Women representatives will gain seat on SLC by Bever Patrack

The Students Council has recommended that the SLC obtain a representative from the women undergraduate students. It has provided three suggested methods of achieving this. However, the resignation of Ed Grey as Student Vice President and the election of Dennis Etienne as his replacement remedied the situation. Etienne had already been assured Bob Kersten's ex-officio seat and his new post left him with another on the SLC. Since this position is not subject to by-laws it was then decided by Student Government that the women's representative could sit in the place of Kersten.

council committees

The Council also voted to accept the steering committee's recommendation for four standing committees in addition to the steering committee: a Planning Committee, Hall Life Committee, Campus Life Committee, and a Rules Committee. A question arose over the proposed overlapping responsibility between certain committees, and it was decided that the steering committee would act as a "traffic cop" to handle such matters. The SLC will meet on the first Monday of each month, Standing Committees will meet on the second and third Mondays, and open hearings by the committees will be on fourth Mondays of each month.

This schedule was proposed in a slightly different form by Acting Vice-President for Student Affairs Philip J. Faccenda. He proposed a system whereby there would be regular meetings of the SLC on the first Monday of each month, Standing Committee meetings on the second Monday, public hearings on the third Monday, and Standing Committee meetings on the fourth Monday of each month. Faccenda supported his plan of public hearings by saying, "It should provide campus and community attention for some of this year's issues and this is one way to get it."

Earlier the Council had voted to meet once every four weeks, but reversed it's decision in favor of Mr. Faccenda's plan. The previous scheme had promoted a multitude of discussion in which Floyd Krone SLC Tower Representative told members, "I have been my past experience with the Council that in meeting every two weeks, a deadline is put on the committees and so more will get done."

The Council also set up the membership of its Steering Committees, accepted a Graduate Student to a seat with speaking but no voting rights, and discussed meetings at Holy Cross Hall. The Council is also looking for a secretary, this is a paid position.

LaFortune study needs volunteers

by Denise Crowley

Observer Staff Reporter

The Student Council Committee, to research the possibilities and facilities of the student center, has as yet received no applications for positions on any of the sub-committees. The four sub-committees, Architecture, Facilities, Food Service, and Publicity, require names from interested students in order to succeed, according to Dan Schipp, one of the organizers of the group. Schipp, a member of the Committee, was enthusiastic about the possibilities for the Committee as a whole. "I don't think we see much of a hassle in getting the center open twenty-four hours a day," he said.

His committee will study the present use of all the rooms and the extent of their use. They will then make suggestions as to which facilities should be retained and what new ones should be added. "It all depends on the students' needs and wants," says Dave Carna, another member of the committee.

Dr. Robert Ackerman, Director of Student Activities, said that "unless the facilities offered there could be improved, there is no sense in opening the door twenty-four hours a day." He felt that there was "no reason to go there if it is open." Improvement and expansion of facilities should be due in response to the needs of the students, as expressed through the Committee.

"The whole program will concern long-range goals and things that will be accomplished in the near future," Schipp revealed. The most important thing now is to overcome the "apathy of the student body."

The study will be presented in February, and the results of it could be seen next semester if the administration is convinced of the committee's recommendation. Students interested in serving on any of the sub-committees should call either the student activities office or the Student Government office, and leave name, address and phone number.

Mundelein College, Chicago, in 1954 awarded Miss McCandless its sixth Magnificat Medal, which is conferred annually upon a Catholic college alumnae who, utilizing her college training to the fullest, has shown the most outstanding interest in furthering the interest of Christian social living by the character of her own life and by her contributions to social, aesthetic, scientific, philanthropic and religious work.

Her own alma mater conferred upon her an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at the 1972 Commencement. The Alumnae Association recognized her contribution to its development when it awarded her, at her sixty-fifth anniversary reunion, the Evarista Brady Cotter Cup for outstanding service to the College. The most recently built student residence is named Marion McCandless Hall in her honor. She retired in 1964, and was one of the College's major financial benefactors.

Planning process committee releases report

by Maria Gallagher
Observer Editor

The first of a series of planned reports to the St. Mary's community on the progress of the Planning Process has been released by planning committee Chairperson Donald Hornung.

Included in the report is a description of the structure and guidelines established by the committee, as well as information concerning where reports and proceedings of the Planning and Area Committees may be obtained and an invitation to students to participate in one of the task forces which feed ideas and information into the Committee.

The Planning Committee's first meeting was an organizational meeting on September 25 in which definitions were arrived at for the Planning Process itself and the Core Structure of that process. The Planning Process refers to the "entire set of committees, personas, and organizational entities through which information will flow on through which recommendations will be channelled."

The Core Structure refers to that part of the organizational structure extending from the President's Office on down through the Area Committees. Within these two organizational concepts lie the numerous committees and task forces charged with reviewing the present and making recommendations for the future course of St. Mary's. Two major committees have been formed: Planning Committee—the major committee involved in the Planning Process. All appointments to the committee were made by President Henry following extensive consultation with members from the entire St. Mary's community. The composition of the committee reflects the varying constituencies of the college: twelve are faculty, seven are administrators, three are students, two are parents, and one is an alumna. In addition to the primary representation, many of these also flow through other constituencies. Four are CSC sisters, several are members of the Board of Regents, some are tenured faculty and some are non-tenured, some are relatively new members of the community while others have been members for many years.

Area Committees—On the assumption that there are key "affinities of interest" within the college community, seven Area Committees were established, which deal with values and goals, student life, academic concerns, faculty affairs, governance, physical requirements, and development. The Chairperson and Vice-Chairperson for each of the Area Committees are also members of the Planning Committee. All Area Committee appointments were made by President Henry.

Under each of the Area Committees will be a series of task forces dealing with specific aspects of the community, and which will concern themselves with gathering information and ideas, and submitting proposals to the Planning Committee for consideration. Any member of the community is eligible to contribute to a task force, and may contact the Committee heads or Dr. Donald Hornung for more information.

The report noted that the Planning Committee is not a policy-making body. It is merely recommendatory, and the recommendations and reports of the Planning Committee were made public in a newsletter.

Black enrollment drops in freshman class

by Dean Mayers
Observer Staff Reporter

The number of black students enrolled in the University this year is lower than in either of the past two years, according to Assistant Admissions Director Dick Saracino.

Saracino attributed the decline in the enrollment of blacks to the fact that a number of minority students are not being brought into the University in the country. "The number of minority group students is well below those numbers that acceptance of blacks as just below the average," said Saracino, "but fewer than those of previous years," said Saracino, "but fewer than those of previous years." Said Saracino, "We are doing our best to increase the numbers of minority students in this year's freshman class as in previous years," said Saracino.

One such innovation is the establishment of a committee of seven black students who will, Saracino stated that the overall enrollment increased over last year's figure. This year's freshman class is lower than in either of the past two years, according to Saracino. "The purpose of this committee, according to Saracino, will be to informally follow up on each applicant." In addition to the creation of a committee, Saracino noted that special trips are being planned by Notre Dame admissions counselors and minority students to various cities such as Detroit, Chicago, and Philadelphia. While hosting journalists "recruiting trips," Saracino did state that the trips comprised "extra effort" to increase interest in Notre Dame in areas of high minority group concentration.

The admissions office is doing its best to recruit all minority students—a committee of black students, the recruitment trips and the increased cooperation with the National Scholarship Service Fund for Negro Students. But intensified recruitment efforts can’t change the fact that socially and culturally Notre Dame is a pretty dull place for minority students.

More emphasis ought to be placed on improving the socio-cultural atmosphere. Then, instead of discussing Notre Dame’s potential recruiters could point to genuine advancements that the university has made in the area of minority relations. Right now the biggest claim that the university can make is that the University Press is one of the biggest publishers of Chicano literature in the country.

Predictably, there is a pretty dull place for minority students—blacks, Hispanics and Indians. The admissions and financial aid departments should make a special effort in the next several years to meet this problem head on. Its hard even to make suggestions in this area which indicates that we are all short of information.

In order to close the information gap the best move the university could make would be to form a task force on minority recruitment. With the information this group would make public we could begin to make positive headway toward increasing the number of minority women on campus.

Dear Fresh Officers:

Congratulations on your triumph over the forces that would see a question in the political future of your holy eminence. Now that you have all undergone what will in all probability be your first ND e.g. trip and your best one since those "Freshman Sock-Hops," but do you ever occur to you during your adventurous and extravagant travels that you might have known what you were running for? Sure rhyming Hee-Ho's name! But what does it mean? What does real and effective power do your office hold? It seems that you got so carried away selling yourselves for an office that you neglected more importantly to sell the office itself.

Don’t let it bother you though: you’re in, so don’t sweat; we’ll go on to annotated university students when you’re playing a game of miniature politics over at the Freshman Year, along with those 90 or so people who still go for those "Freshman Sock-Hops." But let me ask you these things: are you proud of the fact that you were elected in a campaign with no real issue? Are you proud of the fact that you were elected to an office whose dues of others could fill just as competently. Are you proud of the fact that you were elected to an office whose powers and duties are not even known? Are you proud of the fact that you were elected to a race which saw comparatively high but still mediocre turnout of only fifty per cent of the freshmen? Are you proud of the fact that you are the only 200 or so students to the class who voted for you? If you answer no to any of the above questions, the least you can do is make sure the same thing does not happen next year, sincerely,

T.J. O’Reilly

McCabe’s letter

Editor: John Abowd

I was very disappointed to read Dennis McCabe’s letter in Friday’s Observer. It was disappointing for two reasons: it might give people the impression that all of Senator McGovern’s supporters are as paranoid as McCabe is. In the letter he seems to be using the old Scapegoat line, “If you don’t agree with it, then attack its credibility.” This attitude is a poor reflection on the rest of us who really believe in what George McGovern stands for. Although I agreed with much of what Mr. McCabe said about President Nixon, I thought his attack on the VPF and their poll was very unfair.

I am surprised that he cannot accept the fact that Senator McGovern is not on this campus. Most of us knew when we came here that the Notre Dame student body is more conservative than any of the other universities. It is unfortunate but we decided to live with it. So it is rather useless at this stage to talk about a ‘mass movement here and even more so to attack the VPF when there is no obvious reason to question the validity of its poll.

Monitors meeting tonight at 7:00 Nebraska beat Missouri 62-0 last Saturday. Why not let a child see Notre Dame beat them this Saturday.
When this 25-year-old researcher wanted to investigate a possible cancer treatment, we gave him the go-ahead.

We also gave him the right to fail.

At Kodak, it's not unusual for a 25-year-old like Jim Carroll to win the title of senior research physicist. Like any company involved in a lot of basic research, Kodak has felt the pressure of modern technology and the need for young, fresh thinking. So we hire the best talent we possibly can, and then give them as much responsibility as they can handle. Whatever their age.

We have departments and divisions, like any company. What we don't have are preconceived ideas about how an expert scientist's time should be spent. So when we received a request from the medical community for assistance in experimenting with lasers as a possible cancer treatment, we turned to 25-year-old Jim Carroll, who is deep in laser technology, and gave him the go-ahead. He built two half-billion watt laser systems, one of which Kodak has donated to the National Institute of Health.

The lasers proved unsuccessful in treating cancer, but we'd make the same decision all over again. We entered laser technology because we have a stake in business. We let a young researcher help the medical community look for a means of cancer treatment because we have a stake in the future of mankind.

To put it another way, we're in business to make a profit. But in furthering our own needs, we have often furthered society's. After all, our business depends on our society. So we care what happens to it.

GREAT GAMES!!!
Morrissey ships resurgent Farley

By Stan Urankar

Interhall football action brought the Fighting Irish their second win of the season Sunday afternoon, as six of the seven games were decided by margins of 14 points or less. Morrissey fought back to take a League Two tussle with Farley last Saturday, and was 10-7 up entering the final minute. The score was tied, 10-10, with 1:53 remaining, but Bill Barrett scored a field goal as time expired to give the Irish a 13-10 victory.
