Kersten defeats Dziedzic
Garners 65% of vote

by T.C. Treanor

H. Calhoun Kersten and Uncandidate the Cat took 19 of 26 halls, Moreau, St. Joe's and off campus in scoring a smashing 1500-vote triumph over Campus Ombudsman Paul Dziedzic last night.

Kersten, an oligarchist, collected sixty-five point seven percent of the vote, topping the record 60.6 per cent former SBP Dave Krashna polled two years ago.

Cavanaugh was the only hall to give an edge to Dziedzic, who finished with thirty-three percent of the vote. Slightly one percent of the vote were invalid.

Kersten, who has labelled himself the "Prime Mover" picked up the four halls he didn't carry on the first ballot. Badin, which went for Hall Life Commissioner Bob Higgins first time around, gave Kersten a 39 to 26 margin. Lymax, which voted for Gary Caruso on the first ballot, gave the "Prime Mover" a 151 to 56 vote. Keenan and St. Joe's both gave Dziedzic an edge last Tuesday, gave the "King" 136 to 116 and 18 to 15 affirmations, respectively.

Cavanaugh's margin for Dziedzic was only four votes, 137 to 133.

Appearing before an enthusiastic crowd at LaFortune Student Center shortly after Student Body President John Barket announced the figures, Kersten promised that "Cavanaugh Hall will be the next woman's dorm on campus."

Kersten, who is reportedly in daily contact with God the Father, entered LaFortune from the Ballroom Staircase surrounded by close to a hundred followers. The "Prime Mover" assumed microphones belonging to the campus radio station, WSND, to give greeting to His people.

Movership attributed his triumph to "Divine intervention," but contended that he did "not want to demean Myself to the trivial and mundane tasks of Student Government."

Kersten had earlier urged His people not to vote for Him, reasoning that God the Father had appeared to Him in a vision and told Him to "get Yourself the hell out."

Later, though, His Movership changed His Mind, saying that "I'm in the race to win."

Last night He attributed His decision to stay in the race because of "the urging of My running-mate, Uncandidate." His running-mate, unlike Himself, is a mortal.

The "King" said He had "no" definite plans for the future of student government. When asked whether and for how long He would stay in office, He said that "all I can say is that the feast of the Ascension is May II."

Kersten also had come comments on the man he defeated in last night's runoff, Paul Dziedzic.

"He(Dziedzic) was trying to do basically what we were trying to do."

Earlier, He suggested that He might offer cabinet posts to the mortals he defeated in the SBH race. Dziedzic contacted an hour after the race was over and made official, said that "I am not going to accept a cabinet position if it is offered. I have obligations to other people now, but none to the student government structure."

Dziedzic maintained that student government would still have to "challenge the student body."

I think it has to be done. The potential has always been there, but the student body hasn't respect for itself. Everything is still the same," the Ombudsman contended.

"Kersten isolated what we always suspected was in the student body, but in doing so he set one faction of the student body against another. The potential is still very great; it just makes the challenge greater. And if he is able to pull it off - if he is able to show that the whole student body is similarly oriented - then his administration will be a tremendous success."

Dziedzic argued that Kersten next year would have to "challenge the student body to begin to respect itself. Student Government must stop trying to provide answers and start providing a leadership to challenge the student body."

Kersten has another three weeks to serve as Student Government Ombudsman.

Kersten will assume office on April first. It was rumoured that He planned to make some structural changes and then resign, but He had "no comment" on the issue.

Kersten's only other venture into Notre Dame student politics was a bid He made to become Walsh hall section leader earlier in the year. He finished third.
Vienna Symphony to perform

The famed Vienna Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Joseph Krips, will give its debut concert in O’Laughlin Auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday. Ticket reservations for the concert, sponsored by the Performing Arts Series, can be obtained at the box office.

Krips, who has served as guest conductor of many of the world’s leading orchestras, has been the music director of the Vienna Symphony since 1971. This is his first Chicago appearance.

A graduate of the Vienna State Academy of Music, Krips has served as music director at the Salzburg Festival for the first time. He is conductor emeritus of the San Francisco Symphony and has served as music director or 16 law students appointed clerks in major court systems

Approximately 12 percent of the third year Law School students at the University of Notre Dame have received appointments to serve as law clerks in major state or district court systems. The number of 16 is believed to be the highest in the history of the law school and ranks well above the national average for appointments in comparable cases.

One student, William J. Maledon of Detroit, Mich., is one of two law students in the nation to receive an appointment to serve as a law clerk in a state supreme court. He attended the University of Notre Dame.

Three others have accepted clerking positions in state supreme courts. They include Michael W. Hull of Cincinnati, Ohio; Missiour Supreme Court; Frederick J. Martone, Melrose, Mass.; Judicial Court of Massachusetts; and Randall L. Stauffer, Maple Valley, Wash., Superior Court of Idaho.

Bob Kersten never really planned to be student body president of Notre Dame. In fact, he said in an interview that he was against student activism to any great extent. He is serious about his academic work—he has a 3.9 average in pre-med. And his well-planned parody of the student elections demonstrated his personal disrespect for student political machines.

But, if Bob Kersten is so anti-political, why did he run for SBP? And how did he ever win with 65 per cent of the votes?

"I originally decided to run for SBP after the fourth student declared his candidacy in the Observer," said Kersten. "All the candidates came out with the same trite statements and cliches. I knew I couldn't take that for 10 days straight. That's when I got the idea of the Prime Mover."

Kersten's campaign was spontaneous. He laughs at the candidates who spent hundreds of dollars on their campaigns. Kersten spent $7.27. And besides a few hours spent writing his speeches, very little other work was involved in his campaign.

"I never really intended my campaign to go so far," stated the "Prime Mover." "We wanted to satirize the election and then drop out of it."

The development of the campaign convinced him to continue, however. "I was screwed over many times by people who didn't want me to win." Kersten referred to a WSND announcement in which someone impersonating him stated that Kersten was withdrawing. "I never made that tape for WSND. Fortunately it was never aired."

Secondly, "I didn't want everyone to take student government so seriously. I thought it was important to add a little humor to the election instead of having candidates slashing at each other all the time."

Lastly, Kersten firmly believed that the students needed a candidate to identify with. And the students identified with Kersten as they could with no other candidate.

Most of the other candidates claimed they would bring student government down to the student's level if elected. Kersten stated just the opposite. "We need oligarchy," he said. But Kersten proved his point, from Machiavelli's The Prince: "The crowd is caught solely by appearance, and there is nothing in the world but the crowd."

Fewer than 20 students usually showed up to hear other candidates speak in the halls. Kersten usually gathered more than 100 students at his rallies. Wednesday night over 1,200 students listened to the "Prime Mover's" words in front of Walsh.

"By not saying anything, I was actually saying more than the other candidates," contended Kersten. "If I would have just gotten up and made a fool of myself, no one would have listened. But I had something meaningful to say and the students responded."

What Kersten found is a definite need to re-evaluate Notre Dame's perspective of student government. He brought out the "political animal" in his opponents. He showed the Observer to be a "bush-league manipulator of student opinion," and he brought down the sacred aloof image of what he called the "poobah."

Kersten never intended to be student body president. He doesn't have the time or the thirst for power. He does have real concern for the people of Notre Dame.

After Kersten resigns from his newly elected position—he says he will before May 31—he will call another election.

Let's hope by that time the candidates will appeal more to the students than to the hierarchy," Kersten said. "If they don't we may have to make another appearance next time."
French seize heroin load stored in shrimp boat

by Henry Ginzger
( ) 1972 New York Times

Paris, March 2 - French customs agents in Marseilles found almost half a ton of pure heroin aboard a 60-ton shrimp boat early this morning. French officials called the drug seizure the biggest ever made.

The captain, identified as Marcel Boucan, a 57-year-old Parisian, was reported to have tried to commit suicide by diving overboard after leaving a note declaring that his family and the six-man crew, all natives of Guadeloupe, were innocent. He was later picked up half-drowned and revived in a hospital.

In its first meeting, the Notre Dame Committee for Ulster Justice announced its plans to inform the campus of the need for civil rights in Northern Ireland. Fifteen people attended last night's meeting in Lewis Hall. According to committee organizer Denise Askins, "Information is our biggest project."

SMC frosh consider lawsuit at meeting

by Mary Romer

In a meeting of the S. Mary's portion of the freshman class last night Nancy Christopher, student government secretary, presented the different ways that the class could bring a lawsuit against S. Mary's. This is being considered in an effort to confirm their status as Notre Dame students.

After consulting a lawyer, the student government has found that there are two different types of suits the freshman class could bring against the school. (1) they could sue for breach of contract on the grounds that the freshmen were under the impression that they were Notre Dame students when they were accepted here, and (2) they could sue for negligent representation, which would also be available to students of any class. This would be the best chance for any individual cases.

Student government paid for the legal advice from their treasury. The girls present did not think a law suit would be feasible because of the enormous cost it would entail. Most of the freshmen felt that a lawsuit cannot improve their position and that its only purpose would be to give Notre Dame and St. Mary's some bad publicity. One freshman said, "St. Mary's is hurting itself enough without a law suit - it won't accomplish anything. The purpose for a suit was publicity and pressure, and now that the merger has fallen through it would be useless."

Since only 45 people were present, the class has scheduled another meeting next week which they hope more people will attend, and at which they will make definite plans as to what they want to do.

Dull, uninteresting weekend ahead?

Law Students Night to be held

The Pre-Law society will hold its annual "Law Students Night" tonight in room 127 Nieuwland at 7 p.m. As in past years, the program will consist of several law students from various law schools, each speaking for a few minutes on their experiences in law school. The law students generally have valuable information on topics such as admissions, financial aid, or amount and type of studying encountered in law school. A new feature on this year's program will be the addition of a woman law student.

mock convention 72

340 delegate volunteers needed
by Maureen Ziuse

The Democratic Mock Convention will need at least 340 more delegates says organizer Eric Andrus. Representatives will canvass dorms Sunday evening to complete the 166 delegates registered last week.

"We have to have 1004 delegates to make the convention feasible," Andrus said. "It's not crucial but a delegation of 1004 would make our convention directly proportionate to the actual democratic convention."

The convention will be held April 24 to 27. Lawrence O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, will give the keynote address at the convention on Tuesday, April 25.

"A lot of people have cancelled up because they are afraid that it will take up too much of their time," Andrus commented. "The only time most delegates will have to pay attention is where the convention is actually in session, plus going to a few short, crucial meetings before the convention opens on April 24. Sessions will be held daily from 2 pm to 3 pm and from 7 pm to 11 pm. Delegates are supposed to be formed from classes.

Andrus also feels that the educational value of the four-day convention outweighs any considerations of time.

"We're using the rules used by the official convention. By following those rules, students can become familiar with them," Andrus contended. "This should lead to a better understanding of the American political system."

Several of the major Democratic candidates have been invited to appear at the convention. Andrus feels there is a "good chance" that some of the candidates will come. The Indiana primary election will be held on May 7, and many will be campaigning in the state at that time.

Drugs found on French vessel

Roucan was known to the customs service as a long-time smuggler of cigarettes. He was said to have bought the shrimp boat, the "Caprice des Temps," about three years ago. In that time she made three crossing between the Mediterranean and the West Indies. It was not immediately clear where the Caprice des Temps was coming from when she was spotted during a stopover in Villefranche-sur-mer, near Nice, Tuesday. That night she left the port followed by two coast patrol boats, belonging to customs, when they hailed her she refused to stop and two warning shots were fired. The boat was then taken to Marselises.

A first inspection showed the shrimp vessel to be empty. But suspicions were raised by the fact that she seemed to be carrying ballast not only in the middle, which is the usual place, but toward the bow. The concrete in the hold appeared to account for the weight in back.

Marselises and the Riviera coast have long been known as a major transit center for drugs entering into the United States which has a contingent of narcotics agents in the Mediterranean city working with them under a general agreement between the U.S. and France.

The heroin was estimated to have a retail value in New York, which is taxed with other products, of $45 million based on a calculation that there would be enough to make about 9 million doses.

Women are especially requested to sign up for the convention, as the present ratio of men to women delegates is 10 to 1.

Any student interested in being a delegate can receive more information from Andrus or the Student Union Academic Commission. A fee of one dollar will be the only charge for the four day event.

MANASA conference slated for Ball State March 18-19
by Marlene Ziuse

Plans have been announced for the Ninth Annual MANASA Conference to be held at the Ball State University Student Center March 18-19. The conference will include several well-known speakers and a series of working workshops.

The program will convene Saturday morning with a welcoming address by Dr. Jack Stinchcomb, state general chairman, and continue with a luncheon and speech by former Indiana Governor Mathew E. Welch. His topic is Politics, Pressure Groups and Student Activism.

Conferences will then have a choice of focusing on four afternoon workshops focusing on different aspects of college campus mental health programs.

Featured guests and their topics include: Dr. Judith Vogt, Ball State University, on Human Awareness; Indiana State psychologist Edward R. Strain Ph.D., on Careers in Mental Health; and Rev. Gary W. Edwards, Clinton Student Foundation, on the Jesus Movement.

Conducting a panel discussion on Death and Aging will be Dr. John R. Caraddock, Indiana State Commission on Aging, Ms. Kathleen J. Halberg and Joy S. Stuth, from the Indiana State Board of Health.

Other topics are alcoholism, hospital volunteer programs, transactional analysis and homosexuality.

A dinner and evening of entertainment will conclude the day's activities. Scheduled for Sunday is a Presidents' and State Officers' Meeting, and a closing brunch.

ND KinetoScope to encourage students

Since the dissolution of the Black Maria Film Group a few years ago, little has been done in the area of student-made films here at Notre Dame. A new group of organization on campus, Notre Dame KinetoScope, is attempting to fill this void.

Running the organization will be grad students Jim Dyer, President; Bill Barren, Secretary-Treasurer; and Lee Enderlin, Vice-President.

According to Enderlin, the purpose of the organization is to provide grants in raw film, cash, equipment, and facilities to students in order to produce their own films in either Super 8 or 16 mm. The organization already has a good start in maintaining the Butler Building and in obtaining cash grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Cultural Arts Commission's Cinema Series.

The Art Department will act as a "watch dog" in maintaining an inventory of all equipment and in seeing that rules and regulations are obeyed.

Sixteen students have been invited to appear at the conference. The first meeting of Notre Dame KinetoScope will be held this evening at 7:30 in 204 O'Shaugnessy. Those interested but unable to attend the meeting should contact Enderlin at 3097.

The first hurr'ah

"We were not elected as joke candidates. The reaction to the withdrawal statement brought that out."

Bob Kersten 3-2-72

The Prisioner's Dilemma

The prisoner's dilemma as students of Deutche realize, involves two convicts who are brought before the governor. Individually, he tells them that if one will testify against the other, he will go free and his compatriot will bite the electrical dust. The catch is: if both confess, they both spend the next ten years in jail. The last position is called the "plus-minus" and the "minus-plus" and the "minus-minus" conditions represent either prisoner pimping the other. It's easy to see how either of these last two positions could very quickly become the "minus-minus" condition in which both prisoners sail off into never-never land. That's what the governor wants.

In student politics, the campaign is the prisoner's dilemma. Personality assualts are the 'minus' situation. and the escalation from one assualt to a whole battalion of slams is the natural by-product of any one candidate's entry into the "minus bracket. Fortunately, Bob Kersten put an end to that, for the time being. Kersten is in a genuine bind. He recognizes that there is serious, but mundane work to be done in his LaFortune Oligarchy? They have seen the whole thing towards Kersten. They were deaf to his parody. He was simply the lead student body. And the rabble responded beautifully.

The Withdrawal

Nothing demonstrates this predicament more clearly than hazy circumstances surrounding the withdrawal statement. For the record these are the facts:

- Kersten composed the statement in The Observer office at 4:00 Thursday morning.
- He was accompanied by Paul Dziedzic who asked that his name not be mentioned to avoid charges that anyone pressured Kersten into issuing the statement. Kersten and Dziedzic had discussed the move but Kersten made the decision to release it on his own. - At Kersten's request no story was written to accompany the release; however, he was shown the headline: "Kersten Withdraws!" and offered no objection.
- The election committee was never notified of this decision.

It wasn't until many of his supporters asked him to stay in the race that he made a public retraction on WSND. So Bob Kersten will remain in Office:

"Right now, I don't want to have new elections. There's a chance we might stay in, but don't count on it." To be sure, the thought of another SBP election does not bring delight to this office. Everyone has learned the lesson. Everyone, that is, except the students who really didn't have any lesson to learn.

Don Biancamano

Deja vu

Back to the prisoner's dilemma. The only way to insure the "plus-plus" condition is to force all the candidates to put only their honest foot forward. To spare everyone another week and a half of deja vu, a suggestion - if Kersten decides to resign, have a one day campaign consisting entirely of a forum of all contenders assembled in Washington Hall in front of any and all interested students. One night of speeches and questions should be quite enough to prevent a circus and allow any still existent doubts to be disuaded. It might even be fun, in a perverse sort of way.

T.C. Treanor

Vanish in the haze

The Revenge of Calhoun Kersten

Let me tell you about the campaign of Calhoun Kersten. Perspiring with confusion, quivering with hesitation, it was the saving grace of satire which light Horniman's success. Hysteria, war, and bit- terness formed the holy trinity which put him over the top. But you know that.

Let me tell you about the campaign of Calhoun Kersten. Two days before he announced, he was unsure of how he would come off-fearful, and discouraged by the reception WSND had given him. Two days before the election, he knew how he had come off, and he was more fearful and unsure than before. But you know that too.

Let me tell you about the campaign of Calhoun Kersten. It was purely come to perfect circle; parody turned to salvation; digression turned to anarchy. The Revolution came to Notre Dame, and the Revolution was a joke.

Let me tell you about the campaign of Calhoun Kersten. It was a satire - but not really a satire on student government, not really a satire on the SBP candidates. It was a satire played on the Notre Dame student body. And the rabble responded beautifully.

He reached people. He was the only candidate to do that. He lacked either the intelligence or the ambition to look at the candidates and discriminate between them or discriminate between them and the p and what of the people who turned in their self-righteous stupidity towards Kersten. They were deaf to his parody. He was simply the easiest man to vote for.

Kersten knew that he could never reach the student body as a serious man, banging home his own version of the truth or his own vision of the future. The student body couldn't identify with that - they could identify with a rational man. Instead, he sang forth his alkaline rhymes, and made his opponents vanish in the haze.

The Heirs of Calhoun Kersten

I have sent my spies scurrying to find a successor to the Prime Minister, ambitious freshmen and sophomores for his SBP residency. Here is what they found:

Barry: "Nevus Ferrely" the "corporate candidate"; he promises to formulate with all the corpses in the Prime Mover's revised fieldhouse, bringing about eschatological moment by finding life in death.

Bob: "Quack candidate" his platform and slogan will be, "don't bow, buck!"

The Zodiac Killer: on bail from the California penal system, he will promise not to kill anyone in office.

Holy Joe: recently released from Bellvue, he claims that on the long your dog, he is God. Now there may be more, but there's already plenty for the student body to identify with.

Vanish in the haze

Why would anyone want the trivial, mundane job of the Student Body President? Why would anyone want to work fifty hours a week for the shit Beckett has received this year? For that matter, why would anyone want to be the editor of the Observer? The Scholastic? Station manager of WSND? The first reason is: they're all fools. Every last one of them.

Kersten revealed the second reason himself, when a reporter asked him why he was running. "I never had any close friends in childhood," he said. I was looking for acquaintances.

He's so right: Those guys - candidates and candidates past; editors and editors past; station managers and station managers past; put their time, energy, ideas, and whole self on the line in the desperate hope that the student body will give them a sign of their appreciation. A sign of their respect. Of their friendship. Of their kindness. Of their support. (Under New Management) peter gennaro -- no business like . . .

Gennaro, who considers himself a "natural" dancer, had studied acrobatics and tap from an early age, but never performed publicly until his company became connected with an entertainment unit in the army. Actor Melvin Douglas was commander of the troupe, which staged improvisations and USO-type shows. After the small break with show business, Gennaro said, "I couldn't see myself going back to help with my father's business." His father was a bandleader.

Discharge in hand, Gennaro came to New York for two years of intensive study under the G.I. bill. For 8 to 9 hours a day he lived and breathed dancing, studying every conceivable form and variation. Eventually he landed a job in an opera company as a ballet dancer, where he met his wife.

From there he went into teaching, and his proverbial "big break" came when Grace Kelly recommended him to the producer of a new musical. The show itself was "a colossal flop," Gennaro recalls with a smile, but soon Gennaro was well on his way to becoming one of the most celebrated dancers and choreographers in the entertainment world.

Perhaps his most outstanding achievement was his collaboration with Jerome Robbins on the Broadway production of "West Side Story," which won several academy awards.

"The rest is history. Those who view the world of show business as merely fun and games for a salary need only investigate the endless hours, often without any apparent reward, that are a necessary prerequisite for fame. And, even after the top has been reached, everything about it is not necessarily as appealing as the song would have it."

"Your time is no longer your own. When you are working on a show, it absorbs you. You eat, breathe, move, even sleep your work. And it leaves you drained, exhausted."

"The tiniest bit of bloodshot could be detected in Gennaro's twinkling eyes as he spoke. And yet, he'll be the first one to agree that there really is "no business like show business.""

"I suppose I prefer television to the livelier form of praise a man can hope for. During his brief stay here, Peter Gennaro has impressed us as more than a performer, but most importantly of all as a person."

Prepared by Consumer Reports

Unless a college student has children, as a rule he should not buy life insurance. In fact, says the nonprofit Consumers Union, "the last thing most college students need is life insurance."

The exception would be the breadwinner on whose children's welfare will be depended until they grow up. Despite this atypical circumstance for a collegian, CU says that the "life insurance agent has become a familiar figure on many campuses."

Bearing this out is an industry survey of more than 300 life insurance companies which turned up 20 per cent with sales programs aimed at college students and young professionals who are not yet earning enough to pay the premiums.

The problem is to sell a policy to someone who can't afford it? Insurance men have their sales pitch so programmed to this hurdle that they can often turn it Entitled "Caveat Emptor on Campus," the CU report warns that, as with most retail credit agreements, an insurance policy financing note may be impossible to cancel. Life insurance is customarily sold for a year at a time. When a student is persuaded to buy a policy and sign a financing agreement, he is committing himself to buy a full year's protection.

Bangladesh for construction of shelters, plus other smaller sums for relief.

An agreement for $27 million in food grains and long staple cotton is about to be signed with the government of Pakistan, these officials said.

Since Bangladesh declared independence following the Indian Pakistani war in December, 12 countries have granted its recognition, including the Soviet Union, India, Britain, France, Japan and Canada.

Of the major powers, only the U.S. and China-both of which supported Pakistan in the conflict-have failed to grant diplomatic recognition to the regime headed by Sheik Mujibur Rahman. Sheik Mujib is currently on a five-day visit to Moscow, expected to try to discuss economic and trade ties.

President Nixon first used the expression "Bangladesh" at a White House news conference before leaving on his visit to China. At the time, he told newsmen, "We have not yet made a decision with regard to recognition and should not expect a decision prior to the time that I return from China.

In the joint U.S. Chinese communique issued in Shanghai on Feb. 27, China called on India to "withdraw all their forces to their own respective territories." Reports here say that the last of the Indian forces will be withdrawn from Bangladesh by March 12. On March 17, they say, Sheik Mujib will receive Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India at Dacca, her first visit to the new nation.

U.S. recognition will be deferred, officials say, until all Indian forces are withdrawn and until the effects of Sheik Mujib’s visit to Moscow have been weighed.

It is also likely, they say, that Nixon and his advisers will await the response of Pakistan’s president, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, to Mrs. Gandhi’s recent offer of "unconditional" talks to sub­stitute for the cease-fire.

Indian diplomats, who point out that India still holds 100,000 Pakistani prisoners, believe that Bhutto is delaying the talks because the return of so many troops might exacerbate strained conditions in his country.

Play avcs Mardi Gras sales contest for third year straight

by Anthony Ahmed

For the third straight year Tom Playavc, a Notre Dame junior, surpassed all other ND students to become top seller of Mardi Gras Tickets. He walked away with $500 top prize by selling 201 ticket books.

In his three years at ND, Playavc has sold 540 Mardi Gras raffle tickets, the proceeds of which go to the Notre Dame charities. He wants to be distinguished as ND’s all-time top salesman.

Playavc revealed the keys to his success, "I always carry the tickets with me and I’m not afraid to ask. It is really easy to sell the tickets if you just need a little push," he said.

Playavc’s push is winning the contest try to break his own sales record every year. As a freshman he won a Bermuda trip, color TV and a shopping spree for selling 150 books. In his sophomore year he won the $500 top prize after peddling 192 books.

Muskie people organizing now

The Muskie organization for the upcoming Mock Convention is presently organizing, according to Mike McCarthy, co-chairman of the group.

"We are confident that Muskie will gain the support here at Notre Dame that he has been gaining all over the country," McCarthy said yesterday.

Allen Doval, another member of the team said that, although contact is poor and distance between the delegates entered in the convention were uncommitted, he felt the Muskie following was strong. Doval also noted that the Mock Convention would be influential in determining the leadership of the Indiana primary slated for the week after the convention.

Those interested in joining the Muskie organization should contact either Doval at 1011 or McCarthy at 8110.

Kennedy calls hearings
Congress talks amnesty

by David E. Rovnerhaun
(c) 1972 New York Times

Washington, March 2—A Senate subcommittee took a looking this week into the granting of amnesty for the men who have evaded the draft or deserted from the armed forces during the war in Indochina.

The three days of hearings, called by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., were in-conclusive, and few of the issues raised or positions taken were novel.

But the hearings marked the beginning of what is likely to be a long and emotional battle in Congress over the next few years on a wrenching question that the country will undoubtedly have to deal with eventually.

Kennedy held the hearings in his capacity as chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Administrative Practice and Procedure. The subcommittee has no authority to consider legislation on amnesty, but it can look into the administrative possibilities.

Officials from the Selective Service system, the Justice Department and the Pentagon told Kennedy that they knew of more than 30,000 men since 1964 who had broken the law by deserting from the military or refusing to be drafted. Of these, fewer than 2,000 have gone to jail.

The total number of draft evaders is presumably much higher, since there are probably thousands of men who have never registered for the draft and thus never come to the attention of the government.

Cardinal officials estimate that there are 50,000 to 70,000 exiles in Canada alone. These men and others in exile elsewhere are subject to prosecution only if they return to the United States.

Upholding the position taken by President Nixon in January, the administration officials told Kennedy that the entire question of amnesty should be put off until the war in Indochina has ended.

Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, the Director of Selective Service, declared that to grant amnesty now, while men are still subject to being drafted, would wreck the Selective Service System.

Maj. Gen. Leo E. Benade, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Military Personnel Policy, said that "the granting of any amnesty to deserters at this time, whether general or particular, or whether conditional or unconditional, would cause a serious, detrimental impact on the armed forces."

Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, and Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., have introduced legislation that would permit draft resisters to avoid prosecution by volunteering for two years of alternative service in some federal program. Their bills would leave the military the disposition of deserters.

Neither the Koch bill nor the Taft bill is likely to have a chance of passage this year.

I just came from one of those wonderful luncheons held in the basement dining hall, in the famous "E" line. The menu was turkey slices over bread with a side of mushroom yellow gravy. Not bad except that the most garnish in the world, the gravy was the only thing resembling a vegetable. The secret service secretary suggested the Registrar's Office. She didn't know, and so we asked for reform. If only they could list those long hairs on the menu. That way at least one would go without their daily minimum requirement of protein 28. It would be great to read a menu with "steak au jus with two brussel sprouts and a chow chow with grey armpit hairs". Really, this listing of delicacies would spark enthusiasm for all meals. Maybe they could let food people have initiated a new fed in cuisine. At least the vegans seem to be of the unugrassy variety. The ND food guys at least agree with current fast food trends.

For the Observer editorial on Wednesday, March 1, it was stated that we need to change "the current Academic Calendar, which presently has us planned to count ballots...next week, week of August." I wondered about the authenticity of this claim, and, seeking confirmation, I decided to contact those who should know when the date was. First I called Academic Affairs Commissioner Frank Gebelein, and his spokesman referred me to SBVP Orlando Rodriquez. There was no answer, and Van Gebelein made no comment. Van Gebelein, however, referred me to the Office of Dean of Administration. There's the dean (the dean's secretary didn't know), and confirmed it wouldn't be able to do so. I am going to talk about. Everyone knows we have an ideological basis for music, speech, and drama in the Audio-Listening Center on the second floor of the library. But the very important class of music has been obviously omitted from this collection. This music is in a class all by itself, it triggered a decade of transition. It was a reflection of styles, life, looks, beliefs, and much more. This music is a unique art form in itself. This music (the immediate music's presence) might be a little foreign to the world, but we didn't influence the world, probably more than any other art form. The world has music's power to make us understand the world, or art form. Everyone should be able to do so. I am writing this letter in the hope that someone who reads it might be able to do so. to correct the situation I am going to talk about.

Sincerely,
John Murthagh

Ish are one win from playoffs

by Jim Donaldson

Killer

Whenever teams from Notre Dame and Michigan State meet, in any sport, there usually is a gap between the two arch-rivals are usually exciting, rough and tumble, no-holds-barred contests. And that seems doubly true when the Irish and Spartans play.

Last year the clubs met four times, with the Irish winning only once, and it sometimes seemed that they did more fighting and skating than playing. But tonight, the primary battle will be for playoff positioning.

If the Irish win either one of Friday or Saturday night's 7:45 contests with State, they can clinch a berth in the WCHA's post season tournament. But if the Spartans have a playoff spot sewn up, they'd likely sweeping the four point series and assure themselves of a third place finish.

The Irish, winners of 11 of their last 14 league games and currently third in the WCHA with a 7-3-2 record, should provide tougher opposition than in the WCHA regular season.

The Flyers also have pretty good depth on both sides before the weekend is out.

John Egan will be out of his final Notre Dame appearance Saturday night against Dayton. Dayton hotshot with an 8.7 scoring mark.

Mike Sylvester, the second leading scorer on the U of D squad, has an 11.8 scoring average, and an average of 6.4 rebounds per game.

The lone junior on the Dayton starting five is 6-7 center John Ritter. Berton is the leading rebounder on the team, grabbing 83 rebounds per game, while chipping in with 9.5 points per game.

J D. Grigaty, a 6-4 junior college transfer from Kilgore in Texas, fills in at the other forward spot, and has averaging 6.6 points per game for Donaher.

The Flyers also have pretty good depth on the bench, with guards Mike Elmore, Bob Gerardi and Pa Murman, and 6-6 center-forward John Vo Lehman ready to step up in point if needed.

The Irish are expected to go with Gary Novak, Tom O'Mara, Willie Townsend, John Egan, his final Notre Dame appearance appearance, Michigan's Joe Raymond and Don Silinski in their final outing.

Novak, the consistent performer of the year for "the Huggers," leads the Irish in scoring and rebounding with 19.6 and 19.5 averages respectively.

Tommy "O" follows the "Gone" in Irish scoring parade with an average of 18.7 points per game.

Willie T. Egan and Silinski are scoring 9.3, 6.3 and 6.1 cents respectively. For the Flyers, 10 players at least keep things interesting for UD fans this weekend.

Twelve of the 25 Flyer contests have been decided by less than 10 points, and only one game has seen a point decision and single-point decision.

The reason for the close games is reflected in the overall Flyers' scoring average and defensive statistics. The Flyer "O" average 7.8 points per game, while the Fighter "D" has been allowing 73.3

The all-time ND-U record stands even at 4-4.

Game time is 8:30.

The Irish will battle the Spartans this weekend with a spot in the WCHA playoffs as the purse. Notre Dame's John Campbell and Michigan's "Punch" Carville engaged in this sussle last weekend at the ACC.

This weekend, the Spartans will have to overcome the injury jinx. Their top defensemen Bobby Boyd, who is as handy with his fists as he is with a hockey stick, will be sidelined with a separated shoulder and winger Bob Michelutti will also be out of action because of a broken leg.

The injured list may grow on both sides before the weekend in over, however. "State is a very physical club," Smith commented. "I've always felt that they're as tough as anyone in the league. They're a rough, tough group of hockey players.

It will undoubtedly be a rough, tough series for Notre Dame, but the Irish figure to be equal to the challenge.

ND approves NCAA Frosh ruling

Excerpt for the Notre Dame hockey team, all other Irish winter sports teams will be on the road this weekend.

The Irish truckmen will participate in the NCAA Indoor Championships at Princeton University Friday and Saturday. Among the leading ND entries are high hurdler Tom McMann and freshman shot put ace Greg Curlina.

McMann, with a nifty 7.26yard high hurdles time to his credit this year, won the IUCA outdoor 100 yard high hurdles title last spring (13.9).

Tom Curlina,具体的描述

Tom Curlina, Mike's brother will compete in the triple jump while just recovering from a month long illness. Mike, who jumped 46 last week, was third in the IUCA outdoor finals with a 46.5 mark last spring.

Curlina, with a nifty 40 shot effort to his credit, will be joined by freshman sprints Eric Penick, heavyweight Elio Polassi and middle distance runner Mike Galicki.

The Irish swimmers, now 7-5 following two setbacks last weekend, continue their season at the 5th annual Motor City Invitational in Detroit Friday and Saturday. Defending champion Eastern Michigan and Central Michigan head the field.

Notre Dame's wrestling (11-3) finish their season at Marquette on Saturday. Freshman heavyweight Mike Fannin and 177-pounder Rich Komar both qualified for the NCAA finals at Marquette. March 12 follows regional competition at Cin-

Barlow calls for autonomy

Saint Mary's Student Body President Kathy Barlow announced Wednesday that she would present a proposal calling for full jurisdiction of visitation policy to the SMC Board of Trustees at their meeting on March 12.

The proposal, "based on the philosophy of self-determination as the right of each student," would give each student the power to determine its own parochial hours and procedures.

Though this proposal has passed through the Saint Mary's Student Assembly, Student Affairs Council, acting President Sr. M. Alma vetoed it last November.

Ms. Barlow also released a statement reacting to the final merger negotiations breakdown.

Lauding "student energy" this past December as an attempt to establish "credibility and openness", in the merger negotiations Ms. Barlow stated both the Notre Dame and St. Mary's administrations for their failure to cooperate effectively.

"Without changes in the philosophy and personnel involved in the negotiations on the part of both institutions, the promise of unification made to the students is merely a sham," she said.

Ms. Barlow went on to add that "contingency planning" for Saint Mary's should have been started during the negotiations.

"It is imperative that immediate concern must be given to the maintenance of St. Mary's as an independent institution and to the fulfilling of obligations to all present students."

Coleraine, Northern Ireland, March 2-A Northern Ireland medical officer testified today that six of the 13 men killed by British paratroopers fired on January 30 had been shot in the back.

Tests on two proved firearms. Tests on two proved firearms.

Seven men were said by the British to have been shot in the face or shoulder.

The witness, Dr. John Martin, scientific officer of the Department of Industrial and Forensic Medicine, said clothing tests indicated five other men had been killed by muzzle flashes. Tests on two proved conclusive, Martin said.

Today's testimony at the official British inquiry into the incident pointed out the conflict and uncertainty about the Lon donderry tragedy. The army has insisted that paratroopers fired only at guns or nail bombs, although some 50 said that nine detected five victims, none had handled any firearms. Tests on two proved conclusive, Martin said.
