Burtchael praises Barkett letter

by Bill McGinn

On February 15, 1972 Student Body President John Barkett distributed a paper entitled “Women at Notre Dame” to the various officers at the University. This report offered suggestions and queries concerning the orientation of women to Notre Dame, as well as that of Notre Dame to women. Barkett’s report covered such topics as the addition of more female professors and counselors, an escort service, parietal hours, a Dean of Women, and the renovation of the two residence halls.

This report was favorably received by the Administration. Rev. James T. Burtchael praised the report for its many good suggestions. Some of his suggestions had already been, or will be acted upon.

The Provost announced that a special Committee for Co-Education is being formed to help solve any problems involved in the arrival of women on campus next fall. The administration is actively trying to acquire more female professors and counselors. Their efforts are somewhat restricted though because of the limited number of qualified women in higher education. In accordance with Barkett’s suggestion, renovation of Walsh and Basien is being carefully planned. Rev. Burtchael declared that the services of an architect specializing in residence halls are being sought.

There were, however, disagreements over several of the Student Body President’s suggestions. The report’s suggestion for a gynecologist to ensure female health care female health care was rejected by the Administration for financial reasons. Burtchael stated that “the University does not have the money for specialists.” He emphasized that there are two gynecologists at the infirmary who can refer any student patient to a specialist in South Bend.

The 24 hour escort patrol service offered as a suggestion by Barkett was rejected as unrealistic. The Provost declared that, “there is no evidence that it’s unsafe on campus.” He also cited the recent installation of lights on campus as a precaution taken for the prevention of any dangers.

Burtchael was not in agreement with Barkett’s proposal for a Co-Education Office to be headed by a woman. The Provost declared, “I am opposed to the establishment of a Dean of Women. I don’t like the creation of a separate world for a sub-group, ethnic or otherwise. If there are women in the Administration, they will be there for the purpose of integration and not segregation. He was not against having a woman as a Dean of Students, but he did object to having a special Dean for the co-eds.

One important question concerning the addition of women to the student body next year remains undecided. Parietal hours for the new residents of Walsh and Basien won’t be decided until the girls arrive on campus next fall. Barkett noted the national trend for girls residences to have restricted hours. “They may not want any hours imposed upon them,” he advised. The Provost added that the two female residence halls (as well as any other residence halls) may restrict their parietal hours. They just can’t expand them.

N. Vietnam rejects plan

Hanoi, March 5—North Vietnam and Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk’s government of National Liberation today categorically rejected the U.S. eight-point peace plan and denounced the American maneuver to dress up the Paris peace talks by the provisional revolutionary government last year.

The communique also said that the United States had still not given a positive response to the two key points in the seven-point peace plan put to the Paris peace talks by the provisional revolutionary government last year. Washington must “put an end to aggression and Vietnamisation, immediately abolish the apparatus of coercion and oppression, put an end to the so-called policy of pacification, close the concentration camps and guarantee democratic liberty to open the way to a government of national harmony and free and democratic elections,” the communique stressed.

It called for the “immediate and unconditional withdrawal” from Bangkok and Saigon of United States and “satellite” advisers and military personnel.

The Democratic Mock Convention still needs 300 delegates.

Those wishing to be delegates can sign up by calling the Student Union Academic Commission at 6244, between 1 and 5 o’clock.

The halls will be canvassed tonight and tomorrow night in hopes that some delegates will be found.

"I think we will just wait and see what happens," contended Professor John J. Borkowski. "There has been some talk he might resign. If he does not, he will have to come out with some definite plan for the future.

On March 5, the five Democratic candidates in the presidential primary were held in North Carolina, but the major confrontation occurred after months of campaigning. In a joint appearance for an hour and a half on national television, the five Democrats were unable to clarify or sharpen the issues that have developed after months of campaigning.

Hart and McGovern, who were leaving the television studios, representatives of Sen. George S. McGovern and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie became embroiled over the issue of financial contributions that was filed by McGovern but Muskie disputed McGovern's claim that a complete disclosure of his contributions but have not been identified. This post-television debate overshadowed the lackluster debate during which the five candidates generally avoided conflict over the issues.

Lecture

Dr. John Snell of the University of North Carolina, a specialist in history of Germany since 1918, will discuss the science and politics of the nation before World War II. A public talk at 8 pm Tuesday (March 7) in the University Club at Notre Dame. Snell is the author of "Blasion and Necessity: The Diplomacy of 1871," and he was a co-author of the "The Meaning of Vaal" and "The Education of Prince Maximilian von Wied," a study of the profession commissioned by a community in 1871. He is a former dean of the graduate school at Tulane University and served on the University of Pennsylvania staff before moving to North Carolina. The talk is part of the spring series of history lectures and is open to the public without charge.

Now you can fly to Europe for peanuts, here's how little you shell out to get around:

$130 for Two Months of unlimited rail travel in Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland.

You shell out $130, and get a Student-Railpass. All you need is the bread and some way to show you're a bona fide student between 14 and 25.

Our Student-Railpass gives you all that unlimited rail travel on the 100,000 mile railroad networks of those 13 countries. For two foot-loose months. So with low air fares and Student-Railpass you've got Europe made.

Our Student-Railpass lets you get Second Class travel on our trains. You'll find that there's very little second class about Second Class. Besides being comfortable, clean, fast, and absolutely punctual, the European trains have some other advantages for you. They take you from city center to city center, so you don't have to hassle airports. And the stations are helpful homes away from home, with Pictograms that give you information in the universal language of signs, and dining rooms, bookstores and other helpful facilities.

Now, here's the catch. You can't get your Student-Railpass or the regular First Class Eurailpass in Europe—you have to get them before you leave the country. So see your Travel Agent soon. Meanwhile, send in the coupon for a free folder, complete with railroad map.

Geneva - The United States will pay more than $20 million in withheld dues to the International Labor Organization before June, trade union sources said in Geneva. The sources said that George Meany, the American Labor Leader, had been given that assurance by Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., chairman of the subcommittee that blocked the funds two years ago after a Soviet citizen was named the I.L.O.'s assistant director general.

Washington--The Senate Judiciary Committee will advance Monday to its next scheduled hearing into the justice Department's decision to drop three antitrust suits against the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation. It is expected to hear testimony from the Doctor of Mrs. Dita D. Russia strengthens Bangladesh friendship

(c) 1972 New York Times

Moscow March 5—The Soviet Union appears to have con­solidated its early foothold of influence in the new state of Bangladesh as a result of the visit of its Prime Minister, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, which ended today.

Sheik Mujib, in turn, is coming away from his four-day tour of the Soviet Union with pledges of Russian Economic aid for both immediate emergency needs and for longer-range development projects.

These were among the key results emerging from a joint declaration signed here by the Bengali leader and by Premier Aleksai N. Kosygin and made public today.

The statement also lays the basis for regular political con­sultations between the two countries and provides for a broad program of exchanges and contacts at all levels.

The political element of Mujib’s visit was underscored by the presence during some of his discussions of Boris N. Ponomarev, a national secretary of the Soviet Communist Party who is concerned with relations with political groups outside the Communist-ruled countries.

Ponomarev’s presence was interpreted as an attempt to sound out Mujib on possible political ties between the Soviet Party and the Awami League, Bangladesh’s ruling party with some socialist principles.

The Soviet-Bangladesh declaration was made public as Mujib spend the day in the central Asian city of Tashkent before returning to his capital of Dacca.

Despite Mujib’s avowed policy of nonalignment, the declaration contains his expression of support for the Soviet stand on in­ternational issues such as In­dochina and the Middle East, urging acceptance of the Viet­ Cong’s peace plan and Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories.

On the Pakistan-Indian con­flict that gave rise to an in­dependent Bangladesh last December, the two leaders said that a genuine political settle­ment on the Indian sub­continent could be achieved only without “outside interference.”

In contrast to the moderate approach to the problems of the subcontinent, the Soviet-Bangladesh text contained a veiled rebuke to the United States and China for their pro-Pakistani position in the recent conflict.

“The course of that struggle,” the declaration asserted, “revealed with utmost clarity not only the attitude of different states toward the just cause of the people of Bangladesh, but also the true friends and foes of the people’s Republic of Bangladesh as a new independent state.”

The new emergency aid ac­cord, designed to help Bangladesh rebuild its war-torn economy, provides for the supply of helicopters to restore com­munications within the new country and for assistance in the rebuilding of fisheries, a major source of food, and of shipping and railroads.

The Soviet Union also declared its readiness to help train skilled personnel for both technical and economic needs of the new state.

The longer-term development accord is understood to represent aid originally pledged to Pakistan for its east wing, but blocked when the December war broke out.

It provides for assistance in the construction of a steam power station, radio stations and an electrical engineering plant as well as in oil and gas exploration.

Dear Editor:

According to Fr. Neil McTague, St. Mary's College believes that hasty oversights by Admissions officers resulted in the admission of a number of "radicals" to the present freshman class. We question whether St. Mary's College knows what the word "radical" is all about. Is one a "radical" when she refuses to accept an injustice done to her and her fellow students? Is one a "radical" when she reacts with anger, indignation, and disillusionment to the great divorce for which students are forced to pay alimony? Is one a "radical" when she seeks to change the patriarchalism of a small women's college?

If one were to consult Webster for the etymology of the word "radical," he would find that it is derived from the word "root." Jesus was a radical. He was radically human-radically vulnerable-and said what he felt, "radically human-radically" he would find that it is derived from the word "root.

In the space of three minutes and forty-five seconds, the 6-4 junior forward accounted for 11 of the 12 Dayton points scored during that stretch and at 13:32, the Flyer's had a twenty point lead, 58-38.

From that point on, it was just a matter of the Irish trying to make the score respectable. With one last gasp, the Irish pulled within fourteen, as the Townsend brothers collaborated for three buckets and Tommy "O" added a lay-up to make it 71-57 with 7:19 left in the game.

The Dayton lead stayed around that margin until coaches Benson and Phelps emptied their benches around the three minute mark, and the Irish pulled to within twelve, the final margin of the Flyer victory.

All year the Irish have been plagued by cold shooting performances at one point or another during their games. Lacking a sharpshooting gunner, "a la Austin Carr, there has been no one to pick up the slack when everyone else loses the range. This was more than evident Saturday night, when the Irish connected on only 28 percent of their attempts from the field in the first half, fell too far behind, and were never able to catch up with the Flyers.

Tom O'Mara took game scoring honors with a total of 23 points, on 8 of 21 from the field, and 7 of 9 from the line.

The skinny soph edged out Smith of the Flyers for that honor, with 21 points. Smith, hitting on 8 of 12 shots in the first half, ran into a cold spell in the second half, missing only 2 of 9 for a total of 22 points.

But it was Grigsby who really deserved the kudos. Not only did he score 21 points, but he also hauled down 21 rebounds.

The rest of the Irish scoring came from "Goose" Novak, who totaled 16 points, Willie and Mike Townsend, six points apiece, and John Egart. Don Silinski and Ken Wolbeck, four each.

The Flyers had four players in double figures. Besides Smith's 22, and Grigsby's 21, Mike Sylvester scored 14 points, and Pat Murnan added 11.

The victory evened the Flyer's season mark at 13-12, while the loss dropped Notre Dame's final season mark to 6-20.

During a season filled with bad breaks and misfortune, it sometimes seems unlikely that Notre Dame's hockey team would qualify for the Western Invitational Invitational meet in Detroit. The Irish tanked up six points ahead of Detroit and had a score and team of individuals, but record, to complete a successful season on points for their weekend's work.

Eastern Michigan, 0-2 to Michigan State by piling up 250 points, while Northern Michigan (130) finished second.

Notre Dame's other blue-ribbon capped, said Joe O'Connor, "we had to rely on Gene Krathaus in the 50-yard freestyle (22.6), Joe O'Connor in the 1650-yard freestyle (18:38, fourth-place finish. "And with their gift, the Irish won't be denied Saturday night, however, Ian Williams scored two goals and Ed Graham (2:02.8, also a record.)

The fifth finish in 26 league games.

A record of 8-1 and a long string of top-three places and events, for the last 39 points to the men's penalty box. But Notre Dame came battling behind in the fourth quarter. "Cordes, the foil team, has five members, and in a tie for eighth place with Central Michigan, each event," said Joe O'Connor, "we knew we'd win our share, too. We could have an outstanding team." The remaining first-place finishes and a score that nearly had a 3-2 finish, and only three southern teams are idle, but a number of them have a chance to break the all-time Notre Dame record for wins in a single season.

Ron Soltitto, who has come of his own this season, went 8-1 in the season, and had an impressive 1-5-5-season's record, one of the best, shortened from the all-time mark.

Sabreman Matt Fruzynski, also 8-1, in the season, is not far behind Soltitto with a 26-4 record. The epee team has three men with 12 victories, co-captains Tim Taylor, 5-3 on the weekend, Chuck Harkness, 8-0, and Mike McMannon, also 8-1 on the weekend, is not far behind Soltitto with a 26-4 record. The epee team has three men with 12 victories, co-captains Tim Taylor, 5-3 on the weekend, Chuck Harkness, 8-0, and Mike McMannon, 5-3.

In foil, only Mike Cunningham has more than a double to deliver. The American finals were held last month, and the Irish are likely to be in the thick of the action.

 Registrars sworn in

A Notre Dame student and a St. Mary's student were recently sworn in by Corrine Wrinishek, St. Joseph County Board of Elections Registrar, as a Deputy Registration Officer for the Notre Dame-St. Mary's community.

The students, Joseph Hendler and Melissa Culligan, a junior from Glen Rock, N.J. are appointed to register any Notre Dame or St. Mary's student who lives on or off campus as voters in the State of Indiana.

The two students who were selected from the Notre Dame Voter Registration Drive, are attempting to get all the students at Notre Dame registered before their Friday at 4:30 pm in Room 123 of the Newseum Science Hall. A member of the U.S. President's Science Advisory Committee under presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson, Long has served as assistant director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and as a member of the Arms Control Body. He participated in the Harriman Mission to Moscow which successfully negotiated the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty.

His talks will be titled "Proton Transfer from Cytosarcin Acid: Kinetics and Isoptoe Effects" (Wednesday), "Chemistry and Society" (Wednesday and "Arms Control and Disarmament: An International Problem or a National One?" (Friday). The public is invited to attend.

Long is chairman of the Committee on Chemistry and Public Affairs of the American Chemical Society, and serves on the board of directors of the "Bulletin of Atomic Scientists" and as consulting editor to "American Scientist.

The Peter C. Reilly Lectures are sponsored by the College of Science.
