Stephan: “Progress” on Merger Talks
SBP finds Trustees “cordial” in session

by John Morrow

Negotiations continue on the financial arrangements of unification between the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary’s College, according to a joint statement from Mother M. Olivette Whelan and Edmund A. Stephan, chairman of the SMC and ND Boards of Trustees.

“Progress has been made in several areas attending unification,” the statement said.

The acceptance of the SLC proposal on minimal sanctions for experienced sell-off of drugs which favored hall determination of parietal and alcohol regulations.

The improvement of the University’s physical facilities especially in the individual halls and in the student center.

These were the two most fruitful hours of our administration because they will probably result in more improvement in Notre Dame than we have seen in a long time,” Bennett said after the meeting.

We were very impressed,” he added, “with the cordial and open acceptance given to our proposals.”

The trustees detailed Bennett, Rodriguez and Weaver for over an hour to discuss specific elements of their suggestions.

They were very direct and sincere in their discussion with us. They admitted that the principle problem was lack of funds and asked what areas we would give the highest priority,” Weaver said.

All three stressed the willingness of the trustees to give additional responsibilities to “responsible students.”

Bennett predicted “mixed results” but was optimistic that students would see “concrete results” from the trustees.

Emphasizing the “responsible activities” of the majority of students, Bennett noted:

...what he called “the most publicized yet the most important events” meaning student participation in many service oriented activities like the ticket exchange for the Navy game, MANASA and the Neighborhood Youth Study tutoring program.

The research efforts of the twenty hall presidents and the off-campus commission in the areas of improved hall life and the development of an off-campus student center.

“The perilsous state” of the student in University decision making.

“The Student Life Council is losing its credibility as a viable legislative body since it seems it is always being overruled.” Bennett added.

The student body president called for increased “student input” in the decision-making processes. He recommended acceptance of the SLC’s proposal to conduct a “professional survey of student life.”

The Statement

On Thursday evening, representatives of trustees and officers of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary’s College met to continue negotiations for the eventual unification of the two schools. Following this session, separate meetings of the full boards of both institutions were held over the weekend.

Progress has been made in several areas attending unification and meetings will follow soon to further consider financial arrangements from reports from auditors have been completed.

The overall goal for complete unification remains the academic year 1974-75. Although, there is still hope it can be accomplished sooner.

Mother M. Olivette Whelan, Chairman SMC Board of Trustees; Edmund A. Stephan, Chairman ND Board of Trustees submitted by the Director of Public Information, Richard Conklin

SBP Orlando Rodriguez’s speech concentrated on the SLC’s proposal for University sanctions.

Rodriguez noted:

...that the Hall Life Committee considered its task “as being much broader than the Ad Hoc committee” on disciplinary codes. As a result, “It was not that the committee advocated no sanctions as some would have it, but rather no minimum sanctions.”

...that hall autonomy is “not really autonomy but authority for individual halls which submit sufficient proof of responsibility.”

The student body vice-president advocated a program termed “model halls” which allows the hall autonomy of the SLC to be implemented on an experimental basis if the trustees are unwilling to adopt the full proposal.

Executive coordinator Bob Weaver discussed the physical facilities of the University.

“The importance of hall life is increasing and unquestionably there is a tremendous emphasis on the development of hall life.” Weaver said.

He recommended:

...the addition of “more and better” lounge space in the individual sections of halls that currently lack such space.

...increased recreational facilities in the halls.

...extensive re-modeling of the student lounge to eliminate “excessive lounge space” and the “lack of social and recreational facilities.”

Shellings in East Pakistani; 59 dead

(c) 1971 New York Times

Karachi, Pakistan, Oct. 24—The Pakistan government said its forces in East Pakistan Sunday repulsed two battalion-sized attacks by Bengali guerrillas supported by Indian troops and artillery.

The two attacks were said to have taken place in Comilla district near East Pakistan’s eastern frontier with India.

Casualties, according to the government announcement, were heavy.

Daily war communiques reporting increasing numbers of casualties have contributed during the last few weeks to fears abroad that war between Pakistan and India may be imminent.

Pakistan announced actions invarably describe Indian agents, adding to confusion as to whether Indian forces or Bengali nationalist guerrillas are involved.

The departure today of India’s Prime Minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, on a three-week trip to Europe and the United States was taken as a sign of the coolness in East Pakistan.

Voter Registration Drive starts

by Daniel P. Rock

Two Notre Dame students intend to conduct a campus-wide Voter Registration Drive this week. Seniors Pat Coley and Joe Meyers will spearhead the campaign, which aims at registering as many as possible in their home states, if all goes according to their plans.

The organization, termed "Voter Registration Drive" by its founders, is also being coordinated with Student Government, the Theology Department, and two national organizations. The Student Vote and Youth Citizenship Fund, Inc. has published an article in the Scholastic urging student voting registration.

"Some states do not permit absentee registration," said Coley, "therefore, in most cases the only way for a student to register is to register in person at his home county Board of Elections. Undecided court cases may permit a student to register and vote where he attends a college or university, but as of now, the full thrust will be at registering a student in his home state where he clearly has the right to vote.

"Voter Registration Drive" will place emphasis on publicity before the Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations, according to Meyers, and absentee registration forms (for those states in which they are permitted) will be available on Spring Term class-registration day, January 18, 1972.

"It must be stressed," said Meyers, "that one should register to vote as early as possible in order to insure eligibility to vote in the upcoming Presidential primaries. Deadlines vary according to state requirements and the date of the state's primary."

The organization plans to get at least one representative from each hall, who they hope will solicit publicity and create desire in the students to fulfill their newly-established rights granted to them by the 38th Amendment in a open meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 pm in the Fiesta Lounge of the LaFortune Center.

RMN: peace chances

good; McGovern: no

Oct. 24 - New York Times

Washington, Oct. 24 - President Nixon expressed optimism Sunday about the prospects for lasting peace, but at the same time he warned that "there are great differences" between the government of the United States and those of the Soviet Union and China.

In a brief radio address marking Veterans Day, which he delivered from Camp David, the Presidential retreat near Thurmont, Md., Nixon said that his trips next year to Peking and Moscow "will leave behind us in America no false hopes, and we intend to do all to assure that we can do to insure that those who have borne the burdens of war are not made, because of their sacrifice, to bear disproportionately the burdens of the peace."

A charge that just such neglect of the needs of Vietnam veterans was occurring was made by Sen. George S. McGovern in a Veterans Day statement issued by his office.

McGovern, who is a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1972, said that the nation had "delayed too long" in guaranteeing to present and future Vietnam veterans "the best the nation can offer in health care, employment opportunities and benefits for jobs that are now available."

In support of his accusation, McGovern cited labor department figures that show "three hundred thousand Vietnam veterans currently unemployed." He also spoke of thousands of other Vietnam veterans "scarred by drug addiction and other psychological problems (who) are simply not getting the medical treatment they need because funds are short and facilities inadequate."

Nixon, in effect, directly answered the Senator.

He noted that, in June, he had ordered the labor department to inaugurate special programs to provide training and jobs for veterans, and added:

"I am happy to report that during July and August alone, more than 121,000 Vietnam-era veterans were placed in jobs or in training for jobs."

IN THE URBAN STUDIES INSTITUTE

OF THE ROCKNE MEMORIAL
Ticket program

Goal - 1100 tickets

The organizers of the ticket exchange program are running into difficulties making some of the arrangements for South Bend youths to see the Notre Dame-Navy game.

One problem is that this year 400 more tickets will be needed, explained organizers Jack Candon and Eric Andrus. Last year 700 tickets were turned in for the Georgia Tech game. The planned goal this year is 1100 tickets.

"Students can turn in their football tickets from 9 to 4 on Monday and Tuesday at the Convocation Center. No IDs are required. One student can take as many tickets down as he wants," Andrus said.

"They will get a receipt for their tickets. The week after the game they can get their tickets by turning in the receipt," he stressed.

"One of the problems that we had last year was that very few turned in the tickets on Monday and we had to conduct an intensive campaign that night to make sure we would come up with those tickets.

"What appears to be the biggest obstacle this year," said Andrus, "is that we don't have enough monitors to watch the kids. We need a hundred. Last week we called a meeting and only two volunteers showed up. This Tuesday at 10:00 at the Fiesta Lounge of LaFortune Student Center we will hold another meeting for those who want to be monitors, excluding those already signed up. We would like the students to know that as monitors they will not have to give up their tickets. Also, people with cars are needed to provide transportation for the kids to the game."

Jack Candon added that "we really appreciate the efforts of the students to make this a success, especially the tutors and school captains in the neighborhood study help program."

The Only Losers

Notre Dame's football dreams died stillborn this season with the loss Saturday to Southern California. Those of us who are Seniors were looking forward to the team having an undefeated season, as this, our last year at Du Lac. The gentlemen from the most populous state in the union felt otherwise, and smashed the hope with a rather convincing finality on the turf. That the Southern Cal team showed more than their usual stuff cannot be denied. Such excuses sound hollow, though, the Monday after. They played well, well enough to beat us. Nothing more can or should be said about that.

Another type of war was being waged the Thursday and Friday afternoons before the clash. The Boards of Trustees of both Notre Dame and St. Mary's met separately and jointly. They discussed finances—the finances of the unification action. As of yet none of them is talking to the outside world. That the Boards decided something seems fairly certain. What they decided is shrouded in secrecy.Available reports indicate that the rent demanded by the Holy Cross Sisters was deemed unreasonably high by Notre Dame. The same reports also indicate that one of the reasons the Sisters demanded such a high rent was to meet financial obligations, obligations which consist of various mortgages against buildings on the St. Mary's campus. Thus as munificent as it might be for the Holy Cross Sisters to rent St. Mary's to Notre Dame for a nominal sum each year, they are unable to do so. If the Notre Dame trustees refuse to meet the Sister's price, the nuns will lose anyway. Notre Dame's refusal, and subsequent action of going co-ed on it's own will surely lead to the demise of St. Mary's. What girl would attend St. Mary's if she were qualified to enter the University of Notre Dame?

The Trustee's decision, according to administration sources, will become public in a few days. If the situation is as reports have indicated the financial machinations dreamed up by the accountants to solve the problem will be academically interesting. The aforementioned machinations won't be interesting, however, if they delay unification or seriously impede its progress. A delay of several years won't bother the Trustees or the Administration; members of both intend to be here for years. It will bother the students, all of whom will be gone in four years, most before that.

It's wrong to promise a man co-education when he applies to this university and then deny it. If the job is forced upon them, someone or something else must take it. If the job is forced upon them, they tackle it by announcing someone or something else.

For What It's Worth

Many Arts and Letters and engineering students have been quietly grumbling to themselves this semester as they labor just to get another requirement out of the way. Although it is already midterm, they still have many grumbles to mutter because the Classic of the Week Club, also known as Collegiate Seminar is a two semester, six hour requirement if students in those two colleges want their diploma.

The purpose of the course, according to Tom Musial, the CS assistant director, is to give the nearly 1,000 A&Lers and engineers a chance to arbitrate "various attempts by different men at different times" to answer the universal questions of existence, identity, etc. Musial says it is required because of the traditional culture of liberal arts education, the faculty's belief that students need to come to grip with these questions, another belief that students should be active agents in their education and because there is no other department for this purpose.

Many students will admit willingly that CS has excellent potential to fulfill its purpose, but its design, and particularly the tag "requirement", do much to destroy the spirit of the 16 year old course. There is nothing like walking into a class the first day and being handed a syllabus listing a book a week, ranging from Homer's Odyssey to Aristotle's Niconian Ethics and on to Cervantes' Don Quixote (part one, but the introductory material covers the first 85 pages).

The next surprises are that you will have to make some sort of presentation or paper on at least two of the classics, participate in class discussions, (as expected in a seminar) and keep a journal just in case you can't express yourself very well in class.

The final surprise, depending on whether the seminar leader wants to tell you or on someone to ask, is that the CS faculty, for the most part, is voluntary and represents approximately 90 percent of all University departments, which means the leader may be buying the book for the first time himself. From the end of one view, it's just like having all the grading and evaluation power in the hands of one student.

However, the faculty has one advantage. Each book slated for the nearly 50 section course is condensed into crib notes by one of the students. These thoughts and themes have been developed during periods per book for discussion; and maybe even some crib notes. As noted above, these thoughts and themes have been developed during entire lifetimes of both men and civilizations. Although Collegiate Seminar appears as a giant ague, its director, John A. Oestrie, has attempted changes, only to be blocked by the College Council or the University.

Attempts to drop the requirement label have been stopped by the A&L College Council and efforts to drop the standard grading procedure for pass-fail have been denied by the University because it is a requirement.

It seems that students could be given two weeks a book, or three periods per book for discussion; and maybe even some crib notes. As noted above, these thoughts and themes have been developed during entire lifetimes of both men and civilizations.
To the Editor:

I have noticed that since last Saturday that Notre Dame has been a great deal of speculation among the student body about the reasons for the defeat of the Fighting Irish by the Trojans. However, I have heard, to the weather to the inadequacy of the Irish offense as the reasons for the defeat. So, I would like to present four points.

1. There is only one reason that this dark defeat could have been visited upon Notre Dame. The Irish are being punished for their sins.

2. Just ask any old grad who has been defeated in the past and they will tell you that it was because of the low common rate at required chapel on the morning of the Game. So let's get out to the chapels next Saturday morning and help the team score some points.

Please note that there is no place for a female in a football weekend. So let's leave the SMC girls and the hometown honey's at home next weekend. A man must devote all his energies to supporting the team; get rid of the temptations caused by the presence of females.

3. Why, the presence of sexual infatuation has been so marked and disgusting that it has actually caused a freshman contradicting the time honored legend that the statue atop the Golden Dome is not Knute Rockne in a raincoat but Terrier Rockne, by the building at the class period and one is nearly knocked over by the walking masses of boxes, showers from our calculus classes, and a challenge, the female traditions fall, football teams fall. How many students marched down to the Grotto to pray for the injured Ed Edsly this fall? This merger between the schools is ever coming closer and I believe we must first realize that Notre Dame will never again win a national championship before the start of the co-op classes.

4. I am afraid that there must be either a co-op, a football winning team or a freshman class that does not exist. Still in the days of the nameless. But all Notre Dame male to realize that the "Vair Lady" in the school of our homecoming and never any SMC rah-rah.

This letter is in response to the article concerning opinions by Monday, Oct. 18 issue of the Observer. I am afraid that there are many students who are looking at the classes. I am 1 afraid that there are Old Grad '72 nor any SMC rah-rah.

To all Notre Dame to realize was before the start of co-ex under graduate students must first realize that Notre Dame will never again win a national championship. The current Notre Dame is a creative, vibrant community which can honestly search for a way of life in accordance to the teachings of Christ; which is relatively free of jaded, prejudiced beliefs as to what actions, in a cold, objective manner, categorically brand you as a Christian of high or low standards.

As of when, should a Christian university use the statutes of public hotels as guidelines for the "creation" of Christian standards? Rather, I should think public establishments would look to the university for guidelines in the pursuit of the essence of Christianity. The Christian university is a creative, viable community which can honestly search for a way of life in accordance to the teachings of Christ; which is relatively free of jaded, prejudiced beliefs as to what actions, in a cold, objective manner, categorically brand you as a Christian of high or low standards.

In the partial hours issue, we students are looking at the question in a creative, positive manner. We are not only searching for a Christian university and hence a Christian university and hence a creation of standards. Rather, we should think that standards can only be formulated by the individual himself, who has been educated in the values of a Christian way of life. You are not trying to create Christian standards or educate someone in the values of Christianity by blindly imposing rules on him. This way of inculcating morality is a definite issue from our calculus classes. Always, involving leadership, the charge, the female traditions fall, football teams fall. How many students last fall marched down to the Grotto to pray for the injured Ed Edsly this fall? This merger between the schools is ever coming closer and I believe we must first realize that Notre Dame will never again win a national championship before the start of the co-op classes.

I am afraid that there must be either a co-op, a football winning team or a freshman class that does not exist. Still in the days of the nameless. But all Notre Dame male to realize that the "Vair Lady" in the school of our homecoming and never any SMC rah-rah.

This letter is addressed to the Notre Dame men's Student Body and Notre Dame women.

The events of the past weeks here on campus are important to all of us. Partiels, drinking, etc. are the topics. And like any red-blooded Notre Dame man, I am against these sanctions because I think we should be able to do what we want so long as we do it in an adult manner. But these sanctions are the reasons I am writing this letter.

We have also witnessed in the past months a change on campus namely, more girls from St. Mary's are starting this year. And like any normal, red-blooded Notre Dame guy, I dig the changes. We are satisfied that now at least we have more of a chance of meeting some girls from St. Mary's but alas, some of us are not. These asses I am talking about are the jerks who persist in passing girls up at football games. Man, some of you guys are really horny if you get kicks free will to not. Don't you know what you're doing? Don't you realize that you are planting opinions in the minds of these girls? Unfavorable ones at that. How do you expect to meet a girl like that? Is that the only way you can do? What about the rest of us you slobs who won't get to first base if you continue? I would like to go out with a St. Mary's girl, but some of you guys are ruining it for me. And for the rest of poor slobs who sit around on Saturday nights doing nothing, I'd much rather be with a girl than sit with jerks drinking jerks who screwed me out of a possible date with a girl who has an open mind. None of Notre Dame guys. At Notre Dame we are sup­posedly one big brotherhood. With St. Mary's and Notre Dame merging, we are becoming one big family. You know, in our case, your sister, your sisters. Would you sit by and let some guy molest your sister like that?

Not only are you ruining it for us in this way, but also you are jeopardizing our chances with the sanctions. And believe me, the Trustees aren't blind at the football games. They are capable of putting one and one together. They might make their decision on what they see at the games. They might be wrong in doing it this way, but they are justified in doing it this way too. So grow up brothers. And sisters of St. Mary's, at least one Notre Dame guy is behind you in your time of need.

A concerned ND grad

Let me add this. I am not including my name because some of my friends would say that I wrote the letter just to get a date.

Yates elected freshman class president

In a voter turnout termed "better than years past" by sophomore class president Mike Sherrod, slightly more than 50 percent of the freshman class voted in last election.

Approximately 1,000 votes were cast in the election that named David Yates, Diane Gavin, Sue Schneider, and Gail Fromm as president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, of the class of 1975.

Publication of the results of the election was delayed due to the loss of two ballot boxes. Sherrod reported. The signout sheet for the Dillon Hall box was stolen and the box could not be located. Badin Hall never received a ballot box due to a mishap in distribution procedures. These two votes were cast on Friday rather than Thursday with the rest of the campus.

By Vic Deir, ‘71

Last Wednesday, as the Notre Dame freshman football team was preparing to depart for an away game, one of the players was so excitement was almost tangible. The players were talking about their upcoming game, about the challenge it would pose, and about the opportunity to prove themselves on the field.

But it was the Notre Dame fans who were the real stars of the show. They were dressed in their team colors, waving banners and singing the Notre Dame fight song, showing their support for their beloved team. The atmosphere was electric, and everyone could feel the energy in the air.

As the team boarded the bus, there was a sense of camaraderie among the players. They were all focused on the task at hand, determined to give their best in the upcoming game. But they were also looking forward to the opportunity to bond with their teammates, to share in the excitement of the game, and to create memories that would last a lifetime.

The Notre Dame fans were true fans, always there to support their team, no matter the outcome. They were the backbone of the Notre Dame football program, and the players knew it. They played with a sense of purpose, knowing that every possession, every tackle, and every block mattered. They played for themselves, for their teammates, and for the fans who believed in them.

And as the bus pulled away from the stadium, the Notre Dame players were ready for whatever lay ahead. They were confident, determined, and focused. They knew that they had the skills and the heart to compete at the highest level, and they were ready to prove it on the field.

The Trojans did it again. Saturday's 28-14 defeat of Notre Dame marked Cal's second in a row and the third time in the last eight years that Southern California has knocked a Fighting Irish team from the unbeaten ranks.

The Trojans did it by out-playing the pride of the Irish—their defense. Southern Cal scored three touchdowns in the first 18 minutes of the game, more touchdowns than the Irish had given up all season, and the Trojans-defense, playing their best game of the year, added a fourth score midway through the second quarter to hand the Irish their first loss. Southern Cal now has a 3-4 record this fall while the Irish are 5-1.

It was Southern Cal's passing attack, with Jimmy Jones and Mike Rae doing the throwing and Edesel Garrison doing the catching, that carried them to victory.

Garrison's speed and moves were too much for the Irish defenders to cope with and the junior split end shock loose to snare a pair of touchdown passes and another long gainer that set up another Southern Cal scoring opportunity.

Most of the capacity crowd of 59,075 had turned out in hopes of watching the Irish gain revenge against Southern Cal, after being held to a 7-0 loss by the Trojans a year ago and the third time in the last four games in Cal's recent history. But on the Saturday of October 23rd heroics were to be denied, and it took the Irish scoring drive began on their own 46 after Jimmy Monaraca recovered a Mike Rae fumble, capped by Mike Zikan's jarring tackle.

The Irish quickly took advantage of the break, Brown firing a first down, 46 yard strike to Mike Creneny at the Trojan 12. Larry Parker picked up eight yards in two carries and then John "Casco" Cieszkowski powered into the end zone from four yards out on a third down play. Thomas added the extra point to make it 10-0 for the Irish.

But the Trojans again moved quickly down the field to score. Charlie Hinton ripped off a 66 yard return of Scott Smith's kickoff to the Irish 35, where Ellis booted the extra point to give the Trojans a 7-0 lead with 5:22 remaining in the first quarter.

It had taken Southern Cal just three plays to score from there. Garrison's speed and moves were too much for the Irish defenders to cope with and the junior split end shock loose to snare a pair of touchdown passes and another long gainer that set up another Southern Cal scoring opportunity.

Cornerback Bruce Dyer had given the Trojans the ball in good field position after intercepting a Cliff Brown pass at his own 22 and returning it 29 yards to the Irish 48. It took Southern Cal just three plays to score from there.

Edesel Garrison grabbed this pass from Jimmy Jones at the Notre Dame three yard line and romped in for the first Trojan touchdown. That's Clarence Ellis trying vainly to break up the play.

The Irish drove back to the Notre Dame 24, the Trojans went to the airways again and fired a strike to Garrison, who took the pass all alone at the three and romped into the end zone. Mike Rae booted the extra point to give the Trojans a 7-6 lead with 3:22 remaining in the first quarter.

The Irish weren't behind for long. Sophomore Gary Dimnick returned the ensuing kickoff 66 yards to the Trojan 34 where Willie Hall, the kicker, and the last man between Dimnick and the S.C. goal line, forged the superb halfback out of bounds.

It took Notre Dame seven plays, all on the ground, to reach paydirt, Andy Hall bulldozing over left tackle for the score with 2:11 left to play in the first quarter. Bob Thomas converted and the Irish were right back in the thick of things.

Jimmy Jones whipped a first down pass to tight end Charlie Young at the Notre Dame 35. After Sam (Bam) Cunningham carried for four yards, Jones went to the air again and fired a strike to Garrison, who took the pass all alone at the three and romped into the end zone.
