Brademas hints at appointment

By Ann Therese Darin
Campus News Editor

U.S. Congressman John Brademas (D-IN, 3rd) hinted Friday evening that D. Patrick Moynihan, former domestic counselor to President Nixon will be appointed as director of the newly-created National Institute of Education (NIE).

In a speech which kicked off the third season of American Scene lectures sponsored by the St. Mary's Education Department, Brademas highlighted education-oriented legislation passed by the last congress.

As chairman of the House Sub-Committee on Education, the seven-term congressman has sponsored legislation on child care, the National Institute of Education, the Higher Education Bill. He spent a majority of his 45-minute speech in Carroll Auditorium explaining the mechanics of the proposed laws and an audience estimated at 300.

Sandwiched in his remarks on NIE, proposed by President Nixon in 1970 as a "vehicle for supporting research and development on every level of education," according to the Sub-Committee Chairman, was the reference to Moynihan.

"NIE: Moynihan's Idea

"It is significant because this was his (Moynihan's) idea when he was a White House Advisor," Brademas said.

According to Brademas, the Institute would close the gap between money allocated to defense research and educational research.

The newly-designated regent of St. Mary's college, quoted statistics which showed that ten third of one percent is funded for educational experimentation and development. Congressmen Brademas also revealed that NIE will negotiate contracts and grants which universities and colleges do to research for the Institute.

Child Care Endorsed

Endorsed by the Democratic and GOP National Conventions earlier this year, the Child Care Law, another recently-presented education-oriented law which Brademas singled out, will be open to children on all socioeconomic levels. In Brademas' estimation, the proposed Child Care Centers will be "family-centered, locally-controlled" units. These centers are important, stressed Brademas, since there are 8 million pre-schoolers whose mothers work.

The Higher Education Bill, which Brademas claimed would benefit St. Mary's and neighboring Notre Dame, substantially will give aid to college students and colleges and universities on the financial level.

Students First

"The Federal Government is definitely committed to a policy of students for higher education funding," contended the Harvard graduate and Rhodes scholar. Specifics for legislation: the Basic Educational Opportunity Grants Program and the National Student Loan Corp. are still in the debate stage. In his remarks, Brademas noted that private colleges and universities educate 26.4 per cent of the national college student population.

After the speech, Brademas was questioned by a student on whether there are any provisions for graduate students in the Higher Education Bill. Brademas replied that there has been no change in present graduate student allocations.

Asked about what the government is doing to insure that college graduates will have suitable employment after graduation, Brademas responded that the matter was still under consideration in the congress.

Straddled Parochial

He straddled the parochial issue by remarking that "the parochiaid issue isn't being treated as an education matter, but rather as a tax issue."

Brademas isolated the single drawback to all parochiaid proposals as the Constitution. "We've got to figure out assurance that's constitutional," he said. In Indiana, this year, parochial schools are receiving textbooks and aid on the financial level.

(continued on page 7)

Woodcock opposes new welfare system

by Art Ferranti

United Auto Workers International Union President Leonard Woodcock voiced his disapproval over the new welfare proposal of the Nixon administration in a brief press conference last Saturday.

Terminating the proposal to eliminate welfare in exchange for a job at $1.66 per hour as "regressive," Woodcock said that "governmental problems" were involved since this would force women with small dependent children to work. The implications of this action, said Woodcock, would be carried on to the next generation.

"Adding that there is enough work in the country to get those on welfare who can work employed, Woodcock said that if the "private sector can't do it, then the government as the employer of last resort." Woodcock was touring Indiana speaking with U.A.W. members concerning the reasons behind his endorsement of the McGovern-Shriver ticket. Said Woodcock, "We've turned the corner. I think it's coming along. We still have problems. The facts are beginning to register with the working people. We're moving.

"Basing non-support concerning McGovern on the fact that the presidential candidate "is an unknown quantity" to the working people, Woodcock said McGovern has clarified his policies, particularly those concerning taxation, full employment, and income support for welfare recipients due to the allegations of his shifting positions and fence straddling, and due to the misinformation about him.

Woodcock held the conference at the Albert Pick Motor Inn in South Bend between speaking engagements at two U.A.W. halls in the South Bend—Elkhart area.

Register that bike!

...details on page 6
Walsh elects executive board

by Bill McGee
Observer Staff Reporter

Ignoring the traditional offices of Hall President and Vice President, the women of Walsh Hall opted to elect an innovative hall government structure in the form of an executive board. The board elected consisted of Sue Anderson, Peggy Pollara, Kathy Cahill, and Terry Skeehan. Walsh voters also selected Lynn Cahill, Sue Anderson, Peggy Pollara, and Treasurer. Since elections for section leaders are today, votes for the first Chairman will not be cast until Wednesday. All members of the new executive board will attend the IFC meetings, with the voting power being limited to the Chairman.

At present the newly elected executive board has no definite programs or explicit plans to implement. Instead, the board, according to Sue Anderson, will present their many ideas to the residents of Walsh Hall for their final deliberation by referendum. Such topics as regulations of parietal hours, the establishment of a food clause, the operation of a concession stand, practice free drills, and alumni visits to the hall will be decided upon by a majority vote of the residents of Walsh.

Board members stressed that communication (intra-hall, inter-hall, and university-wise) is the foundation for the realization of Notre Dame women's unlimited potential. Sue Anderson declared that the board's first priority is the establishment of communication within Walsh Hall. She illustrated that this could be done by section meetings and inter-section parties.

She then hopes that communication between Walsh and Badin could be improved. She suggested that each hall exchange representatives at their Hall Council meetings in an effort to achieve this goal. Executive board members also advocated an expanding role for Notre Dame women. They thought this could be best achieved by encouraging their fellow female students to join existing campus organizations. They indicated that their priority lie first with Walsh Hall, and then with the other organizations. The board members thought that their potential could be best achieved by starting with hall government and then expanding outward to campus and community activities.
New York—Voter preference for President Nixon grew so much in the last month of summer that he took the lead over Sen George McGovern even among registered Democrats, according to a new 16-state electoral vote survey of the New York Times. The survey, conducted through Sept 12, found that Nixon moved to a 39-point margin of 62 to 23 percent. A parallel survey a month earlier found a 35-point Nixon margin of 56 to 21 percent.

New York—College graduates are likely to find the job market tighter than in recent decades, according to a federal labor force survey that found a 28-point Nixon lead in the 16 states surveyed. They account for 20 percent of the labor force.

The over-all verdict of the new survey that McGovern may have narrowed the Nixon margin during early September, but this shift was not as large as some pollsters have suggested. The job-hunting college graduate whose studies have been most relevant to the requirements of the labor market, he believes, should have “less difficulty in job adjustment” in the years immediately after graduation than the graduate whose academic work has been less relevant.

The surveys are among a series conducted by Daniel Yankelovich, Inc., a major survey research company, for the New York Times. They differ from other political polls because they are subdivided by state, permitting appraisal of the potential electoral vote as well as the popular vote.

In some states Nixon widened his popular plurality even more dramatically than in the entire sample. In Texas, the spread was 51 points—71 percent for Nixon, 18 percent for McGovern, and 11 percent undecided. Even in New York, which traditionally votes Democratic in presidential elections, the new survey found a Nixon lead of 52-38. This 35-point margin compared with a 17-point Nixon lead in the first survey. In New Jersey, the Nixon spread increased from 30 points to 54, and in Connecticut from 30 points to 39.

There was an indication in the survey that McGovern may have narrowed the Nixon margin during early September, but this shift was so small that it could be explained by sampling error. The over-all verdict of the new survey was that, if the election had just been held, Nixon would have won by a landslide among virtually all ages, social classes, income levels, nationalities and regions.

The President led by 34 points among Catholics, 36 points among independents, 43 points among middle-income voters, 47 points among Italian-Americans, 51 points among Protestants and 54 points in the South.

Poll shows Nixon's popularity increasing...
Register---

Your Bikes

The scene: a rare, beautiful afternoon on the campus of Notre Dame. Students are languidly strolling along the byways, the buses are generously polluting the air, the clock on Sacred Heart tolls the half-hour. Classes are assembled on various patches of grass and line upon line of bicycles are at attention along the wire fences.

Enter the villain: a calm, confident youth with a small pair of wire cutters palmed in his right hand. He bends over an obviously expensive bike and fiddles with the lock as he expertly snips the chain. Wrapping the remnants of the chair naturally around his neck, he mounts and cheerfully rides off, satisfied that his bank account will rise about $75.00 today.

A common scene, with the campus having developed a great interest in bike riding in the last few years, one that is becoming more common than a lot of people want it to, like the victims of bike theft.

Fact: There are more bikes on campus this year than ever before.

Fact: Most of the bikes now on campus are the more expensive kind, reflecting the status of most Notre Dame students and the needs of the serious cyclist.

Fact: There have been over 20 bikes stolen from the campus already this fall.

That the third fact can almost be taken as a conclusion of the first two is alarming. Obviously, some measures have to be taken to protect what have become major investments of students.

Arthur Pears had the right idea when he described added security measures to be taken last week in an Observer news story: plans for new racks and better lighting around all the racks. But the responsibility doesn't lie solely on the shoulders of the Security Department; the owners themselves must take an active part in protecting their property.

They'll get a chance to do just that this week. On the first floor of LaFortune from 3:30 to 7:00 every day this week, bike owners can register their bikes both with local campus security and South Bend authorities, and with a national company who make it their business to cut down on bike thefts. The service will cost $7.75 for local registration and $1.75 for national.

Taking over a job that security started, the Farley Cyclers have a big task ahead of them. But they can only accomplish it with the help of the bike owners.

Sure it costs some money. Somebody's got to pay for all the supplies involved. But this $7.50 can turn out to be worth more than all those replaces premiums bike owners pay if a stolen bike is found, for a found bike without identification does no one any good.

Take advantage of the Farley Cyclers and the Security Department. It's really pretty cheap. Register your bike.

Joseph Abell

---

deoonesbury

garry trudeau

---

Because of the weather in South Bend, all Freshmen must pass a swim test.
For the past ten years, the Beach Boys have been the stalwarts of American music. They began to release records before the recently deceased Brian Wilson. This was a very serious group of people. They released a lot of amazing material. English group wave, made the transition to the Beach Boys started, andritch, who was repackaging most of the Beach Boys old albums. This album was supposed to be the anti-climactic step to the "beach Boys" greatness— the preview of the much raved about but never released "Smiley Smile" album. Instead, an aborted version of "Smile" entitled "Smiley Smile" was released and was a major disappointment to many. It was not until the release of "Surf's Up" that the Beach Boys started to succeed in popularity once again. However, all of the broken promises still exist on "Smiley Smile". This takes nothing away from "Pet Sounds". This album is the ultimate in Beach Boy music as well as being one of the best albums released in the past decade. It is a very quiet, moody, introspective album and it serves as a showcase for Brian Wilson's ability as a composer, writer, and arranger.

"God Only Knows" begins with a majestic French horn introduction and is followed up by tight organ, strings, and solid percussion. Brian Wilson's lead vocal is excellent and the harmony at the end is perfectly interwoven around his voice. Carl also shines on the solo, reflective love song, "Caroline Know." The two instrumentals on the album, "Let's Go Away For A While" and the title cut, "Pet Sounds," emphasize Brian's flair for instrumentation and orchestration. "Let's Go Away For Azhile" is a meditative piece featuring strings, saxes, a French horn and vibes as well as the traditional rhythm section. "Pet Sounds" is a guitar and piano taking a coke bottle and steel guitar effects by Carl which is backed by a strong horn section and a jungle-flavored percussion, if you will. The album also contains the classic, "Would It Be No Nice," featuring a strong vocal by Brian Wilson, and the ever-popular "Shop John B" which shows the great Beach Boy harmony. The rest of the album contains songs that reflect the over all mood of the album. Tony Asher collaborates on most of the material with Brian and proves himself a fine lyricist. Brian does most of the singing, something he unfortunately refrains from today, along with Mike Love and Carl. This is the album where Carl gets his real start in singing, something that he never relinquished as he is the lead singer today. This whole album is a tribute to Brian Wilson's musical genius. Most of the material and a good portion of the material is written by his father. It's not even approached by something that even their die-hard fans, like myself, will not purchase or listen to something that doesn't even approach their former standards.

Secondly, the Beach Boys must be The Beach Boys! They are not a soul group, or a rock group-they are the Beach Boys! The harmonies, melodies, material, and musicianship which made them famous are sorely missed on "So Tough." The Beach Boys must realize that even their die-hard fans, like myself, will not purchase or listen to something that doesn't even approach their former standards.

Finally, Brian Wilson must re-emerge as the chief composer and arranger and should sing much more often than he has been lately. This last album proves that he must consider himself a member of the group rather than its Godfather. If he lets his "vision" get the best of him, it's his same fate of Roger McGuinn of the Byrds— "Mr. Tambourine Man"— and here's to you, Brian! The entire group must realize that they are the Beach Boys! The harmonies, melodies, material, and musicianship will not come off like a poor imitation of the Rascals at all. In the meantime, all one can do is enjoy the music and hope for better things to come.

The album also contains the classic, "Would It Be No Nice," featuring a strong vocal by Brian Wilson, and the ever-popular "Shop John B" which shows the great Beach Boy harmony. The rest of the album contains songs that reflect the over all mood of the album. Tony Asher collaborates on most of the material with Brian and proves himself a fine lyricist. Brian does most of the singing, something he unfortunately refrains from today, along with Mike Love and Carl. This is the album where Carl gets his real start in singing, something that he never relinquished as he is the lead singer today. This whole album is a tribute to Brian Wilson's musical genius. Most of the material and a good portion of the material is written by his father. It's not even approached by something that even their die-hard fans, like myself, will not purchase or listen to something that doesn't even approach their former standards.

Secondly, the Beach Boys must be The Beach Boys! They are not a soul group, or a rock group-they are the Beach Boys! The harmonies, melodies, material, and musicianship which made them famous are sorely missed on "So Tough." The Beach Boys must realize that even their die-hard fans, like myself, will not purchase or listen to something that doesn't even approach their former standards.

Finally, Brian Wilson must re-emerge as the chief composer and arranger and should sing much more often than he has been lately. This last album proves that he must consider himself a member of the group rather than its Godfather. If he lets his "vision" get the best of him, it's his same fate of Roger McGuinn of the Byrds— "Mr. Tambourine Man"— and here's to you, Brian! The entire group must realize that they are the Beach Boys! The harmonies, melodies, material, and musicianship will not come off like a poor imitation of the Rascals at all. In the meantime, all one can do is enjoy the music and hope for better things to come.

The album also contains the classic, "Would It Be No Nice," featuring a strong vocal by Brian Wilson, and the ever-popular "Shop John B" which shows the great Beach Boy harmony. The rest of the album contains songs that reflect the over all mood of the album. Tony Asher collaborates on most of the material with Brian and proves himself a fine lyricist. Brian does most of the singing, something he unfortunately refrains from today, along with Mike Love and Carl. This is the album where Carl gets his real start in singing, something that he never relinquished as he is the lead singer today. This whole album is a tribute to Brian Wilson's musical genius. Most of the material and a good portion of the material is written by his father. It's not even approached by something that even their die-hard fans, like myself, will not purchase or listen to something that doesn't even approach their former standards.

Secondly, the Beach Boys must be The Beach Boys! They are not a soul group, or a rock group-they are the Beach Boys! The harmonies, melodies, material, and musicianship which made them famous are sorely missed on "So Tough." The Beach Boys must realize that even their die-hard fans, like myself, will not purchase or listen to something that doesn't even approach their former standards.

Finally, Brian Wilson must re-emerge as the chief composer and arranger and should sing much more often than he has been lately. This last album proves that he must consider himself a member of the group rather than its Godfather. If he lets his "vision" get the best of him, it's his same fate of Roger McGuinn of the Byrds— "Mr. Tambourine Man"— and here's to you, Brian! The entire group must realize that they are the Beach Boys! The harmonies, melodies, material, and musicianship will not come off like a poor imitation of the Rascals at all. In the meantime, all one can do is enjoy the music and hope for better things to come.
At its first meeting last Thursday, the Student Government Food Committee tasted problems.

The committee, which is sponsored jointly by the Cyclers and the security department, will consist of serial number registration. The bike owner receives a football-shaped decal to place on the bike indicating that the bike is officially registered for five years. The fee is $1.75.

The campus registration, sponsored jointly by the Cyclers and the security department, will consist of serial number registration. The bike owner receives a football-shaped decal to place on the bike indicating that the bike is officially registered for five years. The fee is $1.75.

The national registration, a more comprehensive program, sponsored by Camper Carts, a nationwide company, is recommended by security head Arthur Pears due to a growing concern about bike theft. The national registration consists of entering number of details, such as the bike's serial number, brand name and model, year and color, on a computer card and sending it to the central office. A sticker is mailed to the owner for placement on the bike. Singleton said, and the bike is officially registered for five years.

Singleton added that the Cyclers are cooperating with the St. Joseph County Police, stating that this was significant because 96 percent of the bikes stolen from Notre Dame are found in South Bend.

Singleton also mentioned that if anyone wanted to register a bike, but could not do so during the hours set up in LaFortune, they could register at 3:30 Friday that any time.

"This program has nothing to do with hall projects of using pencils to mark possessions," he said. That program, operated on a campus-wide basis rather than a campus-wide basis, entails the use of an electro pencil to stamp the owner's name or social security number on any possessions, not just bicycles.

"Security is losing pencils to the individual halls for that purpose, he said, adding that that project will begin later in the semester.

"The Farley Cyclers were asked to take care over the protection of Security because it's a new club, oriented toward bikes, that wants to help out the students," Singleton commented. "We intend to go further for cyclists by sponsoring safety seminars and tips on how to protect your bike from the South Bend police later on."

The Farley Cyclers is an organization for bicyclists from both campuses who are interested in meeting other cyclists and participating in cycling events. It is an outgrowth of the Farley Striders club begun two years ago.

The ceremonies, which are open to all students regularly. Nixon's White House staff, who is currently directing local young voters for him with the food services.

The grand opening of Nixon's re-election headquarters in St. Joseph County will be held Monday, September 25 at 7:00 pm. The Nixon headquarters, which will also house campaign activities of gubernatorial candidate Dr. Frank Bowen and congressional candidate Don Newman, is located in the Wyman's building on Michigan Street.

The Grand opening will include remarks by Lloyd Allen, former South Bend mayor and chairman of the St. Joseph County Committee for the Re-election of the President.

The grand opening will include remarks by Lloyd Allen, former South Bend mayor and chairman of the St. Joseph County Committee for the Re-election of the President.
Brademas suggests appointee

Shriver slashes VP

by Greg Aillio

Tickets to a wide range of cultural activities in Chicago could become available to Notre Dame students if Student Union is successful in acquiring a Ticketron outlet this year.

Past efforts to secure this service have proved fruitless because the Ticketron Company believes that the Notre Dame—South Bend area does not offer a sufficient market. Concert Co—Ordinator Dick Donovan explained that the idea was looked into two years ago and rejected by Ticketron. They said that they had tried it in the South Bend area and it had not worked.

Due to these rejections nothing has been done about it this year. With recently revived interest however Student Union is planning to contact Ticketron again. "It's not Student Union's fault," said Donovan. "We would be glad to try it. It's just that if they don't see any money in it, it's not worth it to them."

The service would cost approximately $1 each ticket carrying a $.25 service charge that is then divided between Ticketron and Student Union. Tickets would be available to such events as concerts, plays and professional baseball, football and hockey games in the Chicago area.

Union considers Ticketron outlet

"I believe that the senator should concentrate on other states such as New York, California, or Michigan. "In Indiana, there aren't too many hopeful pickings for him."

D. Patrick Moynihan, whom Brademas anticipates will receive the NIE directorship, received an appointment in the Kennedy Administration as a labor specialist. In the Labor Department, he acted as a special assistant, executive assistant and assistant secretary of Labor.

What system is he talking about? That lets the Governor of North Carolina get away with paying no taxes—no state taxes? A system that says all right to 5 per cent unemployment! That's the American System they are for and I say if that is the American System, let them be among the unemployed.

When asked whether Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, would accept the Ohio District this fall, Brademas replied "If Student Union is successful in the Chicago area could become available to Notre Dame students if Student Union is successful in acquiring a Ticketron outlet this year."

Past efforts to secure this service have proved fruitless because the Ticketron Company believes that the Notre Dame—South Bend area does not offer a sufficient market. Thew Co—Ordinator Dick Donovan explained that the idea was looked into two years ago and rejected by Ticketron. They said that they had tried it in the South Bend area and it had not worked.

Due to these rejections nothing has been done about it this year. With recently revived interest however Student Union is planning to contact Ticketron again. "It's not Student Union's fault," said Donovan. "We would be glad to try it. It's just that if they don't see any money in it, it's not worth it to them."

The service would cost approximately $1 each ticket carrying a $.25 service charge that is then divided between Ticketron and Student Union. Tickets would be available to such events as concerts, plays and professional baseball, football and hockey games in the Chicago area.

"I believe that the senator should concentrate on other states such as New York, California, or Michigan. "In Indiana, there aren't too many hopeful pickings for him."

D. Patrick Moynihan, whom Brademas anticipates will receive the NIE directorship, received an appointment in the Kennedy Administration as a labor specialist. In the Labor Department, he acted as a special assistant, executive assistant and assistant secretary of Labor.

What system is he talking about? That lets the Governor of North Carolina get away with paying no taxes—no state taxes? A system that says all right to 5 per cent unemployment! That's the American System they are for and I say if that is the American System, let them be among the unemployed.

When asked whether Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, would accept the Ohio District this fall, Brademas replied "If Student Union is successful in acquiring a Ticketron outlet this year."

Past efforts to secure this service have proved fruitless because the Ticketron Company believes that the Notre Dame—South Bend area does not offer a sufficient market. Thew Co—Ordinator Dick Donovan explained that the idea was looked into two years ago and rejected by Ticketron. They said that they had tried it in the South Bend area and it had not worked.

Due to these rejections nothing has been done about it this year. With recently revived interest however Student Union is planning to contact Ticketron again. "It's not Student Union's fault," said Donovan. "We would be glad to try it. It's just that if they don't see any money in it, it's not worth it to them."

The service would cost approximately $1 each ticket carrying a $.25 service charge that is then divided between Ticketron and Student Union. Tickets would be available to such events as concerts, plays and professional baseball, football and hockey games in the Chicago area.

"I believe that the senator should concentrate on other states such as New York, California, or Michigan. "In Indiana, there aren't too many hopeful pickings for him."

D. Patrick Moynihan, whom Brademas anticipates will receive the NIE directorship, received an appointment in the Kennedy Administration as a labor specialist. In the Labor Department, he acted as a special assistant, executive assistant and assistant secretary of Labor.

What system is he talking about? That lets the Governor of North Carolina get away with paying no taxes—no state taxes? A system that says all right to 5 per cent unemployment! That's the American System they are for and I say if that is the American System, let them be among the unemployed.

When asked whether Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, would accept the Ohio District this fall, Brademas replied "If Student Union is successful in acquiring a Ticketron outlet this year.

Past efforts to secure this service have proved fruitless because the Ticketron Company believes that the Notre Dame—South Bend area does not offer a sufficient market. Thew Co—Ordinator Dick Donovan explained that the idea was looked into two years ago and rejected by Ticketron. They said that they had tried it in the South Bend area and it had not worked.

Due to these rejections nothing has been done about it this year. With recently revived interest however Student Union is planning to contact Ticketron again. "It's not Student Union's fault," said Donovan. "We would be glad to try it. It's just that if they don't see any money in it, it's not worth it to them."

The service would cost approximately $1 each ticket carrying a $.25 service charge that is then divided between Ticketron and Student Union. Tickets would be available to such events as concerts, plays and professional baseball, football and hockey games in the Chicago area.

"I believe that the senator should concentrate on other states such as New York, California, or Michigan. "In Indiana, there aren't too many hopeful pickings for him."

D. Patrick Moynihan, whom Brademas anticipates will receive the NIE directorship, received an appointment in the Kennedy Administration as a labor specialist. In the Labor Department, he acted as a special assistant, executive assistant and assistant secretary of Labor.

What system is he talking about? That lets the Governor of North Carolina get away with paying no taxes—no state taxes? A system that says all right to 5 per cent unemployment! That's the American System they are for and I say if that is the American System, let them be among the unemployed.

When asked whether Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, would accept the Ohio District this fall, Brademas replied "If Student Union is successful in acquiring a Ticketron outlet this year.

Past efforts to secure this service have proved fruitless because the Ticketron Company believes that the Notre Dame—South Bend area does not offer a sufficient market. Thew Co—Ordinator Dick Donovan explained that the idea was looked into two years ago and rejected by Ticketron. They said that they had tried it in the South Bend area and it had not worked.

Due to these rejections nothing has been done about it this year. With recently revived interest however Student Union is planning to contact Ticketron again. "It's not Student Union's fault," said Donovan. "We would be glad to try it. It's just that if they don't see any money in it, it's not worth it to them."

The service would cost approximately $1 each ticket carrying a $.25 service charge that is then divided between Ticketron and Student Union. Tickets would be available to such events as concerts, plays and professional baseball, football and hockey games in the Chicago area.

"I believe that the senator should concentrate on other states such as New York, California, or Michigan. "In Indiana, there aren't too many hopeful pickings for him."

D. Patrick Moynihan, whom Brademas anticipates will receive the NIE directorship, received an appointment in the Kennedy Administration as a labor specialist. In the Labor Department, he acted as a special assistant, executive assistant and assistant secretary of Labor.

What system is he talking about? That lets the Governor of North Carolina get away with paying no taxes—no state taxes? A system that says all right to 5 per cent unemployment! That's the American System they are for and I say if that is the American System, let them be among the unemployed.

When asked whether Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, would accept the Ohio District this fall, Brademas replied "If Student Union is successful in acquiring a Ticketron outlet this year.

Past efforts to secure this service have proved fruitless because the Ticketron Company believes that the Notre Dame—South Bend area does not offer a sufficient market. Thew Co—Ordinator Dick Donovan explained that the idea was looked into two years ago and rejected by Ticketron. They said that they had tried it in the South Bend area and it had not worked.

Due to these rejections nothing has been done about it this year. With recently revived interest however Student Union is planning to contact Ticketron again. "It's not Student Union's fault," said Donovan. "We would be glad to try it. It's just that if they don't see any money in it, it's not worth it to them."

The service would cost approximately $1 each ticket carrying a $.25 service charge that is then divided between Ticketron and Student Union. Tickets would be available to such events as concerts, plays and professional baseball, football and hockey games in the Chicago area.

"I believe that the senator should concentrate on other states such as New York, California, or Michigan. "In Indiana, there aren't too many hopeful pickings for him."
Powerful Irish crush 'Cats 37 - 0
Dewan surpasses 100 - yard mark; Thomas ties field goal record

by Vic Dever

Ara Parseghian began his ninth year at Notre Dame Saturday, and the Irish head coach went into the season opener against Northwestern seeking answers to a number of offensive and defensive questions.

And Notre Dame, playing before a rain-soaked stadium of 32,350, answered most of Parseghian's questions both quickly and effectively.

The Irish offense, led by quarterback Ara Parseghian's twin tormentors, Jim Donaldson and Eric Penick, answered the 'Cats scoring threat. Taking advantage of two interceptions and a fumble, two pairs of 20-yard passes were fi

One short kick by Northwestern punter Marty McGuinn and an interference penalty on the same play gave the Irish good field position on their first possession. Clements, starting from the Wildcat 26, passed to Andy Huff for 16 yards at the seven, but the 'Cat defense stiffened and junior Bob Thomas came on to give the Irish a 2-0 lead.

The Wildcats replied by recovering the ensuing kickoff, but midway through the second quarter, a fumble by Northwestern quarterback Jim Trimble gave the Irish the ball after Buddy Bracklin got the ball, and it gave ND a 20-0 lead.

Notre Dame's third touchdown of the afternoon was set up by a 47-yard field goal with 0:03 left in the second period. The Irish offense, which had drawn rave notices while rehearsing for the previous weekend in Ann Arbor and the Irish were relying so heavily on a well-executed array of counters, sweeps, plunges, reverses and an occasional pass play, the Irish danced to scores the first five times they appeared on stage.

What an opening! What a show!

Notre Dame's annual football production opened on the road Saturday in Evanston, Ill., and the performances of the Fighting Irish brought waves of applause from an appreciative audience and wide critical acclaim.

Produced by Ara Parseghian and directed by Tom Clements, Notre Dame's show was most impressive and, after smashing the Wildcats 27-0, the Irish were the name of Chicago.

The script had called for a close contest but Notre Dame's first-year players acted like veteran troopers and did some ad-libbing. The result was that the Wildcats looked like bit players in summer stock.

Many of the 55,155 people present expected to see a suspenseful drama since Northwestern had been only narrowly upstaged by Michigan the previous weekend in Ann Arbor and the Irish were relying so heavily on youth. Instead, Notre Dame's technically proficient troupe turned the script on its head. They were the winners from the start.