Sanctions Return to Committee

Open hearing slated

by John Abowd

Before a crowd of more than 600 students Monday the Student Life Council returned the proposed sanctions for violation of the university rules to the steering committee.

The SLC charged the steering committee and Prof. William Eagan, chairman, with appointing the committee and scheduling an open hearing on the proposed sanctions.

The students, who filled the Engineering Auditorium and overflowed into the halls were calm. They erupted in applause only once, when Fr. James Riehle, dean of students, introduced the motion to hold an open hearing in the near future.

After the SLC revised its agenda moving discussion of the controversal sanctions to the first position, SBP John Barkett asked the council to return the proposal to committee.

"I disagree with the basic premise of the report that sanctions are the answer. I can understand the Trustees reaction to last year's report on the Appeals Boards. I don't think sanctions are the best way to react to this report," Barkett said.

"I don't think we could offer the whole report back to committee to look at the situation before they start out on the basic premise that sanctions are the answer," he added.

Barkett offered three actions to the committee:

-to consider the report of the ad hoc committee on disciplinary matters as "only a model" not a specific report.
-to be a part of the Trustees last year.
-to consider the "whole question of parietal hours" in committee.

William Eagan, chairman, With appointing the com­

Students disappointed by SLC

Students attending Monday's Student Life Council meeting had widely differing opinions of that body's decision to send the ad hoc disciplinary committee report back to the steering committee for eventual revision.

The opinions ranged from disappointment with the lack of discussion, to a charge that SBP John Barkett is playing along with the Board of Trustees, to a classification of the whole meeting as bull excrement.

LeMans resident Jackie Stone expected more discussion of the report and was disappointed when it was voted to send the report to the Steering Committee.

She felt that Fr. James L. Riher, dean of students, made a "token" gesture to the students with his motion for a public hearing before the appropriate committee.

"I don't think student opinion will make that much difference," Miss Stone said, although she expects to attend the session.

SENEATE TO MEET

There will be a brief meeting of the Senate on Tuesday, Sept. 30, at 7:00 pm in the amphitheater of La Fortune Center.

Because of the urgency of this meeting, the importance of attendance has been emphasized. It will be an organizational meeting during which SBP John Barkett will give the college address, copies of the senate's organization and house rules will be distributed, and a schedule for discussion of the budget will be set up.

 encode the text into a single string
Record crowd swarms SLC meeting

by Don Ruane

The Student Life Council drew a record crowd Monday to its opening performance of the 1971-1972 Academic year. Scheduled to meet in the Center for Continuing Education, SLC members were forced to move the meeting to the Engineering Auditorium because of an overflow crowd.

At the CCE meeting room, students were sitting on the floor around the table, standing in the three doorways, sitting and standing in the lobby and on stairs leading to the second floor. A loud cheer arose when student representative Buzz Imhoff announced the room switch and a small stampede ensued across the Post Office lawn to the Engineering Building. The first inside stood on their seats as they called to friends for whom they saved seats. Others simply sat in the aisle or at tables, which soon were con- scripted for the use of the SLC members.

As the auditorium, where more biology, economics and Emil T. students have fallen asleep, rapidly became hot and humid, Imhoff led a search for more tables and chairs. SLC members eventually took their places, opposite one another, and Chairman William T. Egger greeted the more than 500 students and explained the groundrules. Speaking for the SLC, Prof. Egger said they did not "expect to be so popular this afternoon." The audience replied, "You're hot."

The Student Life Council, which has represented the student body, has now, according to Executive Secretary Anthony Scarpone, become the student council. The campus newspaper recently ran an article about their activities in order to acquaint the students with what the SLC is doing. Up until now, the SLC has been confined to the dorms and the Engineering Building.

The SLC has been reorganized this year, and it is composed of representatives from each living area. This year's SLC is composed of 12 members, five of whom are from the University College, five from the Business College and two from the Science College. Eric Crofoot and John Stoermer are the only returning members.

The SLC met in the Center for Continuing Education, an auditorium located on the second floor of the building, and was attended by over 500 students. The meeting was called to order by President John Barkett, who announced that the meeting would be held in the Engineering Auditorium due to a lack of space in the original meeting room.

The meeting began with the introduction of new members and the discussion of the SLC's role on campus. President Barkett emphasized the importance of student input in the decision-making process, and encouraged students to become involved in the SLC's activities.

During the meeting, the SLC discussed various topics, including the need for additional study space, the importance of student representation in the administration, and the need for better communication between the SLC and the student body.

The meeting concluded with the announcement of the SLC's plans for the upcoming year, including a series of events and activities designed to engage the student body. The SLC expressed its commitment to representing the interests of all students and working towards a more inclusive and student-centered campus.

The SLC meeting was an opportunity for students to engage in meaningful discussions and to have their voices heard. The SLC's commitment to student representation and involvement is an important aspect of its role on campus, and its efforts to provide a platform for student input and participation are commendable.

Academic Council still taking applications

The deadline for applications to the Academic Council has been extended until Thursday, Fred Giuffrida, academic affairs commissioner, announced yesterday. Giuffrida cited the small response, which he termed "disappointing", as the reason for the extension. Only one student from the Business College and one from the Engineering School have applied so far, and the council has only been able to make a decision on three candidates. There are 25 positions available on the council, and anyone interested in running for a position should contact Fred Giuffrida in his office.

The council is responsible for making decisions regarding the extension of the pass/fail policy, which is currently only available to students in the College of Arts and Sciences. The council will make a decision regarding the policy within the next month, and the decision will be presented to the Academic Council for approval.

SMC frosh fight hours

Continued from page 1

The Student Policy Commission, the proposal will be presented to the Saint Mary's Board of Trustees for final approval on October 22nd. Miss Ryan and Miss Jakszuk expressed a need for student interest and support behind the proposal, and asked all freshmen to contact them at 217 Augusta Hall to ask questions or voice complaints.

ND to host largest blues festival in nation

by John Abowd

Notre Dame will host the largest blues festival in the nation on November 12, 13, 14. The event, sponsored by the Student Union Cultural Commission, features Muddy Waters, Otis Rush, Howlin' Wolf and Buddy Guy & Junior Wells. 2,000 advance 3 day tickets are being marketed on campus and in Chicago, Bloomington, Madison, Ann Arbor and Milwaukee. 1,900 tickets will be available at the door each night.

"We spent $15,000 bringing these people to Notre Dame and we are only trying to break even," Cultural Commissioner Bob Brinkman said in announcing the ticket prices of $6.00 for a three day ticket and $2.50 for one night. Since the collapse of the Ann Arbor Blues Festival, our prospects are probably the largest of its kind in the nation," Brinkman added.

Festival Chairman Perry Aberli announced the complete list of performers. The festival will be held in conjunction with a Black Art Week sponsored by the Black Studies Program and the Cultural Commission.

Perry Aberli

Saturday, Nov. 13

Shirley Griffith, Otis Rush, Little Brother Montgomery with Sippie Wallace, Buddy Guy & Junior Wells (acoustic)

Johnny Littlejohn with Jimmy Rogers (electric)

Sunday, Nov. 14

Maceo Lipscomb

Buddy Guy & Junior Wells (acoustic)

Buddy Guy & Junior Wells (electric)
New York (undated) - The unexpected introduction of the South Vietnamese Presidency Oct. 3 has its counterpart increate fact of a "two-front war" for Americans there: from the Delta to the U.S. ground and air attack, and being shot at in an unfinished border wall.

The biggest public relations triumph of the administration thus far is the impression that, like Pan Am's, it will go on making the great. He has told Congress and the country about "our success in winning down the war" but, skeptical senators and Vietnam-watchers say, he has only succeeded in positioning down persistent opposition.

News Analysis

This year the casualties and body counts have dropped sharply but the gloom is slow, costly still perilous and pegged to politics. Senator Manfield's original amendment to the draft extension law calling for the nine-month troop withdrawal deadline was weakened into what is now open-ended. The only "date certain" that appears to be considered to be the '72 election here.

"It was not Mao but Condonin who said that the best leave is simply by going through the door. But the revived fury of recent B-52's over Cambodia indicates that our exit is through the bomb bays."

Nor has the theater of combat been narrowed in this twilight time of disengagement. Five countries, all of which are directly involved. Thailand remains the base of operations for B-52 missions. Laos and Cambodia are regularly interdicted to sever the enemy's supply system. North Vietnam above is demilitarized zone is photographed by reconnaissance planes and struck by fighter-bombers on "protective reaction" missions. South Vietnam is one big free-fire zone when required to bail out Saigon's soldiers.

In the semantic aerobatics of the Vietnam War, "protective reaction" strikes against antiaircraft emplacements and missile and fuel sites have been stressed. But far more dangerous in the future are the actions behind two less familiar phrases: "Pre-emptive attack" against troop infiltration on the trails and "anxiety effect" bombing, meaning, in support of South Vietnamese forces. When Arvn troops retreated from a Cambodian town a few months ago, under heavy U.S. air cover, Gen. Creighton Abrams remarked, "It seems we've got to learn they can't do it all with air. If they don't, it's all been in vain."

The air war is very costly in human and financial terms. A year ago about 5,000 American planes (1,000 fixed-wing and 4,000 helicopters) were operating over Indochina. There are still 3,500 American planes (500 fixed-wing, 3,000 helicopters) in action today. One and at times two aircraft carriers are in coastal water. Plane losses by hostile fire and accidents have been heavy: more than 1,300 fixed-wing and more than 4,500 helicopters in the war up to now.

In this withdrawal phase of Vietnamization, American Troops are supposed to be in a defensive posture. On-the-ground combat responsibilities now belong to the ARVN. It is their thrust to search-destroy and carry the fight. But an Air Force Colonel explains, "in contrast with this concept we support ARVN ground operations with air and artillery. Both B-52's and tactical aircraft may be involved." These operations the American Air Force's rule is restricted to "air logistical support and close air support."

Translated into what has taken place recently, the clear implication of these terms seems to be that American "advisers" and fliers are very much part of offensive actions. they have been engaged in a two-front war in September: carrying South Vietnamese infantrymen into battle deep in the Mekong Delta, 145 miles southwest of Saigon and backing them up with helicopter gunships; bombing in the southern panhandle of Laos in direct support of Royal Lao forces and C.I.A.-trained Guerrilla battalions. These actions hardly can be matched with the periodic announcements from Washington about "winding down the war" through Viet- namization.

Farceal Viet war continues

It is difficult to predict what American casualties will be in the next 12 months of nonwar if no settlement is achieved in the Paris talks (and the administration shows no eagerness to advance the prospect of a settlement there). The present rate of fewer than 100 killed a month is an encouraging drop but it could go up or down, depending not on American-originating actions but on the support given to the movements of client states. The United States has become their hostage military.

The probability at this point is that the Air Force activity will be kept at a steady level. Two years ago there were 50 series (one aircraft on one mission) a month, currently the monthly rate is 1,000. It has gone up this month. The cost of one B-52 sortie in southeast Asia today - for fuel and bombs alone - is between $3,000 and $5,000. Multiplied, this comes to more than $35 million a month.

Many moribund National Program for education, housing, employment, parklands could be replaced by the hundreds of millions of dollars now falling out of the bomb bays on Southeast Asia. Perhaps a more meaningful local measure, even though Federal funds are not directly involved, to compare just the financial costs of the B-52 bombings with what it would take to reopen the main branch of the New York Public Library evenings ($350,000), Saturdays ($550,000) and Sundays ($300,000) for a full year.

A few nonflying days, not to mention peace, would do it.

---

Notes from all over

O-C Center

Cultural events

by Andy Winjarczyk

In the upcoming October 4 meeting of the Student Affairs Commission and the Board of Trustees a full favoring the establishment of an off-campus center will be introduced by John Drost, Commissioner for Off-Campus Affairs. He believes that by that date his effort of working in conjunction with the Research and Development Commission that is chairman by Ed Ellis, will have come up with several possible sites.

As envisioned Drost it would be used as a large to eight to ten room house including lounges, TV-rooms, a snack bar, a food store, a student grocery store and a conference room would be added. The complexes would serve as the counterpart to Little Mary's College. The majority of the program s will be staged in O'Lahilin Auditorium and Little Mary's College. The majority of the events in Memorial Library auditorium, Heart Church at the University of Notre Dame, Lindy Hall, Financial Hall and the University Chapel.

The biggest public relations triumph of the administration thus far is the impression that, like Pan Am's, it will go on making the great. He has told Congress and the country about "our success in winning down the war" but, skeptical senators and Vietnam-watchers say, he has only succeeded in positioning down persistent opposition.

News Analysis

This year the casualties and body counts have dropped sharply but the gloom is slow, costly still perilous and pegged to politics. Senator Manfield's original amendment to the draft extension law calling for the nine-month troop withdrawal deadline was weakened into what is now open-ended. The only "date certain" that appears to be considered to be the '72 election here.

"It was not Mao but Condonin who said that the best leave is simply by going through the door. But the revived fury of recent B-52's over Cambodia indicates that our exit is through the bomb bays."

Nor has the theater of combat been narrowed in this twilight time of disengagement. Five countries, all of which are directly involved. Thailand remains the base of operations for B-52 missions. Laos and Cambodia are regularly interdicted to sever the enemy's supply system. North Vietnam above is demilitarized zone is photographed by reconnaissance planes and struck by fighter-bombers on "protective reaction" missions. South Vietnam is one big free-fire zone when required to bail out Saigon's soldiers.

In the semantic aerobatics of the Vietnam War, "protective reaction" strikes against antiaircraft emplacements and missile and fuel sites have been stressed. But far more dangerous in the future are the actions behind two less familiar phrases: "Pre-emptive attack" against troop infiltration on the trails and "anxiety effect" bombing, meaning, in support of South Vietnamese forces. When Arvn troops retreated from a Cambodian town a few months ago, under heavy U.S. air cover, Gen. Creighton Abrams remarked, "It seems we've got to learn they can't do it all with air. If they don't, it's all been in vain."

The air war is very costly in human and financial terms. A year ago about 5,000 American planes (1,000 fixed-wing and 4,000 helicopters) were operating over Indochina. There are still 3,500 American planes (500 fixed-wing, 3,000 helicopters) in action today. One and at times two aircraft carriers are in coastal water. Plane losses by hostile fire and accidents have been heavy: more than 1,300 fixed-wing and more than 4,500 helicopters in the war up to now.

In this withdrawal phase of Vietnamization, American Troops are supposed to be in a defensive posture. On-the-ground combat responsibilities now belong to the ARVN. It is their thrust to search-destroy and carry the fight. But an Air Force Colonel explains, "in contrast with this concept we support ARVN ground operations with air and artillery. Both B-52's and tactical aircraft may be involved." These operations the American Air Force's rule is restricted to "air logistical support and close air support."

Translated into what has taken place recently, the clear implication of these terms seems to be that American "advisers" and fliers are very much part of offensive actions. they have been engaged in a two-front war in September: carrying South Vietnamese infantrymen into battle deep in the Mekong Delta, 145 miles southwest of Saigon and backing them up with helicopter gunships; bombing in the southern panhandle of Laos in direct support of Royal Lao forces and C.I.A.-trained Guerrilla battalions. These activities hardly can be matched with the periodic announcements from Washington about "winding down the war" through Vietnamization.

We give students a break, with special reduced rates in Hilton Hotels from Boston to Honolulu. (Faculty and graduate school students get a discount too.) Let us send you a pamphlet listing the Hilton Hotels and Inns that offer special student rates. Also a Hilton Student Identification Card to use when you register.

Mail this coupon to Hilton Hotels Corporation, Travel Department, National Sales Division, 9800 Wilshire Blvd., Beverly Hills, California 90270.

We want to make it easy for you to come visit the Hiltons.

Name, Address, City, State, Zip.

College, Class of 19...

Hilton Hotels

Saturday, October 2
8:30 pm in the ACC
Tickets '3.4.5, 12.' at the Student Union
Ticket Office & Dining Halls

presented by Union Student Social Commission and ACC.
A Possible Way Out

Armageddon turned out to be more like the War of 1812 yesterday at the SLC meeting in the Engineering Auditorium. The students didn’t lose as much as they gained, maybe.

With a massive crowd of 600 students breathing down their necks, the Council followed Student Body President John Barkett’s lead and referred the hideous report on Sanctions back to the Steering Committee for re-assignment.

The outcome could have been worse. The SLC could have accepted the report without changes and done their bit in the move to make Notre Dame one of the nation’s largest seminaries, but they didn’t.

The Council also voted to hold down and instead voted to re-submit the original Hall Life report (which called for halls to delineate their own parietals) to the Trustees with a comment that if the Trustees really want sanctions they could set them up themselves and enforce them themselves, but don’t.

If the new report on Sanctions accepts the premise that there is a need for minimum punishments for violations of university rules then we are right back where we started. The question is not what type of sanctions there should be, but whether they should exist. We don’t think they should.

We don’t think that people should be called on to enforce rules they have no voice in making. We don’t think that the establishment of a “university code of morality” serves anyone save those who delight in the promulgation of a myth— the myth that Notre Dame is pure, good, clean and holy in accordance with 1960 standards. We don’t think the Trustees should be involved in what is essentially a campus matter—one which the three groups of people who live here seem able to agree on, but the one group that doesn’t can’t, and attempts to ram their dictates down everyone’s throats. We don’t think that what a person does in his room is anyone’s business, save his own.

The SLC seems reluctant to defy the Trustees and define themselves as the body with the greatest authority on Student Life for Notre Dame. They seem reluctant to tell the bankers, lawyers and corporation presidents who make up the board that their responsibility to the game is only—that the administration of DuLac panders to their fears and gives them false assurances about enforcing rules, rules that have been a dead letter on campus for nearly two years.

Yesterday’s demonstration was a good thing. It showed the SLC that the students are concerned—concerned that their rights might be battered away by a group of men who have been cowed by Stephán’s Privy Council.

The concern must be maintained, and maintained in such a way that the SLC will find impossible to ignore. If a petition is made to the Steering Committee of the SLC, containing 50 student signatures, it will be placed on the agenda for the next meeting. We urge the student body to draw up a strong petition, a petition that will force the Student Life Council to eat their words for or against their independence and integrity as a policy making body of this University, and sign it in masse.

Such a petition might read:

“We, the undersigned, believe that the rules imposed upon the student body by the Board of Trustees, any sanctions in support of those rules, and the authority which created those rules is invalid and is an affront to every member of the University Community.

“Accordingly, we urge this Student Life Committee to return no sanctions to the Board of Trustees, and to advise the Board that if members insist on imposing rules upon Notre Dame from outside, those members may draw up their own sanctions, and may enforce their own rules.”

Something like that with the aforementioned signatures can keep members of the SLC thinking yesterday’s show of support for weeks to come.

\[435\]

Much Madness is divinest Sense--

To a discerning Eye--

Much Sense--the starkest Madness--

To a discerning Eye--

Much Madness is divinest Sense--

'Tis the Majority

In this, as in all, prevail--

Assent--and you are sane--

Demur--you're straightway dangerous

And handled with a Chain--

Emily Dickinson c. 1867

\[436\]
estimated that nearly one third of those received on the march. The trip across the concentration camps of Germany during the war was like a gossip sheet out of Variety; and most of the sheep of creation, if they can mass indoctrinate other human beings, will not be able to do so. I think that there are other, less obvious, effects of this kind of slavery. One other thing that I would like to mention is that, if what Doctor Elkins presents is true, than human beings and the worst on record. And there were never any young people at St. Malachy's, in the parishes of the Diocese of Kansas, and practically no young people present any more. Only one on this campus I do have any recollection of young adults at Mass, a couple of sixteen-year-old hippies — one of them in overalls, without a shirt — and the standing order from the Boss, when you attended a play, was, "Go backstage." The priests of the rectory were on easy terms with the cast members of the Follies, Noël Coward's Long Day's Journey, Waiting for Godot, and some of the production staff of Hair. Dom DeLaine was our neighbor across the street in the Eugénie O'Neill Theatre. He and his wife, pale with pregnancy, came over, once to apologize for Dom's mentioning the Monsson's skirmpishes with prostitutes on the Carson show once to arrange for their year-old child to be baptized. The Homilies on the evening Mass on Saturdays was always timed so that D'Orsay could make her seventy-five cent walk to the Winter Garden. When Victor Griffin of the Follies offered to teach me ballroom steps so that I could dance with the bride's mother at a wedding in Schenectady, I really began to feel that I was turning-faceting into the stars of the Broadway firmament.

But St. Malachy's was a parish without children — and I rather missed them. Practically the only child I remember seeing at Mass was a young boy from the cast of Waiting for Godot. And I recall him principally because he and his mother asked me to be their guest at a performance of Godot. But no other children ever appeared, though the neighborhoods west of Eighth Avenue were full of children with mannerisms too noticeable to identify themselves with life in the neon jungle of the American theatre. And there were never any young people at St. Malachy's, in the parishes of the Diocese of Kansas, and practically no young people present any more. Only one on this campus I do have any recollection of young adults at Mass, a couple of sixteen-year-old hippies — one of them in overalls, without a shirt — and the standing order from the Boss, when you attended a play, was, "Go backstage."
Editor's Note: In discussing the illusory sanctions penned by Chambers, Harmon, and Tushar, I discovered that the phrase "moral standards of the University have been broken", the differentiating criteria between a major and a minor praiseworthy violation, was causing a great deal of consternation and confusion among the Law-Abiding multitude living in the residence halls. Since the explained purpose of the formulation of the sanctions was to further codify the laws of the land, I purpose that the praiseworthy violations be further codified to simplify the matter of definition of the moral standards. All types of violations should be covered from the most innocuous to those reserved for the licentious Book of Doom and their punishments minutely explained. Since all kinds of violations will be treasured the system of punishment will be made to have been invented; ingenuity will be rewarded. Punishments could range from the reeling of the prophylactic machine at the Family Dinner to complete banishment from the Notre Dame heritage (includes breakage of class ring on steps of Golden Dome, destruction of Senior Ban card and divorce from St. Mary's sweetheart). The codification could run as follows: A Minor Violation: Being found at the pinnaculum of ten feet from both parties. Both parties will be considered completely clothed. Penalty: Removal of female so that male can get some sleep. A Minor Major violation: Being apprehended sleeping in a chair while female is sleeping in bed with interdigital contact. Both parties will be completely clothed. Penalty: Allow boy to Father Tohey during Easteride. A Major Minor Violation: Male and female caught together in bed. Male clothed, female devoid of such necessities. Penalty: Removal of male to pay services, female kept as evidence. Major Violation: The big one. Penalty: Attendance of all Pre-Cana conferences, marriage in Sorin Hall chapel. Since such codification will minutely define each violation, a new system of punishment can be necessary. Besides the normal pass key, the You squad should also be armed with a stethoscope, to listen to the parties before apprehending them. A color Polaroid camera, to take a photograph of any breach and a pair of binoculars to keep track of goings-on in and around areas of others. It is hoped that in case of revision of the sanctions, these could be taken into consideration. Without doubt, there will be certain simplicity matters. Yours appropriately, The New Voice.

Editor: I am writing in reference to the "Delaying the Day Care Center" in the Tuesday edition. I agree with the Editor's major point that a day care center is quite feasible and a commitment to it should result in its quick establishment. However, the editorial seemed to imply that St. Mary's Administration has procrastinated in establishing the Center. As a pro administrator, I wish that we were not too clear on the procedural process involved in the approval for the Center and that that hasiness in resulted in the existing delay. Thanking you for your attention to this, I remain Sincerely Yours, John Barkett Student Body President.

Editor, Tuesday morning's breakfast was made even more delightful the appearance of the letter from the '73 alums who was annoyed because "all shapes and sizes of undernourished kids, ignoring tradition, and using the Administration Building's linemen's stairs."

Perhaps if this concerned alumnus would organize some kind of committee, further subdivision of the food might be prevented. The instillation, of let, is an 8 foot sign, would probably remedy the situation. And, if it could read "GRADUATES ONLY," that would be more helpful to students like myself who have found it necessary to ascend the steps in order to make class wagons, get temporary IDs, and look for lost billfolds. I feel that it is not as bad he did not send his letter in Larry Lajuk instead of the Ob-

Dear Sir: Last week I had the occasion to visit the North Dining Hall to borrow some equipment for a party. Although it was near dinner time, it struck me as peculiar that the size of the work force should be so small. Upon inquiring, I learned that because of lack of qualified personnel in the area, the Hall has understaffed under the beginning of the year. Both management and kitchen workers have been with no vacation for seven weeks in order to serve the dinner. Two cooks are doing the work of eight. Seven-day weeks are the rule rather than the exception. Without being maudlin, I wish to thank the staff of the North Dining Hall for their dedication and hard work in keeping the students fed despite the long hours and shortage of manpower. Gratefully, Meal Card No. 918. Editor: If Mr. Doyle served his half term in the student senate in anything more than ignorance of that body's function, his dinnegous letter of September 25 gave him good. The design which was then last year did get the long periods of time discussing which was the main topic of ridicule, it spent almost all its time on his objectives. Mr. Doyle may consider parceling out $4,000 dollars "THAL" or whatever others took their jobs seriously as explaining, probably, why they took such "broad periods of time." Gentlemen: I was indeed shocked and dismayed when I read an article in the Other Side, September 20, written by Bill Davidson. The article stated that no one on campus had been "silly drunk" or in violation of the "trivial" or "ridiculous," it spent almost all its time on his objectives. If in- deed, at least half of this campus was in a state of in- toxication, why should we hold that fact? The question of consumption of alcohol or marijuana is immorality in themselves then it must be your duty to inform the Trustees that their policies need better en- forcement. If, on the other hand, you believe as I do, that these activ- ities have always been and will be a part of university life, a public conscience which can never be totally eradicated, then you have the responsibility to proclaim your denial of the universal validity of the Trustee's power. You must say, "I will not obey your law because that's all it is. If you want to force me into obeying it, you had better know that I will not do so. If you please me silence, you will have to silence others like me." You must not only with my principles, but with an indignation for what you are doing to the right of Mr. Doyle to choose his own mo- rality. Ed Bower 119 Misserry
The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Graduate View

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin

The Chicago Bears have nothing on the Fighting Irish. John in the Monsters of the Midway...the game ball.

Mike Pavlin
"Not yielding to pressure"

The Student Life Council entered Monday's meeting with the intention of sending the ad hoc disciplinary committee report to the steering committee. The report was returned by roll call vote and will be turned over to the proper disciplinary committee for revision.

Vice President and General Counsel Phillip Facenda said, after the meeting, that the Council felt that the "Confusing" report and it "wasn't yielding to any pressure." Other members also commented on aspects of the meeting.

Psychology professor John Borkowski expressed his disapproval for the sanctions and the rules, as stated, and gave the following reasons for his feelings:

"Wording of the regulations and sanctions is extremely poor for example. 'The moral standards of the university' and the attempt to distinguish between profit and non-profit drug pushing.' He is not in agreement with the regulations and sanctions themselves.

He "buys SJP Bill John Barkett's argument about the distinct individuality of each hall." Prof. Borkowski feels that no sanctions can be effective unless obtained by a consensus of those involved.

The psychology professor said he understands the University's "position" regarding the alcohol and related issues.

He added that while these two matters should be administered on a University-wide level because of their gravity and scope, the question of parietals can and should be administered by each individual hall.

Concerning the student attendance at the meeting, Dean of Students Fr. James L. Riehle and SLC Chairman William F. Eagan said they were surprised by the crowd's size.

More than 600 students attended the meeting which was switched from the Center for Continuing Education to the Engineering Auditorium.

Fr. Riehle, "overwhelmed" by the crowd, said he hopes it indicates a positive change in student participation.

He noted that such attendance in the past was prompted only at "highpoints" such as the pornography conference in February of 1969.

Prof. Eagan, who can remember only one other time the SLC drew a similar crowd, said the turnout could be interpreted in several ways.

It could indicate student interest in control of their affairs, student interest to eliminate control of their affairs or be nonexistent in general.

Prof. Eagan could not say which alternative is correct in his opinion.

He said it would not be surprising if the attendance at the public hearing proposed by Fr. Borkowski is smaller than that at Monday's meeting.

Fr. Riehle said he moved for the public hearing because he wanted someone else to here "the facts I have been getting on the matter" as he visited various residence halls.

SLC Students vote as block

(continued from page 1)

To meet as a group with Edmund Stegemann, the chairman of the trustees.

Students vote block

After Barkett's speech, the students who voted to return a block on every question involving referral of the proposed sanctions back to the committee.

The only exception was Dave Tusher's support for his motion to return the report to the original committee and three new members.

The report will probably be considered by the Hall Committee under the revised SLC organization which the council also approved.

Prof. Peter Thornton, one of the proposal's authors listed the committee's underlying assumptions. "When writing this report we assumed the facts of life. That we do have Trustees, that the Trustees make the policy for the University. That we do have cure rules on parietals and drinking which are University rules.

'They [the Trustees] have asked that we study the report and think about the report and it really doesn't happen in the past, that some enforcement be added," he continued.

'They have told us in the legislature that we should start something out which is satisfactory, but they have warned that if we do not take action they will do so themselves," Prof. Thornton said.

Facenda deflects pressure

Administration sources deny that the original report might have been approved if students had not shown such massive concern.

Phillip Facenda, vice president and general counsel, stated that the SLC was "not yielding to pressure. Most of us (the members) were unaware that there was a report to consider until we received our mail this morning."

"The council came with the intention of sending the report back to committee," Facenda added.

SJP Bill John Barkett agreed that the SLC would probably have returned the report. He cited that unanimous vote as an indication that the SLC was not ready to act on specific sanctions.

The COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

is soliciting applications for membership from ND Sophs, Juniors, and Seniors. If interested submit name and phone number to Dean Frederick Crosson, office (O.Shag Hall) or call Dan Moore 234-3638 Friday Oct. 1 is final date.

JUNIOR LEAGUE THRIFT SHOP

over 30,000 items, new and used furniture, clothing, housewares, etc.

Stefan Canyon

Thurs., Sept. 30, 9:00 AM to 6:30 PM, Friday, Oct. 1, 9:00 AM to 12 noon

CLASSIFIED ADS

LOST & FOUND

Found: Eye glasses. If found please call 287-2923.

SANCTIONS can be effective unless agreed on a University-wide level matters should be administered./thread involved.

Keep trying. "They have told us in the past was prompted only at "highpoints" such as the pornography conference in February of 1969.

Prof. Eagan, who can remember only one other time the SLC drew a similar crowd, said the turnout could be interpreted in several ways.

It could indicate student interest in control of their affairs, student interest to eliminate control of their affairs or be nonexistent in general.

Prof. Eagan could not say which alternative is correct in his opinion.

He said it would not be surprising if the attendance at the public hearing proposed by Fr. Borkowski is smaller than that at Monday's meeting.

Fr. Riehle said he moved for the public hearing because he wanted someone else to here "the facts I have been getting on the matter" as he visited various residence halls.

SLC Students vote as block

(continued from page 1)

--to meet as a group with Edmund Stegemann, the chairman of the trustees.

Students vote block

After Barkett's speech, the students who voted to return a block on every question involving referral of the proposed sanctions back to the committee.

The only exception was Dave Tusher's support for his motion to return the report to the original committee and three new members.

The report will probably be considered by the Hall Committee under the revised SLC organization which the council also approved.

Prof. Peter Thornton, one of the proposal's authors listed the committee's underlying assumptions. "When writing this report we assumed the facts of life. That we do have Trustees, that the Trustees make the policy for the University. That we do have cure rules on parietals and drinking which are University rules.

'They [the Trustees] have asked that we study the report and think about the report and it really doesn't happen in the past, that some enforcement be added," he continued.

'They have told us in the legislature that we should start something out which is satisfactory, but they have warned that if we do not take action they will do so themselves," Prof. Thornton said.

Facenda deflects pressure

Administration sources deny that the original report might have been approved if students had not shown such massive concern.

Phillip Facenda, vice president and general counsel, stated that the SLC was "not yielding to pressure. Most of us (the members) were unaware that there was a report to consider until we received our mail this morning."

"The council came with the intention of sending the report back to committee," Facenda added.

SJP Bill John Barkett agreed that the SLC would probably have returned the report. He cited that unanimous vote as an indication that the SLC was not ready to act on specific sanctions.

The COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

is soliciting applications for membership from ND Sophs, Juniors, and Seniors. If interested submit name and phone number to Dean Frederick Crosson, office (O.Shag Hall) or call Dan Moore 234-3638 Friday Oct. 1 is final date.

JUNIOR LEAGUE THRIFT SHOP

over 30,000 items, new and used furniture, clothing, housewares, etc.

Stefan Canyon

Thurs., Sept. 30, 9:00 AM to 6:30 PM, Friday, Oct. 1, 9:00 AM to 12 noon

CLASSIFIED ADS

LOST & FOUND

Found: Eye glasses. If found please call 287-2923.

SANCTIONS can be effective unless agreed on a University-wide level matters should be administered. Also involved.

Keep trying. "They have told us in the past was prompted only at "highpoints" such as the pornography conference in February of 1969.

Prof. Eagan, who can remember only one other time the SLC drew a similar crowd, said the turnout could be interpreted in several ways.

It could indicate student interest in control of their affairs, student interest to eliminate control of their affairs or be nonexistent in general.

Prof. Eagan could not say which alternative is correct in his opinion.

He said it would not be surprising if the attendance at the public hearing proposed by Fr. Borkowski is smaller than that at Monday's meeting.

Fr. Riehle said he moved for the public hearing because he wanted someone else to here "the facts I have been getting on the matter" as he visited various residence halls.

SLC Students vote as block

(continued from page 1)

--to meet as a group with Edmund Stegemann, the chairman of the trustees.

Students vote block

After Barkett's speech, the students who voted to return a block on every question involving referral of the proposed sanctions back to the committee.

The only exception was Dave Tusher's support for his motion to return the report to the original committee and three new members.

The report will probably be considered by the Hall Committee under the revised SLC organization which the council also approved.

Prof. Peter Thornton, one of the proposal's authors listed the committee's underlying assumptions. "When writing this report we assumed the facts of life. That we do have Trustees, that the Trustees make the policy for the University. That we do have cure rules on parietals and drinking which are University rules.

'They [the Trustees] have asked that we study the report and think about the report and it really doesn't happen in the past, that some enforcement be added," he continued.

'They have told us in the legislature that we should start something out which is satisfactory, but they have warned that if we do not take action they will do so themselves," Prof. Thornton said.

Facenda deflects pressure

Administration sources deny that the original report might have been approved if students had not shown such massive concern.

Phillip Facenda, vice president and general counsel, stated that the SLC was "not yielding to pressure. Most of us (the members) were unaware that there was a report to consider until we received our mail this morning."

"The council came with the intention of sending the report back to committee," Facenda added.

SJP Bill John Barkett agreed that the SLC would probably have returned the report. He cited that unanimous vote as an indication that the SLC was not ready to act on specific sanctions.

The COLLEGE OF ARTS AND LETTERS

is soliciting applications for membership from ND Sophs, Juniors, and Seniors. If interested submit name and phone number to Dean Frederick Crosson, office (O.Shag Hall) or call Dan Moore 234-3638 Friday Oct. 1 is final date.