Protesters arrested in Capital

by Dave Lammers

Special to UPI

WASHINGTON (UPI) - With Attorney General John N. Mitchell watching from his office balcony, thousands of teary-eyed demonstrators took to the streets outside the Justice Department, blocking traffic, displaying tear gas and clubs. All 3,000 militant antiwar demonstrators, apparently unaware of another attempt to block Washington's commercial traffic as hopeless, rallied their forces in a park and marched eight blocks to the Justice Department.

They had been welcomed on the Pennsylvania Avenue and 10th Street sides of the black building for three hours, chanting slogans and demanding an end to the war. When the police moved in and an officer declared over a bullhorn: "Clear this area immediately or you are subject to arrest."

About 2,000 of the youthful protestors left, leaving behind a knot of about 1,000 who sat down on the pavement, most of them on 10th Street, in the federal court's fifth-floor window, and refused to leave.

With the pipe-smoking Mitchell looking down on the scene, police then executed a peaceful maneuver, advancing on the protestors from Pennsylvania Avenue and Constitution Avenue. At least one canister of tear gas was fired at least a dozen or more officers swung their billy clubs, bloodying several youths.

With the pipe-smoking Mitchell looking down on the scene, police then executed a peaceful maneuver, advancing on the protestors from Pennsylvania Avenue and Constitution Avenue. At least one canister of tear gas was fired at least a dozen or more officers swung their billy clubs, bloodying several youths.

The violence was quickly over as police began arresting demonstrators, photographing them and placing them in buses to be taken to jail. The protestors put up very little resistance.

The plan was to cancel Monday's traffic disrupting tactics Tuesday, there were scattered incidents throughout the city and several leading demonstrators were arrested before the Justice Department demonstration.

Nearly three weeks of protests in the city are scheduled to end Wednesday when demonstrators have vowed to try to tie up the Capitol. Up Tuesday, an estimated 8,000 arrests had been made, 7,000 of them Monday when police and regular Army and Marine units thwarted protestors plans to shut down the government by keeping federal workers from going to their jobs. Arrested before the sit in were John Proines, one of the Chicago Seven defendants, who also Dennis Davis, had been charged with federal violation of others' rights, as they helped lead protests. FBI agents took him in custody, after they took into the must, identified himself and urged the protestors not to abandon their cause.

"We are back from what we have come to do," he said. "We have come to shut this government. We have to do it here in the streets in order to intensify our struggle against the war."

Davis, who was picked up walking down the street Monday afternoon after police and troops had quelled the traffic disrupting attempts in jail at $25,000 bond.

After five days of almost unharassed Tuesday morning, the Pentagon announced that 2,000 students had been arrested calling in to back the police had begun withdrawing from the city.

As for the demonstrators' plans to shut down Capitol this Wednesday morning, Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott said he thought this would be impossible. "Their inefficiveness is only exceeded by their volubility," Scott declared.

Fordham's Phelps replaces Dee as Irish head coach

Richard "Digger" Phelps, 28, who last year guided Fordham to its best record in history in his first season as a head basketball coach, was named Tuesday to succeed Johnny Dee at the University of Notre Dame. The announcement was made by Edward W. Krause, athletic director. The appointment was approved by the Faculty Board in fordham's Phelps replaces Dee as Irish head coach

The Ombudsman service is organizing a drive to have students donate $10 to a $25 pledge card that promises they will vote for a peace candidate in upcoming elections. This drive is part of a Nationwide "Vote for Peace" campaign called the Ombudsman seeks this campaign as an avenue of action for students who have determined for himself that war in Vietnam must be ended quickly. He also said that the campaign, merely by the immense number of pledges, will have impact on the President and Congress in their race for re-election.

Control of Athletics in its meeting Wednesday afternoon. "Phelps is one of the outstanding coaches in the country," Krause said yesterday. "He is just the type of man we wish to lead Fighting Irish." "Phelps is a disciplinarian, a leader, and he has tremendous dedication," Krause continued. "He can keep Notre Dame on top in college basketball circuits."

By leading Fordham to a 2-2 mark and an at-large bid in the NCAA tournament, Phelps won Fordham's second district in two of the National Association of College Basketball Coaches. He was accorded a similar honor by the Metropolitan Basketball Writers Association, finished second behind Al McGuire of Marquette in the annual UPI poll, and fourth behind McGuire, Bob Boyd of the University of Kentucky and Elwood Woods of UCLA in voting by The Associated Press. In stepping into the Fordham basketball picture last year, Phelps took over a team that had lost 15 of 25 games the previous season. He immediately turned the Rams into the Cinderella team of the year as it won 26 of its first 21 games, including a 94-88 victory over Notre Dame before the largest non-tournament college basketball crowd in Madison Square Garden history-19,500. A week later Fordham dropped its second game of the season to top-ranked Marquette, 85-75 in overtime. In his post-game comments Coach Krause, who recommended that Fordham "be the best team we've played all season."

In NCAA championship play Fordham defeated Furman 106-74, to lose to eventual finalist Villanova 85-75. A week later Fordham rebuffed with a spectacular 100-90 victory over powerful South Carolina for a third place finish in the Eastern Regional at Raleigh, North Carolina. As season's end Fordham was ranked 9th in both major wire service polls.

Before assuming his duties with the Rams, Phelps spent four years at the University of Pennsylvania as a forward and assistant head freshman coach. From 1967 to 1970 his frosh teams chalked up 53 victories against only 10 defeats.

R.A.P. collects $1000

In yesterday's dining room collection, the Refugee Aid Program amassed $1000. This brings the total amount of money collected by the R.A.P. to $7,700 with more expected from students and alumni.

Tom Gies, chairman of the R.A.P. plans to continue the program through the summer. Gies hopes that people who are truly interested in the program, will return home and solicit donations from businesses, church groups, alumni, and parents in an attempt to get money which emphasizes the personal involvement of the communities and not just that of the University.

Gies will coordinate the widespread activities by having the money sent to him. The money will then deliver the money to the American Friends Service Committee, a Quaker organization that runs the Quang Ngai hospital in Vietnam.

Marty Teitel, director of overseas refugee programs for the American Friends Service Committee, will distribute the Mass Teitel will speak about the continuation of the Refugee Program.

Teitel will explain the dual aims of the program in terms of providing an educational medium to inform the people about the little known aspects of the war. Many, claim Teitel, have no concept of the plight of those who live in Vietnam.

Any further contributions may be sent to Box 414, Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.
Co-ex tickets stolen Monday

Approximately 240 co-ex tickets were stolen Monday night from the Student Union offices in LaFortune Student Center, according to the project Director Ohlemiller.

The tickets are numbered and dated, and a list of validly distributed tickets has been given to the dining hall checkers. Ohlemiller said that up to 275 tickets could be invalidated if the tickets are not returned.

Ohlemiller said that “no questions will be asked” if the tickets are returned voluntarily. However, he added that those who are responsible will be in serious trouble if they do not bring the tickets to the student government or student union offices or to room 315 Grace Hall.

They may be returned at anytime.

Ohlemiller expects the thief to spend the tickets among his or her friends. He said four tickets were recovered last night at St. Mary’s. He asked that the rest be returned in time for this evening’s exchange dinner.

The tickets were stolen sometime after 5 p.m. after the Student Union secretary left her desk, where they are stored. Ohlemiller said that the office was reportedly occupied throughout the evening and that it is not known how the thief avoided detection.

STRIKE—It's one of those words that if you look at it long enough and hard enough, it begins to look odd and you imagine you've spelled it wrong. For the past fifteen minutes I have looked at it long and hard.

Memories of last spring come and go; I can feel the frown on my face as I try to remember all the words that took place, especially within myself. A quick flashback to that day in May, how I was running from table to table in the Saint Mary's cafeteria to tell as many people as possible that Dave Krasna intended to call a strike in protest of the Cambodian invasion (in particular) and the Viet Nam war as a whole. The presence of ROTC on campus was also an issue and I recall arguing earnestly but uselessly with a freshman girl about. The day progressed, David gave his short speech, Hesburgh was even there complete with a statement of his own. Then the work began. The long, tedious hours of talking. Always talking. To friends that agreed with you and to those who were vehemently opposed, to enthusiastic people who thought this was the best way to handle the whole thing, while others were busy with that, to teachers who were heartlessly sympathetic (despite or because of their own personal views) and to those who were not, to the townspeople who were approached to sign the Basilrgh petition. To be sure, there were a lot of platitudes coupled with the same old rhetoric, but there was also the sense of drag the thing, making that produced original, personal thoughts and words. It was a time of state ideals infused with the sensation of active participation, to the extent that the old ideas were even fresh form and vigor. But the work continued. People packed into a tiny room for a steering committee meeting, where everyone voiced an opinion or just listened. Somehow plans were made and somehow they were carried through. South Bend was assaulted by canvassers armed with petitions and leaflets. Schedules for teach-ins, lectures, rallies, and marches were set up and constantly being printed and had to be passed out. Letters were written to Congressmen. I can particularly remember spending one whole night transcribing from a tape an interview with Dick Gregory, the horrorously creative. And time went by.

But what went on in the minds of the students who had brazenly thrown themselves into the strike? Was it all worth it? Were they accomplishing something, anything? Without a doubt, many became disillusioned or drifted off, muttering and complaining to any and all who would listen. I was always kind, cheerfui, and just damn wonderful throughout the entire course of the strike. Because of the first group I felt safe but at the same time I always understood; because of the second, I received sensations of guilt that were deeply calming. Because of the second group of people, small as it was, I learned that quiet determination, courage, and action maintained in an everlasting sense of spirit, were so much more effective in igniting movements of any worth than all the brush, rash, and dashed vocalisations of many so-called revolutionaries.

So now, a year later, although it's difficult to fully bring back all that occurred, some of the action, sensation, and emotion is still with me. Even the disillusioned or bitter must admit, I think, that for at least a short time the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's community was concerned and involved. So one can deny, of course, that the strike died but it would also be hard to disclaim the sincerity of all who participated in the strike. As for myself, the strike of the strike is a strange one, when I stop to think about it. Mentally and physically exhausted, I was sitting on the south and behind a group of people who were standing around a makeshift altar. While I felt I could not participate in the Mass I sat there and watched and listened. As my thoughts began unconsciously pulling up grass and putting in a little pile I became aware of a strange, clicking sound and saw that a guy was pushing me; somewhat embarrassed, I asked him why. He shrugged, smiled, and asked me, "There's a sense of being alive, isn't there?"

I remember painfully well sitting in a friend's room a year ago watching the evening news. Watching films of Kent State. Watching the people get shot. There were probably eight or nine people in the room then. The dad of one of the dead people was shown reading some kind of statements more or less saying why. Television is a strange medium still for me, not having studied McLuhan or anything like that. You can remain so scientifically detached while watching the world end in living color. It's always hard, I guess, to get yourself into another's shoes since that requires imagination. But if you're ever going to get anywhere, I think that you have to somehow get out of yourself. Which is a definite problem in an ego-manic age.

So when the television news was over I think we all were crying, or close to it. I was pretty sick. I still get light in the stomach thinking about. It. Heavy times. And I felt the same way the next day when talking to friends over the phone in Washington. My best friend had been arrested and would spend the night in a football field, where it was freezing, no sanitation facilities and so on.

But what's that been there for? And those crazy kids should have known better than to charge those troops. They were asking for it and they got it and that's life. And death. You can't dwell on that kind of thing either. Because there doesn't seem to be much that you can really do about it. Somebody said something about throwing pebbles at an elephant's back. Or on an elephant's back. Sign petitions. Fill hell freezes over, mimeograph things till kingdom come, march till the sun rises in the west. And all you get is frustration, if you're lucky. A lot of pent up anger at being so impotent in this government of by and for the people. Which leads you to do some illogical, irrational thing that leads to a backlash and a police state and everybody saying how they knew you didn't mean it when you said peace and love.

So harder been presented with all this, people being murdered, physically and spiritually, what is one's reaction? Seeing the world one lives in such as it is, how does one pattern one's life to bring more to record with observed phenomena. Experimental wisdom? I just can't pretend to have any answers. Hardly knowing the questions. You have to retain your sense of humor about these things, you know. Take everything most seriously, and at the same time you were receiving fire; the zone was hot.

Ruggers 4th in Va. tourney

by Greg Einboden
Observer Sports Writer

Notre Dame's rugby team traveled to Charlottesville, Virginia, this past weekend and participated in the Virginia Tournament, where they managed a fourth-place finish in the eight team field. The Irish were knocked out by a rash of injuries and some untimely penalties as they dropped two of the three games Saturday.

On Saturday morning, the ruggers took on Georgetown University and escaped with an overtime 22-21 verdict. The win proved costly, however, as the Irish lost Jim Hagenhirt, who scored twice in the early going, before breaking his shoulder late in the game and sat out the remainder of the tournament. Bill Berry was also hurt, sustaining a broken nose, but stayed in the game.

On Saturday afternoon, the ruggers played against the University of Virginia, of the eventual tourney runners-up, and lost. Club vice president Charlie Brum was disappointed with the team effort, noting that it was far by the team's worst performance of the season.

On Sunday, the Irish took an early 5-3 lead but couldn't hold it as Army whipped them 8-3. Chuck Petrosky was the individual star of the contest, taking ND's only try of the game. Phil Claudia followed Petrosky's score with a beautiful conversion kick that gave the Ruggers their first short-lived lead. But the Cadets rode back on three penalty kicks to deny the Irish a third place finish. The Irish, playing without the services of a number of their veterans, were hurt by several costly penalties.

Blum praised the work of Hagenhirt, Petrosky, Joe Dugan, and Leisure. The injury situation did allow some of the underclassmen to pick up some needed experience.

The ruggers will travel to Chicago this Saturday for the season finale against the Chicago Lions.

Soccer team romps past John Carroll

Led by Jalaf Moghadam and Amir Biarry, who scored two goals apiece and the stout goalkeeping of Ernie Stransch, the Notre Dame soccer club thumped John Carroll, 7-0, last Saturday in Cleveland.

Notre Dame continued to dominate the action in the final stanza. Biarry, who had picked up an assist in the first half, scored his two goals and added another assist in the second half. Stransch and Chandler also put the ball into the John Carroll net to give Notre Dame their 7-0 triumph.

The game was highlighted by the excellent passing and shooting of the Irish and by the tight defense shown by fullbacks Bruce Graves, Dick Seryak, and Mike Farrelly.

The Irish booters will be in action again this Saturday, facing the U. of Cincinnati in a game which will be broadcast on local Cincinnati TV and radio.

Irish Win Three, End Loss Skid

by Jim Donaldson
Observer Sports Writer

The Fighting Irish baseball team, led by the hot hand of freshman first baseman Bob Schmidt, smashed an eight-game losing streak with an 8-3 victory over the Northwestern Wildcats Wednesday at 3:30 at Soldier Field.

The win boosted Notre Dame's season record to 16-12, and gave the Irish a route-going pitching performance by sophomore right-hander Rich Mullin, who gave up two hits to the Wildcats while striking out three and walking two.

The victory was his third of the season without a loss. His other two wins came in recent weekend Bill games.

Notre Dame took a 2-0 lead in the first inning of play on a Scott Jerry sacrifice fly, a walk to Tom Lyle, a sacrifice to second baseman John Dekas, and a two-run double by Schmidt.

Northwestern tied the score in the top of the second inning, however, with a triple by Bob Dekas and an inside-the-park home run by Brooks. Although the Irish didn't have too much success of the rally, Brooks' hit was scored as a home run.

The Irish wasted no time in regaining their advantage, backing up for a pair of runs in the top of the fourth inning as Jim Panici and Brabcsek copped RBI singles.

Northwestern closed the gap to 4-2 with a run in the seventh inning. Two hits and Charlie Redmond's bases-loaded double accounted for the Wildcat tally.

Schoon put the Irish up by two again, 5-2, by driving in a run in the eighth and the Wildcats again closed to within one run in their half of the eighth on Mitch Nelson's double and two fly balls.

The Irish, who hit safely in every inning but the second, wrapped up their win with a pair of sixth inning runs. Hits by LaRocca and Horan, and an error on Pete Rieger's fly ball loaded the bases with none on show. Phil Kirl was hit by a pitched ball to force in a run and Schmidt's sacrifice fly brought home Horan with the second.

Dekas, the second of five Wildcat players charged with the defeat on Northwestern's record slipped to 14-14.

The Irish had to come up with three runs in the sixth inning to win the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader but jumped out to 4-0 lead in the ninth and never headed thereafter.

Singles by Bob Reschach, Pitcher Dan Phillips and Schmidt put Notre Dame on top, 16, in the first inning of the opener but Hillsdale tied the score in the first two innings. After a walk, a sacrifice and an RBI single by Dave Schuracki.

Reschach started Notre Dame's game-winning sixth inning with a single and a base on balls. Eich also drove a walk and Schmidt singled in Eich with what proved to be the winning run. After a walk to Joe LaRocca, Charlie Horan's sacrifice fly and Joe Schmidt with a ground out in the fourth inning. Schmidt again opened a single and Joe LaRocca promptly brought home Horan with a sacrifice fly and a ground out.

12,000 war protesters arrested

Eleven A.M. was a high point of tension. The thousands that refused to be processed, fearing criminal records, sat on the basketball floor and hymned the Buddhist "Om" as riot police and military police filed down to the floor, club in hand. Lawyers interrupted by attempting to explain the legal situation for those that agreed to be processed and the consequences of refusing to be fingerprinted.

A half-dozen Notre Dame students were among those in the Coliseum. Several slipped past police lines to freedom, convincing M.P.'s and police with different stories, and thereby avoid disclosing the potentially incriminating arrest information. Other Notre Dame students went through police processing, paid the ten dollar fine, and received July trial dates.

The police action was clearly intended to round up all persons with long hair in order to prevent Tuesday morning's planned demonstrations on the streets. The District of Columbia Omnibus Crime Bill allows for such preventive detention, though legal arrest procedures must be followed according to the law. The mood of the 4,400 demonstrators was overly bitter and angry. Police announcements were greeted by prolonged anti-war chants that reached mass-frenzy at several times. A flat was burned at one point. Many spoke of the impossibility of non-violent change, and some pointed to the police actions as cause for violent actions in the future. Military police—many of whom I spoke to—were sympathetic to the anti-war movement but extremely tired of standing guard at the Coliseum.

In retrospect, the five days in Washington seem Kafka-esque. The city clearly was not shut down, and many at the Capitol agreed that massive non-violent action could never achieve such a goal. Whether the mass arrests in Washington by militant and angry youths will re-energize more legal means of war protest around the nation remains an open question as thousands of youths struggle home or remain in the Washington jails.
