atkinson wrote a not-so-controversial book on the women’s liberation and is presently doing doctorate work in philosophy at Columbia. Aside from this we try to learn from what we hear. Damaging reports from other schools remove speakers from our lists.”

Metzger also complained that speakers often use their addresses at Notre Dame to criticize the Church, sometimes as a springboard to the national press. He cited Miss Atkinson and Fr. James Cavanaugh as two examples.

Recently the ND-SMC academic commission has faced the possibility of having its “open speaker’s policy” revised by the Student Senate. A rider proposed by stay senator Fred Giuffrida, tacked on to the $35,000 allotment to the Student Union, specified that the academic commission had to obtain Senate consent before inviting a speaker who would cost more than $300. Metzger called the amendment, which has since been repealed, “unfortunate.”

“This amendment really shows that there was no attempt to understand what the academic commission’s troubles are,” said Metzger. “I think they’re metting. The Senate never even called Missy or me before them.” According to Metzger, the Senate would have had to meet once or twice a week just to consider speakers if the amendment had taken effect.

Latest in jeans, body-shirts, un-suits, vests
Poster & Things

“Student Billing Card

With this card, a dorm resident may make long distance calls with the privacy of the dorm room phone and get an individual bill once a month.

And even take advantage of Direct Distance Dialing...the faster, easier way to call long distance.

Your Student Billing Card is waiting (if you haven’t already picked it up) at the Indiana Bell Business Office. Just ask.

Indiana Bell