A former S.M.C. professor has notified the college administration that he is quitting because the school because he was allegedly denied a teaching position because of his race and creed.

Professor Ignal G. Geoffrey recently filed his complaint and listed his charges with the South Bend Human Relations Board. He claims that he was also refused as a candidate for the SMC presidency for the same reasons. The Observer received two carbon copies of the formal complaints in which the professor claims he can produce "circuitous and documentary evidence.

Prof. Geoffrey plans to sue SMC because he feels wronged. He will come of it, and he expressed confidence that he would win.

"They don't have a leg to stand on," he said. "Personal glory means nothing to me, for I would rather be remembered as a man who stood fast for what he believed in.

When asked about the charges made against SMC, Acting President Sr. Alma Pete and Frances Downe, SMC attorney, both declined to comment. Academic Dean Sr. Jeanine Finnke claimed she knew nothing about the matter.

A跃in the wake of the South Bend Human Relations Board decision, there has been action taken by the college to begin the harassment and denial of students.

Rally march mark protest

The Notre Dame student body has staged a sit-in at the Bartles Student Center in protest of the University's alleged discrimination. The demonstration, which began at 8 a.m. today, is expected to continue throughout the week.

"We are here because the war in Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia is a war dead. "The enemy is not in the city and into the Sheridan Building.

Leaders of the march had telephoned the office before they began, and they found the doors locked. Police officers inside refused to allow the marchers to enter as a group and talk with the office personnel. There were no selective service officers stationed in the building, only secretaries.

The protesters sat down while they were allowed to enter the office one at a time. The students who were admitted were photographed by a police officer.

Each student was allowed to talk to one secretary who refused to discuss the matter with the individual's supervisor. As a result, many of the protesters asked technical questions about the draft rather than discussed the morality of the war.

"The governor has been very vocal in his opposition to that. Now he's using the law in the same way," said Petris. "It's exactly the same thing, except he applies this to people at the top of the income level and welfare recipients to those at the bottom."

The millionaire governor's tax structure "badly needs an overhaul" because low wage earners are the hardest hit. State Sen. Nicholas C. Petriss, D-Oakland, compared Reagan with welfare recipients who take advantage of legal loopholes to obtain higher relief checks.

The letter follows:

The members of the Zahm Hall community would like to extend their congratulations to you on your election to the SLC last weekend. The change to coeducational involves many growing pains for our two institutions, especially from the administrative viewpoint. Your election to the SLC on Friday is the beginning of a new life for two schools in as short a time as possible. We are confident in your ability to meet the pressure of all students while serving on the board. However, the controversy stirred by your candidacy may have prevented you from running in the campaign as much as you desired. Zahm Hall would like at this time to extend an invitation to you to come and live in our community for a few days. The purpose would be to spend some time discussing the problems involved in the living experience of Notre Dame. Hopefully, the exchange of ideas would benefit all of us as we seek the solutions of the problems confronting both Saint Mary's and Notre Dame. Please give serious consideration to our offer, and again, our best wishes for a successful year on the SLC.

NEW YORK (UPI) — One rally was moved to save newly seeded grass, another ended prematurely with a bandshell takeover and a suburban savings banks "bank run." Nevertheless, the building an hour after the tear gas was finally used at the Capitol, hundreds of New York legislators to address the antiwar crowd. The police and the protesters sang "Happy Birthday." A few moments later, she was calling the arrests "an outrage." Speaker Albert emerged from the building an hour after the student began and shook hands with some of the demonstrators on the sidewalk. He told newsmen he had authorized the arrests and raised clenched fists while senators below them debated police tactics in handling street confrontations.

The Student Union Social Commission has announced plans for a Festival of Life at SMC to be held tomorrow and Saturday on the West Campus (SMC). The activities will begin at 4:30 Friday, outside Madeleva Hall with "music till dark." After dark, four hours of movies will be shown.

At noon Saturday, there will be music by several different groups. An art and photo gallery is to be set up near LeMansi Hall and a water balloon fight planned for the Saint Mary's tennis courts.

The purpose of the festival is to provide students will free, outdoor social events so that they can enjoy themselves while discussing dating situations.

The department has asked that there be no drinking during any of the events. The Social Commission urged that the students comply with this request or be dropped from SMC's activities.

Any student musician interested in participating in the concerts should contact the Saint Mary's Social Commission to make arrangements. In the event of bad weather the "Festival of Life" will be held indoors.

Sen. stopped; punches cop

WASHINGTON UPI—Sen. Lee Metcalf, D. Mont., a robust 60 years old, punched a policeman in the chest Wednesday when he stopped him from crossing a police line during antiawar demonstrations at the Capitol.

Two state police officers grabbed Metcalf after he threw his straight right to the chest of officer M. J. Van Fossen, but the chief of the Capitol police urged hall rectors and presidents added that the Office of Student Residences, along with his office, urges hall rectors and presidents to comply with the following guidelines:

A five-point plan to "bolster the security" in the halls through a new room key distribution policy was revealed yesterday by Oshodman Paul Dziedzic. He added that the Office of Student Residences, along with his office, urges hall rectors and presidents to comply with the following guidelines:

Only one mailbox and one key should be made for each student resident of a dormitory. A five dollar deposit should be required when a student picks up his key in the halls.

A record of the deposit will be kept and the five collars will be refunded at the year's end. Should a key be lost, the deposit will pay for a new lock on a door.

If these guidelines are instituted, Dziedzic said, "small security should be improved for next semester" because the University will replace all hall mailboxes this summer. He requested any student or hall with a system that is "more practical and efficient" to notify the Office of Student Residences early in the next semester.

Vandalism and theft, including the theft of a blue 1962 Chevrolet sedan from a student parking lot Saturday night, marred the An Testament weekend. Security Director Arthur Pearls said Tuesday that police line during antiawar stopped him from crossing a line of policemen.

Weekend thefts told

In addition to the four-door sedan, a Honda 160 Scrambler, owned by William Seins of 257 Dillon, was stolen Saturday. A University-owned vehicle sustained minor damage when it was struck by a car driven by a visitor from Davenport, Iowa.

Autos also were involved in two thefts which occurred over the weekend. On Friday, thieves forcibly entered a car parked in the C-1 lot, and took a small plastic utility back containing sun glasses and warranty papers for the car. Four wheel covers valued at $128 were removed from a 1969 Camaro parked in the 0-1 lot.

Three bicycles also were reported stolen over the weekend, along with an American flag from one of the security guard houses and a light brown, wooden desk from room 184 of the Commerce Building.

Glee Club concert to support tour

The Notre Dame Glee Club, in the final stages of its fund-raising drive, will present a European Tour Benefit Concert Sunday, May 9, at 8 p.m. in Washington Hall. Student tickets are priced at $1, adults $2.

The benefit concert will culminate a ten-year effort to make a tour of Europe. The tour will last three weeks with stops scheduled in Amsterdam, Brussels, Munich, Vienna, Im steck. Venice, Rome, Milan, Zurich, and Paris.

Several formal and informal concerts have been scheduled in many of the cities. In addition, the club will appear on Italian national television, tape a half-hour show on Belgium national T.V., and is scheduled to sing in the world-famous Vienna Music Festival.

The European tour will climax a year of extensive travel for the Glee Club. They have performed in various cities from Boston to Las Angeles.

The club returned last month from the largest tour in its history, a western swing through Denver, Salt Lake City, Reno, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, Phoenix, and Tucson.

Further information concerning tickets for the benefit can be obtained by phoning Jim Roberts at 283-1944. Tickets will also be available at the door Sunday evening.

Give us back the Rock

Some day, when all the leaves have fallen from the Indiana trees and they stand shivering naked against the harsh Indiana winds, some Notre Dame Freshman, battered by the combined forces of man and nature, baffled by the Freshman Year's ever-constant demand for academic excellence, cut to the quick in his quest for a meaningful relationship with one of the coy maidens at St. Mary's, or set back by any of the preceding Southeast Asia? That destruction of the world would be his fate.
I wondered why men were so full of hate,

I wondered why men could not live in peace.
And learn how their happiness this would increase.

To discourage the wetback flow, Samora suggests an identification card should be carried by all Mexican nationals. Employers hiring anyone unable to produce such a card would be breaking the law. This would remove the incentive for employers to hire illegals, at the same time removing the major incentive—jobs—which causes Mexicans to take the dangerous journey across the border. Samora also stressed that smugglers who traffic in human beings should be prosecuted severely.

rock photos taken from LaFortune

Archie Pears, director of the Native American Council, has confirmed the report that several pictures had been found from LaFortune Student Center.

The eight photographs, of tepee owners at Fort Rock, were removed recently. Pears said that the main value of the pictures was their entertainment value they gave to those that visit the Student Center, and secondly they could be used as tokens to do what they have for any individual, or if the students go to college, hopes that the person responsible will return the photos to LaFortune.

In his first year as a college basketball coach, Dick "Digger" Phelps has the Fighting Irish tennis team that had a 10-15 record and didn't have a winner in its history. Phelps was able to win 16 of 26 games with the Fighting Irish, thanks to a season that earned him a 14-0 record. He then took on the reins of a Fighting Irish basketball team that has just been听说过他。

Phelps continued. "Notre Dame is the place to be." He has always wanted to believe it. "I've always wanted to be at Notre Dame." He explained. "I've been recruited by other places, but I've always wanted to be recruited by Notre Dame." He continued. "I've always wanted to be recruited by Notre Dame." He said.

Phelps was also quick to point out, however, that he wouldn't attempt to recruit any high school prospects who had committed themselves either verbally or in writing to Fordham, or who would encourage any of his Fighting Irish players to transfer to Notre Dame.

Phelps was also anxious to contact his new "kids." He explained. "It's important that the kids believe in themselves." He continued. "Knowing that most of next year's Fighting Irish will be inexperienced, Phelps expressed the hope that he could get the most out of the material that hand."

"If I can build confidence among the kids, there's no limit to what we can accomplish," Phelps said.

Offensively, Phelps figures to use a style that suits the ability of his players but on defense, he let it be known that he was strictly a man-to-man coach.

When the difficulty of the 1971-72 schedule was pointed out to him, Phelps said, "We'll try to go back to a type of game last year. We will play the best they can.

While discussing his coaching philosophy, Phelps commented that he had a "hold the line" concept to his "college basketball is a spectator sport concept." He felt that if other teams play a slow-down type of game, Notre Dame would go after them early. We can't afford to sit back in our hands and let it happen to us."

The Fighting Irish will begin the season with a home game against Northwestern on Monday and Purdue on Tuesday. The Fighting Irish will be the eighth team that Phelps is recruiting for next year's Fighting Irish team. Phelps said. "We will be recruiting for the future." He continued. "We will be recruiting for the future." He said.

The Fighting Irish tennis team will begin the season with a doubleheader on Sunday when they tackle Eastern Michigan and Michigan State.

Phelps let it be known that he signed a 4-year contract with Notre Dame. "We are going to turn it around," he said. "I am going to make this program a winner." He continued. "I am going to make this program a winner." He said.

Welfare cuts spark riots

NEW YORK UPI—Thousands of blacks angered by welfare cuts raged through the East New York section of Brooklyn yesterday, setting fire to houses, breaking windows, and looting.

Police reported "quite a log of arrests" on looting and other charges.

The protest gained momentum after a rally attended by 500 demonstrators heard speeches denouncing welfare cutbacks made necessary by a reduction of state aid to the city and wholesale layoffs of city workers. It was sponsored by an organization calling itself The Black Coalition.

The rally spilled into a surrounding 16 block area and the crowd increased in numbers. The protesters blocked traffic, set garbage fires, hurled rocks and refuse through shop windows and matched up merchandise. One police spokesman said the looting was "WIDESPREAD," especially on Rockaway Boulevard and Amboy Street, which subsequently was roped off by 16 police.

Six houses at Christopher and Sutter Streets—four of them vacant—burst into flame and a few minutes later two other buildings apparently were set afire at Pitkin and Powell Avenues. Equipment from a number of fire stations was rushed into the area and more than 300 firefighters were at the scene.

Roving bands harassed the firemen and threw bottles at them. The firefighters requested police protection and scores of officers were moved into the area of the four alarm and three alarm blazes.

Off-campus tenant info service organized

An information service for off-campus students composed of third year law students under the supervision of a practicing attorney will begin operation next term, according to Off-Campus Commissioner John Drost.

The Student Tenant Information Service will be housed in the Off-Campus Office in the basement of the LaFortune Student Center. It will operate "in accord with the rules of the Indiana Supreme Court" and advise students in tenant and landlord relations, Drost said yesterday.

The service, which was organized by the Off-Campus Commission and the ND Legal Aid and Defender Association, arose out of the need to arbitrate problems between tenant and their landlords.

Drost said that students planning to sign a lease before leaving for the summer should consult the Off-Campus Office for pertinent information. The service, which will operate full time next year, is now on a temporary schedule. Problems should be taken to Dave Tushar, Student government judicial coordinator, for the present, Drost added.

DePaul Society collection Tuesday

Tuesday, May 11, has been proclaimed "St. Vincent DePaul Society Day" by Student Government and the Hall Presidents Council.

On that day, section leaders will go from room to room collecting used clothing, shoes, and athletic equipment. Books, furniture, rugs, refrigerators, book cases, lamps, old TV's and radios can be left inside the loading dock door of each hall for pickup by the society early Wednesday morning.

Collected articles will be sold in the St. Vincent DePaul Store downtown. All money eventually goes to some charitable use. Jackson is coordinating the drive at SMC, with Dave Lah in charge of the Notre Dame project.
