Merger negotiations to resume

SMC to pay ND $150,000

The executive committee of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees agreed Tuesday to resume negotiations with St. Mary's College on the subject of the unification of the two schools.

The action followed a similar move by the St. Mary's trustees who met on December 18 and 19.

Five representatives from St. Mary's and its Board of Trustees including Mother Olivette Whalen and Sr. Alma Peter also attended the Tuesday meeting.

According to the official statement, "A cordial and extended discussion of unification of the two institutions took place."

"It was agreed that negotiating teams representing the two schools would work as soon as possible after February 1," the statement concluded.

The re-opening of negotiations followed an agreement by SMC to pay $150,000 as compensation for an increased teaching load on the Notre Dame faculty.

During the fall semester, St. Mary's student credit hours at Notre Dame exceeded Notre Dame student credit hours at SMC by 2,315 hours, according to University releases.

Le Mans Hall during the merger break-up protests: the decision has been reconsidered.

This trend of disparity continued after the tabulation of preregistration.

The disparity had increased to more than double. As of preregistration, SMC students would be taking 5,908 credit hours at Notre Dame while Notre Dame students would be taking 2,315 credit hours at SMC by 2,315 hours, according to University releases.

Sr. Alma Peter

Sr. Alma Peter confirmed yesterday an Observer report that she has resigned as acting president effective August 1972.

She tendered her resignation at the December 18 meeting of the Board of Trustees. In acknowledging the report, Sr. Alma indicated that she did not know what the plans of the Trustees would be in obtaining her replacement.

"With the reinstatement of negotiations for the unification of St. Mary's College and the University of Notre Dame, there may be no need for a St. Mary's president," she commented.

Sr. Alma based her prediction on one of the December 18 resolutions passed by the Board of Trustees. The resolution says that if negotiations toward unification do not materialize, then, the chairman of the Board is authorized to initiate steps toward choosing a president.

In announcing her decision, Sr. Alma, who has served as acting president since St. Mary's began 1950 as a chemistry instructor, is for a period of six months or a year. I realize that these are not ordinary times at Sr. Mary's, but I have now been serving president for a year and a half and will have completed two years by this summer.

"I feel it is best for St. Mary's College to have a new head for next year. I shall always be vitally interested in St. Mary's and I will do everything possible to continue the personal commitment that I have for unification," she concluded.

The Board has asked Mother Olivette to immediately start contacting persons recommended by last year's Presidential Search Committee before plans for reunification.

Sr. Alma declined to elaborate on her future plans after she leaves the presidency. The acting president did intimate, however, that she would remain within the St. Mary's-Notre Dame community.

Concerning yesterday's announcement to reopen negotiations with Notre Dame, Sr. Alma opined, "It personally am very optimistic." She hoped most of the paperwork for unification could be completed by April 30. Implementation of the projects would start immediately afterward, she forecasted, and continue over a three to five year period.

Sr. Alma's SMC college career began in 1950 as a chemistry instructor. As an administrator, she holds offices as dean of admissions and dean of freshmen (1951), academic dean (1966), assistant to the president (1969), and acting president (1970).
Parra announces Chicano caucus

by Greg S. Podoborasky

Richard Parra, executive director at the Mid-West Council of La Raza announced that on January 22 and 23 the Midwest Council of La Raza will hold their first conference at the Munkegon Community College in Munkegon, Michigan. The Council represents the estimated one and one-half million Mexican-American and Spanish-American in the states Great Lake and midwest area.

The conference will key on outstanding Raza leaders who will speak at it. Among these speakers will be Bert Corona, Jose Angel Gutierrez, Salvador Alvarez, Manny Ferrier, Salvador Alvarez, and Mrs. Jane Gonzalez.

Corona, a long time Mexican-America political activist, is one of the founders and past president of the Mexican American Political Association (MAPA) in California. Gutierrez is the founder of the Mexican American Youth Organization (MAYO) and is the founder of the La Raza Unida Political Party in Texas. He has been credited with designing many of that segment’s political victories in that state.

Professor Ramirez is a member of the sociology department at the University of Colorado, and has been a consultant in community organization for VISTA, Fierro, presently a candidate for Governor of Kansas, has among his credentials the directorship of the Human Needs Corporation and serving as a national consultant for the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Alvarez, a doctoral candidate at the Berkeley campus of the University of California, founded the Quinto Sol student organization that school, which was later to become the Quinto Sol Publications. Professor Alvarez is also a contributing editor for El Grito, a journal of Contemporary Mexican American thought.

Mrs. Gonzalez became the first Chicana to be elected to political office in Michigan when she won the position of councilwoman in the municipality of Norton Shores. She was recently named Community Leader of America by the National Biographical Institute.

The Executive Director also said that the Raza Student Caucus will be convened at this meeting to discuss such topics as greater recruitment of Raza in Midwest schools. Gil Cardenas, a doctoral candidate in Sociology at the University of Notre Dame will chair the caucus. Cardenas was one of the originators of MCICHA at the University.

Link named associate dean

Prevent Rev. James T. Burtchall has announced the appointment of Prof. David T. Link as associate dean of the Law School effective January 15. In this newly created position Link will work with Dr. Robert Gordon, vice president for advancement studies, in the administration of programs in the Law School.

Link received his undergraduate and Juris Doctor degrees from Notre Dame, the latter in 1961. He was appointed by the late President John F.

Special thanks to Beth Hall, Ken Kampman, T. O. Treanor, and Jerry Lukus for staying when things got a little wild.

Kennedy to the office of the chief of Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D.C., and served in that position for five years before becoming a partner in the Chicago law firm of Winston, Strawn, Smith and Patterson. A member of the Law School faculty since August, 1959, Link is the Chairman of the American Bar Association’s standing committee on law and technology.

Now you can fly to Europe for peanuts, here’s how little you shell out to get around:

$830 for Two Months of unlimited rail travel in Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland.

You shell out $130, and get a Student-Railpass. All you need is the bread and something to show you’re a bona fide student between 14 and 25.

Our Student-Railpass gives you all that unlimited rail travel on the 100,000 mile railroad networks of those 13 countries. For two foot-loose months, you have no avaricious air fares and Student-Railpass you've got Europe made.

Our Student-Railpass gives you Second Class travel on our trains. You'll find that there's very little about this class similar to air travel—except for being clean, fast, and absurdly punctual, the European trains have some other advantages for you. They take you from city center to city center, so you don't have to hassle airports. And the stations are helpful homes away from home, with Pictograms that give you information in the universal language of signs, and dining rooms, bookstores and other helpful facilities.

Now, here's the catch. You can't get your Student-Railpass or the regular First Class Eurailpass in Europe—you have to get them before you leave the country. So see your Travel Agent soon. Meanwhile, send in the coupon for a free folder, complete with railroad map.

Opposes expansion

SBA fights law school plan

by Jerry Lukens

Observer News Editor

The Board of Trustees of the Student Bar Association last night protested the decision to expand the present law building facilities. SBA president Tim Hartzer, President of the SBA voiced the Board's "strong opposition" saying "by expanding the facilities we're committing the law school to a status that it will likely retain for the future."

Hartzer said he felt that the issue could very well be a "tempest in a teapot." "We've been arguing this for about a year now and they've gone ahead with the plan. Maybe it's too late," he contended. "They've all but gone ahead and dug the hole."

Hartzer and Mike Bradley, President of the second year class, contended that the move commits the law school to an unprogressive philosophy. Hartzer felt that the Notre Dame Law School had the image of a "small, unprogressive, midwestern school." He said that they're freezing the law school into what it is now. They're perpetuating the image."

Bradley noted that his class will be alumni in two years and contended that they hope to have graduated from a "progressive, educative school." "The school has a continuing effect on our careers as we go along," Hartzer argued.

The two law school leaders concurred that the simple addition to the building was "continuing in the mold" and they felt that to break the mold, the law school must either build a new plant or transfer to another building.

Hartzer said that the reopening of the present law building facilities brought them more hope. "We will continue to pursue the possibility of using a building already on campus." In particular, Hartzer welcomed the possible use of Madaleva Hall as a good facility for the law school. There is widespread discontent with the decision, according to the SBA president. "It pervades all levels of the law school. There exists controversy at every area of the school."

"There is no strong sense of personal conflict or vindictiveness here. It's just that many people are confused and uninformed."

Dean Shaffer has been very available, according to Hartzer, but there has been a lack of "tremendous student concern in terms of numbers." The Student Bar Association (Continued on page 4)

Underman resigns after split with Barlow

by Ed Ellis

Observer Associate Editor

Saint Mary's Student Body Vice-President Missy Underman resigned from her position in Student Government shortly before Christmas because of a "conflict of philosophy" between herself and SBP Kathy Barlow.

In her statement of resignation, Miss Underman referred to a "select few" who made all the decisions in student government and then "merely informed" the rest of the student government of what was to be done on a given issue.

In an interview last night, she said, "There is a small clique making all the decisions, and that clique is not representative of the student body as a whole."

She also contended that, "there was a conflict of philosophies, ideals, personalities, and ways of getting things done."

Miss Underman's letter is on page 12

"When we ran for office together last year, I thought this would be good, because we would balance each other's personalities. For this to work, we both had to work, we both had to work together and keep lines of communication open."

"By my staying," said Miss Underman, "I would be condoning both Kathy's philosophy and her methods. I resigned so that I would no longer have any part of that student government."

Miss Underman said that other students in student government agreed with her, and that several times they had tried to talk to Miss Barlow.

"I can no longer compromise my personal values to fit those of others, and I can no longer work for ideals or actions that I do not believe in."

Former Saint Mary's student Body President Ann Marie Tracey said that "the problem is one of communication."

"Dean Gorman and I had serious disagreements about things," she said, "but we tried to cooperate and things worked out."

Miss Tracey said that apparently Kathy Barlow was not trying hard enough to maintain communication, and that Missy's resignation was the "natural" alternative.

Kathy Barlow, the person to whom most of the criticism was directed, said that she did not get the formal resignation until this week, and that she would comment today. She said, "It's unfortunate that it had to happen."

"She never changed."

"Insiders reported that the conflict between the two leaders has been growing all year. According to Miss Underman, the breaking point came during the protest activities immediately preceding the Christmas vacation."

"Kathy never solicited my opinion," she said. "I felt I had to be there 24 hours a day to make the opinions heard."

"When the four girls were picked to go to the Board of Trustees meeting, I was never consulted."

"The decision was made and I was told about it afterwards."

In her statement, Miss Underman said that all segments of the student body were not being represented in student government because of the control of the decisions by the select few.

She charged, "Some of the student leaders have continuously ignored the major portion of the student body and instead have used their positions to advance their personal philosophies and ambitions."

"The Vice-President," she said, "must be able to trust those with whom she works. My trust, particularly in the President, no longer exists."

Shaffer announces law school addition

by Jim Roe

Dean Thomas Shaffer of the Notre Dame Law School announced today a $1.6 million addition to and general modernization of the present Law Building.

The project, Schafer said, will be up for bids in April and construction will commence in June with scheduled completion before August of 1973. The addition, which will be constructed to the East of the Law School, will approximately double the usable space in the Law Building, according to Dean Shaffer. This new space will be used primarily for library expansion.

Included in the renovations are additional study areas and seminar rooms, and a new student lounge. The entire Law Building will be air-conditioned and the classrooms will be remodeled to allow multiple use. Along with the new addition the Law School will reduce enrollment from its current 500 to about 400.

According to Dean Shaffer these moves, coupled with the increase in application, will allow the Law School to change from the top prospects. Dean Shaffer considered the renovations a "definite" move which "places the Law School on the same level as other highly ranked schools."

Pledges will cover most of the costs. $386,000 of the estimated cost will be secured by a federal construction grant Dean O'Mara secured in 1967. The federal grant was due to expire in June of 1972 and the building project failed to materialize. The deadline, Schafer said, combined with the acute lack of library space to make the "new addition" possible for the next building. The architecture of the new addition will conform, "as much as possible," with the present Law Building. Schafer claimed..."

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame, has announced the resignation of Rev. Thomas E. Blantz, C.S.C., from the post of Vice President for Student Affairs. Fr. Blantz resigned after two years in the position to return to his activities as assistant professor of history and University Archivist.

Fr. Blantz, holder of a master's degree from Notre Dame, and a doctorate from Columbia, received a leave of absence from his academic post and was appointed to the Vice-Presidential office two years ago. He explained that he felt his other duties, especially teaching, would suffer if he continued in the post much longer. Citing the ever-increasing new researches in his field, Fr. Blantz said, "I'm afraid that if I stayed away too long I might find it too difficult to go back to history. Two years seemed a very suitable period."

Fr. Blantz also contended that a considerable amount of work was necessary to maintain and direct the University archives, remarking, "We have one of the best Catholic archives, the office should not be vacant." He said that on the whole he preferred teaching to administrative work, adding, "This has been a very satisfying position, but my whole background, training, has been in history, so it's not surprising that I would prefer teaching to the Vice Presidency."

Considering his past two years in the Student Affairs office, Fr. Blantz said he found the work "interesting, especially the contacts with students, and very satisfying. As to whether or not the two years have been fruitful, I'll let somebody else judge."

F. Blantz's successor in Student Affairs and in the administrative position on the Board of Trustees will be chosen by a search committee headed by Rev. James J. McGrath, C.S.C., associate professor of biology. The committee also includes SHP John B. Burkett, Rev. David B. Burrell, C.S.C., chairman of the Department of Theology; Dr. Thomas L. Facenda, vice president and general counsel to the University; James W. Frick, vice president for development and public relations; Dr. Thomas L. Shaffer, dean of the Law School; and Jeanne Swartz, chairman of the Ladies of Notre Dame faculty-student committee.

Blantz Steps Down

will circulate copies of their statement at the law meeting today in Washington Hall. Hartzer hopes that they will be given the chance to read it before the Assembly.

The statement contends the decision for the addition was made without the following considerations:

1) the likelihood of intolerable noise disruption during the school year;
2) the possibility of the total cost exceeding $1.6 million;
3) the short term adequacy of a $200,000 grant by proceeding with the proposal;
4) the relatively small saving of the proposal or previously announced plans for a graduate law program and distinguished visiting lecturers and professors;
5) the potential negative impact of the proposal on faculty recruitment;
6) the relationship of this decision to a commitment to excellence at this university and in the community of national law schools.

The Association plans further discussion of the proposal at a law meeting on Friday and Saturday.}

I was very disappointed to see in the Dec. 6 issue of The Observer a practical advertisement on p. 7 soliciting funds for a group known as The Buffalo. This group is accused of conspiracy, theft of government property and burglary in a draft records raid in Buffalo, New York. When asked to plead guilty or not guilty, they replied with the following statement:

"Simply stated, we stand for life, love, laughter, music, good friends, air, sunshine, all things green, living, and beautiful."

Well, Amen! I'm surprised "mom and apple pie" aren't on the list of things they are for! Do you suppose they really feel they are unique in being for these simple fundamental human joys?

Do you suppose they really feel that belief in these ideas constitute a genuine reason for the way laws are being made or enforced, then take the law into your own hands and to hell with everyone else. For after all, they (The Buffalo) possess a superior sense of justice and morality and must obey a "higher authority" which they alone determine what that authority demands without going through the hassle of democratic elections and convincing a majority that their ways are right. No, they alone know what that "higher authority" wants. Afterall, what does it? Joe Citizen knows what is moral and just when he continues to vote in support of a state that has a "diet of death, racism, and fear." Right Buffalo? Wrong. It has a "diet of death, racism, and fear." Right Buffalo? Wrong. It has a "diet of death, racism, and fear." Right Buffalo? Wrong. It has a "diet of death, racism, and fear." Right Buffalo? Wrong. St. Mary's must face reality

Curious. All the gymnastics; all the histrionics; all the cries of honor violated and honor defended; all of St. Mary's proud defiance has been washed away over the three-week vacation. The College has been severely dosed by reality, and the strangely subdued tones of St. Mary's spokesmen now make an interesting contrast to the showy anger of December's rhetoric.

Sister Alma has resigned as St. Mary's president; according to her, the presidential search committee will make no great rush to find a successor. Trustee Neil McCluskey, perhaps the college's most articulate spokesman, recently blamed not only Notre Dame intransigence but St. Mary's females - indefinitely.

But what specifically was the "unreasonableness?" Father McCluskey's statement regrettably stopped at that point. Other, unofficial, but highly reliable sources paint a far more gauzy picture.

According to those sources, the Sisters of the Holy Cross find the following conditions necessary for the good order of God and man at Notre Dame.

--That the St. Mary's campus maintain a constant ratio of one male to three females - indefinitely.

--That for the next five years, none but senior girls live on the Notre Dame campus.

--That at least one member of the Sisters of the Holy Cross be forever a Vice President of the University.

We had hoped that they had learned. We had hoped that the student strikes, the transfers and threatened transfers, the vision of ten bleak future years before a sorry and quiet demise, had taught the administrators and Trustees the most basic fact of this merger's fledgling life; There can be no future for an independent St. Mary's.

But they haven't, if our sources can be believed. They haven't, if Father McCluskey finds it still necessary to warn his own board against "unreasonableness." We'll find out in February, when the Trustees will exchange either a mass of important and useful suggestions or a welter of self-serving obfuscating polemics. We hope it will be the former. We believe it will be the former. But if it is the latter, that won't mean the project is doomed. Raspig, reluctant, slowly, and terribly deliberately, this merger is slouching towards Bethlehem to be born.

Dacca starts to pick up the pieces
by Fred Riehle

Dacca, Pakistan, (Jan. 19) -- Earth in a two-week war, by the government in West Pakistan, to crush their autonomy movement.

"Now we feel safe," said D. Das, the Hindu superintendent of the police.

Progress and more losses forced the civilians to retreat from their homes and on the outskirts of Dacca.

The feverish activity is the clearest of all the signs of revival that Dacca has seen after a four-day, 300-mile trip through the western half of the territory.

If Dacca and its suburbs were once those "Bengalis who had no fear," the countryside or to India would sit and almost cataclysmically into the distance.

Now the silence is broken.

The high pitched laughter of the Bengalis is once again as much a part of the daily routine as the creosol of bullock carts of the slanted homes.

The top six of bamboo stakes into the waters of the rivers.

Most important, people are doing things. No more cataclysmic paralysis. Returning refugees are pounding bamboo stakes into the ground for thatch huts.

Aircrafts are starting to build barges and canoes.

On balance, despite all the losses, the picture of life in Dacca could not be called grim.

Overlaying everything is the psychological fear of people, and that will, to at least some degree, ease their difficulties.

There is also a new spirit of sharing everywhere. In every city, town, visited, people who had once come in the picture of life in our homes and whose image intact were helping the less fortunate.

In Faridpur, for example, the merchants' association has given the poor, numbering more than 4,000, a free daily meal of khichuri, a mixture of rice, vegetable stew and mud.

They eat in shifts in an open courtyard, the food being served by members of the Multik Bani and other young volunteers.

The sharpest impression one gets in this part of Bangladesh is the Bengalis' strongest asset is their human.

The suspended students will have to follow regular application procedures, as only about 21 students were charged with shouting "freedom" according to the dean. Without presenting specific figures, Fr. Riehle said "several offenders" were suspended, others were arrested but not charged.

The other six are awaiting trial for allegedly breaking into the campus in Keenan Hall.

All disciplinary action in the case will be taken by Fr. Riehle since the defendants opted for a private hearing before Riehle.

The suspended not to appear before the dean, according to the Dean of Students.

Neither the University nor the vice presidents have pressure to new charges.

In another pre-Christmas security mat matter, 30 students in university's final year were brought before the dean.

The students pored into the campus and were neutralizing the advantages of the Pakistani's sexual appetite.

Those who remained were treated as "prisoners."

The most striking evidence of the population's memories of life in the reappears of the woman, large numbers of white girls bid to escape the Pakistani's sexual appetite.

Some who remained were tortured, and others were made to wear clothes and forced to sit in the streets.

For some people the fear went too deep and cannot be erased, away so soon.

There are some who run for shelter when a plane passes overhead.

Students face disciplinary action

by Don Ruane

Two students have been suspended, and six others are awaiting disciplinary action, according to the dean of Students a result of a Dec. 4 riot and fight on the North campus.

The incident was reported to the police that student had hair pulled from his head.

According to Fr. James L. Riehle, dean of students, the eight students involved in the fracas were suspended, and stopped near Zahm Hall where they had vandalized several disciplines.

Riehle refused to identify either the eight or the two passersby who tried to screech off by shouting at them from the quad.

One of the eight shot, Riehle said, two of the eight started a fist fight. One of the passersby was dragged 30 to 50 feet by his hair, leaving a bold spot approximately one inch on his head.

The other student was not injured.

The incident was reported to the police that the victims sought out the University Security and apprehended the eight the next day.

Riehle saidhe the eight had been drinking, but not heavily, before the incident.

If things go well in the Indiana legislature, every student on campus over 18 years of age will be able to sue and be sued by the university. After the two shouted, Riehle said the eight had been drinking, but not heavily, before the incident.

Now there's a course that pays $100 a month. Army ROTC.

In our Advanced Course the monthly subsistence allowance has just been increased. From $50 to $100. One hundred dollars every month for 10 months of the school year. To spend on room and board, dates and ball games. To save for grad school.

But Army ROTC means a lot more than more money. It means management and leadership experience that you just can't get anywhere else. The kind of thing that can land you a better job, and move you along faster once you get it. It means a commission as an officer and everything that goes with it. The prestige, the pay, the chance to travel, the experience.

Now ROTC looks even better. For the money you'll earn today. For the person you'll be tomorrow. See your Professor of Military Science, or send the coupon for information.

Army ROTC. The more you look at it, the better it looks.
The Irish skaters in the opening period outplayed their opponent but were still no match for Notre Dame, who scored four goals, and Ed Bumbacco, who netted three, in the second stanza, and peppered BC goalie Ned Yetlie with 37 saves and the Lakers' Allen Israelson gave the Irish a 5-4 lead after the first 20 minutes.

Jan 8 - The Irish averaged their fifth straight victory in the season series with Colorado. Both teams scored a goal in the third period, but it was too late for the Irish, who lost 4-1, that was too late. Williams tied the over-time goal that gave the Irish a victory over Michigan Tech.

Jan 10 - Paul Regan scored his tenth goal to edge eastern powerhouse, Cornell, 5-4 at the ACC. In November, Regan had the tallies that set in 1969 for the Irish, adding a second goal to lead coach "Lefty" Smith's side to the tenth goal that gave the Irish a 5-4 lead after the first 20 minutes.

Jan 15 - With Ian Williams out of action and John Campbell severely hampered by a shoulder injury, the Irish had problems scoring against a stiff Spartan defense and their ace netminder, Jim Watt.

Regan's heroics preserved the Irish a victory over Michigan Tech.

Regan and Cordes scored for Notre Dame led 5-3 in the first, and scored three goals in the third to wrap up their win. Regan and DeLorenzi also scored for Notre Dame. Great Lakes Invitational N.D. 6 Dartmouth 9 Dec. 28 - Despite a record-tying five goal output by soph winger Ian Williams, the Irish were ambushed by Dartmouth in the consolation game of the Great Lakes Invitational.

The Irish outscored the Lakers 4-3-29, but almost let the victory slip away, blowing a 4-1 lead in the third period. Bumbacco had put Notre Dame in front with a first period goal and Bill Nyrop and Mike Tardeszi scored to boost the Irish lead to 5-3. The Irish played their third period goal offset an earlier Cornell tally and regained the Notre Dame's three-goal lead, 4-1, but the Big Red got hot and forced the game into overtime. Regan's heroics preserved the Irish triumph, however.

ND icers post big holiday wins

by Jim Donaldson
Sports Editor

The Irish hockey team enhanced its national reputation during the Christmas vacation but was unable to improve its standing in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association. The Irish posted a pair of impressive victories over Boston College and St. Lawrence in capping the ECAC Holiday Tournament in Madison Square Garden. Dec. 28, 29, and three weeks later, recorded a 5-4 overtime victory over Cornell, which annually ranks among the top two or three teams in the East.

Notre Dame didn't have as much success with their western foes, however. The Irish were able to win just one of four WCHA games, splitting with Colorado College and dropping a pair at Michigan State, and slumped to eighth place in the league.

Coach "Lefty" Smith's club will take a 9-6 record, 5-7 in the ACC, into this weekend for a crucial eight game stretch, the Irish will take a 9-9 record, 5-7 in the ACC, into this weekend for a crucial eight game stretch.

In their three home games, the Notre Dame basketball squad has opened with opponents with a combined 34-1 record. Duquesne, 16-1, Marquette, 15-2, and UCLA, 13-4, are three of the more formidable of the three teams. The "murderers row" home schedule was preceded by a three-game tour of the Midwest when the Duquesne Dukes invade the University at 4 o'clock. The Duquesne Dukes are led by a sophomore, Lionel Billings, who has averaged 13 points per game, and pulled down 13 rebounds for a 12.6 average.

But Billings is not the only Duke who's putting up some big figures. Three of the other four Duke starters, also registered in that column.

Unlike the Dukes, who have played ten of their eleven games at home, the Irish cagers will be back on the road again when they return to the vocation Center for the first time in five weeks.

To say that the Irish road trip was a rough one would be a gross understate­ment. DURING a disastrous Christmas jaunt through the South, the Irish were outscored 119 to 61 against Tulane, 208-85, and the suspension of center Tom O'Mara due to a traffic accident.

But O'Mara's heroics were not the only ones served up by ND. Novak, 19.3 points per game, was pressed for game honors by Willie Townsend (16) and John Egart (10).

Lawless denies candidacy

Describing himself as "thunderstruck," William B. Lawless, dean of the Notre Dame Law School, denied a published report that he would seek the nomination for the New York governorship.

"The situation at Notre Dame law school here from 1968 until 1971, was reported in the New York law firm of Mudge, Lawless is currently a partner in the Buffalo, holding post of cor-

It’s never been the other way around.

All the same, the point is well taken that "it’s the correspondent for ABC who is representing..."

The instant telecasts could be a popular feature in future events. According to the spokesman for the Hughes company, once the live color satellite link reaches New York, there is no reason why it could not be used to relay satellite to Europe and be available to all outlets as wanted and on the continent, and on the various networks, it is a part of participant in Eurovision.

Underman’s letter

To the Students of St. Mary’s College:

I am submitting my resignation as Student Body Vice-President and the reasons for my action to you, the students, since you elected me to my position and it is you who I have worked for and with this year.

I envisioned Student Government as a group of students elected to represent the ideas, opinions, wants, and needs of their contemporaries, in this case with the student body at large.

Unfortunately, I have found that all of the student body, the conservative, the liberal, minorities, have not been represented. The ideas presented as those of the majority of students have many times instead been those of a small minority. Some of the student leaders have continuously ignored the major portion of the student body and instead used their position to advance their personal philosophies and ambitions.

Communication and cooperation, two very important qualities in any effective organization, were lacking in Student Government. Decisions would be made by a select few who would then inform the others of the results of their decision. To the President has many jobs, she is the "co-captain" of what could be a powerful and dynamic team with the President.

But she must be able to trust those with whom she works. My trust, particularly in the President, no longer exists.

And so, I submit my resignation. This is not a decision made in haste or one made because I am a quitter or afraid of the job. I am leaving because of the reasons I have stated above. I can no longer compromise my personal values to fit those of others, and I can no longer work for ideals or with actions that I do not believe in. Thank you.
