Faccenda speaks to HPC, rectors on campus housing

by Tom Draper and Jim Eder

Acting Director of Student Affairs Dr. Philip Faccenda and Director of Housing Fr. James Riehle met with the Hall Presidents, rectors, and with about 40 students in separate sessions last night to discuss the on and off campus housing situations.

At the HPC and rectors meeting Faccenda turned down the HPC's proposal to use the Psychology Building, Center or Bronson Halls for under-graduate housing. He said the Psychology Building was financially unfeasible and the Center or Bronson Halls would cost too much to secure in time.

At the student meeting in Stepan Center he said the use of these halls, St. Mary's hall, or one of the CSC residences were options if he could "Possibly pull none of these between now and the end of the year." He asked that students let him handle negotiations with SMC, and said that another institution made an offer of room space Monday. He did not identify the institution.

The HPC meeting was concerned primarily with the off campus situation, while the small Stepan Center group sought motives for the decision to force students off campus, and options to remain on campus.

According to Faccenda comments in Stepan Center, there will be 560 beds for 6600 undergraduates. During the last few years, there have been approximately 1,000 off campus students, but preliminary surveys indicate that only 10% will move off next year.

"We are trying to get a decision made now instead of letting it drag on past the summer. We have a lot of students who are in no hurry.

"If we can get the figures down to 200 or 300, then over the summer we will work with you individually," Faccenda said. He emphasized that the University is not going to force overcrowding next year.

In reply to questions regarding specific procedures for students who want to stay on campus but draw losing numbers in their hall lottery, Faccenda said they should get their names on the hall waiting list. The University waiting list will then be complied by Fr. Riehle.

Washington—The Administration reacted sharply to delays in the release of American Prisoners of War, and accused Hanoi of violating provisions of the Vietnam cease-fire agreement. President Nixon ordered Secretary of State William P. Rogers at the Vietnam Peace Conference in Paris "to demand clarification." from the North Vietnamese delegation "on the most urgent basis."

Saigon—North Vietnamese Representatives here complained that the Vietnam cease-fire agreement was not working and refused to release a second contingent of American Prisoners of War or even to discuss the subject. They bypassed two of the four-party joint military commission subcommittee on the question of prisoner exchanges.

New York—A $386,000 cash contribution was "revealed" to have been made to President Nixon's reelection campaign last April on behalf of Robert L. Vesco, a financier then under a securities and exchange commission investigation, without the public disclosure required by law. The Nixon campaign committee said that the contribution had been returned last Jan. 31 to Vesco along with $6,000 he had given at another time.

Washington—The Supreme Court ruled that a suburban swimming club cannot refuse to accept blacks who live in its immediate area if it gives a membership preference to others living in the same neighborhood. The decision was unanimous.

Party Service off to good start

by Jim Lindsey

Staff Reporter

The student government Campus Party Service, initiated two weeks ago to lead party-hunting students to on and off campus open parties, is off to a promising start, according to the program's originator, student affairs director Walker Holloway.

The party service, one phase of a general campus activity information program, consists of a telephone service by which any group hosting an open party can have it publicized and any person wishing to publicize a party can do so by calling Holloway at 7417.

Although early response to the new service has been somewhat slow, reactions have all been positive, according to Holloway. A lot of guys either just don't know about the service or they don't think it's on the level," he said.

Assuming students that the program is "on the level," Walker pointed out that party hosts need not fear the service warning an already imbalanced bo-ho-gal ratio. Only girls are directed to guys' parties, and guys to girls.

In addition to the direct telephone connections, Holloway also spreads the word about various parties through personal contacts at both St. Mary's and Notre Dame.

SMC Rings

SMC students who ordered their ring classes can pick them up today from 4:00 to 5:00 in the LeMans lobby. The remainder of the payment for the ring is due when it is picked up. Only students rings ordered on November 30 will be available tomorrow.

The firewoks started this year after all the ballots were counted, and the final results announced making Jim Clarke and Glen Sorge the run-off candidates in this year's SBP election. In the next five hours the defeated candidates endorsed and or subsequently retracted their endorsement of one of the run-off candidates. Now, all of these shenanigans were not without provocation. At 4:30 pm in the main lobby of LaFortune a member of the election committee announced the final results. At 6:10 pm Dennis (H-man) Etienne walked into the Observer office and delivered a written statement declaring that he and Bob Kersten would enter the run-off as write-ins. At 11:00 Election Committee chairman Paul Dziedzic began polling the committee to determine if it could allow write-ins in the run-off election. The committee decided to allow write-ins. At 11:30 the Board of Commissioners convened an emergency meeting at which it overturned the Election Committee's ruling and declared that write-ins were invalid votes and a candidate needed to be one of the valid votes to win the election. At 11:45 the Judicial Board was convened to rule on the constitutionality of the Board of Commissioners decision. One hour, twenty minutes later the Judicial Board upheld the action of the Board of Commissioners.

At 1:15 Dziedzic announced that the Election Committee had declared blank ballots would be considered valid votes. At 3:00 am Dennis (H-man) Etienne delivered a signed statement to The Observer withdrawing the Kersten-Henrie write-in campaign and substituting the blank ballot appeal. At 3:01 am The Editor-in-chief locked the door of the office, declaring "Enough of this bullsh*t." Now it is perfectly obvious that somebody doesn't like the results of the run-off election. It is further perfectly obvious that extremely elaborate means were taken to undermine the decision of the electorate. In a few more votes the ballots themselves might have been ignored. It is finally perfectly obvious that the issue is far from dead. So much happened in five hours in LaFortune that it is virtually impossible to believe that more havoc will not shower on the campus in the next 24 hours.

Bob Kersten and the current administration are upset enough with the results that LaFortune literally swarmed with politicos until the wee hours of the morning plotting the overturn of the announced results. Nobody knows what anybody's next move will be. In fact, the whole rotten mess wreaks of the same distasteful poobah air that was the whipping boy of many of the same people earlier in the year and earlier in the year. If the King is so upset over the results what is he willing to stand for re-election; then, he should say so point blank. None of these old in-again-out-again tricks. If his only purpose is to subject the campus of these old in-again-out-again tricks. If what he is willing to stand for re-election; then, he should say so point blank. None of these old in-again-out-again tricks. If his only purpose is to subject the campus to another election extravaganza on the same order as this last fiasco, the idea is more than supremely repulsive. But who's getting harder everyday to tell who's a "poobah" and who's not.

Giaffreda countered that "any group that forms a committee seems to have the right to overside that committee."

He also claimed that "clearly the principle of a run-off is to decide between two candidates. Past elections haven't allowed write-ins and the write-in destroys the principle of the second election."

Giaffreda concluded, "but whether it is inherent in the power of the Board of Commissioners to overrule a committee." Judicial Board member Steve Kane concurred with Giaffreda. "Nothing said here tonight leads me to believe that the Board of Commissioners has given up the right to rule. It seems that they still have the right to delegate."

Election Committee Action
After the action by the Board of Commissioners, the Election Board releases a statement signed by Paul Dindic, Patty Burger, John Sangiulieti, Dianne McDonnell, Lee Monaghan, Mike Sherrod, Rod Braye, T. C. Treanor, and Greg South. The Statement said, "We are disgruntled by the parliamentary games that we have been subjected to. As a group we protest the involvement of other student government bodies in a campaign that we have been responsible for since February 4. We plan to continue as the election committee in order to keep the election free from political manipulation—even though we suspect that may be impossible now."

After the statement was released Braye resigned from the committee. He declined to offer a reason.

Socialist Harrington to speak

Socialist leader Michael Harrington will speak on "The Future of the Left" at 8pm tonight in Washington Hall. Harrington is part of the Student Union Academic Commission's speaker program and admission is free.

Harrington was born in St. Louis, Missouri, and was educated at Holy Cross College, the University of Chicago and Yale Law School. He had been a leader in the civil movement for years and has headed the American delegation to the Socialist International.

Harrington has served on the boards and executive committees for the League for Industrial Democracy, A. Philip Randolph Institute, American Civil Liberties Union, Twentieth Century Fund, and many other organizations.

Day care center needs support

by Joanne Murphy
Staff Reporter

El Campito in South Bend

The growing need for modern care centers brings to focus the need for eliciting financial support to maintain these centers. "El Campito," a day care center on Thomas Street in South Bend, is struggling to meet ends financially and is looking to Notre Dame students and community for cooperation.

In September, a group of sociology students from Notre Dame met with Mrs. Betty Samora to discuss the lack of day care centers available in the locality. Young children were left with slightly older siblings while mothers went to work. The students, calling themselves Manpower, and Mrs. Samora organized a non-profit day care center for the migrant workers children. The center is unique in that it accepts children still in diapers to those children not old enough for Head Start.

"El Centro," the local migrant workers agency, allowed the students to use the ground floor in their Half-Way House for the day care center. The house was purchased to take in those new migrants who had no place to live. Half-Way House is not a very safe building according to Mrs. Samora. It has faulty wiring and electrical work, and it is in poor condition on the whole. Last Friday night, the roof burnt off the building, and replacement of a new roof is just an added expense that "El Campito" must undertake.

The day care center is run by two women, Mrs. Conchita Nino and Miss Avelia Lopez. Manpower offers them a small fee for their services. Mrs. Samora feels that "El Campito" is still in need for more administrative assistance.

"El Campito," sponsored a dance last week and took in $300 which is a "drop in the bucket," according to Samora. The center needs much more financial assistance to work effectively and to pay off their debt.

Volunteers needed

Besides the financial support, Mrs. Samora sees a need for more student volunteers. She was disappointed in the initial recruiting of students, which amounted to three, but she is still hopeful that more students will become interested in "El Campito."

Tonight, for the first time in two weeks, the Notre Dame basketball team will play a home game. The Irish are coming off a long road trip since February 15th—winning against San Jose State, then losing to 11th-rated St. John’s and losing to Duke and Michigan State. The team added their overall win-loss mark to 13-11 during this time away. Bigger things are ahead, however, and if the Irish wish to make a move in the measure of last year’s runner-up.

Tim Harline. The cheerleader from Holy Cross wasn’t a flashy performer but got the job done and contributed to the team in the second round and constantly applied pressure to the opposing team. Harline is a key player for the Irish defense and has proved to be a valuable asset.

Morrison will draw Mike Suddes as his opponent in tomorrow night’s game. The 6-foot-7 senior is a strong player who will attempt to make a splash in the second round. Morrison is a key player for the Irish defense and has impressedستان in the opening round. The opening round was a success for Sicher, as he was able to reach his 10th point in the game.

Sicher will be up to the task as he has prepared himself for the opening round. He is a key player for the Irish defense and has impressed Sicher in the opening round. Sicher is a key player for the Irish defense and has impressed Sicher in the opening round.

The other 135-pound fight was a direct one between the McGarrah and Cavanaugh struggle, as Larry Senerdahl outlasted junior Jerry Bradshaw in their opening round at 135. Bradshaw was all over Bradley in the opening round, as he scored a pin in the first round. Bradshaw had his match on the line and scored a pin in the second round.

Cavanaugh was able to reach his 10th point in the game, and he is a key player for the Irish defense. Cavanaugh is a key player for the Irish defense and has impressed Cavanaugh in the opening round.

This has been an up and down season for Notre Dame's basketball team, but coach "Digger" Phelps hopes that his young club, fresh from two road wins at West Virginia and 11th-ranked St. John's, will finish the year on the upswing and project themselves into the post-season tournament.

After a 1-6 start, the Irish sandwiched five-game winning streaks around a three-game loss skid and capped their record to 11-6. "We've had our share of ups and downs this season," Phelps said. "But we're under consideration again." When you analyze our schedule and look at the Irish's recent history, you would have to say that the Irish have been a "building" year, a giant step on the road to basketball recognition.

The Irish defense has been a strong point for the season, and the Irish defense has proved to be a key factor in the Irish success. "The St. John's game was one where they had to win to keep the Irish in the picture," Phelps said. "We knew before last week's games that, if we were to be considered for the NIT, we'd have to do our best," he said. "We played a great game against West Virginia. We shot very well and played good defense and defense."

"The St. John's game was one where they had to win to keep the NCAA bid chances alive and we had to win to have a chance at the NIT. We won it and we're under consideration again." When you consider that the Irish entered the NIT with a record of 11-5, it looked like the "72-73 season could go into the books as a "rebuilding" year, a giant step on the road to basketball recognition.

Instead, the Irish started back up again. They did it the hard way, traveling West Virginia in Morgantown and visiting St. John's in the Nussco Coliseum, and, with only two home games left on the schedule—Western Michigan tonight and nationally-ranked South Carolina in Coral Gables, the Irish are back in the picture. We're still under consideration, and we're under consideration again."
