by Art Ferranti

Father James T. Burtchaell, C.S.C., University provost, replied Tuesday in response to a question by student senator Mike Spencer, to say that the College of Business Administration would institute a minor for Graduate Students in Education, one; and the College of Arts and Letters College Council and the Academic Council have voted unanimously to remove the requirement for a minor.

Burtchaell said that the Arts and Letters College Council and the Academic Council have voted to change the name of the college of Business Administration to the College of Business Administration and the College of Education.

The faculty initiated concern in this area and has brought about the creation of new minors in some studies of the East, and the Asian Studies Series has had many students speak at the annual survey.

Callahan said, however, that the College of Business Administration has spent a year and a half trying to change the name of the college of Business Administration to the College of Business Administration and the College of Education.

The title of St. Mary's News Editor has been announced. An announcement will be made by Callahan. The College of Education has been named by the faculty for the office of Vice-President of Student Affairs.

The letter further states "the lack of consideration for community government and the procedure taken in this matter." The elements of consideration for community government were disregarded in the decision to establish the position of vice-president, as well as the acceptance of C.C. for that office.

Miss Anne Marie Tracy presented this letter, chairing the last Student Assembly meeting of her term as Student Body President.

Discussion followed as to whether further student action should be taken if the letter is ignored by the Board of Trustees. No conclusion was reached.

Presentation of the Peace Treaty proposed by the NSA and the people of VietNam followed the discussion. This letter was presented for consideration of endorsement at the request of Dr. Peter Smith of the SMC faculty. Copies of the proposal are being made for the membership of the Assembly. Consideration of endorsement will take place at a subsequent meeting.

Questionnaires regarding the short fall semester resulting from the calendar changes were distributed. This survey is being conducted to ascertain the opinion of students and faculty.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate unanimously approved Wednesday a constitutional amendment which would lower the voting age to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.

The Senate approved the amendment by a vote of 78 to 18 in all elections — from City Hall to the White House.

If it is approved by the House next week, as it is expected, 38 states will have ratified the amendment before it can become part of the constitution. All 50 states must ratify the amendment, however, by 1973 at the latest.
FORT BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — The two central figures in the massacre at My Lai met face to face Wednesday in a hushed military courtroom and Capt. Ernest L. Medina denied repeatedly that he ever ordered Lt. William L. Calley to kill Vietnamese women and children.

Striking directly at the heart of Calley’s defense — that he only followed Medina’s orders when he and his men slaughtered the villagers of My Lai — Medina firmly testified that:

— In a briefing the night before the March 16, 1968 sweep of the village he never told the men of Charlie Company to kill everything in the village. In fact, he said, he was asked whether they should kill women and children and he told them “you do not kill women and children.”

— During the sweep, he never urged Calley by radio to hurry his men up and to “waste” any villagers slowing them down.

Medina testified that he grew “scared” and “upset” with himself for killing a woman he first thought was armed, and then “I became very emotional” when one of his men shot a child.

We encountered a cluster of bodies in the wake of Calley’s platoon and although “I wanted to believe with all my heart that it had happened by artillery and gunship fire,” he began to realize what was happening.

He said he then radioed platoon leaders and told them to make sure “none of their personnel were shooting innocent noncombatants.

Calley is on trial for his life, accused of the murder of 108 villagers at My Lai. Medina is charged with overall responsibility for the killings and could be compelled to testify for the prosecution. If he should be found guilty, he may be found guilty at his own court martial — as yet unscheduled.

Under cross examination by Calley’s lawyer, Medina admitted that he knew he should not have been in Vietnam, but he was sent there to help the Army and had been promised that he would not have to take part in combat operations.

In addition to this effort, Sister Raphaelita has been asked to interview black students that never showed. She revealed that all of the black students presently attending St. Mary’s are on scholarship and are non-Catholic.

Observe Insight into her guidance counselor, she is usually guided to public universities or colleges. This limits us considerably.”

Most of the college applicants (95 percent) hear about St. Mary’s from their friends who are, usually, from all-girl Catholic high schools, which have few black students, she said. Sr. Raphaelita commented that this fact also works against them.

She revealed that all of the black students at the college are on scholarship: an O.E. government loan, campus employment; and a tuition remission.

“If we could get a sponsor for each student to remove the financial burden from the college’s shoulders, then we could afford to recruit. A limited budget curtails our work severely,” she stated.

According to the director of admissions, the school has never had a black student was admitted to St. Mary’s fifteen or twenty years ago. The student body raised money for a St. Martin de Porres scholarship to cover the expenses incurred by an incoming freshman.

The school, then, assumed the balance of the tuition for the student other three years.

From this start, she revealed that last year the school had 38 black students, “Of these 38, four graduated, three were screened out, three cancelled, and 12 were enrolled from 1970-71, we had 31 new applicants, 29 freshmen and 2 transfer students. Of the 31, 19 were accepted, 8 enrolled, 5 cancelled, and 4 my not reply to the acceptance.” (At the end of sophomore year, a committee meets to screen the class, to decide which applicants from their academic record have little chance of successfully finishing the four-year course of study. These students are subsequently invited to leave.)

In other words, as Sister explained, the admissions office committed itself to seventeen students that never showed.

Questioned on why in tracing where the college’s black students come from, a majority are from St. Pius X High School in Savannah, Georgia, Sister explained that it is accidental. She added that the school enjoyed a popularity with students from that high school.

Next year, however, the incoming freshman class may well represent more regions that Alabama, Mississippi and Georgia which dominate the present black student body. New students are from areas such as California, Louisiana, and Indiana.
Weather report for road bound

With spring break approaching, weather reports become increasingly important for homeward bound students.

Illinois: Thursday partly sunny and warmer. High Thursday lower 40s in the extreme northwest to near 50s south. Thursday night generally fair. Friday increasing cloudiness; warmer in the afternoon. High Thursday about 40 in the north to 56 south.

Ohio: Thursday mostly cloudy with chance of snow flurries in the north and east, partly cloudy in the southeast. Thursday night partly cloudy. Friday colder. High Thursday in the north 40s to lower 50s. Iowa: Thursday partly cloudy and warmer. Thursday night and Friday partly cloudy to cloudy. Thursday night warmer. Friday turning colder. High Thursday 49-53 in the north, 46s in the south.

Michigan: Thursday becoming partly cloudy. Thursday night increasing cloudiness, becoming mostly cloudy Friday. High Thursday 30s to lower 40s.

Kentucky: Thursday clear to cloudy and cool. Thursday night cloudiness increasing and rain likely in the west by Friday morning.

Indiana: Thursday morning clearing or clearing; generally fair and warmer in afternoon.

Burchell (Continued from Page 1)

and that the administration already has "a good staff of blacks working in that area," Burchell said, "What we have to offer at Notre Dame is for all."

Dr. Scott, in a brief interview last night, said that the University had not done anything different to encourage blacks "that they had been perceived" to do so. He said that the appointments of black professors had been "one" before his proposal had even been "formally put into" a plan; that golfin- damental money had been allotted that no authority had been given to develop by the deans of the departments to maintain a "share" of authority over those employed in the deans' offices. Scott said that he is attempting to speak with key people in the University in the hope of effecting more change.

Corso notes staff changes

(continued from page 1)

her to be the Observer's official representative at Mary's and I want her to expand and coordinate the activities at the College.

In order to provide more "behind the scenes" coverage, Corso said, "I have offered to hire a Darin, a sophomore from Latropus Village, Michigan. Among his tasks, he has promised to do investigative stories at Notre Dame and Pitt according to Corso.

"There has been a pure need for an excellent job at St. Mary's shot a group of about 30 Jews staged a hunger strike to back their demands for freedom to go to Israel. Soviet police drove away the demonstrators out more than 5 hours later as they remained in a darts room."

Their demonstration began at 2 p.m. after a group of Latvian Jews from Riga visited headquarters of the Communist Party Central Committee and appealed for permission to emigrate to Israel refused.

Members of the group said the proposal had even been for­med before his arrival and had been made before his selection. "Police had been provided for the demonstration," Corso said, "and I think we found the perfect candidate in Rich Smith. He has an excellent depth coverage," Corso stated.

The Selection Board through the Student Advisory Council will appoint by the President of the Arts and Letters Student Advisory Council, one junior and one senior member of this Council, and one College Council faculty representative appointed by Dean Crosson. The Selection Board through the campus media will invite Arts and Letters to present themselves before the Board as candidates. Beginning with the 71-72 academic year, student representatives will be selected in September.

Russian Jews stage protest demonstration

MOSCOW (UPI) — More than 50 angry Jews staged a hunger strike to back their demands for freedom to go to Israel. Soviet police drove away the demonstrators out more than 5 hours later as they remained in a darts room."

"The women was in the reception hall and said a man in a military police uniform threatened the Jews with arrest if they不得 leave "in two minutes."

"They surrounded us, and began pulling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made.

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

Membership on the Council will include five voting student representatives of the Arts and Letters student body with the stipulation that no freshman or graduate student be eligible for membership.

Student representation on the Council will be reviewed in two years.

Then, she said, scores of uniformed 'and plainclothes policemen crowded into the room."

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made.

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

They said she knew of no arrests being made.

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made.

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made.

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made.

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made. --

Arts and Letters college council to have student representation

"They surrounded us," and began piling out the benches we were sitting on," she said. "They started pushing us, and we could only do, we had to leave."

"They said she knew of no arrests being made.
Departing Seniors

Today marks the last day that the present senior editors will fulfill their duties as editors, with the exception of Sports Editor Terry Shields, who will continue until April 1. Terry will fulfill their duties as editors, with the exception of Sports Editor, who is applying for admission to various insane asylum facilities. While we are putting the paper together tonight, it is worthwhile to consider our senior editors, and their replacements. John Knorr, outgoing Executive Editor, is tonight in his room, presumably with his lovely fiance, Mary Chris, who is an extremely outgoing Night Editor. He will be replaced by John Abowd. Bill Carter, who is in New York City tonight on his way to a spring vacation in Europe, will be replaced by Don Ruane. Jim Graf, departing Tuesday night editor, is still in bed from his work on Tuesday night, or rather, Wednesday morning. Dave Bach, ex-Observer editor, is in Chicago where he will be the confirmation sponsor of his nephew. Bruce Rieck, our debonair business manager, is probably at this moment in his room counting his gold pieces. Dave Lammers, the ex-features editor, who is applying for admission to various insane asylums, will be replaced by Rick Smith, who is already self-admittedly insane.

Glen Corso, T.C. Treanor, and Ed Ellis will be replaced, alas and alack, by themselves Virtu in medio stat. (Roughly translated, right on!)

And, of course, we cannot forget our Saint Mary’s editor, “Sweet Jeannie” Sweeney, who can never be replaced, but voluptuous Ann Conway will try. Corpore sanis, mens sanas, as we sexists say.

And finally, we could not leave for the spring frolicking with our minds at peace without at least one character assassination. Though Bishop Purasley has applied, our mainman, our beloved friend, our Chief Newsmaker, namely James Tundstead Burchaell, will be replaced by someone as yet unnamed and unknown. Hopefully.

Dennis Wall

Presidential Power!

You may ask: Is this column going to deal with President Krashna’s incursions into Laos? His problems on the home front? His extravagations over the economy? No. It is going to deal with our own Student Body President, David Krashna. It occurs to me that in the last column I mailed to the Observer I hinted at some of President Krashna’s failings. I wish to take back those perhaps faulty implications. I do this because I do not wish to intimate any longer; I would like to be a bit more specific.

If President Krashna came into power advocating the return of student government to the students in the halls, he has not done it. The Student Senate— and I all know how Dave feels about those guys—passed more money for hall activities than Dave was willing to request. Therein lies a great paradox: Dave’s great nemo, the Student Senate, is seemingly more concerned for hall government than Dave is himself. Yet President Krashna proposed to restore government to the halls by abolishing the Senate! Now, isn’t that marvelous?

One perhaps could expect the Senate now to turn around and advocate the abolition of Dave Krashna, but the Senate is not composed of petty or foolish people. They have a record to point to and to prove it. Unlike others in Student Government. Particularly our outgoing SBP. Indeed, the greatest contributions the Krashna Administration may have made by the time the current SBP hands over the reins of power will have been in the things that it did not do: there was no violence in the Student Strike, for example. (Although there wasn’t any meaning, rather—and that is not to say that there could not have been. There was a real possibility of viable discussion of the issues of the tinder-box American foreign policy, but it organizes the strike, particularly the SBP, were not noteworthy for their pursuit of an opposing point of view. One is reminded of President Krashna’s call for the march to campus—be asked whether it should be “today or tomorrow.” He did not, significantly, ask for the opinions of those who did not wish to march at all. Hopefully, since the Krashna Administration has been able to do nothing positive about coeducation, it will not boggle the issue completely and allow things to slip back to where they were before. In line with that, the Student Assembly was a stroke of brilliance. It was not only brilliant by contrast with the other “activities” of the Administration, but it was a truly good idea, one recognizing that the pressure for coeducation must and will come from the students, that the momentum belongs to us at the present time and must not be allowed to slip away.

So I am not saying that Dave Krashna did nothing good during his tenure in office. I am just saying that he and his administration did relatively nothing. Compared to what they could have done. If it seem to be critical, it is because I am also disappointed. This administration had a chance to do something. It seemed as if they might really fulfill their campaign pledges. But they did not—and it is not because Notre Dame students are “apathetic.” Krashna did not get his constitution, for example, because he was exchanging one document of dubious value for another, untried document of dubious value. Perhaps he would even like to believe it himself. But just because the student government did not get what they wanted, it is not to say that they did not fulfill the things that matter.

Perhaps it is a failure of student government people to look at the students as other than subjects; children who have to be force-fed medicine for their own good. But even a steer won’t eat bullshit. Perhaps President Krashna has finally learned this. I hope his successor will realize it, too. I hope it is the end of all. It would be expecting too much from our student government “pro politicians.”

It seems to me that if Notre Dame students are cursed with having their leaders begin their maturing processes while in office. After having announced their grandiose plans for us all as he begins his office, every SBP learns that although “I am the President” sounds good, it doesn’t do any good by itself; you need the students. Mr. SBP. You are to be responsive to their wishes. They do not have to respond to yours. It takes some SBPs longer than others to realize this. Mr. Krashna was a particularly slow learner.
Bill Davidow

On the Board of Trustees

Thursday, March 11, 1971

In all the current discussion and confused enthusiasm concerning the long awaited merger of St. Mary's with the University of Notre Dame, a number of individuals whose thoughts have yet to be heard have been largely overlooked. One such individual is Dr. Unruh, who ran against Ronald Reagan for governor of California after having spent a number of years on the state board of Regents, proposed that since business reaps the harvest of college students they should be adequately represented on boards of such institutions and universities throughout the country. This proposal is not radical; it is merely that the practicality of only the roles now served on the state board of Regents be assigned to the head body in becoming part of its susceptions. Last spring one trustee, after being cornered in the Center for Continuing Education, was asked in a personal part of this interview what his thoughts on the Nutting plan which had been worked on for many years. His reply was “I have no idea what the St. Mary’s Student Body President is allowed merely to sit in on the budget meetings per year are negligible in light of the many issues with which a university is faced.”

This body falls short of its expectations.

The head body have little or no qualification why of the university’s existence, but, if I might add, little or no practicality to the university’s administration’s realization of its resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.

To achieve our present affluent society, we have consumed and destroyed the essential resources that have resulted in the pollution of our planet. Though most of us live well, we also have a surplus of waste, and political spheres of influence. The world population has increased, and many of our vital resources; exploited the resources of other regions of the oceans through our country’s economic and political sphere of influence. The price will be paid as the rest of the world continues in its growth. In all the history of the U.S. we have not been able to control the pressure of international conflict thus far.
ND goes back to Texas

Notre Dame is returning to Texas to face the Southwest Conference once again. And instead of Joe Theismann at the quarterback, it will be All-American Austin Carr.

The last visit the Fighting Irish made to the State of Texas was January 1, when Ara Parseghian's 1964 team recorded a 21-14 victory over the Sooners in the Cotton Bowl. Now Johnny Dee's basketball team will enter the NCAA Tournament for the third straight year, facing Texas Christian next Saturday (March 13) in Houston.

The Irish will meet the SWC's biggest challenge in the title game of the Midwest Regionals at the University of Houston in Hofheinz Pavilion.

Tipoff is scheduled for 7:05 p.m. (CST) with University (20-6) and New Mexico State (26-6) also at-large entries. The Irish, meeting in the second game of 9:00 (CST). The Notre Dame-TCU contest is scheduled to be telecasted by TVS.

Both winners will advance to the Midwest Regional finals at the University of Wichita the following Thursday, March 18. The Notre Dame-TCU winner will meet the Sooners in the regional title game.

The Irish, seeking a record fourth straight 20-victory season, will take a 22-2 record into the TCU game. Dee's club, actually playing in its fourth straight post-season tournament, has played what is considered the toughest schedule nationally. The Irish have played seven of the top 12 ranked teams and also seven NCAA Tournament teams that could increase after conference tournaments or playoffs.

Notre Dame holds victories over Southeastern Conference champion Kentucky, Fac-e lead and top ranked UCLA (19-8) and Big Ten possibility Michigan while losing to Atlantic Coast Conference favorites Virginia and Carolina. Marquette, Duquesne and Fordham by a total of 17 points.

The Irish decided NIT Bound last Monday, 63-48, as Carr scored 47 points. Notre Dame also holds an early season road win over St. Louis, one of the Missouri Valley Conference title contenders.

Last year Notre Dame started its NCAA Tournament campaign with an impressive 112-82 Midwest Regional win over Mid-American champion Ohio University as Carr scored an NCAA record 50 points. Kentucky eliminated the Irish from the Midwest Regional with a 79-77 decision in the second round. Carr scored a total of 97 points against the Wildcats and Iowa (consolation) and a total of 198 points in three games.

Carr, the Irish captain, is ranked second nationally in scoring for the second straight year. With 31.5 average, he needs just 24 points to reach the 1,000 plateau and his career average of 34.5 (425 points) is second in the history of college basketball. He passed Oscar Robertson three weeks ago and will probably finish second to Pete Maravich (44.1 avg.)

Carr, who plays under the basketball equivalent of the operating system, is also the third leading rebounder on the team with a 7.2 average.

"TCU has a lot of quickness and in the last two months they've put it all together," said Irish assistant coach and scout Gene Sullivan. "They can run with the basketball and (6-6 Eugenio) Kennedy is a fine two-guard." Sullivan.

Kennedy, who leads the TCU scoring average with a 26.7 (143 points) average, was named the Southwest Conference Player of the Year. After helping the Sunflakes to the NCAA tourney, one of three on the tournament playing unit, was ranked among the top 10 nationally in rebounding (16.9) and field goal percentage (47 percent).

Coach John Swan, the SWC Coach of the Year, has watched his club compile a 16-10 record (12-2 in the conference). The Fort Worth-based team has the advantage of 12 players during the pre-conference schedule.

The two turnovers are 6-4 for the Jayhawks, with 26.7 average, was named the Southwest Conference Player of the Year. After helping the Sunflakes to the NCAA tourney, one of three on the tournament playing unit, was ranked among the top 10 nationally in rebounding (16.9) and field goal percentage (47 percent).

Coach John Swan, the SWC Coach of the Year, has watched his club compile a 16-10 record (12-2 in the conference). The Fort Worth-based team has the advantage of 12 players during the pre-conference schedule.

The two turnovers are 6-4 for the Jayhawks, with 26.7 average, was named the Southwest Conference Player of the Year. After helping the Sunflakes to the NCAA tourney, one of three on the tournament playing unit, was ranked among the top 10 nationally in rebounding (16.9) and field goal percentage (47 percent).

Coach John Swan, the SWC Coach of the Year, has watched his club compile a 16-10 record (12-2 in the conference). The Fort Worth-based team has the advantage of 12 players during the pre-conference schedule.

The two turnovers are 6-4 for the Jayhawks, with 26.7 average, was named the Southwest Conference Player of the Year. After helping the Sunflakes to the NCAA tourney, one of three on the tournament playing unit, was ranked among the top 10 nationally in rebounding (16.9) and field goal percentage (47 percent).

Coach John Swan, the SWC Coach of the Year, has watched his club compile a 16-10 record (12-2 in the conference). The Fort Worth-based team has the advantage of 12 players during the pre-conference schedule.

The two turnovers are 6-4 for the Jayhawks, with 26.7 average, was named the Southwest Conference Player of the Year. After helping the Sunflakes to the NCAA tourney, one of three on the tournament playing unit, was ranked among the top 10 nationally in rebounding (16.9) and field goal percentage (47 percent).

Coach John Swan, the SWC Coach of the Year, has watched his club compile a 16-10 record (12-2 in the conference). The Fort Worth-based team has the advantage of 12 players during the pre-conference schedule.
Sid, Sid, Sid, Sid!

By Jim Donaldson
Observer Sports Staff

Sid Calett began his basketball career when he was 12 years old on a playground in Washington, D.C., and, the personable Irish star recognized, "I took my first shot at the other sitter, basketball - and missed." After that inauspicious start Sid Calett improved quickly. In his junior and senior years at DeMatha High School, in the nation's capital, Calett was named a prep All-American. During his four years of high school, DeMatha compiled a 100-0 record and won three metropolitan championships. Needless to say, there were a lot of colleges hoping to enroll him.

"Austin, Collin and I wanted to go to school together," Calett said, explaining why he chose to play ball at Notre Dame. "We knew that a lot of ballplayers left D.C. to go to college by themselves. We felt that it would be easier for us to adjust to college life if we all stayed together."

"I talked to Bob Whitmore, who was happy at Notre Dame, and of course I knew that Notre Dame had a great athletic tradition. I also knew that Notre Dame was building up their basketball program and I wanted to be a part of it.

The Irish had been a big part of the Irish basketball program since the first wore the Blue and Gold. One of the quickest, most agile big men in college basketball, Calett is a strong rebounder and can put the ball in the hoop from either good as you did in completely irrational. He is a boxer, whether or not you spoke of his personal experiences, and when he climbed into the ring Monday night, he climbed in as one single person who has tried to achieve what he had set his own personal goal for. The same thing held true for Joe Frazier. He wasn't the establishment's "boy" and he wasn't in the lead concerned with "moral and physical victory for those that are inferior," which you arbitrarily spoke of. What have we then, a battle of good vs. evil, injustice, or rather a fight between two men who are very much respected and loved. Not living legends though, not even martyrs and certainly not gods in any sense of the word."

"To you I would say that if you cannot accept defeat in your life, or other people's lives, then you had better become a recluse in the desert for the rest of your time. This letter is not simply and not interest by another Notre Dame sports' follower in an important sports event. I'm afraid this has never been more true than it is which appeared in your article. Is there really no reason to hope for a better world - just as sure that Sid Calett will be doing more than the next five years. The Irish make another bid for the national championship.

Sid Calett

Voices from the Crowd

Dear Mr. Shields:

Up to this point, I had much respect for your column. However, your article about the fight disintegrated any such respect I had for the column or the newspaper. You wrote "it simply means that the whole affair an injustice, you wrote "like a man with a paper head." To begin, you are indeed right, this was more than simply another heavy weight championship. There was a symbol in the ring Monday night. Muhammad Ali is quite a man, in more ways than simply athletic endeavors. He is a celebrity with an unwavering example of a man who holds very deep unalterable convictions. He is the symbol of one who has taken on the whole world, speaking of, and one who has taken much abuse and received many gross injustices to his person. Truly, he is an exemplary human being, but to make him into a seeming god as you did is completely irrational. He is a boxer, whether or not you spoke of his personal experiences, and when he climbed into the ring Monday night, he climbed in as one single person who has tried to achieve what he had set his own personal goal for. The same thing held true for Joe Frazier. He wasn't the establishment's "boy" and he wasn't in the lead concerned with "moral and physical victory for those that are inferior," which you arbitrarily spoke of. What have we then, a battle of good vs. evil, injustice, or rather a fight between two men who are very much respected and loved. Not living legends though, not even martyrs and certainly not gods in any sense of the word."

"To you I would say that if you cannot accept defeat in your life, or other people's lives, then you had better become a recluse in the desert for the rest of your time. This letter is not simply and not interest by another Notre Dame sports' follower in an important sports event. I'm afraid this has never been more true than it is which appeared in your article. Is there really no reason to hope for a better world - just as sure that Sid Calett will be doing more than the next five years. The Irish make another bid for the national championship.
Kline's nine goes South

A week-ong trip into Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky, regular season games that none of the outstanding teams in the Midwest and nine games highlight Notre Dame's 1971 baseball schedule announced today by Athletic Director Edward (Moore) Krause.

Jake Kline, a member of the baseball coaching staffs of Notre Dame, will enter his 30th campaign when he takes his Fighting Irish baseball team to Joliet, Ark., for a three game series starting March 15.

Notre Dame's baseball team finished with an overall 17-14 record last year and gained a spot in the NCAA Division Four Four tournament. The Irish decided on Big Ten champion Minnesota 6-2 before dropping a 1-9 contest to Southern Illinois.

Following the Arkansas State series, Notre Dame faces Christian Brothers College and Memphis State in Memphis, Tenn., before heading to Murray, Ky. State for a three game set. A total of 12 games are scheduled on the spring trip.

The Irish will open their home season on Thursday, April 8, against Mid-American Conference power Western Michigan. The last night of the home schedule is a two-game set with Ohio University (April 22-24), the defending MAC and District Four Champions and a fourth place finisher in the NCAA College World Series at Omaha.

Michigan State will conclude Notre Dame's season May 11 with a doubleheader. The Irish also face Michigan and Northwestern of the Big Ten and Toledo and Miami (O.) of the MAC, the latter the lone new opponent on the schedule.

Matmen tie Marquette

Bob Hahig and Rick Aaseloe were the big point getters for the Irish with pins over their foes from Marquette. Hahig won his 150th match in 3:18 and Aaseloe put his opponents shoulders on the canvas in 6:22. Aaseloe wrestled 160 lb. class.

Other Irish grapplers who didn't fare quite as well in their matches included Ken "Scrambler" Ryan who lost a close decision. Mike Kemp was also the victim of a decision. He tally read 10-2. Bob Bennett and Kurt Bottrig (168 and 167 lb. classes) finished fifth in a close round of shot-putting competition. Polisell's best throw travelled 55-feet. In the same meet, the Wildcat went 60-feet, 7 inches, to take second place.

Novia wins 14A

by Vic Dorr

Ober Sports writer

The 1970 indoor track and field championships were held last weekend in Princeton, New Jersey, and Villanova's Wildcats captured the NCAA team title for the fifth straight year.

But while the meet provided the Wildcats with an opportunity to display their numerous talents, it held only disappointment for the Notre Dame delegation. The Irish team finished far back in the overall scoring, as they were tied for 33rd only eight points better than the final day. Mike Kemp was the only Irishman to wrestle in the heavyweight division with a 4-1 decision. Marc Exposito also won 167 in the 134 lb. class.

Matmen tie Marquette

Bob Hahig and Rick Aaseloe were the big point getters for the Irish with pins over their foes from Marquette. Hahig won his 150th match in 3:18 and Aaseloe put his opponents shoulders on the canvas in 6:22. Aaseloe wrestled 160 lb. class.

Other Irish grapplers who didn't fare quite as well in their matches included Ken "Scrambler" Ryan who lost a close decision. Mike Kemp was also the victim of a decision. He tally read 10-2. Bob Bennett and Kurt Bottrig (168 and 167 lb. classes) finished fifth in a close round of shot-putting competition. Polisell's best throw travelled 55-feet. In the same meet, the Wildcat went 60-feet, 7 inches, to take second place.

Novia wins 14A

by Vic Dorr

Ober Sports writer

The 1970 indoor track and field championships were held last weekend in Princeton, New Jersey, and Villanova's Wildcats captured the NCAA team title for the fifth straight year.

But while the meet provided the Wildcats with an opportunity to display their numerous talents, it held only disappointment for the Notre Dame delegation. The Irish team finished far back in the overall scoring, as they were tied for 33rd only eight points better than the final day. Mike Kemp was the only Irishman to wrestle in the heavyweight division with a 4-1 decision. Marc Exposito also won 167 in the 134 lb. class.

Matmen tie Marquette

Bob Hahig and Rick Aaseloe were the big point getters for the Irish with pins over their foes from Marquette. Hahig won his 150th match in 3:18 and Aaseloe put his opponents shoulders on the canvas in 6:22. Aaseloe wrestled 160 lb. class.

Other Irish grapplers who didn't fare quite as well in their matches included Ken "Scrambler" Ryan who lost a close decision. Mike Kemp was also the victim of a decision. He tally read 10-2. Bob Bennett and Kurt Bottrig (168 and 167 lb. classes) finished fifth in a close round of shot-putting competition. Polisell's best throw travelled 55-feet. In the same meet, the Wildcat went 60-feet, 7 inches, to take second place.

Novia wins 14A

by Vic Dorr

Ober Sports writer

The 1970 indoor track and field championships were held last weekend in Princeton, New Jersey, and Villanova's Wildcats captured the NCAA team title for the fifth straight year.

But while the meet provided the Wildcats with an opportunity to display their numerous talents, it held only disappointment for the Notre Dame delegation. The Irish team finished far back in the overall scoring, as they were tied for 33rd only eight points better than the final day. Mike Kemp was the only Irishman to wrestle in the heavyweight division with a 4-1 decision. Marc Exposito also won 167 in the 134 lb. class.