Mekong Delta threatened
South Viets fear third offensive

by Malcolm W. Browne
(c) 1972 New York Times

Saigon, April 13—North Vietnam's full-scale offensive into South Vietnam has accomplished during the last two weeks, it appears to have seriously weakened defenses of the Mekong River Delta—the demographic heartland of Vietnam.

The main focus of enemy attention thus far has been the northernmost cluster of provinces of South Vietnam, where North Vietnamese divisions have rolled south, supported by tanks and missiles.

A second campaign opened last week 75 miles north of Saigon, where other North Vietnamese divisions surged across the Cambodian border to threaten communities along Route 13 and the river and highway approaches to Saigon itself.

third offensive imminent?

There are fears among tacticians that a third North Vietnamese offensive may be inevitable in 1972. "The Delta is just about at the top of the list, it seems to me, and we're all going to have to start worry ing a lot more about it very soon."

The South Vietnamese 21st division, responsible for the southernmost provinces of the country, was moved 160 miles north to bolster an airborne brigade as the latter sought to shore up Route 9 and its right flank.

Stripping the southern provinces of their regular armies, most of their antiaircraft and artillery would be dangerous in any circumstance. The move was forced by the thrust posed by the North Vietnamese divisions along Route 9, which leads to Saigon.

Adding to the threat, Vietcong and regular North Vietnamese units operating across the border in Cambodia as a blocking force are reported to have sustained heavy equipment losses and many casualties.

As the last month alone, they are said to have lost some 80 tracked vehicles – tanks and armored personnel carriers – either destroyed or captured by the North Vietnamese.

The heavy guns and tracked vehicles captured by the North Vietnamese are apparently being put to effective use against Saigon forces.

The pace of attacks by North Vietnamese or local Vietcong units on government positions is increasing as enemy strength rolls eastward into the delta.

He said he believed that "some" Federal lower courts had ordered desegregation to achieve "racial balance," an action expressly forbidden by the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Richardson said at a news conference following submission of the legislation that he knew of no court decision to bring "racial balance" and that the purpose was to do away with deliberately segregated schools.

Nixon's proposals are in two parts: 1) to stay all court orders requiring additional busing until July 1, 1973, or until Congress acts legislation prescribing standards for desegregation; 2) to concentrate Federal funds in segregated slum schools to improve the quality of education and to draw guidelines in the law to limit busing to achieve desegregation.

As soon as Kleindienst was seated at the witness table this morning, Committee leaders of both parties charged that the Administration had submitted unconstitutional legislation.

William McCulloch of Ohio, the ranking Republican on the Committee, accused the Administration of "asking the Congress to carry out the President's desire by obligating them to suspend the equal protection clause for a time so that Congress may debate the merits of further slowing down and perhaps even rolling back desegregation in public schools."

On reopening cases, the President's second proposal contained this section:

"On application of an Educational Agency, court orders or desegregation plans under Title 6 of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 in effect on the date of enactment of this act and intended to end segregation of students on the basis of race, color or national origin shall be reopened and modified to comply with the provisions of this act."

The bill says that, for drawing desegregation plans the Courts and federal agencies cannot increase busing for grades 1 through 6 and must use busing only as a last resort in the higher grades.

"All desegregation cases" asked Robert McClary, Republican of Illinois.

"Yes sir," Kleindienst said.

In his prepared statement, Kleindienst defended the constitutionality of the President's move, saying that it did not clash with interference with the Supreme Court's securing of a constitutional right, only a "particular remedy" - busing key to the law.

Asked about the reopening provision, Kleindienst said, "If you're going to have the national standards then you've got to have a right to reopen cases."

"All desegregation cases?" asked Robert McClary, Republican of Illinois.

"Yes sir," Kleindienst said.

In his prepared statement, Kleindienst defended the constitutionality of the President's move, saying that it did not clash with interference with the Supreme Court's securing of a constitutional right, only a "particular remedy" - busing key to the law.

Asked about the reopening provision, Kleindienst said, "If you're going to have the national standards then you've got to have a right to reopen cases."

"All desegregation cases?" asked Robert McClary, Republican of Illinois.

"Yes sir," Kleindienst said.

In his prepared statement, Kleindienst defended the constitutionality of the President's move, saying that it did not clash with interference with the Supreme Court's securing of a constitutional right, only a "particular remedy" - busing key to the law.

Asked about the reopening provision, Kleindienst said, "If you're going to have the national standards then you've got to have a right to reopen cases."

"All desegregation cases?" asked Robert McClary, Republican of Illinois.

"Yes sir," Kleindienst said.

In his prepared statement, Kleindienst defended the constitutionality of the President's move, saying that it did not clash with interference with the Supreme Court's securing of a constitutional right, only a "particular remedy" - busing key to the law.

Asked about the reopening provision, Kleindienst said, "If you're going to have the national standards then you've got to have a right to reopen cases."

"All desegregation cases?" asked Robert McClary, Republican of Illinois.

"Yes sir," Kleindienst said.
Lowenstein, O'Brien keynote mock convention

by Joseph Meti
Managing Editor

Al Lowenstein, former Congressman from New York, will join keynote Lawrence O'Brien as a feature speaker during the Mock Convention. Academic Commissioner Eric Andrus announced Lowenstein will speak on the night of the convention, Wednesday, April 26, at 7:00. Andrus adduced, "Lowenstein has spoken here every year I've been here. Andrus commented, "but I still think it's pretty big; the students like him a lot."

In other Mock Convention news, he described the state meetings for selection of platform committees as "just about done.

"There are still about fifteen states that have to hold meetings, but they should be finished by the end of the week." Concerning the convention schedule, he mentioned a slight change of session times. The session set for Monday afternoon has been cancelled, and the Monday night session will kick off the convention. Afternoon sessions will remain, since it is predicted that Tuesday and Wednesday will not be held on Thursday. All evening sessions will be held.

Andrus also felt confident, if a bit more hesitantly, that one or more of the Democratic Presidential hopefuls could be scheduled. Mentioning the names of Alabama Governor George Wallace and Mississippi Senator Hubert Humphrey, he said that there was "a definite possibility" that campaign trails could bring them to Notre Dame.

"We're not sure that we can get them in time for the convention," he said, last but that both Wallace and Humphrey would be campaigning around the state.

"We won't know if they can come here until the day before they'll speak or even earlier that day.

Andrus expressed confidence that the platform committee will have a full agenda drawn up before the arrival of O'Brien.

"The committee will meet on Sunday night or Sunday afternoon, and should have everything ready for Lowenstein and O'Brien," he said.

On campus today

celebration of self
1. Dr. elizabeth foxon, discrimination in higher education.
2. Dr. philly jammers, family and sex roles.
3. Dr. self determination and social relations.
4. Dr. paul messbarger, ritual celebration of community values.
5. Angela Raad, international perspective, self determination of women.
6. Theatrical event with all women cast, Washington Hall.
7. Mary Lynn Crist, conflicts in education.

3:30 discussion, Larry Conrad, candidate for Indiana governor, alumni lounge.
8:00 concert, Michael Irwin,ethylene auditorium.
8:00 meeting, transcendental meditation, introductory lecture, architecture auditorium.
9:30 meeting, South Carolina delegate, mock convention, bascin vintage cinema.

Concerning delegates at the Mock Convention, Andrus emphasized the need for more people to volunteer.

"We're just short of the 100 delegates we need," he said, "and we could really use more people." However, he added, if some states were short of delegates, this would not affect the voting. Each state would retain the proper number of votes for that state.

"It would just be up to the delegates of that state to work out a system of voting," he said.

Any one who wants to help, he said, should call the office of the Academic Commissioner.

Regional Environmental Teach-In April 15
Sessions from 10-5
Admission - Free
Life Science Center

ELTON JOHN

Wednesday, May 3 at 8:00
in the ACC

Tickets are $5.50, 4.50 and 2.75

Sales start FRIDAY AFTERNOON at 3:30 in the Fiesta Lounge

---

Lowenstein, O'Brien keynote mock convention

by Joseph Meti
Managing Editor

Al Lowenstein, former Congressman from New York, will join keynote Lawrence O'Brien as a feature speaker during the Mock Convention. Academic Commissioner Eric Andrus announced Lowenstein will speak on the night of the convention, Wednesday, April 26, at 7:00. Andrus adduced, "Lowenstein has spoken here every year I've been here. Andrus commented, "but I still think it's pretty big; the students like him a lot."

In other Mock Convention news, he described the state meetings for selection of platform committees as "just about done.

"There are still about fifteen states that have to hold meetings, but they should be finished by the end of the week." Concerning the convention schedule, he mentioned a slight change of session times. The session set for Monday afternoon has been cancelled, and the Monday night session will kick off the convention. Afternoon sessions will remain, since it is predicted that Tuesday and Wednesday will not be held on Thursday. All evening sessions will be held.

Andrus also felt confident, if a bit more hesitantly, that one or more of the Democratic Presidential hopefuls could be scheduled. Mentioning the names of Alabama Governor George Wallace and Mississippi Senator Hubert Humphrey, he said that there was "a definite possibility" that campaign trails could bring them to Notre Dame.

"We're not sure that we can get them in time for the convention," he said, last but that both Wallace and Humphrey would be campaigning around the state.

"We won't know if they can come here until the day before they'll speak or even earlier that day.

Andrus expressed confidence that the platform committee will have a full agenda drawn up before the arrival of O'Brien.

"The committee will meet on Sunday night or Sunday afternoon, and should have everything ready for Lowenstein and O'Brien," he said.

---

Why our fastback has the last laugh on its competitors:

1200 Sport Coupe

T.E.E. H.E.E.!
- A high-cam engine
- Safety front disc brakes
- Fold-down seat belt
- Reclining front buckets
- Tinted glass
- Whitewalls

See the Small Car Expert, your Datsun dealer. Drive a Datsun...then decide.

Datsun from Nissan with pride

Jim Hammes
Datsun
2502 L.W.W. Mish, 253-9644
Ann. & Parks, Inc., 14-9-75

The Observer is published daily during the college semester by and for the students of the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College. Subscribers may be notified for $3 per semester from The Observer, 379 South Jordan, South Bend, Indiana 46636. Second class postage paid Notre Dame, Ind. 46556.
By Nicholas Gage

(C) 1972 New York Times

New York - If there is an all-out gang war in Brooklyn between the Gallo and Colombo groups, as the increasing number of bullet-ridden bodies over the past few days seem to prophesy, both sides have the men and the guns to make it the bloodiest internal Mafia conflict in many years.

A check of the committed members of the two sides as listed in a report compiled by the Intelligence Division of the Police Department shows that the Colombo group outnumberes the Gallo group 118 to 56.

But the Gallo group includes men with more "war" experience than the Colombo group. Some of these men have the capacity to provide the strong leadership lost to the group with the murder last Friday morning of Joseph Gallo.

The experienced Gallo men are veterans of the Prefacio-Gallo "war" in the early 1960's. In that conflict, which resulted in a dozen murders, a facade led by Larry, Joseph and Albert Gallo rebelled against their Mafia family then headed by Joseph Prefacio over division of the family profits.

Joseph Colombo took over the Prefacio family in 1964 and concluded a peace with the Gallo group. But to secure his position as leader Colombo sidelined many of the men who had been close to Prefacio during the war and replaced them with less experienced younger men loyal to him.

Since last June, when Colombo was critically wounded at Columbus Circle, none of those young men has been able to give the family strong leadership. Joseph Vagvolli and later Vincent Alo reportedly have tried serving as acting heads of the family but with limited success.

Neither has the experience or the temperament to be a wartime leader, according to law enforcement officials.

The one who does qualify is Carmine Persico, who started serving a 14-year federal prison term 9 weeks ago for hijacking.

Persico was the most daring front-line lieutenant for Prefacio in the war against the Gallos a decade ago.

He is now in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and prison records show that he has kept close tabs on recent developments in Brooklyn.

The records show that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.

Coincidentally, Persico's cellmate at the record shows that in the last three weeks Persico's brother, Alphonse, who is listed as the police as a Colombo family member, and his chief lieutenant, Jerry Langella, have visited Persico at the prison four times.
“...And when the snow had gone and spring burst upon the land, the people rejoiced and drank of spring wine."

Start your own spring celebration with Tyrolia, California white wine and natural fruit flavors. The new wine that captures the spirit of spring. Pure wine that's as light and bright as that first spring day. With the crisp, clean taste of oranges, lemons and flowery spices. Drink Gallo Tyrolia, the wine of spring. And celebrate!

Tyrolia

California White Wine & Natural Fruit Flavors
Gallo Vineyards,’y Modesto, California
The Wisconsin Primary

There are three currently fashionable interpretations of last week's Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary. The first, the McGovern theory, emphasizes the South Dakota Senator's strong showing in all parts of the state, and notes quite accurately, that McGovern ran well in blue-collar districts, in ex-unionized, ex-mining districts, and ethnically-oriented districts, all of which were conceded to either Maine Senator Edmund Muskie of Minnesota, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey only a few months ago.

This interpretation counters the view of McGovern as a one-issue candidate, with a coherent ideological consistency, and it plays heavily on the success of McGovern's youthful "organization," which, in the words of one exuberant aide, "rang one million doorbells." This machine beat Muskie decisively despite Muskie's thick portfolio of political endorsements.

The second theory, which might be called the Wallace theory, emphasizes Wallace's strong showing in a Northern traditionally liberal state. The Alabama governor finished an unexpectedly second, and ran close to McGovern in most of the state's eleven congressional districts, winning a number of key delegations. George Wallace, in short, did well.

A third theory notes that the two George Wallace, McGovern issues of anti-establishment candidates, totally identify with them. Which is to say there is a fundamental malaise abroad in our land (or at least in Wisconsin) during this election year.

Wallace and McGovern Issues

There are, of course, weaknesses to all three theories. Twenty-nine percent is not stunning by any standards, McGovern's world, of course, McGovern will most likely be the major beneficiary of Lindsay's withdrawal. McGovern won a few convention votes in Wisconsin, but he won no broad mandate. What traveled from an estimated 200,000 to 300,000 Republican crossover votes are believable. McGovern believes that McGovern gained some foothold, but not nearly as much...

And then one can never explain so complex a primary as Wisconsin in terms of a single factor such as anti-establishmentarianism. Both Wallace and McGovern hit big on tax reform (with almost identical stances) and inflation, which seem ready to join school busing as major issues in 1972. However, the entire vote cannot be explained by this.

Consider, for a moment, the nature of these issues. The boiling question represents, to a large extent, an attempt by "common folk" to reject utopian plans of "poorly headed intellectuals in Washington," in quote George Wallace. The tax reform issue, manipulated well by McGovern in Wisconsin, is a revolt by the blue-collar lower-middle class against the socio-economic elite of America. Basically, we have a class division in the nation, if Wisconsin is any indicator.

The inflation issue also hit home with the poor, since the poor are most damaged by the rising price of foodstuffs. The "average man" is confused and afraid, and angry at leaders who cannot lead. This year may just be the year of the average man. So far, the "big winners" in the "key primaries" have been Wallace and McGovern. They are the two least identified with any power structure, and most identified with the great mass of Democratic voters. "Humphrey" and "McGovern" would do well to note this in upcoming weeks.

Wisconsin Conclusions

Despite the confusion generated by the 12-way split in Wisconsin, we can draw several conclusions. First, three men are left in the race: McGovern, Muskie, and Humphrey; though not necessarily in that order. Wallace will come on strong and will hurt people. McGovern, since he lacks enough organization and support in non-primary states to draw many convention delegates. He may go to Miami with as many as 100 to 200 convention delegates, but 1507 are needed for nomination, and he cannot reach that.

Lindsay, obviously, is out. Jackson has been unable to get his "real majority" interested in a "real" candidacy, partly presented, in the cliché-ridden approach to the problems of the '70's. We are left with McGovern, Muskie, and Humphrey—all with weaknesses and strengths, and all representing different segments of the badly split party, which brings us to a second major conclusion. The Democratic party is split more seriously than usual.

On the left we find McGovern, fairly well organized, rising in stature and likely to benefit from the demise of Lindsay, McCarthy, Hartke and others. There is still a significant force in the center, however, represented by Muskie and Humphrey. The former running-mates draw from different constituencies, but they say practically the same things, and together, they pulled over 33 percent of the vote in Wisconsin.

The inevitable showdown between the two will be in Pennsylvania on April 15. If Muskie loses, his stock will rapidly disintegrate; if he wins, he will have a slight edge on Humphrey. HHRP's "old pro" strength in non-primary states will be tough to beat, though.

Wallace and Jackson represent the right wing of the Democratic party, with the Alabama governor by far the dominant figure. The right wing could probably be in position to call the tune in Miami. While Humphrey is the obvious choice, we have already noted affinities between Wallace and George McGovern.

Split Democrats

The seriousness of this year's split lies in its distribution. In 1960, 1964, and 1968 the opposition to the Democratic party was never given a real shot at the top spot. Not since 1960 has there been a real question of the identity of the Democratic nominee.

(Continued on Page 9)

Circus maximus

The Wisconsin Primary

Ed Ellis

Our little inexpensive economy car can beat your little inexpensive economy car.

Triumph Spitfire

The Complete line of 1972 Triumphs are available for Immediate Delivery at

BROOK SILVERMAN

TRIUMPH SPITFIRE ©

Why pay more when you can buy a

Scripto 19Cer for just $12.00

TOMORROW

7:00

 knights of columbus

alumni club

I - Didn't - Get - In Night!

SUNDAY:

Chapped Lips

Play 9:00 - 1:00

10' Beer 7:00-9:00

1 Free drink for every 2 Rejection letters

K u n g h t s  o f  C o l u m b u s

Donation $1

Thursday, April 13, 1972

the observer

Alumni Club

A Real Western Sat. April 15
2, 7, 9:15, 11:30
Knights of Columbus
Donation $1

he hit the man for $3 million.

From MGM - the company that gave you SPLIT LIPS
Term papers & fraud
Its about time! Its about time at least one university - Ohio State - took legal action to prevent the sale of professionally produced term papers.

OSU nabbed Term Papers Unlimited, Easy Writer and Education Term Paper Research for doing what professors and university academic councils have prohibited for years - cheating, on a massive and public scale.

Students have a variety of reasons for going to college. Not all of them are equally noble but all should include at least some educational motives. The draft is no longer a significant threat. The current state of the job market belies any intention of getting a college degree to get a job. Students, then, are paying both to receive an education and to cheat themselves out of that very education.

There are no real recourses within the University. The fake paper sellers are marketing a product indistinguishable from the real thing. One professor's remark to the effect that he could tell the difference was just an exercise in naivety. Any student purchasing a term paper is probably going to be sharp enough to tell the company what "special angle" the professor wants.

External legal action was an excellent, and long overdue approach. If the companies cannot be stopped judicially they should be banned legislatively. Virtually every company currently on the market uses the mails providing the federal government with the necessary legal basis.

Some term papers are unnecessary exercises in intellectual masturbation but that is not really the important concern. Every student in any class has to submit even these unnecessary papers. Why should a rich or craftsman student be rewarded on an equal basis with those who have taken the time to produce a paper which was not only an individual educational experience but a public demonstration of that student's knowledge?

Ohio State is right: cheating is cheating. Period.

John Abowd

THE OBSERVER
AN INDEPENDENT STUDENT NEWSPAPER

Thursday, April 13, 1972

THE DEATH OF RASPUTIN

Washington, April 19—It was difficult to assassinate Rasputin, as the many readers of "Nicholas and Alexandra," among others, can testify.

A group of "high noblemen," according to the World Book Encyclopedia, decided that the assassination was necessary because Rasputin, although he "had common sense," was "selfish, greedy and dissolute." They invited him to a palatial residence in St. Petersburg and served him poisoned tea.

Rasputin was not deleteriously affected. Several of the attending princes held a hurriedly called conference. They had read about hurriedly called conferences being held at the White House whenever presidents had a nasty crisis, as princes, they felt more entitled to hold hurriedly called conferences than presidents, but had never had a pretext for holding one.

Rasputin's failure to respond fatally to the poisoned tea seemed the ideal pretext. The conference was held in a bilious room while several other princes sat in the library with Rasputin, who was imbuing his third glass of poisoned tea and dilating sentimentally upon summer nights of his childhood when he had caught lightning bugs on the steps of Russia.

The conference, realizing that poison was counterproductive, decided to use cigarettes on Rasputin. Cigarettes did not do the job. In fact, cigarettes seemed to strengthen Rasputin. After chain-smoking the first three packs, he called for more poisoned tea.

Prince Eiskunhy, meeting with assassination expert in the kitchen, accepted their proposal to raise Rasputin's cholesterol to a lethal density and induce a heart attack.

Accordingly, Rasputin was quickly served four fried eggs, a rack of pork chops and a tureen of gravy.

"What a nice surprise!" Rasputin said when the prince placed the food before him. As he examined the meal, however, his smile faded in disappointment.

"Could I have some toast on the side," he said, "Swimming in thick, rich butter.""

Baron Boyer-Svattsky, watching behind the screen, saw Rasputin finish his meal, heard him call for some more pork gravy and buttered toast.

"Could I have another pack of cigarettes and another glas of poisoned tea," he called. "I have to seem like a poor guest, but I should very much like to have two more fried eggs and some Band-Aids.""

"Can't you take a hint?" Colonel Klopotsky replied.

Simultaneously, he drew his pistol and fired it several times into Rasputin. Rasputin fell to the floor, apparently dead. Prince Kurilonsky said, "Who?" which is the Russian equivalent of, "I think there's a light at the end of the tunnel."" While the noblemen were toasting their victory in caviar, however, Rasputin rose on one elbow and said, "I'm in a position to appreciate it if someone could find him one more pork chop somewhere in the kitchen."

The noblemen fell upon him with clubs and beat him until he seemed dead.

They then dragged him outside—the temperature was 70 degrees below zero. Ferdinand—left the body in the blizzard. As they were re-entering the palace, they were startled to hear Rasputin speak to them.

"A little more of that tea would taste mighty good on a night like this," he called.

In a group, they lifted him from the snow, shot him several more times, carried him to the river and threw him in among the ice floes.

"Next time," shouted Rasputin, as he was coming up for the eleventh time, "I am not going to be so quick to overlook bad manners."" As he waded out of the river on the far side, hungering for another cigarette, his mouth set for a restorative plate of fried eggs, a whole squadron of nobles bomed him from 30,000 feet.

Rasputin's dying words were heard only by the light of the cold Northern Star. "Something I did," he said, "must have made me a threat to the national security of the United States."

Russell Baker
Six novelists and three poets will comment on the current status of American novels and poetry at the sixth annual Sophomore Literary Festival at the University of Notre Dame April 16-21.

Charles Newman, critic, novelist and editor of Northwestern University’s Tri-Quarterly magazine, will open the weekend, student-directed and funded festival with a keynote address on the Memorial Literary auditorium at 3:30 p.m. April 16.

The winner of the 1960 National Book Award, novelist Jerry Kosinski, will speak at 8:30 the same night in Washington Hall. Kosinski is the author of “Steps,” and the award winner, “The Painted Bird.” “Being There,” and two books written in the early 1960’s under the name of Joseph Novak, “The Future is Ours,” and “No Third Path.”

Speaking at 3:30 p.m. April 17 in the library auditorium will be Diana Wakoski, the first woman to participate in the festival organized in 1967. She gained acclaim for her two collections of poetry, “Inside the Blood Factory,” and “Motorcycle Betrayal Poems.”

Robert Coover, described by the Philadelphia Bulletin as “one of the most talented American novelists,” will speak at 4:30 p.m. on April 17. He is the author of “Origin of Bruntis” and “The Universal Baseball Association,” as well as a collection of short stories, “Prickings and Deserts.”

Reading selections from their fiction in the library auditorium on April 18 will be Charles Newman at 3:30 p.m. and William H. Gass at 8:30 p.m. Gass is a literary critic and fiction writer who gained recognition for his “Omensetter’s Luck.” “In the Heart of the Matter,” “Waller Master’s Lonesome Wife” and “Fiction and Figures of Life.” A second lecture by Gass at 3:30 p.m. on April 19 in Carroll Hall of St. Mary’s College will concern metaphor and measurement.

A member of the San Francisco group of poets, Robert Duncan will speak at 8:30 p.m. April 19. He is the author of “The Opening of the Field” and “Bending the Bow.” Duncan and Diane Wakoski will join with Allen Ginsberg, the poet-laureate of the counter-culture, in a poetry symposium at 3:30 p.m. April 20 in the library auditorium.

Speaking at 8:30 p.m. on April 21 in the library auditorium will be John A. Williams, black novelist and author of “The Man Who Cried I Am” and studies on Martin Luther King, Jr. and Richard Wright. The appearance of Williams is co-sponsored by the Notre Dame Black Studies program.

Jay Neugeboren, author of “llg Man,” “Listen Ruben Fontenay” and “Corky’s Brother,” will speak at 3:30 p.m. April 21 in the library auditorium. Ginsberg will close the festival with a talk at 6:30 p.m. the same date in Washington Hall. His published works include “Howl,” “Kaddish,” “America,” “In Back of the Real” and “Reality Sandwiches.”

Raymond M. Funk, Jr., a sophomore from Libertyville, Ill., is serving as chairman of the 1972 festival.

Sophomore Literary Festival

Jethro Tull, the rock group that replaced the Beatles in the No. 1 spot, will be presented in concert by the Student Union Social Commission in the University of Notre Dame’s Athletic and Convocation Center April 18 at 8 p.m. A companion group, Wild Turkey, will be presented on the same program.

Led by Ian Anderson, Jethro Tull has amassed a modern-day record of sold-out concerts in only three years of existence. Anderson has become known as the “dancing master of rock” for his stage antics which include jumping, skipping, hugging and preshowing while playing the flute and singing the lead vocals.

 Appearing with him will be Jeffrey Hammond-Hammmond on bass, Barfriemore Barlow on drums, Martin Barre on guitar, and John Evans on piano and organ.

The group has earned gold albums for two current recordings, “Benefit” and “Aqualung.” The latter is a biting, controversial look at modern-day religion that has received an additional platinum disc for exceeding sales of one million units. Their first album, “This Was,” reached the top ten of English album charts after the group had played together only six months.

Tickets for the April 18 show range from $7.75 to $5.50 and may be purchased at all ACC outlets or from the Student Union Ticket Office.
Dr. Robert Ackerman

This is the last of a three part series in which Dr. Ackerman, assistant dean of students reviews the book Women at Yale.

Tuesday Ackerman discussed the problems Yale encountered in recruiting female students. In addition, he summarized the "realities to the coed environment," a part of the Ivy League school's environment. The mixer dance and the weekend date were also discussed.

Sex at Yale

The witness concluded that the majority of Yale's male students were attempting to relate to females in a special way but that they were very much afraid of being hurt by females. The concern was frequently reported that women were not to trap a Yale man as a husband. The women at Yale were prepared both to look and rumor to deal with the Yale philosophy of male-female relationships. The student handbook distributed to the Yale Class of 1972 implied the philosophy.

"Treat Yale as you would a good woman. Take advantage of her many gifts, mourn your self with the truth of her words, court if you will, and congratulate yourself the presence of her. But treat her with respect. When you leave her, it's your own conscience you must grapple with the educator she has given you.

The most frequently reported term used to describe the relationship between male Yale men and women was 'objectification.' While the term itself was not specifically defined, it implied depersonalization or deindividualization. The complaint was that Yale men did not perceive their female colleagues as individuals, but rather as members of the category "girls." In the classrooms this objectification occurred most frequently when the professors called upon female students to respond to the discussion topic from the "girls point of view." This sense was not a person but a representative or spokesperson for a group. Objectification at the student level came to imply that the "girls" were to be viewed by the men solely as potential sex partners.

Coeducation brought to light the double standard in role expectations that existed as a common belief among the male students. A sophomore explained it simply:

A girl who sleeps around is in some sense going to be looked down on by her peers. A guy who sleeps around becomes an object of admiration.

The writers devoted detailed attention to questioning the attitudes of Yale students under the heading of traditional, romantic, meaningful, and friendly sex. Their conclusions, generally stated, were that the sexual mores of students were in a process of change, coeducation had not, by itself, made a significant impact upon behavioral standards, and the weekend date was still the most common form of relationship. In terms of figures it was found that only 28 percent of the males at Yale had dated Yale women while 38 percent were dating girls from other school exclusively. Most of the males interviewed did not consider any of the female students as friends and some of them interviewed would not even consider any Yale woman as a group member. A study conducted at Yale and reported by the writers revealed that 61 percent of both the male and female students believed that they had no chance of getting married to either sex. A non-credit course in human sexuality was offered at Yale during the 1969-1970 academic year; it attracted over six hundred students. Using this approach, an attempt was made to communicate basic information to undergraduates in an open way, according to the students of Yale's opinion of receiving truth, open and honest answers to some of their questions. The course was aimed at an important means which enabled students to cope with their learned doubts concerning the mystique of sex.

Coeducational residence halls meant that the college student had to discipline (female as well as male, particularly in matters of personal violations and cohabitation). Yale parietals began at noon and ended at midnight. Enforcement varied greatly from college to college with the general feeling being that both students and staff ignored them as a matter of course; the weekend during system that was Yale's tradition was in a large extent dependent upon the fact that the parietal regulations would be ignored. With coeducation came cohabitation that extended beyond the weekend. A female resident supplied this account of the disciplinary proceedings that resulted when a female student reported her and her boyfriend to the master for living together in his room:

On Monday John, only John, was called to the master's office. First he was told that we could no longer ignore the facts that he seemed to be living with a woman. Then the master talked about "playing around" and John said, "How dare you say that. We have a steady relationship. Why don't you point out the weekend dates? That is much more playing around." The master said, "Oh, John, you understand men need recreation on weekends." By the end of the week the girl was out of the master's life on campus with her boyfriend. Shortly after she moved out they broke up.

The Male-Female Roles

The writers devoted a chapter to the topic of stereotyped roles. Traditions had taught the men that because of their social and academic skills Yale men were to be respected. Women, on the other hand, were generally seen in terms of the weekend date, objectification, and the sexual couple standard. The Yale environment before coeducation encouraged men to be men and, following coeducation, it required of women that they adjust to the masculine atmosphere. Despite the existence of these attitudes, Yale students' liberation did not obstruct the great deal of attention of support on campus. The writers cited one factor to account for this somewhat unexpected phenomenon; many women did not want to be stereotyped further by having to be dependent upon a movement—liberation is a personal not a group exercise. As a spin-off of coeducation and, perhaps, of Women's Liberation, a small but active group of Yale students began to openly question the traditional stereotyped roles of the sexes. Yale Psychologist Kenneth concluded that:

The question of a university's "going coed" is particularly relevant in the Notre-Dame-St. Mary's environment. This week's "Celebration of Sex" at SMC highlighted some of the problems facing women both on the college campus and beyond.
5th annual spring weekend
An Tostal plans unveiled by HPC committee

by Jim E. Bregan

Last night General Chairman Fritz Hoefer unveiled the plans for the upcoming An Tostal Weekend, sponsored by the HPC Committee.

The Weekend of April 20, 21, and 22 will mark the fifth annual celebration of welcoming Spring to Notre Dame. An Tostal, which in Gaelic means "The Festival," had its christening back in the spring of 1968 and has grown steadily ever since. This legitimate son of the former Badin-Sorn Olympics was adapted and revered by the Hall Presidents Council and in its five year life has developed a distinct personality of its own.

Hoefer explained the weekend's composition, putting special emphasis on the fact that this week in the Dining Halls for the free picnic. He announced that the picnic will take place on Saturday, April 20 and will again be located on the lawn of Holy Cross Hall.

He added, "There is no cost to anyone who signs up. A student simply has to present his meal card in the Dining Hall and he will be given an ticket for the picnic. The only catch is that if you sign up for the picnic, we ask you to please eat that day at the picnic, and not in the dining hall."

The chairman praised the efforts of the Food Services saying, "The staff at the dining hall has been kind enough to prepare food in both places, and we ask everyone's cooperation to show up in their assigned places."

As always, An Tostal will begin on April 20 which has been dubbed "Gentle Thursday". Why it has been nicknamed "gentle" is anybody's guess for it includes such unbridled events as individuals being designated as jailbirds, a pie toss booth, the ever popular dunking booth, a flour blowing contest as well as such happenings as an Irish Lunch in the dining halls, the annual ND-SMC Privia Bowl, can stacking, a local band performing on the North Quad, and the Jocks vs. SMC Basketball Game.

Several new events have been added to the already bustling Thursday slate. Hoefer explained, "As far as new Thursday events go, we've added a bubble-gum bubble blowing contest, a twelve-inch-and-under Animal Race, a Burlap Sack Race, and human pyramid building."

Likewise Friday of the Gaelic Weekend has been greatly expanded and is being knighted with the little "Frivolous Friday." The frivolous events feature repetition of last year's hits, namely the lettuce, the old tire race, and the tremendously popular Im- petuation Contest, as well as five new events. They are listed as a show race, an egg toss at the world's record of some 300 feet, a tug-o-war contest, the iron-man five basketball finals, and the Original An Tostal Amateur Hour. Concerning this last event, Hoefer said, "There is a tremendous amount of talent on campus. It is our hope that as many people as possible will participate in this Friday night event. Anyone with any talent at all is invited to compete for our prizes."

Of course there is the full complement of Saturday events again this year. Reporters for the last year include the gimmick-type road rally in the morning, the free picnic, the Ben-Hur Chariot Race, a kids flying contest, a pie eating contest, a tug-o-war, and an ND vs. SMC touch football game.

Besides these old favorites, there will be searching for a needle in an authentic haystack, a water balloon fight, a Robin Hood "Little John" type jousting contest with pillows instead of sticks over a mud pit, and a modified roller derby.

Hoefer emphasized that "con- cerning this roller derby, a premium will be placed on skating skill, rather than on pushing and shoving. Anyone that gets out of hand will be thrown out of the contest."

The staggeringly full weekend is capped off with always at the Irish Wake. Chairman Hoefer explained, "It is always the cheapest party of the year. This year we have the South Bend Armory, and only three dollars buys you free bus transportation, your admission in the door, and all the free beer you can drink."

Details on all the events will be explained in depth in An Tostal's upcoming booklet. Pre-publication reviews have modestly announced it as: "A unique item in literature...strikingly original... Touches something very deep in us... rare, contagious, terrific. Unearthed imagination, passion and craziness." Hoefer was no less vengeful in his praise calling it, "a classic in our times."

Ed Ellis
Wisconsin primary

(Continued from Page 5)

Democratic nominee. This year, there will be three groups, the smallest of which will still central over 500 delegates. At this stage, we have three potential potential nominees, representing two of the groups, all three of whom are likely to get pretty nasty in coming weeks. And there is the possibility of a three-party split, should Hum phreys campaign get closer to the Nixon's delight.

In addition to this analysis of what's going on, we may draw two political principles that ought to be highlighted. The first is that the New Politics talk is that is fashionable today. First, successful politicians are caused maintained and distinguished by powerful, loyal, and efficient machines. McGovern has no machine in Wisconsin. That's why he won, and that's politics that pre-dates Machiavelli by a few centuries.

Second, we might note that Muskie's handiwork of en- dorsements helped little in Wisconsin. The reason is this: the endorsement of any individual is valuable only so long as that individual's personal machine will work for the candidate endorsed. Muskie, though he had little or no control over their respective machines, and so the support never sifted down to the grass roots. In short, Muskie was sup- ported by some very poor politicians (we don't say Mayor Daley in his camp yet) who could not control their machines and who mineral public opinion very badly.

CAC's Performing Arts Series presents
An Animation Festival
Thurs & Fri. April 13 & 14 8 & 10 pm
Engineering Auditorium
Admission $1.00 PAS patrons free
Selected Animation Shorts

Coming Friday: Yellow Submarine
"He misjudged"

West’s condition is critical

Freshman Warren West remained in critical condition yesterday in St. Joseph Hospital after Monday morning. West dove out a window in Cavanaugh Hall Thursday and critically injured himself.

Cavanaugh rector Fr. Larry Faye said West was engaging in horseplay. "Warren dove out the window of kind of a dare. He was during himself. Nobody actually dove him, he just kind of jumped," he said.

Apparently, West struck his head on the bank that slopes away from the hall under his window. The bank is not visible from the window.

Fr. Faye said that "He misjudged." West’s misjudication resulted in the crushing of two discs in his back. Monday’s operation fused the upper portion of West’s spine. Hospital sources say that it will be six weeks before they know the extent of West’s paralysis, which is presently complete.

In the meantime friends and residents of the hall are helping to make things more comfortable for West and his parents, who arrive early Friday morning from their home in Dumont, N.J. West’s parents are staying at the retreat house, and a student has offered his car for their use.

Each section within the hall has voted to donate its $10.00 allocation from the hall treasury to help with the medical fees. The money was tagged for parties in each of the ten sections.

A list has been posted in Cavanaugh, according to Fr. Faye, for those to sign who wish to spend a few hours with West each week for the next month and a half while he recovers. It is hoped that enough people will sign to provide 24 hours of company for West.

SMC concert features outstanding guitarist

Michael Lorimer, classical guitarist and protege of the great Andres Segovia, will be presented in concert at 8 p.m. April 15 by the Performing Arts Series of Saint Mary College. Reservations are now being accepted for the performance in O’Laughlin Auditorium.

March of Dimes

Walkathon set for Saturday am.

The Saint Joseph County March of Dimes is holding their walkathon this Saturday morning, April 15 starting between 8:00 and 9:00. Walkers are to solicit sponsors who are willing to pay them a straight rate per mile for the 15 mile walk. Sponsors can pledge anywhere from $10 to $100 for each mile walked. The proceeds then go to the March of Dimes.

Campus co-ordinator Albert Brenner can answer any questions on the walkathon. Brenner can be reached at 3603 or at 434 Morrissey.

The story in the Observer concerning the drive for blood donors for the Red Cross contained two errors. First, the dates of April 17 and 18 are correct, but they are on Monday and Tuesday of next week, not this Friday and Saturday. Also, the statement that any donors would be able to receive an unlimited blood supply for themselves and their immediate families for a year is incorrect. Donors will be able to receive one unit of blood for themselves and their families.

March of Dimes

Walkathon set for Saturday am.

The Saint Joseph County March of Dimes is holding their walkathon this Saturday morning, April 15 starting between 8:00 and 9:00. Walkers are to solicit sponsors who are willing to pay them a straight rate per mile for the 15 mile walk. Sponsors can pledge anywhere from $10 to $100 for each mile walked. The proceeds then go to the March of Dimes.

Campus co-ordinator Albert Brenner can answer any questions on the walkathon. Brenner can be reached at 3603 or at 434 Morrissey.

The story in the Observer concerning the drive for blood donors for the Red Cross contained two errors. First, the dates of April 17 and 18 are correct, but they are on Monday and Tuesday of next week, not this Friday and Saturday. Also, the statement that any donors would be able to receive an unlimited blood supply for themselves and their immediate families for a year is incorrect. Donors will be able to receive one unit of blood for themselves and their families.

Wyant Floral Co.

Flowers for all occasions

232 Lincoln Way
West 232-3354

Presented by the Student Union Social Commission

THE LITTLE SEXY EUROPEAN CAR!

THE LITTLE SEXY EUROPEAN CAR!

CAPRI

COME SEE METRO AND ASK ABOUT OUR SPECIAL PURCHASE PLAN FOR COLLEGE GRADUATES

JETHRO TULL

with Wild Turkey

THIS TUESDAY, APRIL 18 at 8 pm

TICKETS: $5.50, 4.50, 2.75

SOME GOOD SEATS STILL AVAILABLE AT THE STUDENT UNION TICKET OFFICE

(11:25 - 12:15, 4:00-5:00)

and the ACC

Presented by the Student Union Social Commission
Irish look good in first scrimmage

by Vic Deer

A hockey delineans turned quarterback, a wide receiver named Washington, and a fresh- man running back shared the spotlight with Ara Parseghian's number one defense yesterday in Notre Dame's first 'live' scrimmage of spring season.

The number one team and number two units scored 34 points--nine of them against the first-line defense--from various positions on the field, but several of the tangles were set up by defensive returns of interceptions and fumbles.

There was plenty of player and position competition in the two-hour scrimmage, and both the offensive and defensive units were without players who will play large parts in the Irish grid program this fall.

Mike Creany, a starter at tight end for the past two seasons, was out with a strained knee, and his position was filled by sophomore Dave Casper. Running back Eric Fudet, a starter last year, was also sidelined, as was lineback Tom Devine, who is still recovering from last season's knee surgery.

Parseghian began the scrimmage by putting the number one offense against the number three defense, and fullback Andy Huff opened the scoring by sweeping across the middle of the field, and Doherty hit him with a 30-yard scoring strike. Freshmen Wayne Bullock got the conversion by sweeping right end for the two-point play.

Bullock paired with freshman quarterback Tom Clements to produce the second TD of the afternoon for the number two offense. Starting from his own 36, Clements found Washington for a 25-yard gain at the blue goal, then picked up 19 yards on a keeper to the 31.

Harry Goodman picked up eight yards on a left-side line back, and on the next play Clements rolled right, found Bullock wide open in the end zone, and hit him with a 14-yard scoring toss.

The fourth blue touchdown came soon after. Doherty took charge of the second offense after a fumble on the 31-yard line and-saving mainly in the ground-drive his team to the goal. Doherty picked up four yards himself on a broken play, scrambled, and then Bullock kicked through the right side of the line for his second TD of the day. There was no conversion attempt.

Ken Schlees, a regular deep back for the first defense, scored the final tally of the day when he picked off a Doherty aerial and returned it to the blue 20-yard line. Gary Dimick squirmed to the one, and Huff got the score on an all-out tackle plunge. The number one defense stopped Dimick short of the two-point.

Jim Muscarella, a starter at outside linebacker, last year halted Doherty's most serious threat of the day when he intercepted an errant pass at the five-yard line and returned it to the 20.

The blues mounted a final scoring attempt in the last moments of the scrimmage, but Bob Thomas' 35-yard field goal try sailed wide of the right upright.

The Irish will spend tomorrow viewing films and will practice on Friday before running through another live scrimmage on Saturday afternoon.

big ten favorites and the class of the Midwest, the Wolverine netmen made short work of the Irish, sweeping the singles competition and coping two of the three doubles matches.

The doubles combination of Buster Brown and John Allare avenged being dealt with a 7-5, 6-4, 6-2 win over the Wolverine duo of Ross-Harvety.

Assessing the MU blitzkrieg, coach Fallon said, "They were just too good on down the line."

"They had real good depth," he continued, "and in a game like tennis, if one guy is a little better than another in each spot, you hang in."

"Michigan is the defending Big Ten champ, and no one is expected to beat them in the conference. They have a real nice team." " Irish captain Buster Brown echoed the sentiments of Fallon. "They were just better than us man for man. And they had good depth in their personnel.

The Irish reverted to form in East Lansing, taking four of the six singles matches and sweeping the doubles completion against the Spartans.

The match started off on a sour note as both Brown and John Allare, the ND-one-two singles punch, dropped close matches to the top MSU players.

Rick Vetter deconsquashed Brown, 6-2, 7-6, 7-4 and Dave Williams handled Allare 7-6, 7-4.

But from there on, it was all Notre Dame as the Irish swept the next seven game points.

Mike Reilly smacked out Joe Fodell 6-7, 7-5, 7-4 while Brandon Walsh wasted no time in dropping Scott Rosen 6-1, 6-4.

Rich Schelter defeated Al Jacoby 7-5, 6-4 and freshman John Carriego wrapped up the expected to beat them in the conference. They have a real nice team."

Mike Reilly's booming serve helped him record a 6-7, 7-3, 7-4 victory over Michigan State's Joe Fodell Tuesday in East Lansing.

The Irish romped in doubles action as all three ND combos dropped their Spartans challengers in two sets.

Brown and Allare swept Vetter-Williams 6-1, 6-4. Walsh and Chris Kane recorded a win over Fodell-Olson 6-2, 6-0 and Reilly and Carriego finished up the afternoon's work with a 6-4, 6-0 decision over Jacoby Carriego.

The split with Michigan and the Spartans left the Irish with a 4-1 mark.

Next on the agenda for the raqueteers is the Tri-State quadrangular in Terre Haute Friday and Saturday.

There the Irish will be competing with host team Indiana State, Cincinnati, and Southern Illinois.

Looking ahead to the weekend, captain Brown figures the Irish should have little trouble with State and Carey, but predicts a close match with the Salukis.

by Eric Kinkead

A strong, Michigan tennis squad ended Irish hopes of an undefeated season in Ann Arbor Monday afternoon during the ND netters 6-1, but coach Tom Fallon's charges wasted no time in starting a new win streak rebounding with a 7-2 thumping of Michigan State Tuesday in East Lansing.

Soccer team debuts today behind Stepan

The Notre Dame soccer team will open its spring season this afternoon at four o'clock, hosting the St. Joseph Kickers behind Stepan Center.

The Irish will field a team dominated by underclassmen against the Kickers, a semi-pro club from Berrien Springs, Michigan.

Despite their youthful lineup, the Irish booters are considered to be one of the better Notre Dame clubs in recent years.

There will be a meeting for all delegates to the Mock Convention interested in nominating Senator Edward M. Kennedy for President, on Wednesday April 12 at 7 pm in the Fiesta Lounge of LaFortune.

New office hours 10:am - 5:pm M-T
10:am - 2:30 pm Friday

Thursday, April 13, 1972
Jethro Tull show forces change in Soph/Lit Festival schedule

Student directors of the annual Sophomore Literary Festival at the University of Notre Dame are completing final arrangements this week for the event which will bring six novelists and three poets to the campus beginning Sunday (April 16). Afternoon and evening sessions during the six-day program are open to the public.

The appearance of the Jethro Tull musical concert in the Athletic Center at 8 p.m. April 18 has been deleted in a change for the William H. Gass lecture on senior fellow voting held tonight, Friday

by Joseph Abel
Managing Editor

Balloting for the 1972 Senior Fellow award will be held tonight on a door-to-door basis and on Thursday and Friday in the Huddle, St. Mary's Dining Hall and the Senior Bar, announced Academic Commissioner Eric Andrus.

Andrus described the system as a campus-wide door-to-door basis of the kind used for the annual senior polling of seniors from 9 to 12 tonight in Hall of Presidents. He pointed out that no senior not contacted by this method will have failed to be balloted, from the Huddle at 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Thursday and Friday or in the Senior Bar Thursday and Friday for St. Mary's seniors. It will be ballot not only in the Huddle and the Senior Bar, but also during the evening session held in the Huddle and the Senior Bar for St. Mary's seniors.

Andrus emphasized a need for at least 60 per cent turnout for the award to be valid. He declared: “If we can't get 60 per cent, we just won't have an award.”

Candidates for this year's award are Daniel Berrigan, Ernest Burdick and Charles Events. “The only real publicity for the candidates we've had was the articles the Observer saw page 5 of our Monday edition: ‘Senior artists are alike,’” said Andrus.

Andrus regretted the rather limited choice of candidates and mentioned that this was due to the navigability of other seminars. "We got all kinds of rejections from people such as Groceho Mary, Henry Kustigler, William Buckley and Buckmoller Fuller. They just weren't available to come and receive the award," he said.

His original intention was to make the ballot "as varied, both politically and non-politically," and to include at least 5 candidates.

Senior artists exhibit work

Sixteen senior artists in the University of Notre Dame's May commencement class will present their annual exhibit from April 16 to May 25 in the O'Shaunessy Art Gallery.

Called "72 Conglomerate '72," the show includes paintings, scupture and photography by students in the senior seminar class of Robert Leader, professor of art. Rev. James Flaman, C.S.C., is coordinating the exhibit.

"One doesn't talk about MICHAEL COONEY. One listens to him." - Boston After Dark

Saturday, April 15th, 8:30 pm Washington Hall

Are all football teams alike? Are all colleges alike? Are all life insurance companies alike are alike

Get the straight facts, by calling:
CAMPUS REPRESENTATIVES

Kirkman Pharmacy 233-6000
Ralph Holmstrom 239-6500
Kathy Holmes 233-0340
Tom Morris 233-3650

"LONH HAIR" strictly Caranbly St.

The British isles here. If you have long hair Continental's Artists can trim it for a bloody true Shag, as desired, with or without Kittles.

Healthy hair is our business.

Continental

Classified Ads

FOR SALE

For Sale: KLH Model 30 stereo system; with AM/FM stereo, one year old. Call 237-2722.

We MGS: Blue, wired wheels, AM/FM radio. Super condition, must see to believe. New BFQ overhauled, runs all around. $175 or best offer. Call Jack at 522-4534.

1971 HONDA CB100 only driven 885 miles. Call 1144.

2 bedroom home on large lot, new campus. Only 1 bedroom is painted and built in refrigerator, ice for study, new aluminum storm windows, new internal casing, ironing, wall to wall carpeting, garage, wall to wall carpeting in kitchen, salt water system, in car garage, for sale or rent. Sited for quick take. Call 304-8432.

Handmade leather belts.
Available in Tony's Boot Shop behind the Administration Bldg.
1969 VW $325. 222-5033.
Lincoln W.W. call Phil Blum.

FOR RENT

Kitchen & Rooms 45 per man. synth. 2 beds. Also free rent for summer for painting the house.

LOST AND FOUND

Lost: Jailer's key ring with 4 keys. Last broken. If found call 4148.

PERSONALS

Two daring males (sweet, kind, etc.) are interested in proposing to interview and date in Florida. Spring '73. Free bus or flight offer, $150. P. Five spaces left vacant.

The St. Louis Arch is not the nation's helium monument.

NOTICE

WANTED

Don't be foolish any more for reasonable pricings, look at Priceograph. Call Ch. 826-4492.

Dancing Virgins will be on tour to Cleveland April 16th. Call Mary Ann 4355.