SMC presidential search now?

Priorities questioned

by Jodi Campbell

The search for a new St. Mary's President, and means for securing Notre Dame student cooperation in the protests over suspension of unification were the prime topics at last night's meeting of SMC student government officials with students and faculty.

The priorities of the protest over the decision were also discussed during the ninety minute session.

SBP Kathy Barlow said that she did not know if the presidential search SMC's acting president Sr. Alina Peter called for last week would be conducted as it was last year. Miss Barlow, a member of last year's search committee, reported that she has "not as yet been contacted" about a position for herself on the new committee.

Several people, including Barlow, questioned the necessity of selecting a new president, contending that immediate total merger by the two schools ought to be the goal of the current SMC administration.

student demands

Both Miss Barlow and Student Assembly Representative Eileen Fitzpatrick suggested that the current priorities be reevaluated in light of the "small amount of time" remaining in the semester. The semester ends Dec. 19th. Presently the priorities stand as they were presented in the first statement issued by Student Government. Those priorities are:-

1. Justification of the decision
2. The location of an outside arbitrator and -
3. A reversal of the decision

Barlow contended that since there are only two more weeks before vacation tactics could not afford to be "separated." SMC Physics professor, Dr. Mark A. Bam benek, in discussing the rationale the trustees set forth that the merger had to be completed by 1972 is "legitimate" because decisions summarized by December 1 for their decision to go into means for securing Notre Dame student cooperation in the protests over suspension of unification were the prime topics at last night's meeting of SMC student government officials with students and faculty. in participant in what is happening.

Barlow disputed Bam benek's statement by saying "We never put a date on it. The reopening of negotiations in our focus.

Fr. Maurice Amen CSC stated that, if when the reasons are located, "If they are good reasons we may make the same decision."

Mary Orr, SMC sophomore said, "People have different priorities. We might not think it's a good reason."

Bam benek queried, "If the reasons are valid, why are they secret? The decision was made by a group not in communication with those affected. Outside arbitration comes after inside communication breaks down...we never had any. I think if you're looking for the guys in white hats there aren't any."

Means of obtaining the cooperation of ND students were discussed.

"We must make the people over there more aware and conscious of why they haven't responded," Fr. Roger Cromier stated.

Don Mooney reported that an all night vigil will be held Tuesday Dec. 7. The vigil is scheduled for 10 pm and will be held in the administration building if that can be arranged. If the administration building is not available the student center will be used.

Darlene Gallina emphasized that the action was not only to show solidarity but also to educate the participants in what is happening.

The search for a new St. Mary's President, and means for securing Notre Dame student cooperation in the protests over suspension of unification were the prime topics at last night's meeting of SMC student government officials with students and faculty.

"It is basic to Christian ethics to never stop trying," Fr. Amen declared. "Education is one of the few things when good people will go down with the ship. If it's a bad ship they'll abandon it like hell."

He suggested that the demand for arbitration be modified to let faculty, students, administration and trustees make decisions together.

The statement also presented a proposal that the two boards meet jointly, in an open meeting and that the two schools should continue at the present level of cooperation.

India to follow P.O.W. rules, recognizes Bangla Desh rebels

(C) 1971 Washington Star

New Delhi, Dec. 6--As Indian troops pushed into East Pakistan from all sides, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi announced today India's formal recognition of the government of Bangladesh (Bengal nation).

This declaration that East and West Pakistan no longer exist as one nation provides a legal basis for cooperation between India and her new ally.

The Indian government, which had originally sponsored the Bangla desh government as an exile regime in Calcutta, is now seeking to exercise some control over Bangla desh military forces which she armed andtrained.

India has publicly proclaimed that she will observe Geneva Convention rules for prisoners in East Pakistan, and wants the local insurgent forces to do the same. This is intended to encourage the Pakistani army to surrender.

An Indian military spokesman said today that East Pakistan is now isolated from West Pakistan, with no hope of receiving reinforcements or supplies. India's policy is to try to avoid head-on battles so far as possible.

But Bangla desh spokesmen have said in the past that their forces would take no prisoners from the army which they said has murdered, raped, pillaged and burned East Pakistan.

India is trying to bind its new ally to military convention which will prevent this attitude and therefore offer hope of avoiding bitter last-ditch fights by the 3½ Pakistani divisions in the East.

India has guided the exile regime since its founding. But the Indian government has become increasingly worried that the moderate leaders of the Bangla desh government might be outflanked by more radical forces if the struggle goes on indefinitely.

A foreign ministry spokesman said it was too early to say where the Bangla desh government would be established now -- with Dacca still held by the Pakistani army -- and where India's new ambassador would be sent. No ambassador has yet been named.

More on India-Pakistan war on pages 3 and 10
Traffic Advisory Board.

Students in matters relating to advisory body to the Dean of Community, will act as an advisory to Notre Dame and the co-ex program will be out down. Obviously, she said, they stand to lose by this decision. Miss Barlow reiterated her demand of a whole reversal of the no-merger decision. "There is a need to put pressure on Notre Dame's Administration and Trustees, and we are preparing actions now," she said.

"As far as St. Mary's is concerned right now, actions are continuing and things are going very well," she added. In a related move, Kathy Barlow released the following telegram from Trustee Fr. Neil McCluskey.

---

By Daniel P. Rock

St. Mary's Student Body President Kathy Barlow said yesterday that she "disliked" the wording of the statement of Notre Dame's Student Government released Sunday night.

"The statement deceived the injustice of the recent merger cancellation. It asked for the "proof" in cooperation with the four college deans and department chairmen" to clarify details of procedures for St. Mary's students getting ND's degrees. "In general," Miss Barlow said, "It's obvious that the writers already have accepted the decision. Even though they support the strike, they themselves aren't taking any action—they aren't taking any part in the strike."

Miss Barlow said that the word "deceived" used by the Student Government does not have the "right perspective." According to Miss Barlow, if ND Student Government "deceived" the lack of information supplied to the students, they should have demanded the information.

Miss Barlow also said that the Student Government of Notre Dame also limited themselves to three categories: co-ex classes, students and primarily degrees.

"The part of degrees is just a small part of a larger picture," she said, "Where is the other one?...the decisions and the people who made them? What are they going to do with the Notre Dame Administration?"

Although Miss Barlow agreed with the statement's contention that many students at Notre Dame expressed apathy about the non-merger because Notre Dame is going co-ed anyway, she said that Notre Dame students must realize that a small number of girls will be taken in to Notre Dame and the co-ex program will be out down. Obviously, she said, they stand to lose by this decision. Miss Barlow reiterated her demand of a whole reversal of the no-merger decision. "There is a need to put pressure on Notre Dame's Administration and Trustees, and we are preparing actions now," she said. "As far as St. Mary's is concerned right now, actions are continuing and things are going very well," she added. In a related move, Kathy Barlow released the following telegram from Trustee Fr. Neil McCluskey.

---

McCluskey telegram

To Kathy Barlow

Shocked by decision to postpone merger made totally without my participation during October 22 Board meeting. I repeatedly stressed impossibility of turning back and urge completion of merger made totally without my backing.

We're doing it in several ways. Through company magazines and plant locations. These conferences permit deep probing of sticky questions. They help us to understand the concerns of students. But they involve relatively few students and GE people.

So we're going to share some of the questions and answers (like the ones above) with you by continuing our ads in college newspapers. And we'll make sure our people see your questions, too—through company magazines and plant newspapers.

We think your concerns are important. And we think you should know how seriously we take them.

---

Remember these ads?

We ran them in a lot of college newspapers last year. Their purpose was to answer some of the critical questions students were asking about our company. Maybe you saw them. A lot of students did. And a lot wrote to us about them. In many cases the ads triggered additional questions, questions so provocative that we've decided to expand our communications with college students.

We're doing it in several ways. We've already started to have conferences of student opinion leaders and GE people at our various plant locations. These conferences permit deep probing of sticky questions. They help us to understand the concerns of students. But they involve relatively few students and GE people.

So we're going to share some of the questions and answers (like the ones above) with you by continuing our ads in college newspapers. And we'll make sure our people see your questions, too—through company magazines and plant newspapers.

We think your concerns are important. And we think you should know how seriously we take them.
Evacuations and curfews are rule in East Pakistan

by James P. Sterba

Vol. VI, No. 58

Second Front Page

Tuesday, December 7, 1971

Dacca by night

Evacuations and curfews are rule in East Pakistan

by James P. Sterba

Dacca, Pakistan, Dec. 4 (Delayed) — The city is lightless at 8:30 P.M. Nothing moves. A 5-30 curfew pulls people from the streets. Tannery candles, pulled, candles burn shaded from windows. There are few sounds. A dog howls now and then, a jeep or truck slips by, lights out. The clouds have dimmed the moonlight, the stars are faint. The crews, after a day of soaring aircraft fire, have ceased their noisy vigil. The capital of East Pakistan is listening and waiting. They also say an Indian SU-7, a Soviet-built fighter, was forced to land at the airstrip. Two Pakistani F-16s were downed, they said, one hit by Pakistani ground fire while chasing an Indian MiG-21.

It was quite unfortunate, but at least the Indians did not get it," they added.

The raids provided a spectacular show for thousands of Dacca residents. Tiny children were blacked out and the windows taped. "Sometimes when antiaircraft shells popped too close, hall lights are on but room and ground-floor lights were out. Reporters saw four downed aircraft over Dacca during the raids. United Nations aircraft—an American C-130 Hercules—is coming from Bangkok to take them out. Children are confused; some whine. The hotel's on their way to the airport from the middle of town, about 50 journalists are in the hotel punching their typewriters by candlelight and collecting scraps of information. Photographers and film double order—fruit cocktail and iced tea with lime."

Some aid to India

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.

WASHINGTON-5 continuing to brand India as the "Main Aggressor" in the conflict with Pakistan. The United States today suspended a large portion of its economic aid to New Delhi. The State Department, reflecting the Nixon Administration's anger at Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Government, announced that it was cutting off $87.6 million in development loans. Charles W. Bray III, the department spokesman, said that the freeze should be viewed in the context that "The United States is not making a short-term contribution to the Indian economy to make it easier for the Indian government to sustain its military efforts."

U.S. suspending some aid to India

by Bernard Greisman

Vol. VI, No. 58

Second Front Page

Tuesday, December 7, 1971

World Briefs

(C) 1971 New York Times News Service

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

United Nations, N.Y.—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the U.N. General Assembly that his government was willing to resume negotiations with Egypt on the basis of the program drawn up by six African heads of state for the organization of African unity. The program has not been made public, but reportedly does not call for an Israeli withdrawal commitment before the talks begin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.

World Briefs

(C) 1971 New York Times News Service

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

United Nations, N.Y.—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the U.N. General Assembly that his government was willing to resume negotiations with Egypt on the basis of the program drawn up by six African heads of state for the organization of African unity. The program has not been made public, but reportedly does not call for an Israeli withdrawal commitment before the talks begin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.

World Briefs

(C) 1971 New York Times News Service

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

United Nations, N.Y.—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the U.N. General Assembly that his government was willing to resume negotiations with Egypt on the basis of the program drawn up by six African heads of state for the organization of African unity. The program has not been made public, but reportedly does not call for an Israeli withdrawal commitment before the talks begin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.

World Briefs

(C) 1971 New York Times News Service

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

United Nations, N.Y.—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the U.N. General Assembly that his government was willing to resume negotiations with Egypt on the basis of the program drawn up by six African heads of state for the organization of African unity. The program has not been made public, but reportedly does not call for an Israeli withdrawal commitment before the talks begin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.

World Briefs

(C) 1971 New York Times News Service

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

United Nations, N.Y.—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the U.N. General Assembly that his government was willing to resume negotiations with Egypt on the basis of the program drawn up by six African heads of state for the organization of African unity. The program has not been made public, but reportedly does not call for an Israeli withdrawal commitment before the talks begin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.

World Briefs

(C) 1971 New York Times News Service

Washington—President Nixon met with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau in the first of his scheduled five meetings with Western leaders before his trip to Peking and Moscow. Trudeau was reported to have discussed with the President the recent meeting with Soviet Premier Alexi N. Kosygin.

United Nations, N.Y.—Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the U.N. General Assembly that his government was willing to resume negotiations with Egypt on the basis of the program drawn up by six African heads of state for the organization of African unity. The program has not been made public, but reportedly does not call for an Israeli withdrawal commitment before the talks begin.

Washington—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Lewis F. Powell, Jr., to the Supreme Court. The vote was 96 to 1, vote, with the lone opposing vote cast by Sen. Fred R. Harris. The Senate then began to debate the more controversial nomination of William H. Rehnquist. A vote on that nomination is not expected until at least the end of the week.

Washington—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's bid for the Democratic Presidential nomination will be endorsed this week by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, sources in Washington said. The endorsement will be one of the most important for Muskie since he is the leading Democrat in California, which holds one of the most important primaries.
ND-SMC student leaders issue first joint demands

Student leaders on both campuses have joined forces todemand that Trustees from Notre Dame and St. Mary’s resume merger negotiations by January 1972, Eric Andrus, spokesman for the two groups announced yesterday.

The joint statement released after last night’s meeting marked the first unified action by groups on the two campuses.

As men and women who consider themselves members of one academic and social community, we join in the call for a reevaluation of the recent decision to reverse the merger of ND-SMC.

The goal of a new conductional institution is one toward which we have worked collectively for several years. We cannot allow this goal to be abandoned without protest.

We acknowledge the fact that it is not only the women of SMC who have been insulted by the decision, but that members of both communities have been done serious injustice.

The situation which the proposed merger would have remedied is described as one of segregation.

Violence in sports

by Jack Kelly

"The poor sooner or later will be heard, non-violently, but loudly. I have noticed the violence inherent in American Football and contrasting it to the philosophy of the Catholic Church." The preceding is a quote from a letter recently received by Notre Dame President, Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh, protesting the violence of American Football.

The letter from Nick Matavulli, Indiana Youth Soccer Organizer, was a plea to "educators on our Catholic campuses" to consider themselves members of one community.

However I noticed the excellent facilities provided for Football, Hockey, and Baseball."

As a holder of the "Christian Communities" in the decision-making process. 3. The present secrecy regarding the reasons for the decision is an insult to students and faculty of both communities, and carries the implication that negotiations were not conducted in good faith.

In the last week, the responsibility has been placed on the "poor" and "non-rich" and "Christian Communities" in the decision making process.

"The poor sooner or later will be heard, non-violently, but loudly. I have noticed the violence inherent in American Football and contrasting it to the philosophy of the Catholic Church."

Specifically Matavulli wanted Fr. Hesburgh to "maintain a team." He felt however the Fr. Hesburgh had "skirted the issue of the violence of football, because of its monetary relevance at Notre Dame."

Matavulli also stated that he had written the "FOPPE" in a hope that "he could as an intelligent Catholic, like Fr. Hesburgh, possibly help the cause to increase the non-violent sport of soccer on our Catholic Campuses."

INTERVIEW CANCELLED?

YOUR AIR FORCE IS HIRING

At these typical annual salaries for Junior Officers:

- $8,300 at entry (9,500 if you fly)
- $10,200 after 2 years (12,000 if you fly)
- $12,100 at 3 years (13,900 if you fly)

With many sweet fringe benefits.

THERE IS STILL TIME! Call ext. 6635 WITHOUT DELAY!

COLOR IN THIS "MINI-PRESIDENTIAL" POSTER" OF ONE OF THE CANDIDATES!

1. Buy a whole bunch of flair pens. You need black, red, blue, green, brown, orange, yellow, pink, purple, grey, aqua & blue. (You need them anyway for school.)
2. Now—color in the picture according to these color guide numbers. Black (1), Red (2), Blue (3), Green (4), Brown (5), Orange (6), Yellow (7), Pink (8), Purple (9), Grey (10).

Aquas (11), Olive (12). Please do not color in numbered areas.

3. Congratulations! You have created a genuine full-color portrait of someone you know and love. Maybe, if he is not your favorite presidential candidate, have the personality. You'll see your man soon in the Fair Election Collection!
by Eric Pace
(c) 1971 New York Times

UN cease-fire bids killed by vetoes

United Nations, N.Y., Dec. 6—The Security Council debate on the Indian-Pakistan war bogged down further today as diplomatic moves toward a cease-fire resolution founders on the fluctuating fortunes of new votes in the Security Council.

The possibility of shifting the debate to the General Assembly was raised as council members, growing increasingly impatient, urged the United Nations to make some move toward stopping the bloodshed.

Secretary General U Thant, who returned to his office today after an illness of more than a month, reported meanwhile, that “active” shelling and airstrikes by both sides were continuing in Kashmir.

Quoting U.N. observers along the Kashmir cease-fire lines, Thant said that “no ground moves were reported by either either, however, in the 24 hours preceding 11 a.m. today,
West Pakistan time.

On the East front, a U.N. spokesman here reported, both sides had agreed to cease hostilities near Dacca for four hours so that U.N. and non-Pakistani civilian personnel could be evacuated to Dacca by air.

No agreement was reached in the council chamber, however.
The Nicaraguan representative, Guillermo Sevilla-Sacasa, expressed the mounting desperation here when he called onto the United Nations to act. He said:

“Neither the Security Council nor the General Assembly can remain motionless while machineguns do away with thousands of lives in a region where understanding should flourish and brotherly understanding. This is all I wish to say, Mr. President. I wish to say only this at the hour of grave responsibility which is vested in us Mr. President: Let us do something and do it soon.”

But as the debate droned on to its third day, Italy withdrew a draft cease-fire resolution and France announced that her ef-et toward framing another resolution had failed.

No resolution has been passed even though there is no veto power.

Shauline, wearing his usual Mao suit, spoke to Makl: “I am most willing to listen to you, sir, because this will enable myself and others to see more clearly the true features of Soviet imperialism.”

Malik made no such criticisms of Huang, early in the debate today. He concerned himself largely with procedural issues, which have contributed to, and complicated, the stalemate between the two countries, which have the veto power.

Mandl of the Soviet Union, reminded the council that U.N. machinery existed for transferring debate on a crisis issue

The legal basis for Air Pollution Control” will be discussed in a 1-hour lecture by Sheldon J. Plager, professor of law at the University of Illinois, at 8 p.m. Tuesday (Dec. 7) in Room 205 of the University of Notre Dame’s Engineering Hall.
The talk, sponsored by the Midwest Universities’ Committee on Air Pollution, will be piped by closed circuit
radio to member institutions of the Committee. Plager’s talk is the second in a series of six planned by the group.

“The Legal Basis for Air Pollution Control” will be discussed in a 1-hour lecture by Sheldon J. Plager, professor of law at the University of Illinois,
at 8 p.m. Tuesday (Dec. 7) in Room 205 of the University of Notre Dame’s Engineering Hall.
The talk, sponsored by the Midwest Universities’ Committee on Air Pollution, will be
piped by closed circuit
radio to member institutions
of the Committee. Plager’s talk
is the second in a series of six planned by the group.

Gulf

10 % OFF
On any mechanical work and winterizing
Snow tires included

For Students and University Personnel

From one beer lover to another.

© 1971 New York Times
The un-merger is a week old now and doesn't look as if it is going to suffer the quick demise so many are wishing upon it. That it is living, and will probably continue to live is a shame. It's a shame because the decision is atrocious and deserves quick and final oblivion. All protesting done so far has been done by St. Mary's students. They are losing a great deal by the decision—losing Notre Dame diplomas and 1500 girls that are walking around and sitting in class—girls that are generally available to converse with, to exchange pleasantries with, and to share learning with. If un-merger sticks, and if St. Mary's girls are charged some ridiculous credit hour fee to take courses over here next year then there won't be students will have the benefit of even the partial co-education we have now. Instead we will be faced with the largely unpalatable situation now being cooked up by Hesburgh and Co. Instead of having over 1700 women to co-educate with, we'll have 400, maybe. That, contrary to whatever opinion you subscribe to, is not co-education. That is the old game played out by the Ivy League schools—bring enough women here to dress up the place, enough women to continue to attract top applicants who aren't interested in a monastic type life, enough women so that the Justice Department can't sue the university for discrimination on the basis of sex. Notre Dame can't or won't admit enough women to make co-education a reality. At best their plan is a half-measure, as it was designed to be. Without unification the half measure is a ploy—a pitiful ploy at that. A real disaster—a real disaster for students on both sides of the road. St. Mary's girls would be forced to limit their education to the small number of courses offered there; neither they nor the Notre Dame students will have the benefit of even the partial co-education we have now.

Well, it will. The present Sophomores and Freshmen will suffer the withdrawal pains of co-ex replaced by Notre Dame's brand of co-ed. Think about, think about this campus with a third-less women, think about your classes with a third-less women. Then, call Notre Dame Student Government and see if they need some help. And show up at LaFortune tonight at 10 p.m.

ND is getting it up!
Fred Schaefer

It's really strange walking into the prison - it's kind of ominous. There's three gates that you have to go through, and you really oppress a feeling and then when you meet the inmates, it's really quite a surprise. Most people expect to meet a criminal type, but it's surprising to see what regular guys they are. They're a lot like people that we know outside. The stereotype is pretty easily broken once you get to know them.

Gannon said that there are some "extra-talented guys" in the prison. Some are artists who are allowed to sell their work. The money collected is put into a trust fund. There are also some bands, a music club, and a group that is planning to put on a "Jesus Christ Superstar" sometime before Christmas.

The education program in which the students participate is helpful to the inmates, but there is no educational training in the program. There are a few inmates who teach skills which they are conversant with, but as Gannon is quick to point out, they are not really trained people. But, there are no accommodations for a vocational education program.

The jobs that some of the inmates hold are really not rehabilitative and do not teach a skill. For example, many of the inmates work in the tag shop, or help make signs for the state road department. "The really nuts jobs, is one road sign maker on the outside, so it doesn't do these guys a whole lot of good," Gannon says.

The top wage is 80 cents a day and some of the prisoners work as much as 14 hours a day. As Gannon says, "There are some real dirty jobs there.

According to him, the conditions in Michigan City are pretty good when compared with conditions in other prisons across the country. The inmates are not as overcrowded as in many other prisons, like the Lorton Reformatory in Virginia. "For the most part, it's only one person to a cell here at Michigan City," he commented.

However, he did point out that there is only one doctor in residence for the 1,500 inmates. The tutoring program needs books - reference books, or books they and the prisoners can use as text books can be dropped off at the off-campus office, or boxes which will be placed in the halls.

This is the season of giving - give some prisoner a chance to help himself.

Russell Baker

two tales from the chrome jungle

by Gladwin Hill

Santa Cruz, Calif. - A very rare kind of salamander known to exist only around one small pond here was saved from extinction today by the Santa Cruz county board of supervisors who voted against turning the habitat into a trailer park.

There are estimated to be no more than 500 to 1,000 specimens of the little heard lizard-like creature known as the Santa Cruz long-toed salamander, surviving from a species that goes back as much as 10,000 years.

In the wake of the county's rezoning, conservation groups are organizing efforts to make the salamander area, consisting of about 150 acres, into a preserve where the animals will be permanently protected.

cram into mouth

The tract is valued at upward of $50,000. The Santa Cruz type is distinguished by metallic-looking orange-gold spots running down the middle of its black back, and its eyes are lifted...and clothes, and we put a down payment on a house, and the girls and I had all our teeth capped, and I had my breasts lifted.

And, oh yes, we bought ski equipment...and clothes, and we put a down payment on a house, and the girls and I had all our teeth capped, and I had my breasts lifted.

"And, oh yes, we bought ski equipment...and clothes, and we put a down payment on a house, and the girls and I had all our teeth capped, and I had my breasts lifted."

For that matter, they never seem to lack money, except when there is some unutterable, unextanting, good-fellow, loan-company handset artist waiting in the next scene to pay their bills. The rest of the day, they are busy solving their little nonproblem problems by splurging money on shirts at inflated prices, instant "wetness" cues, and a new razor blade so wonderful it will shave hared wire with grandmother's eye snap.

The world of television commercials is entirely changeable, although most of the problems being confronted there this fall are the same problems among the young the season is saving exactly the same way twenty years ago. Nobody in commercials solves his identity crisis anymore with a cigarette, which is one point at which the people of the commercials have gained on the rest of us.

There does not seem to be as much trouble with men's hair grooming as in the past. Unusually dandruff seems to have disappeared from television, rather in the way tonsillectomy have in the real world since doctors have overcome the pathogenic bacteria.

The problem of the slow starting car, it is continuing its battle, shown worse off for those cold winter mornings. How pleasant this is to be even so briefly at a world where a car problem is a car that starts slowly on a winter morning.

In the world as it is, we accept slow starting on winter mornings without saying why. Not even one slip of summer morningsStarts us too much, although it is admittedly an irritant. An irritant, not a problem. In the world as it is, a car problem is a car that has been in the repair shop for two weeks and a man who has to be telephoned and wishes you would quit annoying him about it.

It is not healthy to spend too much time watching the people who live in the television commercials. They have been locked up in that tube for too long. At least since 1962, at a guess.

derosol opinionsville newman is newman is

Once in a long while, someone like Randy Newman will come along, and people will stop and listen; for although Randy Newman is not like anyone else, he is not that much unlike you and me. One very obvious difference is that he sings. Another is something a little more involved. Like talent, along with the need to speak his mind; and the ability to do it through music.

Although his name is fast becoming one of the most respected in the music business, Randy Newman, to a lot of people remains an enigma. The question keeps coming up, "Hey, what's this Randy Newman thing?" And they listen to the album, and they start to answer themselves, and then they stop. They play the album again. And maybe, just maybe, it will come across that Randy is doing something very special. He's singing a song in terms so straightforward and direct that sometimes you bypass it, and sit there knowing that he's just done something, but you aren't quite sure what it is.

And the truth of the matter is that you have to listen. Randy is a man who makes no pretentions about being honest; he just is. There is no muffling glitter to color up any empty spaces that may arise in his music. And if there are any, then they are Randy Newman Empty Spaces, and it is obvious why they are there.

Wis music is a very personal thing, and what comes across, above all, is that he is at all times himself. His work is not the kind that is tailored for anyone else; his only compromises are internal ones.

His first album, entitled simply "Randy Newman," is not only good, but it is also the kind that could easily be labeled a collection of singles. Each song is an individual statement, and individual experience. It's not a particularly easy thing to pull together a total album concept when there are 76 people working on it with you. Randy Newman's album is an outstanding example that it can be done.

Born in Los Angeles, California, on November 28, 1943, he spent the first three years of his awake life traveling with his family. First they moved to New Orleans, then Jackson, and then lived briefly in Mobile before returning to Los Angeles. By the time he was fifteen, and a student at University High School, he was writing music for Metric Music Co. in Los Angeles. Graduating on time, he then moved to UCLA, where he majored in music composition for four years, and once again graduated on time.

In the four years that elapsed between his graduation from UCLA and the release of his first album, Randy did little else but what he wanted: writing a little, reading a lot, maybe looking out of a window. Important things. Among them, learning how to wait, for Randy isn't a man of immediate action. "I never really wanted to do anything. Really. I never have. My decisions have always been made for me. Much easier that way." Ambition is a secondary thing to Randy. If something becomes a need, then that is different. But until then, Randy has time to wait.

In 1967 came marriage to Roswitha, his wife. And not long after came Amo Newman, their son. "You know, Amo is really a very underrated name. So is Harry now that I think of it. Yeah, you know..." He may go on for some time unless you're careful.

The truth of the matter is, there really isn't anything mysterious about Randy Newman. He gets nervous around tape recorders, smokes a lot, drinks Fresca, and probably reads more than anything else. His musical influences are few, mainly his two uncles, Alfred and Lionel Newman. He is, in essence, the guy next door who sings.

But his music is something else. His song "I think it's Going to Rain Today" has been sung repeatedly by artists such as Dave Van Ronk and Joni Mitchell. It was also one of the hit singles to come off Judy Collins' "In My Life" album. Van Ronk calls him "the Hoagy Carmichael of the '60s." And he may not be that far off. Randy's songs are musical statements drawn out of his soul and put together with his head. Sometimes they seem like a cry, sometimes a wail from somewhere very far away. And sometimes like one long sigh. But the essence of them all is the unspoken feeling from which his songs have come, and to which you, as the listener, go.
The following was written by a St. Mary's student to a friend at St. Mary's, many miles away by letter, as much as an attempt to relate the feelings and decisions of the last few days. It was hoped that others might benefit by the letter.

dear jim,

of late you have been asking me "where's the story?", the reason that haven't been able to answer you is that i haven't known, and still don't. and even the past week has been a busy one. work, the un-merger, but most of all thinking and feeling have consumed me to such a degree that i haven't been writing, maybe the best story is one about a group of people who were beginning to drift apart and unite, they came out of themselves and united in the face of dis-unification.

as of the semester neared, most of us became caught up in our studies, assignments, etc. and began to only live with people not taking the time to relate to them, or maybe i should say with no one taking the time to relate to us. speculation of the future, the possibility of transfer, combined with a need for security, brought us out of ourselves...me out of myself anyway. i began to think about transfer, about what we wanted to do the long vacation ahead, and about my priorities. suddenly, it was very clear to me that the people i have been living with these past few months had come to mean very much to me. we all were forced to stop and look at our lives, what we wanted to do, what we thought, and because of it, we grew closer together and more aware of what friendship and love really mean to us.

the basis of dis-unification itself is a closer community than has existed yet this year. perhaps this is why i am hopeful and foresee good things.

sincerely
mary

Editor

You apparently do not accept letters to the editor and give that omission of the prior to your readers. so undoubtedly you will say that i am taking up much space for this answer to your editorial of November 15th "The Only Alternative Left" (your "poor things").

whether you give or reject the chance to be heard, i would like to commend Sister Alma of St. Maria. she has been very courageous. so is easy to be the "good Joe" and say yes to demands, but it takes conviction and purpose to say no to demands, to help our friends not be "good Jo es" and now we want them to be "good Joe s".

God bless.

Francis the fourth floor Flanner freshman fag

Editor

For those who had the moral stamina to remain here and challenge the war in the courts it was a particularly heavy price. However it should be kept in mind that there are many other causes in fact broken the law and in breaking a duly constituted law by they have been penalized. No matter what their intention or purpose there cause resister has felt his commitment to be such that he has defied the law of the land.

It would seem more appropriate to quietly endure our loss rather than exacerbate wounds that are just beginning to heal.

Mike Sullivan '72

Editor

You noted on your December 1st editorial that "Nuns, like most people, are going to tend to harden their position when they're atacked.

Perhaps your discussion of the merger question would generate more light and less heat if you gave some of your editorials less invective.

Sincerely,

Michael_S. Jones P.1. Box 20

Editor

To the writer of the editorial article in Nov. 30, 1971 observe in time of truth people should work together not condemn through ignorance. Tell it what you may, temporary emotionalism, ignorance of history, or outright cruelty, there should be a public apology to the president and sisters of St. Mary's College also to the sisters of Holy Cross Order.

In making the University of Notre Dame the great Catholic school the sisters sacrificed their old college to make this place grow and be a place on the map. The Holy Cross Sisters worked from here in sun to rain in sun and then after that in the chapel, the University of Notre Dame as they would to do too many students coming in contact with them and all they asked for was a prayer. Today the sisters are seeking protection for their many retired members more than not than go on the county and all they get is abuse from the men of Notre Dame. Instead of degradation there should be a work of thanks and appreciation, you really like to think of this great intellectual pursuit of late you have been asking me "where's the story?", the reason you may , temporary emotionalism, ignorance of history, or outright cruelty, there should be a public apology to the president and sisters of St. Mary's College also to the sisters of Holy Cross Order.

In making the University of Notre Dame the great Catholic school the sisters sacrificed their old college to make this place grow and be a place on the map. The Holy Cross Sisters worked from here in sun to rain in sun and then after that in the chapel, the University of Notre Dame as they would to do too many students coming in contact with them and all they asked for was a prayer. Today the sisters are seeking protection for their many retired members more than not than go on the county and all they get is abuse from the men of Notre Dame. Instead of degradation there should be a work of thanks and appreciation, you really like to think of this great intellectual pursuit

LETTERS

Editorial of November 15th "The Only Alternative Left" (your "poor things") - let's case been turned down by government body to try for good sense.

You apparently do not accept letters to the editor and give that omission of the prior to your readers. so undoubtedly you will say that i am taking up much space for this answer to your editorial of November 15th "The Only Alternative Left" (your "poor things").

whether you give or reject the chance to be heard, i would like to commend Sister Alma of St. Maria. she has been very courageous. so is easy to be the "good Joe" and say yes to demands, but it takes conviction and purpose to say no to demands, to help our friends not be "good Jo es" and now we want them to be "good Joe s".

God bless.

Francis the fourth floor Flanner freshman fag

Editor

For those who had the moral stamina to remain here and challenge the war in the courts it was a particularly heavy price. However it should be kept in mind that there are many other causes in fact broken the law and in breaking a duly constituted law by they have been penalized. No matter what their intention or purpose there cause resister has felt his commitment to be such that he has defied the law of the land.

It would seem more appropriate to quietly endure our loss rather than exacerbate wounds that are just beginning to heal.

Mike Sullivan '72

Editor

You noted on your December 1st editorial that "Nuns, like most people, are going to tend to harden their position when they're atacked.

Perhaps your discussion of the merger question would generate more light and less heat if you gave some of your editorials less invective.

Sincerely,

Michael_S. Jones P.1. Box 20

Editor

To the writer of the editorial article in Nov. 30, 1971 observe in time of truth people should work together not condemn through ignorance. Tell it what you may, temporary emotionalism, ignorance of history, or outright cruelty, there should be a public apology to the president and sisters of St. Mary's College also to the sisters of Holy Cross Order.

In making the University of Notre Dame the great Catholic school the sisters sacrificed their old college to make this place grow and be a place on the map. The Holy Cross Sisters worked from here in sun to rain in sun and then after that in the chapel, the University of Notre Dame as they would to do too many students coming in contact with them and all they asked for was a prayer. Today the sisters are seeking protection for their many retired members more than not than go on the county and all they get is abuse from the men of Notre Dame. Instead of degradation there should be a work of thanks and appreciation, you really like to think of this great intellectual pursuit

LETTERS

Editorial of November 15th "The Only Alternative Left" (your "poor things") - let's case been turned down by government body to try for good sense.
Pakistan urges Soviet Union not to recognize Bengali rebels

By Hedrick Smith

Moscow, Dec. 6—Pakistan has privately urged the Soviet Union today not to follow India's recognition of East Pakistan as the independent nation of Bangladesh. Well-placed Soviet sources said today such a move was unlikely in the near future.

Moscow has steadily backed India in its confrontation with Pakistan, diplomatic sources said there was evidence that the Kremlin did not want a rift in its ties with the Soviet Union over the diplomatic relations with the new East Pakistan.

Informants indicated that Moscow would probably keep some foreign aid technicians in Pakistan deliberately to demonstrate its desire to maintain ties with Pakistan, although, like other nations, it may seek to remove dependents of its officials for safety reasons. When the Indian government extended recognition to Bangladesh today, it was known to have anticipated Soviet gradualism on this question.

"The Soviets will be very cautious," said one well-placed Asian diplomat. "They will only inch forward very slowly."

Soviet sources said Moscow anticipated a short war between Indian and Pakistani and, although concerned about Communist China's possible actions, was doubtful about Peking's intervention in the conflict, especially because of a recent political purge among the top command of the Chinese army.

Well-informed diplomats said the Indian strategy—coordinated with Moscow—was to achieve a quick and crushing victory over the Pakistani army in East Pakistan to enable a government of Bangladesh to begin operating in that region and to allow Indian troops to withdraw voluntarily. When it was explained to the Soviet Union that this would the Soviet Union go along with a resolution at the United Nations.

The Indian objective, as explained here, is to end all questions about the establishment of Bangladesh as a separate nation and thereby force other powers as well as Pakistan to accept it as a fact. The Indian government, well-placed diplomats said, was confident of now that the necessary military triumph could be achieved by next weekend, and Western specialists said Moscow's current tactics were in play for time at the United Nations.

Pakistan's ambassador, Jamsheed R. A. Marker, presented his government's complaints about Moscow's position to the Soviet foreign ministry this morning. Pakistan officials said.

In a 45-minute meeting with Andrei A. Fomin, director of the ministry's South Asian division, Marker was reported to have pressured the Soviet Union regarding disregard of Russian efforts to win a hearing at the United Nations for Bangladesh representatives and to have reminded Moscow that Moscow efforts to win a hearing at the United Nations for Bangladesh representatives and that the United Nations for Bangladesh representatives and that the United Nations for Bangladesh representatives and that the controlled Soviet press now calls the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.

On rare occasions has the Soviet Union referred to Bangladesh as an unfriendly act. Moscow is reported to have said that the "National Liberation Front of East Pakistan (Bangladesh)" was interpreted here as an important increase in Soviet advocacy of the East Pakistani independence movement.
by "Lefty" Hussman '73

The distance between the Stadium and the Tourney House is a lot longer than it looks for someone attempting the transition from football to basketball. But Willie Townsend made the move look quite natural in last night's 82-77 triumph over Western Michigan. The Notre Dame seniors turned in a strong performance and honored in (21) and in route to their second victory of the season.

The six-point final margin is deceptive, considering how the Irish had their team game coherence of the game almost from the beginning. In the first minutes, Mike Steele scored the game's first basket, followed by two Tom O'Mara assists. Finally, Willie Townsend hit a three-pointer and the Irish raced home in the sabre and started the celebration of the Irish with a 32 point performance. The Notre Dame's forte in the initial period was based on the three-point shot, which the Irish had a 53-47 advantage and the tending factor was in shots taken, as Notre Dame got off 13 more than Western.

However, the Bronze Broncos rallied to even the score at 50-50 with about six minutes left in the second half to give the Broncos a lead. The Notre Dame was downed by a 73-63 setback. Aside from Brokaw, the Notre Dame defense turned in a weak effort, as Peter Crotty was the only scorer in double figures, with 10 points. The primary reason for the Leprechauns' impotent offense was the frigid shooting percentage of 29 per cent. Notre Dame had 85 shots to Western Michigan's 57, but the Broncos made good on 66 percent of their shots.

Brokaw's night included hitting a respectable 12 of 16 from the field, and 8 of 16 free throws. Western Michigan had four players in double figures. The Bronco offense was keyed by Fred Ayers, 22 points, and Michael DiCicco, who oversaw the sweep, by defeating Vanderbilt 21-6, and Indiana 23-12. The Leprechauns, despite their unimpressive shooting, dominated the action in the first half. Late in the period, however, the Broncos rallied to even the score at 30-30 at halftime. Notre Dame's forte in the initial period was based on the three-point shot, which the Irish lacked the supporting cast. In gaining the sweep, the ND frosh, in which Brokaw again led the Irish with a 32 point performance.

In the balance, the ND schedule has toughened considerably, especially since the Irish entered the WCHA in '69-'70 but other factors indicate the upward trend in performance. This season's schedule was planned with the intention of overcoming the weakness of the Leprechauns' scoring ability. The14-player team of 57 points, just ahead of the visitors. Game honors in both scoring and rebounding went to Washington, who finished with 35 tallies and 13 rebounds.

Mike Steele scored the gam e's opening basket, highlighted by a three-point play, which the Irish trailed Drury 73-80 in the meeting's final event. The Irish swimmers had a strong showing in the swimming meet, as they won 40 Western Michigan swimmers. The Leprechauns, despite their unimpressive shooting, dominated the action in the first half. Late in the period, however, the Broncos rallied to even the score at 30-30 at halftime. Notre Dame's forte in the initial period was based on the three-point shot, which the Irish lacked the supporting cast. In gaining the sweep, the ND frosh, in which Brokaw again led the Irish with a 32 point performance.
Reporters film war near Dacca

(continued from page 3)

against the dollar. Market operators are certain that there will be a substantial realignment, and in trying to oust the authorities are bidding up German marks, Japanese yen, Swiss francs.
British pounds and other currencies toward levels they think will prevail when new rates are fixed.

Yet today were trading nearly 11 percent above the old parity, while marks were nearly 13 percent higher.

The price of gold hit $40 an ounce in Zurich, which matches the high set in early 1980 during a dollar crisis that was temporarily resolved by halting central bank operations in the gold market.

The 30-cent an ounce increase in the gold price was produced more by the India-Pakistan conflict than by monetary uncertainties.

Wealthy Indians and Pakistani are traditionally among the world's great golders. Gold is smuggled into the Middle East and sells for at least twice the price prevailing in Europe. The conflict was expected to boost this demand.

The currency changes in the market have assumed great importance in the battle over the realignment, in which the United States is seeking maximum advantage for the dollar.

The weaker the dollar is in the market, the more important the American position at the bargaining table.

The process was accelerated after a meeting of the group of 10 finance ministers in Rome last week. Meeting today by the West German Central Bank in Frankfurt showed that other countries have appreciated 6.5 percent against the dollar since last Monday, on a basis weighted in terms of sales with the U.S.

WANTED
Make extra money on immediate commission basis. Call 356-0393.

Nursed by N.Y. City.
Dine, rest and a new Jersey area for Centralia for a time. All expenses and anything else.
Dine well and nice. Call 355-4270.

Need ride from Midwest (i.e.
closer to Springfield Illinois than to N.Y.) in N.Y. area between
Xmas and New Years. $110.

Wanted: Please sell me one spool for Christmas. Like my old one. Used and Cheap. Call 4582.

Need ride in N.Y.C. or Long Island.
Will share expenses and moving expenses. Leave 1215
Dec. 7. Please call Jeff 8936.

Need ride to Baton Rouge, La. area around 12 Dec. 73. Call 8327.

Need ride to Pittsburgh on or after
Dec. 15, Call Dennis 1749.

FOR SALE
Lose: $110.00 watch and papers
of any size for reasonable price. Leave after 4 pm Dec. 17.

FOR RENT
 Forrest: Why break your back?

A 16 year old Crow Indian
maiden, "Montana Shane":
posed for this old tintype in Miles
City of the Montana Territory.
This and other photos preserved
in the archives of Notre Dame's Memorial Library are the basis
signs of a new collection of books on American Indian history that will be available to an increasing number of Native American students attending the University and a faculty committee organized to serve their needs.

Approximately three dozen prospective students from the reservations in South Dakota
will be visiting the campus
beginning Thursday to meet,
share meals and attend classes
with Notre Dame students during the weekend.

A program of Indian dances,
songs and short welcoming messages is planned for 8 p.m.
Thursday (Dec 9) in Washington
Hall. Students wishing to join their basketball ticket to one of the visitors for the Saturday afternoon contest with St. Louis
the visitors for the Saturday afternoon contest.

In the West German Central Bank in Frankfurt showed that other countries have appreciated 6.5 percent
against the dollar since last Monday, on a basis weighted in terms
of sales with the U.S.

WANTED
Make extra money on immediate commission basis. Call 356-0393.

Nursed by N.Y. City.
Dine, rest and a new Jersey area for Centralia for a time. All expenses and anything else.
Dine well and nice. Call 355-4270.

Need ride from Midwest (i.e.
closer to Springfield Illinois than to
N.Y.) in N.Y. area between
Xmas and New Years. $110.

Wanted: Please sell me one spool
for Christmas. Like my old one. Used and Cheap. Call 4582.

Need ride in N.Y.C. or Long Island.
Will share expenses and moving expenses. Leave 1215
Dec. 7. Please call Jeff 8936.

Need ride to Baton Rouge, La. area around 12 Dec. 73. Call 8327.

Need ride to Pittsburgh on or after
Dec. 15, Call Dennis 1749.

FOR SALE
Lose: $110.00 watch and papers
of any size for reasonable price. Leave after 4 pm Dec. 17.

FOR RENT
 Forrest: Why break your back?

A 16 year old Crow Indian
maiden, "Montana Shane":
posed for this old tintype in Miles
City of the Montana Territory.
This and other photos preserved
in the archives of Notre Dame's Memorial Library are the basis
signs of a new collection of books
on American Indian history that will be available to an increasing number of Native American students attending the University and a faculty committee
organized to serve their needs.

Approximately three dozen prospective students from the reservations in South Dakota
will be visiting the campus
beginning Thursday to meet,
share meals and attend classes
with Notre Dame students during the weekend.

A program of Indian dances,
songs and short welcoming
messages is planned for 8 p.m.
Thursday (Dec 9) in Washington
Hall. Students wishing to join

The Hall President's Council Presents:
Budweiser
Tiffany Glass Candles
Beautiful Christmas Gifts
Six different scents
HPC giving all profits to give Christmas jobs
See your Hall President today Supply limited