Nixon tabs Powell, Renquist

(c) 1971 New York Times

Washington—President Nixon nominated Lewis F. Powell, Jr., a former president of the American Bar Association, and William H. Rehnquist, an assistant attorney general, to the Supreme Court tonight.

The President told a nationwide television and radio audience he had selected Powell, a 64-year-old lawyer from Richmond, Va., and Rehnquist, a 47-year-old constitutional expert from the Justice Department, in the belief that they epitomize his own conservative attitude toward legal justice.

The nominations represented abandonment by Nixon of his intention to be the first president to name a woman to the nation's highest court.

Nixon said that it would be desirable for all segments of the populations to be represented on the Supreme Court, but that with only nine seats, this would be impossible.

In addition, Nixon passes over the two candidates he had asked a committee of the American Bar Association to approve. His action was perhaps in recognition of the legal group's judgment last night that the two were unqualified.

In nominating Powell and Rehnquist, Nixon passes over the six candidates he had asked a committee of the American Bar Association to evaluate.

The White House issued a statement tonight from Attorney General John Mitchell terminating the year-old arrangement under which the Bar Association screened prospective nominees in advance. The Attorney General complained of violations of "confidentiality" by the Bar Association.

The President appealed to the Senate to confirm both nominees quickly. He said there was no doubt in his own mind that Powell and Rehnquist would be "guardians of our Constitution and would dedicate themselves to law, order and justice."

Parietals experiment needs Student Affairs Council OK

The LeMans Hall parietal experiment has not received final approval and will be in effect this week. Tabbed last week by the Student Affairs Council, this proposal must be passed by the Council and then obtain final endorsement from the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees.

A completely different proposition, the hall parietal hours statement, is also awaiting ratification by the SAC and the Trustees' Executive Committee.

This proposal would give the determination of parietal hours to the individual residence halls.

The LeMans bill by-passed the Student Assembly and was passed last week by the Student Affairs Committee. Since the SAC has a practice of never voting on a bill at the time it is proposed, the experiment will receive consideration at next week's meeting.

Jean Seymour, a member of the SAC, stated, "The LeMans experiment has been worked out well and is very concrete. It has a very good chance of passing."

Miss Seymour thinks the faculty and administration members are seriously considering the bill before the vote.

She mentioned that the LeMans Hall Council and staff are organized and the mechanics of the proposal are quite clear.

As to the general parietal proposal, this is due to be presented to the SAC on Nov. 1.

An obvious reminder with a bit of editorial comment, was given to LeMans Hall residents.
Ballot boxes stolen, missing

Frosh elections delayed

Theft of the Dillon Hall ballot boxes has caused a delay of the release of freshman class officers election results, announced Sophomore Class President Mike Sherrod.

A missing ballot in Badin Hall also contributed to the delay, he added, mentioning that winners in the four races will be announced through WSND early this afternoon.

Ballots will be held during the lunch hour in both Dillon and Badin today, and tallying of the votes will be made as soon after that as possible.

Commenting on the election in general, Sherrod noted that the freshman turnout was "very good."

"We've had about 850 to 900 votes counted and we haven't gotten to two other boxes, in addition to the Dillon and Badin boxes," he said.

He expressed hopes of counting over 50 percent of the freshman class and praised the sophomore class government members for their work in publicizing the election.

He also urged the freshmen in Dillon and Badin halls to vote in tomorrow's ballot.

The Nominees

WASHINGTON—Early this week, William Hubba Rehnquist, assistant attorney general, sent a memorandum to the American Bar Association defending Judge Mildred L. Lillie, who had been proposed to the Association by President Nixon as a possible Supreme Court justice. Tonight, Rehnquist, a conservative Arizonian, was himself nominated by Nixon for a seat on the Court.

It was only this afternoon that Rehnquist's name was even mentioned in speculation about the President's choices. But, in retrospect, observers here realize that he fits perfectly the President's job description. He is described by his colleagues in the Justice Department as a brilliant lawyer who, having once been a clerk to the late Justice Robert H. Jackson, is completely versed in the Court's operations.

NEW YORK—If confirmed, Lewis Franklin Powell, Jr. will bring to the Supreme Court the southern voice that President Nixon is looking for — but it will be a soft and reasoning influence that traces back to his native tidewater Virginia.

In manners and polish, Powell fits comfortably into the image of the anti-bellum South. But in the moderation of his ideas and his approach to integration, he appears to belong more to what has been called "The New South."

While serving a nine-year term on the School Board of Richmond, Va., he quietly admitted Negroes to white schools in 1959; while the issue raged in other Virginia towns, no schools closed in Richmond.

"The constitution does not require the consent of the A.B.A."

The President said he did not expect those he named to the Supreme Court to agree with his own views on every issue. They must not, he said, be "puppets on a string pulled by the President who appointed them."

Nixon named Powell and Rehnquist barely 24 hours after the Judicial Fitness Committee of the American Bar Association declined to endorse the Presidents' reported choices for the two vacancies.

The Committee reportedly voted 11 to 1 to reject Mrs. Mildred L. Lillie, a justice of the California Court of Appeals in Los Angeles, as unqualified for the Supreme Court. The Screening Committee was said to be divided 6 to 6 on a motion to designate "no opposition" to Herschel B. Friday, a Little Rock, Ark., attorney. Under the Committee's procedural rules, that meant Friday also was given a rating of "not qualified."

Even so, there had been speculation today that the President would name one or both of them to the Court tonight. Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, told reporters this morning that "you all know the Senate has the responsibility under the Constitution to give its advice and consent" to Supreme Court candidates.

"There is no judicial experience that must not, he said, be "puppets on a string pulled by the President who appointed them."

Nixon named Powell and Rehnquist barely 24 hours after the Judicial Fitness Committee of the American Bar Association declined to endorse the Presidents' reported choices for the two vacancies.

The Committee reportedly voted 11 to 1 to reject Mrs. Mildred L. Lillie, a justice of the California Court of Appeals in Los Angeles, as unqualified for the Supreme Court. The Screening Committee was said to be divided 6 to 6 on a motion to designate "no opposition" to Herschel B. Friday, a Little Rock, Ark., attorney. Under the Committee's procedural rules, that meant Friday also was given a rating of "not qualified."

Even so, there had been speculation today that the President would name one or both of them to the Court tonight. Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, told reporters this morning that "you all know the Senate has the responsibility under the Constitution to give its advice and consent" to Supreme Court candidates.

"The constitution does not require the consent of the A.B.A." Ziegler went on. He said the Bar Association's advice was welcome, but "the A.B.A. does not have veto power."

Thus Nixon's efforts to reshape the Court into an instrument of his own judicial philosophy of "strict constructionist" conservatism, which had spawned a series of ideological clashes and led to two defeats in the Senate, have become ensnared in a dispute with the Bar Association as well. Attorney General John N. Mitchell pledged in July, 1970, that he would consult with the Association before recommending nominees to the President. That decision reflected White House hopes of enlisting broad professional support for nominees and a desire to overcome unhappiness within the legal establishment over the Association's after-the-fact endorsements of Clement F. Haysworth, Jr., and G. Harrold Cramwell, both of whom were rejected by the Senate.

But White House officials made it clear, however, that the President was principally interested in ratings on Friday and Mrs. Lillie and one White House official said that he had the impression that they were "locked in" two weeks ago as the President's choices.

The decision to announce the nominees on nationwide television in a prime evening hour appeared to reflect a desire to solicit public support for the candidates, lacking enthusiastic endorsements from the Bar.
Okay. We made a mistake.
When we said "Le Mans to have parietal hours on Friday," we were wrong. Unless the proposal goes through the Board of Trustees, LeMans won't have parietal hours for a while. We got it messed up. It happens sometimes. The poor headliner needed a slug of scotch after he added the St. Mary's governmental structures, and it sort of affected his judgment.

We're wrong and we admit it. If we're wrong in the future, we'll admit it then. It's the only way we can keep our credibility with the student body.

We hope that when the St. Mary's Board of Trustees meet, they can do the same. For it was surely a mistake to lock up Le Mans - and all the other St. Mary's halls - against the will of the people who live there. After all, the students in those halls will have to pay the consequences for whatever hours are set up. They ought to be able to determine what they are.

If the St. Mary's Board of Trustees sits down and considers the situation, honestly and in the light of the fact that most St. Mary's women are legal adults, they should have no problem passing the Le Mans companion bill, which would give all St. Mary's halls the right to pass their own parietal hours. After all, anybody can make a mistake. It takes a certain dignity to admit the mistake. It takes a certain courage to correct the mistake.

But it takes nothing, and credits nobody, to persist in the mistake.

Letters

Embryo test this Tuesday and all week I was pretty up-tight about it. I spent all of Friday night (my birthday), cramming for it and intended to make Saturday a retake performance. (No tears please)

At about 6 p.m. Saturday I found myself in such a stupor that I slammed shut my books and high-tailed it over to POCO. POCO was just the therapy that I needed. POCO wanted us to feel loose and that we surely did. From approximately 10-12.15 POCO helped me forget all my worries. In fact a friend who saw me at the concert asked if I was stoned. I was stoned all right on good music.

I'm sure I'm speaking for everyone who was able to "get loose" Saturday night, in saying "Thanks POCO for letting me be myself in the midst of all this intellectual frustration."

Well Time to get back to work.

Mail Rape

Editor: When mail rates were increased to 8 cents, the Postmaster General promised two-day mail service between any cities in the United States. Notre Dame did not follow suit, leaving the cost of on-campus letters at nothing and promising nothing.

Today I received a letter from St. Mary's on October 4th via campus mail. Fourteen days is not bad, but the condition of the envelope indicated that it had been repeatedly raped and beaten between here and there.

It's gratifying to know that ND mail service offers one of the few genuine bargains available today.

AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Friday, October 31, 1971

The education of the innocent, the ingenuous is futile. The naive pupil has no self-control; he is not free nor does he allow others their freedom. Until innocence is voluntarily willed to pass, the door into the self stands locked; the countenance stands shining, clear, blank; the soul is static.

To be naively innocent is to be a slave. By relying totally on innocence the right to determine personal philosophy is surrendered to external forces which are false which easily mold the innocent soul to fit whatever form is convenient or momentarily necessary. At the passing of the moment, the innocent is left behind once more, groping for a new sculptor to shape him again. The one who absolves himself in innocence, who remains innocent judging it to be the "cute" or "entertaining" is, not only stifling his growth, but leaving himself the prey of the experienced world and its London job assignees.

MIND IS A CUBE. A three dimensional object with six equal and square sides. It contains twenty-four 90 degree angles. The cube is sealed. The innocence is impervious.

Thoughts flow continually all over every side. They pulse around the cube across tops and clasp desperately to bottoms and sides. Rarely changing, they merely make room for new thoughts, granting them a place on the smooth, flawless surface. Running over and fragmenting facts, they build only momentum.

Innocence leaves, however, with the one who opens the cube of mind just a crack and then leaves you alone to cope with the fissure. The sliding cogitations slip in parts into the space of the cube, bringing dark into the hole desperately light. The brightness wraps around the first lost thought and is dropped down to the floor of the cube and is dropped. Innocence is willed away and its helplessness with it. The lost one in the bottom wills another, slightly different than itself, to join it in the dark. The self perpetuation of learning is learned.

The thoughts outside notice that something is missing, their form is no longer complete. The cube feels the change and opens in one side a hole through which a light pours, illuminating an endless tube of thought, traveling all the way through the late cube, which is now an open rectangle, traveling in the back, to the vanished point and beyond. Gone is the perfectly sealed three dimensional figure.

Observations, not facts, ideas and energies spill into the open space and tumble and fall over one another, each begetting a new, somewhat different than itself.

The limitations of the body and mind must be confronted, its artificialities must be rejected. Because the cube of innocence is secure and regular and tight does not mean that it should always stay so. The first fissure can come with the guilt of the flesh, with a jab at the mind, by a friend planting only one seed on the surface of the waste land. The split cannot be plastered, but must be torn wide open. The experience gained must lead again to the higher innocence of creativity.

And after looking inside at the evil and the good, and knowing them both, then with love comes the meeting of your soul on a path. And self-control follows the meeting. The freeness to reject the soul is used instead to welcome it, and no longer alone, the soul, mind, body walk through the rectangle.

The forces which are constantly working to reshape the self can be dealt with while facing the world of education with all its fringes. And self-knowledge craves more knowledge, sorting and filing it within the rectangle, where it constantly falls from the envelope to the floor or ceiling to complete itself with other knowledge.

The Prophet: "... the treasure of your infinite depths would be revealed to your eyes... the soul unfolds itself, like a lotus of countless petals." Let it be.
Nursing school suggested

Michele Arrieh

The Inner Institutional Team on Academic Affairs has asked both the Nursing program, and the School of Nursing, to appoint a committee to look into the possibility of establishing a School of Nursing and programs in the paramedical areas. Paramedical refers to services conducted in a hospital such as physical therapy and x-ray technician work.

Four reasons for initiating such a program were given by Grace residents who signed the tax payer.

1. There is an enormous need for workers in all of these areas. The Carnegie Report on Higher Education and the Nation’s Health estimates that there is a need for around 200,000 more nurses and almost 150,000 technicians in the health field.

2. The program gives an opportunity for training women in roles of leadership which is a part of SMC’s mission.

3. This type of program gives an additional thrust to the woman-oriented educational opportunities in the University.

4. It is a natural area of interest for those at SMC because it combines two of the mission areas of the Sisters of the Holy Cross. That is, the Sisters have made efforts in the fields of higher education and nursing.

Committee members are: Jack Detiller, chairman, and Grace security

Pr. James Bushcheil, Provost of the University refined comment on behalf of the Grace residents printed in the Observer tax payer. The letter expressed increased security protection on the campus, referring directly to theDic arenel armed hold-up in Grace.

In a letter which built up to be our call, Mr. Arthur Pears, Director of ND Security, noted that Security’s arrival at the scene to the fact that less security was available in the evening and that security was “led up in other cases.”

Pears pointed out the difficulty in security enforcement in the halls. Building doors are always open and “anyone can walk in.”

The ND security force present consists of police and patrolmen, but Pears added that the degree of security within a hall is determined by the hall rector.

If “the party that committed the act are outsiders” as it was assumed in the Grace incident, the Security Director said that South Bend and St. Joseph county police are called in.

Mrs. Rosemary Doherty, both from SMC; Dean richard Thompson and Father Joseph Walker from ND, Sister Blanche who works at St. Joseph Hospital, Sister Ann Josephine who is administrator of Holy Cross Hospital in Salt Lake City, and Sister Rose Bernard, who is a nurse and Professor of Sociology at Dunbar College in Washington D.C. They have met once and plan to meet again on October 28.

The Committee is gathering information as to curriculum, financial implications of such a school, and government support available, and are making contacts with state and national officials to this end.

When this information is gathered, it will be presented to the college committees and boards for consideration.

Until all the questions are resolved, it is not clear just how early the program can be initiated.

It is anticipated that the school will admit 30 students each year who are interested in nursing and paramedical fields.

Scholarship grants

The University of Notre Dame has received $3,000 from the Upper Division Scholarship Program (UDSP) to assist students from minority populations transferring from two-year colleges. Inaugurated by the Fund Foundation, the UDSP is administered by the College Entrance Examination Board and will provide $97,000 to 250 students this semester at 63 Midwestern institutions.

Frosh debut in Mexico

by Vic Derr '71

Tom Gatewood said it at the first pep rally of the 1971 season: "There's one thing that makes a football team successful, and that's enthusiasm." Gatewood's words though they were meant for the Irish varsity, can also be applied to the Notre Dame freshman team. For even at this early date, the first-year men have created plenty of interest and enthusiasm in the frosh program. And if Gatewood's words can be taken at face value, then the freshmen are assured, in this way, at least, of a successful year.

The enthusiasm surrounding this year's frosh squad is evenly distributed between the players and their schedule, and with good reason. The '71 freshman roster appears to be loaded, and the team could very well better the 1-2 mark which Cliff Brown, Greg Hill and Os played last season.

"I'm very enthused about them," said freshman coach Denny Murphy, "and so are the rest of the coaches. I think they've progressed very well. They've been practicing only since the beginning of school, and we've given them a lot in a short span of time. The kids have done very well in picking up the knowledge and the techniques.

Murphy, though he declined to single out any individual standouts from the early fall practice sessions, did comment favorably on his team—especially on the offensive line.

"I hate to cite anyone before the first game," said the frosh coach, "because game situations are what tells the story. The progress on both sides and it's a good bit different from practice.

"But I can see that we're going to have a real fine quickness at our offensive skilled positions," he continued. "And our offensive linemen are being coached by Larry DiNardo, so the blocking has been steadily improving. As far as quarterback is concerned, I've decided to go with Tom Clements. He has a real good arm and I'll stay with him unless something drastic happens."

Goodman (5-11, 185), "The Wishbone-T will be our basic running set," said the frosh coach, "and the 'fullback,'" said Murphy. "The freshmen will close their '71 campaign on November at Knoxville, with a game against Tennessee's Baby Volunteers.

The Irish seek revenge against SC

by Jim Donaldson
Sports Editor

When the Irish's 4-4 record is set against Notre Dame's Irish fans generally view the game as a 1-0 home win. That's no real reflection of what's happened, as many fans were waiting for tomorrow's game since last November.

John McKay's Oregon Southern California Trojans invade Notre Dame Stadium Saturday afternoon, and it's a key game. Fighting Irish are out for revenge. Revenge for last year's 28-17 defeat at the hands of the Trojans in the final game of the regular season that cost Notre Dame the national championship.

Revenge for high pride. Pride that was wounded not only by last year's setback, but also by the fact that Notre Dame hasn't beaten Oregon Southern California since 1966.

Since the Irish drubbed the Trojans 54-11 at the tail end of the '64 campaign, no one has been able to salvage just a pair of ties in the last 13 meetings between the two collegiate powerhouse programs. The Trojans won 24-7 in 1967 and 21-1 in 1970.

The Irish Eye

Football Picks

This looks like "Big Ten Week" in the Irish Eye football picks, since selection for all five games taking place in that conference are included in this week's choices.

All five are choices on the Big Ten, however. There's a pretty fair ball game tomorrow here at Notre Dame, as the Fighting Irish (6-3 overall) take on Ohio State (7-2). This is a battle between the rugged Irish are sky-high for the encounter, seeking revenge for the 28-17 setback that John McKay's club dealt them last season. That loss cost the Fighting Irish their national championship.

The other top games this weekend include Houston versus Alabama, Pittsburg State College, Georgia Tech at Tulane and Wake Forest versus North Carolina.

There's the way the Irish Eye sees the outcome of this week's games.

Notre Dame over Southern Cal - The Trojans have had their problems this season, losing four of six games. The Fired-up Irish should hand them last number five Saturday.

Purdue over Illinois - Soph quarterback Steve Burke led the Boilermakers last week and won't have any problem directing Purdue's passing attack.

Army over Virginia - The Cadets are winning their share of games this fall.

Michigan State over Iowa - The Spartan alumni are really beginning to rise. They can't afford to lose to the Hawkeyes.

Northwestern over Indiana - The Wildcats can handle the Hoosiers with an assist or two.

Alabama over Houston - The Crimson Tide should ride high over the Cougars.

Auburn over Clemson - The Tigers continue to chase Bama for the South's top ranking.

Texas over Georgia Tech - The Green Wave is finally playing the type of ball that was expected of them before the season began.

Georgia over Kentucky - The Bulldogs record will remain unblemished.

North Carolina over Wake Forest - The Tar Heels want to beat Wake. The Demon Deacons over Carolina. This game could decide the Atlantic Coast Conference title.

Michigan over Minnesota - The Wolverines are too tough for the Golden Gophers.

Colorado over Missouri - The Buffaloes should trample the Tigers. Because Georgia Tech over the Eagles. The Eagles are going high this week.

Ohio State over Wisconsin - The Buckeyes will have to fight hard to get the best of the Badgers but the game's in Columbus and that's a big help.

Upset of the Week:

Harriers in action

The Irish cross country team will be in action this afternoon against a couple of formidable opposition, Indiana and Western Michigan.

The triangular meet is slated to begin at 2:30 p.m. on the Burke Memorial course.

Ruggers, stickmen play Saturday

The Notre Dame lacrosse and rugby teams will be in action this weekend. The stickmen playing an Alumni team Saturday afternoon while the ruggers play host to the University of Wisconsin "A" and "B" teams, Saturday afternoon.

The lacrosse game is scheduled to start at 5:30 p.m. on Carter Field.

The "B" rugby game will start at 1:30 p.m. on the East Stand Center and the "A" match will begin at 11:30 a.m. on the South Stand Center.

Notre Dame's "C" rugby team also has a game on tap this weekend, taking on the Amoco rugby club Sunday afternoon at 2:30 behind Stepan Center.

Always dangerous, Jimmy Jones will be making his third start against the Irish Saturday.

The Irish offense has been so proficient, however, that their 30-point outburst in the season opener against Northwestern, the offense has been unable to score more than two touchdowns in a game.

But now that sophomore Cliff Brown has taken over at quarterback, the Irish have shown signs of increased point production. The young signal caller, making the first start of his career against North Carolina, combined on a couple of long aerials with his All-American split end, Tom Gatewood, giving an inkling of things to come.

Parsegian was pleased with Brown's play against the Tar Heels. "Cliff did a good job last Saturday. He made some mistakes and he knows what they were, but it's normal for a sophomore to make errors in his first starting assignment."

The Irish have moved the ball better on the ground than in the air thus far this season. A solid offensive line has consistently opened holes for Notre Dame's boasting supply of running backs. Bobby Minnix and Andy Holf have been the top ball carriers for the Irish this fall but John Cieszkowski, Darryl Dewan, Greg Hill, Bill Gallagher, Larry Parker and Gary Dimnick are all on the chart.

Parsegian's team is ranking fifth in the Big Ten in scoring defense, allowing only 13.2 points per game.

The Irish offensive line has pored problem for every team they've faced this fall. A big, mobile, front four, quick, strong line is more than a nuisance to any team.

"I think if we protect the passer we can throw on Notre Dame," McKay said. "The Trojans will prevent problems greater than this team."

Wants ten million

Geoffrey sues ND, Hesburgh

Former SMC art professor, Syed J. Iqbal Geoffrey, claims he has suffered damages and humiliation in excess of $10 million, at the hands of Notre Dame and Father Hesburgh, because of their racial hiring policies.

Geoffrey, also known as Jahfre, has taken action against the University by filing a complaint with the South Bend Human Relations and Fair Practices Commission.

He charges that he has not been considered for an administrative job at Notre Dame because of his race, color, religion, national origin, and ancestry. He also charges that Notre Dame has never considered any Black man as worthy of an administrative position.

Geoffrey stated that the latter allegation could be confirmed by Joseph F. O'Brien, Director of Personnel. O'Brien commenting on the charge said it was, "Not True."

Geoffrey, in his statement to the Fair Practices Commission, said he was a Semite, Black, Muslim, Pakistani, and a direct descendent from the Prophet Muhammad.

Among his qualifications he claims to be a highly qualified accountant, author, art historian, published poet and author, economist, management consultant and administrator.He also says he holds the equivalent of three doctoral degrees and is listed in major Who's Whos of the World, internationally.

Geoffrey, who last year planned to sue SMC because he was denied a teaching position and was refused consideration for the position of President, both on the grounds of race and creed, stated that "The action of this University can be considered to be... repugnant."

The Fair Practices Commission said they had taken no action as yet.

Parietals need OK

The proposal, "so open and general; such a blanket statement that it would be hard to work out quickly and completely." She feels it needs more and closer scrutiny before it would be feasible.

Missy Underman, Student Body VP, cited the possibility that the LeMans group will be asked to withdraw their proposal. This would allow the general parietal policy the Council's entire attention and if it passed,

LeMans would have authorization for its experiment. "Since they have already passed the hall referendum and set up the system," said Miss Underman, "LeMans would be one step ahead of the other halls in any case."

The reason both proposals need the approval of the Trustees' Executive Committee is that they are not considered extensions of any existing policies, but an entirely new policy in themselves.
