Nixon vetoes social legislation

The Education Bill, vetoed by the President three times, would provide elementary and secondary education, vocational, and adult education with additional funding.

In the field of health care, Nixon vetoed the present administration for "killing" the Hill-Burton Bill to place a hospital in every community and provide funds to restrain the spread of fatal diseases.

Register under Fire

Prior to the speech, a democratic voting registrar came under fire for allegedly being partisan in whom she would register to vote. The voice of the audience.

McGovern-Shriver campaign supporters sponsored the Brademas speech. According to Al Cramer, ND liaison to National headquarters, the ND-SMC group voted over 150 volunteers to canvass the campus and South Bend to register voters.

The Notre Dame-St. Mary's organization already has hall and floor captains for almost every dorm at both campuses.

U.S. votoes UN Middle East peace resolution

by Robert Alden

On September 12, 1972

United Nations, N.Y., Sept. 9- The United States vetoed a security council resolution tonight that would have called for immediate cessation of military operations in the Middle East, but which failed to take cognizance of the Arab-Israeli conflict as it relates to the total situation around the area. Checkmate for Arab terrorists on the Israeli team in Munich and the Israeli reprisals.

Brademas' technique was to follow each quotation with an example of an alleged inconsistent action.

Chairman of the House Education subcommittee, the former SMC political science instructor also claimed that the Republican Administration had vetoed several major pieces of education legislation which he sponsored. After the bills were passed over the President's veto, the Republicans claimed credit for the acts both at the GOP convention and in a nationally-distributed GOP factbook.

As evidence, Brademas cited his Child Day Care Bill which the Republican Party endorsed at its convention last month in Miami Beach. He also claimed the Environmental Education Act, which provides funding for youth and adult education on ecology; the Drug Abuse Education Act, and the Education Act in the same category.

Effect - the attack by Arab terrorists on the Israeli team in Munich and the Israeli reprisals.

Speaking for the United States, its permanent representative here, George Bush said that it was impossible to isolate cause and effect, to single out an Arab terrorist on the Israeli team in Munich and the Israeli reprisals.

Thirteen countries had voted for the cease-fire resolution sponsored by Somalia, Guinea and Yugoslavia. Panama abstained and the United States cast its negative vote, which occasioned an outburst of applause from the public, seated in the Security Council chamber.

The European bloc - Britain, France, Italy and Belgium - had vigorously tried to push amendments to the cease-fire resolution that would have modified it so as to deplore all acts of terror and would have asked for the "immediate cessation and prevention of all military and terrorist activities" - thus, a resolution aimed at preventing Israeli military and Arab terrorist acts.

The voting on these amendments was complicated. But at least one part of them was blocked because of a joint vote by the Soviet Union and China.

All through a long day of debate, the United States had taken a determined stand that Israel could not be condemned for reprisal provoked by Arab terrorism.

Bush told the Security Council today that states which barter and give succor to terrorists cannot claim sanctity for themselves.

The Council had been called into an emergency Sunday session on the request of Syria and Lebanon as a result of a series of Israeli air raids that had been touched off by the killing of 11 Israelis by Arab terrorists at the Munich Olympics.

But Bush said that the one-sided resolutions against Israel that the Council had so often passed not only did not contribute to the goal of peace, they also blocked "the perpetrators and supporters of acts of terrorism to believe that they can escape the world's consequences.

"Munich was so horrible, so vicious, so brutal, so detrimental to order in the world and to peace in the Middle East that we simply must not act here as if it did not exist," the U.S. representative said. He then offered a resolution condemning "the senseless and unprecedented terrorist attack in Munich" and calling upon "Those states harboring and supporting such terrorists and their activities to cease their encouragement and support of terrorists and to take all necessary measures to bring about the immediate end of such acts of senseless acts of terrorism.

Somalia, along with the Sudan and Guinea, introduced a resolution calling upon "the parties concerned to cease immediately all military operations. This resolution made no reference to the violence in Munich. The African countries, with the support of the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia and India, pushed strongly for a quick vote invoking the immediate cease-fire in the Middle East.

But the European bloc, joined by Argentina, insisted that they needed time to consult with their allies. Yakov A. Malik, the Soviet representative, chided them and said that "any procrastination would be encouragement for Israel." He said that he felt an adjournment for three hours or so would be sufficient for them to consult their governments.

This caused Carlos Ortiz de Rozas, representative of Argentina to remark that last December during the India-Pakistan fighting, "when they were in a crisis involving the loss of human lives, some of the delegations now opposing delay in voting had asked for a 24-hour postponement of voting to seek instructions."

In his statement to the Council, Bush said that the United States had dropped diplomatic amenity and pulled no punches, in the obvious relief of the crippled public gallery at the Security Council.

Bush said that until a few days ago the world had again dared to hope because of the climate of reasonableness and realism seemed to be developing in the Middle East.

"Then came Munich - the senseless act of terrorism there which cast a pall over these hopes. Yet we are now meeting on a crisis, the United States has presented a complaint to a complaint - a complaint that stands out for its unreality. It makes no reference to the tragic events at Munich." Bush said.

"Did the Syrian government join in complaint or expression of outrage when terrorists invaded the Olympic Village, in violation not only of law but of spirit of Olympic brotherhood and murder innocent athletes?" Bush asked.

"Did we hear even a word of condemnation from the government of Syria for this despicable act? No. Quite the contrary. The Syrian government continues to harbor and to give aid and encouragement to terrorist organizations which openly champion such acts."

Bush then said that Syria was not alone in its encouragement of terrorism and that certain other governments in the area, whether by word and deed or by silent acquiescence and failure to dissociate themselves from the acts of a minority that preaches and practices lawlessness and violence, cannot be absolved of responsibility for the cynical violence and counterviolence we have again witnessed this past week.

"We believe each member of the Council, indeed of the entire international community, should make it unmistakably clear that those acts of terror and violence practiced against innocent people as a matter of policy are unacceptable in civilized society."

"Each of us has a responsibility to make clear that those who practice such acts, or aid and abet them in any way, are the ones deserving of censure and condemnation. Only then will we begin to eliminate this scourge from the earth, and with it the acts of counterviolence to which history inevitably proves it gives rise."
Activities Night to host sixty organizations

The University of Notre Dame has received a $750,000 dollar grant from the Kresge Foundation to help underwrite an addition to its 45-year-old Law School building. The gift will enable an enlargement of the Law School's library capacity and a doubling of usable space in a renovation of the present building. The expanded law library will be named the Kresge Library, and Dean Thomas L. Shaffer said the Law School will seek other funds to increase its annual book purchases in moving from 50,000 to 100,000 volumes.

In announcing the Foundation's gift, Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., said that the grant would "benefit several generations of young men and women who will leave the joy of serving justice in our times."

Minority scholarship to be studied here under NEH grant

The University of Notre Dame is one of 15 schools in the nation selected by the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) to provide post-doctoral study for fellows in the fields of Afro-American, Mexican-American and American Indian scholarship during the 1972-73 school year.

Two students who will pursue Mexican-American studies at Notre Dame under the direction of Dr. Julian Samora, professor of sociology, are Robert Jesus Garza of Oklahoma State University and Barbara R. Lopez of the University of California at Davis. Each fellowship carries an award of $10,000 dollars for nine months of study and $2,000 dollars each to the sponsoring institutions to cover program-related costs.

Of the 40 fellowships totaling $400,000 dollars this year, 10 are in the area of Mexican-American studies, 10 in American Indian studies, and 20 in Afro-American studies. Joining Notre Dame in the programs are the Smithsonian Institution, Harvard University, and the University of Colorado, California, Arizona and Texas.

Dave Caruso: "It's not just a freshman-oriented event." Other books and studying.

Caruso continued, "It's not just a freshman-oriented event. It's for all the students of both Notre Dame and St. Mary's. It took a lot of work to get the event organized. But since we have about sixty organizing, it should be worth it." Caruso also added that "this year's number of clubs far exceeds last year's, so it's impossible to estimate how many people will attend." Schipp commented on the organizational aspects of the evening. "LaFortune was chosen as the site basically for two reasons; one, it's close to the campus; and secondly, this will give students a chance to orientate themselves with the center and its facilities." The entire Student Center will be used for the evening, with doors set up for the different varieties of clubs: such as academic, geographic, and service clubs.

Some organizations like Student Government and The Observer will have their fourth floor offices ready to greet anyone interested. At each entrance a master door plan and alphabetical listing of the clubs will be posted. All clubs are reminded that if they want to be represented at Activities Night, they should contact Caruso or Schipp (telephone at number 3270) by Monday night. Also all clubs that have already signed up should be at the front entrance of LaFortune between 1:30 pm and 3:30 pm on Wednesday for registration.

Vogl in South Bend art show

New works by Dan Vogl, assistant professor of art at the University of Notre Dame, will be among three one-man shows by South Bend artists opening the South Bend Art Center season September 10.

Vogl, who holds a bachelor of art education from the Chicago Art Institute and the University of Chicago and a master's degree in the same area from the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee, joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1963. He teaches graphics and painting. Described once as "a hard-working artist who strives for perfection without relying on theatrical effects," Vogl has exhibited his works at several shows in Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

A reception honoring the opening Art Center shows will be held September 10 from 2 to 5 p.m. The exhibition closes October 1.

Dunne at Yale

Rev. John S. Dunne, C.S.C., professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame, will be on leave of absence from the University during the 1973-74 academic year while occupying the Rignis Chair in Yale University's Department of Religious Studies.

A native of Waco, Texas, Father Dunne entered the Congregation of Holy Cross at the age of 16 and received his bachelor's degree Notre Dame in 1935. He studied theology in Rome at the Gregorian University, was ordained in 1941 and received his doctorate in sacred theology in 1948. In 1968 he won a Danforth Foundation Habibson Award for excellence in teaching.

Father Dunne will return to Notre Dame in the fall of 1973.

The best "stereo value" in town:

$400.00

Individually, each of the components pictured above has created a new standard of sound-per-dollar stereo value. Together, these components will provide you with more quality sound and reliability than you could have bought a year ago for over five hundred dollars.

The Smaller Advent Loudspeakers are the only speakers costing less than the now-famous original Advent Loudspeakers which can reproduce the entire musical range. Most inexpensive speakers cannot produce the lowest octaves of music: the lowest strings of a double bass or electric bass guitar, the lowest pipes of a pipe organ. The Smaller Advent can.

The Scott 357, AM/FM stereo receiver has an AM/FM tuner which produces 33 watts RMS per channel, across the entire musical range, at less than 1% total distortion (T.M.R.) is the most demanding and least flashy of the various power-rating systems.) The tuner sections will separate weaker signals on a crowded dial from their brawner neighboring stations and receive them with an amazing fullness and clarity.

To match the quality and reliability that the Scott and Advents represent, we recommend the Garrard SL55B with a Studebaker cartridge. The SL55B has a heavy platter, a synchronous motor, a convenient cueing control and comes with a dust-cover and base.

Come to RMS Audio...this week. You’ll be surprised how much quality sound your Three hundred and Seventy five dollars can buy.

Refugee problem faced

Generally, Elhamm continued, commercial publishing houses print only "risk" manuscripts, popular material. Since scholarly works do not have top to best seller appeal, publishing houses usually avoid them as financial gravestones. But these scholarly theses need to be printed. They are purchased by university and college libraries, professors, and students. So the university becomes the good samaritan.

Contrary to public opinion, the press is not maintained to provide an uplifting plan for professors funded by the "publish or perish" syndrome.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," said Fr. Beichner. "Publish or Perish is a slogan that got used tremendously by a group of people trying to force tenure on themselves."

"There should be a means of communicating some of the scholarship and thought of the university on to the public," commented Matthew Fillimmons, one of Press's founding father. "There are other presses, it is true. And the faculty does look after their own friends when Harvard published their manuscript. But here at Notre Dame we have a distinctive role to play."

Refugee problem faced

President Solomon Franjeh of Lebanon in a diplomatic effort to get major powers to tackle the Palestinian refugee problem that endures much of the violence in the Middle East. After pressing over a cabinet meeting on Wednesday, Fr. Franjeh asked the leader of the Palestinian guerrilla forces that support the Assad regime against Israel in the territories now held by Israel, were highlighted by the killing of Israeli civilians and aid workers and kidnappers at the Olympic games in Munich. The article also led to a new military and diplomatic offensive by Israel against the commando groups.

The last becoming a General Assembly of the United Nations has been asked by Secretary Gen- ral Kurt Waldheim to consider international measures to protect "innocent victims" as air- line passengers from acts of political terrorism.

Foreign Minister Abu Eban of Israel said that the immediate problem in the Middle East is not the quest for a peace settlement, but the removal of the commando units, with Israel prepared to strike against commando operations from neighboring countries if their governments are unable to prevent it. Fr. Franjeh, reflecting the moderate Arab viewpoint, said: "If we consider the burning of embassies and the killing of innocent people as acts of provocation, we should tackle the commands and not their support (Israel) or provocation."

There are 300,000 Palestinian refugees in this country of 2 million and 85,000 in the camps supported by the United Nations. These camps are under the control of commando organizations, which brutalized many guerrillas from the young men and women in the camps.

I suppose the term jazz covers a wide range of musical forms. There’s the type of jazz found only in a long jam session, the kind that is carefully rehearsed and includes a full orchestral arrangement behind a small group, or the kind that features a solo artist playing some soft tune in front of a simple background of drums and a keyboard (as opposed to electric) bass. Jazz is mixed up with many other forms as well, as recent recording can show: jazz-rock, country jazz, folk-jazz, etc. to produce entirely new musical idioms. When I think of jazz, however, I think of the bass, the real (as opposed to electric) bass. Jazz is country-jazz, folk-jazz, etc., to produce the jam session types, but to me, jazz is original rhythm. Sure, the more popular forms are nice, easygoing music with a definite swing, more than you want it to, or in the last has slowed down. Enough to keep you awake and going, yet pulling those all-nighters—something lively, the kind of music you want to listen to in the soft and easygoing enough not to disturb you.

Points aplenty in ND scrimmage

by Jim Donaldson

There were points aplenty in Notre Dame's game-type scrimmage Saturday - 46 to 1 for the second unit and 21 for the second team. Coach Ara Parseghian, who is looking for vast offensive improvement this fall, wasn't wholly pleased with the workout.

"The players were disappointed with the defense's performance," Parseghian said. "One of the three touchdowns the first team scored was a chance for a fumble (on the eight) and a pass but no one was on the defensive side that was disappointing, although there was also improvement by the number two offense."

The fumbles disappointed Parseghian. "Every back that got hit coughed up the football on one of those.

As for the numerous fumbles, the Irish offensive units had to be pleased. Coaches who saw action, Tom Clements and Cliff Ericksen for the first team and Bill Etter and Rich Slager for the second unit, overall were pleased. Both Clements and Slager thrilled the backers by breaking loose for a pair of long touchdowns.

While Slager's scoring jaunts were in the first quarter, the first coming on a 39-yard run left end and the second on a screen pass to the 21 that covered 40 yards. In both cases, good blocks gave Slager running room and once he saw daylight, he showed his blazing speed at 5.9.5 in the 100-yard gendarme.

The first unit racked up another early touchdown, Darryl Dewd scoring twice in Saturday's scrimmage.

Darryl Dewd scored two touchdowns in Saturday's scrimmage.

Darryl Dewd scored over from the three to 20 line and 21 to 30 yard lines which later prompted Parseghian to say, "The early touchdowns were not conducive to a good total scrimmage."

The first unit jumped out to a 23-0 lead and suffered a letdown, Parseghian explained. "We had a tendency to coast."

Clements directed the number one offense to its three early scores and was at the helm for one of three quarter touchdowns. Although he missed in his first true passing attempt of the fall season, Clements connected with his next eight in succession to wind up with eight of 18 overall for 53 yards. Another impressive day was running back Joe Dewan, who alertly fired an uncleaped axe that forced him to miss Wednesday's scrimmage and two days of practice ran the first team in the second and fourth quarters and led them to a pair of touchdowns, both coming passes. Brown established the 16-yard screen pass to Gary Diminick and a 38-yard pitch to White Townsend and despite the drive, Brown hit on four of six passing attempts for 53 yards.

Commenting on the play of his leading quarterback candidates, Parseghian said, "Clements has thrown accurately in all three scrimmages and has moved the football team. His total play could have been continued."

"I threw better today, but I have a lot of confidence in the week's work and he was a little rusty."

In Brown's first appearance, a poor exchange between him and Dewd cost him a fumble which set up the second unit's first touchdown.

Icers to hold meeting Wed.

"The Irish hockey team will hold its first meeting of the year Wednesday night at 7:30 in the AY, according to head coach Chuck Hoyle.

All interested candidates should attend."
Law students aiding procurors

Hard pressed prosecutors in four Indiana counties are getting a lift from Notre Dame Law students in their fight against crime.

Under a grant to Notre Dame from the Indiana Criminal Planning Agency, Notre Dame students have been serving as interns in prosecutor offices in St. Joseph, LaPorte, St. Joseph and Marshall Counties. Administering the program is Leslie G. Foschuk, assistant dean of the Notre Dame Law School and a former prosecutor in Ericey County, New York.

The students, mostly seniors, with a sprinkling of second-year students, assist part-time during the school year and full-time during the summer. They research cases, prepare warrants, question witnesses, take depositions, prepare courtroom strategy and, in some cases, represent the prosecutor in the trial of non-jury cases.

One judge impressed by their work is Norman Roper of South Bend who said that the Notre Dame students do "a very creditable job with all the skills of practicing attorneys."

In addition to freeing the prosecutor and his staff from routine tasks, the students bring a certain expertise of their own to their job. Generally well-versed in contemporary legal issues such as drug abuse and obscenity, they often find themselves briefing the judges on current law in these areas.

In addition to valuable practical experience, there is a wider educational benefit in the intern program. Students involved take their problems back to the classroom - which is also the Poth's Criminal Practice course for third-year students. Discussion with professors and fellow students, "How do procurors feel?" "I am totally delighted with the program," Chief Prosecutor William Voor of St. Joseph County commented. "It is the widest distribution of federal funds that I can think of in the battle against crime."

A&L applications

Student membership includes one representative from each of the upperclassmen as well as at large member and the president of the Arts and Letters Student Advisory Council.

Last year, the students submitted a number of proposals including a liberalization of the disciplinary procedures and the initiation of a "problems of procedure" for airing academic grievances - all of which was the object of the council.

Encouraging all Arts and Letters seniors, juniors and sophomores to apply, Dean Frederick J. Cronson said we are looking forward to working with interested and concerned students." Representation of Notre Dame women is avidly sought.

The Academic Council of the University, concerned with matters of academics, policy and procedure, serves as a "problem-solving" body on academic policy. Among the topics for discussion this year are revision of the Faculty Manual and composition of the Academic Calendar. Student units represents each of the undergraduate colleges in addition to an ex-officio position for the Academic Commissioner of the Student Government.

Egyp:

Diplomacy, not military action against Israel

The Egyptian government, although averse to the Israeli air raids on Palestinian camps in Lebanon and Syria, is determined to avoid involvement in a military action against Israel unless the Israelis attack Egyptian territory, political sources here said today.

The government is anxious to continue the diplomatic campaign recently announced by President Sadat and is hopeful the latter will lead to a new generalized military configuration in the Middle East.

Such a war would be contrary to the Egyptian government's plans and hopes as they have reportedly emerged over the last few months and especially since the exodus of Soviet forces from Egypt.

Although there has never been a formal statement of this effect, it is taken for granted here that Sadat's decision to oust the Soviets from the desert war, as an August policy to reconquer the occupied territories.

Gen. Mohammed Ali Said, the defense minister and army commander, among other officials, is known to be opposed to any military action.

A government declaration on the Israeli air raids issued yesterday said that "the civilized world will not allow Israel and her allies to endanger the security of the area." The statement noted that the raids were carried out by U.S. made Phantom bombers and accused the United States of complicity with Isreal.
